Rioting Flares Anew In LA Negro Section

Muslim Quarters Attacked

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police and National Guardsmen today unleashed a barrage of gunfire into a Black Muslim mosque in the heart of a Negro neighborhood where weeklong rioting had been declared ended.

Officers opened up with pistols, rifles and shotguns after several heavily-armed Negroes were reported to have entered the building and fired on police. Eight Negroes suffered head injuries in scuffling with police who charged into the temple.

It was the latest of several violent new incidents in the Negro district torn by killing, arson and looting since last Wednesday night. With a force of 15,000 guard troops and police in the area, Gov. Edmund G. Brown Tuesday lifted a dusk to dawn curfew.

Violent new incidents followed. They included the attack on the mosque of the militantly anti-white Black Muslims; the critical wounding of a Negro questioning in the wake of shooting at the Muslim mosque.

Shooting spread briefly to nearby streets.

Only last Sunday members of the Black Muslim group had been addressed by Marquette Frye, whose arrest for drunken driving sparked the nation's worst Negro uprising of the century.

He was quoted as having told the Muslims, "these troops do not mean a thing. They haven't seen anything yet."

Frye was out on bail after pleading guilty to misdemeanor drunken driving, malicious mischief and battery.

In today's disturbance a veteran's social club and a barber shop were riddled.

A garage near the mosque was set ablaze by a firebomb and the streets around the Muslim headquarters were littered with shell casings from pistols and shotguns.

United Press International photographer Glenn Wagner said four Negroes fired at his automobile as he drove on the Harbor Freeway toward the mosque.

The mosque was the scene of a fatal shooting incident three years ago. One man was killed and a dozen others, including several police, were wounded in a sidewalk gunfight between officers and a band of Muslims.

April 27, 1962. Eleven men were sentenced to prison last March for their part in the incident.

Today's violence erupted as the city moved to rehabilitate the lives and property of thousands of Negro residents of the 46-square mile Watts district where 35 persons died, more than 800 were injured and damage amounted to nearly $200 million in rioting unprecedented in this century.

In another development city and federal officials began charging each other with being at least partly to blame for the rioting. A bitter quarrel erupted between Mayor Samuel W. Yorth and R. Sargent Shriver, federal anti-poverty director. Each contended the other inflamed tensions in the Negro community.

Marines Launch Biggest Attack Yet Against Reds

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines supported by strafing planes and the big guns of the fleet launched their biggest attack of the Vietnamese war today against an estimated Communist regiment 20 miles south of Chu Lai.

First reports said the Marines had suffered only light casualties.

Bombing and strafing American war planes and artillery added their high explosives to the attack. The light cruiser Galveston, which mounts six 6-inch and six 5-inch guns, assisted the action from the sea.

The Marines were fighting against opposition described as "very tough" in rugged, heavily wooded terrain pock-marked with well-fortified and concealed gun emplacements.

The battle south of Chu Lai, named operation "Starlight" by the Marines, was one of three major operations under way in the I Corps area, northernmost of South Viet Nam's four military districts.

Just three miles from the big American air base at Da Nang, some 50 miles above Chu Lai on the South China seacoast, Marines ferried by amphibious tractors, rubber boats, armored vehicles and helicopters hit the village complex of Cam Ne.

It was a clear and hold operation designed to extend the air base defensive perimeter into an area from which the Marines had been under continuing sniper and mortar fire.

The Marines intend to occupy the area. Non-Communist villagers will be held in special camps until the fighting is over and then allowed to return to their homes.

In the third operation, South Vietnamese government forces are conducting a massive search and destroy action in Quang Tri, the South Vietnamese province closest to Communist North Viet Nam.

Government forces have killed at least 71 Reds in four days of fighting in the Bo Lang Valley which earlier was the target of Guam-based U.S. B52 bombers.

Five individual weapons and two crew-served weapons were captured, along with 130 pounds of TNT, 3 machine gun barrels, 17 bazooka shells and about 1,000 rounds of small arms ammunition.

The Cam Ne operation was designed to expand the Da Nang defense perimeter and liquidate enemy forces which have been harassing Marine positions. Attacks originating in the Red villages have inflicted moderate casualties on the Marines in the past three weeks.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — a 7,500-pound miracle of modern science with a living room about the size of two cozy telephone booths.

This, for 121 trips around the world at speeds ranging up to 17,500 miles per hour, was to be their home through eight eight days and 3,140,000 miles in space. The best the Russians have done was the 119-hour orbital voyage of cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky two years ago.

The astronauts, their rocket and space capsule, the globe-girdling tracking network and recovery force, and the weather were all in top shape.

Space veteran Cooper and rookie Conrad expected to get to bed relatively early tonight—their last chance to rest before the suiting up begins around dawn Thursday.

Technical crews, meanwhile, stood ready at pad 19 to begin pouring more than 300,000 pounds of liquid propellant into the cavernous metal stomachs of the Titan-2's first and second stages tonight.

The fiery lift-off was set for 8 a.m. CST Thursday. They planned to return to a landing in the Atlantic Ocean a few minutes before 8 a.m. CST Aug. 27.

In between is a planned 191 hours, 13 minutes in which Cooper, the pilot with the Oklahoma drawl, and co-pilot Conrad stand a chance to virtually rewrite the manned spaceflight record books.

The Gemini-3 astronauts, who shook a "flu-like condition" to win their final medical clearances Tuesday, planned today to review their booster rocket—the towering Titan-2, a two-stage power-plant with enough muscle to "kick" them into an orbit 211 miles high.

Months of intensive training and their final physical examinations lay behind the spacemen. Barely 22 hours ahead was the last brief truck ride to Cape Kennedy's launch pad 19, where their 109-foot tall space machine awaited.

OUR MAN IN VIET NAM

War's Dark Side Makes US. Marines Want to Cry

EDITOR'S NOTE: Freedom Newspapers staff writer Sam Stinson, a 20 year veteran of the Marine Corps who has served in WW II campaigns at Guadalcanal, Saipan and Iwo Jima, reports first hand on the Viet Nam war via mailed dispatches. This is another in The News continuing coverage on the Asian conflict.

By SAM STINSON
Staff Writer

DA NANG — Today I heard a young Marine lieutenant say, "I feel like crying and I would cry if it could do any good."

If it would have done any good, I would have cried with him.

I spent the whole day, Aug. 2, with him and his platoon of riflemen. They were a good decent bunch of Americans. But today they learned the dark side of war.

We had "jumped off" early this morning as the lead unit in a sweep by two rifle companies of the Third Marines against strongpoints of the Viet Cong. Things went smoothly at first. The lieutenant's well-trained troops searched and cleared one small village after another. No shooting all morning.

Shortly after noon the lead squad rounded a bend in the valley, and encountered a Viet Cong sniper. Fire burst from the village ahead.

The lieutenant's troops responded. A fire team laid down a blanket of bullets. Two other fire teams fanned out and advanced by firing and zig-zagging. A squad circled to the left to take the village by flanking fire.

For months in the dense jungle areas of Okinawa, this platoon had practiced this maneuver over and over again. They were not just well trained; they were over trained. They had sweated and strained and suffered by the hours, the days, the weeks, the months.

Now, the payoff.

At last they had a real enemy. An enemy who had killed three of their buddies last week without even being seen or fired upon.

Without a word, the entire platoon rose and charged. Three Viet Cong ran through the rice paddies. A Marine marksman cut all three down with one burst of gunfire. Something in a doorway moved. Another Marine instinctively fired and hit the target.

A Viet Cong tossed a grenade from the mouth of a tunnel. Then he ran for another tunnel. A fire team leader shot but missed. Without hesitating, he jumped into the tunnel and sprayed it with a long burst of (See VIET NAM, Page 3)

Triumphant Sea-Going Reporter Recalls Voyage

FALMOUTH, England (UPI) — Solo sailor Robert Manry relaxed with his family today in a hotel overlooking the vast ocean he conquered in his tiny sailboat Tinkerbelle.

Refreshed by a long, hot bath and a stiff drink, Manry slept late. His wife, Virginia, and local police shielded him from hundreds of Britons anxious to shake hands with the man who sailed alone across the Atlantic.

The 48-year-old Cleveland Plain Dealer copy editor will be feted at an official welcome by the city Thursday.

His only other plans were to arrange for shipment of the 13½ foot Tinkerbelle to the United States, rest up after his voyage and return to Cleveland in time for work on Aug. 29.

City officials and about 20,000 vacationers cheered when he arrived here Tuesday at the end of his 3,200-mile voyage.

His first act was to kneel and kiss the ground. Then he hugged his wife and kissed their children, Robin, 13, and Douglas, 11.

Tinkerbelle—the smallest boat ever to make the west-east Atlantic voyage—was taken under pedded them to the crowd for 35 cents apiece.

Manry's voyage began June 1 in Falmouth, Mass. Only his family knew of his plans — he didn't even tell colleagues on the newspaper because "I didn't want any fuss — I would have been embarrassed."

Indictments Against Cross Returned Early

AUSTIN (UPI) — James C. Cross Jr., 22, was indicted Tuesday on charges he strangled two University of Texas coeds a month ago today.

The double indictment was returned two days earlier than expected. There were reports that it was to prevent Cross' lawyers from being granted an examining trial.

But Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell denied it. He said the grand jury did not even know the defense asked for an examining trial.

Cross will appear before Dist. Judge Mace B. Thurman Jr. Aug. 26. The judge will then set the trial date, probably for September. The defense is expected to request a delay until early next year when new court rules go into effect.

Cross is charged with slaying Susan Riggsby and Shirley Ann Stark, both 21, at his Austin apartment July 18.

One indictment says Cross killed Miss Riggsby July 18 "by choking and strangling her with his hands, and by choking and strangling her with her clothes and by strangling her with some instrument to the grand jurors unknown, and did then and there voluntarily and with malice aforethought kill Susan Riggsby in a manner and means to the grand jury unknown."

The wording of the indictment listing Miss Stark is similar. Although Cross was not in the courtroom when the indictments were returned, Judge Thurman banned the taking of pictures. He cited the Supreme Court decision in the Billie Sol Estes case.

The Supreme Court set aside Estes' state conviction because his Tyler, Tex. trial was televised.

Cross has been held without bond in the Travis County jail since Aug. 6 when he signed a confession admitting that he had strangled the students and then dumped their bodies in a field.

