LUCKY—Six employees of Halliburton Co. are shown watching the last flicker of flame die down from the spectacular oil-field fire yesterday, 15 miles south of Lefors. The men were among a group of 10 who ran for safety when hot oil overflowed from a truck and ignited a 2,000-gallon butane tank. Damage was estimated at $250,000 as a result of the fire.

$250,000 DAMAGE — Hot oil overflowing from a truck and igniting a butane tank was blamed as the cause of an oil-field fire yesterday that caused an estimated $250,000 damage. Seven trucks, owned by Halliburton, and one clean-out unit owned by Triangle Well Service Co. were destroyed in the blaze.

Fire Damage $250,000

Proposals For Peace Rejected

By RAY RODGERS JR.

Damage has been placed in excess of $250,000 as the result of a spectacular fire Monday afternoon at a new oil well on the Darsey Ranch, 12 miles southeast of Lefors.

Six trucks, owned by Halliburton Co. of Pampa, and one clean-out unit, owned by Triangle Well Servicing Co., also of Pampa were destroyed in the fire.

Halliburton officials estimated the damage.

Ten men working in the area escaped injury when they ran from the scene on foot.

Witnesses said the fire started when hot oil overflowed from a truck and ran downhill to where a completely filled 2,000 butane tank was sitting. The resultant fire engulfed the trucks sitting near the tank. There was no explosion.

A fire truck owned by Halliburton was pressed into service to fight the blaze, but caught fire also, and was almost destroyed.

Units from the Pampa and Lefors Fire Department battled the blaze until almost 5 p.m.

Fire Chief Ernest Winborne, upon arriving at the scene, witnesses said, drove two half-ton pick-ups from the blaze.

At first, it was feared there were four men trapped in the fire, but a later count showed all to be safe.

Gordon Rutledge, foreman for Triangle, said someone would have probably been seriously injured had not the men had time to run from the fire.

The initial flash fire covered a radius of about 150 yards. Clean out operations on the well had just been completed and the crews were preparing to pour hot oil into the well.

Jets Rain Bombs On Cong; U.S. Pilot Killed

SAIGON (UPI)—U. S. Air Force jets rained 20 tons of bombs on North Viet Nam today, setting off a series of landslides which blocked two strategic highways. A U. S. Navy pilot was killed when his plane crashed during a separate raid on Communist territory.

The raids were announced as Communist China called for a nationwide campaign to make "full preparations" to send Chinese to Viet Nam "if they are needed" and if the United States continues to bomb the north. Peking rejected peace negotiations except on Communist terms.

It was the strongest threat Red China has made to send troops into Viet Nam.

Murder U.S. Civilian

In South Viet Nam, Communist guerrillas murdered an American civilian and wounded four U.S. soldiers in two separate terror attacks Monday night. At least 13 Vietnamese were reported killed in the two incidents.

(In Washington, the State department identified the American civilian as John B. Cone, of Parkdale, Ark., an assistant engineer for the Hydro-technic Corp., of New York City. The firm has a contract with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) to build a water treatment plant at Thu Doc, outside Saigon.)

Five other American soldiers were wounded in a continuing battle with Viet Cong forces near the U.S. airbase at Da Nang and Vietnamese officials said a Communist regiment of 3,000 men had taken up positions in the area for a bitter fight to the finish.

Eighty American and South Vietnamese planes roved at will over North Viet Nam today. An American military spokesman said there were three major raids in all—one by the U.S. Air Force, one by the Vietnamese air force and a third by planes of both air forces.

The biggest was a 40-plane American attack against Highway 7 and 8 in which the landslide-triggering technique was used. The tactic is designed to choke off highway traffic carrying troops and supplies to Communist guerrillas in the South.

A raid by 25 American and Vietnamese air force planes knocked out the approaches to a highway bridge near the coastal town of Dong Hoi. A four-plane Vietnamese patrol spotted one truck on Highway 1, and destroyed it with rockets.

Reliable military sources said no enemy planes were sighted today by the U.S. Air Force strike force and that all of the planes on the mission returned safely to their bases despite heavy anti-aircraft fire.

A Navy spokesman said the A14H Skyraider which crashed today was one of two Navy planes making a pre-dawn strike over Highway 101 in the southern part of North Viet Nam.

The cause of the crash was not immediately known, but the spokesman said the planes encountered "heavy ack-ack fire" in the early stages of the mission. The surviving pilot reported seeing no anti-aircraft fire at the point where the downed pilot was killed about 20 miles north of the border with South Viet Nam.

Creighton Takes Over as Texas Governor for Day

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Senate pays homage to "Governor" Tom Creighton Jr. of Mineral Wells today in a festive and frivolous return from a long Easter weekend.

But in the house, Rep. Gene Hendryx of Alpine hoped to begin floor debate this afternoon for establishing four-year terms for the governor and other Texas statewide officeholders. The proposal is expected to bring about the bloodiest floor fight of the session.

Creighton, president pro tempore of the Senate, assumed Gov. John Connally's office for traditional "Governor for a Day" ceremonies.

Connally and Lt. Gov. Preston Smith both arranged to be out of the state to clear the way for Creighton's one-day rule.

Still pending on the Senate calendar is a House-passed bill backed by Sen. Bill Patman of Ganado to set up a "Little Hoover Commission" for investigating state agencies in search of cost-cutting methods.

Patman has tried for three weeks to run with the bill, but Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo successfully headed him off with a talkathon, and then attached a pair of restrictive amendments.

The four-year term amendment finally came out of a House Committee last week 12-7 after lots of pressure and vote trading in House cloakrooms. The governor is strong for the plan.

The measure has already passed the Senate. After House approval it would go to the electorate in November for ratification.

A coalition of liberals and unaligned conservatives formed the bulk of the opposition to Hendryx's resolution. He needed 100 House votes for final approval.

Problem of 'Ty' Rests In Lap of City Manager

What to do with "Ty," Pampa's police dog, was one of the knotty problems before the city commission at its first regular meeting today.

City Manager Jim White stated that the police department now was faced with the situation of having to train the dog for a third master or give him away.

The dog originally was trained two years ago with C. L. Wallace who resigned. "Ty" then was retrained for Patrolman C. G. Maddox who resigned several days ago. This again left the dog without a master.

The city manager said he had been informed the dog would be losing his usefulness under training for a third master.

Police Chief Jim Conner recommended that the dog not be used any longer.

"It has reached the point where he is too friendly to be of any use as a police dog," Conner said.

The commission, after discussion, agreed to let the decision rest with the city manager.

The commission set May 11 for the letting of bids on seal-coating of nearly 14 miles of streets. The city has a policy where all asphalt streets are re-sealed every five years.

First reading was given to an ordinance amending the city zoning ordinance calling for semi-commercial zoning of Lots 8 through 12 on N. Hobart St. in the North Addition. The site will be used for a funeral home.

May 4 was set as the date for receiving bids on Pampa's new sewage and sanitation plant and renovation of the old plant.

R. M. Samples, George Scott and James Dalley were reappointed to the city board of equalization for tax purposes.

The commission voted to reinvest $500,000 remaining in the sewer improvement bond fund in U. S. Treasury Bills.

Commissioners agreed to hold off until next week final action on the re-leasing of a section of land on the old airport property south of the city. City Atty. Bob Gordon in the meantime will discuss terms of a contract sought by drag racers for use of a strip of the land.

A five-year lease held by a farmer expires this year. The commission next week is expected to authorize advertising for bids for another five-year lease.

About 250 acres of excess property at the site of the city's new sanitation plant also is expected to be approved for bid letting next week.

Volunteers Work Through Night Against Rampaging Mississippi

LA CROSSE, Wis. (UPI)—The siege of the Mississippi continued full force today against scores of communities along a 500-mile stretch of river from Minnesota to central Illinois.

Three hundred volunteers worked through the night to build up a threatened dike at La Crosse, where the record flood waters chewed through two dikes Monday.

Upstream at Winona, Minn., police routed 1,000 persons from their homes as the city braced for the river's full height. Far downstream at Quincy, Ill., worried authorities feared the runaway river would cut through a dike and sweep out across 8,000 acres of rich farmland.

