The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann

COPYRIGHT BY RENEE SHANN; DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Patience moved to London three times a week to attend dressmaking school. It is the only freedom allowed her by the two old-fashioned aunts who have brought her up and with whom she lives in the country. On the commuting train she meets Paul Taylor, who lives in a neighborhood where she lives in the country. They date secretly. Patience, knowing her aunts would disapprove, Paul tells her he loves her. Patience's dream of happiness is shattered when the aunts discover her secret. Her father promises not to see Paul again.

VII
SHE went back into the house when at last her tears had stopped and upstairs to her own room. She sat down at the little writing table in the window and found note paper and envelopes. It was the first love letter she'd ever written. She supposed it would almost certainly be the last. She sat nibbling the end of her pen. She made several false starts and then in the end the letter she wrote came quite easily. As she wrote more easily in fact than she'd have been any—as if she'd been talking to him. She told him that her aunts had found out about them. That her Aunt Helen had forbidden her to see him or speak to him again. "Please, Paul, darling, don't try to make me break the promise I had to give her. Because it won't make any difference. Nothing you can say would make me go back on it. Nothing you can do. So this is the end. Except to thank you for all the happiness you've given me. Knowing you has been the loveliest thing that has ever happened to me..."

She read the letter through and then put it in an envelope and sealed it. She posted it the next morning. It was a Saturday. This afternoon he'd be waiting for her train to come into Stortford station hoping that possibly she'd be on it.

She was helping Aunt Alice with the church brasses when the clock struck three, the time she would have been arriving. A tear fell onto the heavy vase. And then another.

anger was fading from his eyes. "Patience darling, they can't do this thing to you." Patience swallowed hard. Her hands gripped the brass rail running along the window. "The trouble is they can." He looked at her for a long moment. "You're not really going to let them get away with it?" "How can I help it?" "Stand up to them. Tell them to go to blazes—" "Oh, Paul, Paul, if you knew them you'd understand that what you're suggesting is quite impossible." "I understand one thing," he flung at her bitterly; "I don't matter to you the way you matter to me."

THE Easter holiday came and for a month Patience didn't go to London. She told herself she was thankful. She was spared the agony of that journey back in the evenings. Knowing Paul was on the train. Sometimes catching a glimpse of him. Having him walk past her with just a curt nod as if the very best stranger. And then the term started once more. Once more there were the early morning breakfasts. Aunt Alice getting up to see her off. Waving to her from the gate as she bicycled down the lane. Once more there were those return journeys.

Patience stared at Paul. Her breath caught in her throat. "But I'm not engaged to you—" "I want you to be." "I—I couldn't possibly do anything like that without first asking my aunts' permission." "Holy mackerel!" "And under the circumstances," he went on desperately, "what chance is there of their giving it?" "The trouble with you is you're conventional and a prig." Her eyes flashed. "I'm not. But marriage is a very serious matter." "The devil it is! Don't worry. I'm already sorry I suggested it."

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book
By HAL BOYLE
RAPID CITY, S. D.—(AP)—Western hospitality isn't the white man's invention. It's an old girl was smartly dressed and her lipstick was a vivid scarlet, as were her nails. Her lashes, too, were darkened with mascara, and her eyebrows a neat feathery line. She was—Patience stared at her—why, she was like herself as she might be if some fairy princess had come along and waved a magic wand over her! "You don't know who I am, do you?" asked the girl. "You're not—oh, you can't be—she gasped. "Patience" said her Aunt Helen, for there just behind her aunt was a girl of about her own age. A girl who had the same color hair and the same color eyes and was exactly the same build. Only this

Sioux custom. But the grandsons of Sittin Bull's warriors carry it so far they are eating one another out of tent and tepee. The old Sioux rule is: "Share whatever you have equally with your brother." And everybody in the tribe is a brother. The Sioux tribesmen, gaining in numbers after a long decline, have overflowed their reservations—the thin pastures, left then by the hundreds to find work in the white man's cities to earn food.

Here's the hitch: As soon as one Sioux finds a job all the others in the neighborhood move in to share his good fortune. They eat him down to their level, and then the whole bunch moves on to the next Sioux with a sou. "Nobody cares who pays," said Mrs. Ellen Donovan, county nurse, "they just eat until the food is gone, they would share it with anybody—even with us. They live altogether for today, and have no care for tomorrow." Mrs. Donovan and Dr. Ben Sedelack, superintendent of the Sioux Sanatorium, have a strong sympathy for the Indians who have had to leave their own reservations in order to stay alive. But they worry over health conditions among 2,500 Indians who have set up camps along Rapid Creek, which flows as a stream through this trade center for the Black Hills area. The tuberculosis rate is high. Last winter every child in the

4-Year College Education Is Big First Prize

The list of awards for winners in the All-American Soap Box Derby, headed by a four-year college scholarship and a Chevrolet automobile, was announced by Myron E. Scott, general manager of the Derby.

These prizes will be given to the winners in the final race at Akron August 15, in which the champions from each of the 180 sponsoring communities will compete for national and international honors.

The grand champion will receive a four-year scholarship to the college of his choice. Second-place winner will be awarded a Chevrolet automobile. A Natco portable 16-millimeter sound motion picture projector and a copy of the 1948 Soap Box Derby film will be the prize for third place. Fourth place winner will receive a radio-phonograph combination, and to the fifth place winner will go a 4 x 5 Speed Graphic camera, with case and flash attachment.

Greyhounds Put Bite on Wolves

TULSA, Okla. —(AP)— J. D. Bradshaw credits his seven greyhounds with the success of his northwestern Oklahoma wolf extermination service. "My greyhounds," he says, "can snap the life right out of the biggest wolf that roams."

Bradshaw doesn't charge for his service. Neither does he collect the $250 bounty the state pays for each wolf bagged. With him, it's a hobby. He began his hunting two years ago after a pack of wolves invaded his farm, mauling two calves and killing several young turkeys.

Bradshaw hunts the wolves in a pickup truck with a hinged tailboard which can be opened in the truck's cab. The dogs ride in the back. "I just drive around a ranch until I spot a wolf," he says. "Then I let the greyhounds out and they pick up the scent and that's all there is to it." He recently accounted for 20 wolves in less than that many trips.

OILERS BLAST PIONEERS 22-7

The Bam's Back

Greatly improved in health, and wearing a cream-colored camel's hair coat and hat, Babe Ruth, greatest of the Yankees, waves to the crowd at the Stadium he made possible.

CLOVIS (Special)—Making nearly half of their hits count for extra bases, the Pampa Oilers whipped the Clovis Pioneers here last night, 22-7. Lefty Roy Parker staggered into the win.

Harvesters Meet Cubs At Oiler Park

The Pampa Harvesters baseball team will meet the Pioneer Cubs in a double header this afternoon at Oiler Park. The first game will begin at 3:45.

This will be the Harvesters' third start in District I-AA conference play. They downed Plainview 9 to 6 but lost to Lubbock Tuesday 8 to 2.

The Harvesters were to meet the Cubs last week but the game was cancelled due to heavy winds, necessitating today's doubleheader.

Le Blanc Sweats It Out to Help Carolyn A Win

NEW YORK (NEA)—Charles Le Blanc rode Carolyn A to victory in the Correction Handicap at Jamaica, and on the face of things one might have presumed that the jockey had a very easy day's work.

Le Blanc had only the one mount during the afternoon, and the $20,000 added stakes was run in 1:13 1/5.

It was permissible to carry five pounds overweight on Carolyn A. With his saddle rigged, Le Blanc weighed 114 1/2. He could have declared his overweight, but elected to make the weight, 110 pounds.

So Le Blanc reported to Dick Law. The procedure is to take a hot shower and get in the box, says Law, the jockey's masseur and physical advisor, indicating the sweat boxes heated by 48 60-watt clear lamps. "At intervals I take boys out, and apply an unguent cream which lubricates the skin, helps promote sweating. Between sessions in the box, I wrap them in rubber sheeting."

