ST. NICK MAKES FIRST STOP — Pampa youngsters anxious to tell Santa Claus what they would like for Christmas were on hand Friday afternoon to greet him as he arrived by helicopter in the Coronado Center. More than 1,000 boys and girls accompanied by their parents were gathered at the center for the first visit of the grand old man. Shown in front of his Pampa stopover is Santa Claus holding Gregg Rutledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rutledge, 1132 S. Nelson, while other youths are forming a line to Santa's left. Santa is scheduled for a return appearance in Pampa on Thursday for the Downtown merchant's parade.

LBJ Says Don't Speculate About Viet Nam War

By WILLIAM J. EATON

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson warned Saturday against "somewhat premature" speculation that the war in South Viet Nam would be expanded to Communist territory.

The President said he expected no "dramatic announcement" from his scheduled meeting in Washington Tuesday with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to the war-torn Southeast Asian nation.

In his first formal news conference in eight weeks, the President stressed Viet Nam as he ranged over subjects that included the next budget, terror in the Congo, the price of steel at J. Edgar Hoover's quarrel with Negro integration leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Johnson listed four bills he wants to see passed early in the next session of Congress: The medical care for the aged under Social Security (medicare); the Appalachia bill; the area redevelopment administration bill, and a bill to scrap the so-called "national origins" system in the immigration laws that Johnson feels discriminatory.

"All are part of what the Johnson administration feels are in the immediate interest and need of the American people," Johnson said.

The President said he will send a general message to Congress early in the year and then follow with messages on specific subjects. He said there will be "heavy emphasis" on natural beauty, conservation, education, health and measures to aid the economy.

He said the space effort, weapons systems, scientific studies and unemployment benefits modernization also will be stressed.

No Plans or Summit
 The President also: —Doubts that the budget to be given to Congress in January can be kept below the magic ceiling of $100 billion.

—There are no plans for a summit meeting with the Soviet successors to Nikita S. Khrushchev.

—He wants strike-free settlement of steel industry contract negotiations that will not bring a rise in prices.

—He expects occasional changes in the Cabinet but hopes for reasonable continuity in top posts.

—Feels "outraged" by the slaughter of hostages by Congo rebels and hopes those guilty will be brought to justice.

—Disclosed U.S. planes will fly Belgian paratroopers out of the Congo Saturday night. He said there was no alternative but to use U.S. planes for the rescue operation to save "perhaps thousands" of lives.

Wearing a business suit, a departure from his customary cattleman costume on the ranch, the President met with newsmen for 40 minutes on the lawn in front of his ranchhouse. It was his first press conference since Oct. 3, a month before the election, although the had answered some newsmen's questions on Oct. 19.

"Serious" Situation
 The President said the situation in South Viet Nam was "serious" but that woeful predictions about the future of the United States actions there had not materialized.

Ambassador Taylor has said American air strikes against Communist Viet Cong supply lines and staging areas might

'Joe' Refuses To Give Name To Patrolman

DALLAS (UPI)—The dialogue over the Dallas police radio went this way today in one case:

Patrol car to dispatcher: "Do you have a report of a missing monkey?"

Dispatcher: "Yes, a chimpanzee named Joe has been missing all night."

Patrol Car: "I have a monkey here in the car with me."

Dispatcher: "What's his name?"

Patrol Car: "I don't know; he won't tell me."

American Rocket Heads for Mars To Take Pictures

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—America rocketed a spacecraft toward Mars Saturday to get the first closeup pictures of the planet which scientists believe may harbor life.

If the Mariner - 4 television probe is on the correct 325-million mile course, it will complete its historic journey in 7½ months, intercepting the red planet on July 14.

Scientists said several hours after launch that the flight appeared normal, but examination of critical tracking data later today will tell if the probe is on target.

Carries Rocket Motor
 The 575-pound spacecraft carries its own rocket motor to make as many as two course corrections. The first firing of the motor is expected next week.

The spacecraft will be aimed on a path that will take it within 10,000 miles of the Martian surface to give its television camera and electronic eyes and sensors a 30-minute glimpse of the planet that has intrigued astronomers for centuries.

Mars, a predominately reddish-colored planet with some greenish blue areas and white polar caps, is given the best chance of any planet in the solar system to support some type of life.

Since the greenish areas appear through telescopes to change color seasonally, some scientists have speculated that they are made up of vast areas of moss-like vegetation that go

Russian Police Charge Crowds, Break Up Melee

By RICHARD H. GROWALD

MOSCOW (UPI) — A mob of 2,000 African students howling what sounded like tribal chants attacked the American, Belgian, British and Congo embassies Saturday with a savage fury that raged out of control.

Soviet police, who had stood idly by at first as the "spontaneous" demonstrations erupted, finally restored order. With gritted teeth the red and blue coated police charged their horses into the fur-hatted Africans and dispersed them. Some Asians and Russian were in the mob.

Police had expected the demonstrations but the wildness of the demonstration apparently took them by surprise and the Tass news agency said it was with "great difficulty" they restored order. Western observers said the mob appeared out of hand at one point.

Police Move Ruthlessly
 When police moved they moved ruthlessly. They hurled students to the ground, tossed them bodily from a 15-foot balcony at the Congo Embassy and off the roof of a garage. One policeman kicked a fallen demonstrator.

The mobs, mostly from Patrice Lumumba University, attacked the U.S. Embassy first and then the Belgian before moving to the Congo Embassy, which they wrecked. Then the crowds moved onto the British Embassy across the river from the Kremlin.

The well-organized students equipped with loud speakers which cried for imperialist blood—especially that of Americans and Belgians—were protesting the American-Belgian rescue operations in the Congo.

The students waved placards proclaiming "Yankee go to hell!" and "Death to the imperialists!" A Soviet policeman grabbed a Russian youth, yelled "hooligan!" at him and sent him off to an unknown destination.

At the U. S. Embassy the police adopted an almost fatherly gentleness when 500 to 1,000 students smashed the windows, vainly tried to break through the Marine-guarded gates and ripped the American eagle seal off the front wall.

At the 9-story yellow stucco U. S. Embassy the students splashed the walls with red, green, black, blue and purple ink. They turned on small trees in front of the embassy and began uprooting them until police danced their horses in and made the youths retreat.

Burn Automobile
 While U. S. Marines backed trucks up to the embassy gates to keep the mobs out one group turned to a parked black sedan belonging to New York Times correspondent Henry Tanner. Three demonstrators climbed atop and did a war dance.

The crowd chanted "Fire! Fire!" and soon the empty car was engulfed in flames which sent a huge column of black smoke billowing across broad Tchaikovsky Avenue. Three Moscow firetrucks pulled up and went to work dousing the flames.

The State Department said a similar protest was made in Moscow. The U. S. charge d'affaires, Walter J. Stoessel, entered a strong protest with the Soviet Foreign Ministry by telephone. He later lodged another protest in person with the acting chief of the American section of the foreign ministry, S. M. Kudryavstev.

The State Department said Stoessel told the Russians that the Soviet government would be held responsible for damage to the embassy by howling mobs protesting the U.S.-Belgian airlift to rescue white hostages from Congolese rebels.

Saturday's U. S. protests of Moscow mob action followed anti-American demonstrations in several countries behind the Iron Curtain in Europe; as well as in Africa and the Middle East.

One of LBJ's Beagles Dies After Surgery

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson said Saturday that "Her," one of the famed presidential beagles, is dead.

The family pet died during surgery in Washington late Friday, the President said, after swallowing a rock on the White House lawn.

Johnson disclosed the death of the famous dog after his news conference on the LBJ Ranch, where the family is spending the Thanksgiving weekend. He said his youngest daughter, Luci, had returned to Washington Friday night and called them about the dog.

"He died yesterday on the operating table," the President said. He described the death as "a real tragedy in the family."

The President aroused the ire of some of the nation's dog lovers shortly after he took office last year after pictures showed him lifting the two beagles, "Him" and "Her," by their long, floppy ears.

The rodeo will be televised nightly coast to coast over the ABC network. The ABC outlet for this area is Channel 7 in Amarillo.

The rodeo also will be seen over ABC's Wide World of Sports next Sunday, in addition to the regular Sunday matinee performance.

Fred Stockdale, band director, said the invitation came about through a recommendation by Cy Tallion, RCA rodeo announcer, and Joe Decker, rodeo secretary, who heard the band during the Top O' Texas Rodeo.

Tallion, regarded one of the top professional rodeo announcers in the country, was high in praise for the band following the rodeo here last summer.

Yule Decorations Ready for Parade

The installation of Christmas decorations in downtown Pampa and on N. Hobart is expected to be completed by Christmas parade time Thursday.

Duggan Smith, president of the Pampa Jaycees, responsible for the installation, said most decorations are in place with the exception of those to be placed on N. Hobart.

Smith said poles have been set in place and the only thing lacking is the stringing of wire. The decorations will line Hobart from the intersection of Coronado Dr. and Hobart to the intersection of 17th and Hobart.

Pampa's annual Santa Day Parade will wind its way through downtown Pampa beginning at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Anyone desiring to place an entry in the parade is asked to call the Chamber of Commerce as soon as possible.

There are no restrictions on entries other than they must relate in some way to the Christmas theme.

"Operation Over the Top" will be the theme of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign Tuesday when a special team of some 100 volunteer workers enter the final phase of the drive to raise $70,000 to support six - member agencies.

Campaign officials were joined Saturday by civic and business leaders in issuing an appeal to the people of Pampa to come to the aid of the United Fund program.

A special letter, mailed to more than a hundred key people in Pampa last week, said in part:

United Fund Set for 'Over Top' Drive

"We need an hour of your time in making a few contacts to assure success. Won't you join us and... other Pampans... who want to see Pampa make its United Fund goal this year. We can't afford to fall on this drive... it means too much to our town and the spirit of the city."

"Pampa's two fine civic minded banks (Citizens Bank & Trust Co. and First National Bank) will be our hosts for lunch Tuesday at 12 noon in the basement of the First Methodist Church where we will meet with the Jaycees and be briefed on "Operation Over the Top." "This is most important to Pampa... we can't afford failure..."

The letter was signed by George Newberry, president of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign; Norman Henry, United Fund campaign chairman; Pampa Mayor H. R. Thompson; E. L. Green Jr., president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, and Duggan Smith, Jaycee president.

Through last Friday afternoon, the drive was 80 per cent complete with a total of $56,083.72 raised in pledges and cash.

Drive leaders noted that while the campaign is still short of its goal, we are near enough to know that it can be pushed over the top with a little extra effort. They again asked that all unworked or uncompleted prospect cards be turned in to the United Fund office by tomorrow. At the same time, they said they hoped that those who have already given would "take another look" and perhaps increase their contribution.

Bangs testing of all cow herds in the county got underway again last week after having been in a complete stall due to the much welcomed rain. Through last Wednesday, a total of 256 herds had been tested in the county. There were nine infected herds. A total of 8,024 cows had been tested from a total of 10,974 cows in the 256 herds. Twenty-one animals were designated as suspects and 24 were positive cases. 980 calves were vaccinated. The week of rainy weather will likely delay the Dec. 1 deadline date or goal for finishing the testing in Gray County. However, testing is well over two-thirds complete. One more week of pretty weather will come close to completing the work in this county.

We have heard nothing but praise for the technicians of the Texas Animal Health Commission and Dr. R. D. Eaton, Veterinarian, in charge of the laboratory.

The Texas Animal Health personnel and Dr. Eaton are equally as high in their praise of the local ranchers. Dr. Eaton says they have never worked in a county where the people have been more cooperative.

Humphrey Wants Farmers to Wage 'War on Hunger'

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey called upon American farmers to join in a "war on hunger" around the world.

"A bushel of wheat can do more to push back communism than all the Birchites could do in a thousand years," Humphrey said.

Humphrey told a recent farm meeting "war on hunger" could be accomplished by modifying the Food For Peace program and by returning about 25 per cent of idle U. S. farm acreage to crop production. He said the Food For Peace program could not be continued with dependence on "accidental surpluses."

"We have a spiritual and moral obligation to wage war on hunger," Humphrey said. "We can be thankful that President Johnson is in the front line of this campaign."

Area Cattlemen Told U.S. Beef Is Most Desired

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—The 400 cattle feeders at the fourth annual Southwestern Cattle Feeders conference heard that American beef is the world's best, even if American beef prices are not.

The chief of the Agriculture Department's meat products division, foreign marketing branch, James Hartman, told the feeders that American beef is in demand in Europe, Hong Kong and elsewhere.

"There is a limited amount of good beef in Europe, and we have been letting them know we have good beef for sale," he said. He added that he thinks American beef prices will start to rise slowly.

Last week I assisted Sam Bowers in setting a spray rig which he will use in his bindweed spray program. He will use a soil sterilant. We adopted a special type boom for bindweed control. The nozzels are spaced every 12 inches. The nozzle tips are of the 50-100 gallon per acre size. Real-large size tips. We calibrated the spray rig to put out close to 10 gallons of liquid per acre. More and more people are getting concerned with their bindweed problem. It is estimated the productive capacity of land heavily infested with bindweed is reduced by one-half.

It has been very expensive to use soil sterilants up to this point. However it looks like a break-through has been made on price by a new chemical that is presently in short supply. It has a trade name of Tordon 22K. This product is put out by Dow Chemical. In the past the retail cost of a soil sterilant has run from $110 to $35 per acre. The new sterilant which has been tested and approved at Bushland could cut this cost to as little as $65 per acre. It is a spray and can be used only as such. Only one and one-half gallon per acre is all the chemical necessary. A spray rig capable of putting out as much as 75-90 gallon total water and spray mix per acre is necessary.

Keith Davis and Jimmy McCracken recently made a trip to Amarillo to visit with the highway department on bindweed control problems along the right-of-way. They were well pleased to learn of a new policy recently developed by the State Highway Department with reference to their treaty along farmland. Their policy is—The State Highway Department will treat their right-of-way with a soil sterilant providing the farmer will treat the bindweed on his adjoining farmland. We hope to have a meeting of State Highway officials, Railroad officials and others to help get a comprehensive program going in the control of bindweed in right-of-ways.

Wheat Pasture

The few days of warm weather has put wheat to growing. Wheat pasture prospects are shaping up. I know a fellow in the McLean area that has 200 head of native hereford heifers for sale and will buy them back for spring delivery at the time of selling. He will need them to go to a Colorado ranch then and this will be his means of wintering them. This is a good way to reduce risk if a buyer can't afford to take the risk. A number of people in the McLean vicinity could use some wheat pasture. We would be glad to help get any cattle producers and wheat pasture farmers together.

Groom Heifer Is Champion Of Utah Show

A display of Angus breeding cattle was a highlight of the 46th Annual Golden Spike National Livestock Show at the Coliseum in the Ogden, Utah, stockyards.

Breeders representing nine states paraded 109 head before Judge Bruce Taylor of the University of Arizona, Tucson.

Fred Brown of Groom topped the heifer calf division of the show. His LL Erica 7 was named heifer calf champion and grand champion of the show. Brown also had the junior champion heifer, LL Erica 6, the reserve senior champion heifer, Caprock Pride 3, and his calves sired by Dor Mac Bardolmer were first in the junior get-of-sire class.

EXCELLENT RANGELAND—This photo taken several years ago shows almost perfect pasture land. The 90 per cent blue grama is ungrazed and is in condition to produce maximum amount of forage.

Gray County SCD News

By VAN MILLS
CONSERVATIONIST

In recent months, many farmers and ranchers have been inquiring about ways to improve the condition of their rangeland. The higher the condition our rangeland is in the more grazing it will provide.

A range in excellent condition has 76 to 100 per cent of the original grasses; range in good condition has 51 to 75 per cent of the original grasses; Rangeland in fair condition has 26 to 50 per cent of the original grasses; Range in poor condition has 0 to 25 per cent of the original grasses. Most of our rangeland was in excellent condition before it was settled by the white man. Heavy use over a period of many years has resulted in many of our better grasses being grazed out, and less desirable grasses have taken their place. We can have a good cover of less desirable or junk grasses and our rangeland could still be in a poor condition. Range condition reflects the quality and quantity of grasses on the land. This reduction in range condition causes a reduction in beef.

If we had a cow that was not producing a calf or producing a sorry calf we would get rid of her. It is just important to know our low producing grasses and manage our rangeland to get rid of them.

In recent years, a rotation system termed deferred rotation has proven to be economical and a rapid method of obtaining range improvement. A four-pasture deferred rotation system improved rangeland during the last drouth. Other pastures grazed at the same rate, but on a year-long basis, did not improve. Following the drouth, the deferred rotation pastures were producing greater amounts of beef per acre than pastures grazed at greater rates on a yearlong basis.

Major benefits of the above system are as follows: Improves the vigor and forage production of the better species through providing greater leaf area and deeper root penetration; allows the better grasses to spread vegetatively; permits the better vegetation to produce seed; provides a period of rest to permit seedlings to become established; better distribution of grazing is obtained; pounds of beef per acre is increased.

In the above system all four pastures should be nearly the same in carrying capacity. Divide the total carrying capacity of the four pastures into three herds. Divide the year into three divisions with four months in each division. Three pastures are grazed and one is deferred. Only one herd is moved each four months.

Over 260,000,000 gallons of water are used daily in the U.S. for home and industrial purposes.

Rains Boost Wheat Prospects for Area

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—Widespread rains last week further boosted small grain and winter grazing crop prospects and added to a generally favorable soil moisture situation, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reported today.

However, the service added, sections of Texas failed to share in the moisture. These sections were western and northern counties in the far West Texas district, the South plains and parts of South central and South Texas.

The freezing temperatures and frosts have defoliated cotton on the high plains and machine stripping is expected to reach a peak within the next two weeks, the service said. Harvesting in that area had been slow as farmers waited for nature to do the defoliating job. It is now done, and if the good weather holds, the machines will roll, the service said. Defoliation will also help harvesting in other western and northwestern areas.

Small grains and clovers along with cool season grasses continued to make good progress and grazing prospects were improved by the latest rains, the service said. Only limited acreages of these crops remain to be planted and this job will be completed as soon as fields are dry.

Livestock are in fair to good condition but the lower temperatures increased the need for more feeding in the drier areas, the service said. Only about 50 per cent of the Karnes county flax crop has been planted due to a lack of moisture. More rain is needed in South Texas to keep range vegetation coming, the service said.

Vegetable and citrus harvesting are increasing in South Texas. The vegetable harvests were also active in the winter garden and San Antonio areas. Strawberries in Alascosa

Planning Urged to Help Expedite Christmas Mail

A little planning can help avoid the "Christmas Rush", Postmaster O. K. Gaylor said Saturday.

The Pampa postmaster has some tips which will not only put ZIP into Christmas mailing, but help local postal employees move the record-breaking mountain of mail that is expected this Christmas season. He lists them as follows:

1. Find last year's Christmas list. If you don't find it, or you didn't have one, make up one.
2. Check to see that all addresses are correct. The phone book is usually a good source for local addresses.
3. Wherever possible, add the ZIP Code to the addresses on the list. Because ZIP Codes speed your mail, always include the code for your area in return addresses. This is the best way to inform friends, relatives and business associates of the code number for your area.
4. Determine your list of gift purchases which must be mailed. Such planning allows you to shop early when selections are greatest and you can stock up on mailing materials in advance. Be sure to purchase enough material so that parcels will be packed securely.

The postmaster emphasized that poorly wrapped and loose-packed cartons are the major cause of parcel post damage. He also suggested that the address be written on only one side of the exterior wrapping and that a duplicate address be included inside the carton, in case the outer covering is not secure and comes off.

Gaylor said that the Post Office Department is predicting that a record seven billion pieces of mail will move through the postal system during the peak rush just before Christmas. "The cooperation of all mailers is vital for us to deliver each holiday card, letter and package before Christmas Day. A little planning will make the Christmas rush less hectic for everyone," Gaylor said.

Wildcatters List Discovery Wells

AUSTIN (UPI) — Wildcatters had six oil and seven gas discoveries in Texas last week, the State Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

The activity gave wildcatters 319 oil and 744 gas wells so far this year, compared with 302 oil and 608 gas finds in the same period last year.

Regular drillers reported 130 oil and 34 gas completions, giving them 7,697 oil and 2,481 gas wells to date, compared with 7,896 oil and 2,251 gas completions to this date in 1963.

Oil discoveries were two in the Corpus Christi district and one each in the Houston, Kilgore, San Angelo and Wichita Falls districts.

Gas finds were two each in the Corpus Christi and Abilene districts and one each in the Refugio, Midland and Pampa districts.

G.O.P. Governors Will Strive for Middle of Road

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Key Republican governors said Saturday they will try next week — firmly but tactfully — to force their party back on a middle-of-the-road course under new, broad leadership.

All but one of the 17 Republican governors and gubernatorial elect meet Dec. 4-5 in Denver to review the state of the GOP following Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's crushing defeat by President Johnson. Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio was staying at home to tend to pressing state business.

Engine Stolen, Tires Slashed

Theft of a V8 Chevrolet engine from Pampa Garage and Salvage was reported to Pampa police by L. R. McBride, owner.

McBride said apparently someone crawled over the fence and took the engine.

In another incident, vandals inflicted approximately $50 damage when they sliced two tires on a car parked at the Panhandle Motor Co., 865 W. Foster.

