By United Press International
Resort areas in four states rocked by youthful Fourth of July weekend rioting and vandalism settled back to normal today.

Throughout Monday thousands of teen-age and college-age youths headed for their homes, leaving in several areas mute reminders of the weekend disturbances.

The major trouble spots were Lake George, N.Y.; Rockaway Beach, Mo.; Arnolds Park, Iowa and Geneva-On-The-Lake, and Russells Point, Ohio.

A number of youths were arrested in other areas, such as Newport, R.I., Portsmouth, N.H., and Hyannis, Mass.

Police in seven states counted nearly 1,300 arrests during the three day weekend.

Of an estimated 50,000 persons who spent the weekend near the tiny mountain village of Lake George, 350 unruly youths were arrested, chiefly on alcoholic beverages violations and disorderly conduct charges.

In two nights of drunken brawling Arnolds Park, Iowa, about 100 persons, mostly youths, were arrested.

The fighting was brought under control, but not until the city council banned alcoholic beverages and Gov. Harold E. Hughes called out National Guardsmen for "standby alert" at nearby Estherville, Iowa.

The disturbance broke out early Sunday after nightclubs and bars began to close. About 75 persons were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to unlawful assembly.

The rioting was stopped by local police, firemen and state highway patrolmen using tear gas bombs and fire hoses. The disorders erupted again early Monday when a mob threw firecrackers and burning garbage at police and passers-by. Another 25 were arrested.

In Ohio's Lake Erie resort town of Geneva-On-The-Lake Sunday night, police broke up an unruly mob of about 10,000 youths who were tossing beer cans and shouting epithets at the officers. Nearly 150 persons were arrested.

Another 120 youths were arrested at Russells Point, Ohio, during a melee in which tear gas was used and National Guardsmen were called in.

A full scale riot broke out in Rockaway Beach, Mo., early Sunday. About 150 were arrested during several hours of vandalism and looting.

Nearly 300 persons were reported arrested in the three days at Newport, R.I., Portsmouth, N. H., and Hyannis, Mass. The arrests at the New England resorts were chiefly for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, officers said.

Commission Sets Election To Amend City Charter

Police Gun Down Killer Seven Proposals Due Voters on August 24

By DALLAS DEWESE

The City Commission today set Tuesday, Aug. 24, for an election to amend Pampa's city charter.

An ordinance calling the election was unanimously passed on first reading following the motion of Commissioner Mac-Field McDaniel and a second by Commissioner Hugh Burdette.

The action came following discussion of two of the seven proposed changes recommended by the Citizens Charter Advisory Committee headed by Ed Myatt, former Pampa mayor.

Discussion came on the proposed annexation change and the proposal to amend the charter by repealing a section which now fixes $1.00 as the amount of tax money that can be used for the city's general operating expenses.

On the latter proposal the advisory committee had recommended that the amount be placed at a minimum of $2.50 per $100 property valuation to coincide with the limit set by the State Constitution.

After discussion the commission decided to offer an amendment which would fix $1.50 as the limit to be used for the general fund.

Ex-Mayor Myatt, who attended this morning's commission meeting, stated the amendment recommended, in no way would constitute any raise in taxes.

"It merely provides how the money can be spent," Myatt said.

The annexation amendment would also bring the Pampa charter into line with state laws on annexation of territory adjacent to city limits.

Under the present state law cities such as Pampa, in the 25,000 to 50,000 population bracket would have the right to proceed with annexation without a vote of the people. The limit of annexation would be two miles.

Under the present city charter, annexation by the city is not possible without a vote of the people in the territory affected.

All recommendations of the charter advisory committee were accepted by the city commission with the exception of the $1.50 limit on money to be used for the city's general operating fund.

The seven charter amendments to be submitted to Pampa voters on Aug. 24 are, in brief:

1. Shall the city be given the power to annex additional territory lying adjacent to the city up to a 2-mile limit as provided by State law?

2. Shall the city charter be amended to allow $1.50 instead of $1.00 per $100 property valuation to be used for the city's general operating fund?

3. Shall the section relating to taxes be amended to allow $1.50 instead of $1.00 per $100 property valuation to be used for the city's general operating expenses?

4. Shall the section relating to the amount of tax money that can be used for the city's general operating expenses be amended to allow $1.50 instead of $1.00 per $100 property valuation to be used for the city's general operating expenses?

5. Shall the section relating to the amount of tax money that can be used for the city's general operating expenses be amended to allow $1.50 instead of $1.00 per $100 property valuation to be used for the city's general operating expenses?

6. Shall the section relating to the amount of tax money that can be used for the city's general operating expenses be amended to allow $1.50 instead of $1.00 per $100 property valuation to be used for the city's general operating expenses?

7. Shall the section relating to the amount of tax money that can be used for the city's general operating expenses be amended to allow $1.50 instead of $1.00 per $100 property valuation to be used for the city's general operating expenses?

Voting Rights, Medicare Face House, Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House and Senate returned from a long holiday vacation today to take up two major administration bills — voting rights and medicare.

The House opened debate on a bill aimed at guaranteeing southern Negroes access to polling places. It would strike down literacy tests and other restrictive registration "devices" and permit the use of federal "examiners" to register Negroes in all or parts of seven southern states. The Senate has passed a version of the bill.

The Senate prepared to take up President Johnson's $6.8 billion health care program once it disposed of a proposed constitutional amendment dealing with presidential disability and succession.

The House — passed medicare measure — provides a government — paid hospital program for the elderly, a voluntary program to pay doctor bills and a 7 per cent hike in Social Security payments.

Other congressional news: Amendment: Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., urged the Senate to reject a proposed constitutional amendment dealing with presidential disability and succession. Gore opposed an amendment provision which would settle a dispute between the president and the vice-president over whether the chief executive was fit to resume office.

Boxing: A House committee opened hearings on a bill to establish a federal boxing commission to restore "integrity" to the national sport. Chairman E. William Henry of the Federal Communications Commission and former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey and Rocky Marciano were called before the House Commerce Committee. Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa is on the committee.

Weather: Pampa and vicinity — Fair and isolated afternoon and night-time thundershowers. Low tonight mid-60s. High Wednesday near 80.

U.S., Aussie, Vietnamese Troops Pound Red Forces

SAIGON (UPI) — American, Australian and Vietnamese troops carried out another massive sweep through the Communists' notorious Zone D area 30 miles north of Saigon today in the second joint search and destroy operation in a week.

The operation was a few miles from the area where U. S. Air Force B32 strategic bombers from Guam hit the war zone on Monday morning in the second such strike of the war.

Zone D is an area of jungles and swamps believed to contain many secret Viet Cong headquarters and supply dumps. Previous raids have netted vast quantities of supplies but in every case the elusive guerrillas could not be found. No contact had been made in today's operation by late afternoon.

Far to the north 80 valiant defenders of the Ba Gia garrison 330 miles northeast of Saigon were reported holding out against repeated human wave assaults by Communist guerrillas who overran the outpost Monday.

A U. S. spokesman said casualties among government troops included 30 dead, 42 wounded and 109 missing. Among them were one dead American, three wounded and two missing. One of the missing was believed dead, the other was believed to be a Communist prisoner.

Heavy fighting continued there today with the defenders fighting off the Reds with rifle fire with the help of U.S. Air Force B37 jets. The Viet Cong was reported bombarding the defenders with mortars.

U. S. planes flew more than 100 sorties during the day in an effort to locate and destroy two long-range 105 millimeter howitzers captured by the Viet Cong in their first assault. It was the first time the Viet Cong had captured such heavy weapons in good working order and with ammunition.

In Saigon American authorities evacuated the Rex Bachelor officers quarters in downtown Saigon after receiving a report a bomb had been planted in the dining area. The six story masonry building is the most important BOQ in Saigon, housing field grade officers (major and above).

Australian Prime Minister Pays Courtesy Call on LBJ

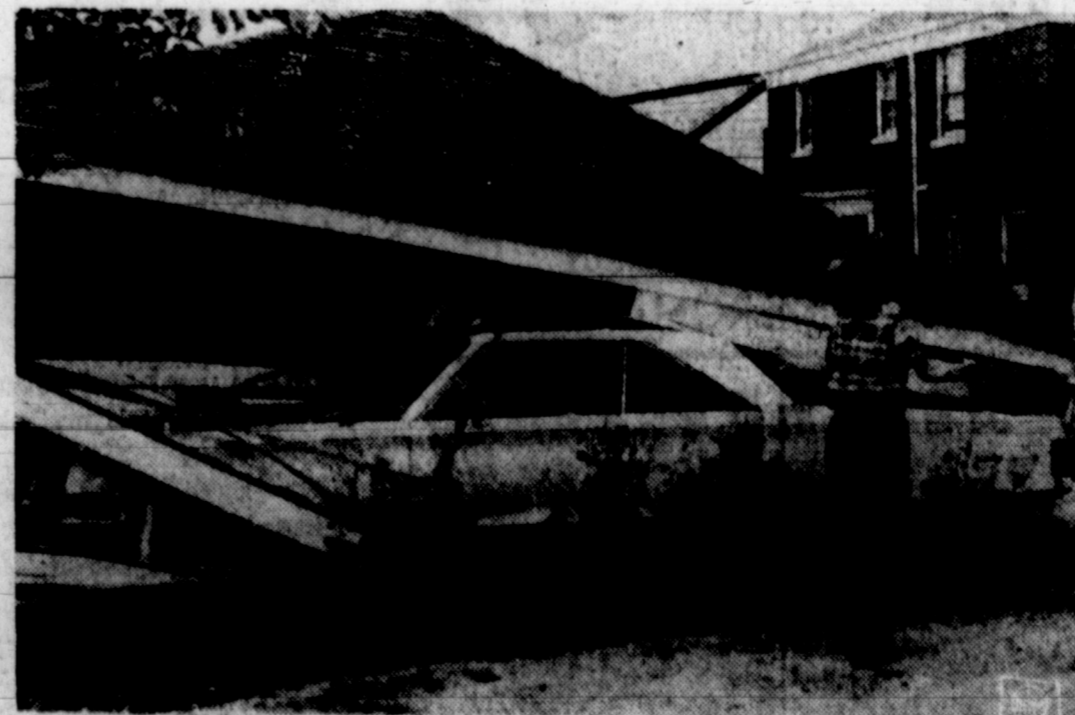

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson returned to Washington today for a visit with Australian Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies.