Javits Pressing Shriver Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., today pressed his attempt to force R. Sargent Shriver to remove one of his two hats as head of the Peace Corps and field marshal of President Johnson's war on poverty.

Javits' move was contained in an amendment to the administration's request for authorization to spend $1.65 billion on the poverty campaign this year. The measure is now before the Senate.

The amendment would bar Shriver, a brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, from holding any other federal office as long as he is director of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which administers the poverty program.

Earlier this year Javits succeeded in getting the Senate to attach a similar amendment to the Peace Corp bill. But the amendment was removed when the measure was compromised with the House version.

The Senate has been debating the poverty bill since the beginning of the week. So far it has beaten back Republican attempts to trim the bill and to restore absolute veto power over poverty projects to state governors.

Special FBI Team Called In To Probe Crash of Jetliner

CHICAGO (UPI) — Government investigators today tried to piece together the mystery of United Air Lines flight 389, a giant Boeing 727 that carried 30 persons to their death in Lake Michigan.

A U.S. Navy spokesman at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, north of Chicago, said investigators believe they have pinpointed the spot where the plane crashed into the lake about 20 miles offshore in about 200 feet of water.

After more than 24 hours of searching the choppy waters of the lake off Chicago's northern suburb, the Coast Guard had retrieved tons of twisted debris but only six bodies and part of another. Four of the bodies were identified.

A special "disaster team" of FBI agents flew here Tuesday from Washington to join other federal agencies in probing the causes of the sudden crash.

Edward E. Slattery, a spokesman for the Civil Aeronautics Board, said investigators were considering the possibility that a bomb had been planted aboard the plane. He said such consideration was routine.

The New York-to-Chicago air- Monday night, only minutes from a scheduled landing at O'Hare International Airport. Scores of witnesses reported seeing a huge ball of fire over the lake at the moment the plane vanished from radar screens at O'Hare.

Investigators sought to find clues to two key questions surrounding the mysterious crash: —What caused the virtually brand new airliner to plunge suddenly into the lake from its routine landing approach pattern at 6,000 feet altitude? —Did the ball of flame occur before the plane hit the water or at the moment of impact?

IT'S NOT A PRETTY SIGHT

Closed Jail Reopened for LA Rioters

EDITOR'S NOTE: Several months ago, a forbidding concrete fortress known as Lincoln Heights jail was closed—the city of Los Angeles thought permanently. It was reactivated suddenly when the city experienced the worst Negro riot of the century and the majority of an estimated 3,000 persons arrested were imprisoned within its walls. In the following personal report, a UPI reporter tells of a visit to the jail and its makeshift courtrooms where hundreds of suspected rioters face the bar of justice.

By KENNETH INOUE
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — My press pass got me by the outer perimeter of this forbidding concrete fortress that is the Lincoln Heights jail.

The shotgun-toting police officer and his National Guard companion waved me past the road barricade after a cursory check. I walked on. No cars were allowed.

A second team of sentries stopped me at the main entrance to the courtroom section. "Everybody going in has to be searched," the officer with a shotgun said in a friendly but firm tone.

Feeling a bit foolish, I raised my arms. With the shotgun pointing away from me in his one hand, he used his other to frisk my coat, pockets and pants legs. As he was searching me, I suddenly remembered my aluminum comb.

I quickly told him about the comb before he searched that pocket. I was afraid he'd think it was a knife.

"We'll let you keep that," he said smilingly.

Still feeling sheepish, I looked around to see if others besides the officer and his partner saw me being frisked. I looked right into a camera. A policewoman had just taken my picture. By then, I began, for some reason, to feel guilty.

My mind was diverted by the sound of hundreds of voices above us.

They came from the thousands arrested during the bloody Negro uprising. They sounded merry as their loud chatter, singing and laughter blended

New Push on Saline Water Conversion

I was privileged to be at the White House on August 11 as President Johnson signed into law a bill we had passed in the House and Senate to step up research efforts in water desalination. As the Nation faces twin prospects of declining water reserves and growing population, it is essential that we find new, efficient, and economical ways to remove salt and minerals from sea water along our coasts and from brackish water inland.

During the Rose Garden ceremony, President Johnson expressed the hope that by 1970 a research breakthrough would be achieved making possible desalting plants capable of producing 100 million gallons per day of potable water. This is a goal long dreamed of; the country would benefit immeasurably were we able to provide desalinated municipal and industrial water supplies in quantity at low cost. However, there is no firm prospect that the goal is technologically obtainable.

In the past five years, approximately $80 million has been spent on what amounts to refinements of the ages-old distillation process of purifying salt water. I helped originate the saline water conversion program in 1952, and I have been proud that its extension has come over the years only after our House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs was satisfied that research and development funds would be spent on concrete, worthwhile projects. This year, as legislative recommendations came before the Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation, of which I am chairman, I was deeply disturbed that desalination "experts" in and out of Government were seeking a $200 million blank check to pursue ill-defined goals by means and methods not adequately explained. Our Subcommittee gave its approval to a $10 million program extension whose costs were spelled out in detailed objectives. Our view prevailed as the bill passed the House. The Senate boosted the total. In the final, enacted version of the measure, Congress is to have the opportunity to approve research and development plans to be proposed during the five year program extension period. There are now five pilot or demonstration plants each testing a separate conversion system—at Freeport, Texas; Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba; Wrightsville Beach, N.C.; Webster, S. D., and Roswell, N. M.

The pilot plants built at Webster and Roswell were designed to find a means of providing pure water for smaller U. S. cities now faced with brackish supplies. Small plants are going to be needed because a survey by the American Water Works Association indicates that more than 1,220 U.S. communities are using brackish water. In addition, attaining the ability to build small plants would greatly aid local communities now forced to import water supplies by pipeline from long distances. Many of these communities do have water sources near at hand; the problem is that the nearby water is not fit to drink and can be made so only after a desalination process. Research will be pushed in this important aspect of the problem.

The dramatic focus in saline conversion is on such population centers as New York City which face catastrophe if water problems are not solved. The Northeastern drought is now four years old. A fifth year of drought could bankrupt water supplies for New York and many other cities of the Northeast. It is possible that a combination nuclear power-desalting plant will be constructed to serve the New York area along lines similar to a plan developed recently for Los Angeles area interests.

We need to discover new and revolutionary processes. Unless this is done, the cost of fuel in the operation of present methods could prevent reduction of cost to the point that such water could be used for irrigation purposes. The crying need for the water-scarce areas throughout the world is not only for water for human consumption but also water to grow much-needed food.

Connally Bill Retention Favored By Local Chamber

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce has gone on more or less an unofficial record as being against repealing the Connally Amendment.
The Connally Amendment limits the acceptance of the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice, a part of the United Nations, to strictly international affairs as determined by the United States of America.
In 1946 when Sen. Wayne Morse introduced a resolution approving the world court, under which just about any matter could be brought before the court, Sen. Tom Connally of Texas offered an amendment to limit the jurisdiction to international matters, "as determined by the United States." This was adopted and ever since efforts have been underway in Congress to get it repealed.
Red Wedgworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber, said the board of directors has not officially discussed the matter, but informally have indicated they favor retention of the amendment.
The United States Chamber of Commerce has started going in to the amendment and has indicated it is interested in repealing the Connally amendment.

paid assignment and sent Manry's family to England to meet him.
Mrs. Manry had some anxious moments when clouds and fog hid the cockleshell sailboat for several days during the last week of the yoyage.
It finally was sighted Monday, 50 miles off the coast, but it took another 36 hours to reach the harbor.
Manry sported a handlebar moustache—he shaved off his beard for a reunion with his wife at sea two days ago.
He told a press conference about giant waves which knocked him overboard and hallucinations brought on by pep pills.
The worst part of his trip, he said, was "when the rudder broke and I drifted around the Atlantic for a few days."
"Another exciting moment came when I was washed overboard six times . . . the waves hit Tinkerbell broadside and tipped her over. Part of the time I had a lifeline, but on other occasions I just had to grab something and pull myself back on board."
He said his food supplies and fresh water held out well and he "managed to sleep almost every night."
Manry took "keep awake" pills while crossing major shipping lines.
"They began to make me have hallucinations. At one point I looked for a landing in the middle of the ocean," he said.
"Another time, I imagined a fellow had my son in my boat and he was going to kill him," he said. "My son and the fellow were in the cabin and I was outside and couldn't get in," he said.

Bodies Found Of Meredith Victims

The bodies of a 13-year-old boy and 36-year-old man were recovered from Lake Meredith this morning. The pair were the first drowning victims of the lake.

The Hutchinson County Sheriff's office said the bodies came to the surface of the lake at 9:30 a.m. and 11:35 a.m.

Unsuccessful dragging and skin diving operations had been underway since the drowning Sunday afternoon.

The victims were Willie Lacey, 13, and Clarence McClenny, both of Amarillo.

McClenny dived into the water in an attempt to rescue the boy who had fallen from a cabin cruiser.

through.

To get to the cell area from the first floor booking station and courtrooms, prisoners must pass through dimly lit concrete passageways, like medieval dungeons. Although it's muggy outside, a cool breeze filters through.

The jail is surrounded on three sides by grimy, antiquated buildings and bail bondsmen's offices and on the fourth by freight tracks and the Los Angeles River flood control aqueduct. It's just north of the civic center.

Two of the four downstairs courtrooms are makeshift, to arraign the prisoners as soon as possible.

Groups of young and middle-aged prisoners, unsmiling and bewildered, appear before the judge who advises them of their constitutional rights to counsel, speedy trial by jury or non-jury and whether they understand the charges filed against them.

A few of the older ones nod that they do. The younger ones look self-conscious as if the legal terminology comes from another planet. Few ask questions.
A striking contrast was apparent in their dress. Some are wearing discolored T-shirts, spotty jeans, dirty sneakers, and no socks. Others are dressed neatly in dark slacks, solid-colored sport shirts and shoes somehow till shiny.

