Local Board Is Told To Draft Married Men

More Troops Dropped Into Plei Me Outpost

SAIGON (UPI) — Troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division today dropped by helicopter into the Plei Me outpost and began a massive sweep to clear the jungles of Communist troops who have been trying to overrun the camp for eight days.

Within an hour, the "Flying Horsemen" from Fort Benning, Ga., retook strategic Chu Ho Hill overlooking the besieged U.S. Special Forces garrison from the West. The fight for Plei Me appeared at an end.

This was the hill seized by Viet Cong guerrillas and regulars from Communist North Viet Nam last week when they began the attack on the Plei Me camp, 215 miles northeast of Saigon in the Central Highlands.

The air cavalry troops dropped into the west perimeter of Plei Me from positions in nearby jungles, quickly moving out into the surrounding terrain from which the Communists had been shelling the fortress since Oct. 19.

Earlier, a Communist mortar emplacement near the camp was blown up by a government tank crew which rolled up to the position and fired at point blank range.

The heavy armor had been part of a massive U.S.-Vietnamese buildup at Plei Me. The 1st Cavalry had been supporting the outpost with artillery bombardment but moved into the camp perimeter when only light harassment fire was reported during the night.

Rescue teams meanwhile made their way up the steep slopes of Monkey Mountain, west of the Da Nang airbase, and found the wreckage of two U.S. Marine Corps F4C Phantom jets which crashed Tuesday night, apparently killing the four crewmen aboard.

The U.S. air power and that of the 1st Cavalry artillery apparently made the difference at Plei Me, 25 miles south of the major U.S. installation at Pleiku.

The planes struck Communist positions with rockets, napalm and bombs, at times on the very fringe of the outpost itself. The Reds also lost heavily in suicide human wave assaults which were beaten back by heavy machinegun and small arms fire.

Communist losses at Plei Me are estimated in the hundreds.

All Passengers Dead in London Airport Crash

LONDON (UPI)—All 36 persons aboard an economy flight from Scotland were killed early today when a British European Airways (BEA) airliner hit a fog-shrouded runway at London Airport and exploded in a ball of fire.

The disaster was the first fatal crash at London Airport in 15 years. It was the fourth worst in British history.

The four-engine turbo-prop Vanguard, groping its way through fog and darkness, crashed on its third attempt to make a landing. The pilot circled the field for almost an hour, waiting for the fog to lift. The visibility was about a third of a mile, and some flights had been turned away to other airports because of the weather.

There were 30 passengers and a crew of six aboard. Most of the passengers paid the low night fare of $9.30 per seat for the flight from Edinburgh. A few standby passengers who caught the flight at the last minute paid even less—$7.40.

Most of the passengers were Scots. No Americans were reported aboard.

Rescue workers found 16 bodies, including that of a child, scattered along the runway.

Hallowe'en Observance Set Saturday

Hallowe'en will be observed in Pampa on Saturday night of this week.

Calendar-wise, Hallowe'en falls on Sunday, Oct. 31.

Mayor Jim Nation today issued a proclamation calling for Pampans to move observance of the annual event forward one day.

So, Saturday night will be "trick or treat" time in Pampa and the mayor asked that children confine their Hallowe'en activities to that one night.

Observance on Sunday night would conflict with church services, it was pointed out.

Police Chief Jim Conner joined the mayor in the appeal to confine the Hallowe'en observance to Saturday night.

Conner repeated a warning to pranksters and stated extra police would be on duty to ward off any attempts at vandalism.

"We do not intend to tolerate vandalism," Chief Conner said, "and arrests will be made if necessary."

Santa Fe May Buy Part of Rock Island

CHICAGO (UPI) — If the Chicago and North Railway gains control of the Rock Island line, it disclosed Tuesday, it would sell part of the Rock Island's Southern Division to the Santa Fe Railroad.

The $100 million sale hinges on approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Disposition of the Rock Island is still pending before the ICC because of a 2½-year fight for its control by the North Western and the Union Pacific.

The sale was proposed Tuesday in a joint statement by Ernest S. Marsh, president of Santa Fe, and Ben W. Heineman, president of the North Western.

The sale would cover about 2,000 miles of Rock Island tracks south of Herrington, Kan., a line from Herrington to Salina, Kan., and track rights from Kansas City to St. Louis for the Santa Fe.

The Union Pacific, if it wins control of the Rock Island, proposed to sell 3,500 miles of Rock Island track to the Southern Pacific, a competitor of the Santa Fe.

Although the proposals are similar, Marsh and Heineman said certain independence and competition "would be preserved, along with their important connections... between" (See SANTA FE, Page 3)

Childless Are Eligible Despite Wedding Date

AUSTIN (UPI) — Local draft boards in Texas will be authorized to draft childless married men in December regardless of the date he was married, the state Selective Service office announced today.

Extension of the draft to childless married men became necessary to fill the biggest Texas draft call in more than 12 years, according to Selective Service Director Col. Morris S. Schwartz.

I Love My Wife But...

The Pampa Selective Service Board received a rare letter yesterday.

Draft Clerk Kathleen Zmouty said the letter from a young married man read: "I would like to request that my name be placed at the top of the draft list for the month of January, 1966. I would like to say that my reason for this is simply patriotic. I dearly love my wife, but I am sick and tired of hearing about these draft dodgers while others are dying in Viet Nam. I want to be a part of that war."

Hunters Promised Sure Prosecution

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Santa Fe Dist. Atty. Gen. Alfonso Sanchez said Tuesday he will prosecute any deer hunter responsible for wounding or killing another person this year.

Deer season opens in northern New Mexico Saturday. Much of the open area is in Sanchez said he would press charges because "shooting of anyone can be traced to negligence in practically every case. We will prosecute accordingly."

BACK AT THE RANCH — President Johnson takes the wheel of a speedboat on an outing on the LBJ ranch where he continues to hold the helm of government while recuperating.

Johnson, Rusk Have Talk on Foreign Policy

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson had a foreign policy discussion with Secretary of State Dean Rusk on the agenda at his ranch today.

Rusk flew to the LBJ Ranch Tuesday night from Dallas where he spoke at Southern Methodist University.

In his speech, Rusk said it was "tragic" but "necessary" that young Americans were still dying for peace. He said he would fly to Geneva immediately if assured the Soviet Union wanted to negotiate for peace in Viet Nam.

Rusk was Johnson's first official caller since the President arrived in Texas Saturday for long convalescence from his gall bladder surgery of Oct. 8.

It has been a restful stay for him so far, with bits of business such as bill signings and document reviews combining with his hours of relaxation.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers told newsmen Rusk was staying overnight at the ranch for talks today with the President. The secretary's presence in Texas "presented a good opportunity for them to get together," Moyers said.

Johnson's recreation Tuesday included a morning walk with his wife and a secretary, Marie Fehmer; a drive through the countryside with Mrs. Johnson and a couple of hours sitting in the sun beside his swimming pool before taking an afternoon nap.

HERE'S WHY — John W. Christian, civil defense representative of the TDPS, and W.R. Bodine, civil defense representative of Texas A&M, are shown viewing film slides with Bill Leonard, county civil defense coordinator, and Bill Craig, county judge, concerning the county's disaster preparedness. Christian and Bodine were two of several speakers in Pampa last night conducting a civil defense conference for city and county leaders. An estimated 57 persons from 14 counties attended the three and one-half hour session.

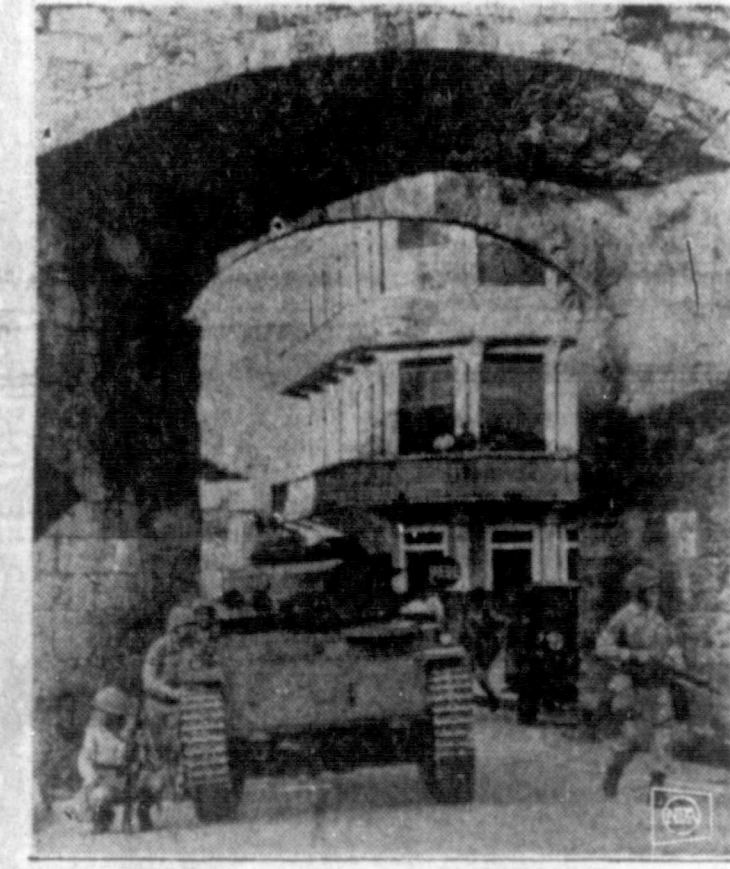

Many Area Leaders Attend Civil Defense Conference

"Pampa's preparedness for disasters fully meets the basic requirements," Bill Leonard, civil defense director for Gray County, stated today following last night's Civil Defense Conference in the Gray County Courthouse.

