Defense Department Asks 1,979 Doctors

DELIBERATING CEASEFIRE ORDER — The United Nations Security Council in an emergency early morning session voted approval of the resolution calling for an end to India-Pakistan fighting by today. The resolution proposes a UN-supervised ceasefire and withdrawal of troops to positions held when the undeclared war broke out.

To Handle 3-Million Expansion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department requested Selective Service today to draft 1,979 doctors, dentists and veterinarians starting in January.

The call was for 1,529 physicians, 350 dentists and 100 veterinarians. It compared to the draft of 852 doctors last January and 1,000 in January 1964.

The department said the call was necessary to "provide the health services required for the increase in the active armed forces."

The military services are expanding from less than 2.7 million to more than 3 million men as a result of the Viet Nam war.

The Pentagon said the number of doctors who have volunteered for active duty "has not been sufficient to meet the military buildup requirements."

Of the physicians in the quota, 949 will be for the Army, 260 for the Navy and 320 for the Air Force. All of the dentists and veterinarians are for the Army.

On the war front, the government-owned All India Radio said three more Pakistani F86 Sabre jets were shot down today in the Sialkot-Kasur sector of West Pakistan and that Indian forces were only four miles from the Pakistani military base of Sialkot.

Sialkot is seven miles inside Pakistan below the southern borders of Kashmir and was the scene of a major tank battle. Kasur, a border town, is 25 miles southeast of Lahore where Indian troops have driven to within five miles of the city, Pakistan's second largest.

The All India Radio also reported that 33 persons, 29 of them patients, were killed today during a Pakistani bomb attack on a jail and hospital at Jodhpur, 400 miles south of Lahore. It was not clear whether the reported attack took place before or after Pakistan announced in the United Nations it was accepting a cease-fire.

The dramatic early morning cease-fire announcement in the U. N. Security Council laid the ground for a settlement of the long dispute with India over Kashmir. But tough bargaining lay ahead.

Pakistan vowed to quit the U. N. if it does not solve the problem of Kashmir's future.

The cease-fire agreement shifted immediate concern for world peace to the other crisis facing the subcontinent — the confrontation between India and Communist China along the Himalayan frontier.

Auto Union Asks Price Rollback

NEW YORK (UPI) — A demand for a roll-back of auto price increases announced by the Chrysler Corp. was voiced today by Walter E. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union (UAW).

Reuther said the UAW would press for a Congressional investigation of Ford and American motors if they follow Chrysler's price lead.

He warned that "profiteers" in other industries would be encouraged to raise their prices and the nation would face an inflationary spiral unless the Chrysler action is rescinded.

In Washington, White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers told newsmen Tuesday that Chrysler's new price list was under study by the Commerce Department and the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Moyers said any White House comment on the price situation at this time would be "premature." Another administration source said that careful study would be needed to discover if Chrysler's price hike more than covered the cost of safety features and other equipment the company said it will install in its new models.

In announcing the price changes, Chrysler said it would continue to pass along to consumers the 3 per cent excise tax cut that took effect in June as well as other cuts scheduled for the future.

"There is absolutely no economic justification for price increases on 1966 car models," Reuther said in a statement issued at an AFL-CIO executive council meeting.

"Despite its solemn pledges to Congress and to the public to pass on excise tax reductions, Chrysler has now jugged its price structure to recapture excise tax savings which were intended to benefit consumers."

Trinity River Project Fate Decided Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today decides the immediate fate of the $910-million Trinity River project.

A vote was expected by late afternoon on the rivers and harbors bill containing $83 million for initial steps in making the Trinity River navigable from the Gulf to Dallas - Fort Worth.

Rep. Glenn Davis, R-Wis., planned to try to kill the proposal.

"This project does not have Bureau of the Budget approval and should be restudied," he said.

Davis also objected to what he called "piecemeal authorization." He said Congress would be committed to the entire plan if authorization is granted this year.

Davis is a member of the House Public Works Appropriation Committee.

Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, the bill's sponsor, was expected to lead the Texas delegation in support of the measure.

Pakistan and India Bow To Ceasefire Demands

By United Press International — Pakistan and India bowed today to a United Nations demand for a cease-fire effective at 6 p.m. EDT but heavy fighting was reported still underway in West Pakistan.

The crisis between India and Communist China also eased and an immediate confrontation appeared to have been avoided when Peking announced India had complied with its ultimatum to dismantle military bases on the border.

Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri defiantly announced in Parliament, however, that Indian troops have been ordered to drive Chinese Communist forces from border areas in the Himalayas. "Our armed forces have been instructed to repel the aggressors," Shastri said.

An official spokesman for the Indian Defense Ministry denied the Chinese report India had dismantled the bases. He said this was impossible because India had no installations in Chinese territory.

"If any installations have been demolished on the Chinese side of the border obviously the Chinese themselves must have done it," he said.

On the war front, the government-owned All India Radio said three more Pakistani F86 Sabre jets were shot down today in the Sialkot-Kasur sector of West Pakistan and that Indian forces were only four miles from the Pakistani military base of Sialkot.

Sialkot is seven miles inside Pakistan below the southern borders of Kashmir and was the scene of a major tank battle. Kasur, a border town, is 25 miles southeast of Lahore where Indian troops have driven to within five miles of the city, Pakistan's second largest.

Slick, Satellite-Snared Bank Bandit Beats It

MIAMI (UPI)—Sheriff's deputies and federal authorities teamed today in a search for Georges Lemay, a Canadian fugitive once caught through a satellite but on the loose again after breaching an "escape proof" jail.

Immigration Service officers and deputies of the U. S. Marshal joined local officers in the hunt for the slick, muscular Lemay, wanted for a Montreal bank robbery from which the loot—still missing—might run into the millions.

Lemay, 40, dodged authorities in south Florida for more than three years. He was captured aboard a yacht May 6 in Fort Lauderdale. This time authorities paid particular attention to possible water escape and kept police and the coast guard patrol boats on the alert for suspicious craft.

Lemay appeared to have executed a well planned and neatly carried out escape that left Sheriff T. A. Buchanan suspecting an "inside job," and trying to figure out how the Canadian did it.

According to a preliminary investigation, Buchanan said, Lemay somehow made his way through jail doors and past guards from his fifth floor cell in the county's new jail to the unoccupied seventh floor. There he went to a barless window, and tied a 100-foot length of flexible hose carrying electrical and water lines inside to a plumbing fixture.

