Pampan Reports $258 Stolen

Pampa police were investigating the reported theft of $258 in cash from a Pampa residence Friday night. The theft was reported by David Cason, 415 W. 17th. Cason related to officers that late Friday night he had met two boys in their early twenties. He said one of the boys stated he did not have a place to stay Friday and Cason said he invited him to spend the night at his house. Cason told police that when he awoke Saturday morning some $258 in cash from his billfold and a money sack were gone, along with the youth. Police were furnished the name of the youth and a description. A warrant for his arrest was issued Saturday morning and late Saturday he was still at large.

$51,000 Suit Filed Against Insurance Firm

A $51,000 compensation suit was lodged against the U.S. Fire Insurance Co. Saturday in Pampa's 31st District Court. The action was filed by Mrs. Elma H. Vanderburg of Pampa. (Continued From Page 1) U. S. forces, divides the rival Dominican factions. There are only token numbers of Honduran, Salvadorean, and Nicaraguan troops here for the OAS force, but Brazil is sending more than a thousand men. Washington reports said the United States was prepared to use both its military forces and a naval blockade to bar a junta attack against the main rebel stronghold. Meets With Peace-Makers Embert conferred Saturday morning with the U. N. and OAS peace-makers, Jose Antonio Mayobre and Jose Mora. After the talks, a junta aide, Francisco Cardona, said the junta had found no reasons to extend the ceasefire beyond the 24-hour limit agreed to Friday for humanitarian reasons. The ceasefire was intended to permit the dead and wounded from six days of intensive street fighting to be collected, but U. N. officials also hoped it would be the beginning of a permanent truce. Fighting has raged here since April 24 with the loss of hundreds of Dominican lives and the deaths of a score of American troops. Caamaño, accepting the ceasefire Friday also approved another 24-hour extension and for the first time in several days appeared conciliatory toward peace moves.

Rogers

(Continued From Page 1) lion in the Department's budget requests and $1.1 billion less than was appropriated by Congress for the current fiscal year. "I had hoped to travel home to the Panhandle during the week," Congressman Rogers said. "But the scheduling of extremely important legislative matters in committees as on the floor of the House has made it impossible for me to be away at this time." The two committees on which the Congressman serves, Interstate and Foreign Commerce and Interior and Insular Affairs, will meet. The Commerce Committee will continue its discussion of the nomination of General William McKee to be administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, succeeding Najeeb Halaby. Determining the role of community antenna television systems in relation to television broadcasting is the problem facing the Subcommittee on Communications and Power of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Before the subcommittee for consideration is legislation introduced by Congressman Oren Harris of Arkansas, chairman of the full committee. Congressman Rogers, who will preside at the hearings, said witnesses will include E. William Henry, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, and Frederick W. Ford, former FCC commissioner and now president of the National Community Television Association. "This matter is tied broadly to the question of the future of television broadcasting in the United States," Congressman Rogers said. "One of the decisions Congress must make as soon as possible concerns the relationship between broadcasting and CATV systems — systems by which TV broadcast signals are collected and then relayed by cable to homes in U.S. cities and towns." The CATV hearings will resume in June, Congressman Rogers said.

She said one of the boys looked over at her and said, "You won't tell on us will you?" Mrs. Dittmeyer said the teachers at the high school were of tremendous help in getting her accustomed to doing classwork after her 14-year absence from school. Expected to be on hand at graduation services are Mrs. Dittmeyer's young son, her husband, Robert, and a host of local relatives. Her mother, who lives in Kansas, is also to be present, along with a sister from Plainview. Asked if she was nervous about graduation, Mrs. Dittmeyer replied, "I'm more excited about it than anyone."

'Center' of Petroleum Industry In Washington Not the Far East

DENVER, Colo. (Sp)—Political considerations — not just the existence of oil or the ability to find and develop it — are becoming the controlling factors over the future course of the oil industry generally and the producing segment of the industry in particular, IPAA President H. A. True Jr., said in his report during the Association's midyear meeting here. "Whether we like it or not, this puts the center of gravity of the petroleum industry, not in the Middle East, but in Washington, D. C.," True said. He told the oilmen from almost every oil producing state attending the second general session of the meeting that there are many factors which will influence the future course of domestic petroleum exploration, development and production. Some of these, True said, are economic. Some involve the course and success of industry technology and others are political in the sense that they involve public policy considerations of government.

All of these considerations, as they affect our industry, can be evaluated only in terms of one overriding consideration: The tremendous challenge of finding and developing the 90 billion barrels of new petroleum liquids and the 500-plus trillion cubic feet of natural gas which will be needed to meet growing domestic fuel requirements, and maintain an adequate reserve position, in the next 15 years," True said. True told the members he thought it more important that, in attempting to solve industry problems, members have an understanding of where they are, where they have been and what their present capabilities are to take on the job ahead of the domestic petroleum industry. He said the Interior Department's analysis entitled "An appraisal of the Petroleum Industry of the United States," released in January, confirm two very obvious conclusions: Even a modest growth in demand, on the order of 2 1/2 to 3 percent a year, means a tremendous increase in petroleum requirements in the years ahead. But in face of these increasing requirements, exploratory activity and additions to domestic petroleum reserves since the mid-1950's have been seriously inadequate.

The Interior analysis provided a very careful and comprehensive factual basis for sound national petroleum policies. It documented fully the adequacy of our potential resources of oil and gas, and recognized and endorsed the need to develop these resources in keeping with growing national requirements. And it set out a blueprint for expansion of the domestic industry," True said. In looking ahead at the challenges to the domestic industry, True said there were many "pluses which each of us recognizes." He pointed out the adequate petroleum resource base as one. As a result of this base being found in more remote places and in deeper horizons, the domestic producer has innovated abilities for more sophisticated exploratory, development, producing and recovery techniques.

The industry has its minuses too, True pointed out. "There have been obvious and prolonged deficiencies and weaknesses in the economic processes of the industry, he said, as well as uncertainties in basic policies arrived at, (or not arrived at) through political processes. "We need only to look at the record book since the mid-1950's to recognize that the producing segment of this industry has not been generating the capital required to carry forward exploration-drilling programs in keeping with the nation's expanding requirements," True said. To say the solution of the industry's problems involved in its relationships with government would resolve the economic ills and automatically put it on a full-steam ahead course would be foolhardy, True pointed out.

"It is equally unrealistic, as some have, to place full responsibility for our economic ills on domestic overcapacity and over-drilling, and simply dismiss excessive import levels, unrealistic and unworkable natural gas regulation, and other such issues, as contributors to the chronic shakiness in our domestic oil economy," the IPAA president said. Economic influence on the domestic industry of government policies which determine import levels, wellhead gas prices, tax treatment of depleting resources, and multiple use of public lands, is considerable and can't help but have an effect — good or bad — on the level of industry activities, he said.

