Bull Sale Set At Clarendon

The Rolling Plains Registered Beef Cattle Association will hold its sixth annual bull sale in Clarendon at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 2, at the Fair building. Walter Britten will be the auctioneer.

Seventy-one bulls will be offered for sale, featuring top blood lines, good beef producing bulls and good herd bull prospects, according to Tommie Potts, association president. There will be 50 Herefords, 10 Galloways and 11 Angus bulls in the sale.

The new sales arena is heated and will be comfortable regardless of the weather, Potts stated, plane, can land at the city county airport, buzz the fair building and a car will be sent to meet them.

Those wishing a catalog in advance of the sale can write to H. M. Breedlove, secretary and manager, Clarendon.

WARM LETTERS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater has received about 80,000 letters from "warm supporters" since his defeat in the presidential election Nov. 3, according to the Republican National Committee.

The committee said the bulk of the mail has been received at Goldwater's Senate office. The rest of the letters were sent either to his Phoenix, Ariz., home or GOP headquarters here.

FARMER DEFECTS WEST

NORTHEIM, Germany (UPI)—An 18-year-old East German farmhand crashed his tractor through barbed wire on the Iron Curtain border last weekend under a rain of Communist gunfire. He escaped safely to the West, police said.

Rusk Shrugs Off Discontent Reports

EDITOR'S NOTE: Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to remain in his cabinet post indefinitely. But there are reports of some dissatisfaction with his operation of the State Department. In the following dispatch UPI diplomatic correspondent Stewart Hensley assesses Rusk's position.

By STEWART HENSLEY WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, enjoying strong presidential support, is shrugging off reports that some of his subordinates are unhappy about the way he runs the shop.

That was the word today from administration officials, who said Rusk knows that he has President Johnson's complete backing for his program of "quiet diplomacy" as opposed to the more spectacular maneuvers a few department officials would prefer.

Recent scattered reports of official dissatisfaction with Rusk's allegedly "uninspired" direction of foreign policy were discounted by his associates. They attributed these reports to the personal feelings of two or three officials who find their access to the presidential ear blocked, as Rusk's influence rises.

Confident In Backing
 Rusk, according to U.S. officials, now feels that he has full White House backing in his efforts to deal with NATO's rising problems, the increasing Red menace in Asia and a host of troubles elsewhere.

This accounts for the surprising zest with which Rusk is preparing to enter his fifth year in a grinding job from which he has taken only one week's vacation since January, 1960.

Rusk has promised Johnson, after emphatic assurances of presidential confidence, that he will stay on the job indefinitely. He is bolstered by a pledge from the department's No. 2 man, Undersecretary George W. Ball, to stay on as long as he does.

Rusk's sense of security is a relatively recent thing. During the Kennedy administration, a coterie of foreign policy experts at the White House seemed at times to have more influence than many realized.

Wrote Recommendations
 He was the only presidential adviser who had the courage to put in writing his recommendations for handling the October, 1962, Cuba missile crisis. And officials in a position to know say the course Kennedy followed was very close to that outlined by Rusk.

However, Rusk was always uncertain under Kennedy as to just how much weight he would carry on any particular issue.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

About all anyone would talk about this week was the rain. But was all glad to see the sun shine after four days of cold rainy weather. The wind was sharp, and not quite as many out this week as usual.

Mrs. R. H. Dille was released from Worley Hospital a few days ago, but was not up to coming out this week. Hope to see her out next week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Boone from Lubbock spent last week-end with Mrs. Katie Vincent.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams are expecting Adams' two daughters for the end of week. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brayer and family.

Mrs. Jessie VanHuss is a patient in the Worley Hospital with a heavy chest cold.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Glennin of Rye, Colo., visited most of the week with Mrs. Glennin's brother, the Fred Cullins.

A. H. Burgin spent last week in Tyler, on business.

Mrs. Lillian Traylor of Roswell, N.M., was home with her. She is a guest of Mrs. Lillie Trimble for the next few weeks, and always enjoys coming to the Center when in town.

Another guest was Mrs. G. E. Grant from Melrose, N. M. Mrs. Grant is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Spencer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Adair celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary quietly Nov. 13. Mrs. Adair confided that on their 30th anniversary all the children and relatives came to Tyler, where they were then living, and help celebrate in grand style. We extend congratulations, and hope the will have many more happy anniversaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Bell of Follett came by on their way home from El Paso where they visited his sister, and visited his aunt, Mrs. Melba Hethcock and sons, J. D. and Emmitt.

The Altrusa Club is giving a chili supper Nov. 30 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church basement, benefit for Senior Citizens Center, Career Clinic and scholarship fund. The public is invited. Tickets are $1. These are all very important projects of which Pampa should be proud. Come out and enjoy home made chili, pie and coffee. Your reporter is not an Altrusan, just one of the Seniors, but think they are to be highly commended. Oh yes; my ticket reads "Door prizes galore." See you there if you come early.

St. Vincent Parish Council was hostess this week. Those serving delicious filled cookies and coffee were Mmes. Hubert Johnson, Klair Jewell, Robert Barrett, A. D. McNanara, Homer Johnson, J. W. Gayden, Vera Ammeter and C. M. Blymiller. The serving table was graced with a centerpiece of fall flowers.