Approximately 57 persons from 14 counties in the eastern Panhandle attended the three and one-half hour meeting last night.

Civil defense personnel from Texas A&M and the Texas Department of Public Safety conducted the eight sessions dealing with all phases of civil defense.

Leonard stated that according to basic requirements laid down by the speakers, Pampa

MOVING IN — Weapons at the ready, troops of the Inter-American Peace Force accompany a tank into the rebel area of Santo Domingo at the request of Provisional President Godoy.

U.S. Troopers Alert In Troubled Zone

SANTA DOMINGO (UPI) — U.S. paratroopers policing the "rebel zone" of this divided city were alert today for new anti-American demonstrations by extreme leftists.

U.S. and Latin American troops of the Inter-American Peace Force have come under sporadic sniper fire several times since they moved into rebel territory Monday, but no one has been hit.

Groups of leftist teen-agers shouting "Yankee, go home," advanced repeatedly on troops of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division Tuesday. The demonstrators broke and fled when the troops fixed bayonets, and there was no violence.

About a dozen demonstrators were released after being processed by authorities.

Peace force troops closed down two newspapers — the government-sponsored La Nacional and the leftist Patria — which had been publishing attacks on the United States, the Organization of American States and Dominican conservatives.

Provisional President Hector Garcia Godoy called in the peace force after a week of violence in which at least six persons had been killed.

STUDENT-DIRECTED POLICY AT STAKE

University of Texas Paper Set for Full Investigation

AUSTIN (UPI)—The University of Texas student newspaper, which several days ago ran an editorial that mentioned "American forces... continuing to fire on villages of women and children" in Viet Nam, is going to be investigated.

The University of Texas Board of Regents Tuesday named a 12-member committee of Texas Newspaper editors to look into the situation.

The committee's recommendations are expected to be weighed in a meeting to decide whether the newspaper will continue to have a student-directed editorial policy.

Sources connected with the Texan said the inquiry grew out of a complaint against the Viet Nam editorial lodged with the university administration by regent Frank C. Erwin Jr.

Erwin denied this and said the committee's appointment and the Dallas meeting had been scheduled long before the editorial appeared.

W. W. Heath, an Austin lawyer who is chairman of the regents, made the announcement after the weekend editorial appeared in the Daily Texan.

He said the board will meet in Dallas Saturday.

Named to the committee were William P. Hobby, Houston Post; Jack Krueger, Dallas Morning News; Jack Butler, Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Thomas Thompson, Amarillo Globe-Times; Charles Guy, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal; Robert Jackson, Corpus Christi Caller-Times; Ed Hunter, Galveston News-Tribune; Richard F. Brown of Austin, Newspapers, Inc.; Charles E. Green, Austin American-Statesman; Clayte Binion, Houston Chronicle; Charles O. Kilpatrick, San Antonio Express; and Brig. Gen. N. Dwight Allison, San Antonio Light.

TO FORGE NEW LEGISLATION

Negro Leader Will Use Southern Town as 'Anvil'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Little Hayneville, Ala., will be the anvil on which Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. will forge the third of his big civil rights levers.

The lever this time is double edged — reorganization of the jury system and making federal cases of civil rights killings.

The drive to accomplish it now in the planning stage. That will coincide with the hearing of federal court suits designed to accomplish by law what King seeks to achieve by demonstration.

King also sent crowds into the streets to help accomplish his other major goals, in 1964 civil rights law and the 1965 voter rights law.

During debate on the civil rights law, King led massive passage of the voter law followed the Selma-to-Montgomery racial march and weeks of frustrated Negro efforts to register at the Dallas County Courthouse in Selma.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR THURSDAY OCT. 28 GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when quick estrangements and arguments and trouble could follow any impetuous actions towards others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Be careful not to follow ideas given you by some new contact who is very convincing, since they would not suit you at all.

TALKER (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Whatever you have to do needs concentration, but don't postpone action on it too long.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) — It is up to you to use more modern methods so that you relieve all the confusion about you and your helpers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — Avoid those persons who are trying to make trouble between you and you do your utmost to have greater harmony at home instead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Avoid going out simply joy-riding, since there is apt to be danger today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — You are able to increase abundance in fascinating ways, but be sure you do not reveal anything that you know how to economize.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You may feel that others are abusing you and want to run off somewhere, but this would not help.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Personal activities need to be rechecked, for you can get ahead as you would like to.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Friends may have peculiar moods now and could vent their ire on you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Safeguard your good name and make sure you act circumspectly so that nobody has any complaints.

Draft

(Continued From Page 1) rule. At least 10 states—California, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Arkansas, Texas, Maryland, Illinois, Utah, Kansas and Minnesota—indicated they may have to draft the first of the married-but-childless pool in December.

Other states indicated they may be able to get by the first of the year.

The reason why it is impossible to quote accurate figures is the complexity of the draft pyramid itself.

There are a total of about 17 million men in the United States in the current draft-eligible age range of 18 to 26.

Synthetic Penicillin Used On Meningitis

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A world-wide meeting of infectious disease medical specialists was told this week that one drug, a recently developed synthetic penicillin, is not only as effective against bacterial meningitis as customary multiple drug therapy but is free of the dangerous side effects often encountered with the latter.

A team of Los Angeles research physicians said the synthetic penicillin, (Polycillin) ampicillin, was successfully used in place of conventional therapy for meningitis caused by three different forms of bacteria. Bacterial meningitis, an inflammation of the tissue covering the brain, may be caused by any one of a number of pathogenic bacteria.

One hundred ninety-two patients received the ampicillin treatment between July, 1963, and April, 1965. The death rate of the group receiving the synthetic penicillin treatment was slightly less than that of the group treated with conventional drugs.

The overall mortality rate for ampicillin patients was 8.3 per cent as compared with 11.8 per cent for the conventional treatment patients. The researchers do not consider these differences in death rates significant but attribute them to differences in the treatment groups.

In a report by six physicians, all of whom are attached to the Los Angeles County General Hospital and the University of Southern California, made the following comment:

"Ampicillin is equally effective as conventional therapy in the treatment of the major types of bacterial meningitis in patients 2 months of age and older. Its efficacy and lack of toxicity suggest that ampicillin (1) be the agent of choice in patients 2 months of age and older until specific etiology is established; (2) that it be substituted for chloramphenicol in the treatment of H. influenzae meningitis, and (3) that, although it is at least as efficacious as penicillin G in the treatment of pneumococcal and meningococcal meningitis, the low cost and stability of benzyl penicillin (penicillin G) make the latter drug the agent of choice in these two coccal infections."

The paper was delivered at the Fifth Interscience Conference on Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy, Fourth International Congress of Chemotherapy, Shoreham Hotel, The authors were A. W. Mathes, J. M. Leedom, L. D. Thrupp, D. Ivler, B. Portnoy and P. F. Wehrle.

Except for the kooks themselves there is not much protest against the Justice Department's charge that Communists are sparking kookie demonstrations against war in Viet Nam.

No one steps forward from the liberal establishment to point at Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach an accusing finger or to join in some mass rally to indict Katzenbach as a Red Baiter.

Something mutes the strident voices of this country's anti-anti-Communists. An anti-anti-Communist is someone who disapproves of anti-Communists.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Few things in life are more annoying than to conceive a brilliant plan and then have others claim they thought of it first.

That happened to me recently when I set forth a plan for making mountains out of trash heaps.

It may be recalled that the House passed a bill authorizing a $92.5 million four-year program to develop new ways of disposing of the nation's ever-growing mass of waste material.

Research Grants
The money would be made available in the form of grants to finance research and demonstration projects.

