Betsy Back-Tracks; Rips Into Bahamas

NASSAU, The Bahamas (UPI)—Back-tracking Hurricane Betsy ripped into the Bahamas Islands today and took aim at the southeast Florida coast with its 125-m.p.h. winds.

The entire south Florida coast from Cape Kennedy to West, including Florida Bay, was on a hurricane watch and the Weather Bureau warned it may be necessary to issue hurricane warnings for a portion of the area within the next few hours.

All residents in this area should stand by and be ready to take emergency precautions if warnings are issued," the weather agency warned.

"It is urged that food stores and lumber yards open to the public for the remainder of the day and evening."

Many stores and lumber yards in the area were closed for the Labor Day holiday. Housewives will have to stock up on food for the storm, and many residents will need lumber to board up.

At 10 a.m., EDT, Betsy was centered near latitude 26.7 north, longitude 76.5 west, or about 250 miles east northeast of Miami and 50 miles east of Great Abaco Island.

The storm was moving toward the southwest at 8 miles an hour.

Winds of 85 m.p.h.—10 m.p.h. above hurricane force — hit Green Turtle Cay on Great Abaco Island in the Bahamas this morning.

"All precautions in the northern Bahamas should be rushed against 100 to 125 m.p.h. winds and heavy seas," the Weather Bureau said.

Betsy had been steering a northerly course when it suddenly stalled Saturday night, then later turned around and started back-tracking.

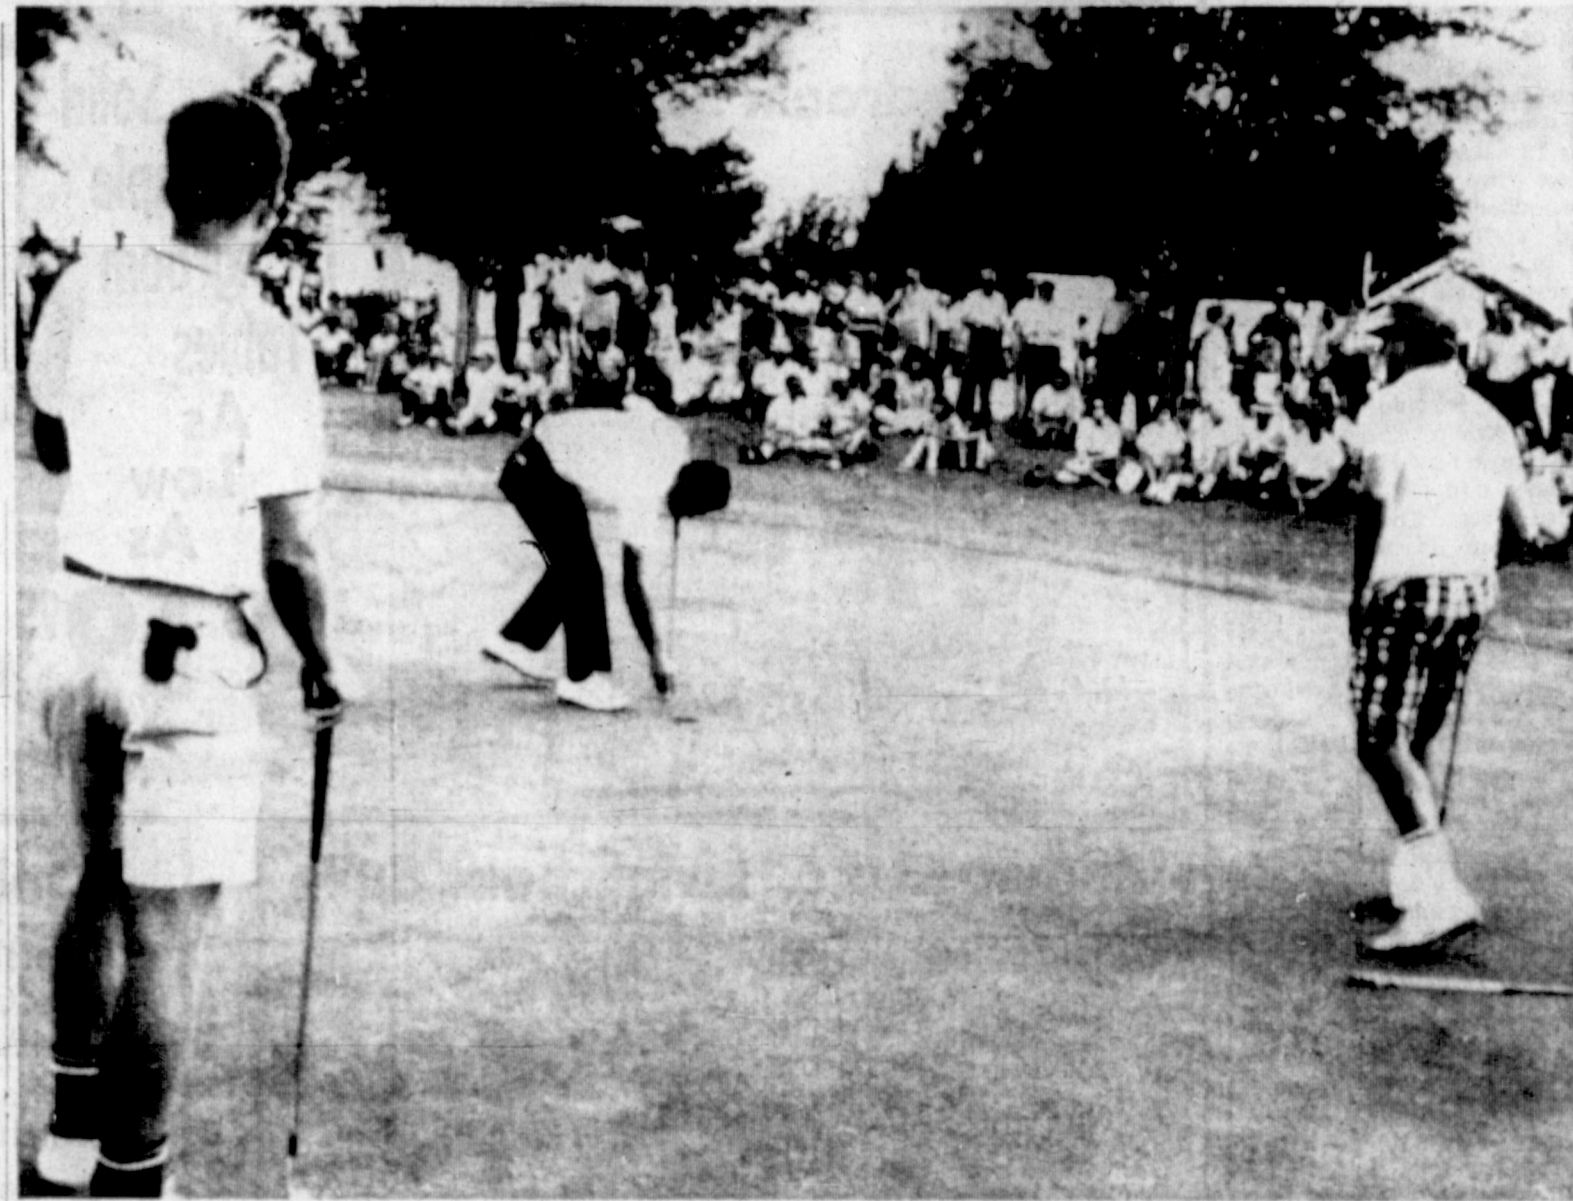

The islands of Abaco, Eleuthera, Berry, Grand Bahama, New Providence, Andros, Long, Great Exuma and San Salvador were warned to expect gales or hurricane force winds when Betsy's eye carves a destructive path near the northeast Providence Channel by late today.

The islanders, told earlier that Betsy would pass the chain, were caught unaware when the mighty storm suddenly howled south-southwest. Few early preparations were made after Betsy moved north. Urgent defensive measures were taken to protect the naked islands from the brunt of the 450-mile wide hurricane.

At 6 a.m., EDT, the center of the storm was located by an Air Force reconnaissance plane about 75 miles northeast of Hope Town, Great Abaco, and 270 miles east-northeast of Miami near latitude 27.0 north, longitude 76.0 west.

A low pressure in the Caribbean brought the mighty storm back from its position north of the unsuspecting islands.

The hurricane was expected (See Betsy, Page 3)

18th HOLE — High winds and occasional rain Sunday hampered play for some in the Top O' Texas Golf Tournament. Some of the golfers who beat the "weather" were, from the left: Jim Colbert, Kansas City, Mo., who shot a 69; Bill Harvey, Greensboro, N. C., who came in with a 70; and leader John Farguhar, Amarillo, who shot a 68. With them on the 18th green is one of the largest crowds that has turned out for the play since the tournament began.

Security Council Sets Emergency Session Today to View War

By United Press International

Indian army units which captured the airport of the provincial capital of Lahore, India, a Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said.

The airport is about two miles from the city proper. Lahore is about 16 miles from the Indo-Pakistan border.

"We have captured Lahore airport," Shastri told the National Development Council. Elite Indian troops spearheaded by air force fighter-bombers and backed by artillery drove across the border in the pre-dawn hours in a three-pronged offensive.

Informed sources in New Delhi said the Indian plan to capture Lahore, former summer capital of the Moghul emperors of ancient times, was proceeding on schedule. The apparent objective was to capture the city of 1,300,000 by Tuesday.

In Pakistan, President Mohammed Ayub Khan went on the radio to tell the nation of the Indian invasion. He declared a state of emergency and told the people: "We are at war."

Heavy Battles Reported
The invasion overshadowed the undeclared border war in disputed Kashmir.

An Indian spokesman said heavy air and ground battles raged between Indian and Pakistani forces following the surprise assault across the international border into West Pakistan.

He said Indian planes tangled with Pakistani aircraft and carried out a number of air strikes. He made no mention of losses on either side in the aerial duels.

The Indian spokesman refused to comment on unconfirmed reports Lahore had been captured.

He reported fierce fighting also was raging in Indian Kashmir and said Indian troops had recaptured several important posts in counterattacks against Pakistani forces. He said the Pakistanis were seen withdrawing.

Light Balloting Due in Senate Change Try

Gray County is expected to run parallel with the rest of Texas in expectation for a light turnout of voters in tomorrow's election to decide whether the state senate should be enlarged.

The voters will ballot on a proposed constitutional amendment that would allow eight more senators and increase the size of the state senate from 31 to 39 members.

In Gray County the 13 polling places will be open from 8 a.m. Tuesday until 7 p.m.

The polling places in Pampa and Gray County will be Pct. 1, Lefors; Pct. 2, Baker School; Pct. 3, Grandview School; Pct. 4, Alanreed School; Pct. 5, McLean; Pct. 6, Laketon; Pct. 7, Horace Mann School; Pct. 8, Stephen F. Texans Get Turbulent Weather

By United Press International
Light thundershowers fell across parts of the Texas Panhandle today, the remnants of a violent thunderstorm system that hurled tornadic winds, hail and brief-but-heavy rain.