Le Blanc spent three-and-a-half hours under Law's ministrations, in and out of the box, weighed out for the race at exactly 110.

Greenville Retains Half-Game Lead In Big State Loop

By the Associated Press
Big State League clubs switch sites today, still so bunched standings could change overnight.

Greenville retained a half-game lead over Waco on a 7-4 decision over Texarkana. Last night the Pirates squeezed by Wichita Falls, 5-4, while Austin hammered the Sherman-Denison-Paris game was halted after five innings because of power failure.

Paris went ahead, 13-1, when a high voltage line fell, but officials of the two clubs agreed to complete the game at a later date. Twelve of the Rockets runs came in the first inning.

Waco pushed over its winning run the bottom of the ninth. Greenville led 2-0 in the ninth. Greenville's error to easily crush the Owls.

Texarkana collected 11 hits off Greenville, but couldn't hit in the clutches, 16 men dying on base. D. C. Miller hit a two-run homer for Texarkana in the ninth. Greenville's 11 hits came at opportune moments.

Tonight, Austin goes to Sherman, Waco to Greenville, Paris to Gainesville and Texarkana to Wichita Falls.

Parker dished up 11 passes to first but held up the Pioneers to nine blows, three of which came with five bases on balls in the Clovis sixth and were good for five Pioneer failures.

Pampa benefited from eight bases on balls and a like number of Pioneer errors, in addition to finding their batting eyes. Their big inning was on four hits, four walks, a hit batsman and an error.

Fortin's homer in fourth with none cleared the center field fence 375 feet away.

Lefty George Matthews, who beat Pampa at Pampa, to toe rubber for Clovis tonight. Charles Kunkel was named to go for the Oilers.

Aggies Need Two Matches to Clinch SW Golf Crown

By the Associated Press
Texas A&M and Arkansas meet in golf at Fort Smith, Ark., today and all the Aggies need to do is win two matches and the Southwest Conference championship will be theirs.

A&M has 26 points to 4 for the opposition and the Arkansas meet is the last on the schedule.

The only team able to beat A&M out in Texas and here's what it would have to do to accomplish that feat.

Sweep all six matches tomorrow with Texas Christian and all six matches Monday with Southern Methodist while A&M was losing five to Arkansas.

If that happened Texas would finish with 27 1/2 matches and A&M 27.

Women's Tourney Moves Into 2nd Round Today

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The 17th annual Women's Southwestern Golf Association moves into the second round today.

Mrs. William Uttinger of Tucson, Ariz., who ousted a tournament favorite, Miss Marie Jackson, University of Arizona champion, one up yesterday, meets Mrs. Tanya McLaughlin, Phoenix, Ariz., in a feature match.

Play yesterday was marked by the defeat of Mrs. C. D. Lee, El Paso, tournament medalist, she was beaten 1 up by Mrs. Sam O'Neal, Odessa, Texas.

The match was marked by a forfeited hole, which contributed to the El Paso golfer's defeat. Even at the 16th hole, Mrs. Lee saw her caddy pluck a dandelion near her ball, she called attention to the violation and immediately forfeited the hole. Mrs. O'Neal shot a par four on the 17th to capture the match.

Nearly four out of 10 Canadians are directly or indirectly dependent upon export trade for their existence.

Stratton Takes Advantage Of Miscue to Down Hickson

Two wrestling matches without a sign of hair pulling, scratching or illegal blows were seen at the Sportatorium last night on Promoter Vic Burnett's weekly card. And the crowd liked it.

Both bouts turned out to be exhibitions of scientific wrestling and tests of strength.

The main event which pitted Walter Stratton, ex-weight lifting champion, against Billy Hickson of Knoxville, Tenn., saw Stratton take advantage of a miscue by Hickson to win the third and deciding fall.

Hickson won the first fall in 17 minutes with a half cradle but Stratton returned to even the count by winning the second fall in 19 minutes with a Japanese toe hold.

Stratton took the deciding fall after ten minutes of wrestling when the younger Hickson missed a drop kick and Stratton, with lightning speed, pounced upon Hickson to pin him with a body smother.

The semi-final bout between Jaqui Joe and Young Billy Sandow wound up in a draw, with both grapplers winning one fall each.

The Mexican Yaqui Joe won the first at the end of 30 minutes with a double toe hold but Sandow came back to conquer the Mexican in seven minutes with a series of drop kicks and then a body press for the second fall.

Homer Anderson of Pampa was the referee.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—Spherical Steve Owen and streamlined Tim Mara were fumbling about the office television receiver, looking for a baseball game that wasn't there. "I'd like to see a few innings," Steve grunted. "I have to go up to Columbia for my on-man spring practice." One-man spring practice, isn't that something new? "It sure is," Owen assented. "It probably is the first time a pro football team ever had spring drills."

SIP IT, BUB
There was just time for one more question as Owen put on his coat murmuring something about "practice in the boiler room of a cold day." How about that statement that Minisi can be another Ward Cuff? "I hope so," Steve grinned. "He's only 21 and he'll be better than me was in college; he's a good defensive player—remember that tackle he made against Notre Dame when he was playing for Navy? He can run, too; and that running pass of his is hard to stop. But another Cuff, I'm not sure they didn't break that mould."

HANDLE WITH CARE
When the Red Sox visited Philadelphia the other day, a writer phoned Joe McCarthy to ask his starting pitcher. "Joe gave the name, but five minutes later he called the writer back at his office. "Just checking," McCarthy explained. "This is my first trip in this year and I didn't want somebody to be pulling a fast one on you or me."

NO SPRING LEFT
Dud De Groot, West Virginia's new football coach, and Roy (Legs) Hawley, the university's energetic athletic director, visited New York yesterday to report on spring football practice to the Touchdown Club. De Groot's report was: "My legs are in the best condition in years just from trying to keep up with this Leg."

Boudreau's Bat Leads Tribe To 5 to 2 Win Over St. Louis

By the Associated Press
Lou Boudreau, batting .519 for his unbeaten Cleveland Indians, is a solid argument for the survival of the player-manager in the major league leagues.

Last of the big leaguers who still combine the two difficult jobs, Boudreau almost lost his portfolio last fall. Only a flood of mail from aroused Tribe fans induced Owner Bill Veeck to call off a tentative trade with St. Louis.

Boudreau pounded out four straight hits, including a double and home run, in yesterday's 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Browns. The team now needs only three more triumphs to tie the modern day record for wins at the start of the season.

The New York Yankees got their Joe DiMaggio-Joe Page combination working for a 5-4 edge over Washington in 10 innings. The result moved the Yanks into second place, going into the important three-game series with the Red Sox at Boston today.

Homer by George McQuinn, Charley Keller and Yogi Berra weren't enough for the champs. They had to go an extra frame and finally won on DiMaggio's long fly with the bases loaded and none out.

Boston cut loose with a barrage of homers—one each by Ted Williams, Sam Rice, Joe Judge and Jake Jones—to smother Philadelphia 11-5, although they were outbatted by the A's.

Eddie Mayo's error on Don Kolloway's grounder enabled Chicago to down Detroit, 6-4, for their second victory. Catcher Aaron Robinson had a perfect day for the Sox with three hits, including a homer and double.

Ebbets Field proved to be the same old unhappy hunting ground for the New York Giants. Brooklyn smashed the leaders' six-game winning streak with a 17-7 shattering.

Preston Ward, Dodger rookie first baseman, homered with the bases loaded and Pete Reiser dove in five runs with a homer and triple.

Pittsburgh climbed into second place on another fine mound job by the veteran Elmer Riddle. He scattered seven Chicago hits for his second win, 4-2.

