Cong High Command HQ Believed Blasted by B-52s

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from Guam today attacked the suspected headquarters of the Viet Cong high command in a jungle area 50 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

U.S. Marines opened a new offensive near the coastal city of Qui Nhon.

EXTRADITION

Connally Promises Fast Act

AUSTIN (UPI)— Gov. John Connally, who has promised speedy action on a Maryland extradition request for Madalyn Murray, said he would also consider a letter he got from the hard-talking atheist before making a decision.

Mrs. Murray, free in $500 bond in San Antonio, is wanted in Baltimore on charges she assaulted policemen. The extradition request from Maryland had not arrived when the governor's office closed Wednesday.

Mrs. Murray's letter to Connally pleaded with him to refuse to extradite her because she feared she would be murdered for her law suits against churches and public school prayer.

Her suit led to a U.S. Supreme Court ban against compulsory prayer in public schools. Another suit to require churches and other religious institutions to pay taxes on their property is still before the court.

The 46-year-old divorcee, who has described herself as the "most hated woman in the world," wrote Connally that if a request for extradition were before him "then authorities in Maryland are unscrupulously attempting to involve you in an act of religious persecution."

The letter asked mercy "for myself and my minor son, Garth, age 10, who is now with me. Please do not let them take me back to Maryland. I do not want to be murdered."

Another son, William, 19, was arrested in Wheeling, W.Va., and waived extradition to Baltimore.

Connally's office received Mrs. Murray's letter Wednesday, and a spokesman said the letter would go into the record with the extradition request when it arrived.

Torch Blast Damages Add 200-Thousand

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas (UPI)—An explosion touched off by a welding torch sent a towering mass of smoke into the skies Wednesday and caused $200,000 damage to the American Petrofina Refinery.

The welder, Otis Smith, 51, of Marietta, Tex., was critically burned, Smith and his helper were blown away from the ensuing fire by the explosion. The helper was not harmed.

Officials said five railroad tank cars were destroyed, and 10 others were heavily damaged.

Fire officials confined the fire to an emulsion and specialty plant near the loading ramp where the explosion was touched off.

"At one time I was 300 yards away when one explosion took place," a witness said. "You could feel the heat. It was just like an atomic explosion... there was tremendous heat and it jarred me."

The tank cars were filled with gasoline and various other flammables.

A UPI dispatch from An Khe, headquarters of the U.S. Army's 1st Cavalry Division (airmobile) in the central highlands 160 miles north of Saigon, disclosed four men were killed today when their UH1B crashed and burned on takeoff. It was the unit's first helicopter loss.

In Saigon, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told a get acquainted breakfast of Vietnamese newsmen and student leaders he planned to ask for more U.S. combat troops to fight in South Viet Nam. There are now about 128,000 Americans here and 11,000 more are expected shortly from Ft. Riley, Kans.

U.S. Marines disclosed the use of a new tactical weapon — smoke generators to help find Viet Cong tunnel openings. The Marines used the smoke in an operation near Da Nang to clear out a warren of tunnels along a nearby river.

No details of the B52 raid were announced. The planes, carrying out their 35th raid of the war from Guam, 2,000 miles away, hit what is known as Communist Zone C. South Vietnamese believe it houses the Viet Cong leaders who direct the fighting in South Viet Nam.

Retarded Boy Stays In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—A Michigan mother who abandoned her retarded son in hopes he would find help in a strange city left him a second time Wednesday on a judge's orders.

Mrs. Victor Thorne, 44, said she had "a little ache in my heart," but believed that leaving 13-year-old Richard in a school for retarded youths here was best for the boy.

She and her husband, a machine shop manager, went to a hotel Wednesday night to rest after a final visit with their son and then planned to return home to Troy, Mich.

Juvenile Judge Ben C. Shepard took the advice of psychiatrists who examined Mrs. Thorne in ruling Wednesday at a hearing that the boy would be put in an unidentified home in Dade County while his parents return home without him. They must pay the costs of keeping the boy in the institution.

Shepard also ordered Mrs. Thorne to continue her psychiatric treatment.

Rickey, a mute, was found a week ago Wednesday wandering alone at busy Miami International Airport. Mrs. Thorne flew here Sunday night to give herself up after the story of the unidentified "mystery boy" gained national attention.

She said she and her husband had been unable to get the kind of help they wanted for Rickey in Michigan and that she abandoned him hoping he would be found and given proper help.

LAST DAY — When Pampa Postmaster O. K. Gaylor tears off today's calendar page he uncovers not another working day but the first of those days of retirement he has promised himself to fill with fishing and other pleasurable pursuits that have "gone begging" while 43 years in the postal service claimed the bulk of his life. Tomorrow, Pampan Lynn Boyd takes over as acting postmaster awaiting the outcome of examinations for a permanent replacement.

India, Pakistan Forces Wage Heavy Fighting

KARACHI (UPI) — Pakistani troops battled Indian forces in heavy fighting today along the desert frontier between India's Rajasthan State and Pakistan's Sind Province, Radio Pakistan reported.

The broadcast said two battalions of Indian troops attacked a Pakistani post in Rajasthan early this morning in violation of the United Nations ceasefire.

An earlier broadcast said Pakistani troops pinned down an Indian battalion in the area Wednesday and killed or captured the entire unit. The report conflicted with Indian government claims made Wednesday.

Pakistan has made repeated claims that Indian forces have violated the cease-fire. The Sind desert regions occupied by Pakistan in fighting that preceded the cease-fire a week ago. Pakistan claims the Indians are trying to drive Pakistani forces from Indian soil.

Today's broadcast said U.N. truce observers have been informed of the alleged cease-fire violations.

Blaming each other for violations of the Security Council-ordered cease-fire, India and Pakistan gave no indication of abiding by the council's demand to withdraw all armed personnel from the battle-torn territory.

Before leaving for Pakistan Wednesday night, Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto said his country would not withdraw its armed forces from Kashmir unless the United Nations sent in a peace force to prevent India from moving in.

India, claiming the disputed area of Kashmir as an "integral part" of India, told the 117-member General Assembly Wednesday that the idea of withdrawing troops "is preposterous."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ten thousand police guarding the route along which Pope Paul VI will travel here Monday have strict orders to turn their backs on the pontiff. The idea is security—not discourtesy.

The police received a directive Wednesday ordering them to keep their backs to the Pope and their eyes on the crowds in front of them.

Isle of Death May Be Tomb for Thousands

By CHARLES R. SMITH

TAAL ISLAND, The Philippines (UPI) — This is an island of death. It is the tomb of perhaps 2,000 men, women and children who were buried under tons of smoking lava, ash and mud.

I landed here today more than 48 hours after Mt. Taal erupted with catastrophic force and turned the island into a hell of fire and brimstone.

FOR PAMPA Jaycees To Bid For Statewide Teenage Rodeo

Pampa Jaycees hope to bring the Texas Teen-Age Driving Rodeo to Pampa next June.

Three Pampans will go to McAllen to attend the fall board meeting and convention of Texas Jaycees' this weekend and put in Pampa's bid to host the statewide contest for teenage drivers in 1966.

Pampans at the meet will be State President A. J. Carrubi Jr. and delegates Tom Jeter, Joe Dickey and Larry Wingert. Carrubi will preside at the State Jaycee board meeting.

Approximately 1,000 Jaycee delegates and their wives are expected at the convention.

Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and past attorney general and state secretary John Ben Shepperd will be principal speakers at the convention.

Carr will address the keynote luncheon Saturday. Shepperd, a past president of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, will speak Sunday morning.

The convention opens with first business sessions tomorrow. The Pampa delegation leaves tonight and will make its bid for the rodeo late Friday.

Plans Get Start for Trade School

Plans were set in motion for the establishment of a Trade School in Pampa by the Pampa Industrial Foundation at a meeting of the group's directors this morning in the chamber of Commerce Conference Room.

The action developed following a statement by E. L. Green Jr., vice-president and regional manager of Cabot Corp., who said that the Cabot shops are in dire need of trained welders and machinists and other skilled labor. He said that Cabot could hire seventy-five of these people today if we could find them. He also added that a like number will be needed by January 1.

The meeting brought out the fact that other local businesses had similar labor problems and that if Pampa is to gain additional industry it must provide the necessary skilled labor pool.

Foundation president Frank Culbertson said that development of a Trade School should demand our immediate attention. (See PLANS, Page 3)

The official death toll stood at 145. That many bodies were found and counted. But authorities may never determine how many people are buried here.

A stream of red ants, marching diligently single file from a matchstick-size hole beside a seared coconut palm... the hoofmarks of a cow that somehow escaped... vultures circling over the carcasses of others that didn't.

These were the only signs of life I found in the area that was Kaygabok Barrio, perhaps 500 yards from the rim of the mighty Taal volcano.

There were few signs to indicate that Kaygabok had ever been a village at all.

The land that was lush and green last week is covered with a deep coat of slate gray volcanic mud and ash.

Gone are the citrus trees, the cornfields, the banana trees, the rice paddies which made Taal Island farmers a little wealthier than most of those on less-fertile land.

Near the rim of the volcano, there are few signs that anything ever had life and grew. The gaunt trunks of some of the bigger and sturdier trees dot the area, giving it an even more desolate look.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andre Gromyko have agreed to continue their support of United Nations efforts to solve the Kashmir problem.

They failed, however, at a lengthy conference Wednesday night in Rusk's hotel suite to narrow their basic differences over how to end the nuclear arms race.

Rusk and Gromyko apparently sidestepped any concrete discussion of the flaming Viet Nam issue, which Moscow has warned stands in the way of any improvement in Russian-American relations.

The Rusk-Gromyko dinner conference lasted for two hours and 50 minutes, breaking up just before 11 p.m. The two officials agreed to meet again at dinner Friday evening at the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

Gromyko told newsmen that the two principal topics of his talk with Rusk were Kashmir and disarmament. This was confirmed by Rusk's spokesman, Asst. Secretary of State James Greenfield. Neither would say whether Viet Nam was touched upon.

Defense Calls Deed 'Community Service'

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — An all-white Lowndes County jury today acquitted Thomas Coleman of the shotgun slaying of white civil rights worker Jonathan Daniels.

The jurors, most of them friends or neighbors of Coleman, deliberated a total of 1 hour and 43 minutes before returning the verdict.

Coleman, member of a prominent Lowndes County family, had been charged with first degree manslaughter in the slaying of Daniels, a 26-year-old Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H., and assault in the wounding of the Rev. Richard Morrisroe, a Roman Catholic priest from Chicago, Aug. 20.

The jurors deliberated 1 hour and 13 minutes Wednesday and 30 minutes today. The trial began Tuesday.

The first degree manslaughter charge would have carried a maximum punishment of 10 years in prison, and the wounding charge a possible one year sentence.

The jury had two versions of the civil rights shooting to consider:

By the prosecution — that Coleman took the law into his own hands when he killed Jonathan Daniels, an Episcopal seminarian from Keene, N.H., and wounded Roman Catholic Father Richard Morrisroe of Chicago outside a country store in Hayneville last Aug. 20.