Payments: Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler was scheduled to appear before the Senate international finance subcommittee. He was expected to tell members a second quarter surplus in the U.S. balance of payments shows the national is headed in the right direction in its campaign to halt the outflow of dollars.
Wages: The House Labor and Education Committee was expected to give formal approval to a proposal to raise the federal minimum wage from $1.25 to $1.75 an hour. The proposal also would extend coverage of the minimum wage to an additional 7.2 million workers and bring farm workers under protection of the wage and hour law for the first time.

the area last week with what the spokesman described as "great difficulty" and then withdrew. Today the battalion commanded by Lt. Col. George Scharnberg of Vista, Calif., went there to stay.
The Marines used amphibious tractors, rubber boats, helicopters and armored vehicles to seal off the area.
Contact was first made with the enemy at 8:17 a.m. The operation was expected to take two days to complete.
Civilians were warned by helicopter loudspeakers and leaflets to move to a area designated as "safe" by the Marines before the attack. Refugees were screened and will be held at special camps until the area is secured. When the fighting is finished, they will be allowed to return to their homes.

gunfire.
The first thing I saw when I entered the village was a woman lying in the doorway of her hut with her left side shot out. She lived only a few more minutes.
Then I saw a boy, about 12 years old, shot in the chest. Cowering in a hole was another boy, even younger. He had a bullet through his left arm.
Someone ran from the last hut heading for the dense brush to the left. A Marine fired by reflex. An old man fell dead with a bullet through his heart.
Some Marines about 50 yards to our right yelled that they had a Viet Cong trapped in a tunnel. A young Pfc. threw in a hand grenade. Then he jumped in before the dirt settled and sprayed the inside with sub-machinegun bullets.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

National Flower Show Judges met in Amarillo last week for the last workshop of the summer. Mrs. Joe Miller, national rose judge of Amarillo, gave information and instructions on judging of roses. The many fine specimens of roses which were exhibited were from the Graham Gardens of Amarillo. Mrs. W. T. Graham is also a National Flower Show judge and furnishes flowers for many occasions. The Graham Gardens are open to the public for viewing at any time. It is worth a special trip to Amarillo. The address is 4111 Plains Blvd., or where Plains and 10th St. intersect. The evergreens seen just west of Sunset Shopping Center are on the Graham grounds.

Also on the program for the Judges meeting was a demonstration of flower arranging by a young Japanese woman, Nagae Tsutsumi, from Tokyo, Japan, who is a guest in the Marshall Gordon home in Amarillo. We feel very fortunate in being able to arrange to have this young woman come to Pampa to present the final program in a series of flower arranging classes. She will be here on August 25 at 2 p. m. in Lovett Library to present the program on Japanese Arrangements. There will be no charge and the public is invited. Since she has been an instructor for five years in a Japanese school for arranging flowers, we feel especially fortunate to get her.

To continue where last week's article left off on the subject of a compost heap, many scraps from the kitchen may be added, as well as leaves, grass clippings, weeds, etc. from the garden. Potato peelings, fruit and vegetable peels, crushed eggshells, coffee grounds, tea leaves as they accumulate from each meal can be carried out and dug under the compost to decay. The crushed eggshells contain a considerable quantity of calcium and a small amount of nitrogen.

Hard, woody material should not be placed on the compost heap; it should be burned and the ashes, a good potash fertilizer, sprinkled on the heap or stored under cover until needed.

The structure of the compost should be made up of alternating layers of the organic refuse and soil, and animal manures if obtainable. The animal manures greatly increase the fertility of the compost. Peat moss can be used if manure is not available. A good healthy soil which is teeming with biologic life accelerates the decomposition of organic matter.

It is wise to add an occasional sprinkling of ground limestone to the pile during the process of building. When all material has been placed in layers, soak thoroughly with hose and cover entirely with 3 inches soil, weed firmed down. The top is left saucer-shaped to receive and absorb rainfall. Do not let he a p dry out at any time. At end of 3 months remake entire heap, turning inside out, if rapid decomposition is desired.

There is no need for a compost pile to smell bad. A well-made heap, using lime and covering with a layer of soil, is not likely to give off any objectionable odor.

An article entitled "A Poet's Garden" in the Autumn issue of Popular Gardening and Living Outdoors is about the home and gardens of Phyllis McGinley, author of "Sixpence in Her Shoe" and "Butter for Better or For Worse, But Not For Lunch". About gardening Phyllis says "The trouble with gardening is that it does not remain an avocation. It becomes an obsession . . . a habit as wasteful as drink, nearly as obsessive a drug." This statement was made several years ago when she and her husband decided to "do away with their beloved garden before it did away with them." As she FEMININE TEEN LOOK — Casual clothes for the miss and junior miss take on a trim, feminine look this season. Vest look (left) is from Stacey Ames for young collegiates, careerists or young marrieds. The denim-look dress of Arnel and rayon frames a deep V of bright horizontal stripes. Buttons suggest a coachman wrap at the widened waistline. Skirt has panel pleats. For the junior petite, the pretty, sleeveless skimmer from Kelly Arden (right) has just a hint to make the waistline willowy. Huge scallops outline the deep scoop of the neckline and a checkered fill-in keeps the plunge from becoming perilous.

Today's Children Have Accepted Nuclear War

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It was Ray Bradbury, I think, who wrote the science fiction tale about how the machines of earth go on clicking and whirring after an invasion from outer space has destroyed its people.

I don't remember who the invaders were, because what was memorable wasn't their identity. It was the chilling end of the mindless, continuing functioning of metal cylinders and electrical circuits when all meaning and purpose of the functioning had ceased to exist.

I've been reminded of this story by a comment from a reader who protests a recent column on what seems to me to be the ideocy of fallout shelter put it, 'since we can't take it calmly, we're leaving it alone.' But they forsook their resolution because, as she says, "Gardening is creation in the pure sense. To be able to walk about a border and smell the fragrances of verbenas, to speak a personal word to each painted daisy; to pull up a wild onion or congratulate the tuberous begonia you have steered past the nursery stage and into preposterous flower-those are pleasures past explaining."

Schools Fight The Litterbug War Too

NEW YORK (UPI) — Schools have a litter problem, too.

Keep America Beautiful (KAB) sampled a cross-section of schools nationwide to determine if school children are litterbugs.

The national anti-litter organization got an affirmative answer and at the same time found that the young scholars have well defined litter habits.

The most littered spots at school, the survey showed, are playgrounds, washrooms, and sidewalks. Lunchrooms and locker rooms are runners up. The school room itself isn't exempt.

KAB recommends that schools take on anti-litter programs. The survey showed that schools with good anti-litter programs don't have serious litter problems.

Don't tell me she doesn't know what she's talking about with this euphoric commitment to heroic pioneering in the post-nuclear war world.

I'm not talking about her knowledge of what that world will be. I'm talking about feeling—and her struggle to kill those feelings of hope, of faith and human community which are as essential to healthy young human life as food and exercise.

How many of our children accept the inevitability of nuclear war? How many are secretly preparing themselves to maintain life on their dead earth?

How can we know how many?

Watch for a new collar treatment to catch on. It's the idea of Paris's young Louis Feraud, who does away with the conventional collars on some of his fall and winter coats and substitutes wool yarns to form a ruff around the throat! The yarns have to look of pom-poms and are of the same fiber as the coats.

Lota Pounds Off TOPS Has Meet

Mrs. Augusta Brown was named the weekly queen and presented the fruit bowl by Lota Pound Off TOPS Club when the group met Monday evening in Central Baptist Church Basement.

Club leader, Mrs. Brown, presented a scrapbook to the group and led the business session at which the secretary's report was heard and correspondence was read. Those present held a discussion on an area caption.

Meeting was opened by the group repeating the Club Pledge. Members present participated in the TOPS Ritual, and sang the Club Song to conclude the meeting.

Six members and two visitors were present.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 19
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A flood and desirable attitude on your part can put you way behind the eight ball and bring you some harsh opposition from others that can take away from what you are trying to put across. Try to see men & women as you are in their minds, not as your subconscious now gets you nowhere but fast.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Better think of your needs before you invest in something that will require more expenditure of money later. In your financial structure such that you can afford it. Be practical.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Even if you feel you need it, don't demand more than your fair share of any monies coming in to you from others. Get business and personal matters in better arrangement. Be kind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Avoid spouting with others in any very sensitive affairs, since these could lead to much trouble later. Be helpful instead. Show generosity and clear thinking that is more effective.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Some friends may try to get out of some joint project planned, so don't be forceful since this is only a temporary moment of doubt. Steer clear of social affairs. Trouble may ensue.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Be sure to speak softly when handling any public matters or show could be serious trouble brewing. Accomplish what you set out to do. Diplomacy and tact win the day for you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Although you want to go to some new and fascinating place, be wise and carry through with obligations. Please state an average. Drive for self-improvement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You have many bills in pay of civic and personal nature, so do not delay. Try not to argue with loved one. Do all in your power to regain peace and harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — A severe argument with an associate or another important one in your life could be disastrous. Be of a conciliatory attitude instead. Then all goes very well for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Take care not to take on more duties than you now have since you are already over-loaded. Labor in a quiet, balanced fashion. Assist those who work along with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Although you want to get out for some exciting winter recreation, it is wiser to lead in business. Please your rate associate. Don't go inviting trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) — Try not to get upset over any remarks made by some one, since they are not thinking very clearly now. Bid yourself of the useless. Avoid clutter of all kind.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) — Care

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The prickly heat season is here. This disease is especially common in infants when the weather is hot and sticky. It need not occur, however, if you avoid putting too much clothing on your baby in the daytime and too many blankets at night. If you do overdress your baby the opening of his sweat glands will become plugged and inflamed. This is prickly heat. Any area of his body may be affected but the neck, shoulders and chest are especially vulnerable.

Since the salt in his sweat aggravates this condition you should keep your baby's skin clean and dry in hot weather. Don't be afraid to remove his clothes. If itching appears to bother him dab calamine lotion with 1 per cent phenol on his skin in the affected areas.

Q — My granddaughter, 4 months old, has been spitting up her milk and baby food since birth. The baby doctor said not to worry but I'd like to know how to get her to stop.

A — All babies spit up some of their food when you burp them. If the doctor says not to worry he must be basing this on the fact that your granddaughter is making a normal gain in weight. This habit usually ceases when a baby starts to walk.

If the spitting up is excessive there are some things that can be done. Cut the fat content of the feedings and make sure, if the baby is bottle-fed, that the nipple holes are very small so the baby must work to get the milk instead of just letting it run down her throat.

Q — I have heard that there are two kinds of measles immunization. If my children have had one do they need the other? And for poliomyelitis should they have both the Salk and the Sabin vaccine?

