Air Force Orbits Two New Atomic Detectives

By AL ROSSITER JR.
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The Air Force orbited two new atomic detectives today to bolster the U. S. satellite force policing space for bootleg nuclear explosions.

The twin space sentinels raced into orbit with a third satellite, a tiny radiation research laboratory, on a single Atlas Agena rocket that thundered into the sky at 4:27 a. m. EDT with a brilliant display of flame and smoke.

The Air Force reported 12 minutes later that all was going as planned. "It looks like we are almost on the button," an Air Force spokesman said.

But the two watchdog satellites must perform two days of difficult maneuvering before they are ready to join four others already looking for violations of the nuclear test ban treaty.

The pact, signed in Moscow two years ago, outlawed all but underground tests.

The space craft, each equipped with unique gas-electric jets, are part of the Defense Department's Vela program designed to keep tabs on all nuclear explosions — underground, in the atmosphere and in space.

The mission of the 124-pound Vela satellites is to watch for sneak blasts in space. To do it, each of the 20 sided spacecraft had 17 eyes and sensors watching in all directions for tell-tale signs of nuclear explosions.

Guerrillas Sack U.S. Army Camp North of Saigon

By RAY F. HERNDON
SAIGON (UPI) — Communist guerrillas today laid siege to the U.S. Army Special Forces camp at Bu Dop, 83 miles north of Saigon. A U.S. military spokesman reported heavy losses among six Americans and 200 Vietnamese defending the jungle outpost.

A complete casualty report was withheld, but the spokesman said a number of American and Vietnamese were killed and wounded. American planes counter-attacked in an attempt to lift the siege, and heavy fighting was reported.

The spokesman said the defenders were "putting up quite a substantial fight." The size of the attacking Viet force was described as "substantial."

In Saigon today, security police foiled a Communist attempt to assassinate Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and other South Viet Nam's cabinet ministers with a powerful mine planted near a stadium where a public rally was under way.

Fowler Will Be Asked To Explain Policy Flip-Flop

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT
WASHINGTON—Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler will be put on the spot this week to explain another of those curious policy flip-flops of the Johnson administration.

Fowler will be asked the reason for the administration's first pro-pooling an international monetary conference and then abruptly approving it.

So far, there has been no clarification of this somersault. Without the slightest reference to the initial adamant stand against such a conference, the administration now favors such a conclave of possible far-reaching significance to the future of the dollar and the national economy.

Whether Fowler will throw light on this strange reversal when he testifies before the Joint Congressional Economic Committee remains to be seen. Committee members plan to question him particularly about a letter sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee April 5, just a week after he took office. Signed by Acting Treasury General Counsel Fred Smith, the letter flatly opposed an international monetary conference, as urged by Republican Senators Jacob Javits, N.Y., Len Jordan, Idaho and Jack Miller, Iowa.

Something Missing

HAMPTON, N.H. (UPI)—Julie A. Paradis, 18, of Kittery, Maine, was convicted of disorderly conduct Monday on the basis of something "not in evidence."

That, according to the testimony of two state troopers, was the "top half of her bathing suit." She was fined $25.

Animal Trainer Clyde Beatty Dies of Cancer

VENTURA, Calif. (UPI)—Clyde Beatty's death has closed another chapter in the America that was, but is no more.

To a youngster in any of a thousand hamlets of this vast country in the 1930s, the name Clyde Beatty alone conjured stirrings of adventure and mental pictures of such exotic places as Africa, India and the jungles of South America.

Without the hypnotic lure of television, the young of that depression-scarred era lived in a world half-imagined—Clyde Beatty, a man in riding breeches and pith helmet with a pistol at his side and a whip and chair in either hand facing up to a snarling lion.

The picture is as fresh as ever. But with the death of Beatty, 62, from cancer of the esophagus in Memorial Community Hospital, a little of the America that was died, too.

Action Delayed On Granting TV Cable Franchise

Action on awarding a television cable franchise for Pampa was postponed until Aug. 3 at today's Pampa City Commission meeting when representatives of only one of the two companies bidding could be present.

The commission had scheduled the actual awarding of the long sought-after franchise for today.

A letter from one of the applicants, TV Cable System of Pampa, explained that representatives of their company could not appear at today's meeting and asked that the awarding be postponed until a later date.

Present at today's meeting were Cal Frazier and Dale Greenhouse and their attorney Don Cain, representatives of the other company. They also agreed to the postponement.

Both companies will orally present their request for the franchise at the Aug. 3 meeting.

City Manager Jim White explained that six companies had originally sent applications for the franchise.

High Court Justice Succeeds Stevenson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg will succeed the late Adlai E. Stevenson as U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, President Johnson announced today.

Goldberg, former labor secretary in the Kennedy administration and one-time general counsel for the United Steelworkers Union, stood beside Johnson on the steps of the White House rose garden today when the Chief Executive made the surprise announcement.

Flanking the President and Goldberg were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Undersecretary of State George Ball and presidential assistant MacGeorge Bundy.

Goldberg was the late President John F. Kennedy's first appointment to the Supreme Court. Johnson said he had called upon Goldberg to leave his lifetime post on the nation's highest tribunal because there was no more important task now before this country than achievement of "a world where all men may live in peace with the hope of justice under the rule of law."

"Committed as we are to this principle and this purpose," the President said, "it is fitting that we should ask a member of our highest court to relinquish that office to speak for America before the nations of the world."

Goldberg, 56, in response to Johnson's remarks, promised to pursue Stevenson's message to the world—"man's ancient supplication, 'grant us peace, Thy most precious gift.'"

Goldberg apparently has known at least since Monday about his selection for the U.N. post. Goldberg and his wife flew with the President and Mrs. Johnson Monday to the Stevenson funeral at Bloomington, Ill.

Since Stevenson collapsed and died of a heart attack in London last week, there had been wide speculation about his successor. But Goldberg's name figured in few, if any, speculative accounts.

Most diplomatic authorities had expected Johnson to select Stevenson's successor from the ranks of men with diplomatic experience.

Much of the speculation had centered on the possibility of Secretary of State Dean Rusk getting the U.N. job and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara going to the State Department.

House Approves Bill To Increase Servicemen's Pay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted today to give U.S. servicemen a $1 billion pay raise — about twice as much as President Johnson asked.

McNamara Says Viet Situation Is Worse

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara ended his tour of Viet Nam today and left Saigon for home. He is shown here as he had a few words with Cmdr. Harry Gerhard, commander of the U.S. Air Wing in Viet, just before the defense secretary's departure for the United States.

(NEA Radio-Telephoto).

SAIGON (UPI) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara headed back to Washington today with a series of recommendations for further American military involvement in the Viet Nam war. He said the situation had deteriorated since he was last in South Viet Nam.

The defense secretary refused to say whether the recommendations included additional American combat troops.

"I can only tell you that our recommendations will be aimed at fulfilling our country's obligations and commitments to South Viet Nam," McNamara told newsmen before taking off for Washington at the end of a five-day fact finding mission.

During his visit, both the South Vietnamese government and the U.S. military command asked McNamara for more U.S. combat soldiers.