Higher Power Can Give Eternal Youth to All Ages

By PERCY M. HANSEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Today let us consider the final general broad facet of our campaign to retain or regain acceptability in the home, in society and in industry. Obviously, there are many details still to be discussed, one of the most important being a recognition of a power greater than our own. There is abundant evidence that man, even in prehistoric times, was conscious of this power. He realized that he was powerless to alter the course of the sun, the moon and the stars, and his strongest devices were powerless against the earthquake, the avalanche, the hurricane, the lightning, the blizzard, the flood and the raging sea. He feared the elements, wild animals and other human beings, and, above all else, the mystery of death.

Because of this consciousness and this fear, he made gods of many types. Some peoples worshipped one god as the creator and controller of the universe while others had many gods. There is no record of any clan, tribe or nation, however, which had no god or gods.

Throughout all history, this belief in a power greater than his own has inspired man to great deeds: in combat, in the arts, in literature, in medicine and in other fields. Personally, I have witnessed the tremendous source of this faith in the all-powerful in several lands and among the peoples of several races.

My first such experience came, when as a very young man, I lived among the Sioux Indians several miles from the nearest white neighbor and more than 40 miles from the nearest railroad point. In our camp there was a minor chief who, it was reported, had participated in the Custer massacre. Often this Indian, dressed in his splendid headdress of eagle feathers and his fringed buckskin shirt and leggings and beaded moccasins would walk through our yard on his way to a nearby hill. Reaching the top of the hill, he would look toward the setting sun and raise his hands high over his head. We could hear his sing-song chant—sometimes almost a wail and again swelling into what seemed to be a song of triumph. He would remain stationary until the last vestige of the sun had disappeared and then he would lower his arms, turn sharply and stalk back through our yard, a striking figure of a man, over six feet tall, straight as an arrow and walking as if he possessed the world. He never spoke to us when he returned from his prayers. We never dared detain him, despite the fact that at other times he was very friendly and loved to stop and visit. Numbered among my friends in India were highly educated members of the Jain sect of the Hindu religion. Also, during my service with the Chinese army, I became acquainted with several Chinese officers who followed the teachings of Confucius or Buddha. All of these people received great strength and inspiration from their beliefs. Regardless of one's creed, almost everyone believes in a power greater than his own.

In your efforts to retain or regain your youthful spirit, your zest for living, your keen interest in the world about you, and your vital place in the home, in the community and, possibly, in business or industry, why not call upon this power? It could be a prayer as simple as: "God help me this day to make a real contribution to the welfare and happiness of those with whom I will come in contact."

And there is no immediate plan to build any more nuclear powered merchantmen.

The industry and agriculture of the Texas Panhandle are building one of the best working relationships to be found in the state. With the coming of irrigated agriculture to the Panhandle area has also come the need for commercial fertilizers, both wet and dry. The oil industry has moved into this vacuum, building the fertilizer plants, to supply the ever-growing needs of irrigated agriculture. The Phillips Petroleum Company, at the Cactus Plant north of Dumas, is turning out ammonium nitrate and anhydrous ammonia at the rate of 361,000 short tons annually at the present time. The entire company's production in 1964 was 900,000 short tons. The nearness of irrigated agriculture makes the location of the plant an ideal one. A plentiful supply of underground water is a boon to municipal industrial and agriculture growth. One of the large users of water is agriculture. About 7,600,000 acre-feet of ground water was produced in Texas in 1955. It has been reliable estimated that it takes 1,357 tons of water to produce 200 pounds of cotton lint. It is also estimated that it takes over 1,300 tons of water to produce 5 tons of oranges. Crops, however, are not the only big users of water. It takes an acre-foot of water to produce 200 pounds of beef. Industries are also big users of water. A study of more than 1,500 industrial plants over a ten year period revealed that industries showing the greater increases in employment also showed the greater increases in water use. The Dow Chemical Company gives an example of how important water is to industry. It located a multimillion dollar industry at Freeport, when, after a year-long search, they found the site which met all eight of their designated requirements. Three of these were (1) Access to water transportation, (2) favorable patterns for water intake and outlet and (3) fresh water supplies. We have one industry that is almost entirely dependent on water - that of hydro-electric power generation. It does not consume water in the production of power, but it does require the flow of large quantities of water. This water is again available for use further down the stream. This cannot be said for a large number of industries as the water used by these is polluted after using. Each year, industries that either do not filter the water they use, pollute large quantities of water. The presence of nuisance organisms in wells can make the water unsafe for human use. In some cases, these organisms can cause hepatitis or typhoid contamination, as happened in a well located west of Seminole, Texas in 1960. Along with this is the careless use of irrigation water that gets away from the farm where the well is located and runs down the road ditches. With a growing population, urbanization, industrialization and an expanding demand from the farmer, the need for more water is rising.

Gray County Agent
Although we are reasonably sure most of the white heads and tip end damage to some of our wheat is freeze damage, we have called on Bill Grisham, District Agent, to arrange for an Agronomy Specialist to take a look at a few of the wheat fields in the County. I believe it was in 1952 we had a similar late freeze that damaged the wheat. Very few fields have over 20 to 25 percent damage. I have looked at one that I thought was severely damaged. This is one of those hazards in farming. Nothing can be done about it so I guess we shouldn't worry about it. Several people are planning to do both pre-emergent and post-emergent spray work. Jim Hopkins, John Haggard, and several others hope to spray both cotton and milo. I am trying to arrange to get a specialist with one of the chemical companies to assist us with some demonstrations. If there are others, please let me know and we will try to schedule you as well. Several farmers have come by the office to sign the statements that they have treated the bindweed in their fields in order to get the State Highway Department to treat the highway right-of-way. We urge you to do this if you have treated the bindweed in your field. Users of 2, 4-D should be careful in applying this chemical if you have a neighbor that has a cotton patch near by. Most farmers now have their cotton up. It is at a most susceptible stage for injury by 2, 4-D. Take these steps and you will have a real safe margin when using this chemical. (1) Use the "Amine" type of 2, 4-D. It does not make a gas as does other low volatant esters. (2) Spray

Leslie Darsey, Drew Work and Bill Crisp are springing bermudagrass on their places north of Alanreed. The sprigs are being gotten from Word's stockfarm. Anyone needing bermudagrass sprigs should contact Drew. An erosion control dam was staked for Ercy Cubine west of McLean. This dam will help to protect cropland and control a large gully that is eating back into several farms. Farmers and ranchers are seeding about 2500 acres of range and pastures grasses this spring. Some of those seeding grass are O. R. Blankenship, Ercy Cubine, Skeet Wagner, Kenneth Elsheimer, John Haynes, Robert & Artie Sailor, Mrs. James Noel, Harry Youngblood, Willie Harris, Lester Bailey and several others. John Quirk who farms north of Groom is in the process of sowing 160 acres to sorghum for a dead litter cover. John will sow blue grama and sideoats grama in this dead litter cover next spring. It is very important that weeds be controlled on newly sowed grass. The best way to control these weeds is by spraying with 2, 4-D. Leroy Williams has shaped a three acre gully and a three acre waterway on his farm south of McLean. He has seeded the waterway and gully to switchgrass. Lawton Hoffer who farms north of Laketon has staked one field for leveling. He plans to border this field and establish it to alfalfa.

