Casualties High In Viet Fighting

Political Trouble Brewing

SAIGON (UPI) — Two U.S. military advisers were killed and a third wounded today in one of the major battles which claimed more than 460 casualties on both sides.

While fighting raged on the ground and American planes bombed targets in North Viet Nam, Saigon itself was plagued with a political crisis that threatened to topple the government. Premier Phan Huy Quat asked the military to mediate in his two-way dispute with Chief of State Phan Khanh Quat and dissident Roman Catholics.

With the United States embarking on a new policy of permitting American infantrymen to enter into combat in South Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman announced that 2,500 American combat engineers had landed to boost U.S. military strength here to 53,500 men.

The two American military advisers were killed in a clash at the South Vietnamese army training center of Gia Bay 50 miles northeast of Saigon. Their deaths brought to 404 the number killed in combat with the Viet Cong since 1961.

A U.S. B-57 bomber was shot down by ground fire during the action but the pilot and navigator bailed out and were rescued uninjured. In other air action U.S. Air Force and Navy jets carried out widespread raids over North Viet Nam, hitting the port of Vinh for the third consecutive day.

The battle was joined when a large force of Viet Cong attacked the base just after midnight. Rocket-firing helicopters drove off the attackers and South Vietnamese reinforcements moved up by helicopters made no contact with the guerrillas. (See VIET, Page 3)

Five VA Hospitals Saved From Closing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After six months of congressional nudging, shoving, cajoling and an occasional threat, President Johnson has agreed to take half a loaf on his plan to close veterans hospitals.

Citing "compelling reasons," Johnson Tuesday announced plans to save five of 11 veterans hospitals and two of four soldiers homes originally scheduled for closing.

His long-awaited decision left some lawmakers still fuming today. They had been pressing for action for weeks.

But it may have come in time to derail a congressional drive to curb presidential authority over both opening and closing of such installations. Johnson acted only a few hours after the House Veterans Committee approved legislation to block construction starts on new hospitals or closure of old ones without the committee's consent.

There were some hints that the legislation now may be dropped, provided that irked committee members cool off in the next couple of weeks.

Under the panel's report and the President's instructions, the VA will continue operating the Miles City Hospital and four others at Lincoln, Neb., Grand Junction, Colo., and Castle Point and Bath, N.Y.

Domiciliaries at White City, Ore., and Bath, N.Y., will be kept open under the instruction. So will regional offices at Juneau, Alaska; Wilmington,

Double Spacewalk Was Considered

ABOARD USS WASP AT SEA (UPI) — Had discretion not become the better part of valor, Gemini twins James McDivitt and Edward White might have become the first astronauts to stroll side-by-side in space.

White took the fantastic jet-propelled venture into the void alone—and became the first to star in a space movie and lose a glove in orbit.

This was the report from three sailors who ate with McDivitt and White as this aircraft carrier steamed toward Florida to deliver the astronauts to a heroes' welcome Thursday.

It took McDivitt and White only four days to travel nearly 1.7 million miles through space.

Fast And Slow It is taking them another three days to cover the 1,400-mile stretch from their Atlantic Ocean landing spot to their homes in Houston, Tex., to begin a string of celebrations with the biggest one in McDivitt's home town of Chicago.

Machinist's Mate 1-C Robert F. Campbell of Brighton, Mass., one of the Wasp's three runners-up for "outstanding sailor of the month," lunched Tuesday with the space heroes and quoted McDivitt as saying a double "spacewalk" was considered but rejected as too dangerous.

A news report from the carrier that "it is quite likely that the two crew members will alternate walks in space" on the next Gemini flight was unsupported by space agency officials.

Dr. George Mueller, chief of the U.S. manned Spaceflight programs, said earlier this week that no "extra-vehicular activity," spacewalks or otherwise, was planned for the seven-day voyage of Gemini-5 astronauts L. Gordon Cooper and Charles (Pete) Conrad. This flight is set for Aug. 9.

Epic For Future But Gemini-5 is an epic for the future. The world today still thrilled to the dramatic film of White's walking and jetting his way around space with the cloudy, moist ball of earth hanging in the background.

Tuesday night, White himself saw the breathtaking movie for the first time. "He didn't jump when the film first came on," said a space agency information officer. "He sort of lifted out of the chair."

"There I go again," said White. "There she goes," he said when he saw on film his glove flying off into space. Still ahead for the Gemini twins was the task of reliving their 62-orbit experiences to the United States via a news conference at Houston Thursday or Friday, and to President Johnson at his Texas ranch this weekend — then a trip to Chi-ago for a ticker-tape parade. Too Difficult According to sailor Campbell, McDivitt said space officials had thought about sending both (outside Gemini 4 for spacewalks), but found there would be difficulty getting ready to get out, with the bulkiness of the spacesuits and the amount of time they had. "He said there was always a chance something might go wrong while both of them were out," said Campbell. The spacecraft might go off course, and neither of them might be able to get back in time to maneuver it onto course. McDivitt would not have objected to a spacewalk, said Campbell, "but he said he'd just as soon stay in the capsule."

Johnson Takes To Yachting

By MERRIMAN SMITH UPI White House Reporter WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has restored yachting as a presidential pastime these balmy spring evenings on the Potomac.

On several recent evenings the latest Tuesday night, the Chief Executive has slipped out of the White House at dusk to spend several hours cruising on the river. His guests have included congressional leaders and prominent figures in the world of journalism, among others.

This is a new form of relaxation for Johnson, and he has gone about it as quietly as possible to avoid attracting an unwanted flotilla of curious from among the craft which ply the Washington channel and the Potomac when the weather is good.

Yachting has been a favorite presidential activity for many years, though it underwent a decline in the early years of the Eisenhower administration. When Eisenhower took office, the 300-foot Williamsburg, an ocean-going yacht which was a favorite of President Harry S. Truman, was ordered into mothballs as "a symbol of needless luxury."

But after Eisenhower suffered his 1955 heart attack and summer holidays in the Rockies were inadvisable, the Navy refitted a 94-foot patrol craft, the Lenox, into a day cruiser for the President. He renamed it the Barbara Anne, for a granddaughter, and used it frequently in summer trips to Newport.

The late President John F. Kennedy ordered the Barbara Anne redecorated and it underwent another name change, this time becoming the Honey Fitz, for the Chief Executive's grandfather. He used it frequently at Hyannis Port, Mass., and at the Kennedy family's winter quarters at Palm Beach, Fla.

After Johnson took office he let it be known that he would not be using the White House fleet and it went into inactive status. But this is a somewhat misleading term since the vessels can be restored to active service on only a few hours notice. (See JOHNSON, Page 3)

SILVER DOLLARS GONE

Half-Dollars Going; Will Quarters, Nickels, Dimes Be Next?

