Cosmic Champs Sleep

Gemini 5 Pair Set For Tests

ABOARD USS L A K E CHAMPLAIN AT SEA (UPI) — Cosmic champions Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad slept late as their first reward today and got ready for 10 days of grueling tests expected to show man can survive voyages to the moon without harm.

Back "home" on earth barely 24 hours after their 3.3 million-mile orbital flight, the Gemini 5 astronauts' flight timetable was changed to let them get a few hours extra sleep before flying to Cape Kennedy.

They will fly from this recovery carrier to a landing strip two miles from launch pad 19 where they soared into space atop a Titan-2 rocket Aug. 21 to splash down Sunday.

Cooper and Conrad got to bed at 11:30 p.m., EDT and were told to ignore revile and sleep as late as 11 a.m., EDT.

Not even their families would be allowed to see them during the 11-day "debriefing" period that began the moment they stepped aboard the carrier.

Cooper, America's marathon man in space, and right-hand man Conrad spent nearly eight days in orbit on an occasionally chilling, often cheerful and always fantastic voyage 129 times around the world. In the process they rewrote the record book for manned spaceflight.

For the next 11 days, they were to do little more than talk about it — to medical doctors anxious about their health; to engineers worried about the problems that plagued their Gemini 5 spaceship; to program managers who already were looking toward the Gen- (See TESTS, Page 3)

Negotiators Summoned To Avert Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The fiery blast furnaces of the basic steel industry dimmed today, and a concerned President Johnson summoned top negotiators to the White House in an eleven-hour attempt to avert a nationwide strike at midnight Tuesday.

With the collapse of collective bargaining and failure of federal mediation in Pittsburgh Johnson sent his personal plane to pick up L.W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers Union (USW), and chief industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper of the U.S. Steel Corp.

Both men said they would go. They were expected to arrive in the nation's capital this afternoon.

Barring a dramatic development emerging from the White House talks, it appeared that only the invoking of the Taft-Hartley law could avert a Tuesday midnight shutdown of 90 per cent of the basic steel-producing industry.

The major steelmakers already had started the process of taking furnaces out of production.

Johnson's summons to Abel and Cooper came after a White House breakfast meeting during which the President was briefed on the steel crisis by his two special mediators—Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins.

Morse and Collins told the President the stalemated contract talks could not be resolved successfully by the union and industry negotiators alone.

The two had been sent to affairs," Morse said. "It is inexcusable and unjustifiable. I do not question their patriotism, but I do question their judgment."

A strike would affect initially 450,000 steelworkers in the basic steel industry.

O'Brien To Be Named Postmaster General

By ALVIN SPIVAK United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI)—White House aide Lawrence F. O'Brien, a charter member of the late John F. Kennedy's "Irish mafia," soon will take over as the nation's new postmaster general.

President Johnson announced Sunday that Postmaster General John A. Gronouski, the first American of Polish descent to serve in the cabinet, would be

Rule Supporters Counting Heads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supporters of home rule for the District of Columbia counted heads in the House today and hoped enough members showed up to sign their discharge petition.

The home rule backers, urged on by President Johnson, are trying to collect 218 names—a majority of the House—on a petition to force the home rule bill out of the House committee for the District of Columbia and onto the floor for a vote.

After three days of soliciting, they got 163 signatures, 55 short of the required number. And over the weekend there was some concern about how many House members would show up today for this week's light work schedule.

Many of them apparently looked at the relatively minor bills listed for House action and left town for a few days of work in their home districts.

The District of Columbia is now governed by Congress, but under the Senate-passed bill now in the House, Washington residents would be permitted to elect a mayor and a city council.

Other congressional news: Right To Work: The administration is working to counter threats of a Senate filibuster against President Johnson's right-to-work law repeal. The law would prohibit states from banning union shop contracts.

Both Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., and Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., have said that as many as two dozen senators are ready to talk the measure to death.

nominated to be U.S. ambassador to Poland, succeeding career diplomat John Moors Cabot.

Johnson said that the 48-year-old O'Brien, as postmaster general, would "continue to be a strong right arm to the President." He lauded O'Brien, his top congressional liaison, as a "wise counselor, gifted strategist, efficient manager, and warm humanitarian."

The appointment of Gronouski to the Warsaw post, the President said, was in keeping with his 1964 pledge of "building bridges across the gulf which has divided us for two decades from the people of eastern Europe."

Johnson's appointment of O'Brien seemed to presage a return to the long tradition of politically oriented postmaster generals. The Post Office Department is a treasure trove of patronage and during most of the administrations of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower it was administered by national party chairmen.

Caution Plea Issued By Police

Police Chief Jim Conner issued his annual plea today for motorists to be extremely careful in watching for school kids.

He said many of the youngsters will be walking and riding bicycles to school for the first time and urged motorists to use extra caution when going through or approaching school zones.

He also reminded motorists that the 15-mile-an-hour school zones speed limit will be in effect around all schools.

"In addition," Conner said, "driving will be more hazardous during the morning hours and after school as there will be an extra number of motorists on the streets."

WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY—Fair with chance of few late evening thundershowers. Low tonight mid-60s, high tomorrow low-90s. Winds southerly 15-25 m.p.h.

SCHOOL BELL RINGS — Chuck, 13, left, and David, 10, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lanehart, 2222 Chestnut, find themselves preparing for school as registration day is set for tomorrow. Chuck will attend the eighth grade at Robert E. Lee Junior High, and David will be in the fifth grade at Stephen F. Austin. Classes begin Sept. 1.

Long Wait Is Over; Longer One Begins

SEABROOK, Tex. (UPI)—One long wait was over today for the families of astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles (Pete) Conrad. A longer one began.

Neither Mrs. Cooper nor Mrs. Conrad planned to go to Cape Kennedy today when their husbands arrive there for more tests and debriefing. There were so many tests to be made and so many sessions with physicians, technicians and scientists that plans called for no meeting of the astronauts and their wives until Sept. 9.

The astronauts' wives, Trudy Cooper and Janie Conrad, took their children out at dawn Sunday and watched the twinkling, speeding morning star that was the Gemini 5 going overhead on its next-to-last of 120 orbits. The spacecraft was clearly visible, zipping up from the horizon, yellowish and pale.

Two hours later, the wives and Mrs. Cooper's two daughters got confirmation by phone that all was well on splashdown. The long eight-day vigil was over.

"Wonderful," Trudy Cooper called it. It was the Coopers' 16th wedding anniversary.

"It couldn't be beaten," Mrs. Conrad said. "This is the happiest day of my life."

They enjoyed a conversation with their husbands aboard the carrier Lake Champlain, although the connection was bad.

"He sounded just great — it was good to be able to talk to him," Mrs. Cooper said of her husband. She admitted to some anxiety during the flight.

Human Body Is A Fragile Thing

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The lesson of Gemini 5 is that nature can build one man better than 10,000 men can build one machine.

To medical doctors, it is a delight. To space engineers, it is disappointing.

To one and all, it is a puzzling reversal of what they had expected when, eight years ago, it became evident man was going into space.

The human body, whether it belongs to Gordon Cooper or Charles Conrad or a coal miner or a grocery clerk, is basically a fragile thing. It cannot long stand freezing temperatures. It withers in heat. It gets tired. It becomes regularly hungry or thirsty.

