Congolese Dig in for 'Viet Type' Fighting

Guerrillas Shoot Down 2 US Craft In Commie Area Fighter-Bomber and Helicopter Destroyed; Americans Rescued

SAIGON, South Viet. (UPI) — Communist guerrillas shot down two U.S. military aircraft on the fringes of the so-called Red Zone controlled by the enemy 30 miles north of Saigon.

An American military spokesman said the aircraft were shot down by guerrillas. The first was a C-47 transport plane piloted by Capt. Kemp P. Roedema 29, and the second was a Viet Nam military plane piloted by a pilot whose name was not disclosed.

The transport plane was shot down by a Viet Nam fighter-bomber and a helicopter. The helicopter was shot down by a Viet Nam fighter-bomber.

Rebels Have 1,000 Whites as Pawns

By DIETRICH MUMMENDEY
LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Communist-inspired rebels appeared today to be digging in for a Viet Nam-type guerrilla war against Congolese army troops and white mercenaries.

"Everytime we pick one off another six rebels take his place," one white mercenary said.

Rebel pressure against government forces was increasing. The rebels maintained a grip on a 250,000-square-mile area of the Congo and held upwards of 1,000 white hostages as pawns in their anti-government revolt.

About 100 white men, women and children rescued by white-led Congo troops in Dinguila, about 300 miles north of Stanleyville, were being flown to safety today. Most of them were employees of a Belgian cotton company, but they included at least one Anglo-American missionary family.

The status of Stanleyville itself, proclaimed capital of the rebel "peoples republic of the Congo," was in doubt.

Late reports from Stanleyville said the airport from which more than 1,600 hostages were saved last week in a spectacular U.S. Belgian mercy mission was no longer secure.

Other reports said Kindu, 250 miles south of Stanleyville, was in danger of being recaptured by rebel troops. Government forces took Kindu last week in their drive toward Stanleyville, but only 13 mercenaries and a handful of Congolese soldiers were left behind to guard it. There were reports that the troops had fled in the face of rebel counter-attacks.

Maj. Michael "Mad Mike" Hoare, the former British army officer who heads the biggest unit of white mercenaries, sounded a note of pessimism. He said a political solution to the Congolese problem would have to be found if his forces were not strengthened in rebel-controlled territory.

Mercenary-led Congolese troops Monday captured the rebel stronghold of Bunia but discovered that all whites in the area had been dragged into the jungle as hostages.

IMMEDIATE RECESS LIKELY

UN Opens Parley Today

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — The General Assembly opens its long-delayed 1964 session today with strong prospects of an immediate recess for further talks to avert a showdown on Russia's right to veto.

The opening was scheduled for 3 p.m. EST.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko held a long but inconclusive meeting on the issue Monday. There were indications that they agreed to postpone a showdown for two or three days and have further talks.

Secretary General Thant told newsmen there was a strong possibility that the assembly would recess for at least 24 hours soon after its opening. The decision was to be made this morning after the views of various regional groups in the world parliament were made known.

Neither Thant nor U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson believed the crisis would reach a make-or-break point today. The recess action might come at any time after the opening of the session but Thant thought it more likely after the election of Alex Quaison Sackey of Ghana, unopposed for the assembly presidency.

The election would be held on a "no objection" basis without the formality of a vote.

The issue behind the dramatic situation was Russia's refusal to pay any part of the $52.6 million it owes for peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East. Russia contends it was assessed illegally by the assembly in stead of the Security Council, where there is a Soviet veto.

Article 19 of the U.N. charter provides that any country in arrears for the equivalent of two years' assessments shall lose its vote. The United States has insisted that Article 19 be applied against Russia and seven other delinquents the first time the assembly is called on to vote.

Mexico Chief Takes Over in Record Boom

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico's new president, Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, took office today at the peak of an unprecedented economic boom but with the shadow of a still unfulfilled agrarian reform cast across his six-year term.

After weathering a troublesome retreat of capital in 1961 following pro-Cuban demonstrations, the outgoing administration of Adolfo Lopez Mateos recovered with an impetus that continued unchecked through a usually depressed election year.

So swift has the program of industrialization moved ahead, along with buttressing of the peso with dollar reserves and a steady influx of loan and investment money, that international experts began putting this country out of the "undeveloped" category into that of "rapidly developing."

During the past three years, Mexico's credit abroad has achieved top rating, and two issues of federal government bonds in recent months were snapped up and oversubscribed the day of issuance.

New factories of all kinds have been constructed recently, and many existing ones expanded. Automobile manufacturers have put in installations running into the hundreds of millions of dollars, and steel and other basic commodity production has expanded beyond the limits of blueprinted plans.

Mexico continued this year to be sought out by investment and loan capital from Europe and the Far East, as well as from the United States.

12 Children Die In 2 Home Fires

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Seven children died today when an early morning fire gutted their tenement home. The mother and four other children escaped.

Police sought the father, Arnold Kennard Smith, 40, for questioning. A can believed to contain a flammable liquid was found in the charred ruins.

The victims, all Negroes, were identified as Vivian, 13; Darlene, 8; Timothy, 7; Annette, 6; Kevin, 4; Gary, 2; and Janet, 1.

Police said Smith was free on bail resulting from charges last August that he fatally stabbed a 25-year-old woman, Helen Wallace. Police said there were reports he had been seen in the vicinity of the gutted house at the time of the fire.

