Three Pampa Businessmen Killed When Plane Crashes in Wyoming

Johnson Inks Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law today a $7 billion housing bill which includes a controversial new plan to have the federal government help some of the measure at a ceremony in the White House rose garden. He invited a number of the bill's congressional backers to attend.

The legislation expands all current housing programs, providing subsidies intended to accommodate the nation's housing needs over the next four years. About 60 per cent of the $7 billion total cost was for grants; the remainder for low-cost loans.

In addition to the rent subsidy plan, the measure also included a new departure in federally aided public housing, in that some of the funds were to be used for leasing or renting units in addition to building new units. This means that public housing in some communities will not be concentrated in one section, as in the past.

READY TO BE RIDDEN — Phil Hatcher, Okemah, Okla., superintendent of livestock for Beutler Brothers, of Elk City, looks over the 25 bulls that have been brought in for the Top O' Texas Rodeo. It is Hatcher's job to feed and water the stock. He will also be a contestant in the rodeo, which gets underway Wednesday and runs through Saturday. The Brahma bull looks like he's ready to match wits with his would-be rider.

Silo Blast Toll May Reach 57

SEARCHY, Ark. (UPI) — Rescue workers today groped to the bottom of a gas-filled, 170-foot deep Titan II missile silo to recover the remaining bodies of a big construction crew which was virtually wiped out by an underground explosion and fire.

The death toll may reach 57. Two workmen escaped the holocaust but the others were sealed in the fire-filled silo by an Air Force control crew who closed hatches to smother the fire and prevent it from exploding the mighty Titan. The cause of the blast and fire was not known.

The Air Force said "about 50 or so" men — all civilian construction workers — were trapped and apparently dead in the silo. An Army chaplain, Capt. Michael Romano, who was giving last rites to the Commission To Study 1965-66 City Budget

City Manager Jim White told city commissioners at their regular meeting this morning Pampa's 1965-66 annual budget would be ready for study within the next day or two.

"We hope to have the budget finished by Wednesday or Thursday," White said.

The city manager said he would like to have the council members meet in special session to study the budget figures before it is submitted to the city secretary.

"As soon as the budget is completed a date for the budget study will be set," White said.

Parade to Kick Off Top Rodeo

Pampa's annual Top O' Texas Rodeo will be kicked off Wednesday at 3 p.m. with a parade through downtown Pampa.

A Kid Pony Show got things started for the youngsters today with a 2:30 p.m. performance and another show slated at 8 o'clock tonight. The kid pony parade was held this afternoon.

The 21st annual rodeo will last through Saturday night with each performance beginning at 8 p.m. Ticket prices are $1 and $2 for general admission plus 50 cents for reserved seats.

Beutler Brothers of Elk City will furnish stock for the nation's top riding cowboys.

Help on Way For Trapped US Troops

SAIGON (UPI)—An armored column of South Vietnamese troops, backed by bombing and strafing U.S. planes, today inched toward the besieged American Special Forces camp at Duc Co against "light but steady" Communist resistance.

A military spokesman said at least 219 Viet Cong guerrillas have been killed and six others captured thus far in the drive to break the Communist siege of the camp west of Pleiku in the central highlands.

There are 13 American advisors at the camp, five miles from the Cambodian border and the last government foothold in the Le Thanh district. The camp is the sole obstacle to complete Communist domination of strategic Highway 19.

Bombers Support March

The massive column of government tanks, trucks and infantry, strung out for about three miles, was pushing in from the east along the highway. At last reports, American fighter-bombers had flown more

PAMPA CATCHES .38 OF AN INCH OF RAIN

More Rain on Tap Wednesday

An early morning thunderstorm moved through Pampa and the Panhandle today dumping .38 of an inch of rain in Pampa.

The storm, accompanied by high winds and thunder and lightning, struck about 1:30 a.m. and lasted until about 2:15 a.m. before moving south and west out of the city.

Prospects for more showers were good according to the Amarillo Weather Bureau.

Wednesday's forecast called for late evening thundershowers with temperatures in the low 90s.

Monday, Pampa recorded a high of 92 and the overnight low

Grand Jury To Consider Charges On TU Student

AUSTIN (UPI)—A grand jury met today to consider charges against a 22-year-old University of Texas student who has confessed to strangling two pretty coeds.

James C. Cross' defense lawyer cited "important omissions" in his confession and vowed to save him from the electric chair.

Attorney Perry L. Jones refused to discuss the omissions. Cross is charged with slaying Shirley Ann Stark and Susan Rigsby, both 21, of Dallas.

Jones said evidence released thus far in the mystery "appears to indicate" Cross had "some part" in the slayings.

"If James killed these girls, he belongs in some type of institution," Jones said.

Authorities have talked little about Cross' confession, but it has been learned Cross said he strangled Miss Rigsby while attempting to rape her, then strangled Miss Stark when she walked in on the pair.

Although the case is due to come up today before the grand jury, Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell said he has not received an autopsy report and some other information he wants to present to the grand jury. An immediate indictment appears unlikely.

Jones had one psychiatrist examine Cross, who is being held in jail without bond. Sunday and said Monday he will have a second psychiatrist visit his client later. Blackwell also said he will have a psychiatrist examine Cross.

Jones told reporters Monday the slayings bring out "a problem in sociology."

Jones indicated the attitude of America's younger generation will go on trial with Cross.

"It will be an interesting study of our whole moral setup, our whole community setup," he said.

Funeral Services Are Pending for Victims

By RAY RODGERS JR.

The crash of a twin-engine private aircraft near Douglas, Wyoming, claimed the lives of three prominent Pampa businessmen late yesterday.

Killed were Demaris E. Holt, 46, of 2010 Charles, operator of Holt Bros. Drilling Co; Clayton Husted, 1700 Evergreen, operator of Husted Grading Contractors, and B. M. (Bunny) Behrman, 721 N. Frost, owner of Behrman's Fashions store.

Funeral services are pending with Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

The three men were returning from a two-week fishing trip to Great Bear Lake near Alberta, Canada. They were members of a party of 20 Pampans who made the trip, leaving here on July 28 and 29.

The plane, a Piper Apache, crashed about nine miles south of the Douglas airport near the North Platte River valley in Central Wyoming.

Investigators said the crash occurred about 4:30 p.m. (Mountain time) or 5:30 p.m., Pampa time.

The aircraft, believed to have been piloted by Holt, had stopped for fuel at the Douglas airport.

Airport manager Maurice Good said the men mentioned they had been having engine trouble.

Federal Aviation Agency officials probing the wreck said they had no idea what caused the crash.

The three deaths make a total of eight Pampa persons who have lost their lives in private plane crashes in less than six months.

First notice of the fatal plane accident was received in Pampa by Sheriff Rufe Jordan who received a call about 10 o'clock last night from the prosecuting attorney at Douglas. The prosecutor had conducted a preliminary inquiry and obtained identification of the crash victims.

The three Pampa men, part of the party of 20 Pampans, left here on July 28, a day ahead of 14 members of the group who left the following day by commercial airliner.

Three other members of the party, B. L. Hoover Sr., B. L. Hoover Jr., of Pampa and Gene Devers of Dumas, also made the trip with their pilot in a private plane.

The 14 men who flew by commercial line and the six in the two private planes all met in Edmond, Alberta, from where they flew on to Outpost Lodge on Great Bear Lake.

All members of the party came back into Edmond by charter plane Sunday. The two private planes started the homeward trip and the other 14 men left by commercial plane for Amarillo where they arrived at 4:30 p.m. yesterday.

They did not know of the fatal accident in Wyoming until notified late last night by Sheriff Jordan.

It was also reported that another group of fishermen in a Shamrock Oil Co. plane lost an engine over Colorado on the return trip, but landed safely and came home by commercial.

Man Missing From Yacht

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (UPI)—A small launch from Frank Sinatra's 168-foot luxury yacht capsized today tossing one man and two women into the sea.

The two women swam back to the Southern Breeze, which was anchored at the mouth of this island harbor. The man, however, was missing.

The Coast Guard at first said they knew the identity of the man and refused to rule out the possibility that it was Sinatra. An official later said the accident victim was 23 years old, killing speculation that the man was the balding crooner.

Rescue ships and planes converged on the scene as the sun rose to search for the missing man. The Coast Guard also declined to identify the two women who swam back to Sinatra's yacht.

Senate Debates New Department For Urban Affairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate planned to open debate today on President Johnson's plan to create a cabinet level department of housing and urban affairs.

The proposal, already passed by the House, would place many of the functions of the present Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) under the direction of a new cabinet secretary.

The proposal, already passed by the House, would place many of the functions of the present Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) under the direction of a new cabinet secretary.

It is similar to a bill offered by the administration of the late President John F. Kennedy in 1962. That proposal was defeated in the House after Kennedy announced he would name HHFA Director Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, to the secretaryship.

Weaver still holds the HHFA post and presumably would be in the running for the job if this year's bill is successful.

President Johnson has steered clear of any statements on whom he might appoint, however.

The new department would have charge of urban renewal and urban planning programs, mass transit programs, planning and loan programs of the community facilities administration, and federal mortgage programs.

Television in Review

By ROBERT MUSEL.

United Press International NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a happy party with frequent bursts of loud laughter, endless toasts and much back slapping. A wedding, we foreigners thought, or at least an engagement.

Then a man left the noisy table and hustled over to us with a bottle of champagne. We must drink, he said, to his son who had just brought honor to the family.

What had he done?

Passed his entrance exams to Moscow University?

The scene above took place in the Ukraina Hotel in Moscow and represents how the average Russian feels when his offspring hurdles the first obstacle to a possibly rewarding, certainly prosperous, career in the Soviet Union.

Test is Tough

It's tough to get through the competitive test for Moscow U. — just as tough to keep pace with the incentive system which demands better and better marks once you are in. This coming season viewers will be able to see for themselves how university life in Russia differs from our own in its educational and social attitudes.