Menzies arrived in New York Monday from London and said he would pay a "courtesy call" on the President today. He said Viet Nam would be a certain discussion topic.

The President, during the last full day of his holiday rest period, hinted by way of his Press Secretary George Reedy that a trade mission to Iron Curtain countries by Commerce Secretary John T. Connor was in "a very tentative stage."

But that was one of the few announcements to come out of the Texas hill country Monday, as the President took time to see the scenery and cruise around a lake in his boat.

Secret Service boats kept newsmen, photographers and spectators hundreds of yards away.

PLAYING IT SAFE — Determined to avoid trouble by staying out of the holiday weekend traffic, Robert Abenstein, of Lincolnwood, Ill., near Chicago, saw his plans ruined when his wife, Margaret, stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake pedal and brought the garage roof down on the new family car. There were no injuries.

Church Asks Repeal Of Laws on Mixed Marriages

By United Press International
The United Church of Christ at its national assembly Monday called for repeal of state laws banning interracial marriages.

The 738 delegates to the church's fifth general synod in Chicago also approved resolutions seeking repeal of discriminatory immigration laws, and urging equal opportunity for Negroes in education, employment, public accommodations and union membership.

The synod advised its two million members to "engage in persuasion, in negotiation, in reconciliation and in nonviolent direct action for racial justice, and to support others who are so engaged."

Also in Chicago Monday, an integration group charged that Chicago public schools are being operated in violation of the civil rights law and federal funds should be cut off from them.

The Coordinating Council of Community Organizations (CCCO) filed a formal complaint that could lead to withdrawal of an estimated $30 million a year from Chicago schools.

A small group of demonstrators marched to the Chicago city hall, closed in observance of Independence Day, in a continuing protest alleged de facto segregation in city schools.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., chairman of the new federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, announced in Washington Monday the commission will send 65 experienced investigators throughout the nation to check employment discrimination complaints.

At Philadelphia, U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas D. Katzenbach said he was "confident and hopeful" the voting rights bill would be passed by a heavy majority. Katzenbach called the bill "a measure to knock down the hurdles which have blocked the Negro's path to the polls."

Rebel Gunfire Hits Priests, Altar Boy

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — and an altar boy in the rectory scattered gunfire in the streets of Las Mercedes Church were Monday night and the reported wounding of three Dominican churchmen climaxed a day of military maneuvering in this embattled city.

The rebel spokesman said the shells apparently were fired from positions held by Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera's junta government north of the internationally-guarded security corridor across the city. The church is a block from rebel headquarters.

A spokesman for the predominantly American force which patrols the security corridor said it had received no report of the mortar attack. He said (See GUNFIRE, Page 3)

Holiday Road Toll Sets New Record

By United Press International
The toll of highway deaths during the Fourth of July weekend set a record for the second consecutive year. Americans died at the rate of more than one every nine minutes.

A United Press International count at 11:30 a.m. CST showed 552 traffic deaths. The old killer, fireworks, claimed only three lives. The breakdown of all accidents:

Traffic	552
Drownings	160
Planes	6
Miscellaneous	8
Fireworks	3
Total	801

California led the nation with 52 traffic deaths, followed by Ohio 37, New York 35, Missouri 31, Texas 29, Illinois 24 and Michigan 21. Only Alaska and Delaware were spared deaths of any kind.

The National Safety Council predicted between 470 and 570 persons would die during the 72 hour period from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Monday night.

The death toll already was far past the previous record for a three-day Independence Day weekend, 510 set last year. Reports were still coming in and safety officials said the count appeared headed toward the records for four-day summer holidays.

Scared 15-Year Old Shoots State Sheriff

CROSBYTON, Tex. (UPI) — A scared 15-year-old told a Texas Ranger he shot Sheriff Fletcher Stark because "I was afraid he would find my pistol."

Stark, 54, a bullet wound in his chest remained in critical condition today, two days after the shooting.

Juan Rodriguez, a migrant onion picker from Brownfield, Tex., was captured while sleeping in a car near Petersburg, Tex., about 40 miles from the spot where Stark was shot.

The sheriff missed.

The youth fled, taking his gun with him.

Holiday Death Toll in State Near Prediction

By United Press International

The long Fourth of July weekend has ended with the violent death toll near the prediction made by the Department of Public Safety, a survey showed today.

A United Press International survey for the period 6 p.m. July 2 through midnight July 5 showed 52 violent deaths in the state.

Twenty-nine of the deaths were in traffic. The total was two less than had been predicted by the Department of Public Safety and put Texas in fifth place nationally in the highway death derby.

However, late reports were expected to send the Texas total climbing.

Eleven persons drowned in Texas during the period. Miscellaneous violence, including a fatal bee sting in San Antonio, and double deaths blamed on firecrackers, accounted for the other deaths.

Only one three-fatality accident was reported and it was Saturday. It killed three San Antonio residents. There were three double fatality accidents.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE ROGUE
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The urge of city folk to get out of town on a holiday weekend has just passed another seasonal peak. Rental car agencies say that Memorial Day, the Fourth of July and Labor Day represent busy periods for passenger automobile leasing.

A spokesman for Hertz Corporation, the unchallenged leader in the field of car and truck leasing here and overseas, said about 4,000 passenger automobiles available for rental are parked in the New York metropolitan area during the winter months in each April.

Turn the pool is reinforced as the summer weekends arrive and about 3,000 cars are made available.

There isn't too much difference between the Fourth of July weekend and other summer weekends in good weather," he exclaimed. "You're likely to have a slightly earlier demand, however."

Reservations Difficult
By mid-week it had become difficult here to obtain confirmed reservations for the weekend, and the problem of finding a set of wheels was further compounded here by the taxicab strike.