Mystery Beauty In Baker Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators faced a decision today on whether to inquire into the mysterious activities of a German beauty before resuming public hearings in the Bobo Baker case.

The Senate Rules Committee scheduled a closed session to discuss the course of the public hearings, which are expected to center on Republican charges of a $25,000 "kickback" to the Democratic party from a government stadium contract.

The committee's private meeting was to fix guidelines about the type of testimony it will hear and the witnesses to be called—and how to deal with the unexpected intrusion of a blonde German woman into the Baker case.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Ellen Rometsch. She returned to West Germany more than a year ago.

Lennox P. McLondon, committee counsel, told newsmen Monday that he had asked for records on her case from the FBI and the Justice Department. At first, he said department officials denied him the files.

Russians Admit Fault in Rocket

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union early today announced an entry of its own in the Russian-American race to Mars, but quickly admitted it was faulty.

Soviet scientists spotted the U.S. "Mariner-4" probe a two-day head start on their own "Zond-2," which was launched toward Mars Monday.

Within 24 hours, however, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported that "the power supply aboard the station is approximately 50 per cent below the expected."

The Russians did not say whether the power failure would keep the probe from accomplishing its mission on the 325-million-mile journey to Mars.

Mariner-4, launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla., on Saturday, is expected to televise back pictures of the planet in July.

Report Given on Firefighting Aids

Recommendations from the Fire Prevention and Engineering Bureau in Dallas for improving fire prevention facilities in Pampa were released today by City Manager Harold Schmitzer.

Copies of the bureau's report were given to members of the city commission this forenoon.

An inspector from the bureau spent four days in Pampa during October, the city manager said, making a survey of city fire departments and other facilities in connection with fire prevention.

Among recommendations, the bureau stated that the complement of paid firemen be increased so that a minimum of 18 firemen, exclusive of chief officers, can be maintained on duty at all times.

The recommendations call for an additional 750-gallon-per-minute pumper as soon as practicable; also needed, the report says, is additional equipment including gas masks, 24-unit fire department first aid kit, three electric hand lanterns, and a list of accessories in connection with hose upkeep.

The recommendations also include installation of additional fire hydrants, gate valves and other improvements in water supply lines.

The complete list contains other suggestions for fire department rules, inspections and "adoption of a complete code of modern regulations providing adequate control of hazardous materials, processes and occupancies."

In conclusion the bureau's report stated:

"We are aware of the expense involved in carrying out some of these recommendations, however, many cities are making major improvements in fire protection over a period of a few years by proper planning."

City Delays Action On New Police Cars

With three police department patrol cars bogged down for repairs, the City Commission today postponed action on purchase of three new ones until a check is made on upkeep costs.

City Manager Harold Schmitzer, acting on a request from the chief of police, asked authorization to advertise for bids to buy three new four-door sedans.

Under discussion of the topic, Public Works Director R. B. Cooke said three of the department's cars were now out of commission for repairs.

Commissioners asked about the durability of the cars and the cost of upkeep.

City Manager Schmitzer was requested to get figures on repair bills on the cars for the past year and submit them to the commission.

Action on advertising for bids was delayed until the figures can be studied and the matter probably will come up again at next week's meeting.

City Commissioner L. P. Fort again proposed that a study be made of his proposal to have some sort of representation from the city's colored population at each commission meeting. At the suggestion of Mayor H. R. Thompson, it was decided to consider the matter at a study session of the commission.

Census Starts For Directory

Hudspeth Directory Co. of Dallas publishers of the Pampa City Directory for the past 30 years, will start house-to-house enumerations tomorrow for the new 1964 directory.

Stan Robinson, field superintendent for Hudspeth, said today four to six local persons will be employed to make the house-to-house and business census.

Robinson said the 1964 directory, expected to be published by February, 1965, will contain for the first time the names and ages of all minor children in a family.

Robinson said when an enumerator finds someone not at home a survey card will be left at the house. He asked that when the occupants return home, the card be completed and mailed as soon as possible.

Johnson, Taylor In Viet Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson met today with Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, for a critical review of American policy in Communist-menaced South Viet Nam.

The President's top military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers joined the discussion in Johnson's oval office at the White House. They included: Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Central Intelligence Director John A. McCone, Gen. Earle T. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, McGeorge Bundy, special presidential assistant on national security affairs, and his brother, William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

Johnson said well in advance of the conference that no "dramatic announcements" would be forthcoming. But the meeting clearly was of major importance in a current, thorough review of U.S. strategy in Viet Nam.

Rusk flew back from important conferences with the United Nations with Soviet officials in order to attend the Johnson-Taylor talks.

Taylor returned from Saigon last Thursday and has been absorbed almost continuously since then in exchanges of views on the worsening Southeast Asia situation.

Guerrillas Shoot Down 2 US Craft In Commie Area

Fighter-Bomber and Helicopter Destroyed; Americans Rescued

Saigon, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Communist guerrillas shot down two U.S. military aircraft today on the fringes of the so-called Red zone, controlled by a triangle 30 miles north of Saigon.

An American military spokesman said the American crewmen on both incidents "escaped serious injury" and were rescued by American helicopters.

The first craft downed by Viet Cong ground fire was a U.S. Air Force A-1H Skyraider fighter-bomber.

The second craft downed was a Boeing H-19 helicopter, which was destroyed on the ground after it made a forced landing when hit by Red ground fire.

