

Fault of Teenage Revolution Lies With Parents?

By RON CROSS

The second of a three-day city-wide youth rally for all teenagers in Pampa will get underway at 7:30 tonight in First Baptist Church.

Heading up the meetings is a short, white-haired gentleman contracted by the Pampa Key Club.

Dr. Chester Swor, author, former school teacher and renowned youth lecturer, with help from former college football star Jerry Merriman, will speak again tonight to what they hope will be a full house of teenagers and their parents.

Dr. Swor, a native Mississippian, and former dean of men at Mississippi College in Clinton, has many firm ideas for the reasons behind the so-called "Teenage Revolution," that grips our society today.

"The blame, or let's say the reason, for our seeming laxity or morals in our teenagers lies directly with parents," Dr. Swor said.

Dr. Swor believes, too, the greatest single problem of American teenagers is pressure from the crowd.

Dr. Swor points out three things on which teenagers are pressured that worry him most, pressure to dishonesty, pressure to drinking and pressure to sex looseness.

On the first, Dr. Swor said that "Cheating, and helping others to cheat, deception, stealing and property destruction make the young person a bad risk in almost any occupation, marriage and as a defective citizen.

More teenagers are drinking, sneaking liquor in at high school social functions and are given liquor by "broadminded" parents. Our teenagers think drinking is equaled with "smartness" and sophistication," he stated.

Statistics reveal there is too much sex-looseness. This stems from too early dating, too early steady dating, too much freedom too early, and parents are lax with their children because other parents are.

"I think that most of all, in combating these problems, the home needs to do a better job of instruction, discipline and set a better adult example," Dr. Swor said.

The author of three books said that helping young people to know the importance of honesty, the wisdom of abstinence and the why of waiting for marriage in the matter of sex needs to be brought out more.

Speaking on discipline, Dr. Swor said. (See TEENAGE, Page 4)

"Socialists may be willing to go to any length to unite Europe by government action, but they will do nothing to achieve unity in the only way it can be achieved by government inaction."

30 Killed in Crash of Jet Airliner

Snipers, Guards Continue Duels

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Defiant snipers and National Guard troops duelled in the streets today in the heart of the Negro neighborhood devastated by the nation's worst racial rioting of the century.

The die-hard snipers peppered the 46-square mile district where six days of terrorism left 34 dead, 856 injured and damage approaching $200 million.

National Guardsmen responded to the sniper fire with shattering blasts from automatic weapons. There were no reported injuries from the shooting today.

Two guard troops were hurt, one critically, early today when an automobile careened through a barricade and struck their truck in the Negro Watts district where a military-imposed curfew was in effect. Police arrested the suspected driver, a Mexican-American.

Authorities believed the sniping Monday night and today was a last gasp effort by rebellious Negroes to prolong the orgy of shooting, assault, arson and looting which surpassed in magnitude the 1943 racial uprising in Detroit, where 34 were killed and 700 injured.

Autopsy Lists Strangulation In Coeds Death

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—An autopsy report on the deaths of two University of Texas coeds failed to shed any new light on the mystery surrounding their slaying and possible sex attack.

Justice of the Peace Jerry Dellana ruled "death by strangulation" in the case of Susan Rigby and Shirley Ann Stark, both 21, of Dallas. They disappeared July 18 and were found dead in a field north of Austin July 30.

The autopsy, which was conducted by Dallas county pathologist Dr. Earl F. Rose, revealed Miss Rigby was strangled but could not determine how Miss Stark died. Neither could the autopsy determine whether either had been sexually attacked.

Details scant. "The autopsy report adds nothing to the case," Dellana said. "We got very little out of it."

The girls' bodies were in an advanced state of decomposition when found.

A University of Texas student, James C. Cross, Jr., 22, of Fort Worth confessed to the slayings and is being held without bond in the Travis County jail waiting on a grand jury decision whether to indict him. An indictment is expected Thursday.

Dellana said Cross' confession was the basis of his ruling on Miss Stark's death. Cross reportedly said in his confession he strangled Miss Rigby in a sexual attack on her, then strangled Miss Stark when she came upon them.

Sporadic violence continued in other areas of Southern California where it spread Monday when troops gained the upper hand in the stricken Watts district. A newsman was beaten by Negroes in San Diego.

In the ravaged riot area, Negro residents were beginning to piece together their lives amid the rampant destruction. Hundreds of homes were without utilities or municipal services. The livelihood of thousands of persons went up in flames which destroyed block after block of business places.

A sign posted on the upper out shell of a large appliance store told the tale: "2 negroes were employed." A Negro city councilman sought $100 million in government aid to start the rebuilding. Gov. Edmund G. Brown had declared Monday the riot "has now ended." But he said the (See SNIPERS, Page 4)

Council Ignores Sidwell Protest

City commissioners ignored a protest of former Mayor E. C. Sidwell today and approved an ordinance annexing a half-mile strip along either side of Red Deer Creek, west of Hobart St. and south of Coronado Inn.

The land was annexed after being given to the city by the Gray County Foundation. It is to be developed for park purposes, city officials stated.

Ex-Mayor Sidwell urged the commission to reconsider before taking action, charging that it was a "bungling, boondoggling piece of bad business."

Sidwell said the annexation was "creating an island in the city" between two unannexed areas that provided city services (drainage) to businesses outside the city at the expense of other city taxpayers.

"It is unjust and unfair," Sidwell said. "There are certain businessmen in the area who will get a free ride."

Mayor Jim Nation took exception to the "bungling and boondoggling" charges.

"You mean to say if the members of the commission approve this annexation they are bunglers and boondogglers?" Nation asked the ex-mayor.

"I am not dealing in personalities," Sidwell said. "I mean that the annexation would be a bad piece of business, unjust and unfair to downtown businessmen and other taxpayers."

Mayor Nation said the annexation is only part of an overall drainage plan for Pampa which eventually has to come.

City Manager Jim White said the area would be drained just the same whether it was annexed and beautified or not annexed and left to grow up in weeds.

Maj. Gen. Nguyen Chanb Thi, the 1st Corps commander in charge of the search and destruction operation near the border, said in Da Nang air and ground forces had killed 200 Viet Cong and that the operation was still continuing.

The government controlled news agency Viet Nam Press reported, meanwhile, the Viet Cong suffered 1,330 killed and 148 captured during the week ending Sunday. It said another 2,375 Viet Cong defected to the government. It put government losses at 214 killed and 64 missing. The attacks against the Marines came three and a half miles southeast of Da Nang where the Viet Cong opened up with a barrage of mortar and automatic rifle fire Monday night then charged with cries of "Yankee go home!" and "Yankee you die!"