Lemay slid to a roof on a lower section of the building, jumped 15 feet onto soft grass, then jumped into a 1965 white (Ford) automobile waiting at the curb a few feet away. Three men were inside, according to witnesses. They sped away with Lemay.

Missing, too, from her normal routine for the past day or so, was Lemay's wife, 29-year-old Lise Lemieux Lemay.

Lemay was caught last May at Fort Lauderdale when the early bird communications satellite tripped him up.

A boat yard worker recognized Lemay from a Scotland Yard "wanted" poster, beamed from Canada via the satellite, and tipped police.

Runaway Sailor Threatens Publisher

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Police today were expected to seek a complaint against a 19-year-old runaway sailor who threatened publisher-sportsman John P. Scripps and two other men with a pistol and hand grenade aboard Scripps' $800,000 racing yacht Novia Del Mar.

Police said they planned to ask the district attorney's office for a complaint charging Guy M. Warriner with kidnap and assault with a deadly weapon in Tuesday's incident near the San Diego Yacht Club.

Scripps, 52, chairman of the board of John P. Scripps newspapers, which publishes seven dailies in Washington State and California, termed the 75 minutes' captivity the "most nervous" experience of his life.

Authorities said Warriner, absent from the guided missile cruiser Columbus which is at sea, tried to force Scripps and his party to take him to Mexico.

"Warriner wanted us to take him down the coast 10 miles and put him aboard the boat we had on deck so he could be on his way," Scripps told authorities.

Scripps and two members of the yacht crew, Capt. Sam Davis and steward Stan Gregory, were rescued by police who fired one shot before Warriner surrendered.

'For Safe Intersections' —Quote and Unquote!

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI) — City officials gathered Monday to dedicate a new $14,000 traffic light electronically operated on traffic flow patterns. It was the city's first.

The system would make the intersection safe, the officials said.

The ceremony was delayed 30 minutes when an ambulance and a car crashed in the intersection, injuring one person. The dedication was held after the wreckage was towed away.

'Repel' Order Given

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said today Indian troops have been ordered to drive Chinese Communist forces from border areas in the Himalayas.

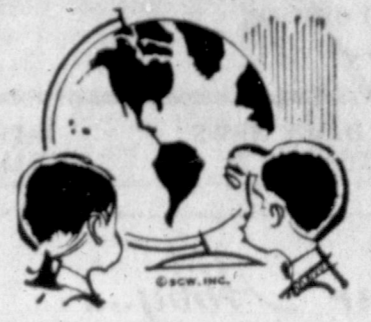

"Our armed forces have been instructed to repel the aggressor," Shastri told a cheering, desk-pounding session of the Indian Parliament. "I must tell the House that the government views with grave concern Chinese activities on our borders."

The Indian prime minister said he hoped that even at this late hour China would respond to India's call for peace.

Shastri spoke after India brushed aside Chinese claims that Indian troops had dismantled military installations along the Himalayan frontier. An official Indian note delivered to the Chinese embassy here Tuesday night accused Chinese troops of seizing two border positions inside India and inflicting casualties on Indian forces.

The note charged China with "unprovoked and aggressive activities."

In the same Parliament speech today, Shastri ordered Indian troops to observe a cease fire in the war with Pakistan beginning at 3:30 a.m. Thursday (See INDIA, Page 3)

Assaults On Cong Continue

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied forces carrying out a search and destroy mission 40 miles northwest of Saigon captured an abandoned Viet Cong hospital and an ammunition factory, a U.S. military spokesman reported tonight.

Huge B52 jets from Guam bombed suspected Communist concentrations 20 miles north of Saigon today in their 30th raid of the war while U.S. Navy and Air Force planes struck deep into North Viet Nam with attacks on bridges, boats and other communications.

Reliable sources in Saigon said U. S. military authorities have asked Washington to relax the ban on the use of tear gas against Viet Cong tunnel hideouts in South Viet Nam. The commanders said tear gas is a humane method to flush rebel troops out of the tunnels without hurting women and children hiding with them.

The request to Washington followed a recent incident in which (See CONG, Page 3)

Ultimatum To India Is Lifted

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China said today India has secretly dismantled fortifications allegedly built on Chinese soil along the Sikkim frontier. Peking had demanded the act by noon EDT today in an ultimatum that threatened "grave consequences" if India failed to comply.

The Chinese claim indicate that China was lifting the ultimatum, thus reducing the threat of a border war in the Himalayas.

In New Delhi, spokesman for the Indian Defense Ministry denied the Chinese report and repeated statements that India had no installations in Chinese territory.

"If any installations have been demolished on the Chinese side of the border, obviously the Chinese themselves must have done it," the India spokesman said. He said no Indian troops have crossed the border.

The Indian government dispatched a note to Communist China charging that Chinese forces massed along the mountainous frontier had seized two border positions inside Indian territory and fired on Indian positions in Sikkim and Ladakh.

The note said three Indians (See CHINA, Page 3)

U.S. Says War of Nerves Not Over

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Red China's six-day war of nerves against India may not be over yet, U.S. officials believe.

On the surface, China appeared to have called off her confrontation with the Indians at the last moment. Having warned of "grave consequences" if India did not dismantle military posts on Chinese territory by noon (EDT) today, China suddenly announced Tuesday that India had complied.

The Indians denied this. But they, too, were back-pedaling from a confrontation in their own way.

From the size of the world headlines China's ultimatum had evoked, it was an anticlimax.

Her aims presumably were to embarrass India, put her off balance and at the same time to deliver on whatever obligation Peking may have felt to help Pakistan in its war with India.

It would be no surprise if China now were to probe the Indians on some other diplomatic or military front.

Some observers have long thought that the well-guarded Sikkim approaches to India—the area dealt with in the ultimatum—would only be a feint and that if China did mean to attack India she would do so elsewhere along her border.

Indian diplomats say their greatest fear is that the Chinese would move directly into Kashmir and attack India across the cease-fire line.

They claimed the Chinese have 14 to 16 divisions, or 120,000 men, along the Indian border and could place 60,000 more there very quickly.

Pampa Skies Are Clear For Awhile

Pampa and several other points in the Panhandle and parts of the South Plains were the only spots in Texas that had clear skies this morning.

But, the clear skies were not expected to last long as another surge of cold air from Montana was expected to arrive along with the first official moments of autumn just after midnight tonight.