The plane, last altitude reported, was destroyed when it returned to base but the pilot and crew were rescued.

The spokesman said the Skyraider was on a training mission over Communist-controlled jungle terrain when it was hit by ground fire.

The helicopter was one of four to six local persons will be employed to make the house-to-house and business census.

Robinson said the 1964 directory, expected to be published by February, 1965, will contain for the first time the names and ages of all minor children in a family.

The maneuver, to come sometime this week by radio signal from the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), will refine the flight path of the spacecraft.

The current flight path would miss Mars by 150,000 miles. A refined course would bring the spacecraft to within 8,000 miles of the Martian surface.

This would enable a television camera aboard Mariner-4 to snap the first close-up pictures of the mysterious red planet, which scientists long suspected may harbor some form of life.

Mariner-4's 22 television photographs of Mars, however, were not expected to show scientists whether life exists on the planet.

Mariner-4's mission of Mars, but they were expected to provide information on the Martian canals, which have intrigued man through the ages.

Other instruments aboard the 75-pound windmill-like space vehicle will collect data on radiation, space dust, magnetic forces and the atmosphere of Mars.

The Soviet Union announced Monday that it launched a multi-stage rocket for Mars.

The 325-million-mile mission of Mariner-4 won't be climaxed until July 14 when the spacecraft flies by the red planet.

Stamp Machine Reported Stolen

A postage stamp vending machine located in the Day and Night Automatic Laundry, 916 W. Wilks, was reported stolen yesterday.

Joe Mihalski, 2121 N. Banks, notified police of the theft yesterday afternoon. He said someone took the machine during the past several days.

Approximately $70 in stamps and change was in the machine.

In another theft reported to police yesterday, Elmer D. Young of Pampa, said someone stole a typewriter Saturday from the Moose Hall. No value was placed on the missing typewriter.

Burglar Eludes Officers After Store Break-in

An early morning burglar barely eluded Pampa police officers when he broke in Montgomery Wards at 1:44 a.m., not knowing that he had set off a remote burglar alarm bringing officers rushing to the scene.

Officer Ray Whitson had just checked Coronado Center buildings, location of the department store, and had driven down the street near the Harvester Barbecue. The burglar then smashed out a north plate-glass window large enough to crawl through.

What he didn't know was he had set off the building's remote burglar alarm system which notified police of the break-in.

Whitson and three other officers converged on the building and while they apparently entered through one door, the thief kicked out a window pane of an overhead west door and escaped on foot.

A check of the building showed nothing missing. Police said a rifle, six pairs of pants and one pair of car mirrors had been taken from the shelf, but the thief apparently threw them on the floor when he heard the officers coming.

Pope Plans for Historical Trip

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI, an "apostle on the move," made final preparations today for his historic trip to Bombay Wednesday for the Eucharistic Congress.

"We are preparing for our Bombay pilgrimage in the trembling emotion of this hour of prayer and expectation," the pontiff said in a telegram sent Monday night to his former archdiocese in Milan.

The telegram thanked the archdiocese for a gift of $66,880 to be given to the poor of India.

In Bombay, officials of the militant Hindu Mahasabha organization differed over whether to demonstrate during the pontiff's visit. They have branded the Pope's visit a missionary "invasion" and displayed signs reading "Mister Pope go back home."

Mild Temblors Hit in California

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—Two mild earthquakes shook the Watsonville area Monday, just two weeks after the area was jolted by a sharp temblor which was felt as far north as the San Francisco Bay area.

Seismologists at the University of California in Berkeley recorded the first quake at 12:44 p.m. and the second at 1:16 p.m. They registered magnitudes of 3.25 and 3.5, respectively.

LONDON (UPI)—They looked at each other across the candlelit table and he raised the glass to his lips.

Sir Winston Churchill was drinking his own toast at his 90th birthday party Monday night to the poor but beautiful society girl who became his wife more than 55 years ago.

Lady Clementine, 79, but still strikingly attractive, smiled back. Their happy marriage is not the least of the gifts granted Sir Winston by the destiny that made him the greatest man of his time.

It was a memorable night capping a memorable anniversary.

Sir Winston spent pleasant hours during the day tasting the world's acclaim—the messages from his Queen Elizabeth, from President Johnson who declared it "Sir Winston Churchill Day" in the United States, from Pope Paul and the heads of 50 other states, including former enemies like Germany and Austria.

Governor Says Burch Will Resign Position

DENVER (UPI)—Gov. Clifford Hansen of Wyoming predicted here Monday that Republican national chairman Dean Burch will resign next month.

Hansen, an early backer of Sen. Barry Goldwater, also said the Arizona Senator was out as the GOP leader.

Hansen said he hoped the Republican governor's conference here Friday and Saturday would be the start of a "reshaping of the GOP image."

Hansen was in Denver to speak to a convention of the Colorado Chamber of Commerce.

Hansen predicted leaders such as Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton would take "increased positions of party leadership." But he said he did not think the Republican Party would be "turned over" to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The Wyoming GOP governor said he hoped the Republican governors would not make the same mistake Goldwater made after the San Francisco convention in appearing to reject part of the Republican Party, but would broaden the leadership and take a less extreme position.

PARIS (UPI) — Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe today sought a declaration of support for his embattled African regime from President Charles de Gaulle.

criticism rained down on him this week when he endorsed Belgian-American intervention in the Congo to rescue hostages held by Congolese rebels.