Up and down the mighty river, makeshift dikes and sandbagged levees groaned against the powerful flow of water. Nearly everywhere, the Mississippi was running at record levels. In some places it held steady, in others it inched ominously upward.

A tense situation developed at La Crosse Monday when the river cut through a dike and pounded huge bulk gasoline tanks to a precarious tilt. Authorities feared the tanks were leaking and that a spark would set off a sea of flames through the town.

Fire experts were called in and Monday night determined that the tanks, containing 15 million gallons of fuel, were not leaking.

The river was running 17.3 feet deep past La Crosse early today, with a crest of 18 feet expected Wednesday. Civil defense spokesmen said the crest will be maintained for two or three days.

Steel Industry Studies New Union Proposals

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The steel industry, faced with the threat of a May 1 strike, today studied a new union proposal for a three-year contract providing for three annual wage package increases of 17.5 cents each.

United Steelworkers union (USW) sources said the money demands were in line with the 3.2 per cent wage increase guidelines set by the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

There was little doubt the proposal was the result of prodding from the White House.

The union's original contract demands, greeted by the industry as "preposterous," were submitted to 11 major steel companies March 29. They were valued by various sources as high as $1 and $2 an hour over three years.

Health Official Fears For Babies in Measles Outbreak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A public health official fears that a "major tragedy" involving "thousands of defective babies" may result from a German measles epidemic in the United States this year.

The warning, by Dr. Richard Masland, a director of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness, was included in secret testimony given Feb. 19 before a House appropriations subcommittee. The testimony was made public Monday.

Masland said that "we are very fearful that between a half and one per cent of all the babies whose mothers were pregnant during this period of the epidemic are going to be defective."

He said that government studies indicated about 2 million women "were at risk during this period of time."

"If these figures are correct, there will be thousands of defective babies in the United States from this one epidemic," he added.

"Since many of these women have not delivered yet," Masland said, "the full impact of this has not hit the country. But this is a major tragedy."

Masland said the epidemic was expected to strike the West Coast and Hawaii this summer, but that the Public Health Service was taking steps to combat it.

He said that gamma globulin has been used as a passive immunization, and that one test showed it reduced the incidents of German measles by about 50 per cent.

'COULD STAGE 100 REVOLUTIONS'

Castro Says Three Latin Countries Will Fall

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said today Communist guerrillas will take over Guatemala, Colombia and Venezuela because national armies in those Latin countries are ineffective "mercenaries."

In a two-hour, 15-minute Havana radio-television speech that concluded at 12 a.m. CST, Castro also expressed confidence that there are "no traitors" among his own Communist-indoctrinated forces.

He presided at ceremonies marking the fourth anniversary of his victory over a refugee invasion force at the Bay of Pigs in 1961.

The premier claimed he has captured enough American weapons smuggled into Cuba over the past six years "to stage 100 revolutions in Latin America."

"The American Treasury has paid for a large part of our arms supply," he added, "although, of course, we have many more powerful and better weapons. But in case of an invasion we have sufficient arms."

Castro said his armed forces are sufficiently organized to detect "mother ships carrying speedboats" when they are far offshore. He said one Castroite patrol plane, near the limit of its range, bombed one of these mother ships more than 300 miles at sea. He gave no details.

"If we had long-range bombers they wouldn't have a single piece of wood left afloat," he said.

He reiterated his previous offer to send "volunteers" to Viet TOYKO (UPI)—Communist China called today for a nationwide campaign to make "full preparations" for sending Chinese to fight Americans in Viet Nam. It rejected peace proposals except on Communist terms.

The action was taken by the standing committee of the National Peoples Congress of Red China, a rubber stamp parliament which would not act without the approval of Communist party leader Mao Tze-tung and other Communist leaders.

A committee resolution broadcast by the Communist New China News Agency repeated Peking's oft-voiced promise that "the Chinese people will not sit idly by" while North Viet Nam is attacked.

This was believed to be the first time Peking has specifically threatened to send troops into Viet Nam.

The Russians have said they may send "volunteers" to Viet Nam if requested to do so. The Chinese statement, however, hinted at organized recruiting and mass troop shipments on the pattern of Peking's intervention in the Korean War.

Peking made the possible troop movements conditional on "the event that U.S. imperialism continues to escalate its war of aggression and the Vietnamese people need them (the Chinese)."

Both the Chinese and North Vietnamese have demanded U.S. troop withdrawal before peace talks open. Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said Monday peace can come only when the United States withdraws from Viet Nam. But he did not specifically make this a condition for peace talks.

Kosygin did warn the United States that aerial bombardments and the use of gas in Viet Nam might lead to "retaliation in kind." This was the strongest Soviet statement since the United States began air attacks against North Viet Nam. American planes carried out new raids today.

his decision in September and PARIS (UPI)—President finally put an end to France's Charles de Gaulle is nearing number one political cliff-hanger. the political point of no return. In the near future he must end to stand down, it is taken question that is keeping his nation granted he will tell the nation in suspense—will he run again at the age of 75 next December for a second seven-year term? That man has to get some political "exposure" and the interest to millions throughout Europe and the rest of the world. It will decide whether or not De Gaulle's friends and allies will have to continue for the foreseeable future dealing with the particular form of prickly nationalism which De Gaulle has made the hallmark of his "strongman" Fifth Republic. Those who should be in the know swear De Gaulle himself has not yet made up his own mind. They say he will take time out for some deep meditation during his August vacation. De Gaulle is expected to announce his decision in September and finally put an end to France's number one political cliff-hanger. If he should decide in the end to stand down, it is taken for granted he will tell the nation the name of the man he would like it to elect to succeed him. The first is the question of his health. Close aides swear it never has been better. The general public can see that at times he looks good, but at others he seems drawn and haggard. But like any man nearing the age of 75, De Gaulle cannot afford not to take into account the inexorable ravages of time. The second major consideration is political.

VACATION JOBS FOR TEENERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—This summer there will be many more teen-agers looking for vacation jobs than ever before, but the number of available jobs probably will be no greater than it was in 1961, the Life Ins. Institute reports.

The Institute economists suggest that constructive solution for many youngsters is volunteer work. It offers rewards not in money but in experience and personal satisfaction.

Uneasy Peace Came to Nation 100 Years Ago

United Press International
The Civil War was over 100 years ago this week and an uneasy peace came to the nation. Four years of the bloodiest fighting in the Republic's history had settled two issues. No more could a state secede in anger over a real or fancied wrong. The Negro no longer was a slave. The 13th Amendment, now on its way to ratification, would abolish the "peculiar institution." The 14th and 15th Amendments would make the Negro a citizen and guard his rights.

But in mid-April 1865 Abraham Lincoln was dead at the hand of a fanatical actor, John Wilkes Booth, and with his life went the hope for an orderly and quick return to the Union of the 11 seceded states of the Confederacy.

Ten years of reconstruction lay ahead before the nation became whole again. Often the decade would spawn violence. Often corruption, political and commercial, hand-in-hand, would take over in the South. Victorious Federal troops, frequently Negroes, would patrol the old Confederacy as if it were a group of conquered provinces.

But the decade of readjustment was only dimly discerned as the black-draped Lincoln funeral train wound 1,700 miles back to his home country of Illinois, along the same route he had traveled the opposite way just more than four years earlier to a capital split by secession, confused and fumbling over a problem the 85-year-old nation never had faced.

With no precedents as guide-posts Lincoln had felt his way through to victory. And at the moment of triumph when he relaxed and talked of visiting Europe and then going back to Springfield and picking up his country law practice, fate in the form of a vainglorious actor had intervened.

Again the country was panicky. How widespread was Booth's conspiracy? Were the leaders of the Confederacy involved? Those and a hundred other questions plagued the North. There were no ready answers. Only time would bring some of them.

Politicians jockeyed for position. Radical Republicans, who held that the South must be punished for the rebellion and its property confiscated to pay for the war, saw their chance.

Andrew Johnson, who was sworn in as President on April 15, the day Lincoln died, was a Tennessean and could be depended upon to punish the South, they reasoned. He had been a Union Democrat but the Radicals felt he was the man to keep them in power.

These were only seeds then but they would catch root and grow. Eventually they would grow out of hand.

