'Conscience' Trip to Selma Ends in Tragic Death

By AL KUETTNER

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Car tracks in the soft earth, halting abruptly at a fence post. A blue sedan, window shattered on the driver's side. There on U.S. Highway 80, near the quaint little antebellum town of Lowndesboro last Thursday night, the most fantastic of all the racial demonstrations of the past 10 years came to an end. Across the steering wheel of the car slumped the body of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo, mother of five children, wife of a Detroit Teamsters' union agent. She had made a "conscience" trip to Alabama to help in the Selma-to-Montgomery march, organized by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to further point up civil rights aspirations. Mrs. Liuzzo was assigned to transportation because she was a good driver. She paid for the assignment with a bullet in the head and instant death. Four

Birmingham Ku Klux Klansmen are under arrest but only on federal charges of conspiring to violate the victim's civil rights. There is no federal murder charge except in cases involving the military. Murder in this case is a charge that must be lodged by authorities in another little Lowndes town, the county seat of Hayneville. Officials there say they are investigating and "if" enough evidence can be found it will be taken before a grand jury. Let's back-track the events that brought this march to its tragic finish, a conclusion that has now produced three deaths since Negroes launched their "Black Belt" integration drive Jan. 17. The event itself was a spur-of-the-moment idea of skull-capped Rev. James Bevel, a fiery speaker on King's staff who told a mass meeting in Selma one night: "We've got to see the man in Montgomery

(Gov. George Wallace) and some of us ought to walk every step of the way." Bevel was greeted by cheers and doubts. But a few days later the idea was mentioned again, with more enthusiasm. Finally King confirmed that the 50-mile trek would be attempted.

It took two false starts to get it under way. Once, it was stopped at the Pettus Bridge at the city limits of Selma by the clubs, horses and tear gas of state troopers. Again, it was halted by pre-arrangement on the Montgomery side of the (See TRIP, Page 3)

SWINGING — Pampa youths took advantage of spring temperatures that soared into the 70s Saturday and were found playing in Pampa yards and parks. Youngsters above found the swings in Central Park to be an attraction for an afternoon of fun. Every swing was filled and the more adventurous youth climbed to the top of the swings for a "birds-eye-view."

President Calls for New Laws

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (UPI) — Helicopters Saturday swooped into battle against a Viet Cong headquarters area. They uncovered one of the largest caches of Communist ammunition in the war.

The major government sweep in the Tay Ninh area, 65 miles northwest of Saigon, followed by a few hours a Communist frogman sabotage attack in Da Nang that blew a hole in a U.S. Navy supply ship only 200 yards from a hotel where many American servicemen live.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI said Saturday night that it had alerted all Alabama police units to a Ku Klux Klan auto allegedly used in the slaying of Mrs. Viola Liuzzo only hours before the Detroit housewife was shot to death.

The Saigon government, in a sign of this growing stability, Saturday ended martial law for the first time since November.

He was responding to a Budget Bureau report that regular employment in the executive branch totaled 2,447,897 in February—a decrease of 4,381 from January, 1965, and 10,614 from February, 1964.

Brochure Made Public The White House simultaneously made public a 90-page brochure citing examples of the administration's waste and claiming the tide of government spending is going his way.

Manpower practices, will, I am certain, serve to enhance the efficiency of the federal establishment. I hope you will convey to all concerned my personal appreciation and congratulations.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The top echelon of the Justice Department, under hurry-up orders from President Johnson, redoubled its efforts Saturday to find new legal weapons to curb the Ku Klux Klan.

There was only one injury to a Japanese crewman and the ship did not sink. In Saigon, Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor prepared to leave for talks in Washington, confident that things are finally looking up in South Viet Nam. U.S. sources said he is particularly pleased with progress toward political stability.

Approximately 250 Jaycees and their wives attended the banquet with about 100 of the delegates attending from out-of-town.

At the Capitol, a formal investigation of the Klan and other such extremist groups was almost a certainty. Republicans joined Democrats in calling for swift action to crack down on the Klan.

Saturday, Red frogmen placed a charge of dynamite above the propeller of the U.S. aircraft carrier Card in Saigon harbor last August. The Card sank in the shallow harbor but was refloated.

The cooperation of all the executive branches has been outstanding," Johnson told Budget Bureau Director Kermit Gordon. "I am proud of the results which are being obtained without impairing the quality or quantity of vital federal services. The closer scrutiny of our

Other awards presented last night were the "Outstanding Officer" award to Jim Morris; "Outstanding First Year Man" to Doyce Watson; "Outstanding Chairman" to Eddie Polnac; and "Outstanding Director" to Ross Pool.

Polnac was officially installed as new president of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce. He replaces Smith.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., noted that the Republican National Convention last summer rejected his bid for a formal party repudiation of the Klan. But he predicted that GOP congressional leaders would give strong support to any measure bringing "Klan-inspired murder and violence" under control.

Legislative Session Moves Past Midpoint

By DAVID ANDERSON

AUSTIN (UPI)—The 59th Legislature moved briskly past the midpoint of its regular session last week and indirectly approached two of its toughest problems—redistricting and a teacher pay raise.

bill reapportioning the legislature with single-member districts in the cities and Sen. Jack Strong's bill implementing the proposed enlarged-Senate plan.

To ease the task of reapportioning itself, the Senate approved a constitutional amendment increasing its membership from 31 to 39.

A House committee is to hear Rep. Maurice Pipkin's local option horse racing bill Monday night. The bill would allow counties to permit pari-mutuel betting if the people approve in a referendum.

The general appropriation bill which must be agreed on before the legislature can tackle the teacher pay raise, moved into conference committee.

The bigger-Senate amendment could come before the House this week, with the lower chamber expected to approve it in exchange for a hands-off policy by the Senate on House redistricting.

No Evasion of Issues The legislature passed the 70th day of its 140-day meeting with "no postponement or evasion of issues," said former House Speaker Byron Tunnell in an address to a joint session Wednesday.

Other measures passed by the Senate and ready for a final House okay are constitutional amendments establishing a $75 million state loan fund for college students and granting pay raises to the House speaker, lieutenant governor and legislators, and a bill assuring that Texas Tech will get the state's next medical school.

A few years ago it would have been unthinkable to have the appropriation bill in conference a little more than two months after the beginning of the session," he said. Redistricting is in line for more attention this week, with Senate committee hearings on Sen. Franklin Spears'

The pay raise plan raises the speaker and lieutenant governor from $4,800 annually to up to $12,500, and gives legislators another $1,360 every two years in expense allowances. All three of the measures originated in the House and were approved there, but the Senate amended them so they (See LEGISLATIVE, Page 3)

Minister Accused In Smut Charge

HOUSTON (UPI)—A prominent Norfolk, Va., Methodist minister was free in $10,000 bond Saturday on a charge of sending a book he had allegedly written across a state line.

The minister, Rev. Arthur Edwin Shelton, 43, said he was "in the dark" about the whole thing.

"I have no idea even what the charges are against me," he said in Norfolk. Shelton, who did not want to talk about the charges, said he does write.

"I write my sermons every Sunday and have them published," Shelton said.

Matson Breaks NCAA Shot Mark

CORPUS CHRISTI — Randy Matson of Texas A&M broke the NCAA shotput record in the Corpus Christi Relays last night as he threw the iron ball 66'3 1/4". The throw broke the college record of 65'10 1/4", set by Dallas Long in 1962.

The Pampa giant also broke the meet discus record with a throw of 186'11", breaking the old mark of 175'10", set by Jim Lancaster of Baylor last year.

Ablene Christian College won the meet with 75 points, edging Rice with 71. If it comes from a hardware store we have it. Lewis Hdwe. Adv.

Texas Industrial Week Observance Slated

A noon luncheon meeting with the Lions Club on Thursday immediately followed by an open house at the Form-O-Uth factory, will kick off Pampa's observance of Texas Industrial Week, according to Gordon Lyons.

During the week, tours are also planned at the General Associated Industries two plants, the Panhandle Packing Co., the Pampa Foundry, the Coca-Cola Bottling Co., and the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. Meetings with the Downtown Kiwanis Club, the Pampa Jaycees and the Pampa Rotary Club will precede most of these tours.

Lyons is general chairman for the week-long activities, April 1 to 7. Ed Weber, director of advertising for Southwestern Public Service Co. will be the featured speaker at the luncheon, which will be held in the basement of the First Methodist Church. Special guests will be representatives of industrial firms in the area.

Industrial displays in the lobbies of the Citizens Bank and Trust Co. and the First National Bank will be another highlight of the week's festivities. The machinery and carbon black division of Cabot Corp., Celanese Corp., Crall Products, P&M-Tex, and Form-O-Uth have indicated that they would participate in this part of the program.

The public is invited to attend both the luncheon and the open house. However, those who plan to attend the luncheon are asked to make their reservations by calling the Chamber of Commerce office by Tuesday. Lyons said that the purpose of the observance of Texas Industrial Week is to recognize local industries, all of whom contribute to the economic growth of Pampa and the Top

Approximately 250 Jaycees and their wives attended the banquet with about 100 of the delegates attending from out-of-town.

Jerry Fowler, state Jaycee director, installed the new officers.

New Jaycee-ette officers installed were Mrs. Morris Wilson, president; Mrs. Jimmy Hayes, vice president; Mrs. Nathan Lancaster, recording secretary; Mrs. James Weathered, corresponding secretary and Mrs. John Warner, historian.

The Jaycee-ettes also received a special presidential citation for service from the Jaycees.

Immediately following the banquet a reception was held for visiting Jaycees and their wives.

Search Called Off For Reportedly Downed Aircraft

Pampa law enforcement officers called off a search late Saturday night for a reportedly crashed aircraft.

About 9 p.m. an off-duty Pampa police officer reported seeing what he thought was a plane crash about five miles north of Pampa, near Perry-Lefors Airfield.

Highway patrolmen and sheriff officers combed the area for several hours and were unable to locate any sign of any wreckage.

Perry-Lefors airfield said they had no report of an aircraft being in or near the area.

Pampa area: The Federal Aviation Agency also said that no aircraft was in the area.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—I worked for the railroad for a number of years. When my job was eliminated they gave me two years severance pay. Can I spread this income over several years?

A—Income is taxable in the year it is received. However, an income averaging provision of the 1964 tax law may reduce the taxes you have to pay on your severance pay. Ask your Schedule G at any Internal Revenue office to get the full details on this provision.

Q—I have some shares of mutual funds. Last year there was a capital gain distribution. Do I have to pay tax on this capital gain now or when I cash it in?

A—You should report this as a capital gain on Schedule D for the year it was received as well as any undistributed capital gains. Most likely you will get a statement from your mutual fund setting forth both of these figures.

Q—I sold my house last year at a profit. However, most of what I gained went to pay for my new home. Do I have to pay tax on the profits I made from the sale?

A—Generally, the profits from the sale of a residence are taxable. But, if you buy another home within a certain period, the gain is not taxable if the cost of the new home equals or exceeds the adjusted sales price of the first home. Also, if you buy a house already constructed, the new home must be purchased and occupied within a two-year period beginning one year before the sale of your old residence and ending one year after that date.

Q—My son is 21 and plans to be a doctor. Can I carry him as a dependent while he is in medical school?

A—Age is not a factor in determining whether he is your dependent or not. If you provide his chief support then you may continue to claim him as a dependent. While he is in school as a full time student, provided you furnish over half his support, you may claim an exemption even though he earned over $600, assuming he otherwise qualifies as your dependent.

Q—Our daughter graduated from college last year and was married several months later. Can we claim her as a dependent for the whole year or for just the time we supported her before marriage? She has had no income of her own.

A—You are entitled to either a full exemption or none at all. Exemptions for dependents cannot be pro-rated. If you furnished more than one-half the support of your daughter for the entire calendar year then you may claim her as a dependent

Two More Top Attractions Signed for Concert Series

Pampa concert-goers are in for an exceptionally fine season starting next fall. The Community Concert Association board met Friday night at the conclusion of a sell-out membership campaign and selected two additional attractions for the 1965-66 season. The board picked Mildred Miller, glamorous mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, and the New York Brass Quintet, five young music making virtuosos each of whom is described by one critic as being "a veritable Heifetz of his instrument."

President Johnson put the Alabama National Guard on active duty and sent in regular Army riot forces to protect the marchers when it appeared Alabama authorities would not guarantee their safety. Four thousand troops massed in the area, moved ahead of and behind the exodus.

Outsiders Arrive Many hundreds of outsiders flocked into the state to take part in the demonstration, drawn by an earlier confrontation between police and marchers who wanted to have a prayer meeting at the Dallas County Courthouse for Rev. James Reeb, victim of a white beating.

They came from Hawaii with leis, from Detroit with the insignia of Teamsters and automobile workers. From everywhere came an assortment of clergy from all faiths. And from the shacks and cotton fields of Alabama came Negroes in tatters and barefoot shouting "Freedom... I'm gonna let it shine."

White Alabamians deplored, detested and rebuked the march but could not stay away from the dramatic sight. They clogged the streets of Selma to watch it start and Montgomery to watch it finish. They pulled their cars up to the side roads along the way to watch it pass.

They saw priests and nuns with gummy mud rimming their garments, a one-legged white man, a blind man, a woman in a wheel chair, children. There were barefoot marchers limping on blistered feet, a strange bearded man with his trousers rolled up running back and forth on a service detail. They saw long-hairs and beatniks, and many lumped them into one category: "Outside agitators stirring up our people."

The association already had booked for the new season the Norman Luboff Choir and Arthur Fiedler conducting the Buffalo Philharmonic.

Miss Miller and Fiedler have been signed for dates in October and November this year and Luboff and the Brass Quintet will come to Pampa in the Spring of 1966.

At Friday night's meeting Dudley Steele, association president, thanked the more than 100 volunteer workers who brought the membership drive to a successful end Friday noon by selling out the seating capacity of Pampa Junior High school auditorium where the concerts will be staged.

Obituaries

Horace R. Ridings Horace R. Ridings, 62, of 720 N. Somerville, died at 3:45 p.m. Friday in his home. He was born Jan. 18, 1903, in Hollis, Okla.

Funeral arrangements will be announced from Hollis where the body has been taken by Carmichael-Whitely Funeral Directors.

