Governor Signs Three Redistrict Bills Passed by 59th Legislature

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. John Connally Thursday signed the three redistricting bills passed by the 59th Legislature. With the measures now officially state law, it will be up to the federal courts to decide whether or not they are legal. All three are controversial. One is the Texas congressional reapportionment bill, which shifts around Texas' 23 districts. The other two are the bills which remap Texas' legislative districts—both in the Senate and the House.

The measures were signed without comment, along with a long list of other measures, including a bill to increase the cigarette tax. That new law will help finance a teacher pay raise. The congressional redistricting bill gives the state's biggest cities more representation, but also extends the boundaries of some big city districts more than a hundred miles outward to other counties. Republicans and liberal Democrats have challenged the legality of the bill and said it represents the worst form of gerrymandering. The Texas Senate reapportionment plan also gives the big cities more representation, but it throws some senators into the same districts. The legislature approved a constitutional amendment raising the Senate from 31 members to 39 members, and if Texas voters approve that amendment, the legislature must convene in a special session to redraw the Senate map into 39 districts.

The House redistricting plan placed about one-third of the lawmakers into big-city districts in accordance with the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote ruling. Some legislators objected to the plan because it included florsial districts.

Other bills signed by Connally included: SR 370 by Sen. George P. Johnson of Dallas, allowing free games to be won in pool and pin-ball machines. SR 420 by Sen. Charles Herrington of Austin, clearing the University of Texas title to a parcel of land in Austin known as the "Bioscience tract." SR 430 by Sen. Ben Harrison of Fort Worth, creating the South China Improvement District. SR 500 by Harrison, creating the Cardinal Neundorf Improvement District. SR 501 by Harrison, creating the North Home Improvement District. SR 506 by Sen. Criss Cox of Houston, providing for the abolition of the Harris County water control and improvement district No. 45.

SR 504 by Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall, creating the Hunt County Hospital District. SR 505 by Sen. Jim Bates of Elgin, creating the Harrison State Zone. SR 258 by Rep. V. E. Reed of Brownsville, permitting members of the armed forces who are not required to live on base and who are otherwise qualified voters to vote in Texas elections.

SR 267 by Rep. Merton Murray of Harlingen, tightening requirements for plugging abandoned oil and gas wells. SR 496 by Rep. John Trappier of Seguin, requiring public utilities to special seasonal and technical cases in which no candidate gets a majority of the vote, cost.

SR 100 by Rep. Carl Metzger of Borheim, making the chairman of the State National Commission a member of the Water Pollution Control Board.

SR 102 by Rep. Bill Atwell of Dallas, requiring faster payment of state substitute taxes to bring the state Treasury a net gain of $6 million.

LBJ, 89th Congress On Collision Course

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, whose natural style is consensus and whose theme is "let's reason together," seemed today to be locked on a collision course with the 89th Congress.

The issue was as old as the United States. And as fresh as today's fat Congressional Record. The question: Where does the authority of Congress end and the President's powers begin?

The most recent crack in Johnson's relations with Congress came Thursday, when the House approved and sent to the Senate legislation to give Congress the power to veto pending ing and future closings of military bases.

The move pointed up a power struggle that Presidents since George Washington and Congress since the first have fought out with varying results.

But up to now, Johnson and the present majority on Capitol Hill have been such buddies that nobody much but Republicans have noticed out loud it was Johnson who was running the country.

Most members believe the start of the rift came Jan. 3, when Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., took over as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. Rivers had waited a long time for the job, and he served notice at once he intended to fill it.

The outbreak of hostilities was signaled Monday when Johnson vetoed a Northwest flood relief bill. He said in a polite way that Congress had gotten too big for its britches in the bill.

Rights Leaders Stage March on Chicago City Hall

By United Press International

Civil rights leaders in Chicago staged another march on city hall today in their intensified efforts to bring about the dismissal of controversial school Supt. Benjamin Willis.

James Farmer, head of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and NAACP leader Roy Wilkins were reported going to the Windy City to head the demonstrations aimed at getting Mayor Richard Daley to intervene in the controversy over the reappointment of Willis, accused by Negroes of delaying integration.

Hundreds of racial marchers trekked to city hall Thursday but were turned back by police who said the mayor was not in his office. The demonstrators were invited to come back Monday, the day astronauts James McDivitt and Edward White are to be welcomed to Chicago.

The demonstrators said they would return and Negro comedian Dick Gregory said McDivitt and White would be asked to join them in the march to city hall.

Wet, Stay Indoors Type Weekend is Forecast

By RON CROSS
The Panhandle's version of the 'monsoon' season isn't over yet and may not end until about Monday. The Amarillo Weather Bureau forecast rain for Pampa and the Panhandle through Sunday to set the stage for a wet, stay-indoors type of weekend.

Pampa received its heaviest rainfall of the week Thursday night with two inches reported in the downtown area and two and one-half inches in the south part of town. Moisture in the Panhandle area ranged from 1.02 inches at Miami to 2.30 inches at Wheeler. Briscoe reported 1.25 inches, McLean, Lefors and White Deer 1.65 inches. Gray County Agriculture Agent, Foster Whaley said today that although wheat in the county was a 'little damp,' prospects were still good for farmers to have a good wheat crop.

"We do need about 10 dry days," Whaley said. "But we've had very little hail damage. Most of our damage has come from the rain."

The county agent said that irrigation wheat would make better than 40 bushels per acre. "Our irrigation wheat is in very good shape," Whaley said.

The forecast for tonight and Saturday calls for showers and thunderstorms with Saturday's temperatures expected to be a little warmer. Readings are called for in the near 80s. Tonight's low is forecast in the mid 50s.

A wet Pacific cool front, which Thursday spawned as many as six tornadoes, damaging hail and up to 11 inches of rain in West Texas, pushed slowly eastward towards a Wichita Falls-San Angelo line (See FORECAST, Page 3)

Astronaut 'Floated' In Void

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Astronaut Edward White said today he actually used his space gun to propel himself "right out of the capsule" and float out into the void on man's first controlled walk in space.

"Man can control himself in space," he said flatly. While command pilot James McDivitt held the Gemini - 4 spacecraft steady on course, White slid out at the end of his 25-foot line on the third orbit June 3, and began "breathing a little hard" as he worked to attach a camera outside the ship.

"What I tried to do was fly, to maneuver right out of the capsule and to maneuver to my left," White said.

While the spectacular films of his 20-minute space stroll were shown to the audience at a news conference, White gave a running commentary on what he did and how he felt waiting through space, protected only by a space suit and helmet.

He said he was sorry when his twin-jet gun ran out of oxygen fuel.

He used the lifeline "to pull myself down on the spacecraft."

"I was actually walking on the spacecraft," he said. "I walked three or four steps... I was able actually to walk right up the spacecraft."

He said a thought dashed through his head as he thought that he was linked to earth by radio.

"What do you say to 194 million people (Americans)," White said was the question that went through his head.

"The view from up there is just something spectacular," White reported.

He explained why he spent longer than scheduled walking in space—a delay that brought sharp orders from the ground to "get back in."

He said he had to spend about five minutes detaching the camera and organizing his gear to slip back into the capsule.

McDivitt said of the entire four-day voyage: "Eating and sleeping in space was just as difficult up there as it was down here (on earth)."

He said it was hard to sleep on the first part of the flight partly because of "radio noise."

McDivitt said he made "drastic" efforts to rendezvous with the burned out second-stage booster rocket on the first orbit after lift-off from Cape Kennedy on June 3.

WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY—Mostly cloudy tonight with showers and thunderstorms. Partly cloudy and warmer Saturday with thunder. High Saturday near 80. Low Saturday near 50. Winds 10-20 mph.

Talks Continue On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate debate on the $3.44 billion foreign aid authorization continued today. Some senators were hopeful of quick passage, but leaders doubted final action before next week.

The Senate met today under a limitation of one hour's debate on each amendment and four hours final debate on the bill itself. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said there was a "very outside chance" for final action today, but it was expected that a final vote would not come until some time next week.

The bill before the Senate calls for a $3.44 billion authorization for military and technical assistance in the fiscal year beginning July 1, a $3.35 billion authorization the year after and an end to the current type of aid program in 1967.

The House has passed a $3.37 billion authorization for one year, the customary time period for foreign aid authorizations. The House bill contains no provision for ending the aid program in its present form.

Other congressional news: Viet Nam: U. S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam Maxwell D. Taylor was scheduled to go before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to brief members on the situation in the Southeast Asian country. Taylor is in Washington to consult with President Johnson and other officials on the anti communist war there.

Castro: Juanita Castro, the sister of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, was to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee. Miss Castro was to testify about the Communist regime in Cuba and about illegal travel to the island by Americans.

Baker: The Senate Rules Committee scheduled a closed meeting to discuss its recommendations on its investigation of Robert Baker, the former Senate Democratic secretary. Baker resigned after revelations about his business connections.

US, Viet Troops Drive Out Cong

SAIGON (UPI)—Government troops drove the Viet Cong out of Dong Xoai today in one of the bitterest battles of the war and probed northward to try to rescue what was left of a shattered relief column. It was feared government casualties might run as high as 500.

