Waiting Period Not Required For Minors

Minors in Gray County as well as Texas are no longer required to observe a three-day waiting period before getting a marriage license. A new law passed by the Texas legislature abolished the three-day waiting period effective last Wednesday. The new law, though, considerably tightens the requirements for minors. Minors are defined as males under the age of 21 and females under the age of 18. Under new provisions set out in the new law, consent must be obtained from at least one parent. As has been the practice, where the parent is physically unable to appear to give the consent it may be given under oath. The parent's absence can be excused on the oath of a physician or osteopath swearing that illness prevents the appearance. The new law, however, states that consent must be given before an authority in any county authorized to issue marriage licenses. A county judge still holds the right to "waive" the consent requirement on any underage-marriage applicant. Medical certificates must be secured from both applicants. The certificate's date must be within 15 days of the marriage license application. The license fee remains the same — $5.

Indian

(Continued From Page 1) man also reported artillery duels in the Jhangar area. According to the latest available reports, the heavy fighting which erupted Wednesday was continuing today. But no details or casualty reports on today's fighting were available. "Our entire military strategy will now have to be reviewed and the whole issue considered in a much wider context," Shastri said in a briefing for opposition political leaders. (In Rawalpindi, an official Pakistani spokesman said 80 Indian soldiers were captured in the Bimber section of Kashmir.) American sources confirmed that India had lodged a "vigorous protest" against the use by Pakistan of Patton tanks supplied by the United States. The tanks were delivered to Pakistan on condition they would be used only against possible Communist aggression. "The late U. S. Secretary of State) John Foster Dulles and others gave us all kinds of assurances this would not happen," one Indian official commented about the tanks. "But here they are." Government employes commended Shastri for taking "bold and brave action" in meeting the thrust by Pakistan. New Delhi in recent weeks has been the site of demonstrations by up to 100,000 persons protesting food shortages and the cease-fire with Pakistan in the Rann of Kutch. Today Indians were shouting, "Shabash Shastri" — "Bravo Shastri."

Dr. Schweitzer Is Confined To Hospital Bed

LAMBARENE, Gabon (UPI) — Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the revered physician philosopher of Africa, has been confined to his jungle hospital for about a week and is "very, very ill," a spokesman said Wednesday. The spokesman did not disclose the nature of Schweitzer's illness, but it was learned that the 90-year-old Nobel Peace Prize winner suffered a fall recently. News of the illness caused alarm among Schweitzer's co-workers and patients at the hospital he has operated in this remote west African nation for more than half a century. Until his illness, the white-haired doctor enjoyed good health and remarkable alertness and spent long hours with his patients. His day usually started at 6 a. m., with a tour of the wards and ended late in the evening. But friends said he has shown increasing signs of fatigue recently. Schweitzer came to Africa from his native Alsace in 1913 and built a one-room thatched-roof hospital for lepers with his own hands. He has seldom and reluctantly left since then, but thousands of persons have made the trip up the Ogowe River to visit him. A recent American visitor, Lisle Ramsey of St. Louis, said he showed a remarkable interest and awareness of world affairs despite his age and commented humorously on them. French President Charles de Gaulle, Ramsey quoted him as saying, "has a long nose and he doesn't know where to keep it." An accomplished musician and theologian before he studied medicine, Schweitzer was born Jan. 14, 1875, in Kayserberg in a section of France that was then part of Germany. His wife, who helped him develop the hospital into the 32-building complex now standing, died in 1957 at the age of 79. Schweitzer's reputation as a philosopher, intellectual and humanitarian had spread far beyond the African continent when he was named in 1952 to receive the Nobel Peace Prize. In more recent years, some critics had considered him an anachronism in a developing Africa because of his reluctance to use modern medical methods and facilities.

Prolonged

(Continued From Page 1) remain independent of the merger, described by the trio as "an unconscionable attempt to shamelessly abuse the investment public." They said the value of $19.50 a share placed on Reading stock in the merger offer was about $50 too low and said they resented "slandersous implications made in the C&O-N&W statement that our company is sick. "Not since the days of the robber barons has any supposedly responsible corporate group acted so arrogantly," said the statement issued by George Rafkind, Louis Beryl and Walter Schoenfeld. In Boston, Daniel A. Benson, president of the Boston & Maine Railroad, one of the seven which would be consolidated, described the terms set forth in the merger plans as "completely unacceptable." He said the N&W-C&O group "fails completely to take account of the B&M's improved financial situation."

Steel (Continued From Page 1) ment's since then. The White House said Wednesday that the union and management negotiators had reached the "hard and tough" stage of bargaining, with wages and pensions the key issues. President Johnson, who ordered the negotiations brought to Washington from Pittsburgh, has warned that a steel strike could cripple the nation's economy and damage the war effort in Viet Nam. A White House spokesman said there were no signs indicating a break in the deadlock when the talks at the conference table recessed Wednesday night after morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Earlier Wednesday, White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said the negotiations were being characterized by "straightforward confrontations." Moyers also said that President Johnson was receiving reports on each session in the drive to beat a strike deadline of 12:01 a.m. EDT Wednesday. Officials of the United Steelworkers union (USW) and industry representatives accepted the deadline last Monday when they agreed to Johnson's plan for an eight-day postponement of the strike, which originally had been set for last Tuesday.

Hawaiian Foods Visit Mainland

PINEAPPLE LUAU CUP captures Hawaiian charm.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Hawaii is a dream spot in the hopes of many mainlanders. These Pacific islands with stark volcanic mountains, caressing air, unusually beautiful people and vivid luxuriant flowers and fruits, justify this reputation. We have been there several times and have enjoyed some of their native food customs. The luau cup, a sipping drink, is particularly gracious and can be served at a mainland party easily. Here we would probably use canned Hawaiian pineapple instead of the native fresh, and serve it in individual lotus shaped bowls.

PINEAPPLE LUAU CUP
(Makes 4 Servings)
1 (1 pint 2-ounce) can pineapple juice
1 (12-ounce) can guava nectar
2 tablespoons lime juice
2 tablespoons grenadine-x
1 (7-ounce) bottle carbonated lemon-lime beverage
Combine pineapple juice, nectar, lime juice and grenadine. Cover and chill thoroughly. Pour into serving cups; add chilled carbonated beverage just before serving.
Or maraschino cherry syrup.

Petals of Canned Pear Halves Make Colorful and Pleasant Party Dessert

PEAR PETAL DESSERT tops luncheon fare.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Even in the Pacific Northwest, when women give a luncheon party they forget about calories (for that occasion at least) and try to create beautiful desserts. This one, named after a popular hostess in the Bartlett pear country, is worth trying for your own luncheon party. Petals of canned pear halves encircle a mixture of pink rice, cherries, dates and nuts. It's a pleasant blend of flavors and textures, colorful enough for any special event. The rice mixture is made ahead and chilled well in a mold or bowl. Just before serving, the mounded rice is encircled with well-drained chilled pear halves. It is garnished with whipped cream and cherries. How does it sound to you?

MARI'S PEAR PETAL DESSERT
(Makes 8 Servings)
1 (1 lb. 12 oz.) can Bartlett pear halves
1/4 cup pear syrup
1/2 cup rice
1/4 cup maraschino cherry JUICE
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon almond flavoring
1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries
1/4 cup slivered almonds
1/4 cup chopped dates
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Drain pears, reserving 1/4 cup syrup in saucepan. Chill pear halves. Add rice, cherry juice, salt and flavoring to syrup in saucepan. Heat to boiling. Stir and reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 15 minutes. Cool. Fold rice, cherries, almonds and dates into whipped cream. Spoon into mold or small bowl. Chill. Turn out on serving plate, encircle with canned pear halves and garnish with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Food Buying Guide
The following guide to the nation's food shopping buys for the weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Week-end shoppers will find generally abundant supplies of seasonal fruits and vegetables with plentiful quantities of poultry and selected meats at their local food shopping centers. Roast beef and steaks will be featured for this holiday weekend in meats. Broiler-fryers and turkeys are also priced well to fit into the picnic range. Fall harvests are starting and vegetables and fruits are plentiful. Green beans, cabbage, carrots, celery, cucumbers, lettuce, green peppers, potatoes, squash, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes are in good supply in most sections of the country. In the fruit section, apples, bananas, cantaloupes, grapes, oranges, peaches, plums-prunes, and watermelons are generally plentiful. Nationally, fish sticks and portions and canned tuna are the best buy selection in the fish areas.

Homemakers can count on about 10 ounces of lean cooked meat from a pound of round steak, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Decorative glassware kept on display should be washed frequently in hot soap or detergent suds to maintain its luster and shine.

Barbecued Broiler Chickens Are Hard To Beat for Eating Fun and Economy

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
For eating fun and for economy, barbecued chicken is hard to beat. Select broiler halves of one pound each or slightly larger for barbecuing. Place halves over fire after the flame has died down. With a long-handled fork, turn every 5 or 10 minutes, depending on the heat from the fire. Baste broiler halves at each turning with barbecue sauce. Basting should be light at first and heavy near the end of the cooking period. Cooking time will be about one hour. Test for doneness by pulling the wing or leg away from the body. If the meat splits readily, the joint turns easily, and there is no red meat in the joint, then it is time to eat.

There are many good bottled barbecue sauces on the market. You may, however, prefer to make your own. Here are two good recipes to try.

BARBECUE SAUCE RECIPE
(Enough for 10 halves)
1 cup cooking oil
1 pint cider vinegar

3 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning
1 teaspoon pepper
1 egg
Beat the egg, then add the oil and beat again. Add other ingredients and stir. The recipe may be varied to suit individual tastes.

ALL-PURPOSE BARBECUE SAUCE
2 tablespoons corn oil
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 cup chili sauce
1-3 cup water
1/4 cup vinegar
1/4 cup dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt

Heat oil in a saucepan. Add onions; saute until tender, stirring frequently. Add chili sauce, water, vinegar, corn syrup, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Cover; simmer 15 minutes. Cool. Use as a marinade or as a basting sauce for beef, poultry or fish. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Try Calorie-Free Cool Iced Tea

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Refreshing, thirst-quenching and practically calorie-free—that's iced tea. The calorie content will depend on how much sugar you use. The tea itself has no calories.