Door prize went to Mrs. Edith Mill. Gray ladies serving were Mmes. Kenneth Gill, Jess Hatcher, O. F. Kreimeyer and A. D.

First Christian CWF Installs New Officers

Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church met recently for a regular monthly meeting and installation of officers.

Mrs. D. V. Burton, president, opened the meeting with prayer followed by the reading of the secretary's and treasurer's reports.

Mrs. W. F. Taylor, workshop director, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Charles Lanehart brought the devotional "Love and Healthy Mindedness," reading from the 13th chapter of Corinthians.

Mrs. T. J. Wright served as installing officer. A large gold cross surrounded by a spray of red rose buds were used as symbols in the installing ceremony. The cross represented service, loyalty, sacrifice and devotion. The rose buds represented life, energy and vitality. Each new officer was given a red rose bud as a symbol of the duties of each individual offices.

New officers for the coming year installed were president, Mrs. Frank Grantham; first vice president, Mrs. Paul Reimer; second vice president, Mrs. W. F. Kinzer; secretary, Mrs. Cecil Deist; treasurer, Mrs. W. F. Nidiffer; worship director, Mrs. Jim Cunningham, and study director, Mrs. R. A. Mack.

Missionary group leaders installed were R&PW Group, Mrs. Marguerite Nash; Musgrave Group, Mrs. John Zuerker; Rambo Group, Mrs. L. B. Robertson; Ross Group, Mrs. David Jones; Hobgood Group, Mrs. Frank Grantham and Meers Group, Mrs. Cecil Deist.

Meeting was adjourned with the CWF Benediction.

Hills. Next Thursday being Thanksgiving there will no meeting at the Center until Dec. 3, when the Altrusians will host the birthday party for all who have birthdays in December. New members and guest are always welcome.

Dear Abby....

Even Intelligent People Confused by Ballots

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school teacher, so you know I am at least as intelligent as the average person, but when I received my sample ballot, I had great difficulty understanding it. The language is so confusing that I actually had to read it four times before I knew whether my yes or no would mean what I wanted it to mean. For instance, in Proposition 15, which (in Calif.) is the issue dealing with whether or not we want paid television, if we vote yes, it means, "No, we don't want it." If we vote no, it means, "Yes, we do want it." Is it necessary to word the propositions so that most people vote exactly the opposite of how they intend to vote?

JUST STUPID, I GUESS
DEAR JUST: No!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful man. He is my second husband, I ran into my first husband, who is also married again, and he tells me he still loves me and he knows that one day we will be together again. What does this mean? Now I can't think straight. We were divorced for five years. I thought I loved my second husband until this happened. Do you think we could be married to the wrong people? I need advice.

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: It sounds to me as though your first husband has had second thoughts about his second wife. Leave well enough alone. If you "thought" you loved your present husband, keep right on loving him, and tell Number One to make the best of it with Number Two, because that's what you intend to do.

DEAR ABBY: I read about some of the ridiculous wedding customs sent to you from readers. Kidnapping the bride, filling her shoes with money, etc. The one I think takes the cake is when the wedding guests keep hitting their water glasses with silverware until the bride and groom give them a demonstration of a long, passionate kiss. I am going to be married soon and I do not care to put on this kind of performance in front of a bunch of gawking half-tipsy spectators. I have considered kissing the matron of honor as a means of sobering up the sightseers. Have you a better suggestion?

IN LOVE BUT NOT INSANE
DEAR IN LOVE: Yes. If you really want to sober 'em up, kiss the best man!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your wonderful answer to "Unenlightened" — that teen-ager who had just learned that her parents had not been married quite long enough when she was born. You have answered a question I have wanted answered for four years. Our first was born early as our marriage was late. I've felt guilty and ashamed ever since, and worried so for fear the child would find out about it later. You have helped me a lot. I feel like a weight has been lifted off my shoulders. Thank you.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Los Angeles -- Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It feels like nothing on but has such slimming strength, it gives you figure-everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-generators, Olga. They are available in our area at:

Black Market Best Business in Cuba

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the second of live dispatches by a United Press International reporter who spent four weeks on special assignment in Cuba. It describes the black market that flourishes in a land where the essentials of life are rationed.

By JOHN VIRTUE
HAVANA (UPI) — One of the few private businesses flourishing in Communist Cuba is the black market.

This illegal trade started early in the revolution and became firmly entrenched as a result of the rationing of food, clothing and other everyday essentials, plus a shortage of car parts. But it is a dangerous business with both the buyer and the seller risking a jail sentence.

Because of the scarcity of goods and the risks involved, prices on the black market are high. For example, meat has been selling for $5-7 a pound, chicken for $3.50 a pound, coffee for $10 a pound, eggs 30-40 cents each, men's shoes for $50 and spark plugs for $7 each.

There is also trade in luxury items smuggled in from abroad. American cigarettes, still very popular in Cuba, sell for up to $3.50 a pack. Scotch brings $75-100 per bottle, while chewing gum goes for $1 a pack.