Torrents of rain up to eight inches pounded the Hill country near Austin early today. The moisture was swept there by a cold front from the Texas South Plains that spawned tornadoes and flash flooding in wide sections of West and Central Texas.

By 7 a.m. today the Crabapple Ranch near Austin had gotten a soggy eight inches, as had the Henly Store.

Five and a half inches of rain had drenched Bonham by early today, most of it since midnight. Perrin Air Force Base recorded 4.75 inches. Delina and Justin both had more than three inches and many other communities recorded more than two inches during the storms.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I rent our apartment for the year. We travel together quite a lot and therein lies our problem. We are friendly with a married couple I'll call Henry and Brenda. My husband gives Henry the key to our apartment when we leave town. Now Henry and whomever he entertains there don't abuse our furniture in any way. They don't drink our liquor or make a disturbance, but I don't like the idea of a married man using our apartment for what I am sure he is using it for. My husband and I see Henry and Brenda socially and I can't look her in the eye. My husband says I am silly to feel that way. Am I?

paid no attention to it because it didn't seem to matter. My neighbor says we should break him of being left-handed before it's too late because he will find it a terrible handicap when he grows older. She says her husband is left-handed and it's an awful nuisance. He has to sit at the end of the table when he eats because his arm is always hitting the person to his left. (If it's a round table, he's out of luck.) She says all the machines, tools and appliances are geared for right-handed people and it's awkward for lefties. I have never heard of these drawbacks, but they make sense to me. Should we force our child to use his right hand?

It's a New Generation for Persian Lamb

RETURNS TO FASHION SCENE — Persian lamb returns to the fashion scene this season in smart, youthful designs. Skins on coat (left) by Durable Fur are worked horizontally in brazelet fashion. Buttons are of woven metal, collar high and rolled. Schiaparelli contributes the sleek broadtail Persian evening coat (center) with high-rising collar and one-button closing. Three-piece costume by Teal Trains (right) has long line of taupe Lammoire (broadtail processed Argentina lamb). This is worn with a skirt and full-length coat of oloabaster diagonal whipcord.

And this season leading coat and suit manufacturers are introducing Persian trim in collars, cuffs and on hemlines. This fur takes to the ski slopes, too, in smart jackets and handsome sweaters and it is shown in top millinery collections as well. Persian lamb is a durable fur and its slim, trim lines are flattering to all figures. It has so little bulk that it is even being used now in sleeveless shells to be worn with a matching fabric skirt and coat. There's even news in color. Along with black, still the leading favorite, and natural gray now being used for a variety of young fashions, there is top-dyed brown Lasur in plentiful supply. Rarer is an iridescent natural brown, and still in short supply a new beige Persian.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — With several exceptions, network television's just-ended premiere week of new series was reminiscent of the Herb Shriner story about the time his hometown had a beauty contest and nobody won.

It seems to me I've used that line before—probably last season—but it stands. It couldn't be much more applicable than it is this new season. Thus it probably isn't much of an honor to be the top freshman entry this year—but in any case there can be little doubt that the class of the field is NBC-TV's one-hour "I Spy" series, in which Robert Culp and Bill Cosby play a couple of secret agents knocking about the world pretending to be a tennis bum and his trainer-companion.

The chief attraction of this Wednesday adventure-comedy series, and the reason for its charm, is not so much the espionage idea as the delightful human and personal relationship of the two principals, both fine, intelligent performers in light as well as heavy moments. They could be playing two truckdrivers, and the result would be the same.

The two other best freshman entries I've seen thus far also belong to NBC-TV, and both are also an hour in length: "Run For Your Life," in which Ben Gazzara is a splendidly cool hero who has been told he has only a year or two to live and decides to experience life to the hilt; and "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," a comedy-adventure with Jack Warden and some excellent character actors in a tale of an old schooner on espionage missions in the South Pacific in World War II.

Both of these shows, if no threats to "Hamlet" or even "The Odd Couple," are very professional commercial and well-produced examples of plush escapism, and show promise as unpretentious entertainments.

In fact, almost all the new shows worth taking a second or third look at are on NBC-TV. If you like Dean Martin's insouciance, as I do, you will like his hour NBC variety series, "Get Smart," on the same network, and dealing with a totally incompetent secret agent, is a half-hour comedy with possibilities if its writers can meet the tough standards of good satire and farce over the long haul. And "Hank," another NBC half-hour comedy—about an unregistered college "drop-in" who wants an education—has an appealing notion, if it stays with it.

Over at ABC-TV, meanwhile, there is a good, old-fashioned, blood-and-thunder western, "The Big Valley," with Barbara Stanwyck as the head of wealthy ranching family. And the same network also has a half-hour comedy with modest possibilities — "O. K. Crackerby," starring Burl Ives as a rich fellow with no manners erby," starring Burl Ives as a rich fellow with no manners who hires a young Harvard graduate to give his children the polish he lacks.

CBS-TV apparently is stuck with most of the schedule of its deposed President, James Aubrey. The series here seems of most interest to me is already rumored in trouble — "The Smothers Brothers Show" — with Tom Smothers as an apprentice angel on earthy missions. If CBS can only improve its stories and find the precisely right format, the show could be a delight, for Tom is a brilliantly funny comedian.

PAMPA HAS CHANCE

Dons Seek 10th Over Harvesters

By RON CROSS
News Sports Editor
Pampa hasn't had a winning football season since 1953 when they were 6-4 and they haven't beaten Palo Duro since the two schools first began playing in 1956.

But, come Friday night and the Harvesters have a good chance to end one of those jinxes.
Both Pampa and Palo Duro are 0-2 in non-league warfare and both will be opening the 1965 conference season Friday night at Amarillo.

The Dons have 13 lettermen back, including five two-year lettermen, but have shown that inexperience hurts in losing to Midland, 15-6 and highly touted Dumas, 19-0.

Like Pampa, the Dons scoring attack has been a little on the weak side with only one touchdown in two games.

Unlike Pampa in one respect the Dons do like to throw the football, even in the rain.

Don quarterback Bob Peters, a 150-pound junior with only two team experience behind him, hit one of three tosses for 10 yards.

Three two-year lettermen return in the line for Palo Duro and two backfield men are two-year lettermen.

Back to help bolster coach Tom Gilley's line are 181-pound guard Mike Francis, 159-pound guard Reb Hudson, a senior and tackle Jackie Tubbs, a 185-pound senior.

