Gemini 6 Flight Off; Agena Contact Lost

Radio, Tracking Units Fail to Locate Rocket

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — History's first attempt to couple two space craft in orbit ended in failure today when engineers lost radio contact with an Agena rocket.

The Agena, whose set role was to serve as target to a separately launched Gemini 6 spacecraft, rose smoothly in which looked at first like a perfect launch. It soared from Pad 14 just four seconds after the 11 a.m. EDT liftoff time. Astronauts Walter M. Schirra and Thomas Stafford had been scheduled to leap in pursuit 101 minutes later aboard the Gemini 6 capsule.

But at a critical moment engineers lost contact with Agena's main radio transmitter and there was no way of determining whether its engine fired as planned to kick it into orbit, and no way to tracking it past downrange stations.

The radio loss came at 11:06 a.m. EDT.

At 11:54 a.m. EDT, when the tracking station at Carnarvon, Australia, had reported failure to spot the Agena, the mission was officially canceled.

"We can assume the Agena vehicle went into the Atlantic," an official said.

The failure, which came as a heartbreaking surprise after a perfect countdown, meant that the meeting and mating mission, crucial to future moon flights, would have to be delayed until 1966.

Nineteen minutes later a space official said "it doesn't look good."

The rocket was launched just four seconds after the planned 11 a.m. EDT liftoff time, and for a while it appeared history's first attempt to couple two spacecraft in orbit had got away to a good start.

But a failure in the rocket's telemetry system made it impossible for downrange tracking stations to determine whether it had gone into the desired orbit 185 miles above the earth.

Astronauts Walter Schirra and Thomas Stafford were poised to take out after the Agena 101 minutes later at 12:41 p.m. EDT. Their mission, however, was keyed to precise knowledge of Agena's whereabouts.

Agena's liftoff, boosted by a fire-belching Atlas, looked perfect from the ground. But nine minutes later, when the target craft was supposed to be in orbit, officials had received no radio information about its operation.

When downrange stations reported inability to track the craft, Paul Haney, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's "voice of Gemini," announced:

"The situation is not a very happy one."

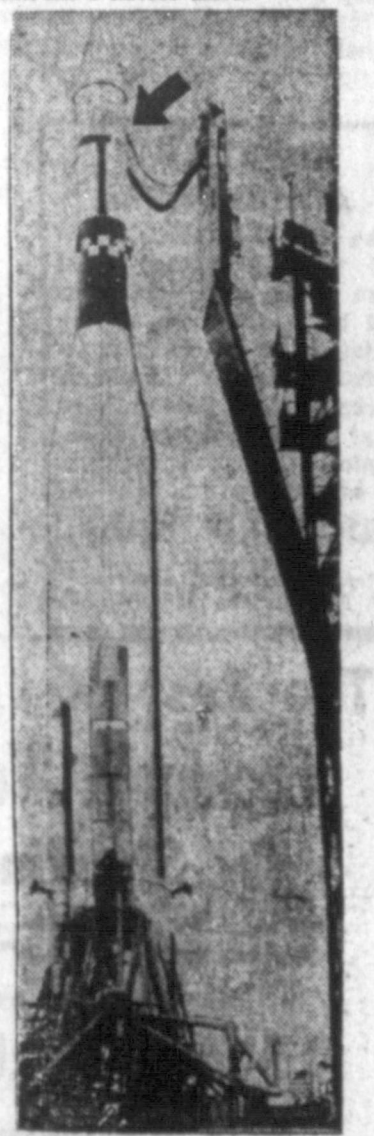

Officials kept the countdown going for the Gemini 6 launch. But obviously it would be held up if the Agena turned out to be lost. Haney said the rocket was "not responding to various commands" and that "the situation does not look good."

Cancellation of the mission would mean it could not be attempted again until another Agena could be fitted with the special collar necessary to rendezvous and docking in space. That would delay the flight until early 1966.

Officials said Gemini 6 would be removed from atop its Titan 2 booster, in that event, and replaced by Gemini 7 in which astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell will attempt a 14-day endurance flight late this year.

The two astronauts witnessed the liftoff on a television receiver above their Gemini spacecraft.

Within 15 seconds after blast off, Agena and its booster rocket began climbing smoothly across the Atlantic Ocean. It took dead aim on an orbit 185 miles above earth to await the arrival of the astronauts (See GEMINI, Page 3)

LOST — This is the way the Agena looked atop the mighty Atlas Missile seconds before what engineers called a perfect launch. Seconds following that launch, the Cape could not raise the main radio transmitter aboard the craft. It is believed that it went down in the Atlantic.

TEXAS WEATHER

Clear Skies, Light Wind, And Warmer

By United Press International
The western and northern portions of Texas expected warmer temperatures today than in the past week, under continued clear skies and light wind.

East Texas today wrested the coolest readings away from the Panhandle, which normally claims the honor. Texarkana had the day's lowest temperature, 35. Other East Texas cities had readings in the lower 40s.

The warming trend already showed its presence in Northwest Texas, with temperatures 4 or 5 degrees higher than in recent days. Dalhart reported 45, Amarillo 48 and Lubbock 52. The state's warmest reading early today was 61 at McAllen in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Sunday's highs were 85 at Presidio, 83 at Brownsville and 82 at Laredo.

No precipitation was expected today.

Council To Seek Options At Property Owners Meet

Property owners on S. Cuyler and S. Barnes streets will meet at 7:30 p.m. today with the city commission to discuss right of way needs in connection with the proposed improvement of State Hwy. 273 inside the city limits.

City Manager Jim White said this forenoon the meeting will be the first of three conferences with property owners on highways designated for improvement. Also involved at subsequent meetings will be rights of way procedures on U. S. 60 east and west (Brown St. and Frederic St.) and SH 152 (Alcock St.).

The city manager said the commission hopes to get options from as many property owners as possible in order to determine right of way costs in the upcoming highway improvement campaign.

Rough Water Stalls Cuban Refugee Trips

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—The bootleg traffic in Cuban refugees remained stalled by rough water in the Florida Straits today while federal officials worked on details for an "orderly" freedom airlift of exiles to America.

Havana Radio said more than 160 small boats were anchored at Camarioca, Cuba, waiting to pickup refugees, but none will be permitted to leave until weather conditions improve in the Straits. There have been no refugee landings here since Friday.

The Miami Weather Bureau predicted seas again today would run four to six feet with winds up to 15 miles an hour.

The Coast Guard Legal Department in Miami meanwhile was considering fining more boat owners and captains who participated in the freedom-foray shuttle between Key West and Camarioca. A Coast Guard historian from Washington said he was told by refugees some had to pay up to $500 to reach Florida. UPI interviews with refugees indicated an average price paid by refugees for small boat transportation across the Straits was $100 per person.

Car, Scooter Crash Injures Pampa Youth

A 15-year-old Pampa youth was still in surgery at noon today after receiving a severely injured leg in a car - motor scooter accident early this morning.

The youth was Larry W. Wyche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Wyche of 1833 N. Nelson.

Attendants at Highland General Hospital list the boy in "satisfactory" condition with a compound fracture of the left leg.

The accident occurred at 8:20 a.m. in the 2300 block of North Hobart near St. Vincent de Paul Catholic School.

Driver of the car was John McKeon of 1000 Crane.

According to investigating police officer Charles LeFever, the boy was traveling north on Hobart and McKeon was attempting to turn into the driveway at the catholic school.

The boy struck the right fender of the car, knocking him off the scooter.