The incident occurred sometime Friday night.

Congo Air Rescue At Official End

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The Belgian-American air rescue in the Congo came to an official end Saturday with the arrival of 76 more refugees from the north. Belgian and Congolese sources feared another 1,000 whites had been left to the mercy of the rebels.

Reports from Khartoum said rebel "President" Christophe Gbenye and his lieutenants had fled to Sudan.

(President Johnson announced in Johnson City, Tex., the U.S. Air Force C130 Hercules transports used to fly Belgian paratroopers to the Congo would leave Kamina Saturday night for Ascension Island. He said the mission saved "hundreds, perhaps thousands" from massacre).

Lawsuit Against Hospital Settled

A damage suit filed against Worley Hospital in Pampa several months ago ended in a $25,000 settlement Friday.

Plaintiff in the action was W. M. Sargent of 1907 Faulkner, filing individually and as a friend of Jimmy Sargent, a minor.

The suit alleged negligence on the part of the hospital in administering the youth a "shot" in connection with a tonsillectomy on May 5, 1960.

District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich ruled that $15,000 was to go to the youth and $10,000 to his father.

The hospital was charged with giving a "shot" which resulted in injuries.

Foreign News Commentary

UPI Foreign News Analyst
Since 1953, the dominant political figure in British Guiana, a crown colony on the northeast coast of South America, has been Dr. Cheddi Jagan, an American-trained dentist of East Indian descent. Since 1961, he has been the colony's prime minister.

On Dec. 7, against a background of a long history of bloody clashes between East Indian and Negro residents of the colony, an attempt will be made to break Jagan's hold in election of a new government.

Apply New Rules
The election will be held under new rules imposed by Great Britain which plainly does not like Jagan, a declared Marxist, and holds him primarily responsible for the racial strife.

Members of the legislature are to be elected by a proportional representation system which will award legislative seats to the political parties in proportion to their total vote. Under previous simple majority rule in the various districts Jagan has been able to win legislative control with less than half of the votes.

The new system constitutes a serious challenge to him. Jagan's strength comes from his 295,000 East Indian followers who make up the colony's largest single ethnic group, mostly laboring in the sugar plantations.

Most Powerful Opponent
The most powerful leader aligned against him is Negro leader Forbes Burnham, a London-educated lawyer, a Conservative who broke with Jagan's Peoples Progress party to form his own Peoples National Congress party. A third group is the united force led by Peter D'Aguiar, wealthy Portuguese businessman.

Together, the followers of Burnham and D'Aguiar total something over 300,000, and it is Britain's hope, seconded by the United States, that they can eliminate Jagan's Marxist influence and, in coalition, bring about an end to racial hostilities.

LIKES BEING SACKED
LONDON (UPI) — Randolph Churchill, son of Sir Winston Churchill and a political writer, said he was pleased Thursday when informed his political column was to be dropped from the magazine Spectator.

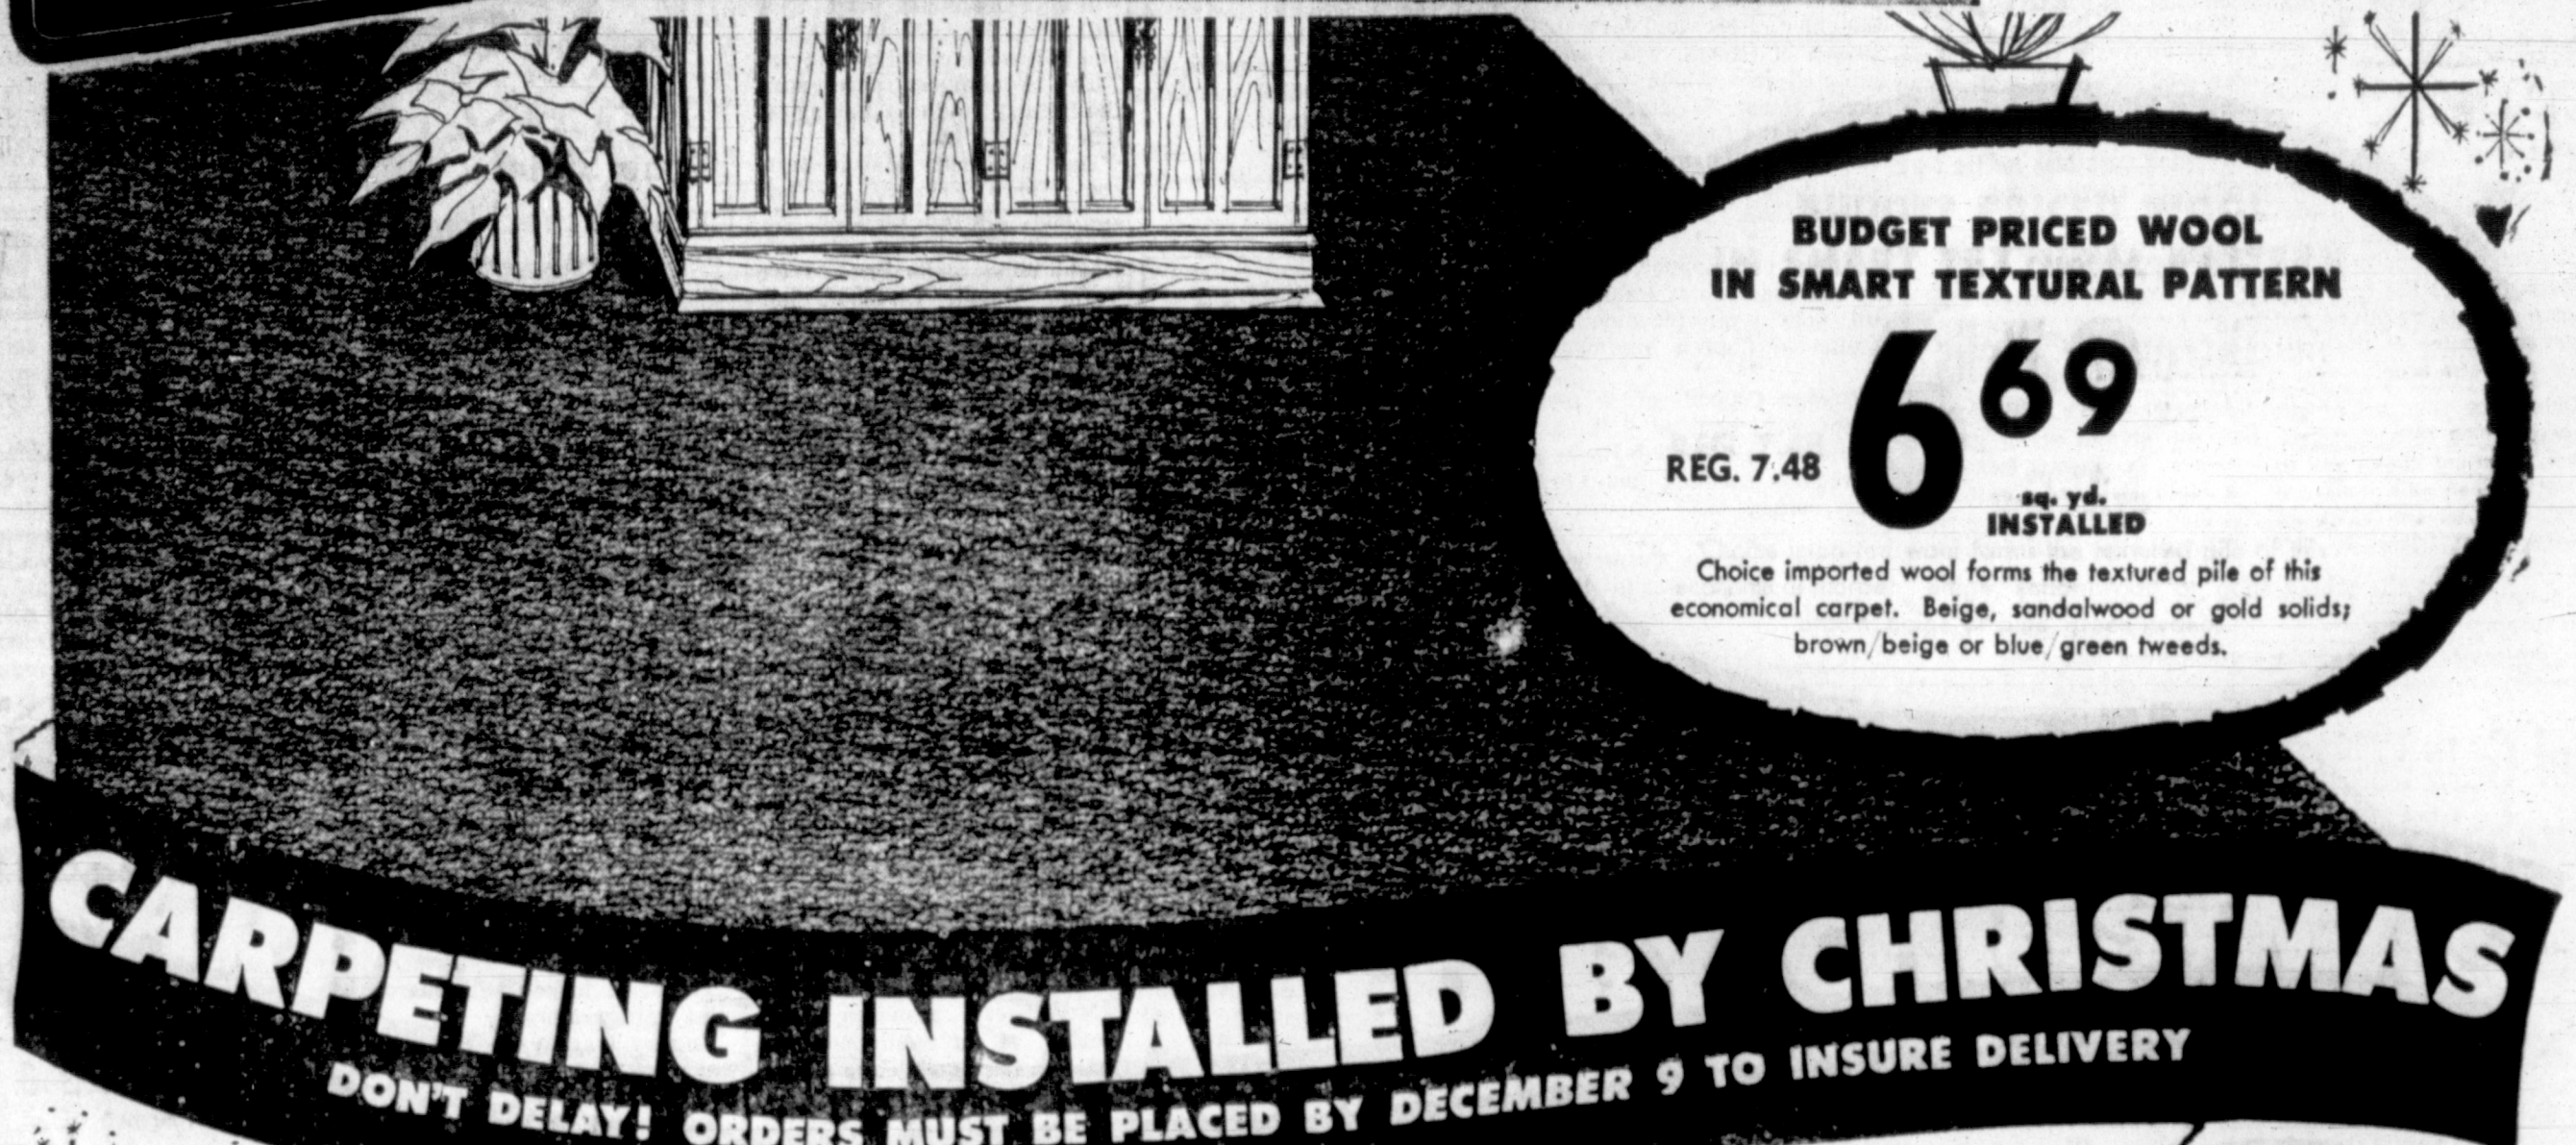

"This is the first time in my life I have been sacked," said Churchill, "and I find it rather jolly."

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
The Rev. Martin Luther King's disputed telegram of protest to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover appears to be based on error and misunderstanding. Moreover, the misunderstanding apparently is widespread among Negroes. Neither Dr. King nor the minority group for which he speaks seems to understand the functions of the FBI and the severe limitations imposed.

Misunderstood are the facts that the FBI is not a national police department, that it has no function to protect the person of anyone, white or black, that it has no authority to obtain prosecution of an offender and that there are areas and large ones in which the FBI has no jurisdiction whatever.

King's telegram was sent to Hoover after the FBI director had called King the most notorious liar in the country. The telegram denied that King had said that alleged FBI ineffectiveness in Albany, Ga., was due merely to the presence of Southerners among the agents.

Four Northerners
The FBI noted on receipt of the telegram that four of five agents then in Albany were from the North.

The record will show that in November, 1962, Dr. King discussed racial disturbances in Albany, Ga. He was widely quoted then in the press (possibly misquoted, of course) as stating that one of the greatest problems regarding the FBI in the South was that the agents were white Southerners who had been influenced by the mores or customs of his community.

They complained that not a single arrest was made in Albany, Ga., during the period of brutalities toward Negroes. The record will show that the FBI and the Justice Department received during the Albany troubles numerous complaints of violations of Negro civil rights.

The record further shows that these were investigated and that the Justice Department was advised in all instances of complaints and investigative results. The record further shows that the Justice Department did not prosecute in any of these cases.

Deputy Marshal Acquitted
There were prosecutions of white persons in the Albany area. A Sasser, Ga., deputy marshal was arrested on charges of intimidating voter registration workers. FBI investigation enabled indictment of the deputy marshal. He was acquitted Jan. 25, 1963, by a U.S. District Court jury.

FBI agents arrested four white men Sept. 17, 1962, in the vicinity of a burned Negro church near Dawson, Ga., about 30 miles from Albany. There had been no violation of federal law. The FBI, however, obtained confessions which were made available to local authorities. Three adults each were sentenced to seven years imprisonment. A juvenile was released on probation.

A remarkable statement in Dr. King's telegram was that he had been unable to find any record of an FBI request to meet with him to discuss various problems. Dr. King said he always had made himself available to Atlanta, FBI agents.

The record will show a pattern of frustration in FBI efforts to meet with Dr. King. More often than not, Dr. King was so busy, away from his office or about to leave it when the FBI sought an audience with the Negro leader.

Overriding all other aspects of Dr. King's various charges against the FBI is the misunderstanding about function. The FBI has no power to offer protection to anyone at any place at any time.

DUCKS ARE FEATURED
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drawing of three canvasbacks over open water, submitted by artist Ron Jenkins of Carlisle, Pa., will be featured on the Interior Department's 1965-66 duck stamp.

The department said Wednesday that the new stamp would go on sale for $3 at post offices throughout the nation July 1, 1965. It expires June 30, 1966. Each hunter, 16 or older, must have a stamp in addition to a regular state hunting license.

GAMBLER CONVICTED
ROME (UPI) — A court here rejected Gianni Battaglia's contention that the element of bluffing made poker a game of skill rather than chance and found him guilty of promoting gambling.

BIGGEST "BURNING GLASS"—As a kid, did you ever use a magnifying glass to concentrate the rays of the sun so they set fire to a bit of tinder, as in the inset sketch? Well, out at Sunstrand Aviation, Denver, they've got the great granddaddy of such primitive "burning glasses." It's the solar concentrator pictured above. The silvery, 45-foot-diameter parabolic mirror, kept in perfect alignment with the sun, focuses Old Sol's intense rays into a spot approximately eight inches in diameter. The resultant searing heat, in excess of 2000 degrees, could boil water and produce steam to drive a power-producing turbine. Basic aim of the huge sun-tracking facility is to convert the sun's energy into electricity for future long-duration space missions.

US, Panama to Renew Canal Zone Parleys

By JACK BRANNAN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Panama and the United States will resume negotiation of their Canal Zone differences next week in an atmosphere newly charged with threats of violence.

The current storm cloud over the 61-year-old Canal Zone Treaty is in sharp contrast with the relative calm prevailing three months ago when negotiations were suspended for the inauguration of a new Panamanian president and the U. S. elections.

As with the Canal Zone riots of last January when 21 Panamanians and four U. S. soldiers were killed, the current unrest is being stirred by leftist student organizations in Panama City. This time, however, the demonstrations have been directed not at the United States but at the two-month-old government of Panamanian President Marco A. Robles.

Charge Betrayal
The students have charged that Robles' foreign minister, Fernando Eleja, and his ambassador to the U. S., former President Ricardo Arias, are ready to betray the interests of Panama in the forthcoming sessions in Washington and New York.

The students accused both Eleja and Arias of being "traitors" and "father-land peddlers." They demanded the resignation of both and threatened a repetition of last January's riots if their demands were not met.

Robles assured them that Panama will accept nothing less than complete abrogation of the treaty. He said Panama's interests will be fulfilled and a new treaty must be ratified by a majority of Panamanians before acceptance. His policies received a vote of confidence from the National Assembly last Tuesday.

Riots Threatened
The students were unimpressed. They walked out of their classrooms in a protest strike within 24 hours of the assembly's vote.

"This could lead to a revolt similar to that of last January," said one student leader, Julio Luis Ramos, in a radio broadcast. "If the government does not solve this problem favorably, we are going to have serious incidents here," he said.

Robles has warned that he will not permit violent demonstrations. He promised to arrest the leaders of any such disorders and prosecute them to the full extent of the law.

To the student demands that he resign, Arias replied: "I won't resign under fire, you can be sure of that. The criticism is very unjust. I will stand on my record."

Claims Compromised
The student protests were touched off Nov. 18 by Jorge Illueca's resignation from Panama's three-man treaty negotiating team, appointed last April by Robles' predecessor, Roberto Chiari. Illueca charged that Robles had compromised Chiari's policy.

In a speech before a student rally, Illueca said a new treaty must contain some provision for Panama eventually to take over control of both the Canal installations and the Zone.

U. S. officials expect no such demands from Panama. Arias said Panama has "aspirations" to strike the perpetuity clause from the 1903 treaty, to reach an agreement on display of

Wife Beating May Help to Save Marriage

ATLANTA (UPI)—It is all right to beat your wife — in some cases. It may even help save your marriage.

Those conclusions were drawn by three psychiatrists who have spent five years interviewing 37 "wife-beater's wives" in a study of what motivates a man to beat his wife, and when and why she gets fed up enough to call police.

The study was made by Dr. John E. Snell of Emory University in Atlanta and Drs. Richard J. Rosenwald and Ames Robey, both of Framingham, Mass.

Their study showed that wife-beating, among certain types of marital partners, may actually hold a marriage together. The aggressive act satisfied deep, unconscious needs of both man and wife, the doctors said.

The husband who wields the belt or stick usually is a good provider, faithful to his wife, and not desirous of a divorce, the doctors said in a paper published in the Archives of General Psychiatry.

Wife-beating, the doctors said, "may serve to fill a wife's needs even though she protests it."

Government Asks Help on Saving Wildlife Types

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department needs help from the nation in saving from extinction some helpless victims of progress—about 50 kinds of birds, animals and fishes.

In less than 150 years, the department reported Thursday, almost 40 birds and mammals have vanished from the American scene and a co-operative effort is needed to prevent the list from growing.

The reason for this is progress. As man expanded farming, dug more oil wells, built new dams, he removed the swamps, free-flowing streams and tall-grass prairies needed for wildlife survival.

Already the Atlantic salmon, once an important sport and commercial fish in New England waters, now can be found in limited numbers in only eight Maine streams.

The California Condor, the nation's largest soaring land bird, weighs about 20 pounds and has a wingspread of nearly 10 feet. It once ranged the entire Pacific Coast. But hunters have reduced its numbers to only 20 or 50 confined to an area around the southern Sierra Nevada and the coast ranges of Southern California.

The black-footed ferret, a large weasel with black feet and face mask, is vanishing from the Great Plains and the high reaches of the Rockies. Destruction of the prairie dog, the weasel's natural prey, and the original grasslands have reduced its numbers to only a comparative few in the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Part of the Danube River flows underground and emerges as a tributary of the Rhine River.

Tourist Traffic Up In Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In 1964, about three million Americans came to take a look at their national capital. Most of them arrived in the spring, just before or just after the cherry blossoms.

This year, the number of tourists visiting Washington will top nine million. The influx began in mid-March, continued without let-up through the summer and did not taper off until late October.

A 300 per cent increase in tourist traffic would mean a lot to any city. It is of particular importance here, because tourism is Washington's second biggest industry, surpassed only by government.

What it means to local stores, restaurants, taxi drivers, hotel-keepers and the omnipresent tourist guides is reflected in figures compiled by the Convention and Visitors Bureau of the Washington Board of Trade. In 1960, tourists spent $150 million in Washington. This year, they spent upwards of $400 million.

Although the volume of tourist traffic has grown steadily, at an average rate of increase of about 400,000 a year, the jump since 1963 was a spectacular 1,300,000.

The explanation is obvious: A lot of people stopped off in Washington on their way to or from the New York World's Fair.

