Police Claim Victory in L.A. Roiting

Violence Appears To Be Over in Troubled Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago's West Side story, one of violence and inflamed tension—appeared all but over today. Negroes gathered in groups of 10 or 12 on the street during the night but police quickly moved into break them up. Some residents of the neighborhood still seemed to chafe at the presence of large numbers of policemen. But debris had been swept from the streets and police, with the backing of 2,000 National Guardsmen on standby alert, restored virtual quiet to the scene of three nights of riots and disorder. "We've had no incidents or unusual disturbances," Deputy Police Supt. John Ascher said. "Some of the regular neighborhood stuff, but that's about it." Police patrols still roamed the neighborhood and Pulaski road—one of the thoroughfares that filled with bands of bottle-throwing Negroes Thursday and Friday nights — was cordoned off at sunset Sunday.

Reds to Profit From Race Riots

Johnson City, Tex. (UPI) — The spectre of a huge Communist propaganda harvest from the nation's weekend of racial violence brought gloom to the LBJ Ranch today. President Johnson is deeply concerned about the effects of rioting in Los Angeles and Chicago and a lesser outbreak in Springfield, Mass. He is worried not only about the immediate casualties and millions of dollars in damage, but also the damage done overseas to the American posture, particularly in Southeast Asia. Johnson's concern was clearly evident in a long statement he issued Sunday from his ranch where he spent the weekend. The President planned to fly back to Washington late today.

The increasingly ugly story of death, injury and destruction in the Negro districts of Los Angeles overshadowed and depressed Johnson's weekend. He remained in virtual seclusion on the ranch Saturday and Sunday, passing up church in Johnson City and foregoing his favorite sport of boating on nearby lake waters. As he studied a steady stream of reports from his staff in Washington and the Justice Department, keeping abreast of the disorders. He said that while what happened in Los Angeles could happen elsewhere, the overriding consideration was that the killing and looting in the California metropolis stemmed from "a violent breach of rooted American principles."

Pampa Escapes Violent Weather

Fair to partly cloudy weather with temperatures in the low 90s was forecast for Pampa and vicinity for Tuesday. The Panhandle area was one of the few parts of Texas that was spared violent weather Saturday and Sunday nights. Violent weather lashed widely-separated parts of Texas Sunday with hail, 80 mile-an-hour winds, a tornado and driving rains. In the Big Bend country, the rain broke open a dam and sent floodwaters sweeping across the countryside. More thundershowers rumbled over the western edge of Texas and the Panhandle, today and forecasters predicted they would spread across the rest of the state. An early fog hovered over Southeast Texas. The U.S. Weather Bureau called for higher temperatures in northern parts of Texas, but cool weather caused by shower activity was expected to continue in other areas. Overnight lows ranged from 63 at Dalhart and Amarillo to 80 in Galveston. Continued rainfall was expected to hold the mercury down through Saturday. There was a chance for thundershowers to hit almost every part of the state before the week's end. A funnel plunged from heavy clouds 20 miles northwest of Beeville late Sunday but did no damage. The area between Beeville and Corpus Christi was under heavy thunderstorms at the time. Chase Auxiliary Naval Air Station at Beeville reported the funnel. West and Southwest Texas got the heaviest rains with three inches or more common. The driving rains broke open a 10-foot gap of the Moss Creek Dam near Alpine in the Big Bend Country. Many homes had from a foot to 15 inches of water in them and five feet of water flowed across some highways in Brewster County. Traffic carrying hundreds of onlookers hindered the situation a bit. Floodwaters are rare in Brewster County. It is not only Texas' biggest county but one of the driest. Ranchers and farmers said four inches of rain that fell in the area around Post, in the South Plains, would help cotton and sorghum. Children got almost two inches and "exceptionally heavy" rains soaked Andrews. Many roofs were damaged and crops (See ESCAPES, Page 3)

Communist Terrorists Bomb Police Building

SAIGON (UPI) — A gang of Communist terrorists, using an American automobile and two women as decoys, today machine-gunned and bombed Saigon's national police headquarters compound. The daring and well-timed attack killed at least four policemen and injured 21 others, including 6 Americans. The terrorists, carrying explosives into the police compound in a military jeep and another car, escaped after both cars exploded, according to Vietnamese police. The Americans injured in the bold attack included a special forces captain, a military police lieutenant attending a meeting at the headquarters and two MP sergeants injured while aiding others amid the concrete, glass and metal debris. Two American civilians injured were identified as employees of the U.S. aid mission. The apparently fuse-set explosions destroyed one building and three police vehicles, started fires within the compound and shattered windows in buildings more than 100 yards away. It was the first terrorist bombing in Saigon since the June 25 raid on the My Canh floating restaurant which killed 42 persons, including 12 Americans.