Operates Everywhere
The black market does not everywhere in Cuba to varying degrees. But it does its best business in Havana where the most money is available.

The black market does not appear to be organized, except possibly in the field of car parts, most of which are stolen. It is said that some black marketeers can promise three-hour delivery on a requested part.

Some of the foodstuff which finds its way onto the black market is believed to be stolen from restaurants and grocery stores, now practically all taken over by the government, and from stockyards and slaughter houses. Some small farmers prefer to sell their produce to black marketeers rather than to the Agrarian Reform Institute, the only marketing body for agricultural goods.

Sentences Vary
As the government is often the victim in the theft of goods destined for the black market, the severity of jail sentences varies according to the item involved and its source. The sentencing of black marketeers is rarely published, but the terms are said to run as high as 30 years.

Because of this, the black marketeers keep out of sight and a would-be customer must nose around before finding one. This sometimes means dealing with two or three contact men, each of whom gets a cut of the final price, thus adding to the cost of dealing in the black market.

The main goods sought in the black market are foodstuffs which can be bought with a ration book—for example, 12 ounces of meat per person per week is often not enough for a family. If the Cuban has money, he will take his family to a restaurant or deal in the black market in order to supplement the ration.

World Pays Sorrowful Tribute to Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In Saigon there was the sound of Buddhist gongs. A chill wind fluttered the ribbons on the wreaths which lined the plaza in Dallas. And on a hillside at Arlington the great of the nation paused for a moment to pray.

Across America, across the world Sunday millions paid sorrowful tribute to the memory of the 35th President of the United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, slain by an assassin's bullets in the 46th year of his life, Nov. 22, 1963.

President Johnson, who called for a "day of national rededication" to the ideals of his predecessor, joined in an interfaith memorial service at Austin, Tex. With him was Gov. John B. Connally of Texas who was wounded on that fateful day year ago.

First Visitor
At 7:30 a.m., before the massive gates at Arlington National Cemetery swung open, the former First Lady's mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, made her way up the hill to the gravesite on a sad and lonely mission. She was the first of more than 30,000 visitors Sunday.

She left small bunches of white roses and tiny spring flowers at Kennedy's grave and those of his two infants on either side.

Later, Robert F. Kennedy tossed a single, long-stemmed white carnation on the grave and knelt in a moment of prayer.

After him came cabinet officials, legislative leaders, diplomats — and Cub Scouts from Maryland, nuns with cameras, students, killed Irishmen.

Story of Three Women Told in Report

By ROBERT M. ANDREWS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — To Jackie Kennedy, it seemed she held her dying husband's head in her lap through eternity.

Nellie Connally felt her husband, too, might be dying. But there was nothing she could do.

Lady Bird Johnson reached out compassionately to both. She, too, suffered the tortures of helplessness.

"You always think of her as someone like her, as being insulated, protected. She was quite alone. I don't think I ever saw anyone so much alone in my life. I went up to her, put my arms around her, and said something to her, I'm sure it was something like, 'God, help us all', because my feelings for her were too tumultuous to put into words.

"And then I went in to see Nellie. There it was different. Among her many other fine qualities, she is also tough."

That was the story of three women in Dallas, Texas, on Nov. 22, 1963. It was made public by the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy, who wore a pink wool suit in the Texas autumn, remembered thinking it might be cooler in an underpass along the presidential route.

Heard Terrible Noises
Moments later, she heard these terrible noises. You know, my husband never made any sound. . . he had this sort of quizzical look on his face, and his hand was up. . . and just as I turned and looked at him, I could see a piece of his skull and I remember it was flesh colored. . .

For a time after that day, Mrs. Kennedy believed she might have saved her husband if she had been facing in his direction when the first bullet hit.

Discussing the number of shots fired, she told the commission:

"Well, there must have been two because the one that made me turn around was Governor John B. Connally yelling. And it used to confuse me because first I remember there were three and I used to think my husband didn't make any sound when he was shot. And Governor Connally screamed.

Same Shot
"And then I read the other day that it was the same shot that hit them both. But I used to think if I only had been looking to the right, I would have seen the first shot hit him, then I could have pulled him down, and then the second shot would not have hit him."

Mrs. Kennedy recalled falling across the President and saying, "Oh, no, no, no," I mean, 'oh my God, they have shot my husband.' and 'I love you, Jack' I remember I was shouting. And just being down in the car with his head in my lap. And it just seemed an eternity."

As the motorcade sped to Parkland Memorial Hospital, "there weren't any words," Mrs. Kennedy said. "There was just Governor Connally's. And then I suppose Mrs. Connally was sort of crying and covering her husband. But I don't remember any words."

Rushing Past
The wife of the Texas governor remembered that during that ride, "the people I could see going by were just rushing. We were just rushing by very fast.

"We arrived at the hospital and sat there what seemed to me like an interminable time and from what I know was just a few minutes, but the thoughts that went through my mind were how long must I sit here with this dying man in my arms while everybody is swarming over the President whom I felt very sure was dead.

"And just when I thought I could sit and wait no longer, John just sort of heaved himself up. He did not rise up in the car, he just sort of heaved himself up and then collapsed down into the seat."