Smart Time-Use
Can Aid Farmer

Smart time usage by a farm manager can be compared to adding wheel weights to a tractor, according to an Extension Service farm management specialist at Lubbock. Both practices result in less "wheel spin", he says. The specialist, John Seibert, says increased size of farm and ranch operations coupled with larger machinery, technological advances and the cost-price squeeze add to the importance of a farm manager's time. Seibert offers these three cases showing good time usage: Two hours spent at an educational meeting on taxes saved a Floyd County farmer $700. A Moore County farmer will hire an additional man this year. He took time to keep better records last year, and the records show he should spend time on a tractor. A Lubbock County man took a half-day off from field work to figure the best way to use his land and limited irrigation water. His planning should help him net $9,000 more this year. "These three men are putting a lot of weight in their management by better use of their time," Seibert said. "Every farmer can't make time pay as well," he said. "But all of us can figure dozens of small ways to better use our time, do a better job and, ultimately, get ahead faster."

Water for Livestock

The need for an adequate supply of wholesome drinking water for livestock cannot be over emphasized. Many animals, say Extension specialists at Texas A&M University, do not perform as well as they should because of a poor supply of water. Stagnant, muddy water is not only a poor source but may be responsible for disease and infection. Feed consumption is directly related to water consumption. Feed consumption will drop if water supply is low. "Born in the purple," meaning royal birth, is derived from the fact that the room in the Roman imperial palace where the empress was confined was lined with purple imperial porphyry.

Grub Control Boosts Calf Weight

A livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service here says grub control in beef cow herds can sometimes increase calf weaning weights as much as 40 pounds. The Specialist, Dr. Dixon Hubbard, says grub control costs as little as 12 cents per cow and few management practices will pay such good dividends. According to Hubbard, heavy infestations of grubs can reduce a beef cow's milk production as much as 2.5 pounds per day. Multiply this times a 205-day suckling period and it means a loss of more than 500 pounds of milk. Experiment Station research indicates 500 pounds of milk can make a difference of 40 pounds in a 205-day weaning weight of a calf, the livestock specialist said. Hubbard's co-worker, Entomologist Don Rummel says cost of control varies with the method of systemic treatment. Using recommended dosages and procedures, the grub control costs per head are about 22-cents for spray, 50-cents for pour-on, and 12-cents for dipping, he said. Grubs can also be controlled through feed that contains a systemic. Stockmen should consult their feed dealer for information on this method. Treatment should be made after the end of the heel fly season. In the High Plains area that is about June 15. The specialists say all methods are effective in controlling grubs and stockmen should use the one that gives the best combination of costs and convenience. They do warn that stockmen should not treat for grubs and drench on the same day. Information on controlling grubs with systemics is available in the Extension Service publication, Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry (MP-691), available at your county agent's office.

Kids and Chemicals
Deadly Pair

Kids and household chemicals are a deadly combination. Most parents realize this, but even so, many youngsters under five years old are accidentally poisoned every year. It can happen to your own children if you're careless about handling household pesticides and underestimate your toddler's ability to seek out trouble, according to County Agent Foster Whaley. Those sprays and dusts you bring home to take flies, ants, roaches and other pests out of circulation can also be a kiddie trap. You can protect your children, and the rest of your family too, by chaining to your memory these four keys to pesticide safety - label, use, storage, and disposal. Read the label on the chemical container carefully each time before using. The label gives specific instructions for proper use and important information for your safety. Keep children out of spray and dusting areas to prevent inhalation of toxic fumes or mists. In using the chemical follow special instructions to the letter. Store chemicals in their own labeled containers where they belong, and never in or near food containers. Keep them out of the reach of children and pets, and under lock after use. Get rid of empty containers right away. Destroy and bury them where they cannot contaminate food, people, animals or water supplies.

By JEFF COHANE

THE DEPARTMENT regrets that it cannot bring you the report of the Pampa High Future game played last Friday, but I must admit I know it was being played.

It was not the result of laziness or failure to be alert, but the failure of either the basketball coach or the athletic director to let us know when the game was scheduled.

I discussed the game with coach Terry Culley some days ago, and he asked that it not be given as much publicity as usual, that he felt that the News would be glad to honor this idea, that the principal reason it had been publicized was due to its being broadcast over the radio.

However, although the News was not even informed of when the game was being played (and coach Culley and this reporter discussed several other matters over the telephone the morning of the game, surely he could have informed me of the date), it was sold and broadcast on a local radio station! WE overpublicize it? Anyway, according to one of the players who visited me that evening, the Exes beat the Futures by some six points.

OF COURSE, I really should not blame the athletic director for not informing me of the game, he usually isn't informed of anything himself before it happens! (At least this is what he told me following the hiring and firing of several coaches this year that the News learned of from other sources.) I always figured an athletic director was in charge of all sports at his school, knew what was going on in all of them, and was responsible for informing the news media. Guess I was mistaken. Anyway, he makes out a good schedule!

LIFE MAGAZINE, possibly the most widely-read picture periodical in the nation, featured a two-page spread on Randy Matson in the latest issue. One of the pictures was taken of Randy when in high school, and if you look carefully at the picture, you can see coach Norman Phillips in the background taking motion pictures. This is the same picture that I wrote about at a different angle, it was at a meet in Lubbock, the day Randy broke the high school record.

Only trouble with the Life spread, just as with almost all the Matson stories that have come out in periodicals lately, is as always, there are some mistakes. According to the story, which credits Randy's ability to a weight program and to eating protein pills regularly (is this all?), he was 212 pounds and could throw the shot 38 feet when he entered Texas A&M.

Tribe on Upswing; Angels Nip Sox, 1-0

By FRED DOWN, UPI Sports Writer.

They say the outfield grass in Cleveland Stadium is cut extra-short so Vic Davalillo can be seen above it but the little center fielder stands a mile high as far as the Indians are concerned.

For the fact is that the 5-foot-7-inch, 150-pound native of Caimas, Venezuela, ranks as the American League's All-Star center-fielder on the basis of his defensive skill, base-running and—surprise, surprise—a .364 batting average that is second in the league only to the .365 of Willie Horton of the Detroit Tigers.

Davalillo's known primarily as a leg or slap hitter but he demonstrated Friday night that he also can hit the longball when he drove in six runs with a homer, double and single to lead the Indians to an 11-6 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. The victory stretched the Indians' winning streak to five games and moved them to within 4 1/2 games of the first-place Chicago White Sox who lost a 1-0 decision to the Los Angeles Angels.

Twins Down A's

The Minnesota Twins downed the Kansas City Athletics, 6-4, the Washington Senators nipped the New York Yankees, 5-4, and the Baltimore Orioles topped the Detroit Tigers, 5-2, in other AL games.

