Soviet Missiles Being Moved Near Hanoi

Russians Carry Out Pledge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has learned that a site is being constructed for Soviet high-altitude anti-aircraft missiles in the Hanoi region of Communist North Viet Nam, officials said today.

They were uncertain, however, whether the missiles and the radar guidance assistance and other needed "hardware" actually had been put in place in the site, which presumably was for the Russian SAM-2 missile, capable of altitudes of up to 100,000 feet.

It was said that if the missiles actually were being put in place, it would be logical for Russian military technicians to be in charge of the work. The North Vietnamese are not believed to have men capable of doing the job.

No Missiles Sighted
Thus far, the only evidence the United States has observed are the concrete pads for a typical SAM emplacement, which includes normally six launchers. No missiles have been sighted, nor any firm evidence of their presence, sources said.

The United States anticipated that the Russians would deliver something of this sort to North Viet Nam to carry out the pledge of aid Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin made during his visit to Hanoi more than 10 weeks ago.

U.S. officials did not appear overly concerned, since the construction thus far seems to be limited to the immediate vicinity of Hanoi, which the United States has no intention of bombing, at least in the foreseeable future.

They acknowledged, however, that installation of the missiles over any wide portion of North Viet Nam would pose a peril, principally because of the possibility it would bring Russians into direct military conflict with U.S. fliers. This would be because the Russians would have to man the missiles, at least at first.

Dangerous Element
Officials said this would be the more dangerous element in the situation. The actual strike-power of the missiles themselves was discounted to some extent, since it was felt they would not hamper greatly the low-level character of U.S. raids in the North.

It was believed in official quarters here that the Russians had to make a move of this sort in order to maintain their position in the continuing and bitter Chinese-Soviet conflict for leadership of world Communism.

But it is known that Moscow is anxious to avoid any move which would escalate the Viet Nam conflict into a major Asian war. In fact, American officials believe that neither the Russians nor the Chinese Communists think that Southeast Asia is worth such a war.

U.S. Continues Day, Night Raids

SAIGON (UPI) — About 150 U.S. Navy and Air Force planes blasted six bridges in North Viet Nam today in around-the-clock raids on the Communist country.

At least five bridges were destroyed. The sixth was hidden by a dust cloud which mushroomed overhead when it was hit. No aircraft were lost.

An Air Force spokesman said about 70 Air Force planes destroyed bridges at Kim Cuong, Trai Hoi and Phu Dien Chau in the southern part of North Viet Nam. One span of each of the three bridges was wrecked, rendering them useless.

The spokesman, Col. Edwin J. Witzinger, 45, of Lusk, Wyoming, said that after today's strike the North Vietnamese will "have to go back to sampans (fishing boats)."

He said all the Air Force F105's returned safely to their bases, after dropping about 120 tons of bombs.

A Navy spokesman said Navy planes used bullpup missiles to strike a bridge at Bai Duc Thon in North Viet Nam. It was the first time these air-to-surface missiles had been used against the Vietnamese Reds.

The bullpup is a 600-pound solid fuel visually guided missile.

About 50 Navy dive-bombers hit three highway bridges, while 30 other planes flew support and protective missions.

Two of the bridges were located almost side by side at Xom Ca Trang, about 180 miles south of the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi. The third was to the north at Bai Duc Thon.

The bridges were all on North Viet Nam's national highway 12 near the point where the road turns into neighboring Laos to serve as an infiltration route for men and arms on their way to South Viet Nam.

Pampan Critical After Emergency Heart Operation
Arlie A. Dunn, 58, of Pampa was listed in critical condition shortly before noon today after undergoing open-heart surgery in Amarillo's St. Anthony Hospital.

Dunn was taken to the hospital by Carmichael-Whitely Ambulance Service last night after being found unconscious in a pump house at an oil-lease west of Pampa.

Dunn, a pumper for the Sam Anisman Oil Co., was found lying on the floor next to an oil field engine. It has not been determined as yet if Dunn was accidentally injured or suffered natural injuries.

Celanese Growth Hits New Record High During 1964

Celanese Corporation of America, parent firm of the Celanese Chemical plant in Pampa, had 1965 first-quarter earnings indicated at $14.8 million, equal to $1.35 a common share, on sales of approximately $202 million, Harold Blanche, president, reported to stockholders at the corporation's annual meeting in New York City.

Both sales and earnings were the highest for any quarter on record, Blanche stated. This year's first quarter sales were 25 per cent higher and earnings were 18 per cent higher than comparable sales and earnings for the first three months of 1964. The increases are based on restatement of 1964 first-quarter figures to reflect the pooling of interests of two new subsidiaries during the latter part of last year.

Citing 1964 as "the most significant growth year in Celanese history," Blanche particularly noted the progress made in broad geographic and product diversification of chemical process activities.

He announced the startup of production of two major new products: the first U.S. commercial manufacture of Celanese nylon in a new plant in Greenville, South Carolina, with advanced new chemical technology, and the first European production of Arnel triacetate yarn in Lanaken, Belgium.

The stockholders were shown a slide film review of Celanese expanded world operations, with emphasis on new ventures.

It was announced that the first U.S. production of Celanese nylon 66 fiber has been started in a new plant in Greenville, S.C. The new plant, which has an initial capacity of 40 million pounds a year, is operated by a subsidiary of Fiber Industries, Inc.

Celanese will market the new product for apparel, carpet, tire cord, home furnishings and industrial applications.

In addition to marketing the new fiber, Celanese has just started producing hexamethylene diamine and adipic acid, the principal chemical raw materials for nylon, in a new plant at Bay City here, in Texas.

KIDNEY TRANSPLANT WORKING OKAY
Easter Means a Little More for Sooner Girl
By PAUL ENGLISH
SEMINOLE, Okla. (UPI) — Mrs. Judy Robertson believes her daughter, Carol, has "practically returned from death to life."

You probably would agree with Mrs. Robertson if you saw her robust 13-year-old daughter today and compared her to the frail, weak and sickly girl she was a year ago.

There is little doubt—Carol has in a sense been resurrected. She has renewed vigor and life.

For this reason, Easter means a little more this year than in the past to those who know Carol, who is believed to be the world's youngest kidney transplant patient to live as long as one year.

Solons Recess For Holidays

AUSTIN (UPI) — The House Thursday okayed a proposal to acquire James Connally Air Force Base at Waco for a state technical school, then recessed for the Easter holidays.

The legislators will not return until Tuesday.

House Speaker Ben Barnes told members a final decision will come soon on the $3 billion-plus general appropriations bill.

Gov. John Connally proposed the acquisition of the air base two weeks ago, noting that it is to be deactivated by the Air Force in September, 1966.

He proposed to have it ready to open by then as a vocational school serving the entire Southwest with an eventual enrollment of 2,500 students. Texas A&M will supervise the institute.

A proposal to retrieve from Mexico one of the flags that flew over the Alamo won final approval when the House accepted a conference committee compromise.

More Pampa Youths Face Berger Charges
Six more Pampa teenagers in the eyes of the law, is a juvenile and cannot be officially charged with a felony crime in a court of law. However, Berger authorities are holding him in jail in lieu of the burglary complaint lodged against him.

Berger police said the six arrests have cleared up several self-service laundry burglaries in Pampa, Berger, Lubbock and one in Amarillo.

Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner said today he planned to send an officer to Berger this afternoon to question the youths concerning the Pampa thefts.

Yesterday, Berger police filed burglary charges against 18-year-old Tommy Henley of Pampa and a charge of desecration of graves against 19-year-old David Ferguson.

Berger authorities said Glover, Hall and Hill were placed under $2,000 bond each on the burglary charges. Klotz, Corcoran and Pulse remained in jail.

Spearman Judge Orders New Trial for Clements

SPEARMAN (UPI) — Robert Earl Clements, 70, who was handed a two-year suspended sentence on a felony theft charge last Tuesday, today faced another trial on the same charge because he raised the judge's ire.

Clements' lawyer, Clyde Woody, in a statement issued in Houston, blasted the court for its action and said he would conduct the "most lengthy and expensive trial" the state has ever seen to free his client.

Dist. Judge Max Boyer Thursday nullified Clements' suspended sentence and ordered him to stand trial in Columbus, Tex., about 500 miles away in the southern part of the state. Spearman is on the northern edge of the Panhandle.