A — One measles vaccine consists of a live but weakened measles virus that will give your children a very mild attack of the disease. The other is a killed virus vaccine.

The live virus vaccine has been improved and is perfectly safe. It is usually preferred except in children with heart disease because one shot confers a lasting immunity. Booster shots every 6 to 12 months are necessary if the killed virus vaccine is used.

The Sabin vaccine has largely replaced the Salk. Here again we are dealing with a killed virus vaccine (Salk) and a live virus vaccine (Sabin). No matter how many booster shots of Salk vaccine your children have had they should have the Sabin vaccine after which no boosters are required.

No child should be without this protection against two very treacherous diseases.

must be exercised in motion, etc. since the planets are not very favorable. Speak quietly and cautiously or there could be trouble. Then you can still forge ahead.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Broken Hip Keeps Her Down But Not Out

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is a husband-saver. I am almost immobilized with a broken hip, but can shift positions with a walker. A shoe bag, tied to the frame, hangs too low for me to reach the many small items needed during the day. A friend brought over her largest old purse and fastened it to the main bar of the walker. New tissues, my glasses, make-up, pad and pencil, pills and paperback books are all at my fingertips. I am so relieved not to cause a patient man any more steps than necessary.

—MRS. E. Z.
DEAR POLLY — When shopping for groceries on a rainy day, I take along a plastic shoulder protector from my clothes closet. This fits nicely over parcels in an ordinary grocery bag and keeps everything dry.

Cut off the suspenders from your little girl's outgrown skirts and make headbands out of them. They usually have a button on one end. Get out the very narrow elastic and cut a loop two or three inches long to go around the button. Sew it to the other end of the suspender but don't forget to try it on the child for the proper size. To make one takes less time than it took me to write this.

—MRS. F. S. M.
DEAR POLLY — My kitchen bulletin board is made from an old picture frame 18x24 inches, painted the color of the kitchen walls and backed with thin plywood covered with heavy green felt. Any memorandum or notice is easily attached to this felt-covered back with straight pins or map tacks. A supply of the pins and tacks is always kept in the felt.

On the bottom of the frame I have placed cup hooks which hold all types of scissors with one hook left over to hold a clip for a long, plain envelope. In this I place my "savings coupons" or extra stamp coupons. On the outside of the envelope I think of them from day to day. At the end of the week this envelope is put in my purse with the assurance I haven't forgotten something I had thought of on Monday.

—ALLIE
GIRLS—Don't you agree that Allie sounds like a very well-organized homemaker and one with an eye toward turning utilitarian items into decorative assets?

—POLLY
DEAR POLLY—I have just cleaned my kitchen cupboards, which reminded me to send this idea on to the other girls. In order to protect the painted wood around the drawers in the kitchen cabinets, place a piece of plastic-coated cloth tape (I use white as I have white woodwork, but this tape is available in colors) over the face of the cupboard and drawer divider strips. This prevents chipping of paint and when the tape is soiled it can easily be changed.

—MRS. J. E.
DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those students who have trouble making book reports in school. During the summer, when you read a good book, write down the author's name, important things in the book and anything else that might be used in a report. When school starts in the fall you will have plenty of material for book reports.

—P. T.
STUDENTS—Just be sure you read the right books. If you could obtain a list of the required reading for the next school year, this would make a wonderful guide for summer reading and would certainly relieve the pressure during the busy school term.

Naomi Class Members Enjoy Patio Party
Naomi Class of Central Baptist Church met Thursday evening in the home of the class teacher, Mrs. M. T. Buck, for a patio hamburger cook-out.
Mrs. J. R. Sparkman gave the invocation and, following the meal, presented the devotional, "Preparation for Revival," taken from Chronicles II, Chapter 7:14.
A business session was conducted by Mrs. C. L. Meadows and Mrs. Earl Griffin dismissed the group with prayer.
Welcomed as visitors were Mrs. Lois Johnson, former class member of Eldorado, Ark.; Mrs. W. H. Falls of Dallas, sister of Mrs. Buck, and Mrs. N. O. Padgett of Durant, Okla., mother of Mrs. E. B. Davis.
Members present were Mrs. Sparkman, Griffin, Meadows, Davis, J. H. Jackson, D. L. Lunsford, Buck and C. C. Miller.

58TH YEAR THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1965 5

Dear Abby....
If She's Old Enough To Multiply She Can Add

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter has announced that when she turns 18, in four months, she is getting married, and she wants "the whole show," as she puts it. She says the girl's father is supposed to pay for everything. Her father makes $5600 a year. There are three other children in our family, all younger. We are buying a $12,000 home and have a 30-year mortgage with 23 years left to pay. How much do parents owe their children? Should we borrow money to put on "the whole show"? I think if our daughter wants that kind of wedding, she should go to work, save her money and put it on herself.

I would like to add that when I got married, I didn't even get a wedding present from my folks. I knew they couldn't afford it. I asked for nothing, expected nothing and got nothing. But I loved them, and I knew they loved me, too. What makes young people today think that everything they want they have coming to them?

JUST PLAIN MA
DEAR MA: Your question is a good one. Young people who have been waited on and handed money for nothing develop the something-for-nothing attitude. Apparently your daughter hasn't been taught that a family is a team, and each member has to pull his share of the load and make a few sacrifices if necessary. If a girl is old enough to multiply, she's old enough to add. Tell her you can't afford "the whole show" and ring down the curtain on the whole subject.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man in my mid-40's, and I have always wanted to carry a cane, even though I am in good physical condition and do not need one to aid my walking. Is there any etiquette involved in this? Is it proper for a man to carry a cane only for "appearance's" sake? Or do you think it will look like an affectation? WANTS A CANE
DEAR WANTS: Many men carry canes for "appearance's." It lends a touch of elegance, providing the man is well-groomed, handsomely attired, and can carry a cane with grace. If you fit that description, get a cane.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure the woman and her husband who ask the waitresses a lot of personal questions must have been sitting at my station. You wouldn't believe how many people come in and ask, "What kind of accent do you have?" "Did you marry a G. I.?" "Since you didn't marry a G. I., where did you meet your husband?"

I don't mind answering a few questions from a nice little old couple who just want to make conversation. But once in a while you get a real pill, and the only way to stop him is to put him in his place by reversing the question and replying, "I met my husband in California. Where did you meet your wife?" This usually causes a stunned silence. But it always works.

Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER EIGHT ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 2, 1965

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 57 proposing an Amendment to Section 1-a of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding to said Section as presently written, the following provisions: requiring automatic retirement of certain District and Appellate Judges at age seventy-five (75) or such earlier age, not under seventy (70), as may be provided by law; creating a State Judicial Qualifications Commission and providing for its composition and the qualifications, methods of selection and terms of office of its members; defining the functions and procedures of said Commission, including the duty to investigate, and hold hearings in respect of, disability and misconduct of District and Appellate Judges and to make recommendations to the Supreme Court of Texas as to removal or retention of such Judges; and providing that the proceedings of said Commission shall be confidential until filed in the Supreme Court with recommendation for retirement or removal; and providing that the removal provisions hereby established shall be alternative to and cumulative of those provided elsewhere in the Constitution.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: That Section 1-a of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so that said Section shall hereafter read as follows:

"Section 1-a. (1) Subject to the further provisions of this Section, the Legislature shall provide for the retirement and compensation of the Justices and Judges of the Appellate Courts and District Courts on account of length of service, age and disability, and for their reassignment to active duty where and when needed. The office of every such Justice and Judge shall become vacant when the incumbent reaches the age of seventy-five (75) years or such earlier age, not less than seventy (70) years, as the Legislature may prescribe; but, in the case of an incumbent whose term of office includes the effective date of this Amendment, this provision shall not prevent him from serving the remainder of said term nor be applicable to him before his period or periods of judicial service shall have reached a total of ten (10) years.

(2) There is hereby created the State Judicial Qualifications Commission, to consist of nine (9) members, to wit: (i) two (2) Justices of Civil Appeals; (ii) two (2) District Judges; (iii) two (2) members of the State Bar, who have respectively practiced as such for over ten (10) consecutive years next preceding their selection; (iii) three (3) citizens, at least thirty (30) years of age, not licensed to practice law nor holding any salaried public office or employment; provided that no person shall be or remain a member of the Commission, who does not maintain physical residence within this State, or who resides in, or holds a judgeship within or for, the same Supreme Judicial District as another member of the Commission, or who shall have ceased to retain the qualifications above specified for his respective class of membership. Commissioners of classes (i) and (ii) above shall be chosen by the Supreme Court with advice and consent of the Senate, those of class (iii) by the Board of Directors of the State Bar under regulations to be prescribed by the Supreme Court with advice and consent of the Senate, and those of class (iii) by appointment of the Governor with advice and consent of the Senate.

(3) The regular term of office of Commissioners shall be six (6) years; but the initial members of each of classes (i), (ii) and (iii) shall respectively be chosen for terms of four (4) and six (6) years, and the initial members of class (iii) for respective terms of two (2), four (4) and six (6) years. Interim vacancies shall be filled in the same manner as vacancies due to expiration of a full term, but only for the unexpired portion of the term in question. Commissioners may succeed themselves in office only if having served less than three (3) consecutive years.

(4) Commissioners shall receive no compensation for their services as such. The Legislature shall provide for the payment of the necessary expense for the operation of the Commission.

(5) The Commission may hold its meetings, hearings and other proceedings at such times and places as it shall determine but shall meet at Austin at least once each year. It shall annually select one of its members as Chairman. A quorum shall consist of five (5) members. Proceedings shall be by majority vote of those present, except that recommendations for retirement or removal of Justices or Judges shall be by affirmative vote of at least five (5) members.

(6) Any Justice or Judge within the scope of this Section 1-a may, subject to the other provisions hereof, be removed from office for willful or persistent conduct, which is clearly inconsistent with his proper performance of his said duties or casts public discredit upon the judiciary or administration of justice; or any such Justice or Judge may be involuntarily retired for disability seriously interfering with the performance of his duties, which is, or is likely to be, permanent in nature.

(7) The Commission shall keep itself informed as fully as may be of circumstances relating to misconduct or disability of particular Justices or Judges, receive complaints or reports, formal or informal, from any source in this behalf and make such preliminary investigations as it may determine. Its orders for the attendance or testimony of witnesses or for the production of documents at any hearing or investigation shall be enforceable by contempt proceedings in the District Court.

