

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
AUSTIN, Tex. — State offices are playing a game of musical chairs.

Better make note of these departmental moves that have just taken place, are now being made or will be completed this month:

—Teacher Retirement System of Texas has moved from the fourth floor of the Sam Houston

State Office Building No. 1, to the third floor of the Lowich Building.

—Texas' new Coordinating Board of Higher Education soon will occupy the entire sixth floor of the Sam Houston State Office Building.

—Parks Division of the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department moves out of the Sam Houston Building — into the newly acquired American Legion Building — to make room for the Board of Higher Education.

—State Building Commission will move from the Reagan Legion Building into the east wing of the Sam Houston Building.

—Texas Tourist Development Agency, now in the Sam Houston Building, will move into offices in the Reagan Building vacated by the Building Commission.

—State Water Commission will move from the American Legion Building into the east wing of the Sam Houston Building.

AG OPINIONS — Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr reached these conclusions in official rulings:

—City employees installing rest room facilities in municipal parks must be paid the prevailing wage rate.

—Board of Pardons and Poles has no authority to recommend, and the governor no power to grant, a posthumous full pardon to a deceased convicted felon on application of a relative or other interested party.

—An act authorizing Grayson County Commissioners Court to appoint a juvenile officer and assistant is unconstitutional as a "local and special" law.

—State employees are collect $12 a day travel allowance if staying at regular public lodgings, but only $7 if they stay on military installations or at educational or eleemosynary institutions.

APPOINTMENTS — Governor Connally has named Judge James Ellis of Lubbock's County Court at Law as judge of the new 137th District Court in Lubbock County.

Lt. Governor Preston Smith appointed to the interim committee on state and local tax policy Sens. Galloway Calhoun Jr. of Tyler, David Ratliff of Stamford and Jack Strong of Longview. On the committee for restoration of the flag of Santa Anna, he placed Sens. Dorsey B. Hardeman of San Angelo and Charles Herring of Austin.

House Speaker Ben Barnes selected five public-at-large members of a committee to study the problem of salt pollution of underground and surface water of inland areas and recommend legislation that's needed. They are former Congressman Joe Kilgore of Austin, former Smith County Judge Harry Loftis of Tyler, Charles P. McGaha of Wichita Falls, Runnels County Judge W. H. Rampey and former Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepherd of Odessa.

Barnes named Reps. G. F. Mutschler of Brenham and Maurice S. Pipkin of Brownsville to the Legislative Budget Board. Reps. W. S. Healy of Paducah and Ben Atwell of Dallas automatically are budget board members since they are chairmen of appropriations and revenue and taxation committees of the House.

Earlier Barnes picked a committee composed of Reps. Roger Thurmond Jr. of Del Rio, Bill Rapp of Raymondville, John E. Blaine of El Paso, Dick McKissack of Dallas and Jack McLaughlin of Fort Worth to study the Texas liquor control act.

ANTI-POVERTY PROJECTS OKAYED — Three more Community Action programs and four additional Neighborhood Youth Corps applications have been approved by Governor Connally.

Community Action projects in Houston, San Antonio and Mercedes carry federal grants totaling more than $2,000,000.

NYC grants of $155,040 will permit employment of 393 students in Luling, Anderson County, San Jacinto County and Trinity County.

CHEMICAL PLANT AT DIBOLL — Borden Chemical Company has purchased a 100-acre site at Diboll on which to construct a synthetic resins plant. Governor Connally announces.

An initial $1,000,000 expenditure is contemplated. Company reportedly will market resins in East Texas for such applications as plywood and particle board adhesives and foundry core binders.

Selection of Diboll for the new plant site attests to the growth of and prospects for the southern pine plywood industry in Texas, said Connally.

INTERCOASTAL CANAL DILEMMA — Joe Moore has a $400,000 problem and, so far, no solution.

Moore, a member of Gov. John Connally's staff, is trying to find a way to allow Texas to live up to its commitment made by Gov. Allen Shivers exactly 10 years ago.