The judge's action apparently stemmed from a handwritten note Clements wrote after his sentencing. Clements pleaded no defense (nolo contendere) at his trial.

Clements' Statement
The statement said in part: "When you reach the end of your physical endurance and when it appears that chances of getting a fair and impartial jury trial have been blocked by a saturation of misinformation by both press and television, it is time for a strategic retreat."

"I did not plead guilty," Clements said. "I am not guilty."

Woody said the case had been moved to Columbus by "some mysterious means without the knowledge of my client, my office or me."

Advised Plea
"Due to Mr. Clements' health, I reluctantly advised him to plead no contest which despite what anyone may suggest, is not a plea of guilty. If Mr. Clements' doctor advises me that his health will permit, I will once and for all settle the issue. In what I expect will be one of the most lengthy or laboratory examination."

Katzenbach said, however, that the guidelines would permit release of information about circumstances of an arrest and, under questioning, the previous federal convictions of those arrested on federal charges.

The policy statement on pre-trial publicity was issued after a six-month study by 92 U.S. attorneys and subordinate Justice Department units such as the FBI, the Bureau of Prisons, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

An exception was made to lift all restrictions on releasing information about fugitives, including those on the FBI's "ten most wanted" list.

Prepared Statement
Katzenbach prepared the statement for an ASNE session on "Fair Trial and Free Press" (See PRE-TRIAL, Page 3).

New Pre-Trial Publicity Policy Put Into Effect

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach put into effect today a new set of guidelines to govern release of information by the Justice Department in federal criminal cases.

He said in a speech prepared for the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) that the department's policy was designed to strike a balance between the constitutional guarantees of a fair trial and a free press.

Katzenbach issued rules forbidding federal authorities from publicizing confessions by defendants in criminal proceedings.

They also bar any comment by U.S. prosecutors about a defendant's reputation or the strength of the evidence against him.

The rules forbid Justice Department officials from discussing results of fingerprint, ballistics, polygraph (lie detector) or laboratory examination.

Katzenbach said, however, that the guidelines would permit release of information about circumstances of an arrest and, under questioning, the previous federal convictions of those arrested on federal charges.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tessel, Patrick Inc., says it is looking forward to an extremely bullish spring rally and strongly recommends an aggressive accumulation of selected equities at current equities.

The firm says that during the next several weeks it appears likely there will be widespread participation by most groups in what may be one of the most dynamic upward thrusts of this bull market.

Bache & Co. says in view of the recent upward surge a temporary pause appears necessary to digest recent gains.

Thomson & McKinnon says that investor confidence appears to have returned to the market place and that, barring adverse foreign developments, further near-term progress should be made.

Former Castro Aide to Speak in Pampa

Communist infiltration will be the keynote of two messages to be delivered in Pampa at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 22, and in two one-night anti-communist rallies at the Pampa Junior High School and at Stephen F. Austin Junior High in Borger. Speaker at the rallies will be

Maj. Pedro Diaz Lanz, a one-time commander-in-chief of the Cuban Air Force under Fidel Castro, and who was the first high-ranking officer to denounce the Cuban dictator as a communist. Major Lanz barely escaped with his life in 1959, shortly after he publicly split with Castro. Later in the year, flying an unarmed aircraft from a Florida base, he "bombed" Havana with leaflets warning Cubans of their fate under communism and Castro and was arrested and jailed by the United States State Department when he returned to the U. S. mainland. He was fined $2,000 because of the incident.

Lanz will level several accusations at the U. S. State Department and will reveal the names of Cuban refugees now in this country whom he believes to be little better than communist "plants," now being infiltrated into refugee Cuban groups for a take-over of the Cuban government after Castro is deposed.

Admission to the Christian Crusade meeting is free and the public is invited.

A PUZZLE
VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)—Police Wednesday were trying to figure out how John E. Eggers, 21, escaped from his city jail cell while two fellow prisoners assertedly slept.

Eggers, 5-foot-10, was being held on an auto theft charge. Police believe he fled jail by squeezing through a 6-by-12 inch opening 15 feet above the floor of his cell.

New Pampa City Directory Now Being Distributed Throughout the City

The Pampa City Directory, published by Hudspeth Directory Co., of Dallas, is in the process of being distributed over the city.

The new edition shows occupation or business connection, marital status and name of wife, whether head of house or roomer, names and titles of proprietors and officers of corporations, and other items of information.

Special regular features of the new directory include the designations of tenant-owned and rented homes; and telephone number listings by streets and houses.

As with previous editions, there will be a distribution of the directory to replace the old one in free-reference directory libraries in other cities.

The distribution is part of the service maintained by members of the Association of North American Directory Publishers in connection with publication of their directories; they said, and will help to keep outsiders Press." Others asked to participate were U. S. appeals Court Judge J. Skelly Wright of Washington, Massachusetts Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, Felix R. McKnight of the Dallas Times Herald, and Clifton Daniel of the New York Times.

The new guidelines called for Justice Department aides to make public five categories of information before trial.

They include a defendant's identity, age, address, occupation, marital status, and other background information.

Also, the substance of the charge, the arresting agency and length of the investigation, and all information to get public help in apprehending fugitives. The guidelines also say the Justice Department may provide photographs of defendants if this serves a valid law enforcement purpose, and says the government should not prevent cameramen from taking pictures of defendants in public places.

In a statement adopted Wednesday, ASNE directors called on the press to reject as "impractical and harmful" attempts to restrict news coverage of criminal proceedings.

Inhibit Press
The committee said after a year-long study that any arbitrary blackout on categories of news — such as prior criminal records or confessions would inhibit the press in its duty of keeping the public informed about the administration of criminal justice.

There have been proposals for curbs on press coverage of arrests and trials in the wake of the Warren Commission recommendation that the press establish a professional code of conduct to balance the public's right to be informed with the right to be tried by impartial jurors.

The commission cited the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, President Kennedy's assassin, as an example of how press coverage of a crime may make a fair trial impossible.

In his statement Katzenbach said the guidelines generally represent the same policies now being observed by the Justice Department. He said they apply only to government officials.

Mrs. Donie L. Huddleston
Funeral arrangements are incomplete with Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors for Mrs. Donie L. Huddleston who died at 9:45 a.m. today in Groom Hospital.

Mrs. Huddleston was born March 23, 1898, in Pontotoc County, Miss. She had been a Pampa resident since 1956, making her home with a son, Floyd Huddleston at 333 Robert.

Other than the son, two daughters, Mrs. Frank Brewer of Pampa and Mrs. Henry Ford of Charleston, Miss., survive.

Warm Weather To Greet Milady On Easter Sunday

The Panhandle's Easter cool snap came on Good Friday this year and apparently milady will have a dry, mild day when she exhibits her Easter finery Sunday.

Early this morning, dry dust began kicking up around Pampa and the weatherman said residents could expect dust buffeted by 35 mile-an-hour winds today. The winds should die down by tomorrow and from all indications, Sunday will be a typical spring day, the weather bureau said.

Temperatures were on the chilly side everywhere in the state today except along the immediate coastal sections—and even there it was cooler than usual except for the 68-degree reading at Brownsville. It was 61 degrees at Corpus Christi and 62 at Galveston and Laredo, while elsewhere readings were in the 50s in South Texas, and the 40s elsewhere except the state's low of 36 at Dalhart.

Skies were clear at all reporting stations except Laredo and Brownsville where it was partly cloudy.

Northwest Texas was due to begin a slow warming trend today and other sections of the state will feel that effect by Saturday.

Extended five-day forecasts call for temperatures to range from near normal on the northern reaches of the state to as much as 10 degrees above normal in extreme South Texas and the southern regions of Northwest Texas.

Little or no precipitation was expected anywhere in the state except one-fourth to three-fourths of an inch in extreme East Texas early next week.

Shower activity Thursday brought less than one-tenth of an inch precipitation to Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Houston, and Austin.

The mercury climbed to 92 degrees yesterday at Presidio before the cool air invaded the Big Bend to make it the hottest spot in the nation.