Isaac Kleinerman, producer of CBS-TV's "Twentieth Century" has finally obtained permission from Russian authorities to film for the first time the skyscraper university building which dominates the capital skyline.

Moscow was one stop on a tour in which Kleinerman set up four other subjects in Libya, Dutch Guiana, India and Scotland. These will be narrated as usual by Walter Cronkite in one of the documentary standbys which lend lustre to American television.

"In Surinam," Kleinerman said, "Alcoa has built a huge dam, flooded a huge area. They moved the local population but one thing they didn't plan was what would happen to the animal life. Now there is a fascinating rescue operation under John Walsh of Boston who is only 25. They are attempting to transfer not only snakes and leopards as such but the ecology — that is the balance of nature — from one area to another. I doubt it has ever been done before."

"The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is helping the project," Kleinerman said. "Twentieth Century" cameras would record an oddity of the atomic age — Christmas Day in November. This takes place at the Polaris submarine base at New London, Conn., for crews who celebrate with their families before leaving for a tour of duty which will find them on patrol undersea on Dec. 25.

SCLC Goes to Work On Vote Registration

By United Press International
The Southern Christian Leadership Conference met in Birmingham, Ala., today to take stock of gains Negroes have made on the civil rights front and to discuss new campaigns. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the SCLC, said the organization will begin work immediately under President Johnson's Voting Rights Act to get Negroes on the poll lists. King said a 25-member task force will move into four Alabama counties today to urge Negroes to register with the federal examiners sent there Monday by the Justice Department.

The department planned to expand its voting rights work today by filing suits in Alabama, Virginia and Texas seeking to do away with the poll tax as a requirement for voting.

In Americus, Ga., Monday 20 Negroes took advantage of the voting rights act to register. Negroes also continued their demonstrations. Georgia Ku Klux Klan Grand Dragon Calvin Craig, pleased by the huge turnout for a Klan march Sunday, said the hooded order planned another Americus demonstration later this month.

Elsewhere:
Greenville, Miss. — Registration for four desegregated grades in the public schools begins today. School officials earlier accepted 70 Negro children in previously all-white schools under a "freedom of choice" plan.

Borger Resident Injured in Crash

A 58-year-old Borger resident was injured early this morning in a car-pickup crash seven miles west of Pampa on Highway 132.

Injured was Herman W. Ferguson, driver of a 1961 model Chevrolet.

Driver of the pickup was Harry A. Nelson, Jr., 50, of Pampa. The accident occurred about 7:10 a.m. as the pickup stopped to make a left turn and the car rammed into the rear-end.

Ferguson was not believed seriously injured.

One crewman in the control center tried to get into the silo after the blast, but was driven back by the billowing smoke halfway down the passageway between the silo and the access portal. He said he was forced back, despite the fact he wore an oxygen mask.

He reported back to his crew commander of conditions in the tunnel. There were reports fuel in the missile would have exploded if temperatures had risen too high. But Air Force officials said it would have "boiled off" before blowing up.

Vet's Regional Office to Close

LUBBOCK (SpI) — Thursday will be the last day the Veterans Administration regional office in Lubbock will be open for business.

The Lubbock and Waco VA offices are scheduled to be consolidated into one regional office. Movement of veterans' records, office equipment and personnel will be accomplished during the weekend beginning August 13. On the following Monday, August 16, the consolidated regional office will be in operation at 121 South Sixth Street in Waco.

Remainder in Lubbock will be the Outpatient Clinic to continue compensation and pension examinations and outpatient treatment services to veterans of this area. The clinic will remain in the same location, 1612-20 Nineteenth Street, Lubbock.

Correspondence from veterans and others pertaining to medical services should continue to be addressed to the VA Outpatient Clinic in Lubbock and correspondence pertaining to other veterans' benefits should be directed to the VA Regional Office in Waco.

Viet Nam was formerly part of French Indo-China.

Branding Irons Put on Exhibit For Annual Rodeo

A unique exhibit of western antiques, composed mostly of branding irons of most all of the prominent ranches of the Texas Panhandle, is on display in downtown Pampa at the location of the old Dunlap store on Cuyler St.

The display is owned by Cecil A. Davis of Muleshoe, and was brought here yesterday as a side attraction to the Top O' Texas Rodeo.

Davis has spent many years in assembling the collection which is valued at more than $10,000. The collection dates back as far as 1770. Davis said that most of the branding irons have been donated from the various ranches in Texas and surrounding states, including the famous XIT ranch.

Pampa Hardware Is Being Redecorated

Modernization of the Pampa Hardware Co., 220 N. Cuyler, is now underway, according to Travis Lively, owner of the store.

Lively said the store was being redecorated with a new front, ceiling and other interior changes. He said the redecorating would probably be finished Friday.

Fire Damage Light

A fire at 8:55 p.m. yesterday caused light damage to a house owned by H. H. Coleman, 439 Harlem.

Firemen said the blaze started from a short in an extension cord. Damage was confined to one wall of the home.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Hargis Cites Plan For U.S. to Surrender to Reds

By JOSEPH A. ST. AMANT
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "It contains a diabolical projected plan to disarm the United States and abolish our national sovereignty by 1976. This plan is a self-styled 'scenario' of gradual surrender to world government with Communist Russia."

So says Rev. Billy Hargis of Tulsa, Okla. The anti-Communist crusader, about a government-financed document that is gaining circulation throughout the country. Hargis is the founder of the Christian Echoes National Ministry, Inc., better known as the Christian Crusade.

The U.S. Air Force, which paid North American Aviation, Inc. $78,700 to make the study, denies there is anything diabolical, or even secret, about it. The study bears the unwieldy title, "Factors Operative in a Post-Arms Control Situation."

It is not unusual these days for the government to hire outside experts to take a question of policy, examine all hypothetical possibilities and then write a report speculating on the consequences of a variety of courses of events. These reports are known as "think pieces."

North American, probably the nation's largest defense contractor, has a division which produces "think pieces" on political and economic subjects under government contract.

And that, say both North American and the Air Force, is what Air Force contract No. AF 49 (638)-1411 is all about.

An Air Force officer explains: "The purpose of the study is to assist the Air Force in assessing the potential impact of the arms control proposals on the Air Force's ability to perform its defensive and offensive missions — what action we would have to be prepared to take if any of these arms control measures were put into effect."

But Hargis and others see it as more than innocent speculation.

"Secret document exposes sinister arms control plot," read the headline over an advertisement discussing the report.

Charges Surrender

"This plan is a self-styled 'scenario' of gradual surrender to world government with Communist Russia," writes Hargis, "going as far as the listing of the wars that are to be fought between now and 1976, the world leaders to be assassinated, and listing the actual year for each event."

"For instance, this 'projected' blueprint of surrender says that (1) the Communist dictators of China will commit suicide in 1965; (2) Castro will be denied aid by Russia in 1965 and his government overthrown with the apparent approval of Russia in 1964; (3) Berlin will be 'internationalized' in 1965; (4) a nuclear-free zone will be set up in central Europe in 1965; (5) and U.S. and the Soviet Union will publicly agree to destruction of obsolete bomber aircraft in 1965 and the 'destruction of bombers completed' by 1966; (6) Communist China will be admitted to the United Nations early in 1966; (7) and in 1976 a 'completion of execution of final phase disarmament treaty'."

Hargis said he learned of the contract last spring from William Manahan, 39, at the time a $1,500-a-month electronics engineer at North American.

Manahan said he found out about the contract "by accident" when he noticed a fellow engineer reading charts which were part of the study.

Obtain Copy

He said he asked for and received a copy. He examined it a week or two, he said, and turned it over to his pastor, Dr. Bob Wells of the Central Baptist Church in Anaheim, Calif. Hargis said Manahan also gave him a copy.

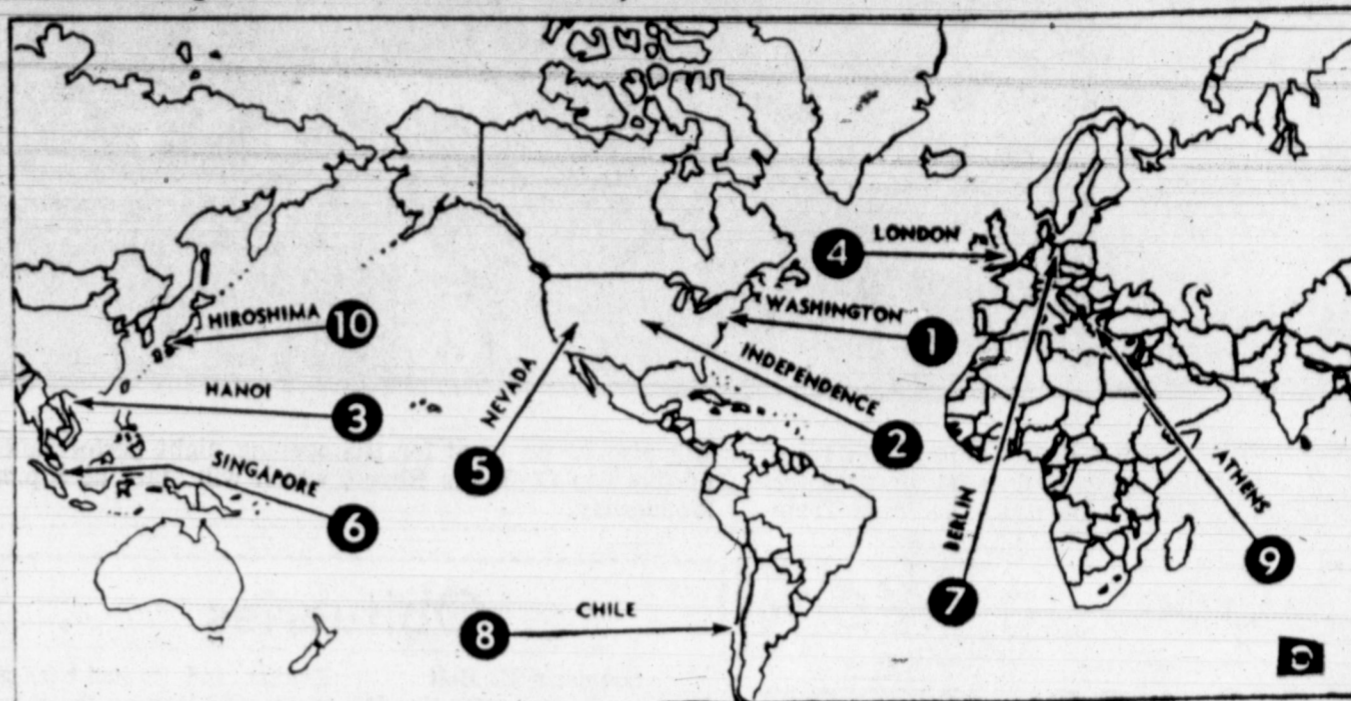

Subsequently, on May 18, Manahan's employment at North American was terminated. Manahan said he was forced to resign; the company said he was "given the opportunity to resign."