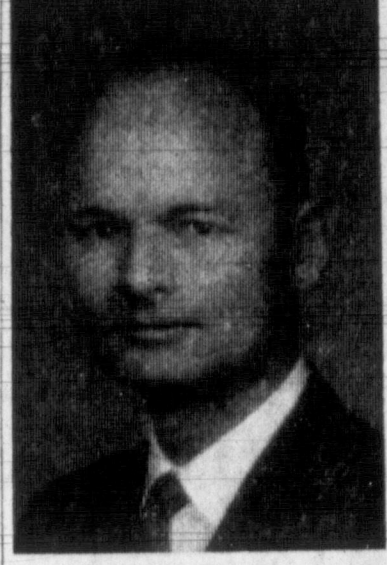

Mr. Ridings had been a resident of Pampa 12 years, moving here from Hollis. He was a retired steel construction worker, having been employed by Green Construction Co. Mr. Ridings was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Grace Ridings of the home; two brothers, Hugh Ridings of Hollis, Okla., and Lewis Ridings of Witherral, and one nephew, Claude Dean of Fort Worth.

County Tops In Bond Sales

Gray County led District 2 in the sale of savings bonds both for the month of February and the first two months of 1965. During the first two months of 1965, Gray County purchased $60,693 in savings bonds. In February alone, there were $29,396 savings bonds sold in Gray County.

George Cree, Jr., chairman of the county savings bond committee, said, "If you have not already filed your income tax return for 1964, we would like to remind you to get your tax refund in the form of U.S. savings bonds. You will be more apt to hang on to your refund if it is taken in savings bonds," he said.

Cockburn Named To District Post

A. B. Cockburn has been named Pampa district geologist effective April 1 by Joseph E. Reid, manager of Oil and Gas Exploration, Production, and Engineering for the Cabot Corp. Western Region. Cockburn also serves as geologist for the Casper, Wyo. district. He spent a year and a half at Casper before his transfer to Pampa a year ago as senior geologist.

After receiving his B.S. Degree in Petroleum Engineering from Texas Technological College in 1948, Cockburn worked for Shell Oil Co. He began working for Cabot in 1952 in the Midland office.

The Cockburns' children are Tolbert, 16, and Gayla, 12. The family resides at 2306 Christine.

Cockburn will succeed C. C. Hemsell, Cabot's district geologist for the past 16 years, who is taking early retirement April 30.

Hemsell came to Cabot in 1949 with a broad background of geological experience throughout the eastern and southern states. He plans to engage in geological consulting work in Pampa.

Batteries Stolen From Auto Lot

Delbert Daniels, owner of Select Autos, 112 W. Craven, reported the theft of two car batteries to Pampa police. Daniels said one of the batteries was stolen from an auto on March 23 and the other on March 27. He said the batteries were valued at approximately $46.

● Viet Nam

The government troops were flown by 97 American helicopters into a forest believe to conceal central Viet Cong headquarters.

They uncovered more than six tons of land mines, more than any other cache in memory. In three separate ammunition dumps they found more than 570 mines.

The Communists offered only light groundfire to the helicopters when the first two waves flew in, and by the time the third and last wave brought in troops, the Viet Cong had disappeared.

Officers were disappointed in not finding the actual headquarters of the guerrillas. But the sweep of the area was completed without the loss of a single Vietnamese soldier.

In the other operations, government soldiers found and captured 130 tons of rice in two Communist supply dumps 25 and 70 miles north of Saigon; and a lightning airlift 400 miles north of Saigon killed 15 Viet Cong.

One case of vandalism and a lost or stolen billfold was being investigated by Pampa police over the weekend.

Bill Newlin, 1413 Russell, told police that someone threw a beer bottle into the front door window of Cities Service Gas Building, 1202 Gwendolen. No estimate of the amount of damage was made by police. L. F. Skinner, 216 W. Craven, told police that he lost a billfold containing $400 in travelers checks and a $100 bill.

INDUSTRIAL WEEK—Gordon Lyons, general chairman of activities for the week-long Pampa observance of Texas Industrial Week, checks over a sign promoting the event. The sign is located on Highway 60 east of Pampa. The week's observance will be marked by several events listed in a story on page one.

● Legislative

A House-approved constitutional amendment relaxing the county residence requirements in state and national elections is ready for a Senate decision.

Two other constitutional amendments—lowering the voting age to 19 and abolishing the poll tax—hang in limbo in the House. Proponents last week were unable to get a two-thirds vote for final approval and opponents couldn't get a simple majority to kill them.

Both are due a final decision this week. A pair of controversial liquor bills—one extending the tavern curfew to 2 a.m. and the other requiring package stores to close at 8 p.m. instead of 10 p.m.—are also ready for House action.

Double semi-trailer up to 65 feet long will be permitted on Texas highways for the first time if Gov. John Connally signs a bill passed by the House last week. The bill originated in the Senate and won House approval without change. Rep. Bill Healy of Paducah, a powerful House member who is accustomed to getting his way, lost a floor fight in the House. By a vote of 70-46, the lower chamber killed Healy's bill exempting property of masons and other fraternal lodges from taxation.

McIlhany Talks on Legislation

Emphasis on better care for the mentally retarded and Governor Connally's appropriations bill are the major issues before this session of the Texas Legislature, State Representative Grainger McIlhany told members of congressional action committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Friday. McIlhany spoke to approximately 40 persons attending the committee luncheon held in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

The Wheeler lawmaker said the current session of the legislature is faced with more than 1,000 bills with the appropriations, mentally retarded, in addition to teacher pay raise and college bills heading the list. The lawmaker pointed out the bill is now in the conference stage. He said the $3 billion appropriations, used to run the state, is moving along satisfactorily and should not meet with too much opposition.

McIlhany said this session of the legislature is putting more emphasis on care of mentally retarded than in the history of the state. He said the legislature is attempting to put the mentally retarded care under the control of the Texas Health Commission. He said in addition an attempt is being made to set up several smaller hospitals over the state from care of mentally retarded rather than one huge facility.

Creek Project Okayed

MCLEAN (Sp) — The Texas Conservation Board had approved the McClellan Creek upstream flood control project and a planning party is expected to begin work within a few months.

Chairman of the Gray County Soil Conservation District board of supervisors, Milton Carpenter, said the state board indicated in a letter that the planning party, which will survey the McClellan Creek watershed in search of the best dam sites is due in this area later in the year. The planning party will determine the location of the sites, now expected to be at least 10. Carpenter and other SCD supervisors, as well as the scores of persons in the area who have worked for years to gain approval of the upstream flood control project were elated over the announcement.

"If we hadn't worked together, we wouldn't have gotten it done," Carpenter said. Carpenter praised Billy Davis of Pampa, who served as chairman of the steering committee for the project and also recommended Curtis Schaffer, James Cliett, W. C. Epperson and Stan Friend, other Gray County SCD supervisors.

Business Highlights

The Week in Business
By LEROY POPE
New York (UPI) — The weatherman stole the show this week on the business news front.

Unexpected snowstorms and continuing cold generally combined with the fact that Easter is late this year hit sales of clothing, home furnishings and many nondurables so hard that in some regions retail sales were down 2 per cent below last year, according to Dun & Bradstreet.

However, the Commerce Department said total retail sales across the country were up 3 per cent from a year ago on the week, mainly on a big bulge in the sales of automobiles and other durables.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — When the growing population of the United States began its post-war trek to the suburbs, it took its churches along.

Jr., executive vice president, "but, while we are in other lines as well, there still is a steady demand."

Prefabricated Structure
"Nearly everyone who works in sheet metal to any extent has at one time or another built a church spire. But back in 1953-54, we got the idea of making a rigid structure in factory prefabrication. It took about five years to prepare the proper specifications so that we could work with architects and with church groups, but we found a huge suburban market.

Wide Price Range
Price ranges in spires produced by Overly run the range from $1,500 to $80,000. Wehe said, with the average spire in the $5,000-$8,000 range. "This is not a 'needle,' but it's not a 'gothic' either," he said.

EASTER SEAL CHILD
Mrs. John Connally visits with Chuck Winikates, Texas 1965 Easter Seal Child. Chuck is one of thousands of Texas children who have received treatment at a Texas Easter Seal Center. These centers and other year-round services are supported by the funds raised during the Annual Easter Seal Campaign, which is now in progress. The Easter Seal Campaign, which is sponsored by the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults, runs through Easter Sunday, April 18.

Other firms have come into the field of fabricating and erecting spires, Wehe said, to the point where it now is a small, but flourishing industry by itself. Development of new and lighter metals and materials has helped, Wehe said, but of at least equal help has been the growth of new methods of welding. In the fabricating of the spires, he said, "everything is welded" so that no calking is necessary.

"The design of one of our spires is for self-support," he said. "Our spires have weathered hurricanes; we never have lost one to this cause yet."

Is South Fighting Losing Battle on Rights Proposal?

By LYLE WILSON

United Press International
The Johnson administration's hurry-up voting rights bill stumps a shortcut through the U.S. Constitution which might condemn the legislation as unconstitutional if it were being considered apart from the emotional issue at hand.

Outraged Southerners angrily proclaim the bill to be in violation of the Constitution. They cite constitutional provisions that the states shall establish the standards by which citizens may qualify to vote. Civil rights leaders, President Johnson and the Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress blandly ignore these complaints.

The hurry-up Johnson bill depends for its constitutional validity on the firm but limiting language of the 15th Amendment:

ability business in areas other than those specified by the 15th Amendment and find some other means of preventing any denial or abridgement of the right to vote.

That is the argument against the constitutionality of the voter rights bill. It may not be utterly and instantly convincing. But it consists of much more than mere hot air. At the least, the Johnson bill cuts a corner in its path toward fulfilling the promises of the 15th Amendment and of 1964 presidential campaign orators.

If the problem to be dealt were less political, less emotional, less violent, less provocative of civil disorder, the politicians might be willing to move more deliberately and to choose some less questionable means of meeting the demands of militant Negroes.

the rule whereby a two-thirds national convention majority was required to nominate for president and vice president. The rule had given the South a veto power.

The South has been on the political toboggan since 1936 while Negro political muscle has been swelling. The northern politician who tinkers with the hurry-up vote bill would do so at his own peril. If the politicians do not understand that, Negro leaders will make it clear to them.

The congressional and other politicians who need Negro voters to remain in office will prefer to take a chance on the constitutionality of the Johnson bill than to take a chance of offending the politically powerful Negroes.

Pampa Youth and Community Center

The men's basketball league came to a close last Friday with Richard Drug (13-1) winning by one game over Cock O Walk (12-2). They were followed in order by First National Bank and W-B Pump both 9-5, Stinnett 8-6, Hi-Land Pharmacy 6-8, Jaycees and Celanese at 2-12 and Remco Mobeetie 1-13.

Members of the winning Drugists team were James Lee, Arlen Kaiser, Jerry Williams, Roy Pool, Jerry Wright, Ronnie Mills, John Kent and Doc Bates. Their picture has already appeared in the March 3 edition. Members of the runner-up Cock O Walk were Coyle Winborne, Gene Brown, Ronnie Chase, Ray Hollis, Jim Enloe, Jack Armstrong, Ellis Knight and Ronnie Gates. The women's league finished earlier and was won by La Bonita Beauty Salon with Panhandle Angels second.

This is the last call for volleyball teams. The organizational meeting for the three leagues (mixed, women's and men's) will be held Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in the Center meeting room. Entry fees should be turned in by meeting time so that league playing dates and schedules can be drawn up. The league will run through April and May playing either on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday nights. Entry fees are $12 per league per team. There is still practice time left on Wednesday at 8 and 9 p.m. and on Friday night at 9 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the Center Director.

New swim lessons will start on Monday in the form of Advanced Beginner and Intermediate. Advanced Beginner will meet at 4 p.m. while Intermediate will meet at 5 p.m. All classes are still open to enrollment and a child may enroll as late as Monday. Enrollment for Center members is free of charge while non-members must pay a $3 instructional fee. Chris Patton, Center Red Cross Water Safety Instructor, will conduct the classes.

Youngsters passing swim lessons last week at the Center were in Polywig: Mike Slaughter, Bart Steadman, Robbie Malone, Carrey Malone and Brian Crowell. Passing in Beginners were Jeffrey Jeter, Larry Ziebarth, Mel Cockrell, Dan Cockrell and Judy Parker.

Attention all you teen-agers. A new dance method will start on April 2. R If Croup Attacks Your Child's Breathing Croup is one of the symptoms of a throat problem. Breathing is difficult and there may be a spasm of the larynx with a wheezing sound. It may occur in acute laryngitis, a streptococcus sore throat or even diphtheria, htheria.

It is important to call a physician. While waiting, start a steam vaporizer near your child. Until the vaporizer begins to steam, turn on the hot water in the bathroom and expose your child to the steam there. For steam usually brings some quick relief.

UP AND OVER — Little Randy Elliott of White Deer took the pole vault at the Panhandle Relays yesterday with a leap of 10'9", winning individual high point honors as he placed in five events.

Randy May Be Pushed To New Mark at Texas

AUSTIN (UPI)—The 38th session of the Texas Relays opens Friday with six defending champions back to bid for the titles they won a year ago.

John Camlien of Emporia (Kansas) Teachers leads the returning champions. He will try for a fourth successive victory in the mile run, a feat no one has performed so far. He took the event last year in 4:09.3.

Preliminaries in the outdoor meet will be held Friday morning and afternoon in the University of Texas Memorial Stadium. Finals will be run Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

The roster of returning winners also includes Richard Stebbins of Grambling, who took the 100-yard dash in 9.5; Jim Lancaster of Baylor, the shot-put champ; Robert Schmidt of Fort Hays State, high jumper; Jim Farrell, Oklahoma pole vaulter and Bill Floerke, Kansas State's powerful javelin thrower.

Phil Rodgers Leads Azalea

WILMINGTON, N. C. (UPI)—Phil Rodgers, back on his game after peeling off 28 points, fired a four-under-par 68 in a bitter wind Saturday for a 54-hole total of 206 and a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $28,750 Azalea Open Golf Tournament.

Dick Hart, the young club pro from Hinsdale, Ill., who led at the midway point, had to scramble to make even par 72 that left him just a stroke behind Rodgers at 207.

Joe Campbell fired his second-round 69 to move up to third at 208. The only others close to the pace were John Barnum, Jackie Cupit, Bob Zimmerman and Gary Sloan who were tied at 211. Five others were deadlocked at 212.

Rodgers hit every green but two in regulation, rolled in four birdie putts and chipped in an eagle three from 65 feet away on the 548-yard par-five sixth hole at the Cape Fear Country Club Course.

"It's the best golf I've been playing in quite a while," said Rodgers, who won his last tournament 23 months ago at the Texas Open. "I'm playing very steady, about as steady as I can play," he said. "It's the best since the 1962 New Orleans Open. That's when I began slipping."

Rodgers was the third pro to hold the lead in as many rounds. Claude King was the first-round leader and Hart had the lead at the halfway point of the four-day tournament.