Eight more Americans were killed today when their plane crashed in the central highlands far to the north of Dong Xoai. The fighting at Dong Xoai itself cost 31 American casualties according to a U.S. spokesman—one known dead, 17 missing and 13 wounded.

There had been no radio contact for hours with the American adviser accompanying the government relief battalion of 300 to 400 men which ran into a Viet Cong ambush when it tried to reach Dong Xoai, 60 miles north of Saigon, Thursday.

The lost battalion had been flown in by helicopters when it ran into a Communist regiment. Losses were feared heavy, adding to the toll at Dong Xoai where more than 200 of the government defenders were reported killed or wounded.

FDR Jr. Available For Mayor's Race In New York City

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the man with the magic name, is available to run for mayor of New York City—if the right people ask him to.

Roosevelt made that clear Thursday during a news conference he called shortly after New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner announced he would not run for a fourth term.

Wagner's decision threw New York Democrats into an uproar. They need a strong candidate to oppose 43-year-old Rep. John V. Lindsay, who has entered the mayoralty race as an independent Republican.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., now the No. 1 contender for New York state Democratic leader, promptly said he thought Roosevelt "would be a fine candidate."

And Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the sometime maverick Democrat from Harlem, said he thought FDR Jr. "would sweep New York and give the breath of fresh air we need."

Part of Sanford Recreation Area to Open for Boating

Sanford Recreation Area at Lake Meredith will be opened to boating and fishing on Wednesday, June 16, Supt. M. J. Becker announced today.

The National Park Service is managing the recreational features of Lake Meredith under a cooperative agreement with the Bureau of Reclamation. The lake contains about 1,610 surface acres and is being opened on an interim basis. The Sanford Dam and its immediate environs are still closed to the public.

Entrance to the recreation area is only at "designated areas" and only one such access has been established. This is at the Sanford-Yale area. No other access is presently open to the public. The public boat launching ramp will be opened for use Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has recommended that fishing be permitted on the lake. Until such time as a cooperative agreement can be worked out with the Parks and Wildlife Department the fishing regulation will be in accordance with the Panhandle Hunting, Fishing, and Trapping Proclamation No. C-18.

Rules and regulations for the safe and orderly management of National Park Service Areas are found in Title 36 of the Code of Federal Regulations. These regulations apply to the operation of the recreational features of Lake Meredith, Becker said.

Since the initial stress will be on boating and public safety he (See SANFORD, Page 3)

POWELL RUNS THE BEST SHOW IN TOWN

Congressman's News Conference Good For a Laugh

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Without a doubt, the best show in town is run by preacher-politician-congressman - author orator-bon vivant Adam Clayton Powell. And it's free — though Powell picked up some loose change in his latest extravaganza.

The New York Democrat's harshest critics may knock his head off in print, but they're sure to turn out for his free-wheeling news conferences. If there's no news, at least there's always a chuckle or two.

Thursday's conference, produced, directed and starred-in by the Harlem-Globetrotter, could be called the "Best of Powell." It was staged in the House Education and Labor Committee room which is done in Cleopatra-modern, a milt-high and all blue plush. Powell is committee chairman.

Greets Powell
"Hello, Mr. Chairman," I said to him in the lobby just before he made his entrance. "Hello baby," he said. The show was on.

Wearing a television blue shirt and a sparkling white jacket, Powell was all grin as he surveyed the scene from the top row of his personal stridor. He had two reasons to be happy. His most recent political foe, New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner, had announced he would not run for another term. And Powell had just settled a 16-year-old tax case against him for $27,000—$13,000 less than the government wanted — and all charges of fraud were dropped.

The tax case, he told his audience of 50 newsmen, tourists and Powell fans, "represents a big monkey off my back."

Ted Knap of the New York World Telegram asked the first question: "How are you going to raise the money?"

Pass The Plate
"As an old Baptist preacher and humble parish priest I'm going to pass the plate," he said, lighting up a Tiparillo.

The questioning turned to the New York political situation. Powell announced his support of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. for mayor.

Someone wanted to know why Powell himself didn't run. He surveyed the carpeted and oak splendor of the committee room for a moment. "How could I leave all this grandeur for city hall?" He got no reply.

Well, what makes FDR Jr. a better candidate than Rep. John V. Lindsay, the Republican hopeful?

"Because he's a Democrat," Powell said without hesitation.

From the corner of the room could be heard the chuckles of a former Playboy Club bunny who now hops about the committee room as a loyal Powell employee. Her pink bouffant hairdo shook with merriment.

Final Decision
Powell said with a smile that he wouldn't run for mayor. That decision was "final and irrevocable — (pause) unless there is enough money."

Just what did he mean by that?

"Why — (pause) to finance the campaign."

The congressman then revealed that he knew Wagner would not run even before Wagner knew he would not run. Everyone seemed to interpret this as pure Powell to be ignored, except a deadly serious television man who wanted to know how Powell knew before Wagner knew Wagner would not run.

Even Powell appeared nonplussed by the naivete of the questioner, but told him because he was a politician and, therefore, knew the impossible. Powell said, "Okay? Okay?" and the news conference ended with Powell's remarking: "There's a collection plate at the door."

A cameraman picked up an empty film can and contributed a coin. Powell smiled, reached from his chair and dropped a coin in his chair.

Visitors Pay Important Part In Recovery of Sick Loved One

Many people do not realize it, but in the role of a visitor to a friend or loved one in the hospital, you play a part in the patient's recovery. Every person who visits a patient may do something to promote or retard the patient's recovery.

Hospital rules and regulations may seem unnecessary and possibly too stringent, but they have been established over a long period of time in the best interests of the patient. Many times rules governing visits are the result of the doctor's wishes or perhaps those of the patient. When calling upon a friend in the hospital, the first thing to remember is to limit your visit to 15 minutes. If the patient wishes to discuss his illness, be a good listener, but don't ask questions or add comments to prolong the discussion and try tactfully to switch the topic away from his sickness.

Invariably, when the patient is first admitted, visitors come in droves at a time when he is least able to cope with them. The time to visit is during convalescence when he is more himself and in better shape to receive you. During the period of initial hospitalization, a brief, cheery note or get well card shows you are concerned about your friend and that your thoughts are with him.

When the patient has several other visitors in his room, and after you make your presence known, if they do not indicate that they are leaving, it is desirable that you leave and return another time. Actually, only two visitors should be in the room at a time to avoid overcrowding which may hinder the activities of the nursing staff or physician.

If the physician or minister should call upon the patient while you are visiting him, you should immediately withdraw.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Trouble for the Congo certainly could not be said to be over, but as the former Belgian colony approached the end of its fifth year of independence the outlook was far more encouraging than even a few months before.

For Moise Tshombe also things had changed for the better.

A year ago at this time he was an exile living in Spain. This time he was back in Madrid but under entirely different circumstances. For now he no longer was the disgraced leader of an abortive attempt to break up the Congo. He was instead the premier of the whole of the Congo.

And in Madrid he had negotiated a commercial agreement under which, in exchange for Spanish technical aid and financial cooperation, the Congo would supply Spain with tropical woods, coffee, tea, rubber and other raw materials.

The new climate in which Tshombe found himself also represented a change for the United States.

Given Full Support
In the Congo, the United States had given full support to a four-year United Nations attempt to restore peace and stability, the military phase of which ended on June 30 of last year still far from success.

In so doing, the United States chose a deliberate course which won the contemptuous disapproval of French President Charles de Gaulle and strident propaganda attacks from the Soviet Union, Red China and such presumably non-aligned African states as Ghana, the United Arab Republic and Algeria.

The attacks redoubled when last July the United States elected to support Tshombe as Congolese premier and the latter hired white mercenaries to put down Communist-supported attempts to chew up the Congo into bits and pieces.

A side effect of the Congolese debacle was a serious weakening of both the economic and moral fibre of the United Nations.

The turn when it came was dramatic and came from two circumstances.

Some 200 white mercenaries under the leadership of flamboyant Michael Hoare from Johannesburg turned back rebel forces with ridiculous ease.

The divided rebel leadership fled and Hoare and his mercenaries quickly cut lines of rebel supplies from the Sudan and Uganda.

For Tshombe's immediate future, the second event was just as important.

of primary concern, the water recreation activities on the lake will be governed by the boating regulations which are available in their entirety at the Park Service's office at Sanford Dam and which are briefly set forth as follows:

1. Launching of boats is restricted to designated areas (only Sanford Yake at present).

2. Boats must be numbered in accordance with the U.S. Coast Guard or approved State systems.

3. The statutory Rules of the Road must be observed.

4. Prohibited operations include:

a. Violations of the Rules of the Road.

b. Reckless or negligent operation.

c. Operation while under the influence of intoxicants.

d. Passengers riding on gunwales, transom or bow decking.

e. Speed in excess of 5 miles per hour in launching area.

5. Safe maximum capacity load limits shall be maintained.

6. The towing of water skiers, surfboards and similar devices is subject to the following conditions:

a. Towing permitted only from sunrise to sunset.

b. Competent operator and observer required in tow boat.

c. The turning direction shall be counter-clockwise.

d. Skiers shall wear a life-saving device.

e. Such activity not permitted within 50 feet of a launching area.