Foreign News Commentary

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—French President Charles de Gaulle has received a sharp jolt and a warning from an unexpected source—the 21-member Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD).

The international body, which has its headquarters in Paris and whose members are the United States, Canada, Japan and 14 Western European nations, has warned him that the French economy is nowhere near as sound as he would have the world believe.

In a survey published Aug. 5, OECD's anonymous economists said bluntly Gaullist France is suffering from economic stagnation. They warned that unless a strong shot-in-the-arm is given by fall, France would be in for a real economic recession.

The warning could almost be interpreted as a political low blow if OECD were not known to be beyond reproach in this respect.

Much of De Gaulle's influence and prestige is based on the recent strength of the French Republic compared with Fourth Republic days when France was known as the "economic sick man of Europe."

Flexes Muscles

De Gaulle has been able in recent years to flex his muscles, had out millions in foreign aid and build up a fledgling French national nuclear force because of a healthy national economy.

The aging general, though he is not considered much of an economic expert, has said publicly that economic stability as contrasted with the chronic crisis situation of Fourth Republic days is one of the cornerstones of his power policy.

For instance, he has been able to defy the United States and Great Britain in the world's money markets with an odd-man-out decision to go back to a straight gold standard simply because France in recent years has enjoyed a healthy favorable payments balance and has been piling up vast gold and foreign currency reserves.

Two years ago came the first warning bells in the form of new inflation threat. De Gaulle's government slammed on the economic brakes and, in a matter of months, managed to fasten down the lid on sharply mounting wages and prices.

Business Complains

But French business and the labor unions have been complaining that this now has gone too far.

OECD noted in its survey that economic growth has slumped from 5.7 per cent in 1964 to an estimated 2.5 per cent this year. It estimated real unemployment at 300,000 in a country which had enjoyed full employment for 20 years.

Whether or not to relax the economic squeeze has become a political issue now. Premier Georges Pompidou indicated in a recent radio-television broadcast to the nation that he favored applying stimulants to the economy.

But 39-year-old Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, who sponsored the original sav-the-franc stabilization plan two years ago, is believed still opposed to any major easing up.

De Gaulle hitherto has backed Giscard d'Estaing. But there are reports that the finance minister, who is said to regard himself as future presidential timber, may be on the way out—for the time being. The OECD warning might very well give just the necessary boost to push him out.

LOST WORK DAYS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's economy lost more days of work to strikes during the first half of this year than in any comparable period since 1960 according to the Labor Department.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said Sunday that 2,020 stoppages involving 852 workers began during the first half of 1966. Strike activity reached its highest monthly level in June, when about 450 walkouts began involving 262,000 workers.

CHILDREN FIND BODY

MISSION, Tex. (UPI)—Several children found the body of Octaviano Reyna, 60, of Mission Sunday. He had been missing 10 weeks. Justice of the Peace J. M. Austin said there was no indication of foul play.

Dear Abby.... Blame Yourself For Going With a Drip

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and I have a boy friend I'll call "Bruce." He's my age, but he's a year ahead of me in school. His folks left town, but didn't take their car, so Bruce called and asked me if I wanted to go for a ride with him. It was night time and my parents were out for the evening. I don't have permission to go in cars with boys, and Bruce doesn't have a driver's permit, but I said, "Okay, for just a short drive." He picked me up and we drove around where no one would see us.

Well, my mother found out about it and she told my Dad and now I am grounded for two weeks! Mother said she heard it from the mother of one of Bruce's friends, who said that Bruce was bragging all over the place about how he took me for a ride. Should I be mad at the woman who told my mother? Or should I be mad at Bruce for letting this leak out?

DEAR GROUNDED: If you must be "mad" at someone, try yourself. Bruce may have been responsible for the "leak," but that's what you get for going with a drip. You had it coming.

DEAR ABBY: I am new in this neighborhood and want to be on friendly terms with my neighbors, but here is my problem: Whenever I see this certain neighbor, she says, "Why don't you drop in for coffee sometime?" I never have because I am not sure when it is convenient for her to have me. I saw her this morning at the grocery store and she said, "I'm hurt! You never did accept my invitation to drop in for coffee." I wonder if I should take her up on it and just drop in sometime? I just hate popping in on people. I do not want this woman for an enemy. How should I handle this?

TO GO OR NOT TO GO
DEAR TO GO: Not all "drop-in" invitations are sincere. The next time your neighbor extends such an invitation, ask her when it would be convenient for you to come. And further to show your willingness to be friendly, invite her to your home for coffee. But name the time.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to a newspaper for advice before, but I have discussed this with my minister, and he gave me no satisfaction whatsoever, so I am writing to you. I lost my son through a terrible accident. He had been married only a year and a half at the time of his death. He and his wife had no children. My son was well insured, so his wife was left a large amount of money. She recently married again and is spending my son's money on this new husband of hers. I should think her conscience would hurt her. And I should think this new husband would feel awfully cheap living on a dead man's money.

DEAR MOTHER: The money your son left belongs to his wife because obviously he wanted it that way. I see no "wrongdoing" here. If you are looking for someone who will find fault with your former daughter-in-law for remarrying and spending that which is rightfully hers, you will have to look further.

BIRTHDAY HONOREES — Honored at Thursday's meeting of Senior Citizens' Center, held in Lovett Memorial Library, for having birthdays in August, were, seated left to right, Mrs. Myrtle Enloe, Mrs. Cora Yates and Mrs. O. A. Wagner, and standing, left to right, J. E. Adair, S. A. Barnard, Charlie L. Adams and J. V. Kidwell. Altruza Club of Pampa sponsors the party each week and serves as hostess for the birthday party once a month.

Do you believe that people get paid back for their wrongdoings? My son meant the world to me, and it is very hard for me to have to sit back and watch this go on. What can be done?

WMU of Central Baptist Church Has Business Meeting and Study Program

WMU of Central Baptist Church met for a regular board meeting and general missionary program recently.

Executive board meeting was led by Mrs. R. C. Brown. Minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given. Circle reports were given and it was stressed that each member be present for the meetings to follow. Meeting was closed with prayer led by Mrs. Nolan Cole.

Following the board meeting a surprise birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. Richard Johnson, who was presented a cake and gifts from the circles. Mrs. Dewayne Redden opened the program by reading the prayer calendar and offering the opening prayer.

Mr. Don Rosenback was in charge of the program with members of Sara Beth Short Circle giving parts. "Co-Laborers in Home Mission" was the program theme. Mrs. Phillis Bernius presented a message in song. Others on the program were Mrs. B. J. Chace, R. C. Brown, Wayne Birlerson, Redden, Ed Wells, Travis Taylor and Bob Clements. Mrs. Bernius closed the program by singing the closing verses of "Jesus Calls Me."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR WEDNESDAY, AUG. 17
GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are a bit more confident, but hold fast to what you are now interested in. Do not seek some new excitement. Be intelligently calculating your hours you find that you can still continue with money. Be sure and also expand your mentality into new channels.

TALKER (May 21 to Aug. 31) — Instead of worrying about money, get in touch with good allies who have the ideas and money. Advise others. Get out socially tonight. Make right contacts. Be loyal to friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Daily routine can be pretty dull. Be off to some meeting where your new plans can be put in motion. You have an excellent conception of how to expand. Act quickly.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Forget about recreation. You will concentrate upon putting all of your affairs in better order. Pleasing loved one in p.m. also should be your first duty. Be more happy, successful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 31) — Quickly get the OK from associates for any projects that require it. Then get to work with a vim and vigor you did not have before. Take no chances with security. Show you have good business sense.

VIRGO (Aug. 32 to Sep. 21) — Instead of using business with associates, get right down to the work before you and make real progress. Try to please. Cooperation brings the results desired by all.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Don't let business problems get you down, and a certain amount of recreation will be in order. Get best talents perfected. Be very happy and devoted with mate to night.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Instead of arguing vehemently with kin, be reasonable yourself and listen to what they have to say. Associate with those who are then you get your desires more easily.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Our son is working as a messenger until he enters college this fall. I want him to quit his job. He is paid by the hour and his employer cheats him by discrediting the hours he works. Two other messengers—elderly men—get the same treatment. My son comes home at night very nervous and upset from the criticism he has to take from this man.

ANSWER: The gist of what one says to a boss like this is: "If I am as inefficient as your criticism suggests, isn't it your obligation to fire me? You're the boss here and it's your obligation, not mine to fire inefficient workers. So let me put you straight about my intentions. I am not going to take your responsibility for you by quitting. And all the criticism you can give me is not going to make me take it."