South Prostrate

The South could only wait and watch. It was prostrate, much of it desolated by invading Union armies. Business was paralyzed. Confederate currency was worthless and the people had no other kind. Slave labor had gone away with the Union armies or just wandered trying out their new freedom. Few were left on the plantations to make a crop that spring. The South faced a whole new life with little or nothing to make a fresh start.

The Confederacy had collapsed almost overnight.

In the nine days from April 1, 1865, when the Confederate line was turned at Five Forks, Va., to April 9 when Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered the remnants of the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox Court House the Confederacy ceased to exist.

Petersburg, Va., where the line had been held for nine months, fell on April 2. The next day the capital, Richmond, also fell. Union troops marched in and put out the fires.

The road from Bull Run to Richmond had been a long one since the Union soldiers marched in the summer of '61, their steps quickened by "On-to-Richmond" slogans. It would be a one-battle war, everybody said. But the road to Richmond had many detours, first by way of the Virginia peninsula, then back to Washington, to Maryland, to Pennsylvania, and all the way back. All along wooden crosses marked the route. How many crosses no one knows to this day.

Heroes and Ghosts

Heroes had been made at Manassas, on the peninsula, up the slopes of Fredericksburg heights, in the scrub pine of the Wilderness, at Antietam, Gettysburg, Spottsylvania and Cold Harbor. The lists of glory were bright for the heroes but dark for many a foot-slogger who caught a Minie ball and for generals who failed. That list was long. On the Union side it counted Irwin McDowell, George B. McClellan, John Pope, Joseph Hooker and Ambridge Burnside.

By this fifth April of the war none was commanding troops on the battle lines.

The Confederates were more fortunate. Joseph E. Johnston who had commanded at Manassas in '61 had headed the Confederates in North Carolina but he had been cornered by William T. Sherman and surrendered 31,243 men on April 26 near Durham Station, N.C.

Lee, who had held much rank and little authority at the start of the war, emerged as the greatest man of the Confederacy.

But the South had failures, too. Braxton Bragg had been "promoted" to a desk job and P.G.T. Beauregard, who had ordered the first shot of the war at Fort Sumter, was in eclipse as on April 14, 1865, the U.S. flag that Robert Anderson had hauled down that day in '61 was raised again by Anderson, now a major general instead of a major.

In the West the road had been long and hard, too. It ran down the Mississippi River and up the Tennessee and Cumber-

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Analyst James Dines says he is still looking forward to a spring rally, featuring a speculative binge in the lower priced shares that is typical of the late stages of a bull market.

However, Dines says, this should not be construed as unrestrained optimism, because with a bull market which has advanced nearly 400 points since its start, the major preoccupation is to remain wary and alert for the peak.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co., Inc. says it is one thing when the Dow-Jones rail average fails to follow the action of the industrials, but when the average moves in the opposite direction, as it has recently, this only increases the suspicion that something is wrong.

Pampa Band To Compete in Six Flags Contest

Due to a conflict in reservations, the Pampa High School band will not compete in the Tri-State Music Festival in Enid this year, band director Fred Stockdale, announced today.

Instead, the band will compete in the Six Flags Over Texas Band Festival scheduled May 7, 8, 9 and 10 in Fort Worth.

Stockdale said the Enid trip was cancelled when a conflict over motel arrangements prevented the band from securing suitable accommodations.

In Fort Worth, the band will compete with approximately 140 bands from a seven state area. Stockdale said that only those bands who have won sweepstakes awards this year are allowed to compete in the Six Flags contest.

Judges for the contest will be William D. Revellie, University of Michigan; Fred Ebbs, University of Iowa; and A. Clyde Roller, Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y.

Stockdale said approximately 115 members of the high school band will make the trip to Fort Worth.

The high school band director also stated that the band banquet scheduled May 6 in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn will still be held. He said the students will leave early in the morning on May 7.

Chamber to Host Farmers, Ranchers

Farmers and ranchers from over the Panhandle will be special guests of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Monday at the regular monthly membership luncheon.

Felix Ryals, manager of the Panhandle Conservation District, of White Deer, and Martin Gossett, irrigation farmer of Moore County, will be the principal speakers.

They will speak on what can be expected of irrigation in this area.

The luncheon will begin at noon in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Hubcaps, Fender Skirts Stolen

Pampa police were investigating two reports of theft today.

Dr. F. J. Vendrell, 1812 Dogwood, told police that someone removed four hubcaps from his father's automobile while it was parked in his driveway. The hubcaps were valued at $40.

Art Stewart, 844 Craven, reported the theft of a pair of fender skirts from his automobile last night while it was parked in his driveway.

No value was placed on the missing fender skirts.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The desire of the young American male to follow his own tastes in automobile, clothing, and amusements is well known to the American merchant.

Less apparent, except to those in the industry, but growing, is his interest in men's toiletries, said Donald Burr, vice president of marketing for Yardley of London, Inc. Burr said these items are growing in unit sales and in units of higher price than has been the experience with an older generation.

"Nothing much of this growth pattern shows among the older men," said Burr in a recent interview. "There is a steady market here, for shaving preparations, after shave lotions and the like. Perhaps 50 per cent of the male population now uses an after-shave fragrance."

"But the boys and young men now show an interest in a wider range than the merely 'utilitarian cosmetics.'"

Burr, who currently is directing Yardley's "London Look" campaign said that the stimulation of youth to sales was far from confined to the men's market.

"Young girls are asking for their own kinds of cosmetics—the kind they like," he said.

Airplanes Doing Their Job Helping Catch Known Criminals

By ROBERT J. SERLING
UPI Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "It appears that some 60 years after the Wright Brothers flew at Kitty Hawk criminals are discovering the airplane and its capacity for wrong-doing in increasing numbers."

That quote is from Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby, who calls the use of aircraft for illegal purposes "a growing national problem which requires immediate attention."

Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) Halaby's own department, the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) has been getting increasingly involved in anti-crime activities, ranging from bank robberies to dope-smuggling. It actually helped apprehend one bank robber who dsained the automobile for an airplane in attempting a getaway.

The crime was the daylight robbery of a bank at Hancock, Miss., Sept. 6, 1963. The lone bandit escaped with $19,000 in a stolen automobile which was found later abandoned near an airstrip.

The robber apparently figured that no police roadblock could interfere with an airplane. He was right, but he hadn't counted on the aerial roadblocks being erected.

FAA Joins Hunt

The FBI had notified the FAA's air traffic control center in New Orleans. Controllers within a 500-mile radius of the center were alerted. The plane finally was spotted by the FAA control tower at the Dekalb-Peachtree airport in Atlanta. Its occupants landed, got out and were heading for a taxi when FBI agents nabbed them.

If motorists think radar is tough on speeders, would-be criminals should ponder the efficiency of aircraft-monitoring radar. Earlier this year, a pilot had $50,000 worth of illegal narcotics behind the instrument panel of his small plane and started to fly it from Mexico to Canada.

March Accidents in Pampa Show Decrease from 1964

Accidents and resultant injuries on Pampa city streets during March took a considerable drop as compared with the same period last year, National Safety Council figures revealed today.

Thirty-four traffic accidents, injuring five persons, occurred in Pampa during March, compared with 46 accidents, injuring 10 persons in March 1964.

So far this year, there have been 121 accidents and 30 persons injured in Pampa. For the same period last year, there were 168 accidents and 31 persons injured.

The monthly report also revealed the majority of traffic accidents in March occurred between 4 and 5 p. m. on Thursdays. Drivers under 20 accounted for the highest number of the accidents.

The report also showed that female drivers had considerably fewer accidents than their male counterparts.

Speeding and failure to yield right of way was the biggest contributing factors to the accidents.

The NSC report revealed that property damage within the city as a result of the accidents totaled $13,627.

Cloakroom Comment

By DAVID ANDERSON
United Press International

Anyone who wonders why politicians try to talk much and say little can find an answer in Gov. John Connally's current plight.

His 1962 campaign oratory is coming back to haunt him on two of his pet proposals—reorganization of higher education and four-year terms for the governor.

In the 1962 campaign, Connally blasted then-Gov. Price Daniel repeatedly for seeking a fourth two-year term.

Connally promised in a statewide television speech Feb. 16, 1962 that he would submit a constitutional amendment limiting any governor to two two-year terms, effective with his own election.