8. No vessel shall be left unattended in excess of 24 hours.

9. No rubbish, refuse nor toilet waste shall be discharged into the waters.

Becker emphasized that Lake Meredith is a municipal water supply reservoir and that extraordinary sanitation precautions will be required to prevent bacterial and organic pollution. Trash receptacles and toilets will be located at the launching ramp for the convenience of boaters.

Funeral services for Dennis Marion Cornelison, 17, of Shiprock, N. M., drowning victim, will be conducted at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Basin Mortuary Chapel in Farmington, N. M. Interment will follow in Mancos, Colo. Cemetery.

The youth drowned Tuesday in Morgan Lake near Farmington, N. M. He was born May 19, 1948, in Pampa. He resided here until five years ago when he moved to Mancos, Colo., with his parents. The family moved to Shiprock, N. M., about two years ago.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cornelison, a sister, Gayle Cornelison, and a brother, Alan Dee Cornelison, all of the home in Shiprock; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Cornelison of Pampa; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lyon of Chillicothe.

Pampan Awarded Highest Degree Of Moose Lodge

In a solemn and impressive ceremony Samuel B. Goodan, of Pampa, recently was awarded the highest and most coveted degree of the Loyal Order of Moose at Mooseheart, Ill.

Goodan, a member of the Pampa Moose Lodge for many years, was awarded the Pilgrim Degree of Merit for his outstanding service and continued devotion to the humanitarian program of his fraternity.

Investiture of the Pilgrim Class sponsored by Director General Paul P. Schmitz was held June 5 in the Mooseheart House of God under the leadership of Pilgrim Governor Rodney H. Brandon, Pilgrim Junior Governor J. Jack Stoehr and a staff of past supreme governors.

The local Moose Pilgrim honoree was one of more than 150 Moose members from all parts of the United States and Canada to receive the degree. The distinction of the award is noted by the fact that only one of about every 5,000 Moose members receives the degree each year.

Pampan Missing Payroll Check

A $116.93 payroll check was reported stolen yesterday.

Gerald D. Wyche, south of Pampa, told Pampa police that the check was taken from his lunch pail sitting in the front seat of a pick-up parked at 200 E. Tuke.

The truck was unlocked, Wyche said.

Weathermen said the front was expected to bog down again and become stationary, raising the possibility of a return of the violent weather which caused widespread crop and property damage and local flooding Thursday.

Temperatures behind the front were in the chilly 50s, ranging down to 53 at El Paso, while ahead of the front readings ranged to nearly 80 degrees along the coast at dawn.

Skies were clearing well behind the front, but the rain activity covered a 150-mile wide band immediately west of the leading edge of the sluggish front. Partly cloudy and warm weather prevailed elsewhere.

Official weather bureau rain measurements showed 3.03 inches at Amarillo, 1.50 at Wink, 80 at Millard and Lubbock, 94 at Dalhart and 52 at Alpine, but the area just north and west of Lubbock—which bore the brunt of the violent weather—reported much more rain.

The heaviest rainfall came south of Muleshoe, where a farmer recorded 11 inches. It continued to rain many hours after the amount was recorded.

Other farmers in the same area recorded from eight to 10 inches of rain Thursday.

Lesser amounts of rain would have been a blessing to some areas, but the torrential downpours that occurred damaged thousands of acres of crops.

Reports of broken terraces in fields, fields covered with five inches of water and flooded highways were common in the Muleshoe area.

Rains from less than an inch to five inches deluged all of the Panhandle and South Plains.

None of the tornadoes which were reported caused any damage. They all skipped through the open country. There was one near Tulia, one near Littlefield, two near Levelland and another near Plainview. Another tornado touched ground in Southwest Texas near Wink, where a heat spell was broken by the rains which fell.

Reports of hail was not as heavy as the two other days of turbulence, but large hail did fall in the counties of Lamb, Bailey and Hockley. Crop damage there also heavy.

The fighting raged all day and through the night by the lurid light of flares. Only today did the Viet Cong begin withdrawing. And still today the guerrillas were sending up heavy anti-aircraft fire at helicopters flying into the area and at the planes attacking them.

Former Pampan Dies of Burns

Burton Franklin (Topy) Reynolds of Farmington, N. M., member of a Gray County pioneer family, died at 12 noon yesterday in Farmington, N.M., as a result of injuries received 15 days ago in an explosion.

Mr. Reynolds, 44, was born June 16, 1921, in Gray County and had been a resident here until two years ago, when he moved to Farmington.

Mr. Reynolds received second degree burns over 60 per cent of his body in an explosion which demolished a new store the former Pampan was opening. He went to the store the morning of May 26 for the opening and, according to officials, apparently lit a cigarette causing leaking gas to explode. Mr. Reynolds was blown through a window and into the street 50 feet from the store.

Mr. Reynolds was a member of Pampa First Baptist Church. He served with the U.S. Air Force in World War II.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Doris Reynolds of Farmington; his father, E. E. Reynolds of Amarillo; two sons, David and Daniel Reynolds of Kansas City, Mo.; two daughters, Judy and Jennie Reynolds, of Kansas City, Mo.; a step-daughter, Patricia Donnell of Farmington, N.M.; four brothers, Wiley and Albert Reynolds of Pampa, Henry Reynolds of Window Rock, Ariz., and Noel Reynolds of Albuquerque, N.M., and one sister, Mrs. Ruth Osborne of Pampa.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Saturday in First Baptist Church here with Rev. E. Douglas Carver officiating. Interment will follow in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors.

Nephews of the deceased will serve as pallbearers.

Dear Abby.... Son Received Too Much too Easily

DEAR ABBY: When I think of how many boys would give anything for the opportunity our son had and threw away, I could cry. He is 19 and has had one year of college, but he washed out. Both his father and I are college graduates and over the years we have stressed the importance of a college education. Our son was an average high school student, but he was active in sports so we thought if he concentrated on his studies in college he would do better. Abby, we gave this boy a beautiful wardrobe, a car of his own and a liberal allowance, and he didn't even make grades good enough to keep him in school. We later learned he didn't bother to go to half his classes. He has a good mind, is good-looking and has never had any trouble making friends. Where have we failed?

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: Do not assume that because he failed, you did. Your mistake was in giving him too much. A boy who has never had to work for anything has difficulty disciplining himself to work for grades. You can lead a lad to college, but you can't make him think. Take heart in the knowledge that some people mature later than others. Perhaps one day your son will realize his foolishness and resume his schooling. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: I read somewhere that a girl can get cancer from kissing a boy who smokes a lot if he has an open cut on his lip. Is this true?
"FOURTEEN AND WORRYING"
DEAR WORRYING: This is not true. But other diseases are easily transmitted in this way. While you may be old enough to read, you are obviously not old enough to kiss anyone on the lips. So if you want to quit worrying, I advise you to kiss less and read more.

DEAR ABBY: After eight years of marriage my husband suddenly quit wearing his wedding ring. I asked him whom he was trying to deceive into thinking that he was not a married man. He denied that it was intentional. He is an executive so his job has nothing to do with it. I wanted to give him a taste of his own medicine so I refused to wear my wedding ring unless he started wearing his again. He put it on, but a week later I noticed that he was without it. This time it was under the pretense that he had removed it to wash his hands and "forgot" to put it back on his finger. The ring lay in front of his face in the soap dish for over a week. I know that he has no objections to wearing a wedding ring because when he first met me he was wearing one, and his wife had been dead for over a year. Please advise me as I am . . .

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: Don't jump to conclusions. Perhaps his forgetfulness is accidental. Don't attempt to give him a taste of his own medicine. An overdose could be fatal. (To your marriage.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SERIOUS" IN PHILADELPHIA: If you permit your wife to talk you into piercing your ears so that you can wear earrings just to please her, go ahead and pierce them. What's another couple of holes in your head?

Women Bowling Pros Strike Out Slacks

ALL-IN-ONE COMFORT — Pert and feminine is this one-piece pant jumper with flaring skirt legs in Avril and cotton with the look of linen. It has just enough stretch to give where it should. Designed by Karen Dahlgard for McGregor and approved for bowling by AMF.

By HELEN HENNESSY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — After the fall '64 Paris collections it seemed touch and go as to whether pants hangers would replace the dress variety as the most needed closet equipment for women. We were assured that pants would be worn everywhere from ballroom to bowling alley.
Fortunately, at least from my viewpoint, leading American designers came out with a collective NO. "Pants are not for town," they said. "They're just for sportswear and country."
Since I believe that pants are unflattering to most women, it was nice to hear that they were being relegated solely to sportswear by our fashion authorities. But now it seems that trousers are losing ground even in the active sportswear area.
In the 1965 Women's International Bowling Congress Championship Tournament, bowlers may wear dresses, blouses with skirts or culottes, but no slacks.
The key to this rule, according to Georgia E. Veatch, WIBC first vice president, is good taste. Good taste, she feels, concentrates on modesty and femininity.
Well, the women's bowling group in the U.S., and it's a big one (the WIBC has 2.6 million bowlers registered and there are unquestionably a large number of casual bowlers, too), won't miss the passing of slacks as correct attire. Comfort, freedom and a wonderful lean and leggy look are incorporated in the new co-ordinates designed for "striking gals" by manufacturers of bowling toys.
A new 50-50 blend of Avril and cotton, called Linspand, has been used for many new bowling fashions. It has the look of nubbin and has just enough stretch to "give" when action is needed.
One group of co-ordinates created especially for bowling by designer Karen Dahlgard is the epitome of the soft, feminine fashion mood for spring and summer.