OUR MAN IN VIET NAM Even Drink of Water Hard to Get in Viet

SAIGON — All one can do in Saigon is go from one guarded hotel or government agency to the other. There are several reasons for this; first, no other place is safe, no other places offer armed security, no others even have fit drinking water, no other places, outside of bars, have air-conditioning. There are only a few places you can go to eat. All government office buildings, BEQ and BOQ (bachelor enlisted, and a bachelor officer quarters) have cafeterias or club-type eating places. You can spend American money at these, but not piastres. You can risk eating at outside restaurants but your chances of not catching amoebic dysentery aren't too favorable. Even at the government controlled place you can depend on getting a "bug" about once a month.

Hotels here are at a premium and I am lucky to have a place reasonably close to downtown for only $10 a day. In the States though, I wouldn't put up with such a place for very long. The air conditioner works some time and even when it does the air is not too cool. You are lucky to get all the way through a bath before the water goes off. It seems to go on and off periodically upon no certain schedule. Even so, the water is a rusty brown and your body comes out the same way. When you dry off, your towel is then brown too. And if you brush your teeth, which is all right so long as you do not swallow any of the water, then your teeth also get brown. At first glance you just naturally assume everyone

School Auxiliary Employes Granted 5 Pct. Pay Boost

A five per cent raise in salary for auxiliary employes of the Pampa school system was approved today by the Pampa School Board.

The raise, which amounts to approximately $12,740 a year, includes clerks, bus drivers, maintenance secretaries and employes of the system other than teachers and administrators.

The raise was approved in unanimous action by the board at its regular monthly meeting today.

Teachers and administrators were granted raises by the board at the last regular school board meeting held in July. These raises were based on state requirements and recommendations.

The Board awarded the contract for supplying the school system with milk to the Goldsmith Milk Co. of Amarillo. Goldsmith was the low bidder among five.

Goldsmith bid five cents per pint plus a two per cent overall discount. The other four bidders, Kelly, Borden, Hazelwood, and Sealtest all bid five and three-quarter cents per pint with no discount.

Floyd Sackett, eighth grade teacher at Robert E. Lee Junior High School, was appointed assistant principal of Robert E. Lee following the recommendation of Superintendent Jack Edmondson.

In other business, tax roll adjustments were approved by the board. Homer Craig, business manager, said the adjustments included errors made in original valuations.

The board also authorized the employment of two clerks at Pampa High school on a full-time basis and authorized full-time status for clerks at all ele-

FBI Investigating Possible Explosion

CHICAGO (UPI) — Coast Guardsmen today pulled bodies and burnt debris from storm-tossed Lake Michigan hours after a jet airliner with 30 persons aboard disappeared in a ball of flame.

A "fireball" over the Lake was reported by dozens of persons on the beaches along Chicago's North Shore section at the time O'Hare Airport lost radar contact with the plane, United Air Lines flight 389 from New York.

"The chances that anybody could have survived are dim," said Coast Guard Cmdr. Gerald Applegate.

In New York FBI agents were reported to be checking the passenger list to determine if there were any uncomonly large insurance purchases.

"Evidence indicates there was an explosion," Applegate said. The debris and the bodies were found in the general area the airliner, a Boeing 727, was reported when it vanished from the radar screen Monday night a few minutes before its scheduled 8:50 p.m., CST, landing.

Coast Guard cutters picked up five bodies and sighted a sixth. Some of the bodies were as far as five miles apart. A temporary morgue was set up in the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Applegate said the Coast Guard cutter Woodbine had taken aboard "loads and loads of debris."

The Woodbine, about nine hours after the plane disappeared, picked up a five-foot section of fiberglass believed to be part of the airliner's interior.

"The type of debris—and the fact that we can't find the plane—indicates that it went down," Applegate said. "Whether it opened up and went down after it hit the water or before it hit, we don't know."

The first bodies to be picked up were sighted by a helicopter 25 miles due east of Highland Park, a suburb 10 miles from Chicago's northern city limits.

Pleasure boats joined Coast Guard and Navy craft in speeding to the area shortly after the fireball was sighted Monday night. The weather was calm and skies were partially clear at the time the airliner

Cooper, Conrad Take Physicals For Space Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Gemini-5 twins Gordon Cooper and Charles (Pete) Conrad, their days of "make believe" flights almost over, sought a medical OK today to make the world's longest voyage in space.

Given a little luck and a lot of good weather, they will ride a 109-foot tall Titan-2 rocket from Cape Kennedy at 8 a. m. CST Thursday to become the nation's fifth and sixth space heroes of 1965.

They don't plan to come down until eight days and 3,140,000 miles have passed before their speeding Gemini-5 spaceship.

Cooper, the drawing Oklahoman who seeks to become the first man to make two trips into orbit, and rookie Conrad today faced their final major session in the doctor's office for an hours-long examination.

They expected no medical problems. Only the weather seemed to be giving anyone any uneasiness.

The days and weeks of make believe voyages in ground-based simulators that had become almost a way of life for the astronauts began to taper off today as the countdown reached to within about T-minus-2 days.

G. Merritt Preston, the space agency's deputy director for launch operations at Cape Kennedy, said Cooper and Conrad would spend the afternoon today reviewing the mission that hopefully will earn them nearly every manned spaceflight record worth owning.

1,729 County Residents Are In Business for Themselves

The spirit of individual enterprise and adventure shines bright in Gray County, judging from the number of local residents who have taken the financial plunge and gone into business for themselves.

Each year, an additional number of Pampa and Gray County men and women, with the urge to be on their own embark on new ventures. Some succeed and some don't. The mortality is high.

According to the latest Government tabulations, there are 1,729 local residents who make their living from their own businesses or professions. They are the storekeepers, doctors, farmers, contractors, barbers, electricians, gas station owners and the others who are self-employed.

They do not have such problems as getting and holding a job. For them there are different problems — rent, supplies, labor costs, sales volume, competition and net earnings.

The facts and figures on the number of business concerns in each section of the county, as well as the birth rate and the death rate among new firms are given in Department of Labor and Department of Commerce statistics. They should (See F...

Sukarno Rules With Iron Hand

By ROBERTA C. ROTH
JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — Twenty years ago Wednesday President Sukarno and a handful of militant nationalists gathered at dawn to proclaim a free and independent Indonesia. Today the flamboyant president-for-life reflects with satisfaction on two decades that have transformed the republic beyond recognition and gained him undisputed personal rule over 165 million people.

Aug. 17, 1945 marked the collapse of Japanese authority in the Netherlands East Indies and the beginning of a bitter four-year revolution against the return of Dutch colonial rule.

Defies Japanese
Within hours, in defiance of the Japanese occupation, Sukarno's words went over government radio broadcasts to cities and thatched farm huts scattered 3,000 miles across this verdant island chain. For the first time, the outside world took note of Sukarno.

He has now come a long way from the jailed firebrand of 1935, the titular head of a Japanese puppet regime in 1945, and the ceremonial constitutional president who inspired and hosted the first Afro-Asian summit conference in 1955.

In pursuit of a grandiloquent vision of national destiny, Sukarno has turned Indonesia down a new path slated steeply away from old ways of free domestic political rivalry and careful non-alignment abroad. Open opposition to the President is not tolerated in Jakarta. His fiat is law, and all governmental powers are concentrated in his hands.