Suit Will Be Filed Seeking To Kill Redistricting Bill

DALLAS (UPI) — A suit to toss out the congressional redistricting plan approved by the 59th Texas Legislature will be filed in federal court in Houston Wednesday. The Dallas Morning News said today.

Only unforeseen circumstances should delay a Wednesday filing. The News quoted a "highly placed" source as saying.

The GOP claims the Democratic legislature ignored complaints of gerrymandering, passing the plan which allows too large a population disparity, ignores community of interests, and compactness.

Parts of the plan place sections of Dallas County in districts stretching nearly to Lubbock on the west and Houston on the south, the GOP pointed out.

The Republicans also will protest separation of metropolitan areas Midland-Odessa and Jefferson-Orange counties.

Backers of the legislature's plan argued the Supreme Court only ordered apportionment of districts on a "one-man, one-vote" basis, and the plan held to this concept.

Amarillo Infant Fails to Survive

AMARILLO (UPI) — A premature baby girl, delivered by Caesarian section from her mother who was killed by a bullet Saturday, died Monday.

The less-than-three-pound infant, Jenny Caroline Garcia, was delivered about noon Saturday. Her mother, Juanita Felipita Garcia, 28, was dead on arrival at an Amarillo hospital with a bullet wound in her head.

Mrs. Garcia's husband, Sgt. Hilario Larry Garcia, 40 of Amarillo Air Force Base, was charged with murder with malice.

Woman Dragged From Her Home

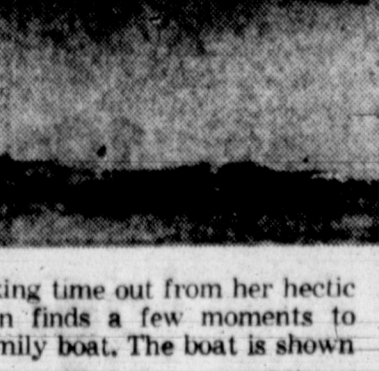

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Maude Wilcox, 78, was dragged screaming, kicking and cursing today from her two-story frame house which she has refused to sell to the city so it can run an expressway through the area.

Sheriff's officers had to pry open the backdoor with a crowbar to get in the house. Four matrons subdued Mrs. Wilcox. She had turned down an offer of $19,500 for her house.

Post Office Ponders Over Question of Angel's Sex

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (UPI)—What sex is an angel? The U.S. Post Office Department today pondered that question, following the discovery that the angel Gabriel is portrayed on the 1965 Christmas stamp with a distinctly female torso.

The design of the stamp is based on a weathervane atop the People's Methodist Church here.

is feminine and Gabriel's breast is that of a woman." The Post Office began putting in hurried calls to theologians.

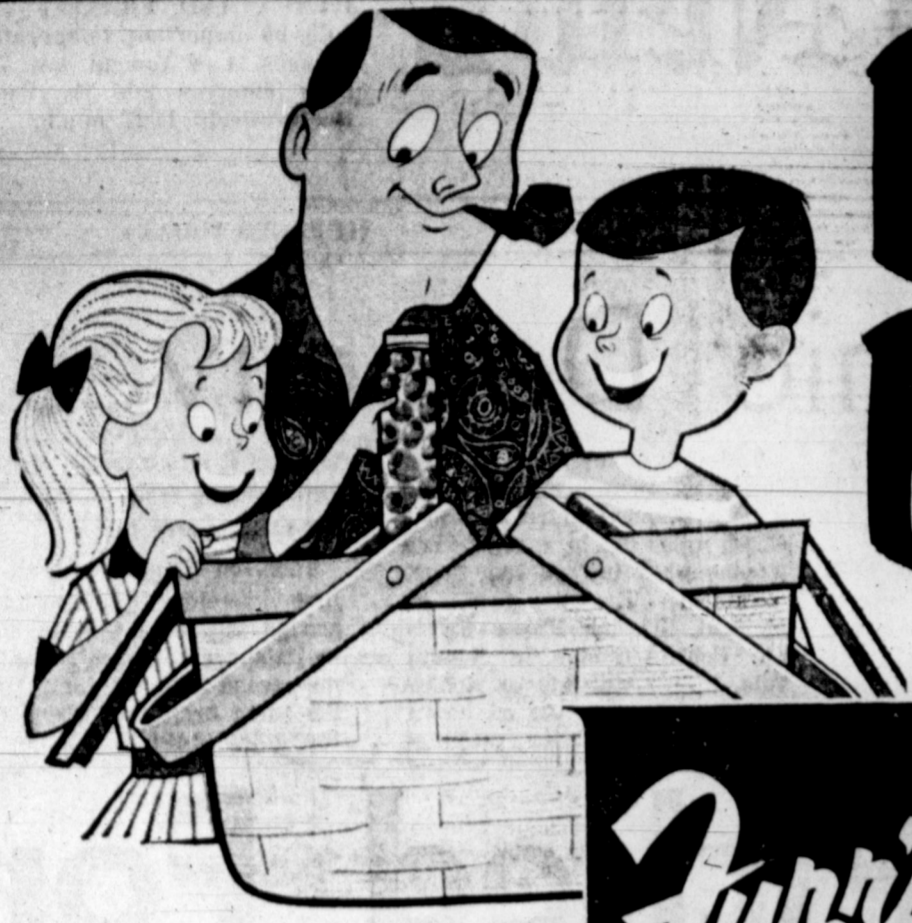

"Angels are sexless," said Rev. James Coe of Washington's Catholic Information Center.

Rev. Louis Hartman, a biblical expert at Catholic University, agreed.

Rev. Hartman said theologians tend to refer to angels "in masculine terms. But it has been traditional for religious artists to picture the angel with an effeminate and female aura, substance or form, although no one knows why."

The weathervane was cast by the firm of Gouldt and Hazlett of Boston in 1840.

Study Group Gets Report On Underground Supplies

Two authorities on underground water in the Panhandle today to the Water Study Committee of the Pampa City Commission last night on existing supplies of water which are available for municipal use.

H. H. Heiskell, Pampa water contractor and Felix Ryals, manager of the Panhandle Water Conservation District, told the committee that there is ample underground water around Pampa which could probably keep the city in municipal water for years to come.

Both Heiskell and Ryals expressed confidence in the availability of underground water for the city.

Ryals called the committee's attention to an increasing scarcity of water rights. He said water rights cost much more today than they did several years ago and will cost even more in the future.

He said more and more cities are realizing the importance of water rights and are beginning to secure as many as possible.

Youth Is Injured In Car-Cab Crash

A car-cab collision last night necessitated the taking of seven stitches in a cut suffered by a 19-year-old Pampa youth.

The accident occurred at 6:15 p.m. at the intersection of Brown and Gray streets. A taxi cab driven by Delbert L. Thompson, 30, of 218 N. West; and the auto of Danny J. Christie, a passenger in Bond's car, was taken to Highland General Hospital, where police reported seven stitches were taken in a cut on his left wrist. Thompson complained of a headache, but was not treated, police said. Damage was estimated at $250 to Thompson's 1962 cab, and $100 to Bond's 1949 auto. Bond was ticketed for failure to control speed to avoid an accident.