Most African leaders hold the French president in high esteem. Diplomatic observers said their hostility toward Tshombe could be dampened if De Gaulle backed Tshombe in a meeting scheduled for this afternoon. Tshombe often has been castigated as a "puppet" of the "imperialists." New

FALLS INTO FONT
POOLE, England (UPI) — Nineteen-month-old Tina Williams fell into the three-foot deep baptismal font here Monday at the new Mormon church, but was quickly rescued. Her mother had been baptized shortly before.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The next Legislature will be asked to require complete re-examination of all Oklahoma drivers, it was learned Monday.

Safety Commissioner Bob Lester said he will make the request of the Legislature, along with a plea for a $2.4 million increase in his department's appropriation. Some 100 additional troopers would be hired with the increased funds, and trooper pay would be raised by $100 per month—from $400 to $500.

Sen. Clem McSpadden of Chelsea, senate president pro tempore-designate, said he will support legislation to require re-examination of all Oklahoma drivers. McSpadden also has agreed to introduce a bill to change the financial responsibility law so that drivers who violate the law would be required to pay costs on their reinstatement. Lester proposed that drivers over 70 years of age be re-examined during 1967-68, those over 65, during 1969-70, and that renewal examinations be started in 1971 for all drivers every four years.

Martin L. King To Ask Meeting With Hoover
STAMFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Monday night he would call for a meeting with FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to iron out their differences. "I do not plan to engage in public debate with Mr. Hoover, and I think the time has come for all this controversy to end and for all of us to get on with the larger job of civil rights and a news conference. "On the basis of this, I request a conference with Mr. Hoover to talk about this whole problem of law enforcement in the South," he said.

Disabled Ship Taken in Tow

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. (UPI) — A disabled 86-foot fishing boat with nine persons aboard was taken in tow by a Coast Guard cutter early today in mountainous seas and heavy winds off Gay Head. The Coast Guard said the vessel New Bedford, whose home port is New Bedford, Mass., was out of danger and was being towed to port. There were no reports of injuries.

The New Bedford had been reported disabled and in "immediate danger." It was drifting helplessly near this widely known summer resort island off the Massachusetts coast. Aborigines of southern Mexico used blowpipes as weapons while the Indians of northern Mexico used bow and arrows.

Many Take 'Dream Journey' Into ESP's Future

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two dispatches on extra-sensory perception by UPI national reporter. It discusses the possibility of breaking through the barrier of time for a trip through the future.

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International
About 10 per cent of adult Americans probably at some time in their lives have gone on a brief journey into the future. They have dreamed something was going to happen and it did.

The most famous case was that of President Lincoln and the story he told at a White House party celebrating the surrender of Gen. Robert E. Lee. Lincoln was moody amid the gaiety and finally explained his feelings by telling about a dream. He said he had heard muffled sobs and imagined in his sleep that he had left his bed and gone to the lower floor of the White House. "I kept on until I arrived in the East Room," he said.

"Before me was a catafalque on which rested a corpse in funeral vestments. Around it were stationed soldiers and there was a throng of people, some gazing mournfully upon the corpse, whose face was covered, and some weeping pitifully."
"Who is dead in the White House?" I demanded of one of the soldiers.
"The President," was his answer. "He was killed by an assassin."

Charles Dickens, according to his biography, dreamed about a woman he would meet at a tea next day. In his dream he saw her perfectly clearly and heard her name which he had never known before.
Next day at the tea he was introduced to a stranger. She looked just as she had in his dream. The name was the same.

Not Always Dream
All of us probably know or have heard of somebody who had a similar experience. It does not have to be a dream. It has happened to women washing the dishes in daylight, to fishermen beside a quiet stream, to motorists fighting their way through tangled traffic.
Thousands of these case histories have been collected by Dr. Louisa Rhine, wife of J.B. Rhine who pioneered research into extra-sensory perception at Duke University. She has published them in a book called "Hidden Channels Of The Mind."

The ability of people to step forward in time has been tested under scientific laboratory conditions. All the cautious experts will say at the moment is that the results justify continued and accelerated experiments. Only one thing seems certain—you cannot decide that on a specific day and hour you are going to pack your mental luggage and proceed through the barrier of time into the world of the future. If it ever happens to you at all, it will happen spontaneously.

Many Scoff
This is not good enough for most people. Mothers want to be able to see the girl their son will marry two years from now. Stock-market operators want to know with certainty what the president of the Soviet Union will do at a meeting a year from now. For those and other reasons the validity of extra-sensory perception is scoffed at and denied by many persons.

Out of the thousands of cases she has examined Mrs. Rhine makes these general observations: "These experiences are not mainly concerned with the fates of peoples, of governments, wars and rumors of wars, but instead have to do with the ordinary doings of ordinary people. They require no labored interpretations, they are predominantly realistic, true to small detail."
"Pre-cognitive ESP experiences do not usually cover the grand sweeps of time—decades or centuries—often involved in traditional prophecy. Many are fulfilled within minutes, hours or days. The time element, however geared it would seem to be to the day-to-day life of men rather than the destiny of man, is elastic and varies from case to case. Sometimes the interval between the experience and the fulfillment may be years."

