

THE DRAFT — ITS HISTORY

Men Had to Fight In Time of Moses

By MYORN FEINSILBER
United Press International
Compulsion has been used since the days of Moses to put men into war. Some men have gone gladly but millions more had to be drafted.

One of the most shameful moments in America's history occurred because men would not gladly follow the colors.

For four days in July, 1863, mobs raged across Manhattan Island, battling police with stones and firearms, lynching Negro men and raping their wives, setting the mansions of the rich afire, pillaging and plundering. In contrast with the August rioting in Los Angeles, which killed 37, this riot killed 1,200.

Its cause was the draft. Unwilling to participate in what they called "a rich man's war but a poor man's fight," the immigrant poor of New York's tenements rose to insurrection to oppose Mr. Lincoln's reluctant decree that the North would conscript an Army.

From the draft riots of 1863 to the summer of 1965, when the Congress found it prudent to make it a federal offense to destroy draft cards conscription has never been popular in America.

Its history precedes America's. Indeed, some find in the Bible evidence of an early

EDITOR'S NOTE: Since Biblical times men have been compelled to serve in armies. Some do, gladly. Millions more have to be drafted. With increased military commitment in Viet Nam, the United States has stepped up draft quotas. Thousands of young men will be inducted in the long days ahead; many against their will. UPI's Myron Feinsilber has prepared a three-part series on the draft — its history, the current callups, deferment possibilities and the always controversial question: should the draft be abolished. This timely series begins today in the News.

draft. The 46th Verse of the First Chapter of Numbers tells how Moses and Aaron registered men "from twenty years old and upward, every man able to go forth to war in Israel—their whole number was six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty."

Napoleon conquered Europe with conscripts. Between 1800 and 1813, he drafted 2.6 million men. In colonial America, every man, even the weak-bodied, had a duty to keep himself armed to protect the community.

More than 650 colonial laws dealt with conscription. The Virginia General Assembly during its 1623-24 session gave commanders authority to "levy part of men of the inhabitants... soe many as well be spared without too much weakening of the plantations and to employ these men against the Indians, when they shall assault us neere unto our inhabitations."

George Washington — as a desperate general and later a prudent President — asked Congress several times for a draft law. Wary of a too powerful central government, Congress each time refused.

But the Civil War, the world's first mechanical war in which millions were combatants, made a draft necessary — North and South. Northern volunteers, enlisting for durations of from three to nine months, laid down their arms, sometimes in the midst of major battle, and went home when their enlistments ended. Conscription became necessary.

"The story of the draft during the war between the states," says the Selective Service System, "is a story of bungling, mismanagement, graft and bloodshed, characterized by almost every conceivable kind of mistake."

In the South, blanket exemptions were granted men who owned 20 or more slaves and (See DRAFT, Page 3)

Miami Family Shot; Husband is Jailed

Wounded Trio Rushed To Pampa for Surgery

By RAY RODGERS E.

A 35-year-old former Hemphill County rancher was accused of breaking into the home of his mother and father-in-law early this morning and emptied a .22 caliber revolver at them and his 26-year-old wife.

The three were rushed to Worley Hospital by ambulance and were described by hospital authorities late this forenoon as "not too serious."

Shot were Rayburn Hines, about 52, his wife, Ruby, about 50, and Mrs. Dixie Hilton, 26.

Being held in connection with the shooting is Monroe Hilton, former farmer and rancher in Hemphill and Roberts County. Hilton had not been charged with the crime shortly before noon today, but authorities said they expected to file formal charges this afternoon.

The shooting was the apparent culmination of several months of marital trouble between Hilton and his wife according to Sheriff Si Carr. Last month Mrs. Hilton filed for a divorce and moved into the home of her mother and father, along with the couple's three small children, the sheriff said.

This morning, about 5 a. m., Carr said Hilton broke into the home and shot his wife while she was sleeping. Mr. and Mrs. Hines awoke at the sound of the gunfire and started into the kitchen. Carr said Hilton then shot Hines in the back and arm and turned the gun on Mrs. Hines. She was shot once in the left chest.

Carr stated Hilton then fled out the door and was captured about 30 minutes later in Canadian.

A neighbor, Mrs. Arlie Sober, said she awoke hearing screams coming from the house. She said Mrs. Hines ran to her house saying, "My God, to God, he's killed them." Mrs. Sober said she then noticed blood flowing from Mrs. Hines chest and telephoned a doctor.

Mrs. Hilton and Hines were found in a pool of blood in the kitchen. The three were brought to Worley Hospital by Carmichael-Whately Ambulance Service. The three children were not harmed, Carr said.

Another neighbor said Hines, even though shot in the arm and back, managed to run to his house and request him to telephone the sheriff and a doctor.

He said Hines left a trail of blood between the two houses. Carr said that Hilton, after shooting the trio, cut the telephone wire and also flattened the tires on the couple's automobile parked in front of the house.

Carr said apparently no one saw Hilton leave the house. He was arrested after Carr telephoned authorities in Canadian and asked that they be on the lookout for the accused.

Mrs. Sober said she then called a doctor to treat Mrs. Hines. "My son ran over to the Hines home and brought the little girl over here," Mrs. Sober said.

Mr. Sober said he had gone to downtown Miami to find the night watchman.

"I tried to find him and a couple of the townspeople jumped in my car so we went back to the house," Sober said.

Sober said when he entered the house Mr. Hines and Mrs. Dixie Hilton, mother of the children, were lying in the kitchen in a pool of blood.

Monroe Hilton, who has been accused of the shooting had already left the house.

"The telephone cord had been cut and there was blood all over the house," Sober said.

The neighbor said Hines told him he had taken a gun away from Hilton and had knocked him down "four or five times."

"There have been several people over here to see if they can take care of the children but Mrs. Hines asked me to take care of them and I'll keep them as long as it's necessary," Mrs. Sober said.

LBJ Gets Pakistani Help Plea

By United Press International

President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan appealed today to President Johnson to help achieve a cease-fire in Pakistan's war with India. He indicated he was ready for a compromise solution to the conflict.

United Nations Secretary General Thant left New Delhi today with an admission an end to the fighting has not been achieved but he said that is no reason why peace efforts should not continue.

It appeared that Ayub Khan's apparent backdown on some of his demands might open the way to a negotiated settlement. Indian spokesmen appeared ready Tuesday for a cease-fire but on Indian terms.

The heavy ground fighting appeared to have tapered off but both sides reported widespread aerial bombing attacks by the other and a heavy toll of civilian life and property.

Evacuate Americans

The United States evacuated 582 Americans today from Lahore, Pakistan's second city and the target of a major Indian armor attack.

Ayub Khan's statements to a crowded news conference in the Pakistani capital of Rawalpindi appeared to be the first major break in the world's search for a solution to the conflict.

Ayub Khan, red-eyed from lack of sleep, said he wanted to reach a "purposeful and honorable settlement" with India and invited President Johnson to take a direct hand.

He said Johnson should tell both India and Pakistan—which depend on large U.S. aid programs—that the United States "will not stand for this conflict" and should arrange a purposeful and permanent cease-fire.

Storm Damage Cleanup Begins In Peoria, Ill.