In the National League, Chicago nipped Los Angeles, 4-3, Cincinnati edged out Philadelphia, 6-5, Pittsburgh whipped Milwaukee, 6-1, St. Louis nicked New York, 5-4, and San Francisco routed Houston, 8-1. Davalillo's rampage was part of a 13-hit Cleveland attack, which also included a two-run homer by Rocky Colavito and three hits by Max Alvis. Davalillo's six runs batted in were a high for a single game in the majors this season. Tony Conigliaro and Ed Bressoud homered for the Red Sox.

Bobby Knapp singled home Lou Clinton from second base in the eighth inning as the Angels shaded the White Sox behind the combined eight-hit pitching of Fred Newman and Bob Lee. It was Newman's fifth victory against one loss while Tommy John, who had a no-hitter for six innings, suffered his

Sunday Passing Show

By PEGGY JO ORMON

NOW THAT the club year has been completed, things socially virtually are at a standstill until school is out and folk begin to scatter for summer excursions. Guess one shouldn't really say "standstill" if they happen to be one of those parents frantically rushing to close out school activities, piano recitals, dance recitals and the like. Parents and grandparents attended the program at Stephen F. Austin Elementary School last week, presented by first grade students under the direction of Mrs. Vernon (Helen) Eck, Mrs. Henry (Margaret) Ayres and Mrs. Teresa Humphries, first grade teachers. Costuming for the play, "A Visit to Fairy Land," was something to behold and the actors performed like veterans. Karen Upshaw, daughter of Rev. T. O. and Georgia Upshaw, playing the role of "Chicken Licken," stole the show as she hopped around the stage. Heard of several fathers, who missed the morning show, who arrived at school at 1:30 p.m., when the play was presented a second time for next fall's first graders and their mothers. Two of the fathers were Dr. Royce Laycock and Malcolm Douglass, whose wives had phoned to tell them they had missed the stage production of the year. Other first graders with leading roles were Carl Tarpley, daughter of the Glen Tarpleys; Stephen Knox, son of the Ted Knox; Richard Lane, son of the Don Lanes; Patti Anderson, daughter of the Harold Andersons; Michael Kesell, son of the D. D. Kessels; Michelle Courtney, daughter of the Glen Courtneys; Lisa Reid, daughter of the Joe Reids; Tami Douhit, daughter of the Doll Douhiths; Margaret Thompson, daughter of the James Thompsons, and Stacy Douglass, daughter of the Malcolm Douglass. Mrs. J. E. Gunn, Austin music teacher, provided piano accompaniment for the production.

PAMPANS who heed the President's call to remain in America this year to check the dollar drain may visit a foreign country vicariously by entertaining one of the foreign students in their home during the AFS stop in Pampa June 26 and 27. Mrs. J. B. (Kitty) Veale is in charge of placing the students, so call MO 5-5712 if you want the joy of this experience. . . . Curt and Will Beck and children, Curt Jr., Kiki and Paul, are off for a European vacation. Wonder if the Becks will visit Holland, Mrs. Beck's native country. . . . Coy Dan and Phyllis Mitchell have returned from Houston where he attended a short course representing Cabot. . . . Paul and Margaret Murphy and children, Paul B., Kathleen and Patricia Ann, will fly to Puerto Rico next week for a three-week vacation and a visit with Mrs. Murphy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Levertz. . . . Saw newly-weds Bill and Sue Atkinson dining at the Coronado Inn last Sunday. Mrs. Atkinson's blonde beauty was set off by a pink two-piece costume. . . . Mrs. Bob (Alma) McCoy wore a striking outfit last Sunday. It was gold from head to toe. . . . Mrs. R. M. (Harriet) Hampton wore a yellow knit suit which was particularly lovely with her dark hair.

KNOW A FEW area men who would like to be as abundantly blessed as seven-month old Scottie Bennett. The young lad, son of Roland and Connie Bennett, already has had 18 haircuts. . . . Ray and Retha Jordan have purchased the Oren James home at 1907 Evergreen, and with daughters, Karen and Teresa, will be moving in as soon as the decorators have finished. . . . Bill and Grace Gething are excited and busy getting their new home ready for occupancy. The Gethings purchased the Will Wilks home at 1717 Mary Ellen, and the house is now being redecorated. The Gethings and sons, Mark and Grant, will take occupancy when the work is completed. . . . While driving around town, residents should go by the home of Mrs. Azelle Laftus and Mrs. Mae Boone at 1615 N. Russell and see the beautiful bank of roses in all colors on the south brick wall of their home. . . . And don't miss the attractive Rose Acacia or Sweet Pea Tree now blooming on the south side of Grant and Flossie Anderson's home at 2101 N. Banks. . . . Many beautiful yards are to be found on a drive around town, and everyone should be proud to help keep Pampa a pretty city by cooperating in the "Litterbug Campaign."

ART WORKS done by students of Dord Fitz from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas have been selected for exhibition in the National Arts Club Gallery which opens May 30 in New York City. The paintings will hang in the gallery for two weeks. Pampans having their work displayed will be Bonnie and Bill Chambliss, Mary and Homer D. Johnson, Mrs. Joe (Anne Lee) Gordon, Miss Ruth Huff, Mrs. Bill (Barbara) Trelloggen, George Cree Jr., Dr. Will Graham, Al Knox, Mrs. John (Justine) Sweeney and Weldon Shirley. George and Fannie Cree, Barbara Trelloggen and Bonnie Chambliss, will leave May 28 from Amarillo and fly to New York to be on hand for the gallery opening. . . . J. W. and Beth Edminister and Eileen and W. T. Wilborn attended the area American Institute of Chemical Engineers Ball in Borer a week ago last night. . . . Dr. Weldon and Marge Adair were guests at the CPA banquet last Saturday night in Amarillo. The Adairs visited with Jan and Price Dosier Jr., former Pampans, at the banquet and were houseguests of the Dosiers following the affair.

THOUGH MOTHERS' Day has passed, want to pass along this bit of news. One of the nicest Mothers' Day presents was the one presented to Mrs. Paul (Rae) Lefebvre by daughter, Paulette, Pampa High School junior. The gift was a book of poems, authored by Paulette, with an inscription on the cover page reading "Dedicated to My Loving Mother on Mothers' Day, 1965". Chamber of Commerce office members surprised Mrs. W. M. (Marguerite) McLeod with a birthday party Friday morning. Mrs. McLeod was presented a blue French purse trimmed in gold by her co-workers and Mrs. R. A. (Georgia) Mack baked the birthday cake. Helping Mrs. McLeod celebrate the occasion were E. O. and Doris Wedgeworth, Mrs. June Sweetland, Mrs. Jimmie Williams and Tonia, Miss Mary Ann Mack and Mrs. Weldon (Lois) Steward. . . . Mentioned Jane and Wiley Reynolds' new country home last week and since have had an opportunity to pay a visit there. The house is beautiful with unique decorations and furniture. Visitors enter the home through large hand-carved Sixteenth Century Mission doors, made in Santa Fe, N.M., and step into the entrance gallery which has brick floors and willow paneled walls with colorful Spanish accent rugs scattered about. Spindal doors, also made in Santa Fe, lead into the living and dining rooms. Mrs. Reynolds has the walls of the living room, the drapes and two couches covered in the same deep red cloth which has a Spanish motif. Carpeting in the new putty shade, bright Spanish accent rugs and a number of antique pieces of furniture refinished by Mrs. Reynolds, add much to the decor. One bedroom and bath, termed as the grandchildren's room, is done in antique furniture. One has to see the home to really appreciate its beauty and uniqueness.