As reconstructed by Vietnamese police, two women, presumably Vietnamese, distracted the attention of police guards by engaging them in conversation near the gate. Another car, a Chevrolet, was driven into a no parking zone to attract attention of other police stationed outside the compound. Terrorists in a fourth car waited nearby to open the attack. While police talked with the women, the military jeep, whose driver appeared to be in uniform, and another automobile, also believed to be an American car, drove through the open gate. The women then strolled off and the waiting terrorists, passing in their car, opened fire with machineguns and other arms. Three policemen fell dead. The terrorists fired two green smoke grenades to screen themselves from counter fire. The terrorists who drove the two cars into the compound apparently escaped during the confusion. They had parked their vehicles near the building housing the office of the national police director. National Police Director Lt. Col. Pham Van Lieu was not injured but the windows of his stucco villa inside the compound shattered from the impact. A building next to his offices was destroyed.

Coroner's Verdict Due On Coeds Cause of Death

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Justice of the Peace Jerry Delanna will return a coroner's verdict today which is expected to indicate two slain University of Texas coeds were strangled. James C. Cross Jr., 22, of Fort Worth confessed to strangling the girls, Susan Riggsby and Shirley Ann Stark, both 21, of Dallas. The Travis County (Austin) Grand Jury is expected to return an indictment, probably Thursday, against Cross. The Grand Jury heard evidence in the case last week but did not talk with Cross. After seeing Cross several times, his lawyer, Roy Minton said Cross was "despondent and very much concerned." "He is primarily concerned with the grief he has caused his parents," Minton said. "He has mentioned this every day I have talked to him."

Two psychiatrists have examined Cross since he was arrested Aug. 6. Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell will seek the death penalty for Cross. He said he hopes to have indictments in time for an Aug. 26 trial docket call by Judge Mace Thurman.

Killed July 18 Miss Stark and Miss Riggsby drove to Austin from Dallas July 18. Their decomposed bodies were found in a weed-covered field north of Austin July 30. Cross told police he had been having dreams having to do with sexual experiences. The girls' Cross is charged with slaying went to Cross' apartment to take showers and change clothes. He is accused of strangling both as they emerged from the shower.

TERROR IN LOS ANGELES REVIEWED

Trouble Started With Arrest of Drunks

By AL KUETTNER
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The time was 7:19 p.m. The day, Aug. 11, in the nation's third largest city had been a hot one but with the setting of the sun the temperature was beginning to edge down from the day's high of 94. In the project-type apartments and small houses along Avalon Avenue in the Watts district of south-central Los Angeles, it was just the end of another hot day — in a hot neighborhood that was packed with Negroes. That day in Washington, the U.S. Senate had passed a bill to create a new department of urban affairs, an agency that would consider the problems of such communities. In Birmingham, Ala., Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was telling a convention of the civil rights movement that trouble might break out at any time in the big cities of America. At first hardly anyone noticed the state highway patrol car that stopped an automobile at the intersection of Avalon and 116th. The troopers, Lee Minikus and Bob Lewis, were making a routine stop of two Negroes suspected of drunken driving. They encountered resistance. The torrent of words between officers and suspects grew louder, soon attracting a small crowd. The troopers requested help. City officers who responded were pelted with a few rocks. That was the way it started. Before the calm was restored five days later — if indeed the end had come — Los Angeles had gone through its worst ordeal within memory of anyone alive. Rioting that spread like a forest fire swept a 50-square mile area. At least 33 persons were dead and hundreds were wounded or injured by sniper fire and broken glass. Property damage was probably beyond the $100 million mark. Tensions spread to surrounding communities. An officer was killed in one disturbance at Long Beach 25 miles to the south. Sporadic outbreaks flared in other Southern California communities. The Monday morning quarter-backs — in this case the community, state and Negro leaders — were busy today trying to establish cause and cure. For insurance adjusters and businessmen, the evidence was staggering: The blackened ruins of thriving businesses, gutted by fires set from Molotov cocktails; shelves emptied by looters or seared by flames. When the worst was over, a Negro lawyer, James Tolbert, was summoned to a jail where many of the more than 1,200 arrested were behind bars. "What happened?" Tolbert asked a young Negro held on suspicion of murder. "I don't know. I just don't know," the Negro replied. The man's words were to burst from many lips before the investigation into the tragedy of Watts was ended. This was a community that had apparently been building for trouble a long time without city fathers fully recognizing it. Not many years ago the area was almost rural by today's standards and the Negroes who lived there had plenty of room. They raised chickens, vegetables and children. They wrote back home to Alabama and Mississippi that they thought California was a fine place. Then came World War II, an event that set southern Negroes on the move as never before. They came west in droves — to be near servicemen or to get the good jobs then opening up. Most of them moved into Watts, crowding in with uncles and brothers. Economic and social problems expanded rapidly in the area, 10 miles south of downtown Los Angeles, rimmed on one side by the harbor freeway which speeds traffic at high speed south of Long Beach and the Los Angeles harbor area. The Watts community has had sporadic social service attention but nothing on a massive scale. Police records showed all forms of crime were much higher there than in the (See TROUBLE, Page 2)