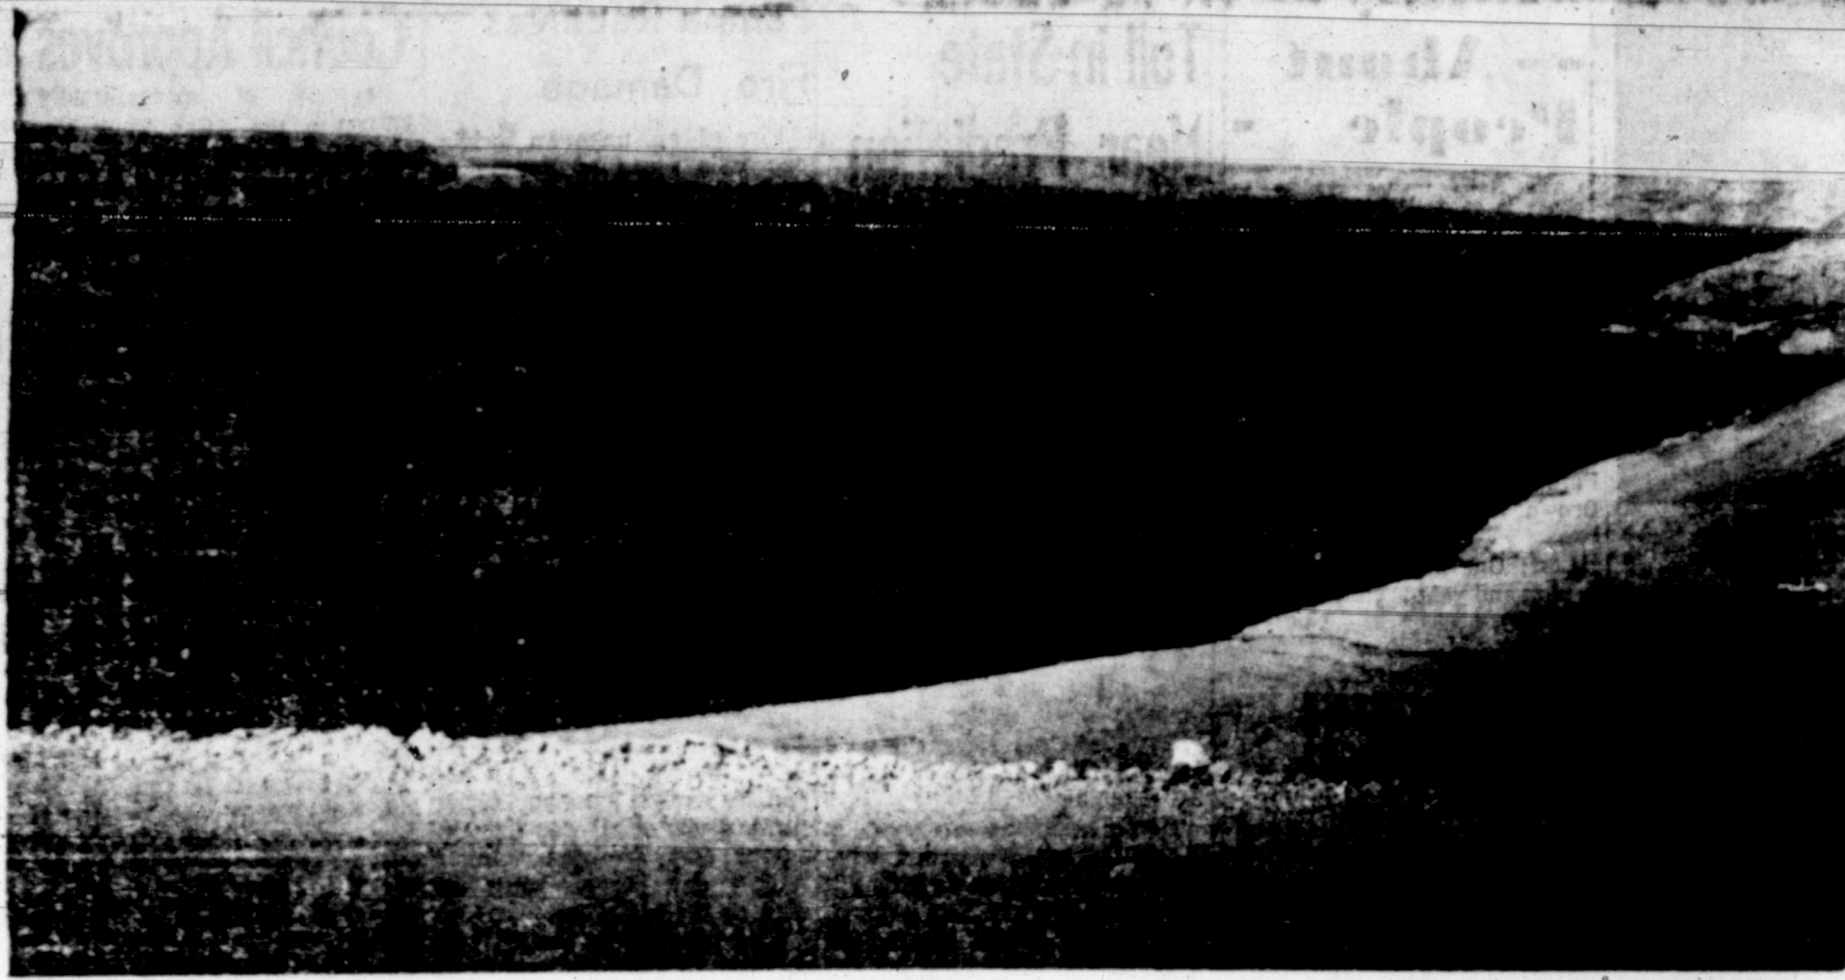

Jack Howe, manager of the Roosevelt Shopping Center headquarters for Avis in populous Long Island, said there were about 3,300 cars in his area, and the company had stopped taking reservations by Wednesday before the weekend. Part of this, he said, was due to the arrival of summer visitors taking cars on a "package" plan by the week.

At National car rental, agents were turning away reservation requests as early as Thursday, although National will increase its available fleet by about 80 per cent on weekends of big demand such as the one just past.

Cities Demand High
Car rental demand is high in all major metropolitan areas during holiday periods, but industry sources say that the demand in New York and Los Angeles is probably at a loftier level than in other cities.

Many New Yorkers rely on the car rental agencies for their weekend travel or vacation trips for sound economic reasons. The owner of a car in Manhattan faces an insurance bill of more than $500 a year and a garage rental which may be from $350 to $500—all before he even turns a wheel in travel.

If he does not choose to rent a garage, parking is a constant bugaboo. On-the-street parking in the areas where it is available, leaves the car open to the possibility of damage by passing vehicles, to stripping or destruction by vandals.

WATER GALORE — This recent picture of Lake Meredith shows the tremendous body of water the Canadian River Dam has collected. Heavy rains in the Berger area this spring has brought the lake level up to almost 65 feet deep at the dam and backed up for approximately eight miles. Hundreds of boaters have been taking advantage of the lake since it was opened for outdoor sports one month ago. This picture was taken from atop the dam looking westward.

DIRKSEN "IMPROVED"
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen was reported "much improved" today and able to leave Walter Reed Army Medical Center anytime he chooses.

The 69-year-old Illinois lawmaker was hospitalized last Friday night after suffering stomach pains. He has been plagued with stomach trouble and a bad back in recent years.

POLLUTION TAKES TOLL
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Water pollution killed about 18.4 million fish in U.S. lakes, streams and rivers last year, according to the Public Health Service.

The service reported during the weekend that industrial pollution was the cause of an estimated 12.7 million of the total kill. Municipal wastes were blamed for 4.1 million and farm operations, including crop spraying, for 1.5 million.

Police Search For Pretty Teen's Strangler

GARDNER, Mass. (UPI)—Police theorized today the strangler of a pretty 17-year-old girl had lain in ambush for his victim along a secluded woodland path, calmly drinking beer.

A wide search was on for the killer of Patricia M. Joyce, a tall brunette who was taking a shortcut through the woods on her way to work Monday when she was strangled with her own nylon stocking.

Police Chief Joseph L. Renes said three "good suspects" were being sought for questioning in connection with the slaying.

He also said he would like to question the girl's boyfriend, a soldier stationed at Fort Dix, N.J. The unidentified boyfriend wasn't considered a suspect in the slaying, Renes said. The soldier visited the girl over the weekend and reportedly left for Fort Dix shortly before the slaying.

The girl's body was found fully-clothed in a white nurse's uniform.

Dr. Joseph P. Marnane, medical examiner, said the girl had not been sexually molested. Her pocketbook, which had been emptied, was found a few feet from her body.

Chief Renes said several recently discarded beer cans were found about 30 feet from the girl's body, in a naked-down patch of tall grass.

He theorized that the girl's assailant drank beer while waiting for the girl to walk down the path.

Dr. Marnane said there were no marks on the girl's body except for the stocking tightly knotted around her throat. He said her assailant was "big and strong."

New Algerian Boss Setting His Government

ALGIERS (UPI)—Col. Houari Boumedienne, Algeria's revolutionary chief, tried today to complete formation of a civilian government and end the crisis caused by the ouster of President Ahmed Ben Bella.

It was not known when the new government would be announced, but officials said a communique was expected shortly.

In a nationwide broadcast Monday, Boumedienne said he was planning:

— A constitutional revision splitting the offices of president and prime minister. Ben Bella held both positions.

— A special congress of the ruling National Liberation Front (FLN), Algeria's only political party, to adopt a new constitution for the party more in keeping with present-day conditions.

— A reform of Algeria's legal system to prevent arbitrary arrests. These were common under the Ben Bella regime. Boumedienne announced that 1,318 political prisoners of the Ben Bella regime already have been released.

Luci Welcomed By All Catholics

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The baptism of Luci Baines Johnson, President Johnson's daughter, into the Roman Catholic Church has had a "regrettable" effect on the Christian unity movement, a spokesman for the Vatican's secretariat for promoting Christian unity said today.

Father Thomas Stransky of Milwaukee, Wis., a member of the important secretariat headed by Augustin Cardinal Bea, emphasized that the problem centered on Miss Johnson's baptism "and certainly not on her conversion."

He said her conversion to catholicism "is a personal matter that she decided, and since she converted she is welcomed into the church by all Catholics."

Sophia's Bigamy Case Now in Court

ROME (UPI)—The bigamy case against Italian actress Sophia Loren and her husband, movie producer Carlo Ponti, moved into a Rome courtroom for trial today after seven years of legal wrangling.

Neither defendant was expected to show up for what promised to be a long series of hearings. Miss Loren and Ponti are in England, making a movie.

They could be sentenced to five years in prison upon conviction.

Christian Science Board Okays New Building

Sweeping new plans to construct a 15-acre "church center" for the expanding world headquarters of the Christian Science movement were announced today by the Board of Directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

A letter from the Directors giving information about the project was received locally by First Church of Christ Scientist.

The letter said that the Church's new center could "no longer be postponed" in order to meet the needs of its expanding activities.

A master plan — prepared for the Church by a leading firm of architects and city planners, I. M. Pei & Associates of New York, — also covers an additional 16 acres of partially church-owned land around the "center."

On this surrounding land, the plan calls for leases to private developers to construct 3,500 new middle-income apartment units, plus retail shops, office space, improved pedestrian ways, and underground parking facilities. Cost of this privately-developed phase is figured at $63,000,000 or more.

The total project area — combining both Church and private sectors — covers 31 acres and would be constructed in stages over a period of 6 to 10 years.

Details of the proposal are being worked out in close cooperation with Boston city officials to coordinate the project with the city's extensive urban renewal plans.

First in line for construction is the $8,000,000 "church center expansion" — including a new 22-story Administration Building, with 7 acres of open landscaped area and a 600-car underground garage.

Expansion room is also planned for the existing Publishing House — which now issues periodicals in 13 languages besides books, records, and a daily newspaper, The Christian Science Monitor.