Three Services Set For First Baptist Church

Three services of worship will be held in First Baptist Church Easter Sunday. At the 8:30 morning worship, Dr. Douglas Carver will preach from the topic, "A Wonderful Discovery." The Concord Choir will occupy the choir loft and will be directed by Sam Allen who will sing "Were You There?" for the special music. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "In Joseph's Garden" by Rasley for the Prelude and "Easter Dawn of Peace" for the offertory.

"The Message of Easter" is the sermon subject the pastor has chosen for the 11 o'clock worship service. The church choir will occupy the choir loft and will sing "Open Our Eyes" by MacFarlane for the choral offertory. Mrs. Mack Hiatt, soprano, will sing "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" from Handel's "Messiah", for the Easter music. Miss Lane has chosen "Prelude on Three Easter Carols" by Wilson for the organ prelude.

Easter Sunday has been designated as tithing Sunday for all of the church. It was enthusiastically agreed that every person shall tithe one week's income on this day.

Rev. J. R. Manning assistant pastor, will occupy the pulpit for the 6 o'clock evening worship. The chapel choir will sing the choral offertory number, and Mrs. Carolyn Carver Byrd and Mrs. Gwen Carver Mitchell City" by Adams, will be the organist for the prelude. "The Holy gyan prelude.

"What happens when I die?"
Man is the only creature who asks that question. But he asks it very insistently. It has bothered him since the dawn of human history. It is perhaps the most basic question he asks of any religion or philosophy which professes to help him comprehend the meaning of his existence.

There are four possible answers, and each of them has many adherents. One theory is that death is the end of the line for human beings, as for other organisms. Life simply ceases to exist and the indelible essence which constitutes a human personality is swallowed up by nothingness. This is what millions of secularists believe. It is not a "modern" idea. It is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, of man's guesses about death.

Also of great antiquity is the belief that man has a soul which is imperishable by its very nature. At death, this immortal part of every human being is liberated from the physical body which undergoes corruption. This is what Plato, Socrates and other Greek philosophers believed. Their view is held today by many who mistakenly regard it as a Christian concept.

A third hypothesis is that a soul may inhabit a succession of physical bodies — animal or human. When one body dies, the soul is "reincarnated" or reborn in another body. This is the teaching of the great Oriental religions, Hinduism and Buddhism. It should be noted that both of them look upon reincarnation as a fate to be avoided if possible. The best thing that can happen to a soul, they believe, is to be released from the cycle of rebirth, to cease to exist as a separate entity and be absorbed into the "oversoul" of Infinite Being "like a drop of water disappearing into the sea."

Presbyterians Plan Special Easter Service
"The Cross — Salvation or Stumbling Block" is the sermon subject for the two Easter services at the First Presbyterian Church.
The pastor, Donald S. Hauck and Ruling Elder Owen Gee will lead in the 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship hours and will read and preach from the third chapter of Daniel and the sixth chapter of Matthew's gospel.
The youth choir will join the Sanctuary choir to bring special music to the morning service and there will be special solo music at the 11 a.m. service in addition to the choir singing "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah. The choir is under the direction of Mrs. George Budd, accompanied by Mr. Fidelia Yoder at the organ.
No youth meetings are planned for Easter evening.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

Harry Vanderpool, Minister
First Methodist Church

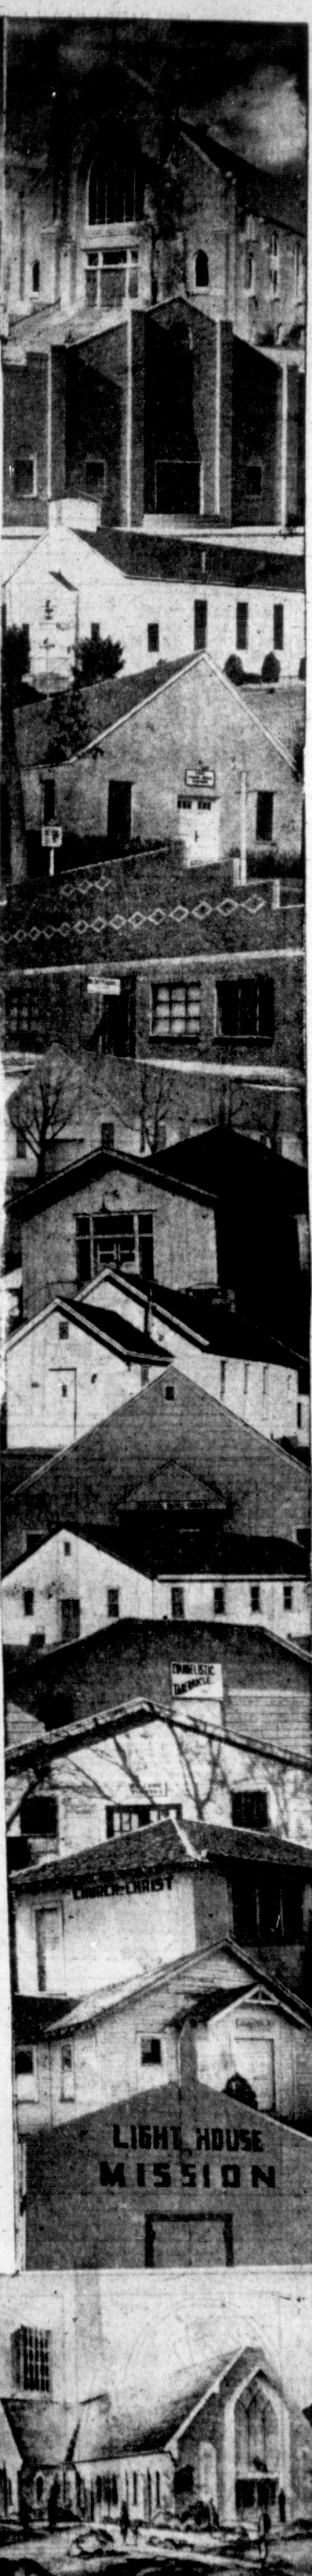

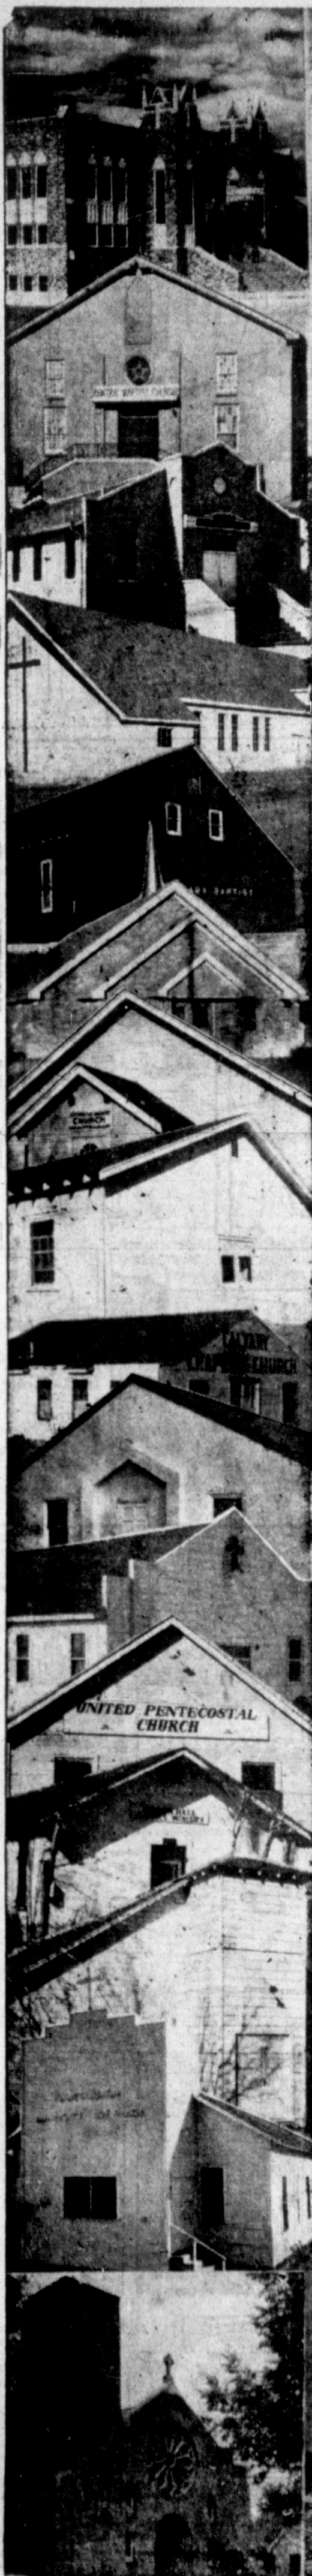

The resurrection of our Lord is celebrated by Christians on Easter day. To be completely accurate, we would have to say that we celebrate this event every Sunday, for the custom of worshipping on the first day of the week began with Easter and has continued until this time as a means of regularly celebrating the resurrection. In a real sense every Sunday is a little Easter.