Rarely do we get fired. The nagger, boss or anyone else, is only too aware that he is terrified of decision. He must pursue us with criticism to try to make us produce decision for him. So he is seldom so shocked as we imagine he'll be when he is told what he knows himself. Usually, after such a showdown, he develops a clinging dependence on us that is almost as wearisome as his nagging.

However, young and inexperienced people can't be expected to bring off this show down. They are still so imbued with the illusion that all adults are paragons of responsibility that they can't detect its absence in nagging bosses. Instead, they assume the bosses' irresponsibility as their own shortcoming and take their criticism to heart. That, I expect, is what this youngster of yours is doing.

Under these circumstances, parents have to content themselves with reassurances that the youngster is not exclusively responsible for his job problems.

New York Water Shortage Lifts Anti-Bath and Beer Bloc Spirits

By HARRY FERGUSON
UPI National Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Long ago, this glamorous, vertical city was called Bagdad-on-the-Hudson, but now it is Bagdad-on-the-Sahara. That's a joke son, caused by a water shortage in the nation's largest city.

Not a desperate shortage in the sense that people are actually thirsty. What New Yorkers are going through is inconvenience rather than tragedy. You can get water in restaurants only by asking for it. Hydrants are padlocked instead of being opened to cool off street children. Air conditioning is being used fewer hours in some buildings. Some New Yorkers may be taking fewer baths, although as a patron over many years of the Lexington Avenue subway system, this correspondent can testify there always has been a large anti-bath bloc among the city's residents.

New York City's plight is instructive because it is a perfect example of how the inertia, procrastination and stupidity of city officials can bring about a shortage of such an essential thing as water. The warning sign has been flashing red for years. In 1961 the city's reserve water supply stood at 438.6 billion gallons; in 1964, 372.3 billion; on July 22, 1965, 225.3 billion. In one day it can and has dropped 2 billion gallons.

Two Boroughs Islands The city uses about 1.3 billion gallons a day. The irony of it is that two of New York's five boroughs — Manhattan and Richmond — are islands and as we learned in second grade geography an island is land surrounded by water. By a simple process of tapping the Hudson River above Poughkeepsie, New York could have had all the water it needed years ago.

Instead, it uses a system of reservoirs which over the years have proved inadequate as the population increases. But there is a quicker solution than tapping the Hudson or building more reservoirs immediately at hand and all it needs is an ounce or two of political courage. New Yorkers waste 400 million gallons of water a day. The reason for that is that they pay a flat rate for their water — around $17 a year for a home owner. Once you pay that, you can use all you choose, and two leaky faucets in your home can dribble away thousands of gallons a year.

The answer is to install water meters everywhere and charge according to what is used. The answer to why this was not done years ago is that owners of homes and apartment buildings don't want to do it, and the city officials don't want to offend so many voters by doing it.

Proven Fact Universal installation of meters to prevent a water shortage is not a theory. It is a proven fact. Philadelphia now has universal metering. Daily consumption has dropped from 400 million gallons to 325 million. When you pay for something you are disinclined to waste it.

You fail to detect a sense of crisis as you walk through the New York streets. The city abounds in watering holes and oases, and a citizen brooding about the water shortage realizes that gin and tonic will slake thirst and also adduce a sense of well being. The bars are crowded and beer flows like, shall we say, water?

Most of the northeastern section of the nation is suffering from drought, and to get to the real core of the crisis you must go north out of New York to, for instance, Waltham, Vt.

There you meet Dwight Burnham in the heart of Vermont's dairyland. He is one of the state's biggest farmers and he sees nothing but ruin ahead. Half a dozen large farmers in his area sold out during July. "I've never seen nothing like it," Burnham said. "After three years of almost no rain there's nothing can help us. Two more summers like this and Addison County will be one big, vast desert. The hell of it is all we can do is look up at the sky and hope and pray and beg for rain.

Nothing Helps "Nothing else will do us any good. If we have to borrow money to buy hay, how do we pay it back at these high interest rates. Things have never looked worse for Vermont farmers."

The production of hay in Burnham's section is only one-fourth of normal and farmers already are dipping into their winter supply of feed. Some of them are engaging in "selective slaughtering"—the killing off of low producing cows to save feed.

Burnham's is the authentic voice of tragedy and despair. A farmer is entitled to ask why, if we can send a rocket to the moon, we cannot do something about moistening the earth which produces our food.

The United States has had plenty of disastrous blightings from drought. New England suffered one in 1749; the entire nation east of the Mississippi in 1881 and in the 1930s the Midwest dust bowl. Experience may be the best teacher, but its lessons don't always sink into our minds. But at least there are stirrings on a fairly large scale in an attempt to deliver us from the menace of a water shortage.

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
Negro demonstrations around the campus of Philadelphia's white-only Girard College continue to create for the U.S. Supreme Court a difficult and unhappy predicament.

The difficulty will be in extending to the Girard College demonstrators the gently understanding forgiveness the court has extended to demonstrators in other areas. Civil rights demonstrators arrested, jailed or fined for trespass or violence in the support of their cause generally have been found guilty by the justices.

As a layman would understand it, the court usually has held that a civil rights demonstrator who violates local law by trespass or violence may not be punished because his cause is just. More precisely, the court could hold that state laws or local ordinances imposing racial discrimination violated the 14th Amendment to the Constitution. The 14th guarantees all citizens equal protection under the law.

Rules Against States It would be reasonable to hold that no one should be punished for violating a law which was a violation of the Constitution. Last December the Supreme Court ruled in effect that the states may not prosecute for offenses in behalf of civil rights which were committed some years prior to enactment of the 1964 civil rights law.

The Girard College demonstrations have been going on for months, requiring hundreds of police to preserve order. There have been arrests for disorderly conduct. The college was founded 117 years ago with a bequest of $5.2 million from Stephen Girard, Philadelphia financier, who directed that the money be used to establish a preparatory school for the education of poor, white, male orphans to the age of 18. The endowment has increased greatly. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored people (NAACP) demands that Girard's will be revised after 117 years to educate Negro youths.

Withstands Tests Girard's will has withstood many legal tests up to now, having gone twice to the Supreme Court. The first time up, the court held that the college could not exclude Negro boys because its trustees included municipal officers of Philadelphia. The Philadelphia Orphans' Court thereupon established new trustees, all private citizens. The Orphans' Court held that the governing factor in the dispute was the desire of Stephen Girard to limit his benefaction to white boys.

The NAACP refuses to accept that point of view despite the Supreme Court finding the second time around that the white-only provision was legal under the revised trusteeship.

Pennsylvania politicians from Gov. William Scranton down are maneuvering to break the will in an effort to get the NAACP off the back of Philadelphia.

Business Highlights

By United Press International LONDON (UPI) — The Association of British Chambers of Commerce said Monday British merchants are gloomy about the nation's overseas trading prospects. Shortage of credit worries small exporters and both big and small firms report declining export orders. The July export trade figures, due to be released this week, are expected to be disappointing and to cause renewed pressure on the pound, which was buffeted last week by rumors of impending devaluation.

PITTSBURGH — Most steel customers now have built up substantial stockpiles, as a hedge against a strike Sept. 1, industry leaders say. However, mill bookings are heavy right up to the strike deadline.

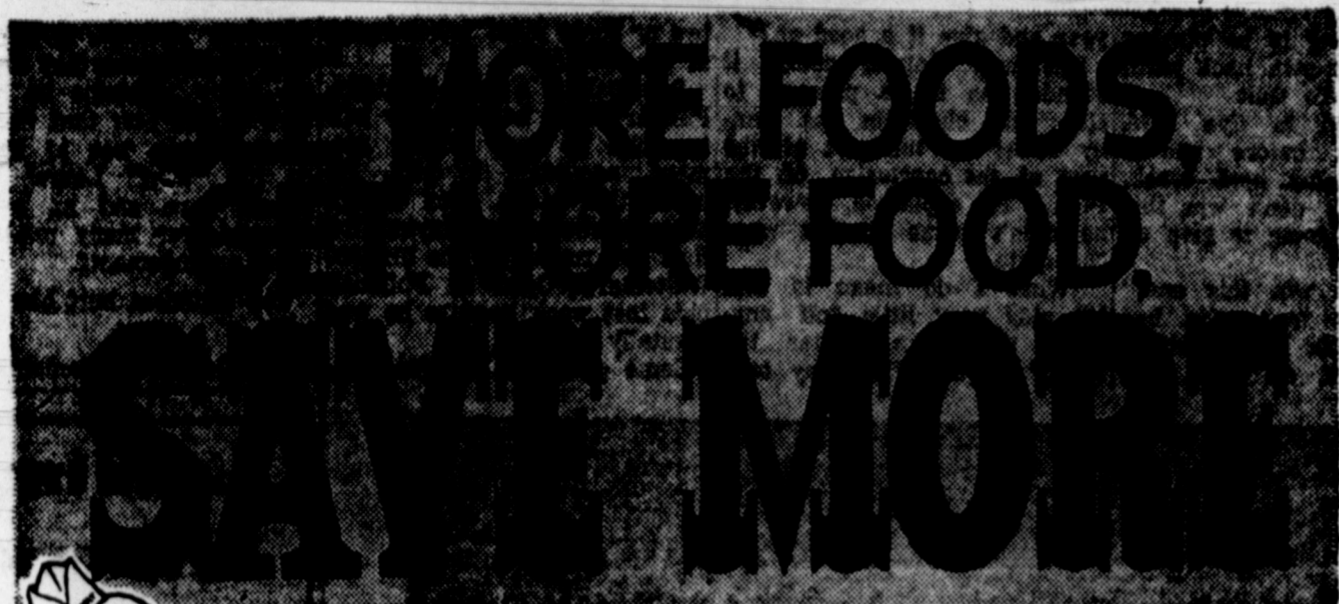

CHICAGO — The Rock Island Railroad, estimating a $3 million third quarter loss, said over the weekend the only lasting solution to its financial problems is merger with the Union Pacific.