The cold, Canadian air that set off the storms, pushed into the South Plains and across the Red River Valley.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said much of Northwest and Northeast Texas had a good chance for more rain before Tuesday.

The worst storm ripped through Littlefield in the South Plains Sunday, with tornado-like winds that smashed a large metal building used to house school buses and hurled parts of it an eighth of a mile.

Scores of windows were smashed in the 14 buses. The building was torn from its foundation and part of the wreckage ended up in a field.

Some signs were knocked down and some roofs damaged but damage in the rest of the Lamb County town was minor.

A wind-hail storm lashed Spearman in the Panhandle a short time later but there was no damage.

The turbulent weather occurred while the Weather Bureau had out a severe weather forecast for the Northeast panhandle.

The forecast warned of the possibility of severe thunderstorms, hail and high winds.

Alert Area
The area alerted was a 120-mile-wide strip from 60 miles southwest of Gage, Okla. to 30 miles north of Ponca, City, Okla.

For the rest of Texas, it was mostly hot although light showers ruined or held up a few picnics. The better rains fell in South Texas and along the Gulf Coast. Beaumont had .72 of an inch, San Antonio .18, and Alpine .02.

Clear Skies Promised ... Again!

Clear skies and warm temperatures were expected to attract many Pampans to Panhandle Recreation areas today in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

The weatherman forecast clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures.

Large crowds were expected at Lake McClellan and Lake Meredith today.

Officials at both lakes said slightly above average crowds were present Saturday and Sunday and said the big rush is expected this afternoon.

Schools were closed; state, city and county public offices were shut down with the exception of the sheriff and police departments and the highway patrol.

There had been no major accidents shortly before noon Monday, according to local and state police.

The Pampa Jaycees Rest Stop, located east on Highway 60, was to be open until midnight tonight.

Jaycees estimated as many as 500 cars stopped Sunday and took advantage of the soft drinks, coffee and rest rooms facilities.

Schweitzer Lies In Jungle Plot Near Tiny Mission He Served

LAMBARENE, Gabon (UPI)—Albert Schweitzer lay at rest today in a simple jungle grave near the tiny African mission to which he devoted his life. President Johnson joined the great and small from throughout the world in mourning his passing.

Schweitzer, who renounced fame and fortune as an eminent theologian and musician to tend the medical and spiritual needs of lepers and primitive Africans, died late Saturday night after a long illness. He was 90.

He was buried Sunday in a plain wooden coffin beside his wife at the edge of the clearing they carved from the jungle together in 1913. She died in 1957.

Widespread Tribute
Tributes to the famed doctor poured into the tiny West African settlement from both sides of the Iron Curtain and from world leaders and ordinary people impressed by Schweitzer's life and work.

They included messages of condolence from virtually every head of state in Europe and Africa.

President Johnson sent a message saying that Schweitzer's example served to remind the world "that the sick should be made well; that our heritage of religion and culture should be carried forward; and that all men of all races in every part of the world are brothers." In a brief message, Queen Elizabeth II, England said Schweitzer's "great work in so many fields will long be remembered and his humanity will inspire this and future generations."

Schweitzer, winner of the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize, had been seriously ill for 10 days before

DR. ALBERT SCHWEITZER his death and in failing health for several months. His only child, Mrs. Rhena Eckert, and his successor as head of the jungle mission, Dr. Walter Munz, 32, were at his side when death came 20 minutes before midnight Saturday.

The brief funeral, attended by about 1,000 staff and patients from the crude, log-and-corrugated iron hospital he founded, was held 16 hours after his death.

Only a rough cross, hewn by the doctor himself, marked the grave dug in the damp red soil beside the Ogowe River.

After more than 50 years of fighting the equatorial heat and miseries on the edge of civilization, Schweitzer died "in peace and dignity," his daughter said.

LCC Dedicates Student Center

LUBBOCK (SpI) — Betty Hancock Campus Center, the beautiful new cafeteria student center on the Lubbock Christian College campus, was dedicated Sunday afternoon.

Principal speaker at the ceremony was Dr. M. Norvel Young, president of Pepperdine College in Los Angeles, Calif., and a former minister of Broadway Church of Christ, Lubbock.

The 2,400 square foot structure consists of a kitchen-cafeteria, seating 600 persons, a student lounge, the college bookstore, a campus post office and two meeting rooms for student social activities. The kitchen is capable of serving approximately 1,200 persons an hour.

The new building was made necessary by a fire which destroyed the college kitchen and heavily damaged the dining hall in September of 1964.

Foreign News Commentary

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

The mounting battle over Kashmir intensifies the dilemma the United States has faced for 18 years in dealing with India and Pakistan, each of which views with suspicion any American aid to the other.

It also vastly increases the instability in the area "east of Suez" where the United States is involved in a major war against the Communists in Vietnam, and Britain is straining to preserve her shaky position in Singapore.

Washington always has tried to walk a tightrope of strict neutrality between India and Pakistan on their many points of conflict, of which Kashmir is the most acute and potentially most bloody.

Subsidizes Arms Race

But, without intending to do so, the United States has actually subsidized an arms race between the two countries who regard each other as greater enemies than either of the two major Communist powers on their northern borders — Russia and China.

The United States has given Pakistan $1.2 billion in military aid since 1954. India has received only $200 million in such assistance and only since it was threatened by Communist China two years ago. But Washington has provided billions of dollars in economic aid to India, making for the largest single recipient. This has freed some of India's resources to purchase arms elsewhere.

Kashmir Dispute Worsens

The Kashmir dispute has flared to a new high at a particularly difficult time for the United States. The Johnson administration is reviewing its large-scale military aid program to Pakistan in the light of that country's increasingly close links with Red China and its virtual defection from the CENTO and SEATO alliances.

It was because of Pakistan's adherence to those alliances and her professed anti-Communist attitude that the United States undertook the massive military aid program for that country. So long as Pakistan remained in the anti-Communist fold, she had a virtual veto power over U.S. military assistance to India.

But this was broken for the first time when the United States granted military assistance to India to help her resist Chinese Communist incursions in 1963 along the North-east Frontier area and the Ladakh region, near Kashmir.

India Changes Policy

Since then, India, increasingly worried by China's emergence as a member of the nuclear club, has abandoned her standoff attitude toward military aid and guarantees from the United States and now wants more.

The United States has held up economic aid to Pakistan temporarily and is still pondering a request for more F5 fighter-bombers. Despite Pakistan's increasingly anti-American attitude, the United States is reluctant to cut her off entirely or sharply reduce the assistance. There are two reasons for this:

—Fear of driving Pakistan even more deeply into the arms of the Communists.

—The desire to continue to operate the technical intelligence installations in Pakistan which provide considerable information about what is going on in Russia and China.

May Force Issue

However, Pakistan itself may force the issue if it goes much farther in its anti-Washington policy. In this event, the United States might find itself granting India's request for F5's and other military equipment.

The Soviet Union, which once took India's side in the Kashmir dispute, is showing a tendency to move toward the neutral position always maintained by the United States — apparently in an effort to counter Peking's influence in Pakistan.

Meanwhile, the United States, although determined to maintain its neutrality on Kashmir, is finding itself attracted more strongly toward India on every other international issue.

CARRIES FORTUNE

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — When Joseph Sylvester Siskok, 70, was found dead in a hotel room his only possessions were a suit, a pair of shoes and a ragged suitcase with a broken strap.

Rail Merger Rivals NYC-Pensy Deal

NEW YORK (UPI) — A gigantic proposed merger of seven eastern railroads, prepared in secret for about 10 months and sprung early in the week, envisions the union of the Chesapeake and Ohio (which already controls the Baltimore & Ohio) with the Norfolk & Western and five smaller lines, mostly with ailing commuter services. The size of the proposed system—26,400 miles of track and gross revenues over $1.8 billion—rivals in scope the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads.

Hope for Survivors Halts Blasting Operations in Swiss Alps

MATTMARK DAM, Switzerland (UPI) — Plans for a huge blasting operation on the Allalin Glacier have been suspended for "as long as there exists a faint hope of finding survivors," police reported Saturday night.

The operation had been intended to bring down an estimated 500,000 tons of glacier ice in order to eliminate a constant danger to rescuers digging in the ice slide that buried 88 dam construction workers Monday.

A faint hope of finding survivors rose Friday when a young engineer at the disaster site, Kurt Schetelig, suddenly remembered that workers used to go to a small concrete hut for a chat or a smoke.

Art Exhibit Lacks Finesse; Not Attendance

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (UPI)—It wasn't the kind of art show that brought rave notices from the critics. There wasn't a great deal of originality. Perspective was faulty in a few cases and maybe the technique lacked finesse.

But the show was a smash hit with the public. More than 5,000 people waited to file past the display of paintings, picking from the racks on a first-come, first-served basis the ones they wanted to buy.

The occasion Sunday was the fourth annual Federal Penitentiary Inmate Art Show and Sale. The event is becoming more popular yearly and proving lucrative to the participating inmates.

Most of the 1,200 paintings on exhibit were sold for amounts ranging from $1 to $70. More than $10,000 was collected—money which will be credited to the accounts of the inmate exhibitors.

The prison's department of education sponsored the show, held in the prison officers' club two miles down the road from the main penitentiary. Paintings, tagged with a price and a code number so the artist could be identified, were arranged so viewers could pass by in single file.

to move on its southwestward course for the next 12 hours, changing to the west-southwest tonight.

"No change in size or intensity is expected," the Weather Bureau said. "The eye has been reported to be large and quite diffuse."

Small craft from Florida to New Jersey were urged to remain in port.

Gale winds ripped great Abaco Island early today sending seas in swells seven to 10 feet high. A ship a short distance northeast of Eleuthera Island, south of Abaco, reported 13-foot seas.

Tides of five to 10 feet were likely when Betsy's whirling eye moves across the island at a point expected to be between Great Abaco and San Salvador near this tourist center.

Operators cancelled tours and yachts and small craft fled the Nassau yacht haven for refuge in "Hurricane Hole" on Paradise Island, an enclosed lake with access to the sea.

More than 4,000 tourists were reported, on the islands, drawn there by lower summer rates.

Betsy began lashing the islands at a distance 115 miles northeast of Hopetown, Great Abaco, and 350 miles east-northeast of Miami, near latitude 27.4 north, longitude 75.4 north.

Its battering gales extended 150 miles south and 300 miles north, covering an area half as wide as Texas.

Ex-Dominican Junta Threatens New Rule

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—Tensions heightened in this revolt-torn city today with the threat by former junta leaders to again take up arms because of alleged increased Communist influence in the regime of provisional President Hector Garcia-Godoy.