Once in the hospital, Mrs. Connally said, "there was no one with me and, of course, my thoughts then were, I guess like any other woman, I wondered if all the doctors were in the room on the left and they were not taking too good care of my husband on the right.

Shouldn't Have Worried
"I shouldn't have worried about that, should I?"

Mrs. Johnson remembered saying after the gunshots were heard and the question raised if the President was the target, "no; it can't be."

And then, when they reached the hospital, Mrs. Johnson recalled:

"I cast one last look over my shoulder and saw, in the President's car, a bundle of pink, just like a drift of blossoms, lying on the back seat. I think it was Mrs. Kennedy lying over the President's body."

Mrs. Johnson said she sought out Mrs. Kennedy near an op-

THE FIRST — Kenneth "Mac" McWilliams became the first Pampa basketball player to make Harvester of the Week, for his play in the win at Dumas last Saturday night. Mac came off the bench to hit six of 10 field goal attempts and six of eight free throws to total 18 points, had five assists and six rebounds.

Huarte Wins Heisman Cup

NEW YORK (UPI) — Quarterback John Huarte of Notre Dame today was named winner of the Heisman award as the outstanding college football player of 1964 "in extremely close voting."

The Downtown Athletic Club, which presents the annual award, said that the senior quarterback of the Fighting Irish, currently ranked as the nation's No. 1 team, nosed out quarterback Jerry Rhome of the University of Tulsa and center Dick Butkus of Illinois in the balloting.

SWC Roundup

By United Press International

Texas A&M puts the torch tonight to what the school calls the largest bonfire in the world — a blaze that represents the school's burning desire to whip Texas in the Thanksgiving Day game in Austin.

The Aggies had a vigorous drill Monday. Coach Hank Feldberg said all of his team was in good physical condition. While the players worked, the rest of the school had a holiday. The student body was excused from classes to gather kindling for the big fire.

The Longhorns had a thorough drill in Austin, heavy on the passing and kicking. It ended with 10 minutes of goal line scrimmaging.

Coach Darrell Royal welcomed back two Longhorn regulars who were absent in the game with TCU, tackle Clayton Lacy and wingback Phil Harris.

The Baylor Bears listened to a scouting report on the Rice Owls, their opponents Saturday in Waco. Some 18,000 fans are expected for the contest.

Line Shift

Baylor coach John Bridgers said starting offensive tackle Bill Ferguson will move to defensive tackle and reserve defensive guard Fred Allen will take over Ferguson's spot.

Coach Hayden Fry said Monday that John LaGrone may be missing from SMU's ranks Saturday against Texas Christian. LaGrone hurt his ankle last Saturday against Baylor.

Fry ran his men through a light, limbering-up drill.

The Southwest Conference statistics released Monday showed that the Arkansas Razorbacks took the championship with the second best defensive record in 16 years — the only one that limited the opposition to less than 100 yards per game in either rushing or passing.

Mighty Matador Takes on Herd

MATADOR — It will be the same old story Thanksgiving Day as the Matador Matadors and the Wheeler Mustangs meet at Memphis for the bi-district title in the game that virtually decides the number-one ranked B team in the state.

Wheeler has lost only three games in the past three years, two of them to Matador in the annual bi-district clash. Matador has battled the Mustangs tooth and toenail, and then virtually romped to the regional title, as far as those Class B schools go, and the unofficial number one rating in the state.

This year the shoe is on the other foot as the Mustangs carry the state's top rating into the fray behind their 10 straight victories and six shutouts, including wins over two strong Class A schools. Matador, as usual, is undefeated, but a tie with Jayton, 6-6, early in the season, mars its perfect string.

The Matadors have been at the game a little longer than the Mustangs, as their record is almost unbelievable victory-wise. Since 1954, the Matadors have won eight district titles, seven bi-district titles and six regional championships.

In that 10-year span, the Matadors have compiled a 96-18-4 record, with 13 of the defeats coming at the hands of Class A and AA teams. Against Class B foes the Matadors have rolled a 78-5-2 mark. Matador has averaged 32 points per game while allowing opponents an average of 10.5. The Matadors have blanketed countless opponents, but have been shut out only three times in the past decade.

The district 6-B champion has produced five college football stars, with scouts keeping a close eye on the expected sixth, fullback Richard Campbell, a 6-1½, 212-pounder, is the heart of the Matadors' grinding ball control offense in last year's bi-district game. He was the principal reason for the Matador victory, smashing out 122 yards in 29 carries to lead the Mats to a 16-12 victory.

Campbell has plenty of backfield help, as evidenced by the fact that Matador kept on winning when Campbell saw only limited action on two games because of injuries. Helping the all-state nominee with the running game is fleet halfback Kenneth Pitts, 150. Last year's quarterback, Ben Ezzell, 165, alternates at end this season, with the quarterback slot then being taken up by Campbell's younger brother, Gary, a talented 160-pound sophomore.

Matador lost heavily in the line last year, however. Four of the mammoth interior line that matched the size of Wheeler's Neil Rogers and Kent Sims, have graduated with them. Although the Matadors have one of their big tackles, a 209-pounder back, the line averages 172 overall, giving the Horses a slight weight advantage.

