Betsy Hits Southern Florida Hard

44 Dead In Newest Assaults

SAIGON (UPI) — At least 44 Communist guerrillas were reported killed today in a continuing assault by American and South Vietnamese troops against a Viet Cong stronghold 20 miles south of Chu Lai.

The Viet Cong casualties were among more than 200 Communist killed in three separate actions in which Allied forces attacked in battalion strength or more.

In the air, U. S. Air Force B52 bombers made their 20th strike of the war today, raiding a known Communist hideout about 20 miles north of Saigon. U. S. military headquarters today released its regular weekly report on battle casualties, showing that 26 Americans and 130 South Vietnamese were killed in action in the seven-day period ending last Saturday, but allied forces killed 20 Viet Cong for every man they lost.

In a separate report, a military spokesman said U. S. strength in South Viet Nam now totals 107,500, including 7,500 Army men who arrived in the week ending Tuesday.

In addition to the 44 guerrillas killed in the fighting near Chu Lai, spokesmen said seven Viet Cong were captured along with 52 suspects.

The large-scale offensive was directed against guerrillas on Ba Lang An Peninsula, 345 miles northeast of Saigon. The area is only five miles from last month's big Marine victory on the Van Tuong Peninsula which killed 600 hard-core guerrillas.

Tuesday Named Reporting Date On Water Study

Pampa's 12-man Water Study committee, appointed by the mayor to help seek a solution to the city's water supply problem, will file its report and recommendations with the City Commission next Tuesday.

The committee decided last night not to make public its findings until the report has been filed officially with the commission.

The report will be submitted to the council at its regular meeting next Tuesday. Travis Lively Sr., acting committee chairman in the absence of J. B. Massa, will present the recommendations.

Six members of the general committee met for nearly two hours last night and went over the written report of a sub-committee named two weeks ago to draw up the consensus findings of the group.

Members of that sub-committee included Lively, W. A. Morgan, Sam Motley and Roy Sparkman.

Members of the whole committee at last night's session were Lively, Motley, Sparkman, L. P. Fort, Marvin Cooper, Leslie Williams and H. H. Boynton. Other members of the committee, out of the city or unable to attend last night, were Cletus Mitchell, Joe Tooley, W. A. Morgan, J. C. Roberts and J. B. Massa.

India Opens New Front

BATTLE ZONE — Newsmap locates initial clash as Indian-Pakistani skirmishing in disputed Kashmir flared into full-scale warfare. Indian troops launched a drive on Lahore, Pakistan's second city. Air raids hit military installations in both countries and now India has opened a second battle front.

SENDS INDIA NOTE

Red China Makes Strong Protest Over Sovereignty Violations

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China today sent a note to India "strongly protesting against successive serious violations of China's territory and sovereignty by Indian troops."

The protest from the Chinese Communist Foreign Ministry in Peking was reported by the Communist New China News Agency.

It was the second major statement by the Peking government in two days. Tuesday the Chinese Communist pledged full support for Pakistan and accused India of border "provocations."

The notes increased fears of Chinese Communist intervention in the Kashmir fighting. India and Red China fought a border war at the northern tip of Kashmir a few years ago.

The broadcast said today: "The note demands that India dismantle all the aggressive military structures it has illegally built beyond or on the China-Sikkim border, withdraw its aggressive armed forces and stop all its acts of aggression and provocation against China in the western, middle and eastern sectors of the Sino-Indian border."

"Otherwise India must bear responsibility for all the consequences arising therefrom."

India and China share a common border of several thousand miles, most of it poorly marked and in dispute. The Chinese have been reported to have thousands of troops stationed near the disputed areas, much of it desolate mountain country.

U. S. Doubts Red Chinese Intervention

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American officials expressed doubt today that Red China would intervene in the Kashmir war despite Peking's bitter condemnation of India and expression of unlimited support for Pakistan.

But the White House and State Department were keeping a wary eye on the situation along the disputed Chinese-Indian border in the Sikkim area. Peking might logically be expected to strike there if the Communists should decide to enter the battle on behalf of Pakistan.

Eyewitness Story Tells Of Storm

By LEON DANIEL
United Press International
MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — A vicious dame with the deceptively innocent name of Betsy has turned this famed resort where I vacationed just two weeks ago into shrieking chaos.

And when dawn broke today she stepped up her slashing, battering attack until there was no doubt that, despite her name, Betsy was no lady.

Tuesday night when Betsy was girding for her first attack on the mainland, UPI photographer Joe Holloway and I drove toward the beach. But Betsy had beaten us there.

High winds, which had pushed us around on the MacArthur Causeway, already were poking out large plate glass windows and leveling sturdy palm trees. Almost instantly, it seemed, the streets were littered with debris.

So was the air. A television photographer kept digging at flecks of glass that had been hurled into his skin.

The mood in the lobby at the Deauville Hotel ranged from apprehensive to festive. Several hours later, when large plate glass windows shattered under the force of Betsy's crashing winds, it changed abruptly to fear.

While the winds howled, Officer Sherwood Griscom leaped from a parked police car and streaked toward a shadowy figure on Collins Ave. Within minutes a shot rang out and another few minutes later Griscom hauled in the first looter by the nape of the neck.

Betsy turned Miami Beach's posh Lincoln Road shopping district into a witch's bowling alley. Apparently she used the giant, concrete flower pots — five feet tall when standing — as bowling balls down the once beautiful strollers' mall.

The pots caromed down the street, shattering glass-enclosed plant displays. The winds toppled the ornamental trees or ripped away their foliage and cleaned the buildings of nearly everything that stuck out from the walls.

The rising waters make a boat more useful for sightseeing this shrieking, gray water-filled morning than a police patrol car.

The ocean waters are piling onto oceanfront Collins Ave. and policemen say there are quite a few fish, including red snapper floating in with the tide.

There is heavy damage everywhere and it is going to take days to count it all.

MIAMI BEACH SCENE — Vacationers are seen scurrying for shelter as high winds whip oceanfront palms as a prelude to Betsy's destructive cut across the Sunshine State.

Two Dead, 8 Injured By Storm

MIAMI (UPI) — Huge Hurricane Betsy crashed through the Florida Keys with its full 140-mile-per-hour fury today and headed for the Gulf of Mexico, leaving southern Florida in a tangle of destruction.

Two persons were reported dead and eight injured as Florida began to recover from the hammer blows of high winds, rain and tides.

Killed were a Miami woman apparently electrocuted by a fallen power wire, and a man in Tampa who was struck by a tree as it fell. Most of the injured in Miami were cut by flying glass.

The center of the freak storm, which Tuesday battered the Bahamas, slammed through Key Largo, about 40 miles due south of Miami at about 5 a.m. EST and then drove steadily on into the Gulf of Mexico.

The southern tip of Florida was caught in the strongest northern quadrant of the hurricane. Howling winds and wind-driven high tides wreaked havoc on the southeastern Florida coast from Palm Beach to the Keys.

Betsy's relentless winds drove a 441-foot Panamanian tanker, the Amarylis, aground near the Lake Worth inlet south of Palm Beach. The Coast Guard said it was helpless to aid the vessel while the hurricane raged.

The storm, which had kept the whole Atlantic coast guessing for days about its destination, finally came roaring out of the ocean just as day was breaking. Moving forward west at about 12 miles per hour, Betsy tossed its gale winds as much as 300 miles in all directions.

The screaming winds, clocked as high as 110 miles per hour in the Miami area, slammed into the plush Miami Beach hotel row and left it a shambles of smashed glass, ripped awnings, debris, and water.

First reports of injuries in the hurricane area were light. There was one death — ironically on the more remote west coast of Florida where advance 35 mile per hour winds topped a tree that killed man as it fell. In Miami, one man had a foot severed by flying glass.

Collins Avenue past the famed Miami Beach hotels was a mass of debris. In Miami, Biscayne Boulevard was under water in places and at one spot where a sea wall was beached by leaping waves in Biscayne Bay, empty 50-gallon oil drums floated across the street.

Causeways between Miami and Miami Beach were inundated in low-lying areas.

At 7 a.m. EST some two hours after the center of the storm reached the Keys, the Weather Bureau reported the eye had moved on to a position in Florida Bay on the Gulf side of the Keys, some 50 miles south-southwest of Miami.

With the eye at latitude 25.1 north, longitude 80.6 west, the storm was headed due west — still a massive giant that could become a threat to states bordering on the Gulf of Mexico.