The thing I always think about when Easter approaches is a verse of scripture penned by Matthew. He begins the Easter story in this fashion: "As it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

Those were prophetic words, for truly it did "begin to dawn" for the disciples of our Lord and for the whole wide world when Jesus rose from the dead. The darkness and utter tragedy of the Friday when Christ was crucified pre-faced that unforgettable dawn. However, all of that was overcome and changed by the bright light which blazed forth when it became known that death could not conquer Jesus.

It began to dawn in many ways when the Spirit of the Living Christ touched the hearts of men. Little children were treated differently because Christ said "of such is the Kingdom of heaven." Women began to be respected because Jesus talked with a woman at the well and said of another, "She hath done a beautiful thing." Common men began to develop self-respect because the Master said to them, "Ye are the light of the world."

I know not what Easter means to you, but it means to me that "it began to dawn" for all mankind. And, being a follower of Jesus, I am challenged by Easter to "let my light shine" so that the world will become an even brighter place in which to live.

LEVIN'S

DEAR ABBY...

All Kinds of 'Hunger' Exist

DEAR ABBY: My husband is one of those big-hearted, generous, "treat-the-gang" kind of men who is leading us to the poorhouse. When we go to his family's for dinner, he takes most of the food. When we go out with friends, my husband fights for the bill, and ends up paying for everything. Not only that, but he tips like a millionaire and he thinks nothing of lending people money when he knows he'll never see it again.

It's nice to be such a big-hearted guy, but we can't afford it. Our children wear rags and I am afraid to answer the phone for fear it's an angry bill collector. I have pleaded with him to let me handle the money, but he never does. What on earth is a man like mine?

SECURITY HUNGRY

DEAR "HUNGRY": Your husband is "hungry," too. Hungry for praise and thanks. He wants desperately to make an impression. His heart may be in the right place, but he is only kidding himself. No one can buy friends. And, furthermore, to treat others while one's own fam-mily does without is morally wrong. Luxury, as well as charity, should begin at home.

DEAR ABBY: I am 54 and everybody tells me I look 40. I stay in shape by lifting weights and working out with bar bells. I have a boy friend who is 66 and we've been going together for 12 years. I have my own flat and he owns his own house. I go over there almost every day to clean it up and keep his clothes in order. Lately he has been pretending that he is so tired at night he can't keep his eyes open when he's with me. But I found out that after I go home he gets dressed up again and goes out to meet girls who are young enough to be his granddaughters. Believe me, he looks his age, and if he didn't have money, no young girl would look at him twice. Do you think I am worth keeping? Or should I look for someone else?

KANSAS CITY LADY

DEAR LADY: Your "boy friend" appears to be enjoying his second childhood more than most boys enjoy their first. If he is slipping around behind your back, it's too late to decide whether or not you want to "keep him. You've lost him. If you want to put up with that kind of foolishness, that's your business. But if you want a one-woman man, he's not it.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps the young people in this community are different from those elsewhere, but it seems as though the girls are always thinking up ways to get the boys to take them out. Their latest trick is to organize a girl-ask-boy party. I think it is all right once in a while, but these girls are overdoing it. My problem is my 15-year-old daughter.

She is quite popular and has her share of dates, but when one of these girl-ask-boy affairs comes up, she always asks a boy who has never asked her to go anywhere with him. I try to tell her that she only makes herself look foolish, and she should ask one of the boys who has asked her out, but she won't listen to me, Abby. She reads your column. Maybe she'll listen to you. If I am wrong about this, please tell me.

MOTHER OF A STUBBORN GIRL

DEAR MOTHER: She probably won't listen to me either, but even though the temptation is great to get a "new" boy interested by inviting him to a girl-ask-boy party, the wise girl asks a boy who has shown enough interest in her to have invited her somewhere.

DEAR ABBY: Some friends of mine told me that back in 1922 they stood up at a wedding where the Justice of the Peace

Wyatt Fenno Feted At Birthday Party

LEFORS (Sp) — Wyatt Fenno, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fenno, was honored with a birthday party on his ninth birthday in the Fenno home recently.

Mrs. James Gatlin assisted in the preparation of the birthday supper which consisted of hamburgers with all the trimmings, potato chips, cokes, birthday cake and for a favor, chocolate. Easter eggs. The birthday cake was baked by Mrs. Walter Elliott, and was white trimmed with green and yellow with a bat, ball and mitt on the side and "Happy Birthday" on the other side.

Twenty-two guests attended the event to help the honoree mark the occasion.

performed the ceremony, and his wife acted as a witness. The Justice of the Peace has St. Vitus' dance so bad that he was unable to read the service from the book, so his wife took the book from his hands and read it for him. When she got to the part where it said, "I now pronounce you man and wife," she handed the book back to her husband and let him say it. Would you consider this a legal ceremony?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Yes — the J.P.'s wife was obviously assisting her husband, in his presence and with his approval.

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Reason Versus Washingtonitis

The 18th century was called the Age of Enlightenment because it occurred to a few philosophers that mankind was inherently perfectible. They felt there was no problem—whether political, moral, social or scientific—that could not be solved by the application of man's reason, that there was no end to the progress possible. This was a revolutionary break with the static society of the Middle Ages, which believed that all that was needed to be known was already known and that the chief object of a man was to accept his lot in life and prepare to meet his Maker.

Despite the drastic multiplication and intensification of human problems in the intervening two centuries and a sorry lack of reasonable solutions to them, the ideal of the philosophers is still a matter of faith in the science-minded Western world.

Now in the United States, a country that was born out of the Enlightenment, a broadscale attack on any number of fronts is being assembled. In recent weeks, President Johnson has sent messages to Congress dealing with everything from crime in the streets to lice in the mattress. This barrage of proposals and exhortations has moved Dwight D. Eisenhower to question whether everything in the social alphabet, beginning with abandoned automobiles and apartment rents, must be the personal concern of the national government.

The former president has raised a warning flag we ought to keep in sight. No one disputes the need to solve these problems, much less our ability to do so. The only question is how. Our lawmakers must constantly ask themselves, what is the best approach to a particular problem? At which level—local, state or federal—can it best be handled?

Most important of all, how can we increase the individual's security, improve his environment and enlarge his opportunities and choices while preserving and promoting his initiative and self-reliance?

The Chief Executive must lead the way to his "Great Society," but he cannot in every case carry the stragglers on his own back.

America was—and still is—the promised land for millions—not because it offered material prosperity and an easy life, not because there would be no more struggle and hardship, but because it held the most precious thing of all—freedom. Confucius told the story about the man who moved to a remote part of the country where tigers abounded and were a constant danger. When asked why he had done so, he replied simply, "Here there is no oppressive government."

Honor to News-Magazine

A formerly all-Negro school has given its award for "significant contributions to better human relations" to U.S. News & World Report, the Washington news magazine.

Dr. Armistead S. Pride, chairman of the department of journalism of Lincoln University at Jefferson City, Mo., said the award was based "on an extensive observation of the consistency with which it has published news reports, surveys and features that give the American racial upsurge a matchless minuteness of scrutiny. Such content serves to provide readers with an abundance of information that invariably better understanding and in turn, opens the way to a variety of independent thought."

We believe Dr. Pride accurately reported what makes U.S. News & World Report an outstanding news magazine which he said has been "presenting uncolored reports and informed opinion that strengthens efforts to improve understanding of the various elements of our population."

John H. Sweet, president and publishing director, had some comments in accepting which are worthy of repeating: "We print news, irrespective of whether it is palatable to the readers or even to the editors. The only criterion we have is news interest. If any public question requires reform or laws to correct abuses, it is essential that the people be enlightened and informed on the facts.