So far this year he has won $6,400 and is getting back in the form that won him nearly $50,000 in 1961-62 a year after he turned pro. He picked up $400 in bonus money for holding the lead after 54 holes and

Blackhawks Cop Panhandle Meet

By BILL NICHOLS
News Sports Correspondent
PANHANDLE—Favored Phillips romped to victory as expected in the Panhandle Relays yesterday with 123 points, but Canadian finished a surprising second as the Wildcats failed to win a single first place, but piled up 76 markers on depth.

Dalhart and White Deer tied for third place with 65 points each, followed by host Panhandle with 59, Claude 53, Clarendon 32, Vega 28, McLean 16, Price College 12, Turkey 4, Allison 2, Groom 1.

Little Randy Elliott of White Deer won individual high point honors as he finished first in the pole vault, second in the low hurdles, third in the broad jump and ran on both the third-place sprint relay and sixth place mile relay teams.

Highlight of the meet was the record-setting 880-yard dash duel between Freddie Banes of Phillips and Harry Tate of McLean. Although the weather warmed up considerably yesterday from Friday's chilly prelims, strong winds held times down, except for the half-mile duel.

Banes, defending state champ, took the lead, but the powerful little Tiger put on a surge in the final 220 and ran neck-and-neck with him, unable to get the needed step ahead. Banes broke the tape in 2:05.8, breaking the old record by well over a second, with Tate less than a second slower.

An unlucky accident in the final of the high hurdles cost Panhandle the services of one of their stars, as Dale Gray tripped on the last hurdle and broke his collarbone.

Milwaukee Power Is Threat

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—If power alone could win a pennant, the Milwaukee Braves would rate an odds-on favorite for the 1965 National League championship.

They are loaded with consistent long ball hitters. The question is if they have enough pitching, speed and poise to go along with all that batting muscle.

Manager Bobby Bargan insists they have.

"We have good pitching and it's young," Bragan maintains, asking how a pitching staff can be degraded which starts off with a 19-game winning right-hander and a 17-game winning lefthander.

They are Tony Cloninger, who is 24, and Denny Lemaster, who turned 26 last month.

Pitching is Promising

After that the Brave pitching does not appear imposing although it is young and promising.

While Bragan stoutly defends the pitching potential and admits the club lacks overall speed, he feels that power "makes up for numerous shortcomings."

That power, however, represents a problem for only two of the sluggers have been assigned definite positions.

They are Henry Aaron in right field and Joe Torre behind the plate. Aaron batted .328 last season with 24 home runs and 95 runs batted in. Torre, who divided his time between catching and playing first base, hit .321 with 20 homers and 109 RBIs.

Other Heavy Batters

The other heavy clubbers whose positions will be determined during the spring exhibition games are Rico Carty, who hit .330 with 22 HRs and 88 RBIs; Lee Maye, a .304 hitter with 10 HRs and 74 RBIs; Denis Menke, who batted .283 with 20 HRs and 65 RBIs and Eddie Mathews, with a 1964 average of .233 with 23 HRs and 74 RBIs.

The reason for the uncertainty of positions is the unsettled situation at first and second base.

Bragan is trying out three outfielders at first—Carty, Maye and Felipe Alou. Alou was a disappointment last season when he hit only .253 with nine homers and 51 RBIs, but Bragan is sure he will stage a strong comeback.

The Braves' starting pitchers in addition to Cloninger and Lemaster will be Wade Blasingame (9-5), Hank Fischer (11-10) and Bob Sadowski (9-10).

Goodrich Leads Win For West

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI)—Led by All-America Gail Goodrich of UCLA, the West all-stars scored for 17 straight points in the second half Saturday to defeat the East 87-74.

Goodrich, instrumental in bringing UCLA the NCAA championship last Saturday, sank 18 of his 20 points in the second half as the West overcame an 11-point deficit. The East led 56-45 midway through the second half.

Goodrich was awarded the Star of Star's Trophy. He shared high-point honors with Flynn Robinson of Wyoming who also tossed in 20 points.

The East was paced by Billy Cunningham, North Carolina's "Kangaroo Kid" with 19 points. He was followed by Michigan's Bill Buntin with 16.

The West, with its speedy guard tandem of Goodrich and Robinson, offset the 45-40 rebounding edge held by the taller and heavier East team.

The loss was a sharp disappointment to East coach Joe Lapchick, who retired as St. John's mentor after winning the National Invitation Tournament championship this season.

Lapchick said "we just seemed to collapse when their guards started pressing us in the second half."

Winning coach Alvin (Doggie) Julian of Dartmouth, said his team's second half strategy was to open up the free throw lane and "spread their big men."

This enabled Goodrich and Robinson to drive the lane, picking up several key baskets.

The Western team caught up at 56-56 and went ahead for good on a jump shot by Goodrich.

The small but scrappy Western team brought the crowd of 7,000 to its feet as it outscored the East 25-2 to come from a 56-46 deficit to a 70-66 lead.

LITTLE BUTCH CROSSLAND... sets new record

Major League Roundup

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—They say in the dugouts:

Second baseman Jim Lefebvre is far and away the finest looking rookie in Florida even though he isn't even officially on the Dodgers' roster... don't worry, he will be before April 12....

American League hitters agree the Yankees' best pitcher right now is Mel Stottlemyre... keeps the ball knee high all the time and there aren't many who can do that....

The ballplayers wouldn't mind one bit if the owners really pulled one out of left field and brought back Happy Chandler as commissioner. No chance, Happy says he'd take it, though....

White Sox' coach Charlie Metro rates Ken Berry, the club's rookie centerfielder, among the top five defensive outfielders in all baseball. "If it's anywhere in the ball park, he'll get it," Metro says about Berry....

Spahnie Feels Can Still Win, Even for Mets

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—If Warren Spahn finds he can't do it anymore, they won't have to tell him; he'll tell them.

Spahn, who'll be 44 next month and is listed as a pitcher-coach with the New York Mets, holds more records by far than any other pitcher in the game today.

He's not looking to trade on them, however, and if he discovers he can't win for the Mets, he has no intention of becoming a mere hanger-on.

A 23-game winner for Milwaukee two years ago, Spahn was able to win only six games for the Braves last season in what was the poorest showing his 25-year professional career.

Not Ashamed

"I'm not happy about last year's record, but I'm not ashamed of it," he said, after throwing 20 minutes on the sidelines, doing 15 minutes of calisthenics in the outfield and taking another 20 minutes batting practice against mechanical-iron Mike.

"My timing was all fouled up last year. Then when I got it straightened out, I didn't get a chance to pitch."

PHS Girls Win Tourney

PERRYTON — The Pampa Harvestettes took first-place honors in the volleyball round-robin tournament in the Perryton Relays yesterday, with Wheeler second.

The Harvestettes went undefeated, downing every other team in the meet. The PHS girls opened with a 15-4, 6-15, 15-2 triumph over Wheeler; rapped Liberal, 15-2, 15-8; crushed Wheeler B, 15-2, 15-1; got a surprising battle from Perryton B, 15-4, 16-18, 15-1; and then rolled over hostess Perryton, 15-4, 15-1.

The Harvestettes are idle until April 24, when they play Abilene.

Pampa Second Behind Dumas

By RONNIE OLER
News Sports Reporter
PERRYTON — Dumas won the final event of the day, the mile relay, to pull past Pampa for the honors in the Perryton relays yesterday, 110 to 103.

The lead switched back and forth between the two teams, with Pampa holding a nine-point edge going into the mile relay. The Demons won the event to pick up 20 points to fifth-place Pampa's four, pulling out the honors.

Host Perryton was a distant third with 65½ points, followed by Caprock 56, Borger 39, Canyon 31½, Guymon 20 and Liberal eight.

State champ Booker romped to the small-school division honors with 103 points, followed by Stinnett 88½, Johnson City 76, Spearman 55, Wheeler 40 and Boys Ranch 30.

Every record set last year in the large school division was broken this year in the second annual event, with some of the times and distances being outstanding. Pampa's Mark Westbrook ran the fastest mile in the Panhandle area this year a 4:25.0, almost lapping his competition as he smashed his mark of last year by over 18 seconds.

Pampa's hurdles duo of Bones Bullard and Randy Johnston chased each other to the fastest hurdles times of the year for the Panhandle, as Bullard fled to a 14.7 clocking in the highs, with Johnston a step behind at 14.8; and Johnston took the lows in 19.6 with Bullard in 19.7.

Little Butch Crossland erased his own broadjump mark with a 21'6¼" leap, his best of the year. Doc Cornutt came through with a long-overdue win in the shotput as he heaved it 50'2¼".

Other Pampa points were picked up as Swede Johnson was second in the discus with 147½", erasing last year's winning record; Chad Spears was third in the shot with 49½"; Terry Troxel tied for sixth in the pole vault; Teddy Bird was fourth in the high hurdles with 20.6; San Williams and Bullard tied for sixth in the high jump. Gary McCarrell ran a blazing 22.7 in the 220-yard dash; but had to settle for third as the winning time was 22.6 and the second-placer was clocked in 22.62. Jimmy Jamieson was second in the 880.

Pampa was badly hurt for team honors when a messed-up handoff disqualified the sprint relay team from the finals.

Results

Shot-put: Doc Cornutt, Pampa; David, Dumas; Chad Spears, Pampa; Aldrick, Dumas; Herald, Liberal. Distance: 50'2¼". New record, old record 48'0".

Pampa Ousted In Tennis Play

PERRYTON — Pampa's B doubles team pulled out a second-place medal for the only Harvesters tennis honors in the net division of the Perryton Relays this weekend, won by Liberal.

The doubles team of Rick Maxie and Bob Wells opened with a 6-3, 7-5, 6-2 win over Spearman Friday, then downed Lakeview Saturday morning, 7-5, 6-2, before losing in the finals to Liberal, 1-6, 1-6.

Pampa's A singlist, Vic Keyes, won his opening match over Doug Lackey of Spearman, 6-2, 6-4, then dropped his second-round match to Mike Cook of Liberal, 0-6, 0-6.

A boys doubles, Roy Milliron and Rod Bray, downed Perryton in their opener, 6-2, 7-3, then outbattled Spearman, 1-6, 6-4, 8-6, before losing to Caprock in the semifinals, 0-6, 6-8.

B singlist Johnny Guidry won his opener over Spearman, 6-1, 6-3, but lost in the semifinals to Liberal, 0-6, 0-6.

Brenda Shaffer lost a girls singles to Sharon Cook of Spearman, 0-6, 1-6. A girls doubles Cathy Davis and Jan Crownover also lost their opener, to Perryton, 0-6, 0-6.

BILL HART, the busy bee who edits the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal sport pages, had a rather interesting column last week which this department rewrites to reprint. Some of this applies to Pampa, and just about all 4-A schools, some of it this department feels does not necessarily apply, but in any case, it should be interesting to local sports fans, so herewith is "Hart's Beat" of March 24:

"There's a trend going in Class AAAA schools where athletes are competing in only one sport these days. There are some who go out for two sports, but it's almost unheard of when one goes out for both football and basketball. There are always exceptions to the rule. Tom Sawyer of Plainview and Don Burrell of Lubbock High tried three sports this past season and did a 11-11-11. Sawyer was starting quarterback on the football team, was regular in basketball and is now on the baseball squad. Burrill started as an end in football for the Westerners, worked his way to the sixth spot in basketball and is now out for track.

"Why aren't there more athletes going out for both sports these days? Mainly, the boys don't want to, according to the local head coach mentors. Maynard's Three HRs Lead Pampa's 9-8 Win

By RONNIE OLER News Sports Reporter

BORGER — Ricky Maynard hit three consecutive home runs to provide the margin of difference here Friday as the Pampa Harvesters outlasted the Borger Bulldogs, 9-8, for their sixth straight victory against no losses. Strong southerly winds, blowing 20-25 miles per hour straight out toward the right field fence, provided a hitter's paradise as seven home runs, two triples and two doubles were among the 21 hits, 14 by Pampa. Most of the four-basers were high pop flies that were picked up by the wind, although one of Maynard's was a line drive that would have been a homer anywhere, another went high and far and would probably have been good anyway, and one of Borger's, a two-run smash by Terry Brewer, lined over the left-field fence for an authentic blow. Maynard becomes the third Harvester in history to hit three round-trippers in one game, following Larry Stroud and Kenny Hebert, and becomes the first Harvester to do it in consecutive times at bat. His seven RBI's gave reliever Buddy Hammons the win, as the slim junior took his third triumph, sharing the Harvester wins with Jerry Garrison.

A. J. Foyt Returns To Action

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—A. J. Foyt of Houston, four-time United States Auto Club champion, is "healed up real fine." In Phoenix for the 150-mile Jimmy Bryan Memorial Race, Foyt said Saturday he had passed all his physicals and was out of "all my braces." He quipped, "I was glad to get rid of that garbage."

Last December Foyt was severely injured in a California stock car race. Saturday, the day before his first race since being injured, a grueling 150 miles in the Arizona sun, Foyt said he had been out of the hospital about a month and out of a back brace "about two weeks."

If Tired, Will Quit
Discussing plans for the race, he said, "If I get tired I'll pull the car in and retire it instead of taking a chance on wrecking it." The car is the Offenhauser rear-engine Sheraton-Thompson special.

In 1964 Foyt ran in the Sebring 12-hour race, flew all night to arrive here an hour before the start of the 100-mile Governor's Cup Race and proceeded to win it. This year, with his injuries behind him, Foyt admits he is "still a little sore and weak, but other than that everything is fine." "Since I've been here a few days, I'm getting the fever again," he said. The fever won the Houston, Tex., product about a quarter of a million dollars and 10 out of 13 events in the USAC championship trial last year.

Not Up To Sebring
Racing just about everything on wheels, the champion driver said he "enjoys it. I would have gone to Sebring," he said, but he admitted it would have been too much to try to run the 12-hour grind and then return here for the 150-miler. "I didn't feel up to going all night at Sebring and flying here."

"This year," he said, "I'd like to put all my efforts toward winning the title again." He has done so for the past four consecutive years.

After Sunday's Race, Foyt plans to fly to Indianapolis for a luncheon with the "Enco people" and then to Atlanta, Ga., where he will begin practicing for the 500-mile stock car race to be held in April.