We consulted with Beryle Walter, home economist for the Tea Council, on the best and most simple way to make perfect iced tea in the home.

This is her expert advice—just remember to use 50 per cent more tea than you do for hot tea in order to allow for the melting ice. For example, use 4 teaspoons of tea or 4 tea bags to make 4 cups of hot tea. But for 4 glasses of iced tea, you need 6 teaspoons of tea or 5 tea bags.

An easy way to insure perfect iced tea, she advises, is to brew the tea in an open saucepan in one quart of boiling water; then strain it into a pitcher with an additional quart of cold water. This method saves time because you boil only a small quantity of water; it saves on ice cubes, too.

ICED TEA BY THE PITCHERFUL
(Makes 2 quarts)

Using loose tea or teabags: Bring 1 quart of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in an open saucepan. Remove from the heat and immediately add 1-3 cup loose tea or 15 teabags. Brew 5 minutes, uncovered.

ICED TEA keeps calorie-counters cool.

Stir and strain into a pitcher holding an additional quart of cold water.

When ready to serve, pour over ice. Garnish glasses with lemon wedges or with strawberries and lemon wedges strung on stirrers.

Using instant tea: Follow directions on the jar, allowing about 4 tablespoons of tea (more or less according to taste).

Irony of the War Is How It Helps Economy

By JOHN PIERSON
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the ironies of the war in Viet Nam is how it's helping the U.S. economy.

President Johnson demonstrated that twice this week: —When he invoked the war to help head off a nationwide steel strike due to begin last midnight.

—When he had his Budget Director, Charles L. Schultz, announce that the war was going to push the federal budget above the $100 billion mark.

This is not meant to suggest that Johnson likes the war. No one has spoken more eloquently than he about the agony of sending American servicemen to Viet Nam.

But as one Johnson aide put it, "with all the trouble the war's giving him, he deserves to get something in return." That "something" is a healthier business climate than Johnson's top economic advisers dared predict a few months ago.

Until recently administration economists were predicting a business slowdown once the steel union and the companies agreed on a new contract. The settlement would be the signal for steel-users to cut back on their orders and start living off their "hump," the stockpiles they had carefully accumulated as a hedge against a possible strike.

But the Viet Nam buildup that Johnson announced late in July has changed that thinking. Officials now believe most steel-users will want to keep a good deal of steel on hand as a hedge against war shortages. Thus the inventory adjustment following any steel settlement will be a small one.

Talk of a slowdown in the second half has been heard less and less since Johnson notified Congress that the government will need to spend an additional $1.7 billion on Viet Nam, just as a steel strike, of course, the more money the government spends on the war, the greater the danger of inflation.

But even Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr., who says

it's his job to worry about things like inflation, saw no signs of it this week.

The outlook for the economy was significantly improved when Johnson got the threatened steel strike postponed at least eight days.

Television in Review

United Press International
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Admirers of Mr. Eric Fleming, the long-time trail boss of CBS-TV's "Rawhide," are hereby notified that Friday night is the last time to see him in the series.

Next week, the "Rawhide" slot will be occupied by a National Geographic Society color documentary about the climbing of Mt. Everest by an American expedition. And when the western series starts its new season Sept. 14, switched from Fridays to Tuesdays, the terse and amicable Fleming will be gone, replaced as trail boss by his video sidekick, Clint Eastwood, and in fact the whole show will have a new look.

New regular cast members will include a Briton, David Watson, and a Negro, Raymond St. Jacques. And although he's not listed in the season premiere, veteran John Ireland has also been announced for a continuing role. Meanwhile, one of the "Rawhide" fixtures, Paul Brinegar, who portrays "Wishbone," the camp cook, will be on hand as usual.

A few kind words for the departing Fleming are in order. Just as the late Victor McLaglen was one of the few movie actors who was believable in a brawl, so Fleming was believable in a western setting, unlike most of his television competitors who ride like washwomen.

Friday's "Rawhide" episode will serve as something of a transition to the new season. According to the advance story line, "Rowdy Yates (Eastwood) quarrels with trail boss Gil Favor (Fleming) and quits his job as ramrod to take charge of a rival herd. When both herds are scheduled to go through the same pass at the same time on the way to market, Rowdy vows to cut in ahead of Gil's herd and beat him to their com-

Beatles End Tour of U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Beatles fly back to London today after a 19-day tour capped by farewell performances here that almost spilled out of control as hysterical girls leaped onto the stage to grab them.

"This was the wildest of the whole trip," leader Paul McCartney said after the final show Tuesday night. "We don't blame the police—there just weren't enough of them."

Playing at the Cow Palace, a cavernous auditorium designed for stock shows, the British four were on a stage almost completely surrounded by a sea of 17,000 adolescents whose unbelievable screaming drowned out sounds of real pain.

At least 51 girls were carried out. Some had just fainted. But some 30 suffered minor injuries from the crush against McCartney and almost toppled him off the stage. Others grabbed at George Harrison and John Lennon.

Drummer Ringo Starr, high on his podium, was comparatively safe, except for the thousands of stinging jelly beans, as well as teddy bears, shoes, and lipstick cases, thrown at the stage.

San Francisco was the final stop of their 10-city sing, play and run-for-your-life tour of the United States.

Man Is Ready For Space Trip

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's eight-day Gemini 5 orbit flight proved today that man is physically ready for a two-week space voyage this winter and a moon trip this decade.

Dr. Charles E. Berry, head of the medical office of the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, said Tuesday he was "delighted" with the medical condition of champion astronaut Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad.

They withstood the record-shattering journey so well, Berry said, that "I'd go tomorrow" on a more extended tour of space.

Conrad and Cooper moved into the third day of reviewing their journey happy to know they will see their families sooner than they had thought. They will get a break in their 11 days of post-flight seclusion to fly to Houston Thursday and were expected to see their wives for the first time since the Aug. 21 blastoff. Earlier space officials said they would not be allowed to visit their families until Sept. 9, when they are scheduled to report to the nation.

Berry said that they appear in as good or better shape than the Gemini 4 pilots did after four days in space.

Today's schedule for the Gemini twins called for more of the routine medical tests they have faced since their Sunday splashdown, and more of the "debriefings" needed to prepare for future space flights.

More Leadership Needed From Negroes Says RFK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D - N.Y., said today the racial problems of northern cities are worse than those of the South and if left to ferment may lead to more violent explosions like the Los Angeles riot.

He said unemployment, overcrowded housing, white indifference and a failure of Negro leadership have produced a "dangerous situation" in scores of urban ghettos.

"In all these places are riots waiting to happen," he told UPI in an interview.

He said the government should expand its efforts to raise living standards in these urban areas as rapidly as possible "to keep more Negroes from becoming so disaffected that they feel they have little to lose from violence."

But white people cannot do the whole job of relieving conditions that cause riots, said the former attorney general, who won the respect of Negroes by his firm enforcement of civil rights in the deep south.

"More leadership will have to come from the Negroes themselves," he said.

Kennedy pointed out that the civil rights movement in the South is deeply rooted in religious tradition, and has been led by ministers who have by and large preached and practiced non-violence.

"The North has lacked this tradition and has had too little of this kind of leadership," he said.

"It is unfortunate that major Negro leaders have been immersed in the problems of the South and up to now have had relatively little time to devote to the difficult problems in the North.

"Civil rights progress in the South is important. But the army of the resentful and desperate is even larger in the North than in the South, and it is an army without generals, or captains, almost without sergeants.

Eisenhower Tours His Home

DENISON, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Dwight Eisenhower Wednesday toured the home where he was born.

"This brings back memories," a member of his party quoted him as saying as he walked through the rooms of the home now preserved as a museum.

Eisenhower was born in a front bedroom of the frame house on Oct. 14, 1890.

Mrs. E. F. Gaines of Dallas, whose husband served in Eisenhower's World War II headquarters, held up her 6-month old baby for the wartime European commander to see. The infant was named Dwight David Gaines in his honor, Mrs. Gaines said.

"That's fine," Eisenhower grinned. "Another namesake."

The former President commented only in passing on politics.

"I think we'll make gains in next year's congressional election," he said.

He also said he hoped a unity committee organized by the Republicans would solidify the GOP by the 1968 presidential year.

Eisenhower flew to Perrin Air Force Base near Denison from Bartlesville, Okla.

He drove off to tour the house where he was born and then attended a short ceremony naming a high school auditorium for him.

INS BRIEFS ALARMING RATE

BEDFORD, England (UPI)—A court in this city of 50,000 residents was told Tuesday the number of local teen-agers using heroin and marijuana has become alarming.

"Many 16-year-olds in Bedford have admitted smoking marijuana and taking heroin intravenously, using converted eyedroppers," said prosecutor J.H. Culpin at the trial of a 19-year-old boy, charged with narcotics possession.

"Dollar" Originally, the dollar was a silver coin that circulated in many European countries. It became the standard monetary unit in Canada, the United States and certain other countries in the 18th century.

such as the one in Harlem last year or the one in Los Angeles last month, city officials plead for Negro leaders who can negotiate an end to the violence and establish a channel of communication to the rioters. But they aren't to be found.

"Too many Negroes who succeed in climbing the ladder of education and well-being fail to extend a helping hand to their fellows on the rungs below. I think we white people must demand as much from the many Negroes who already share the advantages of our affluent society."

Robert Kennedy will be 40 on Nov. 20. He no longer has the boyish look he had when he became attorney general in his brother's Cabinet at the age of 35.

The senator from New York is sober-faced, even grave in demeanor. That is the way he has been most of the time, since Nov. 22, 1963. He looks tired and tense, and a brief time in his company makes it easy to understand why.

His office in suite 1205 of the new Senate office building is a madhouse of feverish activity, with a dozen aides jammed into space hardly adequate for four or five, telephones jangling, secretaries darting hither and yon with papers, and an endless stream of visitors.

Kennedy is gun-shy about questions dealing with politics or foreign policy. He is aware his answers will be scrutinized—and perhaps twisted—by people looking for documentation of his alleged feud with President Johnson. He is at pains to avoid any statement that could possibly be construed as criticism of the President, and goes out of his way to register agreement with things Johnson has said about the war on poverty and civil rights.