A broadcast by the military-controlled San Isidro radio station Sunday night quoted five top-ranking military men as saying the threat of communism had increased since Garcia-Godoy assumed office Friday.

Balloting

Lamar School; and Pct. 13, Court House Annex, Pampa.

A valid poll tax receipt is the only requirement for voting. Absentee balloting in Gray County was almost nil. Only five votes had been cast absentee at the 5 p.m. deadline last Friday.

Proponents of the amendment in the Panhandle area of Texas say unless the Constitutional Amendment is approved tomorrow, the Panhandle, having already lost one member of the House of Representatives, will find itself with almost no voice in the Texas Senate.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

1. Increase the size of the Texas Senate from 31 to 39 members.

2. Retain the present size (150 members) of the Texas House of Representatives (Article III, Section 2 says that the House may vary from 93 to 150 members.)

3. Divide the state into senatorial districts according to population (instead of the present "qualified electors" as stated in Section 2.)

4. Eliminate the constitutional rule that no county is entitled to more than one senator (Section 25)

In the immediate Panhandle the 31st Senatorial District (Sen. Grady Hazlewood incumbent) would be somewhat smaller.

The 30th district (Sen. Andy Rogers, incumbent) would be enlarged by several counties.

The eight new senators would go: one to west El Paso County; one to east Tarrant (Fort Worth) County; two more in Dallas County; one more in Bexar County (with two present incumbents of other counties serving parts of Bexar), and three more to Harris (Houston) County.

The "big cities" would get more representation but not a veto over the remainder of the state.

The Texas Election Bureau has estimated a turnout tomorrow of 150,000 to 200,000 of the 1,970,000 qualified to vote in Texas.

Gray County has an estimated 10,000 voters and local election officials anticipate a local turnout of not more than 1,000 tomorrow.

Cash and Whiskey Taken in Break-in

Some $50 in cash and three bottles of whiskey were reported missing today following a break-in Sunday morning at Service Liquor, 800 W. Foster.

The break-in was discovered at 9:30 a.m. Sunday by the owner, Dick Pugh.

Pugh told police the break-in occurred sometime between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

Entry was gained by breaking through a west window, police said.

NEW YORK — Opposition to merger plans of the Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio railroads, involving five other Eastern carriers, began to build almost as suddenly as the plans became known.

Three dissenting directors of Reading Co. included in the plan, indicated they would fight the proposed consolidation, in the political arena, some apprehension was expressed as to the future of commuter services in areas to be affected.

WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve Board said installment debt rose again in July following a decline the month before.

Outstanding consumer credit rose $666 million (seasonally adjusted) in July, outpacing the $622 million drop in June, but falling well below the record $702 million jump in April of this year.

DETROIT — Auto production will top 470,000 this month, up from August, but about 13 per cent below September 1964.

Part of the projected drop reflects the strike at American Motors' plants that began Aug. 21.

THREE FOLD SERVICE — B&B Pharmacy and B&B Toyland offers a three-fold service to Pampans as B&B Toyland, B&B Pharmacy, and The S&H Green Stamp Redemption Center. All are located on the corner of Ballard and Browning.

Steel Pact Called Inflation Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only time will tell whether the new steel contract agreement is, as President Johnson claims, "designed to prevent the inflation which could damage our prosperity."

One obvious immediate benefit is that there will be no prolonged, nationwide steel strike with its paralyzing repercussions of unemployment and loss of wages, production and sales.

But the crucial question is whether steel manufacturers now feel they must raise prices still more to cover increased wage costs under the tentative settlement reached Friday night after five days of intensive bargaining here. They had made selective price hikes previously.

Inflation Feared
An across-the-board price boost in coming months, combined with higher government outlays for the war in Vietnam, could provide the fuel for a round of inflation.

The administration brought great pressure to bear on the steel industry to keep the final settlement within the government's wage-price "guidelines" for a non-inflationary contract. High government officials said Friday night they had succeeded.

The guidelines say that wages and other benefits should not rise faster than the nation's output per man hour, estimated at 3.2 per cent during the past five years.

The administration believes that if the guidelines were observed, steelmakers would have no cause to raise their prices, which affect the prices of countless other products.

Government sources said steel prices were not discussed during union and management negotiations here, nor did the industry give any commitment against a price hike.

But these sources said they did not expect the settlement to produce price increases.

Vote on Sunday
Details of the contract will not be made public officially until the union's Executive Board and Wage Policy Committee meets Sunday in Pittsburgh to vote on it.

Nevertheless, both union and company sources have reported that the final agreement provides for a package increase of around 46 cents an hour over the 35-month life of the contract starting Sept. 1.

Steelworkers now average $4.40 an hour in wages and assorted benefits. Thus, an additional 46 cents spread over 35 months would average at about 3.5 per cent a year—more than the administration guidelines.

If, however, the union succeeded in demanding increases retroactive to May 1 when the last contract originally expired, the additional four months' credit could lower the increase to within the administration's suggested 3.2 per cent.

Far more important, though, is the question of possible steel price hikes.

President Johnson can be expected to oppose such a development with the same vigor he showed in getting both parties to agree on a contract.

Yellowstone National Park is located in parts of three states: Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.

YOUTH CRIME RATE
DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas County Grand Jury is taking a hard look at crime after it learned that persons 16 years and younger account for 47 per cent of the major crime in the city. The grand jury is investigating the causes and possible cures of the rising crime rate and is expected to make a comprehensive report of the matter in October.

Survey Predicts One Million Space Industry Workers
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's aerospace industry will employ more than 1.1 million persons by the end of the year, a survey revealed Saturday.

Karl G. Harr, Jr., president of the Aerospace Industries Association (AIA), said the total at the end of the year will be about 9,000 higher than last March. He said employment of scientists and engineers in the March-December period would increase by 13,000 to a total of 190,000.

The survey showed that increased employment for the development and manufacture of aircraft is more than offsetting a decline in missile work. The drop in the latter was the first in several years.

Drug Company Stays on Top With Use of Newspaper Ads

Sometime within the next few months, the 100-billion ad for one of America's best-known drug products will appear in one of 1,525 newspapers somewhere in the United States.

This record-setting advertiser is Fasteeth—a denture adhesive.

It is probably the greatest number of ads ever run for any one product in newspapers.

The story of Fasteeth, made in Binghamton, N.Y., by Clark-Cleveland, Inc. is a success story for the consistent use of newspaper advertising. For in the highly competitive denture products field, Fasteeth—with its consistently scheduled newspaper ads—is far and away today's all-time sales leader.

To maintain this leadership, Fasteeth is in constant competition with some of the biggest-spending giants in the drug and food industry. Yet unlike its competitors, Fasteeth relies almost exclusively on print advertising to keep setting new sales records.

Although the current strategy of leading competitors seems to be leading frequency running as high as 5 insertions a week, Fasteeth has discovered the easiest way to maintain its sales leadership is the same way it won it—through printed ads almost exclusively.

The importance Clark-Cleveland company places on newspaper advertising is seen in the fact that the president of the company—John C. Clark, Jr.—serves also as advertising director for all Clark-Cleveland products.

The first of the 100-billion newspaper ads for Fasteeth appeared in 1930 when the company was first organized. The original ads were written by Carleton Cleveland, one of the company's two original founders. His son, Carleton Cleveland, Jr., is today a vice president and partner in the present Clark-Cleveland organization.

Current Fasteeth schedules are carried by 1,525 U. S. newspapers with frequency running as high as 5 insertions a week. Selected magazines and newspaper syndicated supplements on a less frequent basis are used to augment the newspaper schedule. But the great bulk of Fasteeth ads are regularly scheduled for newspapers—some 10-billion newspaper impressions last year alone.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — NBC-TV may be wishing these days that it had never canceled the two-part program about venereal disease that had been planned for its "Mr. Novak" and "Dr. Kildare" series.

First the network was rebuked for its uncalled-for caution by respected publications, individuals and official and unofficial groups.

And now comes Jessica Mitford, who caused strong repercussions in the funeral business with her book "The American Way of Death," and this month has an article about the NBC-TV fiasco in McCall's magazine. I recommend that you buy it to read her in-depth treatment of the subject as a lesson in network nervousness.

Furthermore, in addition to the Mitford article, NBC-TV undoubtedly took embarrassed note last week of the start of an American Medical Association campaign against venereal disease, the increase of which the organization called "alarming."

Although "Mr. Novak"—which dealt with a high school teacher and his students—has been canceled, "Dr. Kildare" is still very much in existence. And if ever a network had an opportunity to reverse its decision, with the groundwork of popular and respectable support prepared by others, NBC-TV has it now.

The main point of supporters of the video program—among them, the surgeon general's office—has been that it is necessary to break through the uncomfortable secrecy that surrounds those who suffer from the disease, many of whom are teenagers.

At any rate, the vocal publicity against the NBC-TV decision will hopefully at least give networks an idea of the barrage of bad notices they may expect in future similar cases of pussyfooting.

Miss Mitford's article is the coup de grace of the adverse publicity. She quotes one person associated with the canceled project as saying: "The ironic part of [the network's] reason is that the very audience that motivated the careful and arduous preparation of the two-part script was the audience chosen by the network to be sheltered—namely, teen-agers."

The Channel Swim: Daytime television "has become the chief source of network profits as night-time costs have spiraled," according to the show business weekly "Variety." The publication says, "This year the three networks will count more than 60 per cent of their total profits in daytime revenue." A new pact with producers, actors will get a greater amount of money than in the past when their movies are sold to television.

ABC-TV is reported thinking of Gene Kelly for a possible series in which he would be a dashing, modern sort of Douglas Fairbanks character. CBS-TV has had some thoughts about doing a dramatic series based on the movie "Lilies of the Field," in which Sidney Poitier won the Academy Award as best actor.

VA Officials Deny Insurance Report

World War II Texas veterans are swamping VA offices—because of a misleading report that many of them did not collect the first dividend on National Service Life Insurance, VA officials said today.

Actually, 99.8 per cent of the 766,000 Texas veterans who had NSLI at the end of WW II received the dividend Jack Coker, manager of the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office said.

The rumor about the "GI Insurance Bonanza" apparently started because several industrial publications printed the old law authorizing the payment under a 1965 date line, Coker said.

The VA manager estimated there may be about 1000 ex-GI's in Texas who never got paid. Most of these dropped their insurance upon leaving the service and didn't give VA a mailing address. They can still collect the VA manager said but be pleased with the vast majority of veterans to jog their memory before they send VA back to one old records to check.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kenneth Ward of Hayden Stone says continued heavy volume on advance days and the contracted volume on decline days continues to be a bullish sign. Bursts of strength in several different groups and heavy speculative buying have pushed some issues to unrealistic highs and Ward says he believes a little profit-taking in these issues would not be harmful to the market.

He says some reaction might follow overextension of many stocks but it is still difficult to predict when such a setback might take place. The analyst says he feels there are no averages which can depict the true picture of the market at the present time.