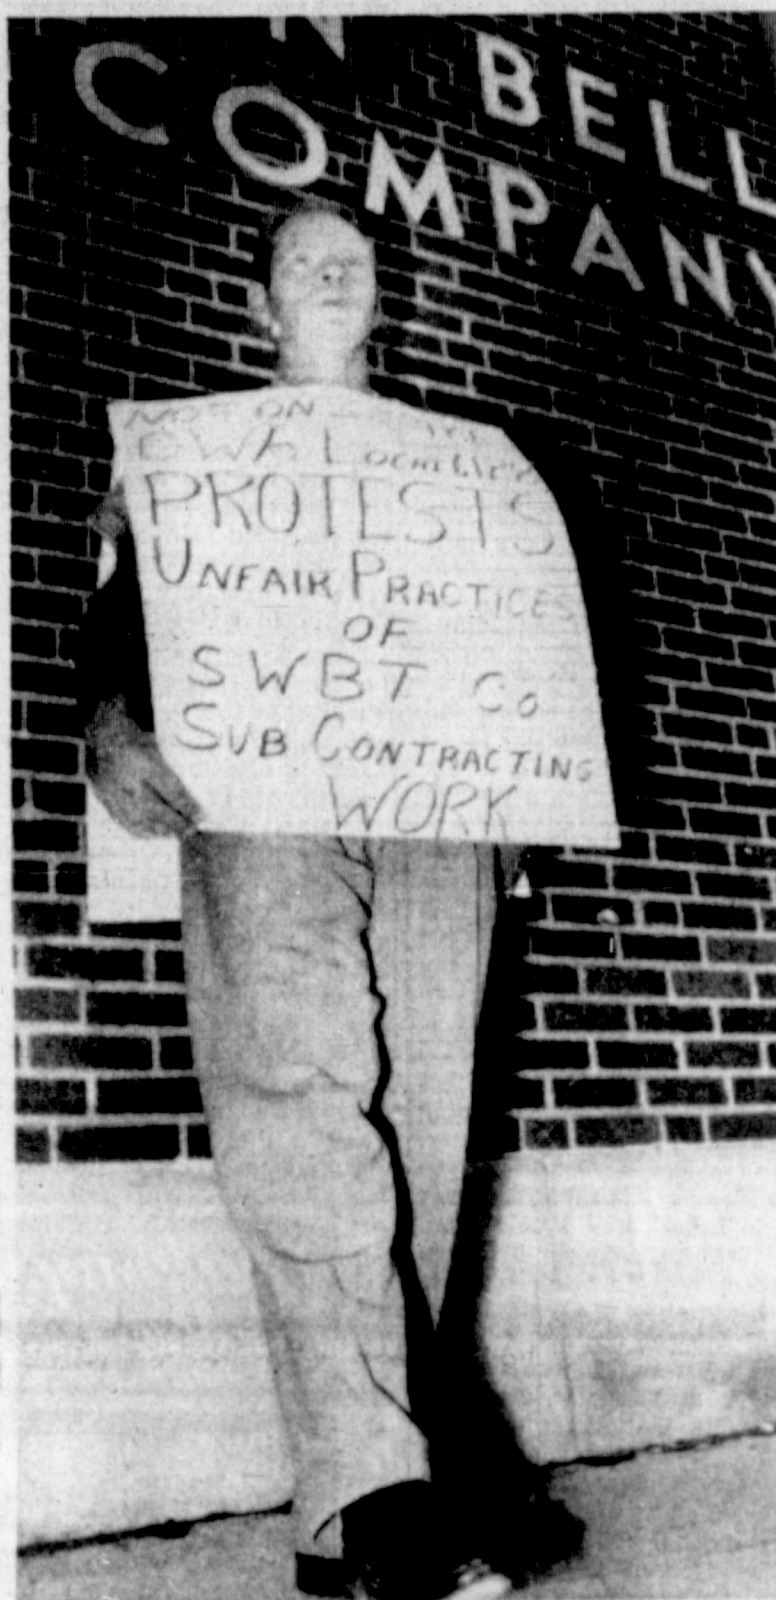

PEORIA, ILL. (UPI)—Workers labored to mop up a million dollars worth of tornado damage in Peoria today following an attack of late summer storms which slashed the Midwest.

Two storm-related deaths were reported in central Illinois and at least 30 persons were injured in Peoria when a twister carved a mile-long path into the city's industrialized south side near the Illinois River.

The storms swept eastward today causing extensive damage at Erie, Pa. Wind gusts up to 84 miles an hour downed power lines, uprooted trees and smashed windows. No injuries were reported.

The storms, which started in Iowa, did heavy crop damage with pounding hail across Illinois and into Indiana. A man in Danforth, Ill., died of a heart attack while running to a barn from the storm, and a Springfield, Ill., man was swept by his death from a second story porch in the state capital.

The Peoria Union Stockyards, seventh largest hog market in the nation, was reduced to what one reporter called "match sticks." A huge cooerage plant of Hiram Walker distillery was shattered, with pieces of broken whiskey barrels scattered for blocks. A soft drink bottling works was also destroyed.

PROTEST — Kenneth Mumford, 700 N. Sumner, wears a protest sign in front of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Pampa today. Mumford, Pampa steward of the Communications Workers of America, is one of several protesters on picket lines across Texas. The CWA is objecting to what they call unfair sub-contracting by Southwestern Bell.

Picket Files Protest On Contract Letting

A lone picket walked in front of the Pampa offices of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. today protesting what the Communications Workers of America call "unfair letting of contracts" to outside labor for company work.

The Pampa picket, Kenneth E. Mumford, a member of CWA and an employee of the local telephone company's plant department, is one of a number of single pickets posted in front of Southwestern Bell offices throughout Texas and elsewhere in the Southwest.

The communications workers are not on strike. The picket lines have been established, it was stated, to inform the public of what the union describes as "unfair practices" by the utility.

The pickets were walking in a number of cities including Dallas and Fort Worth.

There is no interruption of company service due to the picketing.

Southwestern Bell officials deny that any outside workers had been hired except for manual labor.

A meeting of the CWA president's conference at Fort Worth this weekend will discuss effects of the picketing. CWA officials say the current grievance cannot be negotiated under the present contract which does not expire until February, 1967.

Quanah Parker's Sister Reburied

TYLER, TEX. (UPI)—More than 100 years after her death, the remains of the sister of famed Comanche Indian Chief Quanah Parker will be buried beside the graves of her mother and the chief at Ft. Sill, Okla., Oct. 1.

The remains of Prairie Flower will be transported by an honor guard of Texas Rangers to the military post's cemetery.

She died at the age of 5, the daughter of Comanche Chief Noconne and Cynthia Ann Parker. Cynthia Ann was kidnapped by the tribe in a massacre May 19, 1836. The chief and Cynthia Ann Parker had two sons, Quanah and Pecos, and a daughter Totsein (Prairie Flower).

The planned removal was told Tuesday by Eugene O'Quinn of Tyler, a great-grandnephew of the Indian child's mother.

Mrs. Forrest N. Hills, publicity chairman, said today the training sessions, both morning and afternoon, are designed to better equip Pampans and Pampa organizations to face any emergency disaster that might arise.

The all-day conference will be held in St. Vincent's Catholic Church auditorium. Dr. J. Johnson of Amarillo will speak at the morning session which will open at 9 a. m. and run through 12 noon. He will be assisted in the training conference by Wesley Williams, Amarillo Civil Defense director.

A panel made up of representatives from all facilities that would be needed during a disaster will present the afternoon program, beginning at 1 p. m.

The panel members will come from various Pampa organizations including doctors, nurses, fire department, schools, police and sheriff departments, city manager's staff, water and sanitation departments, hospitals, disaster nurses, Civil Defense and National Guard.

Richard Strayer of Amarillo, Area Red Cross representative, will tell of his work in areas recently stricken by flood waters.

Pampa and Gray County are located in Red Cross Midwest Area. In the ten disaster operations during the quarter that ended July 1 in the Midwest Area, 1,233 volunteer registered nurses served 1,433 days on disaster duty.

The ten disaster operations left in their wake 135 dead, 652 hospitalized, and 3,733 ill and injured.

Tax Bills

To Be Sent By Sept. 30

City Tax Assessor-Collector Aubrey Jones said today statements for 1965 tax bills will be in the mail not later than Sept. 30.

Taxes will be payable starting Oct. 1 and running through January 30, 1966. Taxes will be delinquent on and after Feb. 1, 1966.

The law provides a penalty of 8 per cent of the tax bill plus 6 per cent per annum interest on delinquent taxes.

Jones explained there is no discount and no split payment on tax bills.

The tax collector was given the go-ahead on tax statements yesterday when the city commission adopted the 1965-66 city budget and set the tax rate.

The tax rate remains the same at $1.47 per $100 of property valuation.

Pampa's total 1965 assessed valuation on personal and real property is $46,694,020 with a total tax levy of $686,402.09. Last year's tax levy was $664,905.50.

The 1965 property valuation is a 3.2 per cent increase over the $45,231,400 valuation figure for 1964.

Big Reception For Teachers Called Success

Members of the Top O' Texas Club of the Chamber of Commerce added aprons to their traditional garb of blazers and straw "kats" to serve iced watermelon to some 300 persons in Central Park last night.

It was an informal reception for new teachers in Pampa schools and the Texans were joined in sponsorship by the City P-TA Council and the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association.

The program included a watermelon-eating contest with the Pampa High School Band playing background music.

Prizes, supplied by local merchants for the occasion, went to long-time teachers and newcomers alike.

Fresh watermelons for the feast were trucked in from the McLean area and served iced-cold to the teachers and other guests present for the annual affair.