Among other things, he shares the President's belief the government must deal quickly and firmly with any outbreak of violence, even though it may reflect accumulated grievances against social injustices.

CRY IN THEIR BEER

DALLAS (UPI) — Roy's Bar was full of customers who cried in their beer but it was not because anyone was emotional.

The tavern owner became annoyed with a boisterous customer and pulled out a tear gas gun. The gas pellet, instead of exploding in the gun, shot out like a bullet, pierced the customer's ear and then blew up. A number of patrons fled from the bar. Those who stayed sat at their schooner of brew, tears running down their faces.

Siberian huskies and Alaskan Malamutes, when used as sled dogs, are capable of averaging between 12 to 14 miles per hour over distances of from 12 to 30 miles, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Storm Becomes Hurricane

MIAMI (UPI) — Tropical storm Betsy picked up hurricane power Wednesday and veered westward in the Atlantic to threaten the outer Bahamas Islands with 90-mile an hour winds.

Betsy's sudden threat to land after two days of dawdling forced weather scientists to cancel a "project stormfury" experiment to seed the hurricane with silver iodide crystals. They had hoped the experiment would cause the storm to destroy itself. Fifteen planes carrying silver iodide "smoke" generators actually flew into the storm before dawn but officials said it was a "dry run" and no seeding took place.

"Gales and possibly winds of hurricane force (75 m.p.h. or higher) are expected at Coicos and the Turks Island groups tonight and around Mayaguana Thursday," the Weather Bureau warned in a midday advisory.

Department of Housing Bill Gets Congressional Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a dramatic acknowledgement of the urban age, Congress has reshaped the upper echelon of government to add a cabinet department aimed at the city-dweller.

Final congressional approval came Tuesday for legislation establishing the new department of housing and urban development. All that is needed now is President Johnson's signature.

The new agency was conceived in controversy and chances are it will continue that way in years to come.

The urban department will be the first cabinet agency created since the department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) was set up 12 years ago.

will be created merely by taking down one government sign and putting up another. The present Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) — an independent federal agency — will become the new urban department.

The result will be creation of a new agency with about 14,000 employees, supervising government programs totaling about $4.3 billion a year.

In terms of work force, urban affairs will be the second smallest department in the federal government. Only the Labor Department has fewer employees (about 9,000).

The birth of a federal department is a rare enough event in Washington to cause considerable excitement. The Urban Affairs Department is no exception.

where decisions were made on the closing of military bases, new highway construction and other national issues.

The second immediate effect of the new department was expected to be psychological. Urban leaders say it will focus increased national attention on the problems of the city.

How he divides these functions will determine the emphasis and direction of the department's program, at least in its infant years.

Regardless of the personality of its secretary, creation of the new department is bound to have two immediate results.

One will be in the high councils of government where the voice of the city will be given full representation for the first time in U.S. history.

Right now, the most important question being asked is: "Who will run the department?"

Municipal leaders who lobbied the law into existence and the congressmen and senators who voted for it are convinced the appointment will be the single most important factor in the agency's early stages of development.

The reason is that the law gives the new urban secretary authority to set up the administrative structure, including the parceling out of responsibilities to an undersecretary and four assistant secretaries.

President says Americans are bogged down

MOSCOW (UPI) — North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh said Wednesday the Americans "are bogged down to their necks in Viet Nam" and will be defeated if they keep on fighting.

No matter how many troops the American aggressors send to South Viet Nam they shall be defeated," Ho said in an article in the Soviet magazine New Times.

At the same time the Kremlin leaders announced the Soviet Union was providing and would continue to furnish the "utmost assistance and support" to strengthen the defensive capacity of North Viet Nam against U.S. attacks.

The pledge came in a message of congratulations to President Ho on the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Republic of (North) Viet Nam. It was sent by Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Anastas Mikoyan.

Foreign Commentary

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International
BONN (UPI) — Germany's so-called intellectual writers have assigned themselves to help West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt oust Chancellor Ludwig Erhard. Only the Sept. 19 election will show whether they helped or harmed his cause.

A dozen well-known authors are volunteering Brandt their services as speech and gag writers or campaign rally speakers. They have added spice to the campaign, but they also have presented broad targets to Erhard and his friends.

Stars of the Brandt intellectuals are "Tin Drum" and "Do Years" author Guenter Grass, "Marat" writer Peter Weiss and "The Deputy" playwright Rolf Hochhuth.

All are postwar writers whose works are controversial on grounds of taste. They share a dislike of Erhard and his prosperity program which they consider petit bourgeois and undemocratic.

Erhard has reacted angrily, referring to writers who criticized him as "Philistines" and "narrow-minded fellows." He describes their books as "debased art," a phrase invented by the Nazi book burners but rarely heard in the last 20 years.

An indiscretion by Willy Brandt contributed to the row. President Heinrich Luebbe told Social Democratic chief Brandt he was shocked he should accept help from Grass because "Frau Luebbe tells me there are things in Grass's books that even married people don't say to one another."

Brandt defended the story, and Luebbe's remark was published. Luebbe now is angry with Brandt for passing on the remark. The bright, brittle young people seem to think the contretemps is hugely funny.

But the under-25s in this country generally do not bother to vote, and the reaction of the over-25s is not in yet.

Prepare Book
Hochhuth and Grass were prominent in a list of writers who prepared a book, "Plea For a New Government," extolling Brandt and other Social Democratic leaders. Hochhuth's demand in this volume for a return to class warfare sparked sharp reactions from Erhard.

But Ernest Cramer, editor of the national daily "Die Welt," said the Social Democrats themselves should have complained, in view of Brandt's successful campaign to lead the party away from Marxism.

Former Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss, a favorite target of Brandt's writer fans who consider him a modern fascist, also has gotten into the act. He gives as good as he takes. Although Hochhuth claims the poor get poorer and richer in West Germany, says Strauss, the author himself has elected to become a resident of Switzerland for tax purposes because high income groups get off easier there than in Germany.

"Hochhuth and Grass are successful writers, that is, they make a lot of money at their trade," Strauss tells his election rallies. "As citizens and, in Grass's case, as taxpayers, they have every right to voice an opinion they wish. I personally give their opinions on social conditions in our state as much weight as I would give Miss Germany's expressed views on the control of nuclear weapons."

U.S. Apologized For Actions In Singapore

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Wednesday acknowledged in effect that it apologized four years ago to the government of Singapore for actions of an American intelligence officer there.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said when a flat denial was issued earlier to statements by Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, the department was relying on information from government officials who were "not fully aware of the background of the incident."

Lee claimed the United States tried to spy on his government and offered a $3.3 million bribe to Singapore to hush up the incident and for release of a U.S. agent who was arrested.

McCloskey said Secretary of State Dean Rusk in 1961 "did write a letter to Prime Minister Lee in which he expressed regret over this incident," which was said to have taken place during the latter months of the Eisenhower administration.

The U.S. spokesman declined to say specifically what it was that Rusk "expressed regret over" but acknowledged it was the "same thing the prime minister was talking about."

The State Department backed off its earlier denial of the whole affair after Lee followed up his original charges by releasing today the text of the letter from Rusk.

Theater Needs Latin Fire Says Puerto Rican

By DENNIS FARCETT
By United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — A little Latin fire would be as stimulating to the American theater as a shot of rum, says Puerto Rican actor Jaime Sanchez.

Sanchez, who was born 28 years ago in San Juan and who has been praised most recently by film critics for supporting role in "The Pawnbroker," clearly thinks he can deliver that stimulation.

"The Pawnbroker" is what is commonly referred to in cinema circles as a "sleeper." Filmed in black and white with a small cast, a bleak setting and a downbeat plot, the movie was well received by reviewers and is doing excellent business at the box office.

Although Jaime portrays a Puerto Rican in the film, he didn't regard the assignment as type-casting.

"The fact that I play a Puerto Rican is only incidental," he said. "What's more important that he is a real human being with complex feelings. He isn't just a stereotyped Latin." He is a dead ring for British actor James Mason, so much so that Mason Sanchez himself anything once paid his young look-alike a visit to suggest to him that they portray father and son in a future movie.

However, Jaime's intense approach to his craft is far removed from Mason's frigid reserve.

"Being a Latin," he said, "is a different way of being. A Latin feels more passionately; his feelings are keener, deeper. The theater could use a little Latin temperament to make it more exciting."

"Most American actors are very good technicians. But they don't have enough spontaneity." Sanchez's "spontaneity" has come in handy in the eight years he has been a professional actor. He played the role of Chino in the Broadway production of "West Side Story" and followed that with roles in "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad" and in the New York Shakespeare Festival production of "Othello."

In April he won the Clarence Derwent Award of $500 for his performance in off-Broadway's "Generico Was Here."

The prize was more than welcome, since in addition to supporting himself, he must also help out his family, including father, mother, brother, and three sisters, who live in Spanish Harlem.

"My highest ambitions are with the theater instead of the movies," he said. "I know if you're a movie actor, you make a lot of dough... and I could use it. But I wouldn't turn down a good stage role for all the money in the world."

Optimistic words for a young man in a tough racket? Maybe so, but when it comes to his craft, Sanchez has already earned a reputation for an almost brazen confidence.

One anecdote going the rounds tells how he was rehearsing for his role as one of the Puerto Rican youths in "West Side Story" when director Jerome Robbins interrupted him.

"That's not the way to do it," complained Robbins. "You're doing it all wrong."

OLD ACQUAINTANCE — Casey Stengel wipes away a tear in announcing his retirement as manager of the New York Mets. But it isn't the end of his 36-year career in baseball as player and manager. He'll continue as the Met's West Coast representative.

Listening Devices Are Discovered in Warsaw

LONDON (UPI) — Listening devices — presumably planted by the Communists to spy on diplomatic conversations — have been discovered in British Embassy property in Warsaw, the foreign office said Wednesday.

Diplomatic reports said the "bugs" were found in an ultra-modern residence completed only a year ago for British Ambassador Sir George Clutton.