Rookie Hank Sauer enjoyed a field day in Cincinnati's 14-inning 5-4 nod over St. Louis. Sauer tied the score with a homer in the eighth and won it in the 14th with a single. He had four hits, boosting his average to .364.

Tonight, the same teams will up three-game series.

Ed Nulty started Fort Worth off with a double, two men walked and a single by Solly Hemus produced the first pair of tallies in favor of Tom Poholsky. Poholsky gave up a walk, two singles, a triple by Walter Rogers and a homer run by Dee Fondy. And that was the ball game.

Bill Deisinger's two home runs and a homer and triple by White paced Beaumont's easy victory.

Boyd Sorelle scattered eight Dallas hits, two more than his mates collected off Quentin Allreder. But Sal Madrid hit a two-run homer and Joe Frazier a two-run triple for the Missions.

Rookie Steve Sakas notched his first win of the year for Shreveport as the Sports ran away with the game—scoring eight runs in the first two innings.

Oklahoma City rallied for two runs in the ninth, but hardly denied the Sport margin.

Tonight, the same teams will up three-game series.

Houseworkers Must Be Won Back to Work

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Newfeatures Writer

If you dream that Katy the Cook will soon come back to the kitchen and set you free from the dishpan, you are due for a jolt.

A topflight labor expert says Katy will not come back while jobs are plentiful outside unless the American people take big steps to induce her.

"And unless we take these steps, we are going to suffer hardship," says Frieda Miller, director of the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor. "I mean such hardship as lack of care of babies and sick people or the breakdown of your mothers and working wives because they have to work too hard."

"I think we could well borrow ideas from other countries in solving this problem of home help to relieve women. I don't mean we should copy them on a national scale, but rather adapt them locally."

Miss Miller sketched briefly the plans of three countries.

"In England," she said, "The government launched a National Institute of Houseworkers. It is designed to raise houseworkers' social standing and give them better working conditions. The Institute schools them in house-keeping methods and gives them a graduate diploma, so they have a professional standing. The first group of girls and women trained under this plan will receive their diplomas this spring."

"Institute houseworkers will work 44 hours a week at most and get fixed wages which cannot fall below a certain sum. They will be entitled to one and a half free days a week every week and two weeks paid vacation a year. When the plan was launched in 1947, applications for training from stenographers, waitresses and former service women flowed in."

As a second example, Miss Miller cited Sweden, which passed a 1944 national law covering domestic workers' rights and stating employers' responsibilities. It does not fix either a minimum wage or maximum hours of service. But it stipulates that houseworkers shall not work after seven, shall have certain free time weekly and enjoy free vacations based on their length of service. They are also entitled to a room of a certain standard and medical care when ill.

The Women's Bureau head thinks Australians also can teach an interesting lesson on how to provide home help. In Sydney four nifty veterans founded a business giving maid service.

"Besides thinking of ways to make housework attractive to women again, we need to plan for different ways of giving it," Miss Miller concluded. "Times have changed since Katy left the kitchen for the factory. Peoples' lives and ways of living are different. Some families do not want a maid-of-all work any more. They simply want a maid to cook and serve dinner. Others want the house cleaned daily. Still others need a part-time nurse-maid. So

UNION

He said he hoped, along with others, that the dispute could be settled peacefully, but the unions were "ready to strike if we have to."

There also was an expression of hope by President Truman that the wage dispute could be settled without a strike.

Douglas, after two separate meetings with the unions, which represent 190,000 members, said "the time has been very productive of opportunities out of which we finally may get a settlement." He said the unions were "very conciliatory in discussing their problems," but added that both sides are "hard traders."

issue for the water system expansion has not yet been put before the public, this bid for essential equipment was accepted now.

Heavy machinery such as these pumps and motors cannot be delivered for from 10 to 12 months. If the bond issue passes, then this equipment will be ready for delivery early in 1949, when it is planned to begin the expansion of the system. If the bond issue does not pass, the bid will be cancelled.

The commission also discussed revising Pampa's building code to permit use of recently developed methods and materials in construction. The present code was adopted in 1927, and has not been changed. It is, therefore, considerably outmoded, and it quite often works a hardship on contractors who could otherwise use better materials developed in recent years.

Following the meeting, the commissioners examined the street paving in progress on N. Nelson, where a daily average of a block of new paving is being maintained.

In one year, traffic accidents caused the death of 4,200 children under 15 and injuries to 200,000 in the same age group.

Valley Area Wants Census Figures Presented on Basis of Entire Area

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON —(AP)— Most Texans probably know that the Rio Grande Valley is a highly developed area with a relatively concentrated population, but that doesn't show up in census figures.

Big industrial firms and enterprises in other states study census data when they go to picking a place to locate branch offices and plants or to do business.

That's what is worrying civic and business leaders in Brownsville, McAllen, Harlingen and other communities up and down the fertile valley at the bottom of Texas.

The difficulty arises by virtue of the fact that there are numerous towns close to each other and with close business relationship, but which are located in four different counties—Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, and Willacy.

The valley is 30 miles wide, 110 miles long, has 32 cities and towns and a total population of 284,000.

An appeal was made to J. C. Capt, director of the U. S. Census Bureau, to classify the valley as a "metropolitan area" and issue data showing the overall population and business activity in that section.

O. M. Longnecker, Jr., manager of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce, wrote Capt as follows: "This section of Texas is an isolated geographic and economic unit of the state.

"From every viewpoint its economy is not closely related to the rest of the state and because of its isolation it has developed along area lines rather than along the conventional distinct town or county differentiation as in other sections of the state and counties in the Lower Rio Grande Valley acts and thinks as a metropolitan area, it is only logical that its statistics should be presented on a similar basis."

Rep. Milton West of Brownsville also took the matter to the Census Bureau chief observed in a letter to West that he personally could understand the problem but that it was not one he could act on without much study.

The only quick decision he could make, Capt continued, would be to turn down the request of the Texans because the valley comprised parts of four counties. After noting that the request was without precedent and had to be carefully considered, he added: "On the basis of this study we hope to determine how many areas would have a claim as valid as that of the four Texas counties under consideration and then to decide whether any objective standards could be set up for differentiation among the various claims for setting up new metropolitan areas."

Around the Capital: The new House of Representatives Democratic Barbershop communities need to survey the local situation and find out what the need is.

"In some cities this is already being done. Recently the Women's Bureau surveyed 19 cities including Syracuse, N. Y., St. Louis, Mo., Cincinnati, Ohio, and Oakland, Cal. We found studying such questions as training, working standards, hours, etc. That's a fine beginning. But more communities need to get busy and much more work needs to be done."

let is going places.

Dallas Congressman J. Frank Wilson is one of the members. Others in the quartet, which appeared the other day on a local television program, are Rep. H. Harris of Arkansas, Priest of Tennessee, and Morris of Oklahoma.

Two Army Reserve Corps bills passed by the House are described by Rep. Olin (Tiger) Teague of College Station as "probably the most important national defense measures" ever before Congress.

They provide pay for Reservists who are attending weekly or monthly meetings, as already is provided National Guardsmen, and retirement pay.

With such an inducement, the Army should be able to build up a large and efficient reserve force, says Teague. He proved to be one of the most effective supporters for the measures when they faced possible defeat in the Rules Committee. A World War II disabled veteran, and for years a reserve officer, he contended the bills would preserve a large stockpile of manpower trained and experienced in battle.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)— Everything runs in cycles in Hollywood except producers, who run in circles.

Right now Hollywood is having a testimonial banquet cycle and if someone hasn't given you one you just ain't anybody. (Or else you aren't eating anyway. They never give a man a dinner until he can afford one.)

As of today there have been testimonial dinners for Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor, Al Johnson, George Jessel, a radio editor, a lady columnist, and Bob Hope, who thinks there will probably be one soon for the janitor of the Friars Club.

Oscar winners Ronald Colman and Edmund Gwenn are next in line. They get a stag banquet at the Masquers' Club April 28.