Walter Rogers Reports:

New Bill to Solve Farm Labor Problems

To help our Panhandle-Plains area farmers and farmers in other labor-short sectors of the United States, I have introduced a bill to give some relief. My bill would take away from the Labor Department the right to determine whether or not farmers are sufficiently hard-pressed to be eligible for the assistance of alien workers. Under my bill, eligibility would be determined by the State officer responsible for agriculture in the State where the alien is to be employed.

In Texas this officer is the State Commissioner of Agriculture. These state officials would support farmers' applications by certifying to the Attorney General (who administers the Immigration Act) that sufficient domestic workers "able, willing, and qualified are not available at the time and place needed to perform the work for which such aliens are to be employed." They would certify that the farmers had made a reasonable attempt to recruit domestic workers.

Other legislation posing complete programs has been introduced in the Congress. I now propose because it is a brief but effective amendment to the Immigration Act setting forth the conditions under which alien farm workers may be admitted for periods of up to six months, with six-month extensions permitted upon a showing of need.

I am convinced this approach will work. Further, it has the great strength of placing with the Governments of the States the ability to determine the problems and requirements of their farmers. The shortage of farm labor has plagued U.S. agriculture in many areas so far this year. The problem is going to become more acute this fall. The crisis could have been avoided had the bracero program been extended. For the fourteen years it was in effect it permitted the legal entry of up to half a million Mexican nationals each year to assist our farmers. Despite the efforts of many of us from farming areas, the bracero program was killed—killed because majorities in this city-dominated Congress had fallen prey to the fiction that imported braceros were costing the jobs of U.S. farm labor.

Cost Cutting WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, in a renewed effort to hold down government costs, has told his cabinet members "we can all make do with a little bit less if we try."

Johnson told the agency heads in a statement that he wanted them to concentrate their attention on a "relentless" campaign to weed out marginal programs, to hold down federal employment, and to reduce travel costs of government employees.

Florida Made Disaster Area

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson Tuesday declared Florida a major disaster area as the result of severe damage suffered in Hurricane Betsy. Louisiana already had been declared a major disaster area and has been allocated an initial $2 million in federal aid funds. The amount of funds to be approved for Florida will be determined later. The White House said Monday that more also would be provided for Louisiana. The White House also announced that the Federal Home Loan Bank Board had notified its Little Rock, Ark., branch—which covers the stricken Louisiana areas—to authorize members in that area to be lenient in providing credit for disaster victims.

Draft

 teachers, druggists and newspapermen. As a result, men who chose not to serve founded schools without pupils, drug stores without customers and newspapers without readers. Because men of wealth could send substitute soldiers by paying their wages, southern volunteers were paid less than the substitutes and resented them. In the North, a man of wealth could either buy exemption from the draft for $300 (half a year's pay for an immigrant with steady 12-hour-a-day work) or hire a substitute at whatever bargain the two reached.

Men became rich as professional substitutes, collecting their bounties only to desert and sell their services again. Rich districts sent substitute; poor districts sent conscripts. It was a poor man's draft and, the poor said, an army raised by "the rich man's money and the poor man's blood."

To New York's Irish immigrants the war was a far-off affair; to them, the Negro was an economic threat who, once freed, was likely to take their jobs for lower wages.

A crowd gathered for the first drawing on July 11, 1863 of 1,200 names from a barrel at district draft headquarters. Three days later, the riots erupted.

A mob sacked draft headquarters. It swaggered through the city and thousands of men streamed from the workbenches to join it. It broke into arms stores, fought bloody battles with the police (fights that pitted Irishmen against Irishmen) stoned to death any Negro likely to come within the mob's sight, set ablaze a home for 233 Negro orphans (whose lives were saved by fireman holding off the mob with axes). Finally the mob was dispersed by Meade's army to pursue Lee after Gettysburg, were dispatched to New York to put down the riot.

The next month 10,000 troops were sent to New York and the draft resumed. It was so unpopular throughout the North that 98 federal registrars were killed during its first four months.

In all, 1.2 million northerners were said to have been drafted; but only 42,000 draftees were actually inducted.

By the time America reluctantly entered World War I "to make the world safe for democracy" it had learned how to draft efficiently and bloodlessly. It registered 24 million men, drafting 2,810,296 of them. Resistance came only from Oklahoma; there tenant farmers, Negroes and Indians staged the "Green Corn Rebellion." It was a brief, ineffective and short-lived affair.

By then war had become systemized. Europe had learned from Napoleon. When Archduke Ferdinand was assassinated, France, Russia, Germany and Austria-Hungary, all with peace-time drafts, quickly put millions of men into the field. America could do no less, despite the protest of Speaker of the House Champ Clark, who declared: "In the estimation of Missourians, there is precious little difference between a conscript and a convict."

By then, war had made all men its prisoners. (Tomorrow: A draft official asks: "What has happened to the word 'patriotism'?"

In 1960, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in the U. S. to attend the United Nations General Assembly.

Local Fires Keep Firemen Busy
 Two grass fires and a call to a smoking attic kept Pampa firemen busy yesterday. A smoking attic brought firemen to the home of B. M. McCaskill, 1701 Dogwood, at 10:05 a. m. The smoke was caused from a stopped-up hot water heater hose. No damage was reported.

Approximately six acres of grass was burned on the G. W. Ingrum farm, one mile west of Hoover, when a grass fire broke out at 11:05 a. m. The fire was started firemen said, by sparks from the wheels of a freight train.

Dear Abby....

Jealousy Is 'Dressed Up' Insecurity Plus Distrust

DEAR ABBY: About the engaged girl who signed herself "second thoughts": I agree with your advice to give the matter a third, fourth, fifth and even more thoughts before tying herself up with a jealous, possessive man.

My older sister married such a man. She was "flattered" by his jealousy. After they married he made her stop seeing everyone, including members of her own family. She wasn't even allowed to talk to any of us on the phone. Today she has no friends because of his jealous attitude. We hardly recognize the person my sister has become. When we accidentally meet on the street she is too nervous to stand and talk a minute. We love her deeply, but there is no commencing the sentence she has chosen to serve.

FORSAKEN ONES

DEAR FORSAKEN: The man your sister married is sick. And no really healthy woman would bend to his pathological demands. Anyone who regards jealousy as a "compliment," doesn't know what jealousy is. It's insecurity plus distrust dressed up in fancy language.

DEAR ABBY: To start with, I'd better tell you I am not a pretty girl. I am almost 18 years old and I never had a date in my entire life. I have no friends. You see, I've had this thing about picking up shiny objects ever since I can remember. I can't walk through a store without taking something that shines or sparkles. I have a box at home filled with rings, bracelets and necklaces. I never wear them. I just like to take them out when I'm alone and look at them. I can't describe the feeling I get when I turn on the lights and see them shine and sparkle. I know it isn't right to steal, Abby, but I can't help taking those things when I see them. I have thought of burying them or taking them back, but I'm afraid they would arrest me. Also, I can't remember where a lot of that stuff came from. What should I do?

DEAR ABBY: I cannot bear to go into a five and ten cent store and see how the caged birds are treated. The poor little things have no water, no seed and nothing green to pick on. And they are confined in such cramped quarters it is pathetic to witness their frustration. Why is this? Who wants to buy a bird that has been pecked half-naked by 20 or 30 other birds who just needed something to pick on or taste? I wish these stores would hire people who like pets and know something about caring for birds. Can't something be done about this?

POLLY'S POINTERS

Mother Finds Solution To Burning Problem

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. DEAR POLLY — I read in the column about a mother's problem with children playing with fire. This brought to mind my sister's experience with her 10-year-old son. He was making fires outdoors in the fields and burned a hole in his good jacket. She refused to mend it for quite some time and the embarrassment of having to explain to all who asked how he got the hole really taught him a lesson.

DEAR POLLY — I read in the column about a man who made a planter for his wife out of a discarded television cabinet. I had an ivory-colored square alarm clock, with a narrow brass frame for the glass. It didn't run. I removed the works, found a pretty picture of a winter scene and cut it to fit the back part of the clock case. I put a china hen and two small chicks in front of the picture and put the glass cover back on. I now have a pretty little shadow box which others have admired and have asked where it was purchased.

DEAR POLLY — Put a plastic bag inside your cookie jar before filling it. Fold the top of the bag over the cookies to keep them fresh and crisp. The jar is easy to keep clean as it only means removing the bag and shaking out the crumbs when empty.