Pirates Dark Horse In NL Pennant Race

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI)—If you're looking for the perfect dark horse in the National League, pick the Pittsburgh Pirates, because nobody else is. Harry (The Hat) Walker, the club's new manager, likes it that way. He'd rather surprise the experts and he's a cinch to do it if he can boost the Pirates from their sixth place tie of last year into contention this year. If he can accomplish that, he's also a cinch to win a lot of votes as manager of the year. Two of the chief reasons no one is expecting much from the Pirates is because their star outfielder, Roberto Clemente will miss most, if not all of spring training due to malaria and because, outside of obtaining veteran catcher Del Crandall from the Giants, the club stood pat during the winter. Walker insists the Pirates will be improved. He doesn't promise they'll win the pennant this year, but he does promise they'll play heads-up baseball. "I can guarantee our club will be alert," he says. "We'll be running hard and making the other teams hurry. That way, the other club might throw the ball away."

Walker is well aware how much Clemente means to the Pirates and he's hoping he'll be in right field on opening day, but he's also reconciled to the possibility the club will have to go without his services for a while. Freak Mishap Clemente, who led the League with a .339 batting average last year, suffered a freak accident in his native Puerto Rico this winter while mowing his lawn. A small pebble which was picked up by the mower struck him on his hip and infection set in. Then he was felled by malaria, lost 20 pounds and required hospitalization. The doctors say Clement's slump was due to the ball — Dale and Diane Brown-bowling two blinds while baby-sitting, too, and winning three points — Annette Sparks is proving to the team that she is improving, by picking the 6-7 split. Marshall Johnson picked the 3-4-6-7 Aileen Childers picked the 3-7-10. Jane Groff the 2-7-8 also picked the 5-10. Coach Pete Irwin fills in occasionally, and may bowl a 90 or maybe 190 — that's consistency, no! We have a "wrong foot Louie," Terry Frasier in the P.E. Class who bowls consistently in the 170's and 180's. The National All Star Pro's on the Tours are commenting on the age of the "Up and Coming" winners in the tours — all starting to learn to bowl in high school and college, giving them about a ten year start, and really give the older Pro's a run for their money.

Dennis Huntley was so excited at so many strikes, he ran into a post and broke his glasses. This might help other bowlers, as he proceeded to have a 259, 234, 171 for a 664 series. Word is around that Patsy Rose, with a .97 average, had a 487 scratch series in the Texas women's State Tournament at Dallas. She and her partner — Shirley Thompson are currently in second place. Several teams are in Dallas this week, so we may have more winners to report next week. In the Men's City Tournament the top scores are — Singles — W. Watson, 677; R. Mounce, 652; R. Schultz, 648; A. Radall, 645; B. Patterson, 642; D. Haynes, 638. Doubles — R. Johnson and F. Berry, 1306; F. Rader and J. Smartt, 1267; D. Berry and T. Dunham, 1265; G. Epperson and O. Epperson, 1246; B. Nil and D. Haynes, 1236; D. Hilburn and W. Workman, 1228; D. Burns, and G. Gray, 1203. Team Events — Celanese Area 111, 3112; Dr. Pepper, 3068; Cabot Chips, 3066; Happy Co., 3042; Zales, 3040; Holy Rollers, 3034; Hoover Oil, 2997; Western Co., 2995; Coronado Inn, 2967; Cabot Schaffer, 2976; McNeil Produce, 2968. All Events — Scratch — C. Sinclair, 1770; B. Nail, 1708; D. Haynes, 1694; T. Erickson, 1682; J. Smartt, 1676. All Events — Hdcp. — G. Crossman, 1912; C. Sinclair, 1896; D. Burns, 1891; F. It was snowing this morning when the thermometer showed twenty degrees above. Most pond and lake temperatures will read at less than fifty degrees for the next week or so in this area. It was shortly after the turn of the century when it was colder on March 24 than it was that date this year. We have had a very cold, late winter and early spring. The ponds and lakes will warm up much more quickly now that the days are longer and the norther less frequent.

Black bass, as well as sunfish, will respond just as quickly as the waters warm. When the cottonwoods leaf out and the wild plum bushes bloom, you can bet your bottom dollar that the fish will come out of semi-hibernation and be searching for food. Then the fishing season will begin and last until the temperatures drop below 55 degrees in this area, which will probably be in late December.

Black bass, crappie and sunfish will respond most quickly to the warmer temperatures, and then the channel catfish will begin their spring search for something to eat.

Smithwick's Devil Horse has always been one of my favorite top water lures in the summertime. There are many other top water lures that work magic but not in the early springtime. Within the next few weeks I would prefer an under-water lure, such as a Johnson spoon with a pork rind attached or some of the preferred spinners. Better advice still is to consult with expert fishermen and ascertain what lures they are using successfully. You will be surprised how most of the experts will respond to your answers. You can pick up some good pointers.

A fishing license is required of any person fishing in any of the waters of Texas with the following exceptions. No license is required of persons under 17 years of age or over 65 years of age.

The daily bag limits and possession limits for the top part of Texas are: 15 bass per day and 30 in possession; channel, blue and flathead catfish, 15 per day and 30 in possession. These two species are the only ones mentioned as to bag and possession limits in the laws of the Parks and Wildlife Department. When it comes to brea, goggle, eye, perch, blue gill and other sunfish, the sky is the limit. It's the same with all other species except for the bass and catfish listed above.

My guess is that there will be less than 50, nay, 30 flatheads caught in the entire Panhandle and not more than two blue catfish landed. Nevertheless, the rules are logical because there have been many hundreds of both blue and flathead catfish placed in Panhandle waters by the Parks and Wildlife Department during the last few years. It will take time for the transplants to get into production.

On a recent trip to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Marine Laboratory in Rockport the student, with the help of L. D. Nuckles, Information and Education Officer, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, recorded sounds of the fish in the twelve large aquaria maintained in the laboratory lobby.

A group of small sheephead proved to be the star performers. They "talked" all the time but the chatter became an excited bedalm when they were fed.

Redfish and drum made a few noises, but black bass would only "talk" when an offering of chopped shrimp was placed in the tank.

When the hydrophone was lowered into the tank where a small octopus was tending her eggs, she immediately investigated and appeared to like what she saw. Wrapping her arms around the waterproof mike she cradled it tenderly, but in a dead silence. No one sound was recorded in her tank.

The student said that he had tried to record black bass being fed in a hatchery, but the voracious bass kept trying to eat the hydrophone.

Yuma residents can figure on 280 sunny days in an average year.

STOCKING LAKE MEREDITH — Wesley Barfield, Texas Parks and Wildlife technician, is shown placing red shiner minnows into Lake Meredith. Recently there was a total of more than 20 gallons of these brooders placed in the lake. These minnows were placed in the lake as brooders to spawn in order to supply food for the game fish stocked in Lake Meredith.

Fishin' Facts

By TERRY BUSKE
News Outdoor Writer

Every spring when the fishing fever is at a rather high peak, you can gather in any fishing circle and it is nearly a sure bet they are talking "crappie and where the run is on".

This time of the year and in years past many articles have been written and are now being written on this particular fish. The only trouble is, you hear and read where the fish are caught and what they are caught on, but never "how" to basically catch Crappie. Sure, for best results, almost all of us know to fish the brushy parts of the lake and the shallows when they are spawning, but sometimes that is not enough for your limit.

Crappie may be taken in numbers during the spring when they congregate in large schools and still-fishing with various tackle whether from a boat or bank constitutes the best way to fish for this game fighter. Although still-fishing is the most common form of fishing where Crappie is concerned, many anglers, as myself prefer to take them on jigs, flies or spinners. Still-fishing, though basically simple, holds a few arts that every angler should bear in mind. When a Crappie has found the bait you are employing, generally they will test the bait before taking it. This accounts for the nibbling that is indicated by a slight, almost continuous, dipping of the bobber. If you have not employed the right type of bobber, hook and sinker, and the fish detects any kind of resistance on the line, he will leave it. No matter how attractive your bait may be, it will be disregarded because the fish is suspicious of its nature. The lightest possible bobbers should be used, such as the quill bobber made from modern day plastics or, if obtainable, porcupine quill. Such minor resistance is noted by the use of the quill bobber that fully 50 per cent more fish are taken by its use. The fact that the quill is hollow assures the required floating quality. Never use the ringed type of sinkers or split sinkers in still fishing as they are too heavy. Only use split-shot of the smallest size obtainable. Add just enough of these to pull the line and bait down to the depth you want to fish. If you will extend these shots over a length of line above the bait any possible resistance of the bobber to the water is lessened. Eagle claw hooks, that is hooks having a long point with a sharp bend in the point are the best hooks to use for crappie. Minnows are used in all sizes from two inches in length and up. For Crappie fishing a minnow of the smallest length is most desirable. There are several ways in which to hook on a minnow, through the lips, in the gill cover, just under the skin forward of the back fin or dorsal, or in the tail. For Crappie purposes the hook is best if seated just back of the dorsal fin. So hooked, the minnow will swim around and is really solid first choice among baits for crappie.

There are three types of Crappie in the United States, but only two are prominent to any degree in this area. They are the white and black Crappie. The Black Crappie, also called the Calico Bass is silvery or sometimes yellowish in color with overlying irregular dark spots on its sides. The dark markings give the Black Crappie a much darker look than the related White Crappie. The latter has the dark pattern arranged in dark vertical bars, has the mouth less sharply oblique, a more slender body, and the back or dorsal fin spines normally a number six. The Black Crappie has seven or eight, with a long anal fin that about equals the dorsal fin base. Both types breed and spawn in the spring and early summer. The male fans out a place on the bottom and guards the eggs like any other member of the sunfish family.

The best lakes for Crappie fishing in the coming spring but I can think of three that are well stocked and plenty have been pulled out of them. They are Foss Dam located just on the other side of Elk City, Okla., Burson Lakes near Turkey, which I have personally seen 2 to 3 pounders taken from, and Lake Fryer on this side of Perryton. Lake Fryer holds an annual fishing contest every year and last year hundreds of these game fighters were brought out of this lake during the contest. The majority of them were good eating size, but a few one to two lb. Crappie were taken.

Final figures on the public hunts conducted last fall by Parks and Wildlife Department on wildlife management areas place the total deer harvest at two head more than in 1963, or 1970, but the hunter success dropped from 44.4 per cent to 35.9.

On the five areas, the hunter success rate ranged from 38.5 on the Sierra Diablo area, in far West Texas, downward to 23.9 per cent on the Angelina area in deep East Texas.

Eighty hunters on the Sierra Diablo area had a combined bag of 47 deer, including 24 bucks, for their two-day hunts.

On the Angelina tract, 473 hunters harvested only 113 deer, including 85 antlerless, on their two-day hunts, for a success ratio of 23.9 per cent.

The greatest number of hunters participated in the Black Gap shoot in rugged Brewster County. There, 1,119 nimrods got 372 deer, including 159 bucks, for a 33.2 per cent success ratio and 66 javelina.

The second most popular hunt was on the Engeling area near Palestine where 755 permit holders got 308 deer, including 103 bucks, for a 40.9 success ratio.

Participants in the hunts were selected in a public drawing at departmental headquarters in Austin.

E. A. Walker, assistant director for wildlife, said public hunts have been standard procedure to harvest surplus game and to permit hunters to share in game management benefits.

Spring Means Time To Overhaul Tackle

Anglers can take a tip from the pre-season warmups and training now underway in the baseball camps.

Seeing that equipment functions perfectly is just as important to a fisherman as good physical condition is to a touted 20-game winner or the team's "big stick."

Getting gear in shape after a winter's layoff is vital to the success of early trips afloat, state the folks at Mercury outdoors. If you don't, you're likely to discover all sorts of problems . . . and all at the wrong time.

While most of us were admonished to prepare our gear last fall, such good advice has a strange habit of falling on closed ears . . . particularly if the geese were flying. So haul out the tackle box now while you have the time.

Thoroughly clean reels, lubricating according to the maker's specs . . . but use greases sparingly. Check lines for signs of weakness; snip off 10 feet of monofilament, if you haven't already done so. Remove that fly line from the spool and hang in loose coils, if even for only a short period.

Lures should be touched up with paint, if needed. Hone hooks to needle sharpness. Polish spoons and spinners like fine silver — if they don't take a bright shine, replace them.

Though reels are the most critical elements in tackle, inspect rods carefully. Look for loose wrappings, ferrules and reel seats. Observe carefully the condition of the tip where the line runs against the guide; any indication of furrowing calls for immediate replacement.

Plenty of soap and water, mixed with a generous portion of old-fashioned "elbow grease," will do the job on most other items, say the Mercury folks.

Spring conditioning prevents excuses. Get started now!

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY
Gray County Agent
Recently I received bid invitation forms and description of certain property in Lefors from the Texas Highway Department. Anyone is interested in bidding on this property, I would be glad to pass this form along to them. I'm sure others would be available from the local State Highway Department. We have had several questions from farmers, that have had their neighbor's fields blow over on them, as to what can be done about it. It is my understanding that there is a wind erosion control district in existence such as they have in Hansford County. The County can hire machinery to stop the soil from blowing. Cost of this can be added to taxes and collected.

Growth of Cattle Good in Eastern Part of Texas

Despite the popular "Cow country" image of West Texas, the state's cattle population is now greater in the eastern counties than in those west of Fort Worth and San Antonio. Although Texas remains the No. 1 cattle-producing state, furnishing about 10 percent of the nation's beef, the increased production necessary to retain this rating has been primarily in East Texas, says Edward Uvacek, assistant professor and extension livestock marketing specialist at Texas A&M University. This is not because of an actual shift in production, but the result of a heavy increase in cattle numbers in East Texas counties. At the same time, West Texas production has remained relatively stable, said Uvacek. This increased production stems largely from the conversion of crop land to cattle pasture in the land where cotton once was king. Fertilizers and irrigation, along with new grasses such as Coastal Bermuda, have increased the cattle carrying capacity of the land to a much higher level than the drier West Texas ranchland. This trend, says Uvacek, will probably continue in the future because of the greater amount of potential available pasture land in East Texas.

To the best of my knowledge Gray County has never been organized into such a wind erosion control district. Screwworm Program A state-wide drive will be launched to raise 300 thousand dollars from Texas cattlemen in support of the Screwworm program on March 29, and will end April 12. John B. Rice, County Drive Chairman, will announce plans for Gray County shortly. Each cattleman will be asked to donate an amount equivalent to 10 cents per animal unit. Over $2300 was raised in the county before when the original drive was made. A $2,000.00 quota has been set for Gray County based on the 10 cents per animal unit. A list of local ranchers follows that would be glad to accept a contribution from you are Billy Davis, W. B. Jackson, Raymond Maddox, Dean Burger, Bill Getting, John Spearman, W. F. Shepard, H. H. Keahey, Emil Urbanczyk, Johnny Hines, Marvin Webster, and J. D. Skaggs.