Thomson & McKinnon says the market is marking time awaiting developments in the steel negotiations and the Viet Nam situation, which still is not out of the picture. The company believes there are enough secondary issues showing improvement to form the base of a potentially strong market.

Steel Pact Called Inflation Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only time will tell whether the new steel contract agreement is, as President Johnson claims, "designed to prevent the inflation which could damage our prosperity."

One obvious, immediate benefit is that there will be no prolonged, nationwide steel strike with its paralyzing repercussions of unemployment and loss of wages, production and sales.

But the crucial question is whether steel manufacturers now feel they must raise prices still more to cover increased wage costs under the tentative settlement reached Friday night after five days of intensive bargaining here. They had made selective price hikes previously.

Inflation Feared
 An across-the-board price boost in coming months, combined with higher government outlays for the war in Viet Nam, could provide the fuel for a round of inflation.

The administration brought great pressure to bear on the steel industry to keep the final settlement within the government's wage-price "guidelines" for a non-inflationary contract. High government officials said Friday night they had succeeded.

The guidelists say that wages and other benefits should not rise faster than the nation's output per man hour, estimated at 3.2 per cent during the past five years.

The administration believes that if the guidelists were observed, steelmakers would have no cause to raise their prices, which affect the prices of countless other products.

Government sources said steel prices were not discussed during union and management negotiations here, nor did the industry give any commitment against a price hike.

But these sources said they did not expect the settlement to produce price increases.

Vote on Sunday
 Details of the contract will be made public officially until the union's Executive Board and Wage Policy Committee meets Sunday in Pittsburgh to vote on it.

Nevertheless, both union and company sources have reported that the final agreement provides for a package increase of around 46 cents an hour over the 35-month life of the contract starting Sept. 1.

Steelworkers now average $4.40 an hour in wages and assorted benefits. Thus, an additional 46 cents spread over 35 months would average at about 3.5 per cent a year—more than the administration guidelists.

If, however, the union succeeded in demanding increases retroactive to May 1 when the last contract originally expired, the additional four months' credit could lower the increase to within the administration's suggested 3.2 per cent.

Far more important, though, is the question of possible steel price hikes.

President Johnson can be expected to oppose such a development with the same vigor he showed in getting both parties to agree on a contract.

Yellowstone National Park is located in parts of three states: Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.

Steel Pact Called Inflation Protection
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only time will tell whether the new steel contract agreement is, as President Johnson claims, "designed to prevent the inflation which could damage our prosperity."

One obvious, immediate benefit is that there will be no prolonged, nationwide steel strike with its paralyzing repercussions of unemployment and loss of wages, production and sales.

But the crucial question is whether steel manufacturers now feel they must raise prices still more to cover increased wage costs under the tentative settlement reached Friday night after five days of intensive bargaining here. They had made selective price hikes previously.

Inflation Feared
 An across-the-board price boost in coming months, combined with higher government outlays for the war in Viet Nam, could provide the fuel for a round of inflation.

The administration brought great pressure to bear on the steel industry to keep the final settlement within the government's wage-price "guidelines" for a non-inflationary contract. High government officials said Friday night they had succeeded.

The guidelists say that wages and other benefits should not

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — NBC-TV may be wishing these days that it had never canceled the two-part program about venereal disease that had been planned for its "Mr. Novak" and "Dr. Kildare" series.

First the network was rebuked for its uncalled-for caution by respected publications, individuals and official and unofficial groups.

And now comes Jessica Mitford, who caused strong repercussions in the funeral business with her book "The American Way of Death," and this month has an article about the NBC-TV fiasco in McCall's magazine. I recommend that you buy it to read her in-depth treatment of the subject as a lesson in network nervousness.

Furthermore, in addition to the Mitford article, NBC-TV undoubtedly took embarrassed note last week of the start of an American Medical Association campaign against venereal disease, the increase of which the organization called "alarming."

Although "Mr. Novak"—which dealt with a high school teacher and his students—has been canceled, "Dr. Kildare" is still very much in existence. And if ever a network had an opportunity to reverse its decision, with the groundwork of popular and respectable support prepared by others, NBC-TV has it now.

The main point of supporters of the video program—among them, the surgeon general's office—has been that it is necessary to break through the uncomfortable secrecy that surrounds those who suffer from the disease, many of whom are teenagers.

At any rate, the vocal publicity against the NBC-TV decision will hopefully at least give networks an idea of the barrage of bad notices they may expect in future similar cases of pussyfooting. Miss Mitford's article is the coup de grace of the adverse publicity.

She quotes one person associated with the canceled project as saying: "The ironic part of [the network] reason is that the very audience that motivated the careful and arduous preparation of the two-part script was the audience chosen by the network to be sheltered—namely, teen-agers."

The Channel Swim: Daytime television "has become the chief source of network profits as night-time costs have spiraled," according to the show business weekly "Variety". . . The publication says, "This year the three networks will count more than 60 per cent of their total profits in daytime revenue". . . Under a new pact with producers, actors will get a greater amount of money than in the past when their movies are sold to television.

ABC-TV is reported thinking of Gene Kelly for a possible series in which he would be a dashing, modern sort of Douglas Fairbanks character. . . CBS-TV has had some thoughts about doing a dramatic series based on the movie "Lilies of the Field," in which Sidney Poitier won the Academy Award as best actor.

VA Officials Deny Insurance Report

World War II Texas veterans are swamping VA offices—because of a misleading report that many of them did not collect the first dividend on National Service Life Insurance, VA officials said today.

Actually, 99.8 per cent of the 766,000 Texas veterans who had NSLI at the end of WW II received the dividend Jack Coker, manager of the Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office said.

The rumor about the "GI Insurance Bonanza" apparently started because several industrial publications printed the old law authorizing the payment under a 1965 date line, Coker said.

The VA manager estimated there may be about 1000 ex-GIs in Texas who never got paid. Most of these dropped their insurance upon leaving the service and didn't give VA a mailing address. They can still collect the eVA manager said but be pleased with the vast majority of veterans to jog their memory before they send VA back to one old records to check.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kenneth Ward of Hayden Stone says continued heavy volume on advance days and the contracted volume on decline days continues to be a bullish sign. Bursts of strength in several different groups and heavy speculative buying have pushed some issues to unrealistic highs and Ward says he believes a little profit-taking in these issues would not be harmful to the market.

He says some reaction might follow overextension of many stocks but it is still difficult to predict when such a setback might take place. The analyst says he feels there are no averages which can depict the true picture of the market at the present time.

Thomson & McKinnon says the market is marking time awaiting developments in the Viet Nam situation, which still is not out of the picture. The company believes there are enough secondary issues showing improvement to form the base of a potentially strong market.

Survey Predicts One Million Space Industry Workers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's aerospace industry will employ more than 1.1 million persons by the end of the year, a survey revealed Saturday.

Karl G. Harr, Jr., president of the Aerospace Industries Association (AIA), said the total at the end of the year will be about 9,000 higher than last March. He said employment of scientists and engineers in the March-December period would increase by 13,000 to a total of 190,000.

The survey showed that increased employment for the development and manufacture of aircraft is more than offsetting a decline in missile work. The drop in the latter was the first in several years.

Governor Connally Is Main Speaker At Lake Waco Dedication Ceremony

WACO (UPI)—Gov. John Connally said Saturday Waco's gleaming new lake is a model of accomplishment when local, regional, state and federal unites all work together in harmony.

The governor was the main speaker at a ceremony dedicating the new 104,100-acre Lake Waco which was filled during last spring's 15-inch series of rains.

Connally said in his prepared speech that "it is obvious that a partnership of local responsible groups, including community and business leaders, the state and federal governments, is essential for successful completion of a major water project."

"The people of the Brazos River Valley are unusually fortunate," he said. "The authority determined the use of this River's water is basin-wide.

"We need only look to the neighboring Colorado to see the problems arising from multiple water districts and authorities bisecting a single river."

The Colorado River has two river authorities and only late last year they were embroiled in a bitter squabble before the Texas Water Commission on whether one authority could build a new dam above the other's chain of lakes already in use.

The new Waco Lake was completed in February and by the end of May it was full to its normal conservation capacity of 104,100 acre-feet. At that level the lake covers 7,260 acres of land and has a 60-mile shoreline.

But the new lake also will be a major unit to join with the Whitney, Belton and Proctor reservoirs in flood control.

Race Riot Queries Get Stock Answer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. embassies abroad are being advised to tell questioners that the recent Los Angeles race riots stemmed in part from the failure of the social and economic advances of Negroes to keep up with civil rights improvements.

The advice is contained in a "talking paper" being sent by the U. S. Information Agency (USIA) to its overseas posts. There is one in each embassy and the papers are furnished by the agency as an aid to explain U. S. positions or events in the United States to critical, or curious, foreigners.

U. S. diplomats were reminded that only about 1 per cent of Los Angeles' Negroes took part in the bloody rioting and that civil rights leaders deplored the events.

Back to school programs in Youth Red Cross in elementary and secondary schools are ready to go. Joe Page, principal of Lamar Elementary School, is chairman of Youth work in Red Cross and will name teacher sponsors in each school soon. Miss Glenna Brown, president of the High School Red Cross, is working on plans for a good year in High School Red Cross.

The Red Cross is a service officer in its own right. It has a field director of the Red Cross at the Veterans Administration office at Waco. Waco will serve the Pampa district now that the Lubbock office has closed. Lubbock still maintains an outpatient clinic at the old address in Lubbock and veterans will be sent there for examinations from this area. The Red Cross is reminded each day of their responsibility for communications with the VA as this is a part of our programs and responsibility. Dear Abby... Problem Boy Friend Has Double Standards

DEAR ABBY: The husband of a friend of mine suddenly started wearing a wedding ring after twelve years of marriage. Naturally I commented on it. My friend seemed very proud of the fact that her husband was wearing it, and asked me why I didn't buy my husband one. I told her that most cultured men did not wear wedding rings. My husband is an executive, hers is not. I pointed out that "J.F.K." never wore one and the Kennedys reeked with culture. I said that once in a while you will see a cultured man wearing a wedding ring, but for the most part, only middle-class laborers wear them. We got into quite a hot discussion over it. Can you settle this?

EXECUTIVE'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I doubt that statistics are available on how many "cultured" men wear wedding rings. But what constitutes "culture"? Social position? Education? Money? Taste? If it's the latter, you don't qualify. Your remarks were unkind and uncalled for.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a very nice buffet supper given in honor of an out-of-town guest. There were 55 to 60 other guests present. It was the kind of party where everyone milled around. The guest of honor always seemed to be tied up talking to someone and, since I am not the pushy type who breaks into conversations, I never got around to meeting him. Whose fault was this?

NAMELESS IN WAYZATA
DEAR NAMELESS: Yours. It is not considered "pushy" for a guest to introduce himself at such a party. It's SOP.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please print a list of homes for unwed mothers? It doesn't have to be a long list. Just a few places I can call. I don't know where to look. Also, do you know if these homes want much money from the girl, and does she have to pay it all at once? I can't give you my name or address, but I pray that you will answer me in your column. Thank you.