Trouble

"The key word in Watts is hopelessness," Tolbert, a former resident in the area and a probation officer for five years, said.

The social reports would be written later. For the present, the stark memory of four days of "hellish insurrection," as one official put it, gripped the city.

It was not safe to be on the streets in many areas after dark. A curfew buttoned up the most critical zone but families barricaded their doors miles out of the danger section.

Until National Guardsmen were called out on Saturday, police were helpless to control the pillage. A precinct headquarters on 103rd St. was under siege while rioters sacked every store in a three-block section of the street.

Item: Notes from UPI reporters on the scene: Nick Beck (injured by rioters): "By 11:30 p.m. on Wednesday the crowd had swelled to about 600, mostly young. There were many well-dressed college types. The mood seemed to be rather frivolous. Lots of laughing."

"Then a free-lance photographer named Eric Silver tried to back his car out of a gas station. When he asked some Negroes to move, one of them hit him on the head. A policeman moved in and the incident was over."

"Then a rock was lobbed into the street. It hit a CBS mobile unit. It looked like another isolated case but the stuff started flying faster. By midnight the mood of the crowd was ugly and getting worse fast."

Browns Show '64 Power

By United Press International
Washed up? Not the Cleveland Browns, who are continuing where they left off last season when they won the National Football League championship.

Cleveland added fuel to the fire by putting on an average performance against the College All-Stars recently. The Browns took a 17-3 lead into the dressing room at halftime but eventually had to sweat out a 24-16 triumph.

Against the 49ers, Ryan threw two TD strikes to Gary Collins and Lou Groza accounted for three field goals and four extra points. Ryan and relief quarterback Jim Ninowski punctured the San Francisco defense for 305 yards and rolled up another 95 on the ground. Collins caught a pair of 34-yard aerials for scores and Groza kicked three pointers of 25, 51 and 27 yards.

The Cleveland defense actually allowed only one touchdown. The 49ers scored on a 52-yard pass interception by Jim Johnson, a 63-yard run with a recovered fumble by Kermit Alexander and a six-yard offensive burst by Dave Kopay.

'Big Bats' Closing In On LA as Drysdale Loses

By United Press International
The "big bats" are closing in on the Los Angeles Dodgers—and could it be that one half of the Dodgers' great 1-2 pitching combination is beginning to feel the strain?

The "Big D" of the Dodger staff has pitched only two complete games in his last six starts. He had an imposing 15-8 record on July 19 but it now stands 16-11. He's been the losing pitcher in the Dodgers' last three defeats and he hasn't beaten to a first-division team since July 6.

Drysdale was tagged for nine hits and four runs in six innings Sunday when the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Dodgers 4-2. The Braves climbed to within 1 1/2 games of first place with a 4-3 win over the Chicago Cubs and the San Francisco Giants moved to within 2 1/2 games of the leaders when they clobbered the Philadelphia Phillies 15-9.

The St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Cincinnati Reds 12-7 and the New York Mets defeated the Houston Astros 3-0 in other National League games.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

No Competition For Minnesota in AL Race

By United Press International
The Minnesota Twins have reached that stage of the American League pennant countdown when they win even when they lose.

retained an eight-game lead. By winning half of their remaining 44 games they will reach the 97-victory mark. To surpass that total, their closest rivals — the Indians and Tigers — would have to play better than .700 ball.

Time is the front-runners' ally — they can rock along at .500 and laugh it up as long as no contenders mount a streak. And in the AL this year, there is no evidence that any of the contenders is beginning to mount that streak.