How can we be sure that persons who tell about such experiences are not faking or merely exaggerating something in a bid for attention? Some scientists suggest that a safe rule of thumb is to credit the witness with telling only 60 per cent of the truth. But that rule fails when careful investigation has been made with corroborating testimony. Apparently most of the stories either are true or complete frauds.

Thousands of these case histories have been collected by Dr. Louisa Rhine, wife of J.B. Rhine who pioneered research into extra-sensory perception at Duke University. She has published them in a book called "Hidden Channels Of The Mind."

What's the good of it all? Can it avert tragedies, protect children, help make family life happier? Case history from Mrs. Rhine's book involving a young mother in Washington state:
She awoke terrified because she had dreamed that a large chandelier had fallen and crushed her baby to death in its crib. In her dream she saw the clock standing at 4:35 a.m.

Research over the years indicates about 10 per cent of the adult population has penetrated the future, but J. Gaiher Pratt in his study "Parapsychology" thinks that figure may be too low. He suggests it is more likely that there are as many people who have had such experiences as there are say left-handed persons.

Wind blew and rain was lashing the window. She ran to the baby's room, picked her up and took her back into her own bed. She noted that the moon was out and the weather calm. She told her dream to her husband and then they went back to sleep.
They were awakened by a crash two hours later. They went into the baby's room and found the crib smashed by the chandelier that had fallen. The wind was blowing and the rain was pounding against the window. The clock stood at 4:35 a.m.

How can we be sure that persons who tell about such experiences are not faking or merely exaggerating something in a bid for attention?

POSSIBLE POSITION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph D. Rauh, national vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), believes there will be "some sort of dramatic Negro appointment" in the federal government in coming months.

Rauh, who is also chairman of the District of Columbia Central Democratic Committee, told television interviewers Monday that this might mean the naming of a Negro justice to the Supreme Court or the creation of a new cabinet-level post under a Negro.

Indians worked flint by flaking and grinding to produce weapons and tools.

Dear Abby....

Cat Lovers Prefer Cats to Neighbors

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I received a clipping from your column in this morning's mail. It was about a neighbor who had a houseful of cats. The house smelled to high heaven, there were cat hairs all over the furniture and the place was filthy, and for that reason nobody wanted to visit her.

Well, I must be that person because I do have a houseful of cats, but I would like to say something:

Half of these cats are not mine! It seems that when anyone in this town wants to get rid of a cat, or some new-born kittens, they drop them off in my yard because they know I love cats and I will give them a good home. I called the Humane Society once to come and pick up some cats that weren't mine. They came out, but were unable to catch them. Now, if you can tell me how to get rid of the cats that are not mine, I will be glad to do so. I will not destroy them.

CAT LOVER IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: There are worse people than cat-lovers, you know. I am referring to people who tear something out of a newspaper and mail it to someone without signing their name.

Someone mailed me your column. In it was a letter about a neighbor who lived alone except for a houseful of cats. They said the house stank, the furniture was filthy, there were cat hairs all over the place and that was the reason nobody ever wanted to visit the woman. They went on to say that the woman herself was a very nice person and they didn't want to hurt her feelings by telling her. Well, Abby, in the first place, I do not have a "houseful" of cats. I have only 16. In the second place, if I wanted company I would invite them. I do not miss people. My cats are better friends to me than any of my neighbors.

LOVES CATS IN CHARLOTTE, N. C.

DEAR ABBY: Somebody wanted to be sure I didn't miss that letter in your column about the lady who kept a lot of cats, so they tore it out of the Chicago American and mailed it to me. I wasn't fooled for a minute. I know who sent it. She's a neighbor of mine who loves birds. Tell her to sweep her own doorstep first. At least my cats know what a sandbox is for. She lets her birds out of their cages and they fly all over her house! Then she burns incense to cover up the odor. Whew!

TO THE BIRD LADY FROM THE CAT LADY

DEAR ABBY: Please put this in your column for the neighbor who complained about my cats, but didn't want to "hurt my feelings." My house is as clean as any house in this neighborhood, and my cats do not smell!

Of all the house pets, the cat is by far the cleanest. If my neighbors were as clean as my cats, I'd be satisfied. If you think you can get me to move, you are sadly mistaken. I was here first, and if you don't like having me for a neighbor, you can move!

MINDING MY OWN BUSINESS IN MADISON

DEAR ABBY: I read about that woman who collected cats and the neighbors complained. She sounds like my mother. Did that letter come from Victoria, Texas?

WILLIE MAE IN CLEVELAND
DEAR WILLIE MAE: No. It came from Baltimore, Maryland.

Clothes Poll

By HELEN HENNESSY

There is a dress known in the rag business as "grandma ma arrives. And Janie's new treasure can easily join the bait." No, it's not a short, swingy discotheque job designed to lure grandma into lace stockings and $10 worth of Watul lessons.

It's a cute, pastel, beruffled, impractical—dress that comes only in pint sizes for the nursery set. It is deliberately designed to put stars in grandma's eyes when her little angel wears it to her first party and is admired by all.

This season grandma can delight the apple of her eye without putting a dent into the family budget. For ingenious designers of children's clothes have come up with what could be called a combination educational toy and apparel item.

It is a dress on which coloring book pictures are outlined. With washable crayons little Janie can color the figures herself and she can change the colors after each laundering. Mistakes come out in the wash.

Grandma can smile like the Cheshire cat, knowing full well that Janie's favorite dress was her Christmas gift. Mom won't have to force a smile when that holly-trimmed box from grandma arrives. And Janie's new treasure can easily join the other togs in the automatic washer.