Anderson SW Best Rusher

DALLAS (UPI) — Texas Tech's Donny Anderson, who rolled up nearly a mile of yardage in several fashions for the Raiders, led the Southwest Conference in rushing and kickoff returns and his rushing total was the third best in league history.

Anderson, who has another year to harry Tech's opponents, won the rushing crown with 966 yards on 211 plays — which makes him the second busiest runner in conference history only to Texas' Byron Townsend, who carried 228 times for the Longhorns in 1950.

He returned 16 kickoffs for 320 yards, but might conceivably lose that title next Saturday if Texas Christian's Jim Fauver or Baylor's Richard Defee should have good days in their final games. Fauver has picked up 275 yards and Defee 274 in nine games.

Fauver also is Anderson's closest pursuer in rushing, but is 261 yards behind with his 705-yard total and isn't apt to match him.

Anderson is tied for third in pass receiving with 32 receptions for 396 yards, but is likely to slip lower when his rivals complete their schedules next weekend. Baylor's Ken Hodge also has caught 32 and Baylor's Harlan Lane has snagged 28.

Baylor's Lawrence Elkins is far out front in that department with 46 for 823 yards, while TCU's Sonny Campbell is next in line with 34 for 476 yards.

Anderson's 966-yard rushing total has been surpassed only by Texas A&M's Bob Smith (1,302 yards) in 1950 and TCU's Jim Swink (1,283) in 1955.

If Anderson's two punt returns for 28 yards are thrown in, his total yardage production for the season amounts to 1,710 yards.

Anderson in two years has now amassed 1,575 yards rushing and will need 1,034 yards on the ground next year to surpass Swink's three-year career mark of 2,618 yards.

Arkansas' Ken Hatfield won the punt return title with 518 yards, marking the third straight year he has done so, and his three-year total of 1,135 yards is the best ever for that span. TCU's Lindy Berry gained 1,300 yards, but over a four year period.

Gordon Balch Pushing Hard

ABILENE — Basketball workouts are progressing at a torrid pace for Abilene Christian College as the Wildcats prepare for their opener against Oklahoma State's Cowboys on Thursday, Dec. 3, at Stillwater.

Coach Dee Nutt has been sending his charges through rugged drills in an effort to find five boys who will be ready to go against the always-potent Cowboys.

Nutt has indicated that four tall lads and a pee-wee will probably start in the opener. The tall ones are the Wildcats' three returning lettermen — 6-8 Charles Cleek, 6-7 Jerry Morgan and 6-5 Spencer Pickens — and 6-4 junior college transfer Terry Priest. The small one is Johnny Jones, a junior who stands just 5-8.

The Wildcats will operate from a single post, with Pickens at center, Cleek and Morgan at forwards and Jones and Priest at guards.

Nutt, who lost seven numeral winners via graduation, says that his Cats are "beginning to look like a unit." Cleek, Pickens and Morgan are proven inside men, but lack of experience is evident out front. Priest played two years for Henderson County Junior College, while Jones was a junior varsity starter last year.

Both Priest and Jones have men pushing them for the outside jobs, namely 6-10 sophomore Gordon Balch and 6-3 freshman Larry Adams.

Other varsity cagers are 6-7 soph David Wray, 6-2 frosh John Ray Godfrey, 6-3 soph Jerry Burk, 6-4 senior Jim Morgan and 5-11 junior Jerry Skinner.

YE OLDE Swami has just returned from a busman's holiday — a trip down to Norman, along with Terry Bromlow and the Junior Goodwin family, to see the OU-OSU freshman game and watch Ricky Goodwin and Don McCool bump heads.

The game was exciting and we had a wonderful time visiting those two, Carl McAdams, Ralph Palmer and Bill Martin, and the sports publicity directors of the two schools, Harold Keith and Pat Quinn. Only drawbacks were the reluctance of the OSU coach to allow Don to pose for a picture, and the relatively little playing time the two got in.

Oklahoma's Boomers won an exciting 28-14 game, principally on the magnificent passing of quarterback Jim Bugar, who indefinitely decided on Texas A&M. First WD great to escape the clutches of the Sooners in years!

SPEAKING of White Deer, the Bucks deserve a word of congratulation for their fine effort against Stratford, a few breaks and they could have won that game. The locker room was a pretty sad place after the contest, but one Buck, squinting through his tears, was defiantly writing "We will return" on the blackboard. The Ol' Swami predicts ahead of time that they will. Although they lose four fine seniors... Baseball Team To Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — The Houston Colts signed a lease contract Monday for the use of Potter County Stadium by their Texas League franchise team, which will move upstate from San Antonio.

Amarillo was left without organized baseball last season when the Chicago Cubs withdrew their working agreement. The Colts, a national league team, announced before the end of that season that they were running a team in San Antonio.

Under the agreement Colts' general manager H. B. Richardson signed yesterday with Potter County Commissioners, the Colts will own and run the club without local interest.

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Illinois does not have a trip to the Rose Bowl this year but it does have Dick Butkus, who was named college football's "player of the year" for 1964 by the American Football Coaches Association, which also announced its All-American team.

