Fierce Fighting Continues As 100 Cong Die in Clash

Biggest Battle So Far Rages 9 Hours

SAIGON (UPI) — Troops of the U.S. Army's airmobile 1st Cavalry division killed an estimated 100 Communists in two bitter battles at close quarters Monday, an American military spokesman reported today.

There were indications some of the enemy forces, wearing khaki uniforms, were regular units of the North Vietnamese Army.

The fierce hand-to-hand fighting broke out Monday near the American Special Forces camp at Plei Me on the Central Highlands where U.S. and Vietnamese forces broke a determined Communist siege last week.

First reports said officers on the scene had counted 99 Communist bodies on the two battlefields. A revised account later today said 80 bodies were found, and that Communist survivors carried at least 57 others away.

The biggest battle raged for nine hours past sundown between the 1st Cavalry's "Flying Horsemen" and a battalion of Communists five miles west of the Plei Me outpost.

The other fight, 20 miles northwest of Plei Me, was smaller but just as bitter. It lasted five hours. The Communists left two dead on the battlefield.

U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from the Strategic Air Command base on Guam today carried out their 57th raid of the war, blasting a suspected Viet Cong stronghold in the Boi Loi Woods about 35 miles northwest of Saigon.

U.S. authorities today disclosed the daring rescue of an American reconnaissance pilot whose plane went down in the North China Sea after it was hit while photographing damage done to Communist missile sites near Hanoi in a raid Sunday.

Military spokesman said the airman, Capt. Norman P. Higgins of Mullins, S.C., was plucked from the sea by rescue planes as Communist machine-

How Much Peanut In Peanut Butter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the next few days, you probably will be reading and hearing a great deal about the peanut butter hearings now being conducted by the Food and Drug Administration.

The main issue, as you may know, is what, if any, action the FDA should take to standardize the peanut percentage in peanut butter. This, naturally, is a highly controversial matter.

Some consumer groups representing peanut butter purists insist the content should be at least 95 per cent peanut. But peanut butter manufacturers want 87 per cent or less as the minimum requirement, and would prefer no regulation at all.

Free Enterprise To Be Topic At Banquet Tonight

"Free Enterprise — American Style" will be the topic of an address by W. F. McCurdy, executive director of the savings and profit sharing fund of Sears, Roebuck & Co., when he speaks here tonight at the annual membership banquet of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The affair is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria. Some 450 persons, a capacity crowd, is expected to attend.

Another highlight of tonight's banquet will be the takeover of 1965-66 chamber officers and (See BANQUET, Page 3)

Red China Pleased With Postponement Of Afro-Asia Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The postponement of the Afro-Asia conference scheduled to open Friday in Algiers underlines the major diplomatic setbacks Red China has suffered in recent months, American officials said today.

These officials noted that the Chinese, the strongest advocate of putting off the conference, acknowledged frankly that they did not want it held because they could not control it.

The official Red Chinese arguments against holding the postponed meeting were set forth recently in the Peking "People's Daily." They said the conference would do more harm than good because: —Some African and Asian —A number of Asian and African nations wanted to invite the Soviet Union, which Peking opposes.

—Recently new tensions and conflicts have come to the fore among certain Asian and African countries, notably India and Pakistan.

These Communist-style generalizations mask a series of disasters which have befallen Peking in its effort to foment "wars of national liberation" as well as in its contest with Moscow for domination of world Communism.

American officials list a number of major reverses which they believe have cost Red China "face" in the underdeveloped areas. Among them are:

—The ouster last June of pro-Peking Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella and the action of his successor, Col. Houari Boumedienne, in destroying the Communist-inclined political structure there.

—Chinese Communist setbacks in the former Belgian Congo, the Sudan and other African countries.

—United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser's gradual movement back toward the middle of the road after a wild swing to the left.

—Disclosure of the pro-Peking Indonesian Communist Party's effort to overthrow the Jakarta government.

—Red China's threats against India in the midst of the Kashmir crisis, which moved New Delhi still farther away from Peking.

Peking's major mistake, U.S. officials believe, has been in failing to understand national movements in former colonial areas and underestimating the political sophistication of some of the African leaders trained by the British and French.

This, in the American view, is leading many Asians and Africans toward a new attitude of "moderation" which may prove extremely effective in thwarting Peking's ambitions.