NEEDS SOMEONE
DEAR NEEDS: There are hundreds of homes for unwed mothers throughout the country. The Booth Memorial Homes, supported by the Salvation Army, have literally saved the lives of thousands of girls. Also the Florence Crittentden Homes. If there is a Family Service Association near you, call them.

Fit Furniture to Family Needs

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Reports on new home furnishings to grace the scene this autumn will give the homemaker pause for thought. At least, they do this homemaker.

Perhaps you have in mind the addition of a couple of side chairs, as I have, or a more ambitious project of refurbishing the living room. Or maybe —delirious idea — you are starting from scratch.

One piece of advice we are bombarded with on the subject of interior decoration: "Express your personality — your home should reflect your personality."

If I take this advice seriously and see in the living room a reflection of my personality, I can only conclude the men in white coats will be along any minute. Books have been removed from two shelves to make room for little trolls with pink, green, and blue hair, a doll-sized tea service is laid out underneath the lamp table; a red and green sleeping bag rests on the blue carpet, snail shells (garden type) and rocks have appeared among my seashell collection, the back of the lounge chair has been fitted out with a blanket and what appears to be a rope bridle. What this room reflects more accurately are five personalities of widely varying ages and interests.

A persuasive argument could be made for advice suggesting interior decoration that reflects the personality one would like to have. Look at the major revival of early 19th century designs, for example Empire, Regency, Directoire and Biedermeier have inspired many of the new collections. There is a dignity, a formality and classic quality about this period that appeals to the sophisticated. Might it not also have a refining or quieting influence on the casual rowdy personality?

I cannot imagine little things with pink, blue and green hair being placed in bookcases of fine cherry, with classic moldings, antiqued fruitwood finish and a Venetian red interior. A magnificent armchair in a collection designed by Henry and David Warren is black with touches of gold and has a cane back, with a curved pierced border. An upholstered seat and back cushion make this a comfortable seating piece. And it's practically impossible to visualize any little or big ruffian daring to toss a raincoat over the back.

Simulated bamboo legs straight out of French Regency appear on many chairs, tables and an etagere. Tier tables or stands with tripod bases suggest a handsome display of house plants or a prized collection, but not of snail shells.

In keeping with this dignified approach are sofas which have wood-framed cane sides, simulated bamboo frames and comfortable upholstery but do not invite one to throw himself down for a nap.

The urban apartment dweller is a primary target for manufacturers of these formal designs but their classic air of good taste is reassuring to any homemaker.

Although furniture styles come and go, some collections go on over (it seems). One that has been popular for years in traditional mahogany finish, has been expanded to include a new warm brown finish.

OPERATION HAPHAZARD ... GREENBELT, Md. (UPI) — In the midst of complex communications and computer work for the Gemini 5 space flight, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center has admitted its electrical operation are "haphazard."

Goddard's chief electrician is Arthur A. Hazard, who everyone at the center calls "Hap."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER
FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 7
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until sundown there is a tendency to argue and to dispute about most everything which would be most unwise since troubles could ensue that would be very hard to eliminate. However, in the evening a warm and benign influence comes on scene that makes it possible to have a very happy time. Be happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) — Use every ingenious idea instead of relying on comrades and so-called experts, who are apt to be at variance with each other. Be careful during day hours. Evening OK.

TALIES (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Part-time and government officials et al. today do not agree so be sure you remain neutral. A new contact offers radical changes as a good idea, but think before you act. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Be sure to get your work done even though you may want to study into new outlets. Ideas. Do not permit others to involve you in anything hasty. Evening is best for advancement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Be cautious so that you get a great deal accomplished without involving yourself in something that does not concern you laboriously. Big profits can be had by you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) — You can have very worthwhile talks with partners if you do not permit them to interfere. They are not aware of all the facts. Don't force anything. Listen more instead.

VERO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Work at hand can be finished in a very interesting way and then find even better methods for new programs in mind. Co-operate with co-workers. Then all goes smoothly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Forget the material and get into creative labor that you enjoy. Spare moments should be spent in getting yourself more attractive. Evening can be lots of fun.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Relegate the setting of home problems to the evening so that you can go after any important business during the day. Don't bear grudges. All work out fine in P.M.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Stop fretting about what cannot be helped and get busy in the world of activity. First find the information you want. Then use it with wisdom and intellect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Although you want to enjoy social affairs that are far beyond your pocketbook, be sensible and stay within your budget. Steer clear of gossip. Work and advance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) — Keep busy at own interests and stop trying to change ideas of others-up who operates differently from you. Concentrate on clearing up personal affairs. Enjoy hobby in P.M.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) — More study is required if you want to put those new ideas to work successfully. Get obligations handled properly. Don't go off on any tangents that are destructive.

MARS COST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — It will take at least $100 billion to finance a manned U.S. expedition to Mars.

This was the estimate given the Senate Space Committee recently by Dr. Donald F. Hornig, President Johnson's space adviser. He also said it would be at least 10 years before U.S. scientists had enough experience to "begin even to plan intelligently" for such a trip.

"If this estimate ($100 billion) is anywhere in the right ball park," Hornig said, "I can only conclude that at this moment there are a number of national objectives that seem more urgent."

Here's Something New

By United Press International
For hand laundry, there's a device available that forces a jet stream of soap or detergent suds through soiled clothes. Made like a concertina, the vinyl laundering aid expands and contracts when pressed and keeps hands dry.

There's a new product on the market that may provide some encouragement. It's a grater and bowl set made of heat resistant unbreakable plastic. Both pieces are dishwasher-safe.

Manners Make Friends
Husbands not fond of polishing cars might like a new clear plastic polish that protects an automobile finish against dirt, sun fading and rust for a full year. The finish is unaffected by soaps and detergents which means the car can be washed without need for re-application.

Sitting Room 'Turns on' Teens

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The teen-ager is a continuing challenge to home furnishings manufacturers as well as parents.

I was amused to read that one company after intensive in-depth research had concluded that although teens were generally ignorant of home furnishings styles and materials, they were almost unanimous in disapproving of their parents' tastes.

Why, I've known this since Merri hit 14 and things have not changed much in two years.

When I suggested a new bedroom spread - curtain ensemble in a pretty floral, I got the "it doesn't grab me" answer. To those who have not reached teen slang, this phrase registers total disinterest.

Fortunately, teen-age friends of our daughter's don't regard me as quite so "hopelessly" out of it." They discussed with me their upcoming first year at a nearby "commuter" college. Living at home, commuting to college, studies part-time and working part-time, inspire the urge to assert more independence, perhaps, and more individuality.

Instead of pretty, girly bedrooms, something closer to the bed - sitting room is the goal where friends may be entertained in private; a personal telephone may be added. If the room is large enough, provision for simple food service (breakfasts, snacks for guests) might be made with one of the new small refrigerators and an electric appliance or two.

Now is the time to prepare for the change in status and I asked professional friends of mine for ideas. The scene shown in this article prompted one teen-ager to remark: "This really turns me on." Or, approval.

This is a bed - sitting room with space for study, hobbies and entertaining. The color scheme, hold on now, is orange, red and black and white. The fabric used for a tailored bed cover is the same fluffily acrylic as the oval area rug. Creslan acrylic is available by the yard in a full range of the hot shades as well as the soft pastels. It is easy to cut and stitches up on the sewing machine. The synthetic is washable and dries quickly over a line.

I realize these practical considerations are of motherly, not daughterly, interest. The bed cover in hot orange is further glamorized by black and orange covered cushions. More of the same cushions (make these with ready-made foam rubber forms and fabric covers) in black and red are piled on a sweetheart chest. The chest in a walnut finish, mounted on free-wheeling casters, doubles as a windowseat and

TEEN SITTING ROOM — Simple but definitely beamed to the young is this bed-sitting room with bright colors, soft pouf fabrics and rug and plenty of storage in the sweetheart chest (right) and storage base of the bed.

Tape Recorders Help Classwork

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tape recorders are making the school scene in a big way.

They're used to record classroom lectures, glee club meetings, pep talks by coaches, football songs and cheer-leader practice sessions.

Doing homework with a tape recorder at the elbow has become common. The material is taped by the student and then played back. It gives the student a chance to test himself.

Usually, high school students have to ask their teacher's permission to bring the recorders to class. Usually the teacher says yes. More and more teachers are finding that the recorders help stimulate interest in studies.

Thomas W. Lentz, home entertainment specialist for RCA Victor, made these points in an interview. He said also that some of the newest recorders — with the tape in cartridges — are ideal for the classroom.

"No threading is involved," Lentz said, "and the cartridges are convenient self-storage units. Some students have built up neat reference libraries of tape cartridges — one for each subject studied. In fact, the student's enthusiastic use of tape recorders at home and in school has influenced parents as well as teachers.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Song Tip Could Cause Members' Tired Arms

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — I have found that when our club has a fund-raising function and invites guests, few actually know all the words to the Star Spangled Banner when it is sung. I bought a plain white window shade and had the words of our national for storage.

Curtains are a crisp black and white hound's tooth check. A white tile floor is the background for a deep red acrylic rug. Canvas chairs include one with an up-to-the-minute zebra-striped cover.

anthem printed on the shade. It is kept rolled up when not in use. When needed we have two of the ladies unroll the shade and hold it up on the stage. I am sure other organizations might like to do this, too.

—F. M. G.

DEAR POLLY — After losing one of a good pair of gold earrings, I had a jeweler take the back off the remaining earring and make it into a pin. Since the shape of the earring did not lend itself to a pin back, he put on a tie-tack back, which works fine.

I always keep a folded plastic bag in my purse. It takes up no room and comes in handy for many things like carrying a newspaper or holding that extra pair of clean white gloves. When caught in a sudden shower my purse goes into the bag to keep the leather from being spotted.

Few of us have the space to keep necklaces and bracelets in individual boxes. I have found that fastening the catches will help prevent tangles when these items are in the same containers. It saves time in the morning when you are in a hurry to put on that certain bracelet or necklace.

THOUGHTS ON FOOTBALL?

Pro Grid Exhibitions Over 1 Million Mark

By United Press International
In the fall a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of football.

At least, that's one conclusion that can be drawn from the latest National Football League statistics.

The prospering NFL passed the one million mark in pre-season attendance for the fourth straight year during the weekend and should establish a new record this week.

A total of 1,114,724 customers have clicked turnstiles for 29 NFL exhibition dates. With seven more contests scheduled before the regular campaign gets underway, it would take hurricane warnings at seven different sites to prevent the circuit from eclipsing last year's record of 1,191,811.

Bargain seekers jammed Cleveland's Municipal Stadium Saturday on a 2-for-1 special and 83,118 saw the hometown Browns get nailed with their first setback of 1965, 30-14, at the hands of the Green Bay Packers. In the first game of a twinbill, the Detroit Lions edged the New York Giants, 25-21.