Cantor was getting two poached eggs on toast—"they look just like me"—when I cornered him at the Brown Derby. As a veteran banquet goer for 30 years—"always a bridesmaid but never a bride until now"—Cantor was full of testimonial dinner lore.

TESTIMONIAL CHICKENS

In fact, Eddie thinks there are chickens raised especially and laid aside for testimonial banquets. "Especially skinny and especially tough."

Eddie remembered a testimonial banquet in 1923 for someone whose name he didn't remember. The famous New York lawyer, Max Steuer, was a toastmaster. One of the speakers talked for nearly an hour, then apologized, saying, "I'm sorry, I didn't bring a watch with me."

To which Steuer replied, "Why, these was a calendar right behind you."

This one Eddie says he'll never forget. Will Rogers was invited to be toastmaster at a Jewish charity drive banquet. To the surprise of everyone he accepted. But the big surprise came with the banquet seven weeks later.

Will stood up and didn't speak a word of English all evening. Everything he said was in Hebrew. He had spent the seven weeks learning a language for just one evening.

Cantor and George Jessel once promised a pal they would attend his testimonial banquet at a New York hotel. It was on a Saturday night and they were anxious to get back to their gin rummy game. So they rushed into the hotel, went to the back door of the banquet room and said the first man they met: "Put us on right away. We've got a date."

WRONG PARTY

The fellow beamed, said, "Of course," and shoved them onto the stage. They told jokes for half an hour and then rushed back to their cards. Next day the pal called Cantor and said, "What happened to you? Where were you last night?"

"Where were we?" yelled Cantor. "We told yokes at your banquet for half an hour."

In their rush, Eddie and George had gone to the wrong banquet room and had entertained somebody else's pal.

The great Caruso was given a testimonial banquet at the Friars after World War I. There was a long program intended to entertain him. Caruso listened for a while, then stood up and shouted: "Why nobody ask me to sing? I am a professional. I will show you programs where I worked."

And with that, Caruso walked onto the stage, collared a pianist and sang for nearly an hour.

"Caruso," said Eddie, "was a just an Italian Al Jolson."

Thing of Beauty May Prove to Be Pain Forever

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK —(AP)— The poet said a thing of beauty is a joy forever.

Sometimes it is a pain forever.

But beauty, whether it hurts or helps, is a daily adventure in a big city.

The features of a rural landscape you learn quickly. To learn a city may take your lifetime. And after a lifetime all many people have to remember is a few street addresses—numbers that cloak the anonymity of a million similar experiences.

You say to yourself: "Something happened to me here I never can forget."

And maybe the same thing happened to the older man you brushed by as you say it.

There are times in the day when New York City is most beautiful. That sentence isn't grammar—but it's truth.

Those times are early morning and just at dusk.

At dusk in this town of endless errands everyone is going forward to a hope. Whether he gets it or not is for the moment unimportant. He is on the way.

Behind him is the job his life is in hook to Ahead is the adventure of evening. A thousand skyscraper windows hold an electric beacon of promise. At 5:30 p. m. There is no such thing as failure. The long day a man has dedicated to bread is done—and the night is his own.

It may wear down to an ebony defeat and probably will—but no man is sure when dusk comes down it will turn into his night. There is always the chance of candles and romance.

Dawn is for those who missed something the night before. The city is new in the morning and the slate of life is wiped clean.

The towers shoulder a mist. They stand for all the things you believe in and never quite achieve. They are stone forests of peace—peace all men seek.

Sometime, somewhere, you will be away from this city and remember it. You will remember it at dusk, and remember it at dawn.

Making This Candy Is 'Child's Play'

The next time the children want to make candy, let them mix up this Fruit-Nut Roll which is easy to prepare and requires no cooking. Being a mixture of fruits, nuts and peanut butter, the candy is entirely appropriate for between-meal nibbling for the children as well as adults.

FRUIT-NUT ROLL

1-2 cup pitted dates
1-2 cup dried apricots
1-2 cup walnut meats
1-2 cup peanut butter
1-4 cup confectioner's sugar

Mix dates, raisins, apricots and nuts in porcelain enameled mixing bowl. Put them through the food chopper, using coarse blade. Add peanut butter and sugar and mix thoroughly. If mixture seems dry add 2 or 3 tablespoons of orange juice. Shape into rolls about 3-4 inch thick and roll in confectioner's sugar. Wrap in waxed paper and let stand in the refrigerator about 2 hours. Cut into thin slices. Makes about 60 pieces.

Ancient Restoration Leaves Its Mark

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

What of the Jews in their ancient religious history? The Holy Land that they once occupied free from the dangers and difficulties that beset them in Palestine today?

Such a period in the life of Israel followed the return from the exile and captivity in Babylon, about 600 years before the coming of Jesus Christ.

The story of it is in the Bible books of Nehemiah and Ezra, with such light on the life of the people and their social, moral and religious conditions and problems to be found in the later prophetic books of the Old Testament, such as Haggai, Micah and Malachi.

That restoration of an exiled people was not accomplished without danger and many difficulties. It required the genius, courage, and determined idealism of a military leader like Nehemiah, as well as the reforming zeal of a commanding religious leader like Ezra.

Not all the Jewish exiles returned from Babylon, when the rise of a new dynasty under Cyrus made the return possible. After 70 years or more of exile few of the organized exiles were capable of returning. And many of them, under the comparative freedom they had enjoyed in Babylonian captivity, had greatly prospered and chosen to remain there. So successful were those that remained that they established a Jewish life, with schools and literature, the Babylonian Talmud, that survived all changes of rulers and dynasties and lasted until the 17th Century of our Christian era.

The Jews who returned to their homeland must have been somewhat of the type of Zionists today, though their zeal seems to have been deeper for their fathers. Some conception of their passionate zeal may be found in the 137th Psalm.

In all this history there are pages of inspiration and hope for Jew and Gentile alike. The restoration was destined to have a profound influence upon the world and an intimate relation to the rise and spread of Christianity.

Many non-Jews in the Pagan world were drawn to Judaism by its superior morality. These converts, known as "proselytes," were among those to whom Paul successfully appealed with his conviction that Judaism found its fulfillment in Christ. Both Judaism and Christianity have survived, and they are both in the book we call the Bible.

The hope of the world is in that book and in the light and life that it offers to all who will "Watchman, what of the night?" And the coming day.

Planning Necessary For Balanced Diet

There's something about spring, or even the approach of it, that does things to our appetites. We tire of heavy winter meals, develop new tastes and desires for different foods.

Our desire for a change to new and different foods, however, will have to be well tempered by economy in order to stay within the food budget. Sounds like a difficult trick these days, but it isn't at all if we follow a few simple fundamentals that will help secure variety and appetite appeal along with economy in our meals.

Plan meals for several days at one time: You will save time and money and you will have more variety.

Use seasonable foods: You'll save money by serving asparagus this spring, for example. And watch for the early rhubarb to make sauce or a pink rhubarb pie. Spring, of course, is the time to serve eggs.

Cater to eye-appeal as well as taste-appeal: When you are planning your meals, consider their appearance. For instance, gray, bright-colored jelly or preserves on the table appeal to the eye as well as to the appetite. The most thrifty, practical meal is instantly more appealing when brightened with some of the delicious jellies and jellies you can get so economically from your grocer.

Remember that contrast is appealing. This means contrast in colors, in textures and in flavors. Always keep this important point in mind when meal planning.

Arrange food attractively: Use simple garnishes, including the old standby jelly. For example, plain, old-fashioned pot-roast looks glamorous as soon as you put "jeweled orange slices" around it—the "jewel" being a gay-dab of currant or mint jelly in the center of the orange slice.

Above all, let's remember to serve something new once in a while, something so different from your usual dishes that you have to think a while to decide on it.

Three-quarters of Canada's population lives in a strip averaging 200 miles wide along the U. S. border.