By DALLAS DeWESE Although it probably can't be considered in the serious stage yet, the silver rush is on in Gray County.

In fact it is on — and has been on — all over the nation for a year or more.

It just seems to have stepped up since President Johnson announced his plan last week to reduce the silver content of U.S. coinage.

Pampa banks have practically depleted their supply of silver dollars, and half dollars are becoming scarce in supply.

There still seems to be a sufficient amount of smaller coins — quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies — to meet the demand of local merchants.

"Pampa has been fortunate in regard to small change," said Mack Hiatt Citizens Bank & Trust vice president.

He added that while there has been a shortage of silver dollars and half-dollars for some time, he figures as long as the bank can supply customers with the smaller change, things are not too bad.

Hiatt said he thought the shortage of silver coins over the nation is in ratio to the number of vending machines in any given area.

"Where there are heavy installations of vending machines," Hiatt said, "a shortage of silver coins may develop. But here in Pampa, people have been most cooperative and we are in a fortunate position. We figure if we can supply two quarters instead of a half dollar, there's not too much to worry about."

Hiatt did say that local change machines used by merchants will not operate without half dollars and in some instances the store cashier may have to make change manually and hand out two quarters instead of a half dollar.

A. A. Schuneman, chairman of the board at First National Bank, said First National has no silver dollars at all and very few half dollars.

Schuneman said the bank had less than $200 worth of half dollars on hand yesterday.

When the bank closed its business day last Saturday, Schuneman said, one of the tellers had less than $6 worth of silver in the till. This, he stated, is unusual.

Schuneman said the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas, which delivers money to local banks in once-a-week trips into Northwest Texas, had only $500 worth of half-dollars available for all the Federal Reserve banks in the area.

"The situation is not yet critical," Schuneman said, "but it is not getting any better."

The U. S. Mint in Denver, Colo., reportedly is working three shifts a day, seven days a week and with this stepped up production the government hopes to break the shortage.

The present silver dollar contains 371 grains of silver, the half-dollar 185 grains, the quarter 92 grains and the dime 37 grains.

If President Johnson's coinage plan is adopted by Congress, the silver content of the half-dollar will be reduced by about half, and the quarter and the dime would become copper-nickel "sandwiches."

Bankers indicated that there is no need for any kind of a rush to local banks to get silver coins for change.

The situation is not critical and there is plenty of change to meet local needs with the exception of the half dollars, they said.

SEWAGE PLANT SITE — Work is off to a good start at the site of Pampa's new sewage treatment plant north-east of the city. Shown here is one of the earth-moving machines digging the trench for the three-quarter mile outfall line from the old plant to the new one. Nearly a quarter-mile of the outfall line already has been laid. Work was nearing completion today on excavation of the last of four filtration pits at the site. The entire project will cost in the neighborhood of $950,000 provided in a bond issue approved by voters last year. It will include renovation of the old plant, construction of the new plant and outfall line plus replacement of sanitary sewer lines in various sections of the city.

U.S. Infantrymen Due Combat Role In South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All visible signs indicated today that American infantrymen soon would be plunged into combat in South Viet Nam.

It also was reported that there would be a continued buildup of American military men in Viet Nam. The total now is 33,500 from all the services.

The latest expansion of America's participation in the war would cast Army and Marine units in an offensive, direct combat role alongside the South Vietnamese forces.

This would be a major step beyond their continuing mission of defending key air bases — which involves aggressive patrolling — to search out threatening Viet Cong units — and of training and advising the South Vietnamese.

President Johnson has authorized the use of troops in "combat support" of South Vietnamese forces with certain qualifications which appeared to close all minor barriers.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., indicated he accepted the move. He remarked Tuesday that he was "afraid circumstances may compel it."

Complex command relationships now are being worked out with the South Vietnamese. They seemed sure to raise sticky questions:

—Would U.S. troops come under Vietnamese "command," "operational patrol," "tactical direction," or would they "coordinate" or "cooperate" with the Vietnamese when fighting Viet Cong?

—Will a joint U.S.-Vietnamese command have to be established?

The Pentagon had no answers to these questions except that details were being worked out in Saigon.

Showers in Prospect For City, Panhandle

Severe thunderstorms were on the menu for Pampa and all of the Panhandle again today and tonight.

For the second straight day Pampa citizens were asked to watch the clouds, although yesterday's alert failed to bring even rain.

The severe thunderstorm alert called for a few severe thunderstorms with large hail and locally damaging winds 60 miles along and either side of a line from Guymon, Okla. to Big Springs. The alert is in effect from 2 to 8 p.m.

Tuesday's high in Pampa was 88 and the overnight low was 68 degrees. At noon the city had a reading of 84 degrees.

Thundershowers continued to pelt the Panhandle and upper South Plains today in the wake of 80-mile-an-hour winds, tornadoes and damaging hailstones in that area Tuesday night.

Fog cloaked sections of Northeast Texas.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said western sections of the state could expect another round of thunderstorms with possible turbulence again late today.

Temperatures were warm across all of Texas, ranging from 59 degrees in Dalhart at dawn to 80 at Corpus Christi. Presidio had the highest reading in the nation Tuesday—108.

A vast section of the western third of the state was under three separate severe weather alerts Tuesday night, but by early today, winds had calmed and the violent storms had ceased.

One of the storms struck the small town of Welch, 12 miles northwest of Lamesa in the South Plains.

A twister ripped through a farmhouse near Welch, injuring seven people. Only one of the injured required hospitalization. The others were treated and released.

Nation's Crime Rate Continuing To Rise in '65

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI reported today that the nation's crime rate, which it a new high last year, was still on the rise during the first three months of 1965.

A 2 per cent increase over the 1964 first quarter figures was disclosed in the FBI's uniform crime reports released by Director J. Edgar Hoover. He noted, however, that the increase was "more moderate" than the "sharp upswing" of 1964.

The report reflected crime's move to suburbia. It listed rises of 6 per cent in suburban areas and 2 per cent in cities above 25,000 population. There was a decline of one per cent in rural areas.

A geographic breakdown showed increases of 14 per cent in the West, 6 per cent in the North Central region, and 2 per cent in the Northeast. There was no change in the South.

Federal officials were hopeful that the moderate boost was the beginning of a tapering off of the crime rate, which has more than doubled in the past 25 years. Last year's rate was 13 per cent above the preceding year.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

On June 4 three new and vibrant roses were named as winners of the coveted AARS awards for 1966. These roses selected as the finest of the new roses of today are American Heritage, Apricot Nectar and Matterhorn. For the first time in four years, All-America Rose Selections has named more than two roses to receive top national honors.