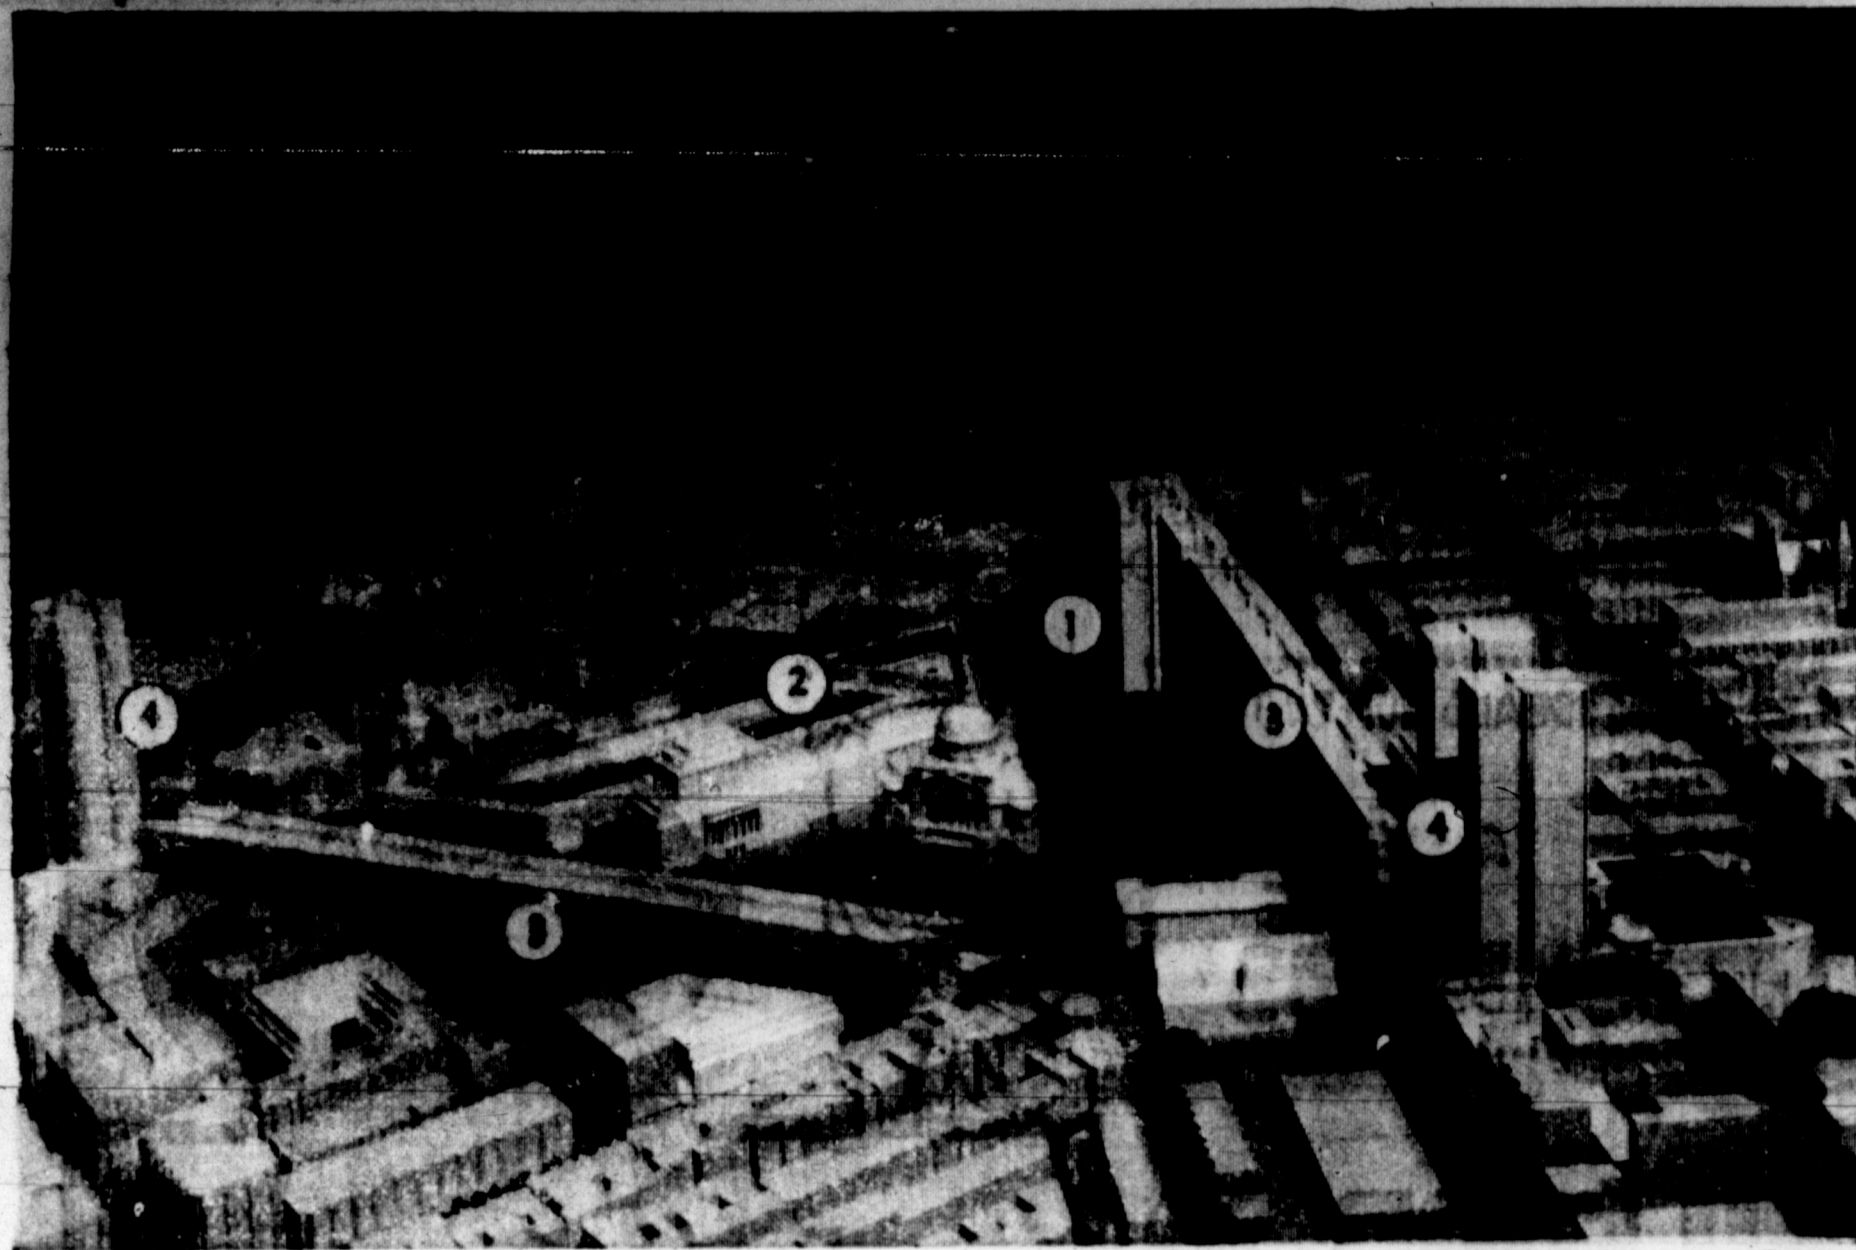

Focal point of the entire center will continue to be the Original Edifice (built in 1894) and its large white-domed extension (Completed in 1906) — generally recognized to be among the world's great church buildings.

They were built under the leadership of the movement's Founder, Mary Baker Eddy, and remain in use for church services, public lectures, the annual meeting of members, college student conferences, and many other church activities.

Location of the project is a large triangular plot in Boston's Back Bay region — Bounded on one side by the Prudential Center, and on the other two sides by Huntington and Massachusetts Avenues, which meet to form an apex at one of the city's busiest intersections.

It is part of an area that is gradually shaping as one of the world's leading cultural centers.

"Born in the purple," meaning royal birth, is derived from the fact that the room in the Roman imperial palace where the empress was confined was lined with purple imperial porphyry.

MODEL OF $71,000,000 REDEVELOPMENT PLAN — The master plan prepared for the Christian Science Church by I. M. Pei & Associates includes a "church center" in Boston costing $8,000,000, plus privately-developed apartment and commercial space estimated at $63,000,000. Model shows existing church edifices and publishing house surrounded by 7-acre park and proposed new buildings as follows: (1) 22-story church administration building, (2) auditorium and other facilities, (3) 9-story private apartments with ground-floor shops, (4) 34-story apartments.

Miss Horrig's request was granted.

Miss Horig left London early today en route to the home of relatives in West Germany.

Hall Tire Company is Your Complete Tire Supermarket

Your tire supermarket is Hall Tire Company, 700 W. Foster, MO 5-5755. Leymond Hall, owner and operator, has "diversified" his stock of new tires in order to offer you the finest tires made by several manufacturers, including Security, Dayton, National and Mohawk. From these top lines you can select the tires you want. Hall's supermarket features enable you to choose from many tires in many lines. Of course, Hall's Tire Purchase Plan adds two other features:

1. The budget plan to suit every purse.
  2. Hall's "extra allowance" for your good trade-ins.
- Leymond Hall has a special reason for offering his extra allowance for good used tires: He is proud that he always has really good used tires to offer customers. To be able to offer good used tires, he always is looking for good trade-ins, and he is ready to pay extra for them.
- For many years thousands of motorists in the Top O' Texas have looked upon Hall Tire Company as the place to trade tires. There has to be reasons, and these are:
- Service includes truing and balancing tires on the Tru-O-Matic Tire Truer and the Alomite Electronic Wheel Balancer. Smooth, balanced tires help your car deliver the motoring pleasure you look for in your automobile.
  - Tires that are out-of-round bounce along the highway, and cause extra wear on the tire and car, and cause driver fatigue. Another Hall service is the front-end alignment for overall steering ease and longer tire life.