Police Chief Jim Conner issued a stiff warning by saying "The department will not tolerate any vandalism and will prosecute anyone caught defacing or damaging property."

"Hallowe'en is a time for youngsters to go 'trick or treating' and not a time for wholesale vandalism by teenagers," the chief added.

"We intend to be on the lookout for vandals and will have extra policemen on duty," he said.

STRAY FISHERMAN

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist border guards arrested a West Berlin fisherman Sunday when his small boat strayed a few yards over the border line running through Lake Glienicke.

An East German patrol launch fired a flare and then forced the fisherman to the lake's Communist shore.

Hallowe'en Pranksters Are Warned

Hallowe'en pranksters are beginning their "tricks" a little early and Pampa police say they will be "treated" with a fine or jail sentence if caught.

Over the weekend, police received several reports of windshields being broken, eggs being thrown and other Hallowe'en pranks.

Police Chief Jim Conner issued a stiff warning by saying "The department will not tolerate any vandalism and will prosecute anyone caught defacing or damaging property."

'Cannon' Burglars Hit Brinks

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Burglars, using an anti-tank cannon, today smashed through concrete and steel walls of a vault at the Brink's Armored Car Service Co. here and made off with an estimated $100,000 in cash and $300,000 in checks.

Company Manager Frank Steier said it was believed at least a half-dozen men were involved in the break-in which occurred sometime between 2 and 3 a.m.

The burglarly was not discovered until after 8 a.m.

Detectives said a 20-mm anti-tank gun was used to crack through to the vault where the cash and checks were stored. Acetylene torches, gas masks, and shells from the cannon were found at the scene.

Klansmen May Face Jail Terms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities today met stony silence from a North Carolina Klansman as it began the second week of its investigation of the Ku Klux Klan.

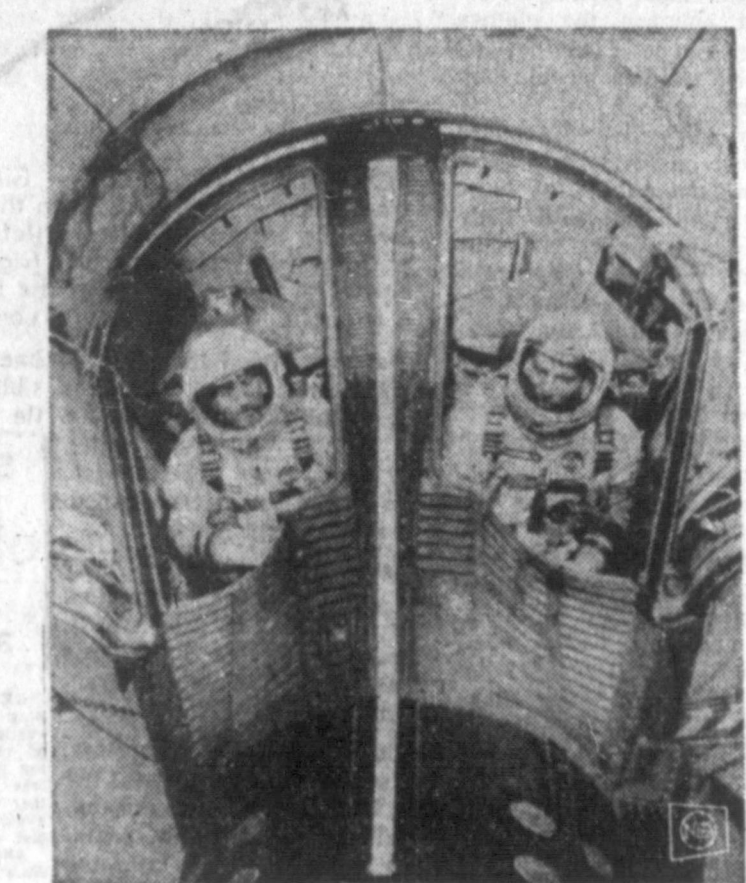

Following the lead of Klan leaders who refused to answer questions last week when called to testify, Arthur C. Leonard, of Spencer, N.C., repeatedly invoked the fifth Amendment and other constitutional guarantees against self-incrimination. He also refused to bring along subpoenaed records.

The refusal of Klansmen to bring along subpoenaed documents has brought a threat of strong penalties from the committee which said the constitutional amendments do not cover refusal to produce such records.

Committee members hoped that cooperative testimony last week from two witnesses, one of whom resigned from the Klan in the witness chair, would set a precedent for more cooperation from witnesses.

During much of last week's hearings, appearances by leaders of the United Klans of America, the largest of several groups under investigation, were characterized by wholesale use of the Fifth Amendment to avoid answering questions.

$77 THOUSAND GOAL

United Fund Starts General Gifts Drive

The general gifts division of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund's campaign to raise $77,000, swings into action tomorrow at a 7 a.m. breakfast meeting in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Division chairman Jim Morris said that the general drive will be an all out effort in which almost 200 volunteers will attempt to make their contacts and complete their calls this week.

The workers will receive their prospect cards and instructions at the breakfast and will commence making their contacts immediately following the meeting.

With "One Gift Works Many Wonders" as this year's theme, campaign spokesmen urged donors to be generous in their giving.

The only reason there is that people like the idea of pledging once and meeting twelve solicitations at one time.

The group's initial check-in coffee for workers is set for 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Hospitality Room of the Citizens Bank & Trust Co.

Agencies who receive support from the local United Fund are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Milk Fund, Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, National Travelers Aid, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Texas Association for Mental Illness, Medical Research Foundation for Texas, United Community Fund and Welfare Index.

OFFICIAL PROCLAMATION

Thirty - Seven Draw On Area Eye Bank

The week of Oct. 25 through Nov. 1 has been officially proclaimed "Eye Bank Week" in Pampa by County Judge Bill Craig.

A proclamation signed by Craig and Governor John Connally stated, "Eye banks contribute immeasurably to the cause of better sight among all Americans by furthering research in eye diseases and by helping to restore sight through the services they perform in corneal transplant operations."

"The eye banks of our state and county, as exemplified by the Hi-Plains Eye Bank which serves Amarillo and the Panhandle have done much to help combat the problems of sight in our state and county by research and assistance in eye surgery."

"The Eye Bank Association has designated the week of April 25 through May 1 as National Eye Bank Week in the United States."

"Therefore, I, as governor and I, as county judge do hereby designate the week in Texas and Gray County."

AGAINST SPECIAL U.S. FORCES

Red Attackers Are Seasoned Troops

By RAY F. HERNDON
SAIGON (UPI) — Forces attacking the U.S. Special Forces camp at Plei Me were identified today as a seasoned regiment of Communist North Viet Nam troops apparently recently arrived in South Viet Nam.

An American intelligence source disclosed that the attackers were regular North Viet Nam troops and said their identification was the first indication the Hanoi regime had thrown at least part of another division of regulars into the war in South Viet Nam.

The bombardment of the camp in the central highlands slackened today after six days of heavy siege by the encircling Communist forces.

Sniper fire was reported late today from Viet Cong positions, but no heavy mortar fire has hit the camp since a barrage last Sunday night which caused no casualties among the weary defenders.

A U.S. military spokesman meanwhile reported high-flying RB66 reconnaissance plane carrying a three-man crew had crashed into a mountain in central Viet Nam. No survivors were seen near the wreckage.

A Viet Cong battalion early today overran a government Ranger command post near Phu Yen, 230 miles northeast of Saigon, inflicting "moderate" casualties, the spokesman said.