Not only are more people coming to Washington, they're coming from farther away. Fifteen years ago, more than three-fourths of the visitors were from Eastern Seaboard states or the near Midwest. This year, a check of hotel registrations showed that 45 per cent of the visitors came from places more than 450 miles distant.

The Visitors' Bureau attributes this trend in part to the vast improvement in auto travel made possible by the growing interstate highway system.

Another factor is longer vacations. Not so many years ago, "two weeks with pay" was the standard vacation. Now it is commonplace for companies to grant three weeks vacation to employes with five years or more service. Many grant a month's vacation to those with 10 or more years of seniority.

Spring continues to be Washington's peak tourist season — partly because the figures for

April and May are swelled by some two million high school students who come here on the traditional "senior class trip."

But the Visitors' Bureau has been working hard to extend the season by advertising Washington's summer attractions.

DeGaulle Confronts Germans With 'No Compromise' Choice

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle has faced West Germany with an agonizing choice between France and the United States.

He has confronted the Germans with a decision between a United Europe, largely dominated by France, and an Atlantic Alliance heavily overshadowed by the United States.

His Strasbourg speech last Sunday, one of the toughest he has delivered recently, made it clear there is no halfway choice or compromise decision.

All Or Nothing

As far as De Gaulle is concerned the choice is France or the United States, Europe or the Atlantic Alliance, all or nothing.

That is the deep significance behind the showdown crisis now building up around the American-sponsored plan for an Allied Multi-Lateral Nuclear Force (MLF).

De Gaulle is uncompromisingly hostile to MLF. He is determined at all costs to torpedo it, because he sits in it a grave threat to his own pattern for the future.

The De Gaulle plan for the future looks to a Europe that is united economically, politically and in the defense field. Full economic union, as De Gaulle sees it, must come first and that must include a Common Market not only for industrial but also for agricultural produce. That explains his insistence on West German agreement on joint farm prices by the end of the year.

With achievement of economic union, the next stage would be political union—not a tightly integrated community with supra-national institutions, but a loose federation of independent states, committed to common foreign and defense policies.

Common Defense

Once this political union comes into being, as De Gaulle sees it, it would be possible to organize a common defense, particularly in the nuclear field.

This presumably would include a European nuclear force inside the North Atlantic Alliance, but completely independent of the American nuclear deterrent. It might or might not include the independent French National Nuclear Force De Gaulle is hastening to build. But De Gaulle is determined that this European nuclear deterrent should be totally separate from, although perhaps parallel to, the American deterrent.

Independence "Impossible"

His reasons for this are two-fold:

—He believes it is impossible for any country or group of countries to conduct an "independent" policy unless it has complete, unfettered control over its own defenses. He is convinced that as long as France, West Germany or Western Europe are dependent for their safety on the U.S. deterrent, they are doomed to "satellite" or "auxiliary" status, as he put it in his Strasbourg speech.

—He is haunted by the fear that the United States could not be counted on to hit back with its full strategic nuclear might in the first hours or minutes of a Communist attack on Western Europe. He warned of this again in his Strasbourg speech.

Thus his plan calls for at least two separate nuclear deterrent forces within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). One would be American and the other would be the European deterrent.

Exactly how such a European deterrent would work he has not yet spelled out. In any event, he argues that political union must come first and when that has been achieved it would be easy to organize a common nuclear defense within it.

18 Skaters Pass Proficiency Tests

Eighteen Pampa skaters passed Roller Skating proficiency tests at a test center held at the Pampa Roller Rink last Sunday.

Those passing the first dance bar test, which includes skating the Progressive Tango, the Glide Waltz and the Society Blues, were Jerry Brister, David Griffin, Susan Higginbotham, Estella Porterfield, Chrysa Brister, Melody Geyer, Georgina Jenkins, Marsha Walls and Gary Field.

The second dance bar test consisting of the Skaters March, the Monterey Tango and the Collegiate, was passed by Beryle Brister, Michael Brister, Ronald Williams, Stephanie Stewart and Karla Hollis.

Artificial Sweeteners Called Fad

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A clinical research director believes artificial sweeteners are a food fad and people may be gaining weight because of them.

Dr. I. Frank Tullis, research center director for the University of Tennessee College of Medicine here, said "the average person drinks from three to four cups of tea or coffee a day. Using a rounded teaspoon of sugar in each he may take 100 calories a day."

An artificial sweetener would eliminate those 100 calories, Tullis said, but "the worst part is that the user then rationalizes that he is entitled to eat that piece of pie at night, which may have 600 calories, because he saved 100 calories during the day."

Tullis said he is for almost any diet which works and contains adequate nutrition, but he said most people do not seem to realize that sugar is not the only source of carbohydrates. Potatoes, bread and other starches also become sugar in the body.

He said artificial sweeteners are now used in 31 per cent of the nation's households, but this will level off "just as the liquid formula foods have leveled off."

PARIS (UPI) — France and Communist Albania Thursday signed a new commercial agreement aimed at stepped up trade next year.

The agreement followed a recent decision by France and Albania to raise the status of their diplomatic missions to embassy rank.

Second Phase Opens On Wildlife Harvest

AUSTIN (Sp1) — The Thanksgiving period marks the second phase of the major wildlife harvest in Texas, with the duck, quail and deer seasons being opened or expanded, reports the Parks and Wildlife Department.

E. A. Walker, assistant director for wildlife, noted that the duck season opened on Nov. 25. Most counties opened the quail shoot simultaneously with the deer season Nov. 14.

The main calendar affect on the big game season is opening of the mule deer hunt in the nine county Trans-Pecos Nov. 28. Walker observed that this is one of the high points of the big game season for many hunters who invade the rugged canyon country for the larger mule deer. The season runs through Dec. 12. Counties affected are El Paso, Hudspeth, Culberson, Reeves, Jeff Davis, Presidio, Brewster, Pecos and Terrell.

Meanwhile, the duck season, anticipated with considerable enthusiasm by scatter gunners, had a Nov. 25 opener, with prospects of one of the best harvests in recent years.

The Panhandle offers a nimrod's tonic in a seven day pheasant shoot beginning Dec. 1 in the Panhandle regulatory district. Other counties having pheasant season are Ellis, Hidalgo, Kaufman, La Salle, Lee Smith, Travis and Wood. The limit is two cocks, with four in possession in the Panhandle.

As the harvest area is expanded, one major season closed over all the state when the mourning dove shoot ended Nov. 24 in the south zone. The north zone dove hunt ended Oct. 30.

The duck season continuing through Jan. 3, finds a daily possession limit of four and a possession limit, after the first day of eight. Shooting hours are from sunup to sunset. The daily possession limit may not include more of the following species than: two wood ducks, two mallards, two canvasbacks or redheads (or one of each). The possession limit — not to include more of the following species than: two wood ducks, four mallards, two canvasbacks or redheads (or one of each).

The goose season, which opened Oct. 31, continues through Jan. 3.

SEES "ICE" MELTING

MOSCOW (UPI) — The English language Moscow News said Friday the ice should "melt U.S.-Soviet trade."

The newspaper criticized U.S. restrictions as the "main obstacle" for expanding trade. It was commenting on the recent visit by a team of leading American businessmen.

"There is a very broad scope for Soviet-American trade as has been stated many times by Soviet leaders. But the desire of one side alone is insufficient," Moscow News said.

Fullbacks Lead Voting In Third Annual Poll

Three fullbacks led the voting for the third annual All - Top O' Texas football team, as area Class A champion White Deer and area Class B champ Wheeler took the top number of spots.

Dunk Porter, who has gained over 1,300 yards and scored 25 touchdowns for Wheeler, was the first unanimous choice in the team's history, making every first team ballot. Close behind was Dangerous Dickie Crockett, McLean fullback who ran for over 1,500 yards and 100 points this past year, followed by Big Eddie Kleibrink, the mammoth fullback tackle of White Deer, who racked up over 1,000 yards from scrimmage.

Quarterbacking the team was smooth Richard Wallace, the tall and clever Wheeler signal-caller, who hit seven of 11 passes in Wheeler's bi - district win last week, also chosen by a wide margin.

For Porter, Crockett and Wallace it was their second straight time on the first team, Wallace having shared the honor last year and Porter being named as a halfback. Kleibrink, injured much of last season, had been an honorable mention.

Voting for the All - Top O' Texas team is done by the coaches of White Deer, Canadian, McLean, Groom, Miami, High Schools and by News Wheeler, Mobeetie, and Lefors Sports Editor Jeff Cohane.

Beaten out by the three big backs were a pair of scatbacks and a pair of "one - man" backfields. Keith Yarnold, who gained 1,100 yards rushing for Canadian and Little Bobby Vanpool, who garnered 1,200 for Wheeler, were the second team choices, plus Bill the Bruiser Nichols of Lefors and Larry Lamberson of Groom, a pair of fullbacks who led their teams in rushing. Terry Cornett, Groom's passing ace, calls the plays for the second unit.

Three men tied for the two first team end positions. Monte "Hopalong" Hawpe, White Deer's fine blocker, lanky Jerry Roberts, the leading pass receiver in Class B and Kenny "Big Un" Harrell, one of the top pass - catchers in Class A, shared the honors.

Mike "Baggy Pants" Henderson of Canadian led the voting at tackle, with a bitter fight for the second spot finding White Deer's Charles Smith edging Wheeler's Jimmy Jamison. Ronnie Hunt of McLean and Gene Watson of Wheeler topped a pair of up - and - coming sophomores. Jerry McCuiston of Miami and Gary Smith of White Deer, for the guard spots.

At center, Terry McCasland of Wheeler took the honor by one of the biggest margins in the history of the poll. Gary "Little Un" Harrell of Canadian on the second squad.

Defensive teams were named for the first time, with a lot of familiar faces on the first unit. McCasland, Kleibrink, Porter and Smith made the first defense to become two - way honorees. Eddie Jay Windom of McLean, first - team end last year, made it at linebacker with Smith and Porter. George Green of McLean, a first - timer, joined Jamison, a guard selection last year, McCasland and Kleibrink in the line.

Two tough Wheeler defenders, end Villard Hunter and guard Billy Overcast, won the cornermen's berths, while quarterback Johnny Fuller of McLean and pass - snatcher Randy Elliott of White Deer were named as halfbacks.

The second unit saw a lot of two - way performers also, including McCuiston, Hawpe, Edgar Brown of Lefors, Crockett, Henderson, and Roberts. Joining them were Danny Dorman of Wheeler, Keith Fields of Groom, Butcherboy Bennie Eckles of Canadian, Ken Gill of Miami, Dwight Hathaway of McLean, David Cook of Canadian.

Certificates honoring them for making the team will be presented to the All - Top O' Texas squad, by the Pampa Daily News.

Sooners Rally Past Okie State Cowboys

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI)—Bobby Page fired two fourth-quarter touchdowns passes to Ben Hart, one of them covering 65 yards, to propel Gator Bowl-bound Oklahoma to a 21-16 Big Eight victory over aroused Oklahoma State Saturday.

Oklahoma State, its rugged defense forcing Oklahoma into numerous mistakes, led 16-7 on a first quarter touchdown and three field goals by Charles Durkee when the Sooners started their late surge and notched their 19th straight victory over their arch rivals.

The underdog Cowboys, who recovered five Oklahoma fumbles and intercepted a pass, had a chance to pull it out just over four minutes left, but Tony Sellari, who had worked himself into the clear at the 7, dropped a pass from Glenn Baxter and the Sooners held.

Oklahoma State fullback Walt Garrison, in a head-to-head duel with Oklahoma fullback Jim Grisham for the Big Eight rushing championship, won the title by a mere 5 yards. Garrison gained 62 yards Saturday to give him a total of 730, while Grisham picked up 84 yards to wind up with 725.

Oklahoma, winding up its season with a 6-3-1 record and second place in the Big Eight with a 5-1-1 mark, scored first on a 22-yard run by Page in the first quarter and Butch Metcalf converted. Oklahoma State tied it up just before the first quarter ended when sophomore Danny Lawson raced over from the 4 and Durkee kicked the extra point.

Durkee, a junior from Hurst, Tex., booted a 29-yard field goal in the second quarter to give Oklahoma State a 10-7 lead and kicked two 28-yarders in the third quarter to put the Cowboys ahead 16-7.

Oklahoma, which meets Florida State in the Gator Bowl Jan. 2, completed a 64-yard march with 12:43 left in the game when Page passed 14 yards to Hart. When Metcalf kicked the extra point, the Sooners trailed by 2, 16-14.

Oklahoma State could not move and had to punt, and Oklahoma quickly put on the winning drive. With the ball on the Oklahoma 35, Page dropped back one step and rifled the ball to Hart, who caught it on the 42 and streaked past three defenders to score on a 65-yard play. Metcalf finished the scoring with his third conversion.

Oklahoma wound up with 465 yards rushing and passing to only 187 for Oklahoma State, which ended its season with a 3-4 Big Eight record and 4-6 overall.

Wild Finish For Baylor

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—End Ken Hodge made a fantastic one-handed grab of a 27-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Terry Southall to give Baylor a tingling, come-from-behind 20-17 victory over Rice Saturday and third place in the final Southwest Conference standings.

The touchdown pass came only seconds after Baylor had a 32-yard scoring pass from Southall to end Harlan Lane called back because of holding.

End Willie Walker set up the winning points when he recovered a fumbled punt on the Rice 12.

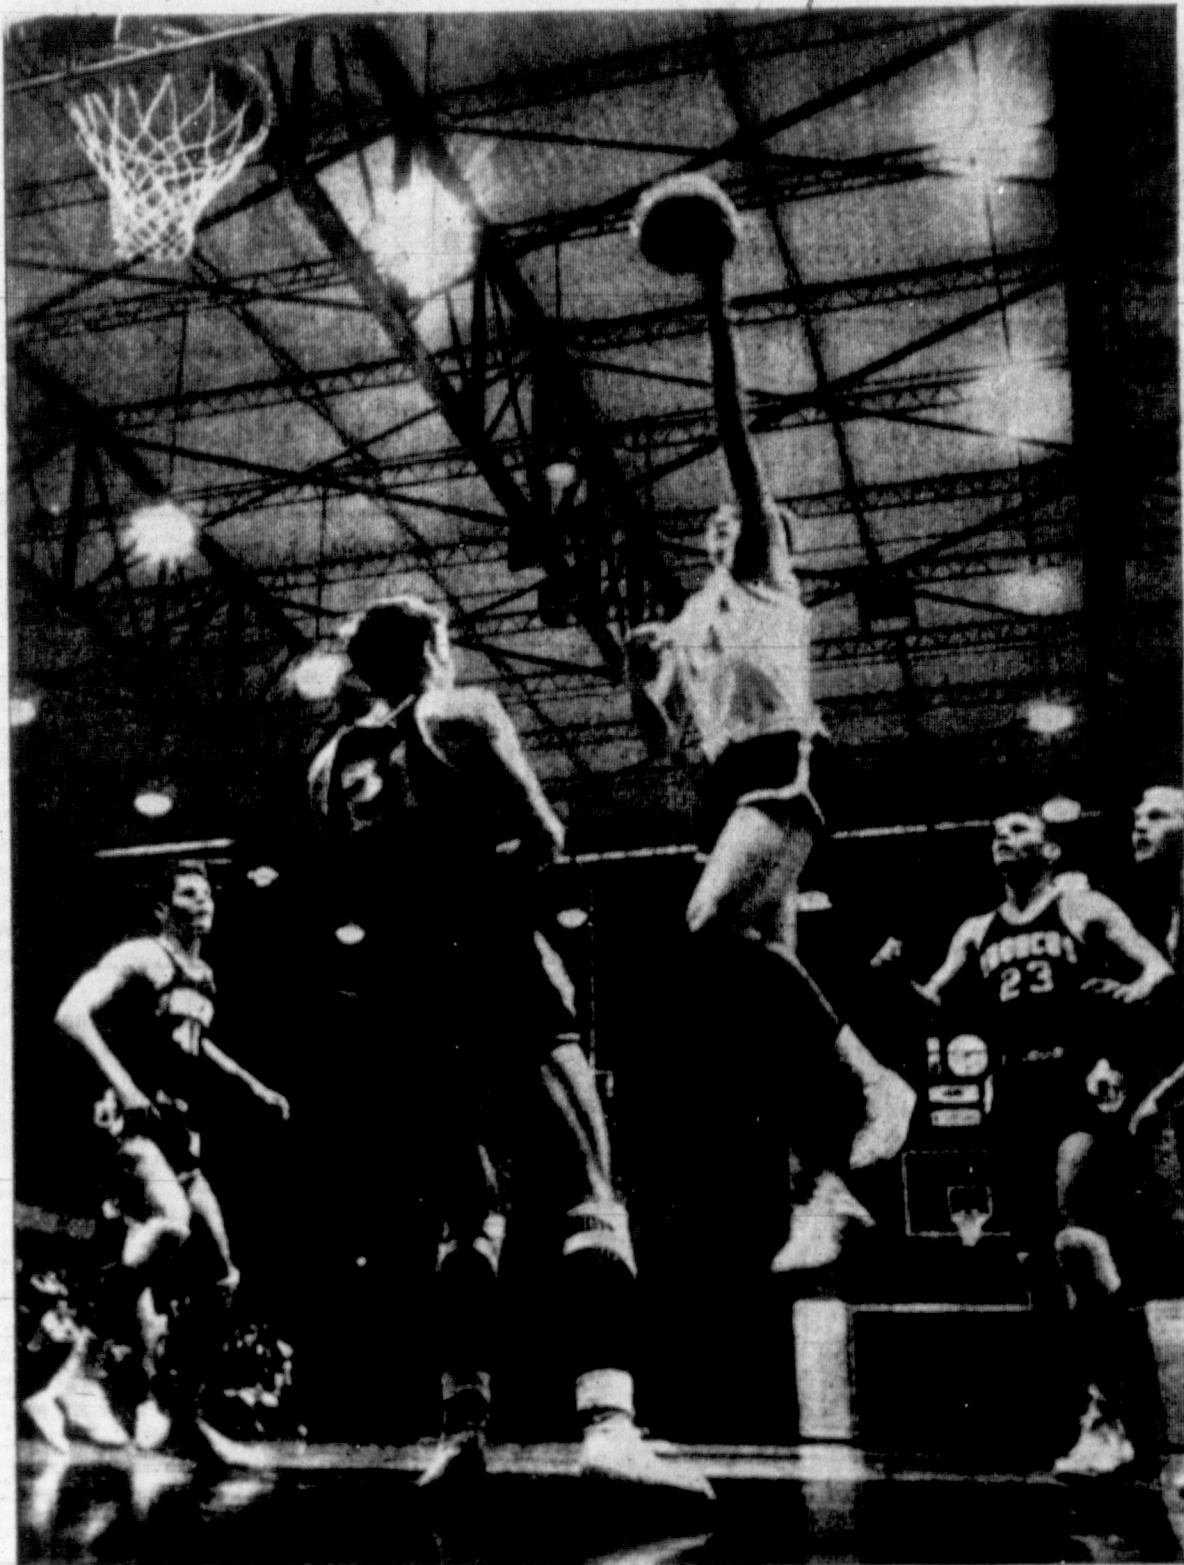

Rice held a 14-6 halftime lead on quarterback Walter McReynolds one-yard touchdown sneak and fullback Russell Wyatt's 52-yard TD dash.

Ysleta rallies to beat Odessa, 10-7. EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Ysleta High drove 83 yards to score in the final period Saturday and come from behind to defeat Odessa High 10-7 in a schoolboy Class AAAA bidistrict football game before 10,000 fans in El Paso's Sun Bowl.

TCU Tips Oilers Draft Elkins, Over SMU Rhome, Anderson

DALLAS (UPI)—The running of Jimmy Fauer and Larry Bulaich enabled Texas Christian to overcome the handicap of six lost fumbles Saturday and maintain its 18-year domination of the season-closing series with Southern Methodist on a 17-6 victory note.

The game, played before a sparse crowd of 12,000, was such a comedy of errors that in one 70-second span the ball changed hands four times on fumbles and interceptions.

Bulaich gave TCU a first quarter lead with a seven-yard burst off tackle and the Frogs boosted it to 14-0 by halftime when fumble-prone quarterback Randy Howard kept possession long enough to hit sophomore halfback David Smith with a 14-yard scoring pass.

Bruce Alford, who kicked both conversions, iced the game with a 23-yard final quarter field goal. SMU, which has mustered but two victories and one tie in the series since 1946, scored in the third period on a 12-yard run by sophomore tailback Floyd Burke.

The Methodists threatened several other times only to miscue deep in TCU territory. In all, the ball changed hands 11 times on miscues. SMU suffered three interceptions and lost the ball twice on fumbles.

Fauer, the Southwest Conference's No. 2 rusher, slugged his way for 89 yards to build his 10 game total to 789 yards, while Bulaich gained 72 yards toward a 215-yard rushing total for the Frogs.

Howard hit but three of seven pass attempts, but one of them went for six points and was more than enough to offset SMU Donnie Oefinger's 10 out of 17 for 105 yards and no touchdowns. Oefinger also was SMU's top ground gainer with 53 yards.

The victory gave TCU a 4-6 season record and 3-4 in conference play. SMU won but one of 16 games and none in league competition.