Drastic changes are evident in Indonesian international affairs. Trained guerrilla forces in an attempt to bring the federation to ruin. Government organizations encourage a Communist-inspired while new political and economic ties are woven with Red China.

Indonesia has also won the dubious distinction of being the only nation ever to withdraw from the United Nations, and the only non-Communist country to walk out of the 1964 Tokyo Olympic Games — because they were barred from track and field and swimming competition.

Sukarno shocked non-aligned conference delegates at Cairo last year by declaring that "peaceful coexistence" is a myth — although he personally contributed to the oft-quoted "Ten Principles of Peaceful Coexistence" at the 1955 Afro-Asian summit in Bandung.

President Sukarno sees Indonesia as the natural leader of the "new emerging forces," but hemmed in by a conspiracy of Anglo-American imperialist power.

Western imperialism, he says, seeks the downfall of Sukarno and destruction of the Indonesian revolution out of fear of Indonesian influence in Asia, Africa and the Latin American world.

Yet the fact of the matter is that more than 500 armed Indonesian fighters have been captured and interned inside Malaysian borders, while not a single Malaysian or commonwealth soldier has been found on Indonesian soil.

Political Genius
Sukarno's political genius lies in his intuitive skill with his people — both the palace coterie and the masses he mesmerizes from the public platform.

Indonesian victories are painted in bold broad outlines which gloss over such problems as rice.

That these victories and successes are often largely beholden to outside help or events beyond Indonesian control is neither recognized nor acknowledged.

Singapore's secession from the Malaysia federation is credited to Sukarno's "Crush Malaysia" campaign rather than internal political and racial tension.

Holland's 1962 surrender of West Irian (formerly Dutch West New Guinea) is credited to Indonesia's ineffectual guerrilla attacks rather than American and West European pressure on the Dutch.

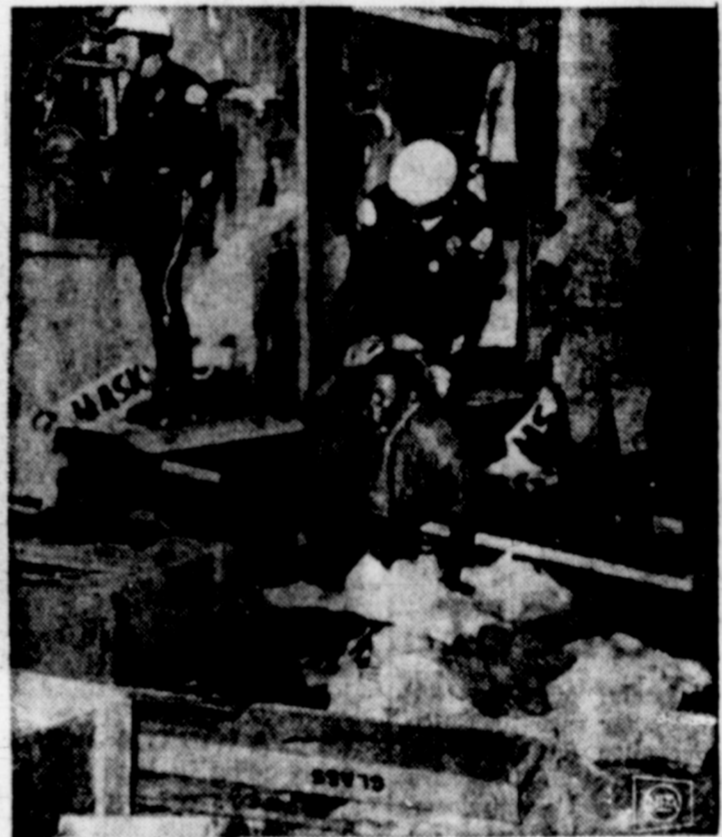

Even debacles such as the Indonesian presents a voice and posture of cocky self-assurance in its self-image as "beacon to the nations of the world."

To some it seems like whistling in the dark.

controversial 4th Asian Games in Jakarta in 1962 are touted as great "successes" in the intoxicating fervency of Sukarno's brand of nationalism.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The embarrassing comic-strip level of the coming television season's entertainment series is obvious even to the networks, and they will employ two devices to protect their respectability: Plenty of specials and loads of color programs.

The networks previously announced that great amounts of their regular programming will be in color, and the trend continues. Starting Nov. 15, for instance, the nightly Chet Huntley-David Brinkley newscasts on NBC-TV will switch to color, except for fast-breaking stories. And beginning Sept. 13, major portions of NBC-TV's "Today" show will also be broadcast in color. At ABC-TV, the Lawrence Welk and "Orzlie and Harriet" programs have been added to the color schedule. And the Saturday morning cartoon shows for children will be virtually entirely in color on all three networks.

In more immediate and significant terms, television's tremendous color breakthrough is expected to be dramatized Thursday morning during the network pool coverage of the launch period of the scheduled two-man, eight-day, Gemini-Titan 5 space mission. NBC-TV has previously shown a launch in gin color, but it is the first time for ABC-TV and CBS-TV.

Entertainment specials in the coming season will offer some impressive talents, especially on CBS-TV. On that network, there will be another hour with Barbra Streisand, whose special last season was the best entertainment show of the year. Zero Mostel, star of Broadway's "Fiddler on the Roof," headlines a comedy-variety broadcast with Carol Burnett. Carol Channing has an hour Feb. 18, with George Burns. Gene Kelly also has a February special. Harry Belafonte is set for a show that will try to recapture the spirit of Harlem in the 1920s, and will also include Sammy Davis, Sidney Pottier and Diahann Carroll. And Dick Van Dyke has an all-star tribute to the late Stan Laurel.

Also on CBS-TV, Sir John Gielgud will appear in two hour-long programs adapted from his noted one-man Shakespearean offering, "Ages of Man." And there will be an Andy Griffith special, with Don Knotts and Jim ("Gomer Pyle") Nabors. Over at NBC-TV: Julie Andrews has a November special, with Gene Kelly. Mary Martin will do an Easter broadcast in conjunction with the Radio City Music Hall. And the "Hall of Fame" dramas will be back, including Melvyn Douglas in an adaptation of "Inherit the Wind," based on the famous Scopes "monkey" trial in which Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan had their classic showdown on the subject of evolution. At ABC-TV, Sammy Davis has a Thanksgiving Day special with a group of musically-talented youngsters.

Senate Passes Rogers' Bill On Flint Quarries

The U. S. Senate yesterday afternoon passed Congressman Walter Rogers' bill to establish the Alibates Flint Quarries National Monument.

The monument, first national monument in Texas, will be constructed on the site of the old flint quarries and Indian ruins along the shores of Lake Meredith near Sanford.

The area around the monument site will become a national park and is expected to attract thousands of visitors during the tourism season.