A machine such as the Gemini 5 capsule, on the other hand, is a sort of engineering marvel built to take temperatures from near absolute zero to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit, shocks that perhaps would jolt a tank apart, particles of space "dust" that hit like bullets.

But when they returned after 190 hours 56 minutes in space, astronauts Cooper and Conrad were quite healthy.

The spacecraft was crippled and sick. Experts such as Dr. Charles Berry, astronaut physician, are quite willing to predict from the medical viewpoint that men—at least those with the initial training and health of Cooper and Conrad—are ready to get to the moon and back.

The first man to the moon flight will come no earlier than 1968 or 1969, however, because the machines are yet to be perfected.

It is a safe bet that, in the seven Gemini manned flights yet to come, there will be more difficulties with items such as computers, radars, control jets and the like.

Man, on the other hand, appears to be what space engineers would call a "three-sigma" factor — that is, a 99.999 per cent certainty to function as planned.

B52 Raids Are Striking At Communist Targets

SAIGON (UPI) — B52 bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command may soon attack Communist targets in South Viet Nam on a daily basis, informed military sources said today. Official spokesmen disclosed that five B52 raids had been flown in the past six days.

U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 55 missions against Communist North Viet Nam today. A spokesman said planes hit two storage areas, three barracks, eight bridges, sank four barges, damaged rail lines and blew up a supply and warehouse area.

The spokesman said all planes returned safely despite anti-aircraft fire.

Two American planes were lost Sunday in air operations on both sides of the 17th parallel. An Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down over North Viet Nam and the pilot was presumed captured after bailing out. The pilot of a prop-driven Air Force reconnaissance plane was killed in a collision over South Viet Nam.

On the ground, Communist guerrillas launched a number of attacks over a wide area late Sunday and today, including an assault Sunday in which two government outposts were overrun 55 miles southeast of Saigon.

Airborne reinforcements recaptured the outposts several hours later, but there was no report of Viet Cong casualties. Government casualties were said to be "light to moderate."

American Marines went on the offensive near the Da Nang air base, driving about 100 Viet Cong from a Vietnamese village and taking possession of the area.

Spokesmen said Guam-based B52's hit a Viet Cong stronghold in Quang Tin Province 325 miles north-northeast of Saigon on Saturday and returned Sunday to blast targets in Zone D, the notorious Communist area just north of Saigon.

The latest strikes brought to 14 the number of B52 attacks since June 18 when the big planes were first used in the Viet Nam war. The original raid also was against Zone D. The B52 is the mightiest weapon in the American arsenal of air power. The jet plane is designed to deliver nuclear bombs on targets anywhere in the world.

Student Agitation Spreads to Da Nang

SAIGON (UPI)—Student agitation against the military government spread today to Da Nang, South Viet Nam's second largest city.

More than 4,000 Vietnamese attended a Da Nang rally in which student leaders called for the ouster of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, head of the ruling military directory. Authorities made no attempt to disperse the crowd.

The student movement began eight days ago among youths in Hue, a Buddhist stronghold in the northernmost part of the country. Da Nang is about 50 miles south of Hue.

In Saigon, a delegation of students met today with Brig. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co, the defense minister, and registered complaints about universal conscription imposed by the military regime.

A student spokesman blamed part of the unrest on the presence of American soldiers in South Viet Nam. The delegation requested written clarification of the role of U.S. combat troops in the war effort. Co rejected the request.

In fighting Sunday, American Marines routed out an estimated company of 100 Communist guerrillas and took over possession of a village area five miles south of the Da Nang air base.

The Leathernecks killed five Viet Cong military spokesmen re-routed.

Striking in battalion force, the Marines swept in just south of a hill called Marble Mountain after airplanes used leaflets and loudspeakers to warn civilians of the attack. About 675 peasants scurried for safety.

School desegregation in the South had moved at a comparatively slow pace before the U.S. Office of Education this year ordered schools to accept all students or lose millions of dollars in federal funds.

There were indications that the number of Negro children attending desegregated schools this term in the South may more than double the 66,000 who enrolled last year. The 66,000 represented only 2.5 per cent of the eligible Negro students in 11 southern states.

Atlanta lowered segregation bars throughout its school system this year and the only criteria for space to be available in the school to which children are transferring.

King Enrolls His Children

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his top assistant in the civil rights movement today enrolled five of her children in a previously all-white elementary school.

King's wife brought two of her children, and Mrs. Ralph Abernathy, whose husband is vice president of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), enrolled three of her children in the Spring Street school.

The enrollment of the children took place without incident. They were among thousands of Negro youngsters who took their seats today in previously all-white southern schools as classes began.

It was the first massive desegregation of schools since the U.S. Supreme Court ordered an end of classroom discrimination in 1954.

Martin Luther King, III, and Yolanda were enrolled at Spring Street where the children of many prominent Atlanta families attend, along with Douzaleigh, Juandalynn and Ralph Abernathy, III.

Dominican Fighting Erupts Today

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Heavy fighting erupted Sunday night and continued early today between troops of the Inter-American Force (IAF) and rebel soldiers. The rebels said five civilians were killed and eight wounded.

Both sides accused the other of starting the battle near the Dominican presidential palace. It was the second consecutive night of fighting.

The shooting started with bursts of automatic weapons fire. There were at least two dozen heavier explosions from bazookas, grenades and 106 millimeter recoilless rifles.

A report by IAF headquarters said the fighting started shortly before 10 p.m. when a Brazilian company on duty near the presidential palace came under attack from the rebel zone with grenades and automatic weapons and returned the fire.

The rebels accused the Brazilians of shooting first.

Few Engaged Couples Rush to the Altar

PLANNED BLISS — Many months of shopping keep prospective bride and bridegroom busy before wedding day.

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The romantic tale of boy-meets-girl, boy-marries-girl with only enough money for a marriage license is out of date for the movies and for real life.

Bridal consultant Mrs. Barbara Wilson looks nostalgically upon her own pilgrimage into matrimony and compares her willingness to "jump into marriage" with the more cautious approach of couples now. She estimates she has consulted on 75,000 weddings in 20 years. And she is still helping brides solve their pre-wedding problems as bridal consultant in The Tailored Women here.

She was a model in Kansas City, Mo., when her suitor, a commercial artist, said he'd like to marry a girl like her but was going to New York and couldn't offer her more than "pins and feathers." She took him up on the slim diet.

This is rare in '65. Mrs. Wilson points out the normal planning period now appears to be six months to a year.

"Young people today want the best they can buy when they wed," she explains. "Many have joint savings accounts. To plan their dream wedding they go to specialists for advice."

Mrs. Wilson helps them with all facets, not just in selecting the bridal trousseau. She has written a book for brides.

She feels that most engaged couples spend their money more wisely than previous generations did. But, she says, too much still goes for trimmings, such as caterers.

The swing, too, has been to more elaborate weddings with ceremonies the couples' mothers didn't have when they married during World War II or immediately after. In contrast to this, though, Mrs. Wilson says that "mother also is not running the show as before World War II."

Mrs. Wilson is all for the shopping and planning togetherness. She feels decision-making during shopping forays "tends to gear them to each other." "I see the poor dears trying to make a decision and when they disagree, one always seems to melt at the right time."

However, things have changed regarding who is boss. "Girls used to listen to the man completely. No longer," she says. "The change is the result of the working woman." "Now they discuss everything," but occasionally the woman shops alone because the bridegroom "to be shows no interest."