The government unit has been in the area since Oct. 12, protecting villagers harvesting the rice crop. A spokesman said they had killed 162 Viet Cong since the operation began.

The Viet Cong units near Plei Me were being reinforced by Communist North Vietnamese regulars.

The effect of the shelling was to keep the Americans, Vietnamese Rangers and Montagnard irregulars awake and tense for another day. The outpost 215 miles northeast of Saigon has been under siege for six days. Communist losses are estimated in the hundreds.

A multi-battalion relief column of government troops was reported only a few miles from the camp. This contingent fought its way through three weekend ambushes, killing at least 100 Viet Cong.

More than 200 guerrillas were known dead in earlier fighting at Plei Me and a U.S. military spokesman said the toll probably was higher.

Strategic Air Command B52 bombers from Guam today struck a Viet Cong area 30 miles northwest of Saigon. It was the 54th B52 attack of the war.

Dear Abby.... Left-Handed People Are Not Handicapped

DEAR ABBY: I shall remember you in my prayers tonight for advising that young mother to forget what her neighbor told her about forcing her child to use his right hand instead of his left.

My kid brother had a teacher who tried to break him of being left-handed. She refused to accept any work he had done with his left hand. One day she even tied his left hand behind him in class. Well, at the age of 15, my brother had a nervous breakdown. The doctor said that, in his opinion, one of the contributing factors was this teacher's trying to force him to use his right hand. I'm sure the teacher thought she was doing the right thing, but I was glad to see you take a firm stand against it. Thank you.

AN ABBY FAN

DEAR ABBY: You were too kind to have told the mother that if she listens to her neighbor about trying to break her child of being left-handed, she is a knucklehead!

Who said left-handed people are handicapped? Leonardo da Vinci was left-handed, and I understand that Queen Elizabeth is also left-handed. Also, both also left-handed. Also, how about Sandy Koufax? Do you suppose he has been handicapped because he's a south-paw?

I have been left-handed all my life and I have found more advantages than disadvantages. In fact, I would tell you how many trophies I have for bowling and golfing, but you'd think I was bragging. Sign me, "LEFTY"

DEAR ABBY: I hope that woman takes your advice and leaves her left-handed child alone! If she doesn't want to take your word for it, please tell her something for me.

When one of my twins showed a tendency toward being left-handed, I, too, felt she would be at a disadvantage in life because everything was geared for right-handed people, so I tried everything I could think of to break her.

When she was five years old she started wetting the bed. Then she started to stutter and her eyes began to cross. I took her to the doctor and the first question he asked me was, "Have you been trying to change her from being left-handed?" When I told him I had, he gave me a scolding I shall never forget.

My daughter is still left-handed, and I am now a sadder but much wiser mother.

MOTHER OF TWINS

DEAR ABBY: I am an English teacher in a junior high school. I also teach remedial reading to children with reading problems. I was especially pleased to note that you warned your readers of the tremendous harm they can do their children by attempting to change them, in the name of "convenience," to the right hand.

One of the standard questions asked by remedial reading teachers is, "Which hand does he use?" Then, "Which eye?" (The dominant eye can be found by asking the child to look, telescope-style, through a rolled-up newspaper.) A clear, sizable majority of our problem readers use their left eye and their right hand. Questioning of the parents usually reveals that these children showed

New Fall Styles Make Hair Curl

By ALICIA HART
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the times a woman doesn't know whether to laugh or to cry comes when she takes the brave step to be modish, only to discover she already is out of style.

This happened recently to a close friend who finally had her curly hair straightened, only to discover the same day that curly hair was in for fall and winter.

She does have an out. She can pretend she is a dues-paying member of the cult of the young because straight hair, long or short, is this season's badge of the teen-ager.

Why the swing to hair with curves and curls? Hairstyles reflect and enhance the clothes you wear. Recent Paris designs as a whole continue to play up femininity.

French hairstylist Alexandre pointed out in Paris that "girls must remain feminine, at least in their mind and with their hairdo." To emphasize his point Alexandre recently discussed hairstyles he designed for the Paris couture with Arthur Caplin, head of Helena Curtis International.

early left-hand preferences, but were forced, or encouraged, to use their right hands.

These children often have poor hand-eye co-ordination. They also tend to read words, or parts of words backwards ("was" for "saw" is a characteristic error).

Using coordination exercises, and sometimes switching the child back to his original hand, we often make progress. Sometimes, of course, we fail, and they never learn to read properly. I add this to your excellent point concerning emotional problems which can arise in a child who is told he is using the "wrong" hand.

Sincerely,
MRS. O.O.W.

Spices lose their potency if they sit on the shelf too long. The best solution is to use them frequently. It also helps to keep them in bottles or tins so that the flavor is not dissipated.

FEMININE HAIRSTYLES — Girls will be girls this fall. Hairstylist Alexandre concentrated upon the femininity in the Paris couture collections. Sketched here are the way, long-line infantine coiffure (left), taking its inspiration from history, and the Feline or "daytime Pussycat look" (right). Focal point of the infante are hairpieces over the ears. The Feline is short of the back with width above the temples to shape the head to a triangle. Wings and tufts complete the sides on a softly curled bouffant.

Alexandre styled the hair of the Dior and Chanel models in what he calls his new, curly Feline style. He also was responsible for the pony-tailed little girl mannequins with hair how who paraded Yves St. Laurent's new designs. Mmes. Herve Alphonse, wife of the French ambassador to Washington wears an Alexandre version, softly curled and bouffant.

Alexandre explained to Caplin that he is out to turn French society girls into saps - a age versions of Shirley Temple, with face-framing curls and longer hair at both sides. However, do not expect to see mature women walking the streets with hair in 1930s ringlets.

In general Caplin believes "the French hairdressers have decided to stay down-to-earth, at least coiffure-wise. And females out to please a tall, dark, handsome guy right here on earth will do the same."

Based on this he predicts a soft hairdo with short, fluffy and even curly hair will be the top direction taken by 1966 women in the United States.

Refreshments of individual decorated cakes and punch were served.

Participating in the event were Mmes. Lella Matthews, Jack Houston, Clifford Coleman, Gertrude Huckins, W. S. Berry, R. E. McAllister, E. E. Crawford, R. C. Heaton, Floyd McCoy, John Simmons, Clarence Hoskins, H. L. Biggers, Cletus Collins and Jess McCarty.

Homemakers Schedule Thanksgiving Dinner

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Skellytown Home Makers Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Miles Pearson. The meeting opened with members saying the "Lord's Prayer" in unison.

The club's Thanksgiving dinner was planned for Nov. 6 in the home of Mrs. John Simmons, north of Skellytown.

The club gift was won by Mrs. Gertrude Huckins.

Next club meeting will be Nov. 1 in the home of Mrs. W. S. Berry.

Officers Elected By Violet Society

Eleven members of Pampa African Violet Society met recently in the home of Mrs. Holly Gray. One guest, Mrs. O. H. Ingram, was welcomed.

Reading of the Club Collect in unison opened the meeting. The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. R. F. Dirksen, chairman, Mrs. Marion Roberts and Mrs. Gray, presented a slate of officers for the coming year.

Elected by acclamation were Mrs. Dan Glaxner, president; Mrs. J. E. Carlson, vice president; Mrs. Lee Moore, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. V. N. Osborn, historian, and Mrs. Charles Glisson, reporter.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. Evan Jones led a question and answer period on the "Culture of African Violets." Assisting Mrs. Jones were Mmes. Osborn, Gray, Moore, C. E. Boswell, Norman Walberg, Carlson, Marion Roberts and Glisson.