The Rogers bill passed the House of Representatives on April 5 and was reported out of committee last week for floor action in the Senate.

All that remains now to make the bill final is the signature of the President.

Marines

The Communists opened the attack on the Third Marine Tank Battalion 3 1/2 miles south of the big U.S. air base at Da Nang with a heavy mortar barrage accompanied by grenades and automatic rifle fire.

Then, screaming anti-American slogans, the Communists streamed out of a wooded area toward the tank battalions' positions.

The Marines, standing their ground, called for artillery fire which broke up the sharp 15-minute attack just before midnight.

The Marine artillery, directed by Lt. Col. S. R. Jones, of Honolulu, hit the tree line from which the attack originated and the Viet Cong withdrew.

In Saigon, police reported that one and possibly more arrests had been made after Monday's terrorist attack on the national police headquarters.

The daylight bombing raid killed four government policemen and injured 23 others, including six Americans.

A broadcast by the Communist underground radio said Monday night the raid was an observance of the 20th anniversary of an uprising against the French which gave Communist rebels temporary control of Hanoi, now the North Vietnamese capital.

A symposium originally was a Grecian dinner party.

"It will place the company in a better competitive position when new industry is seeking locations in the area," Lyons stated.

The adjustment has no effect on rates charged to residential electric consumers in Pampa, Lyons stated.

The commission set Tuesday, August 31, as the date for a public hearing on Pampa's proposed $1,695,000 budget for 1965-66.

Approval was given to reimbursement to L. L. Sone in the amount of $3,250.60 as a refund for water and sewer development in the Jarvis-Sone Addition.

The commission approved payment of $2,280.55 to Forrest & Cotton, consultant engineers, for engineering and inspection fees in connection with Pampa's sewage plant and outfall line now under construction.

If you are lucky a houseboy will bring you a small pitcher of water each day that is drinkable, he says. But it is full of silt, and most Americans won't touch it. They go to some government office to fill their canteen.

Anyway, when the houseboy brings the water the stuff is still scalding hot from its being recently boiled so you must wait to drink or brush your teeth.

Tomorrow, starting at 8 a.m., I attend a whole series of briefings by MACV (Military Assistance Command, Viet Nam.) The series will run until about 3 p.m. and are the most comprehensive ones given here. They are held about once a month, or when a new batch of Defense Department wags arrive. Today, we got in 18 Department of Defense guests, representing newspapers from all over the United States. They will spend a whirlwind tour of Viet Nam bases a few days then go back home and write authoritative about the war for the next two years.

I have learned quite a bit about what to expect in Da Nang. All correspondents are housed at a string of quonset huts outside the airbase. This is called the Press Center, and each morning the correspondent gather for a briefing of what went on during the night, and what is expected to happen during the day.

Each pressman pays $5 a day for his room, which also includes free laundry, but is required to buy his own meals at the civilian joint in the town. He is allowed to enter the air base anytime he desires, but must be accompanied by an escort when he does. He may visit any Marine Corps unit he applies in advance. If wishes to stay a few days with combat unit he may do so, will be given a tent and a helmet and a flak jacket, but must furnish his own meals or full rations for the C-Rations eats.

Deputy Police Chief Tom Reddin said Monday night he was "more optimistic now than we have been at any time since the rioting began." He said it may be possible to lift soon the dusk-to-dawn curfew that has banned residents from streets of nearly one-tenth of Los Angeles.

As he spoke, sniper fire crackled sporadically across the major riot area in and around Watts in south-central Los Angeles. Police cars were targets and guardsmen returned fire with automatic weapons.

"We can hear shooting all around us," officer George Yaeger reported from the Watts police sub-station.

Scattered incidents were reported outside the curfew area controlled by the military.

Starting Nov. 15, for instance, the nightly Chet Huntley-David Brinkley newscasts on NBC-TV will switch to color, except for fast-breaking stories. And beginning Sept. 13, major portions of NBC-TV's "Today" show will also be broadcast in color. At ABC-TV, the Lawrence Welk and "Ozzie and Harriet" programs have been added to the color schedule. And the Saturday morning cartoon shows for children will be virtually entirely in color on all three networks.

In more immediate and significant terms, television's tremendous color breakthrough is expected to be dramatized Thursday morning during the network pool coverage of the launch period of the scheduled two-man, eight-day, Gemini-Titan 5 space mission. NBC-TV has previously shown a launch in gin color, but it is the first time for ABC-TV and CBS-TV.

Enterprise

This compares favorably with the ratio in many areas of the country. The average, in the United States is 12.2 percent.

Of the 1,729 in Gray County who are their own bosses, 339 operate retail stores and 287 have service businesses. The others are farmers, professional people, wholesalers and manufacturers, for the most part.

What are the risks involved in starting a new business? How many of them last more than a few years?

Nationally, it is shown approximately 450,000 of them are launched each year and 400,000 existing ones close shop.

The Labor Department finds that the odds against a new business lasting as long as 10 years are five to one.

Despite the dire prospects, each year there is a new crop of venturesome souls who are ready to leave the security of a job and put their money and effort into pioneering a new business.

(Continued From Page 1) Swor said young people need more counseling, rewards and penalties to show the importance of respect for people and law.

"But most of all," Swor stated, "The adult must set a better example, they must be the living sermon."

How can the message be gotten across to parents of young people?

"At the end of our meetings we have a citywide meeting of adults and try to point out how they can help their children by setting a better example," Dr. Swor said.

Dr. Swor, who has been doing youth work since 1930, said he believes schools are handicapped in the way they can help and discipline the youth. He said schools today can't do as much as they should.

Dr. Swor has written three books, "Very Truly Yours," now in its 12th printing, "If We Dared," now in its sixth printing and "The Teenage Slant," now in its fifth printing.

He and Merriman are writing a book now, titled, "Down But Not Out."

Swor said the book deals with stories about handicapped people, who have overcome their handicaps and gone on to a greater life.

The religious lecturer and counselor plans a return trip to Pampa in the fall of 1966, when he again will speak at the First Baptist Church.

tion has a bearing on the Republican future because Lindsay already is being touted by eastern political writers and eastern Republicans as a likely national party leader and presidential nominee, say in about 1972. This assumes of course that Lindsay will be elected mayor. The challenge to Lindsay's Republican status already has been made on the New York battlefield.

William F. Buckley Jr., editor of the conservative magazine, National Review, is the conservative party nominee for mayor. Buckley knows he cannot be elected. He is in the best to siphon conservative Republican votes away from Lindsay, enough votes, he hoped, to defeat him. In any event, Buckley seeks a substantial minority vote toward realization of two objectives.

First is to add muscle and permanence to the conservative party in New York and, second, to demonstrate enough political strength to enable conservatives to demand and get a voice in Republican councils as to policies and candidates. Buckley holds that Lindsay is no Republican. Buckley's announcement of his candidacy for mayor included this statement:

"Mr. Lindsay's Republican party is a rump affair, captive in his and others' hands, no more representative of the body of Republican thought than the Democratic party in Mississippi is representative of the Democratic party nationally."