The foreign office declined to pinpoint officially just where the devices were found, apparently to avoid letting the Communists know the extent to which their spy plan had been exposed.

Foreign office sources said Britain may protest the planting to the Polish government.

They said there was no question at present of cancelling the visit to Warsaw later this month of Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart who is to stay at the embassy residence.

Diplomatic sources said the "bugs" were believed to have been slipped into sections of the building while it was under construction by the official Polish Foreign Trade Organization (CEKOP).

13 Are Arrested, Nine Are Hurt

CHICAGO (UPI) — Thirteen persons were arrested and nine were hurt during civil rights demonstrations Tuesday night and early Wednesday outside the homes of Chicago's school superintendent and mayor and the central police headquarters. Council of Community Organizations (CCCO) scheduled another demonstration.

One of the injured, Daniel Underwood, 19, a demonstrator who suffered possible internal injuries, remained under treatment at Weiss Memorial Hospital.

The 13 persons who were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to obstructing traffic and resisting arrest were freed Wednesday on $25 bond each. All, including three women, were to appear Friday in Boys Court.

The injured included seven demonstrators and two policemen. One policeman suffered a knee injury when he fell while chasing a demonstrator. The other officer suffered head cuts when a demonstrator hit him on the head with a picket sign.

Most of the injuries occurred during a melee in the exclusive north side neighborhood where School Supt. Benjamin Willis lives. Police said sitdown demonstrators attempted to escape from a police van after they were arrested for blocking traffic.

However, the Rev. Robert Page Taylor, an Episcopal priest who operates a home for paroled convicts, said the six demonstrators inside the van were leaning against the door when police opened it suddenly. The demonstrators tumbled into the street where police beat them with nightsticks, the Rev. Taylor said.

Trinity River Project Bill Up for Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Public Works Committee set the stages Wednesday for congressional approval of the billion dollar Trinity River project, including authorization of a barge canal from Fort Worth to the Gulf.

The bill reaches the House floor.

Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., chief sponsor of the measure, hailed the committee approval as the most significant step yet toward construction of the vast project.

The committee agreed unanimously to recommend that the project be included in the catch-all rivers-and-harbors (omnibus) authorization bill, Republicans on the committee decided not to oppose committee approval but reserved the right to fight the project when the affirmative action of the committee is extremely gratifying to me, as I know it is to millions of Texans."

The committee turned suggestions from some Republicans to authorize only the non-controversial features and leave out navigation (the barge canal).

Working With Men Who Build Legends Affords Education

NORMAN ROSEMONT
NEW YORK (UPI) — For eight years it was gratifying for me to have been vice-president of the Alan Jay Lerner and Frederic Loewe production companies and, in that capacity, be involved with the launching of such key projects as "My Fair Lady," the motion picture "Gigi," and their last musical, "Camelot."

Working with the men who actually "built" musical legends and created "standards" in the musical world afforded me an education and an insight into the needs and designs of the theater not easily learned in any other working arena or in any classroom.

It was through this affiliation that I became the personal manager of Robert Goulet, first introduced to American audiences as the Lancelot or "Camelot" back in 1960 and who has gone on to carve a place for himself as one of the most exciting and refreshing new personalities in the entertainment world.

Now I am embarking on still another phase of what I term "my love affair with the theater." I am preparing three productions for Broadway for this season. In view of the fact that these shows are to mark my baptism to Broadway, there are questions from some quarters as to why I am undertaking three shows at the same time, and from others as to why I am entering the Russian roulette world of the legitimate theatrical producer at all.

The answer to both questions is a simple one. Actually, and sincerely and deeply I love the theater. I feel that if you are going to make your mark as a producer and contribute something to the theater, not just try to grab a fast buck, you must do it with daring, originality, imagination and fully believe in what you do.

The three shows with which I am involved are: "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever," the new musical by Lerner and Burton Lane that my production company, Rogo, is co-producing with Lerner; "Dra! The Cat!" a new musical with book and lyrics by Ira Levin and music by Milton Schafer that I am producing with Jerry Adler, and a new comedy, "One Of My Lovers Is Missing," by James Allardice and Arthur Alsberg.

"Clear Day" and "Dra! The Cat!" open in New York in October. We haven't completed casting and final production plans for "Lovers" as of this writing.

"Dra! The Cat!" was originally owned by Herman Levin, who produced "My Fair Lady," and was brought to my attention by Jerry Adler. When Jerry first noticed the property, it was called "Cat and Mouse," and what whetted our appetites was the book written by Ira Levin. He achieved great success with "No Time For Sergeants." Another plus was the fresh score by Milton Schafer, who wrote the music for "Bravo Giovanni."

When we were able to secure the services of Joe Layton, one of the most productive director-choreographers in the business, we knew we had something worthwhile. "Dra! The Cat!" is a fun show, it has a great satirical quality and most important, it is an original musical, not an adaptation of something from another media, not a remake of a straight play, but a brand new fresh, vital musical, written expressly for the musical theater.

I am pleased to say that "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" also bears this distinction, for today that is a distinction. Producers are afraid to take a chance on originality and instead produce imports, adaptations and reshaped, warmed-over, re-written versions of plays that were hits in seasons past within another framework.

I am interested in bringing original musicals to the theater, musicals that are tailored to the needs of the American theatrical scene. Why is the musical theater the stepchild of creativity? Why, for years, has it suffered from a dearth of originality, a lack of purpose? Why have most musicals been the results of "reshaping"

rather than the fresh works of fine talents?

Broadway, despite the continuing identification it has of being an "invalid," is still the most productive and finest launching site for distinguished careers. Why, just during the past few years we've had a Julie Andrews soar to the top as a result of Broadway. Richard Burton was regarded as a fine actor, but certainly not a popular star before "Camelot," and Robert Goulet made it into the "select circle" from the same show.

Bob's wife, Carol Lawrence, achieved prominence as Maria in "West Side Story." Dick Van Dyke got his first bit of big attention in "Bye Bye Birdie." And what about Barbra Streisand, who is still holding forth as the star of Broadway's "Funny Girl"? Also, who can dispute the fact that the role of Professor Higgins for Rex Harrison marked a period of resurgence and complete revitalization for his career?

So if Broadway can be the spawning ground for talents such as these (and incidentally, the people I've listed all made it in musicals) we can't afford to give short shrift to the musical theater, by rehasing old properties whenever we want

Britain Refuses Entry Visas To Political Leaders Group

LONDON (UPI) — Britain has refused entry visas to a group of Communist Viet Cong political leaders, the home office said Wednesday.

A spokesman said the request for visas has been turned down after consultation between Home Secretary Sir Frank Soskice and Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart.

The British decision was taken on the grounds that "it is not in the national interest" for the Communist Viet Cong leaders to visit Britain, in present circumstances it was stated.

Last month Earl Bertrand Russell's "Peace Foundation" applied for visas for a group of three leaders of the National Liberation Front in South Viet Nam, the political front of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Among them is professor Nguyen Van Hieu, the spokesman on foreign affairs of the National Liberation Front. The other two also are top members of Dinh Ba Thi and P. Ham Van Chuong.

The Peace Foundation invited them to come to Britain to "inform the British people of their case" in country-wide lectures. The invitation which was extended during the recent Helsinki World Peace Congress was promptly accepted.

Count Inches for Children's Clothes

By HELEN HENNESSY
Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Buying children's clothes is like playing a numbers game. Size
6 or 7? Toddler 4 or children's 3? Slim or regular size 10?
There's such a welter of sizes to choose from it can become a numbers nightmare.

Here's some advice from experts. "Knowing age, height and weight is an asset, but even more important, know inches," say Sam and Bob Toussie (who manufacture boys' and girls'
wear for Merry-Mites, Hi-Line, Hi-Knit and Small Talk). "Take
a tape measure and measure
the child. Then take your statistics and tape measure along with you to the store."

One step in the right direction has been taken by manufacturers who now place an informative size tag on their garments. These special tickets give waist measurement as well as height and weight for each size.

When these statistics are not given, here are the basic measuring areas and the correct
way to get a most accurate
"inch count."

HEIGHT. Measure in stocking feet against a wall. Also measure length from back of neck to waist, using a current well-fitting dress or coat.

CHEST. Measure well up under arms and over shoulder blades. Measure over underwear and such other clothing as will be worn underneath the garment you are buying.

WAIST. Hold tape snugly, but not tightly, and measure child
in underwear around the natural waistline at the smallest part. The waist is an important

KNOW YOUR INCHES — For a perfect fit the tape measure is your best friend when buying children's clothes. Inches are a more important factor in determining size than either weight or age.

flexible measurement.

HIPS. Have the child stand with knees together. Measure in a straight line around the fullest part.

LEGS. To get the right pants length, take the inseam measure of a current pair of well-fitting pants. Lay them flat on a table, fold back one leg, measure along the inseam from crotch seam to bottom. Remember: inseams on boys' denims
are cut two inches longer to allow for turn-up.

Here are the basic size ranges:

Infants' S-M-L-XL. This is a true category for infants from birth to 12 months with the sizes meaning small, medium, large and extra large. Although differences are not great, there is a definite grading for each size over the entire body of the garment. Baby clothing is full around the seat and legs to give diaper room. Generally speaking, S is for the newborn up to 12 pounds; M for the 13 to 18
pounds; L, 19 to 25 pounds;
and XL, at about one year, for the 26 to 35-pounder.

Toddler Sizes 1 to 4. Clothing in this size range is designed for the 1 to 3-year-old who still has the rounded contours of infancy. Dress and coat lengths are shorter; legs and seat are still cut full to accommodate diapers and there's no waistline to speak of. A toddler size 1 is a perfect 20-20. It is 20 inches at both chest and waist. Heights go up to 40 inches, chest measurements range from 20 inches for size 1 to 23 inches for size 4.
Waists go from 20 to 20½ inches.

Girls' Sizes 3 to 6X. These are the 3 to 6½-year-olds, losing their baby roundness. Waistlines are longer.

Boys' Sizes 3 to 7. Essentially the same as the girls' 3 to 6X range. At this age, body measurements are similar.