St. Louis rocked Chicago, 25-3, and Minnesota clobbered Dallas 57-17 on Friday. Saturday, Baltimore topped Washington 33-23, and San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 23-7.

In Sunday's only encounter Los Angeles shut out Philadelphia 10-0.

In the American Football League, Houston downed San Diego 13-10; Oakland topped Denver 30-20; and Kansas City clubbed Boston 34-7, in Saturday action.

At Los Angeles, Bill Munson hit Marlin McKeever with a four-yard scoring pass and Bruce Gossett booted a 31-yard field goal for the Rams. The Los Angeles defense bottled up Eagle quarterbacks Norm Sneed and Jack Concannon, holding them to 58 yards in the air.

In the big twinbill in Cleveland, Green Bay's Bart Starr fired one touchdown pass and set up two more scores as he connected on 13 passes for 202 yards. Earlier in the evening, Milt Plum, now without question the Lions' number one sig-

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Giant, Dodger Series To Start Today in LA

By United Press International
An unheralded coach and a highly-criticized pitcher made certain that the Giants-Dodgers return bout today would pack even more explosive tension than promised.

Coach-player Jim Gilliam brought the Dodgers from behind in the ninth inning Sunday with a pinch triple for a 4-2 triumph over Houston to keep Los Angeles in first place. And controversial Juan Marichal pitched his 20th victory for San Francisco, 4-2 over Chicago, keeping the Giants within "striking" distance of the Dodgers in their coming two-game showdown.

The much-anticipated series in Los Angeles today and Tuesday will be the first meeting between the bitter rivals since Marichal clubbed Dodgers catcher John Roseboro over the head with a bat on Aug. 22. By winning Sunday, the Giants entered the series with a chance to take over first place with a sweep.

Cincinnati remained only one game back of the Dodgers in second place by outslugging Philadelphia 10-9, Pittsburgh tripped Milwaukee 2-1 and St. Louis beat New York twice, 3-0 and 3-1.

Marichal Wins 20th
In the American League, Chicago shut-out Minnesota 2-0 to move within 5 1/2 games of the first place Twins, Baltimore stopped Cleveland 9-5, Washington edged Detroit 2-1 in the first game and the Tigers grabbed the nightcap 11-2. Boston slipped by New York 4-3 in 12 innings and California topped Kansas City, 4-3, in 12 frames.

Marichal, pitching with only two days rest because National League President Warren Giles ruled he could not participate in the Giants-Dodgers series, scattered eight hits and struck out 10 to become the first pitcher since Warren Spahn to win 20 or more games three consecutive years. Marichal was booed heartily by the 18,878 fans at Wrigley Field.

Willie Mays belted his 43rd home run and 496th of his career with a man on in the fourth to give Marichal a 2-0 lead and rookie Tito Fuentes drove in the decisive tally in the fifth with a single after Hal Lanier tripled. Billy Williams hit his 28th and 29th home runs to account for Chicago's tallies.

At Houston, Gilliam's pinch triple came with two out and two on in the ninth inning and the Dodgers trailing 2-1 against veteran Robin Roberts, who was within an out of his fifth consecutive victory. Sandy Koufax failed for the sixth straight time to win his 22nd game. Howie Reed relieved the Dodger ace in the eighth and was the victor.

Two rookies, Tony Perez and hot-hitting Tommy Helms, combined to break a 9-9 deadlock in the ninth inning, giving Cincinnati's Billy McCool his ninth victory. Perez opened the inning with a triple and Helms singled him home against loser Jack Baldschun. McCool struck out five of the six batters he faced in relief. Dick Stuart drove in six runs for the Phillies with a grand slam homer and a two-run belt.

Donn Clendenen singled across Roberto Clemente with the decisive run for the Pirates. Joel Horlen was never in serious trouble as the slumping Minnesota slugger could get only one man past first base. Two of their three hits were taps in front of the plate. Sandy Valdespino took two bases on Don Buford's first-inning error but was stranded when Horlen fanned Don Mincher.

Jim Perry matched Horlen after permitting an unearned run in the first of a single by Buford, a wild pickoff throw and an infield out, until the eighth inning when John Romano hit his 17th homer. It was the sixth loss in the last nine games for the Twins.

Curt Blefary drove home five runs with a grand slam and a solo homer for the Orioles. His grand slammer broke a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh inning and was his 20th roundtripper of the season. A two-out error by Fred Whitfield preceded Blefary's game-winning drive.

JOHN FARQUHAR

MILESTONE REACHED
ST. LOUIS (UPI)—New York Mets shortstop Roy McMillan played his 2,000 major league game Sunday in the second half of a doubleheader against the St. Louis Cardinals.

By RON CROSS
News Sports Editor

Taking up where he left off Saturday, Amarillo's John Farquhar beat the rain and par for the second straight day Sunday and coasted to a four shot lead in the 20th annual Top O' Texas Golf Tournament.

Farquhar and 24 other top amateurs teed off at noon today for the final 36 holes of play. The weather was clear and bright and according to the weatherman was supposed to stay that way.

Sunday, however, was a different story. What started out to be a good day for golf ended up a better day for ducks. A light shower blanketed the course about 3:15 p.m. and about 5:30 p.m., high winds, dust and a continuing rain halted play for about 15 minutes. Farquhar however, had already reached the clubhouse with a 3-under par 68 on rounds of 34-34 for 10-under 132 for the tournament and a four shot lead over surprising Jim Hardy of Oklahoma State University.

Hardy carded even par 35-36-71 after an opening day 65 and two day total of 136.

Defending champion Bobby Greenwood who was tied with Hardy after Saturday's first round slipped to a one-over par 72 with rounds of 38-34-72 and two day total of 137.

Greenwood found the front nine at Pampa Country club tough Sunday when he carded four bogies for a three-over 38. NCAA champion Marty Fleckman tied Greenwood at 137 with rounds of 35-36-71 and one shot back of these two were Jim Colbert with 35-36-71-138 and hard hitting Bob Astleford who turned in scores of 33-35-68-138.

Astleford tied Farquhar for the low round for the day. Pampa's Buster Carter and Jim Grant were a shot back of this at 139.

Carter carded even par 33-38-71 while Grant shot 35-34-69. The championship flight was cut to the low 25 scores for the 36-hole final.

Farquhar started off badly when he took a bogie six on the first hole, but then pared the next six holes before sinking a 10-footer on the 35-yard eighth hole for a birdie and a six-footer on the ninth for another birdie.

On the back side Farquhar shot par the first six holes, took a birdie, par then birdied the 18th.

Hardy picked up three birdies on the front side but had two bogies and a double bogie on No. 9.

The longest match of the day was a 23-hole affair in the third flight between J. Mayfield and Jim Tripplehorn with Mayfield finally winning.

Flights one through 10 play medal play today.

Thoughts on Labor Day

Today is Labor Day, a day of rest and recreation for most of the people. Theoretically, Labor Day is one set aside to pay tribute to the working man, who toils day in and day out.

The idea once was that laboring men were the producers of the nation, and that one day of the year should be set aside to give recognition to all workers, regardless of their stations in life.

We're afraid we've come a long way since that day. Now, it's just one of several holidays, marked mainly by the fact that it's a opportunity to take the wife and youngsters to the mountains.

Some will insist that Labor Day is a day just for union workers. If that's the case, there's not great cause for celebration. For unions have become organizations for the benefit of union bosses, and not for the benefit of their members. Perhaps that is one reason the list of union members has been declining in proportion to the increasing work force in the nation.

With the union bosses spending increasing amounts of their members' dues for political action, regardless of the members' wishes, there's little for the working man to celebrate, unless he is one of those who has managed to avoid membership in the union.

Today with a great deal of the world engrossed in the false idea of trying to get "something for nothing," it might be well to consider a real labor day—a day in which people did a little thinking about the value and joy of work.

Truly there is no feeling so great as that of an individual who is a producer—one who is giving an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

If we return to the idea of every man producing his wages, there will be cause for celebration, and real meaning to Labor Day.

Censorship Always Runs Wild

President Johnson should think a long time before he orders censorship in the Viet Nam war.

Censorship doesn't always serve the best interests of the United States. The enemy must not get information that would help him win the war. But censorship always gets out of hand.

On Dec. 7, 1941, the Japanese in Tokyo put seven American correspondents in solitary confinement for six months. During their "softening up" attempts they flaunted photographs of the damage they'd done to the United States fleet at Pearl Harbor.

Nine months later, when former prisoners arrived in the United States, they learned that the information the Japanese had shown them about the destruction at Pearl Harbor was still being kept secret from the American people in the name of censorship.

They never learned why. Once censorship is adopted, it balloons. The idea is to keep things from the enemy. Information of political differences helps him. Knowledge of student demonstrations, strikes, economic inflation, steel production, civil rights marches or governmental mistakes in Saigon or Washington "obviously" helps the enemy."

Does it help Hanoi to know that the Buddhists and Catholics are vying against each other in Saigon? Yes! Does it help Hanoi to know about the Los Angeles riots and youth attempts to stop troop trains? Yes!

So where does censorship end? Our mistakes—and "embarrassing incidents"—soon would come under censorship.

Americans then would have little knowledge on which to base decisions on Viet Nam.

Russian UN Vote Illegal

Anyone who still nourishes hope for that fantasy called the United Nations must be doing a considerable amount of soul searching after the loss of the battle to have the Soviet Union pay its dues.

Now, let's shake the cobwebs loose and examine this latest development with reason.

In the first place let us grant that the premise of sitting down to negotiate is superior to war. This little thread of truth is the foundation for the mostrosty in New York.

But when organizations band together, there must be a set of rules by which they agree to conduct business. The rules can be changed, of course, but there is an established procedure for such changes.

This has not been the case in the most recent U. N. decision. Article 19 of the U. N. Charter clearly spells out the rules.

This was agreed to by all who joined the U. N. It reads:

"A member of the United Nations which is in arrears in the payment of its financial contributions to the Organization shall have no vote in the General Assembly if the amount of its arrears equals or exceeds the amount of the contributions due from it for the preceding two full years. The General Assembly may, nevertheless, permit such a member to vote if it is satisfied that the failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the control of the member."

The Soviet Union has not said it can't afford to pay. It has refused to pay because it does not support U. N. actions in certain areas, namely The Congo.

Article 19 does not say that members may vote to deprive a nation in arrears of its vote. It states simply that a nation which does not pay after two years "SHALL HAVE NO VOTE."

The action which permits the Soviet Union to retain its vote is thus illegal. (If, indeed, there is anything morally legal about the U. N.)

In order for the Soviet Union to hold on to its vote legally, the U. N. would have to amend officially its charter eliminating Article 19. This would then permit any and all nations to withhold payments without penalty.