At that time, the eye was so large that it stretched from Flamingo at the tip of Everglades National Park on the southern coast of Florida to within 25 miles of Key West.

Gray County Voters Failed To Follow Lead Set by State

Gray County voters didn't go along with the rest of the state in Tuesday's constitutional amendment balloting.

While Texas overwhelmingly rejected a proposed amendment to increase the Texas Senate from 31 to 39 members, Gray County approved it by an almost 3-1 margin.

Unofficial and incomplete returns to the Texas Election Bureau from 236 of the state's 254 counties, including 144 complete, showed 126,163 votes against the proposal to 39,049 for it.

Gray County figures showed 482 for the amendment and 179 against it. The turnout of 661 voters was one of the smallest in the county's history.

The defeat of the amendment was the latest incident in a struggle between big cities and rural areas for dominance of the Texas Legislature.

It also meant Gov. John B. Connally will not have to call the legislature into special session.

A special session would have been required if the amendment had won approval because the current district lines are established for only 31 seats. The legislature would have had to redraw the state into 39 new districts.

The key to the fate of the proposal was in the big cities and voters in such areas turned out in sufficient numbers to swamp it.

SEN. JOHN TOWER ... to speak here

Farm-City Banquet To Feature Tower
U. S. Senator John Tower will address the annual Farm-City Banquet, sponsored by the Gray County Farm Bureau, Sept. 21 in the Robert E. Lee Cafeteria.

The Farm-City Banquet is an annual affair whereby the farmers and ranchers of Gray County host local businessmen and residents. Tickets for the affair will go on sale Friday.

Tower's address will concern the current Farm Program before Congress.

Board Faces Full Agenda

A full agenda is on tap for the monthly meeting of the Pampa School Board at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in Pampa Junior High School.

Topping the agenda will be the superintendent's report, resignations and appointments, and authorization for each of the city schools to operate its own activity and cafeteria accounts.

First full report on 1965-66 school enrollment and consideration of insurance policies for athletes, are scheduled.

A request from Dr. Emmit Smith of West Texas State University for an audience with the school board will be considered possibly for Sept. 23.

Board members also will discuss possible representation at the annual conference of the Texas Association of School Boards and the Texas Association of School Administrators at Austin Sept. 19-20.

Prowling Python Slithers Back to Sleeping Mate

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Dagwood, an 11-foot, 6-inch, 45-pound python, slithered back into his cage early today after two days on the prowl.

During his entire absence, his 7-foot-long mate Blondie slept mostly. Anthony Granes, who owns both reptiles and keeps them in a cage at his home, said the snakes appear unemotional.

A motorist saw Dagwood inching across a highway early today and notified a resident in the area, who in turn notified Granes.

Major Elections Set for Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, feeling the time is ripe for gains by his liberal party, Tuesday set a general election for Nov. 8.

Pearson, stating that he wanted the people to elect a majority government that could meet "complex problems," announced the election call in a brief national radio and television speech.

Actor Nick Adams, Wife Will Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The wife of actor Nick Adams has announced that she plans to file for divorce, probably some time this week, in Santa Monica Superior Court.

Mrs. Adams said Tuesday she would charge the actor with extreme cruelty. She said a property settlement had been reached and she would retain custody of the couple's children, Allyson, 5, and Jeb, 4.

The couple were married in 1959 in Las Vegas, Nev.

Dear Abby....

Etiquette Is a Matter Of Common Sense

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband and I gave a housewarming party in our first new home. We sent out invitations to 16 couples saying it was a housewarming. Everyone came, but only one couple brought a gift. I was so hurt and embarrassed I didn't know what to think. Yesterday one of my friends told me she would have brought a gift, but one of the other invited guests took it upon herself to call up everybody and spread the word that it's not etiquette for people to give a housewarming party for themselves, and therefore it wasn't proper to bring a gift. She said a "real" housewarming party, where a gift is in order, is one that is given by friends for the new home owners. Abby, if we had known this we never would have given that party. We went to a lot of expense entertaining those people with drinks and food.

That girl sure had her nerve. But was she right?
NOT UP ON ETIQUETTE
DEAR NOT UP: "Etiquette" is a matter of common sense. When friends call on a couple in their new home for the first time, it's customary to bring a gift. Your friend, the self-appointed authority on etiquette, could use some pointers on what is proper. However, if you gave the party only to harvest the gifts, the crop failure was just.

DEAR ABBY: I'm just curious. I have an aunt and uncle who were married for 62 years and they are now getting a divorce. Is this a record?
AMAZED AND ASHAMED
DEAR A. AND A.: I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: Rose (fictitious name) and I were girlhood friends. Today she is very, very wealthy and I am a working widow. We're both in our late 50's. When Rose's husband died, four years ago, I went to her apartment every day after work to help her bear her sorrow. With me she could be herself, and not "Mrs. Park Avenue," as she had to be with her ritzy friends. With all her money and leisure, Rose has never spent five cents for a birthday card for me. When I was sick and out of work for seven months, not once did she come to my humble apartment to see me. She didn't even send me a can of soup. After my illness I went to see her and she acted like she had just seen me yesterday.

She is interested in only herself and was happy to have someone to listen to her troubles. I can't understand how a person can be so selfish and spoiled. Should I completely drop her? I don't hate her — I am just hurt to think of how much of myself I gave to her when she needed me, and how little she gave me in return.

ROSE'S DOORMAT
DEAR DOORMAT: Yes, drop her. Otherwise admit that you enjoy being a doormat.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I gave a party at my home for a large group of women. Before going home, at least six women asked me for some cake and sandwiches (and even salad) to take home to their husbands and children.

Now, Abby, I am thrilled when my guests enjoy the refreshments I serve, and I want them to eat their fill. But it disgusts me when they expect me to send home enough food for them to feed their families. I have children who enjoy leftover cake and sandwiches, too. It seems that some people just want an extra meal for nothing. Please put this in your column for people who make a habit of doing this. And sign me—

For the benefit of those who may not know, watering the home grounds correctly may help the plants as well as possibly reduce the water bill. In order to be fully effective very thorough watering is necessary. Frequent light waterings tend to do infinitely more harm than good. If only the few surface inches of soil are moist, and if there is not enough water to allow for a sufficient depth of penetration, the plant roots, in their search for moisture, will be drawn upward toward the surface, and if this process continues the plants will become more and more shallow rooted. It is a well-established fact that shallow-rooted plants are less vigorous than those which are deeply rooted, as they can derive their nutrients from only a very limited soil area, and suffer seriously during periods of drought. It is therefore the wise practice to water thoroughly, even if less frequently.

The most favorable times for watering are late afternoon and evening, or very early in the morning. The evaporation of moisture is considerably less at such times, and the plants are consequently able to derive more lasting benefit from the application. Care should be taken not to permit spraying of water on rose foliage as well as some other plants late in the evening. These foliage remaining damp at night can cause mildew and other problems.

Since the autumn crocus are in bloom now, the following bit of information might be interesting: Saffron is probably the most expensive spice on earth and it has reasons. Saffron is made from the dried stigmas of the autumn crocus and the blossoms must be picked by hand. Each blossom has three stigmas and it has been reckoned that seventy-five thousand blossoms are necessary to yield a pound of saffron.

Saffron is most widely used in the kitchens of Spain, Italy and the South of France. What with its cost, there is small wonder that saffron symbolizes the necessity of guarding against excess.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

The one point upon which all authorities seem to agree is that the most desirable time for sowing lawn grasses is in late August or early September. If it is not possible to do the work at this season of the year, seed may be sown in early spring. Late spring and summer sowing are not recommended. Early autumn sowing has several advantages over spring sowing. Practically all of the lawn grasses make their best growth during cool, moist weather and the autumn months usually provide very favorable conditions for good germination of the seed and for the sturdy, vigorous growth of the young grass. There is comparatively little competition from weeds at this season of the year and by the following summer the autumn-sown turf should be so well established that it will not suffer seriously from drought or other adversities.

In sowing grass seed the chief aim is to provide for an even distribution of seed over the lawn area. Seeding with a mechanical distributor is much more rapid than sowing by hand and an accurate distribution can be obtained. However, for small areas sowing may be done very satisfactorily by hand if care is taken to get an even distribution.

Hand sowing should be done on a calm day when there is little or no wind as it is otherwise impossible to make an even sowing. It is wise to divide the quantity of seed in half and to sow in two directions, walking first north and south and the second time east and west, thus covering the area twice.

