President Begins Review of War In S. Viet Nam

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson returned to his White House desk today with a full range of problems — both foreign and domestic — bidding for his attention. Uppermost on his agenda was a full-scale review of U.S. strategy in the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam, one of a long series of such sessions.

No less urgent, however, were the problems of the NATO Alliance and the future of the American-sponsored Multilateral Nuclear Force (MLF). British Prime Minister Harold Wilson arrives in Washington next week for talks on these subjects.

The Chief Executive, who returned Sunday night from an 11-day working vacation at his Texas ranch, confers with Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor Tuesday on Viet Nam.

In advance of the session, Johnson put a damper on speculation about any expansion of the three-year-old U.S. military effort in South Viet Nam. He told a Saturday news conference that such speculation was "premature" and that he expected no dramatic announcements after the Taylor meeting.

Officials Are Concerned
In recent days, administration officials have become concerned over the degree of published speculation that a major decision to "extend the war" might be imminent. They gave assurances that there was no "crisis" atmosphere, and that Johnson was approaching the problem with a spirit of caution.

There is said to be no intention in Washington to abandon the basic policy of seeking solutions which avoid a major war. This would rule out any decision for large-scale invasion of North Viet Nam or bombing of major industrial targets deep in that country.

Such actions, it is generally believed, would run a very good chance of bringing serious retaliation from North Viet Nam or Red China.

As for MLF, action on the proposal has been held up pending British disclosure of their plan. Johnson told his news conference the United States "would not be adamant" in its attitude toward the project. Thus far, except for West Germany, America's NATO allies have been apathetic, if not hostile, toward the plan.

Criticizes De Gaulle
The President touched on the problem — and threw a barb at French President Charles De Gaulle, an MLF opponent, in the process — Saturday when he criticized "narrow, national self-interest" in the Atlantic Alliance.

He said the United States would continue to bear the greatest responsibility for nuclear defense far into the future, but it seeks new ways to let the allies share this burden. On the home front, most of Johnson's problems were of the fiscal variety, principally in connection with the new budget.

A drive to pare down new spending requests from government agencies — now totaling more than $108 billion — is a top priority item in the coming month. The President told his news conference he rather doubted now that he could achieve his goal of bringing his new budget request below the $100 billion level.

Hope is Abandoned for 500 Hostages in Congo

CHILI SUPPER TONIGHT — Mrs. Horace Prince, left, and Mrs. Wesley Lewis, members of Altrusa Club of Pampa, are shown stirring chili to be served by the club at a "Chili By Candlelight" supper from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. today in First Methodist Church basement. Proceeds from the event will go toward the club's projects, sponsoring of Senior Citizen's Center each Thursday in Lovett Memorial Library, Pampa High School Career Clinic and Scholarship Fund for a PHS girl. Tickets may be purchased from any Altrusa or at the door tonight for $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Negotiators Try Again to Settle Railroad Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Railroad and union negotiators met with Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz today for further bargaining on a wage dispute which has threatened a nationwide rail strike.

The meeting got underway at 2 p.m. EST.

The strike originally was scheduled to begin Nov. 23, but was postponed after Wirtz sent telegrams to both sides urging their representatives to meet with him for further mediation and negotiation.

Thus, the negotiations, which moved to Chicago earlier this month when they became bogged down in Washington, shifted back to the capital.

The three unions involved are shopcraft — non-operating — unions: the International Association of Machinists, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and the Sheet Metal Workers International Association. They represent about 49,000 workers.

At issue are recommendations of a presidential emergency board calling for a 27-cent hourly wage increase spread over three years. The unions want more, insisting that there should be a wider spread between wages paid skilled and non-skilled rail workers.

The average pay of shopcraft workers has been $2.64 an hour.

Eight other non-operating unions, representing 370,000 railroad employees, split the ranks of potential strikers Nov. 21 by settling their disputes with the railroads. Their settlements largely followed along the lines of the presidential emergency board's recommendations.

New Bloodbaths Feared; Rebels Extend Control

By DIETRICH MUMMENDEY

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Hopes dimmed today for saving more than 500 white hostages in rebel-held territory of the Congo. New blood baths were feared.

The American-Belgian mercy airlift was over. Diehard rebels stiffened against desperate efforts by outnumbered Congolese Army troops and white mercenaries to crush the rebellion.

Reports from fighting areas were scant, but the rebels were reliably reported to control almost one-sixth of the country — an area about as large as the state of Texas.

Army Bogged Down
"With the withdrawal of the Belgian paratroops and the Congolese Army bogged down on all fronts, the chances of survival for many of the whites are seriously compromised," say the least, "one military observer said."

Nearly 2,000 hostages were rescued last week in two spectacular missions carried out by the Belgian paratroopers jumping from U.S. Air Force planes. The troops left the Congo Sunday en route back to Brussels.

Eighty-five — and possibly as many as 137 — hostages were slain by rebels before help other solution is not found."

could reach them. Three of the victims were Americans and at least five more U.S. citizens remained at the mercy of savage rebels today.

Status in Doubt
The status of Stanleyville, the rebel capital, was still in doubt. Congolese troops and white mercenaries controlled some areas of the city but the rebels were entrenched in others.

Maj. Michael ("Mad Mike") Hoare, the British commander of the mercenary forces, returned disillusioned to Leopoldville Sunday night.

"I think it's unfair to expect less than 300 men to hold an area as big as France," he said before conferring with Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe.

"I must have 35,000 to 40,000 men to maintain peace if some other solution is not found."

Chinese Reds Spew Hate Against U.S.

TOKYO (UPI) — Thousands of Communist Chinese streamed through the streets of Peking today in an unprecedented display of hate toward the United States for its role in the Congo civil war.

It was the second consecutive day of anti-American protests. Communist Party Chairman Mao Tze-tung presided at a mass rally attended by 700,000 Sunday in a rare public appearance. He denounced the United States and made vague promises of support for the Congolese rebels.

The New China News Agency, official voice of the Peking regime, said "column after column of teachers, students, government functionaries, armed militia and other residents poured into the streets" today.

Carrying Red banners and shaking clenched fists and shouting slogans condemning the U.S.-Belgian imperialists, the agency reported.

(Dispatches from Leopoldville capital of the Congo, today said government forces had found new evidence of Communist Chinese support for the rebels. This evidence included weapons and propaganda.)

"Down with U.S. imperialism." "U.S. imperialism get out of Congo, Taiwan, Africa, Asia, Latin America and all other places it occupies." The demonstrating Chinese were reported as shouting.

The Peking press made no mention of the rebel slaughter of white hostages.

Rebel Gunfire Brings Down Belgian Liner

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — A chartered Belgian airliner Sunday night crashed and buried during a takeoff from Stanleyville Airport. It was reported today. There were conflicting reports of the death toll.

(In Brussels, the Belgian government Institute for Information and Documentation (INBEL) said the plane was shot down by rebel gunfire and that 44 persons were believed to have been killed.)

Reports received here said seven crewmembers and passengers aboard the four-engine DC4 were killed. Other sources said 33 persons were killed and seven injured.

The reports said the plane had a crew of four—three Belgians and a Congolese steward. One report identified one of the injured as a Col. Leigeois, Belgian commander of a white mercenary unit.

The plane had transported ammunition and supplies to Congolese army troops in Stanleyville. It was owned by the Belgian International Air Service (BIAS) and chartered by the Congolese government.

Scientists Still Hope To Get Mars Pictures

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists felt confident today that a United States spacecraft shooting for Mars still would capture the first close-up pictures of the Red planet despite failure of a camera aiming maneuver.

They said a second attempt would be made by Mariner-4 to accomplish the maneuver, designed to point the craft's telescopic television camera and other scientific instruments in the right direction for a fly-by exploration of Mars next July.

The 575-pound, windmill-shaped probe did not carry out its camera-aiming maneuver last Saturday night—some 17 hours after it was launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla. — because its "electronic eye" failed to "fix" itself onto the bright star Canopus. Scientists said the "eye" apparently had sighted and "locked" onto another star.