Gardening Recently we had a call asking about how many plants or pounds of seed per acre was required for various vegetables. To answer this question we referred to Bulletin No. 70 — Vegetable Gardening. In this bulletin there is a chart that tells you what variety is recommended for this area for any specific vegetable. For instance, it recommends Laxton's Progress or little Marvel variety of English peas. The chart also tells you how many plants or quantity of seed to plant per 100 feet or row. It gives the recommended row width, spacing in rows, depth of planting, planting date and other information. Call me if you would like to have one of these publications.

Soil Bank Grazing In a telephone conversation with Mr. Jack Bradshaw at the State ASC office, College Station, I learned that a 30-day extension (to April 30th) had been asked for the privilege of grazing Soil Bank land. The State ASC Committee forwarded this request to the U.S.D.A. on March 24th. In effect, ranchers would be permitted to graze soil bank land for a certain fee. A part of the State committee and certain U.S.D.A. officials were to make a tour of the Panhandle Area this week. Authority had been granted earlier on grazing soil bank land under certain conditions. For more information, call Evelyn Mason at the ASC

Tour of Europe Planned by 50 Members of TFB

WACO (Spl) — Some 50 Texas farmers, ranchers, businessmen, farm writers and their wives will participate in the Texas Farm Bureau's "market-builder" tour of Western Europe the first two weeks in April, according to Walter Meyer, TFB commodity director who will lead the tour. The group will leave from Houston March 31 by KLM jetliner for Amsterdam. Countries to be visited include The Netherlands, Belgium, England, Germany and France. Tour members will return by jet to Houston April 15.

Heading up the list of four participants is TFB President C. H. DeVaney and Mrs. DeVaney. Commodities represented by four members include beef products, poultry, honey, canned and fresh vegetables, citrus, grain seed, flax, pecans, wheat and feed grains, mohair, cotton, and beef and dairy stock.

Purpose of the tour is to develop and expand markets in Europe for Texas farm and ranch products. Samples of various hotels where the Texans will be staying. Tour members representing commodity interests are also scheduled to meet with importers and buyers in each country visited. Meyer said the tour is unique in that participants are paying their own expenses in a group effort to find new market outlets for Texas agricultural products. He said similar trips are planned for the future. Highlights of the tour include visits to the American Farm Bureau Federation trade office in Rotterdam and the Common Market headquarters in Brussels. The group will also tour port facilities in Rotterdam and London and visit major meat and produce markets in London and Paris. They will also inspect retail market outlets in countries visited. Although billed as a "working tour," the trip's itinerary includes sightseeing tours of the famous scenic and historic places of Europe. Here is a brief itinerary of the tour: March 31—Leave Houston by KLM jetliner via Montreal to Amsterdam. April 1-4—Rotterdam. Visit American Farm Bureau Federation trade office and tour port office who is in charge of this program. Her number is MO-4-6221.

County SCD News

By ARNEAL SCOTT
Several landowners have planted trees for windbreaks in the Gray County Soil Conservation District. Evergreen and deciduous trees provide excellent protection for livestock and farm homes. The plains of Texas have always been limited in natural shelter. Livestock will get behind barns, sheds, ponds, oil well pumps and under trees for protection against cold winter blasts. Alvin Bell has constructed several shelters to protect his livestock on his ranch east of Pampa. He said, "Livestock will not leave a shelter for feed and water during blizzard conditions." W. D. Powers planted ponderosa pine trees around his farmstead south of Pampa. Powers planted these trees to beautify his home as well as protect it during cold winter months. Local nurseries have trees available for windbreaks. Trees should not be planted later than April 30th for satisfactory results. Contact your local Soil Conservation Service for information about spacing and care of tree seedlings. The Gray County SCD is limited in wildlife such as quail, dove, deer and turkey. This is primarily due to a lack of natural food and cover. Food, water and cover are essential for the development and increase in the wildlife population of this district.

Careless Pesticide Use Means Trouble

Placing pesticides in containers other than the ones in which they came can be dangerous and can lead to serious misuse of the materials. The contents of an unlabeled insecticide are unknown, points out County Agent Foster Whaley and there is no guide on what crops or animals the material should be used. Using the material for any other than its intended purpose, can lead to damage or perhaps to illegal and unwanted insecticide residues, he warns. A soft drink bottle full of insecticide, for example, is an invitation to disaster, he adds. Not only is such an object a temptation to children and others, there is no label on the bottle which gives information on its contents or directions for its use. Such information might be vital to a doctor undertaking treatment for insecticide poisoning. Users and sellers of insecticides are urged to keep these materials in their original packages and also to store, handle and use them safely. It is better to dispose of small amounts of left-over insecticides than to keep them around in unmarked containers or improperly stored, the county agent concludes.

April 5-8—London. Tour Covent Garden and Borough agricultural markets. Visit U. S. Trade Pavilion and Embassy. Sightseeing around London, including port facilities. April 9-11—Frankfurt. Visit U. S. Armed Forces Commissary. Side trip to Heidelberg with visits to German farms. April 12-14—Paris. Tour of various agricultural markets. Sightseeing in Paris with evening at Lido Night Club. April 15—Fly from Paris to Houston via Amsterdam.

$300,000 Needed For Screwworm Projects

Texas farmers and ranchers have been asked to raise $300,000 to keep the screwworm eradication program in operation through June. The Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation set the two-week period beginning March 29 for committees in all Texas counties to ask livestock producers for contributions to keep the popular insect eradication project alive until the Federal government can assume full financial responsibility. Livestock industry leaders are hopeful that with Congress considering a U.S. Department of Agriculture request for $5 million, this will come about July 1. Dolph Briscoe Jr., SWAHRF president of Uvalde, stated his organization had investigated all alternatives before deciding to ask for additional contributions from producers and assured the livestock industry that its funds are vital to the continuation of the eradication project. He said a reduced level of operation during the winter and economies in production of sterile screwworm flies have extended available funds by several months, else a fund drive would have been necessary much earlier. Eradication experts have estimated that during April, May and June, which in the past has been a time of heavy screwworm activity, 100 million sterile screwworm flies will be needed each week to keep fertile insects from Mexico from reinfesting the Southwest where the livestock pest has been eradicated through use of the sterile male fly technique. Cost of operating at this level will be $12,000 a day or approximately $1.1 million for the three-month period. The $300,000 to be raised by livestockmen, along with $250,000 already appropriated by the Texas Legislature, will match an equal amount of Federal funds to supply the total required. Animal health committees have been organized in all counties. Livestockmen will be asked to contribute 10 cents for each head of beef or dairy cattle or horse and two cents for each head of sheep, goats or swine. A similar campaign conducted by the Foundation earlier resulted in more than $3 million being raised for the eradication program.

Cattle Research Ideas Told By Animal Scientist

Livestock research ideas were recently presented to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station by Dr. Jan C. Bonsma, internationally famed animal scientist and head of the Department of Animal Science, University of Pretoria, Union of South Africa. Dr. Bonsma, who is currently serving as a guest professor with the Texas A&M University Department of Animal Science for one year, brought up these research ideas: 1) The possibility of reducing the setback calves suffer at weaning by feeding the cow so the taste of her milk becomes repulsive and the calf weans himself without the usual stress. 2) Determining the value of music and other psychological work to livestock production. 3) Determining differences in water metabolism at different ambient temperatures and for different daylight-dark diurnal periods. 4) Determining the influence of ration of light and darkness on gonadotropins, hair growth and marbling.

Ho Chi Minh's Three 'Achilles' Heels

By COL. RAY CROMLEY (Third of Three Dispatches) — WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ho Chi Minh's southern expeditionary army — the 35,000-man Viet Cong main line force — has not one, but three Achilles' heels.

Yet even with their problems, the northern troops are well-organized, well-trained and heavily indoctrinated — and not likely to be bombed out by U.S. air power. Significant weaknesses, however, are nevertheless present:

1. This Red army relies on North Vietnamese troops. These men have had guerrilla training, but are not true guerrillas. They are a far cry from the guerrilla veterans Hanoi was once sending south. Unlike their predecessors of 1961, '62 and '63, they are strangers in South Viet Nam. They don't know the terrain or the people. They cannot, like guerrillas, fade so easily into the countryside.

These troops are suckers for ambushes. Their escape routes can be cut off more easily than can the retreat of guerrilla forces. Villagers — can more readily be induced to spy on these strangers.

(In many places in South Viet Nam, the difficulty has been that many villagers have sons, husbands, uncles, cousins and neighbors in the VC. They do not want to spy on kin or friends.)

2. This army's weapons are being standardized. Its troops, therefore, depend on heavy shipments of ammunition, repair parts and supplies from the North. These must come in by sea or over a long, tortuous land route. Such supply lines are vulnerable.

A World War II system of local coast watchers could be effective in pinpointing where seaborne shipments are landed. These watchers spot the small ships and junks and make notes of what they see. Their simple reports would make it possible to see Communist shipping patterns.

As patterns were developed, selective reconnaissance by small patrols could catch these boats in their unloading.

Once these supplies are shipped in, they'll take considerable warehousing. (This is not ordinary guerrilla arms, ammunition and supplies, but logistical support for the equivalent of more than two regular army field divisions — though these troops are broken up into regiments, battalions and smaller independent units.) Such quantities of supplies, however well divided, are not easily hidden from good intelligence men.

3. This main line army's men are heavily susceptible to propaganda and psychological warfare.

These troops are fighting away from their families and tend to get strongly homesick. (One of the successful Viet Cong recruiting arguments in the past has been that government forces take the boy away from home to fight, while the VC let him fight in his own neighborhood. VC desertions mount in units that are moved away from their own communities.)

The northerners have been indoctrinated to believe they are going to fight white foreigners. Numbers of them have been sickened when they found themselves fighting fellow Vietnamese.

These men have been fired up with stories about "down-trodden" South Vietnamese. Deserters from Ho's expeditionary army say they were shocked to find the South Vietnamese they had been sent to "rescue" living better than their own families in the North.

Carefully developed propaganda campaigns could step up the rate of desertions and make the expeditionary troops more passive in their fighting. This psychological push would center around:

—Home, family and loneliness.

—The evils of coming down to fight their brothers in the South.

—How well the southern farmers are living compared with villagers in the North and how the troops from the North should join with the South in ousting the Red regime at Hanoi so their friends and families could have a higher standard of living and more freedom.

Crime in General Decreases in Pampa

With the exception of felony theft, crime in general is on the decrease in Pampa for the first two months of 1965 as compared with the same period during 1964.

In the burglary category, Pampa recorded 22 cases during January and February of this year, compared with 21 cases during the first two months of 1964.

Pampa has had no armed robberies so far this year, while during January and February of last year the city had had one armed robbery.

Pampa has not had a rape case reported in over two years. In the theft under $50 category, the largest number of violations occurred both in 1964 and 1965. However, 1965's figures were considerably below those of last year. For January and February 1965, there were 44 cases reported compared with 60 cases for the comparable period in 1964.

Covering the same months in 1964, Pampa had 15 cases of felony theft reported as compared with only nine in 1964.

The Pampa Police Department is at present operating for the first time in several months at its authorized strength.

The figures are recorded on a month by month for the year-end FBI report.

Antique Show to Boost College Opportunity Plan

Twentieth Century Cotillion members are hitting a fast pace in preparation for the club's third annual Antique Show and Sale which will be held April 2-4 in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Eleven antique dealers will display items in the show that will feature antiques from early 1700's to the early 1900's. This year's show will draw dealers from over the Panhandle and as far away as Minnesota.

Tickets for the show may be purchased from any member of the organization and proceeds will be used for the Opportunity Plan Inc. of West Texas University.

The plan is a student loan program combining part-time employment and financial assistance for worthy students who otherwise would be unable to attend college. The local plan is financed by philanthropic contributors in the Panhandle area.

Through the program, students can also borrow from home town banks after their freshman year. The money borrowed locally is budgeted through the Opportunity Plan at the college.

EDUCATION — Carson Snow, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. N. Snow, 510 N. West, is attending West Texas State University through assistance of the Opportunity Plan. Shown working on a homework assignment, top left, "Corky", started in the club's plan for the spring semester at Canyon.

GUNS — An antique gun collection will provide an attraction for local men interested in guns. Mrs. Buddy

Sunday Passing Show

By PEGGY JO ORMONSON

NEXT MONTH the News will publish "It's a Woman's World," a salute to women engaged in Pampa club activities with civic and cultural backgrounds. The beginning of this special edition will be marked at a coffee hosted by the News Tuesday morning in Pampa Country Club. All presidents of clubs falling in the civic and cultural category have been invited to attend, but suspect some probably have been missed. If your club has objectives of this sort and your president has not been invited to the coffee, feel free to contact the women's editor so that your organization may be recognized in this tribute to Pampa's club women. Mr. and Mrs. Jearl Nichols of Arlington, former Pampans, spent last weekend here visiting relatives and friends. On Monday the Nichols attended a senior voice recital at West Texas State University by their son, Jerry, who is a candidate for a BME degree in May.

MRS. HUGH (SIBYL) Wilson, daughter of the H. R. Taylors of Pampa, was named as the Canadian Chamber of Commerce "Woman of the Year" recently at the C of C and Jaycee banquet. In receiving the award, Mrs. Wilson was cited for her active leadership in Canadian First Baptist Church, her civic affairs (she is president-elect of the Canadian Woman's Club) and for community services as the American mother last year of Canadian's first foreign exchange student who spent the school term of 1963-64 in the Wilson home. Mrs. Wilson is a graduate of Pampa High School and worked here for an insurance company for several years before her marriage. Henry and Sally Butler spent last weekend in Paducah visiting her sister, Mrs. G. W. (Ruth) Goodwin. YN2 Donald R. (Bud) Denton has returned to San Diego, Calif., after visiting in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Denton. Yeoman Denton's wife and two small daughters will make their home with his parents while he is on an extended tour of the Orient on the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Bennington.

RALPH AND EVELYNN Sidwell hosted an open house Wednesday evening honoring her daughter, Kathy Morris and fiance, Taby Guyann of Fort Worth. The honorees will be married in Fort Worth, May 2. Helping the Sidwells with host duties were Leonard and Wanda Hudson, Floyd and Laura Imel, Bettie and Hardy Pitts, Bill and Ann Taylor, Fletcher and Charlotte Kennedy and Del and Irene Beagle. Defying the winter like weather, decorations were carried out in a yellow and white spring doily motif. Miss Morris is an art instructor in Trinity Valley Boys School at Fort Worth while her prospective husband is a musician. Some 100 persons came out to extend congratulations to the couple. Mrs. Katie Vincent had some interesting houseguests last weekend. They were Mrs. Vincent's niece and two nephews, Mrs. William Click and William Atchley from Tucson, Ariz., and Dale Lee, professional lion hunter just returned from South Africa. Dr. Doris Vendrell flew in last weekend from Dallas where she is attending medical school, to see husband, Dr. Felix Vendrell, and children Michael, Kay, Paul and Amelia.