FBI Probes Theft Of Bellini Painting

RENSSELAER, Ind. (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation today entered a probe into the theft from a quiet Roman Catholic college library of a disputed painting attributed to the Renaissance master Giovanni Bellini.

Art dealers were advised to be alert for the painting, entitled "The Virgin and Child with St. Nicholas of Bari and a donor."

The painting, stolen from St. Joseph's College early Monday, was willed to the college by the late Bohumir Kryl, a Bohemian immigrant who once played the cornet under bandmaster John Phillip Sousa.

Klan Probe Focuses On Booby Trap Class

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a witness Monday at the committee's public hearings on the Ku Klux Klan, the sessions continued today.

Like Klansmen before them, Anderson and Crowe refused to answer committee questions about the bedsheet band. Instead, they invoked the Fifth Amendment — again and again and again.

Crowe, 48, is a stocky man with the lined, leathery face of the countryman. Anderson, 49, is smaller of stature and slighter of build with deep set dark eyes and white hair cut short. The committee did not have an occupation listed for either man.

"We just don't know what they do for a living," said one staff member.

The committee heard about Crowe and Anderson last week. A staff investigator testified that the two were instructors at a Klan underground school in October, 1961, at a Macon, Ga., farm known locally as "Klansman's Hill." Similar "schools" have been conducted since that time.

Klansmen attending the 1961 sessions watched the two men demonstrate how to handle explosives, rig booby traps which give the bomber "three or four minutes getaway time," and put the torch to cars so they will burn with a flame so intense "no one can escape."

The committee quotes on the school were attributed to Crowe. He was also reported to have said that a certain type of bomb possibly could be used on department stores that integrate their eating facilities.

Keep Education On Local Level, Teachers Urged

Control of education needs to be kept on the local level, 200 teachers and their guests were told here last night by L. P. Sturgeon of Austin, director of the public relations division of the Texas State Teachers Association.

Sturgeon spoke at the annual fall banquet of the Gray-Roberts Unit of the TSTA in the Pampa High School Cafeteria.

The speaker gave a report on the last session of the Texas Legislature and on the TSTA convention in Corpus Christi last week. He said that the educational legislative program in Texas to be presented at the next session of the Texas Legislature was approved at Corpus Christi.

According to Sturgeon, the legislative program was developed in 16 district workshops held in all sections of the state. Every teacher in Texas had a chance to contribute to this program through these workshops.

The legislative program approved contained the following provisions:

1. Introduce a bill with a formula to get teachers' salaries up to the national average and keep them there. (Even though teachers' salaries were raised $500 this year, Texas still ranks 29th in the nation and is still $534 below the national average.)
2. Introduce a bill to improve the Teacher Retirement Program in Texas.
3. Reinstate the Sick-leave Bill.
4. Introduce a bill pertaining to teacher tenure.

Sturgeon then touched on Federal Aid to Education. He pointed out that in the past years the local districts have furnished approximately 50 per cent of the finances for education, the state approximately 47 per cent, and the federal government 3 per cent. With the passage of the Education Act, much more federal aid will be coming into the state whether we want it or not, he stated. "Control of education needs to be kept on the local level," Sturgeon said. "To do this we must administer and utilize federal funds in the best possible way. Otherwise, the (See EDUCATION, Page 3)

ONLY 1,200 BALLOTS EXPECTED Gray County Amendment Voting Light

BALLOT SCRATCHERS — This was a typical scene today in Gray County's 13 voting precincts as voters cast ballots on ten proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. The photo was taken at 9 a.m. in Precinct 10 at the Gray County Courthouse where only 20 votes had been cast at that hour. The man and woman in the voting stalls are scratching their "for" or "against" preferences on the lengthy ballot.

Top Officials Ponder What To Do With Metal

By TEX DEWESE
Voting was running light as expected in Gray County's 13 precincts in today's statewide constitutional amendment election.

Election observers estimated not more than 1,200 of the county's approximately 10,000 eligible voters would go to the polls.

Only an estimated 400,000 votes were expected to be cast in the state.

There were 10 amendments to be voted on. Chief interest seemed to be in No. 4, a proposal to extend the terms of the governor and several other top state officers from two to four years.

That was the only one of the ten amendments getting much attention locally in the pre-election activity.

Groups "for" and "against" extending the terms to four years still were pounding out their messages on local radio stations this forenoon. They hit the newspaper advertising columns yesterday.