As it stands now, the nations of the U. N. have shown favoritism to the Soviet Union, violating the charter.

U. N. apologists may rationalize this all they please, but it remains a simple fact that the U. N. has shown that contracts with that organization are not worth the paper on which they are written.

Its collapse is only a matter of time.

Life Begins on Labor Day

NEW YORK (NEA) — An old friend of ours called up the other day to bid us a hasty farewell. He was sorry to be so abrupt about it, he said. But he had just learned that he would have to leave in the morning for California to find a new job, a new home — in short, a new life.

Not that he wanted to leave New York, he said. But really he had very little choice in the matter, having discovered that his psychiatrist was moving to California right after Labor Day.

We were, of course, quite surprised at the news. What with the situation in Viet Nam, Gemini-5 aloft, and the moral decline at home, we had not been paying attention to the time and were consequently a bit startled to hear that Labor Day had come around again.

For some reason we do not understand, the year ends in New York on July 4 and stays that way for two months until Labor Day when life begins again in earnest.

Why it works that way is impossible to explain. Nature, we have been told by out-of-towners, begins her operations in March and slows down in September. And even people who cannot resist stealing a march on Nature begin their year in January.

But not New York, as we have found through long experience here.

In this city, Jan. 1 is simply the gray day after New Year's Eve. And as for March, nobody knows when it is here now that the income tax deadline has been moved to April.

But just try having an idea in New York on July 5, say, and you are almost certain to be told: "Sounds good. Let's discuss it again right after Labor Day."

On Labor Day, people who have fled the city to live in a real home somewhere in Nature get pangs of rat-race memory and wonder whether they ought to move back.

At the same time, girls who quit their jobs, their walk-up rooms and their dismay to go home to Grand Rapids and Wichita pack their bags and start out for New York again on Labor Day.

As we said, it is impossible to explain this phenomenon. But the plain fact is, the life force commences in the city on Labor Day.

Summer romances are over on Labor Day and people go back to their husbands and wives.

Most tourists are gone on Labor Day, leaving New Yorkers to ask each other directions to the Statue of Liberty and Museum of Modern Art.

Important men reappear in restaurants and hotels after Labor Day. So do hatchback girls and call girls. Casting offices reopen after Labor Day. So does the divorce court. City landmarks are torn down after Labor Day. So are the candidates for public office.

Young marrieds in New York resolve to start saving money right after Labor Day so they can move into a three-room apartment which rents for $300 per month.

Young unmarrieds (male) buy decorative dish towels after Labor Day, and have them made into curtains. Young unmarrieds (female) buy skis after Labor Day, and a book on how to.

Ambitious New Yorkers who haven't been able to merit a raise for a year go out and get another job and then give their two weeks' notice right after Labor Day — when the boss says: "Now don't be hasty. Exactly how much are they offering?"

Culture reawakens after Labor Day, too. People stand in line for theater tickets they will use late in February. Other people stand in line to see live television shows that are designed to be seen on the home screen. Still other people hurry to nearby colleges and universities to sign up for such courses as Remedial Guitar, Mushroom Identification, and Non-Verbal Communication.

(We once tried to find out what you learned in a course of Non-Verbal Communication, but the teacher only shrugged and wrinkled her brow.)

For some New Yorkers who have thought and thought and thought about it, they leave their apartments, furniture, friends — everything, even a lucrative practice — and

FBI Poised To Act In School Integration Emergencies

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The FBI is prepared to act instantly and forcefully to cope with any emergencies arising from the extensive integration of public schools now in progress.

Comprehensive measures instituted for this purpose by Director J. Edgar Hoover include: —Close check on potential trouble areas, with detailed daily reports to FBI headquarters in Washington.

—These reports carefully analyzed by a select staff of highly trained special agents with wide experience in the civil rights field. Aiding them is a large volume of previously compiled background information covering every part of the country and thousands of individuals.

Intensified scrutiny of hate-type groups and Klan-type organizations. Currently, the FBI has 9 hate-type groups and 14 Klan-type organizations under "active investigation."

They have been deeply penetrated. A special FBI report states, "We have penetrated these organizations with highly qualified sources consisting not only of rank-and-file members but also individuals in a position to have access to plans and policies. These sources furnish valuable information on a continuing basis."

Enactment by Congress of the civil rights laws of 1957, 1960, 1964 and 1965 has tremendously expanded FBI operations in this stormy field. Following is the notable record:

Under the 1957 and 1960 Acts, investigations were conducted in more than 170 counties in six states. On the basis of these probes, federal suits were filed in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. States the FBI report, "As a result of suits filed on the basis of our investigations into discrimination and intimidation in voting, thousands of disenfranchised negro citizens have been enabled to register for voting."

In 1961, the FBI handled 1,398 civil rights cases. In 1963, the number rose to 2,692; in 1964 to 3,340; and so far this year the total is 4,289.

UNBIASED AND UNDAUNTED — In an introduction to the special FBI report, Director Hoover stresses two points: All civil rights investigations are meticulously objective and impartial, and the world-famed organization's work in this field cannot be assessed solely by the number of arrests and convictions.

"The FBI is charged with the responsibility of investigating alleged violations of federal laws protecting civil rights," says Hoover. "Our objective is to promptly determine the true facts in each case and present them impartially to the Department of Justice for review and any prosecutive action to be taken. These investigations are conducted, as are all our operations, in a thorough, straightforward manner, and only where we have jurisdiction."

"The FBI's work in the civil rights field cannot be judged in mere terms of arrests and convictions. Our endeavor is to preserve and strengthen the rights of all citizens. We believe efficient law enforcement, dedicated to the founding principles of America, is the surest protection of human dignity and individual liberties."

In addition to its increasingly extensive investigative activities, the FBI also has done a great deal of police training in civil rights, conducting hundreds of schools for this purpose. Following enactment of the 1964 civil rights law, 228 law enforcement conferences were held in every section of the country for detailed explanations of the new legislation and its relation to law enforcement at all levels. More than 20,000 officials attended, representing 6,406 state and local agencies.

Addressing one conference, Director Hoover stated, "We cannot have full citizenship for some and part citizenship for others. Nor can we apply different standards of justice to our people according to the color of their skin. Concerted effort, understanding, logic and reason must prevail over hate, bigotry and intolerance."

TIED HANDS — The federal government has virtually no authority to crack down on Molotov cocktails — such as used in the recent heavily-destructive Los Angeles riots.

This is what Attorney General Katzenbach told the House Ways and Means Committee at a hearing on the controversial federal gun control bill. He pointed out the measure does not cover Molotov cocktails. "I don't believe we have ever prosecuted anyone for the use of Molotov cocktails in big city riots," said Katzenbach. "I doubt we have authority to do that. If such home-made fire-bombs are transported across state lines or used against federal property or officials, we could prosecute. But not otherwise."

"Haven't you investigated this?" asked Representative James Burke, D. Mass. "We have investigated some of the riots," replied Katzenbach. "But we don't investigate where we don't have jurisdiction; where there is no violation of federal law. We don't investigate just for the fun of it."

"Surely an incendiary device as destructive as the Molotov cocktail warrants investigation by the Justice Department," persisted Burke. "Only if used against federal property, officials or a church," asserted Katzenbach. "There are federal laws against that, and we would have the authority to investigate and would. But our hands are tied otherwise."

Neither the Ways and Means Committee nor any other has done anything yet.

Coast Riots Are Likened To Viet Nam

BY RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent Newspaper Enterprise Assn. WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The recent Los Angeles riots should make the difficulties of U.S. and Saigon government troops in Viet Nam a little more understandable to Americans.

Only a very small part of the population took part in the Los Angeles shooting, knifing and assaulting.

The Communist and other extreme left-wing movements were caught unprepared and were unable to step in quickly and deftly enough to take over leadership.

The riots, so far as is yet known, were under no co-ordinated direction. Their members were inexperienced in street fighting against organized forces. The major damage occurred in less than an eighth of the county.

Nevertheless, a considerable body of national guardsmen and police were required to restore peace and order.

Multiply the number of hard core terrorist-hoodlum rioters by 80. Make half of the central core terrorists actually guerrilla and main-line soldiers trained outside the region by experts. Multiply the riot area by more than 1,000.

Add a plentiful source of arms. Pour in skillful outside direction.

Give the rioters long courses of political indoctrination. Train them in the latest assassination techniques. Give them instruction in organizing small secret cells.

Teach the rioters to promise their neighbors to "right all their wrongs," to make them "equals" and to swear that "Come the day" they'll see that their neighbors get all the material things they've always wanted. Set the rioters, too, to threatening these same neighbors with death if they don't cooperate.

Add local unstable government. "Congress should do something about this without delay," declared Burke.

Neither the Ways and Means Committee nor any other has done anything yet.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Liberty Is a Job for Little People; Only They Can Do It

By SAM CAMPBELL, Business Editor

To help meet a deadline, Evangelist Billy Graham once consented to an advance interview. In view of the fact that he was recovering from a 3-day bout of food poisoning, this was a gracious thing for him to do. And I was happy when assigned to do the story.

After a busy day, Mr. Graham had just finished preparing his speech when my wife and I met him in his hotel. As a photographer commenced snapping natural-light pictures, the evangelist briefed me on what he was to say at the banquet.

Trend Noted

With several allusions to the collectivist trend, he stated "the cry of the world is 'What shall I do to be saved?'" That's the same question that the Philippian jailer asked Paul. I shall give the answer that Paul gave, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

A certain perplexity caused me to ask a question.

"If that is true," I said, "why do Bible-believing evangelists ministers preach collectivism?" And then I gave an example of a really fine, gospel-preaching pastor who supported the federal civil wrongs bill that takes private property.

Bit Surprised

Dr. Graham seemed a bit surprised. "As a matter of fact, I supported the civil rights bill myself," he said. And he explained that some Southern businessmen wanted the act in order to have a reason to break down prejudice against Negroes.

"How do you reconcile the taking of property with the Ten Commandments?" I asked. "The Bible doesn't say you can take another man's property if you do it legally. It says 'Thou shalt not steal,' period."

"That's a very interesting point of view," the Evangelist said, "I would like to talk to you over with you further."

Other points remained to be covered in the interview. He already had been more than generous with his time. So this was not the occasion.

At first blush, those who understand liberty might suppose it would be a wonderful thing if a person of Dr. Graham's eminence should discover that self defense is the only justifiable use of force and that social ments and a national government whose control is here today and gone tomorrow with the coming and going of its troops. Add, also, strong religious groupings suspicious of each other.

Then you have some of the elements of a South Viet Nam.

The stark truth is that it does not take many men with Molotov cocktails, guns and knives to create a terrorism that can be handled only with difficulty by a very large force.

In Los Angeles, it took about 15,000 well-trained national guardsmen and an unannounced number of police (Los Angeles reportedly has about 5,000 police in all) to adequately handle far less than 2,000 unorganized amateur terrorists and hard core hoods (plus upwards of 2,000 lesser rowdies and looters).