Girls' Sizes 7 to 14. These are the grade-schoolers, 7 to 11-
year-olds, getting taller, heavier, with slightly more definition in the waist and hips. Heights range from 50 inches in size 7 to 61 inches in size 14. Chests range from 26 to 32 inches, waists from 22½ to 26 inches, hips 27½ to 35 inches.

Boys' Sizes 7 to 20. As boys get older, development is mostly in height. Waistlines and stomachs recede as chests and necks widen. Neck measurements are important for shirts.
They range from 11½ inches in size 8 to 14½ inches in size 20.
Chests go from 26½ inches inches in size 20, while height ranges from 50 inches to 68 inches.
Slim, Regular and Husky sizes are categories to choose from,
and take into account the varying physical types.

To come out ahead in shopping for children's clothing you must remember that children don't just slip from one size to the next. They shoot up here or slim down there unexpectedly,
as every mother knows to her dismay.

A fuzzy and furry look in campus casual outerwear will dominate this fall, bringing lining fabrics from inside —
out. The fur and fur-like trims will add a soft touch to most masculine casual coats and jackets. Warm, fleecy linings,
such as polyester cheerlings,
will contrast with other materials. Also, corduroys, suedes and other napped materials will be teamed with bright solid wools and wool plaids. J.
C. Harris, president of Zero
King Outerwear, says it's all a result of the increased participation of young people in outdoor activities, even in the coldest months of the year.
"This has created the need for outerwear styles that utilize warmth-giving fabrics not only as the functional part of a garment, but as a fashion asset," Harris said.

When Johnny First
Goes Off to School

By PAT KING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — For two and a half million American youngsters the first school bell to ring this year means a rude break away from home — the first time that they will be separated from their mothers. Life will never be the same for them again.

But actually, it's a toss-up as to whether the wrench will be harder on mommy or her baby.

The way a mother prepares herself for her child's first trip to kindergarten can determine how he will face school — and possibly life away from home — forever after.

So says Dr. Marjorie Freid-berg, professor of early childhood education at New York University.

If a mother has apprehensions about putting Johnny on the school bus, the chances are that he will, too.

"There has to be a period of adjustment for mother and child," says Dr. Freidberg. "The child must realize that his mother is not 'getting rid' of him.
And at the same time, the mother must realize that Johnny may be defensive about school and is only putting on an act when he orders his mother to leave."

The mother should remember that No. 1 on the getting-children-ready-for-school list should not be wearing apparel but rather wearing attitudes.

It's up to the mother to foster
good relations between the classroom and child. And most school systems agree that the child has to learn to transfer his feelings
from the parent to the teacher.

Dr. Freidberg says "It's important that the child face reality and know that this is the teacher — not the parent — in the classroom.

"Both the parent and the teacher need to be accepted.
Neither is in the enemy camp.
There has to be a liaison, between the two. And it's neces-sar that the child be aware of it."

Under the ideal situation, Dr.
Freidberg says, the child's first teacher should explain the program and operation of the school.

It would also help if the teacher could visit the homes of the apprehensive children and parents. In doing so, she would familiarize herself with the child's background, family, pets,
etc. — thus demonstrating that she is a friend, not an enigma.

Ideally, there would not be many clinging mothers or frightened children.

However, the ideal is not readily achieved in today's crowded schools. But there are several ways a mother can help her child prepare to step out into the world when the school bell rings.

For mothers of children off to school for the first time, Dr.
Freidberg suggests the following guides to keep in mind:

Take a trip to school before the first day and explore the route your child will travel.

When you actually do begin the first day of school, don't give your child the feeling that you are about to deposit him in a lion's den.

Prepare him beforehand by telling him what to expect from school. Explain that there will be a time for play and a time for routine activities. Get him ready for some regimentation.

Plan to spend some time in school on the first day. It will enable your child to feel more comfortable about walking into a new situation.

Have conferences with the teacher as often as you think necessary. Orientation programs are invaluable to both parents and teachers. And educators today look to parents for participation in the school's program.

School And You

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In the "dog days" of August,
school seems a bit remote and unreal. Yet, millions of youngsters will be back at their desks and studies. Many will enter school for the first time,
happy and excited at being kindergartners or first graders,
but worried, too, about what lies ahead.

As a parent, you can't make the adjustment to school for your child. You can, however,
do a number of things to help him get off to a flying start.

Of primary importance is his physical health. Even extra-bright pupils who miss a great deal of school because of illness
may wind up repeating a grade.

Before starting school, your child should be protected against smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, and polio. In some cases,
your doctor may also recommend measles vaccine, whooping cough immunization, allergy treatments, or cold and "flu" shots. There will still be plenty of diseases he can catch at school, but these precautions will spare him most of the more serious ones.

We hope you have taken time during summer vacation to have him checked over thoroughly, with special emphasis on ears and eyes. A child with poor eyesight will have difficulty in learning how to read, and one with a hearing handicap
may appear dull because he misses half of what the teacher
says.

If your child has any physical limitation that requires special consideration, make certain the school knows about it. I know of one case where a mother failed to report her son's extreme sensitivity to bee stings. He was stung on the playground and nearly lost his life before medical attention was procured.

Teach your child good health habits, such as washing his hands before eating and after using the toilet, bathing frequently, using a handkerchief properly, and getting at least 10 hours' sleep. Regarding the latter, children who stay up until all hours seldom learn much at school the next day.

I sincerely hope that good food, enough sleep, and lots of outdoor exercise this summer
have left your child with a robust body and plenty of stamina and energy. These will help him meet successfully the demands and challenges of the coming school days.

Please send your school problems to Susan Light in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Dear Abby.... Be on the Offense And Show Him You Care

DEAR ABBY: I know I'm not the only wife with this problem,
so maybe if you printed this your answer could help countless others. I've been married for over 25 years. My husband and I are both over 50. We have children and grandchildren. The problem, of course, is my husband. He's good-looking, young-looking, in excellent health, and a hopeless woman chaser. (Not that he would be hard to catch.)
He makes no secret of his escapades, expecting me to forgive and forget and not to take them seriously. He says none of these affairs is serious and he "loves" only me. I'm not afraid of "losing" him, but I'm humiliated. I see no end to his behavior. I must admit he is kind, considerate, a good provider
(though I work, too) and I do
love him in spite of everything.
What to do? Divorce him and live a lonely, unhappy life? Or just wait for old age?

DEAR EVE: Don't divorce
him—but don't condone his behavior, either. Every time he steps out of line, raise the roof
and let him know you are hurt, disgusted and humiliated. Punish him a little by being cool to him, but don't banish him to the couch or he'll have a good excuse to find a more comfortable
bed. Many men stray because they really believe their wives
don't care enough. Show him you care plenty. What do you have to lose?

DEAR ABBY: When a group of people work together on a project, such as a committee formed for the purpose of revising by-laws, in what order should the names of these people be listed in the report? There was no official chairman or head. Thank you.

DEAR BURNED UP: It doesn't matter, they could be listed alphabetically, or according to age, height or body weight. But the fairest method would be to put all their names into a hat and draw lots. This is sometimes known as "spit in the ocean."

DEAR ABBY: I hope this will help parents who don't know
when, how or if they should tell a child that he is adopted.

I am 16 years old and was adopted when I was a week old and have known it for as long as I can remember. I wouldn't want it any other way. Being adopted is an accepted part of my life. Like having brown hair and hazel eyes. My mother used to introduce me as her little
"adopted" girl even before I understood what the word "adopted" meant. It has always made me feel special, not different.

If I had grown up believing that my parents were my "real"
parents, and they later told me (or I found out) that they were not my real parents after all, I would have been shocked and confused whether I was 10 or 20
at the time.

Being adopted doesn't make any difference in the way I feel about my parents. If anything,
I think it makes me love them more because I know they gave up a part of their lives to raise me and they didn't even have to.
Thank you for letting me say this, Abby. I've kept it inside of me for a long time.

DEAR ABBY: When a boy breaks up with a girl, does he
have to give her a reason?
Please print this as many other girls would like to know the answer, too.

DEAR WENT STEADY:
DEAR WENT: No. And if the girl is wise, she won't ask. The reason is obvious. He doesn't want to go steady with her any more.

Problems? Write to Abby,
Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.
For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ironing amounts to weight

to the equivalent of lifting 4,200 pounds after six hours of ironing.

Pampa Public Schools Menu		Schools Hurt By Teacher Dropouts
NEW YORK (UPI) — (Which came first: the student dropout problem or the teacher's flight from the classroom?)
Robert N. Bush, Stanford University education professor, says the high dropout rate among teachers must be reduced before the student dropout problem can be solved.
Bush, speaking at the New York Conference of the National Commission on Teachers Education and Professional Standards, noted that more than half the teachers who received teaching certificates last June will not be teaching two years hence.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Cure for 'Social Injustice'

In the next few weeks no doubt we shall be exposed to an array of public handwringing at prayer meetings called to consider the subject, "Social Injustices That Brought on the Los Angeles Riots."

"Social injustices" exist to be sure. Some people are poorer than others. Some are brainy, others dumb. Some families on relief get bigger checks than their next-door neighbors, also on relief.

The uplift social theories have failed miserably. They have made "relieving" a career. Some families can point to three generations of steady relievers. Welfare costs, if they continue to expand, are at the point of becoming the basis for another revolution.

After each outbreak of violence there is a great rush forward to "do something for these people" — the responsible party. So in addition to the new color TV, supermarket cash register, clothes for the entire family and groceries enough to last until the next riot, they get coddled by the sociologists and uplift programs — part of which is paid for by their victims — from the government.

Hard work is the best kind of cure for "social injustice." It works wonders for both physical and mental health. As it is we have become so tolerant of uncivilized behavior that we have seriously endangered civilization.

Reds Push Cuban Build-up While World Turns Eye to Viet Nam

Conditions in Viet Nam have overshadowed and pushed the activities in Cuba into the background. This could be a typical move on the part of the Communists and is consistent with their "planned aggression moves."

Last January they inaugurated an oceanographic institute in Havana equipped with 28 modern laboratories for maritime investigations. At the same time, the Russians started construction on a missile-tracking station, pertinent to U.S. interest since it is so close to Cape Kennedy.