It will always be said that individuals have their prejudices. But a good newspaperman has no prejudices when he writes news. A managing editor may be entirely opposed to the views expressed by some other individual, but he insists that the other fellow's views be printed when it is news. A true newspaperman usually has no feelings of his own when he reports the news. It is only when he comes into the role of an editorial writer or commentator that his own opinions properly are expressed and are so labeled."

It is interesting that Lincoln University, celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, was founded by members of an all-Negro volunteer regiment principally of Missouri residents. It was a state Negro university until 1954. It now has a student body of 1,700, two-thirds of them Negroes.

Question Box

QUESTION NO. 742: "What should be done about the narcotics problem and who should do it?"

The "narcotics problem" is no different from other human problems, which involve great risk. And, like other problems, it has been made greater, not decreased, by governmental intervention in effort to "protect" people from their own foolish acts.

For instance, by outlawing possession of narcotics, an artificially high value has been placed on them. A person who has become "hooked" on drugs cannot obtain the supply he thinks he needs on a legal market, so he will rob or steal, or commit nearly any act in order to obtain funds to purchase illicit supplies from men who make great profits from smuggling the drugs into the country. The case is analogous to prohibition days when gangsters amassed great fortunes for the risk they took in producing or importing liquor. Perhaps the greatest evil perpetrated by drug addicts is to encourage others to use narcotics, thus collecting "commissions" from pushers for providing them new customers.

Taking the profit out of narcotics by making them legal—perhaps under prescription of a physician—would decrease materially the market for illicit drugs. It also would reduce the amount of crime committed by addicts in order to finance their own habits.

An educational program to show young people the dangers and hazards of drug addiction, by parents, teachers, churches and newspapers would be more valuable than a governmental prohibition, jail sentences for addicts or other tactics to discourage use. Obviously, this would be voluntary, since com-

WASHINGTON:

Give Us Facts on Viet Nam

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — U Thant, United Nations secretary general, performed an astounding maneuver in arguing that Americans had not been getting an accurate picture on Viet Nam and appealing over the head of President Johnson to the American people on the need for a U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam.

He did not suggest that if the Russians, Chinese or North Vietnamese people had accurate information the Chinese would withdraw their advisers, the North Vietnamese their troops and the Russians their military aid for Ho Chi Minh's southern expeditionary force.

Though he talked about the desirability of withdrawing U.S. forces from Viet Nam, he voiced no desire for the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops.

As South Viet Nam Premier Phan Huy Quat put it, no one complains when North Vietnamese Communists attack the South Vietnamese. The shouting begins when the U.S. and South Viet Nam fight back against the north.

U Thant to the contrary, the truth is that the excellent reporters covering the war in South Viet Nam have been giving the American people an accurate, over-all picture of the war, despite the veil of mystery at the White House.

U Thant was able to stir up attention for his assertions only because the President, by an inept news policy, has caused a widespread feeling that we are not getting the whole story.

This has bred uncertainty and lack of confidence. What is needed is for Johnson to brief newsmen frequently on Viet Nam and to submit himself, however uncomfortable it may make him, to searching questions from reporters experienced in the area.

At least one member of the cabinet has gone to President Johnson to urge that he do something to correct the situation.

The U Thant statement was unwise and unfortunate. The bigger problem it raises is crucial.

If the American people are to get behind the President in this tough war in Viet Nam, and maintain the patience to see the war through, they must not only have the facts, but they also must know they are getting the facts.

U Thant's statement brought immediate action from Secretary of State Dean Rusk. For the first time since the raids on North Viet Nam, the U.S. government reviewed publicly the conditions which must precede any negotiations. (North Viet Nam must stop its aggression.)

But one press conference by the secretary of state is not enough.

The President himself must take the people into his confidence and into his thinking.

There has been a tendency at the White House to announce things only after they are decided. There is a need (within limits) for the President to let Americans know something of the agonizing appraisals and reappraisals he and his advisers are making and to let people know how the day-by-day actions in Viet Nam fit into the over-all aims of the United States in Asia and in the world.

Foreign Aid Billions and Gold Reserve Outflow, Also in Billions Makes Revealing Comparison

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The hundreds of millions of dollars the U.S. is spending in France for the defense of that country are being used by Russia and Red China-coddling President de Gaulle to massively raid the steadily declining U.S. gold reserve.

Since 1957 the U.S. has poured $2.482 billion into France for NATO defenses. In that same period France has used these dollars to acquire more than $2 billion in U.S. gold — some $750 million in the past year alone.

In 1957 this country's gold reserve was $22.857 billion. Today, it is less than $15 billion — a loss of around $8 billion.

These profoundly revealing facts highlight two backstage communications: (1) A letter from Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler to Senator Paul Douglas, D-Ill., vice chairman of the Joint Economic Committee; (2) a "fact sheet" by Representative Otto Passman, D-La., chairman of the foreign aid appropriations subcommittee, sent to its members.

Fowler's letter, in response to a series of questions from Douglas on U.S.-French dollar relations, disclosed the following "total U.S. military expenditures in France on a U.S. fiscal year basis":

1957	$453 million
1958	$375 million
1959	$318 million
1960	$280 million
1961	$299 million
1962	$269 million
1963	$257 million
1964	$231 million
Total	$2,482 billion

DE GAULLE'S GALL — Also highly significant is Fowler's answer to another Douglas question — that since 1958 the U.S. has given $2.774 billion in "economic grants and loans to the 21 countries which were formerly associated with or territories of France."

In other words, while "le grande Charley" is imperiously seeking to thwart or undermine U.S. foreign, trade and fiscal policies, this country is carrying the burden of aiding France's one-time colonies. De Gaulle is haughtily viewing with alarm this country's balance-of-payments deficit, but a sizable chunk of that is due to the U.S. paying his bills.

Following is Fowler's striking report on this:

Total U.S. Economic Grants and Loans to the 21 countries which were formerly associated with or territories of France for the fiscal years 1953-64	1953	1954	1955	1956	1957	1958	1959	1960	1961	1962	1963	1964
Africa	$198	$169	$251	$192	$198	$204	$204	$204	$204	$204	$204	$204
SE Asia	$62	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54	$54
Total	$260	$223	$305	$246	$252	$258	$258	$258	$258	$258	$258	$258

The overall total for Africa was $1.30 billion and the overall total for Southeast Asia was $2.77.

The 18 countries in Africa which were formerly associated with or territories of France," added Fowler, "accounted for 39.8 per cent, or $1.1 billion of the total for the 21 countries.

The countries of former French Indo-China — Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia — accounted for 60.2 per cent, or $1.7 billion of the total."

U.S. tourist expenditures in France are another important factor in the payments deficit, Fowler pointed out, and annually becoming more so. Since 1957 these dollar outlays in France have risen steadily, as follows:

1957	$83 million
1958	$93 million
1959	$103 million
1960	$118 million
1961	$105 million
1962	$112 million
1963	$119 million

The Treasury chief also advised Senator Douglas that since 1957 France has obtained $236 million from the U.S. in "shipping payments for passenger and freight movements to and from France on French vessels, airlines, etc."

At the same time these billions in dollars have poured into France, it has done nothing about paying $6.456 billion owed this country in World War II debts. In addition, $597 million in World War II debts are still outstanding — two extremely pertinent matters never mentioned by De Gaulle.

WHO GOT THE GOLD — Representative Passman charges flatly, "The foreign aid program has been the primary reason for our serious gold outflow to foreign countries."

"On December 31, 1957, our gold stockpile amounted to $22.857 billion," Passman points out in his "fact sheet." "On December 31, 1963, our gold stockpile had dwindled to $15.596 billion, a drop of $7.261 billion in six years. Calendar-year 1964 figures on the 'gold outflow' which will be even more serious, are not yet available in certified form."

"During the period 57 countries received $12.436 billion in military and/or economic aid from the U.S. Also during this same period, these nations 'purchased' $6.977 billion of our gold. I leave it to you whether this does not convey a true story as to the effect foreign aid is having on our gold reserves, balance-of-payments position and steadily soaring public debt."