Pampans' Grandson Marries in Denton

Miss Betty Alyce Brice daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Brice of Denton, became the bride of Michael Dennis Moon, son of John D. Moon of Galveston and Mrs. Jo Emerson of Albuquerque, N. M., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Thompson of 525 S. Barnes, May 1 at 8 p.m. in First Christian Church of Denton.

Rev. E. M. Wheatley officiated the double-ring ceremony at which traditional wedding selections were provided by Miss Virginia Knox at the organ and Miss Elaine Cormay presented vocal selections.

Decorations for the church featured matching baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums on either side of the altar area, backed by a basket arrangement of the same flowers, and flanked by palm trees of chamaedorea.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of petal pink silk fashioned with bateau neckline, cap sleeves and sheath skirt. She wore a matching lace coat. Her brief veil of silk illusion fell from a pink pill box hat. She wore a diamond drop, wedding gift of the bridegroom, and carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations centered with a large white cattleya orchid.

The bridegroom was graduated from Albuquerque High School and attended West Texas State University. He is a junior student at NTU where he is a member of Sigma Nu, national social fraternity. Once a carrier boy for the Pampa Daily News, he is presently on the news staff of the Denton Record-Chronicle.

Mr. and Mrs. Brice were hosts for a reception in their home following the ceremony.

For traveling the bride chose a pink linen dress topped by a full-length magenta linen coat. Her hat was pink with magenta trim and her shoes and bag were also pink. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Sulphur Springs High School, attended East Texas State University and is now a junior student at North Texas State University, where she is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha national social sorority. She is also on the staff of Campus Chat, student publication of NTSU.

The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Texas at Austin and is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

New Polaroid Color Pack Camera. One-half the Price!

Polaroid has just introduced an economy model of the famous Color Pack Camera. It's called the Model 104.

Same great film. Same fast loading. Same electric eye. Same big color prints in 60 seconds (black and whites in just 10). Yet Polaroid has figured out a way to bring it to you for only about half the price of the original model.

When you invent something that's this much fun, you've just got to find a way to put it in the hands of a lot of people. Come on in. We love to show it off.

HANDS SNAP BACK

Take heart, homemakers. Our hands have great snapback power. A chemist for a hand cream firm says hands respond rapidly to proper care. If you have allowed your hands to become seriously chapped or damaged by harsh detergent, you need to give them TLC (tender loving care). In the morning soak your hands for a few minutes in a solution of lukewarm water with a few drops of baby oil, bathe oil or live oil added. Sallad oil works, too. Pat dry. Always wash hands with lukewarm, not hot water, and smooth on a cream or lotion every time your hands have been in water.

Mrs. Kermit Lawson Installs Officers at Tuesday Meeting of Civic Culture Club

The Civic Culture Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Irvin Cole for installation of officers and the last regular meeting of the 1964-1965 club year. The meeting was opened with the Club Collect, led by Mrs. Emmett Osborne, president.

The Wheels of Service Promote Americanism has been the club theme this year and the wheels will continue to roll because of the endeavors of the club, yet we are ready to take a new theme, Diamonds of Service. A diamond's value is based upon its purity—meaning no flaws, its color, and its cut. Each of you were elected because there were no flaws in your devotion to this club. Your color is the blending of those hues of responsibility, leadership, and vision. Just as the colors of the prism refract to give the diamond its brilliant sparkle. The cut of a diamond enhances its value—your cut shows you have the fashion, form, and style to increase the value of the Civic Culture Club to its members, community, and Federation.

Officers installed were: Mrs. George Neef, president; Mrs. Frank Grantham, vice president; Mrs. A. D. Hills, membership chairman; Mrs. A. C. Houchin, recording secretary; Mrs. Carl Axelson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. W. Waters, treasurer; Mrs. Emmett Osborne, parliamentarian; Mrs. C. F. Pennington, reporter. Each officer was presented a white ribbon studded with miniature United States Flag.

Mrs. Lawson concluded, "Much depends upon all of you—officers and members alike—to make of the Civic Culture Club a continuing Diamond with out flaws to mar its value in the community, to the Federation, and to American Freedom. Renew your faith in this club and its objectives. Pledge your loyalty to these women who will give of their time in service."

"The Civic Culture Club has an outstanding history of achievement accomplished by the members and officers of the past—and it shall continue through the loyal and willing service of officers and members alike in the new year."

"You officers elected to guide the Civic Culture Club through the 65-'66 club year are yourselves 'Diamonds of Service.' A diamond's value is based upon its purity—meaning no flaws, its color, and its cut. Each of you were elected because there were no flaws in your devotion to this club. Your color is the blending of those hues of responsibility, leadership, and vision. Just as the colors of the prism refract to give the diamond its brilliant sparkle. The cut of a diamond enhances its value—your cut shows you have the fashion, form, and style to increase the value of the Civic Culture Club to its members, community, and Federation.

Officers installed were: Mrs. George Neef, president; Mrs. Frank Grantham, vice president; Mrs. A. D. Hills, membership chairman; Mrs. A. C. Houchin, recording secretary; Mrs. Carl Axelson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. W. Waters, treasurer; Mrs. Emmett Osborne, parliamentarian; Mrs. C. F. Pennington, reporter. Each officer was presented a white ribbon studded with miniature United States Flag.

Mrs. Lawson concluded, "Much depends upon all of you—officers and members alike—to make of the Civic Culture Club a continuing Diamond with out flaws to mar its value in the community, to the Federation, and to American Freedom. ### Dear Abby.... If Wife Gets Answers From Plants Investigate

DEAR ABBY: I don't know if I am losing my mind or if my wife has already lost hers. She talks to her plants. She claims they "understand" and respond to her, and that is what makes them grow. She has had fantastic luck with her plants. She can take the dearest looking weed and bring it to life in no time. Our house is like a regular greenhouse. She's got little tiny pots in every window, and big plants standing taller than I am. Is there anything to this "talking" to plants? If she does not stop talking to them, I am going to start talking to myself.