The prewedding period really is a shakedown experience for couples, according to Mrs. Wilson.

A major problem in helping couples shop for their first home is the "amazing lack of confidence most have in their own taste. I also try to steer them away from status buying," she points out. "The more they shop around, the more secure they become."

She also learned that men's tastes generally are more conservative than women's. Men tend to "go for elegance, look for simplicity of design and encourage their future wives to select fine china and sterling silver, even for everyday use." The men take over when it comes to buying mattresses, bedding and furniture and check the mechanics of items.

"The trend definitely is for young couples to put their money where their interests are," she says. However, this may mean the status buying she deplores.

A recent sampling of Syracuse University men students showed that 92 per cent answering a questionnaire believed an attractive home was an indication of a man's business success and 72.5 per cent felt it indirectly aided his achievement of business success.

The survey also showed the men liked sparkling glassware (83 per cent), steaming silverware (70 per cent) and a dinner table set tastefully every day (68 per cent) rather than just on special occasions. They disliked plastic dinnerware, poor quality flatware, chipped dishes and lap suckers.

Anti-Accidents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Luther L. Terry, U.S. surgeon general, recently called for a broad attack against accidents.

"We need to give accidents the same kind of attention we give to disease," he said. "Only heart disease, cancer and strokes outrank accidents among our leading causes of death. But these degenerative diseases reap their grim harvest mainly among older people, while accidents lead all other causes in all age groups between one and 35."

Impairment

NEW YORK (UPI) — Underweight at birth is likely to produce impairment in children by ages six to seven, reports a team of Johns Hopkins researchers.

Dr. Gerald Weiner and associates studied two groups of children, 442 of whom had been premature with birth weights under 5½ pounds and 415 of whom were born at term with weights over that. The underweight group showed impairment in such factors as motor function, perception, speech and I.Q. Extent of impairment rose as recorded weight decreased.

Hardened paint spots on washable fabrics can be removed by moistening both sides of the material with turpentine so the paint will soften. Scrape off moistened paint, then apply another dose of turpentine. Finish off by washing the garment in hot suds.

Dangerous Age
NEW YORK (UPI) — Youngsters most frequently ingest poisons at the age of two, Public Health Service studies show.

Medicines around the house cause more than half the accidental poisonings in children

Little Red Schoolhouses Give Help
PRINCETON, N. J. (UPI) — Two little red schoolhouses have come to the rescue of the public education system here. Princeton will lease two school buildings for one year — with an option to renew — from C. I. T. Educational Buildings, Inc. of New York, which will erect them on Princeton High School property. They'll be used for science and driver-training classes.

The relocatable structures in Colonial style will be painted red in the tradition of rural and small town American education, and Princeton needs them for a reason familiar to towns with a less intellectual atmosphere: an overcrowded high school.

Dear Abby....

There's a Good And Bad to All Situations

DEAR ABBY: Like a lot of other people, I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby, but here's my problem: I am 19 and the guy I'm in love with is also 19. We went together during our senior year in high school. Then we broke up. About six months later we started dating again. He gave me his class ring and we talked about marriage. I guess he thought because I had his ring he could get anything he wanted. I told him I wasn't that kind of girl, ring or no ring. He said I was "too good" and then he started "too timing me." I found out about it and gave him back his ring. Now, he's dating other girls and I am sitting home. Other guys have called me but I don't want to go with anyone but him because I still love him. How can I get him back?

DEAR "TOO GOOD": If a fellow gives you the air because you're "too good," you are too good — for him! Sell out now to "get him back" and you'll be buying a relationship at the cost of your self-respect. I advise you to go with others and maintain your high standards. And eventually, you'll wind up with a good man who wants a good girl.

DEAR ABBY: You have always said in your column that the wedding day is the bride's day and she should have her wishes. Our son will marry a divorced woman in November. He is very much in love with her and she seems like a nice person. Our son is 32 and she is 28. The bride-to-be has a seven-year old son. Her father is a pastor and he will perform the marital rites. My question: Is it proper for this little seven-year-old boy to escort his mother to the altar? She has a 24-year-old brother who could do it. The bride has planned everything else in such good taste. But this seems out of place to me. Or am I wrong?

DEAR VIRGINIAN: If you are wrong, we both are because I agree with you. The bride's brother could escort her to the altar. If he insists on having her son in the wedding party, he could be the ring-bearer.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle something once and for all? Does a person have to sign his name in order to get his letter answered in your column? I know you will not use the person's name in the paper if he asks you not to, but someone told me that unless a letter is signed you will not use it. Also, do you ever answer letters personally to people who want advice but do not want their letters in the paper? Thank you.

DEAR CONFUSED: Unsigned letters received the same consideration for publication in my column as signed letters. And all letters accompanied by a stamped self-addressed envelope are answered personally. No "real" names appear in my column without the permission of the writer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PICKLED IN TROY": You need a new dill.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions."

Mrs. Thelma Lee Corse Dellis. Mrs. Thelma Lee Corse Dellis, 61, of Fritch, died Sunday in a local hospital. Mrs. Dellis was a long-time resident of the Texas Panhandle, her family having moved to the Mobeetie area in 1907.

Mrs. Dellis worked for many years as deputy tax assessor and collector at Miami, and later Amarillo. She is a charter member of the First Christian Church in Fritch, and also was active in many civic activities.

Mrs. Dellis was born Dec. 14, 1903, in Wapanuka, Indian Territory, Oklahoma.

She is survived by her husband, Nolan Dellis of Fritch; three daughters, Mrs. Herbert E. Bruce of Juneau, Alaska, Mrs. Vernie Dye and Mrs. Bill Craig, both of Pampa; two brothers, Arthur S. Corse of Sunray and Kenneth Corse of Mobeetie, and 10 grandchildren.

Duenkel Funeral Home will be in charge of funeral services to be held at First Southern Convention Baptist Church in Fritch at 3 p.m. tomorrow. Interment will be in Westlawn Memorial Park Cemetery on the Borger-Fritch Highway. Services will be conducted by Rev. Orley C. Herman, minister of First Christian Church of Fritch, assisted by Rev. F. W. Elmore of First Southern Convention Baptist Church.

The family requests any memorials be sent to the Licensed Vocational Nurse Association Student Loan Fund in care of John Hair, secretary, Highland General Hospital, or to the First Christian Church in Fritch.

Pallbearers will be Dan Hall, Phil Altendorf, Elmer Fonken, W. G. Groves, Jack Hendrix and Jim West.

Albert Ray Burris
Funeral services for Albert Ray Burris, 36, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Clark Funeral Home Chapel, St. Louis, Mo. Burial will be in Jefferson Barracks National Cemetery.

Mr. Burris was pronounced dead at a doctor's office in Miami at 5 p.m. Saturday. He was enroute from Schweinfurt, Germany to Fort Carson, Colo. He and his family had been living in Schweinfurt for the past three years. In the U.S. Army for the past eighteen and one-half years, he was a platoon sergeant.