Prisoners Riot, And Set Fire To Penitentiary

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI) — Some 300 rioting prisoners set fire and destroyed the maximum-security Mount Eden Prison today in a mass break-out attempt. They took over control of the prison when their wild bid for freedom failed.

Prison guards managed to hold the defiant convicts within the prison walls until 200 armed police and troop reinforcements arrived to cordon off the area.

Eighteen hours after they gutted the prison and, with all hope of an escape lost, an estimated 221 prisoners still were holding out against police appeals to surrender peacefully.

Authorities said 72 other prisoners gave themselves up and were transferred from the ruined prison to police station cells in the city.

Police said they would wait until hunger and cold forced the remaining rioters to admit defeat.

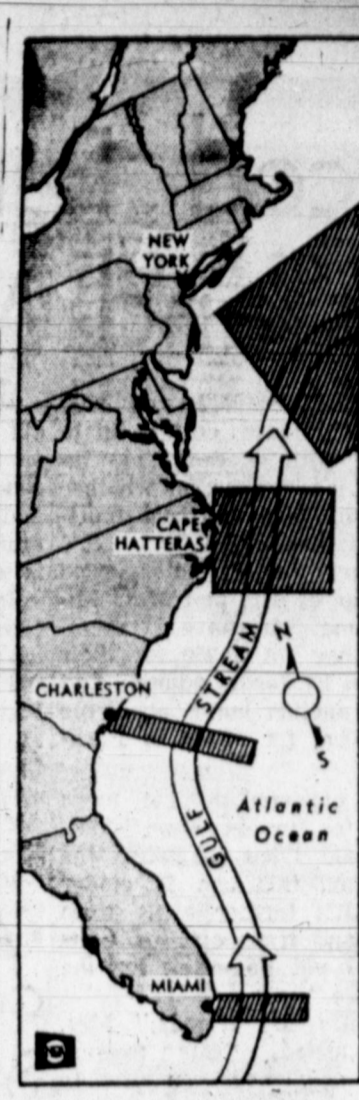

It was not certain if any prisoners—some serving life sentences—escaped.

Police risked their lives to remove prisoners trapped in their cells by heavy smoke and flames. But the only injury reported was that of a fireman who was slugged by a prisoner.

Matson Leaves Thursday Join U.S. Track Teammates

HOUSTON (UPI) — Champion shotputter Randy Matson planned today to leave Thursday to join the U.S. team that will meet the Russians.

Matson will go first to Wichita, Kan., to see if he can compete in an AAU meet there designed to raise money for the U.S. team's trip.

The American and Russian track teams will clash July 13 in Kiev, Russia.

Matson had been suffering from a knee ailment that he said kept him from competing in the regular AAU qualification meet for the Russia trip. The 6-foot-6 and 260-pound Texas Aggie worked out July 10 and tossed the shot over 66 feet in all seven of his tries.

One of the throws went 67 feet, 8 1/4 inches. His pending world record, set two months ago when he was first feeling the knee ailment, was 70-6.

Matson's practice performance July 10 was enough to convince the AAU it should let him on the U.S. team.

Matson has a summer job in Houston.

France Wants An Explanation For U.S. Overflight

PARIS (UPI) — Puzzled Frenchmen today sought an explanation for the alleged photographing of a French nuclear production of facility by an American RF100 Voodoo reconnaissance plane.

The official U.S. version of the incident—that a thunderstorm drove the plane from an approved training course—was rejected by protesting French officials.

The U.S. Defense Department, while denying there was any intent to overfly any prohibited area in France, said its investigation of the matter was continuing. The State Department declined to make any immediate comment.

But French newspapers were having a field day in trying to come up with answers.

What has been officially charged by French defense officials is that the American plane, based in Ramstein, West Germany, took 175 photographs of France's Pierrelatte uranium purification plant in the Rhone Valley in four successive passes last Friday.

A French interceptor succeeded in taking the plane's identification number, the French said.

Some French newspapers said the United States deliberately sought to find out by aerial reconnaissance just how far France has progressed toward the H-bomb. One publication said the flight was probably just a blunder.

American officials in Europe insisted the United States demonstrated its good faith by turning over — undeveloped — to French officials all the film exposed on the mission after the jet plane returned to its base.

LANGUAGE AID

DURHAM N. H. (UPI) — Lloyd White, 23, of South Lebanon, Maine, who has been blind since birth, is studying for his master's degree at the University of New Hampshire, with the aid of his seeing-eye dog.

White, who was graduated from Colby College last June and who spent last summer at Middlebury College's German School, plans to take a doctorate in German and then teach.

To his seeing-eye dog, he speaks only German.

Fact

In order to survive, early man had to take lessons from nature. Nature renews the moisture content of seeds, as they mature, for safekeeping. Man learned to use the sun and heat from fire to dry out and preserve his own stores. Thus dehydration is one of the oldest known methods of food preservation.

PENNY TIRE TEST
NEW YORK (UPI) — You can get a life's worth of value for a penny — and not even spend it — according to Tyrex Inc., the association of rayon tire cord producers.

Just take a Lincoln's head penny, with Abe's profile facing to the right, and insert it between the treads on your tires.

If no part of Lincoln's hair disappears, you are driving on dangerous tires, since that means the tread is less than one-sixteenth of an inch thick.

Chamizal's 'Displaced Families' Are Selling Homes and Moving

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—About 800 families became "displaced persons" by the international settlement of the Chamizal boundary dispute between the United States and Mexico. So far about 250 of those living in the 630-acre strip of South El Paso have sold their homes to the government and are moving.

All kept their citizenship, of course, and most are buying new homes in various parts of El Paso with the federal payments.

Only one home owner in a group surveyed by the El Paso Herald-Post thought he had been paid enough for his old house by the government.

"I'm very happy about it," said Joaquin Isaac, who was first offered $3,050 for his home in Cordova Gardens. He asked extra compensation and was awarded $950, making a total of $4,000.

Has New Place
Isaac, who works at the Phelps Dodge refinery, bought a new place west of Ascarate Park for $4,750. He said "I think they paid me enough for my old property. I have no complaints."

"I like my new place," Isaac added. "My wife's folks, who also lived in Chamizal, bought a new place next door to ours."

Under the special law for the Chamizal project, property owners can file claims for extra compensation above the fair market value, if they feel they cannot find a comparable new home at the price offered by the government. A board of examiners made up of local businessmen acts on these claims.

The Herald-Post found that most residents of Chamizal who have to move before their former homes became part of Mexico are finding houses in the south part of El Paso not too far from Chamizal, which means "thicker." But others have scattered to the north and east sections of the Texas city.

Many Splurge
One tendency among a few of the ex-Chamizal residents has concerned city fathers. They have taken their government money and splurged on new and better houses costing up to $15,000. With relatively low incomes, it's a question whether they can keep up their mortgage payments.

Another family interviewed was that of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Luna, who have 11 members. They got $8,250 for their house in El Jardin addition and bought another home, about the same size, for $7,500 in Parkdale.