After it has been sown the seed should be raked into the soil very lightly with an iron rake, being covered not more than one eighth of an inch. It is very important not to cover it too deeply, as poor germination will result. After raking the area should be kept moist, establish good contact between seed and soil.

From the time of sowing until the grass seed is well up the area should be kept moist. Water should be applied in the form of a fine, mist-like spray. A heavy spray will tend to cause a crust to form on the surface of the soil which may seriously interfere with germination.

Young, newly sown grass (with the exception of the bent grasses, Bermuda grass and Merion Kentucky bluegrass) should not be cut until the blades have reached a height of 2 inches. The mower blades should be carefully set so that the final cut will not be closer than 1 1/2 inches. If young grass is mown too closely it will prevent the formation of a vigorous root system and will seriously injure the quality of the turf.

Since the autumn crocus are in bloom now, the following bit of information might be interesting: Saffron is probably the most expensive spice on earth and it has reasons. Saffron is made from the dried stigmas of the autumn crocus and the blossoms must be picked by hand. Each blossom has three stigmas and it has been reckoned that seventy-five thousand blossoms are necessary to yield a pound of saffron.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Investors Research Company believes there is no doubt the stock prices will move substantially higher in the latter part of this year and the beginning of 1966. Temporary factors, such as the British pound sterling problem and the gold outflow, have not affected the rise to any great extent and will not stop the market's rise. The company says the May-June decline was an internal market movement that set the stage for the second phase for a bull market.

Spear & Staff Inc. feels that the market needs a resurgence in demand for blue-chips such as General Motors, U.S. Steel and AT&T to achieve a decisive advance to new peaks. The company believes that the Dow-Jones industrial average will test its high before the end of the year.

International Statistical Bureau Inc. believes the action of the market continues favorable and is optimistic about the general business outlook for the rest of the year.

By LYLE WILSON
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON, D.C., is about to achieve its true identity as the most important and largest Negro city in the whole world. Negroes comprise 58 per cent of the population of the District of Columbia. About 30 per cent of the children in public schools are Negroes. This will be news to many Americans.

The government of the District of Columbia, however, is white. There are a few Negro cops and occasionally a Negro holds city office. Power to govern the District of Columbia is vested in the President of the United States and in Congress. The President appoints three District of Columbia commissioners who exercise the combined authority of mayor and city council. Congress enacts the laws and levies most of the taxes. Congress also subsidizes the district with annual payments in lieu of taxes on federal property—the capitol, for example, and the White House.

Residents of the District of Columbia do not vote except for presidential electors, and for them the district voted only once (1964) after ratification of the 23rd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The Congress shortly is expected to extend self-government to the District of Columbia. Self-government usually is described as home rule. District residents will vote to elect a 19-member city council. At that point in Washington's political development, the nation's capital will begin to be identified as a substantially Negro city.

That will put a clawing, spitting, angry monkey on the backs of Washington Negroes. As Washington becomes increasingly identified as the only major American city with a majority of Negroes in its population, there will be a tendency to blame Negroes for almost any ill afflicting the city. It is almost inevitable that a popular election will give the Negro population great power and perhaps controlling power in the nation's capital. Power usually is accompanied by responsibility.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — A month or two ago I bought one of those so-called adjustable razors. It has a dial with eight settings, one of which is supposed to be just right for my skin and beard.

I am willing to concede that the fault may lie with me, rather than with the razor, but that purchase has proven to be one of the greatest mistakes of my life.

The once simple act of shaving has become a nightmare of complexity, frustration and agonizing indecision. It is making me a nervous wreck.

The trouble is that after weeks of daily experimentation I still haven't been able to determine which of the settings is the right one for me.

The first time I used the razor, I set a dial at 1 and began shaving as usual except that after each stroke I would move the dial up a notch.

Results Inconclusive

I worked my way up to 7 before I ran out of whiskers, but the results were inconclusive. The settings all seemed to have about the same degree of sharpness, closeness, blade drag, etc.

The next time I shaved, I set the dial at 8 and dropped to a lower digit after each stroke. That system was equally unconvincing. No single setting stood out above the rest in speed or performance.

The only thing I noticed definitely was that fiddling around with the dial doubled or tripled the time it usually took me to shave. Both mornings I was late for work.

It then occurred to me that perhaps moving the dial one digit at a time provided too gradual a change to be detectable. So the next morning I started at 1 and then immediately leaped to 8.

This time the change was perceptible, but I couldn't decide whether it was for better or worse. I spent the rest of that shave switching back and forth between 1 and 8.

The only result was that I was late for work again. I simply couldn't choose between them.

FRIDAY VILLAIN — Billy Quarles, 240-pound Harvester tackle, will try to play the villain's role Friday night at Perryton where the Harvesters open their 1965 football season.

Rally for Coaches, Harvesters Tonight

Pampa folk will try to get things started in the right direction for the Pampa Harvesters tonight at the first of two scheduled football rallies. Fans will get the chance to meet the players, coaches and cheer leaders at 8 p. m. in Coronado Center.

A large Harvester following is expected to hear Dr. Joe Donaldson eneece the affair and introduce the players and the men who guide them on the football field.

Introductions and yells will last until 9 p. m. when a dance for the youngsters will be held until 10 p. m.

The Harvesters, a band of tough and ready to play footballers will open the season Friday night at Perryton, starting at 7:30 p. m.

The Rangers, hurt at the first part of practice sessions by injuries, are well and pose a well trained club ready to do battle.

Coach Ray Hopkins has four starters and 13 lettermen back including fullback Kenneth Deike, a 183 pound block buster.

Also back are 168 pound halfback Gary Winter, D'Allen Miller, a 171-pound guard and Jim Gobin, 153-pound end.

Speed is the Rangers strong point while lack of depth seems to be the weak point. Despite the 13-lettermen the Rangers are not strong on experience.

Harvester coach Eural Ramsey can go right down the line with Hopkins as the Harvesters return but three starters from last year's 11.

Larry Daniels, and Roy Harper, both seniors and junior James Matney are the returnees.

Both Harper and Daniels are running from the quarterback spot while Matney is playing halfback and end.

The Harvesters have showed savvy on defense with the exception of pass defense, something Ramsey is stressing this week. Offensively the Harvesters are running smoother after having some trouble getting adjusted to various formations.

"Our pass defense looked a little weak in our scrimmage but I think we can work it out. It just takes practice," Ramsey said.

Huarte, Lane Get Club Releases

By United Press International
High-priced rookie quarterbacks John Huarte and Archie Roberts and 13-year veteran Dick (Night Train) Lane today expected to wait out their waiver periods without any buyers for their services.

Huarte, signed by the New York Jets for $200,000, can be picked up by any other American Football League team within 24 hours of the time he was placed on waivers Tuesday.

However, the buyer also must assume the responsibility of paying off his hefty contract, and no one is expected to be willing to shell out the price for the inexperienced Heisman Trophy winner from Notre Dame.

Roberts, the Ivy League whiz from Columbia, has a contract with the Cleveland Browns which will readily discourage most prospective purchasers in the National Football League.

Roberts had nearly decided to pass up any pro football offers and go to medical school, but the Browns convinced him that he could play and learn at the same time.

Hart Sheds Injuries, Dodgers

By United Press International
Jim Ray Hart loves to play baseball so much it hurts.

When a guy has his shoulder blade split his first day in the majors and gets his head cracked four days after he comes off the disabled list, he's got to love his work if he comes back for more.

And Jim Ray Hart keeps coming back again and again. If it weren't for Hart's great affection for his job, the Los Angeles Dodgers would be in first place in the National League today. But the San Francisco Giants hold that lofty —if tenuous—position because Jim Ray drove in all their runs Tuesday night for a 3-1 triumph over the Dodgers.

Hart won the game in the fifth inning after the Dodgers' Claude Osteen walked Willie Mays. The 23-year-old Hookerton, N.C., sophomore blasted his 21st home run into the centerfield bleachers, thus vaulting San Francisco on top by two percentage points.

Reds Move Up
Third-place Cincinnati crept within a half-game of the lead by downing Pittsburgh 5-0 in the only other NL game scheduled.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox blew a chance to gain ground on the idle Minnesota Twins, losing to Cleveland 9-5. The White Sox and pace-settings Twins open a two-game series Wednesday night in Chicago. In the only other AL action, Baltimore moved within 6½ games of the top by sweeping a doubleheader from New York 4-2 and 9-5, and Detroit whipped Boston 5-3.