Two years of intensive trials in 23 official test gardens scattered throughout the nation were necessary to single out American Heritage, a hybrid tea rose of majesty and beauty; Matterhorn, a vigorous, free-blooming hybrid white tea and the delightfully fragrant, rich apricot colored Apricot Nectar, a floribunda.

A news release on these winners states: "In contrast to the vivid, heady colors of the preceding AARS winners, this trio luxuriates in queenly pastels and regal ermine. The first award in six years, Matterhorn, with its snowy, perfect, five-inch blooms fit for a king's garden, combines beauty and unusual vigor to a degree unequalled by any other white rose.

"American Heritage is truly one of the most distinctive new tea roses of modern times. Its fascinating succession of color from the first small, ivory-yellow buds to the completely mature cream and light canary-yellow blooms, charmingly tinted with shades of scarlet and vermillion, is a worthy tribute to its namesake.

"The floribunda, Apricot Nectar, will find a ready and permanent place in the gardens of today and tomorrow. A direct descendant of vigorous, prolific Spartan, this floribunda is a large flowered, clear, soft apricot with a delightfully haunting old fashioned rose fragrance. Masses of gay dancing, many-flowered bloom clusters adorn the plants from Spring to late Fall."

With the above descriptions, how can any of us resist buying these roses. The story of the rigid testing program to determine the winners of the AARS award is very interesting and will be printed at a later date.

Some beautiful double Larkspur are in bloom on the north side of the fence at the Bob Sidwell home on the corner of Williston and Harvester.

A cactus which has been living on the corner of Alchison and Gillispie for many years is now in bloom; it is very attractive. Every year the Clematis vine on the corner of Clayton Florist building is enjoyed by many people. Mrs. H. H. Boynton has several colors of Clematis in bloom. The Silver Lace is always a delight to see when it is in full bloom as it is now.

Several people from Wichita Falls made a special trip to Pampa recently to see Mrs. V. N. Osborn's African Violets and to get some advice on growing them. Those who came were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carpenter and Mrs. H. O. Denson. Mrs. Denson is related to Mrs. Lee Harrah and the Malcom Densons and had been to view Mrs. Osborn's African Violets previously. It was her enthusiastic report that brought the Carpenters up here.

The lawn at the J. R. Hollowsays seems to have grown overnight. It is now a lush, thick turf; a perfect setting for the attractive landscaping around their home.

Moon signs say June 9, 10 are good planting days; June 14, 15 will be good rooting and transplanting days.

Dear Abby.... Tasteless Bride-to-Be Extremely Presumptuous

DEAR ABBY: A niece of mine, whom I'll call Sally, is graduating from high school in June. She plans to be married soon after graduation although as yet no date has been set for her wedding.

This morning I received an invitation to her graduation. Enclosed was a hand-written note from Sally. It read, "For my hope chest: Please go to Sears and ask for Mrs. Briggs. Tell her your name and she will give you a package. Price $10.95."

I've never heard of anyone doing such a thing, have you? What do you think of a girl like Sally, and what should I do about it? I planned on getting her a graduation gift, and when the time came for her wedding, I surely would have given her a wedding gift, too.

BEWILDERED AUNT
DEAR AUNT: Sally has shown herself to be extremely presumptuous and tasteless as well. Feeling as you do, ignore her "instructions" and buy her a graduation gift of your own choice — if, indeed, you wish to buy her a gift at all.

Louisiana Governor Cites Need for End to Racism

By United Press International
Three southern leaders — a governor, an attorney general and a bishop — said in separate speeches Tuesday that Dixie must adjust to the changing racial situation if it is to progress.

Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen told his state's legislature that "if we holler for state's rights, we've got to holler for state's responsibility."

"If we can't put a stop to murder on our highways and murder and attempted murder by nightriders — if we can't put a stop to this, then we are not entitled to state's rights," McKeithen said at Baton Rouge. He promised the state would capture and prosecute the nightriders who shot a Negro deputy sheriff to death last week near Bogalusa, La.

Alabama Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers told a civil club in Bessemer, Ala., that southerners are "going to decay apart and fall out of the running" unless they adjust to changing conditions.

"With every passing day we see very clear evidence reported... that some of the South's less short-sighted public officers are beginning to see that continued defiance and delay is too costly to continue," Flowers said. Flowers, a racial moderate, has been the chief critic in

It likely that the question would be discussed here this week during Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor's conferences with top officials on the Viet Nam situation.

Evidence Accumulates
Evidence that ground forces were on the verge of an expanding role, similar to that already being played by U.S. air and naval units, has been accumulating for several days.

In Saigon last Friday, a senior U.S. military man told reporters that the ground forces were there to defend key installations "and to participate in battle in what we call combat support of the government forces when it becomes necessary."

"The details on how to do that are being worked out," the spokesman said. At another point in his briefing, he said of the U.S. forces "the time will come when they will play their role."

Over the weekend, the State Department further clarified the ground troops' mission. It told of their patrolling around the defense perimeters of key installations in search of Viet Cong units that might threaten the bases.

Patrols Fire Back
Obviously, the department said, when patrols are fired upon they return the fire—"our troops engage in combat in these and similar circumstances."

The state department, responding to persistent questioning had authorized the U.S. son had authorized the U.S. commander in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, to commit infantrymen to "combat support."

The qualifying conditions spelled out by the department were that South Vietnamese military authorities must request such support and that U.S. forces must operate in conjunction with South Vietnamese troops rather than independently.

The character of the war and the nature of intensified Viet Cong activity lately are such that neither qualification would seem to impose very large practical limits.

Rebels Release Two Paratroopers

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Three U.S. paratroopers seized Tuesday by the Dominican rebels were released at 9 a.m. today, it was announced here.

The three men — Lt. Henry Leforce of Nash, Okla.; SP-4 Alton Blakely of Richmond, Calif.; and PFC Nelson Blenger, a Peruvian serving in the U. S. Army — were arrested when they strayed into rebel-held territory.

It was not clear how the paratroopers happened to blunder into the rebel-held pocket in Santo Domingo. Most crossing points between the inter-American buffer zone and the rebel area are clearly marked by now, and guarded either by U.S. or Brazilian troops.

The three men were held exactly 24 hours, apparently as a propaganda gesture. A rebel spokesman said 24 hours is the "investigative detention period specified by the 1963 constitution," which the rebels are trying to reinstate.

A fourth U.S. serviceman, whose name was not made public, was reported missing and feared drowned off a Dominican beach. A helicopter search Tuesday found no trace of him.

The inter-American negotiators who are trying to work out a settlement of the Dominican dispute returned shortly after midnight today from Santiago, 110 miles northwest of here, where they spent most of Tuesday.

Ilmar Penna Marinho, Brazilian member of the three-man team sent here by the Organization of American States, said the negotiators talked to a number of Dominicans representing both sides in the controversy.