"We expected to get more money for our old house," Mrs. Luna said. "Our old house was brick and this one is cinder block. It's farther away from things and transportation costs more. I get homesick for the old place."

"I miss my friends," Mrs. Luna added. "Our nearest friend now lives on Huerta street several blocks away."

Jose Gonzalez sold his old house to Uncle Sam for $8,850 and bought a duplex apartment house on North Loop road for $9,000. He and his wife live in one apartment and rent the other.

"I didn't get enough for my old house," Gonzalez said. "But on the whole I'm satisfied. I run a service station at Tigua, and we now live a short distance from where I work. That is a big advantage."

James Sewell is the man in charge of real estate operations in the acquisition program of the International Boundary and Water Commission. He believes all those who have moved from Chamizal have bettered themselves.

"They have better homes than they had before," said Sewell, whose office assists Chamizal residents in finding and purchasing new homes.

Congressman Hits System Covering Pages at Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Missouri congressman took dead aim yesterday at one of Washington's most hallowed patronage institutions — the Capitol page system.

Rep. W. R. Hull, a scholarly Democrat, submitted a reform bill to raise the minimum age of pages to 18 and require them to be needy college students. The measure also would eliminate the Capitol Page School.

"The system that the Congress uses in educating, supervising and housing its pages is archaic, cumbersome, wasteful and, in many respects, detrimental to the young men it purports to benefit," Hull said in explaining the need for reform.

"Under the present system youngsters between 14 and 18 are set adrift far from home and removed from proper supervision, in a large and fast-paced metropolis.

"They are grossly overpaid. Pages earn more money than some commissioned officers fighting in Viet Nam," the lawmaker said.

Under current pay scales, newly appointed pages earn $4,600 a year and second-year pages earn $5,050. Hull contends these "princely sinecures" are unrealistic for the services performed—mostly delivering documents and answering telephones. He noted that the salaries of these 14- and 15-year-old boys exceeded the total income of 1963 of 45 per cent of the nation's families.

But it is not the cost to the government that concerns Hull. His concern is the social and educational welfare of the boys.

"Their schooling, stuffed into a three-hour period between 6:30 and 9:30 a. m., is of debatable long-range value," Hull said.

Business Highlights
By United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. economy exceeded expectations in the second quarter of 1965, the Commerce Department reports. The gross national product gained $9.2 billion to an adjusted annual rate of $65.8 billion, somewhat above most forecasts.

WASHINGTON — President Roy Abernethy of American Motors told a Senate subcommittee that the auto industry should start "force feeding" additional safety devices to the car buying public. Abernethy also said he deplored the competitive emphasis on speed in the auto industry.

WASHINGTON: Personal income climbed to a record seasonally adjusted annual rate of $523.9 billion in June, the Commerce Department reports. The gain for the month was $3.9 billion.

PITTSBURGH: Preparations for the auto industry's annual model change-over are a prime factor in a sharp drop in steel orders in the past two weeks. Some mills report incoming orders down as much as 30 per cent.

NEW YORK: Kennecott Copper Co. has notified European customers it is resuming delivery of 100 per cent of contract obligations from its mine in Chile. Kennecott had to cut deliveries from Chile to 65 per cent of booked orders last fall because copper was in such demand and short supply.

Policeman's First Time to Draw Gun Results in Death

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Policeman John Thompson said today that when he shot and killed a prisoner who attacked him with a knife, it was the first time he had ever drawn a gun since he joined the force.

Thompson was taking Zelman Hollie Jr., 41, in to book him on a charge of disorderly conduct when Hollie stabbed him several times in the back, left side of the face and ear.

Witnesses said Thompson first grabbed a nightstick and tried to ward off the knife. Then he fired into the ground and three more times at Hollie. Thompson was released from a hospital after treatment for his wounds.

DOGGY DEFENSE

BONHAM, Tex. (UPI)—Postman Charles Thompson has solved the problem of how to keep dogs from biting him.

Every day a small dog on one house along Thompson's route would take a nip at his trousers. Then one day the letter carrier let another friendly dog—a bit larger one—make the round with him.

The big dog laid down the law to the unfriendly canine.

DWI Suspect Gives State Patrolman a Rough Time

CONROE, Tex. (UPI)—A drunk driving suspect Sunday night attacked a state highway patrolman with a heavy belt buckle, ripped off the officer's shirt and Sam Browne belt, then ignored two warning shots before being felled with a bullet wound in the side.

Patrolman L. D. Rhames reported that the suspect, identified as Mike Rodriguez, 40, fell to the pavement and suffered a possible skull fracture. Attendants at a Conroe hospital said he also suffered from loss of blood.

Rhames said that he and a passenger, W. J. Johnson of Humble, were cruising on U.S. Highway 59 near Porter when they saw a 1961 Buick weave across the highway center stripe. The officer said he stopped the car and that the driver got out and ran.

Rhames said he apprehended the driver and two other persons in the car and placed them in the back seat of the patrol car for a 22-mile drive to the county jail in Conroe over Farm-Market 1314.

Rhames said that Rodriguez attacked Johnson during the drive and that he stopped the patrol car and pulled Rodriguez outside.

CAR-HOPS RESIST AUTOMATION

NEW YORK (UPI)—The drive-in hamburger stand has now been automated, reports Electronics magazine. But the car-hop is still around.

She takes the order and gives it to the girl behind a key-punch console which automatically signals the kitchen to fill the order. The food comes out on a conveyor belt and the check is printed by the system.

Canada does not have a national anthem.

Teenagers' Group 'Blazing' The Old Santa Fe Trail

LARNED, Kan. (UPI)—A group of modern-day pioneers driving a train of nine covered wagons slapped the trail dust off their britches early today and continued their journey west on the Santa Fe Trail.

The some 50 youngsters began the historical trip in Overland Park, Kan., to promote interest in the old trail used in the westward movement of the 19th century.

The group, mostly teenagers, is moving at about three miles an hour, headed west across the fields of Kansas toward Dodge City. A wagon train boss, Roy Knapp of Overland Park said he expected to pull into Santa Fe Aug. 7.

The miniature covered wagons sleep three persons each.

REACH AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States and Japan have agreed to open formal negotiations on an invitation agreement and to prepare for new discussions on Pacific fishing rights.

The agreements were contained in a joint communique issued Wednesday at the close of a three-day U.S.-Japanese cabinet committee meeting on economic matters. It said the negotiations on aviation would begin in Tokyo Aug. 10.

Late President Wept At Failure Of Bay Invasion

NEW YORK (UPI)—The late President Kennedy did not commit himself to the Eisenhower administration's involvement in the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba, but he wept when the anti-Castro strike foundered.

In the second installment of his book on the Kennedy administration appearing in Life magazine, historian Arthur Schlesinger Jr. said the vision of the men on the beaches "haunted" Kennedy—the men who had gone off with such splendid hopes, had fought so bravely and now would be shot down like dogs or carried off to Castro's prisons.

"The only times Jackie (Mrs. Kennedy) had seen him weep were in the hospital at moments of sheer discouragement over his back; tears would fill his eyes and roll down his cheeks," Schlesinger wrote. "Now, in the bedroom, he put his head down into his hands and almost sobbed."