I immediately hit upon the idea of using the trash to build mountain ranges in Kansas and other areas with level terrain. I had in mind turning these snow-capped peaks of rubbish into ski resorts.

But just as I was in the process of applying for a federal grant I received a letter from the National Disposal Contractors of Barrington, Ill., contesting my franchise.

"Your suggestion that maybe excess trash could be used to build a new mountain range to enable Kansas flatlanders to go skiing has already been originated by the president of our company," it said.

In fact, it said, the idea had already reached the development stage through the use of trash disposal technique known as the "sanitary landfill."

Ski Bowl
"Our engineers are presently developing landfill plans on a site (in Evanston, Ill.) that is situated adjacent to an abandoned quarry.

"Here a 'hill' up to 100 feet high will slope into the quarry, creating what is known as a ski bowl. The site, when completed, will become a winter sports resort and will be a unique improvement to an area where the topography is monotonously flat."

I'll be frank to admit that I was pretty irritated about having my mountain-building dream shattered like that.

I knew that once my plan

PUBLIC THOUGHT HE STOOD FOR WAR

Ike Says Misunderstanding Beat Goldwater Last Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower believes the American public overwhelmingly defeated Barry M. Goldwater's bid for the presidency last year in the mistaken belief that he stood for war.

"I think he was far from being as bellicose as he was advertised in this country," Eisenhower said in a television interview Tuesday night.

But, he added, "the people of the United States did believe that this man was talking in too bellicose a manner. Therefore, they were showing their resolution for peace, their devotion to peace in the overwhelming vote by which they defeated the Republican Party."

"Now, I think they were somewhat mistaken because I don't think the Republican Party ever stood, like any other country, for war," he said.

Eisenhower, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall appeared on an hour-long television program answering questions by students in London, Paris, Belgrade and Mexico City via the Early Bird communications satellite.

Eisenhower was replying to a Mexican student who had asked why the Johnson administration was "putting into effect the very same platform that the people of the United States repudiated."

The three U.S. officials occasionally got into heated exchanges as a duplication, was exposed of getting a slice of that $92.5 million research pie would be virtually nil.

My first impulse was to destroy the letter and send the pieces back to National Disposal as my contribution to its refuse resort.

But, upon reflection, I decided to accept the setback philosophically.

After all, it is often said that great minds run in the same channel. And that probably is particularly true where trash is concerned.

From the present situation it is possible that the anti-anti-ies will learn some of the political facts of life. It is not necessary that they cease damning the late Joe McCarthy. But it is desirable and necessary that the anti-anti discriminate between noise Red baiters and patriotic citizens who know a Communist front when they see one and who are not afraid to point a finger and holler: foul.

The anti-anti do not merely defend Communist fronts. They join them. But for the support of the anti-anti stooges, mighty few fronts could survive. FDR's Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle pretty well described a Communist front. Biddle said:

"Testimony on front organizations showed that they were represented to the public for some legitimate reform objective, but actually were used by the Communist party to carry on its activities pending the time when the Communists believe they can seize power through revolution."

If you are an anti-anti, perhaps you should read that last paragraph again.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I wonder whether anybody has considered that the poor quality of the new television season may be contributing to the divorce rate.

My theory is that the most unsung attribute of television is that it has provided a means by which couples who don't get along can peacefully continue to occupy the same house with a minimum of dialogue, thanks to the silent consumption of entertaining shows.

Suddenly, however, the new season has dawned, with its emphasis on kiddie programs, and a new national crisis has been created as adults who haven't had to talk to each other for years are now faced with doing it.

For adults who have used television as a cooling-off period after an argument, there is now nothing left to do but sit down and try to reason together, but mental solutions never satisfy the emotions.

Even worse, adults who haven't had much to talk about to their mates for years, thanks to television, may now possibly discover that they have changed so much since they last spoke that they no longer have anything in common.

For those face to face with this problem, I have a solution. The trick is to avoid a marital argument until well into the evening, so that when you are ready to explode, at least you can turn on one of those good old adult late movies instead of a prime-time kiddie show.

By the time the movie is over, your spouse will probably be asleep anyway, and you don't spend too much time together at breakfast anyhow, so you may be able to get through another day without contact.

I know a man whose entire life has changed because he watched "The Best Years Of Our Lives" on television here late last Saturday. In an exclusive interview, he told me:

"The picture confused me for a while. I couldn't find any private eyes or secret agents or witches or hillbillies or singing and dancing by famous people."

"I wondered how it won an Academy Award. The only thing it told about was three servicemen adjusting to home life after World War II. People did funny things like talking to their wives and children and falling in love and getting married and getting jobs."

"And suddenly I remembered, 'hey, we used to do things like that!' And I got all wrapped up and interested in it, and remembered what fun it was, and I didn't have to talk to my wife for the whole night."

THE CHANNEL SWIM: Madame Chiang Kai-Shek will be interviewed Sunday on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" . . . same day, same network's half-hour "Frank McGee Report" will devote its major story to Ronald Reagan, the actor who is expected to try to become the next Republican governor of California . . . on Saturday, "ABC Scope" deals with how Jomo Kenyatta, suspected leader of the Mau Mau, now is trying to build a multi-racial society as president of Kenya.

Former president Dwight Eisenhower is interviewed Wednesday on NBC-TV's "Today" program.

Weekly "Variety" reports from Paris that President De Gaulle usually watches at least two hours of television each night.

Business Highlights

By United Press International
WASHINGTON — American corporations reported cash dividends of $2.7 billion in September, the Commerce Department said Friday. This was 8.5 per cent more than September 1964. All industries shared in the over-the-year gain. More than half the increased payments were made by automobile, finance, oil refining, non-ferrous metals, and non-electrical machinery companies.

NEW YORK — Kennecott Copper Corp. reported a brisk rise in sales and earnings for the first nine months of this year as more foreign producers raised copper prices to 38 cents a pound. The U.S. domestic price remained at 36 cents.

WASHINGTON — A Justice Department lawyer, arguing before the Interstate Commerce Commission, said the proposals for two giant railway systems in the East should be re-drawn. Attorney Joseph Sanders argued that the New York Central should be merged with Chesapeake & Ohio and the Norfolk & Western with the Pennsylvania. The present proposals call for a Pennsy-Central system and an N. & W. — C. & O. system.

VISITS PLANNED
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said Tuesday West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan and Indian Premier Lal Bahadur Shastri are expected to visit Washington before the end of the year.

But department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told reporters that no date had yet been fixed for any of the visits. He said the dates would depend on President Johnson's schedule.

STRIKE HITS URUGUAY
MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Garbage piled up in homes and streets went unswept Tuesday as a strike of municipal workers over wages went into its sixth day.

All public services handled by the municipality were paralyzed. However, strikers allowed emergency shifts of gravediggers and zoo and park keepers.

Sukarno Calls Meeting

JAKARTA (UPI) — President Sukarno summoned the leaders of seven of Indonesia's nine political parties today for a palace conference with his three deputy premiers and Army Commander Maj. Gen. Suharto.

The Indonesia Communist Party (PKI) was not represented. Its activities have been suspended in many parts of the country in the aftermath of the Oct. 1 coup attempt against Su-

Also missing was the leftist Perti Party, a Moslem group which was taken over by its left-wing faction early this year. The "out" faction of the party tried to regain control after the coup by denouncing coup elements.

Today's meeting was attended by two other parties with internal disputes — the major Nationalist Party (PNI) and the Ipki Party, which was founded by Defense Minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution.

Both the PNI and the Ipki were represented by leftist faction leaders who were in power before the coup. Both parties have denounced the anti-Sukarno plot.

Kennedy Team Ends Trip

SAIGON (UPI)—A Democratic congressional team headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy completed a brief, action-packed tour of Viet Nam today by discussing refugee aid and political conditions with Saigon student leaders.

Kennedy said he was encouraged by what he saw, "but we recognize that the best we can possibly say is that we are hopeful about it, and it certainly appears that this is going to be a long and enduring struggle."

The visitors left aboard an Air Force jet transport for Vientiane, Laos, on the next leg of a trip through Southeast Asia.

The Massachusetts lawmaker, Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, Md., and Reps. John Culver, Iowa, and John Tunney, Calif., earlier went to Saigon University for the meeting with Vietnamese students.