There are pant jumpers with flaring pants skirts, knee-topping A-skirts with zip fronts, all to be mixed and matched with print shirts and Bermudas in pastel shades.
These fashions should be flattering to the average woman bowler. For a survey conducted by a leading women's bowling magazine has turned up an interesting fact. The typical woman bowler, it seems, is not a teen-ager. She is a housewife and mother, about 36, whose husband is also a bowler. And most mature women look far more attractive in feminine sports clothes than they do in pants.
To further the trend toward femininity in sports clothes, there are matching shoes and tote bags for the feminine bowling contingent and a wide array of rainbow colors in bowling balls — one is even multi-colored.

TRIM TEAM — More comfortable than slacks for bowling, this sleeveless shirt and slim Bermuda team in Sweet Clover print is typical of the new bowling fashions. It is from the "Her" McGregor Pro Shop Collection for '65. Shoes and bowling ball from the AMF Fashion Line.

Religious Leaders Are Troubled About Viet War

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
Many U.S. religious leaders are troubled in conscience about this country's military activities in Viet Nam.
And they are beginning to say so out loud.

A statement this week by the editors of "Christianity and Crisis," one of the nation's most respected Protestant journals. Among the signers were such heavyweight theologians as Reinhold Niebuhr, John C. Bennett, Robert McAfee Brown and Harvey Cox.

Doubt Wisdom
They said that "many men of insight doubt the wisdom of our policy" in Viet Nam.

Without claiming that their viewpoint is "the only one compatible with Christian faith and ethic," the Protestant thinkers voiced three strong convictions about U.S. policy:

—"In no case can we sanction the bombing of population centers in North Viet Nam."
Reflect Awareness
—"Our policy needs to reflect awareness that the disorder in South Viet Nam is in part an internal conflict and cannot be overcome merely by action taken from the outside."

—"The United States must clarify the apparent conflict between its offer of unconditional negotiations and its insistence on an independent South Viet Nam as the outcome of negotiations."

There has been comparatively little criticism of the administration's Viet Nam policy from Catholic leaders. On the contrary, Msgr. George Higgins, director of the Social Action Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, let go recently with a blast at "uninformed clergymen" who "insist that the United States get out of Viet Nam immediately, regardless of the consequences."

Msgr. Higgins also refused any official Catholic participation in an interfaith "March on the Pentagon" which was staged last month by some 500 religious leaders to dramatize their concern about the Viet Nam situation.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE
UP Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite the heat-up in the Southeast Asia conflict, the job market for electronics executives flourishes at present among firms aiming at the non-military areas.

This is the conclusion reached by Lon D. Barton, president of Cadillac Associates Inc., Chicago, one of the nation's largest executive recruiting and procurement firms.

Barton, who has been at this business for 20 years, reports that in the past 60 days there has been an upward surge in the demand for electronic executives. The firm has its own "most wanted" list, and the demand shows in that category.

Barton likened the present demand to that which occurred during the Korean War in that "we are receiving orders for 15, 25, even 10 men with electronics experience," he said.

But there is a difference: while electronics executives and technicians with military work experience are still being placed, firms today are not as much interested in them as in past years.

Most of the orders come from civilian-oriented firms, he said. Their search stems from a desire to broaden their product line. Where it was not too many years ago that a firm with a contract for one or two military items might consider itself in good shape, it may be today that they are seeking actively to reduce their dependence upon military business, while maintaining a readiness to bid on it if they can handle it within their product framework.

There is a qualification in this trend, however. Barton said that in recent days, there was some indication of a firmer interest in the "military people," and the demand for these might rise within a month.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is always nice to have something to look forward to, so I thought I should remind you that National Fink Week is coming up June 20-26.

The observance is being sponsored by the Fair Play for Finks Committee of Davison, Mich., a nonprofit organization dedicated to stamping out finkmanship where it appears.

At this point, I am pleased to turn the platform over to the committee's distinguished chairman, Herschel P. Fink, a newspaperman himself, who will explain the background and goals of the campaign.

"Our purpose is to restore dignity to the honorable surname of Fink. We have long been appalled by the widespread misuse of this fine name in the various media and by the general public."

"We of the committee view this trend with alarm. Fink Week was established this year to remind persons who misuse the name that this is unfair and inaccurate."

"Finkmanship, which is the use of the word in its non-capitalized, or small 'f,' form, grew out of a misnomer."

"The term was a originally 'pink,' a contraction of Pinkerton, and referred to strikebreakers recruited by the detective agency."

Christian Ethics Applied on Job

With increasing stress being put upon the relevancy of religion to life today while lots of persons seem concerned only with material success and comforts, many persons are asking if it's really possible to be guided by Christian teachings in one's daily work.

David W. Graig, Pittsburgh public safety director, former city solicitor, and national authority on city planning, mentioned that a recent study had indicated that major executives tend to make their best decisions within about 10 seconds after hearing a question.

"I do not believe any decision can be made on the current facts," asserts Otto, president of the Otto Milk Company. He also is president of Pittsburgh's Methodist Church Union.

"You must have a background from which to draw and develop," he says.

"Regular attendance at church and your everyday religious life," Mr. Otto continues, "are feeding a program into your individual 'computer' for making decisions."

Investment Banker Cunningham, president of Cunningham, Schmeitz & Co., Inc., thinks that a "feeling of need" is essential for an individual to become a sincere Christian. He adds:

"Many people never really come to a religious experience because of this. They play around with it, but they really have no basic feeling of need. Their efficiency is within themselves."

This leads Safety Director Craig to wonder if such feeling of need is necessary before a person becomes concerned about others. And, he says, it highlights the importance of "looking outside yourself for guidance."

Industrialist Hickman gives emphasis to this by citing that Christianity gives the individual "a sense of values."

Coming to grips with the core of the discussion in Together magazine, Dr. Hanna points out that belief can be merely passive, involving nothing more than intellectual assent. But he expresses himself emphatically:

"The other way (of looking at the word believe) is a very dynamic way, which entails responsibility and activity on your part."

The discussion, Making Christian Decisions, on the job, was tape-recorded by Together Associate Editor Newman S. Croyer in Pittsburgh's Smithfield Street Methodist Church. Craig acted as panel moderator.

Perryton Man Named TACC District Head

LUBBOCK Robert Lemmon, Perryton, will serve as District I chairman in the Disciples of Christ $3,365,000 development program to aid member churches and institutions of the Texas Association of Christian Churches, Fort Worth. George Kuykendall, regional chairman here, announces.

Sermon Set At Christian Science

Assurance of God's care for all is offered in the Bible lesson entitled "God the Preserver of Man" which will be heard at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Sunday Message Announced by Lamar Christian

"A New Testament Worship Service," has been chosen by Rev. Ford Ellis as his morning message at the Lamar Christian Church.

Other members of TACC's development council are Joseph E. Chastain, Dallas, chairman; Theo. P. Beasley, Charles J. Anthony, both of Dallas, and William C. Conner, Fort Worth, vice chairmen.

M. J. Neely will head the development fund with Lambuth Tomlinson as vice chairman. Both are from Fort Worth.

TACC's unity and close workmanship with its member churches has unlimited possibilities in the essential work of the church at district, state, national and world levels.

The Hauks will leave immediately following the second service to travel to New Jersey to begin a five-week pulpit exchange which will bring the Rev. Clyde Mellinger, pastor of the Kilburn Memorial Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J., and his family to Pampa for the same length of time.

Several overtures ask the Synod to act favorably on membership in the Lutheran Council in the United States, cooperative agency proposed as the successor to the National Lutheran Council. The council was drawn up by representatives of the Synod together with the American Lutheran Church, Lutheran Church in America and the Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

H. M. VEACH, PASTOR
UNITED PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

REVOLUTION AND THE CHURCH ACTS 17:1-7

The words are so plain we almost see the picture. The people of Thessalonica were saying, "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also." We can almost hear them.

Everywhere these men have been they have revolutionized things. In a sense they had turned the world upside down elsewhere. They had seen lives, families, communities and cities revolutionized by the Gospel of Christ, which is the power of God unto salvation. The demon possessed and oppressed had been made free. The bondage of sin had been shattered. Prisoners had been shaken to the place that prisoners could go free. Souls were being converted in every sense of the word. Yes, lives had been revolutionized by the Gospel. Changed by the Power of God.

I ask in this limited space today. If the Lord be with us, where be his miracles? Jud. 6:13. Where is the Revolutionizing power of the Gospel today? Where is the power today that once caused a person to quit the path of sin and begin to pursue a life of righteousness? Why don't the Gospel that's preached in Churches today take the unwholesome unchrist like habits away from us and place there instead a love for God, and God clean living?