The incident was the latest in a series of Catholic protests against Premier Phan Huy Quat, a Buddhist whom Catholic political leaders say is soft on communism.

Government forces at the camp lost an estimated 30 killed and wounded and the guerrillas two known dead.

The second battle broke out 95 miles southwest of Saigon. In this action near the village of Can Tho 60 government soldiers were reported killed and 95 wounded. The action began Tuesday with the arrival of Vietnamese troops by helicopter and was continuing today.

Crews of the armed helicopters estimated they killed 150 guerrillas in an air assault. Government troops accounted for another 15 dead and 40 captured.

On the political front, anti-government Roman Catholics set fire to a jeep in a Saigon suburb during the night and placed the four soldiers riding in it under guard.

Pampan to Appear on College Bowl

Vince Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, 413 Lowry, sophomore at West Texas State University, Canyon, has been chosen to captain WTSU's panel when the university is represented on General Electric's College Bowl at 4:30 p. m. Sunday. The TV show is telecast live nationally by NBC and may be viewed locally on KGNC-TV.

Johnson is majoring in music and minoring in English. Two WTSU students from Amarillo and one from McAllen will join with Johnson on the team which will be competing against a team from St. Francis College, Brooklyn, N.Y.

The school of the winning team, selected by answering the most questions on general subjects, will receive a $1,500 scholarship. Since this will be the final presentation of the TV show for the current season, the winning team will return in September to compete against another school.

Meantime, Johnson made a gradual approach back to boating. Last year he used a 26-foot cabin cruiser on Granite Shoals Lake—recently renamed Lake Lyndon B. Johnson — not far from his Texas ranch for afternoon cruising.

The details of his current venture afloat have been kept so secret that an up-to-date naval log was not available.

A clock that gains or loses one-hundredth second a day is not accurate enough for some scientific purposes.

Many Countries Are Facing Food Shortage

As I noted in this newsletter recently, the spectre of starvation haunts much of the world while here in the United States we are so abundantly blessed as to face problems of an opposite kind — problems created by food surpluses. The less developed parts of the world, now containing 2.2 billion of the world's 3.1 billion people, are having an extremely difficult time keeping food production at a rate in pace with their growing populations. Many countries are losing in the effort and no solution is in sight. An increasingly larger part of their population increase is being sustained by commodities shipped from the developed areas of the world, particularly the United States and Canada. In the years to come, it is not likely that this trend will be reversed. We may anticipate continuing increases in U. S. agricultural exports, and I am convinced the day will yet come when our own increased requirements and those of greatly expanded foreign markets will make maximum use of our American farmers' productive capacity.

Part of the challenge to agriculture is to insure that we possess a strong and powerful agricultural economy on into the future. That means we must preserve strength throughout rural America, strength from the farmsteads on through the clusters of homes in the Panhandle call "communities," through the towns and the regional city centers. Agriculture ties the web of America beyond the great industrial cities; when agriculture is damaged, all else in rural America is hurt. It is unfortunately true that not all Americans are aware of the problems faced in agriculture, of increasing pressures on farmers from the cost-price squeeze, shifting population away from the farms and smaller cities and towns, leaving economic distress on main street; continued drought in some sections of the Plains; the decline of rural area representation in Congress and State legislatures because patterns are being realigned through "reapportionment" to reflect the new urban population concentrations.

Reapportionment is an issue again being fought in Congress, as those of us who see the growing threat to rural strength exert our best efforts in support of a Constitutional amendment to permit at least one house of two-house State legislatures to be organized on factors other than population.

The full effects of Congressional district reapportionment have not been felt in the House of Representatives. The 90th Congress, to be sworn in January, 1967, will present — regardless of party alignment — a massive majority of urban-oriented House members. Now, with reapportionment planned but not yet in effect in many States (as in Texas), the strategy favoring enactment of farm legislation requires that all farm-proposals be combined in one legislative package, tied up in an "omnibus" farm bill drafted with the widest possible appeal to as many groups, on and off the farm, as is possible. This package approach being taken this year to farm legislation is the reason that no farm bill has as yet been reported by the House Agriculture Committee. The bill won't be ready for debate by the full House of Representatives until the Committee has finished shaping the cotton program section of the bill. Then the House will debate it, and the "city" members, who now outnumber their rural counterparts in a ratio of about seven to three, will provide sufficient support for the bill to pass. The "omnibus" approach is the 1965 strategy. What will be required in 1967 with even heavier city representation is anybody's guess, but this much is certain: All of us interested in the future of rural America must repeat and repeat again, in any quarter where we can find an audience, that American agriculture and the rural economy it sustains must not be damaged further.

As I have told farm groups coming to Washington recently in the interests of agricultural legislation, it is a solutely essential that all elements interested in a strong agriculture speak to Congress and to the rest of the country with a united voice. There are, as there have always been, interests ready to ravage rural America to their own selfish ends. Only unity of approach can assure against their success.

'Unready' Pitchers Eat American League Alive

By United Press International
Camilo Pascual claims his famous curve ball "isn't really sharp yet" and Fred Newman is worried about pitching high. The reason neither one can find any sympathy among American League batters is because they own 15 victories between them this season.

Pascual posted his eighth consecutive victory without a loss for the American League leading Minnesota Twins, whipping Cleveland 6-2 Tuesday night and Newman limited Detroit to four hits en route to his seventh triumph of the year for the Los Angeles Angels, 3-1.

The Chicago White Sox remained 2½ games behind the Twins by defeating Boston 7-2. Kansas City upset New York 3-2 and Washington blanked Baltimore 2-0 in other AL games.

Pascual pitched his fifth complete game victory, allowing six hits including home runs by Rocky Colavito (No. 12) and Max Alvis but yielded only one safety over the last five frames. Harmon Killebrew gave Pascual all the support he needed with a three run homer (his ninth) in the first inning and Earl Battey added a two-run shot in the fourth.

It was only the second complete game for Newman who won 13 and lost 10 last season for Los Angeles. He allowed the Tigers only two hits over the first five innings while beating them for the third time this season. Loser Dave Wickersham, who yielded seven hits, gave up a tie-breaking triple by Willie Smith in the sixth after a single by Al Spangler and Smith scored on Joe Adcock's single.

John O'Donoghue three-hit the New York Yankees to gain his third triumph in 10 decisions and snap the Bombers' four-game win streak. He retired the first 12 batters before Mickey Mantle singled in the fifth. Joe Peptide walked and Clete Boyer tripled home the only two Yankee runs. Jim Landis doubled home the first Kansas City run in the first and Ed Charles provided the winning margin with a bases-loaded double in the sixth off loser Bill Stafford. Frank Howard continued his power hitting by slapping a run-scoring triple in the fifth to break up a scoreless duel between winner Pete Richert and loser Steve Barber. Doug Camilli singled Howard home for the other Senator run. Richert was forced to leave in the eighth because of a muscle spasm in his throwing arm. He allowed only three hits.