A social hour followed the business session after which members adjourned to the den of the Gray home where Mr. Gray presented movies of a recent fishing trip in Alaskan waters.

Skellytown Bride Feted at Shower

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Mrs. Bill Graham, the former Miss Muriel Nichols, was honored recently with a surprise wedding shower in the home of Mrs. R. C. Heaton.

Refreshments of individual decorated cakes and punch were served.

Participating in the event were Mmes. Lella Matthews, Jack Houston, Clifford Coleman, Gertrude Huckins, W. S. Berry, R. E. McAllister, E. E. Crawford, R. C. Heaton, Floyd McCoy, John Simmons, Clarence Hoskins, H. L. Biggers, Cletus Collins and Jess McCarty.

Jim White Gives P-TA Program

Mrs. Gene Snell, president, called the meeting of Horace Mann P-TA to order when the group met recently in the school auditorium. Mrs. H. L. Meers, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Archie Maness gave the treasurer's report.

Sam Begert, principal, introduced the teachers and presented the budget for the year which was approved. Mrs. Snell and Mr. Begert were chosen to represent the school at the P-TA State Convention to be held next month in Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Roger Hedrick, vice president, introduced Jim White, city manager, guest speaker. Mr. White's topic was "Roles of P-TA." The speaker asked "When does a parent cease being a parent, when does a teacher cease being a teacher? We are all trying to build a better place to live. The largest does not mean the greatest. A city is only as good as the people in it. Cities are man-built."

In closing Mr. White said, "Let's look to the future. That is where we intend to spend our future." Following the program a question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Wanda Flowers received the door prizes and Mrs. Francis Perkins' third grade classroom received the attendance banner.

County Receives $45,344 Annual Railroad Taxes

Current annual taxes paid to the various government agencies in Gray County totaled $45,344, it is announced by the Texas Railroad Association.

That amount was the county's share of the nearly $10,000,000 the railroads paid in Texas on their own right of way and other property.

The biggest railroad contribution was to the school systems throughout the state. Large sums were also distributed to city, village and county governments and for road and bridge funds.

In addition, of course, was the large total in taxes the railroads' nearly 35,000 Texas employees contributed on their own property. The vast majority of rail workers, many of whom live in Gray County, own their own homes, according to Walter Caven, general counsel of the Texas Railroad Association.

TO TEXAS CONSTITUTION

Ten Amendments Proposed

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the first in a series explaining the ten proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution to be voted on Nov. 2.

By DAVID ANDERSON United Press International AUSTIN (UPI)—Although the ballot poses some of the most important questions put to Texans in recent years, only 15 per cent of the eligible voters are expected to turn out Nov. 2 for the annual assault on the Texas Constitution.

Based on the slow pace of absentee voting and the fact that only 222,000 voted on a constitutional amendment Sept. 7, the Texas Election Bureau predicts a vote of 300,000, but concedes this figure could go to 500,000 if there is a last-minute surge of interest.

There are almost two million voters with paid-up poll taxes or exemption certificates. The most controversial of the 10 proposed amendments are those giving the governor, seven other state officials and members of the house of representatives four-year terms.

Some Opposition Gov. John Connally, already an announced candidate for re-election, has moved his troops into action on behalf of the amendment allowing him to serve until 1970 without making another race. Opponents have organized an advertising campaign against the amendment.

Although the political amendments naturally draw the most interest, there are others that are just as important, at least to some groups of Texans. Unless proposition No. 3 is approved, the state will be unable to participate fully in Medicare and could eventually lose from $50 million a year in federal welfare funds.

If amendment No. 1 fails, 17 of the state's colleges will have to look elsewhere for construction money to provide more buildings for their mushrooming student populations.

Important to Some While failure of the other amendments might not have immediately consequences, each of them is important to some group.

Teachers are interested in proposition No. 5, which would enshrine the present statutory teacher retirement system in the constitution and give it broader investment authority. Amendment No. 7 is a purely local proposal applying only to Houston. It would give the Hermann Hospital estate a $325,000 tax break for providing charity medical care to the needy.

Judges would be forced to retire at 75 and could be removed from office for misconduct or disability under proposition 8.

For Legislators The last two proposals on the ballot are of special interest to members of the legislature. Proposition No. 10 would permit the legislature to give a pay raise to the House speaker and lieutenant governor, who now gets $4,800 a year plus expenses, and would give every member of the legislature a $1,360 biennial boost in expense allowances.

The last amendment is the one giving House members four-year terms, with half the seats to be filled every two years.

Counting these 10 amendments, there have been 270 attempts to patch the Texas Constitution since it was written in 1876. Only 162 of these attempts succeeded.

Next: Proposals 4, 9 and 10—the four-year terms and legislative pay hikes.

Fiedler, Buffalo Philharmonic Thrill Packed House in Pampa

By JERRY WHITTEN

For a rare weekend treat, members of the Pampa Community Concert Association were richly entertained by the noted conductor Arthur Fiedler and the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra Saturday night at the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium.

The program initiated the 1965-66 community concert season in a most auspicious manner. Mr. Fiedler selected works of Rimsky-Korsakov, Handel, Tchaikovsky, Manuel de Falla and Waldteufel—and conducted them by memory. His style or technique is very direct and with a minimum of motion. He elicits from the players a clean, brittle and opulent ensemble.

In what was perhaps the most familiar music of the evening, Handel's "Water Music Suite," the french hornists deserve special mention for their exceptionally fine performance.

Ozan Marsh was the soloist in Franz Liszt's "Spanish Rhapsody for Piano and Orchestra" as arranged by Busoni. This elaborate and very difficult work was virtually "tossed off" with poise and élan. Rarely ever has this reviewer heard such an enormous quantity of tone evoked from a piano. The performance of Liszt's music was very much the same as we had always dreamed it should be.

Concluding the program the "Pops" concert went "Pops" for real. Richly orchestrated selections from "Hello Dolly," "Mary Poppins," and "More" from "Mondo Cane" closed the program.

Oh yes, the Beatles were represented too, in "I Want to Hold Your Hand."

The audience, which Maestro Fiedler described as one of the "most attentive," kept calling for more. The noted conductor did not let them down. The encores included "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," "Stars and Stripes Forever," and Mack the Knife."

Fiedler on Move Back and Forth Across Country

Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra which filled a Saturday night Community Concert engagement in Pampa and a Sunday afternoon performance in Borger, covers a lot of territory in a short period of time. Immediately upon putting down his baton in Borger yesterday, Maestro Fiedler hurried by automobile to Amarillo airport where he boarded a plane to Chicago.

Fiedler is conducting the Chicago Symphony Orchestra there tonight. Then the 72-year-old "Mr. Music" takes a plane right back to Texas where he picks up again with the Buffalo Philharmonic in a concert at Plainview tomorrow night.

The 80 members of the Buffalo group had a day off and were resting today and tonight at the Coronado Inn in Pampa.

Casper Eyes Hawaiian, Almaden, $100,000 Year

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament here last weekend. Billy Casper is 50 pounds lighter than he used to be but his money belt was a lot heavier today as he headed toward the Almaden Open in Northern California after pocketing the $20,000 first prize money in the

Passing Tarkenton Sends Vikings Over SF 49ers

By United Press International
Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton doesn't quite follow the quarterbacking principles set forth by his Coach Norm Van Brocklin, but the Vikings' mentor wouldn't want it any other way.