Junior Highs Open Second Week of Play
Pampa Junior High football teams hope to better their opening week record of last week when they take on foes Thursday.

Last week the teams won only two of five contests.

Saturday at 10:00 a.m. the Lee Jr. high ninth graders play the Shocker reserves while the Lee eighth grade goes to Phillips and the seventh grade goes to Perryton for a contest.

Pampa Jr. high ninth plays Shamrock at Shamrock in hopes of victory No. 2 and the seventh grade hosts Lefors in an afternoon contest.

Pampa Jr. high eighth grade has an open date.

MARTIN TURNER INSURANCE
Fire, Auto, Comprehensive Liability and Bonds.
107 N. Frost — Ph. 4-8428

In the backfield Gilley returned 175-pound halfback Phillip Fajardo and 166-pound David May.
It is May who has the Don's only score of the young season, a 79-yard romp last week.

Pampa was beaten 26-0 by the Dons last year and the closest the Harvesters have come to victory was in 1959 when they were beaten 6-0 and in 1957 when the Dons won, 13-7.

But, the Harvesters improved vastly last week, losing 20-6 to Wichita Falls Rider and were in the contest until the final minute of the game.

Pampa opened with a disappointing 27-6 loss to Perryton.

Coach Eural Ramsey, pleased with the overall play of his chargers last week, especially his offensive line, says if Pampa continues to improve as they did last week, teams will be in for a rough time.

In the backfield Gilley returned 175-pound halfback Phillip Fajardo and 166-pound David May.
It is May who has the Don's only score of the young season, a 79-yard romp last week.

Pampa was beaten 26-0 by the Dons last year and the closest the Harvesters have come to victory was in 1959 when they were beaten 6-0 and in 1957 when the Dons won, 13-7.

But, the Harvesters improved vastly last week, losing 20-6 to Wichita Falls Rider and were in the contest until the final minute of the game.

Pampa opened with a disappointing 27-6 loss to Perryton.

Coach Eural Ramsey, pleased with the overall play of his chargers last week, especially his offensive line, says if Pampa continues to improve as they did last week, teams will be in for a rough time.

American Roundup Oliva Eyes AL Batting Crown

By United Press International
All of a sudden Tony Oliva has a tight lock on the American League batting title as his Minnesota Twin teammates have on the pennant.

Although in and out of the lineup because of a sore hand in recent weeks, the 25-year-old Oliva has opened up a seven-point margin over the Boston Red Sox' Carl Yastrzemski and now seems a cinch to win his second straight championship.

Oliva went 3-for-4 Tuesday when the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Twins' pennant-clinching with a 6-4, 10-inning victory and raised his average to .320. Yastrzemski dipped to .313 when he went 0-for-3 in the Boston Red Sox' 4-0 loss to the California Angels.

The Twins can clinch a tie for the flag by beating the Orioles today but the champagne celebration has been delayed at least until Friday when they play the Washington Senators.

The Chicago White Sox reached a point where they can do no better than tie the Twins for the pennant when they lost to the Detroit Tigers 6-2, the New York Yankees defeated the Cleveland Indians 9-4 and the Senators topped the Kansas City Athletics 4-3 in other A.L. games.

In the National League, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 7-4, Los Angeles defeated Milwaukee 3-1, Chicago topped Philadelphia 7-5, St. Louis blanked

Irish, Steers Get Nod Again

NEW YORK (UPI) — Notre Dame, Nebraska and Arkansas, three teams expected to vie for the national championship this year, were installed as favorites today to make it two in a row this Saturday as college football action swings into high gear.

Notre Dame opened its campaign with a "new look" last Saturday and steamrolled past California 48-6, but the Fighting Irish got up against Purdue this weekend and are rated only a four-point choice.

With Heisman Trophy quarterback John Huarte and All-American end Jack Snow gone, the Irish have switched to a running game and seem to have enough horses to guarantee them another great season.

Purdue, however, could be the one big pitfall on Notre Dame's schedule. The Boilermakers, with 24 lettermen returning, are rated contenders for the Big 10 title and they opened their campaign with an impressive 38-0 rout of Miami (Ohio). Purdue also has a history of springing upsets and will have an advantage of playing on its home field at Lafayette, Ind.

Nebraska, picked by many experts as the strongest team in the country, opened its season last Saturday by upending Texas Christian 34-14. The Cornhuskers go against a weak Air Force Academy squad this weekend and should have no trouble winning again. The oddsmakers rate this one a mismatch and have quoted no point spread.

Arkansas finished second in the nation last year with an unblemished record and tries for its second win this season against Tulsa. The Razorbacks are favored by 12, but the Golden Hurricanes can do a great deal of damage with their aerial antics.

Texas, Ohio State and Southern California are three more of the nation's powerhouses figured to win this Saturday. The Longhorns, fifth-ranked in 1964, are favored by 12 over Texas Tech in a night game at Austin; Ohio State is a 15-point choice in its season opener against North Carolina and the Trojans

Walter Rogers Reports:

The Information Gap: Interpreter Needed

For more than a day after the Senate passed its version of the omnibus farm bill there was not to be found in Washington a detailed summary comparing the House and Senate measures. The reason for the delay was that the farm bill is a very complex piece of legislation and even among the experts there are sometimes differences of opinion as to the meaning of certain provisions. Even though summaries of the bill have now been prepared, persons not familiar with farm legislation would have difficulty understanding them. The words are English but the meaning is Greek. I am reminded of the farmer in the Panhandle who wrote to me earlier this year to say that regulations of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) were so difficult to understand he thought he might get out of farming.

It is difficult to pose a practical answer to the problem. It is absolutely essential that the Government make itself understood. The people can't be expected to understand as well as to be told the regulations, whether enacted into law or imposed administratively, under which they must live. A summary of regulations written in unintelligible language does not serve the public.

I am going to suggest to Secretary Freeman and others in the Agriculture Department that its best information specialists be put to the task of preparing pamphlets and other material explaining—in everyday language easily understood—the provisions of the farm program soon to take effect. I am familiar with the kind of information available to explain the present program, and I am convinced that a much better job could be done to explain it. The new program will cover a four-year period. American farmers can't be expected to make the proper personal decisions open to them unless they can understand the program's alternatives.