White Sox pitcher Joe Horlen retired the last 19 batters in order and broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth with a run-scoring single — one of his three hits during the game. Horlen gave up just four hits while picking up his sixth win against three losses. Danny Cater homered for Chicago and Lee Thomas (11th) connected for Boston. Bill Monbouquette (5-6) was the losing pitcher.

Perryton's Coody Leads Qualifiers

By United Press International
The full complement of 110 professionals and amateurs has been selected for the 65th U. S. Open golf championship, the most glamorous tournament of the circuit.

It is scheduled June 17-20 at St. Louis.

Golfers in 13 cities Monday and Tuesday vied for 119 slots in 36-hole stroke play. The other 31 places in the tourney were filled by golfers exempt from all qualifying. They included defending champion Ken Venturi and superstars such as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Tony Lema.

The most illustrious among those who had to qualify was 52-year-old Sam Snead who shot a 67-70-137 at Detroit Tuesday to get into his 25th consecutive Open. This is the only tournament whose crown has eluded the Slammer.

Art Wall Jr. of Pocono Manor, Pa., and Bert Weaver of Broadwater Beach, Miss., also qualified at Detroit.

On Monday competition was at Chicago (eight qualifiers), Cincinnati (4), Portland, Ore. (2), and Dallas (4). Tuesday the action shifted to Los Angeles (7) Denver (2), Atlanta (7), Chevy Chase, Md. (5), Detroit (13), St. Louis (8), metropolitan New York at Summit, N.J. (18), Charlotte, N.C. (3) and Cleveland (38).

The names of Texas golfers will be plentiful in St. Louis. Charles Coody of Perryton led the big field at Cleveland with a 68-68-136 and a trio of former Texas collegians were right behind him—Homero Blancas 72-76, Chris Blocker 68-70 and Jerry Edwards (68-70) at 138.

Also qualifying at Cleveland were Jacky Cupit (141); Kermit Zarley and Jack Burke (142); Dudley Wysong (143); Babe Hiskey, Roy Pace and Don Massengale (144); and Rex Baxter, Miller Barber and Billy Maxwell (145).

Aging Yanks Favored To Advance In Open

PORHCRAWL, Wales (UPI)—Bob Gardner of Essex Hills, N.J., and Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia, a couple of golfing Yanks growing old gracefully, were favored to advance easily today in the British Amateur golf championship.

The 44-year-old Gardner was scheduled to oppose club weekend player Dr. Martin Barker of England while the 49-year-old Hyndman played Colin Strachan, a talented but inexperienced young Scottish player.

With 15 Americans remaining in the field of 64, Hyndman was beginning to look like a long shot possibility to win although Scottish-born Hunter McDonald of Royal Oak, Mich., Tuesday scored the biggest upset of the championship so far when he beat former tittist Michael Lunt, 3 and 1.

McDonald faced 1951 British Amateur champion Dick Chapman of Palm Beach, Fla., in today's round while John Miles of New York played Bobby Kuntz of Larchmont, N.Y., in a pair of all-American matches.

UT Eliminated From Playoffs

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Arizona State and Ohio State, two undefeated powerhouses, collide tonight in the College world series with the Buckeyes hoping things have changed since this spring.

Both teams won impressively Tuesday night and carry 2-0 records into tonight's game. The Sundevils and Buckeyes are the only remaining teams with unblemished records.

Washington State plays Connecticut in tonight's game and St. Louis meets Florida State in an afternoon tilt. All four teams have lost once.

Arizona State exploded for four run rallies in the sixth and eighth innings last night to rout St. Louis 13-3. Ohio State, paced by three home runs including Russ Nagleson's grand slam, stomped Washington State 14-1.

Texas and Lafayette (La.) became the first teams eliminated when they suffered their second loss Tuesday. Florida State trimmed Texas 3-2 and Connecticut beat Lafayette 6-4.

Baltimore Drafts Jim Carter

By United Press International
Fifteen Texas college and high school baseball players were among the hundreds drafted Tuesday by organized baseball's minor league clubs. None went to the major leagues.

The honor of being the first Texas player drafted went to Brownsville High pitcher Charles W. Vaughn, picked by Milwaukee for the Braves' Austin farm club in the Class AA Texas League.

Next in line was second baseman Ken Boswell of Sam Houston State by the Mets for their Williamsport club, then came Longview's outfielder Pete Barnes of Louisiana State by the Dodgers for Albuquerque; Palestine's shortstop Bill Bradley by Detroit for its Montgomery farm; SMU's infielder-outfielder Jim Taylor by Baltimore for Elmira and Baylor pitcher Fred Rath by the White Sox for Lynchburg.

In the Class A draft the following were picked:

Lufkin shortstop Tom Murphy by Cincinnati for Tampa. Texas A&M pitcher Tom Chiles by Baltimore for Appleton.

Texas Longhorn catcher James Scheschuk by Cincinnati for Newport News.

TCU's Ronnie Paul by Baltimore for Appleton.

Trinity University's infielder Jimmy Carter by Baltimore for Stockton.

Odessa outfielder Pat Brown by Cincinnati for Newport News.

Alvin pitcher Nolan Ryan by the Mets for Greenville.

Marshall pitcher Edward Leon Everitt by the Dodgers for Salem.

Baseball Draft Resumes Today

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball's first player draft resumed today with major league officials confident they have divided up the nation's young talent in a manner that ends the controversial bonus wars of other years.

A total of 320 players was selected Tuesday during the first session of the two day draft meeting with another 250 expected to be claimed before today's session, starting at 9:30 a.m. EDT, is adjourned. The total number of young stars claimed may thus approach 600.

General Manager Hank Peters of the Kansas City Athletics, who made sophomore outfielder Rick Mondoy of Arizona State the No. 1 pick in the whole draft Tuesday, indicated that he expected to sign the prize prospect for an estimated $71,000. In past years of unrestricted bonus bids, a prospect like Monday might have wound up with close to $110,000.

"Monday has indicated he wants to sign and I think we can get together," said Peters. "We can't sign him until Arizona State is through playing in the NCAA tournament at Omaha. The tournament ends on Sunday and we plan to sit down with him then."

Indispensable Gilliam Responds to Call Again

By United Press International
Every spring the Dodgers try to take away Junior Gilliam's job and every spring he has to prove all over again that he's indispensable.

The patient 36-year-old veteran, who was made a coach after Los Angeles handed him his release as a player last October, once again has responded to the Dodgers' cry for infield help with the dash and daring of a rookie.