S. Calif. Upsets. LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The University of Southern California, behind the sensational passing of quarterback Craig Fertig, defeated Notre Dame Saturday 20-17 to knock the Irish out of a possible national championship and put themselves back in the running for a Rose Bowl bid.

Houston Oilers coach Sammy Baugh oozed confidence today during the American Football League draft that Houston's early deals will bring him the nation's leading passer and two of the most exciting players in college ball.

In the first blush of the professional draft today, the Oilers drafted Baylor's pass receiver Lawrence Elkins, traded with New York to get the rights to passing wizard Jerry Rhome of Tulsa, an picked Donnie Anderson of Texas Tech as a red-shirt (future) for the 1965 year.

Baugh has a built-in advantage in the haggling for Rhome. Baugh coached Rhome last year at Tulsa and knows him well.

If Houston gets Elkins, that would re-unite a pass pattern combination of Don Trull and Elkins that worked to the bewilderment of opponents one year ago at Baylor. "I think Elkins will be a real fine receiver and should be here for 10 years or more," Baugh said. "Elkins has run patterns in a pro-type offense, he has a great pair of hands, good moves and is fast enough and tough enough."

At Houston Elkins would most likely play opposite Charlie Hennigan in the Oilers' passing attack.

Tucson Wins. FORT WORTH (UPI)—Unbeaten Amarillo Tascosa came from behind to defeat Fort Worth Castleberry 14-7 Saturday in a Class AAAA schoolboy bi-district battle at TCU stadium.

The underdog Lions took a 7-0 lead midway through the second period when halfback Mike Richardson scored on a one-yard plunge. George Geron added the extra point.

Tascosa tied the game with 1:26 left in the half on a 37-yard scoring pass from quarterback Ted Postisill to wingback Chris Simmons. Billy Hobbs kicked the extra point.

Simmons scored the winning tally with less than five minutes left in the game won a 10-yard run climaxing an 80 yard drive.

The Giants had been believed most interested in a quarterback, but had announced they would pick the best player they could find regardless of position.

The San Francisco Forty-Niners, who had the second choice in the first round, named Ken Willard, a fullback from the University of North Carolina.

While first-round selections still were going on, the Giants announced they signed Frederickson to a contract this morning in Birmingham, Ala.

Green Bay selected halfback Donny Anderson from Texas Tech after a 55-minute delay. Anderson was picked as a "future." He has another year of college eligibility remaining.

The pick was the first of two first round choices for the Packers. This selection was acquired in an earlier deal with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Harvesters Take Second Over Denton By 84-70

By JEFF COHANE News Sports Editor

Ronnie Curlee pumped in three straight buckets to open the third quarter and break open a tight ball game, sparking the Pampa Harvesters to an 84-70 win over the Denton Broncos here last night, their second straight over Denton and their third win in as many starts.

Using a tight zone defense, the Broncos played Pampa much tougher than they had the previous evening as 67-

Bill Austin fought for a share of the rebounds against Roper and his taller mates, but the deadly outside shooting of Curlee, Mac McWilliams and Lanny Lewis, coupled with the bucket-stuffing of Roper and Davy McDaniel were too much.

The first quarter rocked back and forth until ball-hawking Curlee put Pampa into a six-point margin, only to have little Tim White hit at the buzzer to cut the edge to 22-17.

The second quarter started as a Pampa runaway as Curlee kept stealing the ball, moving to an 11-point margin, but Austin fought the boards and Vic Lauderdale hit two in a row to cut the lead to 41-33 at the half.

Curlee then proceeded to break it open, followed by McDaniel for a 17-point bulge. McWilliams fouled out, but Carl Harnsberger took over and the Harvesters kept going, although the ball-hawking Broncos rallied to within 64-52 going into the final frame.

Lauderdale and Sawyer kept hitting, but Lewis and McDaniel matched them and the Harvesters kept a 10-to-15 point edge the rest of the way.

McDaniel led the Pampa scoring with 19 points, followed by Roper with 18, Curlee with 15 and Lewis with 12. Lauderdale had 22, Austin and White 14 each and Sawyer 12 for Denton.

The Shockers got revenge in the B game, taking a 64-56 victory. Robert Karr had 13 points, Roy Harper 10, Schnoz Foster nine and Larry Stephens eight points.

Pampa Raps Denton In Opener, 87-65

The Pampa Harvesters were never headed as they romped to an 87-65 victory over the Denton Broncos Friday night, their second straight win of the young season.

One of the few teams shorter than themselves that the Harvesters will meet this year, Denton was never in the ball game as Roper, Davey McDaniel and Mac McWilliams completely dominated the rebounds. With a 34-point lead in mid-third quarter, Pampa started clearing the bench, with Denton getting 30 points in the final period against the third and fourth string.

Roper, playing little more than half the game, pulled down 16 rebounds and slammed home 22 points to lead the scoring as 13 Harvesters hit the tallysheet. McDaniel had 12 markers and playmaker Lanny Lewis, faking the Broncos out of their sweat-sox, followed with 11.

Pampa shot off to an 8-0 lead as McDaniels and Roper stuffed in layups while Lewis and Ronnie Curlee hit from outside. With McWilliams stealing the ball from the fast-breaking visitors and feeding his mates, Pampa moved it rapidly up. McDaniel dropping in a 30-footer at the buzzer for a 26-10 quarter lead.

As Roper dominated the boards and Lewis faked and set up, Pampa built the margin steadily up, despite a full-court press by Denton and the shooting of Dickie Sawyer. With Lewis and Mac hitting from outside, Pampa had a 49-23 halftime lead.

With Roper slamming five buckets through the nets, the Harvesters built the margin to 62-28 and the second unit went in. With Sugar Cain and Mike Wise on the boards and Carl Harnsberger and Doug Alton sparking the attack, Pampa moved to a 68-35 three-quarter edge.

Bob Howard took over the boards while Wise and David Frasier hit the bucket, but the Harvesters got down to their third team and Sawyer and Company got up to a respectable score. Highlight of the fourth quarter was the tumultuous roar that went up from the Fatheree Fan Club as "Little Richard" got his first bucket of the season.

The Shockers went down before the sharpshooting, ball-hawking visitors in the preliminary game, 56-52. Trailing throughout the contest, the Shocks battled back to within one point on the play of Steve Williams and Roy Harper, but Denton went into a stall and pulled out on free throws. Williams had 18 and Harper nine points for Pampa.

A lengthy parade of former Pampa and area athletic greats in visiting for the Thanksgiving Day holidays. Some prominent in college sports, some just working on an education. Among the old gang in and welcomed were Carl Clark, Danny Hell, Rick Stewart, Kenny Herbert, Larry Gregory, Don McCool of Lefors, Linda Davis of White Deer, Ricky Goodwin, Ruth Ann Cunningham and Hack Coffee of Miami, C. E. Cantrell, etc., etc.

AMONG THOSE in the midst of college sports are Hebert in football at the U of Houston. Goodwin at Oklahoma, McCool at OSU, Clark at McMurry, Basketball - wise, Rock Hill is in the thick of his season at Frank Phillips and Stewart at Arlington State, Gregory at Sam Houston State, is one of many Pampa baseball players awaiting the spring season.

ALTHOUGH MANY of the schools, even from as far away as Houston, Norman, Big Spring, Roswell, Abilene, etc. keep us informed on how the boys are doing, some of the nearby schools fail to and we had to visit with Rock Hill and Carl Clark to find out how things were.

The 6'3" Hell is, of all things, a guard. One of the leading rebounders at Pampa last year, he is on a team loaded with height, including a 6-9 boy and another 6-6. The Rock has played in all three games as a guard, starting in two of them, and has a single game high of 14 points. Opines its a little tough switching over, but that he'll get the hang of it.

Carl, looking like a man mountain at 235, was a little disappointed in his performance this past year. Playing second string tackle, he was slated to move up to first string but got a knee injury. Carl says the scoop is that he hopes to be a starting guard next year.

Dogs Wreck Tech, Sun Bowl Bound

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — The aroused Georgia Bulldogs beat Tech 7 - 0 Saturday and earned a trip to the Sun Bowl.

The lone touchdown came late in the third period after the hard - charging Bulldogs made the second of their four fumble recoveries. Georgia drove 22 quick yards, 16 on a pass from quarterback Preston Ridlehuber to fullback Leon Armstrong and Ridlehuber tripped over from three yards out.

Specialist Bob Etter kicked the extra point and that was the way it stood at game's end when it was announced that the Bulldogs accepted a bid to meet Texas Tech in the Sun Bowl.

The Bulldogs, who finished with a 6 - 3 - 1 record — their best since 1959, never let up on defense and Georgia Tech, which lost its last three games after winning the first seven, managed only five first downs.

The only other time Georgia got within the Tech 40 yard line during the defensive struggle was at the close of the first half when a 36 - yard pass from alternate quarterback Lynn Hughes to end Pat Hodgson carried to the Tech 6 as time ran out.

The Bulldogs' next visit into scoring territory came suddenly in the third period when Tech fullback Jeff Davis fumbled and Georgia center John Glass recovered on the Tech 22 yard line.

Ridlehuber passed to the Tech 618 on second down and two plays later faked a handoff to Armbruster and ran behind his fullback off the left side of the Georgia line into the end zone.

Georgia Tech, a 1 - point favorite at game time, got to the Georgia 33 early in the first period but fumbled away the ball and got all the way to the Georgia 14 early in the fourth period before losing the ball on downs.

The Tech sortie in the fourth period was set up by a 39 - yard punt return by halfback Tommy Jackson.

A standing room only crowd of 52,050, was in the stadium and another 1,000 watched the game from vantage points outside.

Stratford Shuts Out Springlake

By JEFF COHANE
News Sports Editor

AMARILLO — Still a mass of tape, 160 - pound powerboy Terry Mathews led the Stratford Elks into the Class A quarterfinals with a 33-0 shutout of the Springlake Wolverines in the regional contest here Friday.

The supposedly - crippled Mathews, coupled with a vicious passing attack, had led Stratford to a 14 - 7 bi - district win over White Deer the week before. The same combination, joined with a tremendous ground defense, clicked to hand Springlake its first shutout.

The Wolverines, although gaining 116 yards passing, ended up with minus seven yards on the ground as the lighter, but faster, Elks, led by Harry Hopkins, smashed through time and again to red - dog quarterback Doug Messer.

Mathews was the workhorse as he carried 22 times for 95 yards. Quarterback Charles Plunk completed only three passes, as compared to 12 against White Deer, but two of them were for touchdowns and the third set up still another tally.

On Springlake's second play from scrimmage, Mathews recovered a fumble on the Wolverine 25. Mathews went for a first down on the 10, and four plays later, Plunk hit Keith White with a six - yard touchdowns pass.

In an 13 - play, 63 - yard drive that stretched into the second quarter, Stratford scored again. Key play on the drive was a fourth - down pass to Jim Hudson for 11 yards. Plunk kept the final yard for the tally and threw to White for the two - pointer.

A Plunk interception of a Messer pass on the Wolverine 35 set up another touchdown before the half ended. Plunk rifled a short pass to Johnny Brannon, who was sprung by a clearing block by Robert Meek and went the route to paydirt.

A fumbled snap in the third quarter gave Stratford the ball on Springlake's 26. Bucking a five - yard penalty, Brannon went around left end for the touchdown.

End Walter Lasley finished up the scoring as he hit Logan Armstrong, fielding a punt, in the end zone. Armstrong fumbled and Lasley beat everyone to recover the ball. Plunk then kicked the extra point.

Quail Sweeps Over Lefors

LEFORS — Deadly Dale Morris led the Quail Quails to a runaway victory over the Lefors Pirates Friday night, 76 - 37.

The Quail Quails made it a twin win with a 61 - 42 defeat of the Pirates.

The fast - breaking, pressing Quails broke to an 18 - 9 quarter lead as they run Lefors ragged, with Morris hitting his unstoppable jump shots from all over the floor. Quail moved it to 36 - 20 at the half, 56 - 30 at the three - quarter mark and pressed even harder in the final frame. Morris finished up with 35 points. Dave "Ace" Roberts led the Pirates with 16.

The Quail girls led all the way, taking a 15 - 5 quarter lead and moving to 27 - 17 and 51 - 31. Bright spot for the Pirates was the play of Vicki Stone. Sidelined with injuries, Vicki got in to her first game and racked up 29 points.

Lefors hosts McLean Tuesday night.

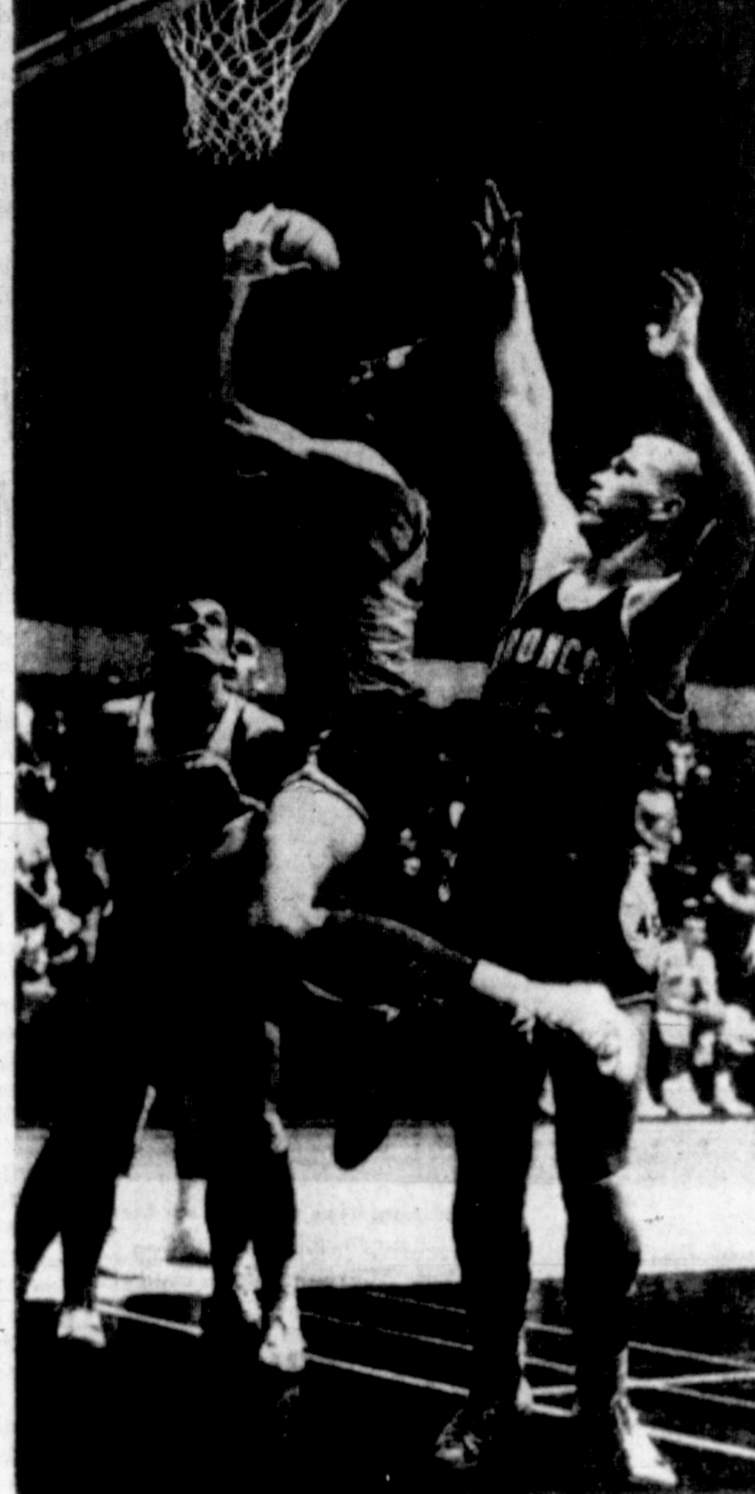

BC Over HC

BOSTON (UPI) — Heavily favored Boston College had to fight from behind with a fourth quarter air attack Saturday for a 10-8 victory over traditional Jesuit school rival Holy Cross.

A 15-year pass from quarterback Ed Foley to end Jim Whalen scored the winning touchdown after the Holy Cross Crusaders had made a first period touchdown and a second quarter safety stand up until less than 12 minutes remained in the game.

Garland Squeaks To Quarterfinals

By United Press International
Defending Class AAAA school-boy football champion Garland High led nearly two dozen teams into the quarterfinal round of the state title playoffs today, but had to drive 99 yards against... the clock to preserve its chance at a repeat championship.

The Owls, leading 13-3 at one time and then trailing 16-13, stopped the Texarkana Tigers on downs at the Garland one-foot line with 3:33 left in the game Friday night, then stormed for the winning touchdown with 26 seconds left in a 20-16 thriller.

Port Worth Paschal, Houston Jones, Galena Park High, McAllen and San Antonio Highlands joined Garland in Friday night victories. Two more berths were to be settled today between Ysleta High and Odessa High at El Paso and Amarillo Tascoxa at Fort Worth Castleberry.

Three AAA Spots Open
Bonham, Palestine, Lamar Consolidated and San Marcos made it to the Class AAAA quarterfinals Friday night to join Andrews, which had gotten there Thursday with a 15-14 upset of top-ranked Dumas. Three more spots were to be determined today and tonight with Sweetwater at Wichita Falls Hirsch and Pharr-San Juan-Alamo at Kerrville in afternoon games and Vidor and Cypress-Fairbanks at Beaumont tonight.

Marlin, Taylor, Port ACres, Palacios and Los Fresnos won Class AA quarterfinal berths to join Denver City, which had walloped Iowa Park 26-8 Thursday. Stamford was to meet Dublin at Abilene and Atlanta to play Canton at Longview in other AA games tonight.

The full round of eight was set up Friday night in Class A with Stratford, Big Lake, Archer City, Clifton, White Oak, Rosebud, Hull-Daisetta and Ingleside making the grade.

Paschal upset Dallas Hillcrest 7-0 with a stingy defense. Houston Jones upset Spring Branch High 13-7 on Van Brown's running and passing. Galena Park rode the three-touchdown pass-

Garrison Wins District 3-AAAA Punting Honors

Jerry "Chinky" Garrison, of Pampa won the district 3-AAAA punting honors, with an average of 38.5 yards per boot. In the final district statistics released today, Garrison was reported the top man, making the fifth straight year the Harvesters have had the best kicker in the loop.

The only other honor Pampa won however, was that of receiving the least penalty yardage of any district team, as district champ Tascoxa walked off with most of the team and individual honors.

Gary King, Caprock's versatile fullback, won the district scoring race as he scored 57 points running, pass - receiving and kicking. Richard Ross of Tascoxa won out in the season-long duel over David Dillingham of Berger, taking rushing honors. Mike Bowman of Lubbock, sixth in running and second in passing, won the total offense title, while Mike Vachon of Palo Duro was the leading passer. Chris Key of Monterey led by a wide margin in total pass - receiving yards, although David May of Palo Duro actually hauled in two more aeriels.

Cletis Butcher and Jim Butcher posted a 6-3 to win the Garden Lanes Trophy in the Charity Tournament at Garden Lanes last week. Mary Morgan and Graydon Lantz posted almost the same series as Dot Osborne and Graydon — a 6-65. The high honors of the week go to Dot Fife who picked up the 4-7-6-10 — big split — which is a rarity.

Jessie Smartt with a 200-224-211 — 645 had a fine evening, as did Red Watson with a 225-224-628. Fred Neslage was zeroed in for one game at least, as he hit a 257.

Many of the leagues were postponed this week because of Thanksgiving and a lot of the Juniors will be competing in the Annual Turkey Shoot in Amarillo. Those having three strikes in a row will receive a neat little Arm Patch with an embroidered Turkey, so look for a lot of Turkeys when the event is over.

Some of the higher series of the week were Jesse Smartt 645, Red Watson 628, Roscoe Mounce 618, James Brown 588, Jack Lallemeud 569 and the ladies didn't do bad — Vivian Garrison 542, Minnie Cable 536, Nadine Fletcher 522, Lois League 504.

Some toes were stubbed — H. Cruise bowled an 88 game on a 135 avg and Bill Harvey an 84 on a 130 avg, but doing better was Buddy Thornton a 186 on a 128 avg. Bowler of the Week — handicap — Nadine Fletcher 654 and Fred Neslage 700.

See ya at the Bowling Lanes.

The center is offering a last two-week course in beginners and advanced beginners swimming for 1964. These will be the last lessons until Jan. 4. Beginners will meet from 4-5 p.m. and advanced beginners will meet from 5-6 p.m. starting Monday. Parents should enroll their children today or Monday as classes are still available. Center members will be enrolled free of charge while non-members will be charged a $2 instructional fee. Center memberships are still available also and would make lovely Christmas Gifts. The Swim Team of the center, the Dolphins, are working out daily now under the direction of Al Slaughter. Workout time is week days 6-7 p.m. and Saturdays from 7-9 p.m. The Dolphins have a swim team parents club too and carry on functions to raise money for the Dolphins to go on swim trips during the summer. Any person interested in joining the Dolphins and knows how to swim should contact Al Slaughter or the center. A meeting will then be arranged. The Dolphins learn competitive swimming and do not give swim lessons.