The failure was the first for Mariner-4 in its historic 325-million-mile, 7½-month space voyage to the mysterious planet where scientists believe some form of life might exist.

The second attempt to locate Canopus—second brightest star in the visible heavens—involves sending a telemetric command from earth to the spacecraft to look again with its "eye" for Canopus.

Delay Seen For Russian Voting Issue

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko were expected today to approve a formula to postpone a showdown on the explosive issue of Russia's voting rights in the United Nations.

If they fail, the dispute could erupt with shattering impact on the floor of the U.N. assembly soon after it commences its annual session Tuesday.

Rusk and Gromyko were meeting at a "working lunch" in the U.S. secretary's hotel suite, the first high-level Soviet-American session since the ouster of Oct. 15 of Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Rusk and Gromyko arrived Sunday night. The U.S. secretary said "we face some constitutional problems that go to the very heart of the organization."

Gromyko declared at Kennedy International Airport that he had come to "defend the peace, to defend the rights of the peoples to independent development and to defend the United Nations itself."

American officials said all indications were that Gromyko would agree to delay until February a decision on whether Russia must pay overdue assessments for U.S. peace-keeping forces or lose her right to vote on the assembly.

Pastor to Speak At Fund Meeting

Pampa-Lefors United Fund officials today announced that Rev. Donald S. Hauck will be the speaker at their "Operation Over the Top" luncheon tomorrow noon in the basement of the Methodist Church.

Hauck is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Pampa. More than 100 business and civic leaders have been invited to attend the luncheon meeting in conjunction with the Jaycees. Purpose of the meeting is to complete plans for the final phase of the United Fund's drive to raise $70,000 to support six member agencies.

Slightly more than 80 per cent of the total, $56,083.72, had been raised through Saturday.

Those attending tomorrow's meeting are asked to leave an hour of their time free immediately following the luncheon so that they can call on one or

Johnson Denies He Planned to Replace Hoover

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today President Johnson "never entertained" the thought of replacing J. Edgar Hoover as FBI director.

George E. Reedy, presidential press secretary, made the comment in denying a (Newsweek) magazine report that Johnson was seeking a replacement for the 69-year-old Hoover.

"The President never heard of any such proposal—that Mr. Hoover be replaced—and never entertained any such idea," Reedy said.

"It's unfortunate that this story (in Newsweek) wasn't checked out prior to publication," he added.

New Baker Case Evidence Hinted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — GOP member of the Senate Rules Committee dropped hints today of new evidence which could expand the Bobby Baker investigation when it opens again Tuesday.

There were indications that the new evidence involved the alleged use of "party girls" by government and industry officials in Washington—an angle the committee refused to explore in its previous investigation last July.

The committee's chief counsel, Lennox P. McLendon, admitted there was new material at hand. He said it would have to be "carefully scrutinized" before the committee resumes its study of how Baker managed to parlay his $19,600-a-year salary as Senate Democratic Secretary into a paper fortune estimated at about $2 million.

Catholics Use English in Sunday Mass

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's Roman Catholics Sunday inaugurated the use of English and other revolutionary reforms in the Sunday Mass.

Many appeared a bit confused but generally pleased with the service that places new emphasis on participation by parishioners.

For some of the country's 45 million Catholics it was undoubtedly a shock to hear themselves concluding the Mass proper with the words, "Thanks be to God." Since childhood they had been taught, "Deo gratias."

Rehearsals at many churches in the days before had worked effectively to insure familiarity for the faithful. In other places there was shuffling of missal inserts and hymn sheets and cautious, inquisitive whispering.

There was confusion over when to stand and when to kneel and many persons used to saying the Rosary or silent prayers found themselves lost in the new participation of the Mass.

But in the main, response seemed favorable. Parishioners acclaimed the feeling of "participation" they experienced. "I really felt as though I belonged," said one Manhattan woman.

The switch to the vernacular was approved last December by the Vatican Council and Pope Paul VI as part of the ecumenical movement to tighten the bond between Christians of all faiths through greater comprehension.

It marked the first change in the language of the Mass since the 4th Century when Latin was officially designed the language of the liturgy.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Protestants and Roman Catholics worshipped together Sunday night, making religious history in a Cambridge church.

Test Set for Space Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The federal space agency said today it plans to send its two-seater Gemini spaceship on its final unmanned test flight next week to clear the way for the first two-man flight early next year.

Project Gemini, follow-on to the successful Mercury program, is designed to keep two men in orbit for up to two weeks to practice for Apollo moon flights expected by 1970.

A space agency spokesman said the date for next week's unmanned Gemini launch depends on the results of a mock flight test set for Wednesday. Informed sources said the shot could come Dec. 7 or Dec. 8.

The 70-minute service in the 204-year-old church included sermons by Rt. Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Episcopal bishop of Massachusetts, and the Most Rev. Thomas J. Riley, auxiliary bishop of the Boston Catholic archdiocese.

Christ Church is across the street from Cambridge Common where Gen. Washington took command of the Continental Army. Some of his troops were billeted in the church for several days during the Revolutionary War.

Nationalist China is considering the possibility of asking the United States to use the veto against Red China if the Peking Regime should win the fight over Chinese representation in the General Assembly of the United Nations. Informed sources say the Nationalists are still confident they can retain their seat by a narrow margin if the issue is put to a vote now. But they fear that if the issue is put off until after the first of the year, enough nations may change their minds to put the result in doubt. The United States consistently has opposed a U. N. seat for Red China and is confident it can stave it off for at least another year without having to fall back on the veto which it never has used.

Steel Nationalization:
Look for Britain's Labor government quietly to shelve its steel nationalization plans for at least a year — and probably longer. The government made nationalization a priority project when it came to power. But it would cost money, and Labor is now hard-pressed to pay for current projects. Besides, the complex legislation would take months to draft, and could be crippled by labor's thin majority in Parliament. Best bet — no nationalization until after another election, which could come as early as spring to give Wilson a chance to increase his majority.

Damned if he does, or doesn't:

No matter what Prime Minister Harold Wilson says in Washington Dec. 7-8, he will have trouble when he gets home. Wilson plans to tell President Johnson about his plans for a broad-scale Atlantic nuclear force, into which Britain would toss its entire nuclear deterrent. If Wilson pushes the plan, he will come under fire of opposition Conservatives who oppose any abandonment of Britain's independent nuclear deterrent. But if he doesn't push it, he will court revolt from the left wing of his own Labor party, which has made such an abandonment a cornerstone of its policy.

Hold-The-Line:
President Charles de Gaulle has given stern orders to his government to hold the line on wages and prices regardless of mounting labor discontent. The unions have scheduled a big protest demonstration in Paris Dec. 2 and a 24-hour public services walkout Dec. 11. These are likely to be only the beginnings of a new wave of labor unrest. But De Gaulle is determined not to weaken.

Fort Ord Stops Basic Training

FT. ORD, Calif. (UPI) — A two-month suspension of basic training begins at Ft. Ord next week as part of a battle to control a meningitis outbreak that has caused 15 deaths on the Army post this year.

A total of 105 soldiers and dependents have been stricken with the disease during the year, and several other cases were reported among off-base civilians who had contact with Ft. Ord trainees.