George Washington Duke
Funeral services for George Washington Duke, 70, of 1026 S. Gray, who died at 11:40 a.m. Sunday, will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Macedonia Baptist Church with Rev. E. Felton Nelson officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Mr. Duke was born Oct. 16, 1895, in Clarksville. He moved to Pampa from Clarksville 35 years ago. Mr. Duke was employed as a delivery man for Hi-Land Pharmacy and was a member of the Church of God in Christ.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Ena Duke of the home; one son, Leamon Duke, and one daughter, Mrs. Lucy Buntin, both of Pampa; one sister, Mrs. Bessie Teal of Pampa; four brothers, Lewis Duke of Clarksville, J. P. Duke and Lonnie Duke, both of Houston, and Odus Duke of Phoenix, Ariz.; nine grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Lee Mathews, Jerome Henry, R. C. Cary, Robert Ellison, Thelma Dunn and Jessie Bailey.

Mrs. Henry (Dollie) Bunch
Funeral services for Mrs. Henry (Dollie) Bunch, 81, of 609 N. Cuyler, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Central Church of Christ with R. J. Stevens, minister, officiating. Burial, under the direction of Duenkel Funeral Home, will be in Fairview Cemetery by the side of her husband, Joe Bunch, who preceded her in death in 1947.

Mrs. Bunch was born in Knox City. She died at her home Friday night.

Pallbearers will be Clyde Cox, H. E. Saunders, C. H. Brickey, John Truby, Evert Goad and Lawrence Lee.

Mrs. Anna Christina Margaretta Leslie
Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Christina Margaretta Leslie, 80, mother of Mrs. Dean Prall of 124 N. Nelson, will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Avoca, Iowa in the Trinity Lutheran Church with Rev. Joseph Gerit officiating. Burial will be in Graceland Cemetery, Avoca. Arrangements here are under the direction of Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Leslie was born Aug. 3, 1885, in Mitchell, S. C. She died at 3:05 p.m. yesterday in her daughter's home where she had lived the past year. Mrs. Leslie came to Pampa a year ago from Burbank, Calif. She was a member of the Burbank Oddfellow Lodge 168, Rebekah Lodge, World War II Inc., and the Presbyterian Church.

Other than Mrs. Prall, survivors include one other daughter, Mrs. Earl Shiffer of Burbank, Calif.; three sons, Earnest Leslie of Burbank, Calif., Earle P. Leslie of New Hartford, Iowa, and Richard D. Leslie of Omaha, Neb.; three sisters, Mrs. Venus Kreiger and Mrs. Mary Thomason, both of Avoca, Iowa, and Mrs. Herschel Siemering of Omaha, Neb.; two brothers, Henry L. Neve of Denver, Colo., and Herbert J. Neve of Bedford, Iowa; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Services Set For Amarillo Investor
Funeral services for A. L. Graham, 39, of Amarillo were scheduled to be held at 4 p.m. today in Amarillo.

Graham, killed in a private plane crash Friday, was owner of the Hallmark School for Exceptional Children in Pampa and was a stockholder in the Pampa Convalescent Center.

Services will be conducted in the Central Church of Christ. Graham was also owner of the Southwest Convalescent Center in Amarillo and was a well-known investor and builder.

He died Friday when the twin engine plane he was flying attempted to take off from a Lowake, Tex., landing strip.

The crash also claimed the life of Bill Sams, 42, of Knox City, Tex.

He examined the astronauts on their return to the carrier aboard a helicopter which plucked them from the Atlantic Ocean after they landed 102.3 miles short of their target area Sunday at 8:55 a.m. EDT.

Cool Front Is Expected Here
A cool front was expected to move into Pampa and the Panhandle area tonight dropping temperatures as much as 4 degrees.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said temperatures as much as four of the state could drop as much as 4 degrees below normal during the next five days, with even lower readings by the weekend.

Showers fell over widely scattered portions of Texas yesterday for the second straight day and held temperatures in the lower 90s.

Pampa's high yesterday was 91 degrees while the overnight low was 68 degrees this morning.

Major Lanz To Speak Tonight

Major Pedro H. Lanz, former aide to Castro, who defected to the U.S. when the country turned Communist, will speak to the Pampa Optimist Club at 6:30 p.m. today.

The public has been invited to attend the meeting and hear Lanz. According to Newt Seacrest, anyone desiring to eat with the club should contact him and make reservations, however, if they only want to hear Lanz they should come about 7:30 p.m.

Lanz, on a speaking tour of the Panhandle, is former head of the Cuban Air Force and was a high ranking official in the Cuban government under Castro.

He denounced the bearded leader when Castro turned to Communism.

Budget Hearing Set Tomorrow
A public hearing on Pampa's 1965-66 budget is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. tomorrow in the commission room at City Hall.

A recommendation that council meetings be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month will be made by City Manager Jim White.

The city manager said meetings on those days will enable better handling of the city's monthly bills.

Other matters on the agenda tomorrow will include canvassing of the charter amendment election return and payment of election officials.

Browns Keep On Winning; Packers Find Dallas Tough

By United Press International
The Cleveland Browns story improves with every chapter, although the plot is repetitious and the cast familiar.

Cleveland drubbed Detroit 28-14 in an exhibition game Sunday and as usual it was the same old story — fullback Jimmy Brown keeping the defense honest with his running and Frank Ryan passing to flanker-back Gary Collins. The same trio worked successfully against the Baltimore Colts in the championship game last year, with Collins snaring three touchdown tosses from Ryan in the Browns' 27-0 triumph.

RUN TO DAYLIGHT — Baltimore Colts fullback Jerry Hill gets a block from teammate Alex Sandusky (68) and momentarily breaks into the open as Wayne Walker (55) and Bruce Maher (21) of the Detroit Lions try to stop him.

The victory over Detroit was an ominous occurrence for the rest of the National Football League. The Browns have beaten Detroit only twice since entering the league in 1950 — in the 1952 championship game and during last season's banner campaign.

Ryan completed eight of 15 aerials Sunday, including an 11-yard scoring pass to Collins, while Brown reeled off a 43-yard run for a touchdown and plunged from two yards out for another score. The Browns, leading 21-0 at intermission en route to their fourth preseason victory without a loss, rested Ryan, Collins and Brown in the second half.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Johnson Launches Phils Hopes in NL Title Race

By United Press International
Alex Johnson ended his own eight-day ride in space Sunday with a big splash in Philadelphia.

The bull-shouldered 22-year-old Philadelphia outfielder wasn't getting anywhere on his ride, however, which was confined to space on the Phillies' bench.

Johnson, despite leading the Phillies in batting with a .311 mark and boasting more speed on the basepaths than any of his teammates, had not cracked the Philadelphia starting lineup since Aug. 21 and had only one pinch-hitting appearance during that period.

Finally liberated from the bench Sunday only because a lefthanded pitcher (Claude Osteen) was facing the Phillies, Johnson promptly put the Philadelphia pennant hopes back on the launching pad, belting a two-run homer, a double, two singles and driving in five runs in a 13-3 victory over the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Dodgers, however, retained their 1 1/2 game lead over Cincinnati, which lost to St. Louis 10-4. San Francisco returned to a virtual tie with the Reds by belting New York 8-3. Chicago thumped Milwaukee 10-7 and Pittsburgh moved within 4 1/2 games by stopping Houston 4-2.

In the American League, Cleveland downed Minnesota 3-1, Detroit beat Los Angeles 2-1, Washington whipped Baltimore 5-4 in 12 innings, New York topped Kansas City 4-3 and the Chicago White Sox whipped Boston twice by identical scores of 3-2, the first game going 14 innings.