Leading gold accumulators among the big U.S. aid beneficiaries are:

Austria	$342.6 million
Polgium	$716.2 million
France	$2.165 billion
Italy	$248.2 million
Japan	$248.8 million
Netherlands	$585.1 million
Spain	$514.3 million
Britain	$215.3 million

"The foreign aid program is not in reality a presidential program, although it is submitted to Congress in his name," asserts Passman. "It is a bureaucratic program. The President has too much to do to be able to familiarize himself with the many ramifications, misrepresentations and claims of accomplishment by paid bureau-

Anybody Here Want To Be a Publisher?

NEW YORK (NEA) — Each year at this season, the American Newspaper Publishers Association holds its annual meeting in New York. And every April as the date approaches, we are forced to marvel again that the newspaper business has survived at all.

For all our years on the job, we have never really been able to understand why anybody would want to be a newspaper publisher.

You do not get a press pass. You do not get a by-line. You do not get to see the world in extremis, but must wait with everybody else to read about it in tomorrow's paper.

Moreover, you must show some respect for the editor and, in our experience, you dare not change one word of copy. It is true that you can take sides on issues. But only after giving visibility to the opposing point of view.

Many years ago we heard a critic of the newspapers say that news is anything that happens to or near a publisher or crats, government lobbyists, spenders and recipients."

ANOTHER BULLSEYE — Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore., leading foreign aid opponent in his chamber, charges French contractors "stole us blind" in building U.S. airbases in their country for their defense.

Following is what Morse told the Senate — without challenge from any source:

"I shall never forget standing on the airbase in France which we had built at tremendous expense to American taxpayers. The Senator from Louisiana kicked stone after stone out of the cement. The stones were half as big as an egg; sometimes as big as an egg. We were told by Americans in charge that no U.S. fighter plane had ever landed on that airbase."

"Landing an American fighter plane on that airbase would have wrecked the plane because the runway was so defective. So we were going to have to rebuild the runway at additional heavy expense. The French would not do it. The French contractor had not lived up to specifications. He robbed us blind, as they did in a good deal of the constructions that American taxpayers paid for."

"But we could not tell that story. It was too secret. It finally did get out, although not from us. That is why I am able to talk about it now on the Senate floor."

Senators Frank Lausche, D-O, and Philip Hart, D-Mich., want the Johnson administration to launch a vigorous drive to urge Americans to do their traveling and touring at home. Lausche favors going even further and appealing to the people not to visit France. Says Lausche, "We have been considerate of the problems of the French, but President de Gaulle is not equally considerate of our problems."

Between the Bookends

Why Unions Dominate Labor Relations
Apparently, few people realize the extent to which the federal government has acted to favor union leaders in their bargaining relationships with companies. As a result of this favoritism, unions are not required to perform the same level of service for their rewards as are companies marketing products to the public.

A case history of this favoritism is recorded in a recently-published book, "Boulwarism," written by Herbert R. Northrup, Professor of Industry at the University of Pennsylvania (the book is published by the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan).

Describes Policies
"Boulwarism" refers to the employees relations policies of labor relations executive Lemuel R. Boulware of General Electric Company. Hired by GE after World War II, Boulware instituted new communications programs to help offset the anti-company propaganda disseminated by union officials.

The "Boulwarism" approach has been so successful during the years that it has served as a model for other companies. Employees have been helped to understand economic facts of life, reasons for company policies, and union demands and policies that are detrimental to the employee's future.

The success of the program is demonstrated by the need of the National Labor Relations Board, a federal agency, to intervene to tip the scales in favor of union officials. A recent NLRB decision labeled as an "unfair labor practice" GE's attempt to talk to its own employees.

NLRB Attitude
As the book demonstrates, in reference to many issues, the NLRB has taken the attitude that union membership is "right" and therefore anything that strengthens the union officials is "right" and increased ability by the company to handle labor relations on its own is "wrong."

The only weak point in the book (or perhaps in the case it is describing) is its preoccupation with proving GE's willingness to have its employees belong to unions. Less encouragement would ultimately mean less unemployment and higher real wages for employees. But with the NLRB on its neck, it's natural for a company to be on the defensive on this point.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, April 16, the 196th day of 1965 with 259 to follow.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Mercury.

One of the inventors of the airplane, Wilbur Wright, was born on this day in 1867.

On this day in history: In 1862, Congress abolished slavery in the District of Columbia.

In 1899, Charlie Chaplin, the movie actor and producer, was born in London.

In 1947, a French freighter carrying nitrates exploded at a dock in Texas City, Texas, setting off a series of explosions and raging fires. More than 500 people lost their lives.

His wife. But that is not so either.

We have spent considerable time in the company of one publisher and another, and we cannot report that anything memorable ever happened—except once when the elevator got stuck between floors. Besides, as any reporter will tell you, news is what you find.

We have also heard it said that being a newspaper publisher carries a great deal of prestige.

Well, that may be. But we have checked with a number of friends and colleagues in the newspapers, and none of them would dream of inviting the publisher to a dinner party or even afternoon cocktails for that matter.

Furthermore, we have noticed from a steady reading of "Editor & Publisher" magazine that there are many classified advertisements for editors, but you never read of anybody who is looking for a publisher.

We may, of course, be overstating the disadvantages of being a publisher. There must be something to be said for the job. And we would be happy to say it.

But over the years we have discussed this matter with many newspapermen — towering figures, some of them, and dedicated to their profession. And we have never found one among them who wanted to advance through the ranks and become publisher.

Editor? Yes. Foreign correspondent? Maybe. Play reviewer or sports columnist? Perhaps. But only that far and no farther.

In that regard, the newspaper business is like no other under the sun.

Young men in other industries will plot their youth away for a chance at the presidency. Nobody goes into politics aspiring only to the mayor's office or the governor's. Even in the Mafia everybody wants to be a bank president or a television producer.

But in the newspaper business the rule does not apply. For some reason, everybody wants to be an Indian and nobody wants to be a Chief.

We do not understand how it manages to survive that way. But we must confess that the machinery worries us.

That old saw about silver coins needing a certain amount of silver in their alloy to operate pay telephones and vending machines just ain't true. The telephone company says its 1.250,000 pay phones will operate just as efficiently if the silver content is reduced. They say the alloy metals have the same weight and dimensions and possess the same electrical and magnetic conductivity qualities of silver. The same applies to parking meters, vending machines, and the like.

Matson Throws Between Visits

By RON CROSS

Southern Illinois' blazing sprint medley relay quartet, anchored by Bill Cornell, and high school mile sensation Jim Ryun and the world's best shot putter, Pampa's Randy Matson, share the spotlight Saturday in the opening of the 40th annual Kansas Relays.

Matson, at home at 520 W. Downing, for a visit with his family, will fly to Lawrence Saturday morning, throw the shot and return to Pampa Saturday night and spend Easter Sunday with his parents.

The Pampa Giant, as he is known in track circles, had little to say while working out Thursday afternoon at the Pampa High School track field. Randy is still the same Randy. Quiet, shy and as big as a barn.

Wire stories have had Matson's height and weight anywhere from seven feet tall and 300 pounds to six feet tall and 100 pounds.

Just how big is the world's best shot putter and new NCAA discus champion? "I'm 6' 6 1/2" and right now I weigh 255, about the same weight I had during the Olympics," Matson said.

What is his best throwing weight? "Oh, between 255 and 260," the giant said, adding "I'd like to get up to about 265 but it's hard to gain weight going to school and staying up late studying."

And that brought up the next question, with all the added pressures of being the new world's champ and having to attend so many more meets, like the Kansas Relays, for instance, strictly invitation affair, have his studies faltered and how have the added pressures affected him?