But there is one catch. Hide the regular household crayons. Only the washable kind will come out in the suds. Regular wax crayons could ruin the dress and tantrums, not smiles, will commemorate the first washday after Christmas.

Chic Chat

"My friends and I are planning a ski weekend in the near future. I have never been skiing and I have no ski clothes. My girl friend says I should borrow clothes from her for the first time on the slopes, but that I will have to buy the accessories. I'm ashamed to admit to her that I don't know what the "accessories" are. Can you help me?"

ANNE L.

DEAR ANNE L.: Your friend shows good sense in suggesting you borrow clothes for first time out. You can then take a look around at what others are wearing and have a better idea about the kind of togs you want if you like skiing enough to go again. Don't let the accessories throw you. What you will need in that line are a woolly hat that will cover your ears, heavy leather gloves with wool linings and sun glasses with plastic lenses. If you can latch on to those that have interchangeable lenses—yellow for fog and possible snow flurries, smoky lenses for sunlight, you'll be more comfortable. And that's all you'll need.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
One man's personal tragedy may be the instrument by which Italy's resurgent Communists make another attempt to bring down the government.

The personal tragedy is President Antonio Segni's. He suffered a paralyzing stroke last August shortly after another government crisis and has only partially recovered.

On Dec. 7, doctors will decide whether he can continue his duties.

If not, Italian law requires that a joint session of parliament convene within 15 days to elect a successor.

The issue, the Communists hope, could break up the center-left coalition which has ruled Italy for most of a year.

The fact that the coalition of Premier Aldo Moro's Christian Democrats and Vice Premier Peitro Nenni's left wing Socialists exists at all is one of the contradictions of Italian politics.

Another is the show of strength put on by the Italian Communists at a time when it had been believed that a series of events had hurt the party.

One of these was the death last August of Palmiro Togliatti, the party secretary. Another was the ouster of Nikita Khrushchev, an event which the Christian Democrats attempted to exploit as an example of communism's political jungle.

But, far from hurting, the Communists came out of November's municipal elections with added strength.

It led the party newspaper L'Unita to trumpet that the results heralded the downfall of Moro's center-left government.

The coalition itself is one that defies political laws of gravity.

It pits Nenni, an old Socialist, against labor in support of an unpopular austerity program which has boosted taxes and has installed credit curbs.

Delayed have been such favorite Nenni projects as decentralization of government into regional governments and agricultural reform including a change in the sharecropping system.

These are considered factors in the Communists' new show of strength.

One interpretation is that the voters were voting not so much for communism as against the government. This is supported by the fact that while the Communist vote has increased, actual membership in the party has declined.

Another factor is that when Nenni decided to abandon years of opposition and join the government, he did so at the cost of the loss of his party's extreme left wing. That loss was reflected in the voting.

The Communists have flatly refused to go along with government announcement of it's austerity program with a wave of strikes among agricultural workers, dockworkers, railroad workers and civil servants.

On the government's part it was an attempt to halt an inflationary spiral which saw the cost of living rise 9 per cent in 1963 and a balance of payments deficit of more than $1 billion.

Labor's demands, it is estimated, would have cost the country about $720 million.

CAPITOL EYE:

Watson May Be New Aide To Lyndon

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Marvin D. Watson, the Texas steel executive who is expected to join President Johnson's White House staff, is a man who has already labored hard and long for Lyndon.

The President reportedly does not like to have his little surprises printed before he is ready to spring them. Yet it is considered unlikely he will reverse himself on Watson just to confound those who have said he would soon be taken on.

The reason: Watson's talents have been freshly demonstrated to Johnson in recent months, and the President is in serious need of them.

Watson is vice president of the Lone Star Steel Co. in Longview, Tex. Those who have seen him at work describe him as a superior administrator and organizer.

In a sense he would replace the unfortunate Walter Jenkins, the President's administrative assistant, who resigned after disclosure he had twice been arrested on morals charges.

But Watson, though evidently quiet and calm about it, is regarded as considerably more forceful and aggressive than Jenkins. He would almost certainly have a larger role and possibly even dip into policy matters.

This stocky Texan proved himself this summer. A month before it was time to nominate Johnson at Atlantic City, convention plans were in chaos. Watson unobtrusively took over and whipped the effort into shape.

Wholly out of the convention spotlight, Watson worked during the crucial weeks in a small convention hall office he shared with another man, Clifton Carter. Convention figures beat a path to his door.

Watson also played a major part in the President's fall campaigning. He really put together several of the big trips. Most of the time he accompanied the President on the road. Through it all, Watson stayed out of the news.

The President's heavy reliance upon him was not altogether new. In the spring of 1960, Watson helped Johnson in his futile attempt to wrest the Democratic nomination from John F. Kennedy and again gave LBJ a big lift that fall in his presidential campaign.

Watson's ability to take command of large operations which are threatening to become unraveled is widely remarked. The unruffled efficiency with which he sets these situations straight leads some sources to suggest he may be uniquely equipped for close daily association with the rough-riding Johnson.

Stories persist, annoying though they be to the President, that Lyndon Johnson often drives and lashes his working intimates to the breaking point.

From all accounts, Watson sounds like a man who could hold his own, even in the President's stormiest moments.