The center is sponsoring one big dance this year Dec. 5. On that date the Rhythm Masters from Texas Tech University, a home town group led by Tony Edmondson, will play for a big young people dance. Everyone is invited including out-of-town people. The dance will start at 8 p.m. and last until 11 p.m. on that Saturday night. The Dolphin Parent's Club will serve refreshments that night. All young people are urged to attend this dance and back it financially so that another can be staged next year.

New Heart Chief Sets Good Health Example

By CARLTON WILSON DALLAS (UPI)—Every morning Dr. Carleton B. Chapman runs a mile. On weekends he often takes a tandem bike ride with his wife. In between times he reads a lot of books. The 49-year-old physician is a strong believer in getting lots of exercise—both physical and mental and he just naturally sets a good example as the new president of the American Heart Association.

A professor at Southwestern Medical School, Dr. Chapman's personal program of physical fitness keeps his six-foot frame filled with energy. He expends it in a variety of teaching and educational efforts, including "my one extravagance."

That is his library at home of 2,000 volumes — filled with works in humanities, science and education as well as what Dr. Chapman feels is virtually everything of consequence written about the heart since 1800.

Fitness Important — The most important part in keeping active is that when one reaches, say 65, he will be physically fit," Chapman said. "The tragedy is not so much an early demise, but incapacity around and beyond the retirement age."

Since 1958, Chapman has been active in the American Heart Association, first as a member of its committee to allocate research funds. "The voluntary health agencies are absolutely essential to maintenance of a healthy research climate in the nation," he said.

Cardiopulmonary research is one of the two great endeavors in his life. The other is his fervent championing of scholarly pursuits, in the humanities as well as in science. He served on an advisory board that last year created a master plan to modernize and improve the educational program of Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

Phi Beta Kappa — A native of Sycamore, Ala., his own formal education came at Davidson College in North Carolina, where he was president of the student body in 1936 and graduated with a Phi Beta Kappa key.

Chapman was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, took an M.D. and graduate degrees at Harvard and then taught at Harvard and the University of Minnesota before coming to Texas 10 years ago.

Service in the U.S. Public Health Service from 1944-46 took Chapman to the Middle East and later to China and Indochina. This past summer he was in Europe for four months on a tour of cardiopulmonary laboratories through a Guggenheim fellowship.

But it is in his own laboratory in connection with Parkland Memorial Hospital that Chapman spends most of his time. His crowded lab will soon be replaced with two full floors in the Danciger research building now under construction at Southwestern Medical School, a branch of the University of Texas.

He got the money for the two floors himself, from an individual donation.

Many Papers — Chapman has written more than 100 papers on science and education, most of them pertaining to his own research.

His new laboratory will allow expansion of his present staff of nine, but it "won't be just test tubes and oscilloscopes."

"We will be reading any papers with ideas in them," he said, "especially old papers that may have good ideas in the light of new technology." He said major breakthroughs, such as the discovery of penicillin, are few and far between.

On the other hand there are "very definite advances in treatment, such as improved methods of diuresis, getting rid of excess fluids in the body; and diagnosis of types of heart disease."

WHAT IS IT? — For years the citizens of Wulfingen, Switzerland, have been unable to explain this statue in front of the town school. That is until some soldiers of the Swiss army offered their interpretation. The sculpture, they insist, represents a general reading a map.

Stanleyville Ghost Town of Evil

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI correspondent Dietrich Mummendey has arrived in Stanleyville to report on the rescue of hostages and the battle for the former rebel capital. Here is his eyewitness account.

By DIETRICH MUMMENDEY STANLEYVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — This is a ghost town full of evil spirits. Death is hiding on the rooftops, in the trees and in the high grass of the gardens around deserted villages.

As I write this dispatch, shooting rattles through scattered sections of the city. The firing is coming from diehard rebel snipers who refuse to surrender.

A Belgian paratroop radio operator was shot dead by one sniper. The soldier was hit as he climbed atop the roof of an airfield hangar to repair an antenna.

"There are lots of Simbas (rebels) who haven't given up yet," said Jack Carton-Barber, a white mercenary from Canada fighting alongside Congolese Army troops.

Carton-Barber drove me along the waterfront of the Congo River in an open jeep. Rebel snipers on the other side of the river took potshots at us. Their aim was bad.

Hide In Cave — The Belgian paras (paratroopers) discovered a cave full of Simbas right near the Lumumba monument. Carton-Barber said.

Oklahoma Symphony Schedules Concert — ELK CITY, Okla. (Sp) — The Oklahoma City Symphony Orchestra will conduct a concert in Elk City in the High School Auditorium Jan. 7.

There will be only one evening concert, which will begin at 8:15 p.m. Tickets for the center section are $3 and all others are $2. The advance ticket sales have been brisk and those interested in attending the symphony can obtain tickets from the Elk City Chamber of Commerce or at the Town House Restaurant in Elk City.

ton-Barber said. There were 35 rebels inside, he said.

In the rebel hey-day, the monument of the late Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba was used as the backdrop for executions. It was the scene of last Tuesday's massacre of whites as the Belgian rescue force arrived.

"There were some 3,000 rebel troops in town when we got here," a Congolese Army officer said. "We killed only a little more than 300. The others fled into the bush or are hiding in the city. They are still armed because we found hardly any rifles."

"We had some tough fighting at the bridge on the Buta Road near the power station."

"The bridge changed hands three or four times and we had to take out the Belgian who kept running the power station throughout the whole rebellion."

Kills 20 Rebels — Carton-Barber took part in an assault on another bridge.

"We had another go at it half an hour ago," he said. "We killed about 20."

"Only 20?" another mercenary asked.

"I don't want to shoot civilians and there were lots of women and children on the other side of the bridge," Carton-Barber replied. He said he picked up four wounded Congolese, including a child hit by snipers, and tended to them.

"I'm trying to fight as humanely as is possible in this mess," he said.

Congolese who want to show they are friendly wear white bandages around their heads or arms.

I saw one woman wind a bandage on the head of her baby before hoisting him on her back to carry him home.

Cuba Today—V

Once-Gay Havana Is Different Now

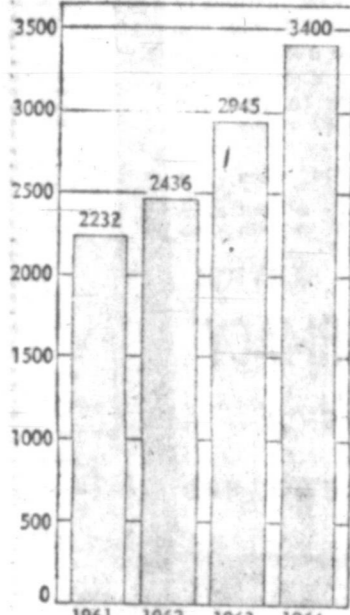

By JOHN VIRTUE
HAVANA (UPI)—Havana, once the gay, wide open tourist center of the Caribbean, is quiet and almost puritanical today.

The thousands of Americans who annually flocked to Cuba have been replaced by a handful of Iron Curtain tourists. There have been about 20 tours from Russia and other Iron Curtain countries this year.

The Russian tourist is great on swimming, sunning and sightseeing, but he doesn't indulge much in the night life of this city of more than one million. Ask the average Cuban what he thinks about the Russian tourist and he will probably slap the palm of his right hand against his left elbow—meaning he's a tight man with his money.

All the bars and night clubs remain open and the big hotels still stage spectacular floor shows, albeit a bit less risqué than in the past, but business is slack except on Friday and Saturday nights. The cast at the famed Tropicana night club sometimes outnumbers the patrons on week nights.

The night life also suffers from the transportation problem. The number of taxis on the streets drops sharply after nightfall because many have not been able to replace broken or worn out headlights due to the U.S. economic embargo.

NEW LEVELS—Journalism enrollment at the college freshman level is up for the fourth straight year and about 15 per cent higher than 1963, according to the Newspaper Fund. In 1961, there were 2,232 freshmen in 67 journalism schools. In 1964, 3,400 freshmen were enrolled in 71 schools.

But probably the most notable absences are those of the brothels and the gambling casinos. Both were early victims of the revolution.

Shortly after taking over in the first week of January, 1959, Prime Minister Fidel Castro cracked down on the street-walkers. Then the government began closing the brothels, 150 of which were located in a six-block area near the Capitol.

The girls were given intelligence quotient (I.Q.) tests as the government sought to find new lines of employment for them. Some went to work in factories while many were shipped to state farms, the fate reserved for the handful of prostitutes still operating in Havana should they be caught. Castro once sent a plane load of incorrigible girls to Miami when flights were still operating.

Despite the crackdown, the government has left untouched one Cuban institution—the posada, a type of hotel where unmarried couples can go. Many have been converted into apartment houses or army barracks, but only because they were not being used.

However, the government's attitude toward modesty prompted authorities to appeal this year to Cuban women to lengthen their skirts, which were being worn at the knee or higher. They have not met with much success.

The government permitted the gambling casinos to operate for about a year after the revolution, but stipulated that only tourists and wealthy Cubans could play. The casinos represented a source of income to the government.

It is said that Castro ordered all of the casinos closed after paying a visit to the Hotel Nacional and finding considerable noise coming from the casino. As the first peasant girls from Oriente Province were being housed in the hotel while studying in Havana, he did not feel that the casino created a proper atmosphere.

The government also cracked down on the numbers racket—there used to be about nine daily draws. There is still a national lottery.

The race track remains open and does a good parimutuel business, but there is no longer any professional jai alai and the government is discouraging cock fighting.

Dear Santa, I know you have not forgotten who I am. Just in case you have, my name is Preston Foster Steele. I am seven years old. I go to Baker School. My home is at 315 Tipton in Pampa. I have tried hard to be a "good boy," sometimes I wasn't so good but I am sorry and I will try to do better next year. I hope you think I deserve these things for Christmas. Please try and bring me this time a Big Brother. I wanted one last year and you didn't bring it Santa, so please bring it this year. I also want a Monkey (a Johnny Seven) and a Walkie Talkie set. I do hope you can bring me this.

Also don't forget my big brother Jr. Steele. He wants a bowling ball, a hat and shoes. He hasn't been the best boy

Mrs. JFK Cancels Public Appearance

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy Saturday cancelled her first public appearance since the assassination of President Kennedy because of the "emotional strain" resulting from the anniversary.

Mrs. Kennedy had been scheduled to attend a charity fund-raising dinner for Cedars of Lebanon-Mt. Sinai hospitals in Los Angeles on Tuesday. It would have been her first public appearance since the end of her one-year period of mourning Nov. 22.

But a spokesman for Mrs. Kennedy said Saturday the former First Lady "feels unable to participate in any public engagements at this time."

Grand Jury Will Probe Shooting

HOUSTON (UPI)—The case giving a shot cut his spinal cord and paralyzed him from the waist down. The case of a 16-year-old boy who was involved in the shooting will go to the probation department. A 17-year-old and 18-year-old involved in the shooting can legally be treated like adults and their cases will go to the grand jury.

Harvester Fans Attend Home Basketball Opener

Images of a new season were presented Friday night as the Pampa High School Harvesters played their first home basketball game and the loyal roundball fans hurried out in force for the opener.

The field house scene as caught by a roving camera provided everything from faces of joy from students and fans to tears being shed because of boredom by a two-year-old boy in his father's lap. Straining athletes and youngsters watching their idols were also a part of the game time actions.

TWO POINTS — Pampa Harvester, Kerry (Ropes) Roper, number 30, top left photo, goes up to sink a basket for two points while Dickie Sawyer, 30, of Denton stands in front of Roper and gets ready for a rebound. Pampa's shooting and hustling defense provided the local fans with a runaway 87-65 victory.

WATCHING — Two youths in the top right photo were absorbed in the game and were typical of many other young boys attending the opener. The boy with both hands under his chin is Hal Turnbo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Turnbo of Fort Stockton. The youngster with only one hand supporting his head is Steven Turnbo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Turnbo of Kermit.

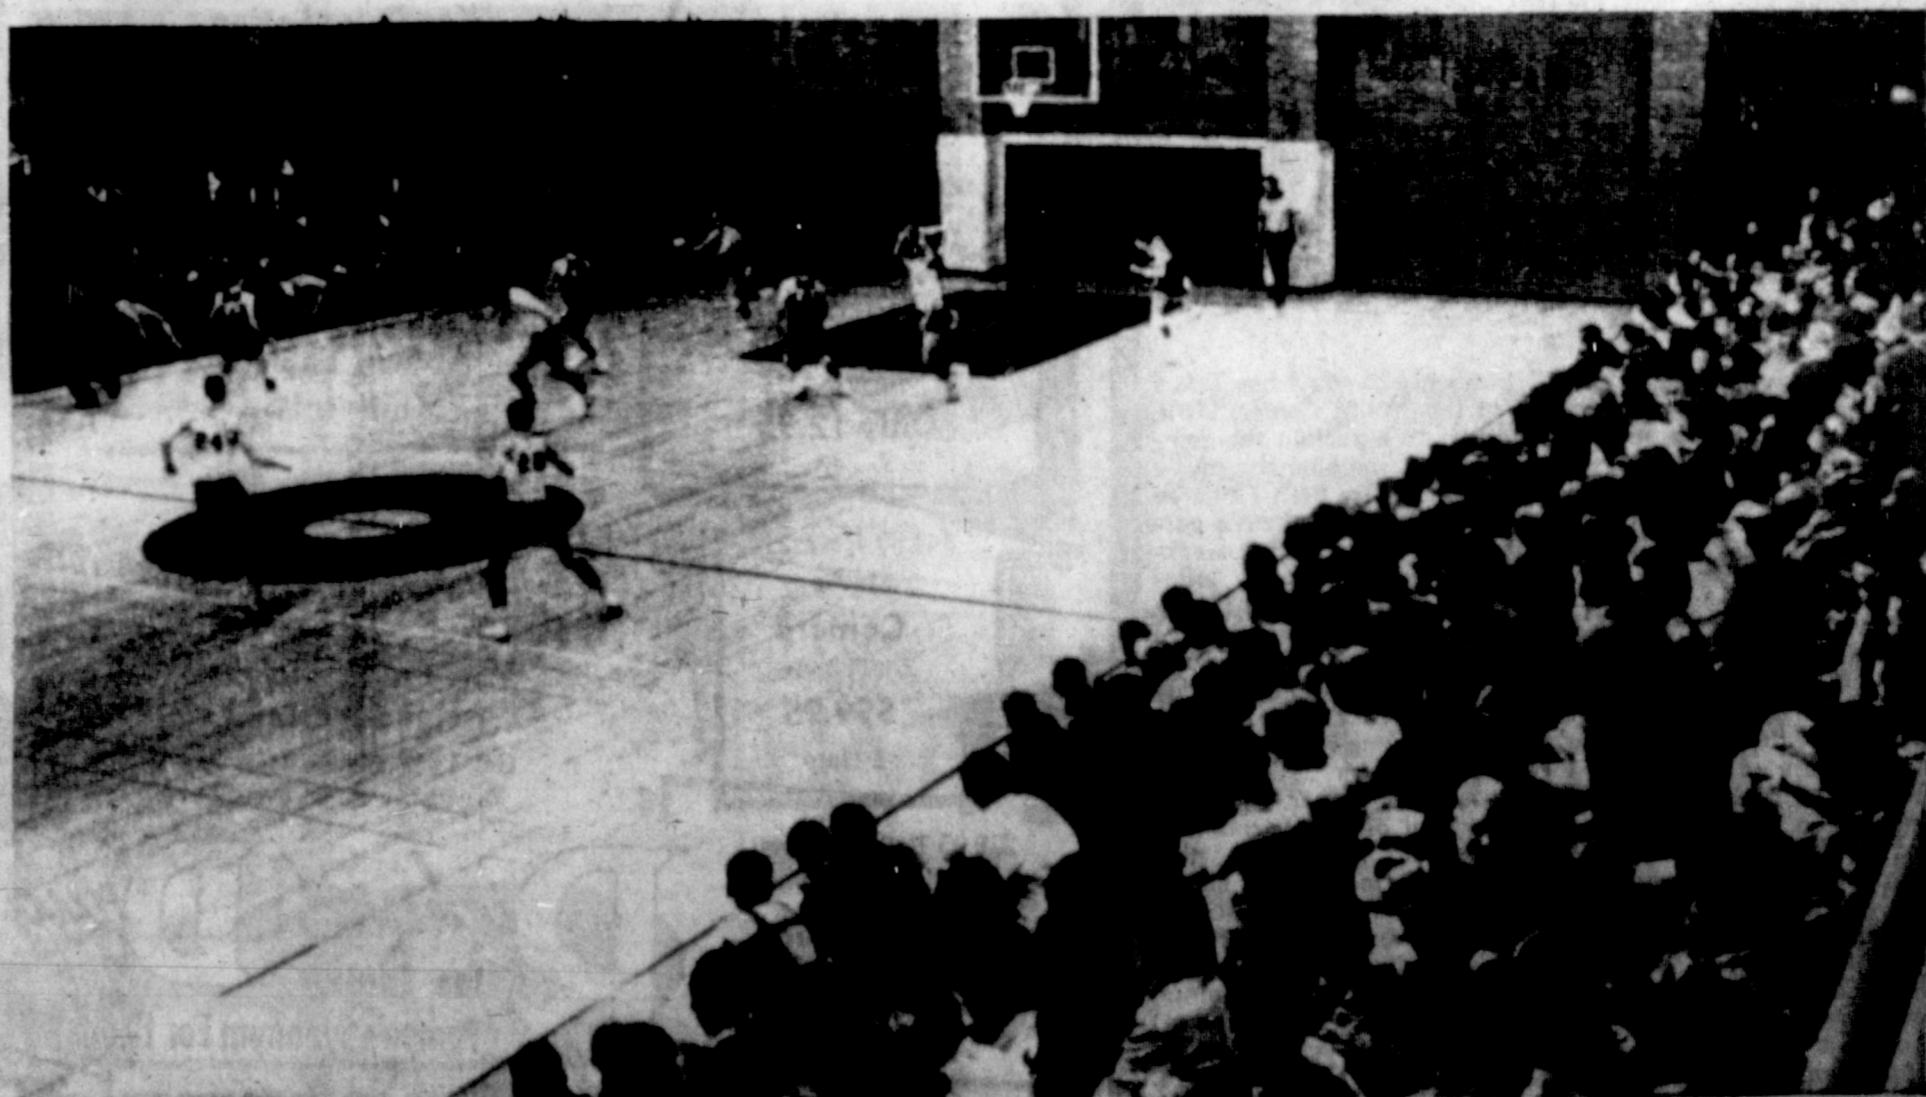

TEARS — Young Michael Whitely, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Whitely, 105 N. Faulkner, became bored with the contest and tears flowed with his bedtime hour left far behind. His father holding him in the lower left picture tried to cheer him and get his interest on the game but efforts failed.

URGING — Harvester cheerleaders were full of smiles and cheers as the local five rolled up a fast lead in the contest and were never in danger. Cheering a Harvester for his efforts on the floor in the left center picture from left are Brenda Nickens, Paula Scaley, Linda Cox and Dorothy Davis. The other cheerleader, hidden in the picture, is Leslie Watkins.

Sunday Passing Show

WHAT TO DO with left-overs always poses a problem, especially during the holiday season. Dr. Bob Syper has cleverly solved this problem by using left-overs for gift giving. The funny birthday present Bob gave Dr. Felix Vendrell, mentioned in a previous column, was a huge box, beautifully gift-wrapped and full of left-over political campaign literature. However, Felix had the last laugh. The day after Bob delivered the heavy box, full of posters, bumper stickers, campaign buttons, matches, etc., his back hurt so badly he had to borrow Vendrell's heating pad. Saw Lillian Snow at Altrusa Club Monday night. Lillian, former librarian at Lovett Memorial Library, recently returned from an interesting trip to the eastern states and the World's Fair. She left home the first of July and was delayed in returning due to illness. Anna Mae and Jim Triplehorn drove to Fort Worth recently to visit Jim's father and returned via Stephenville to see son John who attends Tarleton State College.

JUNIOR SERVICE League's annual Charity Ball was a successful and gala affair. The decorations committee, headed by Kitty (Mrs. J. B.) Veale, did a superb job of turning the Pampa Country Club into a giant circus tent and carousel, all in pink and red spangles. The decorations made a charming backdrop for the formally attired couples dancing to the music of Teddy Phillips and his orchestra. Among the many lovely ladies at the ball were Anna (Mrs. Jim) Campbell in a short formal with a bell-shaped eggshell silk skirt and heavily beaded emerald green top. Greta (Mrs. Bill) Arrington in straight long formal of shocking pink satin white lace and brilliant sequins. Joy (Mrs. Joe) Cree, very lovely in stark white, full-length, the neckline sparkling with beads and brilliants. Wearing the new discotheque look were Jane (Mrs. Wiley) Reynolds in a long fringed dress of bright red and Mary Beth (Mrs. David) Fatheree in a short dancing dress of black crepe trimmed in black satin. Wearing black gowns of varying fabrics, all beautifully trimmed with sequins, beads and rhinestones were Marcie (Mrs. Jim) Hobbs, Nancy (Mrs. Gene) Lyle, Marty (Mrs. Bob) Price, Jean (Mrs. Tom) Braly and Imel (Mrs. Jim) Baldrige. Among the out-of-town guests at the ball were Bonny and Bob Sanders of Amarillo, guests of Helen and Buster Carter, and Pat and Bob Lively of Andrews, guest of Pat's sister and brother-in-law, Greta and Bill Arrington, and her parents, Buck and Bernice Miller.