But that was three years ago. By last Jan. 27, when he delivered his annual message to the legislature, Connally apparently had changed his mind.

Recommends Change

"I recommended a constitutional amendment providing four year terms for the governor and all statewide elective officials who now have two-year terms," Connally said in a message.

Two years ago in his message to the legislature, Connally said, "I recommend that the legislature submit to the people a constitutional amendment limiting the service of the governor to two consecutive terms."

He didn't say whether he meant two two-year terms or two four year terms, his defenders point out.

But in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee last week, Connally men bitterly—and successfully—fought attempts to put any limit on the governor's tenure.

Connally's earlier statements on educational organization are almost as embarrassing. Platform Pledge Recalled.

His 1962 platform pledged to provide "a separate board of trustees for each teachers college, rather than one board for all teachers colleges. This will enable the members of each board to be closer to their particular school and more conversant with its problems," he said.

Now Connally proposes not only to keep all the present teaching to choose between these conflicting statements next week when a bill giving separate boards to two of the teachers colleges—East Texas State and West Texas State—reaches his desk.

HEART TOLL
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Thirteen San Franciscans died every 24 hours from heart disease last year, according to the Heart Association.

PEDALING PILOTS
BOSTON (UPI) — The stationary bicycle would be standard equipment on airliners if Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted Boston heart specialist, had his way.

If an airliner had such a gadget up front on long flights, he told a scientific meeting here, pilots could get up every hour or so and exercise their legs. "This would help their circulation a good deal," said Dr. White.

API Chapter To Meet Thursday

Robert L. Parker, president of the Parker Drilling Co., will speak on "The Giant of Pahuta Mesa" at a meeting of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

The "Giant" is the Parker company's 2-million pound drilling rig used to make a record hole in Nevada with its special 15,000-pound bit for making 6-foot diameter holes for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Parker will describe the drilling of the AEC hole and discuss new techniques and innovations used to drill large diameter holes.

DEAR ABBY...

Clean Around Sleeping 'Rip'

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 36 years and the best thing my husband does is sleep. I practically have to assault him to get him out of bed in the morning for work. The minute he finishes his supper in the evening he falls asleep and I have to fight with him to get him to take his clothes off and go to sleep in the bedroom. It's bad enough that he sleeps so much on work days, but on holidays and weekends it's even worse. He falls asleep in chairs, on the couch, and even on the floor! It irks me to have him sleeping all over the house when I have house-cleaning to do. Do I have the right to wake him up and tell him to go sleep in the bedroom? And does a grown man need that much sleep?

"RIP VAN WINKLE'S WIFE" DEAR WIFE: First, insist that "Rip" get a thorough physical checkup. Excessive sleep is sometimes a symptom of illness. If your husband is as fit as a fiddle, but just likes to saw wood, work around him, and let him be.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with this man for nearly a year. He works just around the corner from where I work, and that's how we met. I have never met any of his friends or family. I gave him my telephone number but he never gave me his. I have asked him how I could get in touch with him in case of emergency, but he got around it some way and he still didn't give me his number. What do you make of this?

DEAR NO: He could be hiding something — like a wife. Or a live-in companion. I think you already have his number.

DEAR ABBY: While this inquiry might be out of your line, I hope you'll answer. I am a woman of 60, and for the first time in my life I became the proud owner of a mink stole. The other night my husband remarked that since the stole was so expensive, we could save money by placing it in a plastic bag and storing it in our freezer. That way we wouldn't have to pay to store it at a regular fur storage place. I have never heard of this, have you? I'm afraid if I ask the furrier who sold us the stole he will say it is absolutely necessary to store it at regular fur storage place (meaning his) because that is part of his business. What do you think?

DEAR NO: NAME: NEVER, NEVER, NEVER place fur in a freezer! Store the stole in a regular fur storage place. It's a steal!

DEAR ABBY: If "Cheated" (the baby sitter who complained of being underpaid) is the one who came to our house, ate a pound of candy, two packages of potato chips, half a lemon pie, drank 2 bottles of beer, and then left with the grocery money, my new white gloves and all my hair-rollers, please tell her we won't "cheat" her again. We can't afford her.

Senior Center Corner
By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

Spring is late this year, as was Easter, but the sap is at last coming up and the trees are beginning to leaf out, so our poetess has come up with the following poem which we all enjoyed this week.

THE PARTY
By Mrs. Elma Bailey
They say, in the spring a young man's fancy
Lightly turns to thoughts of love.
But I guess an old man's fancy
Is just to sit in the sun and doze.

Except on Thursday afternoon, that is, When the Senior Citizens' party's on They grab their coats and hats. And join the merry throng.

Some come in wheel chairs, some walk with canes. Some are blind and some are lame; But that doesn't dampen their spirits, by jing When once they get started playing games.

There's checkers, forty - two and canasta. Most any game that they choose. You should hear the fun and laughter. Bet you would soon lose your blues.

And when the last cup of coffee is empty You shake hands with everyone. You bless and thank the Altrusa girls For another afternoon of games and fun.

And I wish when they are old and gray. That someone will step up to them and say Grab your bonnets girls, we are on our way. To the Senior Citizens' party today.

Mrs. P. H. Gates has been released from the hospital in Amarillo and is in Friona with a daughter recuperating. Mrs. Snider reported that her daughter, Mrs. Don George of 2121 Dogwood, is having a sculpture display at West Texas State University in Canyon on April 28.

Bob Bailey of Brownfield is visiting his mother, Mrs. Frank Bailey this week and visited the Center. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Turner of Clovis, N. M., spent Tuesday with Mrs. P. G. Turner.

Mrs. Katie Vincent spent last weekend in Dumas with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joe Vincent. Was good to see Mrs. Mary Roberts out this week. Mrs.

Roberts spent some time with a daughter out of town after her illness.

Mrs. H. A. Talley, patient in Worley Hospital, is now able to walk a little.

The Gray County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs served as hostess this week. Mmes. V. Smith, chm., Mmes. Boyd Brown, J. Lloyd Laramore, Lester Reynolds, Stella Wagner, Gary Frasher, O. Bishop and Misses Lou Ella Patterson, county agent, and Yvonne Reynolds served home made angel food cake, ice cream and coffee.

The serving table was lovely with an Easter motif; and baby chicks (artificial) were used as favors. Door prizes of baskets of fruit and Easter candy went to Mrs. Mollie Hethcock and Mr. DeMoss.

Altrusans assisting were Mmes. Marie Fitzgerald, Jay Flannigan, Lillian Snow, Louise Sewell and Miss Lou Ella Patterson. Gray Ladies furnishings transportation were Mmes. George Benham, Chris Byerly, Lois Urbanczyk, A. D. Hills and Jess Hatcher.

A Versatile Mule
Women have long gotten a kick out of the mule for glamorous relaxing. For spring, the mule comes out of the lounge and into the living room in the form of an openback shoe styled for both daytime and evening wear.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
Be of good cheer, fellow citizens. President Johnson's special ambassador to Indonesia scored a triumph. He sweet talked Indonesian President Sukarno into continuing to accept some U.S. foreign aid. Not much foreign aid, but some. And every little bit helps.

Sukarno qualifies for U. S. foreign aid by denouncing the United States on all occasions, by seizing American-owned properties in Indonesia and by permitting hoodlums to loot and burn U.S. government installations in that country.

Sukarno's most recent bid for U.S. goodwill was to permit Indonesian workers to seize the American-owned National Carbide Co. On March 20, Sukarno announced seizure of three foreign oil companies, two of them American-owned. These seizures followed Communist-led demonstrations demanding such action.

Mobs Attack Embassy
Indonesian mobs have attacked the U.S. Embassy in Jakarta and have raided U.S. information centers. Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio joined Red Chinese Foreign Minister Marshal Chen Yi in a February statement asserting that the United States and other big powers were manipulating the United Nations and, thereby, discrediting the U.N.

Sukarno's Indonesia generally aligns itself with Red China. Sukarno has demanded withdrawal of U.S. forces from Asia, thus supporting the Communist position on Viet Nam. Sukarno equally objects to the existence of the state of Malaysia and is committed to its destruction. He is guilty of armed aggression.