Check with Hall Tire for those high-traction mud tires that will carry you to and away from fishing holes and camping grounds. They can add a lot to your Summer fun, and save you a lot of cash. Come in and see the large selection of Seat Covers for every make and model of car. They are designed to add beauty and longer life to your car. Drive in the pick-up, and let Hall rebuild the front seat so that you have the comfort and beauty of a new seat! Rebuilding seats and repairing car interiors are Hall specialties. Come in, talk over your tire, seat cover or motoring problems with Leymond Hall. Remember, if you don't know your tires you should know your tire man. Leymond said: We can save money for you just as we have for hundreds of others. Come in, let him prove that statement to you. # U.S. Confident on Moon Shot

By AL ROSSITER JR. — HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — The ominous blasts of warning horns rumbling over the rolling hills of northern Alabama signaled the start of a new era in man's climb to the moon. The scene was the Marshall Space Flight Center—the northern peak of a crescent-shaped string of southern space installations moving at full speed toward landing men on the moon before 1970. Here, at the base that built the rocket that orbited America's first satellite seven years ago, the United States is developing the awesome boosters needed for Project Apollo. To the east, from the former sand barrels that have mushroomed into Cape Kennedy, the trip to the moon will begin. To INS 1st add, 5-60 UH Confident Marshall and its Michoud rocket manufacturing plant in New Orleans and its test site at Hancock County, Miss., "are making come true what once were dreams on a drawing board. The south and west lie assembly and testing points in Louisiana and Mississippi and the control center in Houston. Things Move Ahead From Florida to Texas, the bases for America's moon program are moving ahead smoothly. Their growth has been nothing short of fantastic. Scientists are confident. Astronauts are well into their training programs for the space voyage less than five years away. It was here, after the alert had been sounded April 16, that the giant 7.5-million pound thrust Saturn-5 moonship launcher burst into life with a great flash of flame and clouds of smoke that billowed high into the sky. It was not the first test firing here. They have been going on for years. But it was the biggest and one of the most significant. It was the first time that all five engines on the Saturn-5 first stage had been fired together using equipment identical to the rocket that will send a three-man ship racing toward the moon from Cape Kennedy. President Kennedy four years ago committed the nation to the ambitious $20 billion Apollo program. And his 1969 target date for the first manned lunar landing by Americans still stands. To Dr. Wernher von Braun, the man heading Apollo's Saturn rocket development here at Marshall, the date can be met. "Our schedule very definitely calls for landing on the moon this decade," Von Braun said after watching the Saturn-1, the first of the super boosters, score its ninth straight success May 25 at Cape Kennedy. "I do not believe the Saturn-5 will be the pacing item," he said confidently.

agency had been worming information out of deadbeats by pretending that they had won a new car. My correspondent suggested that I might be interested in some of the other recent developments in the classic struggle between the bill collector and the deadbeat. He said they might shed some light on "the popularity that bankruptcy is enjoying." Exemplify Feeling "A publication here in California recently seemed to exemplify the feeling of some consumers—that debts were made to be beat," he wrote. "It instructs the debtor on the various legal ramifications of debt enforcement and states that it is very hard for a creditor to tell what assets really belong to the debtors, especially if another creditor, a FRIENDLY one, has already levied on them. "It also states that the act of bankruptcy will not actually harm you in the eyes of your neighbor and that as far as your credit rating is concerned, it might actually help." That's pretty interesting all right. I never knew before that there was such a thing as a "friendly" creditor. Remind me not to mention that to my wife.

"I do not believe the Saturn-5 will be the pacing item," he said confidently.

The Saturn-1 is nearing the end of its 10-shot test series with a perfect record. It proved that the basic Saturn theory of multi-engine rockets works, and it showed that high energy hydrogen-fueled upper stages are feasible. The Saturn-1B, first of the Saturns designed for three-man missions, recently completed ground tests here and is now being readied for launch early next year at the cape. The Saturn-1B is scheduled to orbit three-man Apollo craft within two years. And with the successful April 16 test firing, the final series of ground tests on the biggest of them all—the Saturn-5—is now moving ahead. The Saturn-5 first stage that is now undergoing static tests concrete and steel embrace of its firing stand for months of ground experiments. A second Saturn-3 booster with two hydrogen-fueled upper stages bolted to it will be mounted in a huge tower now nearing completion for an exhausting series of "shake" tests to make sure the 364-foot vehicle is strong enough to stand the stresses of launch. "We are very gratified with the way the testing is coming along," Von Braun said in an interview. "So far, it's moving so smoothly, it's dull."

The Saturn-3 boosters to be used for lunar launches will be assembled in New Orleans. They will be tested at a new completion 38 miles north of New Orleans in Hancock County, Miss. The first of the Saturn-4 second stages will be completed this fall with the first test firing scheduled for next January. The first booster will be tested at the center in the summer of 1966. After being test-fired, the Saturn second stage will be shipped by barge to Cape Kennedy. The first stage will be barged back to New Orleans to be refurbished and then shipped to the launch site by a ship traveling through the Panama Canal.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wordsworth, Cassius Clay or one of those other poets once wrote: "My heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky." My heart does the same thing when I behold a letter from a bill collector. At the same time, I get a sinking feeling in the pit of my wallet. What must have been a new intercontinental record for the coronary high jump was set the other day when I received a communication from a collection agency in California. My wife is pretty far flung when it comes to opening charge accounts, but at last report the credit migration only extended to the city limits of Medicine Bow, Wyo. Full Of Admiration The thought that she had finally established a beachhead on the West Coast left me thunderstruck with admiration. It turned out, however, that congratulations were premature. Rather than reviewing my balance of payments situation, the letter merely referred to a column I had written about an ingenious bill collector in Detroit. Until the Federal Trade Commission halted the practice, this agency had been worming information out of deadbeats by pretending that they had won a new car. My correspondent suggested that I might be interested in some of the other recent developments in the classic struggle between the bill collector and the deadbeat. ## Probe Underway for Bandit Who Shot Restaurant Cashier

ARDSLEY, N. Y. (UPI) — Police today searched for a bandit who tried to kill a pretty blonde cashier in a vain effort to hide his identity during the $6,000 robbery of a resort restaurant. He shot her three times. "I've been shot... by a man," the cashier told police by telephone shortly after the robbery at Leighton's Woodlands Lake restaurant Monday. "His name is... Sanford Edwards," police quoted her as saying. "He used to work here." The victim, Miss Terry Tinney, 25, remained in serious condition early today, according to a spokesman at St. John's Riverside Hospital in Yonkers.

Westchester County detectives described Edwards as a 6-foot negro wearing dark trousers and a gray shirt. Officers said the man, a former Pittsburgh resident, escaped in a 1964 black Plymouth with New Jersey license plate GXC-816, registered to Miss Tinney. The hospital said the young woman was shot twice in the abdomen and once in the head, just above the right ear. Police theorized the bandit tried to kill her because he knew she could identify him. The restaurant, located on the Saw Mill River Parkway 10 miles north of New York City, was closed Monday as it normally is on Mondays.

DIGGING IN — Mrs. Isabel Orr, a flower grower and a determined woman, wanted to improve her San Luis Obispo, Calif., garden with some natural fertilizer by grazing cows at nearby Camp San Luis Obispo. Getting no satisfaction from camp officials, Mrs. Orr got in touch with President Johnson. As a result the flower fan is shown gathering up some cow manure to sprinkle on her garden.

Dear Abby.... Husband Had Better Unframe Old Flame

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I lived for a year with his parents, and when we were picking to move I ran across a framed picture of one of my husband's old girlfriends. I started to throw it away, but my mother-in-law asked if she could have it for the frame. Naturally, I gave it to her, thinking she wanted it only for the frame. Seven years and two small children later she still has that picture in the same frame, displayed on the mantel. She was never very close to the girl and my husband didn't go with this girl very long. (She has three other sons who went with girls younger than my husband went with this girl and she doesn't display their girl friends' pictures.) Every time I see that picture I burn up. Why is she holding on to the girl's picture? She wouldn't like it if my mother kept one of my old boyfriends' pictures on display, and neither would my husband.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the article about the man who considers it "effeminate" to kiss his little son. It sure burned me up. We are the fortunate parents of a whole household of boys, ranging in ages from teenagers down to toddlers. My big, strong, strapping husband kisses and loves his boys all the time. And when they line up every night for the good night kiss ritual, the teen-agers lead the pack. When they get too big to crawl up on Dad's lap for affection, they get hugs, pats on the back and their hair tousled. And my husband is the most masculine man I have ever seen.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. My sweetheart and I plan to be married soon and we have been studying all the etiquette and customs of weddings, receptions, etc. Neither my bride or I like the idea of standing in the receiving line and having to let every man who walks through kiss her for luck. She isn't being selfish or silly. She just doesn't want to be kissed by any man other than me on her wedding day. How can she

By HELEN HENNESSEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — It has never been clear to me whether success really did spoil Rock Hunter, but it certainly hasn't spoiled Mia Fonnsgrievs. Mia and her partner Vickie Tiel, both in their early 20s, have just finished designing the costumes for Paula Prentiss and Ursula Andress for the United Artists comedy, "What's New Pussycat?" (Miss Andress plays a sex-mad beauty who parachutes for kicks and targets in on Peter O'Toole. And the costumes are as wild as the role.) The girls will also do a winter junior petite collection aptly called, "Pussycats." She sounded exuberant about her various jobs in fashion design.

doe, hats for Madcaps and shoes for Capezio. Mia, the daughter of Lisa Fonnsgrievs who was a leading high-fashion model in New York and Paris, met Vickie Tiel at Parsons School of Design in New York, where they were both students.

At school the girls were determined to use their own imagination that they threw the faculty into a dither. And so I asked Mia if perhaps she believed that imaginative, creative people didn't need fashion school training. "They sure do," she said. "I wouldn't cut into fabric at all without some training. There is no such thing as an art without a system behind it." And that doesn't sound like a rebel talking.

After Mia and Vickie finished school, they went to Paris with $1,000 between them. This was gone in no time, and they went to work designing for French manufacturers "because it's nice to eat while you soak up local color."

Last year the house of Louis Feraud contacted them and asked them to open Feraud's fall fashion collection with their designs. Since then they have had nothing but success. I asked Mia how it felt to be at the top at 24. "I think any kids who really know what they want to do can be successful," she said. "Most lack of success isn't a matter of being young. I think it's simply lack of trying hard enough." This may be partly true, but every struggling student of design isn't the daughter of a high fashion model and a leading fashion photographer — which Mia's father was. Talent, without know-how and entre, can be by-passed. The two partners believe that young people should look young, girlish and pretty. They created this kind of look in their Pussycat collection and their clothes are priced around $20. They understand the mood and the cured and relapses are common. The measures that give the most relief include aspirin, prednisone and gentle massage to prevent contractures. Persons with this disease appear to be highly susceptible to cancer and for this reason frequent physical checkups for early detection of this complication are important.