In August of 1955, Governor Shivers gave the state's endorsement to a proposal for the widening and deepening of the Intracoastal Waterway from the mouth of the Sabine River to just south of the Brazoria County line across West Bay.

He assured the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that local sponsors would meet the cost of the right-of-way so that the canal could be widened to 140 feet from 125 feet.

"All that was needed to keep the project going in 1955 was the state's commitment," Moore said. "There was no need to produce the right-of-way money then. But there is now, if we're not going to lose the project. The state has at least a moral commitment to aid in getting local sponsors."

Although no firm figures are available, Moore believes acquisition of right-of-way for the project through Jefferson, Chambers and Galveston Counties would cost about $400,000. The federal government's cost of widening and deepening the waterway is expected to be in excess of $6,000,000.

Completion of the project would open the channel to Mississippi River barges.

TRAIN LAKES — Changing times were reflected in three recent actions of the Texas Water Commission.

Actions amend West Texas Water permits at the request of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Company.

Company built three lakes years ago — in Nolan, Lampasas and Mills Counties — so that their steam-boiler engines would have water supplies.

Permission to use the lakes for recreational purposes now has been granted, since today nearly all engines are diesel and don't need water.

Nolan County's lake also will provide irrigation water for the Sweetwater Country Club.

SHORT SNORTS — Texas Railroad Commission has ordered its staff to devise tests for oil fields over the state similar to those used in East Texas.

—Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will send hunting and fishing licenses to 2,500 dealers earlier this year to avoid the usual last-minute scramble.

—Detailed hunting and fishing regulations for key areas now are available from the Parks and Wildlife Department.

—Texas Railroad Commission is hearing opponents of an application to approve lower interstate rates on mixed shipments of interstate and intrastate products. Truck lines oppose the practice long followed by railroads.

—Cigarette tax receipts increased $280,118 in July over the same month in 1964, but liquor stamp sales dropped off $106,182 and wine stamp receipts declined $53,458, according to Comptroller Robert S. Calvert.

—Charles H. Huff of Sustin is the new executive secretary of the Texas veterinary Medical Association.

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—What do viewers think when the virile Western hero of their small screens suddenly turns up in supper clubs smooth-shaven, pomaded, manicured and dinner-jacketed to sing of love?
Robert Horton, the sinewy scout of "Wagon Train" and now the gun-slinging amnesiac of ABC-TV's new series, "A Man Called Shenandoah" considered the question carefully.
It applies to him for he opens a singing engagement in the elegant Persian Room of the Plaza Hotel next Monday. And on Sept. 13—with the publicity of this venture still fresh—viewers will see him vault into the saddle again to search for his identity amid the badmen and badlands of the West.

No Conflict
Is there any conflict?
"Not at all," said Horton. "I've never tried to keep to any one special image. Why should I when I am interested in so many aspects of show business?"
"Certainly the Western image is an attractive one for a man. So when I do Westerns I ride well and I do the stunts well, I hope. But the other part of my career as an actor-singer is another thing. In no way do I lean on the Western image in my supper club act except for a joke or two in the patter."
Horton thinks "A Man Called Shenandoah" has a good chance of being one of the high-rated shows of the next season although it faces "formidable opposition" from Andy Williams and Andy Griffith.
Would Like Color
"I'm disappointed we're not in color," he said. "You want everything you can get going for you these days and color is an added value especially for me."
"Many people don't realize I've got red hair. It's part of my personality. I think that if we catch on we may well go into color before the end of the year. If we don't catch on—well, that's TV."

As well as starring in the new series Horton has written the theme song—new lyrics to the great folk ballad, "Shenandoah."
"When I recorded it as well the folks at MGM were surprised," Horton said. "You see they had forgotten I was a singer as well as an actor. That's how separate I've kept these careers, and images."

AMERICANS TRIUMPH
TEL AVIV (UPI)—Americans Claudia McNeill and Julius Harris received a tremendous ovation night after their first performance in the Israel festival of "The Amen Corner," a folklore play by James Baldwin. The author and a large number of diplomats headed by U.S. Ambassador Walworth Harbord were in the audience.