Canada is almost as broad as it is long, being 3,600 air miles east to west and nearly 3,000 north to south.

Christian Science

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 2.

The Golden Text is: "Evil shall slay the wicked, and they that hate the righteous shall be desolate. The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants: and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate" (Psalms 34:21,22).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey: whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?" (Romans 6:16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "S. 'Once and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy.

Do you want to feel young again? Why feel old at 40, 49 or added years have slowed down your vim and vitality, just go to your drugist and ask for Calton stimulating tablets. Many men are obtaining remarkable results with this amazing formula.

Fox Finds Way to Plover Under Trail

ST. JOE, Ark. —(AP)—The atomic age hasn't dimmed the cunning of 'Er' Fox. In north Arkansas recently, a fox used this method to outwit his old foe, a plover.

Tiring of having dogs yapping at him for two hours, the fox came upon a field in which a dog pack tried it, they brought down the wrath of mama cows, who charged the hounds and broke up the hunt then and there.

Care of Refrigerator

COLLEGE STATION — Do you ever store food in paper sacks in your refrigerator? And do you use your refrigerator as a storage space for an accumulation of jars, bottles and cans? Are you even guilty of stacking and packing food in every available space?

Miss Louise Mason and Mrs. Bernice Clayton, Texas A. & M., give a few simple steps to keep the refrigerator sweet-smelling, uncluttered and effective. One of the worst faults is to put wrapped-up food in the refrigerator. After all, paper is an insulator and there's no way of protecting food that is enclosed in paper. Miss Mason also pointed out that a refrigerator is for perishable foods and that refrigeration means the free passage of cold, clean air around your foods, so that all packing and stacking which defeats that purpose should be avoided.

Mrs. Clayton suggested a list of six steps on cleaning out the refrigerator in order to keep it fresh and sweet-smelling:

First, choose the items you eat each week for this job. Second, begin by removing all the food. Third, defrost the refrigerator. Fourth, add a bit of baking soda to warm water, and using a soft cloth, wash the shelves and sides. Fifth, refill the trays with fresh cold water. To keep the trays from sticking, wrap each one with wax paper around the sides and bottom.

Mrs. Clayton also recommended that a charcoal brick be placed on the upper shelf to absorb odors. If it becomes moist and a bit sticky, simply set it in the oven and bake until perfectly dry. Then let it cool and put it back on the refrigerator shelf for many more months of service.

The spot for left-overs is the top shelf, nearest the unit of the refrigerator. Eggs should go on one of the lowest shelves, either in their own container or a covered bowl.

Fresh, leafy vegetables, clean and washed, of course, are stored either in the hydrator or in a generous sized plastic bag with a long zipper closing. A good way to store carefully washed, and drained parsley and watercress in a quart fruit jar is to cover the jar with a piece of waxed paper and hold it securely in place with a rubber band.

The specialists pointed out that the prime purpose of a refrigerator is to conserve food. By watching and caring for the refrigerator properly, there's little or no chance of spoilage.

Many Baby Dishes Can Double on Adults' Menu

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Here are some combinations of baby and junior prepared foods that the rest of the family can enjoy. They cut down kitchen work in the baby household.

Two decades ago, scientists discovered that the old milk and gruel routine did not provide sufficient nourishment for fast-growing babies. Research proved that babies require the same basic food as adults but prepared in simpler, more digestible form. Both uniformity and variety figured in the prescription also, so it was not long before vast laboratories took over the job of developing nutritious foods for babies and toddlers.

National Baby Week is an appropriate season to note that busy mothers are discovering new virtues in the variety line of ready-to-serve baby foods. Many a "baby dish" not only doubles for lunch or supper, but offers interesting, readily digestible food for elderly members of the family who require a bland diet.

WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Womanly wisdom: The most devastating thing you can do to a "dangerous" woman is to yawn and change the subject when her name is mentioned.

To get rid of a bore who stays on and on, simply grab the floor and talk about yourself. That way you'll "outshine" him.

If you want to flatter a man all you have to do is listen attentively to everything he has to say without letting anything distract you.

Never tell another woman how much or how little you paid for anything. If you tell her how much, she'll think you are bragging. If you tell her how little, she'll lose all respect for the purchase.

The bride who wants her husband to keep on offering to help with the dishes is wise to refuse his offer now and then.

WHEN TO PRAISE Never count on a party which is given primarily to "pay back" those you owe to do anything more than just that.

If you want to really please a woman by a compliment, praise her in her husband's presence. Ask another woman to show you how to do something and you have made a friend.

Never bring up the subject of an old quarrel unless you are ready for a new one.

The biggest bargain in a woman's wardrobe is the item that brings her the most compliments.

Whether you are building a new home or remodeling, you'll find that vitrolite, the structural glass material, offers a practical solution to how to surface the walls of your bathroom.

Because it is all glass, vitrolite's rich colors are permanent. They are fused in the glass itself and thus can never fade or wear off. The smooth surface of vitrolite is cleaned easily by the quick whisk of a damp cloth. Smudges disappear quickly when the polished surface is washed.

Delegation of Pampa FHA Returns From State Meeting

Misses Naneen Campbell, and Lilith Martin of Pampa and Miss Barbara McCullick of Lefors have returned from Galveston where they attended the annual meeting of the Texas Association of FHA (Future Homemakers of America).

The girls were accompanied by Mrs. Leslie Hart, sponsor of the Pampa chapter. All three of the girls attended the executive meeting which preceded the general meetings of the organization on April 23 and 24.

Miss Campbell is state reporter, Miss Martin is a voting delegate and Miss McCullick is president of Area One, which includes more than 30 counties in Northern Texas.

The programs of convention included an evening session, "Talent Night," held in the Buccaneer Hotel, various talks on subjects such as "Youth and Peace," "Education and Health," "Family Living is Fun," "Camp Fun," and "The Texas Federation." There were also various ceremonial services, including the conferring of honorary memberships, in which Naneen Campbell officiated. Then the usual reports and items of business were included.

Interpersed among the more formal parts of the program, such as addresses, reports, committee activities, plans for the future, were numerous songs by the 1089 girls who attended the meeting. Mrs. Ford Munnerly led the music to "Song of Future Homemakers of America," which was featured and which the Texas organization plans to present for adoption as the national FHA song.

The national meeting will be held in Kansas City July 6-9. At that time sub-regional meetings will be held and chairman of national project will be nominated. Naneen Campbell will be presented as candidate for nomination of this area. If she wins she will be one of twelve national officers in Texas.

Juanita Davis from Phillips will be reporter at the national meeting. She is a state officer from this area.

There are nearly a quarter of a million girls in the national organization and 27,000 are in Texas. Pampa chapter has 46 high school.

Rumors Start Shower Of Royal Baby Gifts

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM LONDON —(AP)—Whether Princess Elizabeth expects a baby is anybody's guess—awfully even her friends—but rumors are good enough for many of the devoted who already have started a shower of nursery gifts.

Disregarding Buckingham Palace's skeptical—and unofficial—comments on recurrent reports that the princess is pregnant, people here and in the dominions have sent in presents of baby clothes, quilts and blankets for crib and pram, and toys.

Persons close to the court said "Elizabeth clubs" are being formed in Australia, New Zealand and Canada to pool contributions. A similar scheme may get under way in Britain—if there is any hint from the royal family that the reports are true.

Practical wives and mothers in several parts of the empire have written that from the moment they first heard the gossip they set to work with their knitting needles, resolved the princess should not run short of woolies.

One London woman made up her mind to use some of her precious clothing coupons to buy woolen yarn for the "princess' baby things."

"Mind you, it's not settled yet," she said. "Some say she's going to have a baby, and some say she's not. It doesn't make a lot of difference. She'll be having one someday, and these nice warm things will come in handy then."

All this, of course, the palace points out, is decidedly premature.