Q—My doctor says I must take Diluril indefinitely. What is it for and what will it do for me?
A—Chlorothiazide (Diluril) is a water pill that is used in the treatment and prevention of the waterlogging that is seen in persons with some forms of liver disease or chronic incapacity of the heart. It is a safe drug in the dosage usually prescribed and for these conditions if should be taken indefinitely.

Q—If the circulation in an older person is poor would a blood transfusion help?
A—Poor circulation may be due to a leaky heart valve, nervous causes or a disease of the blood vessels. Various methods of treatment are used depending on the cause but a blood transfusion would not be given because this treatment is reserved for patients with anemia due either to a sudden loss of blood or a deficiency in the blood-forming organs.

Dodgers Drop From Top Spot

By United Press International
The single most important factor that many baseball experts argue caused the downfall of the Dodgers in 1964—and that Manager Walter Alton thought was cured—is haunting Los Angeles again.

The Dodgers have survived a multitude of injuries to key players and an anemic offense, but today they were out of first place in the National League for the first time in two months because of their shoddy defense. Alton's butterfingers crew finished eighth in fielding last season when the Dodgers tumbled from world champs to share sixth place. This year they were the best fielding team in the league until they hit a disastrous streak which began nine days ago.

Los Angeles has lost six of its last nine games and the winning run in four of those defeats was unearned by the opposition. The Dodgers coughed up four unearned tallies in one of the other losses.

Cincinnati took advantage of two Dodger throwing errors in the seventh inning Monday night to score three runs and take over first place in the NL with a 7-4 triumph over Los Angeles. The defeat dropped the Dodgers two percentage points behind the Reds.

Philadelphia swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 3-1 and 6-2. St. Louis topped San Francisco 3-2 in 12 innings. Houston edged Milwaukee 5-4 and the New York Mets defeated the Chicago Cubs twice, 3-2 and 3-0 in other NL action.

The Dodgers have given away nine unearned runs and committed eight errors in their last six setbacks.

Les Howard Elk City 2nd

ELK CITY, Okla. — Shamrock's Jerry Hirsch fired a 69 to win the eleventh annual fourth of July Golf Tournament at Elk City Monday.

Les Howard of Pampa and Marion Bess of Lubbock tied for second with 70s in the 18 hole tournament. Howard birdied the first extra hole to break the deadlock.

Harry Wilbur of Canadian shot a 71 to finish fourth. Bess shot a 67 for medalist honors in Sunday's qualifying round.

A single by Leo Cardenas (one of his three hits) began the decisive rally for the Reds. Winner Jim Maloney followed with a sacrifice bunt and when losing Dodger pitcher Bob Miller threw late to second, the Reds had two on.

Tommy Harper also bunted and when Miller threw wildly past third, Cardenas scored the winning run, breaking a 4-4 tie. Pete Rose's sacrifice fly scored Maloney and Harper tallied when centerfielder Willie Davis threw wildly into the infield.

Lou Johnson homered and starting pitcher Nick Willhite drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double to account for the Dodger scoring.

Jim Bunning fanned 10 and yielded only five hits in the Phillies opening game triumph. Ruben Amaro singled in a run and Alex Johnson homered for another in the Phillies attack off loser Bob Veale. Dick Stuckey hit his 15th homer in the nightcap and Ed Rubeck and Gary Wagner blanked the Pirates in relief as the Phils beat Wilbur Wood.

Richie Allen, the Phils third baseman and co-leader in the batting race with Willie Mays, was booed continuously through the game by the Philadelphia fans. He was involved in a fight with Frank Thomas Saturday, and Thomas later was placed on irrevocable waivers by the Phils.

Rookie Ron Swoboda belted his 14th and 15th home runs driving in all but one of the Mets tallies in the doubleheader sweep of the Cubs. Swoboda's first game homer with two on foiled Dick Ellsworth's bid for his eighth consecutive win. Ellsworth and reliever Lindy McDaniel did not allow a Met runner to reach base after the first inning.

Tom Parsons shut out the Cubs with six hits in the nightcap for his first victory as a starting pitcher. Larry Bearnarth was the winner in relief of Warren Spahn in the opener. Curt Flood singled in Phil Gagliano with the winning run in the 12th inning for St. Louis off loser Ron Herbel. Willie McCovey hit his 18th homer in the fourth for the Giants. Nelson Briles, the last of a trio of Cardinal relievers who blanked the Giants over the last four innings, was the winner. The triumph was the sixth straight for St. Louis.

Britons Complain About Yank Golfers

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, who was criticized along with Jack Nicklaus for show play in practice rounds, worked desperately on his putters today in an effort to recover his touch on the greens for the British Open golf championship starting Wednesday.

Palmer, the 5-1 second choice to favored Nicklaus, took his three putters to the pro shop at the Royal Birkdale course and altered all of them, inserting lead weights in the base of two of them and smoothing the head of the other.

"I'm putting badly — very badly in fact — and I've got to do something about it and fast," said Palmer, who had a one-under-par 72 in a Monday practice round.

"I haven't putted really well since 1963 and it's been getting worse. Obviously it's me and not the putters but messing around with them makes me feel better. Maybe I'll be able to work out something."

Palmer and Nicklaus, who had a 74, played with Bruce Devlin of Australia and British Amateur Clive Clark Monday when they aroused the ire of some golfers for slow play.

Eric Brown, Scottish champion and former Ryder Cup player, noted for his aggressiveness, complained about the two Yanks.

Brown was playing behind the Palmer-Nicklaus foursome with Ireland's Christie O'Connor and Scots Stuart Murray and Innes Wright.

"We had a slight argument at the 12th tee," Brown said. "It took those Yanks three hours to reach the 11th hole and five hours in all for the round. I got mad at the 12th and shouted to Nicklaus, 'we are coming through' Nicklaus made no sign so I beamed a shot through them. They let us through."

Murray said, "those Americans seem to want the entire course for themselves."

Defending champion Tony Lama went out for his second practice round in a confident mood after shooting "about a par 73" shortly after his arrival from Chicago Monday. He played 11 holes alone over the 7,037-yard course, hitting two and three balls on each hole. Then he joined two British pros and played the last seven holes, which include four par-five holes in four-under-par.

Twins Take 1 1/2-Game Lead Over Cleveland

By United Press International
An injury to pitching ace Camilo Pascual has made gamblers of Minnesota manager Sam Mele and pitching coach Johnny Sain.

The Twins were tied with Cleveland for the American League lead before their day-night doubleheader with Boston Monday. Mele and Sain decided to start a relief pitcher who hadn't started a game in more than a year and a 20-year-old rookie who had never pitched a complete game in the majors.

Mele, Sain and the Twins hit the jackpot as Minnesota swept a doubleheader from Boston 6-2 and 2-0 and emerged with a 1 1/2 game lead over the Indians.

Jim Perry, a reliever making his first start since early last season, shut out the Red Sox on seven hits and struck out eight in the night game. Boswell, a spot starter for the Twins, fanned 10 Red Sox and yielded only six hits over 1 1/3 innings to win the day contest.

Meanwhile, the Indians lost to the Chicago White Sox 3-1, New York whipped Detroit 7-2 before losing the nightcap 5-4. Baltimore tripped Kansas City 7-1 and Los Angeles upended Washington 5-2 in the first game then lost the nightcap 4-3 to complete AL action.

Pascual has been able to pitch only six innings in the last 15 days for the Twins because of a pulled back muscle and the loss of the 15-game winner of last year has forced Minnesota to call on such as Boswell, Perry and Bill Pleis as starters.

The Twins won the night game in the fourth inning when Bob Allison singled, stole second and streaked home when catcher Mike Ryan threw wildly into centerfield. Boswell allowed homers to Tony Horton and Lee Thomas before being relieved by Al Worthington in the ninth but the Twins raked three Red Sox pitchers for 14 hits including two doubles each.

Robin Roberts limited the A's to four hits and one unearned run while striking out seven in 7 1/3 innings of relief work to gain his first win since May 6 and end a personal seven game losing streak. Boog Powell doubled and singled to drive in three runs for Baltimore and Dick Brown cracked a home run and a double to lead the Orioles attack. Rollie Sheldon (3-3) was the loser.

Ford Wins 10th
Whitely Ford registered his 10th victory scattering eight hits and Joe Pepitone drilled a three-run homer, a single and a double in the Yankees opening game victory. Don Demeter drove in three runs in the nightcap for Detroit with a double and single and Joe Sparrano fanned eight in seven innings to gain the victory. Pinch hitter Gates Brown delivered a tie-breaking single in the seventh when the Tigers tallied three times.

Lopez Rounds Out AL All-Star Squad

BOSTON (UPI) — Manager Al Lopez today named eight All-Star veterans and newcomer Max Alvis of the Cleveland Indians to fill out his American League squad for the 1965 All-Star game.

Lopez, who will announce his eight-man pitching staff on Friday, picked three members each of the New York Yankees and the Minnesota Twins and one each from the Indians, the Boston Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers to play behind the eight starters chosen in a poll of players, coaches and managers.

Selected by Lopez for the July 13 game in Minneapolis, St. Paul were catcher Elston Howard of New York, first baseman Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota, second baseman Bobby Richardson of New York, shortstop Zoilo Versalles of Minnesota, third baseman Max Alvis of Cleveland, and outfielders Jimmie Hall of Minnesota, Al Kaline of Detroit, Mickey Mantle of New York and Carl Yastrzemski of Boston.

With the exception of Mantle, named to his 14th American League All-Star squad the players chosen by Lopez were runners-up in the balloting for their respective positions.

Mantle was third in the voting for left field behind Willie Horton of the Tigers and Yastrzemski.

While adding three members of the previously unrepresented Yankees to the All-Star squad, Lopez still left three clubs — Washington, Kansas City and Los Angeles — without players on the select team.

Since league rules require that all 10 teams be represented by at least one player on the All-Star squad, Lopez must

Sonics Split With Braves

By United Press International
The Tulsa Oilers maintained their razor-thin lead in the Texas League's Eastern Division Monday night with an 8-6 win over last-fading El Paso.