Rock Island officials predicted a loss for the current year of $6 million or more contrasted with a profit of $3.84 million in 1964.

CLIFFWOOD, N.J.: American Can Co. announced Monday it will double the capacity and personnel of its Cliffwood glass container plant. The expansion will add 200,000 square feet to the plant and increase the number of workers from 450 to 900.

NEW YORK: Union Carbide Corp. said it has obtained $1.7 million Army contract to supply dry cell batteries for military electronic communications equipment.

Fickle Galleryites Leaning Toward Nicklaus

By MILTON RICHMAN
LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, sounding exactly like one of those old Brooklyn Dodgers, thrusts his chin out and warns "wait till next year" should he fail to win this big one coming up.

He isn't talking specifically about the PGA championship, which gets underway Thursday. He's talking about his golf game in general.

At 35, Palmer's hearing and vision are still perfect. That means he isn't deaf to all the talk about him possibly being over the hill nor is he blind to the fact that those fickle, front-running galleryites are swinging more and more away from him and over toward golden boy Jack Nicklaus.

Palmer hasn't won a tournament since early May and knows he's in one of the worst slumps of his career but he does not believe he's through. "I'd much rather think it has just been a slow year for me," he said, thinking back to his golf troubles of the past few months. "I like to feel that I'm getting set for another year — the one immediately ahead."

"Winning the PGA means a whole lot to me. Especially because I've never won it and because I'm going to be playing this one in my own back yard. Not to quit.

"I've played in five PGA championships before and I know this is my best crack, but even if I don't win this time I'm not going to give up and quit."

"If I don't win this one," continued the man who has won every other major golf title, "I'll start all over next year and give it a good go." The way Palmer spoke, it sounded as if he planned to store his clubs in the family closet for the rest of the year at the conclusion of the PGA. He explained, however, he didn't mean it that way.

Not quite.

"What I do mean is that I'll play very little golf any more this year after the PGA," he said. "I'll play only two or three more tournaments at the most."

Physically and mentally, Palmer never has felt any better than he does at the moment, according to him. He made that claim even though he withdrew after playing the first two rounds of the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open in Philadelphia last week because he was mentally fatigued.

Some criticized him for withdrawing. Others sympathized with him because they knew of the many problems he had in view of the fact that the PGA championship was to be held on his "own" Laurel Valley course here and he was responsible for many pre-tournament arrangements.

The criticism hurt him somewhat.

"I told the Whitemarsh people I wasn't going to play in their tournament to begin with," he explained. "I did only because they asked me. I had a lot of things on my mind. I was worried about this stuff (meaning the PGA preparations)."

That's all behind him now, though, and all he has to do is concentrate on winning the PGA, a feat he has been unable to accomplish in five previous tries.

"The conditions are near ideal for me," he confessed. "I'm at home and I'll be playing a course I know reasonably well. I think my chances are good. Better than they have been any time this year."

"If I don't win, though, it won't be the end. Like I say, I'll just start all over again next year and put this one completely out of my mind."

College Coaches Cringe As Prep Stars Clash

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
CHICAGO (NEA)—Friday, 33 pairs of bowlegs from the state of Texas will co-mingle with 33 gladiators from the Alleghenies in chocolate-smothered Hershey, Pa.

Considering that 23,000 people will try to squeeze into 22,000 odd pews, it's great for interstate commerce.

But what's it do for football? This game, called the Big 33, is the ultimate proliferation of all-star high school exhibitions. Johnny Teen-ager isn't home brushing up his saddle shoes for campus life as a freshman. He's in some stadium in Louisiana, Alabama, Arkansas, Oklahoma, California, North Carolina, and infinitum, trying on shoulder pads for size.

Ahead lies four years of college football — maybe.

A year ago, David Dickey of Palestine, Tex., was trying to block a big end from Pennsylvania and collapsed with a crumpled cartilage in his knee. This made big news in Arkansas because David was committed to four years of advanced football learning there. Coach Frank Broyles of the university had him immediately flown from Hershey to a special surgeon in the Southwest for the knee operation.

In the Texas High School Coaches All-Star game, Linus Baer, a prospective halfback at the university some day, also was required with a knee injury that required an operation.

College coaches, who've invested valuable recruiting time and four-year scholarships, shudder at the risk of seeing their futures exposed to abortive injury. In a Louisiana game, LSU has 13 boys committed to full education no matter what happens to them.

Darrell Royal of the University of Texas tries to shrug off the physical danger.

"From a selfish standpoint, it is up here that worries me," he pointed to his head.

"What it'll do to the boy is the big thing, exposing an 18-year-old to the public. I'm 41 and I have to be careful." Now with the Big 33 game, they've got 18-year-old kids taking up the cudgel of state pride.

Because the Big 33 game a year conflicted with the Texas high school coaches' private playpen, the latter group kept most of the talent home and blasted the Hershey bowl. Then the Texas kids lost, 12-6, while recruiters crawled the premises trying to get them to change their minds on colleges.

This year the dates were arranged 10 days apart and the opposition evaporated, at least on the high school level.

"I'm more against interstate games than intrastate games," says Royal.

He says that because he has to live with and be forced-fed by the high school coaches in his own state, and who cares what happens up in Pennsylvania?

Besides, there's a young half-

School in Houston named Chris Gilbert. Before the month of August is gone, he will have played in the Cotton Bowl for the Texas High School Coaches in Wichita Falls and the Oil Bowl (a test between Texas and Oklahoma prepsters) and the Big 33.

After that, if he's still safe of body, mind, intent and ego, he'll report in to the Texas campus at Austin.

Royal has his fingers crossed. In Austin.

Borger Loses In Legion, 20-19

WAXAHACHIE (UPI)—The state American Legion baseball tournament ended a doubleheader at 4:40 a.m. today and Borger, Waxahachie and sleep were the big losers.

San Antonio nipped Borger 20-19 in the first game that ended at 1:10 a.m. There were 33 hits and 23 errors in the tussle that was delayed 2 hours by rain.

In the second game, St. Thomas of Houston ripped Waxahachie 12-1. It ended at 4:40 a.m.

Tonight San Antonio and Waxahachie will tangle with the loser being eliminated. The winner will muster what strength it has left to battle St. Thomas in the finals tomorrow night.

Scouting The Pros

ST. LOUIS (NEA)—RECEIVERS—fine balance with Bobby Joe Conrad for the sure catch as flanker, Sonny Randle returning 100 per cent as the premier deep threat and either Jackie Smith or Taz Anderson for the heavy duty stuff at tight end. Cards added a plus with Bill Gambrell as Randle's replacement last half of '64 and rookie Ray Ogden. RATING—very good.

OFFENSIVE LINE—Particularly strong in middle with Bob DeMarco flanked by Irv Goode and Ken Gray. Maybe the best in football. Tackles Ernie McMillan and Bob Reynolds specialize in pass protection. Reynolds has competition from Herschel Turner, a late season fill-in. Leadership comes from Gray. RATING—very good.

QUARTERBACKS—It's up to Charley Johnson. The young chemist (studying for Ph. D.) is a prolific thrower but must conquer tendency to keep ball too long—leads to interceptions. There's still no adequate replacement if anything happens to him. RATING—good.

RUNNING BACKS—Big plus is the return of Bill Triplett after about with T. B. He supplies the outside threat. The muscle comes from steady Joe Childress, burly Willis Crenshaw and Bill Thornton. Look for Thornton to come on strong. There's also Prentice Gault if Triplett has any trouble regaining form. RATING—good.

DEFENSIVE LINE—It'll line up same way with Don Brumm, Joe Bobb on flanks. Luke Owens, Sam Silas inside. Brumm is the strong man on the pass rush. Owens fortifies the middle. Silas still has tendency to get trapped but he's eager. This is one department where a rookie has a chance to get a strong play. RATING—fair-to-good.

LINEBACKERS—If they can avoid injury, Cards have admirable combo of skill and experience. Dale Meinert's flanked by Bill Koman and Larry Stallings. Greatest virtue is that they make no mental errors. Cards hope for depth from rookie Dave Simmons. The corner of the corps is Stallings on strong side. RATING—good.

DEFENSIVE BACKS—Finally got rid of Jimmy Hill on right corner, but got Abe Woodson from San Francisco for John Crow, and that's an edge in age and speed. On other side Pat Fischer does amazing things for a 5-9 tyke. Safeties are well stocked with Jerry Stovall as the strong man and Larry Wilson for roaming and blitzing. Fifth man who'll get work is Jim Burson. RATING—good.

SUMMARY—Cardinals have the best balanced team in the Eastern Division. There's no obvious weakness. They only have to prove they have winning poise, and that lays burden strictly on quarterback Charley Johnson. PREDICTION—First place.

Fight Results

National Jaycee Tourney Opens

HOUSTON (UPI)—Golf starts today in the National Jaycees' annual teen-age sports spectacular. The opening session yesterday was cut short by rain.

Most of the tennis scheduled for Monday was also scheduled today. Track and field events will be Friday and Saturday.

In Monday's 18-and-under boys singles: Raymond Buck-Law of Baltimore beat Dick Fate of New Mexico, 6-3, 6-4; and Carry Huffman of New Mexico beat Bill Crook of Fayetteville, Ark., 6-3, 6-0.

WILTED LOTUS—English driver C. Sawyer-Hoare reduced his Lotus-Ford 23 into a pile of rubble when he smashed into an embankment at the Crystal Palace race course in London. Sawyer-Hoare (bottom right) managed to limp away from the scene with no serious injuries.

Radatz Faces Monstrous Situation

By SANDY PADWE
NEW YORK (NEA) — Dick Radatz suddenly is a monster without a fastball, which is like being a Tyrannosaurus without teeth.