More importantly, when the showdown comes — if ever — Barry Goldwater probably will stand with Buckley on the issue of Lindsay's Republicanism. That does not signify that Goldwater would require all Republicans to be conservatives. Far from it. Goldwater believes a politician, a candidate for office, must adjust himself to his constituency.

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
The future leadership and political patterns of the Republican party may be much affected this year by the election of a mayor in the city of New York.

The Republican nominee is Rep. John V. Lindsay. Lindsay also is the nominee of New York's leftwing liberal party and there is being organized still another splinter party with Lindsay as its nominee.

This party is being set up to accommodate those New York Democrats who would be willing to vote for Lindsay provided they were not thereby compelled to do so on either the Republican or liberal ballot.

Lindsay is a liberal or soft-boiled Republican. He refused to support Barry Goldwater for President last year and was triumphantly re-elected in his New York City constituency which also cast a lopsided vote against Goldwater as did all of New York City.

Lindsay cannot be much faulted for adjusting his sails to the political winds in New York City. But if Lindsay is elected mayor of New York, there may be raised against him this question: Is Lindsay, in fact, a Republican?

None would contend that Lindsay shucked the Republican label or should be deprived of it merely because he refused in 1964 to support the party's presidential nominee. But a pretty good argument can be made that a politician cannot in good faith be the nominee of both the Republican and liberal parties.

New York's liberal party is the creature of the apparel trade unions. The Republican and liberal parties are more natural political antagonists than they are natural allies.

New York's mayoralty election has a bearing on the Republican future because Lindsay already is being touted by eastern political writers and eastern Republicans as a likely national party leader and presidential nominee, say in about 1972. This assumes of course that Lindsay will be elected mayor. The challenge to Lindsay's Republican status already has been made on the New York battlefield.

William F. Buckley Jr., editor of the conservative magazine, National Review, is the conservative party nominee for mayor. Buckley knows he cannot be elected. He is in the best to siphon conservative Republican votes away from Lindsay. If enough votes, he hoped, to defeat him. In any event, Buckley seeks a substantial minority vote toward realization of two objectives.

First is to add muscle and permanence to the conservative party in New York and, second, to demonstrate enough political strength to enable conservatives to demand and get a voice in Republican councils as to policies and candidates. Buckley holds that Lindsay is no Republican. Buckley's announcement of his candidacy for mayor included this statement:

"Mr. Lindsay's Republican party is a rump affair, captive in his and others' hands, no more representative of the body of Republican thought than the Democratic party in Mississippi is representative of the Democratic party nationally."

More importantly, when the showdown comes — if ever — Barry Goldwater probably will stand with Buckley on the issue of Lindsay's Republicanism. That does not signify that Goldwater would require all Republicans to be conservatives. Far from it, Goldwater believes a politician, a candidate for office, must adjust himself to his constituency.

But he rejects the idea that Republican and liberal party policies can be compounded into a single political nostrum, as Lindsay seeks to do in New York.

Some millions of conservative Americans probably will agree on that.

Steel Strike Possible for Fall

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The tipoff on whether a steel strike will occur this fall should come next week, Steel magazine said today.

If the United Steelworkers Union (USW) does not call a meeting of its wage policy committee to report "progress" next week, Steel said, a strike will be automatic unless the government intervenes. Steel also reported record imports of finished steel in June, saying the threat of a steel strike "has opened the U.S. door wide to foreign-made steel." The metalworking weekly predicts "the door will probably stay wide open" because users indicate they will continue buying foreign steel after the strike threat passes.

Demand for steel rose astronomically, the magazine said, with a high rate of consumption and efforts to stockpile hedge material despite their capacity, domestic mills could not supply tonnage as fast as users wanted it.

The imports were further boosted by the improved quality of such foreign-made steel as that from Japan and increased availability. In addition, prices were below those of U.S. producers, Steel said. In June, 1,191,969 net tons of finished steel were shipped into the United States, setting a new monthly high for imports. The previous high was 1,025,200 in March.

The June figures raised the first half import total to a record 4,938,399 net tons, Steel said, just 1.5 million tons below the record 6.4 million tons for all of 1964.

That amount of finished steel would have required production of 7.2 million tons of ingots in the U.S. or 10 per cent of the U.S. ingot output in the first half.

Steel imports equalled 15.1 per cent of U.S. mill shipments in June. Slightly more than one third of the imported tonnage was sheets and strip—the high quality products that are among the most profitable for U.S. producers.

Steel ingot production remains high level, however, Steel said, as mill operators try to satisfy consumer demands for delivery of products before the strike deadline.

Last week's output was an estimated 2,644,000 tons—unchanged from the week before, equivalent to an annual rate of 137.5 million tons.

August will be a month of relative strong shipments. But the pace won't match last April's 10.1 million tons of finished material—the most ever shipped in a month. August shipments will probably be around 8.2 million tons.

One of the largest salt plants in the nation is located at Grand Saline in Van Zandt County, Texas.

Chances of President Johnson's Farm Bill Being Approved Now Seem To Be Brighter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's farm bill went before the House today, its chances of approval improved by a plan to scrap a provision that would have meant an increase of at least one cent in the price of a loaf of bread.

Democratic leaders and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman worked out an agreement Monday night to drop the controversial provision from the omnibus bill. The deal was expected to clear the air for a final vote some time Wednesday.

Criticism had centered around the bill's wheat program, which called for an increase in subsidies from $2 to about $2.50 a bushel for domestically-consumed wheat.

The original provision would have passed the cost of the increase on to processors, who in turn were expected to pass it on to consumers. Thus the increase in bread prices.

Freeman contended the increase would only amount to one cent for a loaf of bread. But critics termed the provision a "bread tax" and said prices would go up two cents a loaf. Under Monday night's agreement, the extra subsidy money would come out of treasury funds, giving housewives a reprieve from a government-sponsored price hike.

Foreign News Commentary

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI) — The "Great Ben Bella mystery" remains unsolved.

Two months ago, on June 19, Algeria's Castro-style former "strong man" President Ahmed Ben Bella was overthrown in a predawn army coup engineered and headed by his own defense minister, Col. Houari Boumediene.

Since then Ben Bella, one-time darling of Algeria's masses, had dropped out of sight and into the limbo of forgotten former dictators.

An army-dominated council of the revolution was proclaimed. In mid-July Boumediene formed a civilian government, with himself as prime minister. Algeria appeared to have swung back to normal.

Yet no reliable word has leaked out about Ben Bella's fate.

From time to time some high Algerian official makes reassuring statements that he "is fine and in good health."

But otherwise all is silence.

Shooting Report Unconfirmed
Ben Bella has been variously reported held in an army camp near Algiers, at Tamanrasset in the far south of the Sahara Desert and in a former mental home in the Algiers area.