I think we can answer our own question now. If the Gospel isn't transforming, revolutionizing lives in our Churches it's simply because we aren't preaching and obeying the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ. RESOLUTIONS are fine for New Years Eve, but the Born again experience is the only thing that will REVOLUTIONIZE our lives and make them Christ like. John 3:1-7.

Some say it was only for days gone by. Friend we had better hear the Word of God and pay heed to it. Heb. 13:8 Jesus Christ the same yesterday and today and forever. The Gospel that turned the world upside down then will turn the same trick today.

PTC Enters 13 In Lubbock Run

Rain, work and the wheat harvest have cut down on the field the Pampa Track Club will send to the Lubbock TAAF-Jaycee track meet tomorrow, but 13 young runners from Pampa, White Deer, Canadian and Skellytown will still take the field in the senior and intermediate divisions, with some 16 preps and juniors from Skellytown and a number of intermediates, preps and juniors from Lefors as well. Almost all the youngsters competing for the three clubs have qualified for the Jaycee state meet and will be warming up for that event as well as seeking more honors.

Strongest threats for the PTC will again be the hurdles and the high jump as Bones Bullard will again be favored in the high hurdles and expected to fight off teammate Randy Elliott in the 100s. Little Butch Crossland, Keith Yarnold and Roy Armstrong will again make a powerful representation in the high jump. Elliott will be one of the favorites in the pole vault and Butcherboy Bennie Eckles in the high jump, with Eckles figured strong in all field events, in the shot put, discus and pole vault also.

Armstrong, Yarnold and Crossland will be in the 100-yard dash, Armstrong and Yarnold in the 220. Armstrong, Yarnold, Crossland and Elliott will make up the 440-yard relay team.

State mile champ Mark Westbrook reported his leg injury as not bothering him today, and had strong hopes of running in the mile.

The PTC will field only three boys in the intermediate division, as the Canadian sophomore relay team will all be busy with the wheat harvest. Otto Wheeler will run both high and low hurdles and enter the high jump; Vernon Marlar and Larry Bates will be in the shotput and discus.

A quartet of Pampa and White Deer girls will be fighting for honors in the distaff division. The Young twins, Carolyn and Marolyn, will have a busy day in the senior division. Marolyn in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the 60-yard low hurdles, the 60-yard high and the high jump; Carolyn carrying the area hopes in all field events including the shot put.

Speedy Connie Parrish will have a busy day in the intermediates, running the 100, 220 and 440 and in the high jump and broad jump. Sandy Oler will be a strong threat in the prep high jump and will also enter the 440.

The meet will start at noon at the Monterey Track, with finals beginning at 6 p. m.

Allen Belts Baseballs Into Home Run Orbits

By United Press International
In Connie Mack Stadium they've renamed home plate "The Cape" and dubbed Richie Allen "Titan II."

Which is testimony to the number of baseballs the lithe Philadelphia third baseman has placed in orbit recently with tape-measure blasts, rivaling those of Mickey Mantle and Frank Howard.

Allen already claims a couple of 500-foot rockets this season, and he approached that distance again Thursday night with a home run that soared high over the leftfield roof, landing an estimated 485 feet from "The Cape."

The launching came with a man on base and was followed by another homer, by Dick Stuart, which enabled the Phils and Ray Herbert to sink the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0.

Milwaukee drubbed Chicago 6-4, Cincinnati outslugged St. Louis 8-7, San Francisco blanked New York 3-0 and Pittsburgh edged Houston 4-2 in other National League action.

Johnny Podres was the victim of Allen's orbital shot in the three-run sixth inning. The victory was the second for Herbert in as many starts against the Dodgers and his 100th career victory and 13th shutout. He allowed only seven hits and did not issue a walk.

Allen powered one of the longest homers in the history of Connie Mack Stadium May 29 when he drove a pitch by the Cubs' Larry Jackson over a billboard atop the left centerfield stands. The ball hit a tree on Woodstock Street, an estimated 500 feet away. Only one other player—Joe Adcock—has cleared that billboard.

Juan Marichal extended several astounding streaks by blanking the Mets. The triumph marked the 12th straight for the San Francisco rightlander over the Mets without a loss, his third straight shutout of New York this season, and it stretched his streak of scoreless innings to 31 against his pet patsies.

Jesus Alou and Jim Davenport slugged solo home runs in support of Marichal, who has allowed the Mets just one run in 52 innings.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI) — The complaint department is downstairs to your right.

It should be swamped by a lot of misguided fathers and mothers who fail to discover their son's names on baseball's new list of "sweepstakes" winners.

Many parents are sure they have another Mickey Mantle in their midst and also are bound to feel their young hopefuls were given the brushoff in baseball's unprecedented free agent draft.

The major league people contend that any such parents are dead wrong and have the written evidence to prove it, too, in the form of detailed reports on the baseball ability of nearly 100,000 boys in this country.

"I don't see how any boy possibly can be missed," said Johnny McHale, president of the Milwaukee Braves, among those attending the two-day draft.

"For this meeting alone, we came in with reports on more than 1,400 young players. No boy with any ability whatsoever is overlooked for long. Some way or another, we usually hear about him. From friends, scouts, coaches, newspapermen and even taxi drivers."

The Kansas City A's had first crack during Tuesday's opening session and there wasn't anyone in the room who didn't agree they picked the No. 1 young prospect in the land in 19-year-old Rick Monday.

The point is if the A's knew it, so did the Mets, White Sox, Cardinals, Indians, Tigers and so on down the line. There is no way a boy with any ability can remain undiscovered, providing he shows that ability to someone, and there are any number of ways he can do that.

"Most kids who have any ability at all are seen by scouts and even the few who aren't seen have a chance to go to tryout camps," pointed out Houston farm director Eddie Robinson. "We hold two tryout camps in Texas each year and have one coming up this Friday and Saturday at Tyler. Ten of our scouts will be there."

Veteran Nick Shinkoff has been scouting a quarter of a century for the Giants and insists there is "no chance" any prospect could be missed by all 20 major league clubs.

"All clubs start scouting boys during their freshman year in high school," he said. "They're only about 15-16 years old at that time. We also scout them in American Legion ball, other amateur leagues and in the sandlots."

"If a father or mother says his or her son wasn't looked at, the chances are he was and that the parents didn't even know about it. You can bet on one thing: No boy with ability has been left off the free agent list."

Owner Bob Carpenter of the Phillies conceded it was impossible to cover every nook and hamlet in the nation, and said a prospect somehow could be overlooked but added the chances were slim.

"I remember the case of Jim Owens," said Carpenter. "He lived in Bradford, Pa., not that far from Philadelphia, and he walked into our office and asked for a tryout."

That did not necessarily mean, however, that no scout ever had sent in a report on Owens.

Buzzy Bavasi may have put it best when he said he didn't think that "any boy who has major league ability is running an elevator right now."

The Dodger veep pointed out his scouts had seen more than 5,000 players the past year and that total was pared to 275 names for the draft.

"Eventually, a boy will be seen by someone, no matter where he is," Bavasi declared. "And you always get recommendations. Why, just a few minutes ago one of my ex-ballplayers came up and told me about this particular prospect. He said no one knew about the boy, he was on no one's list, his mother is looking for an $80,000 bonus and that the kid was a real sleeper."

"I listened to everything he said, then told him to let the kid keep sleeping."

Randy To Miss Meet, Bad Knee

HOUSTON (UPI) — Randy Matson, who holds the pending world record in the shotput at 70 feet 7 inches, said today he will not compete in the NCAA championships June 17-19, because his injured left knee has not responded to treatment.

The Texas A&M sophomore told UPI he will spend the summer working on weights at the Golfcrest Country Club in Houston during leisure hours from his job at the Metallic Building Co.

"It's (the knee) been bothering me," Matson said. "I think the only way it will get better is for me to just rest."

"I will start working on weights next week with A&M weight coach Emil Mamaliga," Matson said. "I'm losing weight with all this inactivity."

Matson strained the ligaments in his knee last winter.

In College Station, A&M coach Charley Thomas said Matson hates to go to the meet and not do his best.

Thomas also told UPI that Matson had lost his incentive because it appeared he would not be able to go to the AAU meet this summer which will determine U.S. athletes to compete against the Russians.

The NCAA recently banned its athletes from the AAU meet.

"If something happens where I can go to the AAU meet to compete against the Russians, I might do that," Matson said, "but just going to the NCAA isn't worth hurting my knee any more."

Matson said he plans to return to his hometown of Pampa, Tex., a week before the fall semester starts.

Two Mustangs To Southwestern

WEATHERFORD, Okla. —

Two Wheeler High seniors have received athletic scholarships at Southwestern State College. Billy Overcast, Wheeler starting two-way guard for three years, and Jimmy "Sleepy" Adams, defensive tackle starter for three years, will both go to Southwestern next fall on grid scholarships.

BILLY OVERCAST

Overcast, 6'0" and 175, is slated to play offensive and defensive end for the Bulldogs. A nephew of Clarendon JC coach Lawrence Overcast, Billy was two-way all-district first team in his senior year. All Top O' Texas first team defense, and a nominee for the Class B all-state team.

Adams, 6'2" and 208, was all-district and honorable mention All-TOT.