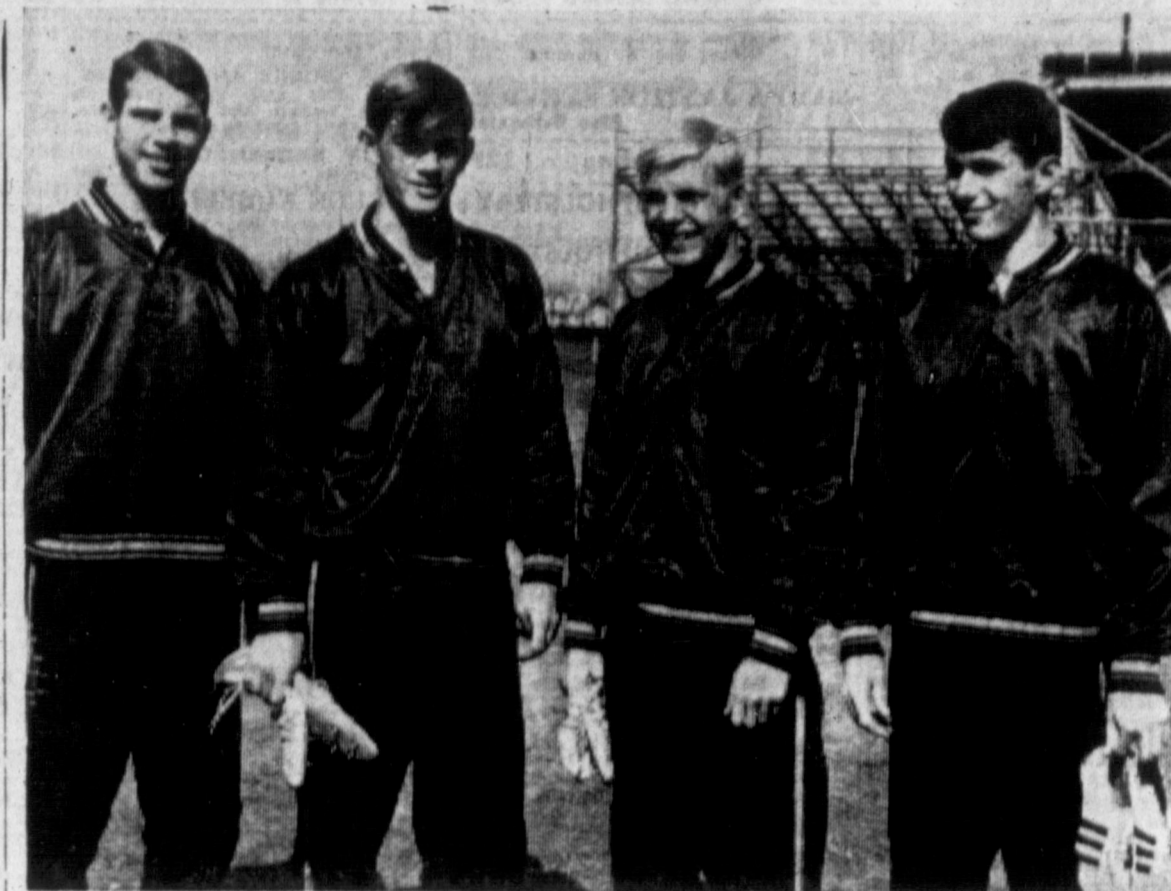

"My grades have actually been better than I thought with all the traveling and everything. I've had to study longer and harder but I've managed to keep up with the bookwork."

"Right now as far as being at meet some of the pressure has eased off now that I finally broke the record. Every meet I went to they had a red circle marking the spot where the old record could be broken. So some of the pressure eased when I finally did make it."

Now that he has thrown the shot 67-11 1/4, what about the 70-foot barrier?

"Well, that is a long way and I think it will be a while before anyone tosses it that far. Of course, records are made to be broken."

Southern Illinois won the Texas Relays title in a record time.

Herd 6th, Bucks 7th At Olton

OLTON — The Top O' Texas Class A and Class B track powerhouses fared rather poorly in the first annual Olton Invitational Meet for regional contenders in Classes AA-A-B last night.

Double A powerhouse Phillips won the team honors with Hale Center second and New De a third. Wheeler, winner of district 2-B, scored 23 points, a fourth in the 880 by Tommy Smith their best mark.

White Deer of district 2-A, scored 22 points, with their best mark a second in the pole vault by Little Randy Elliott. All competitors in the meet will compete at Lubbock April 23-24.

RESULTS
Shot — 1. Randy Peoples, New Deal, 116.2; 2. Douglas Phillips, Ralls, 98.7; 3. Bill Potts, Florida, 87.4; 4. Max Locke, Dabhart, 46.1.

Discus — 1. Max Locke, Dabhart, 150.6; 2. Randy Peoples, New Deal, 136.3; 3. John Patterson, Springdale, 128.4; 4. Bill Potts, Florida, 125.5.

400-yard relay — 1. Randy Peoples, New Deal, 2:01.2; 2. Danny Murphy, Friend, 2:01.5; 3. Freddie Banes, Phillips, 2:01.8; 4. Tom Smith, Wheeler, 2:02.1.

120-yard high hurdles — 1. Deward Strong, Dabhart, 14.2; 2. Gary Bradford, Hale Center, 14.3; 3. Leon Johnson, Phillips, 14.4; 4. Joe Priest, Olton, 14.5.

100-yard dash — 1. Randy Peoples, New Deal, 1:01.2; 2. Danny Murphy, Friend, 1:01.5; 3. James Lockridge, Kress, 1:01.8; 4. Larry Douglas, Fairwell, 1:02.1.

58TH YEAR FRIDAY, APRIL 16, 1965 9

This Could Be The Mets' Year

This could be the YEAR for the Mets. Yes, 1965 might be the year the New York Mets finally emerge from the National League cellar.

For one thing, the four-year-old New York darlings picked up their first victory of the year Thursday after only two setbacks, nipping Houston 5-4 in 10 innings. Never before have the historically slow starting Mets gained their initial triumph of the season this early.

All through spring training, Casey Stengel and his players have voiced the same optimistic theories that are heard every year.

But already this season certain facts seem to indicate that the New Yorkers are stronger, and the opposition may be weaker.

Must Beat Astros. For example, the Astros are the team that Mets must supplant in evacuating the cellar and who knows what havoc lies ahead for them in their multimillion dollar, magnificent Astrodome that can't be used, in its present state, for daytime baseball.

And the Mets themselves look improved. In the second inning Thursday ex-Cardinal outfielder Johnny Lewis started the season's first triple play. After snaring a fly ball, Lewis cut down a man at the plate and catcher Chris Cannizzaro nailed the third out catching a man trying to go from first to second on the throw.

The winning pitcher was 18-year-old Jim Bethke, whom Stengel has used twice in three games. The young southpaw came on in the top of the 10th and extinguished a Houston rally. Bobby Klaus, replacing injured All-Star second baseman Ron Hunt, won it for Bethke with a home run inside the left field foul line off Claude Raymond.

NL Action Elsewhere in the National League, Milwaukee tripped Chicago 5-1 and Cincinnati drubbed St. Louis 10-4. Los Angeles was rained out at Pittsburgh and San Francisco had its game at Philadelphia washed away.

Yankees Get Underway Behind Mel Stottlemyre

By United Press International

When the Yankees well-oiled machine stalls, the man to call for is Mel Stottlemyre. He may not have worked opening day but that doesn't mean Manager Johnny Keane considers him anything other than his No. 1 hurler.

It was Stottlemyre who got the Yankee caravan rolling Thursday night with a seven hit, 4-0 whitewash of the Los Angeles Angels for New York's first victory after two consecutive one-run setbacks.

The 6-foot-2 blonde righthander doesn't possess an overpowering fast ball, nor does he break off back bending curves. He works in a steady, if not spectacular fashion, but the results are simply astounding.

The Angels couldn't put two hits together in the same inning Thursday and the 23-year-old sensation was razor sharp with his control, striking out four and walking none.

Stottlemyre was in mid-season form two weeks ago. He had the best spring on the Yankee staff, toiling 40 innings and compiling an earned run average of 1.37. And for those who may have forgotten, Stottlemyre was the youngster fervently summoned from the minors last August when the American League champions were in dire straits and who proceeded to put together a 9-3 mark and a 2.06 ERA, working the crucial games consistently.

New York jumped on starter and loser Marcelino Lopez for single tallies in the first, third and fifth innings and home run king Roger Maris clubbed his first of the campaign in the eighth to complete the scoring.

Other AL Games In other American League action, Washington clipped Chicago 3-1, Kansas City downed Cleveland 7-3 and Detroit recorded a 6-4 triumph over Minnesota. Boston and Baltimore were idle.