Schlesinger said Kennedy was informed of the previous administration's plans to back the invasion by Cuban exiles 12 days after his election. The historian said the President instructed CIA Director Allen Dulles to proceed with plans with the understanding that he was not committed to them. He later refused to call off preparations at the request of Acting Secretary of State Chester Bowles and Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., because it would have been embarrassing and disgruntled Cuban brigade leaders might have scattered throughout South America.

Schlesinger said he and former Assistant Secretary of State Adolph A. Berle were sent by Kennedy to New York to tell the Cuban Revolutionary Council that there would be no support by U.S. fighting personnel in the invasion. He said the council never believed this, preferring to think that they would have the backing of 10,000 U.S. soldiers that they had been promised before Kennedy came to office.

LBJ to Push for Passage Of Teachers' Corps Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "local control" formula which broke the federal school aid deadlock may help President Johnson gain passage of his proposed national teachers corps bill.

The Chief Executive has announced that he was submitting to Congress legislation to help set up the corps, which he said would help raise the level of teaching in city slums and poverty stricken rural areas.

Initially, the corps would total 6,000 members, including inexperienced teachers and teacher-interns who have bachelor's degrees but little on-the-job training. They would be recruited by the federal government for periods of up to two years.

But Johnson emphasized that these teachers would be local rather than federal employees and would be paid according to local wage standards, with federal funds.

This was in line with his successful strategy earlier this year in pushing through Congress the historic $1.3 billion measure for aid to elementary and secondary schools.

In previous years, school aid bills of this type bogged down because of the heated dispute between advocates of public and private education.

He shot his only birdie of the tournament on the hole, the 5.35 No. 9.

NAACP Complains
Of Discrimination
In 21 Hospitals

DALLAS (UPI) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has complained to the federal government charging racial discrimination in 21 hospitals in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Clarence A. Laws, southwest regional secretary of the NAACP, said the complaint is the result of a questionnaire sent by the NAACP this spring to local chapters in the four states.

Laws said the Civil Rights act of 1964 had a provision effective July 2 that bans discrimination in employment. He said the NAACP is now getting results of a survey on employment in the Dallas area.

RECORD HIGH SCHOOL GRADS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Approximately 2.3 million young people graduated from high schools during the past school year, the U. S. Office of Education reports. This was 300,000 more than graduated in 1963 and the largest number of graduates in a single year in the country's history.

FLOUR PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Kansas flour mills produced a monthly average of 366 million pounds of wheat flour last year; New York mills 243 million; and Minnesota mills 221 million, making these states the leading producers in the country, a U.S. Census Bureau report shows.

Cape Canaveral was named by Spanish explorers for the cane-like reeds growing there.

Educators Open
National Meet on School Problems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 650 educators from across the country today opened a White House conference to discuss school problems. A preview indicated the racial problem would be a major topic.

CREDIT MANAGER—Albert Crawford has been named credit manager of Montgomery Ward store in Coronado Center to succeed J. D. Yarborough who has been promoted to credit manager of the company's Lubbock store, according to W. G. McComas, local store manager.

The session is the first White House meeting on education in 10 years. Although specific legislative proposals are not expected to come out of the talks, Chairman John W. Gardner said "it could be the liveliest education conference ever held."

Following the opening speeches, the delegates' schedules were filled with panel and group discussions which will be distilled into digests for a report to other educators across the nation. Reports also will go to Johnson.

In a preview Monday of topics on the educators' minds, a Harvard psychologist said in a consultant's paper that de facto racial segregation in northern schools has increased to the extent that southern cities are beginning to copy it.

Thomas F. Pettigrew, an associate professor of social psychology, said an increase in housing segregation in northern cities from 1940 to 1960 has had the effect of bringing about a substantial degree of school segregation in many neighborhoods.

He said that many southern cities, barred by the Supreme Court from openly imposing school segregation, were "openly striving" to emulate the northern cities.

Congress May Be Able to Wind Up
By Labor Day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., says if no "difficulties of great significance" arise, Congress has a good chance of going home by Labor Day.

Mansfield told fellow Democrats Monday that he and GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., plan to meet soon on the legislative schedule. He said that he knows of no new major legislation the White House may yet send to Congress.

The Democratic leader made no direct mention of further legislation that might be required by the buildup of U.S. military forces in South Viet Nam. Johnson has hinted that a call-up of reserves or additional defense appropriations may be needed.

AIR TRAFFIC UP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first five months of 1964, passenger traffic of U.S. domestic airlines was up 15.9 per cent, reports the Air Transport Association of America. This is 16,901,497,000 revenue passenger miles, compared with 14,588,828,000 in 1963.

Witnesses Will Attend Four-Day Meet In Lubbock

Final plans have been completed by the Pampa congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses who are leaving this week to attend a four-day regional convention at Lubbock.

According to Jimmy G. Conner, presiding minister for the congregation, the "Word of Truth" District Assembly at Lubbock is expected to draw some 6,000 delegates from as well as Texas and 18 other states as well as Canada.

Conner discussed the subject of "How Many Days Do You Plan to Attend?" at the local Kingdom Hall meeting in preparation for the delegates' departure. The discussion was held in conjunction with a series of programs developed by the congregation to stimulate pre-convention anticipation.

The notion discussed by Conner lent itself well to the assembly at Lubbock. "Assembling to worship God with persons of like precious faith is a joyful event for lovers of Bible truth," he pointed out, "and this one is no exception."

Although several local representatives will be attending, not all were leaving at the same time and date, nor returning the same day. Because of this, Conner gave final instructions to the group regarding local meetings. He announced all sessions at the Kingdom Hall will be suspended for this week during the Lubbock convention.

Conner stressed the invitation local Witnesses will be extending both here and in Lubbock for interested Bible students to attend any or all of the sessions to be conducted at the Fair Park Coliseum. The featured address at the convention will be at 3 p.m. next Sunday, and will be entitled "World Government on the Shoulder of the Prince of Peace."

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

"Tails He's Guilty!"
The hour was late and the jurors were weary of trying to decide whether the defendant had really committed the crime. Finally one exasperated juror proposed that they toss a coin.

"Tails he's guilty, heads he's innocent!"
Everyone agreed to abide by the toss. And, in obedience to the tails that turned up, they brought in a verdict of guilty. But when the facts came to the attention of the court, the verdict was set aside.

For the law does not recognize coin-tossing as a legitimate method of doing the job of a jury. Nor does it recognize cutting cards or drawing lots, which jurors have also been known to try. As one court put it:

"Nothing short of a free and deliberate finding, made upon a conscientious conviction of the judgments of all the jurors, will satisfy the law."

Another shortcut, sometimes resorted to by a jury in fixing the amount of damages, is known as the "quotient verdict." In this method, each juror writes down how many dollars he recommends. Then the figures are added up and divided by 12 to get the final amount.

It is true that the quotient verdict is not as haphazard as the coin-verdict. It is also true that such calculations could be a helpful step in the process of deliberating.

Nevertheless, courts generally frown on quotient verdicts. The main objectionable feature is the agreement, in advance, to be bound by a mathematical result—no matter how high or how low. The juror who does that abdicates his responsibility, disdains his oath, and cheats the opposing party of the "day in court" they are entitled to have.