When buying citrus fruit, pick up each one and "heft" it in your hand. The heavier fruit will be the juiciest.

DEAR POLLY — Reading about the bonus from a discarded television cabinet brought to mind what my husband did with our daughter's unusable television cabinet. He took out the works and sanded and refinished the inside of the beautiful cabinet until it was blond walnut. He put in a new shelf, added a lock and key and made a nice bar and storage for best china and crystal.

END-OF-SUMMER BEAUTY AID — Make-up helps a woman over the awkward complexion period in the weeks between summer and fall. As the sun tan fades select a personalized face powder to camouflage skin tone. A Charles of the Ritz trained specialist blends powder (left) for the model's lighter skin tone. Also important in brightening skin tone are at-home beauty masks and throat cream. For that new fall wardrobe, select make-up to match autumn shades. For the eyes, wear the new taupe tones; lipsticks in brilliant tawnyies. A roll-on mascara applied to false eyelashes (far right) completes new fall make-up.

For sanitary reasons, every member of the family should have separate washcloths, toothbrushes, towels, combs and brushes—and special places to keep them.

Colorful Floors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Easily maintained, long-lasting floors in a wide variety of colors now are possible using new crystalline glazed ceramic tiles, similar to those used for years as wall surfacings.

The addition of crystalline to the glaze makes the tile more durable and even more able to withstand the wear and tear on residential floors, thus extending to floor surfaces the wide range of colors available in the used on walls.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

By MRS. V. N. OSBORN
The Gardening Column for today is written by Mrs. V. N. Osborn, a recognized authority on growing of African Violets.

Do you need a hobby? Do you like growing plants? Then why not try growing African Violets? They are fast becoming America's number one house plant. Men as well as women get a lot of satisfaction from growing African Violets.

After you acquire two or three plants, perhaps a white, blue and pink, and want more plants, it is so simple to take a leaf and put it in a small bottle of water. When it has rooted in 10 days or two weeks, plant it in your potting soil which has been sterilized. Put a plastic bag over pot and all to keep the humidity around the leaf. Place it on your window sill in the light, not direct sun. In a short while the little baby plants will begin to appear. What a joy to watch them grow and get big enough to pot separately! Sometimes you will get two, sometimes six or more baby plants from one leaf. How rapidly your collection will grow.

African Violets love humidity. The best way I have found to help furnish this humidity is to set each plant in a pan or saucer in which you have out Sponge-Rok or Chicken grits; keep this moist, but never let the plant stand in water. They do not like wet feet.

The soil should be very porous so as to give good drainage. Always water from the top of the pot with luke-warm water. Do not let the plant get real dry. Always water when the soil on top feels dry to the touch. Over watering will cause crown rot. This writer thinks the big mistake that most people make is letting the soil get real dry and then soaking the soil. If the plant is allowed to dry out the small feeder roots die and then the plant has no way to take up the water, so they have crown rot.

Physically disabled people can grow African Violets when they are not able to do other things. One woman who was confined to a wheel chair grew beautiful African Violets and received a lot of joy doing so.

This writer has heard so many people say African Violets are temperamental. Not so! They are like any other plants; they have their likes and dislikes, but if you give them their requirements they will reward you with year-round bloom and beauty. An African Violet in full bloom is a beautiful plant.

Medicine Chest Tip

If the label on your prescription medicine is on the outside of the bottle or vial, coat it with clear nail polish or transparent tape. The coating will keep the description and dosage from smudging.

You should periodically clean out the medicine chest and dispose of old prescription drugs. They could be dangerous.

Rotate pastel-colored linens as you would white. Stripes and solids go well together and go with a variety of colors. Switch them around in use to give sheets and pillow cases a "rest."

African Violets breath carbon dioxide and give off oxygen. One African Violet plant gives off enough oxygen in a house for one person. So they are a healthy plant to have as well as beautiful.

The main ingredient for growing African Violets successfully is T.L.C. (tender, loving care). Why not give this lovely plant a try in your home?

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Each of us is the product of an interplay of hereditary factors and environment. There is a great deal of confusion about where one leaves off and the other begins. Most of our physical characteristics such as hair color, height and facial contours are inherited. So are some diseases or a susceptibility to them — color — blindness, albinism and some forms of diabetes and epilepsy to name but a few.

One often hears it argued that differences in temperament or special talents in two brothers must be due to heredity because they both had the same environment. Such differences are almost surely the result of differences in environment because no two persons ever had exactly the same environment. Environment is more than living in the same house. It is the sum of all your experiences including the food you eat, the injuries and infections you suffer and all the impressions you absorb through your five senses.

Even the environment of identical twins is different. They do not share equally in the nourishment they derive from the mother's body even before they are born. After they are born they don't both stub their toe at the same time or get the same amount of comforting attention if they do. They don't both play with the same toy at the same time and they don't both have the same nightmares. Such subtle differences in environment can cause far-reaching differences in personality.

It has been shown that a child with the best inherited qualities in the world will turn out poorly if he isn't encouraged to develop his interests and his talents and conversely a child with relatively poor genes can go remarkably well if he is reared in an atmosphere of love, respect and human understanding.

The fact that many abnormalities are inherited has caused such questions to be asked as whether it is wise for Agatha to marry Henry; whether, if they do marry their chances for a healthy family would be better served by adopting their babies than by having their own; and whether Nathaniel or Samantha should marry anyone.

To try to answer some of these questions genetic counselors are now available in some communities. Since much harm can be done by poor counseling, only counselors recognized as qualified by the American Eugenic Society (230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017) should be consulted.

King-Size Beds Are Still Growing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Beds of the future will be so large the current king-size beds will seem small.

Grant G. Simmons Jr., president of Simmons Co., discussed the future of bedding with furniture retailers at a local convention.

"Americans are no longer contented to sleep on a simple slab," he said.

Not only will new beds be larger, but also they will be adjustable. "A combination of head up or feet up, or something in the middle, rather like a hospital bed," is the coming thing," Simmons said.

He acknowledged that a few snags remain to be smoothed out.

"We can have dual controls, as with electric blankets, if the husband wants feet up and she prefers head up and feet down. But then what about bed linen?"

Another reason for huge beds — bedrooms are becoming the second living room, said Irving F. Harris, vice-president of Serta Associates, of San Francisco.

Matter of Fact

The domestic goat is superior to the cow as a milk producer in the torrid or frigid zones. One or two goats will supply a family with enough milk for the year. In the United States the annual retail value of goat's milk sold is more than $10 million. In addition to its milk production, the goat also is a source of mohair, leather and even meat, the latter, in a kid, being more delicate in flavor than lamb.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International.
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Before getting around to the season's new television series, which began Monday night, it might be well to alert viewers to the absurd rash of ratings reports they will be deluged with in the next few weeks. The reason for these reports is that, for the first time, the three networks are all introducing their shows in the same week in head-on competition.

Now, the networks not only rely on different rating systems, but there are also daily ratings, weekly ratings, twice-monthly ratings and so on, and of course statistics can be used in almost any way one sees fit. Therefore, beware, ignore them—for the first definitive ratings, such as they are, won't be available for about six to 10 weeks, and those who partake of the early ones are chiefly aiding network promotion campaigns, using a system that Congress investigated.

Lucy and Steve
 And now to business. One of the five new network series that premiered Monday night was an hour-long variety show that stars Steve Lawrence, whose handlers were wise enough to get Lucille Ball for the opening program guest. This makes it difficult to judge the series' chances because Miss Ball gives a show an exceptional lift. Lawrence's assets are also his liabilities in television. He is a city boy through and through, quick and adept and charming with a line, an excellent singer of good pop music, and city-natural and city-nice, and the question is whether they will buy this out where "The Beverly Hillbillies" and "Peticoat Junction" are the cat's meow.

I have my doubts because I remember the unfortunate understanding of the audience that prompted NBC-TV to deswingering Andy Williams when he started his series—and it worked, and he's still around, and that's fine, but he had to fight his way through gosh-awful corn. The Lawrence show does have a neat sense of gimmicks to keep a generally standard variety show moving most of the time—such as elderly ladies for billboard girls on the premiere. Betty Walker was also funny as an old neighborhood friend of Lawrence. But of course the main asset was Lucy, swinging from a chandelier, riding an elephant, singing, dancing—and hilarious in film clips in a marineland pool with porpoises.