To add to this there are the formerly constructed submarine bases, missile bases and naval centers on the island; and the subversive schools all aimed at the take over or destruction of South America and the United States.

To act as a spying and transportation medium, the Russians have stepped up their "fishing fleet" operations in all waters. From the "Free Cuba News," it is reported that, "Today, the Castro regime has publicly admitted to more than 100 Russian scientists involved in the operation. The actual number probably exceeds this and many times more."

It is known that the oceanographic fleet has two "mother ships," the "Mikhail Lomonosov" and the "Kovalevskii." From these operate the smaller "fishing boats," the "Fidias" and "Delphin." These ships ply the entire area of the Atlantic and Pacific, acting as transports for human beings smuggled into the free nations, for underwater surveys and surface subversion.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING

UNCLE SAP AT THE U. N. After all the bold talk and pretense of determined action, the Johnson administration has backed down in disgraceful fashion in having U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg announce to the United Nations that it no longer insists the Soviet Union must pay its delinquent U. N. dues or lose its vote.

What this new policy does is encourage member nations to ignore their financial responsibilities — and they are ready to be encouraged in this manner. In addition, the Johnson administration withdrawal from a principled stand will impose new burdens on the American taxpayers. It means, in brief, that Americans will have to pay a larger share of the U. N. bills so that the Soviet Union can retain its vote. It is a cruel irony that the new policy, which favors the Soviet Union, came at a time when Soviet ground-to-air missiles were in action in North Viet Nam, shooting down United States aircraft. Henceforth the Soviets will be able to laugh while they attack the United States in the United Nations. They will know that they may continue the attacks with the United States in effect picking up the tab.

The capitulation on the part of the Johnson administration and its spokesman, Ambassador Goldberg, is a disturbing sign of weakness. Morally and legally, the U. S. was on sound ground. The U. N. Charter requires that members pay their bills. Indeed what organization could function usefully and be worthwhile where one part of the membership decided it wouldn't pay its dues? In any club, a member who refuses to pay his proper assessments is removed from the membership roll. This is the way it should be in the United Nations organization.

It is ridiculous for the Johnson administration to say that the work of the U. N. General Assembly would be paralyzed if the U. S. continued to insist on dealing with nations that will not accept the minimum in responsibility in an international body — financial responsibility for costs? If the U. N. General Assembly has to be "saved" at the cost of accepting irresponsibility from member states, then it isn't worth saving.

As a matter of fact, the inactivity of the U. N. General Assembly in the last session most probably helped promote the cause of peace with freedom. The Afro-Asian majority in the General Assembly is wedded to the idea that the United States must bow down before the advance of Communist China. The General Assembly has displayed no keen interest in helping the Republic of South Viet Nam, an anti-communist nation, preserve its territorial integrity or protect its people against the communist onslaught from the North. One may be sure that the more active is the General Assembly the more trouble it will be for the United States and other freedom loving nations. U-Thant, secretary general of the United Nations, has been and is today in the forefront of critics of the U. S. policies of stemming communist aggression around the world.

The Johnson administration's new policy of forgive and forget applies not only to the Soviet Union but to all the members of the U. N. who are inclined to be delinquent in their payments. The decision will encourage, as nothing has done in the past, tendencies toward delinquency. The petty, synthetic states of Africa, for example, surely will be long in figuring that if Russia can get away without paying bills it owes, they too are exempt from payment.

The decision also encourages the nations of the world to look on Uncle Sam as Uncle Sap, as a figure of fun who can be financially exploited. By its new policy, the Johnson administration in effect is telling the world that no matter how irresponsibly a nation behaves the United States will pay whatever is owed. This helps make our country into a laughing stock for other lands.

It is a safe prediction that the United States will pay an increasingly large share of the costs of the U. N. in the next few years. In short, we will pay the piper, but we won't call the tune.

This is a shame, for the United Nations frequently is hurtful to U. S. interests. If Americans are to pick up the tab for other lands, those lands should be required to abstain from anti-American positions. But the Johnson administration gives no sign of imposing such a basic requirement.

Putting Convictions To The Test. The individual who is afraid to answer questions concerning his beliefs is in a dangerous position. Unsure of himself, unwilling to seek the truth, he is really depriving himself of the opportunity to improve his position in life.

This thought is prompted by publication of "Voices In Dissent" — a collection of essays edited by Arthur A. Ekirch, Jr. (published by Citadel Press, 222 Park Avenue South, New York 3, N.Y.; $6.50).

Ekirch has selected essays by 37 prominent Americans, ranging from Robert A. Taft to W. E. B. Du Bois, from Thomas Paine to Walter Lippman. The selection in each case was made by virtue of the author's stand against the prevailing societal opinion.

According to the book jacket, the "connecting strand running through the selections is a strong bias toward individual freedom." This is not quite the case, however. In fact, the first essay is a plea by Benjamin Rush in 1792 for the federal government to establish a "peace office" — with the power to coercively raise taxes for government schools, to indoctrinate

Hunt for Truth

THE FRONTIER SPIRIT The story of the American frontier and its conquest by individual, enterprising Americans is in many ways the greatest epic in the history of the world. It is still celebrated by us and by others, and honored as it should be honored, the proof being the enduring popularity of the American "Western" all over the world.

The great, unsettled frontier on earth is gone now and can never reappear as it used to be, within the foreseeable future. But the fact remains that many of the best qualities in the American spirit were molded by the frontier and we would be immeasurably poorer if those qualities were allowed to fade from present reality into musty memory and then into oblivion.

The frontier spirit does not necessarily require an actual geographical frontier zone to keep it alive. The frontier spirit is one of daring, of unorthodoxy, of a willingness to reach out into new and unexplored regions and prevail by the vigor and skill of the unfettered individual. The same qualities that brought the pioneers victorious from Atlantic to Pacific could bring Americans today to undreamed-of heights of achievement in the conquest of nature, the advance of technology and the development of new ideas.

But these great achievements will never be seen, and the frontier spirit will fade and die, if its mainspring is not preserved. That mainspring is the free individual and his full opportunity to act and achieve on his own, without repression or control of any kind except what is necessary to preserve that same opportunity for others.

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS THAT CONSULAR TREATY

When the United States recognized the Soviet Union in 1933 there was an exchange of diplomatic letters between the Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinov and President Franklin D. Roosevelt. By this exchange, the Soviet government pledged that it would, among other things, give US citizens arrested in the USSR access to their consular officials and the right to be represented by an American lawyer, if so chosen.

The Soviet Union has not abided by this commitment and our flaccid State Department has ignored the repeated Communist violations. Now, of course, to obtain these very rights which we already have, the State Department is attempting to have a treaty ratified whereby we will give to the USSR a greater number of consular sanctuaries from which they can more effectively wage political warfare against us by the use of espionage and propaganda.

Fortunately for the United States, J. Edgar Hoover, the courageous Director of the FBI warned the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives on March 4 that the Consular Treaty, already approved by the President, would be a great asset to Soviet Intelligence. Mr. Hoover told the Committee that the treaty would make the work of the FBI more difficult. He then is quoted as saying: "One Soviet intelligence officer in commenting on the (consular) agreement spoke of the wonderful opportunity this presented his service and that it would enable the Soviets to enhance their intelligence operations."

If the State Department did not invoke the rights given to American citizens by the Soviet Union as a precondition to recognition by the United States, would it invoke them when the same agreement is put into treaty form?

Actually, every treaty works havoc with our laws because our constitution makes a ratified treaty the law itself, including an act of Congress. Therefore, treaties should be ratified sparingly and with great caution. By this treaty the USSR would be given more sanctuaries from which they will be working to destroy us. Already Soviet diplomats and Soviet UN officials are committing espionage on mountainous scales. Why should we, as Mr. Hoover so effectively said, make it easier for them?

Yet, when these elemental facts are presented for the protection of the United States, and when veteran Senators speak out against this mischievous treaty, an important sector of the American press takes the position that "rightists" oppose the Consular Treaty.

Thus, again, the point is being hammered into the vernacular that to oppose Soviet rule is to engage in "right-wing" activity. Obviously, it is calculated to scare off resistance in the months and years ahead.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Social Harmony Contract: 'I Shall Not Compel You...'

By SAM CAMPBELL Business Editor

Some concerns invite the public to do business with them. Some churches invite the public to come in and hear the sermon.

In some places, the public is welcome.

Not so with this column. I don't care whether the public reads it or not. I don't write it for the public. I write for one person only. That person is you, the reader.

You are not one of the masses to me. You are not a cell in the great body politic. You are not a sub-organism in a greater social organism. You are an individual — that which cannot be divided.

You came into the world alone. You will go out alone. You will stand before the judgment seat of God alone. So in between those events, it would be unrealistic to presume that you are a segment of some super-animate.

You Are Unique

How do I know exactly who you are? Oh, I know all right. You are a person who is different from every other person who was ever born. You have a different thought pattern. You have needs, and desires. You are unique. You never have been duplicated, and cannot be.

How can I fail to recognize you — you are so different.

Now, since you are so different from everyone else and so different from me, how are we going to get along.

You know, I have rather set ideas on how schools should be run. I have rather set ideas on the coffee I like to drink. On Sunday afternoons — after lunch — I like to lie down on the livingroom floor and read the funny papers. My wife puts up with that peculiarity.

Maybe you think lying around the floor looks undignified. Maybe the funny papers bore you. Undoubtedly, if you drink coffee at all, you prefer your own brand.

Let Us Reason

Now, my friend, let us be reasonable with one another. There is no reason I should force my program off on you. There is no cause that makes me ask you to pay for my indulgences. I therefore make you this promise. I shall seek no law that compels you to a rug siesta, nor to read the funny papers, nor to buy my brand of coffee, nor to subsidize my kind of schooling, nor to do any other thing that I like, nor pay for anything that I consume.