Too often in the Federal government there is a tendency for "experts" to decline to share their specific knowledge with others. Each agency and department has on its staff men who specialize in very limited areas of that office's jurisdiction, and they become steeped in the most detailed and obscure precedents and rulings affecting their specialties. Specialists of this type on the legal staffs of regulatory agencies pose a most difficult challenge for lawyers in private practice representing clients on the other side of a question. The agency specialists have become experts at taxpayers' expense; the private attorneys, who must represent clients in a broader spectrum of matters, are at a disadvantage. This same problem exists in other branches of a Federal department. Bureaucrats talk a specialized language beyond the ken of the layman. They tend to become impatient with persons not so well versed as they.

The "information gap," as you might term it, is a serious problem when Americans must deal with highly complex law and regulations. The people can't be expected to feel that the government is truly theirs when all they know of it is the need to meet certain government imposed obligations they do not clearly understand. The tax laws are an example of the kind of regulatory jungle that needs to be clarified in the statutes and better explained to the public. The Internal Revenue Service has made progress. Much more helpful publications are now available to taxpayers seeking assistance in making out their returns. In the matter of taxation, it is obviously un- fair for the government not to make every effort to explain the law clearly. A taxpayer who does not claim the deductions for which he is eligible is over paying his share of taxes.

I will continue my campaign to bring clarity to government publications explaining the details of government programs. Too many government information specialists are engaged in promoting the public relations of their departments and too few are doing the hard work of translating complex regulations into simple English.

BIG FARMS DOMINATE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. Department of Agriculture statistics show large-scale farming is beginning to dominate the farm picture. The Department says in 1964 farms with sales of $20,000 or more took in nearly $3 out of every $5 of cash receipts from farm marketings. This was done despite the fact that farms with $20,000 sales account for only one out of every eight farms in the country.

Foreign Commentary

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International
Outlook from the foreign news cables:

PERSISTENT RUMORS:
Diplomatic sources in the conference city of Geneva with close Soviet connections were not too surprised by the flurry of rumors about a possible imminent change in the top Kremlin leadership. As they see it a changeover would fit in with the pattern of a shifting collective leadership that has developed since the ouster of Nikita S. Khrushchev. The only question appears to be when. Moscow sources available to UPI believe they are some months away. But in Geneva, Communist sources say changes involving party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Anastas I. Mikoyan may be tipped at the coming Communist party meeting in Moscow.

SHARPER CONFLICT:
Diplomatic sources in London expect a further sharpening of the Sino-Soviet conflict because of Red China's increasingly aggressive and expansionist Asian policy. Peking also has stepped up its campaign against possible Russian participation in the forthcoming Afro-Asian conference in Algiers in November amidst growing indications Moscow has been able to muster support from a number of neutral countries.

ELECTION SATELLITE:
French space experts are working full speed on plans to orbit a crude satellite shortly before the presidential elections Dec. 5. Government strategists in Paris believe the spectacular would swing a massive vote behind President Charles de Gaulle should he run, or his nominee by giving his regime credit for making France the world's third space power. Should the first shot fail a second three-stage diamond rocket will stand by for a second attempt.

AMERICAN IDEA:
Indonesia has made it clear it will shun Japan's suggested preliminary meeting on an Asian development bank. Officials in Jakarta say participation is out because the bank is an American idea. Moreover, its contributors and beneficiaries will likely include Malaysia and South Viet Nam. Indonesia already has dropped out of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund because it thinks they are "American imperialist schemes."

GERMAN PROBLEM:
Germany is expected to loom large in Soviet affairs the next few days with East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht visiting Moscow after Czech President Antonin Novotny's visit and a surprise trip to Warsaw by Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev. Communist leaders presumably are fighting their views in connection with the exploratory visit of West German Foreign Undersecretary Karl Carstens to preside at West Germany's national day ceremonies at a chemical exposition. There are indications he will try to probe Soviet views on its possible new outlook toward Germany after the German elections. The Soviet press says there can be no improved relations as long as Germany continues to seek access to nuclear weapons and tries to reclaim lands now held by Poland.

FRENCH EMBARRASSMENT:
French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville will not be going to Washington after attending the Pope's address to the United Nations Oct. 4 in New York. Diplomats in Paris say this is because French diplomacy is embarrassed by Peking's aggressiveness after France told its allies it thought Peking is bent on peaceful policies.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International
Current events invite dreamy thoughts of what-might-have been in the postwar world if it had been possible to found the United Nations on fact instead of on pious hope.

The current event at this moment most pleasant to contemplate is the partnership of the United States and the Soviet Union in an effort to prevent all-out war among India, Red China and Pakistan. The United Nations was set up 20 years ago in belief that the United States and the Soviet Union would be foremost among a great power peace-keeping partnership.

If this belief had been factual instead of fanciful, the United Nations today would be everybody's sweetheart. It is a fact, of course, that the United States and the Soviet Union now are in double harness and pulling for peace. But to expect that this partnership is more than a temporary reversal of the situation usually prevailing in the United Nations is to expect far too much.

This temporary partnership does give the Johnson administration the opportunity to profess optimism that the forthcoming annual session of the U.N. General Assembly will amount to something worthwhile. Beyond the joint American-Russian pressure for peace there is not much to inspire optimism for the upcoming General Assembly meeting or confidence in the future of the United Nations itself.

It has been established now that member states of the United Nations are not required to pay U.N. assessments for those activities of which the member state may disapprove. This rule was established last month when the Johnson administration surrendered the principle that U.N. members must pay their assessed dues on penalty of losing their Assembly votes after nonpayment for two years. The Soviet Union and others had balked, the Russians notably, in protest against assessments for U.N. peace keeping operations in the Gaza Strip and in the Congo. The late Adlai E. Stevenson warned that failure to enforce the assessment provisions of the U.N. charter eventually would wreck the institution. If so, the United Nations' days are numbered.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The 'Valuing' Function

One of the interesting conclusions which has been frequently drawn from history, is that history teaches us nothing. More colorfully, it has sometimes been phrased: "The one thing we learn from history is that we learn nothing from history."

This conclusion is often voided when, after repeated exploration into the lives and times of other cultures which antedate our own, it is observed with almost monotonous regularity that flourishing and prosperous cultures come apart at the seams. Certainly, it is true. When people living in a particular land are poor and have little, they are willing, it seems, to exert themselves with great diligence. And as they put out greater and greater energy, they begin to fare better than before. Their standards rise; their scale of living advances.