And, if Radatz' earned run average keeps spiraling upward, he, too, may be ready for early extinction.

Even Radatz isn't sure what his trouble is this season although he traces part of it to a change in his motion which has cut the effectiveness of his best pitch.

It has been an abrupt comedown for the guy who was considered the best relief pitcher in the major leagues the past two seasons.

It also makes one wonder about the life-span of fastballing relief pitchers.

"I'd worry more about relief pitchers who rely on hard breaking balls," Radatz said. "They put more stress on their arm than, say, a fastballer like myself or a knuckle-baller like Eddie Fisher."

"A fastball pitcher can survive longer, I think, than the breaking ball pitcher because the fastballer just stretches the muscles in his arm while the guy with the breaking ball is twisting the muscles."

"As far as my conditioning, I'm not doing anything different. By this time of year, when I've been pitching regularly, it should take me only about a minute in the bullpen to get ready. I throw about three real hard pitches out there and then throw hard again when I get to the mound for my warmups. That should be enough."

"When I haven't pitched for four or five days, it takes me longer."

"There really aren't too many things you can change to conserve yourself. The main one now is not running as much in the outfield before the games."

"So far, the conservation measures haven't been much help to the 6-5, 250-pound righthander, but he isn't resentful or short-tempered like many other stars who suddenly go bad."

"I still love the challenge of relieving," he said. "The thing that's attractive about it is that it's either you or him."

"It's a great feeling to come in and dominate a situation for a short while."

But those situations haven't been as abundant this year.

U.S. Tracksters Eye West Germans

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—The American track team, once again enjoying the freedom of a Western country, hoped to end its European tour on a winning note in competition with the West Germans beginning Wednesday.

The U. S. men's team takes on the West German squad Wednesday and Thursday at Augsburg's Rosenau Stadium while the American girls, fresh from a first-ever victory over Poland, meet the German women Friday in Munich's Dante Stadium.

The combined squad arrived here Monday on the heels of a dual victory over the Poles last weekend after both U. S. teams had lost to the Russians at Kiev the week before.

U.S. Wins Wightman

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The United States held the Wightman Cup again today, despite valiant play by four British women who were not wholly reflected by the 5-2 count for the seven matches.

The United States put away its 31st title of the series Monday with victories in two of the final three matches of the three-day tournament on the clay at Harold Clark Stadium.

In the other match, the last of five singles, Britain's top seeded Ann Haydon Jones upset America's first ranked Nancy Richey 6-4, 9-7.

The first singles of the day was won by Billie Jean Moffitt, who beat Liz Starkie 6-3, 6-4 in the match that gave the United States a 4-1 advantage for the tournament and the three-foot silver urn.

England lost the tourney's second and last doubles at the end of the day with rainclouds threatening when Miss Moffitt and Karen Hantze Susman put down Mrs. Jones and Virginia Wade in frequently tied sets of 6-3, 8-6.

Great Britain has won the Wightman Cup only six times in the tournament's 37 editions since 1923, and only once have the English taken the title on an American court — in 1925. Its last win was in 1960.

Rambling With Red

By RON CROSS

"Short boy with big heart and lots of desire. Totally inexperienced but surprisingly strong. Low-built, he's always in a hitting position."

The above paragraph is used in the new Oklahoma University football brochure to describe Rick Goodwin, former Pampa High standout, who is ticketed for lots of duty with the Sooners.

Goodwin is listed as the No. 2 right guard with a chance to become the No. 1 man before the season is over.

The OU sophomore is playing behind Robert Vardeman, a junior from Stilwell, Okla.

The 19-year-old, 5'9 by 196 pound Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Goodwin, 1963 N. Wells, graduated in '64 from Pampa and had a good freshman season with the Sooners.

Pampa Athletic Director Weidon Trice describes Goodwin as, "a real hustler, a tough guard and linebacker."

Goodwin lettered his junior and senior years, made all-district in '64 and won the Fighting Harvester award his senior year.

Goodwin will be playing with a Sooner team that will be at its most inexperienced in years.

The Sooners will be rich in talent on offense but lacking badly on defense.

Coach Gomer Jones has much rebuilding to do with his defensive corps.

"No one is any more aware of this than Jones, who says, "From our defensive platoon we've had to replace both tackles, both ends, a linebacker, a secondaryman, and the safety."

From our offensive platoon we've had to replace both tackles, a guard, the quarterback, a halfback and the fullback.

"We'll be using lots of inexperienced men early in the season."

Jones lists his offensive line as the greenest and least talented unit of all. Mediocre depth with not a single letterman in the second line.

"However, this group hustles hard, has a fine attitude and wants very much to impress and to play. They try real hard to get after people once the ball is snapped," Jones says.

The Sooners kick-off 1965 on Sept. 25 at Pittsburgh and end regular season play Dec. 4 at Norman when they host Oklahoma State.

In between the Big Red plays Navy at Norman, Texas at Dallas; Kansas at Norman; Kansas St. at Manhattan; Colorado at Norman; Iowa State at Norman; Missouri at Columbia; Nebraska at Lincoln.

The Longhorns, whom the Sooners play Oct. 9, will be out to gorge the Sooners for the eighth straight time. OU having won last in 1957 when they upended the Steers, 21-7.

Poke Rookies Draw Coaches Praise

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboy coaching staff expressed satisfaction today with the initial practice performances of four rookies who participated in the College All-Star game at Chicago.

The quartet, Craig Morton, Bob Hayes, Russel Wyatt and Ralph Neely, reported in Monday and draw praise from coaches for their quick adaptation to the Cowboy system.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Roberts No 'Was' Kid After All

By United Press International
Robin Roberts, the former whiz kid, isn't a "was" kid after all.

But for a while there, the only ones who realized it were the big right-handed pitcher and the Houston Astros, who were smart enough to sign him Friday after the Baltimore Orioles of the American League had cut him loose.

Roberts, the ace of the Philadelphia Phillies' mound staff for a decade, went to the route Monday night to shut out his former team 8-0 on only four hits.

In the only other major league action Dean Chance of the Los Angeles Angels two-hit the Cleveland Indians and beat them 9-0.

Once Phil Malmstay "Tonight was one of those nights where everything went my way," the exultant Roberts said. He's had nights like these before, especially as the mainstay of the Phillie pitching staff when the 1950 version — the Whiz Kid — won the National League pennant in the last game of the season against the Dodgers.

"My fast ball and curve and changeup were all working for me," the 36-year-old former fireballer said. "It was quite a thrill for me. We got plenty of runs, and I had nice stuff. It's really a nice feeling."

The Phillies dealt Roberts to the New York Yankees in 1961. The Yanks took a look at him and promptly shuffled him to Baltimore. This season the Orioles intended to use Roberts as a reliever, and the right-hander wasn't having any. He asked out.

Promised Starting Role
Baltimore put him on the block and the Astros signed him as a free agent. They promised to start him. They renewed the promise after his Monday performance.

Making his first appearance in four years against a National League team, Roberts was masterful in the air-conditioned dome because it shuts out the heat and humidity.

"But I don't believe I will have any trouble outside of the dome, either — I feel good," Roberts said.

The Astros scored four runs in the first inning to wrap it up. Lou Burdette gave up singles to Joe Morgan, Bob Aspromonte, Joe Gaines and Ron Brand. The hits were aided by a hit batsman and an error.

Gets Three Hits
Tony Gonzalez had three of the Phillies hits, a double and two singles.

Burdette lost his fifth decision against two victories. This made Roberts' record 1-6 in the NL to go with his 5-7 AL record.

The Winning Golf Touch

By BILLY CASPER
Written for NEA

There were a couple of times during the Insurance City Open when I thought I wouldn't even finish. Much less win.

I had an uncomfortable virus for the first couple of days and after the first 36 holes — my cards were 70 and 72 — I was afraid I'd finish out of the money for the first time in 43 consecutive tournaments.

In previous years, that virus would have probably knocked me out of contention. But no more. I've learned that health and physical fitness play as much a part of winning golf as do driving and putting... and I've adjusted my personal habits accordingly.

I've been on a dietary program for nearly a year and it has helped me become a much more consistent player. Proof of this is that I'm in the best year I've ever had — three wins and nearly $60,000 in winnings.

But my weight loss (from 220 to 180) has not been the big factor in my improvement. What has really helped is that I've grown strong, more athletic, and am able to cope with week to week golfing pressure.

When Johnny Pott and I tied at the end of 72 holes in the insurance, I was able to call on reserve strength I never had before. And it helped me edge him with a birdie on the first extra hole.

The diet is a strict one. I've cut out wheat, pork, eggs, peas, beans, chocolate, apples, lamb, beefs, milk, melons and fowl. It's severe, to be sure. But with $60,000 in winnings you might say I'm crying all the way to the grocery store.

Rand, Day Lead Field in 23rd Broadmoor Golf

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Co-medalists Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, and Connie Day of Cleveland, Tenn., led a field of 32 into today's match play opening at the 23rd Broadmoor Women's Invitational.

The two women each fired par 73s Monday in the 18-hole qualifying round. Play was held over the 6,328-yard Broadmoor course in the shadow of Pike's Peak.

Some 167 women, many of them top women golfers in the U.S., are in the tournament. Cutoff Monday was 84.

Defending champion Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., shot a 1-over-par 74.

Today's championship pairings include:

Miss White (74) vs. Karen Keating, Wichita, Kan. (82). Kathleen Ahern, Dallas (79) vs. Jane Huntsberger, Camarillo, Calif. (84). Nancy Holmes, Nashville, Tenn. (78) vs. Polly Riley, Fort Worth, (83). Jeanie Butler, Harlingen, Tex. (78) vs. Vi Ann Beadle, Rock Island, Ill. (83).