Van Brocklin, one of the National Football League's all-time great quarterbacks, was an exponent of the drop-back style of passing and he readily admits that he prefers this type of signal-caller over a scrambler such as Tarkenton.

The Dutchman's theory almost always takes a beating, however, whenever Tarkenton takes the field, and Sunday it received its biggest jolt as the former Georgia star rambled and scrambled his way for 407 yards passing as the Vikings edged the San Francisco 49ers 42-14.

In other action, Washington upset St. Louis 24-20, Cleveland ripped New York 38-14, Chicago topped Detroit 38-10, Green Bay edged Dallas 13-3, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 20-14 and Baltimore downed Los Angeles 35-20.

Lakers Now Have Attraction, 1-2 Punch With Goodrich

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—If the Los Angeles Lakers needed a built-in, hometown attraction this season, they obtained it when they drafted UCLA's All-America basketball star, Gail Goodrich.

The re-uniting of Goodrich and his UCLA backcourt partner, Walt Hazzard, gave the Lakers the twosome who led the Bruins to a pair of national collegiate championships.

The two make their first home appearance of the regular National Basketball Association season Tuesday when the Lakers host the New York Knickerbockers at the sports arena.

Great college stars do not necessarily make outstanding pro basketball performers, although the odds favor their doing well in the play-for-pay ranks.

And Goodrich has what appears to be an additional handicap in that he stands but 6-foot-1, small for a pro basketball player. But thus far Goodrich has impressed both Coach Fred Schaus and his fellow players with his ability and his desire.

Although used somewhat sparingly since the regular season has started, Goodrich has demonstrated a quickness on the court that caught the eyes of players and fans alike.

"Gail has convinced me he's got the makings of a great NBA player," said Lakers shooting star Jerry West.

And Schaus says Goodrich has shown him enough promise so that he feels the ex-UCLA player could become one of the top "small men" in the game.

"I've had to make a lot of adjustments to play NBA basketball," Goodrich says. "But I've always had to make adjustments in this game in going from one type of basketball to another—from high school to college and now to the pros."

And Goodrich, after six weeks of playing with the Lakers in pre-season competition and the start of the regular season, agrees with Schaus that he has picked a difficult phase of the game in being a guard.

"My problem has been to learn defense the way the pros play it," he says. "It takes a lot of strength and use of the hands. But I feel I'm learning."

he turned professional in 1954. Counting his loot in the Sahara, the slimmed-down pro from Peacock Gap, Calif., already has won $96,771.90 this year; leads in the race for the coveted Vardon Trophy awarded the PGA pro with the lowest stroke average for the year; has posted five tournament wins in 1965 and 29 in his illustrious career.

Bear Meat Diet
Casper, slimmed down from 220 pounds to a svelte 170 on a diet of Buffalo, Elk and Bear meat, won the Sahara title despite a two-stroke penalty in the final round.

He shot 66-66-66-69—269, fifteen under par at the Paradise Valley Country Club course and staved off a closing challenge from young Billy Martindale of Jacksonville, Tex., who burned the layout with a 63 for a 72-hole total of $272 and $12,000 for second place.

Casper was cruising along on the front nine of the final round with a comfortable three-stroke lead over his nearest rival when he ran into trouble with the rule book.

He hit a putt for a par four hung on the lip.

Moving Ball
Just as Casper appeared ready to hit the ball for a bogey five, it dropped into the hole. Casper, who contended the ball was moving all the time, himself asked for a ruling since the PGA assesses a player a two-stroke penalty if he strikes a ball while it is moving but also penalizes a pro two strokes if he lets a ball hang on the edge of the cup for more than "a few seconds."

Acting tournament supervisor Steve Shabala finally decided Casper had taken too much time and penalized him two strokes.

"I guess I was a little riled up," Casper admitted.

He was so upset he went out 12th hole and threw in an insurance birdie on 17 to close with 69 and beat out Martindale by three shots. Martindale, a 27-year-old center, hit the last 36 greens at the Sahara in regulation.

Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex., captured third money of $7,500 with a last-round 66 and a 273 total while Glover shared fourth money with another charger, Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif. Glover closed with even par 71 while Sanders fired a 65. Each won $4,650.

Aaron and Jack Nicklaus, golf's leading money winner, picked up $3,600 each with 276. Crampton ran into a water hazard on the final hole, made a double bogey six and finished at 277, good for $3,100. George Knudson of Canada, a consistent money winner, came in with 279, worth $2,800.

Chicago turned three Detroit fumbles and a pass interception into touchdowns to even their record with the Lions at 3-3. Quarterback Rudy Bukich made the Detroit mistakes pay off for the ears as he connected for three touchdown passes, while halfback Jon Arnett also clicked on a scoring toss to flanker Johnny Morris.

Green Bay marched to its sixth straight triumph by converting a pair of Dallas fumbles and a pass interception into a touchdown and two field goals. Neither team could mount an offensive effort as Green Bay managed only 63 yards total offense to Dallas' 183. Jim Taylor scored the game's only touchdown when he rushed seven yards to pay dirt after Willie Davis had recovered a Dallas fumble on the Cowboys' seven yard line.

Pittsburgh's defense scored two first half touchdowns and the Steelers made them stand up as the margin of difference in defeating Philadelphia.

Willie Daniel got the Steelers their first touchdown when he ran back a recovered fumble 17 yards to score in the opening period and Jim Bradshaw, who intercepted three passes in the game, put them ahead to stay with an 82-yard runback of an interception in the second quarter.

Old reliable Johnny Unitas pulled the Colts out from defeat by rallying the team to three touchdowns in the final period. Trailing 20-14 with only 10 minutes remaining, Unitas got the Colts' slumbering offense moving with a 15-yard scoring toss to Jimmy Orr. Minutes later, Unitas made a fourth-and-one gamble pay off at midfield and proceeded to move the team to paydirt once more. Less than a minute following this second score, he hit Orr again for a 25-yard TD that locked up the contest.

Texas League Votes to Take In Little Rock

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Texas League directors voted unanimously Sunday night to accept Little Rock as a member.

Hugh Finnerty, league president, also said Tulsa was given unanimous approval to withdraw from the Texas League in order to enter the Pacific Coast League.

"While we certainly didn't like to lose Tulsa as a member," Finnerty said, "we feel Little Rock, with strong ownership and the St. Louis Cardinal working agreement, will certainly make an excellent entry."

Finnerty said final action on Little Rock's entry into the Texas League would be taken at the league's winter meeting at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., Nov. 28.

News Sports Editor Ron Cross missed six games but still managed to win the Daily News Staff Selections by one game over three other members Saturday.

Cross missed the Georgia-Kentucky, Miami (Fla.), Texas-Rice and West Texas-New Mexico State upsets plus Baylor's victory over Texas A&M and the Plainview win over Pampa.

He did pick Minnesota's upset over Michigan and ran his season record to 77-41. Still in first place for the season is Chico Ramirez with an 83-35 record and second is Ray Rodgers Jr. with an 82-36 mark.

Ray Baxter, Kay Donn Smith, last week's winner and Ramirez finished in a tie for second in last week's contest with 17-7-1 records.

The upset of the week didn't get by the staff 'expert' Ray Baxter. The "Major Hoopie" of the News staff gazed into his crystal ball and came up with Rice.

HAND AND FOOT—At right, the fine hand of Jim Colclough of the Boston Patriots brings down Jim Warren, 48, of the San Diego Chargers. Warren had just intercepted a pass intended for Colclough. At left, high-flying halfback Wendell Hayes, 29, of the Denver Broncos, lands a solid kick on the jaw of Freddy Glick, 27, as the Houston Oilers back tries to stop him.