Butkus, a center and linebacker who is expected to be one of the top draft choices this Saturday of both the National and American football leagues, and one of the 12 college standouts selected on the honor squad in balloting by 500 members of the coaches association.

The squad included two quarterbacks — Craig Morton of California and Bob Berry of Oregon. Only once before, in 1946, did a tie exist for a position, and coincidentally, quarterbacks Johnny Lujack of Notre Dame and Arnold Tucker of Army shared the honor.

Here was the 1964 All-American team picked by the coaches:

Ends—Larry Elkins, Baylor, and Jack Snow, Notre Dame.
Tackles—Larry Kramer, Nebraska, and Ralph Neely, Oklahoma.
Guards—Rick Redman, Washington, and Glen Ressler, Penn State.
Center—Butkus.
Quarterbacks—Morton and Berry.
Halfbacks—Gale Sayers, Kansas, and Larry Dupree, Florida.
Fullback—Tom Nowatzke, Indiana.

The second team included ends, Fred Biletnikoff, Florida State, and Bob Hadrick, Purdue; tackles, Harry Sechub, Memphis State, and Bill Zadel, Army; guards, Tommy Nobis, Texas, and Dwight Kelly, Ohio State; center Bill Curry, Georgia Tech; quarterback John Huarte, Notre Dame; halfbacks, Ken Willard, North Carolina, and Rodger Bird, Kentucky; fullback, Tucker Frederickson, Auburn.

The third team — ends, Howard Twilly, Tulsa, and Karl Noonan, Iowa; tackles, Al Atkinson, Villanova, and Bill Yearby, Michigan; guards, Jim Carroll, Notre Dame, and Ron Caveness, Arkansas; center, Carl McAdams, Oklahoma; quarterback Jerry Rhome, Tulsa; halfbacks, Don Anderson, Texas Tech and Mike Garrett, Southern California; and fullback, Brian Piccolo, Wake Forest.

Ken Boyer National League's Top Player

BOSTON (UPI) — Ken Boyer, the most successful member of baseball's most famous family since the DiMaggios, today was named the National League's Most Valuable Player for 1964.

The St. Louis third baseman was a no-contest winner in balloting announced by the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He collected 14 of 20 first-place votes for a 243 point total, 56 ahead of ranking challenger Johnny Callison of Philadelphia.

Boyer learned of the award when he returned from quail hunting in the little town of Hermann, Mo. He refused at first to believe he had actually been selected. Then finally convinced, he said he was "very pleased."

When told he had received 14 of the first place votes, Boyer said, "I guess that's my lucky number. I shot 14 birds today and my uniform number is 14."

Helped by Teammates

He said he believed his selection was due in large measure to the outstanding performances of several of his teammates, notably Bill White, Dick Groat and Bob Gibson.

"I was very lucky I had such fellows on the ball club," he said.

Selection of the 33-year-old Boyer, one of three members of the same family who have been active in the major leagues, came just a week after another third baseman, Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, was chosen the most valuable player in the American League. It marked the first time in the

Spahn Off To Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Warren Spahn has a new employer, a new outlook on life and a new ambition — to win the "comeback of the year" award. The 43-year-old Spahn, baseball's most winning lefthander, traded his toe plate with the Milwaukee Braves Monday for a one-year contract as a player-coach with the New York Mets.

And, according to Berra, "It's real good to have him," because "he should be a real help. After all, he's been around for a long time — even longer than I have."

The likeable Berra also added: "We should make very experienced batterymates."

Not only is the Spahn-Berra battery one of the game's most experienced, but as Spahn said himself it's "probably the ugliest."

Spahn, who won 356 games during his 24 years in the Braves organization, changed uniforms mainly because he didn't fit into the Milwaukee plans for 1965.

Spahn said, while explaining his decision to join the National League's perpetual last-place team, "I don't believe I fit into the Braves' plans."

Spahn, who won a career leg of only six victories last season, feels he can be of value to the lowly Mets.

"I hope this is the beginning of a new era for me," he said. "The greatest job in baseball is being a starting pitcher and that's the first job I have to do. I think my title explains my position — player-coach — I'm a pitcher first and a coach second."

Another reason why Spahn wants to turn into the Mets' starting rotation is because: "I want to win 400 games."

Spahn still feels he's physically sound.

Irish Up National Ranking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Top-ranked Notre Dame increased its lead over Alabama and Big Ten champion Michigan jumped up to fourth place today in the United Press International college football ratings.

The national champion will be named next week by the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board.

Notre Dame marked its fourth consecutive week in the No. 1 spot by boosting its total of first place votes from 29 to 31 and point total from 340 to 344, the highest rating of any team this season.

Second-ranked Alabama held its three first place votes but dropped six points to 301. Both Notre Dame and Alabama, unbeaten in nine games, have contests remaining this week. The Irish visit Southern California Saturday and the Crimson Tide faces Auburn at Birmingham Thanksgiving Day.

Arkansas, which completed its season with a perfect 10-0 record, the Southwest Conference title and a berth in the Cotton Bowl, remained solidly entrenched in third place.

Michigan swapped places with Nebraska, which lost its first game of the season last week to Oklahoma and tumbled from fourth to sixth. Texas, the 1963 national champion, continued as the No. 5 team.