Yet, in a few generations, all this energy, all this diligence may pass away. In the midst of prosperity, the formerly toiling multitudes are now content to take their ease. Their government has grown large and they have grown fat. And it is no longer worthwhile, in their value judgments, to exert so much effort.

Some put it this way: "From rags to riches to rags, in three generations." It is often true.

What is apparent here, is the working of man's subjective value scale. All of us tend to value things which are difficult of attainment and in scarce supply. Thus, when a particular people are poor, when they have barely enough to eke out a wretched existence, a willingness to work hard, to work long, to live frugal and careful lives manifests. What they don't have is so valuable that they willing exchange their time and energy, which they do have in abundance, for the scarce commodities their fertile imaginations can envision.

But let conditions reverse and see what happens. At once the material things of life are in abundance and thus are less hard and certainly for fewer hours. What was once so dearly gained is now tossed to one side as the merest trifle. When such slothfulness becomes general, the culture expires.

There is an interesting comment that can be made here in our own generation. It is only in recent years that a fair understanding of the nature of values as being always subjective and relative has emerged.

And, as with any psychological malady, the job of the psychiatrist is to first cause his patient to understand himself in the particulars. Once the patient is conversant with his own mental functions he can detect the cause of his malaise and bring about a cure.

Knowledge is the first requirement. You cannot cure a disease until the disease is understood. In cases of mental distress, to "know thyself" is the first requirement.

In one sense, this is the real problem of cultures which rise and fall.

One of the factors here relates to man's function in the valuing area. But if men understand that this is the way they do function; if they know that what is plentiful may very well be discounted, then they can guard against the tendency, so prevalent in prosperous countries, of placing less and less importance on goods and services, simply because they become plentiful.

No one can rule out the fact that the evaluating process in each of us, is a subjective matter. Values are not fixed and are always subject to fluctuations. But if we know this about ourselves, we can be on guard against too ready a willingness to devalue understanding conditions which are truly of lasting importance.

As a matter of fact, whenever we come across a man of integrity and character, one of the hallmarks is the fact that this man has relatively stable value judgments. He guards against the tendency within himself to discount items, simply because he has a sufficiency of them. If he has many friends, he still cherishes each friend. If he has many dollars, he still understands their value.

If he has an admirable character, it is because he does not permit himself to vacillate from one point to the next simply because some particular point may become easy for him. The skillful violinist, for whom playing is comparatively easy, remains in concert trim by diligent practice, in spite of his acquired skill.

Thus, while values are never fixed, understanding of human nature helps to supply a relatively stable outlook. If such could be generally encouraged, we might avoid the cyclic collapse of civilizations.

'Mr. Economy,' Hah!

The illusion that President Johnson is "Mr. Economy" continues to be projected by some segments of the press, including Family Weekly, a Sunday Supplement in many of the nation's newspapers.

In the column of commentary on events of the day, Allen G. Yarwood says Johnson's "tendency toward economy goes beyond burning off the lights in the White House." We are told he has taken the lumber from the old frame house where he was born and had it re-used in building a cabin on his Texas ranch.

There are some indications such as this which indicate Mr. Johnson is careful about spending his own dollars. But the record of his administration shows little to justify referring to the man from Texas as "Mr. Economy."

As a reminder, the Treasury's "Summary of Federal Government Cash Transactions with the Public" shows that from July 1, 1964, to June 30, 1965, U.S. treasury income was $119.6 billion, while expenditures were $122.3 billion. The admitted national debt a year ago was $311.7 billion. At the end of June of this year, the admitted debt had increased to $317.2 billion.

The pretense of economy is a sham.

Cannel At Bay By Ward Cannel

Other Futility Rites

NEW YORK (NEA) — As regular readers know, we usually bend over backwards in this space to avoid giving offense. It may not be the best posture for typing. But it is certainly better for the health if you stick to attacking allowed topics such as organized religion and motherhood.

Basically, we know better than to go anywhere near a subject of holy belief like science. But in this instance we have no way out.

It is simply impossible to continue silent at the worsening water shortage — and the scientific remedies being applied to it in our part of the country.

In order to speak out, we have compiled a small dossier beginning with last spring when the drought first became acute.

At that time, according to our notes, a team of experts not only pronounced a water shortage but also laid the cause of it to a shortage of water.

To meet the problem, New York passed a number of emergency laws forbidding such activities as car washing, lawn watering, etc.

Three months later, a new investigation into the matter revealed that the water shortage was not caused by a shortage of water at all.

According to that scientific re-evaluation, there is actually plenty of water for everybody. The trouble seems to be that very little of it is available in the northeastern United States.

Consequently, the question is not one of water at all. The fundamental problem is rain.

And as there is an enormous scientific difference between saving water and making rain, the city took several new and seemingly scientific steps.

First, a team of technicians was given $1,300 and sent to California where artificial rainmaking is practiced.

However, our notes show that less than an inch of rain fell during the period of that pilgrimage.

The next city measure showed a bit more imagination, we felt, but was even less effective. Two top-ranking water department engineers were suspended from their jobs and threatened with dismissal and dishonor.

Our notes show that rain was predicted for three days following their suspension. But only a few sprinkles actually materialized — and those came on the morning after the two men were reinstated.

The only really dramatic sign the city can point to came last week when the mayor appointed a four-member panel of scientists to survey the city's plight.

Our notes show that threatening clouds drifted over the city that very afternoon and, a few hours later, it rained cats and dogs.

Since then, however, the weather has largely been warm, dry and clear.

Well, we may not know much about the rites of suspending engineers or the art of making rain in California, but we certainly know the scientific principles of making it rain. And so does everybody else with a solid grounding in the fundamentals of nature.

—It rains when you have just washed the car.

—It rains when you have just watered the lawn.

—It rains when you have scheduled a lawn party, a fishing weekend, a parade, a picnic or a vacation.

—It rains when you have left your raincoat and umbrella at home.

—It rains when your wife has just come back from the hairdresser's.

To put these principles to work, we have sent out several memos. One to the boss requesting a month's vacation, or — failing that — a scholarship to send the wife to the hairdresser's.

Another memo has gone out to the mayor, recommending that rain apparel be outlawed for the duration, and that car washing and lawn watering be strictly enforced.

As yet, no answer has come from either office. But we are quite certain that if the drought continues much longer, all of these scientific principles will be put into effect.