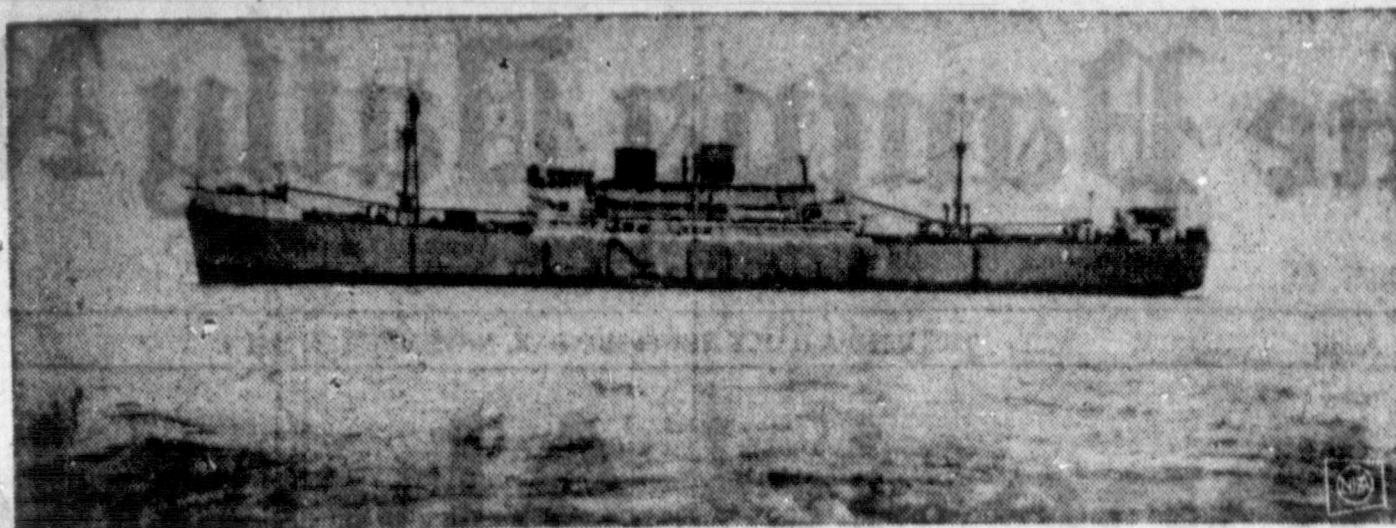

The Army earlier had planned to suspend basic training here for the month of December, but a spokesman said Friday that the suspension will continue through Jan. 31 because "we want to make certain" the disease is wiped out.

Brady Gives LBJ 1914 Fire Truck

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson received a new vehicle Saturday to park alongside his golf cart, Continentals and farm equipment — a 1914 red fire engine.

The pumper truck, in excellent working condition, was a gift from a group of Brady, Tex., citizens to the President, who has become famous for escorting foreign and domestic dignitaries around his LBJ ranch in a golf cart.

The Mayor of Brady, John Rudder, presented Johnson with the keys to the bright-red truck after the President's news conference Saturday. "Everything still works on it real well," he told Johnson.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In rare after cases, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

A WALL PHONE helps make Mom's day in the kitchen less hectic, and those coffee-time chats more enjoyable. The kitchen, after all, is her office, and a telephone is a "must." The wall telephone is handy, but out of the way, and it's available in the decorator colors she's most likely to choose . . . pink, yellow, beige or white.

A PRINCESS® PHONE is a truly personal extension phone for your own "princess" . . . or for yourself. It's a space-saving natural for any room in the home, but the light-up dial makes it an especially appropriate bedroom phone. The Princess phone is available in five colors . . . white, beige, pink, blue or turquoise.

A DESK PHONE makes the den as convenient as Dad's own office, for privacy in making and taking calls. Dad would probably like a beige, green or white one for his den, but for Mom's sewing room, maybe a pink or blue one would fit better. Desk phones are available in all five colors.

Texas Holiday Death Toll Second Highest in Nation

By United Press International
The shadow of violent death dimmed the long holiday weekend in Texas. The state's highway casualty toll was second highest in the nation.

The United Press International count that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and continued until midnight Sunday showed that violence claimed 66 lives in Texas over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Of those deaths, 40 came in traffic. Only New York, where 49 were killed on the roads, had a worse record of traffic fatalities.

Unusual Accidents
A rash of bizarre deaths contributed to the Texas total. A man was stung fatally by a wasp. A young boy choked to death on a peanut. Two persons were blown to bits by an old artillery shell.

That shell was left over from a World War II training camp that used to stand near Wingate, 28 miles southwest of Abilene. It killed Salvador Hernandez, 22, of Wingate and Jessie Rodriguez, 14, of Knox City. Two other persons were injured.

Harold Wayne Stockton, 14 months old, of Dallas, choked to death on the peanut Saturday night. The wasp victim was Iran Fay Shields, 52, who was stung Saturday at his home in Briggs, Tex. He died in a hospital in Lampasas.

Traffic Toll Mounts

The traffic toll mounted Sunday with a car-truck crash in Waco that killed Johnny Powers, 16, and Bryan Denney, 14, both of Waco.

Robert Lee Byford, 36, of Grand Saline was killed Sunday when his automobile smashed into a bridge railing on Interstate Highway 20.

Vinnie Pearl Lawrence, 37, of Mineola died just east of Mineola Sunday when a truck rammed the automobile in which she was riding.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Ray Lyles of Maud, Tex., were killed Sunday in an accident on State Highway 8 near Corley in East Texas. Their car smashed into a tree.

Two Are Injured In Auto Mishaps

Two separate automobile accidents Sunday afternoon injured two persons and caused approximately $1,000 damage.

The first accident occurred near the intersection of Atchison and Cuyler at 12:01 p.m. Slightly injured was Lisa Cook, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cook of Pampa. She was a passenger in an auto driven by her father.

Driver of the other car was Mrs. V. H. Pipes of 200 W. Craven. She was not injured. In the other accident, a 39-year-old Lefors resident received a head cut when two cars collided at the intersection of Frost and Francis.

Injured was Mrs. Vivian N. Hatcher, the driver of one vehicle. Driver of the other car was Mark Stiggins, 28, of 1009 Terry Rd.

Pampa Woman Is Hurt In Graham

Mrs. Henry Butler, 100 N. Rider, was listed as in good condition in a Graham hospital following injuries received in a two-car collision there.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler were riding in a funeral procession when their car was in collision with another vehicle.

Mrs. Butler received several broken ribs and lacerations. Mr. Butler was not injured.

Mercury Falls to 17 Degrees Here

Fair and cold weather kept Pampans bundled up today, but the weatherman promised a little warmer temperatures by tomorrow.

Readings reached lows between 16 and 20 at most points over the Panhandle at 6 a.m. It was 17 in Pampa.

Brownsville at the most tip of Texas had a low of 16, and the coldest was 10 at Brownsville.

Coldest over east and most of Central Texas was the forecast for tonight, with continued cold elsewhere. A warming trend is expected to begin from the west Tuesday, with skies continued generally fair and no rainfall.

Coldest spot in the state last night was Dalhart with a 16 degree reading and the warmest was Brownsville.

Henry C. Link

Funeral services for Henry C. Link, 60, 1704 Hamilton, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Wednesday in First Methodist Church with Rev. Harry Vanderpool officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home. Mr. Link died early Sunday morning in a local hospital.

Mr. Link moved to Pampa in 1927 from Elliasville. He had been employed by Cabot Corp. for 39 years as an electrician. Mr. Link was a member of First Methodist Church and of Congregational Couples Sunday School Class.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. S. K. Moot of Pampa; one son, C. H. (Pete) Link of Oulson; two step-sons, James A. Wilson and Richard A. Wilson, both of Pampa, and five grandchildren.

Palbearers will be H. H. Hahn, Charles Mullican, Henry Ayres, James Ayres, Hubert Phillips, Jones Seitz, Malcolm Denson and Melton Burns. The casket will not be opened at the funeral services.

Henry S. McAllister

Funeral services for Henry S. McAllister, 78, of Skellytown, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home Chapel with Jim Perkins, minister of Skellytown Church of Christ, officiating. Burial will follow in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. McAllister was killed Friday night in an automobile accident northeast of Pawhuska, Okla. He was a retired farmer and was a member of Skellytown Church of Christ.