Hart singled home the first San Francisco run in the first inning after singles by Jesus Alou and Willie Mays, who collected three hits including a double, despite a bad ankle.

Hart has been on a homer-hitting spree in the last three weeks that almost matches the record-setting pace Mays set in August when he slammed 17.

Jim Ray has lashed 10 four-baggers in the last three weeks, boosted his runs-batted-in total to 83 and his batting average to .295.

Plagued By Injuries
Hart, who has been plagued with injuries, suffered a broken shoulder blade when he was hit by a Bob Gibson fastball on July 7, 1963 — his first day in the major leagues. He returned to the active list on Aug. 12 but on Aug. 16 he was beamed by a pitch from Curt Simmons and again was placed on the disabled list.

Bob Shaw held the Dodgers to five hits, including back-to-back doubles by Wes Parker and John Roseboro, to post his 15th victory against eight setbacks.

Manager Herman Franks replaced Shaw with Masanori Marakami in the eighth inning with one out and the Japanese southpaw set down the Dodgers with only one hit the rest of the way.

Sammy Ellis blanked the Pirates on three singles and struck out 10 to gain his 18th victory of the season for Cincinnati. The Reds broke out with four runs in the fourth inning against Don Cardwell with one out and the Japanese southpaw set down the Dodgers with only one hit the rest of the big blows.

Rally In Fourth
The White Sox staked Juan Pizarro to a 4-0 lead in the first inning but the Indians raked Pizarro and loser Tommy John for five runs in a decisive fourth inning rally to take a 6-5 lead.

Chico Salmon supplied most of the punch with a grand slam homer in the fifth. The four RBI's almost matched Salmon's previous output for the season. Six the loss left the White Sox five games behind Minnesota and halted their four-game victory streak.

The Orioles extended New York's longest losing streak in 12 years to seven games and left the Yankees on the brink of elimination from the AL pennant race. Just one more New York loss or Minnesota victory will end the Yanks' chances for the flag.

Sam Bowen's two-run homer in the opener provided the victory margin for Dave McNally, who won his eighth game with relief from Don Larsen and Stu Miller. Wally Bunker retired the first 13 Yankees in the nightcap while his teammate slammed out 12 of their 16 hits to build up a 6-0 lead. Boog Powell homered with a man on and Charlie Lau drove in three runs in the rout.

Ray Oyler slammed a double with two out in the seventh inning off loser Bill Monbouquette (8-18) to drive in the winning run for Detroit and snap Boston's fourgame winning streak. Norm Cash slapped a two-run homer in the first for Detroit. Terry Fox shutout Boston for the last 4 1-3 innings in relief of Julio Navarro and received credit for the victory.

Four Have Talent For Southeastern Grid Title

ATLANTA (UPI)—There are four "Thoroughbreds" making a run for the title and a couple of dark horses who could slip in under the wire in the Southeastern Conference football race this year.

Defending national champion Alabama, Louisiana State, which was No. 7 last year, Florida and Kentucky all have the look of a winner. Ole Miss, which ran on an off track in '64 and Mississippi State have the material to beat any of the big four on a given Saturday.

Alabama lost Joe Namath and a host of fine interior linemen but Paul (Bear) Bryant has back the nucleus of another champion—including what may well be the best backfield in the South.

Returning Bama quarterback Steve Sloan gained more yardage last fall than Namath; fullback Steve Bowman was one of the top runners in the conference; halfback Dave Ray fell two points shy of winning the league scoring crown; and only four players, including Bowman, had a better yards-per-carry average than halfback Leslie Kelley.

Good Home Schedule
Sugar Bowl champion Louisiana State has 31 returning lettermen and seven of its 10 games will be played at home in the comforting confines of Tiger Stadium, where 68,000 blood-thirsty fans show up for every contest.

Quarterback Pat Screen is reported healthy for the first time in his injury-ridden career and hard-running Danny LeBlanc returns after a year's ineligibility. Fullback Don Schwab led the conference in rushing last year and end Doug Moreau led it in scoring.

The Florida Gators got back three-fourths of their lettermen and the only missing back worth mentioning is three-time all-conference fullback Larry Dupress. Triple-threat quarterback Steve Spurrier was third in the SEC in total offense and passing and sixth in punting.

Kentucky Strong
Kentucky lost only two regulars from a team that upset Ole Miss and Auburn before falling into an unexplained slump. Quarterback Rick Norton led the league in passing, halfback Rodger Bird is rated the SEC's best all-around back and Rick Kestner may be the best end.

Ole Miss had its worst season in 15 years in '64 but observers regard this as a fluke. The Rebels are loaded with huge, fast linemen—including Stan Hindman—have a great runner in Mike Dennis, and need only to develop a quarterback to resume as a perennial Southern power.

Mississippi State is a threat inside with 225-pound fullback Hoyle Granger and outside with speedy Marcus Rhoden. The Bulldogs lost a lot of close ones last year and could reverse the trend with a bit of luck.

Auburn gets back the nation's best defensive line but lost Frederickson and Jimmy Side and is rebuilding its offense from scratch. Tennessee lost Steve DeLong and is counting on sophomores to improve the league's worst offense.

Faces Tough Schedule
Georgia has a too-tough schedule and wholesale replacement problems. Vanderbilt, which developed a sound defense last year, is expected to improve but still has a long way to go. Tulane leaves the SEC after this year and the Greenies' schedule and material add up to another disappointing season.

Georgia Tech, with seven home games and a lighter-than-usual schedule, should have the best record among the independents. The Yellow Jackets think sophomore tailback Lenny Snow may be the best running back they've had in more than a decade.

Florida State lost its great passing combination of flanker back Fred Biletnikoff and quarterback Steve Tensi but the defensive unit, one of the nation's best, is virtually intact.

THAT TIME OF THE YEAR — The college football season is just weeks away and most teams have started preseason football practice. Navy, with Jack Connolly (68) at the controls, gave Billy XV his opening day exercise at Annapolis.

Area Teams See Action on Friday

Some teams got the jump last week but the high school football season swings into full action Friday night.

Panhandle area teams that didn't see action a week ago Friday open the doors to 1965 with a lot of hope and not much depth.

District 2-A finds White Deer, who opened last week with an easy victory, gunning for No. 2 against non-conference foe Gruver.

Canadian, who lost to Stinnett in its opener last week shoots for the victory column against Sanford-Fritch.

McLean will try to join the victory column after losing to Shamrock when the Tigers go to Panhandle.

The 5-B district gets into full swing with Groom opening at home with Vega, and Lefors hopes to present new coach Jack York with a victory a week from Friday.

5-B champion Wheeler travels across the Red River to play always tough Mangum, Okla. and Miami and new coach Red Hart host the Canadian B squad Saturday.

QUICK GAME
NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies needed only 51 minutes to complete a nine-inning baseball game on Sept. 28, 1919.

Broncos Ask Waivers on 6

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos asked waivers on six players Tuesday — including Jacky Lee, a six-year veteran quarterback obtained last year from the Houston Oilers in a unique "lend-lease" trade.

The six trimmed from the squad got the Broncos down to the American Football League player limit of 38.

Denver also asked waivers on punter Tom Janik, defensive tackle Tom Nomina, defensive back John McMillin, and rookies Jon Hohman, a defensive guard from Wisconsin, and Alan Medley, a defensive end from Los Angeles State.

But Denver Coach Mac Speedie said the 6-1, 187-pound Lee would remain as the Broncos' third quarterback.

"We feel no one will pick up Jacky because of his previous commitment to return to Houston at the end of this season," Speedie said.

Lee, 26, of Cincinnati, came to Denver in August 1964 in a trade for defensive tackle Bud McFadin. Part of the trade agreement was that Lee return to Houston at the end of this season.

Lee is running third behind Denver quarterbacks Mickey Slaughter and John McCormick. He was an understudy to George Blanda at Houston for four seasons before coming to Denver.

LEADER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Outfielder Joe Christopher led the New York Mets in runs, hits, singles, doubles, triples, stolen bases, total bases, slugging, rbi and walks in 1964.

Although the out-of-towners are supposed to get all the acclaims and headlines Buster Carter deserves as much.

Carter doesn't play as much as the other top-ranked amateurs who were here but displayed he had a lot on the ball.

You can't help but admire a fellow who finishes seventh among the top-notch golfers who were here, some 13 of them going to Tulsa to the National Amateur.

The tournament was well run by all officials who knew their jobs and did them.