The guardsmen-and-police versus hard-core-hoods and terrorists figured out at roughly the 10-to-1 ratio that some people think necessary to win a guerrilla war.

Once you can imagine a situation like that, you can begin to get a small picture of what South Viet Nam is like. . . . woes arise when force (legal, illegal or military) is employed for ostensibly good, but non-defensive objectives.

Indeed, I shall mail him a copy of Frederic Bastiat's "The Law," the purest treatise I know of what the proper use of force is and is NOT.

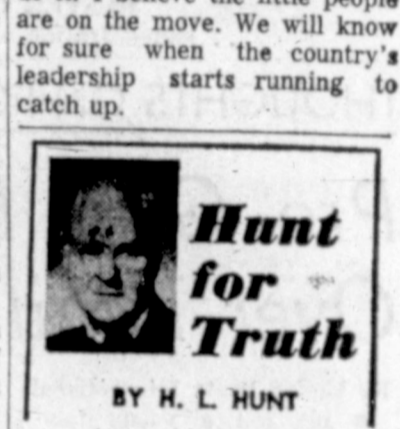

Yet, the fact is, if Mr. Graham were to perceive the righteousness and the Christ-origin of Libertarian doctrine and if he were to voice it, he would be destroyed. In other words, he would be regarded as having jumped the trolley, as "some kind of a nut or something."

For the instructions that Christ gave for living in the world although wonderfully practical, are alien to prevailing thought at the present time.

No Criticism

This is not to criticize Billy Graham. It is simply to say his mission is different. He is interested primarily in the salvation of men's souls to the life that shall come after. He must maintain his effectiveness for that mission, above all other considerations.

The lesson is this, that the free way of life must be built by the little people, they who have no reputation, they who have nothing to lose by being regarded as out of step. Liberty is their job because only they can do it. I believe the little people are on the move. We will know for sure when the country's leadership starts running to catch up.

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. HUNT

CHRONIC CRIMINALS

The rate of serious crimes in the United States is increasing six times as fast as the population growth, according to the FBI. On the average, a murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, serious larceny, or automobile theft occurs every 15 minutes in the United States. The annual increase in these serious crimes is 11 per cent.

No wonder the president of the American Bar Association has warned, "The rising crime rate in the United States is the nation's number one domestic problem."

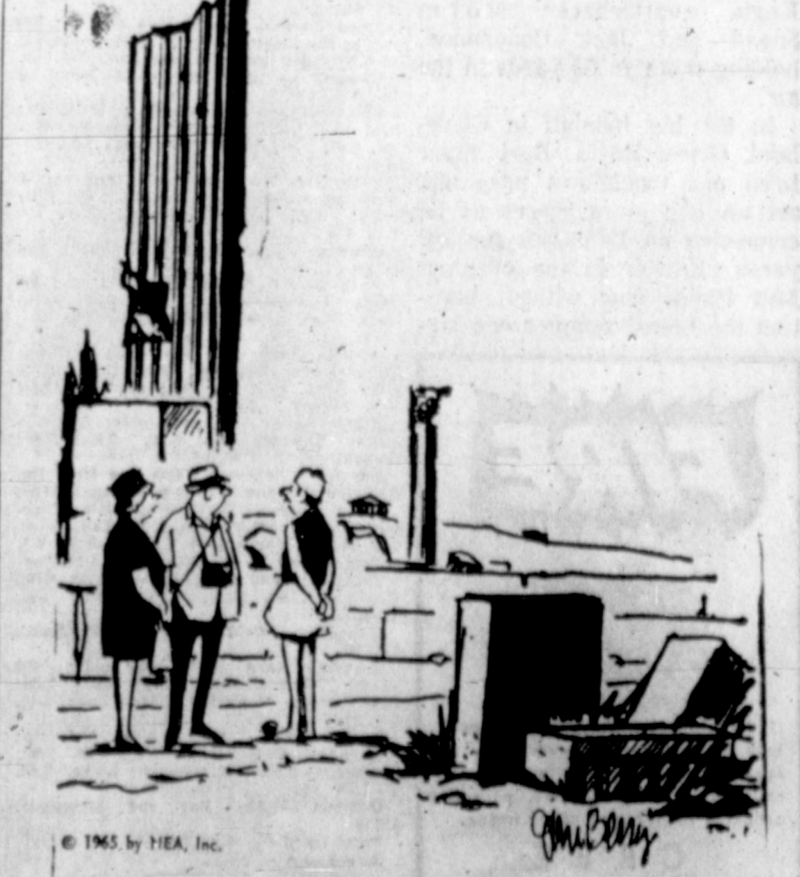

But an important added point is that more than 95 per cent of our young people do not become involved in crime. Less than five per cent of the youngsters are represented in 43 per cent of the arrests for serious crime!

Of all persons arrested last year, 78 per cent were repeat offenders. The result is a steady production of chronic criminals.

Our courts have much to answer for in this connection. Too many judges seem to have forgotten that the purpose of a trial is to find out the truth as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. Many ignore the fact that our criminal laws are enacted primarily for the protection of society rather than for the protection of criminals.

The FBI statistics show that young people are responsible for a greatly disproportionate share of serious crime. Young people were involved in 48 per cent of the arrests for serious crime last year. If the young become interested in good and evil to the extent they would vocally debate the solutions most desired, crime would lose its luster.

New Books on Shelves At Public Library

New books on the shelves of Lovett Memorial Library August 29, 1965.

"The Thirty-eighth Floor" — Clifford Erving; an international crisis is precipitated by a sudden radical shift in the balance of nuclear power, and is played out to a terrifying conclusion against the authentic, highly detailed background of power politics in the United States.

"The Stroke of Seven" — Robert Wade; Colonel Lew Crosson, though and imaginative veteran, is given command of a team of specialists whose mission is to test the impregnability of headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command.

"Cedarhaven" — Patricia Campbell; the lives and loves of the Starkweather daughters, Belle, Genia and Darrell, who arrive with their widowed father in Fort Townsend, Washington, in 1859 when Washington was still a Territory.

"Let Me Count The Ways" — Peter DeVries; Stan Waltz and his Slow Rapids family — Waltz is an atheistic furniture mover who wages religious warfare love with the wife of his best crater.

her religious tracts, and is in with the wife of his best crater.

"An Ancient Enemy" — Pierre Moinot; although Jerome Valdes was a sensitive man, for 20 years he had been driven by a single ambition: to find a particular man and kill him. After his long search he found him while vacationing in Corsica and suddenly the holiday became a manhunt.

"An End To Patience" — Mary Durant; Karl Getsinger consents to direct the Village Players in a production of "Patience" and finds himself involved in the problems of the local inhabitants of the elegant Connecticut village.

"Rebeld The Fire" — Michael Blankfort; a handful of Jewish pioneers intrigue with the British against their Turkish rulers in Palestine during World War I in this novel by the author of "A Time to Live."

"Knights and Dragons" — Elizabeth Spencer; the author sets her new work in Italy and tells the story of Americans living there. More particularly, it is the story of a disturbed woman whose marriage to a famous philosopher and intellectual has failed.

"High Wind In Jamaica" — Richard Hughes; one of the most startling tales in English literature, the plot begins by being mildly fanciful and ends by being almost too terrible to believe.

"Best Detective Stories of the Year" — Anthony Boucher, ed.; Anthony Boucher, New York Times expert on matters criminal, has once again prepared a treasury of fiction, from mystery to suspense tales, from the satiric to the macabre, from short-short to novel.

"The Third Side Of The Coin" — Francis Clifford; a novel of suspense about a respectable bank clerk who takes an impulsive gamble.

"Portrait of a Dead Heiress" — Thomas B. Dewey; somewhere in Chicago stands the unfinished portrait of a beautiful woman. In a North Shore apartment the woman herself lies dead in the bathtub. Lorrre King has committed suicide on the eve of her marriage. Mac, the Chicago private eye, undertakes to solve the mystery.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the advantages the airlines have over the railroads is the fact that the average stewardess is prettier than the average pullman conductor.

Let us keep this in mind as we examine the testimony of Mrs. Colleen Boland before a House labor subcommittee.

Mrs. Boland, representing the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, appeared at a hearing to protest the policy of some airlines of imposing age limits on hostesses.

In some cases, she lamented, stewardesses are arbitrarily grounded at age 32. In others, the ceiling is 35.

Mrs. Boland said this had nothing to do with the ability of the stewardess to balance a tray of food, pour a dry martini, or aid and comfort a passenger who is getting green around the gills.

"Simple Sex" — She said it was "pure and simple sex." She quoted one airline executive as saying, "If we put a dog on the plane, 20 businessmen are sore for a month."

Mrs. Boland, who at 37 retains a girlish figure and has no hint of grey in her reddish-brown hair, resented that remark. I don't blame her.

No lady likes to be told that she is over the hill at 32, or for that matter at 62.

Members of the subcommittee were sympathetic. I don't blame them either. There are a vast number of women voters who will never see 32 again.

It seems to me, however, that some consideration should be given to the part that sex appeal has played in the upward and upward march of commercial aviation.

Would the airlines be where they are today if the pioneers had hired little old ladies in tennis shoes to walk down the aisle chanting "coffee, tea or milk?" I doubt it.

It may be unfair, as well as unchivalrous, to turn a stewardess out to pasture simply because she is teetering on the brink of middle age. But caution must be exercised to avoid impeding further progress.

Rep. William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, called for measures to "eradicate from the minds of the public" any notion that airline should be operated like "flying bunny clubs." Which is easier said than done.

Noted Skyscraper Builder Is Dead

LONDON (UPI)— Lord Bossom, a noted architect who had a hand in designing a number of the early skyscrapers in the United States, died Saturday at the age of 83.

Lord Bossom, whose full name was Alfred Charles Bossom, also designed the 600-foot Magnolia building in Dallas. He was a former member of Parliament. He retired in 1959.

Critical Goldwater Says; Bomb Hanoi Area

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Barry M. Goldwater believes President Johnson is making a "mistake" that is unnecessarily prolonging the war in Viet Nam by not ordering American bombing raids in the Hanoi area.

The unsuccessful Republican challenger in the 1964 presidential election gave his views on attacks around the North Vietnamese capital Sunday in reply to a question on how he would have handled the war had he been elected.

Goldwater said he and Johnson "would have done pretty much the same, although I would never have made the mistake—in my opinion a mistake—of creating a sanctuary out of Hanoi." He spoke in a televised interview (ABC — Issues and Answers).

"I think as long as we treat that as a sacred place and not bomb it — not bomb the city, but I should say bomb the industrial complexes around it, I think we are just stretching out the war," said Goldwater.

The former Arizona senator indicated he planned to keep in close touch with events in Viet Nam. He said he would accept Johnson's offer, in a recent telephone conversation, to be informed of Central Intelligence Agency briefings on the guerrilla war and other matters.