Surviving are one son, Orbie McAllister of Cuccamonga, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Sam Morgan and Mrs. Ben Neely, both of Skellytown; one brother, George McAllister of Avon Park, Fla.; 12 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Oscar F. Johnson

Funeral services for Oscar F. Johnson, 76, 409 S. Ballard, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in First Assembly of God Church with Rev. J. S. McMullan officiating. Interment will be in Memory Gardens. Mr. Johnson was pronounced dead on arrival at a local hospital Saturday night.

Mr. Johnson had been a Pampa resident 40 years. He was self-employed as a farm implement repairman. He was a member of First Assembly of God Church.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Raymond V. Johnson of Pampa and Roy W. Johnson of Durango, Colo.; three step-daughters, Mrs. John Walls and Mrs. Dale Crowl, both of Amalillo and Mrs. Foy Johnson of Vernon. 11 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

38th Eucharistic Congress Opens Today in Bombay

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — The 38th International Eucharistic Congress of the Roman Catholic Church got down to work today with anticipation mounting over the impending visit of Pope Paul VI.

Delegates to the congress opened working sessions with a Chaldean Rite Mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Name and a Eucharistic Crusader's rally.

Daylong study sessions were mapped out for Catholic prelates and priests and visitors of other nationalities to discuss problems ranging from worldwide activities of the church to local Asian famine.

Pope Files Here

In the longest journey ever undertaken by a reigning Pope, the pontiff will fly here Wednesday for a three-day visit to the congress. His scheduled visit has brought more than 100,000 visitors to this port city of 4.5 million and raised worries of demonstrations by Hindu fanatics.

Militant Hindu groups — primarily the Jan Sangh and the Hindu Mahasabha — have denounced the papal visit as a "missionary invasion," but arrests of many radical leaders and stern government warnings against disorder appeared to have forestalled protests.

(At the Vatican City, the Pope asked for prayers that his visit to the congress be understood as "a message of brotherhood and peace.")

One congress session today brought together bishops and professors from England, France and Italy for a discussion of "a living faith—the believer in the modern world."

Outfitted with Altar

A late mass was to be said in the Central Oval, a park and sports field lined with palm and coconut trees in the center of the city. It has been outfitted with an altar and crucifix and thousands of seats as the central site of congress activities.

The congress began officially Saturday when Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian was enthroned as the personal representative of the pontiff.

The huge oval served Sunday for a ceremony in which Communion was administered to 10,000 boys and girls.

Presiding was Ukrainian Bishop Josef Slupij of Lvov, who was released from a Soviet prison last year after 14 years of detention.

Winnie Observes 90th Birthday

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill, doughty principal in two world wars and a thousand other high points of 20th century history, today marked with characteristic mettle a personal milestone—his 90th birthday. Moving serenely into his tenth decade, the old warrior planned a quiet birthday dinner at his London home with Clementine—his wife of 55 years — and about 14 members of his family and close friends.

Sherman Outlines Plan for Texas Redistricting

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Newly elected state Rep. W. C. (Bud) Sherman outlined a method of congressional redistricting Saturday that he said is both compact and contains nearly equal population for each district.

Sherman, a Democrat, said his suggestions also works new districts for the big-city areas of Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio into an overall "justifiable statewide plan that would meet population and compactness guidelines."

Texas legislators must either draw new boundaries for the state's 23 congressmen or have a federal court do the job.

Sherman said Harris County, with a 1960 population of 1,243,153, should maintain its "uniqueness as a political entity by division into three districts" of equal size, to be determined at the local level.

Bexar County, with 687,151 population, has more than enough population for one district, but falls far short of enough for two districts. Sherman recommends that part of Bexar County form one district, and that the remaining area be included in a district containing twelve other counties. He said there are several geographic partitions which would lend themselves to a solution of the Bexar County problem, with division to best be accomplished at the local level.

"The Tarrant - Dallas County problem represents, geographically, one of the most complicated to solve," he said. "Because of the heavier concentration of population in counties north of Tarrant and Dallas (as compared with populations of counties to the south)."

Sherman said his plan "does the least violence to city limits and presents a compact picture." Although any proposed solution would be highly unfavorable, unpalatable, and unacceptable to many.

'Sixth Sense' Study Proves to Be Intriguing

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of five dispatches on extra-sensory perception by the national reporter of United Press International who recently made an extensive study of this intriguing new science which many refer to as a "sixth sense."

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International
One day Hubert Pearce, a divinity student at Duke University, defied odds of 296,023,223-to-1 and won. A pile of 25 cards was placed face down on a table and Pearce correctly identified every one of them and in the precise order in which they had been shuffled.

Dr. J. B. Rhine of Duke University devised a special set of cards to test extra-sensory powers. It is a pack of 25. Five of the cards show a star, five a cross, five a circle, five a square and five three parallel wavy lines.

The person being tested tries to identify each card in order, like this: "Cross, square, circle cross, waves." The law of averages dictates that by pure luck you will get five correct out of the 25. If you can average eight or nine over extended experiments, you can consider you have some talent for extra-sensory perception. The odds are enormous against getting 15 right and almost prohibitive against a perfect score.

You do not have to use Rhine's symbols on the cards, but can devise your own if you wish. Ordinary playing cards are unsuitable because the pack contains only four suits.

Skeptics who think those odds are ridiculously high are invited to try for themselves. But they had better be prepared to give up their jobs and devote the rest of their lives to guessing cards, doubtless they will die frustrated because they were unable to achieve in a lifetime what Pearce did in one flashing, inspired moment. Pearce himself was never able to do it again, although for some time he scored beyond the law of averages.

But it was a day of triumph for Dr. J. B. Rhine of Duke and his long research into extra-sensory perception. That is a scientific term which unscientific persons translate when we say somebody has a "sixth sense". All normal persons have five senses. We can speak, touch things, hear, taste and smell. But some persons—roughly about one out of every five of us—can perform feats that cannot be explained in terms of the conventional five senses. Like Pearce, they have extra-sensory perception.

Feats Described Later
Some of their bewildering feats will be described later, but first warning signs must be hoisted. Extra-sensory perception is a comparatively new science and does not pretend to offer the answer to such questions, for instance, as whether there is proof of life after death. We will be dealing with scientists who are not afraid to say "I don't know" when they cannot explain a phenomenon that develops during their experiments.

Here and now we part company with fake mediums and vaudeville mind readers. Few, if any, of the mind readers you see in the theater are using extra-sensory perception as the lady sits blind-folded on the stage and her assistant moves through the audience asking her to identify objects. They do it with a word code ("madam, describe this object" means a wallet whereas "describe this object, madam" means a bracelet). With intensive practice they can develop a technique that enables madam to read the numerals on your dollar bill.

Fake mediums who impose cruelly upon believers in the religion of spiritualism operate in dark rooms to a mumbo-jumbo ritual. Rhine's experiments with extra-sensory perception are performed in sunlit rooms where every possible safeguard has been set up against fraud and collusion.

Climbs Rough Road
Extra-sensory perception has climbed a rough road against skepticism. For years most psychologists looked at Rhine with the sour expression of a doctor listening to a carnival spieler peddling patent medicine. An eminent British scientist commented "I don't believe it now and even if it turns out to be true I won't believe it."

Rhine was subjected to insults and virtually called a scientific convention in the early years of his experiments. Today the study of extra-sensory perception is accepted as a science almost everywhere in the world. It even has penetrated the Iron Curtain and significant research has been done in Leningrad and Prague.

But some skepticism remains. Largely it is based on the contention that Pearce should have been able to identify 25 cards every hour on the hour. If the human mind can perform miraculous feats, it should be able to do it on schedule and on demand.

That criticism is impossible to answer because neither Rhine nor Pearce knows why there was success against odds so high as to be almost prohibitive. Right now Rhine is pressing forward with a series of trial and error experiments in a patient search for the answer.

Critics Want All

Critics want all or nothing results, yes or no answers. For instance, one aspect of extra-sensory perception is called precognition — the ability to project the mind into the future and make correct predictions. There is strong laboratory evidence that this happens, but you can put aside the idea that extra-sensory perception can make it possible for you to know what General Motors stock will be selling for a year from today.