A special thanks goes to club pro Hart Warren, Carter, Vernon Watkins, M. L. Hall, Wiley Reynolds and Stu Youngblood who kept all members of the press more than happy.

Neither the golfers nor the writers covering the tournament were ever in want for a thing.

A bigger and better tournament is looked for next year and if the galleries get any bigger ropes will have to be put up to keep fans off the greens.

John Farquhar came within two shots of tying the course record with a 270. It was never clear if the Amarrillo flash tired or just played it safe on the back nine where he lost his chance.

Greenwood A Winner

Defending champion Bobby Greenwood proved to be the most popular with the fans.

Greenwood always had a ready smile and never hesitated to talk or explain a shot.

He lost his temper only once, when he blew the match on the 21st hole Sunday, which would be the third hole, a par 4, 322-yarder.

Bobby hit his tee shot up against a tree and instead of dropping out and taking a penalty shot tried to hit it out.

He aimed the ball back toward the tee box and it landed against another tree. It took him four to get on the only followed three putts for a triple bogie seven, the only one of the tournament.

The par 5, 580 yard first hole was the toughest for Farquhar during all four rounds.

FIRING LINE—Will it be 30 for Sandy Koufax this year? The Dodger pitcher already is the first 20-game winner in the majors with plenty of time left. And it was just last spring that Sandy Koufax was wondering if a bad elbow would shorten his career.

Scouting The Pros

PITTSBURGH (NEA)—RECEIVERS—Counting on rookie Roy Jefferson to team with Gary Ballman as deep threat, which would let Clendon Thomas return to defense. Strong battle at tight end between Chuck Logan, who's put on 20 pounds and soph Jim Kelley, with John Powers in there, too. Ballman's one of league standouts as all around threat.

RATING—fair. OFFENSIVE LINE—Same as in recent years with possible exception of ex-Ram Art Hunter, beating out Buzz Nutter, who slipped at center in '64. Mike Sandusky, Ray Lemek was strong at guard. Charley Bradshaw shade better than Dan James at tackle on blocking for run. Rookie Boy Nichols has come strong as key reserve. RATING—good.

QUARTERBACKS—Fairly desperate. Nothing better in sight than old Ed Brown, though went to camp touting young Tommy Wade (Texas) as the man they want to win the job. Wade still needs much more experience. RATING—poor.

RUNNING BACKS—Early sensation is Cannonball Butler, from East Waters. Looks like breakout threat to spell John Henry Johnson, Clarence Peaks, who carry heavy load of inside stuff. With John Henry likely to need more rest, an added starter is essential. For steady play, they can always count on Dick Hoak or Theron Sapp. RATING—fair-to-good.

DEFENSIVE LINE—Ben McGee at end and Chuck Hinton at tackle were the standouts of '64 and still developing. Have big hopes, too, for Ray Mansfield, but end John Baker is getting pushed by rookie Frank Molden (Jackson State). Ex-Card Ken Kortas has the size to be useful, too. McGee's the only noncastoff in the lot. RATING—good.

LINEBACKERS—One sure thing with Myron Pottios in middle. He's specially strong against spots from passel of vets; Bob Harrison and Bob Schmitz. Max Messner and Bill Saul. Schmitz, Harrison duo favored except that they're injury prone. Pottios is the anchor for the tire defense. RATING—good.

SUMMARY—Unless one of the youngsters develops sensation or Ed Brown dips into Ponce de Leon's stuff, quarterback situation will drag Steelers down. They're not real solid club to start with.

Dodgers, Oilers To Meet in TL Playoff

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—The Albuquerque Dodgers and the Tulsa Oilers clash tonight in the first of a best-of-five series for the Texas pennant.

The Dodgers clinched the Western Division of the league almost two weeks ago, but the Oilers had to stave off a late bid by the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs for the Eastern Division crown.

Former Texas Tech star Jimmy Harris of Lubbock, Tex., lashed a double down the left field line Tuesday night that drove in the winning run and led Tulsa to a 2-0 victory in a sudden-death playoff with the Spurs.

Dallas-Fort Worth had charged from three games behind with only four games left in the campaign, winning a four-game series from Austin while Amarillo dealt Tulsa three losses in a four-game span, setting up the "all-or-nothing" game Tuesday night.

Some 11,253 fans jammed Turnpike Stadium between Dallas and Fort Worth with 20 hours notice. Tulsa hurler Larry Jaster let the first two Spurs get on base but then retired 22 of the next 23 who stepped up.

The Spurs got four hits, but only an eighth-inning single by Sammy Taylor was solid.

The Oilers took the lead in the fifth after John Kindl (cq) got to first Harris, a 226-hitter going into the game, then reached Spur pitcher Charley Hartenstein for his two-bagger, scoring Kindl all the way from first.

MADRID (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema, defending the Canada cup for America, today face golfers from 37 nations in their quest to retain the trophy for 1965.

This year 74 of the world's top golfers battle out the contest on a tough unknown course at Madrid's elegant Club de Campo.

The only other international golf tournament to be held on the slick and fast course was the Spanish Open championship.

Spain, hosting the estimated $200,000 tournament, is the dark horse most likely to challenge America, officials agreed.

Senior Players Most Impossible

By MILTON RICHMAN

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Americans are the most temperamental. The French and Spanish are the most courteous. Australians are the most stoical, and the "old geezers" are the most impossible.

This piece of classified information is furnished by a truly unimpeachable source — the teenage ball boys who are working the 84th U.S. Singles Tennis Championships this week.

These kids work for love much more than they do for money. They love the game of tennis and they love shagging balls for the name players so that the $1.25 an hour they get for doing it is strictly incidental.

All are agreed that the "seniors," those players 45 years and up who compete in their own "singles" championship here, are by far the toughest to please. Virtually all the seniors entered, it should be noted, are Americans.

"I had one of them the other day," said 17-year-old Joseph Balocco, still a bit shaken from his experience. "He kept his head down all the time and I kept waiting for him to pick it up so I could toss him the ball."

"He became very angry and finally said, 'Gimme the ball, dammit! What could I do? I gave him the ball.'"

Nodded Agreement
Ed Campbell, a tousle-haired 16-year-old who plays tennis for his high school team when he isn't occupied with his ball boy chores, nodded in agreement as the Balocco boy was speaking.

"Whenever the seniors hit a bad shot, they make a face at you," he said. "They play so fast, they never give us a chance to clear the balls off the court. I asked one of these men if he cared for a drink of water. 'When I want some water, I'll ask for it,' he told me."

On the other side of the net, it was established that France and Spain's younger players are complete gentlemen.

Manuel Santana (of Spain) and Pierre Barthes (of France) are especially polite. "I had Barthes a little while back and everything with him was 'Merci,' 'Pardone,' and 'Sorry.' What a pleasure."

Young Campbell said he had "never seen an Australian crack" in competition and lanky, 15-year-old Jay Schaefer pointed out that the Mexican players, Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox are the most relaxed of all the competitors.

"American players always seem to be more keyed up and tense, but Osuna and Palafox never are," said Schaefer. "They kid around with the people in the stands and you'll always see them rooting for each other when one of them is playing and the other isn't."

"Funny Habit"
"Osuna and Palafox have one funny habit. They will only take the ball from you on a bounce; you can never hand it to them."

"Yeah, just like the women players," chimed in Mihalick. "They like you to lay the ball on their racquets for them."

Some of the players talk to themselves, revealed the ball boys, and a few, like defending champion Roy Emerson, even sings to himself occasionally.

All the boys have their particular favorites. Campbell likes Santana and U.S. Davis Cupper Arthur Ashe. Balocco leans toward Emerson and Mihalick toward Palafox.

Schaefer a rugged individualist, has no real favorite although he admits he would like to see either Chuck McKinley or Dennis Ralston win the title.

"What I really like best is a good match," he said. "I root for all the underdogs." The Mets, too? "Yup," the Schaefer boy smiled. It figured.

Saldivar Sees Mexican Next

LONDON (UPI)—Vicente Saldivar of Mexico, his world featherweight crown successfully defended, would like a rematch with Welsh wizard Howard Winstone, but it may be a while before the two meet again.

Eddie Thomas, Winstone's handler, put the damper on immediate rematch talks by announcing he wanted his fighter to rest for the remainder of the year.

"We would never have Winstone fight in Mexico," he continued. "If he did, the sum would have to be fantastic."