KAY (MRS. WYNNE) Veale is such a vivacious person. One wonders how Kay can always give the impression of boundless energy after all the duties connected with being a school nurse, homemaker, seamstress, mother of a son and daughter as well as the wife of 'Pampa's Wit' Gail Culppepper, daughter of the James M. Culppeppers, was elected a Yucca Beauty at North Texas University. Carolyn Hudson, who now lives in Dallas has been visiting her parents, the Leonard Hudsons. Thelma (Mrs. J. C.) McWilliams misses her mother now that she has returned to her home in San Antonio. Thelma's mother visited here a month while recuperating from eye surgery. Mrs. DeLea Vicars was celebrating her birthday last Sunday and was telling everyone it must be her 17th since she knew she was past 16. Just heard that Carmel and Verl Hagaman are joining the rank of apartment dwellers Dec. 1. Joe and Anna Lee Gordon were entertaining daughter Sara and fiance last weekend. Sara's dark beauty was set off by a red and white costume. Kate and C. D. Homer left Tuesday to spend two weeks with a daughter in Lafayette, La., and tripped on to New Orleans before returning to Pampa. Doyle Rogers has returned home to St. Louis and wife Marceline and daughters Rebecca and Cassandra, after spending a few days with his parents, the A. N. Rogers. Juanita Woodington and Edwina Boyd accompanied husbands J. B. and Lynn to the National Lumber and Building Materials Convention in Dallas recently. J. B. is an officer and Lynn a former officer of the group.

SANDY (MRS. ED) Williams and Marge (Mrs. Charles) Brauche entertained what seemed to be an enlarged neighborhood group with coffee Nov. 9. Marge's antiques and unusual arrangements blended beautifully with the house decor. Enjoying the coffee visit were Mrs. E. J. (Ethel) Dungan, Mrs. Bob (Alieth) Curry, Mrs. M. D. (Hattie) Roche, Mrs. W. D. (Nellie) Kelley, Mrs. G. K. (Ina) Reading, Mrs. W. R. (Jenkie) Campbell, Mrs. Robert (Angela) Sanford and Mrs. W. S. (Gertrude) Exley to name a few. The Dr. J. L. Chases are still talking about their trip to Stamford University for parents day on the campus. Daughter Carol is carried away with college life and attends a Methodist church in Palo Alto that has achieved national architectural fame. Friends of the Ferris Odens of Amarillo always are glad to see them back in town. They were dining with the George Scotts and Frank Culbertsons last Sunday. The group attended the reception for the Men's Fellowship Class of First Methodist Church the same afternoon. Many friendships were renewed at this event the T. C. Lively Sr. hosted for class members, wives and friends who had been a part of the group during the time Travis began teaching some 35 years ago. Understand all the Lively children were here for the event. Houseguests of the Harold Schmitzers for the Thanksgiving holidays were their daughter and family, Joanne and Ira Lee Wright and children Susan, Kevin and Jill of Grand Prairie.

PAMPA'S OWN DALE Cox will bring his combo from Texas Tech Dec. 5 to play for a dance at the Youth Center. Little bird says mother Dorothy Hamilton, is to entertain the combo members and friends for the weekend. Imagine the music and talk will be deafening. David and Mary Beth Fatheree spent Thanksgiving in Duncan, Okla., with Mary Beth's parents, the James Manns. David returned home on the weekend while Mary Beth will spend this week in Duncan. Beginning Jan. 8, new closing hours will be observed on Friday evenings at Lovett Memorial Library. Since few patrons take advantage of the library's facilities on Friday evening and many Pampons visit the library on Monday and Tuesday evenings, the library staff feels it can better serve patrons by closing at 6 p.m. on Friday, thereby relieving two staff members to work on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The 1100 block of N. Starkweather is a unique block in our town. The ladies who live on this block are typical of the friendliness to be found in Pampa. As new neighbors move into this block and old neighbors move away, these ladies say hello to the new arrivals and goodbye to those departing by hosting a coffee. The latest of these coffees was given in honor of Mrs. R. L. (Brenna) Halford, a new arrival, given in the home of Mrs. Calvin (Annabel) Whitley. Other members of the group who have hosted coffees recently are Mrs. Howard (Margaret) Lockhart, Mrs. Bob (Serie) Coley, Mrs. J. R. (Mickey) Bonner, Mrs. Wm. (Thelma) Barton and Mrs. V. C. (Maggie) Moore. Overheard someone saying that this was the friendliest block in town and wished the people in their block would follow the example.

Highland Baptist Circle Meetings

Highland Baptist WMU Circles met recently for circle programs and organizational meetings.

WINNIE WHITE CIRCLE met recently for a circle program entitled, "Worship Through Intercessory Prayer." Mrs. J. D. Ellis, circle chairman, opened the meeting with the reading of the prayer calendar and Mrs. Gilbert Morris led in prayer for the missionaries who have birthdays on this day.

A Thanksgiving Basket for a needy family was prepared and delivered.

Closing prayer consisted of sentence prayers by all present. Those present were Mmes. T. C. Drinnon, Eunice Hunt and W. T. Fain, other than those already mentioned.

WMS NIGHT CIRCLE met recently at the church for an organizational meeting. There were three members and one visitor present. The circle was named after Ila Breeden, a missionary to Columbia, South America, who is also a cousin of one of the members, Mrs. Everett Cole.

Members decided that the circle will meet on the second and fourth Monday nights in the month from 7 to 8 p.m.

Since it is a requirement that the circle program be presented once a month, the circle will meet next Monday night at the church. Mrs. H. E. Winegeart is chairman of this circle.

TRAVEL LIGHT

To prevent travel from becoming burdensome, here are the things you should leave at home: wide-brimmed hats, long-handled umbrellas, breakable bottles, bulky robes and heavy books. And if you're an active sports enthusiast, don't drag along your equipment. Rent it when you get where you're going.

Pampa Country Club Scene of Junior Service League's Annual Charity Ball

Pampa Country Club was the scene of Junior Service League's annual Charity Ball Saturday evening.

Amid a carousel theme, dancers enjoyed the music of Teddy Phillips and His Orchestra. The ballroom was cleverly decorated to depict a circus tent with large pink carousel horses standing on the edge of the dance floor, many balloons floating from the ceiling and a calliope decorated one end of the room.

As guests entered, dressed in formal attire, they were greeted by League members in a foyer appointed with a small revolving carousel. A booth, at which guests played tantalizing games, was decorated to resemble a typical circus booth.

Individual tables were appointed with small pink carousel horses topped by pink tulle puffs. Serving as general chairman for the ball was Mrs. Jack Osborne and Mrs. J. B. Veale served as chairman of the decorations committee.

Popcorn vendors selling popcorn to guests were Mrs. George Cree, Mrs. Warren Fatheree and Mrs. Ben Fallon.

Assisting guests at the game booth were Mrs. David Fatheree, Mrs. Carlton Nance, Mrs. Buzz Tarpley, Mrs. Buster Carter and Mrs. Rex McAnnelly.

AT THE BALL — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hankins, dressed in holiday formal attire, were among the some 200 Pampons and guests who enjoyed Junior Service League's Annual Charity Ball last Saturday evening in Pampa Country Club.

Dear Abby...

Golfing Keeps Sport in Shape for More Golf

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You told that 26-year-old sports' widow to be patient. Well, I have been patient for many years. I am now 57, and I'm still patient, but I am also still a sports' widow.

When my husband's legs and wind gave out, he gave up sports that required running, and turned to golf, which he plays from a cart, weather permitting.

When he comes home, he collapses and I serve his meals on a tray, while he watches sports events on TV, with the volume turned up high enough to transport him to the event he's watching. He is now planning retirement—to a climate which will enable him to play golf every day. He claims his reason for playing golf is to keep him "in shape." In shape for what?

DEAR SPORTS' WIDOW: To play more golf.

DEAR ABBY: With the holidays coming up, I wish you'd mention something in your column about my pet holiday gripe, which is shared by many. People who give parties in the basement!

You get all dolled up for a party, and when you get there you spend the evening in the basement. Even though it is nicely furnished and decorated, it still smells musty and it's damp. Last year I had one cold after another from sitting in those basement recreation rooms. I can't understand people with lovely, comfortable homes (upstairs) who entertain their guests in the basement. Are they afraid someone will get a spot on the rug?

HATES BASEMENTS
DEAR ABBY: Probably. Some lower level recreation rooms are every bit as comfortable as what's upstairs, but many are not. And people who have gone to the expense of converting their basements into entertaining areas are the last to feel the dampness.

I accepted an engagement ring from a guy before he went into the Navy. I didn't wear my ring while I worked at a resort last summer. There I met another man who made me realize that I didn't love the sailor after all. He gave me an engagement ring, too. I think about the sailor or boy when I'm alone but I prefer the other one when I'm with him. What to do?

MIXED UP
DAER MIXED: Return both rings until the gob makes port. Then, when the game's even again, pick the winner (if, by that time, either are still in the running).

DEAR ABBY: Your stand against serving cupcakes to the neighborhood kiddies instead of a birthday cake (which is saved for the family to enjoy later) hit me wrong. I have four children under 15, and I used to bake and decorate large lovely cakes for the children's birthday parties, and I'd wind up throwing 3/4 of the cake away after the kids got through playing in it. Now I decorate individual cupcakes and put a candle in the center of each one, and I never have to throw away anything but the paper. Each child gets to blow out his own candle, which is a lot more sanitary than letting the birthday child blow out all the candles and spit all over the cake, which is then cut up and served (germs and all) to each child.

ROGERS - HEALEY — Congressman and Mrs. Walter E. Rogers of Pampa, and Kenwood, Md., announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Daly, to James Christopher Healey Jr., son of Congressman James C. Healey of New York City and Southampton, and the late Mrs. Healey. Miss Rogers is a graduate of Georgetown Visitation Preparatory School and Marymount College of Virginia. Healey was graduated from Georgetown University and is presently studying for his Masters degree in political science at American University. A February wedding is planned.

Groom Group Has Pot-Luck Supper

GROOM (Spl) — Mrs. Carey McAdams and Mrs. Fred Brown were hostesses for the Young-makers pot-luck supper held at the Community Club, Nov. 9.

A program on first aid was given by Coach Jack York and Larry Lamberson. Those attending the supper were Messrs. and Mmes. Vernon Baggerman, Joe Blakeney, George Britten, John Fraser, Johnny Lee, Carey McAdams, and Mrs. Fred Brown and Leslie and Leldon Hudson.

Teens and leather still go together. This is the season that teen bags swing back to leather from plastics. The newest bags are in scotch grain and mahogany-cordovan with totes popular, as always, and moderate-sized handled bags in style. The huge carry-alls of former seasons are long gone.

Mrs. Hart Presents Program on Early Thanksgiving to 20th Century Culture

Mrs. W. L. Hasse was hostess for the Tuesday meeting of the Twentieth Century Culture Club and Mrs. Doyle Osborne was co-hostess. The president, Mrs. N. D. Steele, called the meeting to order. Following the reading of the club collect and roll call, various committee reports were heard.

Mrs. Michael Wilson introduced Mrs. L. H. Hart who presented the program on "Early Thanksgivings" and "Count Your Blessings."

The speaker began by quoting Judges 9:27, "and they went out into the fields, and gathered their vineyards, and trod the grapes and held festival, and went into the house of their god, and did eat and drink." From this bit of Old Testament literature it was learned that the tradition of Thanksgiving did not originate with the pilgrims at Plymouth in 1621 but had its beginning back in Biblical times, perhaps in the land of Canaan. Later the Hebrews adopted this same custom, giving it the name of "The Feast of the Tabernacle." Also, the Greeks

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

With the second word a child encounters in the new Macmillan company school readers, he receives instruction in phonics — that training in the different sounds of letters which enable him to first join them into syllables and then into rewarding words.

They teach him to discover new words for himself. With his self-help constantly in mind, the editors have provided other reading tools which make for a child's independence as a reader. There are dictionaries in the back of their primers which define new letters and words by colored pictures so that if your Billy is stumped by the new word "ladder" he can resort to his dictionary for a picture of one. And always there is the push by his own interest in what he is reading to encourage him to define a strange word by the sense it makes in the sentence which contains it.

It is my hope that the advent of these books heralds the end of the "look and say" method of reading instruction in our schools.

The promoters of this method have been unthoughtful thinkers. They have made children's memory of the look of printed words. But human memory is unreliable. It retains only what is meaningful to us. The failure to know this has been the failure of the promoters of the "look and say" method.

At 6, life has begun to push in upon us with too many vividly memorable impressions to make memorable the silly words: "The cat sits on the mat." The cat's devotion to that mat simply cannot compete for our interest with the vitally important things we are discovering about the world, ourselves and the new friend we made at recess. The grownups who insist that it should just seem a little crazy to us. And we lose perhaps all interest in reading.

I know school "Drop-outs." I know the anguish suffered by children as poor reading instruction begins to catch up with them, and the doors of hope begin to close against them. I know the kind who wander the streets not daring to ask for a job lest a boss discover their reading disability. I know how their humiliation can transform itself into chronic defiance of you and me and what we have developed from our ability to read. That's why I rejoice over these new readers. They reopen the doors of hope to children.

Red Washcloths Help Make Child's Wounds 'Tearless'

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — My tip is for mothers of active children who are always getting cuts and scratches that bleed. I keep several bright red washcloths handy for this purpose for when the cut is washed and cleansed, the children do not see blood on a red washcloth and do not get alarmed. Tears are soon gone and they are on their way again.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a small paper pad and pencil in my camera case for very often a roll of film includes pictures that were taken over quite a period of time. Whenever I take a picture, I jot down the date and place. When the film is developed, I know exactly where and when each shot was taken. This comes in handy when putting them in my album.

DEAR POLLY — Once we were attending a home wedding and had taken our 2-month old baby along. There were no accommodations for baby so we pulled a drawer out of a dresser and put her in it. With a pillow in the drawer, baby had comfortable quarters for three days.

DEAR POLLY — When you buy a shower curtain, buy a liner, too. Cut the outside, fancy curtain off so when hung the bottom edge is even with the top of the bathtub. Leave the liner the original length. The liner keeps the water inside the tub when the shower is used. You have the decorative curtain down as far as you really need it. Shower curtains so fixed are far easier to keep clean and do not get musty and ring around the cotton. The cut off portion is often enough to make a window curtain or at least trimming for one.

DEAR POLLY — I never have to go shopping for a spool of thread the right color for a small mending job. I have a "Rainbow Jar" just like my mother always kept. Take a small apothecary jar or a clear glass candy jar (with a top) and start putting in bits of thread. When you shorten a skirt, save the thread you raveled out at the hem and put it in the jar as well as small pieces left on spools and bobbins. Add bits of embroidery floss, knitting wool, crochet cotton and as time goes on it begins to look like a rainbow. Many people

DEAR POLLY — I follow the same plan and my liner has magnets on the lower corners so it always stays down inside the tub. Curtains can be bought with them attached.

Speaking Out Aids Courtship

NEW YORK (UPI)—Females who don't want to be spinsters ought to play it cool — and plan to marry the boy.

This advice comes from a firm that makes a business of knowing something about courtship and marriage. For the product the outfit makes keeps it involved in the warp and woof of romantic life.

The manufacturer of cedar chests, the Lane Co., figure the sweetheart chests are an intricate part of the romance theme.

An opinion research survey revealed that four out of five girls who received chests were married within a year, and 59 per cent of the girls received their hope chests from beaux.

Now, the company comes up with information that can help young people in love keep cool heads. According to the firm's consultant in matters romantic, there are four techniques which seem to aid couples in improving emotional communication.

The advice: —The technique of asking. You can never assume you know what your beau means by a phrase, gesture or voice-tone. Yet most of us do assume this very thing. Ask your fiancée what he means or feels. Then repeat to him you understand by the explanation. Only if he says "yes, that's right" can you feel that you're both on the right track toward emotional understanding.

—Never generalize about your fiancée or beau's feelings. It is vital for couples to learn that feelings, often irrational or non-rational, rather than logic motivate actions.

—Never assume there is a right or wrong about anything. Remember that almost always there is no right or wrong side but there are different sides. The difference can be reduced or removed — but not until absolute rights and wrongs are put out of one's mind.

—Adopt the principle of basic respect for personalities — of each other. For communications to prosper, relations between boy and girl must be based on self-respect and respect for the other.

Varietas Club Hears Mrs. Harrah Give Program on 'Texas Beauty Spots'

Varietas Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Cecil Dalton at 1011 Christine. Mrs. J. E. Kirchman presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. R. W. Lane.

Mrs. Sherman White announced that the Christmas box prepared by the club had been sent to the State Hospital at Wichita Falls.

Mrs. John B. Kelley was welcomed into the club as a new member. Mrs. Lee Harrah presented the program on "Beauty Spots of Texas," stating "Of all the things Texas is noted for, it has never been called a beautiful state, in comparison to Florida or California. However, the state does have many beauty spots."

The speaker described the Tyler Rose Gardens as one of Texas' beauty spots, where a seven-million dollar industry has grown out of the growing of roses. From April through November the gardens are in solid bloom with all varieties of roses. In October, the annual Rose Festival, the flower pageant of the Southwest, is held in Tyler. Mrs. Harrah told the group about "White Shadows" another of Texas beauty spots to be found at Weatherford. Developed by Douglas Chandor, famed English portrait painter, "White Shadows" carries a Chinese theme in design of man made mountains, waterfalls, pools and winding streams, with a profusion of flowers.

"Other beauty spots to be found in Texas," Mrs. Harrah continued, "can be found in the 47 state parks, five state forests, three national forests and one national park to be found in Texas Breckenridge Park, with the Chinese sunken garden, is one of Texas' most beautiful parks. Big Ben Park is the only national park to be found in Texas, covering 706,000 acres of rugged rustic beauty in which varied scenery and wild life can be found. Main features of Big Ben Park are the Chisos Mountains and three deep canyons, the St. Elona, Mariscal and Boullias."

The speaker concluded by telling of two famous trees to be found in Texas. "The Big Tree of Lamar," a twisted, gnarled tree located in Goose Island State Park near Lamar, is reported to be the oldest tree in the world, estimated to be 200 to 300 years old. This large live oak is 32 feet in diameter and has a crown spread of 140 feet. Texas' other famous tree is an oak tree, 500 years old, to be found in Austin. This tree has a crown spread of 120 feet which covers about one-third of an acre."

Members present were Mmes. W. E. Abernathy, Price Dossier, S. C. Evans, Lee Harrah, J. E. Kirchman, Luther Kirk, J. A. Spearman, W. A. Wagoner, Joe Z. Weaver and Sherman White.

On shoes, bows and buckles will be back in the spring. They will return in all manner and in all sizes, as will coin shaping on shoe toes. Coming are the quarter and fifty-cent piece widths.

Handicapped Aided By Talk by Taste

UNIVERSITY ARK.—Pa. (UPI)—Talk by "tasting" may help handicapped children speak normally.

Eugene T. McDonald, research professor of the speech and hearing clinic of the Pennsylvania State University, is advancing oral stereognosis, the identification of shapes in the mouth. These tests are being given to cerebral palsy victims and "normal" children.

Penn State scientists are exploring the theory that articulation is controlled by patterns of sensations arising from sound, touch and feeling of movement.

McDonald's book, to be published this fall (Stanwix House, Inc.), explains that "defective sensation and perception in the oral cavity (mouth) is very likely an important cause of poor speech."

For the tongue - testing, McDonald uses three - dimensional plastic stars, triangles, half-moons and circles smaller than a dime. The designs also include other familiar shapes such as a ball, a square, a doughnut, a cross and a horseshoe.

He wrote that crippling conditions such as cerebral palsy can impair the ability of sensation.

Copies of the 25 objects are placed on a black cloth before the child. McDonald or one of his graduate students selects one of the originals at random.

A sterilized form, attached on a short piece of wire to prevent swallowing, is placed in the child's mouth without allowing the child to see it. The child is then asked to identify the form from the way it feels on his tongue.

Under a grant by the National Institutes of Health, McDonald will study groups of "normal" children of several grade levels in Pennsylvania public schools to determine their abilities for identifying the plastic "tongue-testing" forms.

Altrusa Club of Pampa Initiates New Members at Regular Evening Meeting

Altrusa Club of Pampa met in an evening session in Coronado Inn Monday with Emily Coston, president, presiding. After the blessing was given in unison the group sang "America The Beautiful" with Lalar Wilkerson at the organ. Irene Smith led in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Viola Jordan introduced the November Altrusa girl, Carolyn Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foy Barrett. Miss Barrett who is president of the Distributive Education Club and a senior in Pampa High School, gave a short resume of the DE program, saying, "It is an on the job training plan for junior and senior classes which will enable students to go to work immediately upon graduation if they do not plan to go to college. If they are college-bound it will assist them in deciding what field in the business world they wish to pursue when they graduate. In its first year in Pampa High School, Mr. E. L. Albritton is coordinator of the experiment between the school and local business firms." Miss Barrett is getting her experience in the credit department of Montgomery Ward and Company.