In other league action, the Dallas-Fort Worth Stars kept pace with the Oilers by blasting Albuquerque 10-1 and the Austin Braves and Amarillo Sonics split a twin-bill, the Braves taking the first game 5-2, and the Sonics retaliating 4-0 in the nightcap.

Austin erupted for five runs, their total output in the fifth inning. Two of those came on J. W. Porter's home run.

The only runs Amarillo got came on solo home runs by Dave Adlesh.

In the second contest, James Ray set Austin down with only three hits and another big home run helped him clinch the victory.

Socialized School System

Make no mistake about it, our Leader's Great Society is falling into place, piece by piece. Probably the most significant factor in the shaping of things to come is the training today in the tax-supported schools.

A classic example of what's being spoon-fed malleable students under federal education programs was recounted in a recent editorial published in the Omaha Evening World Herald.

The editorial told the story of a sixth-grader who came home with some of her school materials. This included "S.E.N. Weekly Reader" for Jan. 18-22, 1965, published by Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

"This is about the Great Society," the girl told her parents. "The Great Society defined... It is a place where no one is poor, where schooling through college is free, where all the sick people are cared for and where cities and countryside are made beautiful."

Printed on the back page of the pamphlet was a quiz, designed to show the teacher whether the message was coming through to the student. One of the true-or-false statements was: "The Great Society is a place where people pay for their schooling." "The child said she really knew better," the World Herald reported, "but she had marked the statement false, for that was the answer that was required if one expected to make a passing grade."

"Her father suggested a true-or-false statement the quiz did not include. It is: "Political liars don't waste any time getting their brainwashing propaganda into classrooms."

"If you mark that one false, you're flunking." Bureaucratic forces in the U.S. Office of Education are working on an accelerated campaign to spread federal money around to independent school districts all over the nation. They know that have a Supreme Court ruling to prove it, that with federal money goes federal control. And that's what they want: complete control to attain a unified system of instruction in the schools.

The general idea, of course, is to produce faithful little adherents of the great Society who will grow up to be big (and voting) adherents to the Great Society. And if anybody hasn't defined the Great Society for you, a simple and understandable term would be: "socialism in its rawest form."

The Continuing Issue

It is evident, beyond a tiny doubt, that those who are truly concerned with the standards of medical care in this country must maintain a searching eye on possible future governmental actions. For if certain factions have their way, the practice of medicine is going to be beset by an ever-expanding degree by an ever-expanding bureaucracy.

One example: When an official of the Social Security Administration was asked why certain costs were not included in the medical care sections of the Medicare bill, he answered: "How much do you want at one time? Or in one bite?" The obvious inference is that an expanded government program, with its inevitable controls, will come later.

Another example: A university professor of public welfare and social work research says: "We have hardly begun to explore the variety of care available to us in establishing a system of total government health care for all." Here the inference is that socialized medicine, 100 per cent in scope, will come along in due time. This university spokesman also says: "Why go through the complexities of insurance? Why bother with actuarial tables, payments, etc.?" As the AMA News observes: "He advocated drawing a plan with everything wanted and providing it regardless of the costs."

No one knows just how great that cost could be. It would run into the billions, and there would never be an end in sight. Worse would be the effect of socialization on the personal doctor-patient relationship and the quality of care provided. It would inevitably deteriorate — as the sorry example of Britain demonstrates.

This is the great, continuing issue. What this or another Congress does or does not do will not end the controversy or finally solve any problem. The battle to maintain American medical standards, which are the finest in the world, will and must go on.

Please Leave as You Came

The tourist business is booming in America, and among those who aren't complaining are the nation's friendly innkeepers.

Motel proprietors, in fact, no longer regard tourists as mere customers, but as guests. They slyly so in their advertising, and you know it must embarrass them to have to mention that the guest rooms aren't free.

But the genial host has never, the guest retained just a smidgeon of practical caution. On the television set on his hotel room, for example, the guest may find a sticker which says:

This receiver is equipped with an electronic theft alarm. Do not unplug or detach without notifying management.

And pasted on the door is this helpful reminder: "Please check. Did you accidentally include towels or other motel property in your luggage? Your license number is on file at motel office."

Even the most obtuse guest now gets the message and mentally checks his luggage to make sure he has not thoughtlessly — and accidentally — included a lamp or a chair that may belong to the motel.

It is gratifying to know that such messages are never directed to the guest who is reading them. But it is sobering to reflect that they wouldn't be there if some clown hadn't done something that prompted them.

Come in as you are, folks. Just make sure your hands aren't sticky.

High Finance Is Way Out

The federal government prunes its budget so mercilessly that it will spend in the next fiscal year only five and a half billion dollars more than it takes in.

This is heralded as a major triumph in hardnosed slicing. But there must be a housewife here and there who is wondering why her husband gets so upset if she bends the family budget a bit on her clothes or household supplies.

What's good for the government must be good for the people, mustn't it? Or has somebody been kidding us?

WASHINGTON: $100 Million Is Wasted In Defense

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Here are nine simple steps by which Defense Secretary McNamara could increase military readiness and save taxpayers $100 million a year.

1. Eliminate overproduction of data. Ten Army depots alone have overspent $365,000 a year in processing cost information with unnecessary frequency. Officials seemingly are entranced by the amount of data computers can turn out.

2. Stop buying things already declared surplus. The problem is largely bureaucratic. Word that an item is surplus doesn't get passed on to the procurement officer. Checks on 35,000 items declared no longer needed show that on the average it took a year on each item for the word to trickle down to where it mattered.

Over $30 million a year is lost managing surplus items that should have been disposed of or never should have been bought. At least another $30 million a year is wasted buying these items in the first place.

3. Stop sending arms and supplies to places where they're not needed especially when needed elsewhere. Ammunition usable in Viet Nam has been shipped to Okinawa after officials had been notified that Okinawa had excess stocks.

4. Assign officers and enlisted men to the jobs for which they are trained. Spot checks indicate 35,000 trained enlisted men are misassigned in the Army, wasting $49 million in training costs. Inspections show Air Force men assigned to jobs they are not trained for — and the work they were trained for farmed out to private contractors.

Erroneous payments of several million dollars a year are made because the finance personnel concerned were not properly trained.

Inexperienced officers in one depot inspected lost accounting control of the entire $45 million property for which they were responsible, thus impairing the operational effectiveness of missile and communications systems in the area. They were unable to adequately investigate $13 million in inventory losses and ordered a third of a million dollars worth of stock they already had in hand.

5. Put officers into contract negotiations equal in experience to the representatives of the private companies they deal with. Investigators say millions are lost each year because defense contract negotiators don't understand the contracts they sign or how they could do better for the government.

6. Eliminate pro forma inspection of military weapons, vehicles and equipment in "battle-ready" units. Substitute inspections that insure discovery of what equipment is not operational.

At one post, inspectors found 23 tanks deadlined or operating in substandard condition for 43 to 136 days because of the lack of seven parts which weren't ordered as needed. Maintenance inspectors found 216 major deficiencies and 2,300 other defects in the armored personnel carriers and cargo trucks in one combat infantry battalion in Europe.

7. Eliminate inefficient operations. Example: One Air Force ROTC unit, with nine military personnel assigned, produced 20 officers in one year at $65,700 each.

8. Wash out unnecessary jobs. One naval ammunition depot inspected was found to have 55 excess employees. Personnel were given unessential work; inefficient work methods weren't weeded out.

9. Where practical, arrange for shipment of equipment directly from manufacturer to port instead of wastefully transshipping through military stations.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Accuracy Can Pass For Honesty, But Is Not Same

By SAM CAMPBELL
Business Editor

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan is packing his socks, getting ready for a call on Washington, D.C. Newsweek magazine says he's coming over for a $2-billion loan. The English treasury denies it emphatically. Now which party are you to believe?

In the newspaper business, we get used to contradictions like this. Usually, if you trace them out far enough, you find that both sides are technically correct. To show how such a seeming head-on conflict can be ironed out, let me tell you a little story. The time element is condensed, the names are fictional, but the essence is true.

Somebody's Coming
One time, back on the farm, the dogs started barking, and we kids stuck our head out the door. "Somebody's coming," we said.

Grandma looked out. "That's Old Fred," she said. "Wonder what he wants this time."

"Judging again," Grandpa grumbled. "I can't understand you women. It's getting so a person can't be neighborly anymore without somebody figuring he's up to something."

"I'm not judging," Grandma said. "I just see he's all humped over again, and I know when that happens he'll be complaining about his back."

"A back can be mighty miserable," Grandpa said. "I remember when we were greasing the hayrack wheels and you were helping lift..."

"That's different," Grandma cut in. "When my back hurts it's a back. But when Old Fred's back hurts, it's his stomach that's bothering. I know that stoop. He's come to brocure another gallon of sausage — mark my words, another gallon of sausage."

Grandpa put on his hat and went outside. He and Old Fred met, then headed over to the smokehouse. In a few minutes Old Fred disappeared down the driveway with a package under his arm. Grandpa came back in.

Grandma didn't let him get his hat back on the peg. "Didn't I tell you," she exclaimed, "another gallon of sausage!"

"Wrong again, woman," Grandpa replied. "I wasn't a gallon at all. They're having a company this Sunday. He needed a gallon and a half."

That's the end of the story, and what I mean to say is that maybe we can believe both what Newsweek Magazine said and what the British treasury said. The loan could be only $1.5 billion or, on the other hand, it could be two billion plus.

Question Box

QUESTION: "Are all strikes a form of civil war? If so, why are they?"

ANSWER: We can think of no strikes by union labor or by organized business that are not a form of civil war. One of the most effective forms of civil war is blockade or siege to try to starve people into submitting to a condition that they would not submit to on a free market basis where all people are equal before the law as they are before God. Strikes are simply an attempt to get an advantage over other people. That is, to make other people work for less and have a lower standard of living so those who are striking can get more for what they produce than others can get and thus have a higher standard of living.