(8) The Commission may, after such investigation as it deems necessary, order a hearing to be held before it concerning the removal or retirement of a Justice or Judge or it may in its discretion request the Supreme Court to appoint an active or retired District Judge or Justice of a Court of Civil Appeals as a Master to hear and take evidence in any such matter, and to report thereon to the Commission. If, after hearing, or after considering the record and report of a Master, the Commission finds good cause therefore, it shall recommend to the Supreme Court the removal or retirement, as the case may be, of the Justice or Judge in question and shall thereupon file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court the entire record before the Commission.

(9) The Supreme Court shall review the record of the proceedings on the law and facts and in its discretion may, for good cause shown, permit the introduction of additional evidence and shall order removal or retirement, as it finds just and proper, or wholly reject the recommendation. Upon an order for involuntary retirement for disability or an order for removal, the office in question shall become vacant. The rights of an incumbent so retired to retirement benefits shall be the same as if his retirement had been voluntary.

(10) All papers filed with and proceedings before the Commission or a Master shall be confidential, and the filing of papers with, and the giv-

Reminder Issued On Minimum Pay

A minimum wage of $1.25 an hour under the Fair Labor Standards Act will go into effect September 3 for employees who were made subject to the Act by the 1961 amendments.

The reminder was issued today by Willie G. Thurman, field office supervisor of the Albuquerque office of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, the agency which administers the federal law.

Thurman also said that these workers would be entitled to one and one-half times their regular rate of pay after 40 hours a week, beginning September 3. Their maximum workweek for overtime purposes has been 42 hours since last September.

"These changes make all 29.5 million workers covered by the Act subject to the same standards," Thurman added.

The Fair Labor Standards Act applies to employees engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce and to employees of certain large enterprises so engaged. In addition to the minimum wage and overtime pay provisions, the Act also contains standards for the employment of children and requires equal pay for equal work for both men and women.

"The Wage and Hour Office in Albuquerque will be glad to answer any questions about the Fair Labor Standards Act," Thurman added. The address is room 212, 1015 Tijeras, N. W.

PROPOSES BAN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall proposed Tuesday regulations to ban billboard advertising along thousands of miles of highways which pass through land owned by the Bureau of Land Management. The proposal would affect millions of acres, mostly in far western states. They are aimed at preserving scenic beauty.

Farm Bureau Chief Urges Halt On Public Funds for Lobbying

WASHINGTON (SpI) — The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation has asked Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to take immediate action to stop the "unwarranted, unethical, and illegal use of public funds to lobby and propagandize in support of the Administration's farm bill."

Charles B. Shuman sent the following letter to Mr. Freeman: "Dear Mr. Secretary: 'I PROTEST in the most vigorous terms the wrongful use of government funds by the Department of Agriculture to propagandize the Administration's farm bill now pending in Congress. Reports we have received from all parts of the nation show conclusively the expenditure of large sums of public money in efforts to induce farmers to influence their Representatives in Congress to vote for this ill-advised legislation. Even if this were a bill of unquestioned merit and universal appeal—which it certainly is not—the expenditure of government funds to propagandize the citizens is an illegal, immoral, and unethical use of public money and power."

"The American Farm Bureau Federation is unalterably opposed to the pending legislation, and we believe a majority of farmers and members of Congress agree with us. We are expanding our organization's own, privately raised resources to make known our views. These resources are as pennies and dimes compared to the vast government Treasury which the USDA is tapping, apparently without qualm."

"We realize full well that the Department attempts to observe the niceties by depicting its propaganda as 'education,' but I am willing to leave the proper classification of these activities to the judgment of any objective taxpayer."

"THE BRUNT of the Department's propaganda activities on behalf of the farm bill is being carried—as it was in the wheat referendum campaign of 1963—by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Obviously, the Department believes that, because the ASCS has thousands of employees throughout the United States, it is ideally suited to travel up and down the road, at government expense, to propagandize citizens."

"One of the outstanding instances of the abuse of power and privilege is a letter sent on July 14, 1965, under the signature of the Administrator of ASCS, Horace D. Godfrey."

"In this long rambling statement on 'legislative and other matters,' Mr. Godfrey reviews your statements, writes of 'the anti's' (meaning those opposed to your point of view), and then winds up with a most astounding suggestion."

"I will quote this last paragraph: 'The time is approaching for making payments to farmers under the cotton, feed grain, wheat and certain other programs. In many county offices, the checks are delivered personally to each farmer. This gives the county manager or clerk a good chance to make better understood what the payment is for and how it serves the national interest. All counties could well adopt this practice. Of course, if the farmer requests it, the check can be mailed.'

"This paragraph is sheer demagoguery. In it Mr. Godfrey is telling government employees, many of whom are members of the Civil Service, to prostitute themselves by using the personal 'delivery' of a government check as an excuse to peddle the propaganda line. The cost of this

'delivery' over the entire nation never will be figured, I know, but personal 'delivery' of these government payments, whether in an ASCS office or by traveling from farm to farm in automobiles, must cost thousands upon thousands of dollars."

"SEVERAL STATE ASCS offices have called statewide meetings especially to propagandize their employees so that they may return home to spread the word about the bill. The cost of bringing hundreds of ASCS employees and committeemen into such meetings—the latter being your own office move out of Washington throughout the land, all at government expense. In at least one instance, the Department has mailed radio taped views of a private organization on the Administration's farm bill."

"We in Farm Bureau always have believed in fair play. We deplore the unethical use of public funds to propagandize the electorate for the purpose of influencing legislation, and we believe sincerely that the vast majority of American taxpayers will agree with us."

"I urge that you immediately take action to discontinue the unwarranted, unethical, and illegal use of public funds to lobby and propagandize in support of the Administration's farm bill."

MR. SHUMAN sent copies of his letter to the Secretary to Senator Spessard L. Holland (D.) of Florida, chairman of the Senate Agricultural Appropriations Subcommittee, and Representative Jamie L. Whitten (D.) of Mississippi, chairman of the House Agricultural Appropriations Subcommittee.

Witnesses Ask SFR Committee to Approve Hemisfair

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A parade of witnesses today urged the Senate Foreign Relations committee to approve a resolution that would put the stamp of federal approval on the 1968 "HemisFair" international exposition in San Antonio, Tex.

The resolution would authorize the President to invite foreign governments to participate. It also would authorize $250,000 for the Commerce Department to study the type and extent of federal participation.

Both Texas senators, Democrat Ralph Yarborough and Republican John G. Tower, and Tex., whose district includes the fair site, strongly urged backing for the multi-million dollar exposition designed to emphasize U.S.-Latin American ties and also commemorate the 400th anniversary of San Antonio.

Union Label
The union-label was used as a trademark of organized labor for the first time in California during the 1870s, when labor was protesting a flood of cheap Chinese help. At that time, the label was used to designate products made by native American labor.

Not Only at Weddings
Throwing of old shoes as a good luck token has not always been confined to weddings. In Scotland, old shoes were tossed at persons starting out on an adventure, at a sailor embarking on his first voyage and other such occasions.

IT'S THE LAW

Relatives in Your Home
When Betty's aging mother-in-law moved into the household, no one said a word about money.

For the next four years, Betty dutifully performed the various tasks thus added to her chores—Including some nursing care. After the older woman died, Betty, backed by her husband, put in a claim against the estate for services rendered.

But another son, fearing a cut in his share, raised an objection. "Mother never promised to pay for Betty's services," he argued in a court test.

"Not in so many words," conceded Betty. "But a promise should be presumed because of all the extra work I did for her."

However, the court, finding no adequate evidence of a promise, denied her claim. And that is the usual rule. The law will not presume, without good reason, that a relative who has joined the household intends to pay for his care.

Of course, special circumstances may convince the court in a particular case that payment was indeed intended. Suppose, for instance, that the services were especially onerous or that the relative was especially wealthy. Or that the relationship was a distant one. Or that the extra work prevented the claimant from earning money elsewhere. Such facts would argue that, even though nothing was said, payment—sooner or later—was taken for granted.

But by the large, the courts are wary of these claims. After

Land Fish
The climbing perch, a noted land traveling fish, possesses special breathing equipment which permits it to leave the water and journey overland in search of a new place to live.

Enabling it to move about, the fish has unusual gill covers, which it uses in the manner of crutches.

all, in most cases, the issue arises only after the relative is dead—forever beyond question. The claimant might be trying to collect merely as an afterthought, with no prior understanding at all.

Besides, the law is reluctant to find financial motives within the family circle. In one case, a man kept detailed records of his mother-in-law's periodic visits during the last few years of her life. When she died, he presented an itemized bill for his hospitality.

But the court dismissed his claim with this comment: "It would be a crime against nature and humanity to give to all the courtesies, favors, and visits that are exchanged between parents and children the mercenary quality of dollars and cents."

NATO Crisis in Future?

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI)—The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) may be inching toward another grave crisis.

NATO officials are watching with deep concern the growing political chaos in Greece.

They are equally concerned by possible long-term political implications of the current Russian visit by Turkish Prime Minister Suat Hayri Ugru.

The first Turkish premier to go there since 1931.

Greece and Turkey both are NATO member states. Together they form the vital southeastern anchor for NATO's 3,000-mile Iron Curtain defense line stretching from the Arctic Ocean to the Black Sea.

NATO officials are all the more concerned because the alliance today is being undermined or threatened at other points too.

French Cooperation Lagging
French President Charles de Gaulle has been withdrawing

France progressively from active participation in NATO. There is good reason to believe he may confront the alliance early next year with demands for sweeping revision of its whole structure to suit his own ideas, with the alternative being a complete French pull-out from NATO.

Great Britain's current economic difficulties are making it more and more attractive to her to withdraw part of the already understrength British Rhine army from Germany.

Disagreements between NATO member states over Allied nuclear policy remain as bitter as ever.

If the southern flank guarded by Greece and Turkey should crumble at this moment NATO officials fear the alliance would be plunged into a major crisis.

This southern flank has, in fact, already been one of NATO's tension points for the past 18 months.

It was threatened acutely just a year ago when Greece and Turkey nearly went to war over Cyprus.

The organization has played an important role in trying to hold the Cyprus Quarrel within bounds and is continuing to do so.

Hands Off Policy
The present crisis is of a different nature and one in which it would be difficult for NATO to intervene.