UNDERWATER HOME
LONDON (UPI)—Two young men prepared for a week-long stay underwater in a two-ton steel tube. John Heath, 22, and Colin Irwin, 19, members of the Bournemouth Sub-Aqua Club which is financing the experiment, are to live in the cylinder "home" beginning next weekend. The 12-foot seven-foot tube will be dropped in 40 feet of water of Devon County.

FIRST CHILD
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Singer Vic Damone's wife, Judy, 28, gave birth to their first child, an 8-pound, 8½-ounce girl in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. The infant was named Victoria Katherine Esther Damone. Attendants said mother and daughter were doing "very well."

Damone, 36, and his wife were married in Las Vegas, Nev., in 1963. He has a son, Perry, 10, by a previous marriage to actress Pier Angeli.

FREIGHTER RHELD
NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—The Soviet freighter Illichevsk, allegedly carrying a load of arms to Cuba, was held here after the captain refused to allow port authorities to seal the ship's hold.

IT'S THE LAW

TO THE RESCUE!
Motorist A, rounding a curve to fast, knocks Motorist B into the ditch. C, a Good Samaritan, drags the injured B from the wreckage. But in doing so, C wrenches his own back. May C collect damages from A, the original wrongdoer?

In court, A would probably argue something like this:
"I'll admit I'm to blame for the injury to B. But I had nothing to do with C. He came to the rescue on his own initiative. He took his own chances."

But the court would hold A liable for C's injury as well as for B's. The law says a motorist should foresee not only that careless driving may cause an accident but also that a rescuer may be injured at the scene. In the words of Judge Benjamin Cardozo:

"Danger invites rescue. The cry of distress is the summons to relief. The wrong that imperils life is a wrong to the imperiled victim; it is a wrong also to his rescuer."

Here are other examples of the law's special concern for the rescuer:

A woman was injured saving a child from a position of danger on a defective merry-go-round. The court granted her claim for damages from the negligent proprietor.

A woman, answering a call for help in an apartment building, stumbled over broken flooring in the hallway. The court granted her claim for damages from the building owner.

A man was injured halting a runaway horse, negligently let loose on a busy street. The court granted his claim for damages from the owner of the horse.

Of course, in all fairness to the original wrongdoer, his liability should not be extended too far. If the rescuer is more fool than hero, he usually cannot collect.

Dear Abby....

Wanted: 'Escort Only: No Strings Attached'

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I live alone and like it, I am a widow, 51, but am told I look much younger. My children are married and live elsewhere. I have an adequate income, my own car and travel occasionally. I am not "lonely," and live alone by choice. However, there are times when I wish to go places where ladies cannot go unescorted. This town is too small for an escort service. And the few local bachelors and widowers in my age group have matrimony in mind. I do not wish to remarry. Where can I find a reliable escort when I need one? I would gladly pay a fee plus all the expenses, but I want it understood that everything would be on a strictly professional basis. Sign this.

"ESCORT WANTED" DEAR WANTED: Unless you can afford to "import" a professional escort from the nearest city that has such a service, you will have to break down and ask one of the local matrimonial-minded men to escort you. Tell him you need an escort and nothing more. And don't offer to pay all the expenses and a fee besides, or you'll never get rid of him.

DEAR ABBY: My husband just came home from the barber shop and I almost broke into tears when I saw him. He went to a shop he always goes to, but his regular barber was busy, so he let one of the other barbers take him. All my husband asked for was a haircut, but this barber asked my husband if he mind if he "trimmed" his eyebrows a little bit. My husband said, "Go on." Well, he sure trimmed them! He cut nearly all his eyebrows off! There are only a few hairs left over a each eye. I am just sick over this. I loved my husband's bushy eyebrows. He doesn't even look like the same man any more. Can anything be done while they are growing back? And what will he do in case they don't grow back?