By the defense — that Coleman "did what he had to do" and performed a service to the community; furthermore, that he acted in self-defense with both Daniels and Morrisroe advancing on him with an open switchblade knife and a pistol at the time he opened fire from the front door of Mrs. Virginia Varner's Cash Grocery Store.

Thagard Wednesday postponed the trial of another civil rights slaying case until Oct. 19 because of other commitments. The trial of Collie Leroy Wilkins, a Ku Klux Klansman charged with the nightmarish slaying of Detroit civil rights worker Mrs. Viola Liuzzo, had been scheduled to follow the Coleman trial. Wilkins' first trial ended in a deadlocked jury and a mistrial.

Pacific Cold Front Lowers Area Temp

By United Press International
Temperatures plunged into the upper 30s in the Texas Panhandle today in the wake of a Pacific cool front that pushed a narrow band of shower activity ahead of it deep into the state.

The latest "touch of fall" was expected to cover the entire state by Friday with clearing skies following the frontal passage.

At daybreak, the front lay along a line from Bonham to Dallas to Eagle Pass.

Behind the front Dalhart reported 39 degrees, Amarillo 42, Lubbock 48, Midland and Wichita Falls 51, El Paso and Abilene 56, and San Angelo 59. Ahead of it, skies were cloudy and readings ranged up to 76 at Galveston.

Fog restricted visibility in the College Station and Lufkin areas and rain showers were numerous spotted along and just ahead of the front from the Red River to Del Rio on the Rio Grande.

Heavy snow and driving winds stranded about 20 motorists on a mountain highway in Wyoming today. A long line of showers stretched from Texas to Wisconsin and heavy rains soaked the Gulf Coast as former tropical storm Debbie disintegrated.

The Wyoming Highway Patrol said the motorists were stranded on U. S. 30 between

Negro Group Turned From School Buses

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — State troopers today turned away a group of Negro children, some of them first and second graders, who failed for the third consecutive day to board buses bound for all-white schools in neighboring counties.

Standing in a steady rain, a highway patrol captain backed by a line of troopers confronted the Negro children and turned them back peacefully. "You're not going to ride the buses and that's it," warned Capt. Theron Aldridge.

Aldridge also warned about 100 whites present: "Let's get this straight. We're not going to have any trouble. We (the troopers) can handle this and we will and that's it."

It was the third consecutive day of racial tension in this rural northeast Georgia area where a Negro civil rights worker was roughed up Wednesday by angry whites and a Negro, teen-ager dragged from his car and assaulted until troopers rescued him.

There have been no arrests. The Negro pupils today ranged from first and second graders to teen-agers in high school. They were led by Frank Bates, 17, a Crawfordville Negro, who told Aldridge during the confrontation: The pupils wanted to ride the buses to nearby counties "so that we can get a decent education." The Negroes have boycotted their own school.

Aldridge said the Negroes have forfeited their opportunity to attend schools in neighboring Greene and Warren counties because they had failed to apply for transfers before the deadline.

Laramie and Cheyenne at the 9,000 foot level, where the storm reached blizzard conditions.

Snow was falling today in southeastern Wyoming, northeastern Colorado and the Nebraska Panhandle. Biting North Winds whipped cold rain across the Plains.

In Colorado, snow was piling up on mountain passes as temperatures dropped below freezing. Berthoud Pass was socked with seven inches of snow Wednesday and it was still snowing hard during the night.

Two weeks of snow and rain appeared to hurt chances of a good beet crop in northern Wyoming.

Omaha, Neb., Wednesday night registered 12.71 inches of rain for September, topping a record that has stood since 1883 for most rainfall in any month.

Forecasters predicted up to 3 inches of rain would fall during the night along the Elkhorn River watershed in Nebraska and warned residents of low-lying areas to prepare to leave their homes.

Heavy rains also hit the southland. Mobile, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla., were drenched with 2½ inches in six hours during the night.

Need Cited For Faster Program Of Development

POINT CLEAR, Ala. (Spl.)—If young people must leave home after their schooling to carve out careers it may mean their community is barren of new opportunities, challenges and new horizons, according to Robert P. Gerholz, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"An exodus of your youth can have serious consequences; their departure may be indicative of deficiencies in your community's livability, as well as a testimony to its lack of diversified job opportunities," he said.

Gerholz was keynote speaker at the opening session of the Alabama Real Estate Convention. He is also president of Gerholz Community Homes, Inc., Flint, Mich.

In spite of rapid technological progress, better ways of doing business and changed living patterns, "our ideas about community development haven't kept pace," he said.

"A great challenge confronts us. We need to take a space-age look and apply space-age know-how to the greatest domestic problem facing the country today — what to do about our communities."

"Today's need," Gerholz said, "is for a total balanced self-help community development program." Such an approach "means a commitment to tackle those things which need to be done for the good of the community, rather than simply taking up those things for which federal money may be easily obtained," he said.

Meredith Access Road Gets Okay

Additional access to Lake Meredith has tentatively been approved by the National Park Service, according to Mike Becker, lake superintendent.

Plans call for construction of a paved road and boat ramp with all weather parking from the city of Fritch through Harbor Bay Development and to the lake. The city would do all the construction and would maintain the road which would be built to National Park Service standards.

The road would be built from the west edge of Fritch directly to the lake. It would mean additional access to the popular lake which was visited by more than 30,000 people during one weekend last summer.

The new road would also save five to 20 miles driving for lake users from Amarillo and other cities to the south and west.

The only access presently open to the lake is at Sanford-Yake Recreation Area on the south side of the lake near the dam and at Blue-West Recreation Area on the north side of the lake and about seven miles west of the dam.

Draft Refusal Draws Two-Year Prison Term

ABILENE, Tex. (UPI)—Half-apologetically, U.S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster sentenced Tommy Gene Yarborough, 24, of Midland to two years in prison Wednesday for refusing to be drafted.

Yarborough is a member of Jehovah's witnesses, a religious group that opposes the draft. Judge Brewster could have sentenced Yarborough to a maximum of five years in prison and fined him $10,000.

A jury found Yarborough guilty in 20 minutes last week of refusing to comply with the universal military training and service act. Yarborough refused last December to be inducted.

Judge Brewster appealed to Yarborough Wednesday before sentencing him to go ahead and let himself be drafted.

"Isn't there some way you can reconcile yourself to taking your part in protecting our freedom?" Brewster asked.

"If I did so I would be compromising my way of living," Yarborough said.

Dear Abby....

Sailor Need Not Build Fence Until Snow Hits

DEAR ABBY: I'm a sailor aboard the USS Midway. I left my fiancée back in the States and we plan to get married as soon as I hit home port in San Francisco. Since our ship left the States I did my best to be true to my girl. However, after 40 days at sea we got liberty in Japan. I went on the town, had a couple of beers and "sinned" a little. (A whole lot, I think, would be more truthful.) I didn't think much of it until the guys I work with told me that I talk in my sleep, and very plainly! (Like I just come right out in plain language and tell everything.) Now I didn't intend telling my fiancée, either before or after we marry, about this little episode in Japan, but what do I do if I admit something in my sleep and my wife hears me?

CVA 41
DEAR CVA.: Don't build a snow fence until the snow hits. And if it does, don't give out with a snow job.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for two years. This is his first marriage and my second. I have a 12-year-old son who lives with his father out of the state. My present husband knew I had been married before, and he even met my son before we were engaged. He seemed to like the boy very much in the beginning, but now I can't even keep his picture in the house. I am expecting a baby next month and my husband keeps telling me that all my interests should revolve around our baby, and no other children. (Meaning my son.) Naturally, I'll love our new baby but, Abby, do you think it's fair to be expected to forget a child you have had and loved for a dozen years? My DEAR ABBY: A few nights ago I had dinner at a restaurant adjacent to a bowling alley. It was close to midnight. At the next table I noticed a young couple with a little boy who couldn't have been more than three years old. The child was wandering around aimlessly in a sleepy stupor. I remarked to one of the employees about this child being up so late and, for my horror, he told me that this couple bring the child in several nights a week and they stay until all hours.

BANISH SUMMER HAIR BLUES — Fly-away hair (inset) is sad at any age. This teen-ager, though, perks up her spirits (left) with a brisk shampoo and follows it with a hair conditioning lotion. She puts life back in her summer bedraggled hair. Damaged portion of hair absorbs amount needed and excess rinses away. A final aid to a controllable, simple hairdo is a hairspray (right) with three settings to regulate intensity of spray.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR FRIDAY, OCT. 1

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Being too outspoken and expressing your point of view with too much emphasis can get you in trouble with those who are especially sensitive today and tonight. So, if you want to sidestep some difficult situations, make sure that you speak clearly and with much tact and diplomacy and show you want to get along with everyone.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Fine ideas are excellent, provided they are practical and can be handled along with present duties. But this is fine day for planning only. Await better time to put into operation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Financial and property matters are of vital importance now, but it requires precision in the handling of such. Make sure to pay your bills. Don't disappoint a mate later, especially in finances.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Although you do not agree with what associates have in mind, better go along with them to a certain degree since they have geared up on you, more or less. Be tactful and soon all is well again.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — The best way to get others' respect is to get to work with vim and idealistic vigor. Use proper systems that are more in league with modern thinking. Become more efficient.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — In going out with others for fun, be sure you do not try to force them to your way of thinking. Don't show greediness, either. A friend of long standing could be lost.

VERGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — If you have so much business away from home, be fair and give kin glasslike excuses for work. Have a friendly discussion with them. They will then give you assistance, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Think of the welfare of allies as well if you want to make big strides forward in any ventures. Expert can give you information you need now, too. Be clever in getting things done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — While some of your partners have far better than you have, now is the time to show your enthusiasm and make up for lost time. Listen to their ideas. Follow them. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Much that you desire can be gained now, provided you are with right associates. Do not try to go it alone. The sliding may be just a little too rough.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — There are some unfavorable conditions that can be bettered through hard work, not by ignoring them. Authorities give excellent ideas. Show gratitude for them.

Mrs. Miller Hosts Group in Canadian

Food Value Study Made Of East African Animals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In East Africa, man is studying the eating habits of the animals he eats.

Two Cornell University scientists are trying to determine whether cattle or gazelle make the best use of available vegetation.

Their study, financed by a $45,000 two-year grant from the National Science Foundation, could help decide whether Kenya should encourage native game as a source of protein for an expanding population, or import cattle to improve existing strains.

The study is concerned with wildlife as a food resource.

The U.S. Government is financing other projects to help Kenya and Tanzania conserve, and possibly expand, wildlife resources that have brought in a tourist income of $32 million.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall expressed hope on one East African trip that Africa would avoid the mistake the United States made in failing to conserve the big game herds that were killed off as population expanded. He cited the buffalo.

The Cornell Scientists — nutritionist J. Thomas Reid and conservationist Oliver H. Hewitt — say there is evidence that "inefficient" African cattle are replacing the varied kinds of big game which might more efficiently produce protein from vegetation.

Reid cited an estimate in a region still wild that shows plant life supports 75,000 to 100,000 pounds of live animal in each square mile. Where cattle had replaced all the game, the weight of the animals in a square mile was reduced 11,000 to 16,000 pounds.