In an inadvertency, Johnson once described a pair of administration figures as, "two of my strongest right arms." He seems, in fact, to have more right arms than an octopus. Watson could turn out to be truly the strongest.

A friend of the President who knows and admires Watson is nevertheless a bit concerned over his political outlook. Says the friend:

"I just wish he were not quite so conservative as he seems to be."

But this is not a matter that appears to be bothering many around the White House. It is accepted in many places that a man of Watson's capacities is badly needed.

And no one imagines that Watson's coming would be an automatic signal for the departure of White House aides Bill Moyers and Jack Valenti, despite their rumored wish to leave. The President wants them to stay, and they, too, are badly needed.

The fact is, Watson would be beefing up a presidential high command now sorely lacking in needed manpower. The chores ahead are mountainous.

As Choice Among Three Courses in Viet Nam Faces President, State Dept. Authorities Switch Stand Significantly

ROBERT ALLEN

The Almanac

THE ALMANAC
Today is Tuesday, Dec. 1, the 336th day of 1964 with 30 to follow.

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Ambassador Maxwell Taylor's return for consultations brings to a potentially fateful showdown a three-way split among President Johnson's top level advisers on what should be done about the steadily deteriorating situation in South Viet Nam.

This wide divergence among key State Department and Pentagon authorities is largely responsible for the administration's erratic course in the Communist-periled Southeast Asian country. For the President, the sharply differing councils confront him with making a decision on proposals ranging from undertaking immediate negotiations to come to terms with the Reds to a far-reaching escalation of this tortuous conflict, as follows:

—Striking directly at Communist China, including bombing its nuclear installations deep in the interior.

—Extending the war to North Viet Nam and Laos, with massive air and naval blows at Viet Cong depots, training camps and supply routes.

—Offering to negotiate a settlement based on "neutralizing" South Viet Nam and withdrawing all U.S. military forces.

Principal advocates of these three varying policies are:

For a direct confrontation with Red China — Secretary Rusk, Undersecretary Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary William Bundy, and his brother McGeorge Bundy, special foreign affairs adviser to the President. McGeorge Bundy is the main leader of this group — which significantly, until recently, opposed expansion of the war, particularly to the Chinese mainland.

The drastic policy they now favor is a strikingly dramatic change in viewpoint.

Those urging that extension of the conflict be limited to destroying Viet Cong logistic bases in North Viet Nam and Laos include Ambassador Taylor, General William Westmoreland, commander of the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Pressing for immediate settlement negotiations are Undersecretary George Ball, Assistant Secretary Harlan Cleveland, UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, and lower level State Department "specialists" who usually follow Stevenson's lead. He is the most active exponent of this "neutralization" policy, and in inner circles it is known as the "Stevenson formula."

WHAT THEY'RE TELLING L.B.J. — Crux of the position of the Bundy group to "denuclearize" Red China is summed up in the statement, at a White House discussion, "The only way to solve the Southeast Asia problem is to start where policy really begins, the capital in Peking."

This influential group holds that the U.S. should seek an alliance with Russia against Red China, on the theory that the former's interests require containment of the Chinese and halting the proliferation of nuclear weapons. The point is also stressed that the "Chin - Coms" are much further advanced in the development of such arms than originally estimated.

A re-evaluation of their recent test explosion confirms that they possess U - 235, essential for the production of H-bombs.

The President has been told, "It's highly possible they may have a token number of nuclear weapons within a year. This threat is infinitely more serious than first realized."

This warning is particularly significant as the Bundy group initially minimized the Chinese atomic test.

Principal reason Ambassador Taylor and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which he headed before going to South Viet Nam, are advising that expansion of the war be restricted to hitting the Viet Cong in North Viet Nam and Laos is that bombing Red China runs the grave risk of involving Russia.

It is contended that while the Communist rulers of Peking and the Kremlin are at apparent bitter loggerheads, close ties exist between the military leaders of the two countries. This could indicate that the rift between the party leaders is not as deep as might appear.

There is some evidence, the President has been told, that the Soviet actually furnished the atomic bomb tested by the Chinese.

General Westmoreland goes further than Ambassador Taylor in one regard.

The U.S. commander in South Viet Nam wants the administration to back a bigger role for the South Viet Nam military in the Saigon government than urged by Taylor. Westmoreland holds the military is necessary for a strong government to offset civilian officials who are increasingly inclined to a neutralist policy.

Westmoreland also favors accepting the Philippine offer of 6,000 troops. Ambassador Taylor has been cool to that.

The so-called Stevenson group sees a completely civilian government as the best solution for the torturous South Viet Nam dilemma. The argument is being vigorously made, in inner White House councils, that such a regime could "properly" seek a negotiated settlement with the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam.

Such an accord would include the neutralization of South Viet Nam, and the withdrawal of all U.S. forces there.

In recent private discussions with congressional leaders, Secretary Rusk has stated, "There is no lack of contact with the

This Question of Taste
NEW YORK (NEA) — The exciting thing about the newspaper life is that it occasionally resembles the novels written about it.

We had come to interview a Famous Person at Home. And having been directed by the maid, we were enroute to an upstairs sitting room when a hall door opened just ahead and a naked lady stepped out into our path.

We will remember that moment vividly forever. But unhappily we cannot describe the lady by any meaningful terms as we would not recognize her again except under similar circumstances. That is the trouble when nature imitates art.

In general, however, she was a blonde, about 30, fully furred and quite startled at the meeting. So we used the convention prescribed for the occasion.