IN TEARS DEAR IN: In all probability his eyebrows will grow in just as luxuriously as before. But in case they don't, your husband has a good case for a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: As an aging grandmother, and mother of three married children, I would like to commend your answer to the "Heartbroken" mother who was sad because her son-in-law had promised her daughter they could baptize their children in her religion, and then went back on his promise. You said, "Skip it, it's their problem." I know how right you were because, I, too, had a daughter whose husband took her away from her own religion. However, they are getting along fine and if religion is a problem to them, it's their problem. When I think of how few years I have left to enjoy my children and grandchildren, I overlook the problems that might estrange them from me. There have been times when I could have cheerfully choked my son-in-law, but that wouldn't bring my daughter back to the church she was reared in, so I mind my own business and pretend I don't see what's going on. I hope "Heartbroken" takes your advice and does the same. ANOTHER GRANDMOTHER

A correction needs to be made pertaining to an item in this column last week referring to lighting the garden at night. It should have stated: "Use only 50 or 60 watt bulbs; brighter lights are likely to result in harsh contrasts."

At the Flower Arrangements Classes last week Justine Sweeney cast a spell over the group with her most interesting and challenging program on "The Festive Touch in Table Arrangements". All these programs have been most rewarding thanks to the fine instructor and the wonderful attendance. The last class will be held next Wednesday, in Lovett Memorial Library at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Martin Stubbe presenting the program on "Foliage Arrangements". Anyone who is interested is invited to come.

There is no subject of more fundamental importance to the gardener than that of soil management. In order to handle garden soils intelligently, and to maintain or increase the fertility of the soil, it is necessary to have a thorough knowledge not only of the soil itself, but also of the manner in which plants receive their nutrients from the soil.

There are comparatively few soils which provide ideal conditions for plant growth, but if a wise program of soil management is put into effect, much may be accomplished in improving the structure, the fertility, and the water-holding capacity of soils of widely varying types.

There are certain factors affecting plant growth over which a gardener has very little control, such as climate, rainfall, sunshine and humidity; but over the various factors of soil management he has very definite control. The soil is a heritage which has come to us from the past — a heritage which we in turn will pass on, and it is the privilege of those who work with it to regard it as a trust. Not only for our own immediate benefit should we strive to conserve, and to maintain, and to increase its fertility, but it is also our obligation to the generations of gardeners who are to follow us.

An adequate supply of humus in the soil is one of the most important factors in a program of good soil management.

Humus serves many functions in improving the structure and character of the soil. It increases the water-holding capacity of soils; it modifies the soil structure; it readily absorbs the sun's rays and consequently increases and stimulates plant growth in early spring; it prevents the leaching of soluble plant foods; it liberates compounds which, in turn, act upon the chemical elements in the soil thus making available to plants mineral nutrients which would otherwise remain in insoluble form, and it promotes the bacterial action in the soil to a very marked degree. Soil with humus in it permits easy root penetration, which is an important factor, as the roots travel to the water and food in the soil, not vice versa.

A good compost pile is a valuable addition to any garden, and no matter how small one's place may be there will always be some organic materials which can be converted into compost. The end product of a compost pile is a soil which is exceedingly high in humus content and rich in plant nutrients.

The building of a compost pile is a simple matter. A ritually shaded location is preferable to one in full sun, as it will be possible to maintain a more even degree of moisture. A pile of convenient, workable size is 6 to 8 feet in height, and of any desired length. The foundation of the pile should consist of some coarse material, such as inverted sods or weed stalks, and upon this foundation alternating layers of organic refuse and soil should be built up.

Vegetable refuse of soft texture should form the bulk of the compost heap, supplemented by straw and any animal manure available. Suitable materials are weeds of all kinds, fresh leaves, lawn mowings and soft hedge clippings, rough grass trimmings, in fact any vegetable matter that will rot fairly quickly.

More information on this subject will be included in next week's column.