The Cornell project is concentrated on the Kemplains Estate at Athi River, South of Nairobi. Thomson's gazelle and native zebu cattle are being studied in fenced-in sections.

Lions and other predators will be kept away from the gazelle by a six-foot mesh fencing topped with one strand of electrified wire.

One 150-acre section is being stocked with gazelle, a second with cattle, and a third with a mixture of gazelle and cattle.

The initial number of animals selected for each section is equal in metabolic mass or calorie-converting body size.

Each paddock includes an observation post so the animals may be observed with telescopes. Randomly selected areas are enclosed so crop growth of plants can be compared to the grazed areas.

The project includes the regular analysis and measurement of vegetation in each paddock to determine changes and degree of utilization. Every six months enough animals will be culled to remove the natural weight increase and keep the metabolic mass the same in each paddock.

Periodically, animals will be captured for measuring and weighing by means of an air gun charged with anesthetics or muscular relaxants used with a spotlight at night.

All animals are to be branded or tagged at birth and the scientists will get answers to such questions as the sex ratio at birth; the length of gestation period; litter size; age at breeding time; frequency of reproduction and season of year when reproduction occurs; rate of population growth; tooth eruption and horn growth so these can be related to age and rate of body development.

Other studies will determine botanical types of vegetation and the parts of the plants eaten by gazelle and cattle; changes in the botanical, physical and chemical composition of the range in different seasons and years; the productivity of the vegetation; and the relation of standing water to the gazelle.

As the animals reach different ages and sizes, a certain number will be slaughtered for measurements of body composition.

In addition to determining protein, fat, water and mineral content of the animals, Reid said, the studies will prove whether gazelle produce more lean meat and gain weight at a faster rate than cattle.

DODGE CITY, Kan. (UPI) — Ranchers in this cattle center of the old West have gone soft.

Cattle barons of yesteryear would turn over in their hand-tooled boots at livestock transactions conducted by the modern rancher.

Gone are the cattle drives up the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma — not in the summer, ravaged by blizzards in the winter — the inevitable gun fights at the end of the trail and the endless haggling over the price of the stock.

Modern ranchers either fly or drive in air conditioned comfort while the steers are shipped by rail or truck.

They still come here from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and some even from Mississippi and Arkansas, but that's as far as the ruggedness goes.

Sale barns now are air conditioned and the stock is herded by cowboys riding motor scooters.

and western-styled clothing. But there are no sweating bidders in this barn.

To drink in the atmosphere of a bygone era, I traveled to this wild west center seeking the tough, arrogant cowhand.

But even in the sale barn, crowded with western-dressed cattlemen, I was hardly noticed in my Ivy League-cut business suit.

Auctioneers here run off an average of 800 fat cattle and 6,400 stocker-feeder cattle daily. They have auctioned off between 13,000 and 14,000 stocker-feeder cattle in one day.

And unless the Kansas cattlemen has tales as tall as his Texas counterpart, the cattle business in Dodge City has grown to the largest in the world.

Back in the days of wild and woolly Dodge City, ranchers herded in an estimated 325,000 head of cattle annually. Now one sale barn runs from 350,000 to 375,000 head through the auction annually.

DISSATISFIED WITH the complacency of a breed whose forebears were ruthless, hard-drinking and brawling, I decided to search for adventure elsewhere.

Behind the sale barn, crowded in pens as far as the eye can see, are the product of the old west — cattle.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International... HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Television's relentless parade of new soap operas accelerated with a vengeance Monday—with four daytime serials arriving on the scene, not to mention the debuts of two daily game shows. I had to watch them all, so please don't tell me your problems.

The charming day began with the premiere of NBC-TV's "Fractured Phrases," a game program in which "contestants try to identify a well-known saying, song, book title or quote that has been written phonetically, using other words in the English language."

In other words, for instance, "pole Yvonne tack wrecker," when repeated over and over with emphasis on different syllables, finally translated to "Polly wants a cracker." Well, naturally. And "tag cup how dare" was "take a powder." And "owl of fizz hair Tuesday" became "our love is here to stay." Well, of course—what else could it be? Classy stuff.

Next came NBC-TV's new soap, "Morning Star," about a young woman whose parents met death in a fire, whose fiancé was killed in a traffic accident the day before their wedding, and who isn't happy at all. As an aspiring fashion designer, she will make her career in New York, complexes and all, and the result will probably show in next year's fashions. Even for soap operas, this one is awfully depressing.

A somewhat better soap, "Paradise Bay," followed, also on NBC-TV, and stars Keith Andes as the manager of a radio station in a small seaside community in Southern California. The story smacked of distinct unreality by suggesting that the leading lady give up a newspaper publisher to marry the fellow who turned out to be

Food Value Study Made Of East African Animals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In East Africa, man is studying the eating habits of the animals he eats.

Two Cornell University scientists are trying to determine whether cattle or gazelle make the best use of available vegetation.

Their study, financed by a $45,000 two-year grant from the National Science Foundation, could help decide whether Kenya should encourage native game as a source of protein for an expanding population, or import cattle to improve existing strains.

The study is concerned with wildlife as a food resource.

The U.S. Government is financing other projects to help Kenya and Tanzania conserve, and possibly expand, wildlife resources that have brought in a tourist income of $32 million.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall expressed hope on one East African trip that Africa would avoid the mistake the United States made in failing to conserve the big game herds that were killed off as population expanded. He cited the buffalo.

The Cornell Scientists — nutritionist J. Thomas Reid and conservationist Oliver H. Hewitt—say there is evidence that "inefficient" African cattle are replacing the varied kinds of big game which might more efficiently produce protein from vegetation.

Reid cited an estimate in a region still wild that shows plant life supports 75,000 to 100,000 pounds of live animal in each square mile. Where cattle had replaced all the game, the weight of the animals in a square mile was reduced 11,000 to 16,000 pounds.

The Cornell project is concentrated on the Kemplains Estate at Athi River, South of Nairobi. Thomson's gazelle and native zebu cattle are being studied in fenced-in sections.

Lions and other predators will be kept away from the gazelle by a six-foot mesh fencing topped with one strand of electrified wire.

Cowboys Today Ride Herd on Scooters

DODGE CITY, Kan. (UPI)—Ranchers in this cattle center of the old West have gone soft.

Cattle barons of yesteryear would turn over in their hand-tooled boots at livestock transactions conducted by the modern rancher.

Gone are the cattle drives up the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma — hot in the summer, ravaged by blizzards in the winter—the inevitable gun fights at the end of the trail and the endless haggling over the price of the stock.

Modern ranchers either fly or drive in air conditioned comfort while the steers are shipped by rail or truck.

They still come here from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and some even from Mississippi and Arkansas, but that's as far as the ruggedness goes.

Sale barns now are air conditioned and the stock is herded by cowboys riding motor scooters.

In the world's largest stock and feeder auction barn, McKinley-Winter, ranchers are treated to a rare quality of comfort.

BIDDERS AND sellers lounge on contour chairs in an air conditioned sale barn built in the shape of an old Grecian theater.

The traditional dress is there: cowboy boots, ten-gallon hats and western-styled clothing. But there are no sweating bidders in this barn.

To drink in the atmosphere of a bygone era, I traveled to this wild west center seeking the tough, arrogant cowhand.

But even in the sale barn, crowded with western-dressed cattlemen, I was hardly noticed in my Ivy League-cut business suit.

Auctioneers here run off an average of 800 fat cattle and 6,400 stocker-feeder cattle daily. They have auctioned off between 13,000 and 14,000 stocker-feeder cattle in one day.

And unless the Kansas cattleman has tales as tall as his Texas counterpart, the cattle business in Dodge City has grown to the largest in the world.

Back in the days of wild and woolly Dodge City, ranchers herded in an estimated 325,000 head of cattle annually. Now one sale barn runs from 350,000 to 375,000 head through the auction annually.

DISSATISFIED WITH the complacency of a breed whose forebears were ruthless, hard-drinking and brawling, I decided to search for adventure elsewhere.

Behind the sale barn, crowded in pens as far as the eye can see, are the product of the old west—cattle.

German-Style Macaroni Salad

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Here's hearty fare — German-style hot macaroni salad with grilled frankfurters, cole slaw and green apple pie. Does that menu appeal to you? It's particularly good budget eating.

GERMAN-STYLE HOT MACARONI SALAD is tops.

GERMAN-STYLE HOT MACARONI SALAD
(Serves 6)
7 or 8 oz. elbow macaroni (4 cups cooked)
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
1/2 cup diced bacon
1/2 cup chopped green onion
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons flour
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup vinegar
1 can (6 oz.) sliced broiled mushrooms
1/2 cup sliced radishes
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water according to package directions but add one-eighth teaspoon garlic powder. Drain and keep warm. Meanwhile, in a skillet, cook bacon until crisp. Toss lightly and garnish with sliced radishes and parsley. Add onion and cook until just tender and still bright green. Combine sugar, flour, celery salt and pepper and stir mixture into ingredients in skillet. Add vinegar and broth from mushrooms and heat. Pour hot dressing over warm macaroni. Toss lightly and garnish with sliced radishes and parsley. Note: Serve with grilled frankfurters which have been scored in a spiral and then brushed with bottled brown sauce before cooking.

Boys Love Beans
By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
How about some beans for dinner? Whether you buy them in cans or cook dry ones yourself, they always seem to please the growing boys in the family — husky food for ravenous appetites. The cost should please the family food budget as well. Friends in Michigan, the bean state, sent us these tested recipes. We think you'll enjoy them.

NAVY BEAN AND HAM CASSEROLE
(Serves 6)
1 pound dry navy beans
1 quart water
1 onion, diced
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1/2 teaspoon ginger
3 cups cubed ham
1/2 cup brown sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
Cover beans with water and soak overnight. Add more water to cover if necessary. Cook in covered saucepan till beans are tender, about 1 1/2 hours. Stir in all other ingredients and turn into 2-quart casserole. Bake covered at 300 degrees, about 2 hours. Uncover beans to brown during the last 1/2 hour of baking.

BEEF, BEANS AND RICE
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)
1 pound chopped beef
1 large onion, chopped fine
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup quick-cooking rice
1 can tomatoes
1 can kidney beans
1 can beef consommé
2 teaspoons chili powder
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon garlic salt.
Brown meat and onions in butter or margarine. Place layer of meat and onion in casserole, cover with layer of uncooked rice. Next a few tomatoes, then some kidney beans. Repeat in this order till casserole is full. Mix the consommé with remaining ingredients and pour into casserole. Bake in 350 degree oven about 1-hour. A little water may be added occasionally if casserole seems too dry.

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's good shopping buys for this weekend was prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Interior for UPI.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Week-end shoppers will generally find plentiful supplies of good seasonal fruits and vegetables, with abundant selections of poultry. Fall production of beef and pork is high and a careful shopper can find wise buys.

Shoppers should check their meat counters for specials, but generally, roasts, steaks, and ground beef are good buys. In the pork section, ham and roasts continue to be reasonably priced. Poultry and turkey remain in good supply and stable in the reasonably priced area.