Aging Blanda Passing Like New AFL Rookie

By United Press International
It's never too late to call on an old pro.

Houston Coach Bones Taylor almost waited too long before tabbing 36-year pro veteran George Blanda to lead the Oilers back from a 17-0 deficit at intermission Sunday.

The aging quarterback responded with a five-touchdown second half passing performance that helped the Oilers squeeze out a 38-36 triumph over Kansas City.

Even with Blanda's showing, it took a 15-yard field goal by Jack Spikes with only 17 seconds left to assure Houston of its third victory against the Oilers.

Razorbacks Facing Stiff Test in Tech

By United Press International
Southwest Conference football teams throw themselves wholeheartedly into the title race this week with Arkansas still out front in what is expected to be a wire to wire victory drive but with a changing format evident among the challengers.

For the first time this season all eight clubs will be arrayed in complete championship scheduling with Arkansas hosting Texas A&M at neutral Little Rock in the lone night game, Texas visiting Southern Methodist, Texas Tech entertaining Rice and Texas Christian at Baylor.

Odd as it may sound, Texas is out of the running and Baylor, Rice and SMU have joined Texas Tech as the chief threats at least until they start knocking each other off. These four clubs all sport only one loss to two for Texas and TCU and three for the Aggies.

Until last Saturday's results were posted, Texas and Tech would have been solid favorites to send SMU and Rice spinning and TCU would have been at least an even choice against Baylor.

But, Rice stunned Texas 20-17, Baylor developed an overnight abundance of passing fury and shocked the Aggies 31-0 and SMU showed again it had the offense to scare anybody in its 26-24 loss to Tech. TCU fell 3-0 to Clemson but the game was not as close as the score indicated.

Now, SMU must be given a good chance of continuing the downhill slide of the once-haughty Longhorns. Rice must be reckoned with as a worthy challenger against Tech and Baylor stands out well ahead of TCU—on paper."

And, of course, Arkansas should be counted upon to breeze past the Aggies despite the loss by injury of fleet Harry Jones and monster linebacker Mike Jordan in last Saturday's 55-20 romp over North Texas.

By United Press International
SYDNEY (UPI)—John Newcombe and Lesley Turner scored surprise victories Sunday to win the men's and women's divisions of the Australian Hard Court Lawn Tennis Championship.

Miss Turner downed defending champion Margaret Smith 7-5, 6-3 while Newcombe pounded Fred Stolle 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3.

SCRANTON, Pa. (UPI)—Funeral services will be Tuesday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church for Charles H. Shorten, 73, a former outfielder for the Boston Red Sox, who died at his home Saturday.

A former teammate of Babe Ruth, Shorten batted .571 in the 1916 World Series and compiled a lifetime batting average of .275. He will be buried in Abington Hills Cemetery.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Olympic Gold Medalist Irina Press clocked 10.3 seconds to set a world record in the 80-meter hurdles at the Soviet Union championships, the Soviet News Agency Tass reported Sunday.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Wingback Harry Jones and linebacker Mike Jordan both were reported out of action following Arkansas' 55-20 victory over North Texas State Saturday.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Government Land Problem

Laws governing U.S. public lands — about one-fifth of the entire land area of the country are about to get a facelift. A newly organized commission made up of 13 members of Congress and six public members is initiating a comprehensive review of the 5,000 public land laws and some 1,000 rules and regulations affecting about 70 million acres of public land in the West and in Alaska.

When the review is completed by Dec. 1, 1968, the commission will make recommendations to Congress and to the President on updating and revising these laws.

If implemented, the recommendations of the new Public Land Law Review Commission are expected to be vital to the future growth and development of the West and Alaska.

They also will likely have major impact on the rest of the country because of the current trend toward more federal land acquisitions in all 50 states.

The new public land study is the direct outgrowth of a controversy that raged in Congress for several years over the wilderness bill.

House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee Chairman Wayne N. Aspinall (D-Colo.), who was critical of portions of the wilderness bill, and the administration reached an accord early in 1963.

Aspinall agreed to support the Administration-backed wilderness legislation if it included a provision requiring statutory approval by Congress prior to the establishment of new wilderness areas.

The administration in turn, agreed to back an Aspinall proposal providing for a complete review of public land laws if the land management agencies, notably the Bureau of Land Management, had some interim legislative tools to work with.

As a result, both the wilderness bill and the Aspinall-sponsored bill establishing a Public Land Law Review Commission were passed by Congress in 1964.

Following a long delay over organization, the commission finally was organized July 14, with Aspinall being named chairman. H. Byron Mock, Salt Lake City attorney, was named vice chairman, and Milton A. Pearl, consultant on public lands and mining to the House Interior Committee, was named staff director.

According to Aspinall, "interpretations of the mining law are stirring apprehension and fear among the mining industry. . . the uncertain nature of the use (of public domain land) concerns the grazers in the face of competing demands for the public lands; communities hemmed in by public lands seek means of accomplishing necessary expansion; and expanding population and a growing economy look to the public land as sites for residential, commercial and industrial construction; and our citizens, who are attaining increased leisure time, look to the public lands for additional recreation areas."

Both Edward P. Cliff, chief of the U.S. Forest Service, and Charles H. Stoddard, director of the Bureau of Land Management, believe that public land must be classified as to its "best and highest use" in the future. If it remains in public ownership, they feel that it must be available in most instances for multiple-purpose use.

Studying means of managing public lands is like studying ways of treating a cold. How about getting rid of it? Horrors! Not that!

The fact is, there would be no "problem" about public land if the government weren't the nation's largest landowner. If the millions of government-held acres of public lands were put on the tax rolls and turned over to private ownership, they'd be managed satisfactorily.

The increased ownership of land by the government is a sign of the growth of government itself. Further, it works a hardship on states, counties and cities which find, eventually, that a small percentage of the land is carrying the burden for the vast federal acreage which is fallow, tax-free and burdensome.

Lifesaving Fact

The ordinary person calls it skidding. The automotive engineer has a fancier word for it — hydroplaning.

Either way, it is the frightening tendency of a car to rise onto the surface of even a thin film of water and skim over it with the ease of a water skier.

Stopping on the brakes only increases the action.

Tests by Goodyear engineers have revealed that while the drag of a braked tire carrying a 1,000-pound load on smooth, dry pavement can be as high as 800 pounds, when the tire with the same load is pulled through water at increasing speeds, the drag drops to as little as five pounds at 70 mph.

This means that friction between tire and road is almost nil. So is control.

Their advice: Make certain the tread on your tires is good, then reduce speed on wet pavement and avoid quick braking.

What New Industry Means

New industry coming into a community means even more than just so many new job opportunities, notes the Merchants & Manufacturers Assn.

It is estimated that 100 new industrial employees in a community means 350 more people; 100 more households; 91 more school children; $710,000 personal income per year; $269, 000 more bank deposits; 97 more passenger cars registered; 185 more workers employed; 3 more retail establishments; and $331,000 more retail sales per year.

Government should do everything it can to encourage and not curb new business formation by restrictive taxation.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Well, to begin with—I had my operation the same day the President did . . ."

Cannel At Bay

All the World's a Stage NEW YORK (NEA) — Cocktail party conversations being what they are it is a little hard to recall exactly how this matter came up. All we know for sure is that it happened very fast.