What the critics want, and right now, is for Rhine to spread the entire future on a screen before their eyes. From a scientific standpoint this is roughly equivalent to a demand on the Wright Brothers to build and operate a space capsule the day after their airplane soared off a North Carolina sand dune.

Another aspect of extra-sensory perception is called petrocognition — the possibility that the mind can penetrate the past. This inflames the imagination of historians and archeologists who want Rhine to get on with it quickly so they can march through Persia with Alexander the Great, have a last-figs-words-with-Socrates, as he drinks the poison imposed upon him by an ungrateful nation, and occupy a ringside seat at Achilles and Hector do battle at the walls of Troy.

Before such things can even be considered the science of extra-sensory perception must slowly grow to adulthood and be able to take giant strides. Right now it is a baby trying to learn to crawl.

Dear Abby... Paperboy Pays for Dogs' Punishment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a paperboy who has a terrible problem with dogs and I think I know why. In all the books on how to train pets, people are advised to hit them with a rolled-up newspaper. Dogs are smart and they know where the paper comes from. So guess who gets bitten? The customer always says the dog is nice and never bites anybody, so he can't understand why the dog only bites the paperboy. All the paperboys I know have the same trouble so I wish you would please answer this. Thank you.

BOB F.
DEAR BOB: Your theory may be correct, and could be helpful to those who are presently training pets. But it won't save the paperboys from dogs that have already learned to hate the sight of a newspaper and consequently the one who delivers it. Ask the owners of unfriendly dogs please to keep them tied up while you deliver the newspaper. They'll appreciate it. The laws concerning vicious pets have "teeth" in them.

DEAR ABBY: Greg and I have been going together for two years and we plan to become engaged in about a year or so. A while back he mentioned that his mother had a valuable pearl ring that belonged to his grandmother, and when he got engaged, he could have the ring to give to his girl. I didn't say anything at the time. However, this still bothers me as I want very much to have a modern diamond engagement ring. Would it be wrong to tell Greg this? I suppose Greg thinks any girl would consider it an honor to wear

Brown Defense Defeats Eagles

By GARY KALE
 UPI Sports Writer

It isn't every coach who can brag of a defensive unit that goes both ways. Cleveland Browns' Coach Blanton Collier moved a step closer to the Eastern Division title and a National Football League championship battle with Baltimore Sunday when his defensive stalwarts produced three touchdowns en route to a 38-24 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Browns can clinch next Sunday when they meet the second-place St. Louis Cardinals in a showdown battle. A victory or tie assures Cleveland of its first Eastern title since 1957.

Cleveland defenders put the first three Brown touchdowns on the scoreboard.

On the opening kickoff, Philadelphia's Tim Brown fumbled the ball on the 12 and reserve tackle Roger Shoals recovered in the end zone for Cleveland. The Browns added two more "defensive" touchdowns in a 33-second span late in the second quarter when defensive end Sid Williams recovered a blocked punt behind the Philadelphia goal line and Jim Houston ran an intercepted pass back 42 yards to give Cleveland a comfortable 21-3 lead.

The Browns scored their other two TD's on passes of 24 and 13 yards from Frank Ryan to John Brewer.

Defends Title
 MANCHESTER, Eng. (UPI) — Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach attempts his second defense of the world light heavyweight crown here tonight against Britain's Terry Downes.

Cockney, brown-haired Downes, who learned to box while a member of the United States Marines, is a former world middleweight champion and now a wealthy English betting commissioner.

However, Downes is on the wrong end of the odds tonight for the scheduled 15-round fight with 29-year-old Pastrano here at King's Hall.

Black-haired Pastrano is favored at 11-1 because of his speed, elusiveness, ruggedness and slashing left jab.

Only nine perfect record teams were among the 32 survivors heading into this week's Texas schoolboy football quarterfinals.

They were Amarillo Tascosa and Galena Park High of Class AAAA, Andrews and Vidor of Class AAA, Denver City, Atlanta, Taylor and Palacios of Class AA and Hull-Daisetta of Class A, last season's San Marcos and Class A's Clifton and Rosebud were unbeaten, but defending state champion Garland of AAAA, Andrews, Denver City and Hull-Daisetta remained in the precarious favorite's roles as the teams lined up like this for the round of eight:

AAAA — Ysleta High vs. Tascosa, Fort Worth Paschal vs. Garland, Houston Jones vs. Galena Park and McAllen vs. San Antonio Highlands.

AAA — Andrews vs. Wichita Falls Hirschi, Bonham vs. Palestine, Vidor vs. Lamar Consolidated and San Marcos vs. Kerrville.

AA — Denver City vs. Stamford, Marlin vs. Atlanta, Taylor vs. Fort Acres and Palacios vs. Los Fresnos.

A — Stratford vs. Big Lake, Archer City vs. Clifton, Jefferson vs. Rosebud and Hull-Daisetta vs. Ingleside.

Favored Teams
 Tascosa, Garland, Galena Park, McAllen, Andrews, Palestine, Vidor, San Marcos, Denver City, Atlanta, Taylor, Palacios, Big Lake, Clifton, Jefferson and Hull-Daisetta are favored to emerge into next week's semifinals.

But, upsets have marked the playoffs thus far and there is no reason to expect that the trend will not catch up with some of the favorites this week. Some of them already have had narrow escapes.

Garland, for example, had to advance past Texarkana 20-16 last week. Tascosa had to go all out to put down Fort Worth Castleberry 14-7 and McAllen slipped by Waco Richfield 22-21.

Dumas Upset
 Andrews upended AAA's top-ranked Dumas 15-14 to get his far. Big Lake had its busiest night of the year before it could turn back Seagraves 44-38 and Hull-Daisetta squeaked past Waller 8-0.

Some of the survivors got to this point by staging upsets of their own, like Ysleta's 10-7 margin over Odessa High. Pas-

Parilli Passes Prop Pats

By JOHN EVANS
 UPI Sports Writer

Veteran Babe Parilli is becoming the nonpareil among American Football League passers.

The former University of Kentucky star, who has spent 11 years in the pro football ranks, couldn't be surpassed Sunday as he tossed three touchdown passes while leading the Boston Patriots to a 34-17 victory over the hapless Houston Oilers.

In other games, Dick Wood threw two TD passes as the New York Jets handed the Kansas City Chiefs a 27-14 defeat and Mike Mercer boosted a 40-yard field goal with just 3:39 remaining to earn the Oakland Raiders a 20-20 tie with the Denver Broncos.

Wood hurled scoring passes of 20 yards to Bake Turner and 40 yards to rookie fullback Matt Snell.

Abner Haynes accounted for both Kansas City touchdowns by sweeping left end for three yards in the third quarter. The other came on an 80-yard gallop.

Mercer's tying field goal for Oakland was set up by a Tom Flores to Art Powell pass good for 77 yards.

Denver had taken the lead with a 90-yard touchdown drive and two field goals by Dick Guesman, but Flores' passing brought the Raiders back in the game.

Southern Cal Fails to Get Rose Bowl Bid

By United Press International

A college football season can't be written off as a success or failure until the last game is over, and sometimes not even then.

The finale meant everything to Army and Notre Dame, but Southern California, Oregon, State and Alabama didn't know how to rate their success even after the final whistle had blown on their own last games.

Palacios (11-1, 483-76) at Fresno, Friday, 8 p.m.

CLASS AA
 Denver City (12-0, 406-50) vs. Stamford (9-3, 189-104) at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Snyder.

Marlin (10-1, 276-95) vs. Atlanta (11-0, 200-21) at 8 p.m. Friday at Nagodoches.

Taylor (12-0, 366-91) at Port Acres (11-1, 362-95) at Houston, Saturday, 8 p.m.

Palacios (11-1, 310-45) vs. Los Fresno, Friday, 8 p.m.

Pro Grid Battle Over Signing Up

By FRED DOWN
 UPI Sports Writer

Illinois linebacker Dick Butkus and Baylor flanker Larry Elkins became the central figures today in the battle of dollars between the National and American Football leagues.