Quite properly, jurors are reluctant to wind up deadlocked. One jury, rather than admit defeat, brought in a verdict of "almost guilty."

And quite properly, jurors want to speed the wheels of justice.

But speed is not all-important. Of what value is a quick verdict that makes a mockery of trial by jury? Better slow justice than no justice.

"Born in the purple," meaning royal birth, is derived from the fact that the room in the Roman imperial palace where the empress was confined was lined with purple imperial porphyry.

DeGaulle Stalls Common Market

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—French President Charles de Gaulle's current boycott of the European Common Market could well set a pattern for similar action towards the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

By using the "empty chair" technique at Common Market headquarters in Brussels De Gaulle has succeeded in bringing its operations to a standstill without staging an actual walkout.

Many diplomats believe De Gaulle might use just the same tactics with NATO, if he should fall out with it.

There is more than a casual parallel between the two cases. De Gaulle dislikes the Common Market because of its supranational aspects. He dislikes NATO for the same reason.

Until the present Common Market crisis De Gaulle cooperated fully with it probably largely because it was France's advantage to do so.

Now that the disadvantages seem to outweigh the advantages in De Gaulle's mind he has staged a boycott and halted all further progress towards a complete six-nation customs union.

In the case of NATO De Gaulle has been reducing his cooperation progressively on the military side for a number of years.

Now all but two French divisions and a number of tactical air force squadrons in Germany have been withdrawn from NATO command. French participation in the military side of the alliance is skimpy.

There have been increasing rumors of late that De Gaulle might pull France out of NATO altogether in 1969 when the Atlantic treaty comes up for renewal.

It is known that De Gaulle wants the 16-year-old treaty to be completely rewritten and NATO to be revamped so as to bring it more into line with what he considers present-day conditions.

For instance, it is certain that De Gaulle would like at that time to eliminate all the supra-national aspects of NATO.

Much obviously will depend then on how De Gaulle's allies react. If they reject his demands for a total overhaul of NATO, many diplomats—including some informed French officials—believe De Gaulle might in fact walk out.

Others believe he simply would use the "empty chair" boycott—particularly if it turns out to be effective in the Common Market crisis.

How long the giant Galapagos tortoise lives is uncertain, but scientists estimate from growth rings around the plates on their backs that some are over 150 years of age.

Dear Abby... Come Off It, Mother, Daughter Has the Stage

DEAR ABBY: I'm not the type who writes to a newspaper columnist for advice, but I have no one else to turn to.

We have a 21-year-old daughter of whom I've always been so very proud, until now. My bubble has burst. I went to work in an office to send her to college. She was an honor student and married the week after she graduated from college. She had planned to teach school in the fall. Now she's told us she is pregnant and can't teach. Her doctor told her the baby is due exactly nine months and ten days after her wedding date! I can hardly stand to look at her. Abby, I know everyone will laugh and count the time. If that baby comes early, I will die of shame. I haven't been able to eat or sleep properly since I've known about it. Perhaps if you publish a part of this it will make other girls stop and think before putting their families in this embarrassing situation.

SAD MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: So what if the baby does come early? Your daughter is married and your melodramatic moaning about "shame" is unwarranted, unnecessary and brutally selfish. Retire to the wings, Mom. Your daughter has the stage.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Depressed," the 22-year-old woman who argued with her friend about her make-up. I am 20 and I wore quite a lot of make-up until two years ago. My boy friend asked me to take my make-up off as he thought it cheapened me. So, because I wanted to please him, I washed my face, and now I would never be bothered with make-up again. I always look clean and now I don't have to worry about getting make-up all over everything. Looks are only skin deep and a person should be liked for herself. We are going to be married soon. I am so glad I washed my face. I can see things a lot more clearly now.

DEAR ABBY: Years ago I had a boy friend who was always harping on how men prefer girls with the "natural" look to those who wore make-up. Well, I got sick of hearing it, so one night I appeared for a date without one speck of make-up on.

Boy, was I a beauty with my shallow complexion, dark shadows underneath my eyes, yellow teeth, pale lips and invisible eyebrows and eyelashes. Unfortunately, this was the "real" me. He changed his mind in a hurry. And now he refuses to be seen with me unless I "put my face on."

DEAR ABBY: Who is worse, a married woman who runs around with a single man? Or a single woman who runs around with a married man? I am a single woman who is keeping company with a married man. I have no family ties or obligations. This man's marriage has been dead for many years and everybody in town knows it. A friend of mine is married and is running around with a single man. She lies to her husband and pretends to be jolly married. She is raising children and the whole bit. Now, who do you think is worse?

SINGLE LADY: DEAR SINGLE: It's a dead heat. It's always surprising when one goat complains that another goat smells.

Air Condition

Think cool! The cut and color of your clothes can give you an air-conditioned aura. Stick to clothes that don't stick to you: swingy skirts, skimpy dresses, large-enough shoes. You might try a cool idea from the Arabs—cover up completely when you're going out into the sun for a long time. Remember that bare sandals soak up the accumulated heat of city sidewalks, so shoes that cover your toes are cooler; light colors are cool but fabrics that mess easily make you warm. Other tricks: powder feet before putting on shoes, don't wear jewelry that jangles, and keep frills few and far between.

Eye Tips for Hot Summer Days

By ALICIA HART
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many protect their skin from the drying, destructive rays of the sun with sun-screening aids but neglect their eyes.

The first step in eye care for the outdoors is to wear sunglasses. These should have properly ground lenses to prevent distortion. A beach or patio umbrella is another part of your outdoor equipment that helps reduce glare. But you still face sun's rays bouncing into your eyes from water or sand. The result: you eyes and their surrounding facial muscles will tire from constant squinting. Over a period of time, visible aging in the form of squint lines and wrinkles appear.

Spray, blowing sand, chemicals in swimming pool water, windburn while riding in a car also irritate the eyes and contribute to these aging lines. Whatever your recreational activities, carry a well-equipped kit which includes an eye lotion. Eyedrops will flush out foreign particles and provide soothing relief for irritated eyes. Also, do not rub your eyes when they begin to itch or burn. Use the eye lotion. Or consult a doctor if there is pain.

Meanwhile, the area around the eyes and application of eye make-up require special consideration during summer.

"Now, would madame like our 'Coin-Rinse'? It reduces silver content!"

SUMMER EYE TIPS — The swooning to outdoor activities threatens a woman's beauty. Excessive tanning and sunburning lead to early aging of skin. The area around the eyes develops crow's feet faster if women neglect to wear sunglasses. Use eye lotion (left) to ease itching or burning eyes and smooth eye cream around the eyes (right) during and after sunbathing.

and protect eyes. "Wear" these over your eyes while sunbathing.

—Sunlight, (according to the maker of Aqua eye products), tends to fade eyebrows and lashes. Thus you need more eye make-up.

—Use waterproof eye make-up.

—Eyes style for this summer depends upon clean, natural lines. Tweeze only strays and define the lower line of the brow.