Of course, I am concerned also not only about you, but also about the bum — the kind of a fellow who wouldn't send his kids to school unless he were compelled to do so, the chap who doesn't have the good taste to know a 15-cent demi-

HUMPHREY KIN LANDS CUSHY POSTAL JOB (Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter)

"These opportunities (for summer jobs) will be given, so far as this is practicable, to boys and girls under 21 who need them the most because of economic or educational disadvantages." — President Lyndon B. Johnson, May 22, announcing the start of the youth opportunity campaign, a part of the poverty program.

"We won't want to look at this program as a way to take care of the family." — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, June 16, in an interview in the Des Moines Register in which he criticized the post-office department for handing out summer jobs as Democratic patronage.

Blandly ignoring these high-sounding words by President Johnson and himself, Vice President Humphrey has set up his nephew with a cushy summer postal job with a guarantee of hours worked and salary. Employment of the nephew, Ralph Gosch, has forced regular employees of the small Huron, S. D., postoffice to take a cut in their working hours, and therefore a reduction in pay. Gosch has been given this working guarantee: a 40 hour week, at $2.37 an hour.

The nephew of South Dakota Democratic Chairman Clem Noonan is also working at the Huron postoffice under the same guarantee. Both youngsters are college students and neither is known to be in financial need qualifying them for jobs under the so-called youth opportunity program.

tasse of coffee from a dime cup, who lacks the intellectual equipment to savour the Sunday comics, etc.

What are you and I going to do about him?

Leave Him Alone

Himmmmmm. Will you permit me to make a suggestion?

Let's leave him alone. If you get a chance to help his kids, do so as you please. I'll make it a point to do the same whenever I can. But I believe it is best if I refrain from urging any law to compel him because, if I did, it might interfere with the live-and-let-live, pay-your-own-way arrangement between you and me.

There is more to be gained for peace and harmony. In my opinion, if I refrain not only from bothering you but also that might in time mistakenly be used against each of us, if that is not reasonable, please let me know.

WASHINGTON:

Gemini May Help All Mankind

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — Gemini may do far more than pave the way for a moon trip. The Gemini-Apollo programs likely will lead to experiments that could change things greatly in farming, fishing and mining.

These experiments probably will be conducted in a series of manned satellite laboratories developed as follow-ups to Apollo. They would orbit the earth at distances of 200 to 23,000 miles.

The ideas listed are merely dreams now in the heads of technical men in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and industry. That is, they haven't yet been O.K.'d for testing. But scientifically they're not 'way out.' They are probably within the U.S. technical ability in the next 10 years.

Here then are some of the possibilities as outlined by Theodore George, chief of systems engineering, Office of Advanced manned Mission Studies, at NASA:

Satellite picture surveys of major farm areas for the worldwide prediction of yields early in the crop year. Farmers, wholesalers and retail merchants would then be able to take early action on shortages or surpluses.

Other satellite picture surveys might identify important plant diseases in the early stages of their spreading over crop areas. If disease centers and the rate at which the diseases were spreading could be quickly determined, the door would be open to more efficient control.

Satellites probably could measure the moisture of the soil worldwide at periodic intervals to aid in determining planting and growing conditions.

Satellites might prove efficient for discovering forest fires in isolated regions. Such fires sometimes burn for days and get out of control before being located.

Satellites may eventually be able to help fishermen increase their hauls. The technical men want to run space experiments that would measure the direction and velocity of ocean currents and the variation of temperatures at the surface of the sea. Satellites theoretically should be able to detect and measure the movement of major schools of fish.

These gains, of course, are above the savings to farmers and fishermen that will come through the more accurate long-range weather forecasts weather satellites will turn out.

It should be possible by satellite to discover probable large ore bodies which are not too far underground—such as the major beds in Labrador and Venezuela.

Such satellites would also make worldwide geological mapping possible. These maps would give geologists some of the clues they need finding new petroleum pools and beds of mineral deposits.

Some of the best amateur golfers in the nation will be front and center at Pampa Country club Friday. The amateurs will get in a practice round or two and then step to the firing line Saturday for the start of the annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament.

Weather A Problem

Golfers will play in the rain (not too heavy) but not lightning. The weather doesn't look good over the weekend with the forecast calling for showers.

Spectators are welcome and if you happen to be a duffer, that's someone who doesn't play too well, this would be an ideal time to watch and maybe you can figure out what you're doing wrong.

Have you read Sonny Liston's latest book, "The Making of a Champion," or "My Ten Ways to Hold Your Title." Sunday an all-star softball game will be played at the Industrial League park.

A team composed of Pampa News players will host Channel 10 TV in a game due to hold a lot of surprises. What kind we don't know.

From the "Eye" station the likes of Roy McCoy, who runs through a sports show each night, Chief Proud Eagle, the kiddie show idol, will be on hand to display their ball playing talents.

On Monday the Pampa Rifle and Pistol Club, Muzzle loader division, will sponsor a Black Powder Shoot at the Pampa outdoor range.

The range is located eight miles east of Pampa on highway 60. At this point you turn left on the gravel road and follow the main road. If you observe the range markers you can't miss.

Have you read this book..... "The Making of a President", by Thomas E. Dewey.

Harvesters Have Pride

At present the Pampa Harvesters have more get up and go and pride than any team we've seen in a long time.

This is always a pleasant sight. The Harvesters will have a good team, but just how many games they will win only time can tell.

Coach Eural Ramsey isn't down-in-the-mouth, and doesn't have the crying towel out.

"We've looked pretty good in practice, we need experience and as we get it I think we'll continue to improve," Ramsey said.

Ramsey feels if his Harvesters develop they will surprise a few folks.

"Our backs have been slow in adjusting to the type of offense we plan to run but they can do it," the coach observed.

One switch has been made in the practice sessions. Roy Harper, an end last year will go at quarterback spot for the Harvesters.

Be sure to look for this new book, "How to Take a Punch", by Floyd Patterson.

And before the letters start, no we are not avoiding the Junior High Schools, but to comply with the policy of coach Ramsey, publicity will be curtailed somewhat.

Ramsey makes a good point saying that, a lot of publicity too early does more harm than good.

Pre-game and after-game stories will be carried and shortly we will have a roundup on the Junior High teams.

The next time you go to the library check this one out..... "The Benefits of Silence," by Cassius Clay and this one..... "Witty Remarks," by Lyndon B. Johnson.

Bucks Still Best In District 2-A

By RON CROSS
News Sports Editor

WHITE DEER (Sp.)—Things haven't changed much at White Deer since last year. Colie Huffman is still football coach and he still has some mighty fine football players.

Huffman, in fact, seems to have about the best players in District 2-A and although, he won't admit it, he won't deny it either.

Huffman returns nine starters, but only eight will be available for duty with the Bucks during 1965.

The ninth one, Otto Wheeler, an end last year, is in Highland General hospital, suffering from Mononucleosis. Wheeler was also quite a track star this summer.

Huffman, who posted a 9-2 record last year and won district laurels, hopes to repeat this in 1965.

"We have experience," Huffman admits, but adds, "we have no speed. We'll have a better idea after Friday night what we might be able to do this year."

Friday night the Bucks open the 1965 football season by traveling to Boys Ranch.

One switch Huffman has made already has moved Gary Smith, who at 170 pounds, played guard last year and will be in the backfield for the Bucks this year.

Three more linemen who started in '64 return to help the Bucks cause.

Back is Burl Pipes, a guard weighing in at 138 pounds; Monty Hawpe, a senior end at 176 pounds; Charles Smith, a tackle and 185 pound senior.

Danny Love, a 240-pound guard, who started only on defense last year is also back as is Donald Williams, who played offensive center at 175 pounds.

In the backfield the Bucks are loaded with veterans Calvin Luman, a 145 pound junior, Randy Elliott, a 150 pound junior; Vernon Marlar, a 180 pound junior and Smith.

Eight other lettermen return to give the Bucks a lot of depth, but not as much as Huffman would like.

Other lettermen returning are: Gary Stewart, a 158 pound junior guard; Phil Hart, a 140 pound back; John Mooney, a 210 pound senior tackle; Kenny Carter, a 164 pound junior center;

Rondel Alexander, a senior back at 135 pounds; Larry Bates, a 204 pound senior tackle; Ronnie Anderson, an end and 135 pound junior and Steve Thomas a 120 pound junior back.

Add it all up and you have the Bucks as the favorites in District 2-A.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Pirates, Cardinals Have Pennant Hopes

By United Press International
The Pittsburgh Pirates are through helping the other National League contenders catch up. Now they have their own designs on the pennant.

The streaking Pirates, who have captured 10 of their last 11 games, jerked the league lead out from under Los Angeles Wednesday night by beating Dodger ace Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, enabling the Cincinnati Reds to take over first place.

By whipping the Dodgers twice, 3-2 in 11 innings and 2-1, the fifth-place Pirates moved within 2½ games of the top and hurled the NL race into a chaotic state rivaling the 1964 stretch drive.

Even seventh-place St. Louis was left only eight games behind in the wake of the benevolent Pirates' sweep.

Cincinnati came from behind in the ninth inning of the first game for a 7-6 verdict over the Braves, then blanked Milwaukee 2-0 on the five-hit hurling of Jim Maloney, putting the Reds on top by one percentage point.

The Cardinals shut out Chicago 9-0, New York whipped Houston 4-1 then lost an 8-5 decision to the Astros in the second game. San Francisco at Philadelphia was postponed because of rain and rescheduled as part of a doubleheader this afternoon.

The Pirates handed Koufax his third straight loss with a two out walk in the 11th followed by Jim Pagliaroni's run-scoring double then trumped Drysdale, who hasn't beaten a first division team in six weeks with two singles in the eighth and a ground ball which shortstop Maury flung boosted.

Koufax, as expected, broke his own National League strikeout record of 306, fanning 10 Pirates to increase his season's total to 313 — just 35 short of Bob Feller's major league mark. The Dodger southpaw allowed eight hits as he failed for the fifth time to win his 22nd. He is 21-7.

Vern Law scattered seven hits to win his 16th game and eighth straight in the nightcap. Joe Gibbon worked the final six innings of the opener, allowing three hits, to win his fourth game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are through helping the other National League contenders catch up. Now they have their own designs on the pennant.

The streaking Pirates, who have captured 10 of their last 11 games, jerked the league lead out from under Los Angeles Wednesday night by beating Dodger ace Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, enabling the Cincinnati Reds to take over first place.