The Dallas Cowboys surprised Green Bay by dumping the previously unbeaten Packers 21-12 Saturday night. Don Meredith hit Buddy Dial with a 45-yard touchdown toss, Don Perkins ran four yards for another touchdown and Amos Marsh went over from the one as the Cowboys held Green Bay to four field goals.

The Baltimore Colts drubbed the Pittsburgh Steelers 38-10 behind Johnny Unitas, who threw two first-half touchdown passes then directed a relentless Baltimore running attack in the second stanza. John Mackey and Jimmy Orr scored on passes and Mike Curtis and Gary Cuozzo ran for scores.

Minnesota stopped Washington on the Viking 23-yard line with one minute remaining to eke out a 20-16 victory over the Redskins. Don Osborn sprinted 28 yards for a Viking touchdown and Lee Calland scored on a pilfered Sonny Jurgenson aerial.

Johnson has appeared in 79 games this season, almost all against lefthanded pitching in Manager Gene Mauch's outfield platoon system. He is also trying to live down a minor league reputation for being a poor outfielder, which he says is a hum.

Johnson has never hit below .300 in four seasons of organized ball and he batted .303 in 43 games for the Phillies after they called him up for the first time at the end of last season.

Included in the Phillies' 15-hit attack were home runs by Pat Corrales, Bobby Wine and Richie Allen. Tony Taylor added a steal of home as Ray Culp went the distance for the Phillies, yielding five hits and fanning five to even his record at 9-9.

Willie Mays set a record for most homers in one month and passed Lou Gehrig to move into fifth place on the all-time homer list by whacking his 494th roundtripper and 41st of the season off starter and loser Jack Fisher. The three-run blast was Mays' 17th of the month, breaking the NL mark set by Ralph Kiner in September, 1949. San Francisco's Bob Bolin (8-4) worked the first six innings allowing six hits and Masanori Murakami finished up.

Ernie Banks and Ron Santo each hit two home runs and Billy Williams, who had beaten the Braves the two previous games on homers, also connected as the Cubs handed Milwaukee its sixth straight loss and eighth in the last nine games. Bill Faul scattered seven hits to win his fourth in seven decisions and Hank Finner (5-6) was the loser.

Curt Flood collected three hits and Dick Groat and Julian Javier each drove in two runs as the Cardinals kayoed Cincinnati.

The Dallas Cowboys surprised Green Bay by dumping the previously unbeaten Packers 21-12 Saturday night. Don Meredith hit Buddy Dial with a 45-yard touchdown toss, Don Perkins ran four yards for another touchdown and Amos Marsh went over from the one as the Cowboys held Green Bay to four field goals.

The Baltimore Colts drubbed the Pittsburgh Steelers 38-10 behind Johnny Unitas, who threw two first-half touchdown passes then directed a relentless Baltimore running attack in the second stanza. John Mackey and Jimmy Orr scored on passes and Mike Curtis and Gary Cuozzo ran for scores.

Minnesota stopped Washington on the Viking 23-yard line with one minute remaining to eke out a 20-16 victory over the Redskins. Don Osborn sprinted 28 yards for a Viking touchdown and Lee Calland scored on a pilfered Sonny Jurgenson aerial.

Rookie Gale Sayers went 77 yards on a punt return, 93 yards on a kickoff and passed 25 yards for another touchdown to lead the Chicago Bears to 28-14 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams and Philadelphia substitute quarterback Jack Concannon ran two yards for a touchdown and passed 24 for another as the Eagles humbled the New York Giants 34-13.

In the American Football League, Pete Beathard drove Kansas City 63 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter and Tommy Brooker booted four field goals to pace the Chiefs to an 18-16 triumph over the AFL champion Buffalo Bills.

... veteran quarterback George Blanda kicked three field goals and engineered a 76-yard touchdown march as the Houston Oilers won their fourth consecutive exhibition game, a 25-3 triumph over the Denver Broncos.

... San Diego, behind John Hadl, who completed 21 of 36 passes for 180 yards, scored 36 points.

Fox Wins Booker Golf in Playoff

BOOKER (Sp.) — Pampa's Don Fox won a sudden death play-off Sunday to capture first place in the first annual Booker Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament.

Fox, Pampa's Bill Ellis and Bill Gray of Perryton tied for first place with 78 scores for the regular 18 holes. Gray had a bogey five on the first hole while the others had fours to take third.

Ellis and Gray tied on the second playoff hole, but Ellis won on the third hole with a par five.

Pat O'Hara of Laverne, Okla., won the A flight with 81. Ted Roach of Follett won the B flight with 85 and Perryton's Bud Newhorn had 88 to win the C flight. The tournament drew 74 entries.

BUDAPEST — Hungry won two gold medals to edge the United States in victories, 16-14, in the World University Games.

NEW YORK — Willie Mays moved into fifth place on the all-time home run record list and broke the National League record for homers in a single month.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Atmosphere of Lawlessness

Dwight Eisenhower observed the other day that this nation seemed to be becoming "atmosphered" in a spirit of lawlessness.

It was a good choice of words, for lawlessness is indeed all around us, like the atmosphere. It is only on those fortunately rare occasions when it wells up into a destructive storm like the rioting in Los Angeles — which was what occasioned the former president's remarks — that we take note of it. But lawlessness is an ever-present phenomenon, so much so that the great danger is that we may become accustomed to it and accept it as the normal way of things.

It ranges all the way from overt acts of lawbreaking by criminal elements to a general disregard of traffic regulations, from the nefarious activities of the professional con artist to the man who cheats just a little on his income tax return.

It is characterized by one thing held in common both by criminals and by otherwise law-abiding citizens — contempt for laws we don't like.

The one may justify his behavior by reasoning that anything is all right so long as he isn't caught; the other, with the rationalization that no one is being hurt by his actions.

Of late, as a dubious consequence of the civil rights struggle, another justification has become popular. This is that unjust laws are not laws at all, that in fact allegiance to true law and true justice compels us to resist and disobey unjust laws wherever they are found.

This is a noble doctrine, one which over the centuries has inspired countless men to fight tyranny — from the early Christians to the legendary William Tell to our own revolutionaries of 1776.

It is, however, an idea that can easily become debased — and dangerous — when we seek to apply it to our own personal ends. There are bad laws and foolish regulations, but in this country there are ways of changing them other than violence or public or private disobedience.

The law is, basically, the body of rules by which we attempt to regulate our daily activities in order to live together in the greatest harmony and to reach the best balance between community stability and individual freedom. In a democracy, the law is, ultimately, the consensus of the majority as to how to achieve this end.

Majority wisdom is not infallible. It is often wrong, and it changes slowly. But in a society operating in an atmosphere of growing contempt for the law, all law — good or bad — eventually loses its meaning.

More Than John Can Bear

Every so often some individual makes a contribution to a happier way of life for his fellow men by doing something that takes our minds off our worries, even if for only a moment.

Such a benefactor is a 69-year-old Californian named John Libi. Perhaps you may have never heard of John Libi — at least not until he started climbing Mt. Ararat in search of Noah's Ark.

But by now you probably know that four times John Libi has climbed up the mountain, way over in Dogubayazit, Turkey — a long way from California.

And four times the bears who live up on the mountain have chased John Libi back down.