In 1958, the College of Cardinals elected Pope John XXIII to serve as the 262nd pontiff of the Catholic Church.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Outcry On Viet Nam Of Sinister Character

The recent disgraceful demonstrations against U.S. policies in Vietnam shocked many Americans who, during the past few years, have been the fiercest critics of any effort to bring about a settlement in Vietnam on liberal terms. The demonstrators are of all types and backgrounds, but they are united in their determination to demonstrate the sincerity of their opposition to the Vietnam policy. The demonstrators are of all types and backgrounds, but they are united in their determination to demonstrate the sincerity of their opposition to the Vietnam policy.

received in six months, I'd first heard from him in September, 1964, when he wrote from Fort Hood, Texas, to say that he'd been in the Army for five months and had "volunteered for Vietnam three times." He wrote, "They keep saying they need volunteers, so I volunteered and it seems to do me no good at all." He closed his letter by saying, "Sir, I truly believe what President Kennedy said on January 20, 1960 in his inaugural address when he said, 'Ask not what your country can do for you but ask what you can do for your country.'" I asked the Pentagon to look into the matter, was informed that a security clearance of Secret was being obtained for the young private so that he would be eligible to apply for duty in Vietnam, and then learned that an administrative mixup had occurred and that the young man had been further delayed. I asked the Army to do its best to help him.

Tower Declares Viet Nam War Proves Bomber

EULESS, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said today the role of U.S. B52 bombers in Viet Nam has proved that the Defense Department should proceed with development of a new manned bomber.

"These huge strategic bombers fly so high and so fast that they achieve virtually total surprise," Tower said in a speech prepared for a chamber of commerce luncheon. "The first thing the Viet Cong knows is that bombs are dropping all around him."

"It is strange indeed that in the face of these clear facts the secretary of defense remains most hesitant to program a future strategic bomber for our defense arsenal," he said.

Tower said the U.S. should immediately begin building a replacement for the B52 and meanwhile should develop an enlarged version of the F111, to be called the B111.

"I hope you will become interested in the possibilities since many Texans probably will be helping to build B111's," Tower added.

Atheist Freed Of Count by Grand Jury

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Madelyn Murray O'Hair, the atheist whose suit led to the Supreme Court's historic school prayer decision, was a free woman today because a Baltimore grand jury professed a belief in God.

Criminal Court Judge Shirley Jones dismissed a nine-count indictment against Mrs. O'Hair Tuesday. The judge's dismissal was based on the ruling of another court which held that Maryland's law requiring jurors to affirm a belief in God was unconstitutional.

Mrs. O'Hair, married to Richard O'Hair Oct. 18, has been fighting extradition from Texas. Her attorney said the ruling makes her "a free woman."

She was charged with assaulting police Sgt. Charles Kelley, disorderly conduct and obstructing justice.

In Austin, Tex., her lawyer, Bill Mitchell, said he has no plans for the present, "but will wait and see if the state of Maryland will not drop its extradition request."

Texas Newsmen Gets Appointment

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Barry Bishop, 59, a native of Floresville, Tex., and a newsman with the Dallas Morning News 25 years, will become director of the U.S. Information Agency foreign correspondents center in New York.

The USIA said Bishop will be in charge of the New York center which includes a library and press conference facilities. Bishop is a graduate of the University of Texas.

Over 500 Bishops Vote to Modify Council Religious Liberty Stand

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—More than 500 bishops voted today for further modifications in the document of the Second Vatican Council's controversial declaration on religious liberty.

Conservatives and liberals alike strove to flood the Secretariat for Christian Unity with demands to either tone down or strengthen the declaration which states that men may not be coerced by civil authority in religious matters.

The votes were on the key first part of the liberty declaration, which already has been modified to stress the unique position of the Catholic Church as the "true church." Council fathers were allowed to attach "reservations" to their approval of the basic substance of the text.

By overwhelming votes of 1,539 to 65 and 1,715 to 68 the bishops gave their sanction to the new version. The votes are not final. Many handed in qualified votes demanding revisions before the declaration returns to the council next month for a final vote.

On the first ballot, 543 bishops, split between liberals and conservatives, registered qualified votes in addition to the straight "yes" and "no" votes.

Black Rhodesians Cheer Return of Leader

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Police used dogs today to disperse a mob chanting, singing and cheering the return here of Joshua Nkomo, the restricted nationalist leader.

Nkomo was flown into Salisbury by helicopter from his place of detention in a remote section of Rhodesia for talks on independence for the British colony with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The demonstration was staged outside government house where Nkomo was spirited through a back entrance for his meeting on the independence crisis with Wilson.

The mob created a traffic jam as heavy police patrols tried to keep the demonstration from getting out of hand. Police dogs finally were called in.

The Africans backed away slowly, clapping, singing and jeering each time a dog snarled. Several Africans who refused to move were arrested.

Nkomo's arrival took most Rhodesians by surprise. He has been restricted to a remote area about 400 miles south of Salisbury since April 1964 for his nationalist activities.

Nkomo is a champion of the rights of blacks in this white-ruled colony. He is the leader of the outlawed Zimbabwe African Peoples Union (ZAPU).

"We want Nkomo. We want Nkomo," Africans chanted as they waited for his arrival. When the helicopter landed in the nearby sports field, the crowd surged forward.

The crowd carried signs reading "Africans Must Rule," "We Want Our Country" and "Take Away Smith."

Ian Smith is the Rhodesian prime minister who has threatened to seize independence from Britain and perpetuate the rule of 220,000 whites over the colony's 4 million blacks.

Wilson also planned a meeting today with Garfield Todd, the former Rhodesian prime minister who was placed under house arrest as a critic of any unilateral declaration of independence by the Smith government.

Todd was reported en route to Salisbury by car under police escort from his ranch in the hinterlands more than 200 miles away.

In 1948, Harry Truman and Sen. Alben Barkley were elected president and vice president of the United States.

A visit to Lubbock and the Texas Tech campus at this time can be a delightful experience. Lubbock, which has acquired the name of "Chrysanthemum Capital of the World" is all aglow with many thousands of chrysanthemums in full bloom.

On the western edge of the Tech campus are the Texas Tech Mum Test Plots which include hundreds of varieties of chrysanthemums, yellow and white mums are used in great profusion in the landscape design, all over the campus. A copper plant with reddish bronze colored foliage is used as a background for the mums in many places and gives a very striking effect.

A flower show entitled Chrysanthemum Colorama was part of the Horticultural Festival of Oct. 23, 24 presented by the Texas Tech Park Administration - Horticulture Club. The show was staged in the Plant Science Building and included many varieties of beautiful dahlias, roses and chrysanthemums as well as flower arrangements and exhibits of

Skellytown Is Scene For Family Reunion

SKELLYTOWN (Sp1) — Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cornelison and children, Floyd, Kay and Peggy, entertained recently with a family reunion dinner at their home.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Pate of Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Jessie Massey of Stites, Ida.; Messrs. and Mmes. Howard Sims and daughter Virginia, William Sims., H. F. Trimble and family, George Jones, Lewis Henderson, and Larry Leonard, all of Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sims and family of Letors; Messrs. and Mmes. Bob Phillips and family, Charles McCuley and Mrs. Minerva Medley, all of McLean, and Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Hughes and family of Skellytown.

thermometer drops as low as 20 degrees F.

The explanation for this protection is that when the air temperature drops below freezing, the water sprayed onto the plants begins to form ice. During the process of freezing the water gives off heat and enough of this heat is absorbed by the plants to prevent them from freezing, with a resultant breakdown of cell structure. As long as water is applied continuously the plant remains above its freezing point. The application should begin when the temperature at plant level drops to 34 degrees F.

Tall, slender plants such as dahlias and gladioli, are not as well adapted to this method of frost protection as are lower, more bushy types, due to the weight of the ice load which builds up on the plant and is apt to cause breakage of the stalks.

Mrs. Stafford Hosts Ruth Class Meeting

Ruth Class of First Baptist Church met recently in the home of Mrs. Dennis Stafford for its regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Gene Fort, president, conducted the business session and Mrs. R. L. Alexander dismissed the group with prayer. Refreshments of cake and coffee were served. The cake was decorated with red roses and in the center the class motto was inscribed by the side of a pair of praying hands.

Those present were Mmes. Tommy Burns, R. L. Alexander, S. E. Waters, Gene Fort, H. L. Allen, Dennis Stafford and Richard Hill.

Dear Abby....

Run Fast If There's No Marriage Proposal

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and recently met a fine young man of 28. We hit it off perfectly. I've never known a young man who had so many of the qualities I admire. He told me he "loved" me, and I told him I loved him, too. Then he said he didn't think we should get "too serious" as he couldn't propose marriage. The reason: His parents were very much prejudiced against people of my religious faith, and he would never marry a girl his parents didn't approve of. He said he realized that a "real" man would probably marry the girl of his choice and disregard his parents' wishes. But material things were his weakness, and if he were to marry me he'd have to change his standard of living, and give up all hope of eventually falling heir to the family business. Should I continue going with him, hoping he will change his mind? Or hope he can get his parents to change theirs? I love him, Abby, and can't give him up just like that.