One minute we were defending our job and the freedom of the press against an angry attack by a fellow in a $9 shirt who said he was a surgeon and By Heaven! where would his profession be if it operated on the basis of unverified facts.

And then, in what seemed like the very next minute, he wanted to know the best method for getting your name and photo into the "Medicine" section of Time magazine.

Needless to say we found that conversation quite remarkable, and could hardly wait to remark on it to our friends and acquaintances.

But we must confess that the reaction to our account was considerably more startling than the event itself.

By actual count, 40 per cent of those to whom we told the story thought it would be easier if he doctor tried getting into the "Medicine" section of Newsweek magazine.

Another 20 per cent who heard the story felt he would be wiser to start out in a small way such as getting his name mentioned in the society columns first.

An additional 20 per cent thought that being mentioned in either magazines or columns would not do the doctor's practice nearly as much good as an appearance on the Johnny Carson Show.

The final 20 per cent to hear the story was a press agent with a towering reputation as the inventor of the National Donut Queen Contest and the All-American Family Search. He offered no suggestions for the doctor's campaign.

Instead, he recounted an incident of his own — a chemist in Boston who had asked him for professional help in winning the Nobel Prize "because I feel that doing so would be a great help to me in my career."

Now, we have no intention of claiming these five opinions and two incidents as a landslide, or even a trend. They may reflect absolutely nothing about public sentiment regarding the magic of publicity, exposure, exploitation and the other hardware of show business.

On the other hand, it has occurred to us that if you add up the number of radio stations, television channels and movie houses in operation in our area, you come up with something approaching 1,565 hours of show business daily.

In that total we have not given any extra value to shows where three or four entertainers sit around talking to each other. Nor have we included the hours of legitimate theater, opera, symphony, ballet, night club act or the other entertainments that operate nightly.

Under the circumstances, there may be good reason for putting surgery behind the footlights along with similar elements of show business.

It appears to us that almost everything else from birth onward can be found there—courtship, marriage, politics, religion, academic honors, controversy. Even death.

Just the other day, for example, a businessman we know showed us a promotion picture he is planning to send out to all the news media. It shows him standing proudly next to a $200,000 mausoleum he has just bought.

We are not going to speculate on whether show business extends beyond the grave. But if they are going to run Judgment Day like an amateur hour, we do not see any percentage in dying.

There is, however, a ray of hope shining through all of this glorious lifetime entertainment.

Some time ago we went to see a preview of a play on the strength of before-opening publicity which called it a wonderful show.

Well, it was not. It was a terrible show. And we were quite alarmed when it opened officially to unanimous rave reviews.

Despite all that professional promotion, the play closed in eight weeks. And how that happened, we cannot imagine. But our suspicion is that word of mouth killed it.

Kennedy Special Commission Members Ask for Official Financial Accounting of Assassination Inquiry

WASHINGTON — The four congressional members of the special commission that investigated the assassination of President Kennedy are asking for a financial accounting of the year-long inquiry.

No report has ever been submitted to the seven-member commission — which formally concluded its work in September 1964.

The bipartisan group of legislators (two Democrats, two Republicans) decided, after discussing the matter for some time, that a detailed financial accounting should be presented and made part of the official records of the commission.

It was their understanding this would be done before the commission disbanded. But for some unclear reason, nothing came of that.

So in identical letters to Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman, and Lee Rankin, general counsel, who is solicitor general in the Eisenhower administration, the four congressional leaders have requested that the commission be reconvened for the express purpose of receiving and acting on a comprehensive financial statement.

They also proposed that an announcement be issued on the final disposition of the huge mass of documents, transcripts, exhibits and other material, and their availability for study by authorized individuals. This also has never been done.

All the commission's records are in the custody of the U.S. Archives, on historic Pennsylvania Avenue halfway between the Capitol and the White House.

The legislators are Senators Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee; John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., former ambassador to India; Representatives Hale Boggs, D-La., majority whip, and Gerald Ford, R-Mich., minority leader.

In addition to Chief Justice Warren, the other members are Allen Dulles, former head of the Central Intelligence Agency, and John McCloy, one-time chief of the World Bank.

BACKSTAGE "FINANCIAL STATEMENT" — On May 5 of this year, this column disclosed that the commission's year-long investigation had cost $1.2 million.

Biggest single expenditure was $566,500 for printing. Second largest expenditure was $225,650, for "salaries and related benefits."

This information was contained in an unpublished "financial statement" compiled by the budget division of the General Services Administration.

There was no indication of the source of the $1.2 million in the GSA report. It was authoritatively understood the money came from contingency funds available to President Johnson — who initiated the investigation and appointed the seven members.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: "When is civil disobedience right, and when is it wrong? Will you give some examples of civil crimes that are not crimes against natural law?"

ANSWER: Civil disobedience is right when civil laws (man made laws) violate natural law. That is, when they take away from some individual his unalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. When civil man-made laws are in harmony with natural law, then it is a crime to disobey civil laws.

Civil crimes that are not crimes are such laws as protective tariffs and immigration restrictions (which lead to wars), minimum wages, compulsory attendance to government schools, or any school that deprives the parents of the right to educate their children as they see fit and if the child has no will for book learning to have him learn a trade. Another crime is where the government makes it a crime to tell a union man you will not hire him because he is union and not a crime to tell a non-union man you will not hire him because he is not union.

The employer should have a right to hire either all union men, or no union men or both as he sees fit. The government should completely keep out of all employer-employee relations. A free market where every individual helps to establish values is the natural way to promote peace, goodwill, righteousness, understanding and prosperity.

If there are any exceptions to this differentiation between man made laws that are crimes in the eyes of the state but are not crimes according to nature, we would be glad to have someone point it out. We are always willing to have our ideas examined. That is the only hope we have of having our errors corrected.

QUESTIONABLE GIFT (California Feature Service)

Congress has seldom been asked to consider a matter of more far-reaching importance to the people than the resolution now pending which would call for ratification of a constitutional amendment giving clear authority to the people of each state to determine by popular vote the form of legislative body they prefer.

Under the Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" interpretation of the Constitution, legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis only. The proposed amendment would merely return to the people one of the most basic rights of self-government.

This is a vital political problem, and has engendered growing nation-wide support— spearheaded by civic and political leaders — for adoption of the amendment. There is opposition, too, of course; and now a disturbing element has been injected into it.

The Ford Foundation, an organization enjoying tax exemption, has just announced a grant of close to $1 billion to the National Municipal League, one of the major opponents of the reapportionment amendment. The grant is designated for the development and speeding up of information on the best way to proceed in the "modernization" of state governments once reapportionment has been achieved. But the League, in addition to its original status as a private research and service agency, has developed into a powerful lobbying force. To have such tax-free funds poured into its coffers at a time when it is opposing an important political proposal of vital concern to the people is questionable, at best. Someone should look into it very carefully.

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. HUNT

MARINES IN VIET NAM All of our military services have many brave fighting men, and officers proud to command them. But in the dark hours of doubt and the shadows of disaster on strange shores, more often than not it has been the United States Marines who lift the hearts and hopes of their countrymen with a victory the doom-criers said could never be won.

So it was in the third month of the Korean War, when General Douglas MacArthur sent the Marines to lead the landing at Inchon that turned an American last stand into a surge of triumph. So it was at Tarawa in 1943, where the Marines stormed an island the Japanese said a million men could not take in a thousand years. So it was again, in Viet Nam, in the monsoon summer of 1965.