Downright Attractive Idea

The heads of the Washington regime are considering the lifting of the excise tax on such things as toiletries, cosmetics, jewelry, furs, luggage and handbags.

Revenue from the excise on these items comes to more than half a billion a year, enough dollars to finance approximately one half of one per cent of the bureaucracy's annual expenditure. Such a reduction, if accompanied by a reduction in federal outgo, is by no means insignificant.

The real motive behind the announcement can only be guessed at. A wire service report relates it in a vague way to the economic outlook. If that actually is the case, the reasoning apparently is that elimination of the tax will reduce prices on the items affected, that lower prices stand to increase sales, a phenomenon which would in turn result in more orders at the factory and of course, more jobs.

That all sounds very reasonable. In fact it sounds like one of those simple solutions to a complex problem. But one thing seems to have been overlooked. That is, if elimination of taxes helps to increase sales and make jobs, why isn't the device used more often?

Why not, for instance take some of the taxes off the auto industry so that auto prices would come down to a level that more people could afford to have new cars.

Why not peel a little of the income tax off persons in the 50-to-65 age bracket so that they could save up a little money to supplement their social security that has been so badly damaged by federally created inflation?

Yes, once you start looking at tax elimination, the prospects become downright attractive. However, don't hold your breath. Real tax reduction would have to be accompanied by a reduction in the Bureaucracy's spending, and it's a safe bet the Bureaucracy will not subject itself voluntarily to a prolonged diet.

A greater probability, therefore, is some sleight-of-hand juggling that is made to look like tax reduction—elimination of this or that tax with fanfare, and a bit of sly inflation on the side. We would prefer that the future proved this surmise wrong, but is just not reasonable to suppose that the Bureaucracy is inclined to trim fat. Look then for a tax shift, not a tax cut.

There has been a big switch in recent years in the motel business from the countryside to the city because the big-time operators have learned that many motorists not only desire lodging but want to be in town so they have a selection of restaurants and amusement activities. The stores, movies and other attractions are only found in town. Many of these luxury motel-type hosteleries are operated by big hotel chains. What a contrast to the days of a quarter-century ago when a motel meant a number of simple wooden cabins near a roadside filling station or diner.

GOP Leaders Again Pressing for Publication of Kennedy-Khrushchev Letters, Especially on Cuba

WASHINGTON — GOP party leaders are mounting a major effort to pry open the lid on the long-suppressed private Kennedy-Khrushchev correspondence.

Demands for publication of these secret exchanges, including letters dealing with the 1962 Cuban missile crisis will be made by Senator Barry Goldwater, former Vice President Richard Nixon and Republican congressional leaders.

In foreign policy speeches and statements between Thanksgiving and the convening of Congress in January, these GOP spokesmen will call on President Johnson to open this correspondence for congressional review, on the ground that neither the late President Kennedy nor the ousted Soviet Premier now hold official positions.

Their main argument will be that Congress and the public are entitled to know whether any informal agreements were made by the two leaders and, if so, whether these undisclosed accords are now in effect.

The GOP leaders plan to zero in on the Kennedy-Khrushchev exchange on Cuba, which reportedly dominates the more than 40 letters transmitted between Washington and Moscow.

One high level administration official, with full access to this historic correspondence, told an inquiring Republican leader the White House would oppose release of the letter since President Johnson and the new Soviet leaders are continuing this form of summitry.

According to this informant, State Department authorities fear publication of the Kennedy-Khrushchev exchanges might cause a break-off of these private negotiations and spark a full-scale congressional investigation of this new form of U.S. Soviet diplomacy.

THE AGREEMENT — This inside source stressed the correspondence definitely would raise congressional eyebrows since the Cuban letters would confirm that Khrushchev agreed to withdraw his missiles from Cuba and permit on-site inspection of the dismantled bases in exchange for a "no invasion" pledge from Kennedy.

The exchanges also show Khrushchev backed down on the inspection agreement after stalling around long enough to receive assurances that the U.S. naval "blockade" would not bar Soviet ships carrying supplies other than additional arms.

Granting of these assurances by Kennedy now appears to be a major blunder in the backstage negotiations which left the U.S. no way to find out definitely whether Khrushchev kept his pledge to withdraw the rockets. The deal also left a powerful Soviet combat force on the island, now estimated to include nearly 10,000 crack Russian troops.

WASHINGTON
Question: What About China Bomb?

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The official was tired. He had been working nights and weekends on Viet Nam and now there was this Red China bomb and what to do about it.

As this man described them, the behind-closed-door arguments now going on in the U.S. government on whether or not to destroy Communist China's atomic plants turn you back in history to the agonizing discussions three decades ago on whether — to prevent World War II — we should stop Hitler from rearming Nazi Germany.

Here, then, are some of today's arguments on China as this official put them:

"We couldn't just go in and bomb Communist China's nuclear plants without provocation, even though if we did people all around the world would probably go to bed that night saying 'Thank God.'

"An unprovoked bombing by America could lead to other countries also taking things into their own hands. Nasser could say it was necessary to take out Palestine's airfields now. Brezhnev could say it was necessary to bomb West Germany's arms factories or De Gaulle's nuclear plants. So it could go. Where would it stop?"