One of Lawrence's competitors is another new one-hour series, NBC-TV's "Run For Your Life," which stars Ben Gazzara as a young lawyer who learns he has a terminal illness and decides to get the most out of his remaining time. The show was obviously inspired by ABC-TV's "The Fugitive." The same man created both.

Easy To Spoof
 "Run For Your Life" is the kind of series that is easy to murder and spoof critically, but I must admit I found the premiere a sumptuously-mounted, attractively escapist melodrama especially in color that is frankly and basically a commercial effort, with no pretenses. While the time is the ever-present underpinning, the story was not at all depressing because the hero is a fellow who has coolly come to terms with his predicament and keeps it to himself. In fact, Gazzara, a fine but occasionally over-intense actor, turns out here to be one of the coolest heroes this viewer has seen on television in a long time.

There were also three half-hour premieres Monday night, all catastrophes. NBC-TV had "The John Forsythe Show," about a bachelor who inherits girls' board school, and the whole mess was sad, dull, witless and relentlessly cute. It was obviously supposed to be a quiet comedy, but I'm afraid it was just quiet, even the laugh track didn't sound enthusiastic.
 ABC-TV had two western pot-boilers. In the first, "The Legend of Jesse James," Jesse is played very young out of respect for the teen-age audience, and was portrayed sympathetically. Next year "The Legend of John Dillinger"? In the other western, "A Man Called Shenandoah," Robert Horton plays an amnesiac seeking his identity. "Who Am I?" he cries. Why, that's easy, Robert. You used to work for "Wagon Train" and said you'd had enough of westerns. Remember now?

Foreign Commentary

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
Outlook from the foreign news cables:

Better Image:
The war on the Indo-Pakistan subcontinent may help the U.S. image in Japan by diverting attention away from American activities in Viet Nam. The Vietnamese war has dominated play in Tokyo newspapers for months, often drawing headlines and commentaries decrying U.S. policies and warning against anything that could directly involve Japan. The fighting in Kashmir has now captured the Tokyo public spotlight, highlighting the fact that Asia has real and dangerous problems that cannot be hung on Uncle Sam.

French Relations:
There is talk in Paris of a trip by French President Charles de Gaulle to Communist Poland, if he runs and is elected to a second term in December. It would be in line with his policy of warming up French relations with the East European satellites. However, officials said such a trip would not take place before next spring.

Party Image:
The French Communist party is still hoping against hope it can avoid putting up its own candidate for president in December. Communist leaders fear he would make a poor showing, which would be bad for the party's image. The Communists reportedly have given the Socialists until Sept. 24 to decide whether to run a joint candidate, but the socialists so far have rebuffed all such approaches.

Long War:
Military estimates in London suggest that shortages of planes and heavy equipment will prevent a broader war in Kashmir. But an infantry war could continue over a long period, despite the Anglo-American arms embargo. Both sides have considerable stores of small arms and can produce them locally. The fear is that fighting could spread along the entire frontiers of the two countries, igniting a chain reaction of guerrilla contests involving religious, tribal and other hatreds that could be settled only in a bloodbath. Experts said if a cease-fire were agreed upon such a vast frontier would tax the resources of the world to police it.

Delayed Summit:
Algeria's new rulers have mounted a world-wide diplomatic offensive in an effort to get the postponed Algiers Afro-Asian summit conference off the ground. The meeting hailed as the "Second Bandung Conference" of non-committed nations, originally was scheduled to begin June 28 but the Algerian coup forced a postponement. Now two of the uncommitted nations are in an undeclared war over Kashmir and hopes for the meeting are dimmer than ever. In the meantime, informed diplomats in Paris are skeptical that ousted President Ahmed Ben Bella might be brought to trial soon—such a trial might end the idea of a summit conference once and for all.

Indonesian Sympathies:
Indonesia is expected to continue to side with Pakistan and could even offer "volunteers" or other forms of aid in the Indo-Pakistani conflict. President Sukarno has been cool towards India ever since it became clear he could not wrest leadership of the non aligned and Afro-Asian worlds from the late Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. Pakistan and Indonesia are both Moslem nations, both dislike India and both have been moving closer to Communist China.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
For those citizens who were shocked last spring when Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. hinted at a repeat depression, it is recommended that they read a just-published report which summons the threat of depression much nearer.

This is a Republican political document. It should not be discounted because it is political. The report was drawn by a task force composed of stand-out citizens such as George S. Eccles, president of the First Security Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah; Clarence B. Randall, former board chairman, Inland Steel Co., Chicago; Raymond J. Saulnier, chairman (1957-61) President's Council of Economic Advisers; Lewis L. Strauss, chairman (1953-58) Atomic Energy Commission; and Sen. John J. Williams, Delaware. more more more

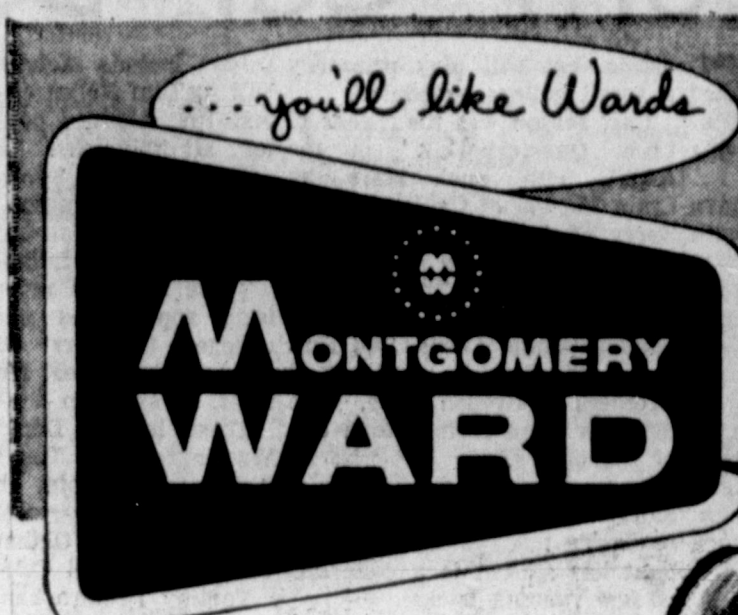

The report is entitled: The Balance of Payments, the Gold Drain and Your Dollar. The balance of payments is the annual end result of the nation's global business, income and outgo. The United States consistently has been spending more abroad than it receives from abroad. This triggers a chain reaction of foreign anxiety to possess gold instead of U.S. dollars which were the standard and stable measure of value during some years after World War II. Foreign possessors of dollars are entitled to demand gold in exchange and many of them do.

U. S. gold stocks have been so depleted that there would be a shortage of many billions at this moment if all foreign gold claims were presented for payment.

The "your dollar" of the report is the dollar in your pocket. It has shrunk and it continues to shrink in purchasing power. It is remarkable that the politicians and the economists insist happily that there is no inflation presently in progress whereas the cost of living rises steadily if slowly toward status as an active, political issue. High cost of living (HCL) can be deadly in politics to the politicians held responsible.

This report recommended for reading considers these factors of payments, gold and dollar purchasing power and finds the United States suffering organic fiscal disease which the administration seeks to remedy with aspirin, cold compresses and reassuring words. Here are two typical paragraphs from this Republican call for action to prevent disaster:

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Giants Stretch Winning Streak to 12 Straight

By United Press International

Willie Mays has been having an occasional day off this year but rarely an off day.

In recent seasons the celebrated centerfielder has shown such extreme signs of fatigue and near exhaustion toward the end of the year that he had to be rested on doctors' orders.

This season manager Herman Franks kept Willie out of the starting lineup on a number of occasions and his spectacular September showing under the most intense pennant pressure speaks for itself.

The 34-year-old veteran practically tore the roof off the Astrodome Tuesday night when he stepped to the plate in the ninth inning and unloaded his 501st career home run and 48th of 1965 to tie the score 5-5 and send the game into extra innings.

San Francisco eventually won it 7-5 in the 10th on Jim Davenport's pinch double to run its winning streak to 12, tying the high for the year set by Pittsburgh, and widening its lead over Cincinnati and Los Angeles to 3½ games.

Elsewhere in the National League Cincinnati walloped New York 13-6. Philadelphia blanked Milwaukee 2-0. Chicago edged Los Angeles 2-1 and St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 3-2.

Despite his claim that the pennant chase has left him weary Mays' strongest point continues to be his consistency and clutch play. The San Francisco wizard seems to find renewed strength when the going is toughest and Franks, realizing this, has found it necessary to use Mays on a daily basis down the stretch.