John is now making his fifth attempt. And by the time you read this he may have talked some sense into those bears' heads and they may be letting him go ahead with his search. Possibly even helping him.

Why is John Libi so determined to find Noah's Ark? The bears are probably wondering too. And the answer is that John Libi is an explorer, and Noah's Ark is something an explorer doesn't explore every day.

A man looking for Noah's Ark and getting chased away by bears is also something this weary old world doesn't read about every day — and most of us find it extremely interesting.

So thank you, John Libi, for providing a most refreshing break in what seems a long stretch of worrisome news. Good luck to you.

And as for you bears, shame on you! Where would you be if Noah had acted like that?

Easy for Him to Talk

Is it true what they say about mothers-in-law?

A survey of 7,000 wrecked marriages has convinced the Rev. Fr. Francis Ripley, head of the Roman Catholic Information Office in Liverpool, England, that it is.

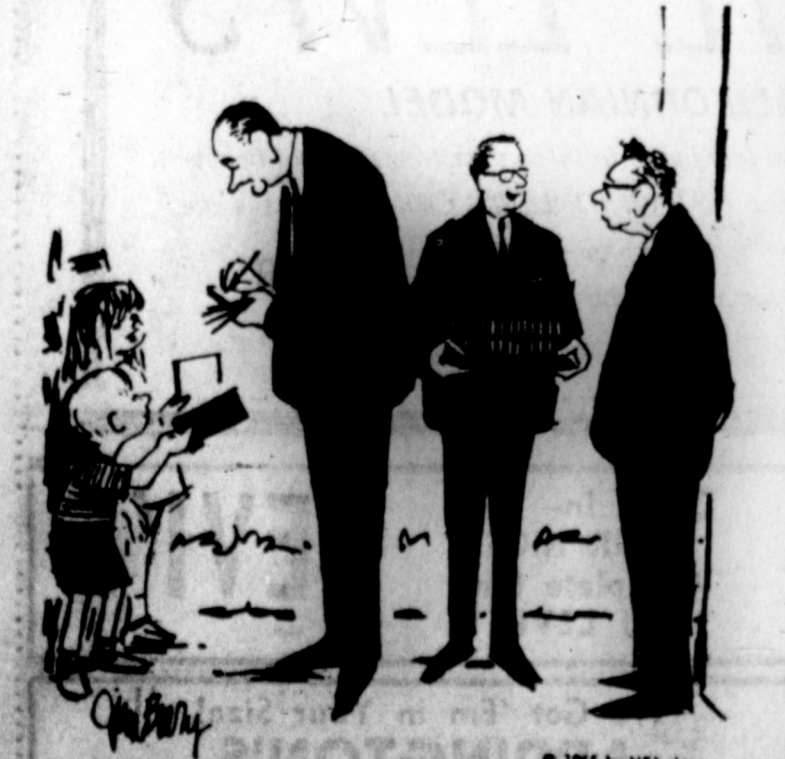

And while Father Ripley blames the husband's mother more than the wife's for stirring up marital trouble, he includes mothers-in-law on both sides in pleading with them to keep hands off the married lives of their children.

To the married couples themselves he suggests: "Get a home of your own far enough away to make it a bit of an effort for mothers to visit too often."

Now it takes a forthright person to speak so frankly on so touchy a subject, and you have to go to Father Ripley.

But suppose the statements had been made by a man who HAD a mother-in-law?

Does Life Exist on Earth? NEW YORK (NEA) — Actually, we know better than to question anything that appears in The New York Times. As everybody knows, if there were no Times, God would have to invent one.

In this instance, however, we must set aside our better judgment and take issue with a by-line up there named Russell Baker who claims to be just as happy that science did not find life on Mars.

If life exists elsewhere in the cosmos, the Baker essay says, it will probably not take the form of people — or any other creature that can answer questions, take you to its leader, and in general communicate intelligently with people.

It is much more likely, according to the Baker theory, that other life in the cosmos will take the form of helks, jerns, obglots, gwerqs, or similar creatures that cannot talk.

If they communicate in any way, the Baker piece says, it is by sneezing. And trying to communicate with a sneezing helk would be like trying to get the time of day from a hippopotamus.

It is, therefore, great good luck that science has found no life on Mars, the Baker hypothesis concludes. The taxpayer has been saved billions of dollars in research grants, and astronauts have been saved considerable hardship in trying to smeen with the helks.

Exactly why the theory ends up with that conclusion is very difficult to understand. Our guess is that it has something to do with working for the Times where any creature that does not have a complete communication every day is considered to be out of order, and consequently a waste of time and money.

Besides, it seems to us, an intelligible communication is no guarantee that it comes from intelligent life.

We can support that axiom with quite a few firsthand experiences — including a memo we received in Dar-es-salaam, Tanganyika, announcing a giant economy wave and ordering us to restrict our transportation to subways and buses.

It also occurs to us that there are a number of neighborhoods on this continent — from Los Angeles to Quebec — where there is very little to be learned by asking human people to take you to their leader.

And just for the record, when it comes to jerns and obglots, The New York Times can smeen with the best of them.

All that, of course, is beside the point. The fact of the matter is, we do not share in any happiness over finding Mars lifeless.

If what science says is true — that the planet probably cannot support life — what is the evidence that it can exist on earth?

We have it on good authority, for example, that the earth's atmosphere contains quite a bit of oxygen. And if that is so, then the higher forms of life may have rusted away long ago. For all we know, the Times may be completely edited by ferns.

And as to the lower forms of life — Well, we have been informed that the air is badly overloaded with pollutants. And what potable water there is cannot support abundant life.

But whether life can exist on earth is neither here nor there. What worries us is whether it really does exist.

From where we sit, behind a pillar and against the wall, a number of possibilities seem awfully likely.

The earth could have been created billions of years ago. Certainly there are relics and fossils to indicate it.

On the other hand, the earth could have been created 4004 years ago by God, with older relics and fossils to keep the scientists busy.

Or else the earth was created five minutes ago, with ancient relics and fossils for the scientists, and memories of the 1939 World's Fair for everybody else.

Or, perhaps, the earth has not been created at all and is only a passing fancy in somebody's mind.

That is the worst possibility of all. To think that we may be only a figment of your imagination, and that we disappear into thin air when you come to the end of this column...

We would settle happily for a helk or two on Mars. Even if it does not smeen. We would settle for anything alive out there.

Bobby Kennedy Considering Bid To Speak in South Africa; Government Unhappy

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Senator Robert Kennedy, D. N. Y., is making plans to do some foreign traveling—including a possible visit to race-troubled South Africa.

The National Union of South African Students, militantly opposed to that government's apartheid policies, has invited him to deliver an address at the University of Cape Town. The occasion would be the organization's "National Day of Affirmation of Academic and Human Freedom."

Assistants of Kennedy say he is "considering the matter." There is no indication when he might make a decision.

The South African government is uneasily closely watching the situation.

The likelihood of a visit and public address by the brother and close confidant of the late President, certain to attract world attention, confronts that government with an unhappy dilemma.

On one hand, as a leading anti-segregationist, civil rights and youth champion, Kennedy's presence could have explosive impact in South Africa. On the other, it would be awkward for the government to refuse admittance to a member of the August U. S. Senate.

The Johnson Administration also is keeping a wary eye on this time-bomb.