October is cheese festival month, and usually buyers will find different varieties in abundant supply.

The harvest continues and many vegetables are plentiful. Cabbage, carrots, celery, cucumbers, greens, lettuce, onions, peppers, potatoes, radishes, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes are generally in good supply on produce counters across the nation.

In fruits, apples, bananas, grapes, peaches, and plums are the best buys and are in sea-

38-42 Degrees F. Keeps Food Safe

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q — How cold should my refrigerator be to keep food safe?

A — In most refrigerators, with the control set at the position for normal operation, the average temperature in the general storage area is usually between 38 and 42 degrees. The chill tray, located just below the freezing unit, is the coldest area outside of the freezing; the area at the bottom of the cabinet is the warmest. As air in the refrigerator circulates, the cooler air falls and forces the warmer air near the bottom to rise. This movement of air tends to dry out any uncovered or unwrapped food.

You can check the temperature in your refrigerator by placing a thermometer in different locations in the cabinet. If temperatures within the cabinet are above 42 degrees the control should be regulated to maintain a lower temperature.

An accumulation of thick frost on the freezing unit or frequent openings of the refrigerator door, especially on warm, humid days, raise the refrigerator temperatures.

Since the freezing compartments of home refrigerators are not designed to give temperatures of zero, hold frozen foods only a few days in these. However, in the refrigerator-freezer combinations where temperatures can be maintained at zero or lower in the freezer cabinet food may be kept for the same storage periods as in a freezer.

Nationally, fish sticks, and portions, and canned tuna are plentiful and good shoppers buys.

NEWEST NATION

Don't Judge Importance Of Singapore by Its Size

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The world's newest nation, Singapore, cannot help being important despite its tiny size. The island state's position as one of the major communication centers of southeast Asia makes it at once a strategic military base and an important ideological prize.

Singapore is located almost on the equator at the tip of the Malay peninsula. By air it is 911 miles southeast of Bangkok, Thailand, 562 miles northwest of Djakarta, Indonesia, and 644 miles southwest of Saigon, South Viet Nam.

The island is only 26 miles long and 14 miles wide. But Singapore practically controls the two-way shipping between east and west through its position at the southeastern end of the Straits of Malacca, shortest sea link between the Pacific and Indian oceans. It is the world's fifth largest port.

Singapore's population is about 1.8 million, of whom three quarters are hustling, hard-working overseas Chinese. Their loyalties and political leanings exert a strong influence on neighboring Malaysia and Indonesia.

A communist Singapore almost certainly would undermine pro-western Malaysia and endanger Indonesian security.

Ancient City
Ancient "Singapura" was a prosperous trading city before America was discovered. It was sacked and destroyed towards the end of the 14th century.

Britain's Sir Stamford Raffles then began eyeing the island, reduced to an obscure fishing village, as a base to thwart Dutch aspirations.

In 1819, Raffles, an officer of the British East India Company, rented the island for 1,000 Spanish dollars paid annually to a local native chief.

In 10 years, the population grew to 15,000 and it has been growing ever since. Most of the newcomers were Chinese looking for a better life. Many found it and began Singapore families. Singapore has remained basically a Chinese city beneath a British facade.

Raffles decided Singapore would live or die by her trade and decreed the island a free port to increase the flow of goods. The port is still free today although industrialization gradually is forcing the erection of some tariff barriers.

The British made Singapore a major military base to stand guard over India and Hong Kong. The island's defenses were built in the traditional way, facing the sea.

When Singapore's test came in 1942, the Japanese approached the other way, from Malaya, across the Straits of Johore. Singapore, Britain's Far East fortress, fell in 16 days.

Britain rebuilt after the war and today has three air fields and a naval base besides army installations on the island. The immediate future of the bases will be decided in negotiations with the new Singapore government.

Independence Drive
Britain's hold on the island was badly weakened by the Japanese conquest. The years following World War Two were punctuated by the drive for independence.

Limited home rule began in 1955. In 1959, Singapore became a crown colony.

Independence was achieved in 1963 when Singapore joined the Federation of Malaya and the Borneo states of Sabah and Sarawak to form Malaysia.

Differences in policies between the strong-willed Singapore state government and the central government led to the surprise break of Aug. 9 and the announcement of Singapore's independence.

The island is ruled by the Peoples Action Party (PAP) which has a two thirds majority in the state assembly. The PAP's key leader is Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, 42, a British-educated socialist whose government during the past six years has been tough on communists and surprisingly cooperative with businessmen.

Singapore in 1965 is a handsome city of wide streets, tall business buildings and soaring government housing projects. Its people enjoy one of Asia's highest standards of living with a per capita income second only to Japan.

Once a wide open town of sin, opium dens and pretty prostitutes, Singapore today is prim and proper.

To many, Singapore is a dynamic living creature which has had its ups and downs but always has come back strong.

asked to leave because of a story we carried which originated in Washington. Naturally we will protest to the Soviet government and ask that their decision be reconsidered."

The ABC expulsion marked the fourth time since 1963 that the Russians have closed a news bureau because of dispatches or programs that were connected with negative reflections on top leadership.

In April, 1964, the Russians closed the Moscow office of the West German News Agency DPA because of a false report that former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev had died.

In another case last year, the Soviets ordered the Time magazine bureau closed following a cover story on Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Lenin.

In February, 1963, the government closed the National Broadcasting Company news bureau because of a television program which traced Khrushchev's rise to power.

The DPA and NBC bureaus were subsequently reopened.

Discovers Anchors Away!
HONOLULU (UPI) — A resourceful thief committed one of the "biggest" robberies in Hawaii's history.

He stole two 12½ ton anchors.

The huge anchors had been stored in a scrap yard on an island in Honolulu harbor since 1963. On a trip to Honolulu, the owner, Don L. Newton of Oakland, Calif., discovered they were missing.

He said he thought they were safe in the open yard because they were so heavy.

"I've heard of the Brooklyn Bridge being sold," he told police, "but I've never heard of it being delivered."

Soviets Close ABC's Moscow News Bureau

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today closed down the Moscow News Bureau of the American Broadcasting Co. (ABC) and ordered its correspondent to leave the country within seven days.

The order apparently stemmed from an ABC Washington report earlier this month which said there was a power struggle in the Kremlin and that a shakeup was imminent.

Sam Jaffe, the ABC correspondent here, was summoned to the Soviet Ministry today and given the order to get out. Jaffe has been in Moscow nearly four years.

He said the Russian order mentioned "slandorous" reports by ABC but did not refer directly to the broadcast about the Kremlin shakeup. It was made by John Scali, ABC's diplomatic correspondent in Washington. "The meaning was clear," Jaffe said.

(In New York, Scali expressed surprise about Jaffe's expulsion. He said his report on the alleged shakeup was based "on a flood of reports reaching Washington indicating that there was a power struggle in the Kremlin and that it could replace both Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and party chief Leonid L. Brezhnev.")

(Elmer Lower, president of ABC News, issued the following statement in New York: "ABC News has full confidence in John Scali as a reporter. He is a news veteran of 25 years whose accuracy has been proved time after time. It is surprising to us that our Moscow correspondent has been

Texas Manhunt Spreads Over 700 Miles of Woods

BOERNE, Tex. (UPI)—Officers spread a net over almost 700 square miles of hilly, wooded country in Southwest Texas early today in a hunt for a 22-year-old jail escapee indicted on charges of killing three relatives.

The Kendall County sheriff's office led the manhunt for Gary Wilkinson, who pulled tin roofing from his jail cell in Boerne Wednesday night and crawled out.

Officers set up road blocks on all routes away from Boerne, situated on Interstate 10 about 35 miles northwest of San Antonio. Wilkinson was believed to be in a 1957 blue car (Ford) with a teen-aged boy.

Indicted March 1, Wilkinson was awaiting trial on charges he shot his 23-year-old brother to death and beat his 58-year-old mother and 3-year-old nephew until they died.

Dist. Judge John F. Onion had ordered Wilkinson committed to the state mental hospital at San Antonio but the former Ft. Hood soldier had not been transferred yet.

Bexar County Health Officer James Polka had said Wilkinson was suffering from acute after-effects of schizophrenia and did not know right from wrong if Wilkinson did not get proper hospital treatment soon, "he may well die," Polka said.

Wilkinson admitted the February slayings in a confession to Bexar County authorities Feb. 26, the day after he gave himself up.

He told officers then that he shot his brother, Roger Wilkinson, because his brother looked up at him in the family's Boerne home and asked him, "What are you still doing on charges of killing three relatives?"

He said his mother, Marian Wilkinson Silvers, tried to stop him when he started to leave the house.

"She would not let me go so I hit her several times in the head with the rifle" until she fell to the floor, he said.

According to the statement he gave police, he hit his young nephew, Jerry, with the rifle to make him stop crying.

The three bodies were found in one room covered with quilts.

BLAST GI's

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist North Korea complained to the military armistice commission at Panmunjom Wednesday that U. S. soldiers are vandals and peeping toms.

tored today said U. S. trucks and bulldozers had maliciously rammed utility poles near the commission meeting hall and GI's harassed a Communist sentry post last Sunday by peering in its window.

A North Korean Central News Agency dispatch monitored today said U. S. trucks and bulldozers had maliciously rammed utility poles near the commission meeting hall and GI's harassed a Communist sentry post last Sunday by peering in its window.

Congressional Action

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The immigration reform bill appeared assured of congressional approval today.

House managers of the compromise measure were ready for floor action at the opening of business. And the Senate was expected to finish the job and send the bill to President Johnson for his signature.

A House-Senate conference committee cleared the way for final action Wednesday.

The bill, strongly backed by the administration, would repeal the 41-year-old national origins quota system, but impose for the first time a limit on immigration from Canada and Latin America.

The new law would be effective July 1, 1968.

test of strength may come including congressmen. Up for consideration was a bill approved by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee that was far removed from the more modest pay raise recommended by President Johnson.

N. Y. Paper Strike Enters Third Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — The shutdown of six major New York City newspapers entered its third week today. There were few signs that they would resume publication soon.

Negotiators representing the newspapers and two unions were scheduled to try again today to break the deadlock.

Talks between the New York Times and the American Newspaper Guild were to resume this morning at the same time representatives of the Publishers Association of New York City and Mailers Union Local 6 were to reconvene.

There was hope for a settlement of the Times-Guild dispute. But the publishers-mailers entanglement appeared grim.

Following an afternoon meeting Wednesday, special mediator Theodore W. Kheel said he suggested to the Times and the Guild that they consider the unresolved contract issues as a package rather than individually.

4F SCHOOL

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of the National Selective Services, hopes to set up a training program for draft rejects.

Hershey said his program would span two years of full-time training for the rejects. It would be aimed at preparing them to serve in a national emergency. He said such a program would affect 25,000 to 40,000 persons each year.

Economic Aid Asked For States

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — The governors of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Colorado have requested the "four corners" area of their states be named as an economic development region—similar to the Appalachian region.

The request was made of U.S. Commerce Secretary John T. Connor, Gov. Jack M. Campbell's office said Wednesday. In addition to Campbell, the letter was signed by Colorado Gov. John Love, Utah Gov. Calvin L. Rampton and Arizona Gov. Samuel P. Goddard.