DISQUALIFIED
DEAR DISQUALIFIED: If he can't propose marriage, what does he propose? Run fast, in the other direction, unless you are content just to go with him until he meets a girl of whom his parents will approve.

DEAR ABBY: What would you say about a man who was married to a woman for eight years and didn't know the color of his wife's eyes?

SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE
DEAR SEEMS: I say it's time he took a good look at her driver's license.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is a professor at one of the local colleges, is very well-liked by his students. Consequently during the school year we receive many wedding invitations, and we usually accept them all. We are on a very tight budget and must watch our expenditures closely. Is it necessary for us to give the couple a wedding gift if we attend their wedding? Many of our friends who are also teachers (even the single ones) are wondering about this, too. We know the students invite my husband because they want him, and the gift is unimportant.

TIGHT BUDGET
DEAR TIGHT: If you want to attend the wedding, go, and take a gift. It isn't necessary to strain your budget. Browse around in an antique shop, or a book store. You can find some small, appropriate item for a dollar or slightly more. A second-hand book, or paperback edition of one of the classics, selected with the couple's special interest in mind, could be more meaningful than a more pretentious gift.

DEAR ABBY: How do you get rid of the neighbors' kids? Except for eating and sleeping, those kids spend all their time here. We have no youngsters their age for them to play with. We have only one, and she's still an infant. It gets awfully crowded with three and four children in our house all the time. Two of them are old enough to be "all ears" and there is no privacy at all. Sending them home does no good. They come right back again. We can't understand what kind of parents would let their children impose on the neighbors so much. What should we do?

CROWDED
DEAR CROWDED: Don't blame the parents. They probably assume you enjoy having their children in your home because they're there so much. When the youngsters invite themselves in, tell them you are busy, and say it like you mean it. They'll get the idea before long. (Most children are smarter than adults.)

Plainsmen Hogging Conference Statistics

Monterey, the 3-4 conference leader, is also the 3-4 leader in total offense and defense. He passed for 694 yards and an average of 175 per game. He also had 1228 yards on the ground, top total offense leader in the league, top total offense leader and second leading pass receiver in 3-4.

The Plainsmen have rushed and only 183 through the air for 690 total yards or an average of only 175 per game. Randy Bowlin, Monterey's stellar quarterback leads the league in passing with 29 completions on 51 tries and 532 yards. Bowlin has thrown for six touchdowns and had four passes intercepted.

Overall Bowlin has rushed for 299 yards for a total of 831 or an average of 207.8 per game. The Plainsmen's Bill Hunter is second in pass receiving with 18 catches for 318 yards and two touchdowns.

Matney has kicked 16 times for 518 yards for an average of 32.4 per contest. Harper has scored 20 points on three touchdowns and two conversions.

HE'S A NICE GUY

Heffner Goes To Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—New Cincinnati Reds Manager Don Heffner disagrees with the old Leo Durocher philosophy that "nice guys finish last." Herrner, 54, will have a chance to prove Durocher wrong under a two-year contract given him by Reds President Bill Dewitt Tuesday.

He became manager of the Reds one day after Durocher returned to baseball as new manager of the Chicago Cubs. Heffner succeeds Dick Sisler, who was fired after the Reds disappointing fourth-place finish in the National League.

"There have been a lot of nice guys who have won pennants," Heffner said in his introduction to newsmen. "I'm not out to win any popularity contests, either. I want to win as much as he does and I think I've got the club to do it."

The former American League infielder and a coach for the New York Mets the past two seasons did not apply for the Reds' job.

"He's one of the few guys in baseball who didn't, laughed Dewitt, who added he had six men under consideration but declined to identify them. Heffner's salary was not disclosed.

Heffner huddled with Dewitt today to discuss the new coaching staff and also possible trades to strengthen the club. Mentioned as possibilities for the coaching staff were Johnny Sain, who helped fashion the Minnesota Twins' staff into a pennant winner, and Mel Harder, who recently was dismissed by the Chicago Cubs.

In 1962 and 1963, Heffner was manager of the Reds' San Diego farm club. Several of the present Reds played under him there, including Deron Johnson, Jim Maloney, Sammy Ellis, Billy McCool, Joe Nuxhall, John

Tsitouris, Don Pavletich, Tony Perez and Tommy Helms. "I think the Reds are as strong at all eight positions in the field as any club in either league," Heffner said. "While some of the pitchers did not come to expectations this season, they could come back and have big years."

Miners Still Best Passing Team; Tulsa is Second

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blackburn Nebraska has replaced West Virginia as the nation's leading offensive unit and in doing so became the first school since 1959 to simultaneously hold the three most important categories on offense—total yards, rushing yards and points scored.

The Cornhuskers are not listed among the country's passing elite, however. Texas Western tops that group with Tulsa a close also-ran.

Nebraska remains the only college team averaging over 400 yards on offense per game. In six games this season they have picked up 2,494 yards or an average of 415 per contest. Tulsa, depending almost exclusively on passes, is second at 397. Texas Western, Utah State and West Virginia round out the first five in that order.

The Cornhuskers dominate the rushing statistics the way they have their six opponents this year. A per-game output of 269 yards on the ground leads Missouri, their Big Eight rival and opponent this Saturday, by 19 yards. Southern California, Notre Dame and Princeton complete the top five.

While picking up yardage all over the field Nebraska has managed to cross the goal line with greater frequency than any other school. In six victories the Huskers totaled 221 points for an average of 36.8. The Princeton Tigers rate second to Nebraska with 177 points in five games for a 35.4 average. Utah State (34.0), Texas Western (33.2), and Arkansas (32.7), are next in line.

TALKING IT OVER — Tiger League coach Jerry Martin talks over a play with two of his Colt players before sending them into a game with the Lions Tuesday night. The Optimist Club sponsored Tiger League ended their season Tuesday night with three games.

ONE OF THE JONES BOYS

Clint Jones Plays It Straight for Spartans

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—There is really nothing very unusual about "The Jones boy" from the nation's top college football team, Michigan State.

He's a rather common fellow with a common name — Clint Jones.

During the week he goes to classes liked everyone else at Michigan State.

He has a warm, sincere smile and a quick greeting for fellow social science students.

At least once a week he takes time out to visit a "little brother" in the big brother program set up for handicapped children at the University.

The handsome 20-year-old, who was last year elected "Mr. MSU" by the school's 35,000 students, studies courses designed to lead him into police administration with a special emphasis on juvenile correction work.

And on Saturday afternoon

he bowls over huge men on the football field, wins games for Michigan State's Spartans, and is a major cause of the Spartans' rating as the No. 1 college football team today.

No, nothing very unusual about this Jones kid.

In six games this year, the junior halfback has piled up 487 net yards rushing for Duffy Daugherty's surprise football power. His average per carry is 4.9 yards. And he has scored four touchdowns on the ground.

The swift 190-pound halfback has also caught 16 passes from the slick Michigan State quarterback, Steve Juday. The passes have gone for 213 yards and an average of 13.3 yards per reception. He's also scored one touchdown on a Juday pass.

All in all, the youngster from Cleveland, Ohio, leads Michigan State in rushing with his unusual power, is second in pass receiving and is third in scoring with 32 points to his common name.

In Michigan State's big come-back win over Purdue Saturday, Jones scored a two-point conversion on a pass and two minutes before the game ended, swept left end on an eight-yard jaunt for a touchdown to bring home the 14-10 win, elevating the Spartans to their top spot in the country.

Against Ohio State, a week earlier, he had another stellar performance. On one run he reversed his field, bulled over several defenders and sprinted 80 yards to pay dirt. Later he took a 12-yard pass for his second touchdown of the day.

Secret Reason

And why does this "common" fellow play like he does? Why does a rugged intensity show through his easy-going personality? Because he's afraid. "I'm so afraid of letting them (the Spartans) down that I play harder every game," Jones says honestly. "It means everything for me to get out and win."

"It's kind of surprising to see us come up the way we have," he adds. "No one expected us to be No. 1. But we worked hard to get there."

Rose Bowl speculation is taboo for State's smiling Irish coach so none of the players like to say how much farther the team can go this year.

And that wouldn't be a bad finale for "the Jones boy" who has become one of the most colorful stars of the football year on Michigan State's surprise team of 1965.

But it's bowl time again and speculation runs far ahead of the schedule. And any Big Ten team which is undefeated with the roughest part of its schedule out of the way can't escape the reminders of warm Pasadena sunshine on New Year's Day.

Vanpool Increases Area Scoring Lead

Wheeler, Groom and White Deer, all unbeaten, face severe tests Friday night but each have the scoring punch to stay unbeaten.