HEARD MRS. GENE (Helen) Hall, Mrs. Mack (Mary) Hiatt Jr. and Mrs. Bruce (Ruth) Rienart outdid themselves in the clever decorations used at the Community Concert annual campaign dinner Tuesday evening. Miniature musical instruments in gold were placed on the dining tables along with figurines of various concert artists. Mrs. D. F. (Orval) DeWeese, membership secretary, attended the dinner looking lovely in a white brocade ensemble and Mrs. Elisabeth Taylor, representative of Columbia Artists of New York, was striking in a floor-length gown of Japanese silk. Two ladies seen at the dinner in different coiffures were Mrs. McHenry (Alta) Lane and Mrs. W. D. (Nell) Kelly, who wore a red headband. Understand the Concert membership drive has gone so well that memberships were completely sold out Friday. The spirit of Pampa women just can't be dampened. Members of Twentieth Century Cotillion scurried around town in blustery weather gathering antiques from local residents to be placed in various store windows calling attention to the club's annual antique show and sale.

MRS. BOB (VERA LEE) Andis, Gray County Cancer Crusade house-to-house chairman, had a group of crusade workers in her home Tuesday morning. Making plans for the drive were Mrs. Kermit (Josephine) Lawson, Mrs. W. L. (Madeline) Roundtree, Mrs. R. A. (Georgia) Mack and Mrs. A. D. (Olive) Hills. George and Frances Hofess are making their home temporarily in Blackwell, Okla., where he is an assignment with Cities Service. Daughter Julie will finish her junior year there before the family returns to Pampa this summer. Wanda and Leonard Hudson have returned from a trip to Dallas where they helped daughter Carolyn celebrate her 22nd birthday. Ken and Glenda Dunn are looking forward to the completion of their new home now under construction on Grape. Mrs. Clayton (Ruby) Husted is busily engaged in buying furniture and redecorating the living room of the Husted home. When completed the room will lead visitors to believe they are in Spain.

MISS SUE BOLAND of Lovington, N.M., bride-elect of Don Curry, son of Bob and Alleith Curry, was honored at a tea a week ago yesterday in the home of Mrs. Raymond (Icie) Harrah. The party, though small, was lovely in the tradition of Mrs. Harrah. The bride-elect's chosen colors of pale yellow and white were carried out in table appointments. The table, covered with a round floor-length imported pale yellow cloth, was centered with an arrangement of yellow stock, roses and carnations in a chalice candelabra with smilax draped around the base. Some of those attending the tea were Mrs. Tom (Jean) Braly, Mrs. Bill (Chris) Campaigne, Mrs. Frank (Pebble) Carter, Mrs. Russell (Zenobia) Holloway, Mrs. Ed (Sandy) Williams, Mrs. Julian (Katy) Key, Mrs. Tom (Horlene) Rose, Mrs. Clifford (Eleanor) Braly, Mrs. George (Katherine) Snell and Mrs. E. J. (Ethel) Dunigan. Understand several more courtesies are being planned for the couple when they return to Pampa following their April 17 wedding in Lovington. Received word this week of the birth of daughter, Kathaleen Alice, to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rice of Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. Rice is the former Betty K. Shryock of Pampa. Paintings, hung under the sponsorship of Pampa Art Club, have recently been changed at Coronado Inn and in the Hospitality Room at Citizens' Bank. Artists having paintings on display in the Hospitality Room are Mrs. Bobby (Vicky) Clark, newcomer to Pampa who attended Abilene Christian College as an art major; Mrs. Bob (Doris) Johnson, who has been attending WTSU and studying under Dr. Emilio Cabelero, and Mrs. T. J. (Jessie) O'Brien, who has also studied under Dr. Cabelero. One can see some paintings of the Leon Smith type or "hard edged" abstractions done by Mrs. William J. (Ronnie) Chambers in Coronado Inn. Mrs. Chambers has studied under David Fitz and has her paintings displayed in Amarillo and New York City.

Mrs. G. B. Cree Jr., Mrs. Myron Marx Jr. and Mrs. William Easley attended the Delta Delta Delta State Day meeting in Fort Worth last week. This year's meeting gave special recognition to the "Fifty Year Members" of the sorority, who were honored at a tea held in the new Chapter House on the campus of Texas Christian University. Delegates from six collegiate chapters and 31 alumnae chapters in Texas attended the meeting. State day meetings are held every two years and alternate with national conventions. Nationally, Tri Delta has 107 chapters on the campuses of colleges and universities with a total membership of 75,000.

Altrusans Hear Report of Hawaiian Club

The evening meeting of Altrusa Club of Pampa was held in Coronado Inn Monday with the president, Mrs. Emily Coston, presiding. Twenty-six members and five guests were present. The state of officers submitted by the committee on nominations was unanimously elected as follows: Mmes. Libby Shotwell, president; Irene Smith, vice president; Evelyn Mason, recording secretary; Lora Dunn, corresponding secretary; Leah Behrman, treasurer; Mabel Hukill, director. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, international relations chairman. Mrs. Yoder introduced Mrs. Joe R. Donaldson, American Field Service representative, who gave a short history of the service stating "It is an outgrowth of an ambulance corps service initiated during World War One. Its purpose is to promote friendly relations between the participating nations. Over 26,000 students have been exchanged through the years. Pampa has had 12 of these from nine different countries."

Mrs. Donaldson presented Peter Kaddoum from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, who is the exchange student in the home of Dr. and Mrs. M. McDaniel this year. Kaddoum expressed his pleasure at having the privilege of this opportunity. The son of a cardboard box manufacturer, he said, "When you are a member of a family of four, with one brother, it is wonderful to have another family, an American family, with two brothers, and twin sisters. When I go back to Rio part of me will stay with my American family."

Kaddoum then gave an interesting picture of life in his own country and drew some comparisons between the two nations, saying "Everyday life in America is similar to that of Brazil. The spirit of the American people is like our own. We are a democratic country. Since the pro-Communist, pro-Socialist regime was overthrown in 1960, we have a new Constitution. It was modeled after that of the United States. We have a President, elected by the people for a term of five years, and two houses of Congress serving for six years. Our states have a Governor and House of Representatives who serve four year terms." The schools are three types, federal, state or church. Church schools are mainly Catholic or Baptist. They attend elementary school six years, Junior High four years and High School, three years. There are three Universities in Rio, one federal, one state and one Catholic. 'Current Texas Legislation' Program Is Presented at Varietas Study Club Meet

Mrs. Lee Harrah was hostess to Varietas Study Club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. E. Kirchman presided in the absence of Mrs. R. W. Lane, club president. After roll call, Mrs. Kirchman presented the afternoon's program on the topic, "Current Legislation in Texas," discussing the problem of redistricting in the state and the governor's proposed legislation for education and other purposes. The speaker then presented and discussed different types of bills now before the Texas legislature, giving their merits and disadvantages, the interest shown in them throughout the state, and the probability of their passage into law. Selecting only a few of the 600-to-700 bills introduced this year, Mrs. Kirchman dwelt on the ones concerning legalized racing, beef labeling, divorce, industrial accidents, criminal code revision, health programs, hunting practices, employer-employee relationships, property owners' rights, prestige car licenses, pesticides, and numerous others, stating that the bill on pesticides is one of the most important issues now before the state. It would require the licensing of owners and operators of pesticide equipment, and the licenses would be issued upon the passing of an examination, familiarity with pesticides and payment of an annual fee. At the conclusion of her talk, Mrs. Kirchman urged her audience to write to their state and national legislators, presenting their views, pro and con, on current bills. Double-Ring Vows Read in Canadian CANADIAN (Spl) — Miss Becky Etheredge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Etheredge of Canadian, was united in marriage recently to David Eldridge Dockray of Mayhill, N.M. The ceremony was held in the Church of Christ of Canadian.

The pastor of the church, James O. Wilburn, read the double-ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with candelabra intertwined with greenery and flanked on either side by tall baskets of white gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding dress of silk organza which featured a neckline accented by chantilly lace and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt with a sweeping train was similarly accented. Her fingertip veil fell from a tirara of pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Warren Rivers, of Norfolk, Va., as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Karen Dockray and Miss Dorothy Pankratz of San Antonio. Mike Black of Brownfield served the groom as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The serving table, covered with a white lace cloth over turquoise, was centered with an arrangement of white mums and stock flanked by turquoise tapers in crystal holders.

Mrs. Wesley Crosier presided at the punch bowl. The cake was served by Mrs. Frank Muir and Miss Sandra Flowers.

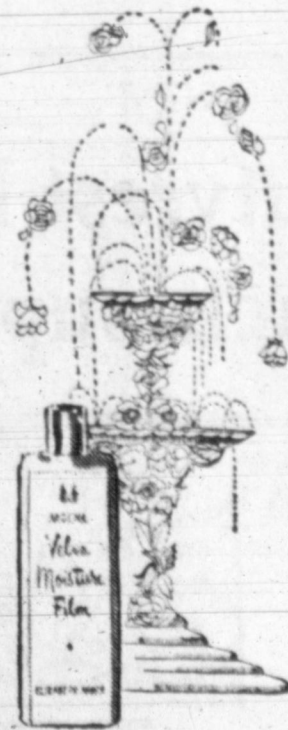

The young couple are making their home in Abilene.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: — The daytime finds you with much confusion about just what you should do in order to resolve differences of opinion between modern ways of doing things and what should be kept according to long-time prejudices. The evening finds you are able to work out and solve some pretty vital business matters for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Those ideas that occur to you during day need revision and modernization, and tonight be sure you get new week planned cleverly. Hold on to proven principles. Don't neglect religious services.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — A partner can be very confusing during AM, so don't make any important decisions. Tonight all clears up and you understand completely. Find ways to get ahead faster then.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — You are in a quandary regarding your job, but in PM a new acquaintance gives fine advice. Expansion is easily possible. Forget those problems until you confer with partners.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Anything of importance you wish to discuss with others concerning your advancement should be relegated to the PM. Fine opportunities are possible then. Take quick action.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Kin and acquaintances are at loggerheads, but be sure to stay out of arguments. Associates come to your help in PM. Keep private talks with others just that way. Be smart.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — It is better to wait until the evening before getting that work done, or you will get confused. Take time to install efficiencies. Delight others in this way who live with you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Analyzing what has proven creative for you in the past will reveal what to do in the future now. Assist those who come to you for help. Be as generous as good sense permits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Although you do not comprehend the ideas of close ties, do not be critical and all is well. Evening is best time to reach definite decisions. Do so only if required.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — While some change is necessary, don't go overboard and then meet with limitations. Find information you need from your paper. Show others that you are on the qui vive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you talk over future operations with some big-wig you know, you can easily take the steps that lead to advancement. Personal aims can be realized. Be quick to seize opportunities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — If you think you are not using the right psychology with higherups, devise new plans and put in effect in PM. Get personal life improved. Use those ideas of merit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Fine plans are coursing through your mind, but first be sure to investigate what you do not understand. Remove worry. Be sure that you are ethical in all of your operations.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, living in tune with morality and ethics is the first lesson that has to be taught here, so be certain there is discipline and religious training early, or this inquisitive and interesting youngster could early get off the beaten track. Otherwise, a good education and courses in psychology could produce any excellent nurse, doctor, psychologist here.

Only the new 1965 Beautyrest by Simmons with body-fitting coils gives you firm, back-supporting comfort.

Pay $39.50, $49.50, $59.50, even $79.50 for other mattresses. What do you get? Wired-together coils that sag together under body weight.

They're all alike.

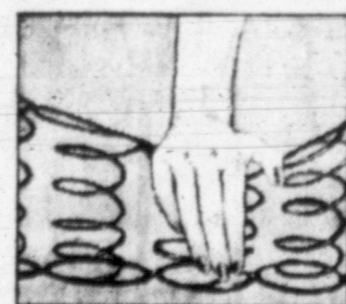

The reason wired-together coils sag in an ordinary mattress is this: weight on any area causes them to pull down surrounding coils. A valley forms. Your spine can sag, too.

But the new Beautyrest is different.

Beautyrest coils are independent, separate. Each Beautyrest coil supports its own section of weight. There are "his" springs and "her" springs. There's no sag, no valley. Your spine doesn't "hammock." So you get firm body-fitting comfort.

What's more, Beautyrest, at $79.50, is the most economical mattress you can buy. It outlasts other innerspring mattresses by about 3 to 1 (proved in torture tests by Nationwide Consumer Testing Institute, Inc.).

Don't sleep on a mattress that sags like a hammock. Invest in a Beautyrest. The reward is blissful sleeping comfort.

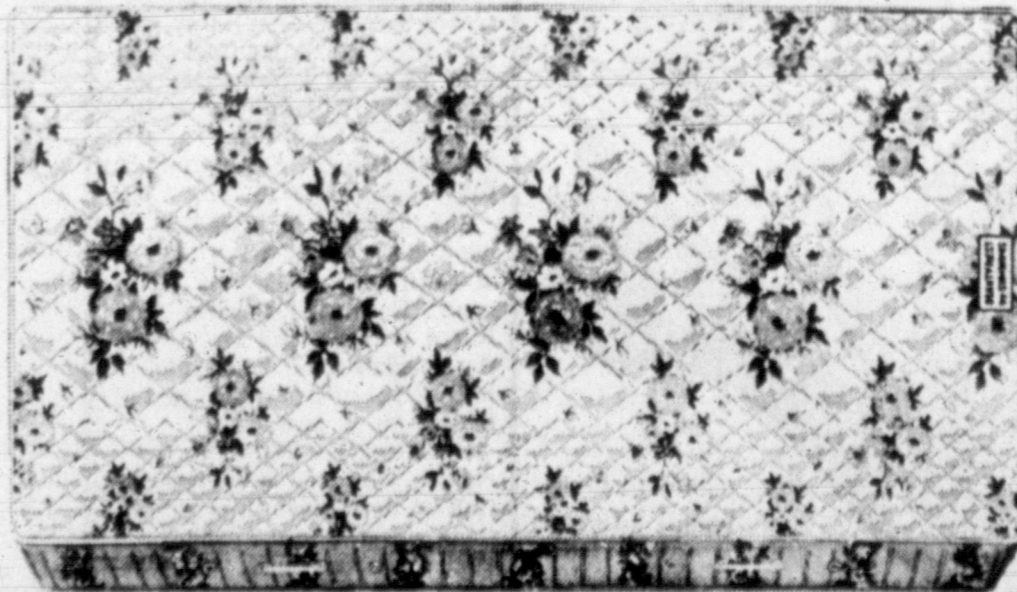

Ordinary mattress

Ordinary mattress coils are wired together. Press one and others sag. So do you.