Twenty-four hours after the rival pro leagues announced their drafts in neighboring New York hotels, the NFL was able to announce the signing of nine stars while the AFL had seven of the glamorous college acadin its fold. But the dickering in high financial circles was only beginning and already big struggles were shaping up between the Chicago Bears and the Denver Broncos for the 245-pound Butkus and between the Green Bay Packers and the Houston Oilers for Elkins.

Butkus, regarded by some experts as the No. 1 college player of 1964, was the No. 1 draft choice of both the Bears and the Broncos while Elkins, who set several pass receiving records for Baylor, was chosen first by both the Packers and the Oilers.

Makes Outstanding Offer
 Butkus is reported leaning toward the Bears of the NFL, but Denver General Manager Cal Kunz says he has made the big fellow "an offer he can't possibly refuse." The Broncos may be inclined to increase the offer to new heights because they have already lost several of their other top draft picks to NFL clubs.

Elkins may also be inclined to sign with the NFL's Packers but the Oilers are untying their purse strings just as they did last year when they obtained Don Trull and Sean Anglin on the draft. The Oilers are eager to reunite Elkins with Elkins who formed a brilliant passing combination at Baylor.

Halfback Ken Willard of North Carolina is expected to sign shortly with the San Francisco Forty-Niners on a game-by-game NFL contract over an AFL rival. Six teams have already signed their No. 1 picks — the New York Giants, Los Angeles Rams, Baltimore Colts and Detroit Lions of the NFL, and the Buffalo Bills and Oakland Raiders of the AFL.

Giants Start Draft
 The Giants started the NFL's marathon session Saturday by making fullback Tucker Frazier of Auburn their No. 1 choice — and soon after announced they had signed him.

Other No. 1 choices signed by NFL clubs were halfback Clarence Williams (Washington State) by the Rams, fullback Mike Curtis (Duke) by the Colts and fullback Tomy Nowatzke (Indiana) by the Lions.

First-round picks signed by AFL clubs were tackle Jim Davidson (Ohio State) by the Bills and guard Harry Schüb (Memphis State) by the Raiders. The Raiders also signed tackle Rich Zecher of Utah State, fullback Gus Otto of Missouri and halfback Larry Todd of Arizona State — the last named a first-round "future" who decided to forego his senior year in college to start his professional career in 1965.

Sporting Sidelines

By JEFF COHANE

The sports headlines are even more — revoltingly — commercial this morning than usual as the National and American Football Leagues get down to the battle of signing their draft choices, loudly proclaiming their triumphs in a manner highly reminiscent of an Apache waving a scalp or a headhunter displaying his trophies.

On the other hand, it may be merely the same silliness as the commercials on television. Paul Hornung uses our razor, why don't you?

Whatever it is, the whole thing is somewhat akin to either a slave auctioning or the herding of prisoners in a concentration camp. Of course, in this case the prisoners don't mind.

As a matter of fact, their not minding, in fact, their loving of the whole thing is what makes it so disgusting. If this is the culmination of big-time college football, then I honestly get the feeling — do away with big-time college football.

I know, a might be doing myself out of a living by advocating such a thing and I suppose every sports publicity director worthy of the name will immediately drum me off his mailing list. After all, wasn't one of the first names drafted a Texas Tech boy? Doesn't West Texas get a lot of prestige from the fact that so many of its players go pro? Aren't I proud of the fact that a large number of Pampa and area boys have made the pro ranks?

Frankly... no! College football for the sake of college football is, or rather was, wonderful... and if a boy turned pro after he got out of college, that was all to the good.

But college football for no other purpose than as a farm system for pro football is something I would just as soon do without. The public bidding, fighting for, buying and selling of college students while they are still in college... indeed while most of them still have games to play.

The worst part of the whole reeking mess is the drafting of Jan. 29 heavy-weight elimination bout at Madison Square Garden who still have college eligibility and tempting them to abandon college for the pros. This has happened too many times to be funny... last year's All-American end from the Pacific Coast who started flatly that he didn't care about learning to block, he wouldn't have to in the pros.

Latest out-and-out purchase by the pros is halfback Larry Todd of Arizona State, a "future" who decided to forego his senior year in college to start his professional career.

When they don't even bother finishing college in order to start their pro career that much earlier, it seems ample proof that big-time football is just a farm system for the pros. I don't know what the solution is, I guess it is up to the colleges themselves. Of course, if they sit back supinely and take it pro football will end up like a pro wrestling of boxing and college football will be forced to return to the Ivy League system (which all things considered isn't such a bad idea). Of course the day might come when the pros will be granting high school "futures," but that's another story. Anybody wanna buy a ballplayer?

The UN Hassle Over Paying Dues

Surprising as it may seem Washington appears to be maintaining a stiff-necked attitude on the Russian refusal to pay its $61 million assessment to the UN for "peace-keeping" operations. And since the USSR has now been in arrears more than the requisite two years for punitive action, the US seems disposed to insist on enforcement of Article 19 of the Charter which says that members thus delinquent must lose their vote in the Assembly.

Evidence of this unprecedentedly tough attitude is seen in a refusal in recent days to give any pledge of support to the various UN aid programs under the Article 19-hassle is settled. And considering that the US has been paying 32 per cent of the UN's annual $100 million budget and 40 per cent of the $150 million budget of its specialized satellite agencies - and the further facts that the UN is presently $134 million in debt and that Secretary U Thant has asked a $104 million budget for 1965 - the global fat-cats of the East River No-Man's Land await tomorrow's convening of the Assembly with uneasiness.

And this reminds us that at the time of the UN opening in September four years ago, New Yorkers were loudly demanding the removal of this Tower of Babel, this carnival of international spies and global thugs whose continued existence has required outrageously expensive chaperonage by the N. Y. Police Department, and whose arrogance (with diplomatic immunity) has been a constant affront to the taxpayers.

At that time, the Scripps-Howard papers suggested that the cost of special police protection might well pay the moving bill. The N. Y. Times quoted John C. Wiley, State Department veteran of the Moscow and Berlin diplomatic fronts as saying: "Manhattan is clearly not suitable as a foreign enclave for a United Nations city," while that torch-bearing liberal, Doris Fleeson, expressed the belief that Congress would "gladly vote the funds to move the UN to Switzerland." Human Events suggested "a neutral island," and said that William Zeckendorf, Sr., "Mr. Real Estate," had told them that the UN layout in private hands "would become one of the most valuable pieces of real estate in the world."

This latter comment is significant now when U Thant plans to spend more than a million of UN's non-existent dollars on improving the premises.

Certainly, if the US was the abused host four years ago, it has been thoroughly trampled by now. And, if we are finally getting tough enough to expect delinquent members to pay up, it is possible we might also gather up the courage to take in the "welcome" mat.

The Sparrow's Fall

Our Government, in its concern with minutia, has yet to mark the sparrow's fall, but through the National Labor Relations Board it has become involved with the passing of dogs and cats.

It seems that the Teamsters Union set out to organize a couple of pet cemeteries in Peoria, Ill., and wanted an N.L.R.B. election. In order for the N.L.R.B. to order such an election, it is necessary for the pet cemeteries to be in interstate commerce to a significant degree.

As few out-of-state owners of delectable animals seem to ship them to Peoria for burial, and as local pets, once laid to rest, remain in Illinois soil, it was a little hard to decide that Cemetery Service Corporation was, indeed, in interstate commerce. But the three Board members who weighed the case were equal to the task.

Aha, they said, so to speak. "His outfit does not ship animal cadavers in and out, but they must ship something in and out. The Board, with some help from the Teamsters and the General Counsel, painstakingly totted up what the cemeteries had bought. Among the items was more than a thousand dollars worth of asphalt, some marble for making mausoleums, and some type-writers for communicating with suppliers and bereft pet owners. Still, more items were needed to reach the $50,000 point at which N.L.R.B. could claim jurisdiction.