Willie has played in each of the Giants last dozen victories including five homers, during the period when San Francisco overtook the Dodgers.

Bob Priddy worked the ninth for the Giants and received credit for the victory, his first of the year.

Frank Robinson slugged two roundtrippers that accounted for five runs as Cincinnati raked five Met pitchers for 16 hits. Vada Pinson knocked in three more with three singles as Jim O'Toole went seven innings to gain his third victory in 12 decisions.

Elsewhere the wins came against New York. The triumph moved the Reds into a tie with Los Angeles for second place.

Billy Williams clouted a two-run homer, his 31st, off Sandy Koufax in the sixth inning as the Cubs gained revenge for the Dodger lefthander's perfect game handling of them last week. Koufax struck out three before leaving the game, leaving him 13 shy of Bob Feller's Major League strikeout mark of 348.

Philadelphia ran its win skelf to six behind a two-hit strikeout by Jim Bunning. Johnny Callison's 29th homer of the year in the first inning with a man on gave Bunning the margin he needed for his 17th win. Milwaukee starter and loser Hank Fischer suffered the setback squaring his record at 7-7.

St. Louis scored three unearned runs off hardluck Bob Friend and registered their 15th straight win at Forbes Field. The Cards scored twice in the fifth after a throwing error by Donn Clendenon and tallied once in the seventh after Clendenon dropped a popup. Bob Gibson fanned 11 in 7 2-3 innings while picking up his 18th victory against 10 defeats.

Others include Melvin Farr of UCLA, Tom Relles of California and Ron Medved of Washington, all halfbacks.

John Read of Stanford, Jeff Jordan of Washington and Larry Eilmes of Washington State are outstanding fullbacks.

There also are several promising sophomores and junior college transfers who could steal the headlines, and starting roles, away from the veterans. These include Don Moore of Washington and Ted Gores of Washington State, both 200-pounders, and a trio of Oregon runners, Hugh Oldham, Scott Cross and Lionel Coleman.

Tommy Prothro has assumed the head coaching job at UCLA after guiding Oregon State to an AAWU co-championship and an 8-3 record last year. Michigan, however, drubbed the

Southern Cal Best on Coast

PULLMAN, Washington (UPI)—The emphasis has shifted from passing to running in Pacific Coast college football this fall.

Pre-season predictions have familiar ring, however, with Southern California favored to win in the Athletic Association of Western Universities (AAWU).

Stanford, which has an excellent passer in Dave Lewis, is given a chance at edging the Trojans. Washington and Oregon also will be contenders. Last winter's Rose Bowl team, Oregon State, has 26 lettermen back and could be a threat.

Beat Independent

San Jose State figures to be the best of a meager number of West Coast independents. One new school, Portland State, makes its bow in that classification, but will play primarily a small college schedule.

Last season was the "Year of the Quarterback" in the AAWU, with such stars as Craig Morton of California, Bob Berry of Oregon, Craig Ferrig of USC and Larry Zeno of UCLA.

They all have graduated, leaving behind Lewis, Tod Hulin of Washington, and Paul Brothers of Oregon State, who took his team farther than any of the others.

Those three and Ken Berry of San Jose State all should be improved this fall, but the spotlight has shifted to a collection of fine running backs.

Southern Cal has two of the best in Mike Garrett and Rod Sherman. Stanford has Ray Handley, who gained 973 yards last year, and swift Bob Blunt.

Others include Melvin Farr of UCLA, Tom Relles of California and Ron Medved of Washington, all halfbacks.

Dee Andros, who in 1963 guided Idaho to its first winning season since 1938, took over at Oregon State. Andros is an ex-Oklahoma player whose teammates included present-day coaches Jim Owens, Darrell Royal, Jack Mitchell and Bert Clark.

Southern Cal has the incentive as well as the manpower to make a strong run at the conference title. The Trojans lost out to Oregon State in the voting for the Rose Bowl despite sensational season-ending victory over Notre Dame.

End John Thomas and defensive tackle Jeff Smith are considered standout linemen. Junior Pat Mills will inherit Ferrig's job.

In addition to its collection of backs, Stanford coaches are highly pleased with defensive tackle Gary Pettigrew. On paper, the Indians can't match USC's depth. They also play both USC and Washington on the road.

All Veteran Backfield

Washington has 17 of their first 22 offensive players from a year ago, but lost seven of their first 11 defenders.

Oregon could have one of its best teams if either Tom Trovato or Mike Brundage can replace Berry at quarterback. The Ducks will have a bruising defense led by linebackers Tim Casey and Dave Tobey an outstanding pair of offensive ends in Ray Palm and Steve Bunker, although the latter will miss part of the season because of mononucleosis.

SWC Teams Prep For Grid Openers

By United Press International

Southwestern Conference teams are firming up their attacks for the kickoff of the league's 51st campaign this weekend.

The Texas Longhorns, shooting out of the blocks a step quicker than other loop teams with their Friday night contest with Tulane in New Orleans, went through a short, routine workout Tuesday. Coach Darrell Royal said he was pleasantly surprised with the work Tuesday of halfbacks Phil Harris and Jim Helms, out of action most of the pre-season drills with injuries.

Royal said he had little doubt both would be in the starting lineup against Tulane.

The Baylor Bears reviewed their potent aerial attack in preparation for their Saturday match with Auburn, and Terry Southall, Mike Marshall and Kenny Stockdale all impressed coach John Bridgers with their passing.

It'll be a light day for the Bears today. Baylor will review assignments and work on all phases of the kicking today and Thursday and then fly to Alabama.

Magic Number for Twins Seven

By United Press International

The Minnesota Twins moved within seven games of the American League pennant with a 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Tuesday night.

Any combination of Twins' victories and Chicago White Sox or Baltimore Orioles' defeats totalling seven will put Minnesota in.

Jimmie Hall's sharp single to center with the bases full in the seventh inning broke a 2-2 tie and paved the way for Jim Kaat's 16th victory.

However, it took clutch pitching by young Jim Merritt to save the game for the Twins.

Kaat had a five-hitter going into the ninth, but Ken Harrelson led off with a home run, his 20th, into the leftfield stands. That brought John Klippstein to the mound and he walked Tom Reynolds. Merritt was called in and yielded a single to pinch hitter Santiago Rosario. Rene

LONG, HOT SUMMER — Things will get much hotter for the Los Angeles Dodgers and Walter Alston (24) as the baseball season heads into the final weeks with the Dodgers battling six other clubs for the National League pennant.

Field of 150 Tee Off In National Amateur in Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The National Amateur Golf Tournament opened today with a new set of rules, but with the same plot-youth versus age.

The field of 150 disagreed sharply over who should be favored. Some thought the 100-degree plus temperatures that harried practice would aid the youngsters, while others predicted the 6,917-yard Southern Hills Country Club course would demand the exacting touch of the veterans over the 72-hole route.

Clay-Patterson Bout On; Site, Date Not Known
NEW YORK (UPI) — Cassius Clay will defend his world heavyweight championship against Floyd Patterson, at a date and site to be announced "within the next three-four days."

Clay, calling the two-time former titlist "a new man now," said Tuesday that he probably would fight Patterson before Christmas. However, he denied reports that a date already had been set for Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 22.

"It was a misquote," Clay said, adding: "But I'll tell you this. The fight is on and Patterson is the man I'm going to fight."

Clay and Patterson got together at a press conference late Tuesday afternoon, and after an initial coldness between the two Clay warmed up to the man he has ridiculed in the past and even put an arm around Patterson in a friendly gesture.

"I hope to meet Patterson sometime before Christmas," the champ said.

Pressed to name a site, Clay said: "I don't know. Los Angeles might be the place, possibly Sweden." He then added that a decision probably could be reached within a few days.

Archie Foster, a member of the Louisville syndicate which handles Clay, said he was disappointed that a date and site have not been selected as yet.

"A number of problems have arisen," Foster said, citing as one the possibility of a New York newspaper strike.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Capitalism vs. Capitalists

Those of us who believe in freedom invariably support capitalism as a system of private ownership and private management of the tools of production and distribution. This gives rise to the supposition that our support of capitalism is emotional and that we applaud the actions of any capitalist if only it can be stated with some degree of accuracy that a given individual is a capitalist.