However, in the case of Groom vs. Wheeler something has to give. The Mustangs meet the Tigers at Groom for what could be the 5-B championship.

Wheeler has two of the top three top scorers in the Panhandle area in Bobby Vanpool and Tom Smith.

White Deer is represented with the second leading scorer and have six altogether in the top 25. Wheeler has five of the top 25 scorers.

Groom has the fourth leading scorer and six in the top 25 to account for its 5-0-1 mark.

Wheeler's Bobby Vanpool increased his lead by two points over White Deer's Randy Elliott over the weekend.

Vanpool has 12 touchdowns and five extra points for 82 total points while Elliott has 12 touchdowns and one conversion for 74 points.

In third place is the Mustang's Smith with eight touchdowns and seven conversions for 82 marks. Fourth place is a tie between Lamberson of Groom and the Bucks Vernon Marlar, both with 54 points.

Lamberson has run eight touchdowns and three conversions and Marlar has nine touchdowns.

The Bucks Johnny Mooney

jumped to seventh place in the scoring with no touchdowns and 26 conversion kicks.

Friday night conference championships may well be on the line at Groom and White Deer.

The Bucks (7-0) host Wellington (6-0-1) and Groom (5-0-1) hosts Wheeler (7-1).

Ginther to Team With Clark in West's Grand Prix

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)—Richie Ginther, winner of the recent Mexico City Grand Prix, today was named teammate of World Driving Champion Jimmy Clark of Scotland in the 200 mile Riverside Grand Prix for sports cars this weekend.

The Granada Hills, Calif., driver will handle a Lotus 40 Ford for Colin Chapman of Britain and team with Clark in the $49,660 event over the Riverside International Raceway.

A third new Lotus 40 will be driven by A.J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., four-time U.S. National Champion. Foyt's car will be his personally owned speedster. Another Indianapolis 500 driver who became a late entry was Jim Hurtubise, Tonawanda, N.Y., who will drive an Arciero Special.

Ginther won fame in Europe driving for Enzo Ferrari of Italy both as a team member and chief test driver. He has completed in the Riverside Grand Prix a number of times including the inaugural race in 1958 and finished seventh last year in a Cooper Ford.

Lakers Look Best In Western Half

By United Press International

The Western Division champions defending Los Angeles Lakers are at it again—this time at the free-throw line.

The Lakers put on the pressure in the final four minutes Tuesday night to hold the New York Knickerbockers to a single free throw in the last four minutes while they piled up 10 points to win their National Basketball Association (NBA) home opener 104-102.

In the only other NBA action, the Baltimore Bullets coasted to an easy 117-98 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Don Ohl paced the Bullets with 27 points while Don Jokis led Detroit with 15 points. The Pistons were hurt at the free throw line by missing 13 of their first 14 free throws.

It was the Bullets' second victory against three losses and Detroit's third loss against a single win.

Baltimore hosts the Pistons tonight on their home court.

The Lakers started a five-game home stand, meeting the Knicks again Thursday night at the Sports Arena.

Boston travels to Cincinnati in the only other NBA game Thursday night.

Patterson Resumes Public Workouts

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Former world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson today resumed public workouts in preparation for the title fight with champion Cassius Clay Nov. 22.

Patterson spent Tuesday in private drills. He staged a public workout today in the main showroom of the Thunderbird Hotel.

Champion Clay was expected to arrive here next Wednesday, Nov. 3, and set up training headquarters at the Stardus Hotel. From Miami, Clay planned to stop at New York and Chicago on business before arriving here.

Patterson, meanwhile, was scheduled to fly to Los Angeles for a television appearance and a session with southern California sports writers and broadcasters on Thursday.

Also on Thursday night, Patterson will be an honored guest at Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles where Irish Jerry Quarry and Al (Tiger) Carter square off for the main event.

Quarry is the 1965 National Golden Gloves heavyweight winner.

Stevens Quite a Pumper When He Has a Football

(Eddie Mullens, drum beater for Texas Western College, is known through the sports world as a master of the simile which, according to the dictionary is "a figure of speech directly expressing a resemblance of one thing to another." Separating the similes from facts in a Mullens story is like trying to unscramble an egg. Read and see.)

By EDDIE MULLENS
Special Correspondent
EL PASO, Tex. (NEA) — Contrary to what you may think, Virginia, there really is a Billy Stevens.

He walks on a 6-3, 190-pound frame, talks with a mild Texas drawl, and chucks a football like a windmill pumping water during a west Texas windstorm. The well-mannered Texas Western sophomore is the hottest thing to hit the football scene in this area since Pancho Villa was busier than a mustard paddle at wiener roast raiding the border. In his first four games of the season, Stevens pitched for 11 touchdowns and a staggering 1,425 yards. This is almost as hard to accomplish as cramming toothpaste back in the tube. What makes his statistics seem so impressive is the fact his opponents have applied more pressure on the sophomore than Elliot Ness on the hoodlums and his receivers have been swarmed like bees around a honey tree.

Under the same circumstances, many a sophomore quarterback would be as nervous as a crippled eel with the St. Vitus dance. Not Billy Stevens. He simply steps back in his pocket, waits for one of his three talented receivers — Chuck Hughes, Bob Wallace and Chuck Anderson — to shed their defenders and then, quicker than a minnow can swim a water dipper, unlimbers his golden arm.

The big right-hander left North Texas State's defenders shaking like Maggie's drawers on a rifle range in the opening game en route to an NCAA passing record.

He completed his first two passes of a varsity game. One went to Hughes for 15 yards and the other, on the following play, to Wallace, who gathered the ball into his big hands and sped 60 yards for a touchdown. North Texas never recovered and the Miners marched to a 61-15 verdict. Stevens set the pace by completing 21 of 35 passes for an unbelievable 500 yards and three tallies.

Even many of the townfolks were as sceptical as an elephant riding in a Volkswagen about Stevens' ability. He quickly made believers out of the critics the following week by completing 16 of 33 passes for 297 yards against a good New Mexico team. The Miners won, 35-14.

Billy Stevens is almost straight out of a Frank Merriwell yarn. Injuries bugged him like ideas on a fat dog's back as a schoolboy. Because of one injury after another he played only six games at Galveston Ball High School — the last five as a running back during his senior season.

As a Texas Western freshman, Stevens threw only 45 times in three games but that was before the arrival of coach Bobby Dobbs, who had put together a winning record at the helm of the Calgary Stampede of the Canadian League.

"I knew who my quarterback was going to be after the first week of spring training," his coach said. "He is a smart boy who wants to learn. Is there a 6-3, 190-pounder anywhere else who can stand back there and throw the ball like Billy?"

The publicity hasn't bothered the 20-year-old husband and father. He is as calm as a Las Vegas blackjack dealer and played more guts than the guy who tasted the first tomatoe.

"I've got the best receivers in the nation," he says. For the last eight years, Mrs. Helen Stevens has worked to support her family of six children and her ailing husband. Billy's father died three years ago and a college education seemed as out of place as a horsefly at a car show for Billy. After all, he hadn't done much as a schoolboy player. But, luckily, Texas Western gave him a chance.

Yes, Virginia, there really is a Billy Stevens and he can make anyone believe in Texas Western football.

Or Billy Stevens' passing.

BOWLING

This is one of those weeks I'd rather stay home than write this column. News is really scarce this time although of course, there are a lot of teams blossoming out in new shirts and blouses. New styles, new colors — its like a fashion parade. Shirt manufacturers are getting like automobile makers with new models just to make last years obsolete. Shoe manufacturers have cut shoe models drastically to make it easier for milady to choose.

Penny Pinly is the hard luck girl on both counts, her new gold shoes, were mismatched and of all the beautiful gold blouses ordered for Penny's Lounge, hers had to be damaged. We will forgive her if she doesn't bowl too good this week.

Another hard luck bowler lately has been Leonard Cable, but Johnny Snuggs came up with a real good remedy. He told Leonard to stand in back of himself a couple of times while bowling and he could see what he was doing wrong. John needed a little of that advice himself on one game. He had an eight pin spare eight frames in a row and finally struck.

Warren Copenhagen and Ted Knox are both walking on air thinking of their high series this week. Shirley Winters and Lois Rogers came in that class too. Buddy Epperson had the misfortune to split the tenth frame on his big game of 243. If he hadn't split he would have been in the air too.

Ask Lois Hutcheson how it feels to come so close to making the Big Four split. It was almost perfect believe me.

Bill Jack says if he can ever get enough Coke caps to win a football, he is going to give up bowling. Heck, Bill just give the football to Weldon.

Leon Ward says he has the game all figured out because he jumped from a 107 to a 218 and if he had had one more game it might have been a 300. I won't mention just what Richard Hill bowled while Leon was bowling his 107 but it was pretty low.