Review Aid Program
LBJ's special emissary to the Indonesian bully boy was Ellsworth Bunker who ended his mission last week. Bunker joined Sukarno in a statement announcing the end of U. S. Peace Corps operations in Indonesia and stating that American aid to Indonesia would be reviewed and revised.

The statement also revealed that U.S. teachers from the universities of California and Kentucky would remain in Indonesia on assignment to medical, engineering and agricultural schools. Sukarno occasionally has suggested that the United States go to hell with its aid.

But he generously said last week that the U.S. teaching programs were welcome and would have the full support of his government. That probably means that the teachers and their classrooms usually will be protected from mob action and their books usually will be safe from burning.

A Big Concession
This is a big concession on Sukarno's part and no doubt will be chalked up as an American diplomatic victory. On the day that Sukarno and Bunker were making their joint statement and saying goodby, Sukarno was scratching around for someone to manage the newly seized American National Carbide Co. He announced the job would go to the governor of Jakarta. Immediately thereafter Sukarno joined Communist North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung in demanding withdrawal of U.S. troops from all of Asia.

The diplomatic triumph that Ambassador Bunker brings back from Indonesia is Sukarno's agreement that U.S. aid be reviewed and revised. What an American taxpayer might want to know would be this:

Why does Sukarno get as much as a dime's worth of U.S. aid?

Little Theatre
Play Set Saturday

"A Pair of Lunatics," a one-act farce, will be presented as the dramatic offering of the Pampa Little Theater group Saturday night, April 24, at the P.L.T. Building on the Lefors Highway. This will be a supper theater production, the second of the current season.

Supper will be served at 7 p.m. and theater-goers will view the play following the meal. "A Pair of Lunatics" features Mrs. Joyce McCausland and John Callarman as the man and woman who meet accidentally at a lunatic asylum and mistake each other for inmates of the institution. The laugh-provoking situation is further intensified by the hilarious dialogue of the two. Edd Rowntree is director of the play.

Tickets are now on sale at Richard Drug at $1.75 for adults and $1.00 for students.

Sporting Sidelines

By JEFF COHANE

SOMEONE is using this reporter for a scapegoat, and it seems that a quick defense is in order.

RECENTLY, a controversy arose between myself and a member of the local Little League program concerning an article written by ex-Little Leaguer, now major leaguer Joey Jay, an article which I agreed with and some LL personnel did not. That, apparently, was the end of it. However, the story is now going around that because of the controversy, I am not giving the local youth baseball programs any coverage.

THIS IS as ridiculous as saying that because I am a Cincinnati Redlegs baseball fan I will not give the American League any coverage — or because I printed an article ridiculing the Houston baseball team's new name that I would not give them coverage.

ALTHOUGH it is ridiculous, several people have reportedly charged that I am not running Little League and Babe Ruth League rosters and tryout stories, and have further stated that I, personally, told five of them last Friday night or Saturday morning that I would not run the Little League rosters Sunday!

FIRST OF ALL, I was not even here Saturday! Friday night the newspaper office is not open, as we have no Saturday edition, furthermore, we are an afternoon paper, not an evening paper. At least 200 baseball fans, plus the entire Pampa High baseball team, saw me at Optimist Park taking pictures Friday evening. Coach David Kelley and the entire Pampa Shocker team can testify that I spent the entire day Saturday en route to and from Shattuck and with the Shocks at their doubleheader there, and did not arrive back in Pampa until late that night. City Editor Ron Cross and sports reporter Ronnie Oler put out the sports pages for Sunday without me, and neither of them even spoke to anyone concerning the said rosters.

THEREBY establishing that charge as a lie, I will now explain why the rosters were not in Sunday's paper, an explanation that I hope will satisfy everyone. First, Floyd "Red Dog" Hatcher, president of one of the leagues and a good friend, contacted me earlier in the week and said that he did not think that the rosters would be finished and available until very late Saturday night. . . after we had already gone to press, so that we could not run them before Monday. Second, our advertising department had requested that we hold the rosters as several advertisers wished to run ads simultaneously with their appearance, and if they could not get in Sunday, could I hold them until Tuesday?

IT SEEMS that the rosters were brought in earlier than had been scheduled. However, pursuant to the ad department's very reasonable request, I had left instructions that if the rosters came in, they were to be held until Tuesday. All of this appears quite logical and simple, and could have been readily understood by anyone who bothered to inquire.

HOWEVER, instead of bothering to ask me, it seems that a number of LL personnel accused me publicly of refusing to run them. . . also that I had told them this to their faces. . . an obvious lie since I wasn't even here.

IT SEEMS apparent that somebody goofed. . . and instead of admitting the goof, used me as a convenient scapegoat. Since, according to their theory, I am an avowed enemy of the youth program because I disagree with the way some of the things are done, this should be obvious.

HOWEVER, let me state once and for all, what should be obvious to everyone. . . that I am as sincere and strong a supporter of youth sports as anyone in Pampa, and regardless of the fact that I may disagree with some facets of any program, (which I feel that I have a right to do as well as anyone else) I am not going to handicap any boys in anyway whatsoever. I will continue to run the coverage of Little League, Babe Ruth League, American Legion, semi-pro, softball, and every other youth sports program in Pampa precisely as I always have. . . to the best of my ability to cover it (depending on the co-operation of the people running the programs, as always) and within the limits of over-publicization that I and most of the local school personnel feel will not hurt youngsters.

TO SUM this long-winded dissertation up in a nutshell, although as an individual I do not agree with every policy of any organization, including many I belong to myself, NEVER will my personal feelings about any such policy have anything to do with the coverage they receive from the sports department. The only other way I could work would be to dissociate myself completely from any individual, and I sincerely feel that a lack of support on my part would hinder, rather than help, the youth sports programs of Pampa which, despite some imperfections, I sincerely believe in. . . regardless of what some scapegoat-seekers think. If the story you are interested in is not reported, it will be because of lack of cooperation, not because of our fault. . . and for no other reason.

2-B Chances Slim In Regional

LEFORS — District 2-B track chances appear slim in this weekend's regional meet, according to comparative times and marks, with the best being Wheeler's Dunk Porter in the low hurdles and Allison's Punk Childress in the pole vault.

Chief reasons for the comparatively poor times are the fact that rain and bad weather cancelled out a number of meets in which the district teams usually participate, and made for wet tracks in the ones which were run off, especially the district meet itself.

Wheeler last year ran head-and-head with state champ Booker in both sprint and mile relay events, but the Kiowas have posted far faster times than the Mustangs this season in both, and the best Wheeler could hope for is second place at Lubbock.

Porter, who ran 21.0 in the low hurdles last year, has broken that time this year and with most of the region's best marks compiled by big-school competitors, could have a good chance to go on to state. Childress vaulted 11' 6" at the district meet, establishing a new loop mark and himself as a threat in regional.

Wheeler's Little Bobby Vanpool could be a threat in the 100-yard dash if he recovers from a pulled leg muscle suffered in district. Jerry Roberts, Groom's 6-5 all-star, can be a threat in both the 440 and the high hurdles, with potential to up his district marks by several seconds in both events.

Tommy Smith of Wheeler has one of the best Class B marks in the state in the broad jump, and could also be an 880 threat, with Mack Sides of Briscoe a good bet in the mile.

District showings in the weights are relatively unimpressive, with shot putter Edgar "Little Tank" Brown of Lefors having the best potential for a place.

Al Lopez' Strategy Is Paying Off Big

By United Press International
Al Lopez, manager of the Chicago White Sox, has a long memory, and that's why he's chuckling to himself these days about a winter trade he engineered with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The trade, which occurred last November, brought a promising young outfielder named Danny Cater to the Sox in exchange for 35-year-old Ray Herbert, whom Philadelphia gambled would provide its pitching staff with enough experience and depth to win the National League pennant.

The circumstances of that trade must have seemed all too similar to those that surrounded the deal in 1959 which sent Johnny Callison to Philadelphia, where he subsequently reached All-Star status. Callison, like Cater, was a promising ballplayer but Lopez gambled that veteran Gene Frazier would provide the team with enough power to repeat as American League champion — and lost.

That first round went to the Phillies, but it now appears that the White Sox have gained a measure of revenge. Cater has waded into American League pitching with a vengeance, collecting nine hits in his first 14 at bats.