Beautyrest

Beautyrest coils are individually pocketed. Act separately. They can't sag. Neither can you.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cotner Feted On Golden Wedding Anniversary Date

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Cotner
... Celebrate Anniversary

On March 29, 1915, Miss Ethel F. Taylor became the bride of Wilbur C. Cotner in the Methodist parsonage in Old Ochiltree, a town no longer in existence, which is located about 12 miles south of the present town of Perryton.

The couple are being honored from 2 to 5 p.m. this afternoon at an open house in their home at 809 E. Francis commemorating their golden wedding anniversary date.

cake, coffee, mints and nuts will be served to the some 100 guests expected to attend and help mark the occasion.

Mrs. Cotner will receive a white carnation corsage tied with gold ribbon while her husband will receive a white boutonniere.

The honorees' only two granddaughters, Miss Paula Daugherty and Miss Betty Mae Dunn, will preside at the coffee and cake service. Attending the guest register will be Miss Donnie Gaye Walberg.

The Cotners moved to Pampa in 1955 from their farm home near Perryton. Mr. Cotner is now retired from farming. The couple are the parents of four children, Mrs. Daugherty, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. Carson L. Tank of Brighton, Mich., and Wilbur C. Cotner Jr., of Ann Arbor, Mich. They are the grandparents of two granddaughters and seven grandsons and a great-granddaughter.

Serving as hostesses for the affair are the couple's daughters, Mrs. Leon Daugherty of Pampa and Mrs. W. G. Dunn of Claude.

The table, covered with a white damask cloth, will be centered with an arrangement of yellow roses arranged in a crystal bowl. Napkins inscribed "Ethel and Wilbur" and gold wedding bells, will appoint the table. A traditional wedding

Mrs. Campbell Reviews Book, 'Life Was Simpler Then' at Tuesday Club Meeting

The regular meeting of Twentieth Century Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dick Stowers. The president, Mrs. Bill Roots, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Tom Rose led the club in the pledge of allegiance. A vocal form of the club collect was presented by Misses Harry Vanderpool, Jack Stroup and Jack Foster accompanied by Mrs. John Spearman. Roll call was read by the secretary, Mrs. David Tucker, followed by the minutes.

President Roots introduced the new club member, Mrs. Robert Lyle. Mrs. H. R. Thompson, treasurer, gave the financial report. An announcement of the Twentieth Century Cotillion's Antique Show on April 2, 3 and 4 was made and members urged to attend.

Mrs. Dick Stowers reported on the "Federated Club Woman" magazine, which is the Top of Texas edition and contains articles pertinent to the area's history. Mrs. Raymond Harrah, fine arts chairman, reported that the club's entry for the Hallmark Painting Contest had been sent to Austin, and that Community Concert tickets were on sale. Mrs. Harrah also announced a wood carving exhibit of Mrs. Marion George to be scheduled in the fall.

President Roots reported that Mrs. Jack Stroup and Mrs. Bob Andis will serve as representatives of Twentieth Century Club to the Woman's Federated Club District Convention.

gram to the program leader, Mrs. Tom Rose, who gave a biography of the author of the book to be reviewed by Mrs. W. C. Campbell, "Life Was Simpler Then," by Louisa Grace Erdman. Miss Erdman is a Missourian by birth and rearing but a Texan by adoption. Having graduated from the University of Wisconsin, she taught in Amarillo schools and later at West Texas State University in Canyon, where she is now an instructor in creative writing. Miss Erdman began writing as a hobby. Her first novel, "The Years of the Locust," won the Dodd-Mead Redbook $10,000 prize in 1947. She has written several other books, "The Edge of Time," "Lonely Passage," "Three at a Wedding," "The Far Journey," "The Short Summer" and "Many a Voyage," as well as popular novels for young people and short stories and novelettes for magazines.

The book, "Life Was Simpler Then," is situated in the early Missouri background of the author's life — her experiences, reactions, and evaluations of the social mores of that time make the book a charming flashback on the yesteryears. The book is written in the first person and is divided into sections based on outstanding episodes of the author's childhood. The section on the importance of the hired hand was particularly interesting. His annual turnover brought entertainment and contact with the outside world in lieu of the modern radio, television, and periodicals. (See CAMPBELL, Page 19)

NOW YOU CAN HAVE

SpringTime

IN YOUR HOME THE WHOLE YEAR 'ROUND!!!

WITH CLEAN, MODERN ELECTRIC COMFORT CONDITIONING

Count all the wonderful benefits you get with electric comfort heating and air conditioning!

1 ONE ENERGY SOURCE FOR ALL YOUR NEEDS! Everything in your home — heating, cooling, lighting and appliances — can be run by modern, efficient, clean and dependable electricity.

2 A COMFORTABLE, HEALTHY ENVIRONMENT! Automatic humidity control can add moisture to the air, or remove it, to ensure just the right amount for a wonderful feeling of well-being. In addition, proper humidity balance keeps furniture from drying out or warping.

3 PEACE OF MIND AND SATISFACTION! You'll be able to sit back and enjoy the even comfort of a springtime atmosphere year-round. In winter, modern electric comfort heating does away with cold drafts and sudden blasts of heat. In summer, electric air conditioning provides gentle cooling action.

4 A HOME THAT KEEPS CLEAN! Because electric comfort conditioning uses only clean, modern dependable electricity, even light-colored walls, draperies and furnishings stay new-looking season after season.

5 PROPER INSULATION FOR ANY CLIMATE! The working partner of electric comfort conditioning is full insulation, conforming to the all-weather comfort standard for your location. In addition to increasing the value of your home, this is your guarantee of lower operating costs and greater comfort.

6 ROOM-BY-ROOM TEMPERATURE CONTROL! With most types of electric heating, thermostats in each room throughout your house let you select the degree of heating you want — when and where you want it. Bedrooms, for example, can be set at one temperature while living areas are kept at another.

7 QUIET OPERATION! Because electric equipment uses few or no moving parts, it's quiet as can be.

8 EXTRA SPACE FOR LIVING! By installing or converting to electric comfort conditioning, you can free up space for a family room, recreation room, workshop or den.

Whether you're planning to modernize, build or buy, Clean Electric Comfort Conditioning suits any style or type of home.

One of the most wonderful things about electric comfort conditioning is that you can enjoy its modern benefits in any home, new or old, anywhere. In most cases, converting to electric comfort heating and air conditioning is remarkably fast and easy, and it's just the thing to give an older home a completely new lease on life.

Over 2,000,000 homes across the country are now heated electrically, and this figure is growing at the rate of over 800 homes a day. Part of this increasing popularity can be attributed to the comfort, convenience and cleanliness plus the many extra benefits electricity provides. But there are also a number of hard-headed, dollars-and-cents reasons for considering electric comfort conditioning.

For one thing, over the years the cost of electricity has been going down while most other costs have been going up. For another, many building and loan experts recognize that a home with electric comfort heating and cooling stays modern. Resale value is enhanced. Because electric comfort conditioning is the newest and most modern way to heat and cool a home, installing it is a good way to guard against obsolescence.

to the farm. He was an economic necessity and many of the various hired hands that pass through the pages of this section had particular demands which the family had to adjust to — for instance, "High tea at 4 p.m. each afternoon."

The speaker began "While the hired hand served as the bulwark against disaster on the farm, Central at the telephone company was the community's bulwark of general welfare, information center, social arbitrator, and 'locator of lost persons'." It was much more convenient to let Central make the connection than to dial endless letters and numerals. Central knew where the local doctor was involved in delivering a baby, where to locate a wayward husband or child, and disbursed general news reports. Each Saturday the boys filed into her office to get a rundown on available girls for Saturday night dates — (saved time typing up the lines calling a girl already 'had'). Any disaster, and the community was immediately alerted by all lines being given eight long rings, fire or storm warnings, etc.

The annual Spring house cleaning, always initiated first by Mrs. Lindstrom, who maintained that indoor bath facilities were un-hygienic, was a necessary evil of taking up rugs and beating them, windows and curtains washed, woodwork scrubbed, and once, at the expense of losing a valuable hired man, who refused to wash the kitchen ceiling, the house was completely repainted and decorated. Dresser drawers and closets revealed items lost since the preceding spring. Chickens had to be "set" at this time, also complicating the spring.

"However, great rivalry existed between the families as to which would have the 'first spring fried chicken dinner.' Family reunions and church ice cream socials, pets from chickens to goats, winter evenings spent reading aloud by the fire, Christmas holidays when gifts were made and exchanged, and the biggest event of the year—the Chatauqua—a combination of tent church and entertainment."

"Yes," Mrs. Campbell concluded, "Life was simpler then."

Dear Abby...

Retired Man's Wife Still in the Harness

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been retired for a long time, and his idleness is getting on my nerves. I have as much to do as I always did, plus entertaining him. He is used to living a very active life, and he can't get used to doing nothing. He will go anywhere he is invited. He doesn't care whether he knows the people or not, or how much it costs. And he drags me with him. Once he got an invitation to attend a testimonial dinner for Ben-Gurion. I hate to tell you how much it cost a plate. But he went anyway. And he didn't even know Ben-Gurion! Can you suggest ways to keep him busy so he won't be so restless?

He is married and has children and they are about the meanest kids you'd ever want to see. The little one lays down in the middle of the street and makes the cars stop for him. And the others are sassy and fresh. Well, a few months ago, the minister's wife started to teach dancing. She is supposed to have had many years of training in this line, and I hear she is very good. I want to take lessons from her but my parents won't let me. They say a minister's wife shouldn't be teaching dancing. Most of my girl friends take lessons from her, but they say their folks don't mind because they don't go to her husband's church. When some of the church members told our minister they didn't think it looked right for his wife to give dancing lessons, he said the church hired HIM, not HER, and she could do as she pleased. What do you think, Abby?

RETIRED MAN'S WIFE DEAR WIFE: You have touched upon a serious problem. Men retire, but their wives remain in the harness till they die. Investigate Senior Citizens' communities. I have had glowing reports from those who have found a wonderful new way of life after retirement. They keep busy with sports, cards, gardening, hobby groups, square dancing, and even learning arts and crafts.

DEAR WANTS: If the minister is a good minister and his wife is a good dancing teacher, each should be free to preach or to teach. As to the undisciplined children, that is a more serious problem. A minister and his wife need the respect of his flock.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 38-year-old business executive who closes his telephone conversations with "bye bye"? He is my boss, so please don't use my name.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos your items about the names on tombstones: I once had a wonderful witty maiden aunt (now deceased) who asked my father (her eldest brother) please to put only her first and last names on her tombstone when she died. "Leave off the 'MISS', John," she said, "I didn't miss anything."

EMPLOYEE DEAR EMPLOYEE: In my book "bye bye" goes better with birds than with bosses. But you'd be wise to mind your own business or it could be "bye bye" for you.

DEAR ABBY: We live in a small town. Last year we got

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

SUNDAY MORNING GRIST

From the Editorial Mill

PAMPA'S MUNICIPAL election is only nine days away and all through the house, not a creature is stirring... There was a story going around at week's end that there might be an unsavory political ad or two in today's paper but we didn't even bother to check it out. Fact of the matter is, we discovered that interest was so thin in the upcoming election that it was necessary to search into the files again to make sure just who was running and for what. This doesn't mean there hasn't been a surge or two that we ought to throw a punch or two... In the past we have written a few—and suffered a black eye or two—down through the years. But this year there doesn't seem to be much to fuss about. It all looks pretty cut and dried... With us, elections are something where we simply study the candidates and the issues and do our best to figure which one is least likely to take away some more of our individual rights and attempt to mend or mend a constituent under the one hand of government.

THE EDITOR of this newspaper has been called a "rat fink" time after time after time... On occasions he has been called some other things reflecting upon his ancestry and which would not be considered in good taste to mention in a family newspaper... These have not disturbed us and have been overlooked. But we do wish to comment on that "rat fink" label. The word connotation there is intriguing... It has sort of a poetic connotation... It has a purr instead of a scream... It jingles instead of jangles... Some research on "rat fink" reveals, however, that it is descriptive terminology used exclusively by the rat fink crowd who employ it in an effort to castigate others down to their own low level... Now, we expect to be called a "rat fink" again before the week is out... But, like we said, there is a soothing something about its musical caress... And, in addition to that, we know a couple of "rat finks" personally, and one of them is a pretty nice guy as long as everything goes 100 per cent his way.

THE PAMPA NEWS Sunday page of local pictures has become so popular that everybody is trying for the brass ring... It has reached the point where a rigid rule has been clamped down that applications for picture pages cannot be approved on purely promotional themes... Almost every organization has a cause it is trying to promote and most of them are worthy... But from here on out this type of thing will be handled only with a picture and/or a story... The plan is to reserve the picture page for something a little out of the ordinary—not only in Pampa but anywhere in the Pampa News circulation area... Feature pictures, we call them.

RAY RODGERS JR., one of our co-workers and Outdoor Editor of the News, is a bobcat snorter... He went out the other night in his undersized automobile and at a spot not far from Pampa just sat in the car and made a noise like a dying rabbit... This is done with what Rodgers calls a "bobcat caller." It's about the same as a duck call, only it wails and moans... Rodgers says there is no assurance that

Peril Seen In Rights Revolution

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Like all major upheavals, the Negro revolution of the 1960s contains within itself seeds of peril for those it was launched to serve.

The Negroes stand today on the threshold of another signal advance: the final assurance of their constitutional right to vote.

Yet as they wait impatiently for this newest product of their protests to be shaped for them, they might look upon the dangers that go with revolution and have in some measure already made their appearance in this one.

Revolution means sudden, sweeping change. This the Negroes seek. Abetted by the responses of resisting whites in the Deep South, they have had some stunning successes.

One great danger is that even the most responsible Negro leaders may be driven on by the notion that some swift change makes all change swiftly possible.

But in jobs, housing and education—the great areas where fundamental improvement is crucial to the Negro's future—there is no persuasive evidence that revolutionary speed is attainable.

Hurling their bodies against these stubborn roadblocks, the revolutionaries, roused to a pitch where only immediate action is judged acceptable, may find their frustrations hard to contain.

Here the perils that lie within revolt could quickly surface. Revolutions are not neat, tidy affairs. They tend naturally to excess. Original goals can be lost sight of, and tactics glorified more than objective.

Signs grow that this warping process has afflicted the Negro revolution even before the crushing encounter with the tougher barriers.