They added in a leaf blower and a snowplow bought outside Illinois. Still not enough? Well, how about that statue. Sure enough, toss on the statue and the scales swing. Hooray! The N.L.R.B. won the day, apparently by the gift of an idealized rendering of Rover or Tom. The N.L.R.B.'s interest in the sculpture didn't extend to saying in its decision whether it was of dog or cat.

The result is that the Teamsters will be privileged to hold their election in a pet cemetery. That's a new twist for Illinois, although the occupants of ordinary cemeteries there have been known to vote in general elections.

A Risky Business

It's part of the American legend that fortunes were won and lost at the drop of a hat, as the nation's economy grew and expanded. That's history.

But we also have the impression that business has so stabilized that today major industries need not subject themselves to drastic risks. Reasonable growth, supposedly, can be achieved under only reasonable risk.

So, it came as somewhat of a shock to us to learn, from a recent survey, that the petroleum industry has been spending more than $2.5 billion per year in just drilling and equipping wells in the constant search for more oil and gas - and that about $850 million of that, each year, literally goes down the drain in dry holes.

The survey was for 1962, because it understandably takes a while to obtain, evaluate and tabulate such figures. But the same survey points out that drilling costs are going up - not down.

If the hundreds of big and little companies which compete in this field were unable or unwilling to risk these astronomical figures, you can imagine what would happen to the prices of our gasoline - and other petroleum products.

The average cost of an oil well in 1962 was $54,000; of a gas well, $97,000. And the average cost of 17,000 dry holes was $51,000 per hole.

That, as the man said, is an expensive and risky business.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Monday, November 30th, the 335th day of 1964 with 31 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill was born on this day.

On this day in history:

In 1782, preliminary peace articles ending the Revolutionary War were signed in Paris.

In 1949, the Communists captured Chungking, China.

WASHINGTON:

KGB Played Big Role in K's Ouster

By B. RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Kremlinologists here think the publicized promotions just announced by Soviet bosses Brezhnev and Kosygin are personal payoffs to men who helped oust Khrushchev.

By this reasoning, Soviet security police (KGB) played a heavy part in the coup. Aleksandr N. Shelepin, Communist Party Secretariat member responsible for supervising the KGB, was made a full member of the ruling Presidium. V. Semichastny, chairman of the Committee for State Security and head of the KGB, was promoted to full membership on the Central Committee of the Communist party.

The security police may thus play a stronger - than - previously - predicted role in the Brezhnev-Kosygin regime.

Kremlinologists talked to here find it "striking" that no military figures were rewarded in these payoffs.

One analyst claims, rightly or wrongly, that this omission at this particular time "dispels the idea that the military played a key role" in the coup. His conclusion is now echoed by other analysts interviewed here who had previously conjectured a strong military part in Khrushchev's ouster. (But no one argues the military didn't favor the change or that military leaders on the Party Central Committee didn't vote for removing Mr. K.)

The recalculations seem to indicate, indeed, that party control over the Soviet military is being strengthened. A. S. Yepishchev, party watchdog over armed forces, for example, was just rewarded with a full membership on the Communist Party Central Committee.

The personal - reward nature of these promotions strengthens the belief here that the coup was a personal reach for power (by individuals and groups) rather than a fight for change in policies or methods, though, of course, policy changes may result.

Kremlinologists see sign that attempts had been made for months to get Khrushchev to retire gracefully. But Khrushchev, the word goes, wouldn't retire. The story is that he used quite vulgar language to associates who suggested retirement.

These four countries already owe the U.S. more than $1 billion. But they are in worse straits than when they got these whopping loans.

The supplemental appropriation would be in addition to the $3.3 billion foreign aid budget voted by Congress, after a long bruising battle, for the current fiscal year.

Budget Director Kermit Gordon is against the State Department proposal. The former member of the Council of Economic Advisers is not objecting to the idea of lending more millions to these already heavily indebted South American nations. He is not balking at this part of the State Department's plan.

Gordon disapproves of asking Congress to vote another $600 or $750 million for foreign aid, only to follow that several months later with the regular multi-billion dollar foreign aid budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. He contends this would adversely affect both appropriations.

The Budget Director is taking the position that if more large-scale loans are to be given Latin American countries, the money should come from unobligated funds of the $3.3 billion foreign aid budget voted by Congress. More than $1 billion of this giant appropriation is still available.

For years, the foreign aid administration has wound up with hundreds of millions of unspent funds. In 1963 the total was upwards of $400 million; this year, another big surplus.

It is these very considerable uncommitted funds that should be used, Gordon is telling the President, for more bailing out of the South American debtors. Another tactical advantage he is stressing is that this would not require congressional consideration. It could be done by administrative decision - and thus avoid a stormy and uncertain clash in Capitol Hill.

EASY COME, EASY GO - Since 1946 the U.S. has loaned more than $3.3 billion to Latin American countries - in addition to outright grants of more than $2.454 billion. Most of these loans are for 40 years, at 4 1/2 per cent interest, with a moratorium on the principal the first 10 years.

The U.S. Treasury pays an average of 4 per cent interest

Supplemental Millions for Shaky Latin American Nations Urged; Gordon Recommends Using Uncommitted Funds

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON - President Johnson has before him a special huge foreign aid proposal that he knows full well would be certain to be vehemently opposed in Congress - by Democrats as well as Republicans.

The State Department is pressing for a supplemental appropriation of between $600 and $750 million to be used for granting more low-interest, long-term loans to fiscally seriously shaky Latin American countries - notably inflation - wracked Brazil, dissension - torn Argentina, and economically insecure Chile and Peru.

Chile's new President Eduardo Frei is strenuously pleading for $150 million to make good his campaign promises of economic stabilization and major social and other reforms. Argentina and Peru also are after hefty loans.

Official sources estimate it is costing Latin American countries around $1.9 billion this year to meet interest and principal payments on debts owed throughout the world - with the U.S. holding the biggest bag. Of this immense sum, $1.4 billion is owed by three countries - Brazil, Argentina and Chile.

In addition to the billions in direct U.S. loans, all the Latin American countries (with the exception of Communist-ruled Cuba) have borrowed some $900 million from the Inter-American Development Bank in the three years it has been in operation.

Launched in 1961 with a paid-in capital of $381.58 million, of which the U.S. put up approximately one-half, the Bank early this year increased that to $525 million, with the U.S. adding another $131 million. IAD loans average 5 1/2 per cent interest, and run slightly more than five years.

Largest borrowers are Brazil, $136.465 million; Argentina $109.428 million; Mexico $111.964 million; Chile $82.214 million; Colombia $77.466 million; Venezuela $76.906 million; Peru $41.372 million.

LEARNING ITS LESSON - Brazil is having painful second thoughts about its much-touted coffee-for-oil deal with Russia.

The Brazilians have discovered that the Communists are reselling the coffee in Europe below Brazilian prices - thus undercutting the Latin American producer, in one of its major markets.

This is nothing new for the Soviet, but it's a jarring experience for Brazil. That's the inside reason for the latter's exploring the possibility of buying Venezuelan oil from U.S. companies there. This situation is also an important factor in Brazil's overtures for $500 million in new U.S.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank J. Markey

The recent death of former President Herbert Hoover eliminated the possibility of an historic photograph of a President of the U.S. and three ex-presidents, Hoover, Truman and Eisenhower. The same situation has not existed since 1869, when U.S. Grant became the 18th chief executive. Living at that time were Millard Fillmore, Franklin Pierce and Andrew Johnson, but unfortunately for posterity Matthew Brady, the Bachrach of that day, never got them together. When John Adams was inaugurated in 1795, four men who had held the office previously were extant: John Adams (his father), Thomas Jefferson, James Madison and James Monroe. But there were no cameras in those days.

Today's smile: At Parris Island the hard-boiled Marine Drill Instructor surveyed the platoon of new recruits and said: "You're a lot of sad sacks. Your ties are crooked. Your pants aren't shined. Your pants aren't pressed. But I suppose I should be thankful because the nation's not at war."