—For the best effect, blend two tones of eye shadow—perhaps clear blue and green, one over the other. Smooth gently with your fingertip until the

Ruth Millett Study Reveals Gay Bachelor Not So Gay

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Married men have always been able to infuriate their wives by making such remarks about a bachelor acquaintance as, "Boy, does he have it good!" That kind of envy—or pretended envy—is enough to get any wife's dander up. And up until now a wife has found it frustratingly difficult to argue the point. She knows her Jim—loved, babied, looked after, encouraged—is better off than any one of his unmarried friends. But she has never been able to prove it—not until now, that is.

Now, thanks to a study based on 2,560 interviews with adults all over the country, the American wife has an answer when her husband speaks wistfully of his bachelor days or refers to a lucky so-and-so.

According to this study, bachelors aren't as happy as married men. Not only that—bachelors aren't even as happy as pinsters.

So it would seem that men aren't by nature the gay blades, the blithe, independent spirits they like to think they are. Nor do they finally end up married just because they were not wary enough to keep themselves from being caught.

The truth would seem to be that in order to be happy a man needs a wife even more than a woman needs a husband.

This being so, how men have managed through the years to convince themselves that bachelorhood is their natural state and that marriage is a woman's idea is hard to understand.

But we women don't need to

Yard Shapes Are United by Bench

A paved patio and a lawn make awkward partners unless they're joined gracefully. What's needed is a change of pace at the edge of the paving so that masonry and grass don't meet head-on.

Simple, but effective is to build an L-shaped bench in one corner of the patio. The bench will provide a change of elevation, giving a bit of height in one spot.

The bench seat can be built of Douglas fir or white fir 2x3-inch lumber on edge, leaving an eighth-inch spacing between. For legs and cross supports, cut

A 'New Outfit' For Your Home

Here's a tip from the Tile Council of America on how you can give the house a "new outfit" with a few simple changes with a major overhaul.

New draperies often give new life to a room grown dull through the long winter. New slipcovers or throw pillows can add bright accent colors.

Dramatizing your lamps with bright new shades has almost the same effect as a new hat.

If you embark on a kitchen modernization program, don't forget countertops of ceramic tile. Durable and easy to keep clean, ceramic tile offers the home decorator more than 250 colors and an infinite number of designs.

Yard Shapes Are United by Bench

A paved patio and a lawn make awkward partners unless they're joined gracefully. What's needed is a change of pace at the edge of the paving so that masonry and grass don't meet head-on.

Simple, but effective is to build an L-shaped bench in one corner of the patio. The bench will provide a change of elevation, giving a bit of height in one spot.

The bench seat can be built of Douglas fir or white fir 2x3-inch lumber on edge, leaving an eighth-inch spacing between. For legs and cross supports, cut

Incredible Tales Circulate About Space Dead Men

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the best tradition of the Loch Ness monster and the abominable snowman, there are tales also of dead Russians circling the earth in spacecraft that went astray.

A considerable body of grisly literature has produced incredible tales recently about Soviet men and women sitting with lifeless hands on the long since useless controls of moon ships that missed their target and are now in perpetual orbit around the sun.

It is inevitable that sooner or later an American or Soviet astronaut will die in space, but U.S. officials believe that when it happens, the government concerned will announce it. They strongly doubt such a tragedy could be long concealed.

What has made the stories about Russia's space calamities so real is that they quote snatches of space conversations reported to have been overheard by ground stations here and there.

However, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has never authenticated any remarks purporting to come from cosmonauts about to die in space.

Most of the alleged tragedies were to have occurred in the period 1959 to 1962. All have been denied by Russia.

Soviet Satellite Heading for Sun On Study Mission

MOSCOW (UPI)—A new Soviet space probe, launched from an orbiting satellite, headed toward the sun today on a mission designed to study the problems of manned interplanetary travel.

The automatic space station, dubbed Zond 3, was fired toward a "heliocentric" or solar orbit Sunday from an earth satellite placed in a "parking orbit" by its multi-stage carrier rocket earlier in the day.

"Heliocentric" means an orbit measured from the sun's center.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported today the satellite is continuing toward the sun with all instruments functioning normally.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said the probe was launched to study "conditions of prolonged space flight" and to carry out "scientific studies in interplanetary space."

Rusk Candidate For Stevenson's Ambassador Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk would welcome appointment to succeed Adlai E. Stevenson as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, informed congressional sources reported today.

At the same time, there was speculation that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is interested in the State Department post should Rusk give up that assignment.

Both men were named to their present positions by President John F. Kennedy and remained when President John son took over.

$18 Billion in Foreign Aid

Congressman Otto E. Passman, who has gained national recognition in his efforts to reduce spending for "foreign aid," has come up with some more startling figures on this seemingly perpetual boondoggle.

Passman, a Louisiana Democrat, discloses that if the administration gets all of the foreign aid funds it wants this year, it will not be the almost $3 1/2 billion most often quoted but will be more than $7 1/2 billion.

Passman has written a letter "to whom it may concern." Here is what he says: "A great American once said: It is true that you may fool all of the people some of the time; you can even fool some of the people all of the time; but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

"Requests for NEW foreign aid funds so far this year amount to seven billion, five hundred twelve million, four hundred sixty-seven thousand, four hundred and eighty dollars.

"On June 30, 1963, unliquidated funds from prior years authority to the credit of these 15 items amounted to ten billion, six hundred-fifty million, seven hundred thirty-eight thousand dollars.

Vive La Difference!

We've frank to admit we haven't been able to establish any kind of satisfactory rapport with the Great Society. Title VII of the Civil Rights act has got us bugged.

It is the net argument of the Civil Rights Act that color, religion, ethnic origin and even sex exist only in the eye of the beholder and have no legal status whatever.

There is presently to be established a commission charged with abolishing the Myth of Difference and proclaiming in its place the Cult of Oneness.

We have viewed this plunge into a far, far better world with certain reservation. (Anachronisms like us seem always to have doubts and fears and other negative reactions.)

Our alarms were not abated by a recent publication of the National Association of Manufacturers which has published a book to lead its members through the maze.

Most of the Do's are concerned with taking evasive and defensive action suitable for introduction as evidence at the trial. As "Furthermore, gentlemen of the jury, it was clearly established by the evidence that our client, Bluetown Cess Pool & Septic Tank Company, carefully removed from its job application blanks any reference as to sex, color, nationality and, finally, even age, with the splendid result that they now employ six totally disabled persons over the age of 90, and four women who are trying hard to learn to be auto mechanics."

Verdict: Not guilty. Obviously, an outfit like that has been complying strictly with the word of the Civil Rights Act.

Well, so much for the Do's.

Twenty-three Skiddoo and All That

For some reason we do not understand, the watchdogs of the American language cannot seem to get over the cool, hip slangy jargon of today's youth.

Whether the experts are right or the topic worth the exploration is impossible to say. But one thing is sure: we have had enough of both.

We did not know why, however, until last week when we came across still another of these expert critiques (this one by an assistant managing editor of The New York Times, no less).

"What a drag. I got turned on to this straight chick and she put me up tight."

"Man, cool it. Don't bring me down."