Saldivar, ignoring his defense, bore in with a two-fisted attack and scored a 15-round decision over Winstone Tuesday night in the Earls Court arena. A few scattered boos sounded from some of the 12,000 Welsh spectators but there was no doubt about the outcome and most of the 18,000 in the audience accepted it.

Winstone abandoned his classical boxing style and tried to punch it out toe-to-toe with the 22-year-old Mexican. This was a mistake.

The dancing Welshman won the first round, mainly because of his much-praised and effective left jab. But beginning with round two Saldivar began beating Winstone to the punch, smothering him and blocking the jab while smashing him with both fists.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

'Uncle' Waves the Big Stick

"Wherever there is government money, there is government control." This statement is made continually but cannot be verified, too often, by written documentation issued by government. With the passage of the "Civil Rights" legislation by Congress, the Administration has set forth to "coercively" see that it is adhered to in the areas where government can dictate to those firms who do business with government.

Within the last month, those firms who deal directly with government by means of government contracts and those who service these firms, received a letter from the United States Postmaster General's office. The letter stated that this government department has been delegated by the Administration to make a survey of those firms who employ 50 or more persons to ascertain if they were complying with the "Civil Rights Legislation's equal employment clauses."

The firm about whom we are writing does not deal directly with government, does not have government contracts. But it does service many who do and thus it is interpreted that a portion of their economic support is reliant upon government.

The letter informed the employer that a representative from the Postal Department would call upon him and that he was to inform all those within the organization that they should be available for questioning regarding personnel management and hiring and to have a report as to the racial percentages employed.

The closing paragraph of the letter stated: "In the Postal Bulletin for November 19, 1965, Postmaster General Gronouki summed up the Departmental Position on Equal Employment Opportunity when he said that to the degree that contractors accomplish compliance with the Executive Orders on Equal Employment Opportunity, the effort put forth by persons and corporations holding government contracts will assure a brighter future for the entire Nation."

In other words, either comply with the directives or face the threat of having all business with government cancelled. In the case of this single firm, it would mean that those firms doing business directly with government would see to it that the service or secondary firms not complying would be eliminated from any future business.

This could be interpreted as a "secondary boycott" threat; one of Vice-President Hubert Humphrey's pet approved adherences, and one of the most dangerous and far reaching economic threats to the nation's businessmen.

With the amount of federal monies being spread into every field of endeavor in the country, there is hardly a business where it could not be interpreted that they are not receiving federal funds. Even the corner coffee shop situated near a plant holding a government contract and serving the employees of this plant could fall under the interpretation. It places the federal government in a position of a virtual "dictator" regarding employment, and by this letter, they evidently intend to assume this position.

The Fair Employment Practices law presumably contains penalty clauses under which violators could be punished legally.

But that, if course, would require taking a case to court and having a judge or jury decide if the employer has violated the law.

It's much easier this way, where some second - string bureaucrat in Washington decides whether or not an employer is doing right. If he decides against the employer, that firm has its "water cut off," as the saying goes, without recourse to law or the right to appeal.

Government Newspapers Next?

We note the disquieting report of publisher Frank R. Mills, of the Chronicle-Herald of Hoopsten, Ill., that the government has donated itself $188,000 of our tax money to set up a federally subsidized newspaper in Willow Run, Mich. Its avowed purpose (and Mr. Mills quotes - apparently from this highly privileged sheet itself) is to provide "honest and true reporting of the government feels of interest."

Now isn't that just dandy! If it weren't so ominous a move, it would be quite funny. In the first place, it would seem rather superfluous to set up such a paper at public expense when the majority of the great metropolitan dailies have been gearing their operations for some time to "reporting the government feels of interest."

And why, secondly, pick Willow Run (of all places) for the American Ivestia? Is it a demonstration of arrogance or ignorance to plant such a parody in a community that would never have been heard of but for the late Henry Ford - who was, perhaps, the outstanding individualist and free enterpriser of this century!

But this is not all. Publisher Mills writes: "It is also to be a 'cultural center where local talent will act out internal expression of the community.' There will be federal sponsorship of town meetings where participants will debate national politics. Professional workers will canvass the Willow Run community so they can tell people what they need, for so far they don't seem to need anything. 'Shades of Communist China! This is the same routine in fattening the people together to confess their sins and criticize their associates. . . . This subsidized newspaper is viewed an 'educational tool,' experimenting in the techniques of reporting social, economic and cultural affairs, and interpreting these to the local community."

Mr. Mills also noted that this newspaper of easy virtue "is to compete with four other news papers (honest type) now circulating in the area." And this, at least, is a cheering aspect of this latest official insult to the American press. For we should be able to leave it to the outraged sensibilities and the ingenuity of the four invaded editors to make this kept - sheet look pretty silly and quite disreputable. Neither the $188,000 nor the "editor" who would accept such an assignment are likely to last long under the scorn which should be heaped upon this shameful travesty on the press.

The Apache Indian leader Geronimo was among the most cunning of fighting Indians. In the final campaign against him, led by Gen. Nelson A. Miles in 1886 and 1887, no fewer than 5,000 Indians were employed. Geronimo's forces consisted of 35 men, 8 boys and 101 women, who operated in two counties without bases of supplies. Army and civilian losses were 95. Geronimo lost 13 killed but none from direct Army action.

Want to Risk Everything Or Sit in the Back Yard?

NEW YORK (NEA) — "There comes a time that one must decide of one's dreams, either to risk everything to achieve them, or sit for the rest of one's life in the back yard."

—Robert Manry As everybody knows by now, Mr. Manry is a Cleveland newspaperman who crossed the Atlantic Ocean alone in a 13 1/2-foot sailboat. And the quotation engraved above is the reason he gave his wife for leaving her to go off on the 78-day expedition.

We must confess that our first reaction to the matter was a stifled yawn. Every newspaperman knows that in 78 days with all systems go, a man could make nine round trips to the moon.

Computed that way, an Atlantic crossing is not much of a feat - even in a 13 1/2-foot sloop. According to the 1965 government specifications for dreams, after the moon everything else is your back yard.

That may explain the present foreign policy of this country. But for us at least, it only made Mr. Manry's voyage and the reason for it a bewildering event.

After all, what he says might be very true. A time may indeed come when you must decide whether to risk everything for your dreams, or sit for the rest of your life in the back yard. But just when that time will arrive, or how you can tell it is there - he does not say that.

So for the past two weeks we have been looking at his paragraph of reason in an effort to take it to heart. Those words are tacked up on the wall over our desk, and we can recite them from memory. But to date we have not made much headway with putting them to good use.

It is not our dream to visit the moon, and we do not see any reason to risk everything to go there.

In that regard, we do not fare so well with the other national dreams, either. We do not long for a second car, a Ph.D., or a Viet Cong. We do not want to join a country club, a protest group, or the Federal Republic of Germany.

Nor do we want a color television, a color telephone or any other separate but equal facilities. And it is most certainly not our dream to retire at 40 and live forever.

And as to Mr. Manry's dream, we do not particularly want to sail the Atlantic. Or any other ocean for that matter. Or even fly over it.

We suffer terribly from seasickness and vowed after an especially unhappy escape from Cuba some time ago never to get into another boat.

Regarding planes, we take them only when necessary, having once had to hang by a wire from a plane over the South China Sea in order to make photos. (In fact, we do not even like to buy air tickets - a realization that occurred to us one day in Leopoldville at a counter marked "Air Congo.")

In that connection, our dreams do not include bus travel, either. We made that decision after a rather distressing trip down Fifth Ave. recently when we chanced to sit next to an unpleasant fellow who pulled out a knife and began to promise us a slow death by dismemberment.

Nevertheless, we can see in theory that what Mr. Manry says is absolutely true. There comes a time when a man must decide to break the humdrum chains of necessity - even if it means risking everything - or his destiny will be decided for him.

And so, taking his advice on faith, we went into the kitchen the other evening right after supper. And on the pretext of helping with the dishes, we began what will obviously be a continuing dialog with the wife on this matter.

"Absolutely not," the wife said in end Round 1.

"Be reasonable," we said, quoting the magic words. "There comes a time when one must decide of one's dreams either to risk everything to achieve them, or sit for the rest of one's life in the back yard."

"Nonsense," she said. "If I wanted to sit in a back yard for the rest of my life, I never would have left Pittsburgh."

GOP Group Takes Firm Stand on "Equality in America"

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON - The starkly jarring specter of Los Angeles' savage riots had a decisive bearing on a key section of the eleven - page position paper "Equality in America: A Promise Unfulfilled" issued by the Republican Coordinating Committee last week.