In fact, we would not be surprised in the least if the mayor proclaimed an entire week

Mansfield Opposes Brute Force' Battle in Senate This Year On 14-B Repeal: Labor Leaders Insist Despite Filibuster Plans

WASHINGTON — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., is at sharp loggerheads with top labor chiefs over what to do about President Johnson's filibuster-threatened bill repealing Section 14(b).

Mansfield wants to postpone Senate consideration of the measure until next year.

But George Meany and Walter Reuther, AFL-CIO president and vice president, are demanding the House — passed legislation annulling state right-to-work laws be acted on this session. They are insisting it be placed before the Senate next week, and the chamber kept in continuous round-the-clock session in a head-on fight to break a powerful bipartisan opposition filibuster.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is strongly supporting this militant strategy. He is exerting his influence in behalf of the labor leaders in the backstage parleying and maneuvering.

It is the unionists' contention the Senate would pass the Section 14(b) repealer if brought to a vote. This view is based on their latest poll which they claim shows the following: 54 senators for the bill; 40 against; 6 still on the fence.

Significantly, this poll also reveals a crucial weakness in the laborites' position. It will be extremely difficult to overcome the threatened potential filibuster.

To shut off "extended debate" by imposing cloture requires a two-thirds vote. With labor's own poll showing 40 senators against the bill, it would appear that a two-thirds majority could not be mustered.

This means the large and well-organized filibuster can be overcome only by wearing it out — by keeping the Senate in continuous session indefinitely.

Senator Mansfield is emphatically against such a "trial by brute force."

Both publicly and privately he has stated he will not subject elderly colleagues to such an ordeal because of the health hazard. A number of senators are in the 70s, and Carl Hayden, D-Ariz., long-time chairman of the Appropriations Committee, is 87.

IN LBJ'S LAP — As an alternate to a rigorous round-the-clock regime, Mansfield offered to hold 10:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. sessions from Monday to Friday, inclusive.

Meany and Reuther, with Vice President Humphrey's backing, turned this down.

In an unannounced conference with President Johnson, the AFL-CIO chiefs asked him to induce Mansfield to agree to keep the Senate in unbroken session in an effort to batter the filibusters into submission.

Senator Robert Kennedy, N.Y., representing a state with a large dairy industry, voted for this new provision. His younger brother, Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass., from a state that consumes a lot of milk but produces little, opposed it.

BACKDOWN IN SANTO DOMINGO

After many casualties and the spending of millions of dollars, it now appears that the United States has engaged in a colossal backdown in Santo Domingo. The Johnson administration has recognized a provisional government of Juan Bosch, the fellow-traveling ex-President in whose name the rebellion was started.

Unwilling to accept a political agreement which the communist-led rebels approved, the anti-communist junta led by Gen. Imbert resigned. The junta, which was composed of the people who had originally resisted a communist takeover of the Caribbean country, had been under heavy pressure from the U. S. State Department.

Perhaps there will be a period of peace in Santo Domingo. But who can doubt the outcome of events in that strife-torn country if the communist leaders are allowed to remain. They may turn in some weapons to the Organization of American States, but it should be remembered that many thousands of guns were seized and distributed in the initial stage of the rebellion.

There is no mistaking the fact that the United States has suffered a defeat at its own hand. The revolution was made in the name of Bosch, but it already has been reported that Bosch is likely to return to Santo Domingo, President Johnson sent troops to the Dominican Republic because of the known presence of communist militants. Those communists have not been removed from the country. Certainly, the communist-led rebels have not changed their ways. Even as the rebels claimed a victory, they voiced condemnation of the United States.

What the Johnson administration has obtained in Santo Domingo could have been obtained by doing nothing four months ago, instead of sending in troops. The United States will lengthy and sharp debate over the issue. Fate of Proxmire's plan rests with the House-Senate conferees on the agriculture legislation. It may be revised, or thrown out entirely if the House conferees balk.

FLASH — The White House has suddenly started closely monitoring its special press cards. They date back to the early years of the Eisenhower administration, and were issued by the Secret Service — for the first time. The inside word is the Johnson administration is planning an extensive "weeding out" of the card bearers, and is making the unannounced check in preparation for that.

Question Box

QUESTION: "Do you think the unions should split up all work amongst all capable members instead of some of them working overtime, reaping a little harvest for themselves while other members—especially the elderly—have to pay dues too, but have a hard time finding work because they are past 35 years of age? It also amounts to no work, no fringe benefits accumulating, since it is a pay-when-you-re-working benefit only." — K. F.

ANSWER: If there are union officials who are so shortsighted as not to make use of all capable men, regardless of age, they should lose their members — if the members had any freedom.

Certainly a member, who is capable, should have equal opportunity to get and keep a job and not be subject to what appears to be preferential treatment for some workers just because of their age or possibly because of favoritism.

The actual solution would be to permit all workers to help set wages. Then an individual who is not satisfied with the treatment he receives from his union representatives, would be allowed to offer his services to any willing employer. Granted, some less skilled workmen might have to take lower wages; those who are younger and/or faster or more skilled would be able to command the better paying jobs and perhaps the most overtime work and pay.

But under the present setup, it would appear that the workers are at the mercy of the union officials.

WHOLESALE-SPY TREATY (N. Y. Daily News)

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) recently rammed through his Senate Foreign Relations Committee a proposed treaty under which Soviet Russia would set up consulates in numerous U. S. cities, with us doing likewise in Russia.

Anti-Communists took fighting the proposal so effectively that Fulbright now hesitates to bring the treaty to a vote in the Senate. A smear campaign is under way to blame the opposition to the document on those rascals, the "radical rightists."

We move that the radical rightists and all other patriots go right on bombarding the Senators with kill - the - treaty letters, postals, telegrams, etc. It is a scheme to let Soviet Russia multiply its already big swarm of spies in this country. Why let Fulbright or anybody else sucker us into that?

pay heavily for the weakness it has displayed in dealing with the rebels. The Johnson administration, first of all, has destroyed the anti-communists who fought the rebels. Gen. Elias WessingyWessing, the initial anti-communist leader, fought bravely to prevent an immediate Red takeover. But the Johnson administration no sooner had troops on the island than Wessing was discarded. Then the other leading anti-communists were rejected one by one. What are anti-communists to think in other Latin countries where Red coups are a likelihood?