The pair played on the Wheeler team that won 12 straight games and the regional championship this past year, and had a 10-1 record as bi-district champions the year before.

Four Mustangs have received scholarship this year, as all-state fullback Dunk Porter will go to Oklahoma State and tackle Jimmy Jamieson to New Mexico Highlands.

Two Tie For Lead In Open

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Champagne Tony Lema and Billy Casper used excellent putting control Thursday to tie for the first round lead of the Cleveland Open golf tournament at 67 and set a pace that, if continued, could run into another championship playoff.

Lema, winner of the Buick Open last weekend, set out to show the field the way with birdies on the first two holes. He finished just as strongly with only one bogie against five birdies and pars on all the other holes for his four-under-par total on 35-32.

Casper, a late starter who said after his round that minor surgery performed at a Cleveland hospital Wednesday night almost kept him off the course, had one of his most satisfying rounds with four birdies and 14 pars. He went out in 34 and fired 33 on the return.

The 147-man field will be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's second round at the par 71 Highland Park course.

It seemed Lema was going to make it a runaway first round and, in fact, only 27 of the pros were under par at the end of the day.

But Casper's late rush and outstanding efforts by Tommy Aaron, Dan Sikes, Billy Martindale, Bob Reith Jr. and Johnny Pott for 68 cards rightened things considerably and indicated the battle to be fought for the winner's $25,000 share of the $125,000 purse.

Sundevils Set For NCAA Final

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Arizona State, riding a 16-game winning streak, tries to sew up the NCAA College World Series championship tonight against underdog Ohio State.

The Buckeyes, who lost their previous series encounter with Arizona State, must win two in a row to claim the title. An Ohio State victory tonight would throw the series into a Saturday night tie playoff.

The Sundevils eliminated St. Louis University Thursday night with an easy 6-2 win after Ohio State's Steve Arlin turned in the series' top pitching performance, a 15-inning 1-0 win over Washington State. Arlin fanned a record 20 batters as the Buckeyes eliminated Washington State by dealing it its second loss.

John Pavlik, a righthander, limited St. Louis to six hits. Arizona State jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first inning and sewed up the game with a three-run burst in the third.

Luis Lagunas drove in both first innings runs with a single. St. Louis catcher Joe Gegg homered in the ninth with the bases empty.

Ohio State scored its winning run in the 15th when Washington State shortstop Duane Ross man booted a grounder, allowing Jim Graham to score from third.

Play was the low two balls on each hole in each foursome.

The Borger team of Dr. Harvey Hays, Brian Evans, Dr. Ivan Hull, and C. E. Barnes had a 120 score, as did the all-Amarillo Air Force Base team of Devant Cox, Dick Brown, Jack Paris and J. W. McClellan.

Amarillo's Ken Hicks and Brown tied for low amateur honors with par 72 totals. Perryton's Richard Hale was the low professional with 67 and Pam-pa's Hart Warren had 69.

Warren and Amarillo's Roy Fain won the pro-pro event with a low ball 66. Host pro Joe Houck and Hale were second with 67.

In Texas after golf beer's the one... for good taste, good fun

After a hard-played 18 holes, it's good to settle down on a soft chair in the club house and add up the score with friends. What better time for the drink that scores with almost every golfer—cool, thirst-quenching beer? Yes, beer's great to relax with, great for refreshment, great for taste. So whatever your sport—boating or baseball—swimming or tennis—relax afterwards with the zestful taste of beer.

TOGETHERNESS

Tired Willie Mays Needs Rest, Giants Need Willie

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I'm human just like anyone else," Willie Mays felt like getting a few things off his chest.

His words came out in a steady uninterrupted torrent, as if someone suddenly had turned on a cold water faucet, and he didn't stop until he had finished an unusual soul-searching analysis of himself as a ballplayer.

"I love this game... I love to play... and it's still a thrill after all these years anytime I do something to help the club win." Mays said, "but I'm only flesh and bone... I get tired, too."

"When I get tired, I get nervous," he went on, sitting there in front of his locker, wearing only his undershorts in the Giants' clubhouse.

"And when I get nervous, my hands start to shake. I've been in every game the club has played this season, but if I ever take a day off some people make a big thing about it. If they think I'm joking, let 'em think that. It doesn't bother me."

He also realizes Franks is on the spot.

"I can put myself in his position," Willie said. "I understand his problem."

Mays then talked about the future.

"I feel," he said, "I can help the ball club for another five, six years. Maybe I'm not the ballplayer I was 10 years ago, after all I'm 34, but I still can go full speed when I have to."

"I know I don't steal bases like I used to, I know I used to run more, too, but I still think I hit the ball just as far as I ever did."

"People talk about the money I make ($105,000 a year). They say I ought to do all these things for all that money. Money isn't what makes you do things. You do them because it's your job, no matter what they pay you."

Cortisone Helps Bunker's Play

By United Press International

Cortisone shots to relieve an aching shoulder apparently were all Wally Bunker needed to regain his 1964 form.

The 20-year-old Baltimore righthander, who won 19 games last year, was shunted to the bullpen last month with an astronomical 8.53 earned run average.

Bunker was equally ineffective as a reliever until a doctor recommended that shots of cortisone might ease the soreness in his shoulder. He worked his way out of the bullpen and has won two consecutive starting assignments, allowing only one run in 18 innings.

Bunker scattered eight hits and singled in two runs in the eighth inning as Baltimore beat the Washington Senators 5-1 Thursday night.

ard scored an unearned run moments later on Don Zimmerman's sacrifice fly. The effort enabled Bunker to lower his ERA below 4.00 for the first time this season, to 3.78. He now has a 3-2 won-lost mark.

McDowell Fans Nine

Sam McDowell struck out nine and allowed eight hits en route to his sixth victory and first in five decisions against the Twins. Gary Bell relieved McDowell in the ninth after the first two batters had singled and got Zoilo Versalles, Rich Rollins and Tony Oliva.

Camilo Carreon hit his first home run since 1963 in the second inning with a man on base off loser Dave Boswell and Leon Wagner belted his eighth of the season in the third for the Indians.

The White Sox were trailing 2-1 in the seventh inning when Floyd Robinson unloaded a three run triple against Boston relief ace Dick Radatz. Robinson's hit followed two singles and a hit batsman.

Other AL Games

In the only other American League game scheduled, Cleveland defeated the league-leading Minnesota Twins 4-1 and Chicago tripped Boston 4-2.

Bunker, who has yielded only two earned runs in his last 29 1-3 innings, lost his bid for the second consecutive shutout in the seventh inning when short-stop Dave Johnston let an apparent doubleplay ball go through his legs. Frank How-

EP Austin KO's Monterey

EL PASO (UPI)—El Paso Austin has earned a berth in the state Class AAAA schoolboy baseball tournament on the strength of 28 consecutive scoreless innings pitched by Bob Arnold during which he struck out 50 batters.

Arnold whiffed 32 Thursday night in pitching the Panthers to a 1-0, 15-inning victory in the third and deciding game against Lubbock Monterey. He had struck out 18 the previous night in a 3-0, 13-inning triumph.

St. Johns River College, Palatka, Fla. followed with 935 and San Antonio, Tex., College with 942; Leicester, Mass., Junior College, 946; Louisiana State, 952, and South Georgia College 959.

Joe Porter of Phoenix, had a two-under par 214 at the end of 54 holes of play to place the medalist leaders. At even par were Steve Eichstaedt, Miami-Dade, and Henry Smith, Odessa, with 216 each and Charles Dicker, Odessa, 217.

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Opportunities Are Never Lacking

It may be true that "opportunities knock but once," but it is our belief that opportunity has to be sought after. Waiting for it to knock the one and only time appears to us to be a fine way to waste years of your precious life. There is another old saying that "you have to be in the right place at the right time" and this one is more to our liking.

Make yourself available by making yourself able. Ready, willing and able are three adjectives that apply to anyone who has ever made a success of life. And success can be measured in many forms. It does not necessarily mean material wealth. But, since we nearly always connect the two in our minds, we will let it stand that it does mean material wealth or gain, and try to prove our point.

For a starter if you desire to go into business, learn your subject, know it from the inside out, make sure you are fitted for it and that you like it more than anything else. Then look for a place to set yourself up. Then offer your customers the something extra special that appeals to them and their pocketbooks. It may be courtesy, friendliness, a different approach to an old theme, or a different way of displaying your wares.

You need capital? Create in your neighborhood a reputation for honesty and fair dealing, save all you can, become friends with a banker or two and borrow enough to start in a small way. If you are meant for the business, which means if you have found your opportunity, your business will grow and prosper. Then you can pay off your loans and make bigger ones and expand. Or maybe you won't even need to float new loans. You're in business, you have found your opportunity. Sounds too easy? It isn't easy at all. Opportunity merely steers you into a lot of hard work. Any successful man is a worker.

The same rules, or most of them, can be applied to those who are looking to better their lot through better jobs or positions. Choose your line with care, make certain it is your line. Prepare yourself to the utmost and apply yourself the same way when you have found your job (opportunity).

Following the Line

There are any number of organizations that are working hard in an endeavor to get their members to follow the leaders into the promised land of socialism. Three come almost immediately to mind.