'GO ARNIE GO'

Palmer Fans Choice in Open

LIGONIER, Pa. (UPI) — They call it the PGA golf championship but a better name for it would be the Arnold Palmer Open.

This is Arnold Palmer country and although he is only one in a field of 172 golfers who will tee off Thursday, he is the only one you hear about.

There are signs everywhere, urging "Go, Arnie, Go" and if you don't wear a button proclaiming "I'm One of Arnie's Army" then you just aren't from this rustic section of the country known as "Palmerland."

Arnie lives down the road a piece — in Latrobe — but the Laurel Valley layout here is his home course and the golfing fans of the area want the world to know it.

Palmer has known it all along. He also knows that the only reason they are playing the PGA here — 50 miles from the Pittsburgh metropolitan area — is because it's Arnie's home grounds.

Championship Course
But the setting is the only thing "country" about it. The course is a championship one in every other respect.

"It's tough, but fair," maintains Palmer, who has played 100 rounds on it. The best he has ever done is a four under par 67 over the 7,000-yard layout.

Palmer appears as charged up over the tournament as his legion of fans.

Although he dropped out of the Whitemarsh Open last week after shooting a disastrous second round, and has been criticized for it, Palmer admitted he had everything going for him this time — perhaps, even his putter.

That's the club which has kept Arnie from the golfing success he is so used to thus far this year.

"But I think I'm getting the feel back," Palmer said, adding that he didn't think there would be extra pressure on him because he is playing in his own backyard before his friends and neighbors.

"I think my chances of winning this one are better than they have been for any other tournament I've played in this year," Palmer reasoned. "I feel I'm driving much better and I'm feeling better about my putting. If I can start dropping a couple of long ones, I should do well."

"After all, I'm at home, where I like to be and I know the course reasonably well."

As if the home town pressure isn't enough, there is added pressure on Palmer in this one. It's the only major tournament he never has won and this is his sixth crack at it. He is 35 now and realizes if he doesn't add the PGA to his titles soon, it may be too late.

"But I'm not thinking that way at all," Palmer insisted. "I'm thinking only in terms of

Amarillo Sonics Manage To Stay Out of TL Cellar

By United Press International
The Albuquerque Dodgers hammered out three runs in the bottom of the ninth Monday night to take a 5-4 victory from El Paso and finally wrest the overall Texas League percentage lead from Dallas — Fort Worth.

Dallas — Fort Worth dropped a 10-inning pitcher duel to the Austin Braves 1-0 but managed to stay one-half a game ahead of the Tulsa Oilers in the Eastern Division. The Oilers lost their game to Amarillo 4-3.

The 10-inning affair in Dallas saw Brave starter Herb Hippauf battle Bob Flynn of the Spurs all the way. Hippauf allowed 7 hits, but the Spurs couldn't push across a single run. Flynn gave up 10 hits.

El Paso jumped to a quick 4-0 lead over Western Division leader Albuquerque, scoring one run in the first and three more in the third. Bob Mitchell hit a home run in the third for the Sun Kings. Sun King starter Marty Pattin held the Dodgers scoreless until the eighth when Albuquerque moved two runs across.

winning this one."

If he does, he will join Gary Player, Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen as the only golfers ever to win the four major pro championships — the U. S. Open, the British Open, the PGA and the Masters.

Player, the current U. S. Open champion, and Hogan, who will be 53 on Friday, are among the golfers Palmer has to beat.

But he figures his biggest problem will be Jack Nicklaus, who has won the last two tournaments, the $100,000 Thunderbird and the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open last Sunday.

"Jack is playing wonderful golf and on this course — or any other course for that matter — you have to consider him as the man to beat," said Palmer.

England lost the tourney's second and last doubles at the end of the day with rainclouds threatening when Miss Moffitt and Karen Hantze Susman put down Mrs. Jones and Virginia Wade in frequently tied sets of 6-3, 8-6.

Great Britain has won the Wightman Cup only six times in the tournament's 37 editions since 1923, and only once have the English taken the title on an American court — in 1925. Its last win was in 1960.

'Drop-Out' Is a Smear Word

Every administration has to have a dirty - bird word which sums up the wrath, the character and the virtue of the present incumbents. With the Great Society, the word is Drop-Out. Drop-outs are worse even than Republicans, segregationists and international bankers. Drop-out is the indictment of a quaint old customer known as free enterprise which permits some persons to depart the academic world a few years the other side of puberty without calling the cops.

You must be conditioned, like Pavlov's pooches, to react to the word with invariable anger. Drop-out does not send us into a state of depression or set us against the world. A drop-out is somebody who has quit some school or another, for some reason or another, sooner than someone or other thinks proper. This does not seem to us to be, on the face of it, inflammatory.

Like the king whose departure from life was said by Shakespeare to have been his greatest triumph, the departure of some scholastics from the academic scene might be their greatest contribution to the body politic.

The precise value which attaches to the fact of an overgrown, resentful, unwilling youth inhabiting the fifth grade until he is sprung by the law is elusive. Why is this one of more value to himself or his race by reason of his sitting in a classroom for the required number of hours and for the required number of years?

To Ease Our Plan

Thursday will mark the 100th anniversary of a medical event which in ways small or large, has probably touched the lives of all who may read this. On that day a century ago, Dr. Joseph Lister of Glasgow, Scotland, cleansed the broken and infected hip of a Scottish lad with a carbolic acid solution before and after operating. Thus stopping the infection which, in those days, would normally have led to death by septic poisoning. This opened the door to antiseptic surgery and to a myriad of germ-killing techniques which we now take for granted.

Dr. Lister's achievement was not immediately hailed throughout the medical profession, nor were his techniques generally adopted. We wonder in passing if, under modern concepts of consensus and committee or bureaucratic approval, Dr. Lister would have dared even to try this antiseptic surgery, despite the fact that he had spent years in meticulous research and experiment beforehand.

Of course, there were short-comings. The carbolic acid solution which he used to kill germs was also harshly damaging to Guess what? Forty members of the House Banking Committee are recommending a federal law to prohibit the use of silver coins as collateral security for loans. In other words, money with an intrinsic value is not to be used as collateral. That means, money is not money! Shades of the French Revolution! We have here the height of something and we suspect the proper term might be... idiocy.

Pull Up A Chair

The spirit of Horatio Alger still lives. From aerospace to dioxide-actuated beer - tap devices is the success story of two young U.S. Air Force officers who, after leaving the service in 1950, established the Conax Corp. in Buffalo, N.Y., with only $450 capital. Today this concern is a multi-million-dollar enterprise operating in many fields. First Maurie W. Connell and John Considine originated explosive actuation valves which have been used successfully on every missile launched by Uncle Sam. From this they developed flow control and pressure regulation. You will find their unique Co 2 dispenser on sale, which delivers real draught beer, as any aficionado will tell you, is the best of brews. From coast to coast brewers are cooperating by placing the golden drink in gallon cans to which the dispensing device is easily attached.

Today's smile: A patient said to his physician: "Well, Doctor, you weren't kidding when you said you'd have me walking again in a month." The M.D. beamed and said: "That's right." "Yes," said the patient, "I had to sell my car to pay your bill."

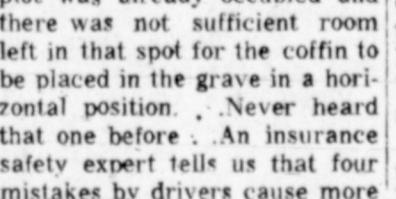

Did you know one of the oddest and shortest place names on the map of the United States is T.B., a small village in Maryland? The initials designate the name of Thomas Brooke, whose father, Robert Brooke, was given a large grant of land in Prince George's County in 1648. Thomas Brooke's initials were cut on the boundary stones, one of which marks the center of the village... You'd never believe it but California's giant redwood trees grow from seeds one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter. Yet one tree may yield as much as 500,000 feet of lumber.

Thoughts while shaving: The long, hot summer has brought joy to the nation's brewers. They expect beer sales this year to top 102 million barrels, which is an all-time record. Last year Americans quaffed about 95 million barrels, which shows the populace is getting thirstier... A friend, just back from London, tells us Westminster Abbey has been scrubbed with soap and water and the gloomy walls now glisten, revealing the original white stone and even the golf leaf tracery of the ancient builders... He also added a macabre legend that Ben Jonson, the poet and playwright, was buried upright in the Abbey because his assigned plot was already occupied and there was not sufficient room left in that spot for the coffin to be placed in the grave in a horizontal position... Never heard of one before... An insurance safety expert tells us that four mistakes by drivers cause more than 75 per cent of all automobile accidents: speeding, intoxication, driving on the left side of the center line, and failure to yield the right of way... A survey by a diet food company of the top men in 50 of the nation's leading corporations revealed that none of the executives are "fat." So, is you want to be a big wheel, stay slim, or go on a diet and get that way... The Boston (Mass.) RECORD-AMERICAN headlined a sports story about the Red Sox player Tony Conigliaro: "Tony Plays Rock 'n' Roll Again." There are those besides the team manager who wish he'd start playing baseball again.

Fact

Galen, the Greek physician, was after Hippocrates, the greatest medical doctor of ancient history. During his time, about two centuries after Christ, he made many enemies in his profession with his unsparring pen and original theories. One of his greatest contributions to medical science was his demonstration that the arteries contain blood and not air, as the Alexandrian school had taught for over 400 years.

Backstage Washington
 President's $3.3 Billion Foreign Aid Budget Safe From Serious Cuts In Subcommittee; Passman to Attack on House Floor

WASHINGTON — The cards are stacked against any steep slashing of President Johnson's $3.3 billion foreign aid budget in the House Appropriations Committee. The subcommittee handling this program has been rigged against that.

For years this key committee, under the chairmanship of Representative Otto Passman, D-La., militant foe of large-scale foreign aid spending, has backed his demand for heavy cuts - later invariably approved by the full House.