Almost forgot to mention seeing Jim (Red) Herring this week. Working Tower steadily, he has missed his bowling this year and we have certainly missed him.

Here I thought that I was almost through and the roof caves in. Mary Ray had a string of strikes a mile long and ended with a 255 game. The eleventh ball was a pretty good hit but left the 5 pin. She had her first 600 series too. A 612 on games of 190, 167, 255. This leaves a real nice place to end this column so be seen' you at the lanes.

Senseless Drain on Schools

Students in Boston in 1963 did not get 53,000 textbooks. They didn't get 400 sound projectors, or 525 television sets, or 1,230 tape recorders.

The money that would have paid for any of the items — $160,000 — was the cost of vandalism in the public school system that year.

It included the smashing of window panes, breaking and entering, theft of supplies, equipment and money, defacing of buildings and destruction of their contents and arson.

The children were not necessarily deprived, of course. That $160,000 was part of the school system's overhead that year, and the taxpayers just had to dig that much deeper into their pockets if they wanted to provide these tools and materials. But in Boston, as in many other cities all over the nation, this particularly wasteful kind of overhead is becoming an increasingly large and intolerable factor in the total cost of education.

Though few cities approach New York's vandalism bill of more than a million dollars a year, what they do pay is a proportionately severe drain on their resources, and a proportionately heavy handicap on the quality of education their children are receiving.

Insurance is not an answer because the premiums have grown so costly that many school systems can no longer afford them. In some cases companies refuse to handle this type of insurance at all and have even canceled previously issued policies.

A number of schools are turning to burglar alarm systems, which are designed to detect attacks against protected points and automatically summon police.

In the Louisville public schools, in the first year after the installation of such protection, the cost of vandalism attributed to intruders fell dramatically from $23,583 to $5,347. In the second year it dropped to under $2,000.

Louisville's experience indicates that not until chronic vandals begin to be apprehended does the message get across to potential vandals that the schools are not built to be sitting ducks for their vicious acts.

Politician's Dilemma

We've often pointed to the futility of trying to solve human problems by political action. Sometimes we have grown harsh with the politicians who seem to be seeking to build their own power and ego while claiming to do good.

But perhaps it is the politicians who deserve to be pitied. This was brought home in a passage from a 1951 novel by John D. MacDonald, "Judge Me Not." An associate called our attention to this passage from the novel, quoting a politician: "A man enters public life and he tells himself that he will do good. He will be effective and the people will benefit. It is idealism of a respectable variety. And then he discovers that he must make certain compromises in order to achieve good. Like a man who builds a house. To afford the roof, he must order cheaper windows. To afford a fireplace, he must skip the foundation. The house no longer satisfies him as much as it did, but he tells himself that without the short cuts there would be no house at all.

"But in public life, each compromise makes the next compromise easier, and each move toward good makes the next move more difficult. It is a miserable equation to live with. Yet the man goes on, and he tells himself that if you take the total good, and subtract the total evil, the net result is good. He drifts along, clutching the illusion, until one day he adds it up and he discovers that evil outbalances good. And he never knows the precise point where the balance changed, nor does he know which specific compromise was the wrong one."

Running Wild?

Junk yards, pollution, urban blight are some of the consequences of the impact of science on society. But they were not inevitable consequences, says one scientist.

"Stupid misuse of science has gravely impaired the grace of life," asserts Dr. Polykarp Kusch of Columbia University, winner of the 1955 Nobel Prize in physics.

"People in general are horribly acclimated to a technology — and science dominated world. People now say 'Science will provide' just as they once said, 'God will provide.' It won't, however. Science always raises as many problems as it solves.

He cites the internal combustion engine as one technological advance that has been abused. It solved the problem of transportation for masses of people but led to the abandonment of the cities for the suburbs.

If mankind is to have a life worth living in the future, says Kusch, it must learn to manage the fruits of science better than it has in the past.

New Drive Pushed for State Tax

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
 Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — At a recent meeting here, an organization of public officials from all levels of government voted 14 to 4 to recommend that states now without their own income tax give "careful consideration" to adopting one.

The group was the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. The four dissenters included just one governor, Democrat John Dempsey of Connecticut.

Even though the approved recommendation was watered down from an original which called for "favorable" rather than "careful" consideration, the vote was a significant move in the states' struggle to meet rising revenue needs.

Last year at about this time, Washington seemed fairly excited over the proposal of economist Walter Heller, then presidential adviser, to turn back to the states a proportion of federal tax collections. It got nowhere.

The commission's new recommendation revives an older idea — that the federal government and the several states should more fully share the tax base rather than U.S. collections.

The commission thinks this idea needs a real prod. So, this time without dissent, it voted also to recommend U.S. tax law amendments which would allow taxpayers to take 40 per cent of their federal income tax liability.

Under existing state-local income tax laws, it is figured that this optional credit plan might cost the federal government an added $700 million in fiscal 1967.

If the prod became a reality and all states thereupon enacted adequate yield income levies, it is estimated that the loss to the federal treasury would come to around $4.2 billion in fiscal 1968. This assumes that by then the states would be collecting $13 billion in annual personal income taxes instead of an estimated $4.8 billion if present policy continues.

Today a third of the 50 states have no such tax, and the list without the levy includes some of the nation's biggest and wealthiest — Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Another third of the states, while using an income tax, apply it at very low effective rates. The federal government gets half its revenue from this source. By contrast, it accounts for just 15 per cent of state revenues and 8 per cent of combined state and local revenues. These levies probably come from about 20 million taxpayers in areas which exclude some of the country's highest income sections.

The extremely vocal enemies of the income tax very likely would say "well and good." But powerful arguments are being advanced for wider use of individual income taxes at the state level.

The big point is that this levy is the only one with any real growth potential, an element the states badly appear to need in their future tax plans. State and local spending is not only rising faster than federal spending but it is outstripping the gains in the nation's gross national product. The 135 per cent postwar hike in GNP has been over-matched in the same period by a 300 per cent increase in state-local general government outlays.

Members of the advisory intergovernmental group can foresee no letup in this disproportionate rise. Hence the overwhelming conclusion that many states will not long be able to continue their strained reliance upon property and sales taxes. There is wide belief these levies will have little future usefulness in meeting the expected upthrust of state-local expenditures.

It is argued, therefore, that the barnacle encrusted debate in some states over the relative merits of sales vs. income taxes is now beside the point, that many states are in fact living on borrowed fiscal time and will desperately need every revenue source they can find in order to survive financially in the burdensome years ahead.

State Department coordinator Crimmins talked vaguely about "children, parents and spouses" of Cuban exiles now in the U.S. Roy Wynkoop, executive officer of the Welfare Administration, had no answer at all.

"How about grandparents and cousins?" asked a committee man. "Are they to be let in?"

"We haven't made that decision yet," replied Crimmins. "The details of who will come in and when have yet to be negotiated between the two governments," said Joseph Meyers,

Backstage Washington

Plans, Controls for Dealing with Cuban Refugees Still Very Vague, House Committees Learn

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — U.S. authorities are completely in the dark on the number of Cubans likely to take advantage of Fidel Castro's offer to seek asylum here.

The total could run into hundreds of thousands. Also, so far, no effective procedures and controls have been formulated to determine who is admitted. Very little stands in the way of subversives and other undesirable gaining entry.

These and other startling facts were brought to light at a series of unpublished closed-door hearings by two major House committees — the Foreign Affairs subcommittee headed by Representative Armistead Seldon, D-Ala., and the Appropriations subcommittee headed by Representative Otto Passman, D-La.

Other jarring disclosures were: —U.S. officials estimate some 45,000 Cubans will migrate here — if permitted to do so. But they admit this figure is conjectural. The number could go as high as 130,000 or more.

—The U.S. has "warmly invited" other members of the Organization of American States to open their doors to Cuban refugees, but there has been no response. John Crimmins, State Department coordinator for Cuban affairs, told the Selden committee, "I am sorry to say, but there is nothing to report on our efforts in this regard as yet."

—Castro is demanding that he make up the lists of those allowed to leave. This has been flatly rejected by the U.S. The Communist dictator has been notified the U.S. will compile these lists, and only those on them will be admitted.

—Since 1961 Congress has voted $207 million for the care of Cuban refugees. Another $12.6 million for the new influx is in the final (supplemental) appropriation bill awaiting President Johnson's signature. This sum is admittedly only a fraction of what will be needed. But the testifying officials could not say how much that might be.

"Seems to me," said one committee man dryly, "you are ill-prepared to cope with this emergency. Apparently, you are very much up in the air on what to do."