Gilliam, reactivated to playing status May 28, is batting a torrid .350 in his last six games with 11 hits, including two homers, five runs batted in and eight runs scored. Tuesday night, Gilliam collected three hits, and stole second to set up the tying run in the eighth inning as the National League leading Dodgers edged Philadelphia 2-1.

Completing NL action, Milwaukee crushed Chicago 8-2 in 10 innings, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 5-4, San Francisco defeated New York 2-1 and Pittsburgh clipped Houston 7-6 in 11 innings.

Gilliam, playing his 13th major league season for the Dodgers, challenged Phillies catcher Gus Triandos' throwing arm in the eighth inning with Philadelphia leading 1-0, behind the pitching of Jim Bunning. Gilliam successfully swiped second base, and when Triandos threw the ball wildly, Gilliam sped to third. He scored moments later on Wally Mounds' single.

Lou Johnson opened the ninth for Los Angeles with a single and moved to third on a sacrifice and infield out, then tallied the "inning run when Maury Wills nicked Bunning for a single with two out. Claude Osteen (4-6) picked up the victory after four straight losses. The lefty gave way to a pinchhitter in the ninth and Ron Perranoski finished.

The world champion Cardinals tumbled below the .500 mark and Bob Gibson lost his fourth straight as the Reds pounded the St. Louis ace for home runs by Deron Johnson, Leo Cardenas and pinchhitter Art Shamsky. Cardenas and Shamsky hit back-to-back blasts in the sixth for the decisive runs. Joe Nuxhill held the Cardinals hitless over the last four innings to preserve the win for Gerry Arrigo (2-2).

Willie Mays, who had been hitless in 18 previous trips, slammed a two-run double in the first inning and reliever Frank Linzy wriggled out of a bases-loaded situation in the ninth to provide Bob Shaw with his fifth triumph for San Francisco. Ron Swoboda hit his 12th homer for the Mets' run.

Milwaukee's Joe Torre walked a home run on Lindy McDaniel's first pitch to him in the 10th inning and Felipe Aou, Hank Aaron and Gene Oliver followed with round trippers. Torres two-run blast broke a 2-2 deadlock. The four homers—two each off McDaniel and Bob Hendley—fell one short of equalling the major league record for most home runs in an inning, and handed the Cubs their 11th loss in the last 14 games. Bob Sadowski was the winner.

Hal Woodeshick balked home Bill Virdon with the winning run in the 11th inning to provide Pittsburgh with its fourth straight triumph. Willie Stargell slammed his 12th homer in the Pirates attack and Joe Gaines hit a three-run homer in the ninth when Houston tallied four runs to take a short-lived 6-5 lead. Joe Gibbon, the fourth Pirate hurler, was the winner.

Atlanta To Have Pro Football

ATLANTA (UPI)—It appears Atlanta will have a professional football team in 1966. The only question is will it be in the American Football League or the National League?

Atlanta a franchise Tuesday, beating the NFL to the punch, but the city's stadium authority informed both leagues it won't make any deal on renting the new $18 million stadium until July 1.

Further consideration. There was even the possibility that the group would decline the AFL franchise already voted to it.

A Cox spokesman said that the group had set a time limit when it proposed renting the stadium from the city. The time "would expire well in advance" of the July 1 date picked by the authority.

Speculation in the Atlanta area, following the decision of the stadium authority to withhold any choice, was that this meant the NFL would wind up getting a team here.

Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, visited Atlanta Tuesday and then returned to New York where he said he would review the stadium authority's decision with NFL officials. The NFL is reported to be very interested in Atlanta.

Following the announcement by the authority the Cox Corporation disclosed that it has "taken the entire matter up for

Helping Hand—Unsung Hero

A great but unsung force for progress and success is the helping hand. Almost without exception, it has been a little-recognized but key factor in the lives of those who have achieved outstanding fame or fortune. Charles Lindbergh, Henry Ford, Helen Keller, George Washington Carver, Abraham Lincoln, Mme. Curie, Christopher Columbus, Hans Christian Andersen, Thomas Edison—the list is endless of men and women who might never have made their contribution to society had it not been for help which came when it was desperately needed. Often the helping hand was extended by a comparative stranger. Rarely if ever was it offered with any certainty of the dividends it would make possible to humanity. Certain facts stand out in almost every instance of such help. One is that the recipient was doing his part—putting forth every effort he possibly could to achieve his goal. Another is that the benefactor was rewarded by as much pride and satisfaction as the recipient of the help who achieved the fame or fortune. And the helping hand is not limited to aiding the brilliant. It is extended millions of times a day to people of every walk of life. Almost everyone has been lifted by it in moments of despair. When people are disappointing and human behavior seems shoddy, it is important to remember that the helping hand in its quiet way is more prevalent than the more spectacular stab in the back or kick in the teeth. Most people are eager to help if given the chance. Maybe human nature isn't so bad after all.

Fingertip Information

More and more, people all over the world are literally living a phony life. You can get almost any kind of information or service you want these days by simply stepping to the phone and dialing a number. And unless your home is, heaven forbid, underphoned, you don't even have to step. You merely reach. The time, the weather, Wake-up service for the sleepyhead, Dial-A-Prayer for those in need of spiritual comfort. Recorded newscasts, Traffic and road information. (This can even include intelligence on where the traffic police are manning the radar traps.) Ski reports, stock market quotations, election results, waiting time at municipal golf courses. In Boston, even improper Bostonians can dial the "Voice of Audubon" and learn what birds can be seen where. And we Americans aren't the only phone-advantaged ones. In England little tykes or their parents can go to beddy-bye by dialing a fairy tale. In West Germany hausfraus can dial the "recipe of the day." In Switzerland there is dial help on crossword puzzles and train schedules. Parisians can dial for advice on romantic problems, if a Parisian ever needs such help. These remarkable aids to better living encourage hope for the ultimate break-through in telephonic miracles—the dream day when the subscriber picks up the phone, the operator answers, and SHE does all the dialing. Quiet, old-timer. Your memory is playing tricks on you.

Where Your Money Goes

There's a lot of talk in Washington about holding down the number of federal employees. But even so the government is putting up a lot of new buildings to house them. Just to mention some of the construction your tax dollars are going into: A $42 million "Little Pentagon" to provide office space for some 57,000 employees who can't be squeezed into the original Pentagon; A $32 billion building for the Housing and Home Finance Agency; A $27 million structure to house the Court of Claims. In addition, the National Institutes of Health will have three new buildings costing $16 million, and the Government Printing Office is getting an additional plant for $1.5 million. All of these projects are in Washington proper. In nearby

Maryland there are others. For example: A $48 million home for the Patent Office; A $21 million building for the General Services Administration. We wouldn't say that this new construction isn't needed. We wouldn't deny that it's more efficient to have all of a federal agency's employees under one roof. But we would state flatly that $200 million is a lot of money and we hope the government doesn't make as many mistakes in these building projects as it did in new and the much-criticized $129 million Rayburn Office Building in which they are now tearing up walls in order to correct errors in planning. P. S. - We forgot to mention a $24 million addition to the Capitol that's still in the talking stage.