Jim Grant picked up his 15th victory of the season for the Twins in the opener — a 1-0 game into the ninth before the Twins won, 4-3. Don Mincher doubled home two runs and scored on Jimmie Hall's single to make it 4-0 in the top of the ninth but Al Worthington had to come out of the bullpen to save Grant when the Indians rallied for three runs in the ninth.

Since August 1 — the date from which most late flag surges are dated — not one of the Twins' pennant rivals has played more than 600 ball. The Cleveland Indians have been 6-9, the Detroit Tigers 8-6, the Baltimore Orioles 7-9 and the Chicago White Sox 9-6.

The Indians gained a split when Leon Wagner's pinch hit homer in the 11th gave them a 6-4 triumph in the nightcap. Jack Kralick was the winner with Billy Pleis taking the defeat.

During the same stretch the Twins have won eight of 14 games. That's hardly a glamorous pace but it has cost them no more than a half game to the White Sox, who are so far out of it anyway that they're already making World Series reservations with friends on other teams.

The Senators downed the Orioles 4-2, the Tigers walloped the Angeles 9-2 and 9-5 and the White Sox topped the Red Sox 7-4. The New York Yankees? Oh yes, the forgotten team of the 1965 race split with the Kansas City A's — winning, 7-3 after a 4-1 defeat.

It was more of the same Sunday when the Twins divided a doubleheader with the Indians, the Orioles lost their third consecutive game to the Washington Senators, the Tigers downed the Los Angeles Angels twice and the White Sox scrambled for a victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Orioles dropped into fourth place when Pete Richert and Ron Kline combined in a seven-hitter against them for the Senators. Richert carried a four-hit shutout into the ninth and went 8 2-3 innings before Kline finally got the last out. Woody Held scored one run after a single and hit his 13th homer to lead the Senators' eight-hit attack.

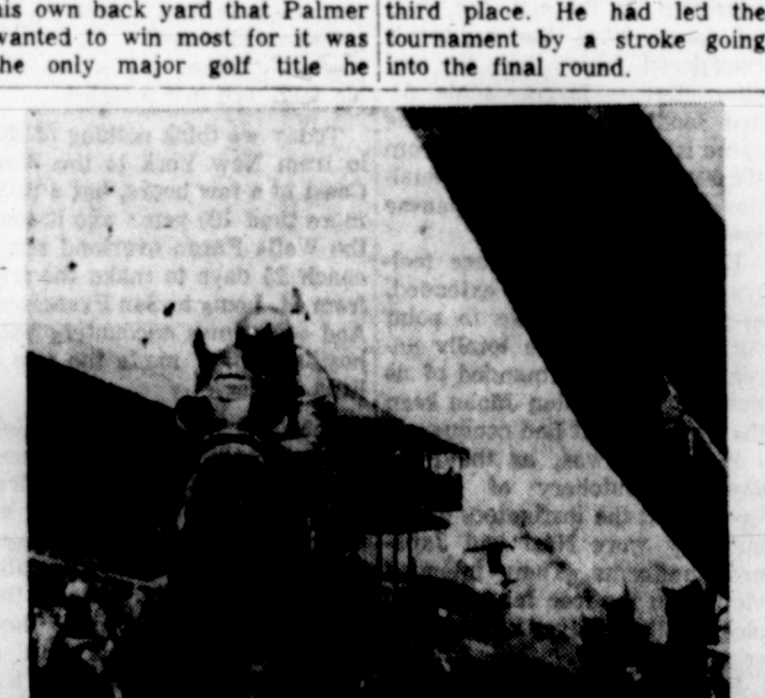

Marr To Take Over Where Arnie Left Off

LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI)—Dave Marr finally made it, just after he had decided there was too much "dog" in him ever to win a major golf championship.

never has won. He never was in contention from the time he was assessed a two-stroke penalty on the very first hole of the first day of play on Thursday and he was the first to admit that he had to make a decision.

There was no question of what Marr's winning of the PGA championship Sunday meant, as he battled down the sun-scorched Laurel Valley Golf Club to beat Masters champion Jack Nicklaus and former U.S. open champion Billy Casper by two strokes.

It's simply whether I am going to attempt to stay in big time golf or curtail my tournament playing and devote more time to my various business enterprises," said the 35-year-old Palmer. "I'll make up my mind by the first of the year."

His close friends were betting he would decide to curtail his playing because he has lost his putting touch and perhaps some of his long-time desire.

HORSEPOWER — A newsman's camera positioned under the rail at Saratoga's racetrack gets a worm's-eye view of the nag action. It's a sight only camera and worms are privileged to see, of course. People must watch from the grandstands.