For important strategic, economic and scientific reasons, the Administration is treading warily in dealing with South Africa. Foremost among the latter are the highly prized U.S. tracking station and other space facilities there.

The last thing the Administration wants is to become embroiled in a hassle over a visit to South Africa by Kennedy.

It couldn't stop it if it wanted to, and at the same time it could be extremely embarrassing.

"SIGNIFICANT SILENCE" — This backstage attitude is particularly accentuated by the White House's acute awareness that neither the young New York Senator nor his brother, the Senator from Massachusetts, has yet said a word in support of the Administration's Viet Nam policy.

Neither has voiced any criticism. They have just been mute. While virtually every other Democratic senator, particularly the group of young liberals elected with "Bobby" last year, has taken a stand one way or another, the two Kennedy brothers have been silent.

To White House insiders, this is singularly curious in view of the fact that Bobby, as his late brother's closest adviser, definitely had a hand in the latter's considerable expansion of U.S. military forces and operations in Viet Nam.

When President Kennedy took over the reins in 1961, the U. S.

Anything. Just so long as it put an end to this cosmic solitary isolation.

had less than 1,000 military advisers in South Viet Nam. At the time of his death in November 1963, the number had risen to more than 15,000, and the tenor of U. S. armed support had undergone a marked change.

As a Senator, Bobby has made three foreign affairs speeches. In none has he said anything about the grim and increasingly expanding Viet Nam struggle.

In one address, he implicitly criticized the Administration for not doing more to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons. His remarks were viewed as intimating President Johnson was moving too slowly in contrast to his predecessor's efforts.

In a speech last month, Bobby again took what was generally deemed a slap at the Administration. In the text given the press he asserted the U. S. should emphasize political rather than military solutions for recurring revolutions in emerging nations. Also that "victory in a revolutionary war is won not by escalation but by de-escalation."

These paragraphs were quickly deleted when newsmen inquired whether they were aimed at intervention in the Dominican Republic. This was denied by Kennedy, who told reporters, "I don't regard my speech as criticism of President Johnson."

While the Kennedy brothers voted for the President's first $700 million supplemental Viet Nam appropriation, it is known Bobby considered challenging it on the ground it was a blank check.

Democratic opponents of the Viet Nam policy urged him to take the lead in raising that issue. After some deliberation, he decided against it.

Subsequently, a close New York press friend quoted him as saying, "I believe we have erred for some time in regarding Viet Nam as purely a military problem when in its essential aspects it is also a political and diplomatic problem. I would wish, for example, that the request for this appropriation had made provisions for programs to better the lives of the people of South Viet Nam. For success will depend not only on protecting the people from aggression, but on giving them hope for a better life which alone can fortify them for the labor and sacrifice ahead."

If and when Bobby, and his brother will speak out on Viet Nam remains to be seen.

So far, as one White House insider sardonically remarked, "They have maintained a significant silence. What that means is anyone's guess. Of course, there is the theory that if you're not for us, you're against us."

WHAT PRESIDENT KENNEDY SAID — The record is clearcut on President Kennedy's views about Viet Nam. Following are illustrative highlights:

August 2, 1961: "The United States is determined that the Republic of South Viet Nam

Despite arguments to the contrary, the nation's biggest industry is gambling, with a $50-billion-a-year revenue. That and other pertinent data was gleaned from reading John Scarne's intensely interesting book, "Complete Guide to Gambling" (Simon & Schuster). Scarne scares you with his assertion that 86 million Americans wager $500 billion a year, of which the operators retain at least 10 percent. Every aspect of every game of chance and skill is considered and explained. As gambling consultant to several governments and half a dozen of the world's top casinos, Scarne knows the gambling world from the inside. He is brutally frank in imparting the knowledge of 30 years of study. It's a great book and if half the guys and dolls who like to bet a buck or two would buy it, they might learn something and improve their systems. Besides, Scarne might become a millionaire. Maybe he's betting on that.

Today's smile: A fellow, asking for a raise from his employer, said: "I've been around here 10 years doing three men's work for one man's pay. I want a raise." His employer said: "I can't give you a raise, but if you tell me who the other two men are I'll fire them and then I can afford it."

January 1962: "The systematic aggression now bleeding South Viet Nam is not a 'war of liberation' for that country is already free. It is a war of attempted subjugation, and it will be determinedly resisted."

January 31, 1962: "The situation in Viet Nam is one that is of greatest concern to us. The United States has increased its help to that government."

February 1962: "We are prepared to offer every assistance we can to the Viet Nam government to make it a more effective instrument for the people of that country."

July 1963: "In my opinion for us to withdraw from Viet Nam would mean collapse not only of South Viet Nam but all of Southeast Asia."

September 1963: "What helps to win the war we support; what interferes with the war effort we oppose. We want the war to be won, the communists to be contained, and the Americans to go home."

October 1963: "The security of South Viet Nam is of major interest to the United States as of other free nations. We will adhere to our policy of working with the people and the government of South Viet Nam to deny their country to communism and to suppress the externally stimulated and supported insurgency of the Viet Cong."

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

How to Tell Good Decision From Bad Ahead of Time?

By SAM CAMPBELL Business Edition

If through your life time you make more right decisions than wrong decisions, it stands to reason you will succeed.

The first order of business, therefore, is to inquire into the nature of decision-making.

Is decision-making an art? Is decision-making a science? Is it merely trial and error? Is it guesswork?

Who Knows?

Don't look to me for the answer. I don't know. But there's a fellow who says that decision-making is a science, that bad and good decisions can be identified in advance.

He is E. L. (Bud) Shaner, chairman of the board of Shaner Corporation, the business of which is to conduct seminars in decision-making.

Dr. Shaner has made a series of statements that indicate his basic approach to the subject. A Great Society, he said, is composed of Great Individuals.

A Great Society is the result of Great Individuals making great decisions.

A great company like a Great Society is composed of Great Individuals.

Those statements, once uttered, appear self-evident. Yet, as Dr. Shaner pointed out, management training of today's variety rests on a group concept of decision-making and the university's today teach "groupism."

Shaner holds that decisions are made by individuals. He also holds that bad decisions are not necessarily the forerunner to the making of good decisions.

"If you can't tell prior to making a bad decision that the decision will be bad, then I would be reluctant to rely on your decision-making ability," he said.

He asserted that decisions are implemented for one purpose only — to achieve the objective, but that 99 per cent of the 800 students he has worked with did not know at the outset of the seminar what an objective is.

As an example, he cited an aircraft company that achieved what its top management thought was its objective, but failed. It made many fine airplanes, but neglected to make a profit.

Shaner says his approach worked for him. He built the theory during an eight-year stint in the hospital. He credits the philosophy for his own financial success (which happens to be substantial).

Dr. Shaner did not reveal to me specifically his formula for decision-making. That is what he has to sell. So all I can say is that I talked with him at length and was impressed that he has a message.

BY H. L. HUNT

From the way some people talk and appear to think, it would seem that the worst label you can pin on an idea nowadays is to call it "old-fashioned."

There can be fashions in dress and manners and custom and habit. There can even be fashions in morals, the people in some periods holding to a higher standard than those of different times.

But good and evil are not fashions. They are existing fundamentals and true designations.

Some today regard it as "sophisticated" to deny this fact of existence. They devote a great deal of time to making fun of good and explaining evil away. After doing this, they announce that there really is no difference between them, and never was.