Snail-Pace Contagion

Add to your fund of useless information the fact that a Puerto Rican snail weighing 1.2 grams has a maximum strength of 40 x 10 to the minus 6 horsepower. In other words, the combined efforts of 2 million snails would be required to produce one horsepower. This was ascertained by scientists at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who fitted snails with tiny harnesses and trained them, to pull small loads in a "snail taming arena." The information is far from useless, however, to an estimated 100 million people around the world who are afflicted with schistosomiasis, a debilitating disease that is transmitted by snails. In Egypt, for example, 90 per cent of the population suffers from the disease, contracted from the canals of the vast Nile River irrigation system. The MIT studies led to the finding that snails can't keep a foothold in the bed of a stream or canal if the water moves at a certain speed—a relatively slow 1.3 miles an hour. Thus, with proper engineering of canals, the snails could be dislodged, and with them the disease.

Crime Can Be Stopped

There is a loud hue and cry about the rising crime rate in our country, particularly in metropolitan areas. Every day some person, group, or organization pleads that it is stopped. There is one person who can stop crime and stop it effectively—that is the person who is about to commit a crime. Whenever that individual holds himself about stooping to crime, or indulging in common causes of crime, crime will be stopped. Moreover, he will have made a more impressive contribution than those criers who would "upgrade the police force," "pass stricter laws," "be kinder to criminals because they are sick." Whether anyone else is a crime-stopper, he would know that he was a crime-stopper, he would know that he was not only a good guy, he was a big guy.

Straight Talk

Compromise With the Devil?

The original excuse for our fantastic foreign aid program was to strengthen the underdeveloped countries so they could resist communist aggression. The collectivists claimed, and still do, that an empty belly and an empty head breed Communism. Some of our most full-bellied, double-yolk eggheads in this country and the world are dyed-in-the-wool Communists. As Robert Welch has said: "There are more Communists with Harvard accents than in overalls."

Communism is not a grassroots movement born of hunger and despair. It is a criminal conspiracy conceived, nurtured and raised by the intelligentsia and the power elite. It does not burgeon from the bottom, but is administered from the top down. Many informed people believe that General DeGaulle is deliberately delivering France to the Communists. France could indeed go Communist in its greatest period of prosperity. One of the foremost experts on Italy, recently returned here from several years there, predicts that Italy will go Communist within two years. And Italy "never had it so good." Cuba went communist during its greatest prosperity of modern times. Whether a nation becomes communistic has little to do with being hungry.

"Our" State Department, I hear, is even now playing footsie under the table with a couple of Castro's top lieutenants who, they reason, might come to love us if they could just "understand us." If Castro is murdered or succumbs to the fifth day he is reportedly drinking, his successor could be one of these two men whom we might then prevail upon, through hundreds of millions of our foreign aid, to become "good" Communists, like our friend Tito, Earl Warren's bloody buddy.

Lenin and Stalin, the Russian twin-gods before Stalin was de-godded, both proclaiming that it was the purpose of Soviet Communism to get the "have-not" countries to send financial aid to the "have-not" countries. We have obligingly sent more aid to friend and enemy throughout the world than all of the combined nations of the world have done in all human history. Yet the Communists are taking the world and we are probably more hated than ever before.

Under the unannounced proposal, the super-banks will be financed mainly by the U.S. Treasury and gradually take over control and administration of the U.S. aid programs in these underdeveloped countries. Significantly, the super-banks will be controlled by African, Asian and Latin American nations, with limited U.S. representation, although this country will put up most of the money. While President Johnson alluded to the establishment of a regional Asian fund in his Baltimore speech, the first hard information on the super-regional organizations will be announced at the conference of American Foreign Ministers to be held in Rio de Janeiro in August.

According to highly reliable congressional sources, U.S. diplomats are working closely with officials in Chile, Mexico and Venezuela on plans to revamp the Organization of American States and make it the base for the new super-organization.

Once the Latin American experiment is launched, U.S. support for similar regional bodies in Asia and Africa will be officially announced by President Johnson, unless unforeseen opposition develops in Congress and among the voters.

SKINNING THE CAT

This strategy of revealing the administrative plans "piece-meal" was decided on by Secretary Rusk; McGeorge Bundy, the President's influential foreign policy adviser; Llewellyn Thompson, chief expert on Russia; and Thomas Mann, under-secretary of state for economic affairs.

They ruled out any single announcement of their "grand design policy" on the ground that opponents might rally a majority of Congress against the controversial plan because of the tremendous cost and the fact that socialist and Communist nations would be permitted to join.

According to one suppressed State Department estimate, development of the three regional organizations would cost the U.S. from $3 to $5 billion a year. Some officials believe these figures are on the conservative side. The administration wants to avoid a clear-cut vote in Con-

Creation of 3 U.S. Supported Super-Banks Projected To Finance Development In Asia, Africa, Latin America

WASHINGTON — The day-to-day military and political fireworks in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic are overshadowing an emerging shift of immense significance in U.S. foreign policy.

Involved is a major decision by President Johnson and his policy-makers to throw their full weight behind the development of super-regional economic-military-political organizations in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

This bold master plan, drafted in the State Department, provides for the creation of three multi-billion-dollar regional banks to finance the social-economic-political development of the three continents.

Under the unannounced proposal, the super-banks will be financed mainly by the U.S. Treasury and gradually take over control and administration of the U.S. aid programs in these underdeveloped countries.

WASHINGTON — The day-to-day military and political fireworks in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic are overshadowing an emerging shift of immense significance in U.S. foreign policy.

Involved is a major decision by President Johnson and his policy-makers to throw their full weight behind the development of super-regional economic-military-political organizations in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

This bold master plan, drafted in the State Department, provides for the creation of three multi-billion-dollar regional banks to finance the social-economic-political development of the three continents.

Under the unannounced proposal, the super-banks will be financed mainly by the U.S. Treasury and gradually take over control and administration of the U.S. aid programs in these underdeveloped countries.

Significantly, the super-banks will be controlled by African, Asian and Latin American nations, with limited U.S. representation, although this country will put up most of the money.

While President Johnson alluded to the establishment of a regional Asian fund in his Baltimore speech, the first hard information on the super-regional organizations will be announced at the conference of American Foreign Ministers to be held in Rio de Janeiro in August.