And what's even more important to the power-hungry Sox, Cater has proven he can hit the long ball. He amply demonstrated this Monday night when he slammed a three-run homer to break open a tight game against the Baltimore Orioles in a 7-2 Chicago victory.

Cater slammed his circuit shot off reliever Harvey Had-dix in the eighth inning after being inserted in the game as a pinch-batter in the seventh. On that occasion he grounded into a force play but gained a piece of history as the White Sox paraded five pinch swing-

Celtics Take 2nd From LA

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics, singularly unsuccessful on foreign courts in the current National Basketball Association playoffs, will try again Wednesday night on a trip to Los Angeles.

The Celtics carry a two-game advantage over the Lakers into the Wednesday and Friday night Western games as they hunt their seventh straight playoff title, eighth crown in nine years, and fourth final playoff decision over a Laker elub over that long championship span.

Boston has been invincible on its home court thus far, beating Philadelphia four times and Los Angeles twice in home games, but dropping all three visits to Philadelphia.

The Celtics' second victory in the final best-of-seven series Monday night was by no means as easy as their opener in which they set a pair of final playoff records.

Jerry West was the major reason why the Celtics won by only six, 129-123, Monday night. He shot over, under, around and through the usually sticky Boston defense to roll up 45 personal points. Actually, the game wasn't as close as the final score indicates since the Celtics maintained a doren-point lead through a major part of the fourth quarter.

But West, whose 45 points exactly matched his minutes played, never gave up in his one-man drive to keep the Lakers alive without the services of injured Elgin Baylor.

Maloney Hurls One Hit Game at Milwaukeeans

By United Press International

For a guy who was vanquished to the bullpen one week ago because of a dismal spring training, Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds made one heck of a fast comeback.

The big righthander twirled a masterful one-hitter in Milwaukee Stadium against the Braves Monday, beating them 2-0 on Deron Johnson's second-inning, two-run home run.

Only Denis Menke's bloop single into short left to open the eighth inning kept Maloney, who was 15-10 last year for the Reds, from becoming the first Cincinnati pitcher since Ewell Blackwell (1947) to pitch a no-hitter.

Maloney walked only three and struck out eight in hurling the third one-hitter of his major league career while picking up his first victory against no defeats. Wade Blasingame was the loser. He is now 0-1.

Put In Bullpen

In 20 innings of spring training competition he had given up 40 hits and 28 runs. Manager Dick Sisler yanked him from the starting rotation and put him in the bullpen. "I was told to throw on the sidelines and give the word when I was ready," Maloney said. "Last Friday we had a day off and I threw for a long time to Don Pavletich. Every-thing seemed to fall into place. No soreness, my pitches were doing what I wanted and I was getting them over."

Two years ago Maloney lost a no-hitter when Ellis Burton of the Cubs got a hit. Last season Joe Christopher broke up his no-hitter against the Mets.

It's a good bet that the 207-pound, 6-foot 2-inch hurler will be back in the starting rotation. In other National League action Jim Bunning five-hit the Astros in leading the Phillies to and 8-0 shellacking over Houston and the Cubs crawled all over Cardinal pitcher Ray Sadecki in a 7-3 triumph.

Johnny Callison's bases-loaded single in the third inning sparked a four-run Philadelphia uprising in helping Bunning to his first victory of the season. Dick Farrell was tagged with his first defeat. Both pitchers are now 1-1.

Houston threatened to score on several occasions, but Bunning had the good pitch when he needed it. The Astros stranded 12 baserunners.

The Cubs hopped on Sadecki in the first inning. Lead-off man Glenn Beckert greeted him with a double. Ron Santo doubled. Billy Williams and Doug Clemens singled and Ernie Banks was intentionally walked.

Take Me Where to What Game?

What's happening to baseball? Remember, fans, when the grand old game was played in broad daylight with the sun shining down and the gentle breezes blowing?

And it was called America's national outdoor pastime?

Well, now they're not only playing it mostly at night, when the sun seldom shines but under glass and in air-conditioning yet!

They have, in fact, removed baseball so far from its native habitat that in the magnificent arena in Houston, Tex., the big problem is that the damped daylight, seen through the lucite ceiling and makes it almost impossible for the players to see a fly ball.

Sunlight is now an enemy of baseball!

And can you remember when baseball was hailed as democracy in action — the lofty bank president rubbing elbows with the lowly clerk in one beautiful brotherhood?

Well, in Houston a bank president can, by plunking down a mere $18,000, rent one of the 53 available plush "Skyboxes" in the indoor baseball palace and enjoy the people's game throughout the season with 24 of his invited peers amidst such simple fan fare as a bar, a television set, telephones, lounge chairs and private washrooms.

Something is happening to baseball? It is, indeed.

All together now, fans — let's hear it for the grand old game by singing the grand old song, "Take Me Out — oops — IN to the Ball Game."

Or have we already been taken in?

Poverty De-Luxe

There's one thing you have to say for the Women's Job Corps of the government's poverty program. It is, traveling in class company.

It is being mentioned in the same breath with Radcliffe College for women and Harvard University for men — and you can hardly get any classier than that.

Linking of the three names began when Sen. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio ripped into the Women's Job Corps project as outrageously expensive.

Lausche charged that the program to teach job corps trainees basic education, home-making and citizenship would cost taxpayers nearly $8,000 per year per girl — twice the cost of sending her to one of the nation's leading colleges.

"Nuts," retorted the Office of Economic Opportunity, "all-point out how classy poverty though naturally not in that can be when Uncle Sam gets language. It would cost only $6,000 a year to train a girl."

"Also," commented the OEO with starburst, "we find the cost to parents and the school of sending a young woman to a place like Radcliffe College (Cambridge, Mass.) for a nine-month academic year is $8,000, compared to our $6,000."

OEO then took another look at its figures and issued another statement — this one to the effect that actually it would cost only $4,650 to train a girl in the Women's Job Corps program, whereas it costs $6,410 a year to send a young man to Harvard.

"The heck it does," retorted Harvard, although of course not in those words. A young gentleman, said the college, could attend Harvard like a young gentleman should for as little as around $3,500 a year.

Where all this leaves the taxpayer or the puzzled parent of a Radcliffe or Harvard student is a little hazy. But it does of Economic Opportunity, "all-point out how classy poverty though naturally not in that can be when Uncle Sam gets language. It would cost only $6,000 a year to train a girl."

"Also," commented the OEO with starburst, "we find the cost to parents and the school of sending a young woman to a place like Radcliffe College (Cambridge, Mass.) for a nine-month academic year is $8,000, compared to our $6,000."

OEO then took another look at its figures and issued another statement — this one to the effect that actually it would cost only $4,650 to train a girl in the Women's Job Corps program, whereas it costs $6,410 a year to send a young man to Harvard.

"The heck it does," retorted Harvard, although of course not in those words. A young gentleman, said the college, could attend Harvard like a young gentleman should for as little as around $3,500 a year.

Where all this leaves the taxpayer or the puzzled parent of a Radcliffe or Harvard student is a little hazy. But it does of Economic Opportunity, "all-point out how classy poverty though naturally not in that can be when Uncle Sam gets language. It would cost only $6,000 a year to train a girl."

CIA's New Chief Plans Overhauling

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The vast, sprawling Central Intelligence Agency is in for a quiet internal revolution.

That's the meaning of President Johnson's appointment of tough Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr. (Ret.) as CIA director.

CIA has grown like Topsy since it evolved from Wild Bill Donovan's World War II Office of Strategic Services. The OSS started out with radical methods of intelligence gathering, some brilliantly conceived, some amateurish. The CIA has carried on that tradition, though growing more conventional and expensive with the years.

CIA has never had a hard-headed manager at its helm. It will have one now.

Old Raborn saying: "When I pass you in the hall, I want to feel a breeze."

Key White House, defense and State Department officials have been dissatisfied with CIA's results. Some CIA coups have been undeniably strokes of genius. But the organization has been caught flat-footed too.

It has not sufficiently penetrated the doings in North Viet Nam, Red China and Soviet Russia. It has missed the boat on occasion in South Viet Nam.