But that won't happen this year, Passman's subcommittee has been loaded against him. The President is certain of a 6 to 3 majority for his $3.3 billion budget.

This decisive majority was set up this way: First, the committee was reduced from 11 to 9 members. Then three Democrats were added whose votes the White House can count on - Representatives Julia Hansen, Wash.; Jeffery Coehlan, Calif.; and Clarence Long, Md.

With three holdovers - Representatives John Rooney, D-N.Y.; William Natcher, D-Ky.; and Silvio Conte, R-Mass. - that makes six sure votes. Aligned with Passman are Representatives Garner Shriver, R-Kans., and Mark Andrews, R-N.D.

This backstage trump card is the main factor behind the month-long deadlock between the House and Senate over the foreign aid authorization bill - which under the rules must be passed before the appropriation measure can be acted on.

Knowing it has secure control of the House Appropriations Committee, as well as the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the administration is flatly balking at accepting the Senate authorization bill as amended by Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore. Under his amendment, the existing foreign aid program - under which more than $100 billion has been expended since 1946 - would be terminated in two years and replaced by an entirely new one formulated by a special committee set up by Congress.

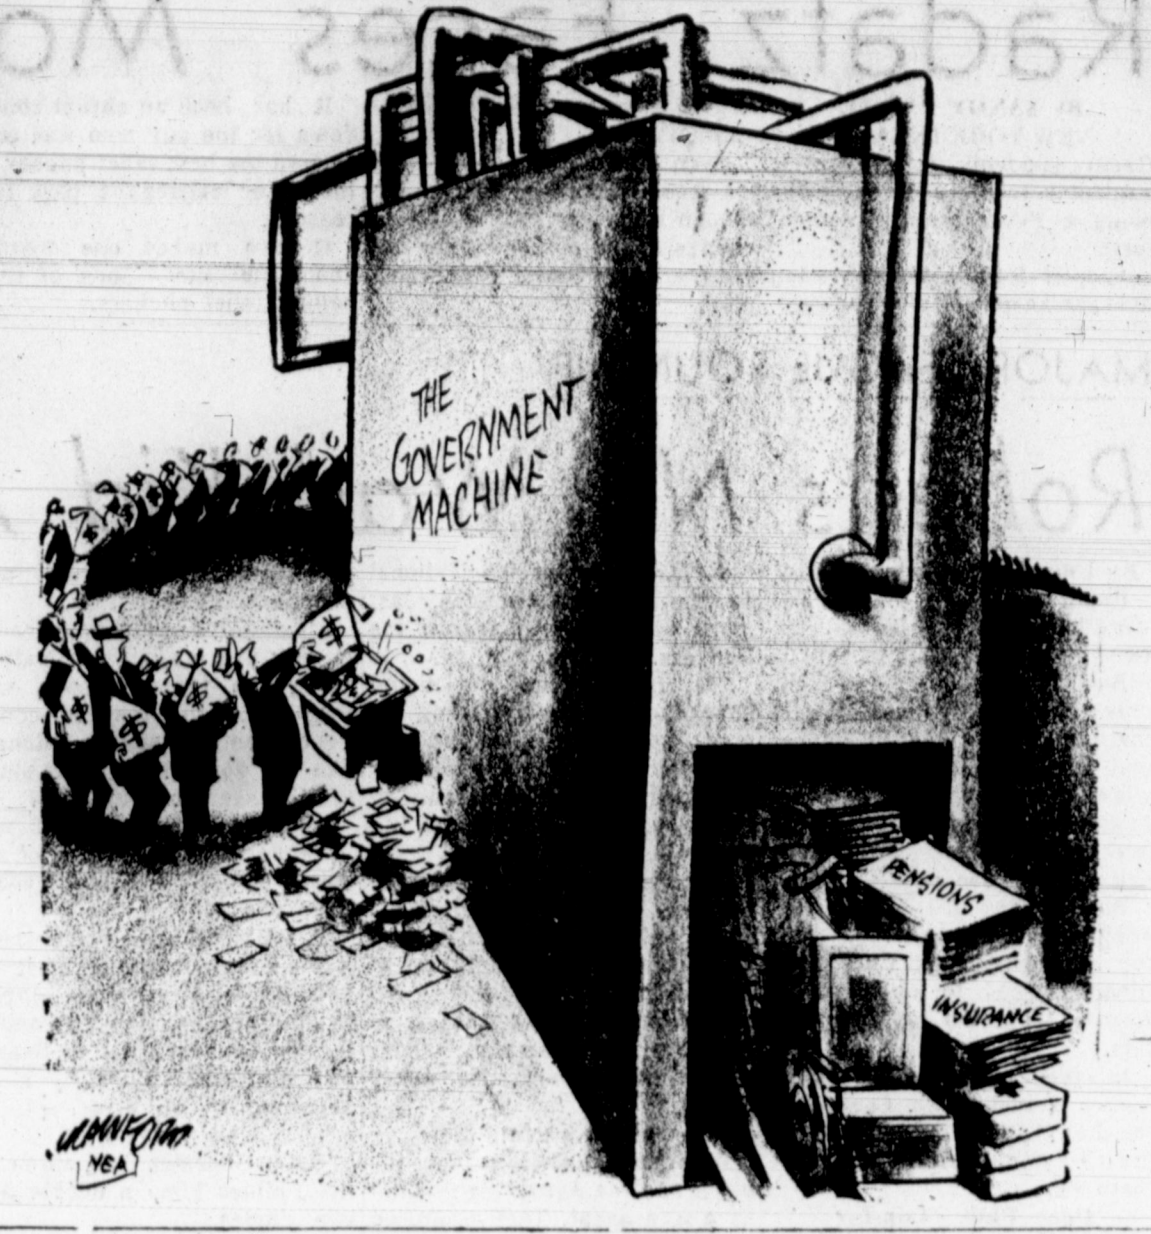

MORE PALAVER — Outcome of the protracted stalemate is conjectural. Morse, leading Senate foe of large-scale foreign aid spending, is standing pat. So is the White House, in full control of the House conferees, headed by Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa.

In an effort to find a solution, Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, proposed that Secretary Dean Rusk and David Bell, foreign aid administrator, appear before that committee for a general discussion and questioning.

Morse raised no objection, but pointed out the two officials had done this before without tangible results.

EXTREMISTS

The following item appeared in Farm and Ranch, and we are happy to pass it on to our readers.

When the "extremists" who wrote the Declaration of Independence assembled in Philadelphia from over the 13 colonies, the first thing to greet them was an anonymous note found on the Speaker's table. "Take care. A plot is framed for your destruction and all of you shall be destroyed."

When the final vote was taken in Independence Hall in Philadelphia on July 4th, every man who signed the Declaration took his life in his hands. If Washington's ragged, outnumbered army could not repulse the British, every signer would be tried for treason to the British Crown. Their signatures could, win or lose, mean that their homes would be burned. If Washington lost, their wives, children, farms would be lost.

Have you ever wondered what happened to the 56 men who signed the Declaration of Independence, pledging their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor that this nation, under God, would not perish from the earth? Five were captured and tortured by the British. Nine fought and died from wounds or hardships of war. Twelve had their homes pillaged and burned. Two lost their sons in battle. Another had two sons captured.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she lay dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His mill and fields were laid waste. For more than a year, he lived in forests and caves. He returned home to find his wife dead and children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion and heart-break. Norris and Livingstone suffered similar fates. Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British Navy. He sold his homes and properties to pay his debts and died destitute. Vandals and soldiers looted the properties of Ellery Clymer, Hall, Walten, Gwinnett, Heyward, Rutledge, and Middleton.

At the Battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson, Jr., urged General Washington to open fire on Nelson's own home, which had been taken over by British General Cornwallis for his headquarters. The home was destroyed and Nelson died broke.

Francis Lewis' home was destroyed and his wife jailed. She died a few months later.

Who were these "super-patriots"? Twenty-four were lawyers and judges. Eleven were merchants. Nine were farmers. These men whom we call patriots today were regarded as radicals by the "moderates" of their time who counseled, "Come and let us reason together."

Inter-American Highway (Latin America) 4,000,000
 Declares Passman glumly, "Now any administration can disburse America's wealth on foreign aid as we are doing in the realm of sane, human understanding."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone)

Question: "Is a person morally justified in collecting whatever Social Security or Medicare he is legally entitled to?"

Answer: This is a question each individual must decide for himself. If an individual truly believes in freedom, he will attempt in every way possible to avoid increasing the size and power of the political government which is taxing him and his children and grandchildren to provide "benefits" for those who deserve them and those who don't.

Such an individual, if possible, will seek to avoid further burdening his children and grandchildren of others. For he will be passing on such burdens to the coming generations. Despite the claims of the politicians, Social Security is not an insurance program, it is a tax, which even the U.S. Supreme Court has recognized. The federal government has spent most of the money it has taken in Social Security taxes and replaced it with government promises to pay. The only way it can get that money is to tax producers or by issuing more fiat money, which is inflation, the cruellest tax of all.

Even if the Social Security administration had on hand all of the money it had taken from the people in taxes, it would not have sufficient on hand to pay all of its obligations to those who have paid in. A representative of the agency a few years ago admitted there was an excess of obligations over the amount which has been paid in of more than 300 billions of dollars. If the Social Security administration makes good on its promises, the only way it can get the money is to tax others, in some way or another. The individual who takes something he has not earned because "it comes from the government," and because he does not want to be a burden to his children, should consider whether he would rather add to the burden of countless unborn children, including his own grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

her with the King." They all signed the Declaration of Independence, knowing that the penalty would be death if they were captured. They well knew that King George would brand them as traitors, which he did. They knew they would be tracked down, persecuted, tortured, which they were. They didn't risk their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor for personal gain. They could have played ball with the enemy like many of our leaders are doing today, and stayed on top, for a while at least.