Crimmins made no reply. THE JOLTING DETAILS — Despite extensive questioning, the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee was unable to get any definite information on which refugees will be admitted.

State Department coordinator Crimmins talked vaguely about "children, parents and spouses" of Cuban exiles now in the U.S. Roy Wynkoop, executive officer of the Welfare Administration, had no answer at all.

"How about grandparents and cousins?" asked a committee man. "Are they to be let in?"

"We haven't made that decision yet," replied Crimmins. "The details of who will come in and when have yet to be negotiated between the two governments," said Joseph Meyers, deputy commissioner of the Welfare Administration. "Who can tell us how large this program is going to be?" asked another committee man. "Certainly someone must have an idea on that; particularly such important details as the number to be admitted and the time limit."

"Those decisions are not being made by us," replied Meyers. "Who is making them? Where can we find out?" "We don't know," replied Wynkoop.

Crimmins, representing the State Department, said nothing. WIDE OPEN PORTALS — The committee had no better luck in trying to learn what is being done to keep out undesirable. Following are highlights of this revealing testimony:

"Among thousands of refugees," pointed out a committee man, "there are bound to be security risks, Communist agents, dope addicts, individuals afflicted with venereal and other contagious diseases. What is being done to weed them out?"

"We have doctors, both government and private, examining all refugees arriving from Cuba," replied Crimmins. "We are carefully examining them as soon as they land."

"Are undesirables being sent back?" "A few." "How many is a 'few'?" "Well, a few," said Crimmins lamely. "Very few." "And how many is 'very few'?" "Very few," retorted Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, "virtually none."

Crimmins did not answer. PASSING THE BUCK — Roy Wynkoop, Welfare Administration executive officer, revealed to the House Appropriations Subcommittee that Castro has refused to accept lists of entrants prepared by the U.S.

"Then, so far, all we have been getting are escapees," said Representative Otto Passman, D-La., chairman, Wynkoop agreed.

"Is it possible that Castro, in making his grandiose offer," continued Passman, "might be trying to lead us into a trap?"

"I am sure the authorities working on this are being very cautious," replied Wynkoop.

"I hope so," declared Passman. "But it is very strange that all at once Castro opens his heart and announces he will let all Cubans who want to leave do so. I can't help but feel there is some trickery involved."

"That might well be," said Wynkoop. "But at the same time, he is faced with a terrific food shortage and other serious difficulties."

"There are approximately six and a half million Cubans," continued Passman. "What if Castro decided to give us several or more millions of them? Where is this refugee program going to stop?"

"I am unable to answer that question," replied Wynkoop.

Rhodesia's Sorry Story
 NEW YORK (NEA) — There was a letter in yesterday's mail regarding a man we used to know in Rhodesia. He is dead, the letter says — and then, after eulogizing his better qualities, gives the address of his memorial fund in London where checks should be sent.

When it comes to gentility, no invitation is more circumspect than that of the widow and bereaved family who have been left destitute and must receive immediate aid if they are to survive another week.

Well, we were brought up quite short by the news. Our last remembrance of these people was at a dinner party in their home on the outskirts of Salisbury — a rambling cottage crowded with generations of furniture they had brought out from England seven or eight years before.

And while assessing other people's property has never been our strongest point, we would have thought this family to be fairly substantial.

However, it occurred to us on second thought that substance is not really worth much unless you can sell it to somebody when you want to. And what with impending rebellion against Britain, Rhodesia's real estate had doubtless become very difficult to sell to anybody.

Otherwise our friend's bereaved family would not be destitute in London. Well, we must apologize for having gone on so long with this specific bankruptcy. It had been our intention only to explain that independence for Rhodesia carries a fearful kind of bondage with it.

But in that regard we are not equipped to discuss the generalities of independence and bondage, having recently spent what seems now like a lifetime in Rhodesia trying to understand the holocaust brewing there.

And all we have got for our trouble is the memory of a thousand different individuals — African and European — locked in a hopeless and deadly embrace. Given time, we could make out a case for them all, and believe each wholeheartedly.

We will agree, for example, that Africa belongs to the Africans. But what nationality is a white man who was born in Rhodesia — like his father and grandfather before him?

We will agree that one man should have one vote. But under "That is out of my jurisdiction," Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., chairman of the House Immigration subcommittee, is planning to hold hearings on the refugee problem after Congress adjourns. Feighan, principal author of the new immigration law passed by this Congress, wants to ascertain how it applies to the Cuban influx.

Certain provisions of the new act, which becomes effective December 1 of this year, raise legal questions regarding the status of the incoming Cubans,

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE

The consequences of the new "medicare" program are thoroughly predictable, as are the long-term consequences from any economic act by the state.

The bureaucratic "experts" have determined that X number of people are eligible for the program; and that these people have each used an average of Y amount of medical services yearly; and that the average medical service has cost them Z dollars. Therefore, we multiply X times Y times Z dollars and we have the yearly cost of "Medicare." Simple, isn't it?

But what would happen if your family doctor sent you a note saying that for the time being his services would cost less than one-half of their normal charges? Obviously, you'd take the kids and yourself and your spouse to the doctor — get a thorough checkup for everything you can think of, and thereafter, you'd run to the doctor with the slightest ailment. "No use taking chances with one's precious health," you'd say. "At least, not at these prices."

And you'd be no different from anyone else. Lower prices always stimulate greater purchase of an item. Even the dyed-in-the-wool socialist must recognize the existence of the law of supply and demand.

So what does "Medicare" mean? The cost of "Medicare" will be subsidized — it will be paid for mostly by those who are not entitled to use it. Therefore, those who will use it will respond to the new, lower prices (to them) with much greater use of the program than the "Medicare" planners dreamed possible.

Any doctor who participates in the program — and thereby allows some of his patients to take advantage of the subsidy — will find his offices crowded with "Medicare" users. Other patients will find it hard to understand why their family doctor has become so much more popular. Actually, he hasn't; he has no new patients, but some of the older ones are using his services far more often.

Sooner or later, some doctors will realize that some non-Medicare patients will be willing to pay extra to get to the head of the line—either because of medical emergencies or a desire for convenience.

These doctors will cater to the higher-paying demand — and we will find something formerly unknown in America: two distinct "classes" of doctors. One will give you prompt service because their higher fees will have kept their clientele reasonably small. The other will charge less, but will put you on a long waiting list.

And those politicians and bureaucrats who swore in 1965 that "Medicare" was not "socialized medicine, will scream for coercive price controls to keep doctor fees down and medical services available to the poor.

Many doctors will quit the profession (some already have because of this) and fewer will be willing to undergo the rigorous training when the rewards are so few.

The same story will apply with regard to hospitals. And the once-great American medical profession will be no more. Long waiting lines, greater demand, and fewer doctors will make America a sick nation.

This is not "maybe." This is certain economic truth — repeated over and over and over again in history. It is going on now all over the world — but we think it won't happen here. It will.

It's going on right now in New York City, with the water shortage caused by the politically-owned water system. Can you imagine private enterprise accusing its customers of "hoarding"?

Hunt for Truth

BY K. L. HUNT

FEAR NOT!
 The individual is unconquerable.

Governments and empires may come and go, proud nations rise and fall. Little men may parade in the grab of power, intoxicated with a momentary authority over other men who submit to them, but in the end they are themselves victimized by the evil forces they have loosed. Those who give up their lives to the collective can never regain their lives for themselves.

The individual remains. The more conscious he is of his uniqueness and ability to master his environment, the more he will control his own destiny however formidable the legions arrayed against him. The total state in power may submerge a nation, may wreck a civilization. But the individual, fully confident in his own prowess, need never share this dark fate.

The individual cannot be destroyed by others nor by organized power, but he can easily undermine or destroy himself. The greatest of these self-destructing forces is fear. A thinking man today has reason to fear for his country and the future of freedom. But if he is perpetually afraid for himself, he has already lost the battle.

Men fear the anger and reprisals of government and their fellow-men. They fear to speak out for what they know to be right and true because some flatterer or henchman of those in power might not like it. They fear to be themselves and to act in accord with their conscience because it might displease.

The man who is true to himself has cast out fear. In his mind and heart, he will always be free.

But without an imperial government over her, the choices for Rhodesia are bloody. Either a civil war or a federation with the Republic of South Africa—as harsh on the ruling minority as on the repressed majority.

We could go on for a considerable space listing impossible alternatives, until we came at last to the present dilemma in Salisbury — namely, to leave everything behind and start all over from scratch somewhere else, or stay on and fight it out until the last man drops.

It is not a choice we would like to face. And actually it is hard to say which way we would choose.

Our friend from Salisbury — the deceased — he avoided the decision by putting a bullet through his head.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.