The designation was requested under the provisions of the new Public Works and Economic Development Act. The geographic area would include counties which have been classified as redevelopment areas under the Area Redevelopment Act for the purposes of interstate anti-poverty programs.

BOMB SCARE

GARDEN CITY, N. Y. (UPI) — A bomb scare at the Garden City Hotel Wednesday night delayed the start of the Nassau County Democratic Convention at which Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N. Y., was one of the speakers.

A half-hour search by police uncovered no explosives. The hotel telephone switchboard operator received an anonymous warning call.

Welfare Index Promotes Health, Welfare Services

By GEORGIA MACK
Publicity Chairman

The Pampa Welfare Index was organized for the purpose of developing and carrying out a comprehensive program to assist the physical, mental and socially underprivileged of this area and to promote health and welfare services.

The Index maintains an up-to-date storage room in the Plainsman Motel on the Amarillo highway for the purpose of coordinating the disbursement of our supplies to families in need. The Welfare office is kept in close contact with such families so as to be able to determine the extent of their requirements.

The Welfare officers for 1965 are: Ted Gikas, President; Jane Kadingo, Vice-president; Gerogia Mack, Secretary - treasurer and Mrs. W. C. Irwin, Coordinator. The regular meetings are held on the third Tuesdays of June, September, December and March in the Council-of-Clubs Rooms, City Hall.

Membership is made up from organizations and clubs who are primarily interested in health and welfare of this area. The delegates of each club or organization are the President and the Chairman of the welfare committee.

The duties of the coordinator are just that: to coordinate all health and welfare activities of the clubs and to see that each project is completed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stafford act as custodians of all the supplies and help to keep them ready for use. Mrs. Stafford reports to the various clubs on the condition of the clothing and the work needed to size, repair and hang them where our people can get the items needed. The clubs ask for volunteers to do this work in the storage room.

Mrs. Stafford reports that in 1965 there has been 687 garments given out. Also 5 mattresses, 5 bedsteads, 3 cook stoves, 2 ironing boards, 4 divans, 57 chairs, 1 table and chair, 57 pieces of cooking utensils, 3 boxes, and other household articles.

Last year, 40 cheer baskets were given at Thanksgiving to families in need. Ninety-seven cheer baskets were given at Christmas.

Only last week, a family lost everything in a fire. Through the welfare Index we were able to help them get a home started again by giving them clothing for all members of the family, furniture and household articles.

The Welfare Index is always ready and glad to co-operate with our community agencies.

Most Delegates Walk Out On S. African Minister

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

(UPI)—Eighty-three of the 117 delegations walked out of the General Assembly hall Wednesday in a snub of Foreign Minister Hilgard Mueller of South Africa. The nation follows the policy of apartheid — strict separation of the white and black populations.

All 35 African delegations and a large number of Asians stalked out of the hall as Mueller began speaking. So did the members of the Communist bloc, led by the Soviet Union.

Before the walkout, Ambassador Achkar Marof of Guinea took the rostrum to accuse Mueller of being "an imposter, the representative of a handful of oppressors."

Marof is the chairman of the 11-nation apartheid committee. "On behalf of the African states, I wish to inform the assembly that the Afro-Asian states feel that when we walk out there will not be a quorum," Marof said.

Turning to assembly President Amintore Fanfani of Italy, Marof added:

"It would then be up to you, Mr. President, to decide if this gentleman (Mueller) can speak."

Fanfani made no direct reply. He called Mueller to the rostrum.

"I shall not comment on the statement of the delegate of Guinea other than to say that his remarks are unfounded and out of place," Mueller said. "This demonstration is out of order and violates the dignity of the world body."

Almost all Asian nations joined the Africans and Communists in the walkout, Nepal appeared to be the only Asian nation that stayed.

Among the delegations remaining were the United States, Britain, Canada, France, the Netherlands, Australia, Brazil, Argentina and Chile.

Slaves — Not Masters

Statistics are a complement, not a substitute, for trained intellect and common sense. They pose questions, they don't answer them. They are slaves, not masters.

The words are those of James Z. Appel, M. D., president of the American Medical Association. And they apply with full force to certain criticisms of American standards of medical care, which hold that we must take a back seat to foreign medicine.

For example, a statistical table shows that Sweden's infant mortality rate is one per cent under that of the United States, and that the average Swede lives a few years longer than the average American. "But," observes Dr. Appel, "it is also a matter of record that a Swede in Minnesota outlives a Swede in Sweden, and, furthermore, that suicides occur with much more frequency in Sweden than in the United States."

The point is that in comparing one nation's statistics with another's, questions of interpretation and definition are involved. For instance, in Sweden a baby is not considered born alive unless he actually breathes. In this country if there is a heart beat, movement of the voluntary muscles or pulsation of the umbilical cord, it is considered a live birth, even though the child may never take a breath. There are other important differences in the standards and practices within the two countries which make out and out statistical comparisons misleading.

That has been affirmed by Walo von Greyerz, M. D., a Stockholm physician. He has said, "Sweden is a homogeneous nation, impossible to equate with the vastness of the United States. I don't know how you would compare medicine in Sweden with medicine in America. It surely can't be done with infant mortality and longevity statistics. People who do compare such things obviously are hunting for headlines."

The tremendous achievements of free American medicine are a matter of record. Pettifoggish comparisons, which use raw statistics to produce preconceived conclusions, must not be allowed to obscure them.

Yeah, Yeah, Yeah!

"A few seconds, and it was all over." So ended a report recently in a Washington, D. C. newspaper that the United States Congress had just put another sixty million tax dollars up for grabs in the name of "Culture." With a simple voice vote — which means no recording of which members actually voted for this latest bureaucratic boondoggle, the U.S. Senate passed on for the President's signature a bill establishing a "National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities."

This is, of course, just another little thing for which Mr. Johnson had asked his boys in Congress some time ago. And, there's a song title from the presbytery era of the performing arts which, if you care to substitute a name, portrays in a most artistic manner the relationship which now exists between the White House and Capitol Hill — "Whatever Lola Wants, Lola Gets."

There were a few members of Congress who tried to give the President a little more than he asked for. Congressman

Gross, of Iowa, offered an amendment to subsidize belly-dancers who, so we are told, at least like to think of themselves as artists; and another for poker players, on the ground that he'd met some of those who definitely were artists. The majority of his colleagues, so it is reported, thought those proposed amendments were artistic enough to laugh about, but voted against them anyway. Which only shows, we suppose, that no matter how eager they may be to give the President any preposterous thing he asks for, they are not about to give him something he didn't ask for, even if it is neither more nor less ridiculous.

Well, now that we've got to pay for it, we might as well use this new National Foundation for performing arts. And an idea comes to mind at once on how to repay Britain for lending us the Beatles.

Just imagine the impact if that well-trained chorus of voice-voters which now holds sway in the U. S. Congress were sent to London with THEIR "Yeah, Yeah, Yeah!"

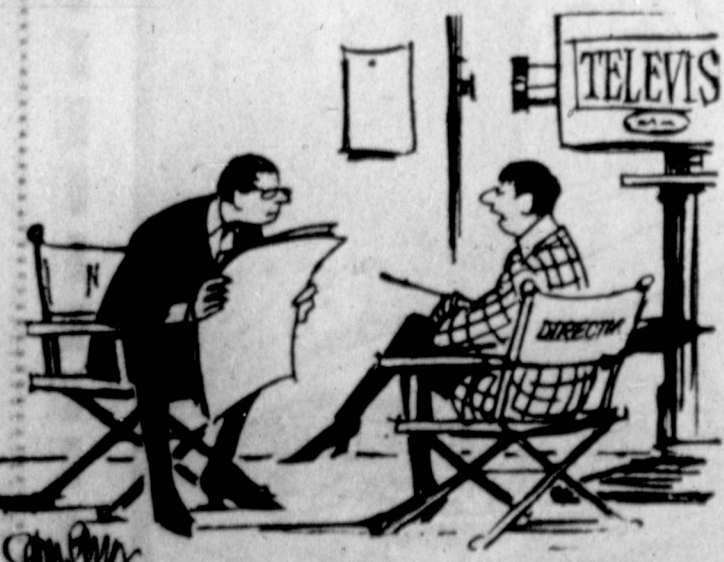

Man and the Machine

This era, writes Ralph T. Moore in the Oregon Voter, "... is not the first time in history that planning, approach, and the magic of method have undermined initiative because they were relied upon to bring the results that could only stem from individual effort. Of themselves, planning, approach, and method are only tools of trade. Unless put to good use by competent hands they are worthless. Yet we persist in trying to assign to them an automatic potency they simply do not possess. We ascribe value to the mere possession of these tools and seem not to realize the sovereign importance that lies in the skill of their user."

Then, later in his article, Mr. Moore says, "... we could use a change in attitude that put more emphasis on the competence of the man and less on the excellence of the method or system."

What this means is that the extraordinary progress we have made in the mechanics of production and service — using that phrase in the broadest possible sense — must not be allowed to obscure the importance of the individual who employs that technology. The man must be the master, not the servant, of the machine. This truth should never be forgotten by industry, the unions or the government no matter how big or successful they may be.

It's Up To You

By HOWARD KERSHNER

Helping Needy Countries

There are 21 so-called "developed" nations composing the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. These nations have been contributing about $8 billion a year to some 77 so-called "underdeveloped nations" composing the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. About one-quarter of this sum has come from private sources, and three-quarters from governments.

The underdeveloped nations loudly proclaim that this is not enough — that they need much more capital. Of course they do, but as is usually true of gifts, they have not used wisely the $8 billion annually that they have been getting. Much of it has been wasted on foolish, impractical projects and a great deal of it has gone to enrich the rulers and bureaucrats of the aided countries. Much of the foreign aid has gone for wars, military display and the aggrandizement of dictators. Much of it has interfered with indigenous efforts in the countries aided, and has no doubt stimulated the birth rate in these countries, aggravating rather than solving the problem.

Is there anything sacred and unalterable about the exploding populations of the underdeveloped countries? Isn't there something immoral about forcing men and women who prudently limit the number of their own offspring, to pay for the children of the imprudent? Doesn't this make possible the still more rapid increase in the numbers of people in the poor countries? Until the leaders of these countries learn ways of limiting their rate of population growth, it is hopeless to try to help them.

On many occasions we have helped to feed starving refugees only to see the number of pregnancies increase about in proportion to the increase in food. Robbing the abler portion of the world's people to increase the numbers of the less able is not solving the problem, but making it infinitely worse. Soon there will be few with a sufficient margin of wealth to help the needy as all gradually sink to that level.

But there is more to the problem. Much private capital would flow into the underdeveloped countries, had not the practice of confiscation become so general. Let capital be respected as the great boon it is and it will become available from private sources without need for using the coercive power of government to levy and collect taxes.

That is the normal and proper way for the more developed countries to help the needy countries. In fact, that is why flow into the underdeveloped the more prosperous countries are in that happy condition. Let the same attitude be shown in the needy countries and the same results will take place. We must encourage capital formation by rewarding diligent savers with the assurance that they will not be robbed and may enjoy the wealth they thus create, without fear of having it confiscated. That is the way to increase the amount of capital in the world, and it is a plan which will succeed in every country where it is put to the test.