According to highly reliable congressional sources, U.S. diplomats are working closely with officials in Chile, Mexico and Venezuela on plans to revamp the Organization of American States and make it the base for the new super-organization. Once the Latin American experiment is launched, U.S. support for similar regional bodies in Asia and Africa will be officially announced by President Johnson, unless unforeseen opposition develops in Congress and among the voters.

H. L. Hunt Writes

H. L. HUNT

Following the depression which began in 1929, unemployment was high. In 1931 I was active drilling and equipping leases acquired through purchasing Dad Joener's discovery property of the East Texas field.

Work in rotary drilling was not arduous and it was good practice to keep a drilling rig running continuously. Drilling labor customarily worked in 12-hour shifts.

I conceived a plan to provide work for twice as many men by reducing the shifts to six hours, six days a week. Most of the major companies and other large employers in the oil field followed this example with five 8-hour days per week, which was easier to install and resulted in nearly as few hours per week. Other industries began putting the plan into effect.

Our personnel were glad to see employment extended to the idle and worked with increased efficiency.

With me the short work week was the positive cure for the depression, and I began campaigning for it with acquaintances in Congress and attending meetings of the leaders and conventions of both major political parties.

Sen. Hugo Black (D-Ala.), who was a more constructive MC than present Supreme Court Justice, introduced a bill which passed the Senate. To meet some technicality it was passed the second time. The Ways and Means Committee reported the bill favorably which by precedent nearly insured its passage by the House of Representatives.

The administration sidetracked the Black bill in favor of the National Recovery Act (NRA), which gave the government close supervision of industry. NRA became the law June 16, 1933, creating many bureaus. NRA, but not the bureaus, was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of May 27, 1935.

WASHINGTON:

Now Comes The Race to Rendezvous

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Now there will be a race between the United States and the Soviet Union to see whose astronaut will be the first to rendezvous and hook up two vehicles in space. Both countries have failed once.

The country that first accomplishes the full docking (hook-up) technique between a full (Apollo-sized) spacecraft and other "satellite" will likely win the moon race, regardless of where each country stands today. So knowledgeable space scientists here think.

Though the Russians are ahead with their big booster, U.S. research men feel in their bones we are ahead in the creation of the exceedingly small, accurate and reliable computers crucial for accurate rendezvous and for the complicated landing procedures required in a moon landing and earth return.

There is growing belief here that the U.S. bottleneck in getting to the moon by 1971 will not be the time required in building the big booster but in a myriad of little problems in developing, building and perfecting the final big spacecraft with its individual modules, its communications and power systems and such things perhaps as a retrorocket system that will land the LEM (Lunar Excursion Module) on the moon right side up and not "kittywhacky."

This is not to discount the enormous advantage that having big boosters early in the game gives the Russian scientists. They are in a position to experiment ahead with larger and more complicated spacecraft.

Men who have analyzed the latest Russian and American flights are cheered by certain U.S. superiorities.

The American space suit seems superior. It is more flexible, gives the astronaut more freedom of action with which to meet emergencies. The Soviet suit, by contrast, seems cumbersome and rigid. Astronaut Edward White proved the United States has a highly efficient "space gun" to provide him with motive power and control. The Soviet astronaut dangled in space.

White's actions in space indicated he was better prepared for his mission than was the Russian astronaut Alexei Leonov. Films of Leonov's walk in space, analyzed by experts, showed him unprepared and relatively clumsy (untrained). He had a difficult task, for example, getting back into his spacecraft. He apparently was not provided with a reserve supply of oxygen.

These may seem like minor points. But space scientists say it is on these little things, frequently that missions succeed or fail. The Russians normally are very careful in space preparation. Their men are usually highly trained before missions, their equipment adequate. It therefore appears to some analysts that the Russians may be were pushing themselves a little too much. Pushing overly hard in science can bring important firsts. It can also bring disaster.

On the basis of critical booster superiority, the Russians must be judged ahead in the moon race. But the wide range of U.S. military and civilian space experiments (as compared with relatively narrow Russian concentration) may pay off. If all goes well, that diversity could conceivably put the United States ahead despite bureaucratic misjudgments in American booster development.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government, which will not feature above.)

QUESTION: Why do we need money that has value in itself?
ANSWER: Many people seem to think we do not need to have money that has value in itself. They seem to think that irredeemable paper money is of value and is satisfactory. The reason is that no one can measure value without having something of value to measure by, anyone than one can measure distance without an agreed unit of distance.

Another reason is that when we have paper money redeemable in something of value like gold or silver, whoever has a charge of the banking system or the currency can't increase the quantity of this gold or silver as they can with irredeemable paper money or bank credit. It is the history of nations that all governments eventually repudiate their obligations.

Section 8 of the Constitution reads: "The Congress shall have Power to lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States."

Notice that it doesn't say that they must pay the debts. It only gives them the power to pay the debts and to collect taxes. It is up to the will of the Congress. When they want to stay in office, the easiest way to do it is to fool the people by issuing irredeemable paper money or bank credit. There isn't one person in a thousand who understands what is taking place.

When people begin to realize what is taking place, it only takes a very short-time until the paper money unit becomes valueless. It took only four days for the German mark to become worthless after the people became frightened and didn't want to keep the mark.

Just as you can't determine what is right or wrong or just without having a standard by which to compare, so you can't determine value without having something of value by which to determine the value.

Wit and Whimsy

An elderly Scotsman entered and asked to speak to the president of the bank. After a few moments discussion he asked what the cost would be to borrow $5 for one year.

In order to discourage such a small loan, the president told him that the cost would be a minimum loan charge of $1.

Scotsman—I'll take it.

Surprised at the customer's reactions, the president could only make up the note for his signature.

The matter of collateral was then approached and the Scotsman brought forth three $100,000 government bonds inquiring—

Scotsman—Will these be safe in your vaults?

Assured that they would be perfectly safe, the Scotsman smilingly departed with his receipt, remarking—

Scotsman—And down the street at the other bank, they wanted $6 for a little box to keep them in.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. says that as far as the general market is concerned the most important indicator is the Dow-Jones industrial average which has not formed any kind of classical top pattern.

Pollack says money still is made in individual stock rather than in the popular averages, and there still are many equities with favorable chart patterns backed by sound fundamentals.

Robert T. Allen of Shearson, Hammill & Co. Inc. says that in view of the uncertainties inherent in trying to predict market psychology it might be desirable for investors to ignore to the extent they can and concentrate on looking for individual values.

WASH FREES SHIP
SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI)—A speeding passenger liner washed another big ship off a mudbank outside this English port it was reported today.

The Holland-America liner Statendam steamed out of the harbor at a speed of 20 miles an hour — 8 miles over the normal speed limit — to create a wash big enough to free the Union Castle liner Penderis Castle from the mud.