It was this grim shadow that caused the deletion of sharp criticism of the South and insertion instead of the forceful declaration on law and order.

Significantly, author of this stern pronouncement was California's senior Senator Thomas Kuchel, who hastily improvised it on a pad of paper as a substitute for two milder statements.

And it was Thomas Dewey, the party's two - time presidential standard-bearer, who vigorously protested the job at the South on the civil rights issue, and then enthusiastically moved adoption of Kuchel's law-and-order enunciation - with the equally fervent support of Governor Romney, Mich., and Scranton, Pa.

Governor Robert Smylie, chairman of the GOP Governors Conference, played the leading role in another dramatic episode shortly before the wind-up of the Coordinating Committee's two days of closed-door deliberations.

The Idahoan has been one of the most outspoken foes of "splinter groups", particularly the Goldwater element. But out of the clear blue, Smylie astonished his fellow party leaders with an ardent plea for harmony and unity, asserting, "Our time is big enough to hold everybody, and it's time it did."

Amid stirring applause, he proposed that "splinter groups" and their relation to the party be made the principal topic of the Committee's next meeting.

While no date for that has been set, it will probably be in December. Former President Eisenhower indicated he expects to be at his Gettysburg home for the Christmas holidays and able to attend - which is very much desired by National Chairman Ray Bliss.

THE INSIDE STORY - Throughout the Coordinating Committee's two days of private consideration of a draft version of the "Equality in America" paper, there was no direct mention of Los Angeles' heavily destructive outbreak.

been in the North. The South still has a long way to go on this matter, but it is making progress.

"I am whole heartedly for civil rights. And I am equally emphatically for law and order. They go hand in hand. There can be one without the other. If we are to have equality in civil rights, then we must be strong and firm."

After unanimously eliminating the criticism of the South, the Committee took up law-and-order statements submitted by Vice President Nixon and Representative William McCulloch, O., chairman of the task force that prepared the draft version of the position paper. Nixon was not present, but had sent his proposal by mail.

While the two alternatives were clearly preferred to the original version, neither aroused much enthusiasm.

It was at this point that Senator Kuchel presented his hastily - written ringing declaration and scored a smashing hit. "Bigotry is not indigenous to any one race, color or creed," said the Californian. "All have bigots, and all bigots are to be condemned. And by the same token, we cannot condone or tolerate violence and disorder. We cannot permit lawlessness on any grounds. To be weak on law and order is to be un-American. We must speak out clear and strong on that. This is no time or place to hesitate."

Instantly Dewey shouted, "Mr. Chairman, I move we adopt Senator Kuchel's superlative statement." Governors Scranton and Romney did the seconding, and adoption was unanimous.

Crux of Kuchel's stirring pronouncement is as follows: "Respect for law and order in our free society is basic to our survival as a nation. Violence, illegal breach of the peace of any kind of mob, weaken the fabric of this nation, and undermine the American goal of equal opportunity under law for all our people. Indeed, to be achieved, this goal must rest unwaveringly on respect of the law - all the law - of the land. We believe in and pledge ourselves to vigorous law enforcement at every level of government - local, state, and national."

POLITICALS - That September 15 fund - raising picnic of the Washington $1,000 "President's Club" (one of the largest in the country) at the Maryland estate of anti-poverty boss Sargent Shriver has been postponed to September 29. A notice sent out by Democratic National Treasurer Richard Maguire gives the reason as the President's preoccupation with congressional affairs. . . . Latest fund - raising gimmick of the Democratic National Committee is an offer of 50 (one for each state) all - expenses-paid trips to Washington. These junkets can be won by "enrolling the largest number of new sustaining members in the Democratic party", at $10 each, or by writing a 25 - word essay on "Why I Am a Democrat" . . . President Johnson is personally putting in some potent fund-raising licks. He gave a hush - hush White House dinner for some 25 super 1964 fund - raisers. Each raised more than $100,000, and they came to this unannounced presidential dinner from all parts of the country. Foremost among them was Ohio's one-time Governor Michael DiSalle, who raised more than $200,000.

Pull Up A Chair

By Frank Markey

Although the average housewife hasn't given it much thought, her life is a whole lot easier than her mother's because of modern engineering. A recent opinion poll of engineering graduates from a large Eastern university asked what engineering developments have most benefited today's housewives. Consulting their wives the grads gave top priority to bringing electricity into the home. Next came mass production of clothing, and in third place the use of automatic kitchen equipment. Frozen foods came next. And the grandmothers of today's housewives never dreamed of such conveniences.

Today's smile: A visitor asked a little girl: "What will you do, my dear when you're as big as your mother?" The youngster replied: "Diet."

If you think today's race horses are pampered, consider how Caligula, who ruled Rome from 37 to 41 A.D., treated his favorite hay burner. He gave the horse the rank of consul and co-regent and kept him in an ivory stall where he drank the finest wine from a golden goblet and was attended by his own slaves. We don't know how the Roman handicappers rated him after a few goblets of wine, but some of the nags we have bet on needed Kentucky moonshine to get them over the finish line.

Thoughts while shaving: Uncle Sam has figured out that 78 per cent of the marriages in this country are for the first time. He adds that three of four remarriages involve a divorced person; and one in every four involves a widow or widower. . . . During a visit to Murray Bay, Quebec, a McGill University student, majoring in English literature, asked us to recommend an English literary figure for a biographical study. We suggested Oliver Goldsmith, since we had never read a decent biography of him. He was the only triple threat star to English literature, scoring in drama with "She Stoops to Conquer," in fiction with "The Vicar of Wakefield," and in poetry with "The Deserted Village." He was easily the greatest talent in the galaxy that surrounded Dr. Samuel Johnson. . . . And speaking of Johnson recalls that his "Dictionary," published in 1755, contains some definitions pertinent to our times. For example: Excise. He defines the word as "a hateful tax levied upon commodities, and adjudged not by common judges of property, but wretches hired by those to whom excise is paid." . . . A fast-growing hobby is the acquisition and restoration of old-time mechanical pianos. We read recently that more than 2500 persons in all parts of the country are seeking or rebuilding player pianos. . . . A physician friend warns against using prescriptions that have been in the medicine closet for some time. He says it is dangerous to use an old drug for an illness that seems similar to the one for which the drug was originally prescribed. Memory Lane: Remember the Big Band era of a quarter-century ago when the names of Glenn Miller, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw and others would be sufficient reason to drive 50 miles to an outdoor ballroom to hear their fabulous orchestras?

Country Editor speaking: "Tomorrow is an ecstatic word for any procrastinator."

not go through this wringer, but if we continue to follow the siren song of the political pied-pipers who offer more subsidies, bigger handouts, more pay for less work, increasing indebtedness, and more inflationary boom, that will be our fate somewhere in the not too distant future.

Mr. Wiseacre - Haven't I always given you my salary check the first of every month?

Mrs. Wiseacre - Yes, but you never told me you got paid on the first and fifteenth, you embezzler!

Amy - Does your hubby expect you to obey him?

Ann - Oh, no, dear. You see he's been married before.

A husband's actions are generally right, but his reasons seldom are.

Wit and Whimsy

LBJ's Labor Intervention Boomerangs

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) - In part, President Johnson and his aides, in the maritime strike and in the steel labor contract negotiation difficulties, may have been reaping the results of past government intervention.

Some administration labor negotiators privately say that knowing the President would move in makes stalling profitable.

When one side in a labor dispute thinks it can gain more from White House intervention than it can gain at the bargaining table from its opponent, then it stalls until the government intervenes.

Some of these men point to the long fight over eliminating firemen from freight trains. They say this conflict lasted for years in part because it was certain the government would prevent a nationwide railroad strike at any cost.

"Sometimes," says one official wryly, "both sides figure they have nothing to lose by toughening their positions and holding out. They believe presidential intervention will rescue them from their own stubbornness."

Steel and Maritime labor-management negotiations are not the only labor disputes Johnson and his aides have moved in on this year.

Teams at the Department of Defense, for example, all this year have been required to prepare reports on each aerospace company's defense production well in advance of the expiration of its labor contract.

These reports show the effects on defense output if labor-management negotiations should break down and the men decide to go out on strike.

Separate tables give the effects of a short strike and a long strike at each company concerned. Other tables give the cost of various possible wage-fringe benefit settlements.