But this is not true. Our support of capitalism as a natural economic system is not based upon our indiscriminate love of capitalists, whoever they may be or however they may comport themselves. As a matter of fact, one of the principal groups whose actions are inimical to capitalism as a natural economic system, is comprised of certain capitalists.

It can be said without serious contradiction, we believe, that many capitalists are engaged in providing the funds gratuitously by means of which socialism is advanced to the ultimate undoing of the very system by means of which these capitalists obtain these funds.

So, to understand capitalism is to understand the method nature has provided for the production and distribution of the goods and services we desire. It is not to take a prejudicial view blindly in favor of all these who profess to be capitalists.

A capitalist is a man. He is neither better nor worse than other men as men. And when he acts, within the framework of capitalism, in such a way that he undermines the system itself, he is a betrayer, a quibbling, who may be at the very root of the problem.

There is a single universal tool by means of which capitalism can be destroyed. This tool is political government, the state. When a man professing to be a capitalist turns to the state demanding special privileges or subsidies, he has already stepped outside the capitalist system and is in process of waging destruction upon the system.

But socialists will argue that it is the greed of capitalists, acting within a free and natural economic system, which creates the necessity of state intervention. But this is dia-spent six years and considerable money in developing and testing the compound which it found to be safe and effective in lowering the blood cholesterol level of animals. The university scientist was not investigating that particular use of the product, nor was it considered the health service grant. However, the company has not been able to get exclusive rights to test the product on humans and to market it.

Mr. Munns has suggested changes in the laws relating to grants. However, he does not strike at the basic fault. That basic fault is the governmental intervention into an activity that is not a governmental function.

If the professor had developed the product under private financing, the product would belong to the professor or his school and the financing institution, under a contract protecting the property rights of all. But the intervention of the government puts a third party into the transaction. And since the government is using taxpayer money, it is going to claim title.

We repeat: What the government subsidizes, it will control.

U. S. Attorneys Seek Guidelines from Justice Dept. On Dealing With Draft Defiance, Possibly Organized

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — U. S. attorneys are bombarding the Justice Department with requests for "guidance" on what to do about defiant draftees.

From various parts of the country, federal prosecutors are reporting they have reliable information that leftists, anti-Viet Nam student demonstrators, civil rights militants and negro extremists intend to refuse to be inducted into the armed forces.

On the basis of these reports, there are indications this recalcitrance may be a covert or organized movement of nationwide scope. This possibility is under close scrutiny.

The first challenge may be staged in Detroit.

Federal authorities there have been alerted that certain youths due to respond to a summons for military service will balk at being sworn in.

Attorney General Katzenbach has been referring the inquiries to Assistant Attorney General Fred Vinson, head of the Criminal Division. The son of a late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Vinson was appointed several months ago.

He is notifying the U.S. attorneys to handle these cases "locally".

Some prosecutors are baffled by this ambiguous directive. They are complaining it gives them no hint as to the government's policy on handling defiant draftees.

Also unexplained is Katzenbach's apparent passing the buck to Vinson. Congressional authorities are looking into this.

The U.S. attorneys can proceed under two laws — the Selective Service Act or the Sedition Act. One purpose of their inquiries is to obtain Justice Department guidance on this key question. They are still awaiting it.

According to the prosecutors, word of threatened resistance to the draft began reaching them when Congress last month rushed enactment of a law prohibiting the destruction of draft cards. Student anti-Viet Nam demonstrators had burned their cards, and others threatened to do so.

"Bread prices are going up regardless of what wheat price support formula is finally agreed on by the House and Senate," says Aiken. "The reason for that is simple. The price of wheat has little bearing on the price of bread. The cost of bread has been steadily rising for years."

Senator Young vigorously echoes this with detailed confirming figures.

They show that bread prices have climbed steadily in the past 18 years, while in nine of those years the price of wheat fell, also, that while bread now costs an average of 21 cents per one-pound white loaf, the wheat grower gets only 2.7 cents of this.

Says Young sharply, "The farmer got the same 2.7 cents for his wheat in 1949, when such a loaf of bread cost consumers only 12.7 cents."

Following are highlights of Young's statistical comparisons:

Year	Retail price one-pound loaf white bread (cents)	Cost to farmer (cents)	Return to farmer (cents)
1947-49 average	12.7	2.5	2.7
1953	15.5	2.7	2.8
1958	18.5	2.9	2.9
1964	20.7	4.1	2.5
1965 (Jan.-Mar.)	21.0	4.1	2.7

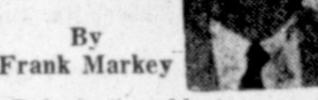

Also cited by Young is that hourly earnings of bakery workers in 1963 were $1.18 higher than in 1947-49, increasing from $1.15 to $2.33 per hour.

Senator Aiken stressed this as one of the underlying reasons for the steady climb of the cost of bread. The constant upward trend of production charges, including labor, distribution, advertising, etc., makes this inevitable.

"Even if the farmer had donated his wheat," contends Young, "white bread still would have cost consumers around 19 cents per loaf in 1963."

FRANK MARKEY

Polo is the oldest competitive sport known to man. It's faster than ice hockey or basketball, more rugged than football or boxing, and takes more skill and nerve than auto racing or bobsledding. It used to be the sport of millionaires and socialites, but at one of the nation's top polo clubs today you'll find a gas station operator playing on the same team with a Wall Street tycoon, or a construction supervisor competing for a high goal rating with an Ivy Leaguer.

It's the fact that the socialites, who really "owned" the game, have found that others can play it as well or better and they've "invited" the newcomers to share their stables of ponies to make a winning team. Perhaps it's another manifestation of the Great Society, but it was unthinkable and unattainable a quarter-century ago.

Today's smile: A young lawyer, hot out of law school, addressed a jury for two hours. His opponent, an older and wiser practitioner, then arose, smiled sweetly at the judge and said: "Your honor and members of the jury, I will follow the example of my young friend, who has just finished, and submit the case without argument."

No matter how much U. S. senators and Congressmen gabble in their speeches quotations from Shakespeare and the Bible, they always appear in correct form in the Congressional Record, thanks to the editors of that great publication.

During a recent visit to Quebec we learned that that Canadian province is the leading producer of maple sugar in North America. And we had believed for years that Vermont held that honor.

Thoughts while shaving: London's equivalent of this country's money market is Lombard Street, which dates back to the Middle Ages when Lombard bankers set up shop there. In this country we call the money market "Wall Street."

During a recent drive uptown we learned from our female chauffeur that New York now boasts more than 200 women taxicab drivers. That's a sign of further encroachment upon the male.

Garnets, used as much for industrial abrasives as for jewelry, are found in greater abundance in New Hampshire and New York State than anywhere else in North America.

Have you noticed lately the competition among the soft drink companies? This summer it seemed as though there was a new one every week, just like the new brands of cigarettes. We're so accustomed to the old drinks we order them automatically. After all, we know their names and flavors. We wonder if, like the new cigarettes, these new drinks are profitable.

The American male is going to smell good. Now 120 companies make men's colognes, which is twice as many as were thought last year. Elizabeth (N.J.) DAILY JOURNAL reported: "An All-American football player, he coached the

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

To Be in the Union Is Not Same as 'Belonging' to It

By SAM CAMPBELL
Business Editor

The workingman is a businessman. What he has to sell are his skills.

His inventory is the working days remaining in his lifetime multiplied by his capacity and willingness to improve his marketable knowledge.

His costs are his household expenses, his medical expenses, transportation to the job, his tools, and his taxes.

Looking at the matter from that point of view, several points become obvious:

To waste time is to waste wealth.

To do less than capacity is to maintain a warehouse only partially filled.

To close the mind to new information is to lock the door so that saleable merchandise no longer can be delivered.

To pay others for not working is to diminish what you can get by working.

To increase taxes is to raise the cost of household items that you buy. To deduct from your pay to foot the medicare of others is to reduce the amount of money you will have for your own medical expense.

To permit the Union hiring hall to intervene between you and your job is to cut yourself off from the marketplace.

To enlist the help of others in bargaining for a better price for your labor may, in some cases, be expedient, but to give that third party an exclusive contract so that you can no longer bargain for yourself is self-a dangerous and unknown bargain.

For the Union to secure an exclusive jurisdiction on the use of specific types of skills is a monopoly equivalent to the company store.

Of course, you have to take the world as you find it.

But you don't have to leave it there.

You may be forced to give it a share of your wages, but you need not give coercion, your loyalty.