In National League play, the Mets squeezed past Houston 5-4 in 10 innings, Cincinnati slaughtered wireless St. Louis 10-4, and Milwaukee celebrated its home opener with a 5-1 decision over Chicago. San Francisco at Philadelphia and Los Angles at Pittsburgh both were rained out. Washington's Bennie Daniels held the White Sox hitless for 7-2-3 innings before yielding a single to pinchhitter Smokey Burgess. The Pale Hose pushed over a tying run in the eighth and Daniels retired for a pinch-hitter the following inning. Wildard homered in the ninth to assure the 32-year-old Senator veteran of the victory.

Tigers Win Third The Detroit Tigers, moving briskly behind acting Manager Bob Swift, captured their third game without a defeat to become the league's only unbeaten team. Norm Cash and Al Kaline crashed roundtrippers and righthander Dave Wickersham scattered nine hits in his complete game performance. Kaline's game-winning, two-run circuit came off the slants of Minnesota reliever Jerry Fosnow and evened the young southpaw's record at 1-1.

Shortstop Bern Campaneris led the offensive charge in the A's first success of the season. Kansas City lefty John O'Donoghue spaced eight hits while Campaneris contributed four safeties and two runs batted in, and Charles had two hits and three RBIs.

Rocky Colavito, acquired by the Indians from the A's in an off-season deal, socked his first home run of 1965 in a losing cause. Cleveland's Sam McDowell was pulled after 4-2-3 frames, during which time he whiffed 10 men.

Harvesters Host Dons

The two teams that compiled the best pre-district baseball records in the loop will be fighting for survival today at 4 p.m. when the Pampa Harvesters host the Palo Duro Dons. The Dons posted a 6-0 mark and the Big Green 9-1, but each has a 1-2 loop mark going into today's game, the Dons having dropped their last game to Plainville, 5-4, while the Harvesters broke the ice with a 5-4 win over Amarillo.

Coach Deck Woldt will go with ace Chinky Garrison (4-1) on the mound today. Tomorrow the Harvesters play at Berger at 1 p.m., with pitcher Jim Arthur or Ron Curlee the starting hurler.

Jackson Shelled Larry Jackson, the majors winningest pitcher last year, made his second start of the young season and got shelled again, leaving after four innings, trailing 4-0. However, it was his first defeat of the year. First baseman Ernie Banks homered in the fifth for the Cubs only run.

Gordon Coleman powdered a grand slam home run and Vada Pinson belted a three run blast as the Reds handed wireless St. Louis its third straight setback. Cincinnati's John Tsitouris went all the way, giving up only five hits. His counterpart, ex-Red Bob Purkey, found rough sledding in his first appearance as a Cardinal. The veteran righty was clubbed for eight hits and nine runs, hit three batters and committed a balk before exiting.

Celtics Win By One Point BOSTON (UPI) — Consider, if you will, another entry for the "only sure things in life." Make it death, taxes and the Boston Celtics to win when big money is at stake.

The Celtics, who on Sunday will launch a bid for an unprecedented seventh straight National Basketball Association championship, beat the tax deadline by an hour and Philadelphia by a point, 110-109, Thursday night.

The Boston victory, which came in the seventh and final game of their Eastern title playoff with the rugged 76ers, gave Coach Red Auerbach's team its ninth successive Eastern playoff championship, in the words of the club's publicity department, "ninth straight pennant."

It meant that a Wilt Chamberlain-paced drive that began when the 76ers upset Cincinnati had extended the Celtics to a seventh game which was settled by a single point.

Gridder Sues TV Station

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Pete Gogolak, kicking ace of the champion Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, has filed a $300,000 lawsuit for defamation of character and libel against WOR-TV, New York City, and sportscaster Clure Mosher.

Gogolak's attorney, Herald P. Fahringer Jr., of Buffalo, disclosed Thursday the action was initiated Wednesday in Supreme Court of Erie County because Gogolak resides in nearby Snyder. Other defendants named were the station's parent corporation, RKO General Inc., and a Marty Handler, whose address is unknown.

The complaint accused WOR-TV of defaming Gogolak and asked $100,000 in damages. The suit also charged violation of a section of the state civil rights law which provides that if a person or company uses the name of another person or picture for commercial purposes without consent, they are liable.

Yancey Takes Houston Lead
HOUSTON (UPI) — Bert Yancey, who said his approaches were sloppy but his putting was sharpened by some brotherly advice, took a one-stroke lead today into the second round of the Houston golf Classic.
Yancey fired a six-under-par 65 Thursday to lead the 142-man field in the first round of the $55,000 added Classic over the Sharpstown Country Club course. The Classic is the first big tournament on the summer pro tour and although golf's three biggest current names were missing, the competition attracted many among pro-golf's top earners.
Tournament favorites Billy Casper and Doug Sanders were one over par at 72 in Thursday's opening round. Defending

LBJ Called a 'Philanthropy'

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International

President Johnson's projected Great Society is emerging in legislative proposals which just about add up to a massive philanthropy at the expense of the U.S. Treasury.

LBJ himself is a philanthropy, a word best defined as benevolent, humanitarian? What Johnson is shooting for is a re-weaving of our social, economic, cultural, educational and political fabric. A costly job. The aim of course is a better place in which to be born, go to school, live, work, retire and finally die. Johnson's Great Society picks up where the previous Democratic deads and frontiers left off. The program is enormous like Johnson's Texas.

The lure of the program is like the lure of free lunch. Except there is no such thing as free lunch. Someone must pick up the tab for the knockwurst and pumpernickel, cheese and crackers set-up at the end of the bar. The charge for free lunch is hidden, concealed in the cost of a schooner of beer or a slug of rye. No money changes hands when the free loader dips into the free lunch. And so it is with LBJ's Great Society. No notes are signed and no collateral is posted when the Prairie View Board of Education accepts a wad of federal school aid money from the U.S. Treasury. Ditto for other aid projects as the massive philanthropy spreads over the land charming and beguiling the citizens into belief that they never had it so good and shortly will have it better.

limit was fixed at $285 billion in June, 1959, but government has been unable to live within income. Government is compelled to borrow from the citizens large sums with which to lay out the phony free lunch of federal aid now available to those same citizens. The temporary debt limit now is $324 billion until next June 30. It will have to be extended beyond that date and perhaps increased.

though he shrank in 1963 from the spending heights at which John F. Kennedy was aiming. For example: the public debt at the beginning of April last year was a fat $309.5 billion. The debt today is just under $318 billion.

Johnson has had to borrow more than $8 billion in the past 12 months to pay government costs despite federal revenue amounting close to $90 billion. The big-time spenders have been running the show in Washington ever since Franklin D. Roosevelt took over in 1933 with a cheery promise to reduce federal spending by 25 per cent. FDR junked that promise in a hurry when he got up against the Depression and decided to spend his way out of it.

The public debt was about $20 billion when Roosevelt took over in 1933. He managed to double it by 1939 before the United States became involved in war costs. But compared to those who came afterward—LBJ for example — FDR was a piker, a miser of the public funds.

FIRST TYPHOON

MANILA (UPI) — Typhoon Wanda, the first Pacific typhoon this season, swirled Wednesday about 930 miles east of the Philippines. The typhoon is heading for the islands but it will take two days to reach them, the Manila weather bureau said.

The typhoon's winds were blowing at 75 miles per hour. Mid-April is usually the start of the typhoon season in this area.

NEW YORK — More impressive first quarter earnings gains are reported by leading corporations. Handsome increases were reported by Westinghouse Electric, Studebaker, United Aircraft, Johnson & Johnson and Pittsburgh Steel.

NEW YORK—The Rich Norfolk & Western Railroad, which is to be relinquished by the Pennsylvania when the Pennsylvania merges with the New York Central, is considering taking the hungry Erie Lackawanna under its wing. Chairman William White of the Erie disclosed this, saying a merger study will be made. Previously White had insisted the Erie Lackawanna be included in the Central-Pennsy merger. Meanwhile, Sen. Jacob Javits of New York again has demanded that the merged Central-Pennsy be forced to take over the New Haven's commuter service.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. Inc. says that barring a severe international, monetary or labor shock, new highs in the popular industrial indicators seem quite likely over the near term.