"So there would have to be some new open Communist Chinese aggression before we could act."

"If Mao Tse-tung put Chinese troops into Viet Nam; if Red China bombers hit a South Viet Nam airfield, city or barracks; if China-based fighters attacked American bombers over North Viet Nam or U.S. warships in the Tonkin Gulf, that could do it.

"If Red China attacked Quemoy or Matsui off the China coast opposite Formosa or China another invasion attack on India, either of these also could be adequate provocation."

"But no decision has been made on what we would do. And I don't know what we would do. I won't say we would act. I won't say we wouldn't. We've got some hard thinking to do. We're not going to act hastily or recklessly."

"If we knocked out Red China's nuclear plants, the Chinese could build them again. That would take time. Time is valuable in the kind of a world situation we have today."

"Meanwhile, the possibility of U.S. bombings must cause Mao to think, too. He must be leery of giving us cause to knock out his nuclear plants. This probably won't likely stop him from subversion. But one would think it would cause him to hesitate before open aggression."

"Thus these nuclear plants and Mao's undoubted desire to preserve them from attack should give us a freer hand to act in North Viet Nam with

More Safety For Mower

The nation's growing freeway network may be easing the travel problems of motorists, but it's aggravating a problem most of us never give a thought to—mowing the grass that grows by the wayside.

What with wide median strips and embankments, plus extensive areas at interchanges, the roadside grass is increasing at the rate of 30 acres per mile of new highway.

All of this has to be mowed, and since highway shoulders are often steeply banked, it can be dangerous as well as difficult.

The Agricultural Engineering Department of the University of Illinois has just completed research into designing safer, more efficient roadside mowers. A description of their work reads like typical space-age:

Following field tests, a mathematical model of tractor behavior was formulated, "which considered such variables as shoulder slope, tractor speed, tractor yaw and steer angles with reference to a horizontal 'control line' on the face of the slope and slip - resisting side force on the tractor."

All this was fed into a computer which dutifully coughed up suggestions for changes in tractor design.

So, as we wend our merry way across the nation, let's remember the unsung highway haircutter and the men who are working to give him the tools to do the job.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Since Britain's Labor party won its narrow victory in the Oct. 15 elections, the British stock market has been sliding downward.

By the end of last week, the British pound sterling also was under selling pressures and there was speculation that the pound would be devalued for the first time since another Labor government did it in 1949.

At that time the government led by Clement Attlee cut the pound from $4.03 to its present $2.80.

British market analysts said the market slide and the pressure on the pound reflected uncertainty over the government's tax proposal and a belief that the government still had not dealt adequately with the country's deepening financial difficulties.

Devaluation of its currency is a subject about which no government likes to talk until the deed has been accomplished since one objective of such a move is to force down export prices to make them more competitive on world markets. Devaluation advertised in advance simply means that prices move up to fill the gap, thus wiping out any prospective gain.

Monetary Yardstick
Any tampering with the pound would have a further far-reaching effect in that it, like the dollar, is the yardstick for many other currencies throughout the world.

Governments which preceded Britain's present one preferred to protect the pound even at the expense of Britain's own economy.

It was on Sept. 18, 1949, that Sir Stafford Cripps, the then chancellor of the exchequer, disclosed in a radio address that Britain was reducing the pound to $2.80. So carefully guarded was the secret that Cripps did not even write the figures into the text of his speech until after it was delivered.

Within a week 24 other countries devalued their currencies in chain reaction.

Charged Undercutting
France, not notified in advance, accused the British of undercutting the European economy in a bid for dollars.

The new rate was a boon to American tourists in Britain and in New York prices of British goods began falling accordingly.

But for Britons it meant a rise in the cost of living because of the increased cost of U.S. goods which they could not get elsewhere and among labor it touched off a new clamor for wage increases.

There are similarities between the British situation as it existed in 1949 and as of today.

Then, as now, British goods were pricing themselves out of competitive markets. And then, as now, there existed a serious gap between British imports and exports.

A possible straw in the wind was a speech delivered in London by Swedish economist Prof. Gunnar Myrdal who said a mild devaluation of the pound should have come some time ago. Myrdal has great admirers among the men called to advise Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The bite of a copperhead rarely is fatal.

Mobeetie Rancher Qualifies 9 Angus

DENVER (Sp) — Grady W. Harris, Mobeetie, recently qualified nine Angus cows for Production Registration in Performance Registry International, headquartered at 731 East 17th Avenue, Denver. PRI is an international association of cattlemen representing all breeds, encouraging cattlemen to upgrade their herd through performance testing with a certification agency.

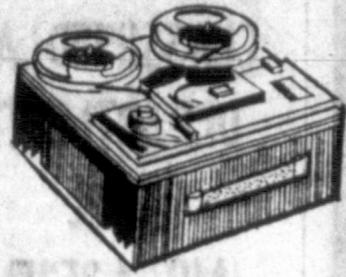

By qualifying of Production Registry, these cattle have clearly demonstrated that not only are they of great value in their own herd, but also they are included in the breeding stock of the world.