If either a short or long strike would slow the output of needed arms or other defense materials the government moves in to bring pressure for a settlement.

This has been for national security. When men are fighting a war, as in Viet Nam, there must be assurances that these men get the arms and the supplies they need.

One result has been few major strikes. Delivery schedules of defense materials have not been interrupted.

The other result has been a general breaking of the government's own wage-increase guidelines. Wage increases, including fringe benefits in the aerospace industry of late, have been above national increases in productivity.

The wage increase precedents resulting from government action bring pressure on other industries, including steel, for equal wage gains.

The President's men have not yet figured a way out of this dilemma.

Who Knows Where Hurricanes Blow?

By BILL McCORMICK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Hurricanes are named after women (as everyone knows) because they are tempestuous, unpredictable and go around in circles according to a Weather Bureau expert who, for obvious reasons (he's married), insists on remaining anonymous.

"Also, they can be costly," the meteorologist said.

"Hurricanes just can't be depended upon to be at a certain place at a certain time either. While they usually gang up on the United States in August, September and October, they have been known to hit the East Coast as early as March 6 (1906) and as late as Jan. 5 (1955).

This year the mainland escaped through August without a hard blow although Anna kicked up a bit of a storm offshore before running out of wind.

Nobody knows how many of the fractious ladies — if any — will drop in uninvited from year to year. There have been 11 years this century when none has hit the United States. The largest number was six in 1916.

The history of hurricanes goes back to 1494, although earlier records were fragmentary. The Navy and Air Force began scouting the disturbances in 1913 to give as much advance warning as possible to threatened areas. Now the storms are also spotted by weather reconnaissance satellites named Tiro and Nimbus. Tiro I, launched in 1960, spotted a tropical cyclone in the South Pacific off the coast of Australia, but the first hurricane located in the Atlantic by satellite was seen by Tiro III.

TOTALLY UNPREDICTABLE — That is why hurricanes are named after women. Just how erratic the course of their lives can be is illustrated by this chart showing the paths of some of the more important — and devastating — ones.

For several centuries, hurricanes in the West Indies were named after the saint's day on which they occurred. Armed Forces weathermen began using girls' names in plotting the movements of storms over the Pacific during the war.

In 1953 the Weather Bureau adopted the system and three sets of names (four groups in each) were devised. One set is used for storms in the eastern North Pacific, another for the central and western North Pacific and the third for Atlantic disturbances.

In the Atlantic the Weather Bureau uses as many names as necessary from one set — in alphabetical order, of course — then goes to the next list the following year. The Pacific has so many typhoons that they keep going right through the lists. When a big one hits the United States, its name is retired for 10 years and another designation replaces it on the list.

Perhaps the one hurricane that destroyed more property — and dreams — than any other was the one that centered on Miami, Fla., in 1926. With average speeds of 96 miles per hour, this one hit 128 m.p.h. for one five-minute period and registered 138 m.p.h. for two minutes. Hitting the coast with little or no warning, the storm not only inflicted great property damage (it was in category 8 — $50 million to $500 million), it ended the great Florida land boom of the '20s — at least for the time being.

Two years later a less gusty, but more devastating, storm caused the waters of Lake Okechobee in Florida to overflow into populated areas. There were 1,836 casualties.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Sessions Extended On 1939 Authority

Section 132 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 provides as follows: "Except in time of war or during a National emergency proclaimed by the President the two Houses shall adjourn sine die not later than the last day (Sundays excepted) in the month of July in each year, unless otherwise provided by Congress." A state of war or National emergency has existed since 1939. On August 1, 1949 Speaker Sam Rayburn ruled that the First Session of the 81st Congress could legally continue after the last day of July because the National emergency declared by the President on September 8, 1939 and May 27, 1941 were still in effect. Since that time Congress could legally have stayed in Session after the last day of July every year, including the present one. If the declaration of National emergency were terminated by the President we would not be in Session legally at the present time. Although there is a state of war in Viet Nam, it is an undeclared war and would not meet the requirements of the Constitution. However, the National emergency declared by the President in past years has not been retracted, hence it is this latter situation that creates legality in this. It is this that legitly in the continued Session of Congress this year.

The Members would like very much to terminate the Session by August 1 each year. However, there is always something to prevent it. It is virtually impossible for any of the Members to have vacations with their families or to be in their during the summer months. As the summer wears on and fall begins a high degree of tension develops which is commonly called "adjournment fever."

This tension is the result of long and exhaustive hours in committee meetings and long Sessions of the Congress with attention divided among a great number of bills of major import. All the Members are desirous of obtaining passage of their own particular bills affecting their districts. Add these to the many bills having national and international significance and you have an almost impossible situation. It is during these latter days of the Session that many illadvised pieces of legislation have been able to slip through.

The present situation seems to be this. For some time it was suggested that we might be able to adjourn by Labor Day. The next predictions were for some time around September 15. However, the bill which repeals Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act passed the House of Representatives and was sent to the Senate. It seemed to run into trouble there and probably will not be acted on this Session. This would help early adjournment except that the House of Representatives Committee, on Education and Labor approved a new minimum wage bill increasing the minimum wage and expanding coverage; a highly controversial measure that may require much parliamentary maneuvering to get it before the Congress. It could probably not be heard before September 27. This brought about new predictions of October 1 adjournment which have since been changed to October 15.

In the meantime another situation has developed with regard to the District of Columbia House of Representatives Bill. This is a bill that should never pass either House of Congress, but much pressure is being brought to bear to obtain signatures of 218 Members on a discharge petition that will bring the matter directly before the Congress. The tremendous pressure that has been brought to bear on Members with regard to this bill may produce the needed signatures. The indications are that the bill will be brought to the floor by one means or another, due to this tremendous pressure to which the Members have been subjected. If this is done adjournment may be postponed till November or December.

George Raft Faces 'Rap' After Income Tax Verdict

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actor George Raft, 69, faces sentencing Sept. 28 in U.S. district court on his guilty plea to one count of federal income tax evasion that he contended was a "bookkeeping error."

"I never intended to defraud the government," Raft said Tuesday when he pleaded before Federal Judge Peirson M. Hall, who fixed the date for a probation report and sentencing.

Raft, who rose to film fame playing gangster roles, was indicted by a federal grand jury on six counts. The other five counts were expected to be dropped by the U.S. attorney's office.

The count to which Raft pleaded guilty charged that in 1961 he falsely claimed a $25,000 stock loss in a Cuban gambling casino for which he was a talent director. The total amount of alleged underpayments involved in the six counts was about $85,000.

"This was not willful on my part or on the part of my business manager," Raft said.

The actor could face a maximum fine of $5,000 and-or three years in prison.

State Meeting On Retardation Set Sept. 11-12

AUSTIN (SpI) —Upwards of 100 Texas citizens with a common concern—mental retardation—will meet here Sept. 11-12 to begin writing a book.

They already have a title: "The Texas Plan to Combat Mental Retardation."

Much of the material for the book has been collected in cities throughout the State, by hundreds of people working on "Mayors' Commissions" appointed at the request of Gov. John Connally.

Bill Cobb, the governor's ex-chairman of the State interagency committee which heads the projects, aid that the local commissions have gathered much information about services for the retarded.

"Many of them found local services inadequate, and made recommendations for improvements," Cobb said. Their findings and recommendations were recorded in thick reports to the State Planning Office.

Judge Herman Jones of Austin, chairman of the Governor's advisory committee, pointed out that the project thus far has emphasized local action. "Now we are ready for the local findings and recommendations to be woven into the State plan," Jones said.

Officials in the various State agencies involved (health, education, welfare, rehabilitation, employment, youth council, and special schools) analyzed the local information and put it into a file of material to be used by writers of the Texas Plan. The State agencies also have dropped their own recommendations into the hopper.

Director Stuart Fisher of the State planning office said the Sept. 11-12 meeting will be the first of three work sessions in Austin, at which 12 State task forces will write the Texas Plan. The other meetings will be in October.

The planning work will be climaxed with a Governor's Conference on Mental Retardation next Spring.

Industrialist Moves to Texas

LONGVIEW, Tex. (UPI)—A New Mexico industrialist will move his machine shop operations to Longview soon.

N. J. (Jack) Nelms of Lovington, N. M., has acquired industrial engineering property in the city and will open his entire machine shops operation about Oct. 1.

Nelms has operated machine shops in New Mexico several years. He will move his equipment and consolidate his operations in the Longview plant.

About 12 to 15 persons will be employed in the plant.