"Sorry, sir," we said, it being our experience that people who are ill at ease prefer art to sincerity.

"Oh no," she said. "I'm sorry."

And with that she fled back to where she had come from, slamming the door behind her, leaving us to worry over what she had apologized about.

We have been worrying over that for several days. There should be no reason to make excuses for being undressed in your own home. And especially upstairs when, for a small membership fee, you can have your lunch served to you in a Playboy Club by a lady wearing very little more.

We would have thought no discussion was necessary. Being undressed is allowed.

The problem is that everything seems to be allowed nowadays, making it very difficult for a naked lady to know whether she is in good taste.

This is not entirely a new problem: Everything has always been allowed. All those terrible words can be traced to the Greek, Latin and Anglo - Saxon. The new part is the wide-spread concern with good taste and how to tell it from bad.

It is easy enough in television. You can either use Ed Sullivan or, according to reliable sources in the industry, count the letters from irate viewers. On a show that goes into 20 million homes, nine complaints mean nothing; ten means you have crossed the line into bad taste.

But off the screen it is not so easy to tell. We called Jackie Mason in Las Vegas, where he is presently performing in a night club, and asked him whether his life had changed since Ed Sullivan charged him with having made obscene gestures.

"No change that I can see," Mr. Mason said. "No surge in bookings. No cancellations of old ones. No increase in people coming to see me work. Nobody is staying away, either. Everything is the same, and I must say I'm a little surprised."

We cannot understand why he is surprised. From what we can see, good taste and bad taste do not apply to real things, but only to symbols of them.

That is why it is all right to tell jokes about God but not about Christ. It is why people hang modern paintings but not the artists who painted them.

It is why a naked lady is perfectly right to apologize to a newspaperman. No excuse is necessary for nature except when it imitates art.

As to the nearly naked key club bunny who appears to promise everything but delivers only lunch—well, she does look like a stand-in for the real thing. But actually no substitution is involved because she is using sex itself for a sex symbol.

To our way of thinking, a counterfeit made out of the genuine article is in excellent taste and fairly shrieks restraint.

Pay Up or Get Out
One place where American firmness is absolutely essential is in the United Nations organization. The necessity for this is a timely issue because of the problems of Soviet non-payment of their so-called peace-keeping dues.

However one may regard the wisdom of the U.S. staying in the U.N., there should be common agreement among Americans that the United States of America is not to be the permanent golden goose for that body.

Obviously, if we are to remain in the U.N., other U.N. members will have to pay their fair share of the bills. It would be utterly absurd for the U.S. to go along paying the bulk of the costs while the Soviet Union, which benefits from so many U.N. actions, continually refuses to pick up its part of the tab.

A case in point is Russia's steadfast refusal to pay its assessed share of the U.N. Congo and Mideast operations. The Reds currently owe $52.6 million for these projects, which is a sum equal to their total assessments for the years 1962 and '63. Under the very clear provisions of the U.N. Charter, a member nation falling two years behind in assessments loses its vote in the General Assembly.

It is to be hoped that the U.S. government will do its utmost to insist that the Soviets receive no special favored treatment in the U.N. on this point. The fact that the Russians have threatened to quit the U.N. if the charter provision is enforced is typical Russian bullying. They want to revise the rules of the game so as to favor them at every opportunity. If they want to get out of the U.N., then they should be allowed to go. Indeed it wouldn't hurt if another dozen or so pro-Communist or neutralist nations packed up their bags, sold their fancy mansions on Long Island (largely paid for with U.S. aid funds) and left these shores. Then the U.N. might become what many people hoped it would be in the beginning — a meeting place for the genuinely free, anti-Communist nations of the world.

One encouraging sign from the U.S. government was the action November 9th by which the United States, as an indication of its intentions, announced it would not pledge to contribute this year to the U.N. Special Fund and Technical Assistance Program. The U.S. contributions, normally 40 per cent of the total, would have been about $60 million for the new year.

It should be remembered that the U.N. Special Fund, headed by the ultra-liberal American, Paul Hoffman, is the agency that channeled U.S. taxpayer-supplied funds to Castro's Cuba over the protests of great numbers of American citizens.

The Los Angeles Times, commenting on this action, said: "The goose that lays the golden egg has gone on strike." Indeed the money-hungry new nations of the world should be able to discern a warning in the cut-off of funds to these agencies. They should understand that backward states cannot endlessly abuse the generosity of the United States, and still expect to receive annual handouts through the U.N. for which they thank the international body, not Uncle Sam.

For much too long a time the United States has been taken for a sucker by the U.N. members. They have milked this country of hundreds of millions and showed no appreciation in return. Indeed many of the nations that are most aggressive in seeking money from the United States are prominent in attacking the U.S. in the U.N. and in following Russia's lead. Now if the Soviets decide to go, let these aggressive upstart states play follow the leader. It would make possible a tremendous amount of tax relief for the taxpayers of the United States.

A change in American attitude is essential, and the public can only hope that those who manage our foreign affairs will not grow fainthearted at the last moment, lose all firmness and resolution, and give in to Russia and its friends in the U.N.

Certainly, the American people cannot accept the spineless suggestion made by some of our high officials that maybe we can accept a "token" payment by Russia to the U.N. as satisfactory. Our position should be "pay all or get out." It is time for the United States to display some of the toughness that is essential for national survival.