Perhaps the most pernicious of these is the ADA, "Americans for Democratic Action." This is an organization of Fabian socialists of which vice president Hubert Humphrey is a member and co-founder. The ADA membership is composed chiefly of politicians and their active supporters.

Another organization that seems to be almost constantly on the side of big government in all its socialistic promotions is the League of Women Voters. It follows the new deal, new frontier, great society line rather than consistently to please many of its members.

We have heard some complaints from members of the League, but seldom were they uttered for publication. It is refreshing occasionally to find a former member with the courage to speak out in public and enumerate her reasons for resigning from an organization that she feels is promoting things that are, or would be, harmful to our republic. The League of Women Voters is ruled from the top except in purely local matters. In national affairs, the word comes down and the members are expected to support the stand of the "leaders." The rank and file have little say on national issues, all they are expected to do is "work for the cause" whatever it may be, whatever form ofism the leaders happen to be promulgating.

The same is true of the PTA, the "Parent Teachers Association." It also is ruled from the top and it very consistently follows the National Education Association line toward more and more governmental control of the schools.

These three organizations have had tremendous influence and have aided considerably our drift into a socialistic state.

Crystal-Ball Computer

The Kaiser and the Czar were pitted against each other again recently. The verdict is that they acted no more wisely than they did during the crucial days leading to the outbreak of World War I.

The "Kaiser" and the "Czar" were simulated by a computer called "Crisiscom," which is being used to investigate the decisionmaking behavior of national leaders during an international crisis.

In the Crisiscom computer, as described by Science Service, two human decision makers are represented. Each of them receives a great number of messages and, as is the case in real life, each gradually acquires a different picture of the world.

Fed some 1,500 bits of information taken from history books and from newspapers of the time, the simulated leaders of 1914 behaved much as did the actual Kaiser and Czar, paying attention to some messages and ignoring others that conflicted with their "views of reality."

Another planned experiment is the Cuban missile crises of 1962, which will play a simulated "President Kennedy" against a "Nikita Khrushchev."

After being probed out by reenacting actual historical crises, Crisiscom may be set to work simulating crises that have not happened but could — such as a confrontation between American and Chinese troops in Viet Nam — and, it is hoped, show us how to resolve them more sensibly than the men of 1914.

A revision of the old saying may be in order. Those who do not learn from the future are doomed to repeat the mistakes of the past.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

Another Year, Another June NEW YORK (NEA) — We noticed with some surprise the other night that the apartment directly across the street has new tenants—either one or three girls. We cannot say for sure. It could be one blond who wears white underwear. But on the other hand, we can see three beer mugs inscribed with the numerals 1965.

We mention this by way of explanation that in New York, with its design for living, it is very hard to tell that time is passing.

And so, it has occurred to us with a shock that June must be here again — that midway moment when thousands of young Americans leave laws and certainties, and come to make their way in Manhattan.

Our new neighbor (or neighbors) across the street must certainly be part of this pilgrimage. No only because of the white underwear and beer mugs. But we can also see a framed photo of a younger brother, a sweatshirt with an "M" on it and a bookcase made of bricks and unpainted No. 3 pine.

We do not know her name, and probably never will. That is how it is here, we have learned. Cheek by jowl in your skivvies—but no names please.

However, we know more about her than she can begin to imagine.

This year, a secretary. Wine with dinner at Charming Little French Restaurants. "The New Yorker" magazine and maybe "The Partisan Review." Sun baths on the roof. Museums and off-Broadway shows. Foreign movies. Capuccino.

Next year, a production assistant. A martini before dinner. "Harpers" or "The Atlantic." Cocktail parties. Discotheques. Maybe El Morocco. Certainly Fire Island. Broadway shows. Irish coffee.

The year after, a researcher. A Bloody Mary before lunch. A martini after work. Another beer dinner. "Esquire." Possibly "Newsweek," too. Provincetown or Puerto Rico. Red underwear. American movies. An affair. Ice cream.

The following year, assistant producer. Or is it associate producer? Or married? If not, a course at The New School and/or psychotherapy. In either case "Time" magazine. St. Thomas Island. Also Stowe, Vt. American movies. Black underwear. Television. Stereo. Coffee.

All that is a long way off. Right now, she is still very new to New York and to the neighborhood — and extremely busy imbuing the delicatessen shopkeepers with Viennese charm and the landlady with the wisdom of the ages.

We would bet that she has already written a letter home to the folks, rhapsodizing about the dreadful old lady down the street who comes out at 3 a.m. to feed the dirty alley cats.

We have had one conversation with this young lady. It was yesterday afternoon, and we were coming home from work when she accosted us with a jar of dry-roasted peanuts which had to be opened immediately.

It was, she explained, an emergency — sustenance for a poor sick little squirrel that had lost the fur on its tail. She pointed to the creature which was crouching in the gutter.

Well, it was not a squirrel. It was a rat. A full-grown Brown Rat. Also known as a Wharf Rat — Rattus Norvegicus. There are some 4 million of them in the city. They live on sewage and garbage and spread terrible diseases.

"Really?" the girl said breathlessly. "Are you sure it is a real rat?"

We were sure. We may not know much about El Morocco or "The Partisan Review." But in the years that have passed since our first June in New York, we have learned a great deal about the Rattus Norvegicus.

"How marvelous," she said. And with that, the rat scurried across the street and into the cellar of a large apartment house, and the girl went back to her building — doubtless to write a letter home about her adventure.

Rick — What's the matter, you look terrible.

Roger — My wife's on a diet.

WISE HUSBAND — One who buys his wife such fine china she won't trust him to wash the dishes.

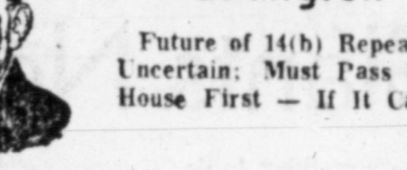

— One who never forgets his wife's birthday, — only which one it is!

Backstage Washington

Future of 14(b) Repeal Uncertain; Must Pass In House First — If It Can

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Johnson and his laborite allies still have quite a way to go in their avowed intention to repeal Section 14(b) — empowering the states to enact right-to-work laws.

So far, they haven't got the votes. Whether enough can be pressured into line when this intensely controversial issue comes to a showdown remains to be seen. The President has made no move yet to personally apply the heat. His well-known "treatment tactics" could make a distinct difference.

Backstage administration strategy is to delay action on the proposed far-reaching revision of the Taft-Hartley Act until the close of the session when the President's "Great Society" measures have been disposed of. To what extent he then will involve himself in the Section 14(b) battle is conjectural. Opinion varies widely on that in both camps.

Meanwhile the inside situation shapes up as follows: —The House will be the key battleground for several reasons. The opposition now has the edge there, if the House's votes repeal, that will greatly improve its prospects in the Senate. If not that will end the matter; it won't come up in the Senate at all. Due to these factors, administration strategists have determined to make the first test in the House. If repeal doesn't make the grade there, they will wash their hands of it.

Republican votes will be needed in both chambers to put over this labor demand. There are not sufficient Democratic votes to do it, particularly in the House. The GOP is taking no party stand on this touchy issue. It is carefully sidestepping that. House Republicans discussed the subject at a policy meeting last week, but did nothing about it. Senate Republicans haven't done even that.

Obviously, administration leaders hope to win some votes this way, both Democratic and Republican.

Apparently organized labor is willing to go along on that to some extent.

This was indicated in another discussion between Representative Ayres and AFL-CIO President Meany. Ayres has drafted an amendment requiring National Labor Board elections establishing a union majority before bargaining is undertaken and employees.

Ayres contends employers often are pressured into bargaining by labor agents merely on the basis of a showing of work cards indicating a desire for an election on whether there should be union representation.

Sounding out Meany on that, Ayres induced him to express willingness to subject the Labor Board's election machinery to "review." Following is this revealing exchange:

Ayres: "Would you have any objections to a review of the election machinery in view of the fact that there will be considerably stepped up activity in the organization of non-union employees?

Meany: "Frankly, I hadn't even thought about that."

Ayres: "What I am getting at is, as has already been pointed out here indirectly, in the event a union gets more than 50 per cent of the workers signing up their cards, the employer, if he so chooses, can negotiate without an election. Many people who are non-union feel that just because they sign a card to hold an election does not mean they should be deprived of the opportunity to vote on whether they want a particular union to represent them."

Meany: "Isn't this discretionary with the Labor Board now?"

Ayres: "The discretion actually is with the employer, if he wants to start negotiations. What I would like to see is a provision that even though 51 per cent of the employees sign cards for an election, the employer cannot start bargaining until there is an election. At present, he doesn't have to have an election if he wants to start bargaining. I would like to see that spelled out in the law so that the employer who signs a card for an election, actually is guaranteed the opportunity to vote in such an election."

Meany: "As a general principle, I would not be opposed to that. But there would be some cases where it would not work."

Short-term jobs, such as the building trades and the like."

Ayres: "You always have that difference between an industrial union and the building trades as far as recognition is concerned. But you would have no objection to at least the election machinery being reviewed?"

Meany: "No, I would not."