Opposition to the amendment claimed it would give the governor too much power and make him less responsible to the people.

Proponents argued the amendment would give the governor "time enough to establish and carry through to completion responsible and stable government."

The Texas Election Bureau predicted there would be no more than 400,000 votes cast in the state. Other predictions went to 30 m.p.h. (See VOTING, Page 3)

How Do You Dispose Of So Much Booze?

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—According to figures recently published by the Bourbon Institute, this country is now producing about 2,000,000 barrels of whisky each year.

I don't ordinarily get very excited about statistics, but this happens to be a matter of vital concern to "disposals," a new economic theory that I make been advocating.

We disposals believe that Capitalism, Communism and other economic systems that are keyed to production are ourtha hnaei Itisview

It is our view that in the near future, man's fundamental economic problem will be getting rid of things.

Getting rid of 2,000,000 barrels of whisky a year is, of course, no problem. Our drinking friends can cope with that. But getting rid of 2,000,000 barrels is a different proposition.

Federal law provides that whisky must be aged in new white oak barrels. The re-use of these barrels as booze containers is forbidden. In other words, a new barrel must be built for every 50 gallons of hooch that is produced.

It occurred to me, as a disposalist, that the country might be on the verge of being overrun with old whisky barrels.

I therefore got in touch with William J. Marshall, president of the Bourbon Institute, and asked him what was happening to the barrels once they had been drained.

Marshall assured me that for the moment at least a barrel disposal is under control.

Burning Barrels

At one time, he said, the situation looked dark. Distillers were having to pay 25 cents a barrel to have them hauled away and burned. But in recent years there has been a big demand for second-hand barrels.

Some of them are used for barrel races at picnics. Some are used for making furniture. By far the biggest market, however, is in foreign countries.

Last year, for example, the United States exported 708,882 used whisky barrels to Scotland and 403,292 to Canada.

There is no law in those countries to prevent distillers from using the same barrel twice. Consequently, old bourbon barrels are being used as containers for Scotch and Canadian whisky.

Offhand, this would appear to be a triumph for disposals. But I can see a cloud on the distant horizon.

Some importers have started bringing Scotch into America in bulk shipment and bottling it over here. As a result, we are beginning to get some of the barrels back again.

If that keeps up, a vicious circle will develop and America will soon be up to its clavicles in old barrels. This is the sort of thing that is driving us disposals to drink.

United Press International

Today ends a political era in the United States and tomorrow a new era begins. Tuesday is an off-year election day on which the voters will try for size the Voting Rights Act of 1965. New standards for the qualification of a citizen to vote will be in effect for the first time Tuesday in a scattering of elections.

Congress has ruled by law that a citizen must be counted as qualified to vote even though the citizen can neither read nor write nor possess any knowledge on any subject. The voting rights bill was enacted in angry protest against conditions in some southern communities where Negroes were excluded from the polls.

To effect this protest and correction, Congress stomped shortcut through the Constitution. That document seems to many persons to insist that the states and not the federal government determine the qualifications of voters in all elections—federal, state and local. The 1965 act forbids election officials to require as prerequisite for voting or registration that a citizen:—Demonstrate the ability to read, write, understand or interpret any matter.—Demonstrate any educational achievement or his knowledge of any particular subject.—Possess good moral character.—Prove qualification by the voucher of a registered voter or members of any other class.

These standards apply to the discretion of the attorney general to any state or county where discrimination against Negro citizens by means of such tests is proved to the satisfaction of the attorney general. President Johnson proclaimed special war against literacy tests in southern states in which the number of registered voters was unrepresentative of the total potential vote. The law is applied wherever there was a literacy test and fewer than 50 per cent of the potential voters in the state were registered and voted.

"He's REALLY anti-everything—after burning his draft card, he burned his credit cards."

St. George Doesn't Worry Over Atomic Test Dangers

ST. GEORGE, Utah (UPI)—If its proximity to the Nevada Atomic test site poses a nuclear dragon which threatens the health of the dusty western town of St. George, no one here seems to care much.

It doesn't upset the mayor, business or civic leaders. Local health authorities express little concern and the children, who conceivably could be victims of radiation effects, are not bothered.