Lillian Snow was welcomed home after several months of travel in the eastern and southern part of the U. S. During a short business session correspondence was read by Lora Dunn; Jewel Dean Lewis reported that final plans had been made for the chili supper to be held in the basement of the First Methodist Church, Monday evening from 5:30 to 8:30, and requested that each member bring three pies; and Marie Fitzgerald reminded the members that the Christmas party of Senior Center will be held Dec. 10, and each one is to bring two ladies' gifts. Mary Lee Cooper said these may be checked into the library any time before that date.

Under the direction of Mary McDaniel, chairman of the Altrusa information committee, an impressive initiation and orientation program followed. The two new members, Mary Lee Cooper, librarian at Lovett Memorial Library, and Peggy Jo Ormson, women's page editor of Pampa Daily News, were introduced and given their membership pins by their sponsors, Lorene Locke and Flossie Anderson. The president instructed them in the aims and ideals of Altrusa and welcomed them into the club. Mrs. McDaniel gave them information kits and presented them to the club as the members stood at attention.

The Doctor Says:

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Q—If a woman loses her appetite, how can it be brought back?

A—The first step should be to find the cause of the loss of appetite, since removing the cause gives much better results than a carload of so-called tonics. In many persons the appetite improves when they give up smoking. In general a relaxed atmosphere at the table, eating slowly and chewing the food well improves digestion and as a consequence, the appetite as well.

Some persons who are underweight have to force themselves to eat fattening foods. As their weight increases their appetite usually improves. Often old persons, especially those who live alone, lack the incentive to prepare attractive meals and fall into poor eating habits. They can be helped by developing outside interests and by joining a group that will share cooking and expenses.

Q—What could cause a fully developed baby to be born dead? My baby was due about January 20, but about January 5 he quit kicking and a week later my doctor induced labor. During my pregnancy, I took antihistamine pills for an allergy. Could they have affected the baby?

A—The diseases of a mother that can cause stillbirth include eclampsia and other so-called toxemias of pregnancy, bleeding from the uterus, diabetes, kidney and heart diseases, anemia, and RH incompatibility. Although some drugs taken by the mother might cause the death of the fetus, the antihistamines would not do this.

Q—I am 79 years old and have never traveled by plane. Do you think the high altitude would affect my heart?

A—Many persons with heart disease and other ailments are safely transported by plane. The cabins are pressurized so that the effects of the altitude are not usually felt, especially since you will not be indulging in strenuous exercise. Furthermore, all planes are equipped with oxygen for anyone who needs it. Bon voyage.

'Energy Cost' List

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) —

Sitting and thinking may be exhausting, but it can't match gardening or swimming, dancing or even ironing for burning up unwanted calories.

Frank Konishi, associate professor of food and nutrition at Southern Illinois University, has prepared a table of "energy cost" of various activities. It ranged from 4-10 of one calorie when lying at ease to 10 calories while swimming or running cross country.

One small cola drink (106 calories) will cost 35 minutes of walking, 11 minutes of swimming and 2,650 minutes of just thinking, he said.

To burn up the energy in an ice cream soda (255 calories) will require 255 minutes of playing cards, at a calorie per minute, or 64 minutes of golfing, or 26 minutes of trotting.

A piece of cake with fudge icing represents 320 calories and it would take 80 minutes of gardening or 32 minutes of riding a bicycle to absorb it, Konishi said.

Just one martini totals 140 calories, but it can be eliminated from your weight system by washing windows for 70 minutes, ironing for 40½ minutes, or 350 minutes (almost 6 hours) of lying down.

Konishi's "energy cost" chart shows the following calorie absorption per minute: Lying at ease, 0.4; sitting, 0.5; standing, 0.8; playing cards, 1; playing the piano, 1.5; driving a car, 1.8; cleaning windows, 2.0; dressing, 2.5; walking at 3.2 miles per hour, 3; ironing, 3.1; playing drums, 3.1; golfing, 4; gardening, weeding, 4; dancing, fox-trot, 4.2; rumba, 6; tennis, 6.1; swimming, 10; and running, cross country, 10.

RUTH MILLETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. If you're a wife, chances are you do a little back-seat driving occasionally. Chances are, too, that your husband doesn't appreciate your help.

Well, if it is any consolation to you, the Chicago Motor Club has come out with a good word for back-seat drivers. Intelligent back-seat driving can be a big help to the driver of an automobile, says the motor club.

Of course, if you report this news to your husband he may say, "Yeah, intelligent back-seat driving" and think he has put you in your place once and for all.

You can be sure your brand of back-seat driving is intelligent: If you don't indulge in such annoying tactics as trying to tell the driver what route to take, instead of leaving that up to him. If you resist the temptation to read road signs aloud when the driver can read just as well as you can. If you don't nag him about speed when he is driving within the speed limit. If you don't make him nervous by bracing yourself every time you think he should slow down.

If you will just confine your back-seat driving to calling his attention to the unexpected traffic hazard you are aware of before he is, to watching out for freeway exit signs while he concentrates on driving, and to read road maps for him, your husband may even admit that as a back-seat driver, you aren't too bad.

Of course, he won't be any more enthusiastic about your back-seat driving than that (What man thinks he needs any help?), but that's all right. Anything you can contribute to safety on the highway is all to the good, even if it does make you a back-seat driver. But just be sure you're an intelligent one.

The newest in ski-wear for '65 is a stretch quilt fabric of nylon taffeta over a layer of polyester fiberfill and a thin sheet of foam. The fabric has a soft, puffy texture and the stretch factor is said to be permanent.

Snoozing Sitters Given Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There you are, Jane Doe, all-American baby-sitter.

You've subdued the goblins the youngsters declared they heard outside the bedroom. You've gotten the little rascals off to slumberland with sleepy-time stories that were so convincing.

So much so, in fact, that there you sit in the quiet of the living room, fighting off the sandman. If the parents return, they'll find you sleeping on the job.

What to do? It's simple. Just turn to page 41 of a new opus from experts in Uncle Sam's Children's Bureau.

On Page 41, there begins instruction seldom mentioned in a baby-sitter's guide — "how to stay awake."

"Although a few parents won't object to a sitter sleeping on the job — especially late at night — it's not such a good idea," the Children's Bureau cautions in the guide.

"Imagine how you would feel if anything went wrong while you were asleep."

Here's the government-approved strategy designed to keep a baby-sitter alert.

Do something. Studying is good. It means you have to concentrate to keep your attention on what you're doing. (So this just isn't a plug to help you develop your mind.)

But if that doesn't work and you find yourself slumbering, try some other activities.

Samples: splash cold water on your face, wrists, or neck; eat or nibble at something that takes heavy chewing. Fingernails don't qualify. Better: peanut brittle.

What else is good: taking a slow walk through the house.

If all these activities don't keep you awake, try to whistle, sing or recite poems to yourself. If you don't know any poems, try making up some.

A new idea in sleepwear: inner-outers, groups of coordinated separates that can be mixed or matched as you please. One star of the inner-outers is a rickrack-trimmed, red and white polka dot lounge set that comes in four ruffled parts — a bikini with camisole top and brief-skirted bottom, a loose shift gown, an apron and a high-waisted coat. For added quick-change artistry, the coat and apron can team up with a long-torsoed white cotton eyelet shift.

This autumn, fashion dictates the rugged look for males dressed for casual occasions. What's in: sports jackets with suede gun patches, bulky and often turtle-necked sweaters. Even some sports shirts have elbow patches.

School and You

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LIGHT: I am a housewife, turned student for the summer. I'm taking two courses in education in preparation for elementary teaching. With three children to send through college, it's either teach or take in washing!

I was married while in college and didn't get a degree. Now my brain is so rusty it almost squeaks. I was a good student 20 years ago. This year I'll be lucky to make D's.

What a blow when my kids find out how stupid their mother is! I'll never be able to lecture them about making good grades again. Can you give me any suggestions?

—DUMB DORA
ANSWER: Chin up! You aren't so dumb as you think you are. Any woman who is taking constructive steps toward assuring her own and her children's future — instead of just talking about it — is smart in my book.

As for practical suggestions, you might try "apple polishing" your teachers in a sincere, adult manner. Professors appreciate compliments on the way a lesson is presented, the way they look, the job they are doing. They like questions that show you are really interested in their subject. And they are grateful if, on occasion, you lend a sympathetic ear to their problems.

Don't use home responsibilities as a constant alibi. But if the power goes off, you have unexpected guests, your oldest goes off to camp, your youngest comes down with mumps, and your dog is run over — all on the weekend you are trying to study for midterm exams — tell your professors. They can be very human!

Try to do most of your studying after classes before you head for home. A college library is more conducive to clear thinking than a noisy house.

Don't be too proud to ask your children to help you with your "homework." A switch maybe, but they probably can explain "the new math" more simply than your professor does. If you have any big projects to do, enlist their aid. The more they help you, the less likely they are to belittle the results of your efforts.

Different Tuna Dip for Holidays

Here's a dip that's really different! You'll really keep them guessing with this one. Canned tuna, one of America's favorite foods, combines with cream cheese and chutney in the tastiest, dippiest blend yet. Dip-wise, this is a thrifty as well as delectable snack for the holidays. Tuna in good supply at good prices at your local store. Stock up so you're always prepared for unexpected guests.

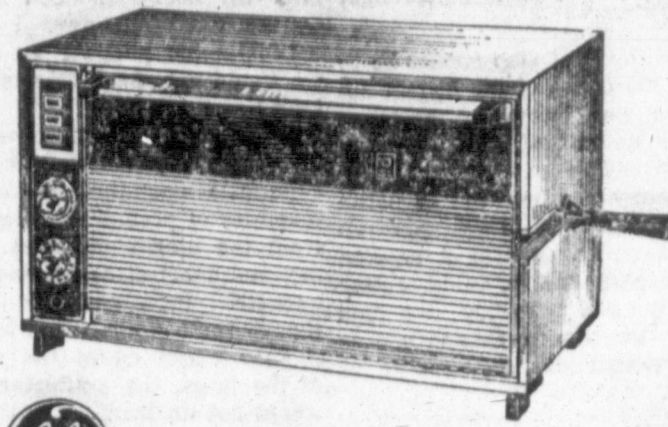

Tuna-Chutney Dip is a snap to fix and it's all planned to make a lot for a big holiday party. All you have to do is blend the mild, delicate tuna chunks with the other ingredients in a simple one-bowl operation. Serve with crackers, pretzels, or chips.

TUNA-CHUTNEY DIP
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese
1/4 cup prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon cayenne
4 cans (6 1/2 or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
1/2 cup chopped chutney
Cream together cream cheese, mayonnaise and mustard; stir in cayenne. Add tuna and chutney; blend well. Serve with crisp crackers.

YIELD: Approximately 5 cups dip.

Whole eggs act as a binder in croquettes and meat loaves. They also thicken liquids as in pie fillings, custards, gravies, soups and sauces.

EXTENDED VIEWPOINT

While each room presents its own individual decorating advantages, more often than not, there will also be obstacles to overcome. Sometimes these will be structural defects like a room of awkward proportions, a lack of wall space, or a long, unbroken wall area, windows that are small and badly placed, or cut-up walls. When you start your decorating plan, it is well to make a sound appraisal of the room's good points. This will enable you to accentuate the room's good points, and often what at first appears to be a decorating hazard can be turned into the room's outstanding feature. This was the case in the room sketched above.

The long, narrow room has been visually widened by giving the illusion of a window wall where actually only two small windows exist. Cottage-type curtains of white cotton with colorful chintz trim and valance cover the entire wall and make the narrow room appear wider. Other walls have been painted a soft, tawny peach.

Against this background the Provincial furnishings are happily at home. Cocoa brown of sofa cover is repeated in the brown tones of the chintz. Commodes serve as end and lamp tables — provide needed storage space.

Looking for new decorating ideas that will help you create attractive, distinguished rooms? You are most welcome to come in and talk over your decorating and furnishing plans or problems with us. We are always glad to see you.

Remember we will be open until 9 p.m. from now until Christmas Eve.

In order to give our customers a chance to take advantage of these great savings for Christmas the December Dollar Day will be Monday November 30th. Come early for a better selection of these items offered at these low prices.

40 Plan to Make Scout Ranch Trip

About 40 men, women, and children from the Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America will travel to the 138,000-acre Philmont Training Center ranch in Cimarron, N.M., next summer to take part in the training exercises and combined family vacation.

Information about the trip is available from the Scout Service—Center, 815 N. Sumner, Pampa.

The leaders with their families live in a modern tent city and eat meals served cafeteria style. Trained leaders take care of activities for the children, and there are special programs for the ladies.

Activities available to families during free time include horseback riding, hiking, fishing, square dancing, handicraft, tours to scenic spots on the ranch such as Kit Carson's home, and trips to historic Taos and Santa Fe.

The Philmont Training Center is a part of the Philmont Scout Ranch which also attracts more than 10,000 high-school-age boys and leaders each year for hiking and camping experiences.

The Adobe Walls Council expects to have 25 high-school-age Explorers attend Philmont next summer as a part of the council's high-adventure camping program. The 1965 trek will leave Pampa on July 17 and will return on July 31.

White House Backstairs

Top Precautions Taken With AF-1

By WILLIAM J. EATON
JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Backstairs at the Texas White House.

President Johnson's quickie trip to east Texas aboard a private DC3 aircraft this week brought to mind the extensive precautions taken to insure the Chief Executive's safety in the air.

The plane, borrowed by Texas Gov. John Connally from the East Texas Pulp and Paper Co. of Silsbee, Tex., made the 300-mile trip from the LBJ Ranch to Mount Pleasant, Tex., without incident.

No Trouble
Even though the airport in Mount Pleasant has a single 3,600-foot runway of oiled clay and the simplest kind of radio equipment, the pilot had no trouble landing the executive aircraft.

But Johnson usually travels in planes that are checked and rechecked by Air Force maintenance experts for the slightest flaw. His 707 jet, known as Air Force One when he's aboard, is in the shop now for a thorough overhaul.

Presidential pilots—such as the present one, Col. William A. Swindal—are carefully selected along with other crew members with safety as a prime consideration.

The same goes for pilots of the helicopters employed to whisk Johnson on short trips between Andrews Air Force Base and the White House.

In contrast, Johnson said himself that he was airborne just 20 minutes after he decided to make the trip to attend a dinner honoring Marvin Watson, Texas Democratic state chairman.

Townfolk Curious
Even though the pilot may have been reliable, and the plane thoroughly safe, there was little if any time for any thorough check.

And instead of the usual Air Force security detail surrounding the plane on the field to prevent any sabotage attempts, curious townfolk in Mount Pleasant took advantage of an open door to explore the interior of the DC 3.

As George E. Reedy, White House press secretary, said:

"It was the governor's flight and the President merely rode along."

The custom of private firms supplying aircraft for Connally's use is well-established in Texas. Connally previously has used planes belonging to Humble Oil Co., Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Lone Star Steel Co., and other firms to take official trips.

Connally has no special plane for his own use and he has found it convenient to have an aircraft available in trips around the nation's second-largest state. These executive aircraft, although basically old planes, are usually extensively remodeled and kept in excellent condition by their owners.

Gulf Plans New Processing Plant

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Gulf Oil Corp. said Saturday Warren Petroleum Corp. will operate a gas processing plant to be built southeast of Sulphur Springs, Tex., in December.

The plant will process natural gas produced by the Gulf Oil Corp., Warren's parent firm, and others with an interest in the Comco field.

Dresser Engineering Co. will build the plant, which will be designed to take 40 tons of sulphur and 2,300 barrels of gas liquids daily from the natural gas processed.

Rifle Group Set For Control Tiff

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Rifle Association (NRA) is bracing to battle an expected flood of proposed new gun control bills when Congress convenes in January.

There has been mounting clamor for such measures since Lee Harvey Oswald assassinated President John F. Kennedy with a cheap, mail-order rifle.

The NRA, in an editorial in the December issue of its magazine "The American Rifleman," urged its members to fight stiffer federal firearms control. The organization warned that gun control bills could be expected in various state legislatures as well as in Congress.

The editorial argues that such laws would not only be ineffective, but unconstitutional.

HAS HOLIDAY TOUCH

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI)—The police blotter in Laredo had the holiday touch on Thanksgiving Day.

Joe and Johnny Jacobs, two young brothers, reported that someone had stolen their pets from their backyard—three turkeys. And Jose Rodriguez, 29 was charged with beating his wife with a turkey leg.

SITE MEMORIALIZED

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The University of Chicago site where the atomic age was born 22 years ago will be memorialized as a national historic landmark.

Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall will make the formal designation of the north stands of the university's old Staff Field in ceremonies in his office next Wednesday.

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Who's Not Working?

A man came into a newspaper office the other day and said he had a gripe.

The editor was sort of used to listening to gripes, so he told him to sit down and be comfortable.

He was irked, he said, because of cases where an employe was hired away via the United States Employment Service, a government agency that was set up by Congress to find jobs for the UNEMPLOYED and not for ALREADY - EMPLOYED person.

He said that businessmen's taxes went toward supporting the U. S. E. S., and he was mad about interference into businessmen's affairs by Government.

Furthermore, he showed a report made by Robert O. Snelling, Sr., who is head of Snelling and Snelling, the world's largest network of personnel consultants.

Snelling had sounded off against the U. S. E. S., charging that its figures on the number of unemployed are constantly exaggerated in order to justify larger and larger budget requests.

The great fallacy, said Snelling, is that government figures include a multitude of people who say they would like to work but who do not urgently need work and don't look very hard.

He gave these examples:

High school and college students between semesters.

Industrial workers temporarily laid off.

Housewives, even though they may have never worked, because they say they would like to earn extra money.

Workers on strike.

Seasonal workers, who expect to work only part of each year.

Retired people on Social Security who would like to earn additional income.

Children between 14 and 17 who have quit school.

Retired military men, from privates to generals, who receive pensions but say they wish to work.

People who are looking only for part-time work.

People who have been offered work but have refused to take it.

Declares Mr. Snelling: "Including these kinds of people is ridiculous."

Well, anyhow, the editor had work to do, so he told the visiting friend goodbye and said he'd see what he could do about mentioning the gripe to you.

Against Right-to-Work

Officials of the AFL-CIO long have lamented the existence of a provision in the Taft-Hartley Act which permits states to enact laws to protect workers who refuse to join unions. Twenty states have done so.

The labor officials prefer the union shop, in which all employes must join or lose their jobs, once the union has won a majority to membership.

Now that organized labor has provided financial support through COPE for more than a majority of the House of Representatives elected Nov. 3, we can expect a concerted drive to abolish the provision.

The prospects for success are high, because the Senate majority is generally pro-labor, and the AFL-CIO support of President Johnson—who must sign any such repeal was wildly enthusiastic and vocal.

Certainly such an action would gratify union leaders, because it requires employers to enroll their employes into unions without any effort of the unions part. It also keeps employes in the unions, whether they like it or not, no matter how offended the employes may become at union behavior.

The argument over this issue has gone on and on, but there are new facts that should now be considered.

For example, the National Labor Relations Board has ruled that unions may levy heavy fines upon their involuntary members for actions which the law specifically says they may take. The Board has chosen to consider this an "internal union matter."

It is less than justice to force a man into an organization against his will, and then compound the injustice by refusing him legal protection because he is a member of it.

But such circumstances exist, and repeal of the "right to work" provision of Taft-Hartley would foreclose the remedy of voluntary membership everywhere.

Pickle Him in Sauce

It has been suggested by kindly critics that if Gabby Humphrey begins to get on Lyndon's nerves, Mr. Johnson might send him abroad for the next four years.

Perhaps the President might have a more subtle thing in mind—a western version of the Chinese water torture. It's called Barbecue at the LBJ Ranch.

It seems to us that the Johnsons are very nearly always to be found on the Pedernales, servicing up barbecue to all sorts of gringos and yanquis whose ability to consume barbecue must be limited.

Can an unaccustomed digestive system be driven out of its mind by repeated doses of Texas barbecue? Can a Minnesotan survive therapeutic dosages of surly ribs, hot sauce, smoke, beans and slaw?

Maybe Lyndon plans to pickle Gabby, from the inside out. Good luck, Mr. President.

Mood Felt For Viet Nam Attack

By RAY CROMLEY
 Washington Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — The mood here is for an attack on North Viet Nam.

I find this among military and civilians at the Pentagon and the State Department and among some men close to the White House.

The decision to attack the north has not been made officially.

At President Johnson's order, teams of tired men in the Pentagon and the State Department have been working 18 hours a day, seven days a week to get recommendations ready by the time Ambassador Maxwell Taylor returns from Saigon shortly.

But as one high official puts it privately, the war is going so badly that something must be done "to keep the situation within bounds."

In the past few months, he says, the Reds have stepped up their shipment of men and arms from the north into South Viet Nam along the Ho Chi Minh trails and by sea. They have begun to ship in "heavier" equipment.

His estimate is echoed by key officials through the government. They now put it this way: The war can't be won by attacking North Viet Nam. But unless North Viet Nam is attacked, the war can't be won in the south.

You can't lick the Viet Cong, these men say, so long as they have a continuing source of supply of new officers, organizers and equipment from Red Hanoi. As fast as you kill off their trained noncommissioned officers, new ones move in. As fast as you knock the heart out of one group, a new organizer appears.