DEAR MUMBLES: Lots of women talk to plants. Don't worry. But if your wife starts getting answers, investigate.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have just come from the home of some friends where we spent a perfectly exasperating evening. They have young children whom they let stay in the same room with us all evening and take over the conversation. I don't like to talk to children. I have nothing in common with them and I do not care about anything they have to say. I don't know their friends or their teachers, and I don't wish to hear about them. It is boring. I don't object to parents allowing their children to meet the guests and stay a minute or two, but to allow them to sit all evening and do all the talking is ridiculous. Why do parents do this?

Mrs. Neef reminded the women the club was to entertain the Senior Center. Seventeen members and one guest attended the meeting.

BORED AND DISGUSTED
DEAR B AND D: Some parents think their children are amusing, entertaining, or a more delightful than their guests think they are. Other parents sincerely enjoy the company of their youngsters and believe their friends share their sentiments.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a crackpot on the subject of smoking. What gets me is she never complained about it before we were married. In fact, while we were going together, she even bought me a lighter for my birthday. Now she raises the roof whenever I light a cigarette. She said she wouldn't object so much if I ran around with other women. (She knows she's safe.) She isn't worried about my health because I smoke less than a pack a day. She has a few annoying little habits like cracking her knuckles and putting five teaspoons of sugar in her coffee, but I don't say anything. We've been married for 13 years. I am 38 and she's 37. How can I get my wife off my back about smoking?

DEAR SAM: Your marriage could go up in smoke long after the flame of love has quit burning. Your wife is getting even with you for something, and your smoking has provided her with a handy smoke screen. Find out the real reason.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "All Washed Up" to speak only for himself. I was employed for three years in a home for the aged in St. Petersburg, Florida, and it was part of my job to check the grounds every eve-

SUNDAY MORNING GRIST

From the Editorial Mill

NEARLY 400 Pampa young men and women are winding up their high school careers today and tomorrow. . . . Vesper services are scheduled this evening and commencement exercises for the Class of 1965 will be held tomorrow night. . . . What's next for these graduates? . . . Some plan to go to college, others to work, some of the boys will go into the armed services, some of the girls will get married. . . . There are others who are not certain just what they will do. . . . But for all of them the hour has arrived when decisions must be made. . . . And how suddenly that hour came. . . . How well are they fortified to cope with the days, the months, the years ahead? . . . No matter what they do from here on out, no matter where they go — one thing is for sure. . . . They will find that the going will be a lot rougher. . . . Much rougher than it was a generation ago. . . . The world is so much smaller. . . . Changes are coming so much faster. . . . Competition is so much greater. . . . Sound discouraging? . . . It should not, because after all it is said and done, after advantages are weighed against disadvantages, the fact remains that opportunities are so much bigger. . . . The boy or girl who is determined, who has his or her sights set on a fixed goal and remains dedicated in that respect, will have no trouble reaching the reward at the end of the educational rainbow. . . . We can be what we want to be and if we will just prepare and work for it. . . . There lies the key. . . . There is the secret. . . . Knowledge and work. . . . Hard work and a relentless will to make good and to be of service in a chosen field. . . . These are bound to bring bountiful results and a lush harvest of personal compensation and well-being. . . . So endeth our baccalaureate address and commencement message. . . . The ball has been passed to the Class of '65. . . . At the end of tomorrow night's commencement program, another fine group of young men and women will be off and running for the goal line. . . . We wish them well.

PAMPANS WILL observe with interest the activities and especially the recommendations of those 11 committees appointed

THE GUEST PEN: Design for Inequality

By MILDRED PROGAR

The laws of nature and nature's God have decreed that all men are born and that all meet the common destiny of death. In these two facts of life alone are all men equal. There the equality ends — by the design of nature herself. The divinely individual expressions of life in each man will make manifest qualities of human nature; but certainly not in equal measure, nor constantly. The variations are as great in number as there are persons in the world. Just as the apples on a tree are of the same nature but each varies in some way from all the others. The differences are an integral part of the natural order of the universe and all within it. It is immutable and cannot be changed. . . . it can only be recognized. . . . The eternal quest of each man is to identify with the universe and the laws that be. He seeks meaning and purpose in his life in relation to the universe in which he exists. He formulates knowledge and devises methods to apply the constructive action of his human nature to fulfill what he identifies as the purpose in his life. With dauntless spirit he dares to inquire into his own nature and magnificently translates his findings into experience. He is individual man. . . . the builder. . . . the creator of his own universe within the universe.

But he can only constructively build in so far as he rightly recognizes natural laws that exist. The rational man knows that neither by wish nor decree can he repeal one single existing law of nature. He learns to use them for his benefit and conducts his life in harmony with them. Problems arise when some men, in ignorance of natural law or perhaps in ultimately futile defiance of it, insist that they are the grand-seers of knowledge that is right for all men. They are the reformers who would coercively impose their standards upon every human being. Of course, they justify their actions by claiming equality of all men. They would coercively create a "common level of humanity". The natural freedom for individual evolution in life is completely ignored. But ignoring it or ignorance of it does not make it cease to exist. . . . wishing will not make it go away. Nature has already seen to that. And every man conscious of himself as an individual knows it. This is why all such attempts to "equalize" inevitably fail. The wise man will develop conditions for living that are consistent with the impersonal and natural laws of the universe. He makes them personal to himself by his recognition and application of them and lives

Cannel At Bay

You Just Add Beer and Serve NEW YORK (NEA) — Actually, we were not going to mention Emil Malick or his secret process for making reconstituted beer.

Whether Mr. Malick has solved the beer industry's storage and shelf-life problems we cannot say, having worked in the brewing business only as a consumer.

But there is certainly no disputing Mr. Malick's other claim — "Just add water and carbon dioxide to the beer concentrate and taste for yourself." We did so, and must confess that we could not tell it apart from the freshly brewed and bottled product.

In that regard, reconstituted beer is obviously a big breakthrough. But then, so is a smashed window. And you do not see many new patents for that process coming along.

Not that we have anything against getting smashed by a patented process. It is just that we can also see the possibility of reconstituted fellowship in the same glass.

So, as we said, it was hardly our intention to discuss Mr. Malick or his invention. And that would have been the end of the matter. But there seems to be a curious side-effect that comes with a breakthrough. If you can see it once, you will presently see it everywhere.

Uptil then, the closest we had ever come to anything reconstituted was an occasional glass of fruit juice and a cousin who works in a foundry where they make those cake mixes. But since our encounter with Mr. Malick, we have been wallowing around hipdeep in the phenomenon.

That very day, we came home on the bus next to an elderly lady in tennis shoes who was reading the afternoon newspaper. And from what we could see over her shoulder, the Russians appeared to be reconstituting both Marshal Georgi Zhukov and Josef Stalin.

There were also two rather blurred photos. And while we could not tell for sure which was the before and which the after, it seemed that the Germans had finally invented a process for turning Chancellor Erhard into an armored tank.

At any rate, we arrived home to find that the wife had received a sample of a new breakfast food discovery. Everything you needed was in the little silver envelope. All you had to do was add milk. In an accompanying little gold envelope, according to the label, was the milk. All you had to do was add water.