In the long run, civil wars do not accomplish what they intended to do. Strikes, of course, greatly reduce production, and things have to be produced in order to be distributed and enjoyed. And what is produced has to be sold in order to benefit its owner.

Strikes eventually lead to a dictatorship from government. Strikes are based on initiated force or threats of same, or starvation.

As we have repeatedly said, labor unions or business combinations couldn't do much, if any harm if they didn't get aligned with government which gives them special privileges.

And since there are more working men than there are employers, it is very difficult for the employers to get laws passed which would benefit them. They don't have the votes compared to the working people, and many people who don't belong to labor unions or don't want to belong to them do not understand that wages come from production. Each man must produce his own wages.

The more he produces, the more he should get.

It is unrealistic to think that strikers can for long get more wages than they produce. They eventually lead to loss of liberty and lower production.

There are nearly five million employers. If one employer is not paying what the man is worth, others will be glad to pay him what he is worth in order to get better help and give better service to his customers.

Or if union members think no present employer will pay him what he is worth, they can save their money and go into business for themselves. They can rent the land, hire the capital, hire the employees and thus demonstrate how real wages can constantly be increased for all consumers and workers.

disappears in administrative overhead.

Worse, this dependence on federal largesse is the great destroyer of state and local responsibility. When we pass the buck to Washington, we pass our traditional rights and obligations along with it. That federal money, momentarily attractive as it may be, is bought at a staggering price.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

Who Is TV Talking to?
NEW YORK (NEA) — We mentioned here a few weeks ago that we had sworn off television as a topic for public consideration, making it very clear that we had no personal opposition to what television offers in the way of entertainment.

Our decision was based on pure ethics. It is simply not fair to carp at television entertainment if you do not buy the sponsors' products. We could not even remember who sponsors what show.

Why that was so, we could not understand. Especially as we were able to recall vividly the sponsors of radio programs long gone. But obviously everybody else can remember the names of the television sponsors. At least long enough to buy the products and keep commercial television going.

And so, we explained, it was only reasonable that we leave television to everybody else and accept our banishment as an outcast with grace and dignity. And we would have. But since that writing, we have heard from two television executives — one of them a real president. And after listening to their explanations, we must confess to being somewhat dubious about our exile.

If we understand these television spokesmen correctly, the reason it is so difficult to remember who sponsors what show is that hardly anybody sponsors anything anymore.

In radio, a sponsor usually had a program aimed at a specific audience — the kind that would most likely be in the market for his product.

But television is not at all like radio. A television production is often too expensive for a single sponsor to support. Television, we have been informed, is actually more like a magazine — full of stories and news and discussions, with the commercials scattered around like traditional magazine ads.

But exactly what kind of a magazine it is-like, our informants did not say. So, we stayed home for several evenings to find out.

It has been our experience in the writing profession that if you want to know the kind of readers a magazine aims at, you have to look at the ads.

We are not going to get involved in a general discussion of this topic. Except to say that you can write the same story to the men who buy trousers by mail and the women who buy dresses made in Paris. But you cannot write it in the same way for both.

So, we put in approximately 30 hours of prime evening time in front of our television set — paying the strictest attention to the commercials. And we have concluded that we simply do not know who television is talking to.

The people we know do not worry about dishpan hands, longer-lasting underarm protection, dandruff, or the fact that they cannot brush their teeth after every meal.

The people we know hardly ever use hair creams, home hair-wave lotions, instant beverages, or foundry pies and cupcakes.

The people we know cannot really tell one cigarette from another by taste, or one laundry detergent from another by the way the clothes come out of the washer.

In fact, most of the people we know have given up smoking cigarettes. And those who have not are smoking the same brand they bought 10 years ago, and buying the same laundry soap they've always used.

The people we know do not buy television sets on time, do not buy automobiles on the basis of styling, do not buy electric knives or electric can openers, and do not understand people who do.

The people we know do not think that plastic is as good as leather, linen, wool, silk or wood in every instance. The people we know feel that eating from disposable plates is somehow sinful. The people we know think that being a teen-ager is a condition best gotten over with when young.

The people we know do not know the people television is programmed for. Maybe we know the wrong people. But we know a great many of them — from New Jersey to Hawaii. And that makes long, prime time evenings feel a lot less lonesome.

Listen, slick chicks! If you want to clip a guy's wings and get him to the altar, become an airline hostess. Statistics prove it. U. S. airlines now employ nearly 15,000 stewardesses, twice the number they did 10 years ago. But the professional life of an average airline hostess is only two and one-half years. Nearly all of them quit to get married. Any airline official will tell you Cupid is jet-propelled these days.

Today's smile: A father, whose son had just returned home from college, was asked: "Does your son burn the midnight oil?" He replied: "Yes, and a lot of gasoline with it."

Leave it to the Soviets to look us whenever and wherever possible. They're now turning out a fake caviar which will sell for a lower price. Those who have tried it tell us the synthetic is indistinguishable from the real thing. However, we'll wager that when you come to pay for it in a New York restaurant the price will also be indistinguishable from the price of the real thing. The Brewing Industry spent more than $10 million in national advertising last year to convince us we should drink more beer. Apparently it paid off since beer and ale rank third in the nation's favorite beverages, right behind coffee and tea.

Thoughts while shaving: American soap makers are tired of hearing complaints about foaming detergents that blip up drains. Last year they spent $150 million developing a new foams-less soap powder that will be on your grocer's shelf soon. They say they had to invent a new chemical to make it work, but work it does. All of which is another example of American knowhow.

A recent survey of medical men in Rhode Island and Florida revealed that most of these days, in fact, 17 per cent of those interviewed in each state agreed that cigarette smoking is a health hazard. . . . If your wife is the average American woman, she takes home 890 cans of food and other products from the supermarket each year. And if they were piled up in your back yard, they'd make quite a pile. . . . Uncle Sam is beginning to worry about the water shortage, too. His survey showed that four-fifths of the nation's water supply comes from lakes and streams and the rest from wells. . . . Today's elaborate coiffures are really not new. Many were originated in ancient Athens, where professional hairdressers were employed for the first time in recorded history to make those Grecian maidens more attractive. . . . It won't chill you, but when you're sweating in the heat this summer, just give a thought to the fact that the U. S. Postal Directory reveals there's a town in Texas named Cool. We'll bet it isn't, though. . . . A friend just back from two years in Spain tells us those legendary castles, famed in song and story, are fast disappearing. He said they are being dismantled to obtain stones for building smaller homes. . . . If you're looking for a good housewife, choose a Norwegian gal. Chances are she's a graduate of one of the 70 schools in that country for training housewives. . . . The Barre Montpelier (Vt.) TIMES-ARISTO headlined a story: "Woman Pilot Delivers Plane." Women do everything these days.

Country Editor, speaking: "A wise man believes half of what he hears, and is generally smart enough to know which half."

matter of fact

The world's most powerful icebreaker ship is the Russian nuclear-powered Lenin, launched in 1957. Its horsepower ratio is the highest in the world. It is estimated that the Lenin can make sustained progress in unbroken ice fields up to 6 1/2 feet thick and that it can cruise for a year without entering port.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I guess the most romantic thing I have seen on television in recent years was that commercial where the boy and girl go dancing down Park Avenue at night because the girl is happy she is a blonde, or something like that, maybe. I don't guarantee the facts about the commercial, but the notion that people go dancing down New York streets at night was splendid romanticism.

What I am getting around to is that what television entertainment really needs badly is solid romantic stories, about real people doing real — or near-real — things, or at least doing acceptably real things with some charm. And that is why Monday night's CBS-TV "Summer Playhouse" attraction, a half-hour test film for a projected series called "Sam and Sally" that never made the network schedule, seemed worth tuning in on the basis of the advance summary: "A romantic comedy about two young people who meet and fall in love on a lively New York weekend."

Think of it! — no witches, robots, hillbilly servicemen or other assorted way-out, unreal — or at least unrepresentative — types. Well, I won't bother you with the details except to say that the romance resulted after Sam (Gary Lockwood) pretended to be a cousin of Sally's (Cynthia Pepper's) roommate, who was out of nuch of a show — but the idea for such a series wasn't entirely a bad one, better than many now on. I don't think there's much doubt that one of the reasons for the popularity of many old movies on television is that they deal more often with fairly real people.

One of the problems with Hollywood — and New York-based networks — is that it usually takes quite a while for new attitudes to get through. For example, "Sam and Sally" not only recalled the basic format of "The Moon is Blue" and "The voice of the Turtle" — one amiable girl-chaser plus one virtuous girl in the big, big town — but also seemed to be date lack to the years of those productions. Not missing a trick, the show even tossed in an Eve Arden-type wisecracking, man-crazy roommate for the girl. That isn't so bad either, of course. CBS-TV might put the whole idea away until people get ready to see real people again, if that thought strikes you as pleasant.

The Channel Swim: Don DeFore, costar with Shirley Booth in NBC-TV's "Hazel" Series, has put together a book from the letters and diary of his daughter Penny, who left her comfortable family home in Los Angeles to work with orphans and crippled children in Korea. The name of the book is "With All My Love," and Prentice-Hall is the publisher.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says the stocks which would come back the most in this technical rally are the issues which have sustained the largest declines. Hooper says that stocks which did not sell off much may be safer investments but do not have to participate broadly in this rally.

Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Co. & Stetson Inc. advises clients to remain open-minded as to the longer-term outlook, which, he says, no one can predict clearly at this time.

Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. Inc. says the market is not out of the wood yet and is still within its down-trend channel. Zinder says the market's first upside test will be the December low of 857.43 in the Dow-Jones industrial average.

Priests and witch doctors of many primitive people burned sulphur as a sort of reverse incense to drive away evil spirits.