Until recently, some of these same men insisted that attacking the north would do little or no good.

How to carry out any attack hasn't been agreed on.

Some officials and officers argue for bombings. They have the targets picked. They've decided on the planes and the units to do the job.

Others argue for a sharp increase in agent penetration. Some agents would have immediate objectives—bombings, sabotage, propaganda—for quick effect. Most of these men would quickly be captured and killed, but it's argued they'd do considerable psychological damage. Other agents would infiltrate deep into North Viet Nam and lie low. Their missions would be a year or two off. Their work could eventually pay off heavily in sabotage, destruction and disaffection.

Some officials want to beef up loyal Laotian attacks on North Viet Nam's Laotian "volunteers," heat up that war to keep Hanoi preoccupied.

Others argue for a strong naval blockade combined with attacks on supply depots.

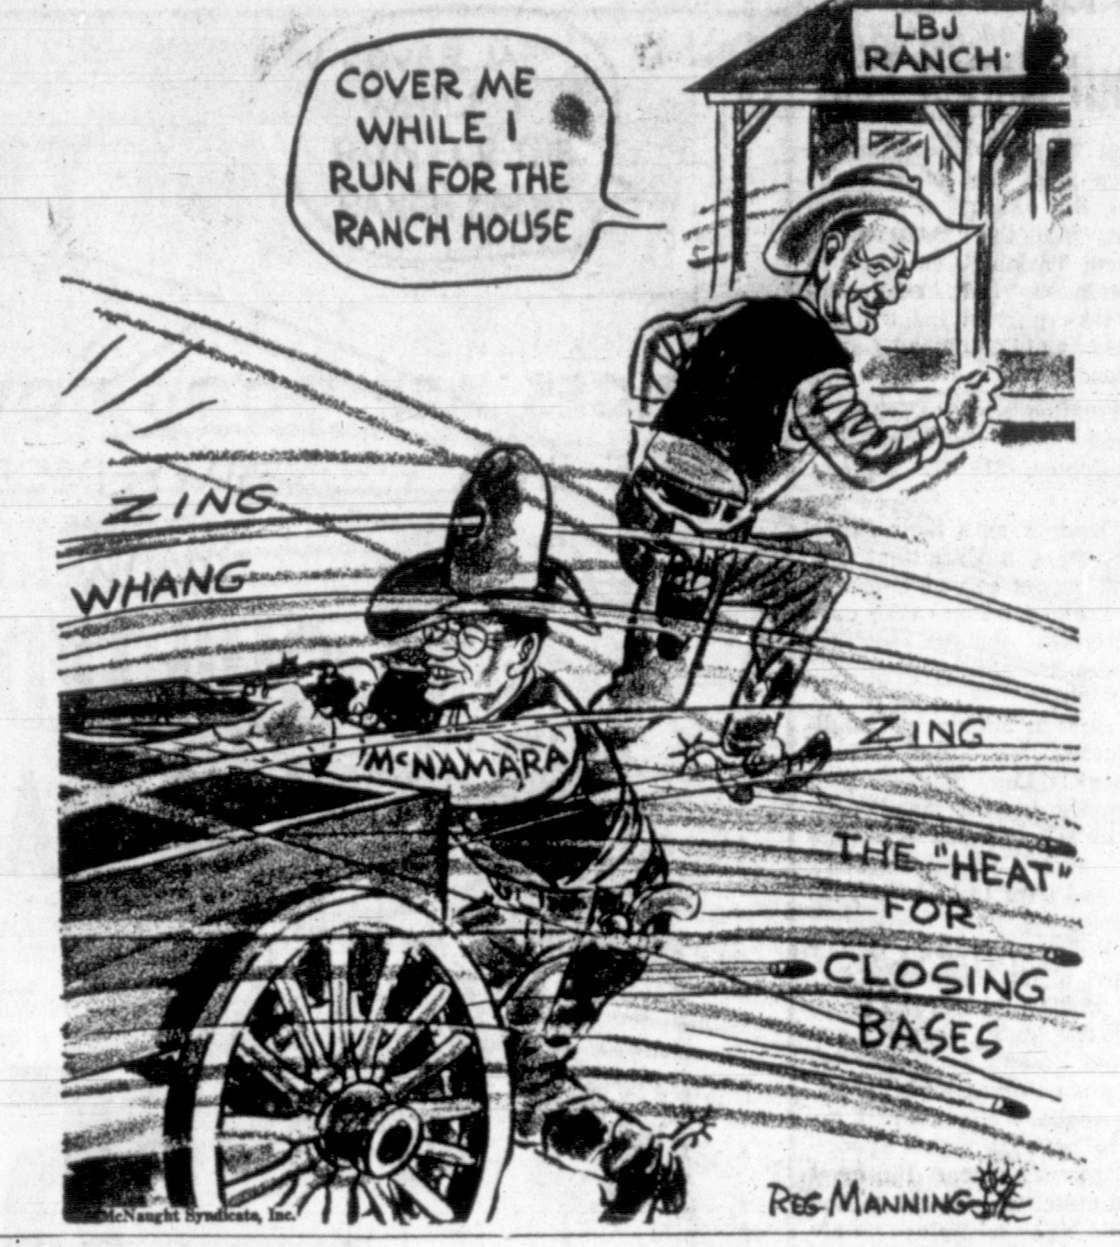

Most officials I've talked to want a staggered attack. Do a little, wait and see what happens, then do a little more. This gives Red Ho Chi Minh a chance to think and gives us time to watch for Red China's reactions.

Some favor timing the attacks to new Red incidents, such as the Tonkin Gulf affair in which U. S. warships were rushed by Red torpedos.

Others insist that attacks on the north should be timed so as to best help the new Saigon civilian government.

These differences are tactical. I found no officials or officers I talked to against an attack, except one who suggested we ought to look for some way to get out of Viet Nam altogether.

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS
 Count Your Blessings

Now that the whirlwinds of the campaign have blown into history, we enter another period of assessment that, if taken advantage of, can lead to the strengthening of the structures of freedom. We have had many such periods in contemporary history. Unfortunately, we have not always used them to engage in sound and well-ordered thinking.

It was after World War II that Sir Winston Churchill observed that the United States was then at the peak of its strength and that, if it lived up to its power and responsibility, the world could move toward its greatest fulfillment.

Of course, the United States did not live up to its power and responsibility, and freedom has been receding ever since.

Despite all the Communist successes in geo-politics and weaponry, the intrinsic weaknesses of the system still loom large. Communism simply does not fit the human nature that God endowed us with; its system just does not work. Denied the continuing assistance that the West extends to Soviet regimes, those dictatorships would disintegrate before our very eyes. The elemental fact is that we still have the trump cards, if we would but use them.

Take, for example, the situation in Brazil and in the Congo. Each of these countries is the hub of its continent. This is particularly true of vast Brazil, which dominated South America. Brazil is larger than continental United States, without Alaska. It borders every country on its continent except two.

A year ago, this country was lapsing into a Communist state. Today, thanks to the people themselves, the Communist rascals have been removed from power. The tide was turned there mostly by God-fearing housewives.

In the Congo, the State Department has done a 180-degree turn, and there, too, the tide has turned. Instead of shooting up Moise Tshombe, as we had been doing, we are now helping him crush the Communist rebels. True to the best application of cause and effect, we are now winning there, too.

Perhaps these two victories shape events to come.

As readers of this column know, I am very concerned about our seemingly deliberate yielding up of nuclear superiority in favor of something called stalemate deterrent, even though the Soviets keep going on forging more forbidding weapons. Perhaps now that the heat of the election is past, Secretary McNamara will see the folly of the present course and listen to the competent advice of General Curtis LeMay and other military leaders who know that only by remaining strong can we preserve the freedom of all men.

At any rate, there is still a responsibility to live up to; we can do it better if each of us begins by counting his blessings; doing so with help the perspective.

Hassle Developing in House over Ouster of Boggs As 'Whip' to Prevent His Succession as Speaker

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Top House Democratic leaders are hurriedly rallying to the support of Representative Hale Boggs, tenn-term Louisianan, whom Northern and Western liberals are earmarking for ouster as majority whip.

The leaders are trying to nip this backstage movement in the bud. It's still too early to say what the outcome will be.

That's the latest behind-the-scenes development in the announced plan to curb the virtual bottleneck power of the Rules Committee. That stormy battle is being broadened to include going after Boggs' scalp.

The two explosive plans are not directly related. But the same militant elements are behind both.

Three factors are at the bottom of the anti-Boggs drive: His opposition to the far reaching civil rights law passed by the recent Congress; his signing of the so-called Southern (segregationist) manifesto several years ago; and determination to eliminate a southerner from the line of succession for speaker.

Particular importance is being attached to this last factor as Democratic Floor Leader Carl Albert, Okla., is being considered for a federal judgeship.

If that transpires, Boggs would have a strong claim on the floor leadership. He would have to win the approval of the Democratic caucus. But as whip, he would have the inside track. That's why the northern and westerners are bent on replacing him now.

Spearheading this undercover strategy are potent members of five big state delegations—California, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and New York. They are:

Representatives John Moss, Calif., chairman of the special committee that has done outstanding work in exposing government censorship; Daniel Rostenkowski, Ill., close to Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley and a power in the state's delegation; John Brademas, Ind., with influential labor ties and a member of the Labor Committee; John Blatnik, Minn., chairman of a Government Operations subcommittee and a leader of the liberal "Study Group," and Eugene Keogh, N. Y., ranking member of the influential Ways and Means Committee, who swings a lot of weight in other eastern delegations.

HOW THEY PLAN TO GET HIM — Still undecided among the anti-Boggs liberals is who to back against him.

They are leaving that question open until they have determined whether they can oust Boggs as whip. On that moot problem, they have agreed on how to tackle this admittedly tough undertaking.

Their canny secret strategy is as follows:

Because of Boggs' personal popularity, they propose to carefully sidestep making the fight

Reshuffle Due Among Diplomats

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — The game of diplomatic musical chairs, involving a change in several key ambassadorial posts, is on in earnest in the capital.

Our man in London, David K. E. Bruce, is moving toward retirement. Presently marked for this highly prized spot is George McGee, U. S. ambassador to West Germany and a close friend of President Johnson.

McGee is a Texas geologist who did diplomatic duty in the Truman administration and was called back to the firing line by his old friend and Oxford compatriot, Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

If any should argue that McGee is not ideally suited for dealings with Britain's new Labor government, it should be noted that he would be backed up by our new minister (second man) in London, Philip Kiser. Kiser's background includes study in Britain and duty here as an assistant secretary of labor for international affairs.

In the event the Bonn spot opens up through transfer of McGee, the likeliest replacement is said to be William Tyler, now assistant secretary of state for European Affairs.

Ambassador Frederick Reinhardt in Italy should be coming home soon after long years abroad. He probably can command a reasonably high State Department post.

No one is clearly set for Rome. It might go to Llewellyn Thompson, who would like one more overseas assignment before retiring. But, as former U. S. ambassador to Russia, he is being leaned on heavily by the President and others for counsel on Soviet matters.

Another possibility is Stanley Marcus of the Dallas department store family. Also a presidential friend, he would be new to diplomacy, though he has been a government adviser.

The veteran careerist, Charles (Chip) Bohlen, ambassador to France, is expected to stay in Paris a while longer. Yet some sources describe him as tired and dispirited, this last through lack of progress in dealings with the old ramrod, President Charles de Gaulle. He might get out before next summer.

U. S. Ambassador Robert Woodward in Spain is another who is due to bow out. For this career man, retirement beckons. His successor evidently has not been settled upon.

A prospect is Chief of Protocol Angier Biddle Duke, who wants to leave his present duties and would like a good post in a Spanish-speaking country. He once served as ambassador to El Salvador.

If Duke does not get Madrid, he might be given a top Latin American assignment. Venezuela is one of the good openings.

All set for Duke's protocol job of course, is Lloyd Hand, friend of guess who, Texas migrant to California, often styled this year as "Lyndon's man in California."

Apparently a fixture at least until spring, when the new United Nations session is expected to run its course, is UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

One source says Stevenson is viewed by some as an ideal man for London and would be hard to refuse if he gave the signal. But no one here reports any annual report that no one pays any attention to. The committee has a staff, one of whose members is a onetime registered agent of a deposed Latin American dictator: From all indications, this joint committee is largely a patronage boondoggle and Tower may demand it be abolished.

Representative-elect Clair Callan, D-Neb., is slated for a place on the influential Interior & Insular Affairs Committee. Governor Frank Morrison arranged that in a telephone call with his close friend, Speaker John McCormack.

Articles for this column are preferred to be 300 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed. All letters must be signed.

Editor:

Find enclosed copy of Trainman News, Nov. 23, 1964. I invite you to read it if you will, especially "The Country Editor" on page five.

I find it very refreshing after reading the hogwash. I find in your editorial page, I have always thought we had the best country and the best government in the world, except when I read your paper; then I wonder if in the future the country will be taken over by the "John Birch Society," "The Minutemen," "The Ku Klux Klan" and other hate groups.

Contrary to your writings this country is reasonably free; we have freedom to do as we please, go wherever we please, freedom to own, work, save, put money in the bank with the assurance the bank won't be closed and broke when we want our money, to pay taxes to operate our government for the defense of our people, and the common welfare of our people; free to pay Social Security so we may be reasonably independent in our old age, or our families won't be thrown on the mercy of the world in case of our untimely death or disability, free to join labor unions, to work for better working conditions and better wages which in turn benefits the nation as a whole. In fact, don't you think this is a pretty good place to live? The "Freedom" to oppress others whether of a different race, whether employes, or whether employers is not my idea of freedom at all.

This is a strong government with suitable checks and balances, a government of law not men. Man being as he is has to be governed.

The blessings you speak of are not on this earth.

H. H. Thrasher

EDP FOLLO W LETTER

EDITOR'S NOTE — We think probably the best answer to Mr. Thrasher's thoughts on what he believes to be freedom and his statement that "Man has to be governed" is found in the article, "Government Planning versus Economic Growth," by Henry Hazlitt, author and economist, on the editorial pages of The News on Thanksgiving Day. We agree with Mr. Thrasher's thoughts that "this is a pretty good place to live" and we, too, oppose hate groups, but we are shocked by his assertion, "a government of law not men. Man being as he is HAS to be governed." The reference in his letter to "The Country Editor" column in "Trainman News," official weekly publication of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's Union, directs attention to an editorial by H. M. Baggary, ultra-liberal editor of The Herald at Tulsa, Texas. We had read it before, shortly after it appeared in the Tulsa paper three days before election. It was an appeal to "vote Democratic from the court house to the White House." It carried kind words for Walter Reuther and urged American voters not to make any changes and "vote to let well enough alone." The general tone of the

Technical Approach Takes Over in Radio

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There seems to be a move afoot to resurrect the golden age of radio.

Last spring, a station in New Jersey began repeating episodes from such old favorites as "The Shadow," "The Green Hornet," "They were an immediate hit with listeners who had forgotten what radio was like back in the days before somebody invented disk jockeys.

More recently, there was a nationwide rebroadcast of one of the popular Chase and Sanborn programs of three decades ago. It brought nostalgia gushing from every pore.

If this backward progress continues I hope it will eventually reach the broadcasting booth at the football stadium, which is nowhere near the cultural wellspring it once was.

Change of Style Football games used to be broadcast by a play-by-play man and a color man. It was the duty of the play-by-play man to make every two-yard round of Armageddon.

During times-out, the color man reported on the color of the sky (blue), the color of the visiting team's jerseys (white), the color of the blood being shed upon the playing field (red), and the color of the flag atop the stadium, red, white and blue.

But with the advent of television and the rise of professional football, broadcasting changed.

It became the duty of the play-by-play man to make every two-yard gain sound like the stock market quotations. And the color man was replaced by an expert who comes in after every play to analyze the proceedings.

The Lighter Side 'Chicken Filter' Might Help Soup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One missed the announcement that of the corridors in the U.S. Capitol has an automatic vending machine which dispenses a fluid described on the push-button as "chicken soup."

A day or so ago, I passed by the machine just after the maintenance man had refilled it. He had left an empty can nearby and I went over and read the label.

The contents were listed as follows: "Salt, dextrose, monosodium glutamate, lactose, onion powder, spices and flavor-dime. The stuff came out in a jug, dehydrated parsley, calcium phosphate, sodium aluminosilicate."

If you will examine that list carefully, you will notice that something seems to be missing—namely, chicken.

Misses Announcement I try to keep track of the scientific breakthroughs in this country, but I apparently

What this machine needs now in that case, just forget about it something along the lines that the cigarette machines have. In other words, a chicken filter.

The filter would remove the chicken flavor from the chickenless chicken soup. Then the chicken could offer a choice of either filtered or unfiltered soup.

I am still curious, however, as to which one of those ingredients listed on the can makes the unfiltered soup taste like chicken. My guess is that the chicken flavor comes from "tri-calcium phosphate."

At any rate, I'm pretty sure it doesn't come from the onion powder or the dehydrated parsley.

It could be, of course, that there is a hen inside the machine somewhere who plunged into the soup at the last moment before it reaches the cup.

Newspaper Says Viet May Bring US-Chinese War

LONDON (UPI)—The Times of London said Friday the Viet Nam situation makes it "possible that the United States will be at war with China by the end of the year, or soon after."

The grim prediction, in a dispatch filed by the Times' respected Washington correspondent, said this was the effect of a warning from Secretary of State Dean Rusk to administration members who "want to enlarge the war in Viet Nam."

"Few appear to have listened," the Times said. The newspaper said the "consensus (in Washington) had gradually hardened round the proposal to bomb Viet Cong targets in North Viet Nam."

But, the Times said, these targets are so elusive that such bombing was almost certain to fail.

"Once the frontier is crossed and these missions are proved worthless, the next step, the next demand, would be the bombing of North Viet Nam industry and communications centers," it said. "War with China would be inevitable."

The Times said the dilemma arises from the pressure on President Johnson to take aggressive action to prevent the collapse of South Viet Nam, and eventually all of Southeast Asia.

France Considers MLF Dead Issue

Bash-ev was his country's first ranking representative to visit Paris since the overthrow of the Bulgarian monarchy and establishment of a Communist regime in 1946.

Czech Foreign Minister Vclav David flew home Saturday after warning that the eight Communist Warsaw Pact nations would take strong military counter-measures if the MLF were set up.

British Pound Crisis Heads Business News

By LEROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI)—A threatened crisis over the British pound thrust almost everything else out of the business news headlines this week.

Britain's new Labor party government quite suddenly raised the bank rate—Britain's basic interest rate—a stiff 2 points to 7 per cent early Monday. It was a bitter pill for the British and for the newly elected government, which had given assurances to Washington only a short time before that it would not have to take any such step.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York and several other reserve banks in the United States reacted promptly, raising the discount rate to 4 per cent from 3.5 and lifting the permissible interest rate for commercial banks on time deposits by .5 of 1 per cent. The Reserve Bank governors said they were acting to defend the U.S. balance of payments and prevent a new flight of capital to Britain, seeking higher interest rates.

By the end of the week most of the large New York banks had announced they would raise rates on time deposits Jan. 1 and a leading Boston bank predicted the prime commercial bank rate would rise to 5 per cent from 4.5.

After showing some strength Monday, the London stock market began to soften Tuesday obviously reflecting renewed worry about the stability of the pound, the wisdom of the higher bank rate and the general stability of Britain's economy.

International measures were taken promptly. Eleven Western countries put up a $3 billion—$1 billion from the United States—to back the pound and stocks recovered in London while Americans were celebrating Thanksgiving Day.

The New York stock market held fairly steady on the week in spite of the threatened sterling crisis, the quite disturbing news from Viet-Nam, and the Congo and the interruption of trading for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Automobile output for the week rose 2 per cent over a year earlier, the first 10-year gain since September and Ford and Chrysler reported mid-November sales.

Ford disclosed that the two-week long local strikes at its plants had set back output 115,000 cars and 15,000 trucks.

Business Highlights

By United Press International
LONDON: The London Stock Market responded buoyantly this week after 11 nations agreed to put up $3 billion to bolster the pound sterling. Of the total, the U.S. is responsible for $1 billion.

WASHINGTON: President Johnson asks postal rate increases for business totaling as much as $30 million a year in January. Postmaster General Gronski said the President has asked him to draw up new rate schedules for second and third class mail.

NEW YORK: American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has announced cuts totaling about $100 million a year in long distance interstate rates to take effect next Feb. 1 and April 1. The Federal Communications Commission already has approved the cuts.

NEW YORK: Gamble-Skogmo plans to offer its remaining 500,000 shares of Allegheny Corp. common stock to the public. The Minneapolis-based store chain sold 1.6 million shares of Allegheny stock in October 1963 to Allan P. Kirby and his supporters. This deal enabled Kirby to regain control of Allegheny from the Murchisons of Dallas.

REMER CONVICTED
MUNSTER, Germany (UPI)—A military court here convicted the commander of a West German anti-tank demonstration last April in which 10 military observers were killed.

Maj. Erich Remer, a brother of Nazi Army Maj. Otto Remer, was sentenced to seven months in jail for negligent homicide in the demonstration during which a mortar shell scored a direct hit on a truck-load of observers.