NEEDED: RALPH WALDO EMERSON Sharonville (Ohio) Suburban Press

Ralph Waldo Emerson would turn over in his grave if he could see what is happening. This great American thinker and writer spent his life supporting the idea of self-reliance and individualism. He envisioned, around the period just after the Civil War, a society of individuals who would think for themselves, and who would be pioneers in the realm of free thinkers. He saw no need for the American people to have to rely on the government for existence.

Let by Valenti and Carter, these advisers are concerned that the President's appearance would increase tensions with local authorities and could touch off new riots.

Student organizations planning a series of protests against the administration's Viet Nam policy on October 15 reportedly have been in close contact with militant Negro groups in the Los Angeles area. Federal investigative agents have warned there could be demonstrations. Because of this security prob-

Advisers Split Over Whether President Should Launch Watts Area Anti-Poverty Program on Political Visit to L.A.

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's forthcoming party fund-raising trip to Los Angeles has triggered a spirited dispute among his domestic and political policy advisers.

They are split down the middle over whether the President should use the politically-oriented visit "to meet with the poor as well as the rich" and to boost his anti-poverty program.

At issue is a proposed tour of the racially explosive Watts area, scene of one of the nation's bloodiest and most costly riots.

The President's tentative plans call for a one-day political trip on October 15. He is scheduled to address a $1,000-a-plate dinner given by the President's Club, whose members donate $1,000 annually to the party. In addition to this appearance, the President will hold a series of meetings with California Democratic leaders.

This is the "limited" agenda worked out by Jack Valenti, special White House assistant, and Clifton Carter, the President's political trouble-shooter, and it's the one the Secret Service wants him to follow.

A group of the President's domestic policy advisers, headed by Anti-poverty Director Sargent Shriver, have much more grandiose plans for the trip.

They are privately urging the President to take full advantage of the West Coast visit to boost his anti-poverty program and strengthen the hand of Washington officials in dealings with local authorities.

Under their unannounced proposal, the President would make a highly-publicized tour of the Watts area and hold a series of meetings with spokesmen representing the poor in that strife-torn community.

These advisers want the President to announce a massive new multi-million dollar aid program designed to reconstruct the riot-damaged area into a model Negro community. This aid plan, still in the draft stage, would be in addition to previously announced federal help for the section.

THE OTHER SIDE — While the President's political advisers aren't opposed to a massive anti-poverty program for the Los Angeles area, they are opposed to mixing politics and poverty during the October trip because of the explosive racial situation there.

lem and the impact new racial trouble could have on California politics, including next year's nationally important gubernatorial race, Valenti and Carter want the Los Angeles journey limited to fund-raising. They argue that the estimated $500,000 campaign chest to be raised at the dinner is worth the cross-country presidential flight.

As in all major decisions involving politics and poverty, the President will have the final say. He is expected to discuss plans for his visit with Democratic legislators from Southern California before deciding.

PRESIDENTIAL MISSION

Despite all those official denials, Vice President Hubert Humphrey is planning to do some extensive traveling abroad for the Johnson Administration this year.

He is going to both Europe and South America. State Department officials are now busy discussing a visit by Humphrey to Poland in December. Two national organizations, which had sought the Vice President as a speaker that month were notified in writing that Humphrey would be out of the country.

The Vice President's trip to Latin America is scheduled for November and will follow an October visit to Brazil by Senator Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y. Humphrey is expected to visit Chile as well as several other countries.

A strong booster of Chile President Frei, Humphrey plans to use the trip to support the controversial Christian Democratic leader's efforts to extend his influence throughout South America.

Before going abroad, the Vice President will inaugurate a series of lectures on "Human Aspects of International Relations" at the Edward R. Murrow Center of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University.

POLITICAL FLASHES — Senator Robert Kennedy is telling friends that both President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey will take part in the New York mayoralty campaign this fall. He says the administration will fix its big political guns on Representative John Lindsay, the GOP candidate, to keep him from establishing a political base — from which to push his presidential ambitions.

Brigadier General Wessin Y. Wessin, exiled Dominican Republic anti-Communist leader, is writing a series of explosive articles for U. S. newspapers. He will charge that high U. S. officials are coddling Communists in his homeland behind the shield of the Organization of American States. Unless President Johnson changes administration policy, General Wessin warns, the Dominican Republic will be lost to Communism.

Because of General Wessin's reputation as an honest and highly dedicated man, a bipartisan group of legislators on the

You hear a lot today about railroads losing out on commuter traffic, but the Chicago and North Western is one line that isn't giving up easily. That company has turned to the classified ads in Chicago papers to woo prospective home buyers to purchase a home near the railroad's commuting service. The ads are aimed at transferees and first-time home buyers, because it feels they are the potential commuters. The ads tell the number of trains serving the community daily and the time it takes to commute to Chicago. Don't know how it's working out, but at least it's a new switch in soliciting railroad business.

Today's smile: A politician, giving a speech, asked: "Where is the population of this country most dense? One of his listeners said: "From the neck up."

Diversification seems to be the order of American industry these days. Even so, we were surprised to find on a window shopping tour that the Singer Sewing Machine Company is now manufacturing typewriters, and more surprised at learning the Chrysler Corp., one of the auto industry's Big Three, is one of the nation's largest manufacturers of sewing machines, made exclusively for Sears Roebuck.

The Census Bureau tells us a child is born somewhere in the U.S. every 8 seconds, which is figuring things pretty close. If true, it's no wonder our population has just reached 195 million.

Thoughts while shaving: Simply being a good waitress today is not enough. You must have other talents, too. A friend told us about an Oklahoma drive-in restaurant which he patronized during a visit there where the car hops zoomed around on roller skates. He said it is really something to have a hamburger served to you by a gal who does a couple of figure eights on the way from the kitchen.

The Soviets place great stress on education, but we wonder what kind of history courses are taught there. Their actions and pronouncements over a period of years pose the question of just how accurate are the historical "facts" young Ivan is required to absorb.

There's a stretch of railroad track in Australia that runs in a straight line for 330 miles across wasteland. It must be a boring ride for the passengers and train crew. And mention of Australia reminds us that the oldest living thing on earth are the Microzamia trees near Queensland, which scientists estimate are 12,000 years old. That makes our California redwoods mere youngsters.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

What Can Non-Business Tell Business About Business?

By SAM CAMPBELL, Business Editor

Business in the fundamental sense of the term, is the work of doing something for others for the sake of getting a profit for yourself. It is the art of creating something that is so valuable in the eyes of another person that he voluntarily parts with some other thing that is more valuable to you. Voluntary exchange is the essence of business.

Taxation, by contrast, is the art of concentrating financial power by compulsion in order that the compellers may distribute that power according to their own volition. In every true tax, compulsion is an inherent element.

Good Or Bad

However you feel about taxes — whether you believe them to be good, bad, a necessary evil, or (as I do) totally unnecessary for the raising of governmental revenue — I think that we should have no trouble in agreeing that taxation and business are almost direct opposites, in principle.

Both have to do with the acquiring of financial gain. But one type of gain is a profit (that is, it was accumulated by the voluntary actions of the parties concerned). The other type of gain, on the other hand, is the consequence of the subjection of one party to the will of the other.

The reason I mention the essential contrast between taxation and business is that a pamphlet has come to my desk, telling about a management symposium to be conducted by the University of California.

Proper auspice: The University, of course, is a tax-supported institution. And the fact that it proposes the symposium suggests that somebody in it believes that a non-business entity is the proper auspice to inform businessmen about business.

In part at least, the symposium will be financed by $150 fees from those attending. I do not know whether that covers all the costs or not. The brochure is an elaborate piece of printing with those window-slot things cut in it. Then also there must be a lot of coming and going by full-time university personnel as they prepare for the big event.

But even suppose the $150 fee is sufficient to pay all the costs, direct and indirect, the question remains what information can a tax-supported institution honestly and sincerely convey to others about voluntary exchange.

The very auspice argues against itself. Here is an institution that admits it doesn't know how to make a profit, and yet it is conducting a symposium to tell businessmen how to do what it cannot do.

To be completely fair, I should add that the tax-supported University is not relying on its own staff to do the lecturing. Rather it is bringing in lecturers from profit-making enterprises. And the odd thing — when you reflect on the matter — one or all of these speakers may say something that will actually help in some manner those in attendance.

On the other hand, as you continue to think about it, it is also obvious that all parties concerned have somehow missed the guts of the subject matter.

HUNT FOR TRUTH

BY H. L. HUNT

UNPUBLISHED NEWS

Sunday 10,000 people filled Lafayette Park in Washington protesting persecution of Jews in Russia. This began a week-long rally sponsored by 24 Jewish organizations. Speakers charged repeatedly that the Soviet government is dedicated to destroying Russian Jewry, and solemnly pledged this would not be allowed to happen.

Prominent speakers charged that Russian Jews are discriminated against, have no opportunity to maintain their existence, and are deprived of human pride and self-respect under communism. One disclosed, "It is now a quarter of a century since any Jewish school has existed (in Russia) where a Jewish child might learn Jewish language, literature and history; and a generation of Soviet Jewish youth is confronted with a past that is a blank, a future that is empty. To force that great community to become a dead end in history is a moral crime, an historic tragedy, a gross violation of human rights."

The extent of anti-Semitism in Russia is underscored by the fact that in 1958 Russia had 450 Jewish synagogues; in 1965 only 60. Russian Jewish congregations comprise increasingly older people, with youth prodded into atheism by Communists.

It has been charged that the Kereinsky government was overthrown by Bolsheviks with the aid of Jews largely from the U.S., including Trotsky, arriving from Utica, N.Y. to become co-dictator with Lenin.

Regardless of past mistakes, this inhuman treatment cannot be condoned nor permitted. Russian communists maintain, and some people outside Russia agree, that there is no anti-Semitism there, but facts disprove their claims.

It is strange that news of such a great demonstration for a commendable cause goes unnoticed by the communications media.

a pet at the White House was Zachary Taylor whose horse, Whitey, was permitted to graze on the lawn around the executive mansion. That was in 1849.

The Chicago (Ill.) TRIBUNE reported in a story: "It might be too late if we had to get Lyndon on the phone driving his cart at 100 miles an hour in Texas," Miller said. "Let's not put the cart before the horse and make it a person-to-person call."

Country Editor speaking: "It's easy to be a good husband if you like the boss."

Wit and Whimsy

The golden rule applies to you as much as it applies to the other fellow. Right?

Teacher — What is a bridegroom?

Susie — Please, teacher, it's a thing they have at weddings.

The Ladies — Divide our sorrows, double our joys, and treble our expenses.

To our fathers' sweethearts, — Our mothers.

Those Autumn leaves were hard on our rakin' back.

Mack — On the day on which my wedding occurred —

Jack — You'll pardon the correction, but affairs such as marriages, receptions, dinners, and things of that sort "take place." It is only calamities which "occur." You see the distinction?