Then they wonder what is happening to our young people today, why even the best of them too often lose a sense of personal ambition and purpose, while the worst prey on their fellowmen like wild beasts in the concrete jungles of our great cities.

Good and evil exist. But their existence can be ignored. We can cease to honor the good and condemn the evil. The result, naturally enough, will be that more and more men will do what is wrong, because the way of evil often seems easy while the way of good just as often seems hard.

To point out these simple facts and their obvious consequences is regarded as "old-fashioned" by the chic and sophisticated. Perhaps that attitude is in itself one of the darkest examples of evil in our time.

AMENDMENT NO. 4
To the Rules of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian River, Texas.

In accordance with Section 58 of Article 16 of the Texas Constitution with Article 7853C as amended and with the Acts of the 53rd Legislature (1955), page 17, Chapter 10, Sec. 58, the following amendment is hereby adopted to the Rules of the District by the Board of Directors:

An Amendment to the Rules of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian River, Texas, with District Office located in White Deer, Texas, is hereby amended to read as follows:

AMENDMENT
Rule 24. PLAGGING TRIASSIC WELLS. Any well or test hole drilled through the Ogallala into the underlying Triassic or Red Bed formation in the underlying Triassic Formation.

1. If it is proposed to produce the Triassic water, the well shall be set through the Ogallala and into the Triassic a minimum of 10 feet and cement to the surface.

2. If it is proposed to abandon the Triassic portion of the well, the following procedure will be observed:

a. If the well is placed in the well below the top of the Triassic, the well shall be filled with dirt, rock, mud or similar material to a level on top of the Ogallala. The base of the Ogallala shall be sufficient cement added to fill the hole to the level of the Ogallala.

b. If casing has been set through the Ogallala and the performance below the Ogallala is such that the well shall be cemented with a cement plug at least 10 feet in height placed in the casing below the base of the Ogallala, and above the highest perforation in the Triassic.

3. If blank casing (no perforations) is set through the Triassic, then either cement shall be pumped below the Ogallala and set in sufficient volume to the annulus between the pipe and the hole up to the base of the casing. The cement casing shall be removed from the well and the Triassic formation shall be cemented with pp. 11 above.

4. Publication. This Amendment shall be published once in one or more newspapers having general circulation within the District, and effective 15 days after date of the first publication.

5. Denial. Ground Water Conservation District No. 3, South of the Canadian River, Texas, (1955).

Impact, Texas, Is One Town Built by Booze

By DICK WEST
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dur-

white with foam. And what did I discover that impressed me the most? I'm glad you asked that question. All things considered, I believe my most memorable discovery was Impact, Tex.

OPEN FLAME BROILING

... makes the delicious difference!

Savor that backyard cook-out flavor in every Burger Chef hamburger.

 APPLE TURNOVERS 15¢

"Welcome to the town that booze built," he said. "Allow me to present you with the key to the city."
 He handed me a beer can opener.

A lot of towns in Texas have names that promise more than they can deliver. Big Sandy, for instance, is neither large nor dune-like. Grand Saline is neither magnificent nor very salty.

But Impact is one town that truly lives up to its name. It has become one of the nation's most successful do-it-yourself antipoverty projects.

Until about two years ago, Impact was just a shabby little settlement of 100 people on the outskirts of the city of Abilene. As Perkins pointed out, we would have had to upgrade the place to qualify for state clearance.

Today it is still a shabby little settlement of 100 people, but it now has paved streets, sewer lines, street lights and some other metropolitan features.

Thirsty Texans drive for miles to visit it. It has received publicity all over the country. What brought about the transformation? The answer is simple. Whereas other depressed areas have been trying to pull themselves up by their bootstraps, Impact lifted itself with a corkscrew.

Its citizens banded together, incorporated themselves, held a municipal election and voted to legalize the sale of liquor and beer. This made it the only wet spot in a 1,600-square-mile region of western Texas, which is dry in more ways than one.

Its two liquor stores are now taking in about $2.5 million a year, mostly from the sale of bourbon. And Impact is booming. In fact the mayor told me he is now thinking in terms of industrial diversification.

I assume diversification means that he wants to sell more Scotch.

War in Viet Nam Is a Pitiabie Thing

By LYLE WILSON
 United Press International
 The war in Viet Nam is a pitiable thing, a product of a broken home like so many young delinquents. And in a $1.7 million area to boot. The people of Southeast Asia are ill-housed, ill-fed and ill-clothed.

The Viet Nam war is an orphan war. Nobody will claim close kinship, least of all parienthood. Rejected, that's what this war is.

Someone must have fathered the tyke. But who? Is it Mr. Johnson's little Orphan War, or Gen. Eisenhower's? Could it be the late Mr. Kennedy's war? Or Mr. Truman's? Surely not Mr. Truman's. He had his war in Korea.

Now it is alleged that all these presidents had a part in fathering this current little war. If so, Viet Nam is an example of multiple parenthood more astonishing than a quadruple birth. One of the more important mysteries, of course, is the exact age of this little Orphan War. If we knew the little fellow's age we could begin to identify his parents. For the record, an infant resembling little O W first attracted notice four or five years ago. Identification was not absolute. In fact, he was not identified as a war until this year. In the meantime, however, the little Orphan War in Viet Nam had become Mr. War and a daddy in his own right. Maybe even the daddy of World War III!

Most in dispute are these questions: First, did the original promise to aid Viet Nam mean aid with guns or butter — or both? And second, who is most directly responsible for putting young Americans in the field to do the fighting young Asians were supposed to do?

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR TUESDAY, AUG. 31
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you have a day when most everyone is pretty busy about making various arrangements for the coming week. You may get directly out and asking for what they want. It is all right, they have had arguments with you and need to be diplomatically handled. You may be able to make a deal, but otherwise much time can be wasted in the evening and week.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 21): Making a deal with associates is very possible and necessary now. Get out of that office. Think about what you know about where you stand what to do.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23): Usually you are willing to do your part of any work connected with your partnership, bear equal responsibilities. Get the date you require. Keep busy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): See how valuable, be careful with small details. Confer with smart business person. Express your aims — get good advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): A little time spent at beauty or barber shop will repay you well later in public. Make sure that your wardrobe is in good repair, too. Social affair tonight can be very successful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Bring of service to top-notchers, those who deserve it. Is best way to make a good impression on others now. Get own promise out of the way efficiently, too. Then out to fun.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30): You have excellent ideas how to convince others to carry through with your ideas, so put them in operation. Repeating social favors is very effective. Be a little elaborate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19): Think well what steps you wish to take that will gain you the support of the influential. Carry through efficiently. Doing civic favors could be just the right outlet.

Cockroaches Turn Up In Odd Places

Who knows why cockroaches turn up where they do? Behind the television set. In the bedroom. On a shower curtain. Always where you least expect and want them! But you can brush Johnston's No-Roach anywhere, and it will be invisible and odorless, a safe coating that stays "on guard" always against crawling insects.

No-Roach is effective against all crawling insects, cockroaches, ants, spiders, and silverfish. One application stays effective for months.

Its clean and easy to use:

UNDERCURRENT FATAL SIMONTON, Tex. (UPI) — Randy Busby, 11, of Waco was swept away by the undercurrent of the Brazos Wednesday and drowned. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Busby, had been swimming.