Some reports immediately after the revolt said he was wounded, but this never was confirmed. It was known that there was some shooting at 2:30 a.m. on June 19 around the Villa Joly in Algiers where Ben Bella lived. But whether the former government chief himself was hit could not be ascertained.

Immediately after Ben Bella's overthrow the revolutionary council published a lengthy proclamation charging him with high treason, malfeasance in office and leading the country to the brink of ruin.

From time to time the country's new rulers have said they are preparing a "white book" to back up these charges.

But nothing has been said officially about whether Ben Bella will be brought to trial or not.

Public Trial Risky

Obviously, a public show trial was out of the question in the first few months after the anti-Ben Bella revolt. Politically, it would have been a risky undertaking.

But Algeria has settled down surprisingly since then. Pro-Ben Bella student demonstrations, apparently Communist inspired, fizzled out in less than a week. The only recent opposition to the Boumediene government has been in the form of occasional clandestine pamphlets.

In Algeria it is quite possible for someone to be held indefinitely without his whereabouts being known and without his being brought to trial.

It is commonly said Algerians have short memories. The fact that Ben Bella's continuing "disappearance" has touched off no popular reaction seems to bear that out.

The former "strong man" could very well languish in an unknown jail until the "Ben Bella myth" has faded and the "great Ben Bella mystery" has been all but forgotten.

Tennis Great Roy Emerson is Ready to Retire

By SANDY PADWE
NEW YORK (NEA) — To the guy sitting in the steaming little office from 9 to 5, answering 'yes' to J.B.'s every whim, it would seem that Roy Emerson's life is the perfect existence. . . . Three sets of tennis a day . . . country clubs . . . admiring galleries of suburbia's best dressed, best mannered folk . . . dinner at nine . . . Seems difficult to tire of something like that, but Roy Emerson is tired, so tired, in fact, that next year may be his last on the amateur tennis circuit. "I think Chuck McKinley has the right idea," the 29-year-old Australian said. "Get out on the weekends, play a few tournaments, get established in business, enjoy the family." Emerson is the world's best amateur tennis player. He has been for the past three years and he conceivably could dominate the sport for at least five more years — if only he wanted

But Roy Emerson doesn't want to. "I've been playing for 12 years now, anywhere from eight to 11 months of a year," he said. "When I started out I had two goals — to represent my country in the Davis Cup and to win at Wimbledon. Well, I've accomplished both. "Now I've got to think about my wife and family. When I wasn't married, being away from home didn't seem so tough. But I have two little ones now and being away as much as I am is very difficult." When Roy Emerson does retire, he's going to leave one major question unanswered, the most controversial question of his career — would he have been one of the outstanding pros? For years, the touring professionals have tried to lure ($50,000 contract) and even embarrass him into joining their tour with caustic statements about being an amateur. I simply never wanted to be the top pro so it's not a matter of ego with me. "If I were to turn pro now it would probably mean three more years before I became established. I just don't want that and all the travel the profession-

Beat the Champ Bowling Tourney Starts Tonight

The American Machine & Foundry Company's "Beat The Champ" bowling tournament kicks off tonight, at Harvester Bowl, in Pampa. This no-entry-fee tournament offers bowlers qualifying in local roll-offs a chance to test their skill in finals against AMF Staff of Champion members Dick Weber and Donna Zimmerman, two of the top professional bowlers in competition today.

Under the "Beat The Champ" tournament rules, anyone was has a 1964-65 ABC or WIBC league average, based on a minimum of 21 games, is welcome to enter the roll-offs and try for the "Beat The Champ" finals to be held at Eastridge Bowl, on Oct. 5, 1966.

A series of four weekly roll-offs will get underway at Harvester Bowl on Tues., August 17th, and will run through Sunday, September 12. The starting dates of the second third and Fourth weekly roll-offs will be Tues., August 24, Monday, August 30, and Monday, September 6th. There will be a total of six winners each week, the three top-scoring men and the three top-scoring women. The 24 winners of the four weeks of roll-offs will then compete in a final house elimination on September 26 at Harvester Bowl in Pampa to determine the three top men and three top women bowlers who will roll against Dick Weber and Donna Zimmerman in the finals. Each of the winning finalists in the Harvester Bowl eliminations will receive AMF silver plated serving bowls.

There will be no entry fee in the tournament; however, each participant will contribute 50 cents to an expense fund to help offset the cost of taking the top men and women bowlers to the finals and bowling at the finals. The only other expense to the bowler will be the regular 40 cents charge per game at Harvester Bowl. Men use a 75 percent handicap of 200 scratch, a 135 pin maximum three-game handicap. Women use 75 percent handicap of 190 scratch, also a 135 pin maximum three-game handicap.

When the finals are held at Eastridge Bowl in Amarillo, Dick Weber and Donna Zimmerman will roll on the same lanes as the finalists. The men and women will both be bowling with the regular tournament handicap against the AMF Champions. The first prize for both the top man and woman bowlers rolling with the champions in the finals will be $50.00 in cash. Second-place winners will receive $25.00 and third-place winners will receive $15.00. Fourth and fifth place winners get $10.00 and sixth through tenth place finishers each receive $7.50.

SWIM CHAMP — Jim Cole, sort of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cole Jr., 708 E. 15, show off his trophies won with the Pampa Dolphin Swim club this year. Cole placed in five events in the West Texas Invitational meet and won four places in a meet at Wichita Falls. His swimming has won Jim a place in the state meet August 19 at Trinity University.

Scouting The Pros

CLEVELAND, Ohio (NEA) — secret Jim Brown doesn't block. All Man o' War could do was run, too. And look for Browns' to exploit him as a deep receiving threat. They tapped his potential last year. Ernie Green doesn't get publicity but is excellent foil for Browns' talents. Leroy Kelly off specialist teams might help. RATING — excellent.

DEFENSIVE LINE — Frank Parker's year off to heal a knee is a blow. Dick Modzelewski was an inspiration at tackle, and helped young Jim Kanicki, but can they sustain it for 14 games? Ends are well fortified with Bill Glass and Paul Wiggin. Good pass rush and outside protection. Walter Johnson is a new face. RATING — fair-to-good.

QUARTERBACKS — With two years under his belt, Frank Ryan's got the confidence to challenge for all-pro status. Some still fault him for slow release on passes and picking alternate receiver. Backup man Jim Nizowski would help others as regular. RATING — good.

DEFENSIVE BACKS — Don't care how they played against Colts; this is still trouble spot for champs. But Walter Beach is vulnerable at corner. Ross Fichtner, Larry Benz are adequate safeties. There'll be some juggling. RATING — poor.

SUMMARY — Browns don't get universal respect as champs. Ryan has to do it again to convince skeptics. The defense is spotty. Biggest asset is good balance between running, passing threats. PREDICTION — Third Place.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Braves Narrow Lead; Roberts Blanks Pirates

By United Press International
Look no farther than Ed Mathews' nine-game .543 batting spurge to explain why the Milwaukee Braves have sliced the Los Angeles Dodgers' National League lead to a mere .002 percentage points. The Braves have been flexing their muscles in all directions with eight victories in their last nine games but the 33-year-old third baseman has been swinging the biggest bat of all.