It is, in fact, virtually out of the question for such a body as NATO to become embroiled in a Greek internal political crisis or in a possible nationalist switch in Turkish foreign policy.

Yet officials are watching developments in both countries.

At worst they fear the Greek crisis might plunge the little country into civil war, in which the Greek army would be deepened.

They fear a Turkish drift towards neutralism might result in her taking an increasingly "Gaullist" line towards the alliance.

But there is little NATO officials can do except watch developments and hope the worst will not happen.

Jersey Swampland
New Jersey's Great Swamp, an 8,000-acre tract only 30 miles from New York City, teems with wild life in its marshes, fields, meadows, bogs and sandy ridges, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Rice Throwing
Medieval times saw the origination of the practice of throwing rice at newlyweds. Rice and other grains, symbolizing fruitfulness, were poured upon bride and groom to denote a wish for many children.

No Water Problem?
Chicago's new 44-acre, $108 million, water filtration plant extending into Lake Michigan on a man-made peninsula, is capable of processing almost 2 billion gallons of water per day for that city, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

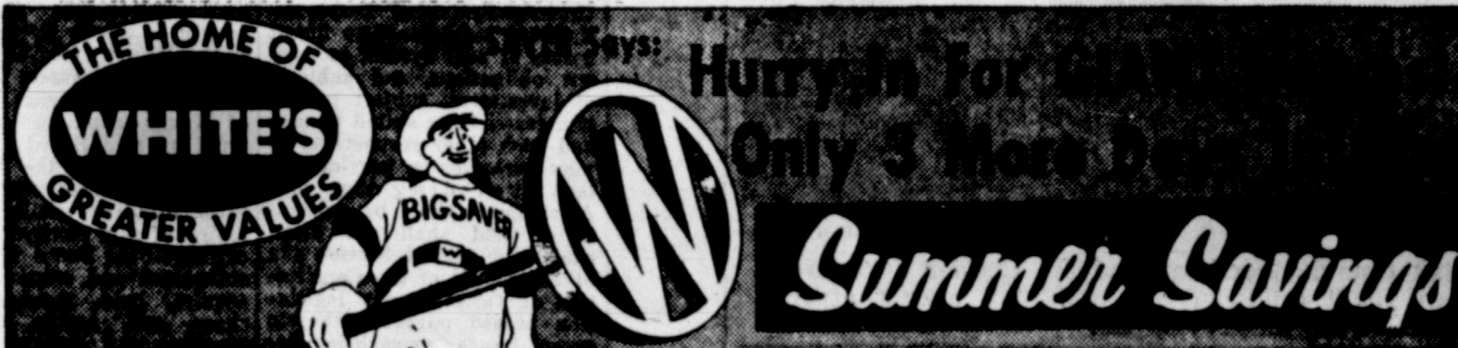

There is an underwater main range in the Arctic Ocean.

Senate Group Hears Testimony On AAU Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate committee focused attention today on charges that the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) manages international track meets improperly, resulting in poor American showings abroad. It was part of an investigation of a long AAU-NCAA feud.
The Senate Commerce Committee called veteran track and field stars Hayes Jones, Bobby Morrow and Harold Connolly to tell about their experiences on AAU-arranged trips abroad.
Others on today's witness list were Jesse T. Hill, athletic director and longtime track coach at the University of Southern California, and Bill Henry, a Los Angeles Times columnist and president of the Southern California Committee for Olympic Games.
Henry, a former sports broadcaster who has promoted track meets in Southern California over a long period, faced questioning about financial arrangements for such events.
The committee is interested in determining what financial interest the AAU and other athletic organizations have in controlling amateur athletes.

and shorts.
Come Aug. 27 coaches and their young hopefuls will get down to serious business in preparation for the Sept. 10 meeting with Perryton at Ranger field.
The Harvesters and Shockers will hold one-a-day drills until Aug. 27, when they will do pads for two-a-day sessions, lasting until school opens Sept. 1.
Some 66 varsity and B squads reported for physical examinations Friday and other high schoolers who plan on playing must get their physicals before they will be allowed to play.

The Harvesters have one scrimmage session set with an out of town opponent, a Sept. 4 meeting with Dumas at Dumas.
The Harvesters have seven night contests, two Saturday battles and one Thursday night affair on their schedule.
Pampa plays Perryton on Friday, then hosts Wichita Falls Rider, travels to Palo Duro, hosts Tascosa, all of these on consecutive Fridays, beginning Sept. 10.
After Tascosa the Harvesters journey to Caprock for a Thursday night game on Oct. 7, play with Perryton on Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at home and a Sept. 16 encounter at Borger, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Sept. 23 through Nov. 11 the Shockers play Thursday afternoon games, all beginning at 4 p.m.
The B squads play Lubbock Coronado at Lubbock, Amarillo at Amarillo, Lubbock at Pampa, Plainview at Pampa, Lubbock Monterey at Lubbock, Caprock at Pampa, Tascosa at Amarillo and close out by hosting

Palo Duro.
This is the type of schedule that would put a strain on any coach, but will be especially true of the Shocker coach, there isn't one.
Harvester coach Eural Ramsey said Tuesday that no B team coach had been hired as yet.
"We've talked to quite a few coaches in the past weeks, but none of them want to move right now," Ramsey said.
An eighth grade coach at Pampa Junior High school is also needed.

Ramsey and Pampa Athletic Director Weldon Trice interviewed several coaches at Oklahoma City at the annual Coaching Clinic but came back empty handed.
Both Pampa Junior High schools announced their schedules Tuesday.
Lee Jr. High will play eight games with the Lee 8th grade scheduling six contests and Lee 7th, seven games.
Pampa Jr. High plays eight games, the 8th grade, six games and the 7th graders, seven games.

Shamrock Coach Accepts Position At Lefors School
LEFORS (Sp.)—John Horan, assistant football coach at Shamrock, the past four years was named to the same position at Lefors late Tuesday night.
The Lefors school board, meeting in a special session, hired Horan as assistant high school coach and head Jr. High coach.
Horan is a graduate of Texas Tech.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP Lemaster Keeps Braves 1/2 Game Back of Dodgers

By United Press International
Denny Lemaster, who's been behind schedule since the Milwaukee Braves signed him in 1958, seems to have "arrived" just in time this year.
He looked like "another Span" Tuesday night, all right, when he pitched a three-hitter that gave the Braves a 4-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. It was the Braves' fifth straight win and their 27th in 36 games, enabling them to stay within a half game of the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2.
Lemaster yielded a leadoff single to Lou Brock and then pulled an old Span trick by picking him off first. After that, Lemaster pitched hitless ball, retiring 17 batters in a row in one stretch, before the Cardinals scored in the eighth on Tim McCarver's single and Dal Maxvill's double.
Felipe Alou, who had four hits in five tries, started a two-run rally with a single in the third and the Braves added two more in the fifth when Hank Aaron hit a two-run homer. Lemaster struck out seven in winning his second straight game and raising his season record to 6-9.
The Dodgers bounced back after two straight losses to beat the Phillies behind the combined six-hit pitching of Claude Osteen and Ron Perranoski. Rookie second baseman Jim Lefebvre singled home the tie-breaking run when the Dodgers rallied for two runs in the seventh. Osteen received credit for his 11th victory although Perranoski pitched the eighth and ninth.
The San Francisco Giants edged out the New York Mets 3-2, the Cincinnati Reds downed the Chicago Cubs 6-4 and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Houston Astros 8-5 in other National League action.
The Yankees rose above .500 for the first time since April 18 when Mickey Mantle and Bobby Richardson sparked a five-run New York second inning with a pair of two-run singles. Al Downing struck out eight and scattered nine hits in posting his 10th victory.

The Detroit Tigers are cooking up something special for the beginning of the year.
The Tigers whipped Minnesota 7-4 last night.
The Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles moved into a three-way tie for third place with Cleveland. The Chisox swept a doubleheader from Washington 7-2 and 5-1 and the more memorable by winning Orioles defeated Boston 3-1 while the Indians were edged something nobody predicted at by the Kansas City A's 3-2.
MONTICELLO, N. Y. (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain's new three-year contract with Philadelphia has made the 7-foot-1 center "very happy," furrowed the brow of fight manager Gus D'Amato, elated the 76ers and deflated the rest of the National Basketball Association.
Chamberlain, the NBA's top scorer for the past six seasons, received a reported $70,000 last year but his new contract was termed "the largest salary in organized sports" by Philadelphia co-owners Irv Kosloff and Ike Richman.
Although the owners, who signed the six-year NBA veteran at Kutsher's Country Club Tuesday, refused to disclose the exact terms of the contract, Chamberlain mentioned that it was "a substantial increase over last year and I'm very happy."
It should be noted that if Chamberlain is receiving the highest salary in sports, as Richman and Kosloff contend, it must exceed the $105,000 annual wage the San Francisco Giants pay to Willie Mays.
Chamberlain and many other NBA stars were here to play in the seventh annual Maurice Stokes benefit game Tuesday night.

Colts, Nazareth Split; Visitors Take Second Spot

The Pampa Colts were regulated to third place in the Irrigation League Tuesday night when Nazareth swept the second game of a doubleheader, 10-9, after losing the opener, 4-2.
The Colts needed a sweep of the double-header to claim the league champion.
In the opener Bobby Price limited the visitors to seven hits while striking out nine and walking none.
Price struck out the side in the second inning and put two men down on strikes in the third.
Nazareth's J. Hoetling took the loss, giving up just six hits and striking out five.

Nazareth jumped to a 1-0 lead in the second inning on two singles and an error.
The Colts tied it in their half of the second on a walk to Glover, a sacrifice and Lerrell's triple with two out.
Pampa took the lead in the third on a double by Stewart and another double by Mike Stewart.
Nazareth tied it in the fourth on a single, error and another single but the Colts came back for a 3-2 lead in the bottom half of the inning on a single by Gregory, a double by Lerrell.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy; it is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

New Minimum Wage Plan

Every time the government increases or expands the minimum wage, more of the marginal workers who are limited in ability and skill lose their jobs. They lose them because they cannot produce enough to justify the higher pay.
This has been demonstrated with each intervention by federal and state bureaucrats.
However, the members of Congress are getting ready to increase the minimum wage and expand it into fields previously exempt. H. R. 10275 by Rep. James Roosevelt would increase the federal minimum from $1.25 to $1.40 on July 1, 1966, to $1.60 a year later, and to $1.75 on July 1, 1968. More than six million additional workers also would be blanketed in, including a large number of agricultural workers.