The do-it-yourself technique has entered the music business. Self-teaching courses in playing an instrument are well known, but an organ firm now sells an "assemble-it-yourself" electronic organ, which can be put together with such household tools as pliers and a screwdriver.

Excuses won't do; he stands no sort of flummery. "Please, sir, here's Mr. Winter, the tax collector. He says he has called for taxes." Hook would not be interrupted, but went on at the pianoforte, as if nothing had happened, with the following stanza:

"Here comes Mr. Winter, collector of taxes. I advises you to pay him whatever he axes:

Excuses won't do; he stands no sort of flummery. Though Winter his name is, his presence is summary."

Patient - How can I ever repay you for your kindness to me?

Doctor - By cheque, postal order, or cash.

Many owe the grandeur of their lives to their tremendous difficulties.

A man is never so weak as when a pretty girl is telling him how strong he is.

Adversity causes some men to break, but it causes others to break records.

He told police that one of the men menaced him with a wench while the other covered him with a revolver. - McDonnelville (Ohio) paper.

The best way to avoid a hangover is to keep drinking.

Fellow - My girl has varicose veins, doctor. What do you do?

They would have to be "soft loans" as Brazil, already stultified in debt and seriously threatened with run-away inflation, is a dubious credit risk.

FOREIGN FLASHES - President Johnson or Vice President Hubert Humphrey will visit Venezuela sometime next year. That's what Caracas authorities are claiming, on the basis, they say, of information from the U.S. ambassador. Also according to these sources, Johnson "plans an extensive tour of Latin America in 1965"

... The U.S. contributes some $60 million to the annual budget of the tiny kingdom of Jordan. Without this big handout, that Arab country would quickly be in serious financial and other difficulties. Despite this crucial aid, Jordan has signed a contract with a Nigerian concern for 350,000 cans of corned beef. What this deal amounts to is that the U.S., with an abundance of salable beef, is underwriting this transaction. . . . Poland is providing Communist-ruled Cuba with a new glass plant, and a number of technicians to install it and train local workers. This is another deal the U.S. is indirectly underwriting. The U.S. has some $450 million in counterparty funds in Poland from the sale of surplus foodstocks at bargain prices. This huge total is in Polish currency which can be used only in a limited way in Poland.

National Outlook

By GEORGE HAGEDORN

Never underestimate the Power . . . .
Unnoticed by almost everybody except statisticians, a quiet revolution has been going on in the composition of the American labor force. The women have been moving in, and at a rate far faster than the men.

Since 1947 there has been a net increase of about 5 million in the number of male job-holders or jobseekers. (The labor force is regarded as including both those who have a job and those who are looking for one.) But the increase in the number of female workers or would-be workers has been nearly 9 million during the same period.

When the increases are put in percentage terms the difference is even more striking. The male labor force has increased by 12 percent during the past 17 years, while the female labor force has increased by 52 percent. The men still outnumber the women among that part of the population which goes out to work for a living. But their lead has been cut down substantially - from almost three-quarters of the total right after World War II to less than two-thirds of it at present.

The trend toward increasing participation by women in the economic world is not a sudden development of the last two or three years. It has been going on gradually but steadily over the entire postwar period.

And there are no clear signs that this development has by now run its course. About 80 percent of the males over 14 are in the labor force at present and about 40 percent of the females. Presumably there will always be more men working than women - although we say even this with hesitation. But there is no obvious reason to assume that female participation will stop at 40 percent.

One can only speculate on the causes of this phenomenon. The explanation that women have to go to work because of rising unemployment among their menfolk doesn't seem very convincing. The influx was just about as great when the unemployment rate was down around 3 percent as it has been more recently with unemployment over 5 percent.

One contributing factor has been the fact that the sectors of our economy where employment has been increasing are those which typically hire large numbers of women - retail and wholesale trade and the service industries. The predominantly male sectors like manufacturing, mining and rail transportation have not, on the net, been generating new jobs.

Apparently large numbers of women want to supplement their family incomes and they are finding increasing opportunities for doing so. Either community prejudices against women working have declined, or else the women just don't care about them.

In any case, the striking economic growth of the last few years could not have occurred without the contribution of the working women. By a rough calculation, if the increase in the number of women in the labor force since 1947 had been only in the same proportion as the number of men, the annual national output would now be some $50 billion less than it is.

Could we have had the automobile boom of the 1960's, for example, without the increasing contribution of women to family incomes?

Withdrawn Group May Lead to Answer to Historical Mystery

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Virtually withdrawn from civilization yet retaining contact through television, a mysterious group of people called the Melungeons appears headed for extinction in the mountains of Tennessee. Historians are divided over their ancestry, tracing their origin variously Spanish explorers, the lost colony of Roanoke, and to the ancient city of Carthage. A UPI reporter recently visited the Melungeons in an effort to learn more about their background.)

By JOHN GAMBLE
United Press International
SNEEDVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A narrow dirt road winding up a mountainside in east Tennessee may lead to the answer to one of history's mysteries.

But the chances of such a revelation are extremely dim. For the road ends in the land of the Melungeons, a shy and clanish people who refuse to discuss their background.

Local historians say the Melungeons may be descendants of the lost colony of Roanoke, which disappeared shortly after it was founded on the North Carolina coast by English explorer Sir Walter Raleigh.

These historians say the colony's inhabitants migrated south instead of west because of the barrier of the Great Smoky Mountains.

Other theories regarding the ancestry of the Melungeons are that they are descendants of a band which left Spanish explorer Hernando DeSoto's party to search for gold and silver in the Tennessee mountains; that they are a mixture of Indian and Negro (the state Supreme Court ruled in 1959 the Melungeons were not Negro); and that they are descendants of people who lived in the ancient city of Carthage.

Migrants From Carthage
The latter theory is the most widely accepted and what information the Melungeons have imparted seems to support it. This theory is that after Carthage was destroyed by Roman legions in 745 B.C., some inhabitants fled to Morocco, where they intermarried with Moors, and later migrated to Gibraltar, Portugal and South Carolina. Because of their dark skin, many were sold into slavery hundreds of years later, but some escaped into the mountains of Tennessee and Virginia.

The only "true" Melungeons left, however, reside in the nearby mountainside area known as "Snake Hollow" and "Mulberry Gap." Comprising about a dozen families, the Melungeons live in small cabins dotted with television antennae. The dirt road to the area is impassable by car in the winter because of ice and snow.

It has been the mixing—and intermarriage — of Melungeon youths with the young people of Sneedville, a town seven miles away, that has brought the "true" Melungeons to the point of extinction.

Modern, Ancient Ways
The Melungeons have few visitors when some of their homes go unpainted. The cemeteries appear as small villages to visitors, and want it that way. Their contact with the outside world is largely through television, and some are fairly well informed on world problems.

While rejecting most outside contact, the Melungeons have taken to many modern gadgets. Most all of them have television sets, and many of the farmers drive tractors.

The Melungeons have retained their ancient custom of burial. They build a shack-like structure over the grave and keep it freshly painted white, even

TO LEAVE CENTER
TOKYO (UPI)—Former Japanese Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda is scheduled to leave Japan's national Medical Center Dec. 5. Doctors said a tumor in his throat has "disappeared."

Ikeda's illness forced him to resign the premiership in October.

PLYMOUTH, England (UPI) — Two separate church notices have left the reader in a quandary.

Said one, "Strong drink is your worst enemy."

The other: "Make your worst enemy your best friend."

24 Are Killed in Stadium Stampede

JALAPA, Mexico (UPI) — Twenty four persons were trampled to death and 37 injured in a stadium here Sunday night when a crowd of 5,000 stampeded for the exits at the end of a political rally. They had been invited to a festival.

"The people were like a pack of wild animals," said Mayor Felipe Lagunes of Atopan. "I lived seconds that seemed like years."