Mathews, who knocked in six runs in a game against the Houston Astros Aug. 8, staged another "one-man riot in Los Angeles Monday night when his two singles, a double and 27th homer of the season drove in six tallies and produced a 10-8 victory over the Cardinals.

Dodgers Lose
The victory gave the Braves a 67-49 season record compared to the 69-50 mark of the first-place Dodgers who suffered a 6-1 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies Monday night.

The third-place San Francisco Giants also chopped a game off the Dodger lead with a 3-2 win over the New York Mets and Robin Roberts scored his second straight shutout as the Houston Astros beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-0 in the other National League games. The Chicago White Sox nipped the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in the only American League game.

Mathews led the Braves off to a 4-2 lead with a three-run homer in the third inning—No. 27 of this season and the 472nd of his career. Then, after the Cardinals tied the score at 4-4, he contributed a single in a four-run sixth inning that also included singles by Hank Aaron, Gene Oliver, Frank Bolling and a double by Joe Torre.

McCarver Grand Slams
Tim McCarver tied the score for the Cardinals again with a grand slam homer in the bottom of the eighth but Mathews came right back in the top of the ninth with his fourth hit of the game—a two-run single—and relief ace Billy O'Dell protected the lead in the St. Louis ninth. O'Dell received credit for his ninth win compared with four losses. Only a .233-hitter in 1964 and a big question mark when the 1965 season began, Mathews is batting .259 with 17 doubles, 27 homers and 82 runs batted in.

Chris Short beat the Dodgers for the fifth straight time this season and for the seventh consecutive time since June, 1964, with a six-hitter. He had the Dodgers shut out until the ninth when Jim Lefebvre hit his ninth homer. Richie Allen singled home two runs when the Phillies drove out Johnny Podres with four runs in the third. The win raised Short's record to 14-8 and made Podres' 4-6.

Shaw Gets Win
Bob Shaw pitched a four-hitter to win his sixth straight game and 13th of the season for the Giants, who scored the winning run in the eighth on a walk to Willie Mays, Willie McCovey's single and a sacrifice fly by Jim Ray Hart. Mays also hit his 33rd homer for the Giants and Chuck Hiller homered for the Mets. Roberts spun a four-hitter, walking only two batters and retiring the last 13 in order.

Randy Has Finish Sports Officials Worried on Meet

HELSINKI (UPI) — Randy Matson, holder of the world shotput record from Pampa, Tex., is in Finland, but nobody knows why. The Finnish track and field association last Friday sent Matson a plane ticket to bring him here from Norway, where big Randy was supposed to be at that time.

The ticket was returned from Oslo with a note from Norwegian sports officials saying Randy was not in Norway. On Saturday evening, Matson showed up in Helsinki after a trip from Umeaa, Sweden.

Matson was supposed to compete in Savonranta, Finland, on Sunday. Finnish officials hastily offered Randy a helicopter transportation from Helsinki to Savonranta on Sunday morning. Matson preferred staying in bed in the Otaniemi sports village, Helsinki.

The Texan informed worried Finnish sports officials that he will compete in Finland only once, that is on Wednesday this week and it must be in Helsinki. There is a problem, however, in his: There is no track and field meet on Wednesday in Helsinki.

A member of the United States track team which recently lost to Russia for the first time in dual competition was expected to give joint blame today to the feuding NCAA and the AAU for the defeat. A Senate committee investigating the long and bitter hassle between the two major U.S. amateur sports organizations called Tom Farrell of St. John's University to testify about the effects of the feud on the American team.

The world university games, featuring some 2,500 men and women athletes from 33 countries, begin here Friday with the United States and Russia expected to field strong teams. The U. S. squad, including several Olympic gold medal winners, and the Russian delegation can expect tough competition from such countries as Poland, Czechoslovakia, host Hungary and representatives of Eastern Europe. Nine branches of sports will be contested, with competition lasting 10 days until Aug. 29.

Sports Parade

BY MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — There seems to be some question whether professional golfers rightfully should be considered athletes and wouldn't you know it, they're not even sure themselves.

Some say yes, others say no, and if it'll help them any, this is to let them know that most insurance companies do not classify them along with other jobs are concerned.

professional athletes insofar as the physical hazards of their. No matter what the insurance companies claim, however, no one really could contradict the fact that U.S. Open champion Gary Player and burly Mike Souchak, former end on Duke's football team, measure up as legitimate athletes in every aspect that the term implies.

Oddy, Player doesn't think golfers can be called athletes, most of them, anyway. Souchak, on the other hand, insisted all of them actually are. "Of all the sports, golfer are less athletes than any I can possibly think of," declared the wiry, 29-year-old Player.

"By athletes, I'm referring to fellows who have lots of stamina," Player went on. "Golfers lack stamina such as track men and football players have. I know the true definition of an athlete and I certainly consider myself one. But I trained myself to become one. It didn't just happen."

Player Trained Hard
Born and raised in Johannesburg, South Africa, the muscular little Player probably trained harder than any other golfer on the tour today. And he still goes in for a great deal of exercise now. Player adheres to a strict weight-training routine, does a lot of rope skipping to sharpen his timing and coordination and makes it a point to run a few miles each week.

"The average golfer pro on the Player said. "There's a big difference. I feel the pros of the next generation all will be athletes, but all of them certainly aren't now."

Souchak, who looks as if he could still play football, took a completely different stand from Player. "All golfers are athletes," he insisted. "I was an athlete in college and still consider myself one now. I think I've worked harder at golf than I ever did at football. Physically, I mean. "When I wasn't going good in football, the coach would sit me on the bench. No one does that to you in golf. "Also, when I was playing football, I could always holler 'time' and get some help. I can't do it here. If you bust a signal in football, they can get someone to replace you. No one replaces you here."

Stomach Takes Beating
"The punishment you take in golf isn't visible. You have to be inside a golfer's stomach to see how much he suffers when he three-putts a green."

Most of those people who never will be convinced that pro golfers are athletes cite the cases of such 53-year-olds as Ben Hogan and Sam Snead and point out those two still compete on the tour occasionally. They argue nobody that age can be considered a true athlete.

Lionel Hebert disagrees. "Hogan still has all the skill," he said, "even if his legs can't keep up with some of the younger fellows. He still does a good job when he competes."

"I think any pro golfer definitely is an athlete. Just because we don't do push-ups and run around the block doesn't mean we're not athletes. In golf, you have to be either very skillful or very strong. If you happen to be both, you'll make a lot of money in this game."

There you have some of the pros and cons. Now judge for yourself. But don't be influenced simply because they play the game with a ball. Remember, they use one also in roulette.