There was also a third envelope — blue. But we did not get a chance to read the label as the wife insisted on holding us to our promise of dinner out and then a movie.

The dinner was all right. Except for the dehydrated potatoes which were a little lumpy, and the instant coffee which was cold.

The truly discouraging part of the evening, however, was "e coming attractions at the movie house. June through September — a Bette Davis film festival. To be followed by three months of reconstituted Humphrey Bogart.

Well, that is just a sample it has been going on like that for days and days. And the plain fact is, we do not know how to turn it off. Or at least dilute it. Just yesterday, for example, our copy of "The Readers Digest" magazine arrived with a month's supply of the nation's aspirations condensed between its covers. Generally, we look orward to that reconstitutions. But this time, it took all course — merely to look at the table of contents — having heard on 11 separate occasions that this month's issue carried an article entitled: "New Hope For The Dead."

Shortage of Food in North Viet Nam, Southern China May Pressure Combined Red Offensive Soon on Mekong Delta

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A new and potentially crucial factor is developing in the Viet Nam conflict.

North Viet Nam is experiencing an increasing shortage of food. Most serious conditions prevail in the northwest, which adjoins southern China, where food shortage, due to drought and other causes, has existed for some time.

To cope with this grave problem, rationing has been put into effect in all larger cities, including Hanoi and Hapong, main seaport. Priority under the rationing system is in the following order: —Communist Party officials and functionaries; military forces; defense, factory and transportation workers; remainder of population.

Intelligence authorities attributed North Viet Nam's growing food difficulties to a number of reasons, foremost among them: —Crop failures due to excessive rains and ravaging floods in the agriculturally rich Red River Valley. The floods destroyed most of one rice crop, and considerably delayed planting of another.

—Lagging supplies from Red China and Burma; in the case of the former, primarily because of its own huge grain shortages.

—Intelligence has reported instances of trains carrying grain to North Viet Nam being derailed and plundered by starving Chinese. According to these sources, such shipments are now accompanied by sizable armed guards. To offset this situation Russia has stepped up its food shipments to North Viet Nam, but not enough to fill the gap.

—Greatly increased military requirements; resulting from (1) the constantly expanding army and other forces, and (2) supplying North Viet Nam troops in South Viet Nam. In the past, they have lived off the land, but now they are so numerous that's no longer feasible.

Significantly, U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam is not listed as an important factor in the food shortage. The reported extensive destruction of bridges and other transportation facilities apparently has had little or no effect on this.

GETTING READY FOR THE WORST — One intelligence analysis views the food situation in North Viet Nam as so precarious that in order to remain militarily effective, Hanoi must either get massive supplies from outside, or in the next few months gain control of part of the Mekong Delta, one of the most prolific rice-producing areas in Southeast Asia.

To do this, the intelligence study deems it highly probable that Red China will directly enter with "volunteers" in the Viet Nam struggle. To meet this sinister possibility, President Johnson has ordered the Joint Chiefs of Staff to rush completion of contingency planning for counter U. S. military measures.

This decision followed intelligence reports that there are now more than 8,000 Red Chinese troops in Laos near the northwestern border of North Viet Nam.

This is an increase of several thousand since earlier this month. As previously reported in this column, these Chinese units, dispersed in the Phong Saly area, are equipped with artillery, mortars, anti-tank and heavy machine guns.

Latest intelligence, in addition to reporting they now number more than 8,000 troops, is that several battalions (estimated 1,000 in strength) are moving to ward South Viet Nam, and that another battalion is heading toward the border of Thailand.

In the past week Thai officials have reported a marked increase in guerrilla operations in their border region, particularly the murder of local authorities — a typical Communist tactic.

Because of these and other ominous developments, the Joint Chiefs of Staff are urging the President to authorize high-level reconnaissance flights over southern China, particularly in the Nanning area. Large concentrations of military rolling stock have been spotted on the direct rail line to Hanoi.

This was disclosed in aerial photos obtained by pilotless drones — the type of reconnaissance craft used over southern China.

The Joint Chiefs are pressing for U-2 plane flights. The Chinese rolling stock included army freight vehicles and troop cars. A highway roughly paralleling the rail line also links Nanning and Hanoi, entering North Viet Nam through a mountain pass.

These rail and road approaches to North Viet Nam are highly vulnerable to air bombing. Nanning, capital of Kwangsi Chuang Province, is headquarters for an estimated 200,000 troops Peking has built up in this section in the past year. Nanning also is the center of a North Viet Nam-Soviet-Chinese staff dealing with the South Viet Nam conflict.

Thinking to please the young man, the manager of the office offered to promote the office boy to junior clerk.

Manager — And, of course, it will mean a small raise, (and waited for the outburst of thanks which didn't come). The boy thought back for a moment, and then said: Office Boy — If it's all the same to you, sir, I'd rather go on looking after the postage stamps and petty cash on my present salary. Fun is like life insurance. . . . The older you get the more it costs.

Between the Bookends

THE SOURCE OF THE GOLD PROBLEM

"If one were to select a hundred leading economists and question them about money, the chances are excellent that one would receive at least a hundred conflicting views in this area."

With this statement, Robert LeFevre introduces a new 24-page booklet entitled "Money" (published by Pine Tree Press, Box 158, Larkspur, Colorado; 25 cents). And the many conflicting solutions offered to our present gold problem bear out his statement.

However, LeFevre's own analysis of the problem goes much deeper than most. He points out that as long as governments are permitted to monopolize the ownership of gold and to regulate the flow of paper money, there are bound to be money problems. Our present dilemma results from the issuance of more gold receipts (dollars) than there is gold to back them.

The author reviews briefly the history of banking and money, calling attention to the fact that any bank that issued receipts for gold it didn't possess was constantly vulnerable. The same rule holds true for a government. The difference comes in the fact that a citizen can switch to an honest bank, but it can't avoid doing business with a dishonest government.

The booklet sets forth the three main types of money systems: commodity money, fiat money and credit. It then reviews the history of our government's handling of our money system.

LeFevre explains the coin shortage as a natural reaction of individuals who are anxious to hang onto coins containing real silver and avoid holding fiat money.

LIBERTY IN AMERICA

Because the Cold War is a conflict of ideas it is vital that every idea expressed by Americans in this struggle be precisely described, each word selected for the exact meaning it conveys.

Our enemies in the Cold War are masters at corrupting languages. "Peace" to the communists means they are winning. "Negotiate" means they need time to regroup forces and ideas. "Democracy" is a word they have so plagiarized that countries outside the Iron Curtain now tolerate mob rule rather than face a charge of being "undemocratic".

Even the word "republic" always more appropriate to America than "democracy", has been subverted to Moscow's purpose. Every subdivision of the Soviet Union and every captive nation behind the curtain of horror is a "republic". And the whole sprawling empire is named Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, terminology, contradiction of monstrous proportions.