The princess is booked up for public engagements until the end of June. That is cited responsibly as a reason for doubting rumors that she is expecting a child in October. Yes, the later dates could be cancelled, but not without a good deal of bother. Why should they have been made in the first place? So ask informed members of the court.

But in the end they all come to this: "We simply don't know. So far as we know Princess Elizabeth has spoken to none of her intimates on the subject."

Asked what might happen to the baby gifts should they be needed, court sources said "they might be returned, passed along to deserving young mothers in this country, or turned over to a welfare organization."

And if they should be needed? Then a little staff would be set up to receive, catalog and re-knowlege the presents—much the same as was done before the royal wedding. The princess would select what she wished to keep, and give away the rest. "Knowing the donors and the public would appreciate her motive."

Shane Wilbanks Has Birthday Party

Games were played and refreshments of ice cream and birthday cake were served. Favors of candy and bubble gum were given to each child.

Congratulations, Meridian, Miss!

Officials of Meridian, Miss., population 35,000, have announced plans to observe Fire Prevention Year in the community during 1948. The plan calls for concentrated community effort to reduce fires all year.

The city's fire department, municipal agencies, civic organizations, and citizens will carry on a plan of fire prevention and fire prevention year. The experiment is being watched by many national fire prevention and public service organizations.

Meridian officials have received national attention for their enterprise in sponsoring the Fire Prevention Year. Frank A. Christensen, former president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, in commending the city, said:

"Only when every community in the nation comes to realize that fire is a community problem, that every week must be Fire Prevention Week, can we begin to save precious lives and have resources so sorely needed to help rehabilitate a war-torn world."

In every city and town in the United States, the 1947 fire loss of 10,000 lives and $692,603,000 in property, would not be repeated in 1948. It could probably be cut from 75 to 50 percent. That is a goal worth working for.

Road to Statism

Commenting editorially, the Seal Beach, Calif., News, says: "There is only one way to reach where the fellow who's working on the railroad doesn't also work for the state. That is the North American continent. The railroads of the United States and one in Canada are the only important privately owned and operated roads in the world."

"Elsewhere the railroads have whistled over the trestle into the government roundhouse."
In a speech, Lowell R. Burch, president of the New York Air Brake Company, pointed out how leading to socialization is for a government to utilize an industry by various devices, then to criticize and discredit it, and finally to take it over.

"The first step toward nationalization of our own country's railroads is being commonwealth property by government officials, who have sued to collect reparations for wartime handling of government freight. Though the freight rates now claimed to be too high are mutually agreed upon with the sanction of interstate commerce Commission, the suit would, if successful, penalize the railroad industry to the tune of two billion dollars."

"Should near-bankruptcy break down railroad efficiency, the very bureaucrats responsible for the doubtless vent a great barrage of criticism against the industry. That would be step two in the procedure described by Mr. Burch."

"The final push, for outright government ownership, would be next on the nationalization schedule. The railroad workers' boss would be the state, and his wages paid by the taxpayers. With the itinerary established, the only question would be which industry would next be invited down the same road."

Fair Enough by Westbrook Pegler

The essay in which Federal Judge Beasly Moore condemned an unconstitutional portion of the Taft-Hartley law forbidding unions to spend money in connection with federal elections is an affront to reason and experience.

This was the base in which Philip Murray, the president of the C. I. O., and the C. I. O. itself violated the law with intent to test the right of Congress to enact this prohibition.

Murray was for years an assistant political protege of John L. Lewis within the United Mine Workers. Lewis carried Murray into the CIO among other political baggage in the thirties.

After Lewis quit the unsalaried job of president of the CIO in 1940, retaining his veritable throne as king of the mine workers, Murray became president of the CIO. Their old friendship, described by Murray long ago as an affection akin to love, turned to hatred. A CIO convention in Boston, a year after their parting, Murray cried out that Lewis had actually tried to have his life by deviling him when he was down of a thrombosis.

Murray compared his tribulations to the passion of Christ, spoke of his Gethsemane and likened a routine doublecross of one union politician by another to the betrayal of the Savior.

Lewis is a Republican and Murray is a New Deal Democrat, but they have a common cause against the Taft-Hartley Act.

Judge Moore is a Democrat, so listing himself frankly in Who's Who found him baneful on the subject of his old association with the law firm of Townsend, Bock, Moore and Townsend, of Charleston, W. Va., counsel for the United Mine Workers. But, although the cat had got his Honor's tongue, and he wouldn't answer questions about himself, Who's Who says that he was a member of this law firm for 11 years. And court records in Washington and other information prove that he was down of a thrombosis, and for a long time had been counsel for John L. Lewis and the UMW.

Unlike some judges, in considering a problem, I rip through a speechless. When an old hand at county politics in the West Virginia, he would answer me with illusive language about unions. I shut him off.

In the Murray-CIO case, Moore decided that the clause abridging freedom of speech and of the press and assembly. He said those rights were not to be taken away around election time and, further, that the law admittedly tried to suppress propaganda for and against candidates for office by union publications.

In the first place, this judge knows that the CIO and the unions which compose it are not voluntary associations of people. He cannot be so stupid as not to know that the CIO was organized by bloody violence through anarchy and that the individual is not a free man within his own union or the CIO as a whole. Coercion by express and implied threats was the common weapon of discipline and control.

REIGN OF THE BUREAUCRACY
"Bureaucracy" is a misnomer but not outmoded term. Its popularity may have faded lately because politicians seem to use the term less and less. I fear that all too many folks have assumed that government by bureaucracy is here to stay, that a matter what brand of national administration you have, the emphasis will still be on Washington. Yet, to welcome an increasing reign of bureaucrats is to invite totalitarianism.

The battle against political encroachments upon the lives of our people still can be won. When the facts are carried straight to the bar of public opinion, I believe informed Americans will repudiate this reign of bureaucrats. For a generation, the scope of government's power has extended outward from the federal center. People are tired of abuses that come in the wake of bureaucracy.

Do you realize that some 1200 federal bureaus now exist to dominate, control and restrain every manner of human activity? Back of these bureaus eleven government agencies function as corporations. The majority of these have little constitutional justification. Compliance with constitutional law is not important to these bureaus and agencies. Neither is the spirit of individual enterprise, which is so much a part of American tradition.

These agencies feel they are beyond the law and the spirit of the constitution. While competing with the private enterprise of citizens, these federal corporations indulge in wasteful, extravagant, and corrupt practices. A screen of bureaucratic confusion, with the help of garbled records and false accounting methods, hides them from full public view. These methods resemble those of the monarchies of old.

NO BENT TAXES
Federal corporations that compete with the enterprises of private citizens have rare advantages. They pay no rent, and decline to refer to this in their bookkeeping. They are simply "operating on government property." They pay no taxes, like the corporations with which they compete. They are "the government," and their purpose is to consume taxes. Tax money is great for their needs.

The capital these federal agencies use is therefore taken from the people in the form of taxes. This tax money is put up by the citizen, and he is told that it is being used to defray the right and proper costs of authorized forms of government. Instead, much of our federal revenue is turned over to these "operating on government property" corporations that do their best to expand and encompass all about them.

HALT THE MARCH
Despite having to pay no rent and no taxes, federal corporations are estimated by one source as having used in the year ending last June more than $1,000,000,000. A free rent on costs, losses added to free-hidden costs are estimated to make up a full third of the annual federal budget. All this cost is a huge burden on the people, and it is being used to pay the march toward totalitarianism.

About nine million industrial workers now have the use of restaurant service in the plants where they work compared with about two and one-half million before World War II.

Velda Solomon, young Australian who began cycling to reach her father's home in California, won an expert bicycle racer that she won 50 miles in 1947. This city has a woman's bagpipe band of 25. Twelve are pipers and 13 drummers.