Mack — Yes, I see. As I was saying, the day on which my wedding occurred —

Lady (who has brought her son to the hospital for treatment) — It's his head, doctor. He's had it on and off ever since he was born.

A farmer was the owner of a prize Jersey heifer. A stranger, having admired the animal browsing on the hillside, drove around the hill to the farmer's home, and asked:

Stranger — How much will you take for your cow?

The farmer scratched his head for a moment, then said:

Farmer — Look-a-here, be you the tax assessor, or has she been killed by the railroad?

Jim — Bill used to call his house over there "The Nutshell." Wonder why he changed the name?

Tim — He got tired having funny people calling to ask whether the kernel was in.

From art circles comes another story concerning the visitor who was brought to admire the paintings of Verberna Abernathy, the Grandma Moses of the Ozarks.

'AS DANGEROUS AS KLAN, REDS'

Solon Would Expel Birchers from GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Thurston B. Morton's announced aim of kicking the John Birchers out of the GOP Republicans of every persuasion.

whipped up the expected storm of controversy today among The Kentucky senator, in an interview with UPI Wednesday, charged that the Birch Society was "as dangerous as the Ku Klux Klan and the Communist Party." He said it was infiltrating the GOP and urged Republicans to kick it "right square in the tail."

The GOP's 1964 presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., both conservatives, said they saw no threat from the Birchers.

But Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., who is generally ranked as a conservative, applauded Morton's statement. He said it was past time for the GOP to take action to expel the Birchers.

Michigan Gov. George W. Romney, usually classed as a moderate, took a more moderate view. He said "whenever members of the party have to belong to something outside the party there is something wrong with the party."

Romney said that although it was a disservice to condemn the Birchers as a group, he had fought in Michigan to bar a Bircher from a state office. Goldwater said, "I don't know of any Birch member who occupies a responsible position such as state chairman or national committeeman or committeewoman."

He said that at least half of the Birchers were Democrats. Furthermore, he said, "I know members of the John Birch Society but they haven't done anything dangerous to the party as far as I am concerned."

Former Rep. John Rousset, R-Calif., the society's public relations director, said Morton was "misled . . . (by) pressures being purposefully stirred in Washington."

"All Sen. Morton has to do is to pick up the telephone and talk to J. Edgar Hoover to learn the John Birch Society is in no way similar to the Ku Klux Klan or the Communist party," Rousset said.

Birchers sought "less government, more responsibility and a better world."

FOR D.C. Home Rule Collapses In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Residents of the nation's capital, denied the right to govern themselves since 1874, may yet recover it — but apparently not any time soon.

The hope of home rule backers for early action by Congress to reinstate self-government in the District of Columbia all but collapsed yesterday when the House, in a fast-moving session, first killed, then revived, and finally sidetracked President Johnson's home rule bill.

The climactic vote came on 227-174 roll call vote. By that vote House members killed a Senate-passed bill to let Washington residents elect their own mayor and city council, and substituted, instead, a "charter board" bill.

The "charter board" measure Committee by Khrushchev's successor as premier, Alexei Kosygin.

Kosygin made the profit system and streamlined industrial controls the twin cornerstones of the Kremlin's "new deal."

Red Head Confesses Slow Year

MOSCOW (UPI)—Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev bluntly admitted today that almost a year after he took power from former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev the Soviet Union still faces serious problems both at home and abroad.

Brezhnev said Soviet-American relations have reached the "freezing" point because of Viet Nam. And he reported that Communist China has rejected all overtures to patch up the ideological feud between Moscow and Peking.

At home, Brezhnev disclosed a wheat harvest so bad that he felt compelled to assure the Russian people they will have enough bread this winter. The Soviet Union has shelled out nearly $500 million to buy foreign wheat.

The Kremlin chief, in a 15,000 word speech published today by the Communist newspaper Pravda, reiterated that Soviet Russia must revamp its whole economic system to wipe out "irresponsibility, red tape, bureaucratic attitudes," buck-passing and "serious shortcomings in our planning."

Brezhnev pointed up the urgency of the reform program unveiled at a secret session of the Communist party's Central

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national stockpile, as you know, contains strategic materials that might become in short supply in times of emergency.

One day this week the House of Representatives passed a bill authorizing the General Services Administration to dispose of certain items now held in the stockpile.

Among the goods earmarked for disposal were 62 long tons of wattle.

The bill sailed through without a word of explanation, comment or debate. Presumably, the government had stockpiled more wattle than it needed and decided to reduce the inventory. But that is not the important thing.

The important thing is why the government was stockpiling wattle in the first place. When I discovered that wattle was regarded as a strategic material, I sensed that I had stumbled onto something big.

The manner in which the bill was handled aroused my suspicion. Could the quickie treatment have been an attempt to avoid calling attention to it?

The only wattle I was familiar with was the one that hangs from the neck of a turkey. Had someone found that turkey wattles were vital to our national defense?

These thoughts sent me racing to a dictionary where I learned that there are several other kinds of wattles. For instance, a wattle may be "a barkel of a fish." Or wattles may be "rods laid on the roof to support the thatch."

The latter definition seemed especially significant in view of the wattle stockpile.

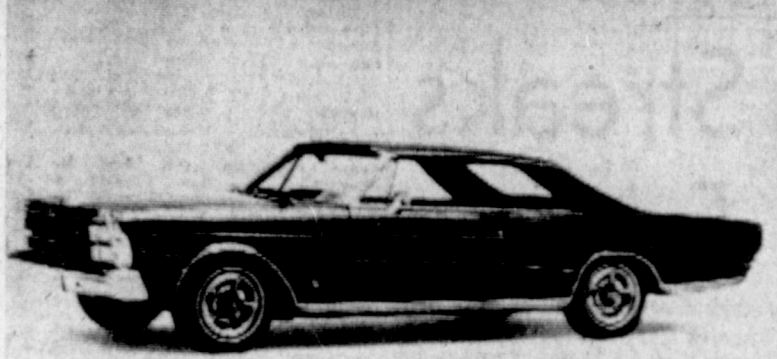

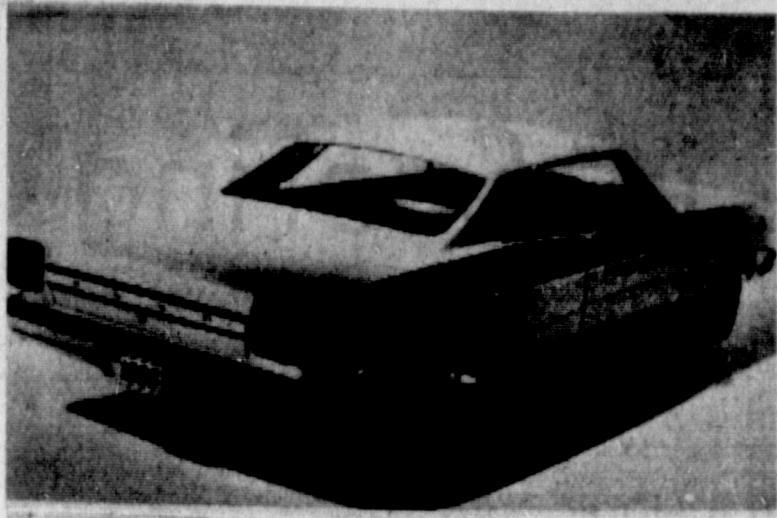

Planned For Attack

In event of an atomic attack I reasoned, all of the houses would be destroyed. The survivors would have to erect primitive dwellings and the wattles in the stockpile could be used to build thatched roofs. Provided there was also a stockpile of thatch.

It turned out, however, that my theory was full of holes. Further investigation revealed that the wattle in the stockpile was some kind of a vegetable tannin.

That could, of course, only be a cover story. There may actually have been a turkey wattle breakthrough of great military importance. But at the moment I have no way of proving it.

That's the way my luck runs. I get a big scoop and then it goes sour. I was so discouraged I didn't even bother to find out what a "fish barkel" is.

Wall Street Chatter

Thomson & McKinnon believes that now that the summer has ended a closer look should be taken at the market's position. The increased trading volume, the company feels, can be construed as a bullish factor but the move of the Dow-Jones Industrial Average in such hectic trading should be closed studied. The fact that the average has been hovering just below record peaks might also be considered a warning some reaction might be in the marking.

Bache & Company says that a test of the all-time high of the Dow-Jones Industrial Average is imminent and that the strong tone of the market is supported by favorable economic news. The recent surge in several issues might cause some correction but the company believes such pauses are good for additional commitments in attractive issues.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone Inc., says there has been a concentration on several issues in the recent rise and that there are still enough good buys around to keep the market on the uptrack.

Rambling With Red

RON CROSS

Sometimes even sports writers need a good kick in the pants to get them on the ball again. This scribe got his this week in the form of a letter from a Pampa Harvester booster.

Too Far Back

The lady in question, who wished to remain anonymous and will, suggested that since Pampa beat Palo Duro for the first time ever, won their first game of the season and first conference game in as many starts, maybe the story should have had a bigger headline and maybe should have been somewhere besides the last sports page.

To this, madam, all we can say is, you are perfectly correct, all this stims from trying to think, when we shouldn't.

Then there was the lady from White Deer who called and let us know in a few delicate words that a White Deer player couldn't be anything if it wasn't for the line in front of him.

Isn't this the case on all football teams? The defensive and offensive line are probably the two hardest things about football to write.

Take Pampa's for instance, for the Harvester forward wall at times looks unbeatable and at times looks very tired and mixed up.

Such was the case at Perryton and at Palo Duro in the first two periods of play.

But both on offense and defense they seem to come out of it and look like a very fine football team.

It's no secret the Pampa line slow but each week they have progressed and seem to be making up for their slowness.

Hebert Okay

One Harvester Ex is doing okay for himself at the University of Houston.

Last week Kenny Hebert scored on a 23-yard pass from Dick Woodall and booted home three extra points.

One familiar face that has been missing from this office is Ken's dad, who used to be fixture here on Saturday night.

Football and basketball will be prominent Saturday at West Texas State where a pro basketball game featuring Wilt Chamberlain will be played in the afternoon and Saturday night the Buffs host Arizona State.

Following their surprising rout of Bowling Green last week the Buffs are a one touchdown favorite over the Sun Devils.

Former pro great and now head taskmaster Otto Graham has enrolled his son, Ducey at Choate School so he can play a year of football, as an end, before going to Northwestern, which was his dad's alma mater.

Texas Christian Keeping New Quarterback Secret

By United Press International

A few weeks ago, Arkansas coach Frank Broyles kept the world in mystery about who his starting quarterback would be when the season got underway.

Now Texas Christian, Arkansas' next opponent, is in the act. TCU coach Abe Martin said he didn't know Wednesday whether it would be senior Kent Nix or sophomore P. D. Shabay at the man - under spot against the Razorbacks.

"I'm not going to tell anyone until Saturday evening," Martin acknowledged Wednesday.

There may be a few other changes in the TCU attack Saturday. Danny Cross, a sophomore tackle out all fall with a leg injury, is ready to go now. And co-captain Joe Ball may become the Horned Frogs' first play to go both ways. Martin is thinking about running him at both offensive and defensive end.