Tests Show Lumps
The U.S. Public Health Service reported Thursday medical tests in this area, about 100 miles from the atomic test facility in Nevada, showed 70 children had developed thyroid gland lumps. After extensive tests, the PHS said there was no conclusive proof the unusual nodules were related to nuclear fallout.

I interviewed parents, children, doctors and community leaders and found them relatively unconcerned that St. George and surrounding Washington County had the highest level of nuclear fallout in the nation.

I caught Mayor William Barlock, a one-time Utah gubernatorial candidate, just before he left for a deer hunting trip. He was dressed in heavy boots, work clothes and bright red hunting cap.

Not Easily Excited
"We're an easy-going town and don't excite too quickly," the mayor said.

Downtown St. George shows the "easy-going" attitude. Little lizards dart on the sidewalk and whiz around palm trees in the town hugging the borders of Nevada and Arizona.

A grizzled old cowboy scuffing along the street tipped his dirty hat to a stunning blonde in short shorts. She's a starlet in a Marlon Brando movie being filmed nearby.

The town gets jolted periodically by sonic booms from Air Force bombers which use the area for strategic bombing practice. But even during the fiery above ground Nevada atomic blasts in the 1950s, no one got excited.

"I remember them well," said City Councilman Matthew Benley. "The flashes would flare up like a burning light bulb. Seventeen minutes later the blast would hit."

POLL LISTS DEFICIENCIES

College Frosh Show Weakness In Written and Spoken Word

Editor's Note: The more than 200,000 students in Texas institutions of higher learning face increasingly more competition as enrollments rise. The main deficiencies of incoming freshmen was discussed by college officials in a poll made available to United Press International.

By United Press International—Students entering Texas colleges this fall again showed a weakness in the written and spoken word, according to a poll of 15 top officials of both public and private universities.

Better teaching of high school English and encouragement from parents to read more at home were prescribed.

Other deficiencies in mathematics and science were noted in the survey conducted by editor D. R. Segal of the Rio Grande Valley Freedom Newspapers group. But the presidents and chancellors of almost every major institution of higher learning in the state stressed that students keep coming to their schools with inadequate communication skills.

Segal posed this question to the academic leaders: "In which specific fields do you find incoming freshmen most deficient, and what measures would you suggest to remedy them?"

Motivation Needed
The resulting advice to parents was, in brief, that their son or daughter may become college drop-outs if he hasn't

Witness Stand Jitters

Right now, cases are pouring into our legal channels at the record rate of half a million every week. One result is a growing likelihood that you yourself, some day soon, will be summoned to the courtroom to be a witness.

Many people get the jitters at the mere thought. A woman witness was so flustered that, when asked for her age, she gave her bust measurement instead. A man, when asked if he wanted to clarify a point, blurted out that he would "rather depend on the ignorance of the court."

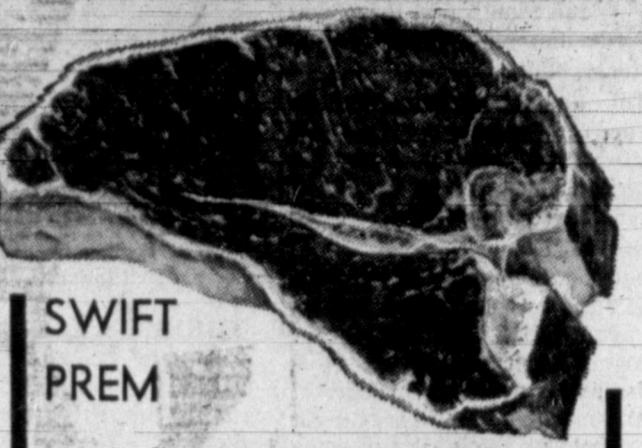

No doubt the very setting of a courtroom helps to frighten the witness. Above him sits the robed judge, majestically representing the awesome might of The Law. In front of him, hanging on his every word, sit the embattled litigants and their attorneys. Strangers in the jury box study him intently to see if he is telling the truth.