Martin Luther King Jr., whose goals have been repeatedly served by favorable U.S. court decisions and decrees, says a higher moral law gives him the right to disobey court orders he disapproves.

Thoughtful white lawyers here in the capital have been astonished to find others in their fraternity arguing that a "good result" in racial cases justifies wrenching the law to fit.

One attorney, a stout liberal and friend of the Negro, was shocked to hear himself branded a "technical so-and-so" for insisting that the law should be upheld as written and intended by its congressional sponsors.

More than a few sympathetic observers are sadly concluding that the Negro revolution is contributing materially to the growing national disrespect for law and order.

Most often remarked is the failure of untold numbers of Negroes—including a good many of their leaders—to distinguish between the abuse and the proper exercise of police authority.

Negroes seem very close to arguing, in fact, that any official restraint upon a Negro is discriminatory and constitutes "brutality." Unabashed criminals have been quick to take advantage of this posture and to shout "brutality" after capture for a crime.

The sit-in (or lie-in), once a tactic used with effective restraint, has been converted into a kind of visible ultimatum, in a country which under normal circumstance does not act by ultimatum.

The dispatch of troops to trouble spots, which ought to appeal to sensible men as a last resort, is urged even by preachers as almost an automatic response. The President is "ordered" to comply.

If every fervent revolutionary cry were responded to, then the free government Negroes want a bigger share of would be as disgraced and as useless to them as the shops and stores smashed last summer in the unbridled rioting in eastern cities.

President Offering Status to the Closed V.A. Hospitals For Retarded Children, Mentally Ill, University Use

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is offering a placatory "consolation prize" to the loudly irate opponents of his announced closing of 14 Veterans Administration hospitals throughout the country.

The hospitals are being tendered to state authorities for the care of mentally retarded children, mentally afflicted adults and as medical facilities for universities.

In addition, the President is saying federal funds will be made available to aid in converting these V.A. hospitals into state institutions. This is in line with administration plans to increase financial assistance for mentally retarded children.

Of the 12 states affected by the contemplated hospital shut-downs, officials in six have expressed interest in the President's conciliatory offer.

They are Illinois, Massachusetts, Montana, New Mexico, New York and Ohio.

The other states still deliberating the matter are Colorado, Georgia, Iowa, Nebraska, Oregon and Texas.

Two factors are importantly behind the President's move: The hope of averting another congressional delay in discarding the 14 V.A. hospitals, and easing local political resentment and adverse economic repercussions. Last month Congress overwhelmingly barred shutting the hospitals before May 1.

The House Veterans Committee, headed by Representative Olin Teague, D-Tex., is holding hearings on the abandonment plan. What effect the President's "consolation prize" stratagem will have on the committee's action remains to be seen.

Its authors are Illinois Senators Everett Dirksen, R, and Paul Douglas, D.

When they became convinced the President was determined to ax the veterans hospitals, they got together and proposed that the one at Dwight, Ill., be turned over to the state for the care of mentally retarded children. Governor Otto Kerner joined in urging this on the President.

After consulting Veterans Administrator William Driver, the President not only gave his approval but directed the plan be submitted to the other states. It was also enlarged to include care of the mentally ill and university medical facilities.

Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., took the lead in getting his state interested.

In still another backstage effort to ally congressional opposition, Johnson is passing out the word that veterans will be cared for in private hospitals at government expense if V.A. institutions prove inadequate.

EXPENSIVE POW-WOW — Ray Bliss, slated to become Republican National Chairman April 1, is starting his problem-strewn tenure with one expense account he privately doesn't think much of. It's a $17,000 expenditure for that January 23-24 meeting in Editor: There is an old slang phrase, "read 'em and weep" inherited from gaming tables, also known by the back alley boys as gallop-in dominoes. This read 'em and weep phrase causes me to recall a few things that looked like bright promise in our water rates. I do not attempt to lay down a pronouncement of error, but I will recite the receipts from sale of water since we raised the rates to pay for a large tank.

Oct., Nov., Dec., Jan., and Feb. show on the City books that we took in a total of $202,866. Compare this with the figure for the same months of 1963 when we took in $190,652. That means greater money receipt of $12,214 for the five months.

This adds up to the fact that in order to achieve the $60,000 that the raise in rates was to bring in the remaining seven months we must take in about $68,000, or well over $9,000 dollars per month increase.

The joke or rather tragedy, is this—We should have already begun — AND WE haven't. Water usage is off. I predict it will stay off and our raise in rates is what turned the trick, I'm afraid.

All I have is figures and those figures say loudly if we sell cheaper then we will take in more dollars, and we have a profusion of water and a shortage of dollars. As I said, "read 'em and weep'."

largely the work of three White House speech writers — Bill Moyers, Horace Busby and Richard Goodwin. They started writing Sunday night, about 24 hours before the President delivered it. It was completed around 8:30 p.m., one hour and a half before he was scheduled to go on the air. The final draft was the eighth.

The President is credited with personally including the statement calling for "no delay, no hesitation and no compromise with our purpose."

CONGRESSIONAL FLASHES — Senator John Williams, R-Del., crusading "one-man investigating committee," has several more explosive speeches up his sleeve hurling charges at millionaire Philadelphia contractor Matthew McCloskey, former ambassador to Ireland and Democratic national treasurer. In a blistering speech several weeks ago Williams made a number of sensational charges against McCloskey... House Democratic leaders have told President Johnson that by April 15, when Congress is slated to take a one-week Easter recess, that chamber will complete action on the civil rights voting bill, the $1.3 billion aid to education measure, the long-controversial medicare legislation, and his water pollution proposal. If this astonishing record is accomplished, it will virtually complete his list of "must" measures — as far as the House is concerned.

WASHINGTON:

Why U.S. Is Using Gas in S. Viet Nam

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Top military men for some time have advocated the discreet use of nondeadly gas in South Viet Nam.

There are three reasons for this: 1. Incapacitating gas can disable a man long enough to capture him. Artillery, napalm or other conventional weapons usually leave the Reds dead or able to run away.

In hide-and-seek guerrilla war, prisoners are 10 times as valuable as dead enemy troops. This is because military intelligence (much of which comes from prisoners) is the difference between a sweep by government troops into Viet Cong territory and finding nothing—or capturing the Reds flat-footed.

It's the difference, too, between Red Pleiku airfield attack that destroys a sizable number of our planes and one in which the Red infiltration is nipped in the bud. It's the difference, too, between the Reds ambushing a South Vietnamese government column of troops and the government troops ambushing the abusers.

2. For some time, U. S. and South Vietnamese forces have sought to find some way to attack Viet Cong guerrillas hiding in farmers' houses without killing everyone in the infested villages.

The Viet Cong often move into a hamlet and deliberately let everyone know they're there so government forces will attack. When the hamlet is bombed with artillery or napalm, the Reds "help" the villagers defend themselves — dig trenches, tend the wounded. With women, children, babies and old people killed and injured by government troops, the Reds find it easy to make converts.

One Viet Cong corporal told me some time back in a Cambodian border village "These bombings (by South Vietnamese) create more Communists than our propagandists ever could."

Gas that incapacitates people temporarily, but does no permanent harm, solves this problem. Troops can move in after the gas attack, separate Viet Cong agents and guerrillas from non-combatant villagers.

3. Since many VC guerrillas are closely related to loyal Vietnamese, we'll get more cooperation from non-Red villagers if they know we're out to capture rather than kill their sons, husbands and brothers.

The presently used gases are understood to be varieties of tear gas, which causes vomiting, crying and other disabling but temporary discomforts. ("For a little while you wish you were dead," says one man who's voluntarily been gassed with one of these chemicals.

"But afterward there are no ill effects at all.") Another incapacitating gas that could be used causes the men who are gassed to be so happy and unconcerned that they don't care whether a war is going on or not. Once-serious soldiers will fool around and wander aimlessly in circles.

These gases are highly effective in suppressing riots. They are tricky to use in war. A gust of wind can blow the gas among friendly troops, who may or may not have sufficient gas masks or adequate training in their use.

Unless terrain and weather are just right, the gases dissipate quickly. Even under the best of gassing conditions, troops must move in quickly and with precision before the effects wear off.

Pull Up A Chair

Few advertising slogans have been as successful as a gasoline company's "put a tiger in your tank." The tiger has captured the public fancy, become a part of everyday conversation, won the affection of youngsters, and provided grist for the mill of reporters, cartoonists, comedians and even other advertisers who have used the jungle cat to sell perfume, breakfast cereal, automobiles, women's shoes, vitamins, tires, and even oil drilling equipment. Since last summer novelty manufacturers have sold 60,000 stuffed tigers, 25,000 key chains, 50,000 coloring books, and twice that many tiger tails. It could only happen in America.

Today's smile: A Sunday School teacher asked her class "What can you tell me about Goliath?" One bright youngster answered: "Goliath was the guy David rook to sleep."

The gaslight era is a nostalgic memory, but there are still 37 million customers of gas companies in the U.S. However, most of it is used today for commercial and industrial purposes in the production of food, clothing, defense weapons, home building materials, plastics and other things. Today, natural gas is used exclusively, being piped to 47 of the 50 States.

Thoughts while shaving: Don't worry about it if you're paying monthly installments on a washing machine, dishwasher, or some other household appliance. Figures show nearly two-thirds of the nation's families are doing the same thing. It keeps the economy moving, as they say in Washington... More persons die from overeating than from drinking too much... A Michigan resident named Rider has an apt hobby. He collects tokens and tickets from bus lines, ferry boats, railroads, airlines and all forms of public transportation.

A recent announcement that they're going to start making Dusenbergs again evoked memories of the cars of yesteryear, like Packards, Pierce Arrows, Stutz Bearcats and other super-duper cars... Of course it was inevitable, but a game manufacturer has brought out a new one, "James Bond, Secret Agent 007." That should intrigue folks... Twice in U.S. history the nation has had three presidents in the same year. In 1841, Martin Van Buren, William Henry Harrison and John Tyler were presidents, and 40 years later in 1881 Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield and Chester Allen Arthur held the office. Van Buren and Hayes were retiring; Harrison and Garfield died in office; and Tyler and Arthur, their vice-presidents, moved into the White House... There's a lot of stamp licking going on in Rowley, Massachusetts, where the 3000 inhabitants are collecting trading stamps to pay for their new $20,000 fire truck. They made a deal with a stamp firm for $2 a book and they hope to have 10,000 filled books by next Christmas... Research grants are nothing new. Alexander the Great financed Aristotle to the equivalent of $4 million in U.S.A. cash to study scientific phenomena and come up with something... The Augusta (Ga.) CHRONICLE reported: "Col. Blank is presently serving in the Colonel's Division, vice." And a good place for a colonel, too!

Country Editor speaking: "Youth is when you think you'll live forever; middle age is when you hope to survive another year."

The original Robinson Crusoe on whom Daniel Defoe based his book was Alexander Selkirk, a Scottish shoemaker and tanner who ran away to sea rather than appear in court on a minor charge. In 1704 his ship put in at Juan Fernandez Island, off the coast of Valparaiso, Chile. Selkirk had a dispute with the captain and at his own request was put ashore with a few necessities. He lived there for four years before being taken off by another ship.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary-ARC

We have a new chairman for the Services to Military Families at McLean Jay Channel minister of the Church of Christ in McLean has accepted the responsibility of working with the Red Cross in the McLean community. J. W. Meacham served for 12 years in this office and due to ill health, resigned this winter. We are happy to have Jay working with us.

The Advanced First Aid class taught by Mrs. Ralph Converse, Laura to her friends, was completed Wednesday at the First Christian Church with the following receiving their certificates: Mrs. Flovid Scott, Mrs. Forrest D. Pitts, Mrs. Anna G. Felser, Mrs. Walter D. Jordan, Mrs. Marilyn Butler, Mrs. Murray Chumley, Mrs. Leon Richter, and Mrs. Jack Hilton. Most of these ladies are Girl Scout leaders and are ready to go with the campers this summer.

The men working at the Skelton Northern Natural Gas Company turned in their years safety services work. All of these men continue with their Standard First Aid course during the year and the work is taught by Tom Nash and Clifford Hills.

The kits for the Medical Self-Help classes have been received and A. J. Dickens has been named by Bill Leonard, Civil Defense Coordinator, as his aid in setting up classes. Any person who is interested in taking the 16 hour course sponsored by Civil Defense should call Leonard at MO 4-8221 or the Red Cross office at MO 4-7121 and register for this class. The course is set up for shelter services during an atomic disaster. It is most interesting and informative.

The Potter County chapter of the American Red Cross is planning a disaster conference in the auditorium of the St. Anthony School of Nursing at 735 N. Polk Street on April 1 from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Miss Donna Sims, field representative will be with us to assist in conducting the Conference. The Conference is sponsored by the American Red Cross, Texas Nurse's Association, District Number 2, and Civil Defense, Doctor James L. Johnson, director of Civil Defense, Disaster and Medical Care will be the principal speaker. Any R. N., civil defense worker and Red Cross representative is urged to attend this important meeting.

The Gray Ladies will sponsor a party at St. Anns Home at 3:00 p.m., Tuesday. The group will leave Pampa about 2:30 p.m. from the Red Cross office, according to Louise Sewell, Gray Lady chairman. The Volunteers from Groom and Herford will be capped at the party and refreshments will be served. Gray Ladies in Pampa who are interested in making the trip should call the Red Cross office.

We have a new Gray Lady taking training to receive her cap soon. Mrs. Emil Urbanczyk from White Deer, Lois, as she is called by her friends, is a fine person and we know that she will be able to give much needed service to her many friends and patients in the local hospitals. Mrs. H. H. Burtoer, better known as Sally, is working on her 10 hours service before she receives her cap. Mrs. C. B. Hatcher from Lefors has put in her required number of hours but she needs to receive her cap at the coming capping service.

Mrs. Fred Martin, First Aid Instructor is holding a Basic First Aid class for Cub Scout Pack 22 Den 1 with Mrs. Mary Pryon den leader and Mrs. Lewis Gallimore, assistant leader. The boys are aged seven, eight or nine years old and are very interested in the class. Maybe someday we will have FAI from this group. This is the third class of juniors Mrs. Martin has taught.

OPPOSITION PARTY

MADRID (UPI) — Highly-placed sources said that Generalissimo Francisco Franco has given his blessing to the establishment of an opposition political party in Spain.

The only legally recognized party now is the Falangist. The sources said Falangist newspapers throughout the country have been ordered to start editorial campaigns pressing for the setting up of legal opposition within the present regime.

IMPROVING IMAGE

LONDON (UPI) — The British railroad system, anxious to improve its image as a modern, streamlined industry, recently changed its name from "British Railways" to "British Rail."