U.S. Lacking in Program to Help Cull Communist Propaganda in Mails

I deeply regret to report that the United States does not now have a program to cull Communist propaganda from mail coming into this country from abroad. We had such a program, set up under a 1962 Act of Congress I had advocated and supported, but the law was struck down in the recent Supreme Court decision in Lamont vs. The Postmaster General. On the day the Supreme Court announced its decision in the Lamont case, all activity under the law was terminated.

Two years in which the law was in effect gives us the specific evidence of the extent to which Communists seek to distort the thinking of U.S. citizens through mailed propaganda. On January 7, 1963, special Foreign Propaganda Units manned by Postal and Customs personnel were established in eleven key ports of entry as the Act took effect. From that day until May 24, 1965, when the Supreme Court struck down the Act with its Lamont decision, approximately 106 million pieces of such mail were directed to "exempt" addressees, for the law had specifically exempted certain categories of recipients and its provisions did not apply to sealed letters. These 43 million pieces of mail were quickly sent along to those to whom they were addressed. But the remaining 62 million pieces of mail were examined before being forwarded. Of this total, approximately 4 percent was determined to be constituted of foreign communist political propaganda. In other words, in the period of slightly more than two years in which the screening law was in effect, about 2.5 million pieces of Communist "junk mail" were detected by our Postal and Customs units. As the law was administered, the Post Office Department informed the addressees that the Bureau of Customs had determined certain mailed matter to be Communist propaganda. The addressees were asked for their deliver instructions. This kind of mail could only be delivered upon the addressee's request. In a special report I requested from the Post Office Department in the aftermath of the Supreme Court decision, I was informed that the addressees were about equally divided in wanting and not wanting delivery. In deciding the Lamont case, the Supreme Court said: "The Act sets administrative officials astride the flow of mail to in-specit. appraise it, write the addressee about it, and await a response before dispatching the mail. . . . The addressee in order to receive his mail must request in writing that it be delivered. This amounts in our judgment to an unconstitutional abridgment of the addressee's First Amendment rights." The point of the law on which the Supreme Court rested its decision was the request necessary from the addressee before his mail was delivered, not on the right of Customs to inspect mailed matter. Postal officials tell me that it is not necessary for addressees to accept delivery of Communist propaganda, although this material is no longer being screened upon entry to the United States. Under Postal regulations I am advised, an addressee may refuse to accept any piece of mail. He may mark any mailed matter "Refused" and return it unopened. An addressee may request his postmaster to withhold from delivery for a period not to exceed two years any specifically described items of foreign printed matter. Unfortunately, the knowledge of these regulations is probably not widespread.

Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER SIX ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 2, 1965. HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 11 proposing an Amendment to Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas authorizing loans to students at institutions of higher education; creating the Texas Opportunity Plan Fund and making provisions relating thereto.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding a new Section to read as follows:

"Section 50b. STUDENT LOANS. (a) The Legislature may provide that the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, or its successor or successors, shall have the authority to provide for, issue and sell general obligation bonds of the State of Texas in an amount not to exceed Eighty-five Million Dollars ($85,000,000). The bonds authorized herein shall be called 'Texas College Student Loan Bonds,' shall be executed in such form, denominations and upon such terms as may be prescribed by law, provided, however, that the bonds shall not bear more than four percent (4%) interest per annum; they may be issued in such amounts as the Board finds feasible and practical in accomplishing the purposes of this Section.

"(b) All moneys received from the sale of such bonds shall be deposited in a fund hereby created in the State Treasury to be known as the Texas Opportunity Plan Fund to be administered by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, or its successor or successors to make loans to students who have been admitted to attend any institution of higher education within the State of Texas, public or private, including Junior Colleges, which are recognized or accredited under terms and conditions prescribed by the Legislature, and to pay interest on principal on such bonds and provide a sinking fund therefor under such conditions as the Legislature may prescribe.

"(c) While any of the bonds or interest on the bonds authorized by this Section is outstanding and unpaid, there is hereby appropriated out of the first moneys coming into the Treasury in each fiscal year, not otherwise appropriated by this Constitution, an amount sufficient to pay the principal and interest on such bonds that mature or become due during such fiscal year, less the amount in the sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year.