Yet, if you should be called upon to testify, you might find reassurance in a few fundamental facts:

1. You are a witness, not an actor. You are not expected to give a smooth and polished performance. Remember that the jurors, too, are in unfamiliar surroundings—likely to know just how you feel. Sincerity, not glossiness, will impress them most.
2. You have powerful allies. One is the lawyer who summoned you. And the judge has every reason to be patient and sympathetic. The more he helps you to do your job, the more you are helping him to do his.
3. That big bugaboo, cross-examination, is usually not terrifying. Tell the truth and you have nothing to fear. The slashing, bullying cross-examination, so often seen on TV, is seldom seen in court.
4. After all, a lawyer's cross-examination—like a wife's cross-examination of her tardy husband—has one main purpose: to probe for lies. Unless the opposing attorney has good reason to think you are lying, he is not likely to treat you roughly. He could be running too much risk of winding up as a villain in the eyes of the jury.

BURNED BRIDGE
 WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (UPI)—An 85-year-old covered bridge, one of Ohio's most picturesque relics, was an apparent victim of halloween vandals, authorities said Monday.

The 246-foot, twin-span bridge, the longest in the state, was burned down Sunday. Police and fire authorities said a large kerosene slick was found on the road next to the bridge.

ILLNESS DENIED
 NEW DELHI (UPI)—A spokesman for Nizam Hyderabad Saturday denied Indian newspaper reports that Nizam was seriously ill. Nizam, 80, is reputedly one of the world's wealthiest men. Estimates of his personal fortune range from 400 to 800 million dollars.

Pampa Company Digs Nation's Highest Pipeline in Colorado

McCathern Inc. of Pampa has set a record that is not likely to be broken or equaled anytime soon. The pipeline company has finished putting in the world's highest gas pipeline, one that reaches from Breckenridge, Colo. to the towns of Frisco, Dillon and Silverthorne, over 12,000 feet up in Colorado.

Vandals Run Wild Hallowe'en Night

Spooks and goblins, or maybe just Pampa teenagers, made Sunday night their Hallowe'en mischief night.

At least 10 reports of broken windows, and paint thrown on houses were received by Pampa police Sunday night and Monday.

Downtown businesses were hard hit by the mischief makers.

Culberson Chevrolet, 805 N. Hobart; Tex Evans Buick Co., 123 N. Gray; MacAndrews Motor Co., 800 Kingsmill; Ideal No. 1, at 401 N. Ballard; Ward's Grocery, 502 W. Francis and One Hour Martinizing, 800 W. Francis, all reported windows broken out of their business establishments.

R. C. Scott, officer at Southside Police station, reported three windows broken out at the station and Gene Gates, 1807 N. Hobart, told police he had a front window broken.

The last bit of mischief was reported to police early this morning when R. M. Whimery, 1713 W. Buckler said three trash barrels had been placed in his front yard.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. says that bull markets eventually founder on the rocks of inflated credit and tight money and this one should be no exception.

The firm says money is gradually tightening but it appears somewhat early to look for any major turning point in the long upward trend in prices.

Bache & Co. says that while additional caution is called for over the near-term as the market moves ahead, it sees no real evidence at this time that the long upward trend is in any imminent danger.

Investors Research Co. says investment and speculative funds should remain fully invested and should not be disturbed by the big shakeouts that are bound to occur during the expected steep rise.

Capital Punishment Ended in Britain for Five Years By PATRICK HARDEN LONDON (UPI) — Capital punishment in Britain is as old as the nation itself. Public executions on London's Tyburn Hill once drew thousands of spectators and good seats up front went for high prices. By the early 19th century there were 230 crimes, including vegetable stealing, for which the offender could be hanged. Age and sex made no difference. Children of elementary school age were publicly executed. One child of 10 was strung up for stealing a spoon. Thursday is all over. The House of Commons formally approved a bill ending executions for a "review" period of five years, but it is generally accepted that hanging is a thing of the past in Britain. Just two days ago, 19-year-old David (Lone Wolf) Wardley was sentenced to die for the killing of a detective. His sentence probably will be commuted to life imprisonment with a chance he will be released on parole in 15 years. Queen Elizabeth II is expected to sign the bill into law next week. There has been a moratorium in hanging in Britain for 15 months while the fight to abolish capital punishment was taking place in Parliament. Peter Allen, 21, and Gwynne Owen Evans, 24, will occupy a peculiar place in British history books as the last criminals to die on the gallows. They were executed Aug. 13, 1964, for killing a farmer. Only France and Spain among the Western European nations retain the death penalty. The French use the guillotine while Spain retains the medieval garrote, which involves a metal band placed around the condemned's neck and slowly tightened with the inevitable result. Under the new British law, to be reviewed after five years, convicted killers will serve a minimum of 15 years.