Question Box

QUESTION Number 774: "Is it true that a good test of character and integrity is whether a person can be insulted or gets angry? If so, why?"

ANSWER: It would seem that it is a good test of character and integrity. If a man is a man of integrity, and has a good character, there seems to be nothing that he could be insulted or become angry about.

If a man makes a disparaging statement or says something that is not true, the man of integrity just regards that man as ill-informed and mistaken and therefore is not insulted or angry.

On the other hand, if he is a pretender and a bluffer and a four-flusher, then one of the best defenses he has is to be insulted and therefore makes no defense of the charge and walks away and will not discuss the subject. The man who has no convictions, if there be such a person, is so wishy-washy and vacillating that there is really nothing for him to get mad about, he has no character or integrity to defend.

Yes, it seems that one of the tests of character and integrity is whether a man can be insulted or gets angry. (We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

H. L. Hunt Writes

IS THE OIL WORTH SAVING? In drilling and developing leases in new fields it became apparent to me early that a market for the production was most important. I thought of the needs of other independents as well.

Steam boilers were then used on drilling rigs and the fuel for them was a problem. There was nearly always some gas from wells already completed, and I would install small lines for its distribution to close-in rigs.

Water that was sweet or soft for use in boilers was also a big problem and I put in water lines for distribution, some times piping the water from distant source. By spending a few hundred dollars I would become a useful "big businessman on a small scale" providing desirable fuel and water.

Short pipelines to gather the early produced oil were always needed. I would add an oil gathering system to my otherwise "big business" and would urge my attorneys to give quick title opinions so that my gathering system could start paying the hard-pressed independents promptly.

I gathered and piped to a railroad loading rack the very first oil produced in the East Texas Field before the major pipeline companies were ready to come in. This venture I thought a top accomplishment in service. I would frantically search for a buyer who could and would use the oil, while in many early oilfields operators were beginning to question, "Is the oil worth saving?"

Surprisingly, I found a buyer who could make good lube from some ugly black crude. Later it was found to contain properties useful in cosmetics, and some crude oil is well known for its medicinal properties. HLH

CO-EXIST WITH THESE VERNIM (N.Y. Daily News)

Testimony delivered last March 4 before a House Appropriations subcommittee by J. Edgar Hoover has been made public.

The chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation mainly discussed two subjects: Soviet spies in the United States, and communist connections with the Free (Filthy) Speech Movement in some of the colleges—notably the University of California.

We are being ever more infested with Kremlin secret agents, said Mr. Hoover. Virtually every Soviet group coming to this country — new saws, news huns, diplomats, scientists, businessmen, students, cultural delegations — is heavily seeded with spies.

The FBI Director expects red China's spy activity in this country to increase greatly in the next few years — especially if Red China is admitted to the United Nations.

As for commies in the colleges, they are up to their old tricks with one or two new wrinkles.

These Reds, by the way, are the vermin with which a lot of well-meaning people here and elsewhere in the free world insist we all must co-exist in peace. How do you co-exist peacefully with a termite or a bedbug, anyway?

Dirksen Believes Johnson Policy On Viet Nam Should be Followed

By WILLIAM THEIS WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen believes Congress has "no choice except to follow the President" in carrying out U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The 69-year-old Illinois Republican also feels strongly about the necessity for maintaining bipartisanship and the spirit of international cooperation set forth for Republicans by the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

In an interview with UPI, Dirksen was asked if he would be willing to support the bombing of Hanoi or Red China if the Chinese Communists should intervene in Viet Nam.

"There is no choice except to follow the President," he replied.

"Look at the psychology of any counter - decision on Viet Nam. Suppose Congress is at odds with the commander - in - chief and says 'we're going to cut him down to size.' Where does that leave the country — and the free world?"

What about bombing Red China — specifically, knocking out the Communists' new nuclear complex if Peking enters the war in Southeast Asia?

"That would have to depend on recommendations of the military leaders. If there is a careful recommendation by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the President, and the officers out there, where does that leave Congress? Do you just drop the President and say 'no.'"

Dirksen, a veteran of World War I, then added: "I'm like MacArthur — there is no substitute for victory. Either we get victory or negotiation."

About bipartisanship, the veteran of 31 years in Congress said: "... the way Congress and the country are oriented, you have no choice. Our Western states, almost all agricultural, have no deep interest in civil rights. And our Southern friends forget that there is a black revolution all over the world, not just in the United States. In the United Nations, the votes of African countries are just as effective as ours."

Not A Mistake

The Illinois senator said he didn't think it was a mistake for Republicans to follow the bipartisan road created by Vandenberg, during the 1940s.

"You have to look down the road, and there is no escape from international cooperation. I have only one exception — I think Bill Fulbright Senate foreign relations chairman wants to go too far with unilateral aid. We need a congressional check on the aid we provide. . . ."

The interview took place in Dirksen's Capitol Hill office, as the Republican leader ended a work day that had begun at 5:30 a.m. EDT. He sat at his desk—a large portrait of Abraham Lincoln over his shoulder. He paused to take two telephone calls.

Meets Old Friend

The first was from a Negro youth at Belleville, Ill., who wanted advice concerning a military service problem. The senator asked the youth to send him the details in a letter.

The other was from a hotel dinner host who asked Dirksen what he wanted for supper. Dirksen ordered quickly: "Steak, lima or green beans, salad, ice cream and coffee."

Dirksen's final formal appointment for the day had been with French Ambassador Herve Alphand, an old friend. The ambassador is on the receiving end of congressional criticism leveled at the anti - American actions of his boss, Charles de Gaulle.

Say Klan Not Gaining

Although Dirksen didn't say, he was assumed to have applied some balm to Alphand's feelings. He also may have added a touch of astringent advice, because Dirksen also has had enough of De Gaulle.

Other questions and answers: Q—What if President Johnson's bill to guarantee Negro voting rights does not completely fulfill its aim? A—Then the next step will be to build up the Justice Department and start the enforcement wheels. There is still some respect for enforcement. Actually, resistance is breaking down.

Q—What about a resurgent Ku Klux Klan? A—"It eill die of its own weight. The members can't get enough money to sustain it. I don't think it is gaining ground. The best thing that would happen on the Klan would be for the press not to report its meetings. It would die on the vine."

Likes Senate Seat

Q—What changes or improvements are needed in congressional machinery or practices? A—"About the only thing I see is our staffing problem. We should augment our professional staff, especially on the minority side. There's nothing you can do about the seniority system. . . . Election of committee chairmen would mean cutthroat campaigning."

Q—Is there any other job he would resign his Senate seat to take? A—"The answer is no. The morning after the 1948 election,

Tom Dewey called me to say secretary of agriculture.' I told he didn't feel sorry for himself but for me and others who had helped him. He said, 'If we bothered with administrative had won, I'd have made you chores.'

National Window

By LYLE WILSON. United Press International Nominated herewith for most happy-fella of 1965 is Vice President Hubert Horatio Humphrey of whom it must be said that he never had it so good.

Horatio Alger couldn't improve much on the story of Horatio Humphrey. Humphrey is near the top after long years of striving, so near he can reach out and touch it. Better than that, President Johnson is expected to order the appropriate Democratic National Convention to nominate Humphrey for president so that he may succeed LBJ in the White House.

If the vice president's slumber is haunted by dreams that all of this is too good to be true, there may be some substance in such a fearful presentment. The curdling truth is that there is another Kennedy in Humphrey's future.

Kennedy Nemesis

There was a Kennedy blocking Humphrey from the White House in 1960, you may recall, a Kennedy who came from nowhere really to challenge HHH for the Democratic presidential nomination. That Kennedy was John F. and he beat Humphrey in Wisconsin where Humphrey was supposed to be a big, big man; and he beat him in West Virginia where Humphrey was supposed to win because he was a Protestant and Jack Kennedy was a Roman Catholic.

That would have been the end of Hubert Humphrey's legitimate hopes for the presidency except for factors wholly unforeseeable such as Johnson's tragic accession to the presidency in 1963 and this urgent need in the 1964 presidential campaign to establish himself as a dependable left-of-center Democrat instead of a right-of-center Texas Democrat.

So Hubert Humphrey, one of the founders and sparkplugs of the left-wing Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) was tapped by Johnson for veep.

Kennedy's Build Support

Meantime, the Kennedy brothers are going their way building political strong points in New York and Massachusetts, fortifying them as seems necessary and maintaining close and friendly contact with the racial, labor and related voter - blocs which provide the Democratic party with much of its political muscle.

Although it seems reasonable certain that there is a Kennedy in Humphrey's future there is reason to wonder at this moment which Kennedy it might be. Robert F. Kennedy got the biggest build-up during JFK's White House years and he kept himself on page one by raiding New York state for a U.S. Senate seat at a time when he was not, himself, qualified to vote in New York.

Edward Moore Kennedy, the youngest of the clan, earned more jeers than cheers when he announced in Massachusetts for the U.S. Senate. Edward Moore Kennedy is Teddy and he has proved to be quite a man.

If you had to bet right now, it might be safer to bet that the Kennedy in Humphrey's 1972 future will be Teddy, despite the fact that brother Bobby is right now better known.