The communist leadership in North Viet Nam surely will not overlook the significance of Mr. Johnson forcing through a provisional government in which the rebels can participate. Seeing this display of weakness in the Caribbean, they are likely to conclude that they can gain from Washington acceptance of the kind of coalition government that is a prelude to a communist victory. Thus one can expect that the backdown in Santo Domingo will produce a hardening of the North Vietnamese drive for victory in Southeast Asia.

There is enormous tragedy in this for the American people. Over many years they have been paying tremendous sums for the best armed forces in the world. The cost of the Dominican operation alone ran into the millions. While the U.S. has the best military hardware on earth, and while it has outstanding combat leaders and planners, it repeatedly accepts a political defeat. So it was in the Cuban crisis in the Kennedy administration. The Russians recognized the missile power of the United States, but Mr. Kennedy declined to invade Red Cuba. He declined to inspect Russian ships carrying cargoes to or from Cuba. He abandoned the demand for inspection of Cuban missile sites. At the same time, moreover, he withdrew American missiles from Italy and Turkey. After a brave show of strength, weakness triumphed.

It seems this is the case with the intervention in Santo Domingo—loss of resolution and, the will to win.

COMMUNIST PERSECUTION OF RELIGION

Rumors of persecution of Jews in Russia and Rumania had come to me and upon reading of the mobilization of Jewish forces by the Synagogue Council September 26, 1963, to crusade against anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union, I expressed my gratification to some close Jewish friends. They told me the campaign would "die on the vine."

Surprised with this opinion, I decided to join the crusade. I wrote Letters to the Editor and began accumulating, reproducing, and circulating all newspaper clippings I could find regarding the Synagogue Council Crusade. I thought a humanitarian movement should not be given the "silent treatment." At times it seemed a hopeless task to keep the crusade going, but I would find Senator Ribicoff (D-Conn.) or someone quoted in a good speech.

Finally, August 29, 1965, NBC-TV presented in Dallas an impressive thirty minute documentary "The Price of Silence" narrated by Edward G. Robinson who presented as witnesses Arthur Goldberg, U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., Senator Jacob Javits, Jan Peerce, and other notables. This NBC show was a great performance, dramatically describing the persecution of Jews in the USSR. I anticipated a glowing report from the communication media, but did not find it mentioned.

This is as strange as the aspect of large fortunes being channeled into foundations to subsidize clever writers to discredit people who oppose communism by picturing them as "anti-Semitic."

A week long meeting, which has received little publicity, is scheduled starting September 19 in Washington, termed National Eternal Light Vigil for Soviet Jewry. All Jews opposed to communist atrocities will have a golden opportunity to join other religious leaders in condemning persecution in the Soviet Union and wherever else practiced.

Wall Street In Review

By United Press International NEW YORK (UPI) — Leslie M. Pollack of Reynolds & Co. says that despite the influx of favorable technical factors the market could be in a very vulnerable near-term position.

The expanded volume suggests that traders may be getting over-exuberant and that some profit-taking is likely to hit the market before it surpasses the old highs.

Robert T. Allen of Shearson, Hammill & Co. feels that the problems which were plaguing investors for the better part of 1965 have all but disappeared, but despite the strong tone of the market, there is no telling what problems might crop up to dispel optimism. He believes, however, that any correction will probably be minor. He cautions against too much speculation in over-extended issues.

Spear & Staff Inc. says that although the current trend of the market is upward, some caution should be exercised before over-extending in the face of the ever-present possibility of an international crisis.

Bache & Company feels that the market is putting on an amazing performance but that a period of consolidation would not be too surprising. After such a period, an assault on old highs would appear likely. The analyst believes many good bargains are still available and that any temporary dips would be good for purposes of accumulation.

Senate Passage of Reform Bill Seen

By United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — The immigration reform bill was expected to pass the Senate today, providing the nation's first limit on immigration from Latin America and Canada.

But before the final vote was counted, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was to plead for his amendment intended to prevent deportation of any person brought to this country against his will.

In a speech prepared for delivery, Thurmond said his amendment was drawn with ousted Dominican Republic junta chief Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin in mind. He claimed he was forcibly taken from Santo Domingo to Miami to serve as the provisional Dominican government's consul general there. He later refused to take the job and denounced the United States and the provisional government.

In other developments: Poverty — House-Senate conferees on President Johnson's anti-poverty bill returned to the bargaining table today for another try deciding on how much veto power to give state governors over anti-poverty projects.

Works — The House moved toward approval today of the ever-popular rivers and harbors bill. It is a catch-all public works package authorizing $1.9 billion to fight floods and droughts, dredge rivers and rebuild beaches.

Tuesday Business
The Senate completed final congressional action Tuesday on the $48.6 billion appropriation for U.S. military needs. The two bills, which went to the White House for the President's signature, carry a $46.9 billion outlay for armed forces operating funds and $1.7 billion for military construction.

However, about $10 billion more is expected to be requested by President Johnson when Congress returns in January to help finance the fighting in Viet Nam.

As the defense spending bill went to the White House, it prevents Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara from reorganizing the Army Reserve and the National Guard until the realignment is specifically authorized by Congress.

In other developments: Bail — The Senate approved bills to revise federal bail practices and to end a veto still held by some federal agencies over attorneys practicing before them. The bills passed by voice vote and were sent to the House.

Grain Sales — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided to hear labor spokesmen and perhaps business representatives before making recommendations on a 1963 executive order which hampers U.S. grain sales to Communist nations. The order requires that the shipments be made in American-flag vessels, which jacked up the price to the point the Communists won't buy U.S. surplus wheat.

First Lady Dedicates Courthouse

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson dedicated the new Peoria County Courthouse today and praised local urban renewal planners for providing "an example and a model for an entire nation."

"As one of your leading citizens told me," "Those people have transformed downtown Peoria into one of the prettiest cities in America," she said. Noting that a city is not just houses and shops, but a place for people to live, she said it is important that families even in the heart of the city have parks, playgrounds and surroundings "which please the eye and lift the spirit."

"We can build homes and shops crowded together, without imagination or open space, soon to become new slums. Or we can do what you are doing in Peoria: Planning and working on our downtown areas will be an object of pride to those who built them and a source of gratitude to generations yet unborn," Mrs. Johnson said. The First Lady dedicated three new horticultural showcases at Milwaukee, Wis., Tuesday and called for more efforts to make young people "seek and preserve beauty as a way of life."