Men who know Raborn predict he will start his new job by getting a task force of university, government and industrial experts to make a "three-month study" of where CIA is going and how it should be getting there.

This program will be set up to a specific timetable with objectives to be achieved by firm, fixed dates. Then Raborn will make the changes this program calls for. He'll undoubtedly call in some of his old Polaris team if he can get them from Defense and industry. The day he was appointed, some of these men wrote the admiral saying they were ready, willing and able to come.

If he runs true to form, Raborn will have weekly Monday morning meetings on division chiefs. Each will report on whether he's moved ahead according to the Raborn schedule. Those that haven't will say why — and how the slippage can be corrected.

The CIA is going through a tough transition period in attempting to shift from conventional to computerized intelligence. It has the job of making use of millions of photographs taken by satellites and millions of pages of foreign publications, in addition to agent and other reports. Infra-red sensors will bring in millions of other items to be interpreted. Yet there are tens of thousands of missing pieces.

In the intelligence field, where science is providing new way-out techniques and equipment so rapidly the old may be out-of-date before being used, a CIA director must be able to switch methods in mid-stream, yet not be caught with over-gadgeteering or over-computerization. In some uses computers can lead to serious intelligence misjudgments.

For three reasons, Raborn is ideal for this ticklish job: — He is one of the few men who has ramrodded a full-stream-ahead defense program (Polaris), shifting in mid-stream from one concept to another (from Jupiter to Polaris), taking advantage of new concepts as fast as they developed, without losing stride.

— Under Raborn's leadership, one of the most sophisticated of today's production management tools was developed. (PERT, Production Evaluation Review Technique, uses computers to help get effective management of complicated long-term programs).

— Raborn is not overawed by computers. He's been known to say:

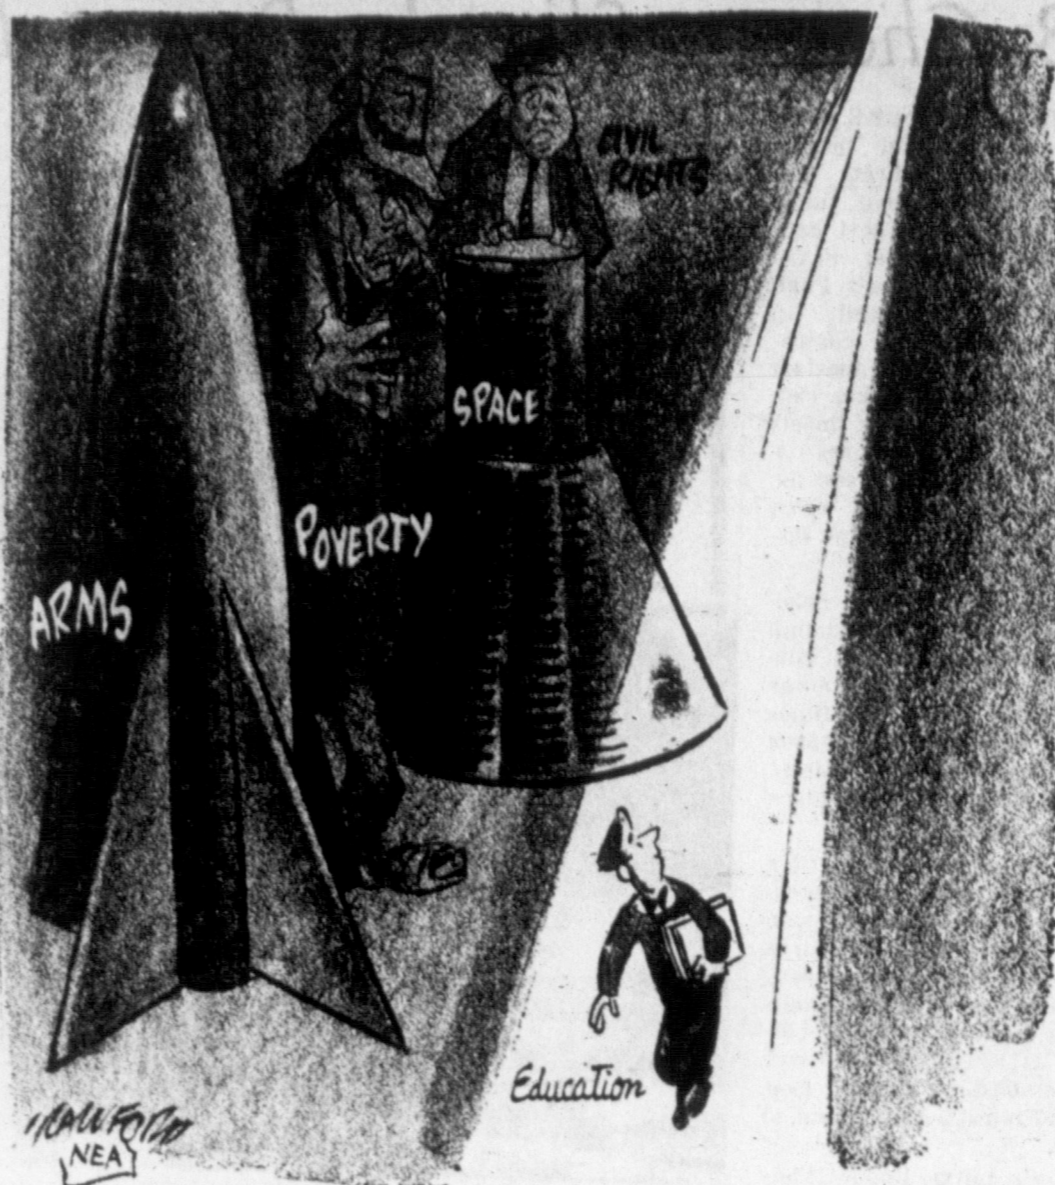

"The trouble with the computer is that there is no (horse) feathers ejector. There are some people in the Pentagon who believe any solutions arrived at by a computer are gospel. If you put (horse) feathers into a computer, you get (horse) feathers out."

Reliable military observers report that the ferocity and bestiality of these atrocities is as shocking as those committed by the Chinese and North Korean Communists during the Korean war and by the Nazis in World War II.

After Speaker McCormack has examined this question directly with President Johnson on what measures the administration can take against those guilty of the thousands of murders, assassinations, and kidnappings.

In the past McCormack has supported congressional probes of Communist atrocities in Poland and Korea, and was one of the first to denounce Fidel Castro's shooting of military and civilian prisoners following his take-over in Cuba.

Communist Atrocity Record in Viet Nam May Be Aired in Congress in Wake of Grainger Murder

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Joseph Grainger, the 39-year-old Connecticut AID official murdered by his Communist captors in Viet Nam, may not have died in vain.

His brutal death has touched off a wave of backstage discussions among influential members of Congress on how the U.S. can bring before the world the full story of the revolting atrocities perpetrated by Communists in South Viet Nam.

The outraged legislators, foremost among them Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., are carefully examining casualty reports of U.S. and South Vietnamese military and civilian personnel to determine the extent of these atrocities and how those responsible can be punished.

One State Department document McCormack is studying during the Easter recess grimly highlights the ruthlessness of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese "aggression by terror."

It reveals that Communist terrorists, using tactics prescribed in Russian handbooks, "killed more than 400 and kidnapped another 1,000 South Viet Nam village chiefs, school teachers and public health officers during 1964."

"Among other civilians, 1300 were killed, over 8,000 were kidnapped," states the report, "and entire villages have been kidnapped and burned to the ground, when families of those in the armed forces were kidnapped and held hostages."

The atrocities recorded by U.S. authorities include the "beheading of village chiefs" and "the cutting off of arms and legs of innocent children and women" of fathers and husbands serving in the South Viet Nam army.

If the men won't desert, the Communists literally butcher their wives and children "limb by limb" until they do defect.

THE HORROR STORY—From other authoritative sources, Speaker McCormack has learned that U.S. servicemen and officials have been tortured and shot from behind after being captured by Viet Cong.

Reliable military observers report that the ferocity and bestiality of these atrocities is as shocking as those committed by the Chinese and North Korean Communists during the Korean war and by the Nazis in World War II.

After Speaker McCormack has examined this question directly with President Johnson on what measures the administration can take against those guilty of the thousands of murders, assassinations, and kidnappings.