There we face the Viet Cong, the strange enemy whom some see as invincible and uncatchable, malevolent ghosts who walk by night, assassins of deadliest skill. We could only fight them, the fainthearts said, by more foreign aid, lots of negotiations and being especially nice to the Buddhists.

The Marines had another way. To the Viet Cong, the givers of death, the Marines gave death in return. To those who boasted they could wear down any foe through endless jungle warfare, the Marines threw down the gauntlet of the native American passion for victory.

At Van Tuong, in Operation Starlight, they scored the greatest triumph over the communist killers in all the Viet Nam war. May we who fight for freedom at home be worthy of them.

Humphrey Kin Lands Cushy Job

(Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter)

"These opportunities (for summer jobs) will be given, so far as this is practicable, to boys and girls under 21 who need them the most because of economic or educational disadvantages." — President Lyndon B. Johnson, May 22, announcing the start of the youth opportunity campaign, a part of the poverty program.

"We won't want to look at this program as a way to take care of the family." — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, June 16, in an interview in the Des Moines Register in which he criticized the postoffice department for handing out summer jobs as Democratic patronage.

Blantly ignoring these high sounding words by President Johnson and himself, Vice President Humphrey set up his nephew with a cushy summer postal job with a guarantee of hours worked and salary. Employment of the nephew, Ralph Gosch, forced regular employees of the small Huron, S. D., postoffice to take a cut in their working hours, and therefore a reduction in pay. Gosch was given this working guarantee: a 40-hour week, at $2.37 an hour.

The nephew of South Dakota Democratic Chairman Clem Noonan was also working at the Huron postoffice under the same guarantee. Both youngsters are college students and neither was known to be in financial need qualifying them for jobs under the so-called youth opportunity program.

AT MIDWEST MARKETS

Price Trends Ran Lower On Slaughter Livestock

By United Press International
Price trends were lower for all major classes of slaughter livestock at Midwest markets this past week.

At leading livestock terminals, slaughter steers and hogs generally were steady to 50 cents lower, but in spots declines of 75 cents were posted. Cows sold steady to 50 cents higher, except at Chicago and St. Paul where steady to 50 cent lower trends prevailed. At most points, bulls sold steady to 50 cents higher, while trading in vealers was irregular. Feeder cattle generally were steady to $1.00 higher.

Cattle receipts of some 233,000 head at major terminals were about 9 per cent larger than last week and the largest since January. However, supplies were still some 9 per cent below the corresponding week of last year.

Cattle slaughter under federal inspection was estimated at 555,000 compared with 560,000 head last week, and it was the 15th of the last 17 weeks that federally inspected slaughter has exceeded 500,000 head per week.

In wholesale carlot trading, steer and heifer beef sold steady to 1 cent a pound lower, mostly 1/2 cent off. Cow beef was mostly unchanged.

At Chicago, prime 1,190-1,500 lb. steers brought $28.25-$28.85, with late sales at $28.50 down. High-choice and prime 1,150-1,400 lb. steers sold from $27.50-$28.25 and choice 1,000-1,375 lbs. from $25.50-$27.50 at Chicago.

Closing prices for barrows and gilts generally were $1.00-$1.75 lower than late last week, while sows were down 25 to $1.25.

Receipts at 12 terminal markets plus direct marketings in interior Iowa and southern Minnesota totaled some 630,000 head for the five-day period.

This was the largest since April and compared with 578,000 last week and 731,000 a year ago.

Carlot wholesale prices for pork loins were down 16 1/2 cents a pound from last week. Boston butts were steady to 1/2 cent lower at Chicago, but were steady to 1 cent higher at Omaha and New York. Fresh hams were steady to 1 1/2 cents lower.

In the week's closing session, most U.S. No. 1-3 grade hogs weighing 190-260 lbs. brought $22.00-$22.50 in the western cornbelt, but these ranged up to $23.21 in the eastern cornbelt. No. 1-2 grades averaging 190-240 lbs. were reported from $22.50-$23.00 in the western cornbelt and from $23.00-$23.75 at eastern cornbelt terminals.

Slaughter lambs and ewes sold steady to $1.00 lower, while feeder lambs were generally steady.

Choice and prime 85-110 lb. woolled lambs sold mainly from $22.75-$24.00 with some up to $25.00 at Chicago. Mixed good and choice grades cleared from $22.00-$23.00.

Live cattle futures declined 10-28 cents per hundredweight on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange this week. The December delivery on Friday was quoted at $25.30 per hundredweight.

Cheese prices at Chicago were unchanged to one cent higher; prices paid for live poultry delivered to Chicago were mostly unchanged to fractionally higher; wholesale grade eggs delivered to Chicago advanced 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents this week to the highest levels since early January 1963. Chicago wholesale butter prices were about unchanged from one week ago.

Soybeans and wheat closed mixed, although mostly higher; corn steady to easy, oats steady and rye firm to strong on the Chicago board of trade this week.

Bull Market Behaved Sheepishly Last Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bull market behaved rather sheepishly at times this past week but still managed to put a king-sized gain on the widely-watched Dow-Jones industrial average. Trade was active.

Prices advanced sharply in the opening session and gains of 2 points or more were common in most sections of the list. The Dow-Jones blue chip industrial indicator soared through to a new peak on a gain of 5.16 for the day — its second new peak in a week.

On the week, Dow-Jones industrials advanced 11.74 to a new peak of 992.42. Rails touched a new high of 236.93 on Thursday but a loss in the final session pulled it back to 235.61, up 2.66 on the week. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 0.50 to 91.98, also a new peak.

Volume totaled 43,138,100 shares compared with 44,643,369 shares a week before and 23,825,545 shares in the same week last year. The advance-decline line gave a much more accurate picture of the market. Of the 1,549 issues traded, 711 advanced while 693 declined. There were 275 new 1965 highs and only 51 new lows.

Outright Red Ban Asked Of Sukarno

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Indonesian Defense Minister Abdul Haris Nasution called on President Sukarno today for an outright ban on the Indonesian Communist Party.

Radio Jakarta said Nasution, in a speech to the army general staff, reminded Sukarno of his decision to restrict the activities of all political parties and mass organizations which supported the abortive Oct. 1 coup. He asked the president to get on with the job.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
SRINAGAR, Kashmir — The first snow flurries of winter already are swirling through the Himalayan mountain passes which separate the Pakistan and Indian-held portions of Northern Kashmir and soon they will be blocked by drifts.

It is through these passes that India charges the Pakistanis infiltrated 6,000 to 8,000 men just before the outbreak of their three-week war, to harass the Indian army and to stir up Kashmiri Muslims to revolt.

The Indians claim to have killed some 1,200 of these infiltrators and to have captured others who proved to be members of regular Pakistan army units rather than the "volunteers" or Kashmiri patriots, as the Pakistanis claimed.

At any rate, according to the Indians, most of the survivors now are working their way back through the passes to beat the winter snows.

Independent investigators may never learn just where the whole truth lies in the conflict of bitter charges and counter-charges between the two countries.

Both Sides Guilty
It seems evident that both sides have been guilty of cease-fire violations since the beginning of the United Nations-imposed truce last Sept. 22.

From what may be one time have been a private mansion which now is slipping toward dusty decay, United Nations observers headquartered in Srinagar must patrol 450 miles of mountainous Kashmiri border.

Terrain makes it impossible for them to cover it all and admittedly violations may occur.

Resting heavily on the minds of these observers is that politically the two nations have locked themselves into fixed positions from which neither can retreat.

In the maze of claim and counter-claim it also is difficult to determine the true feelings of the majority of Kashmiri opinion.