The higher minimum wages seldom affect the bulk of the nation's workers, but each increase makes it less profitable for employers to use the very young and very old, the unskilled and semi-skilled workers.
This legislation is expected to go before the full House of Representatives this week.
It is too much to expect that the present Congress will take a full look at the ill effects of such legislation. After all, if there were no more marginal workers forced out of their jobs, there would be no excuse for voting more "anti-poverty" programs, and no further excuse for other interventions in the lives of the individual.
It is not difficult to see why most people do not revolt against this foolishness. They have been taught in the textbooks to believe the state is responsible for their welfare. And the teachers, whose salaries are set by law, in many instances believe the pay of others should also be determined by the lawmakers.

Our "Secret Formula"
On more than a few occasions, we have been asked: "What secret formula does the news have that enables it to be so irritatingly consistent?"
We always grin a little self-consciously when this question is asked; for actually, our "formula" is no secret at all, or if it is, it is a secret we are more than happy to share. Here it is:
When examining a concept or considering a proposal, political or otherwise, we always try to remember to take time to back track; this is a mental process. If, in this process of mental back tracking, theft is encountered, we holler foul! That's all there is to it.

Of course, being human, and sometimes in the rush of daily events, we occasionally fail to remember to apply the formula or else, blunder off on a false trail. It is at such times that we count on our critical reader to call us to turn and set us back, once more, upon a consistent course. Our most valued readers are those who ask questions and force us to man the mental barricades and defend our position.
Why? We believe our freedom and our freedom depends on it. Man acts as he believes and he will believe only that which his reasoning mind voluntarily accepts.

Although Celler had virtually no hand in drafting this far-reaching legislation, he is insisting on his prerogatives as Judiciary chairman to take charge of it.
Chief author is Representative Michael Feighan, D-O, chairman of the Judiciary Immigration Subcommittee that worked more than a year formulating the bill that abolishes the decades-old national origins quota system. Instead, 170,000 immigrants would be admitted annually on a first-come, first-served basis.
Discarding a measure sponsored by Celler, the subcommittee considered instead one proposed by Feighan. After weeks of public hearings and 18 executive sessions, the subcommittee approved 80 per cent of Feighan's bill.
The full Judiciary Committee accepted this measure 24 to 4 — without changing a word.
President Johnson telephoned Feighan warmly thanking and praising him. "I'm mighty grateful and proud of your outstanding work, Mike," he said. "You have done a magnificent job. This bill is one of the great achievements of this Congress, and you deserve the credit for it."

Trains Offer a Rare Treat

Though the steam whistle has given way to the blat of the air horn, the sound of a distant train is enough to set hearts thumping in many an aging breast and many a younger one, too.
Despite the naysayers who see the twilight of the passenger train around every bend in the economic track, the great transcontinentals and north-to-south name trains carry heavy passenger lists of those whose hearts are tied to adventure by the twists and turns of the iron rails.
Youngsters who have never known the delights of a train are in for a rare treat. While the sleek jets wing overhead in minutes, the trains whisper cross-country through scenery to be viewed in no other manner.

It's still worth-while to "hear that train blow, dear" as the old ballad says so poignantly. And to add an extra fillip to your trip, enjoy the magic of America passing before your eyes while eating in the diner or coffee shop car.

"Unique" would be the word for someone's first train ride. And you would always be remembered as the donor of a singular treat in this wing-minded age.

Betting on Machines

Along with other confusion, recent years have put to a test the generally accepted faith in the ability of machines to bring down the price of manufactured articles. Foreign competition with goods, a lot of it practically hand made by inexpensive labor, has befogged the issue.
One who retains the faith in the American machines is Roger M. Blough, chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp. As reported in Steel magazine, he says forthrightly that our steel industry has the ability to build factories that would produce metal at a cost no other nation can touch. He argues that the big need in the industry, to open the door, is capital and this requires both tax relief and a reform of the depreciation regulations.

Celler Proposes Tackling
Over Floor Management
Of Controversial Immigration
Bill from Feighan, Its Author

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Representative Emanuel Celler, 77-year-old chairman of the powerful Judiciary Committee, apparently has an insatiable yen for the limelight.
After delightedly reveling in it as floor manager, of the administration's history-making voting rights bill, the Brooklyn Democrat is bent on repeating this publicity-spotlighted role when the House considers the equally eventful immigration measure.
Although Celler had virtually no hand in drafting this far-reaching legislation, he is insisting on his prerogatives as Judiciary chairman to take charge of it.
Chief author is Representative Michael Feighan, D-O, chairman of the Judiciary Immigration Subcommittee that worked more than a year formulating the bill that abolishes the decades-old national origins quota system. Instead, 170,000 immigrants would be admitted annually on a first-come, first-served basis.
Discarding a measure sponsored by Celler, the subcommittee considered instead one proposed by Feighan. After weeks of public hearings and 18 executive sessions, the subcommittee approved 80 per cent of Feighan's bill.
The full Judiciary Committee accepted this measure 24 to 4 — without changing a word.
President Johnson telephoned Feighan warmly thanking and praising him. "I'm mighty grateful and proud of your outstanding work, Mike," he said. "You have done a magnificent job. This bill is one of the great achievements of this Congress, and you deserve the credit for it."

A Republican leader also lauded Feighan. Representative Frank Bow, O., senior GOP member of the potent Appropriations Committee, declared, "Mike Feighan is the best-informed and experienced member of Congress in the field of immigration."
IRRESISTIBLE LIMELIGHT
LURE — Because of Feighan's forceful leadership in producing an immigration bill, it was generally assumed by his colleagues that he would be the floor manager when it was considered by the House.
This view was reinforced by the fact that he is chairman of the subcommittee that drafted the legislation, and his name is on the official printed report to the House. Also, administration leaders were known to favor Feighan because of his detailed knowledge and recognized rating as an immigration expert.
Celler apparently was aware of this. He inferred to Feighan he would waive his seniority as judiciary chairman and let him floor manage the measure.

Last week Celler suddenly had a change of heart.
In a broadcast interview the 77-year-old Brooklynite announced he had decided to take over this spotlighted role. Celler gave no explanation for the abrupt switch. And he has yet to say anything to Feighan about it.
Administration leaders privately are unhappy about this backstage situation. But they are in a bind in doing anything about it.
They much prefer Feighan to handle the controversial immigration bill. At the same time, their hands are tied by the traditional seniority system. They would like to sidetrack Celler, but are blocked by his insistence on his seniority prerogatives.
Likely upshot is a far stormier course for the measure than if Feighan were in charge.
Graphically illustrative of how little Celler had to do with writing this major legislation was his one brief appearance before Feighan's subcommittee. Celler read a prepared statement for some 50 minutes, then answered questions for another 10 and rushed off. Repeated efforts to get him back were unavailing.
In response to several of Feighan's written invitations, Celler promised "to appear at the conclusion of the hearings and make such statements and clarification as I deem necessary." But he never showed up.
UNPAID TAXES — A total of $1,173,911,000 in federal taxes was delinquent last year. This was a 2.9 per cent increase over the $1,141,202,000 of 1963. Senator John Williams, R-Del., "one-man investigating committee," in noting these huge totals, points out they still are an improvement over 1954 when $1,614,494,000 in federal taxes were unpaid.
Senator George Aiken, top Republican member of the Agriculture Committee and No. 2 GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee, was paid an unusual compliment by President Johnson at last week's White House briefings on Viet Nam. Singling out the evergreen Vermont legislator, the President said, "He has tremendous knowledge in the fields of agriculture and international affairs. He has sound judgment and never acts from partisan bias. In the finest sense of the word, Senator Aiken fills the role of loyal opposition." Aiken, much surprised by this acclaim, later remarked smiling to colleagues, "The administration must want my vote very badly on its controversial farm subsidy bill." The measure faces intense opposition in both branches of Congress... Recruiting of 16 to 22-year-olds Corps program is seriously lagging in the District of Columbia. Only one-fifth of a long-standing quota of 520 has so far been filled. In an effort to produce more applicants, a vigorous publicity campaign has been launched.

The Selma natives are still talking about how Negro men sat with white women and ran their hands down the women's dresses and up their legs. The women were not natives, but carpetbagging prostitutes, anarchists and degenerates jointly and the National Council of Churches.
The Reverend Mister Reeb, "civil rights" marcher who was murdered in Alabama, was a Unitarian Minister. Unitarians don't believe in the divinity of Jesus Christ, but I suppose they do believe in something. Adlai Stevenson was a Unitarian, and he believed in the United Nations. But the point I want to make is that Mr. Reeb came to Alabama not as a minister but as a paid worker of the Americans Friends Service Committee, which has been cited by both J. Edgar Hoover and the House Committee on Un-American Activities as subversive.
I learned that only one banker out of the three in Selma is sticking to his principles. That's a good ratio, for bankers. The others want to "be reasonable" and give the "civil rights" what they want. What they want is: everything. Like the Communists, the "civil rights" cannot be satisfied until they have it all.

There is great consternation among integration society as to what and how to integrate next. There's the over-come-now set, exemplified by the Muslims. There's the moderate clique which advocates patience until the United Nations can become strong enough to enforce integration everywhere. And then there are the reactionary "token" integrationists who counsel: "Let us keep nibbling away." An unfortunate choice of words when discussing Africans, of course.
Throughout the South, Negroes are now being registered under the supervision of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and Great Society snipers sent to "get out the Negro vote." A "Fed" working deep in Mississippi asked a registrar why a certain voter's registration form was disqualified. The registrar explained that the registrant was obviously completely illiterate and also, incidentally, white. The federal supervisor replied: "Oh, if he's white it's all right to disqualify him." Straight Talk
By TOM ANDERSON

The press, networks and wire-services say the South has accepted integration. That is a gross misrepresentation. I've just returned from the deep South. Things there are not as reported by "Look," "Life" and the "Post." And never have been, of course. The dictionary says that to "accept" means to receive favorably. The South has embraced integration much like East Berlin has embraced Communism: by gunpoint, force, intimidation and bribery. Never in my lifetime — probably never before in the history of this nation — has the relationship between Negro and white been as strained, as unfriendly, as explosive.
The Selma natives are still talking about how Negro men sat with white women and ran their hands down the women's dresses and up their legs. The women were not natives, but carpetbagging prostitutes, anarchists and degenerates jointly and the National Council of Churches.