"(d) The Legislature may provide for the investment of moneys available in the Texas Opportunity Plan Fund, and the interest and sinking funds established for the payment of bonds issued by the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, or its successor or successors, income from such investment shall be used for the purposes prescribed by the Legislature.

"(e) All bonds issued hereunder shall, after approval by the Attorney General, registration by the Comptroller of Public Accounts of the State of Texas, and delivery to the purchasers, be incontestable and shall constitute general obligations of the State of Texas under this Constitution.

"(f) Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this Amendment, such acts shall not be void because of their anticipatory nature."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1965, at which election all ballots shall have printed on them the following:

WHERE WATER WAS—Widening mud flats attest to the seriousness of drought conditions in the Eastern United States. Photo was taken at New York's Croton Reservoir as the water level continued to dip despite extensive conservation programs.

Drought Continues in East

By HARRY FERGUSON WASHINGTON (UPI)—With 320 million cubic miles of water in the seas and oceans, it seems absurd to be talking about shortages. The message to mankind seems clear and concise: "There's more water than you will ever need. Help yourself." All we have to do to put the matter into perspective is to recall Coleridge's poem about the ancient mariner becalmed at sea aboard a sail ship and desert running down to the share of a blue ocean and wondered why they couldn't be blended to produce food. The answer, again, is too much salt. Finally Acted

Now when it is later than we think so far as the supply of fresh water is concerned, man has attacked the problem. There is no difficulty in removing the salt from sea water and coming out with a product fit for human and plant consumption. But the price isn't right.

There are a many plants around the world which convert sea water into fresh water and the U.S. government operates some of them on an experimental basis. But the cost is running around $1 per 1,000 gallons of water and in some cases as much as $1.50 per 1,000 gallons. Precise figures are difficult to come by, but it seems likely that the water we take out of our faucets costs about 27 cents per 1,000 gallons. Not that you necessarily pay that much for it because many cities try to soothe the taxpayer by hiding water costs elsewhere.

The day may come when salt water can be converted into fresh for about 32 cents per 1,000 gallons, but none of the experts here in Washington will bet on it. They keep hammering away at state, county and city officials to cut down on waste and pollution as the best emergency measure.

Entangle In Web So we are entangled in a web of political timidity and public apathy. No man wants to run for mayor on a platform of providing plenty of water at $1.50 per 1,000 gallons. The average citizen has to be hit right in the gut by a severe water shortage before he goes into action.

The Successes and Failures of Sinatra

By PAUL CORCORAN
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The shrieks of enraptured teen-age girls for "Frankie" often drowned out the slender, low-cheeked singer with the big bow tie, whether it was New York's Paramount Theater or the Hollywood Bowl.

Frank Sinatra today, in his September years and with a new love, has mellowed. His old success flickered out and became a legend. But he is one of the few great stars of the era, thanks to a spectacular comeback a decade ago.

Sinatra didn't change altogether, overnight or in 25 years. He retains his fierce pride, overwhelming loyalty to his friends and the will to succeed the fires which once fed ambitions now satisfied.

He Learned Early
The only child of Anthony and Natalie Sinatra, Frank learned early in life to fight back.

Although he came from a good home, this son of a professional bantamweight boxer grew up in the depression in a tough Hoboken neighborhood where some delinquents gave him a going over "because of my Italian parentage." As Sinatra put it, "they backed me into a corner."

But Sinatra never stayed in a corner long. The singer, whose early exposure to prejudice spurred later opposition to discrimination, won athletic recognition at Demarest High School. The 140-pound, 5-foot 11 Sinatra swam, boxed, played basketball and golfed for his school.

He also sang in the glee club. No overnight singing success, Sinatra worked after graduation on a newspaper delivery truck. He started a career as a sportswriter at the age of 23 in 1939 when he went to work as a singing waiter at the rustic Cabin Road House in New York. The same year, he married Nancy Bar-