Aggies Work In Secret

Texas A&M held another secret drill Wednesday in preparation for Texas Tech. The Aggies worked on game plans, both offensive and defensive. Coach Gene Stallings said his squad was in good physical shape and ready for its Southwest Conference opener against the Red Raiders.

Tech coach J. T. King praised the running of sophomore halfback Kenny Baker Wednesday during what he called a "fair" workout. The Raiders went through a brief scrimmage, stressing goaline offense.

King said the workout was considerably better than the drill Tuesday, in which he said Tech had done nothing right.

The University of Texas polished all phases of its game in a no-contact practice session Wednesday. Safetyman Gary Moore suffering a hip bruise, was the only Longhorn to miss the workout.

Coach Darrell Royal, readying the Longhorns for an inter-sectional battle with Indiana of the Big 10 Saturday, kept the team on the practice field about two hours.

Nicklaus, Lema Canada Cup Favorites

MADRID (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema reigned as solid favorites to win the team trophy for the United States in the 13th International Golf Championship and Canada Cup matches which got underway today on the 7,066-yard, par-72 Club de Camp course.

Nicklaus, who arrived only Wednesday from his home in Columbus, Ohio, was also rated favorite to cop the individual honors for the third successive year. The team was shooting for Uncle Sam's sixth straight success and eighth in all since the tournament was inaugurated by the late John Jay Hopkins in 1953.

Teams from 35 countries, Puerto Rico and Hawaii were in the field as the 72-hole tournament opened with host country Spain and Nationalist China teeing off first. Each of the two players on each team will play one round of 18 holes each day through Sunday, when the winners will be decided. The team champions get $2,000 and the individual winner a check for $1,000.

Texas Western's Stevens Not Wanted

By THOMAS HOUGH
EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Billy Stevens, of Texas Western, the boy nobody wanted after an injury-plagued high school football career, hit his first two passes as a collegian and promptly catapulted himself into the national limelight.

Those two passes — one to flanker Chuck Hughes for 15 yards and the second a 55-yard scoring toss to end Bob Wallace on the first two plays of Texas Western's game with North Texas State — launched Stevens into a 500-yard night as his team beat North Texas 61-15.

Just to prove his aerial antics were not just a flash in the pan, Stevens the following Saturday hit Hughes and Wallace 16 times for 297 yards and five touchdowns in a 35-14 victory over New Mexico.

The 6-3, 190-pound sophomore thus fashioned a two-game total of 37 passes for 797 yards and eight touchdowns — better than anyone else has ever started a season.

Award by Attention
Stevens, a sandy-haired youngster with a quick smile and a quiet personality, seems somewhat flabbergasted and awed by all the attention he's earned.

It wasn't always thus for him. He hurt his back in his first game as a high school sophomore and didn't play another down. The injury was so slow healing he didn't play any as a junior, either. During spring training of his junior year, he suffered a broken collar bone.

Then, in fall pre-season drills before his senior season he was rushed to a hospital for an emergency appendectomy. He recuperated fast enough to get in to the final five games as a starter—but as a running back rather than a quarterback.

No Scholarships
College seemed a long way off for him since he had built up no reputation during his ill-fated prep career. There were no scholarship offers.

Finally, one of his coaches, Don Smith, got a bid to join Texas Western coach Warren Harper's staff and he prevailed upon Harper to give Stevens a scholarship.

Harper didn't stay around long enough to find out that he shouldn't feel sorry for listening to Smith's persuasiveness. Harper left after an 0-8-2 season and Bobby Dobbs was hired to replace him.

Stevens quarterbacked the freshman team to an unimpressive 1-1-1 season and gave few signs of coming greatness.

But, when Dobbs saw him for one week in action in spring training, he said:

Gets No. 1 Job

"I know who our No. 1 quarterback is going to be — Stevens, although he's never played a varsity game and I don't know how he'll react under pressure."

Stevens fits Dobbs' idea of a quarterback. He's not a scrambler. He is strictly a "pass-from-the-pocket" man.

"I want him to stay there," Dobbs says, "and eat the ball if he has to. He's done that real well, too...showing a lot of poise."

After his 500-yard opening night, Stevens was nervous going into last week's New Mexico game. He got one intercepted real early and New Mexico converted it into a touchdown, but he calmed down and won the game.

Stays in Shape
Stevens, who is married and whose first child, Billy Jr., was born just before the opening game, helps stay in shape by pedaling a bicycle—a gift from his in-laws, the mile or more from his apartment to school. But, he doesn't do much back-pedaling on the gridiron.

KUNZ WAIVERS
ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association Wednesday announced that they have placed Terry Kunze, a 6-4 guard, on waivers.

Foreign Commentary

By K. C. THALER

United Press International

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union has once again served notice that however much involved she may be in Asia, her more immediate interest continues to lie in Europe.

A strong Germany remains the principal source of Moscow's anxiety, even though the country is divided.

Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev has warned the United States and Britain that Russia would take counter measures if they allowed West Germany a finger on the nuclear trigger.

The warning came in anticipation of new Anglo-American moves for greater nuclear policy sharing in the Western alliance.

An American plan provides for the creation of a mixed manned nuclear surface fleet, equipped with Polaris missiles in which West Germany would participate, along with other NATO allies. Britain has an alternate plan, calling for an Atlantic nuclear force of Polaris submarines and nuclear bombers, in which the United States and Britain would maintain a veto.

The issue had been put off until after the West German general election. Now that it is over the talks are expected to resume and they will set off wider inter-allied discussions on the reorganization of the defense alliance, with France, moreover, pressing for major structural changes.

The Kremlin, sensing that something is afoot, has lost no time in sounding the alarm that it will not stand for anything that would threaten the military arm of the West German Federal Republic, or change the present balance in Europe.

What Russia might do in retaliation has been left open. Moscow merely has said it will strengthen the Warsaw pact, NATO's counterpart, but there is little likelihood this would include giving her East European allies nuclear weapons, especially now that they are moving towards greater independence from Moscow.

At the same time Brezhnev has pulled out all the old proposals to woo the United States and Britain into some arrangement in Europe that would help to allay Soviet fears of a rearmed Germany.

He reviewed the offer of a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact. The offer has been repeatedly rejected by the west as meaningless. The West has all along seen behind it an attempt to lull Europe into a false sense of security.

Another Soviet offer suggested the de-nuclearization of Central Europe. This too has been repeatedly put forward by the Communists. But it stands little chance of acceptance so long as Russia refuses any idea of international control.

As things stand at present such arrangement would tilt the precarious balance of power in Europe in favor of the Communists, with Russia's conventional forces remaining close at hand in the event of emergency to overrun the Western positions.

There has been too, a vague hint from Moscow to the West that talks be resumed in "security arrangements" in Europe. East-West talks on a European settlement have been in abeyance for years and little has been done to get them started again. Chiefly because the Russians have shown little interest so far.

The fact that they have now raised the issue again signifies they may be thinking of resuming the interrupted East-West dialogue after all, ostensibly ignoring the conflict with Red China for which a solution is no longer expected in Moscow.

The Kremlin has by this move shown that Europe is what matters to it first and foremost, even while tensions in Asia are posing serious problems.

"Conterminous" is the accepted term to designate the 48 states, excluding Alaska and Hawaii. It means "having a common boundary."

COMPLETELY RESTYLED — Comet for 1966 features a new larger body, a host of luxury appointments and a wider choice of engines. Overall length has been increased by eight inches and wheelbase is two inches greater at 116 inches. Two Mercury 39-cubic-inch engines are added to the power offerings. Sportiest of the new Comets is the Cyclone GT model (above) which offers a high performance 335-horsepower V-8 engine and a unique fiberglass hood with simulated air scoops.

STRICT RULES HIT

Church Council Discussion On Divorce Issue Continues

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council today faced a new proposal to loosen strict rules against divorce.

The proposal, advanced Wednesday by an Eastern prelate, drew private agreement from some other bishops attending the council.

The question of divorce came up in St. Peter's Basilica during the council's continuing debate "on the dignity of marriage and the family."

Archbishop Elias Zoghby, the patriarchal vicar for the Melchite Catholics of Egypt, urged the church to recognize divorce on grounds of adultery and permit the innocent partner to remarry.

"Could not the church, without prejudice to her doctrine on the indissolubility of marriage, use her authority on behalf of the innocent party in these cases, as has been the case in the Christian Orient?" he asked.

Opening a thorny dispute on whether the church's rejection of divorce is soundly based in scripture, Zoghby warned the council "the problem must be faced."

On the outskirts of Marilia, farmer Jose Comino Coral lost

the matter. No marriage which is performed with the sacrament and in which the partners consummate their bond can ever be dissolved. The couple can separate but never remarry.

The sacred Roman rota can declare a marriage null — invalid because it is held never to have existed as a true contract. Such is the case if the partners for some reason have not consummated their marriage, or if it is proven that the sacramental nature of the bond was faulty. Annulments are relatively rare, however.

Brazil Seeks Defense Against Deadly Bee

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—Several men fishing near the interior city of Araraquara were attacked recently by a swarm of bees. One of the men died.

About the same time, a child in Franco de Rocha was stung by a swarm of bees. He, too, died after several hours of tremors.

All the business establishments in the small town of Cairas recently closed for the day when a swarm of bees descended. One man was severely stung.

On the outskirts of Marilia, farmer Jose Comino Coral lost 250 chickens and 20 ducks in an onslaught by a swarm of bees. Many other fowl were blinded.

In each case, the villain was the African Bee, unknown in the western hemisphere until a university professor imported 48 queens from Tanganyika in 1956 in an attempt to increase the honey production of local bees.

How To Be Safe on Skateboards

CHICAGO (UPI) — Skateboarding is a thrilling sport because the danger involved makes it challenging.

However, knowing the rules makes the difference between pleasure or pain.

Antonio M. Urbe, general manager of Antech Engineering Corp., West Covina, Calif., a manufacturer of skateboards, said his firm "has been deeply concerned by the number of accidents caused by the improper use of skateboards."

"Our surveys show that many accidents could have been avoided if these simple safety rules had been followed," Urbe said.

—Avoid excessive speed. The name of the game is maneuverability, not speed. No great skill is involved in getting on a board high upon a hill and then trying to see how fast you can get to the bottom. It requires much more finesse to perform slaloms or other maneuvers even at moderate speed.

—Do not attempt complicated maneuvers without proper practice and a gradual improvement of skills.

—Choose the proper surface. Smooth concrete will afford the best results. Coarse surfaces may cause excessive vibrations which can result in a loss of control.

—Don't try to jump curbs or try to go over obstacles.

—Avoid areas of heavy traffic and inordinately high hills.

—Wear sneakers, rubbersoled shoes or go barefoot to get a firmer footing on the board's smooth surface.

Wheels are the most important part of skateboards and a frequent cause of mishaps is worn wheels.

Tests have shown that wheels made of 100 per cent nylon will generally wear longer than those made of steel or composition rubber.

Another major cause of accidents is wheels that lock. Be sure the board has a pressure-release mechanism to prevent locking.