In the past McCormack has supported congressional probes of Communist atrocities in Poland and Korea, and was one of the first to denounce Fidel Castro's shooting of military and civilian prisoners following his take-over in Cuba.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "Does the charter of the United Nations contain statements from the Manifesto of Karl Marx or Communist Party; also is there some trace in the contents of the Civil Rights Legislation of November 1964?"

"Has either or both certain quotations or paraphrases of the constitution of the USSR?"

Answer—We know of no similar wording of the Communist Manifesto in either the U. N. Charter or the Civil Rights Act. While the objectives of portions of the charter and of the Civil Rights Act appear to be aimed at elimination of the rights of individuals to own their honestly acquired property, they do not frankly say, as such as Marx did, when he wrote:

"In a word, you reach us with intending to do away with your property. Precisely so; that is just what we intend."

The U. N. has not come out flatly and said it wants to do away with property. But in discussing the U. N. "Universal Declaration of Human Rights," Charles Malik of Lebanon, former chairman of the commission on human rights and former top official of the U. N., wrote:

"For the second year an unsuccessful attempt was made to include an article on the right to own property. . . . The concept of property and its ownership is at the heart of the great ideological conflict of the present day. . . . a study of this particular debate will reveal the extent to which the non-Communist world has been communistically softened or frightened. It seems incredible that in these economic matters, which reflect indeed much more than mere economic divergencies, the Western world is so divided on itself as to be incapable of presenting a common front against communism."

The same is true of the so-called civil rights legislation, which takes away from an individual his right to control his own property. When an owner, regardless of race, color or creed, cannot say who can and who cannot come into his property, he is being deprived of control. If ownership means control, then he is being deprived of ownership of property.

It is quite possible there are similar statements in the Russian constitution. However, there are also some similarities between the Russian constitution and that of the United States of America.

FOREIGN FLASHES — Caltex, an American company, has found oil in Spitsbergen, Norway's group of Arctic Islands. Drilling for gas as well as oil will start in July, or before if Spitsbergen has an early summer. The Interior Department has learned that a Russian concern, Arktikugol, has been prospecting for three years and claims to have found oil. The Reds cannot start drilling until Norwegian authorities rule on this claim. Caltex and the Norwegian government have a provisional agreement under which Norway provides no capital and receives a 10 per cent royalty on petroleum products.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Profit Result of Wealth That's Been Distributed

By SAM CAMPBELL
Business Editor

The essence of business is to earn a profit.

That is the challenge you will face if and when you undertake to operate a business of your own.

The question that confronts the young man or woman of high school and college age is whether a such motivation is worth while. In a prior column, we examined the possibilities of what is commonly called a "government" career. The conclusion was that such work is characterized by disappointment, frustration, power corruption, etc., and accurately can be described as mis-government service. Today we are examining an alternate means of livelihood — a career in business.

What Is Profit?

To decide whether personal profit is worthy, one must understand precisely what profit is and is not. Two considerations illumine the term.

First of all, profit is not just any type of financial gain. For instance, a man may operate a grocery store and realize a gain on his investment, physical exertions, and mental acumen. A gunman may hold up that same store. Both men made a financial gain — one by virtue of wit, risk, and labor, the other by force. But the two gains are not of the same type.

One was honorable. That was profit. The other was dishonorable. That was plunder. Had the robber not had a gun, but instead used only guile to deprive the grocer of his profit, the character of the deed would not have been greatly altered, and the proceeds still would be described as plunder, not profit.

Pursuit of profit, therefore, confines the true businessman to honest methods. So confined, he seeks financial reward by providing a means for the exchange of human preferences.

By way of illustration, one man has products, but wants dollars. Another man has dollars, but desires products. The function of the merchant is to act as go-between between the two parties.

Thus the man with products is enabled to part with same and acquire dollars which he desired more. And the man with dollars is enabled to obtain the product that he sought. The merchant has assisted both, and both are richer in the desires of their hearts. The exchange is mutually profitable in a true business deal.

But all good things are subject to corruption. Thus willful deception may enter into a transaction. To the extent that this is so, however, the exchange is not straight business, but rather becomes a mixture of what appears to be business and fraud. Accordingly, the proceeds are plunder (at least in part), not profit.

Consistent honesty is the challenge of the business life. The businessman who develops a reputation for strict honesty earns the confidence of customers. They can rely on him. If he also adopts merchandising policies that are profitable to them, he multiplies his sales, thereby increasing the possibilities of an increasing profit for himself.

To the extent that a businessman distributes his products, he stands to profit. In other words, profit is the measure of how well a businessman distributes his wealth. No profit can be realized until AFTER wealth (that is, products) is distributed.

The business life calls for independent judgment. In its true sense, it demands scrupulous honesty. It calls for vision. At the same time it requires a firm grasp on reality, the capability to see things as they are. That is a big order, that's quite a challenge.

MISSISSIPPI ROLLING ON — Waters of the flooding Mississippi River uprooted the Navy D-land bridge in St. Paul, Minn., and rolled it down-river against a railroad bridge, left. The river reached a record crest of 24 feet above normal in St. Paul. At Hannibal, Mo., the rising waters reach up for a sign that says, "Love That H2O."

right. Residents of Hannibal do love that H2O, but running out of a faucet and not through their streets. The flooding Mississippi has claimed 12 lives, 10 in Minnesota and two in Wisconsin and forced thousands of families from their homes. Damage has been estimated at upwards of $20-million.

Attorney-Press Issue Boiling Over

By H. D. QUIGG
NEW YORK (UPI) — President Johnson, to whom every federal prosecutor in the land is responsible, has been accused of condemning in advance of trial the four men who were arrested in a Negro voting-rights march in Alabama. If Johnson had not been president, and had he not taken to television to deliver the statement to his countrywide constituency, should newspapers have felt bound morally, in fairness, and in good taste to refrain from delivering his pretrial opinion to potential jurors? Or should they have followed their customary concept of their primary duty — to tell what's going on, including public statements of police and prosecutors? And presidents and princes?

The foregoing is a somewhat grotesque (although not to the four defendants) pointing up of a bar-versus-press issue that has been boiling all over the country in a dialogue that has at some points come dangerously close to diatribe — with calmer voices calling for a reasonable balance reached by reasonable heads. It was the Chicago Tribune that made the observation about President Johnson's announcement of the arrest of four Ku Klux Klan members. "There has been a great deal of clamor about the effects of pre-trial publicity on the chances of criminal defendants to get fair trial," it said in an editorial. "The President named the names and offered an account of an unsavory association before the four men, placed under arrest only hours before, had had an opportunity to appear in court to answer the charges against them. How can such men expect a fair and impartial trial when they have been condemned in advance on the highest authority?"

It is not the first time a president has been so taken to account. At the start of the famed nine-month "Communist trial" of 1949, that party's American politburo argued that one man's utterances had made it impossible for any Communist to get a fair trial: President Truman, who had publicly called Communist traitorous such — and suches. Yet they were tried and convicted by 12 jurors who had sworn they could put aside what they had read and heard and decide the case solely on the evidence put before them and the law as Judge Harold R. Medina explained it. "But often, despite cries of 'trial by publicity,' the jury acquits. Entering the arena of argument over how to reconcile those two great pillars of a free society — right of fair trial and the public's right to know through a free press — the Detroit News said: "Primary reliance for justice must be placed on belief in the ability of jurors to do their job. That defendants do win acquittal from juries, not infrequently and at times despite heavy pretrial publicity, testifies to that ability."

"The hope of justice rests on the ultimate honor and wisdom of jurors drawn from the community. If this is too slender a reed on which to lean, then the hope of justice is illusory beyond all chance of redemption."
MEAT CARE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Variety meats, such as liver, kidneys and sweetbreads, need refrigerator storage just as other fresh meats, Department of Agriculture officials say. To assure quality, store the meat loosely covered in the coldest part of the refrigerator and use the meat within a few days after buying.
FORECAST OIL OUTPUT RISE
HOUSTON (UPI) — Forecasts for 1965 oil activity indicate crude oil production in the United States will increase by an average of 177,000 barrels daily from the rate in 1964, according to World Oil magazine.