THE BASEBALL SEASON

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG news behind the news

WASHINGTON — Henry A. Wallace's "rule or ruin" strategy, as exemplified in the Illinois contests for United States senator and governor, has become one of the Truman Democrats' most salient arguments in their drive to shun the third party candidate and to reduce his support to the supposedly small Muscovite fringe of the electorate.

In this key Midwestern state, the regular Democrats have named professor Paul Douglas and Adlai Stevenson for the seats at Washington and Springfield, respectively. Both were intimate friends and erstwhile coworkers with Henry during New Deal days.

TICKET — The opposing ticket will consist of Senator C. Wayne Brooks and Governor Dwight H. Green. Both are ultraconservative, anti-New Deal Republicans. Mr. Brooks has been an arch-opponent of Roosevelt-Wallace reforms. But he has also fought every proposal for foreign aid, which he apparently endorsed him to the prohibition of the Republican nomination, with the blessing of the anti-Communist GOP bosses. He is also presumed to entertain vice presidential ambitions.

RECORD — Mr. Wallace sought a quiet refuge with respect to Mr. Brooks' proposal that he had been too occupied with more important problems to make himself acquainted with the Illinois Senator's voting record. This record, the Douglas exhorters said, was a somewhat strange one. The fact that Henry had presided over the Senate for several years.

CONTROL — The behind-the-scenes battle for control of Pennsylvania's seventy-three delegates to the second largest at the Republican convention has escaped nationwide notice, although the outcome of the personal duel between Senator Edward Martin and Governor James H. Duff may determine the selection of the party's candidates for president and vice president.

It has been agreed that the Keystone State will present Senator Martin as a favorite son on the first ballot, possibly on the second and third if the expected deadlock develops. Where to go thereafter constitutes the quarrel between the two staid men at Washington and Harrisburg. There is also involved the political prestige of the duellists, with each striving to emerge as the unquestioned and unchallenged political boss of Pennsylvania—a state which has acknowledged no real, rough political ruler since the death of Boies Penrose.

Sometimes I wonder how there can be anything left to invent, and then come along someone like this fellow who used to work for Uncle Sam's Treasury Department. It seems he's invented a clock made out of radioactive materials that says "Okey" when it passes through a machine, or else screams loudly when it's a forger.

Atomic war is not the most serious threat to the continued existence of the human race today; man is threatened with self-destruction through reckless misuse of the land that destroys his very means of subsistence.

STASSEN IN OHIO by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — When election returns start rolling in about the Ohio primary on May 12, it will be a foregone conclusion that Robert A. Taft got at least 30 of the state's 53 delegates while ex-Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota got only 23 at most.

The casual newspaper reader or radio listener may take this to mean that Stassen took a pasting from Ohio's favorite-son candidate of 1948. But that won't be quite right.

The catch in the Ohio situation is that Stassen has GOP convention delegates running in only 31 of the state's 22 congressional districts. And Stassen has only one candidate for delegate at-large, out of a total of nine to be elected.

'Webbacks' Play Hide and Seek With U. S. Immigration Officers

Beverly Smith Is 'Painless Baby'

AKRON, O. —(AP)—Year-old Beverly Smith never cries about a fall, a cut or a burn. She never will cry about them, either, because they cause her no pain, say Children's Hospital officials.

Doctors are calling little Beverly the "painless baby."

They say she was born indifferent to pain. A pin prick brings a laugh. Bumps and bruises never bother her.

Aside from complete indifference to pain, Beverly is a normal, active child. She cries when hungry or angry, for example.

Right now the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Smith is in Children's Hospital for treatment of anemia. Her 24-year-old mother says they probably will take her home soon. Beverly was one year old Sunday.

Mrs. Smith first noticed Beverly was immune to pain when the child bumped her head on the floor at the age of six months and did not cry.

"Then one day she laid her little hand on a hot stove," Mrs. Smith added. "She didn't cry then, either. She just looked at me and laughed."

After Beverly cut her finger without blinking an eye, Mrs. Smith took her to a doctor; then four doctors. All were as bewildered as Mrs. Smith.

"They said it might be a habit, or something," Mrs. Smith recalled.

When Beverly developed anemia she was taken to the hospital for a deep hypodermic injection of liver.

"This is usually a very painful process, but Beverly never even flinched," said the resident physician.

It was then the doctors decided her lack of feeling to pain was "a state of indifference to injury of congenital origin." The doctors said they had heard of only four or five similar cases.

LAREDO (AP)—A never-ending game of hide and seek is played in this brush-tangled section of the United States-Mexican border.

The hiders are bedraggled Mexican men and women workers eager for higher-paying jobs on farms and factories north of the border. Once in a while there is a criminal among them.

The seekers are broad-hatted, trim-uniformed inspectors of the United States Border Patrol, a branch of the Immigration Service.

The base-line of the game in Texas is the Rio Grande, which forms a winding border between El Paso and Brownsville more than 1,000 miles long.

Some of the hiders swim or wade the shallow, narrow Rio Grande. Because of that practice, all illegal Mexican immigrants have come to be known as "webbacks."

Others cross in boats provided for a fee by Mexican boatmen. Logs and washubs pushed by swimmers have been used as entry craft. Some workers cross the International Bridge on visas, but with prison terms for a second offense. Unauthorized entry is a felony.

The game mostly is good-natured.

"We are ordered to shoot only in self-defense," says keen-eyed Elmer B. Debrail, chief patrol inspector here.

But there are occasional smugglers and other criminals among the workers who ceaselessly try to cross the border. Hunting of smugglers is the job of another branch of the Customs Service—the Border Patrol encounters them frequently and arrests them when it does.

The last shooting episode in Laredo occurred more than 10 years ago.

More than 30 border patrolmen have lost their lives along the long stretch of border from Brownsville to San Diego, Calif., since the service was set up in the mid-1920's.

The webbacks are mostly peaceable, hardworking people, says Fletcher I. Ralke, chief of the patrol office at McAllen, Tex.

Much of the land on both sides of the Lower Rio Grande is a smothered thicket of mesquite trees, five-foot high cactus and thorny underbrush.

Trailing webbacks through this nearly impassable territory, the 86 inspectors under Debrail use radio-equipped automobiles, jeeps and horses. They travel by foot when necessary. A small airplane stationed at the McAllen headquarters is used for spotting from the air. Patrolmen working in the brush keep in touch with each other by walkie-talkie radio.

An old frontier trailing method, used is "cutting sign." When the sign of a webback is found in the brush, the patrolmen speed ahead to the first crossroad. If tracks are found or "cut" there, the process is repeated. When no evidence of a crossing is discovered, patrolmen return to the last tracks found and follow them into the brush on foot.

"We sometimes chase men 70 to 100 miles through the brush," Debrail said. "We often find them asleep under trees."

Away from the river, the chase is carried on by inspectors who check trains, railroad yards, highways and cheap hotels. Informers also are used.

Most of the Mexicans who succeed in crossing get work on the citrus and vegetable farms which have been carved out of the brush land and produce richly under irrigation.

Some, however, are smuggled far into the interior as seasonal farm laborers. Ingenious methods of smuggling have been detected.

Italy Guards Against Red Uprising

The threat of a Communist coup, during the critical post-election period, has caused Italian policemen to search everywhere, looking for hidden caches of arms. These Carabinieri prod a chicken coop in Montecelio in a sudden raid. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Albert Bissetti.)

Three years ago, a border patrolman checking highways at Refugio, Tex., noticed that holes had been bored in a large refrigerator truck which the driver said contained lemons.

The patrolman sniffed at one of the holes and got odor of sweaty bodies. He found 99 Mexican aliens inside.

The driver told of two other truckloads which had gone ahead. Seventy-nine more webbacks were rounded up on tomato farms in Illinois. The drivers were convicted of harboring and concealing aliens.

Other smuggled aliens have been found in the tanks of gasoline trucks and in the water tender of a railroad locomotive.