There is one word, however, which simply won't fit the communist vocabulary. The word is "LIBERTY". It is American in origin, and a few people outside America even comprehend its true meaning. Attempting to explain the concept of liberty to some foreign peoples would be comparable to describing ice cream to a cannibal.

People around the globe are familiar with the word, "freedom". Some possess freedom in varying degrees. A few under the respective heels of Moscow and Peking even have limited freedom, for it can be extended as a reward or incentive.

But liberty is beyond the control of any government. Americans are born with it. So let us speak of liberty for Americans, and let free Americans bear testimony to liberty everlasting. H.L.H.

Reiner Denies Vehemently That He's a Genius

By JOAN CROSBY
New York (NEA) — Carl Reiner would like to call a halt to what people are saying about him.
Those who work with the writer-producer-director-performer, and those who hope to, all say Reiner is a genius. He denies it vehemently.

"Look, I'm not a genius and I am 43 years old. If you're not a genius by 24, forget it, Charlie. I'm very good now. I want to be very, very good and may-

By the time I'm 50, very, very good. By the time you hit 55 to 60, you go back down to very good again and by 75, you get to be fair."
Reiner, who produces "The Dick Van Dyke Show," also has a film called "The Art of Love," which he wrote and in which he appears, and hosts CBS television's "Celebrity Game." He says he will never give up performing, because he has a nice toupee and he doesn't like to let it just sit there in his closet.

Carl's, Dick's and Mary Tyler Moore's.
"We would have left after the third year if we thought the series was going on forever. I was going to leave in the third year and turn over the producing reins to someone else. But when we all got together and decided we wouldn't only stay on five years, I couldn't let it go."
Between television seasons, Carl is working with Joe Stein (who wrote "Fiddler on the Roof") on the movie version of "Enter Laughing," the Broadway comedy based on Carl's novel with autobiographical touches.
"I wish I could play me in the movie. That would mean I would be 18 again. No, come to think of it, I don't want to be 18 again. I'd like to be 42 again. Last year was nice."
Carl hopes that he can continue to work with good as Jolson. "I'd be better run '60 block-buster' repeats of

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:
The Shows: CBS-TV's popular hit, "Gomer Pyle," about a hill-billy Marine recruit, will be replaced for the summer starting June 25 by the annual "Vacation Playhouse," a collection of test films for series that didn't sell. "The Wild, Wild West," a new one-hour CBS-TV series for the fall, combines the currently popular secret agent approach with a western background, dealing with a government undercover man and his aide in the last century. The agent will be Robert Conrad, formerly of "Hawaiian Eye," and his sidekick is Ross Martin, who was featured in "Mr. Lucky" several years back. NBC-TV's coverage of the National Open Golf tournament in St. Louis June 19 and 20 will be broadcast in color for the first time.
Add Shows: A one-hour color special about the Dominican Republic crisis airs on NBC-TV next Friday at 7 p.m. EDT. "ABC Scope" for Wednesday examines the influence of the reconstruction era on the South

More Shows: Television's Emmy awards, which have been switched from the end to the beginning of the video season, will be presented on NBC-TV Sept. 12, a Sunday, with all three networks scheduled to start their all-out premiere week the next day. The same night as the Emmy awards, NBC-TV plans to offer the first of its annual specials of the Ringling Bros. & Barnum and Bailey Circus. # Annual Methodist Conference Opens In Lubbock

Methodist pastors and lay leaders from all over West Texas, the South Plains and the Panhandle converged on Lubbock this weekend as the 16th annual meeting of the North Central Texas Conference opens in the Hub city Monday.

It is the highlight event of the year for Methodists, and the annual conference will get underway with a communion service at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Lubbock's First Methodist Church.

Presiding over the conference is Bishop Eugene Slater, former pastor of Polk Street Methodist Church in Amarillo.

Bishop Slater returned to Texas as a year ago after serving four years in the Kansas area.

Conference preachers this year is Dr. Dow Kirkpatrick of Evanston, Illinois, a national leader in Methodism and pastor of the First Methodist Church in Evanston.

A number of important business items are coming before this year's conference, including a proposal to reduce the number of districts from nine to seven; discussion on how best to merge the negro churches and conferences in the central jurisdiction with existing Methodist conferences; and a vote on a proposed constitution for the conference's administrative structure — the Conference Council.

This conference will continue through Friday at noon. Bishop Slater will read appointments Friday morning, May 28, to close the meeting.

TEC Needs More Job Counselors

Due to anticipated expansions in youth counseling services, the Texas Employment Commission will need many new employment counselors in several areas of the state according to Russell E. Shrader, director of the Merit System Council in Austin.

Shrader said these are specialized, professional positions requiring college graduation with a major course of study in fields dealing with people.

Employment counselors are responsible for work involving the rendering of an effective counseling service by analyzing unusual applicant - employment problems and needs, assisting applicants in making a vocational choice, developing an employment plan, and assisting applicants in making job adjustments which will increase their opportunity for successful employment.

The appointments will be made from registers established through open-competitive examinations. Shrader said qualified persons, male and female, interested in the counseling opportunity should visit the nearest local office of the Texas Employment Commission or write the Merit System Council, Post Office Box 1389 in Austin for additional information. He added that the entrance salary is $453 per month and that salary advancement and promotional opportunities are excellent.

Head Start To Benefit Poor

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A teen-age girl volunteer recently reported in near-despair to the teacher in charge of a pre-school class for children of poverty.

"You told me to teach them a song," she said. "So I tried a real simple one: 'Row, row, row your boat.' But none of them knows what it means to row. And they've never seen a boat."

There will be many scenes like that this summer in the 10,000 child development centers which are being established throughout the country under "Project Headstart."

Enrolled in the centers will be more than half a million children from the poorest homes in America. The purpose of Project Headstart is to expose them to a few of the experiences which middle-class children take for granted—such as washing their hands, eating with utensils, listening to an adult read a story, or staring at a bowl of guppies—so they won't be totally bewildered when they start to school next fall.

The director of Project Headstart is Dr. Julius B. Richmond, 48, dean of the medical faculty at the State University Upstate Medical Center, Syracuse, N.Y., vice president of the Child Welfare League of America, and one of the nation's most respected pediatricians.

Years of research in child development have convinced Dr. Richmond that "poverty has its impact on the growing child from the time of conception."

"The pre-school years are critical," he told UPI in an interview. "If we're going to rescue children from the cycle of poverty, we've got to reach them before they start to school."

He said some parents manage, in spite of being poor, to send their children to school with clean clothes and high hopes. And some children are so bright they triumph over all handicaps to do well in school.

But these are exceptions. In most cases, the children of poverty reach school age with so many disadvantages they are virtually foredoomed to failure.

One of their disadvantages is "a very limited vocabulary," said Dr. Richmond. Because their parents lack verbal skills, and because adults have rarely bothered to converse with them, many poor children come into first grade knowing fewer than 100 English words. How can a child be expected to learn to read before he has even learned to talk?