You may have to submit when the Union embarks on coercive practices, but you need not be brainwashed into supposing that wrong is right.

You may be accused of anti-Union when you oppose the Union bosses, but the accusation need not dissuade you from the struggle for a better Union.

Remember, you are in business. For yourself. Your own well-being is at stake. The less support the Union has when it does wrong to others, the less harm it will be able to do you.

Remember, you may be in the Union, but you "belong" only to yourself.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "As I understand the Connally amendment, the World Court cannot interfere in internal affairs of the United States without the consent of Congress. My understanding is that the World Court is a division of the United Nations."

"If we did not have the protection of the Connally Amendment, could the Civil Rights Congress petition the United Nations as they did in 1951 charging genocide and could the United Nations interfere in internal affairs of the United States in the civil rights movement?"

Answer: The Connally amendment is a reservation of the U. S. Senate tacked on to its approval of the treaty approving the World Court, which is a part of the United Nations. It said the jurisdiction of the World Court could not act in internal affairs of the United States without the consent of the United States.

Apparently the court cannot intervene in internal affairs of the individual nations under such a reservation. However, there seems to be no such protection against the United Nations taking an action outside the court.

The United Nations Charter seems to have no limitations upon any interventions upon which the organization may decide to embark.

Chapter VII, Article 39, of the Charter says, "The Security Council shall determine the existence of any threat to the peace, breach of the peace, or act of aggression and shall make recommendations, or decide what measures shall be taken..."

At the time the Charter was approved in Congress, it was believed the veto power by permanent members of the Security Council would protect the U. S. against intervention in domestic affairs. However, the Korean "police action" ended that. It will be remembered that Russia, a permanent member with veto power, had walked out, when the Security Council declared the communist invasion of South Korea an act of aggression and approved defending the invaded land. When Russia returned to the Council, its delegate insisted the action was not legal, since actions of the sort required positive approval of all permanent members.

So, to "legalize" the Council's action without Russia, the General Assembly passed a resolution saying that if the Security Council fails to act in regard to a purported breach of the peace, the Assembly could, to exercise the powers given the Security Council by the Charter. In effect the Assembly declared the Charter to be amended, without going through the legal formalities required for amendment.

Thus if two-thirds of the General Assembly, including the "emerging nations" of Africa and Asia and those in the communist bloc were to decide the U. S. were guilty of "genocide" in the civil rights matters, the U. N. could take whatever steps it chose. The U. S. "veto" would mean nothing.

Pampa Penney Employees Will Join To Mark Founder's 90th Birthday

Employees of Pampa's J. C. Penney store, along with some 56,000 associates in 1,700 Penney stores over the nation, will hold a birthday party tomorrow in honor of the 90th birthday of the department store chain's founder, James Cash Penney.

R. M. Samples, manager of the local store, said today each Penney store will have an appropriately decorated birthday cake. Candles on the cake will be lighted here in Pampa at 1 p.m. tomorrow to coincide with a similar ceremony taking place at 3 p.m. (EDT) in the company's central office in New York City.

As Mr. Penney nears the nine-generation mark, his major interest continues to be in the Company he founded back in April, 1902, when he opened his first store in the frontier mining town of Kemmerer, Wyo.

Mr. Penney's conviction that the Golden Rule is just as applicable in business as it is in one's personal life continues to be a guiding principle behind the operation of the Penney stores, Mr. Samples said.

While Mr. Penney has not been involved for many years in direct management of the firm bearing his name, he continues to serve on the board of directors. And he exerts an inspirational influence on associates that cannot be measured, according to Manager Samples.

Mr. Penney has an office on the 45th floor of the firm's new Manhattan Central Office, known as the J. C. Penney Building, and the office is for more than "show." When he is in New York — which is most of the year, the soon-to-be nonagenarian comes into the office almost each day of the work week to conduct his business.

As the Company founder has grown older, his interest in the young and opportunities for them has grown more intense.

Says Mr. Penney: "The chances for success are so much better today than they were when I was starting out. For a young man or woman with a college education and the right attitude, there is no telling how far he or she can go."

From his native Hamilton, Mo., where he was born Sept. 16, 1875, Mr. Penney went west for his health on the advice of a physician. An unsuccessful venture he had in Denver in running a butcher shop convinced him he was meant to be a "dry goods man." And he went on to become one of the greatest merchants the nation has produced.

He was employed by two men who had set up a partnership chain of Golden Rule stores in towns in Colorado as well as Wyoming. Mr. Penney eventually became a partner and was given responsibility for opening a store in Kemmerer. Opening of the store, on April 14, 1902, marked the start of what officially became J. C. Penney Company, Inc., in 1913 when the organization was incorporated in Salt Lake City.

That tiny store in Kemmerer formed the basis for what today has grown to be the most numerous chain of department stores in the U.S., with approximately 1,700 units dotting Main Streets as well as shopping centers. The Company's annual sales exceeded $2 billion for the first time during the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1965.

And what of the future, for this is the direction in which Mr. Penney looks. He says that he's "feeling fine" and is looking forward to his 100th birthday.

Almost Always a Kingdom
England has been a kingdom in all except 11 years of its long history. The country officially was called the Commonwealth of England from 1649 to 1660, during which period most of the power was in the hands of Oliver Cromwell.

Labor Expert Called Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner's labor trouble-shooter, Theodore W. Kheel, has been summoned home from a European trip to seek an eleventh-hour halt of a planned strike by the Newspaper Guild of New York at the New York Times.

The mayor also called both sides to a city hall meeting tonight.

A Wagner spokesman said Kheel, a noted labor attorney, was to arrive at Kennedy Airport from Copenhagen at 6 p.m. EDT today.

The guild plans to strike the Times at 8 a.m. EDT Thursday if a contract settlement cannot be reached. The chief stumbling block has been automation and job security. Salaries are not an issue.

Shipboard Mishap Falls Texas Sailor

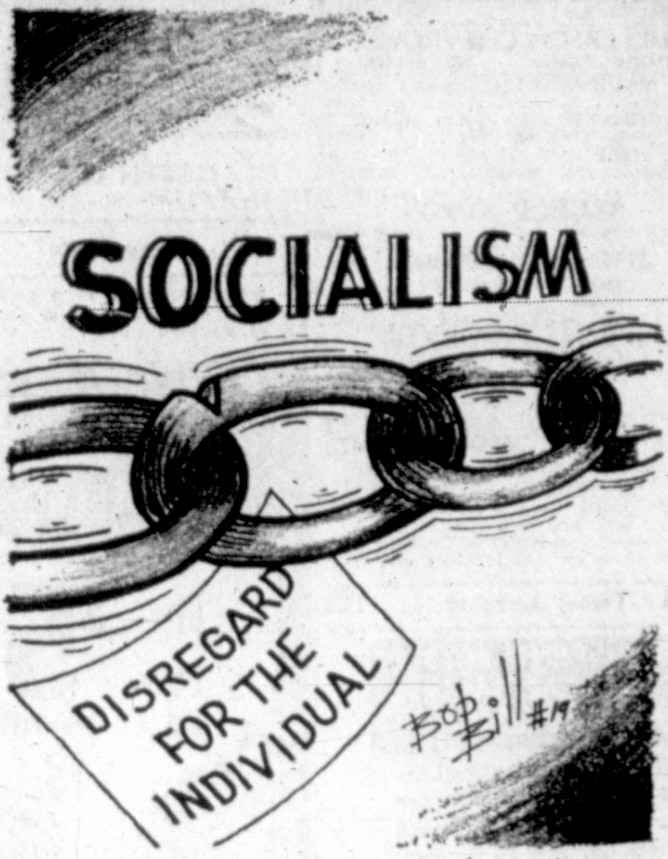

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A sailor from Houston, Tex., was in critical condition today as a result of an accident that killed a companion aboard a fleet oiler at sea.

A Navy spokesman said that fireman apprentice Jackie G. Elliott was under treatment at the U.S. Naval Hospital here.

He was overcome by gasoline fumes when he and Glendon Isaacs Jr., fireman apprentice of South Lebanon, Ohio, were cleaning a gasoline tank aboard the Sabine off the Florida coast Monday. Isaacs died from inhaling fumes, the Navy said.

Seals Mate in Nest
After the female hornbill lays her eggs inside a hollow tree, the male walls her in with vegetable matter and resin. He leaves only a slit large enough for him to feed her through and she remains imprisoned until the young bird is about three weeks old.