Question Box

QUESTION: "Since convictions are now being overturned in higher courts on account of technical errors, it must be assumed that perfection is expected at every level of law enforcement. However, since nobody is perfect, isn't it reasonable to assume that no conviction could stand up if scrutinized long enough?"

ANSWER: It is not new that the courts are reversing convictions because of technical errors during criminal trials. Under the doctrine that a person is innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, most American courts have leaned over backward to assure that there is a fair trial in criminal cases.

However, the technicalities have been increased by the courts in recent decisions. Where once the courts held that actions by a prosecutor might be called misconduct, they were usually not considered sufficient to reverse the jury's decision if they did not "prejudice" the defendant's right to a fair trial. Where once it was ruled that force could not be used to compel a man to confess to a crime (third degree), now the practice seems to be to reject a voluntary confession if the man is not notified immediately of his right to be represented by an attorney before he is questioned.

Where once a suspect could be held in custody for 48 hours without a formal charge being filed, a time lag now is virtually prohibited.

Once it was agreed that a person was entitled to have an attorney if able to hire one or if he could get legal representation from a court-appointed attorney, serving free. Now the contention is that the state, county or federal government must supply him with a lawyer if he cannot afford one.

The questioner's assumption that no conviction would stand up if placed under intensive scrutiny seems logical under the present trend.

Reds Train Youths Here In Secret

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Late last month the Communist party called 80 selected Red youths in from all over the United States for a secret training school.
The sessions were held at Camp Midvale, at Ringwood, N. J., about 35 miles from New York City. Students were picked as potential future leaders of the senior Communist party.

The meetings were so secret that the two weeks they were there the students were prohibited from communicating with the outside world. No phone calls were permitted, incoming or outgoing. Students were not allowed to send letters from the camp. As an added security measure, students used only their first names for the two weeks.
During the sessions, several leaders of the W.E.B. Du Bois (youth) Clubs of America were inducted into full membership in the Communist party.

Instructors at the school included top Reds. Communist party general secretary Gus Hall, vice chairman Henry Winston and Claude Lightfoot, chief party theoretician Herbert Aptheker, national youth director Michael Zagarell, national education secretary Hyman Lumer, Helen Winter and veteran party officials James Jackson, Jacob Stachel, Marty Gannett and George Meyers were among the teachers.

Most students attending the school have now been sent to key cities to begin twin recruiting drives for the Communist Party and for the Du Bois Clubs. Young people working on these drives are paid $30 a week.
The main thrust of this organizational drive centers in key Midwest cities—St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit.

The secret school included instruction in Lenin's works on the necessity of and the methods of achieving the violent overthrow of non-Communist governments by force.
Other courses dealt with the Communist theory of "peaceful coexistence" and how it is a form of the class struggle between Communists and non-Communists.

Course titles included "the fight for peace and against imperialism." "The struggle of Negroes in the United States for equality." "The class struggle and the trade union movement." "The revolutionary significance of the civil rights movement." "The struggle for economic welfare."
Required reading included several chapters in the Soviet Communist text "Fundamentals of Marxism-Leninism."
The Communist youth were told to use every opportunity to work into the civil rights movement.

They were told to co-operate with all student drives against the United States in Viet Nam including drives which urge young men to refuse military service in Southeast Asia.
They were instructed to never lose a chance to use any youth and to work through them as fronts rather than openly as Reds.
All this adds up to one thing. The Communist problem is not the size of the Red organization. The problem rather is that with preparation, a handful of Communist-trained young people can sometimes push a non-Red youth group into acts which suit Communist aims.
"not disqualified"
A friend reports that Canton and Bogalusa are infested with Federal Bureau of Investigation and Secret Service agents who anonymously infiltrate the ranks of the native whites. An FBI agent confided to a friend that he hasn't worked on but one criminal case in more than a year. He used to investigate criminals. Now he investigates segregationists.

Hunt for Truth
By R. L. MUMY
ANOTHER NEED OF BUSY PEOPLE
The need of busy people for a reader or readers to enable them to keep up on current events is becoming increasingly apparent. It has never been very debatable. The need existing today for a service along these same lines for busy people who require large staffs is great.
Often two or more people in an office are entrusted with opening the mail. It is their duty to dispose of the most voluminous, burdensome and unimportant contents of envelopes, before any more time is spent on it. This practice is in many cases unfortunately a near necessity. It is possible, however, that some of the most vital and desirable messages to the principal are lost to the discards before they ever reach the principal or a secretary who understands his needs and desires.
In respect to Members of Congress, as an example, a correction could be developed if the busy person or the secretaries upon whom he depends would give the mail-openers a list of the people and publications in which he is most interested. If this mail contains messages which would take too much of the principal's time, it should go to a secretary skilled and knowledgeable in designating vital portions by marking opposite certain sections which he will probably want to read with red pencil.
Patriot, who understand the Communist conspiracy could do a great service by going to the office of busy people and presenting procedures which will enable the heads of business to learn the extent of the danger so that the encroachment and infiltration of communism in the American way of life will not come to them and their friends as a complete surprise.

US Loses Face by Freeing Soviets From UN Debts

By STEWART HENSLEY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has lost face for the moment but the United Nations General Assembly has lost power which it may never regain.

The United States can survive its embarrassment but the world organization may have been permanently weakened. Those appeared to be the major conclusions today of U.S. officials following announcement that this country was dropping its demand that Russia and 11 other nations pay their U.N. debts or lose their voting rights.

Officials conceded they expected congressional criticism and tougher stalling for their future requests for funds to pay U.N. assessments against the United States. They acknowledged they found it uncomfortable to have to retreat after assuring congressmen and others less than a year ago that they could muster enough assembly votes to approve their demand. However, when it got down to the nose-counting stage, the United States found too many countries were fearful that to GIVE THE Soviets only a pay-up or shut-up choice would simply of the United Nations. Thus the reluctant decision was made to have Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg tell a special 33-nation committee Monday that the United States would not press its proposal and paralyze the organization at a critical period. Even if the Soviet bloc and France, which comprise most of those in arrears, made "voluntary contributions" to ease the U.N.'s financial pains, it will not alter the fact that the world body has passed a constitutional milestone by permitting a handful of members to flout its authority.

THE CLANK OF PLANKS—New York's streets may not be paved with gold, but few people would expect to find them paved with wood—as this one is. The scene is the Avenue of the Americas at West 57th St. The temporary planking covers excavation for subway construction work.

The United States was misled into believing that it had the two thirds majority required to force Russia to pay up or lose its vote. An overwhelming number of the members of the assembly had voted to accept the advisory opinion of the world court holding that non-payment of such debts should result in loss of voting rights. However, an informal pool of virtually every members of the 114-nation U.N. in recent weeks showed that a considerable number who had supported the idea in principle were not willing to apply it in the specific case of Russia for fear of the consequences. The United States, faced with a certain defeat if it forced the issue to a showdown, decided to retreat as gracefully as possible firing these parting shots: —The United States reserves the right not to pay any assessments for operations or functions it opposes so long as others are permitted to take this course. It will not tolerate a "double standard." —The General Assembly should recognize that it is weakening its authority in all respects by failing to endorse its established right to assess and collect funds or cancel voting rights.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It used to be a rare occasion for an American television network to film a documentary inside Russia — but nowadays the Soviets appear to be somewhat more lenient in this area.

While current events dictate the extent of Soviet leniency, it is nevertheless a fact that in the coming video season all three American networks will be presenting programs shot in the U.S.S.R.

For example, CBS-TV has scheduled a one-hour program, "The Story of the Volga," in color. The network describes the show as "The Story of the Volga." NBC-TV, meanwhile, has scheduled a one-hour program, also in color, about the city of Irkutsk in Siberia. And the same network's "Sports in Action" series will broadcast an hour show about Russian athletes.

ABC-TV's children's series, "Discovery," which has previously originated from Moscow, will pay a return visit. And just several weeks ago, the same network, which in the past has presented U.S.-Soviet track meets, aired another — this one live from Kiev via the Early Bird satellite. The pictures were provided by Russian cameramen.

Although there have been American television documentaries shot in Russia in the past, rarely, it seems, have all three networks been on such comparatively reasonable terms with the Soviets at the same time.

For a while, CBS-TV had its Moscow news bureau closed because the Russians were offended by a network drama about Stalin's death.

And for a while, NBC-TV had its Moscow newsbureau closed because the Russians were offended by a couple of documentaries about the death of Stalin and the rise of Khrushchev.

In addition, the famous NBC-TV documentary "The Tunnel," about a freedom passage from East to West Berlin, irritated the Soviets no end. And even the brilliant NBC-TV broadcast "The Kremlin," filmed in Moscow, found them quibbling over some minor points.

The problem, of course, is that if the networks attempt some hard, critical documentary reporting in future programs filmed in Russia, they will undoubtedly have their headaches again — so American television broadcasts along such lines are virtually nil. And in a strong sense, this, of course, means distortion by omission.

Nevertheless, there have been some worthwhile network documentaries that have tactfully hinted along these lines — ABC-TV's programs about Russians lower education and the Soviet woman come to mind. In a lighter, but still useful, show, "ABC Scope" presented excerpts from Russia's top television variety program.

NBC-TV, in announcing the formal agreement allowing the coming documentary about the Siberian city, stated: "The agreement establishes a new relationship with Soviet television executives."

OTTAWA — Canada has sold Russia 187 million bushels of wheat at a price of $450 million, an indication that the Communist bloc may be experiencing another bad harvest year. News of the Canadian-Soviet deal was accompanied by a rise of 3 cents a bushel in the price of wheat futures on U.S. markets.

NEW YORK — The price of sulphuric acid, the most important basic industrial chemical, will be increased Oct. 1 by $1.10 to $1.50 a ton and sulphur by $2 to $4 a ton by two major companies — Allied Chemical and American Cyanamid.

LOS ANGELES — Litton Industries, Inc., announced a two-for-one split in common stock and reported its earnings up more than 30 per cent for the year ended July 31. The stock split must be approved by shareholders in December.

ST. LOUIS — Having failed in its bid to acquire the St. Louis San Francisco (Frisco) Railway by merger, the Santa Fe now is expected to start negotiations with the Missouri Pacific.