Colts, Nazareth Play Doubleheader In Pampa Tonight

The Pampa Colts host Nazareth in a double-header, beginning at 6:30 tonight at Optimist club park. The Colts need to sweep both games of the twinbill to claim second place in the Irrigation League. Nazareth needs only a split to take the runner-up spot from the Colts. "Borger has won the league, having lost only two games, both in the last week. Borger lost to Pampa 7-5 last Thursday and was stopped by Nazareth, 5-4, Sunday. Bobby Price and Jerry Glover will pitch for the Colts with Ricky Stewart at second, Roy Don Stephens in center, Larry Gregory catching; Larry Stroud at first, Mike Stewart in left, Dean Reding in right, Kenny Hebert at short and Phil Massie at third.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less.

You May Be Mistaken

If you think this country has an operational defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles, you're in good company.

You are wrong and they are wrong. There is no such thing as yet.

The opinion survey was taken some months ago to find out what the American people know about our missile defense capabilities.

An unanswered question is where so many people got so much misinformation.

The key word is "operational." It was in July 1962 that a Nike Zeus made the first successful intercept of a ballistic missile over the Pacific.

A Very Costly Minute

Glance at your watch as you start reading this. If your reading speed is fairly average, it will take you 63 seconds a minute and three seconds to read this article.

From the time you start reading here until you finish, it will cost you, as a taxpayer, $183,706 to meet the payroll of the estimated nine and a half million civilian employees of federal, state and local governments in this country.

This is the payroll you and the rest of us maintain to support government employees in the style to which they are becoming accustomed.

Conflict of Interest

The fact that Abe Fortas, President Johnson's new appointee to the Supreme Court, has been closely associated with Mr. Johnson through the years and is reputed to have influenced several appointments to key positions, brings up once again the question of conflict of interest.

One point raised is that Fortas has influenced the decision to appoint Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach and Internal Revenue Commissioner Sheldon Cohen. Presumably any case brought before the nation's highest court by either of these two would be grounds for Justice Fortas to disqualify himself from participation.

One party, noting that Mrs. Fortas is a top-ranking tax attorney in her own right wondered what would happen if Mrs. Fortas were to appear on one side and Commissioner Cohen on the other.

The question of conflict of interest has not been raised much since the Democrats came into power.

Rocky Not A Candidate

Gov. Nellie Rockefeller, who hadn't been asked as far as we know, says he won't be a candidate for president in 1968. Well, catalogued as "under development."

The Army is currently pinning its hopes on the Nike X, a two-missile team combining the Zeus and a smaller, faster missile called Sprint.

Possibly the very lack of information since the 1962 test has misled many of us into believing that the complicated technical problems of anti-ICBM warfare have been solved.

At any rate, the grisly arithmetic of nuclear war remains unchanged. According to Betts, an all-out nuclear attack on this country today would claim the lives of two out of every three Americans.

2.5 million civilian workers employed by the federal government alone, with payrolls nudging $16 billion per year — about half again as much as ten years ago.

The fiscal 1964 budget would increase the number by 36,000 or about one new job every 15 minutes throughout 1964.

State and local governments employ some 6.9 million workers now, compared to some 4.5 million 19 years ago.

To top it off, a number of pay raises are being considered this year, not only by Congress but by governments at all levels.

Nationalist Chinese troops will not be used to fight the Viet Cong, President Johnson brusquely cut off questions on that, saying, "That can't be done. There are good reasons against it."

Defense Secretary McNamara strongly intimated the Army had given "erroneous information" to the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee about serious weapons and equipment shortages.

So, technically, just about everyone in political government will have a conflict of interest between his own private activities, past and present, and his political position.

anyway, there's always good old Harold Stassen. We note Rocky didn't say anything about supporting the candidate of the (what's-its-name?) party.

Timetable for Peace in Viet Nam Mentioned — Fleeting — at White House Conferences: Only News

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON, — President Johnson and his military and civilian advisers have a 116-day timetable to bring North Viet Nam to the conference chamber.

This is the one single important piece of information unveiled during those two days of elaborately fanfared White House briefings for members of Congress on the Viet Nam conflict.

That's all that can be reported about this intriguing item. Nothing more was said about it.

It was passingly mentioned in the course of a 15-minute otherwise general statement by Secretary Rusk about Southeast Asia. Beyond a fleeting reference to a 116-day timetable to bring about Viet Nam peace negotiations, he said nothing more regarding it.

Curiously, later no questions were asked. None of the legislators pursued the matter further. It was left dangling in the air — unexplained and unexplained.

Lesser disclosures, elicited chiefly by questions, were: Nationalist Chinese troops will not be used to fight the Viet Cong, President Johnson brusquely cut off questions on that, saying, "That can't be done. There are good reasons against it."

UN Secretary General U Thant is reluctant to place the Viet Nam problem before the Security Council because, "This would embarrass the six non-permanent members." Ambassador Arthur Goldberg revealed this.

Secretary Rusk, in discussing U. S. relations with India and Pakistan, admitted those with the latter are strained because large amounts of aid are being withheld.

"Why don't we cut off aid to both of these countries?" demanded Senator John Pastore, R-I, whose stentorian keynote address at the 1964 Democratic convention was a dramatic highlight and was effusively praised by President Johnson.

A startled silence followed Pastore's blunt exclamation. Finally, Rusk soothingly replied, "Oh, we couldn't do that. These two nations constitute a vast subcontinent with more than 600 million people. India, particularly, is of utmost importance. It must not be allowed to fall into chaos and turmoil. It must be helped in every way possible. To fail to do that would be playing into the hands of the Communists."

Senator John Tower, R-Tex., member of the Armed Services Committee, spoke up. "What about Singapore's secession from the Federation of Malaysia? What effect will that have on our position in Southeast Asia?"

Rusk cheerily dismissed this disturbing development as "relatively unimportant." He attributed the split to pronounced racial differences between Singapore and Malaysia.

"What about the 'domino theory'?" Rusk was asked, "that if one of these countries goes, all Southeast Asia goes?"

General Maxwell Taylor, asked about the high rate of desertions in the South Viet Nam army, acknowledged it is a "problem," but claimed measures are underway to cope with it.

At each session President Johnson introduced the Cabinet members and other officials present. They included Ambassador Averell Harriman, CIA Director William Raborn, General Earle Wheeler, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Leonard Marks, new head of the U. S. Information Agency, Eugene Black, chairman of a special panel studying Southeast Asian development.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski has a lot of summer jobs at his disposal, and was recently caught dealing them out a requested by various Congressmen instead of on the basis of need.

Gronouski has now been rebuked by the White House according to a copyrighted story in the Des Moines Register and Minneapolis Tribune, and has promised to bestow the remaining summer jobs through the U.S. Employment Service and local agencies.

Just a reminder that the Great Society can become one big paradise for politicians, patronage peddlers, boondogglers and plain graiter — and will unless all of us remain on constant alert against this danger.