Now, we certainly have no objection to calling girls chicks. And we agree wholeheartedly that they can turn you on or else bring you down. We also know that sometimes the meeting can be a drag. And if so, you are better off to cool it.

But it occurred to us that, except for a couple of additional words and phrases, simple exchange wraps up just about the entire glossary of hippy talk. And we must confess to having a pang of pity for the natives who must use that language.

In our day, we knew a number of chicks. But we also knew some knock-outs, dreamboats and cute tricks. We also knew a bimbo or two, a gravel gertie and a real living doll. And boy, were they ever nice.

If memory serves, they almost always sent us, slayed us, knocked us for a loop, and when that happened, there was nothing cool about it. What you said was:

"Wow, great, terrific, and out of this world."

So you finagled an introduction and asked her to save Saturday night. And if she said, "Divine," you wanted the hee-junk, jalopy or rattle trap. You either went to flicks or out to cut a rug. Unless, of course, somebody was throwing a brawl.

Now, we cannot speak for other people's dates. But the talent we took out had certain standards. They didn't like wise guys, smart alecs, goof-offs, eager beavers, meat heads, pin-heads, clowns, slobbs, drips, stoops or jerks.

They also didn't give you the time of day if you were white shoe, rah-rah, a big wheel, a BMOOC, a knuckle-head a blow-hard or a louse. If you were obnoxious, cracked wise, laid on with a trowel, tried a snow job, had a big line, or pulled a fast one, the tomatoes we knew used to say:

"Big deal." And that meant you were dead, shot down, from nowhere, shafted, frozen out, finished, through, washed-up, dumped, or out in left field.

If she liked you though, you had it made. You could smooch, neck, pitch some woo and like that.

In that event, you would go around with her—until you either got pinned or broke up. If you gave her a hard time, she gave you the ax. Either in person or with a Dear John.

If she gave you the business, you either gave her the absent treatment or stood her up. Then she told you to drop dead. You told her to get lost. She said go fly a kite. You said come off it.

When that sort of thing occurred, your friends would say: "Whoa! hoppen!" or "Stay loose."

Which you did—loose as a goose, if you were mouth, playing the field and telling yourself, "No sweat."

The 64-dollar question was, would you ever drool over some other gal, and would she swoon over you? So, you went home and sacked out, hit the hay, crumpled out or flaked out.

Secret U.S. All-Asian Settlement Plan Calls For Duplicating Red Escalation in Viet Nam to Force 'Stick or Carrot' Choice

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The buildup of U.S. combat forces in South Viet Nam to 150,000 by fall constitutes the first step in a still-secret program to seek an all-Asian settlement through a series of controlled military and political maneuvers.

This strategy, under preparation by President Johnson's principal policy-makers for months, is aimed at forcing a major military confrontation with Communist China by meeting head-on the Communists' escalation of the Viet Nam conflict.

Known as the "stick and carrot" approach, the new policy calls for: —Extension of "controlled" bombing into Red China, with destruction of Peiping's "embryonic nuclear plants" as a major objective.

—Offering China a multi-billion dollar development program in exchange for an end to Peiping's aggression in Southeast Asia.

While details are still being worked out by McGeorge Bundy, the President's chief foreign policy adviser, the overall design of this controversial program is now being made known to key foreign diplomats, including the Soviet leaders.

According to a National Security Council paper, being circulated in highest government quarters, Roving Ambassador Averell Harriman's mission to Moscow was to brief Russian officials on U.S. intentions to force an Asian confrontation.

What arrangement Harriman was trying to work out with the Soviet to eliminate the danger of a nuclear-armed Communist China isn't known, although the paper indicated this subject would be discussed.

Harriman raised this explosive question in 1963, while negotiating the nuclear test ban treaty. While no public announcement was made after Harriman's return, President Kennedy ordered the preparation of "contingency plans" for what was called "the nuclear sterilization of the Chicomcs."

However, these plans were never implemented, and were shelved after President Kennedy's death.

ORDER OF BATTLE — The "contingency plans" have been revived by Bundy and made an integral part of the administration's new China strategy, according to White House insiders.

While execution of these plans rests with President Johnson, Jonathan Moore, special assistant to William Bundy, assistant secretary of state for the Far East, is telling members of Congress, "The U.S. will not hesitate to bomb the embryonic nuclear plants if Peking sends troops into North Viet Nam."

He reports that, most important in this new strategy, lary can do for you. And we think somebody ought to collect it and write it down so that the next generation can go back to having a hot time. Catch on? Natch.

It's Up To You

By HOWARD KERSHNER

Free Market vs. Government Intervention High officials keep reassuring us that they will not allow a severe depression to take place in our country. Nevertheless, they continue policies leading in that direction.

The basic cause of depression is an over-supply of certain commodities and services and an under-supply of other commodities and services. By over-supply, I mean more than the market will absorb at the time and at the price demanded. Rigidity in the economic structure retards or prevents the shifting of manpower, capital, and raw materials away from the production of unwanted goods into the production of goods and services that the people do want and for which they are ready and willing to pay.

That promotes imbalance and creates too much of some things and too little of others, resulting in a blocking of the exchanges.

A free market will allocate capital, management, man power, and raw materials to the industries and services which are producing things that people want at the time, but a controlled market brought about by government intervention, retards these adjustments and results in continued production of things which the people do not want as much as other things and which accumulate in over-supply and become a drag on the market.

For instance, we have long had a surplus of foods and fibers brought about by government subsidies to farming, and further aggravated by vast government expenditures for irrigation and reclamation of land. With one hand, the government creates more farmland and with the other, pays people not to use land or buys crops from them.

A century and a half ago, the labor of about 80 per cent of our people was required to produce enough food and fiber for the nation. Today about 8 per cent of the people can supply our needs. The other 72 per cent are doing all the other things in our industries and service trades that have so enormously raised the standard of living during the past 150 years.

Hunt for Truth

By H. L. HUNT

"SHARP PRACTICE?" In 1955 I made sealed bids for oil and gas leases covering water-bottom offshore the State of Texas. I was the high or only bidder for leases covering far more acreage than any major company.

The constructive Governor of Texas was bitterly criticized for granting leases to me although the matter was not under his supervision. None of these leases produced and few ever appeared worth testing.

In 1960 in Federal offshore Louisiana sealed bidding with a published minimum, we were high or only bidder on six 5,000 acre tracts. A staff member of the Interior Department, taking pride in exercising his extensive vocabulary began talking so vociferously against acceptance of our bids that he convinced himself and our bids were rejected on five of the tracts. On the one which was granted, we soon spent over a million dollars finding it non-productive.

Because I felt we were entitled to the leases I tried to get the Interior Department to deliver as long as they would listen to me, but they flatly refused. A few months later the five 5,000 acre blocks were again offered in an offshore sale.

This time we bid less than our previous bid, and were again highest or only bidder. Our bids were accepted. The blocks were structurally low and some had been offered before with no bidders. We made our first bids thinking some part of a block might produce. Now that we have them under lease we optimistically expect them to produce when tested.

Some who dislike my opposition to Communism write up my participation in these sales as "sharp practice" and a scandal now exposed.