Webbacks who are caught must pay their own fare back to Mexico, if they have it. Debrail said a bus used to deport aliens had paid for itself in 18 months and earned enough for a new one.

Stiff requirements and expense move the Mexican workers to the illegal crossing.

There is no legal limit to the number of Mexicans who may immigrate to this country.

Would-be citizens, however, must equip themselves with birth and good-conduct certificates in their home cities and have their desirability passed upon by a United States consul. If approved, they must be examined by a United States immigration officer. The fee for documents is $10, and there is a head of tax of $8 for entering his country.

The Mexican government recently renewed an agreement with the United States under which workers (barcoeros) may come into this country under six-month labor contracts.

To implement the agreement and arrange for the welfare of laborers coming in under the plan, state and federal employment officials in various sections of the country have been conferring with growers and other employers.

Conservationist Says Man Is Laying Waste to World's Forests and Farms

By JOE WING

NEW YORK (AP)—Poor land instead of poor politics is seen by Fairfield Osborn as the cause of the world crisis.

"When will people realize," said he during an interview, and between habitual smiles, "that one of the chief reasons for inter-national friction is eroded lands and increasing population?"

A fall, friendly type, Fairfield Osborn is famed as a conservationist and president of the New York Zoological Society which runs the world-renowned Bronx Zoo.

Leaving back in his office chair at the 38-story level above what passes for good earth in Manhattan, Osborn discussed the world situation. What really counts, in his view, is well-cared-for farms.

To Osborn, this is a crusade. Furthering it, he has just written "Our Plundered Planet," on what erosion has done to the earth and the men who live on it. He has written the story of the world's dwindling backlog of good land and its headlong population increase.

If the real crisis, which underlies all others, is not met, he says, freedom from want will ever be a dream.

Osborn figures that the world's two billion people have available only two acres of land apiece although they need two and a half acres. Many a nation has less than an acre of land per capita.

"No wonder there are shortages," he said.

"But that's not all. People go on increasing. There'll be three billion in less than a hundred years at this rate. And the land will be still sicker, unless we get busy."

America has made a start on doing something, but Osborn regards it as only a start. Most of Europe learned how to treat farms well long ago. But many regions around the Mediterranean that now pass for deserts were forested and fertile before man got in his dirty work.

Man has become, says Osborn, a major geologic force. He cuts down the trees and his parents tear away the topsoil. Yet Japan's 70 million people showed how a rocky homeland only the size of Montana could be made to blossom. There are other such spots, of course, but in the main the record has been one long catalogue of destruction and mining the land.

The record includes the wholesale destruction of wildlife.

Give Osborn time and he will go right down the list of continents and nations and put a finger on waste and destruction in each. Misused land not only produces less, but it produces food that fills without sustaining, that lacks essential minerals.

Something really can be done about all this, he thinks. Men know how, says Osborn, to stop erosion and build up the land. It's a matter of education, organization, capital expenditure and public opinion.

But how about the population increase?

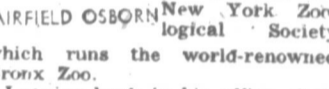

"That's something for which Osborn has no solution.

"Things will have to level off eventually," he concludes.

COURAGE ON PHONE

ROGERS, Ark. —(AP)—When a tornado approached this community April 19, 1947, Mrs. Marguerite Miller, telephone operator, courageously remained at her post. For her devotion to duty, Mrs. Miller recently was named "First Lady of the Year" in Rogers by the local chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

The island of Formosa, returned to China after the war, is rich in coal, copper, gold and silver.

FAIRFIELD OSBORN

Writer Sees Statehood as Answer to Alaska's Ills

Alaska's resources have been looted, by absentee owners of her chief industries, and her "patchwork structure of government" has resulted in virtual anarchy, charges Richard L. Neuberger in The Reader's Digest for May. In an article condensed from Survey Graphic, Neuberger urges statehood as the only way out of the territory's muddle.

Prosperity has not come to Alaska, despite vast resources of fish and lumber. Absentee domination of fisheries is so complete that residents miss the full benefit of employment in their major industries. Wages paid by canneries to imported labor from the states, in 1946, totaled $7,206,000—almost double the $3,725,000 paid to Alaskans. As the majority of nonresident cannery workers are not paid until they return to Seattle after the salmon run is over, they cannot even buy Alaskan merchandise.

Alaska has no personal or corporate income tax, nor a property tax. In 1946, when the fish pack was valued at $56 million, the industry paid the territory only $650,000—from a tax of 24 cents on each case of salmon. Though the value of all canneries exceeds $75 million, not a penny of property tax has been paid on the investment. Lacking revenue from such sources, Alaska cannot have sorely needed highways and tuberculosis clinics, or even an effective police force. Had Alaska been a state during the past 25 years, she would have been eligible for $200 million of federal highway funds.

The territorial legislature, though elected by the people, does not truly represent them. Its acts can be revealed by Congress or vetoed by the Governor, who, in turn, is subordinate to the U. S. secretary of the Interior. Law enforcement, in charge of politically appointed U. S. marshals, is far below the standards set by the mounties in neighboring Canada. A recent confession of the murder of six men revealed that the authorities had not known the men were missing.

Alaska's freight rates, the highest in the world, contribute to exorbitantly high consumer prices. The average Alaskan family pays $400 a year in freight charges on its food supply alone. Even in normal times a quart of milk costs 28 cents; a dozen eggs, $1.25. Today's prices are much higher.

Only full membership of Alaska in the union, Neuberger holds, will redress her wrongs, develop her vast riches and enable her people to enjoy the American standard of living.

Will Rogers Fund Aids Handicapped

NORMAN, Okla. —(AP)— Since 1939, when a $150,000 scholarship fund was established from a bequest by the late Will Rogers, 156 physically handicapped students at the University of Oklahoma have received financial assistance. Successful scholarship applicants—including the blind, crippled and deaf; those suffering from heart ailments and arrested tuberculosis—receive monthly sums ranging from $30 to $50. The amount is determined by the difference between the student's needs and resources.

Grants to students may be made as advances, loans or gifts. Most of them are approved under the third classification. The maximum amount given thus far under a regular scholarship was $1,845 during a four-year period. The lowest was $38.

The funds provide an annual income of about $5,400. Only the interest is expendable. The State Vocational Rehabilitation Division matches the Will Rogers scholarships, and usually supplies such aids as crutches, wheel chairs and glasses.

The program also is in operation in Texas and California, where the state universities aid handicapped students through Will Rogers' funds.

College Vacation Almost a Career

GUAM (AP)—What's the best way to spend a college vacation? Two bearded and browned students from the University of California at Los Angeles will tell you it's sailing the Pacific—if you don't care how long your vacation lasts.

Brothers Al and Joe Linesch joined a shark fishing expedition to Tahiti during last summer's vacation from UCLA. They returned to Hawaii in a small Tahiti ketch, too late to make the fall term at school. So they signed on the missionary schooner Morning Star VI for the Marshalls and Carolines.

Now they have signed a year's contract with a trading company in the Pacific islands. Asked if they really intend to return to UCLA, they said "Yes, when our summer vacation is over."

Austria Exporting Music and Drama

VIENNA —(AP)—Music and drama are high on the list of Austrian exports to the West this year. Trips to Western European nations and the United States are planned for the Vienna Burgtheater and the Vienna Philharmonic orchestras. In addition, "Danton's Death," the opera composed by young Gottfried von Einem, will be performed in five foreign countries.

"Danton's Death" had its world premiere last year's Salzburg music festival. It will be staged in Stuttgart and Hamburg, Germany, and in Brussels, Paris, Milan, Venice and New York. The Hungarian conductor, Ferenc Friczay, has been engaged to conduct the opera at the Metropolitan in New York.

Anglo-Saxons were early users of metal rings. The word "wed" meant a pledge and a ring was used to seal the bargain.