By whipping the Dodgers twice, 3-2 in 11 innings and 2-1, the fifth-place Pirates moved within 2½ games of the top and hurled the NL race into a chaotic state rivaling the 1964 stretch drive.

Even seventh-place St. Louis was left only eight games behind in the wake of the benevolent Pirates' sweep.

Cincinnati came from behind in the ninth inning of the first game for a 7-6 verdict over the Braves, then blanked Milwaukee 2-0 on the five-hit hurling of Jim Maloney, putting the Reds on top by one percentage point.

The Cardinals shut out Chicago 9-0, New York whipped Houston 4-1 then lost an 8-5 decision to the Astros in the second game. San Francisco at Philadelphia was postponed because of rain and rescheduled as part of a doubleheader this afternoon.

The Pirates handed Koufax his third straight loss with a two out walk in the 11th followed by Jim Pagliaroni's run-scoring double then trumped Drysdale, who hasn't beaten a first division team in six weeks with two singles in the eighth and a ground ball which shortstop Maury flung boosted.

Koufax, as expected, broke his own National League strikeout record of 306, fanning 10 Pirates to increase his season's total to 313 — just 35 short of Bob Feller's major league mark. The Dodger southpaw allowed eight hits as he failed for the fifth time to win his 22nd. He is 21-7.

Vern Law scattered seven hits to win his 16th game and eighth straight in the nightcap. Joe Gibbon worked the final six innings of the opener, allowing three hits, to win his fourth game.

Area Grid Teams Open Friday Night

Three area football teams kick-off the 1965 football season a week early Friday.

Defending 2-A champ White Deer journeys to Boys Ranch, McLean hosts Shamrock and in a switch of playing sites Stinnett hosts Canadon.

McLean head man, Fred Hedgecocke, facing a rebuilding job after losing 11 players from his 1964 squad, sends his young chargers against a so-so Shamrock team.

The Tigers return only four boys from last year, two seniors one junior and one sophomore.

White Deer, expected to repeat its form of a year ago, which saw the Bucks run to a 9-2 record and the championship has eight starters from both offense and defense returning.

Coach Colie Huffman has depth and experience but, according to Huffman, very little speed.

Gary Smith, a guard last year, has been moved to a half-back spot. The Bucks are strong in the backfield spot with three other starters among the backfield corps.

Also back is Donald Williams, a 175 pound senior, who was last year's starting center and defensive guard Danny Lane, a 240-pounder.

Canadian coach Dwain Currie is optimistic, saying his Wildcats could be tough if they develop.

Currie has four starters back from a team that finished 3-6 a year ago.

Five other lettermen also return.

The Wildcats had to change their opener from the home court to Stinnett because construction on a building has not been completed.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

'Magic Number' For Minnesota Is Now 21

By United Press International
The Minnesota Twins have reached the point where they have a realistic "magic number" which will clinch their first American League pennant.

It's 21 and it means that any combination of Minnesota victories and Chicago White Sox or Baltimore Oriole losses which total 21 will clinch the flag for the Twins.

The "magic number" to eliminate the Cleveland Indians is 19 and the number that will end it all for the Detroit Tigers is 18.

Here's how the magic number works in practical terms: —If the Twins win 14 of their remaining 27 games, the White Sox would have to win 23 of their last 29 games to tie.

—Assuming the same 14-13 pace for the Twins, the Orioles would have to win 27 of their final 33 games to tie.

—Again giving the Twins that 14-13 closing pace, the Indians would have to take 26 of 30 and the Tigers 26 of 29 to tie.

Countdown Continues
The inexorable countdown toward a Minnesota pennant continued Wednesday night when the Twins beat the Tigers 5-2 while the White Sox and Orioles were rained out and the Indians lost to the Kansas City Athletics 4-3. That gave the Twins an eight-game lead over the White Sox, a 10½ game margin over the Orioles, and an 11-game bulge over the Tigers.

The Washington Senators shaded the Boston Red Sox 3-7 and the Los Angeles Angels topped the New York Yankees 7-6 in 12 innings in other AL action.

Grabs Ninth Victory
Jim Perry went eight innings to win his ninth game for the Twins with ninth-inning relief help from Al Worthington. The Twins went off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning with a double by Tony Oliva and a single by Earl Battey the key blows and added single tallies in the third and sixth innings. Ray Oyler's two-run homer accounted for the Tigers' runs in the second inning.

Bill Bryan hit a 450-foot three-run homer in the second inning to give the Athletics a lead they never lost. John O'Donoghue went 6-1-3 in his eighth game while Luis Tiant suffered his ninth loss for the Indians. Wayne Causey also homered for Kansas City.

Don Lock drove in three runs with a homer and two singles to lead the Senators' 12-run attack that brought relief pitcher Ron Kline his seventh win in his club-record 65th relief appearance of the season. Frank Malzone homered for the Red Sox.

Jose Cardenal singled home Bob Rodgers with two out in the 12th to give the Angels their victory over the Yankees, who dropped two games under .500 and 18½ games out of first place. The blow came off Pedro Ramos, who had taken over in the seventh while Aubrey Gatewood received credit for the victory. The Yankees committed seven errors.

Roseboro Files Suit Against Giants Pitcher
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Attorney Leo Branton Jr. has filed a $110,000 suit for Los Angeles Dodger catcher John Roseboro against Juan Marichal and the San Francisco Giants.

Branton said he filed the assault and battery complaint in Roseboro's behalf Wednesday, naming both the Giant pitcher and the National Exhibition Co., which operates the Giants.

The suit asks $10,000 in general damages and $100,000 in exemplary and punitive damages.

Police Officers Holding Town in Military Grip

PLYMOUTH, N. C. (UPI) — A small army of police officers held this town in a military-like grip Wednesday and quickly put down two civil rights marches that threatened to touch off new racial disturbances.

Roadblocks were maintained to watch for armed Ku Klux Klansmen and a close check was kept on the Negro district.

Fast moving officials managed to prevent an all-out clash between Negroes and Klansmen Tuesday, but a running street fight between maverick bands of Negroes and whites left one white wounded by gunfire and another suffering knife wounds.

A Negro was arrested Wednesday and charged with the shooting.

The Eastern North Carolina town, with a population of about 5,000, is one of the "target" communities that Dr. Martin Luther King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) has singled out for demonstrations.

Negroes have presented a long list of demands — including a request that voter registration periods be liberalized and that the Klan be outlawed.

Another "powder keg" southern town Wednesday was the historic city of Natchez, Miss. There, too, heavy police guards patrolled the streets and the National Guard reportedly was ready to move on a moments notice.

Civil rights leader Charles Evers, whose integrationist brother was killed by a sniper two years ago, wired President Johnson Tuesday that "the starving, desperate, and hopeless segments of the Negro population of Natchez have armed themselves with rifles and pistols."

The Natchez crisis was touched off by the bombing last week of a car belonging to Negro leader George Metcalfe, who was injured in the blast.

At Philadelphia, Miss., two white civil rights workers — one of them a state legislator from Massachusetts — were arrested when they refused to leave the Neshoba County Courthouse, where they had gone to observe voter registration.

The two were identified as Dave Vigneault, 28, a state representative from Springfield, Mass., and James Donovan, 29, of Boston.

Chicago Demonstrators Arrested

Other developments:

—Thirteen persons were arrested and eight injured Tuesday night in a noisy civil rights demonstration outside the apartment of Chicago School Supt. Benjamin C. Willis.

—A gang of 15 Negro and Puerto Rican youths driving four cars attacked five white teen-agers Tuesday night and beat them with bicycle chains and auto antennas on a Queens-N.Y. street corner.

—Five Negroes were enrolled without incident Wednesday at two previously all-white schools in Bogalusa, La., scene of racial strife earlier this summer.

—The leader of the Black Muslims, Elijah Muhammad, said Wednesday in Chicago it was "the blood-thirsty white policeman" who caused the Los Angeles riots.

—South Carolina admitted 600 more Negroes to previously white schools, bringing the total of Negroes admitted to white classes in the state this fall to 2,500.

—School desegregation continued peacefully in Mississippi with nearly 100 Negro children registering to attend classes with white children in Jackson.

SHADOW OF ACTIONS TO COME — This newsmap illustrates the classic maneuver employed by the U. S. Marines in their recent assault on a Viet Cong troop concentration on Chu Lai peninsula in South Viet Nam. The Marines used all the modern weapons of land, sea and air warfare to encircle the Red guerrillas with sweeping pincers movements. This successful maneuver, with modifications dictated by local conditions, may be the forerunner of similar actions against Red staging areas. In addition to the units listed on the map, the U. S. landing team of 3,200 ground combat personnel included the 2nd Battalion, 12th Marines (Artillery) and the 1st Marine Air Wing. The Army furnished armed helicopters and observation planes and other amphibious ships included USS Bayfield, Talladega, Cabildo, Point Defiance and the Vernon City.

Speculation on New Secretary Centers on Negro-Official

Works Project Action Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was asked Wednesday to take the first step toward realization of the biggest public works project in history—a $100 billion plan to tap Arctic water resources.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, introduced a resolution requesting that an economic and engineering study be made by the end of next year.

The resolution also would ask the President to refer the matter to the International Joint Commission and to invite Canada to join in the study.

The project, as originally proposed by a Los Angeles engineering firm, would include a vast network of canals and other waterworks stretching across Canada, and into 33 states of the United States, including Alaska.

"It would be history's biggest public works program," Moss told the Senate. "It would cost $100 billion and it would take 30 years to build."

The super water plan has been called the North American Water and Power Alliance (NAWAPA) and has been under study by a special Senate subcommittee headed by Moss. It was proposed by the Ralph M. Parsons Co. of Los Angeles.

Moss said the diversion of water from the Arctic would be a "major contribution" to the solution of water problems in Canada, the United States and Mexico.

"Diversion of millions of acre-feet of fresh water, which now flow into the Pacific Ocean, to the arid and semi-arid regions of these three great nations must come if we are to survive," Moss said. "NAWAPA water supplies for 100 years or more."
