DON'T DROP IT—Workmen are shown putting up the pre-constructed beams that will be the support for the ceiling in Culberson Chevrolet's new building on N. Hobart. The beams are single T-shaped and are 68 feet long with a weight of 27,680 pounds.

Highway 60 Project Gets 'Green Light' from State

Directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce today heard G. K. Reading, resident state highway engineer, report that he has received the green light to go ahead with the Hwy. 60 improvement from Pampa to the Carson County line just west of Kingsmill.

Reading stated highway department plans for the $720,000 project are expected to be completed by November. "If we get the needed right of way clearances from the county by that time we ought to be able to let a contract by Jan. 1 and get actual work on the project started early next year," Reading said.

Paul Crouch, chairman of the C. of C. highway committee, said the highway department has supplied Gray County Judge Bill Craig and the commissioners' court with its right of way needs. Resident Engineer Reading said these right of way needs do not involve major problems.

Major Issue Up For Study

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's new crime study commission is faced with the question of figuring out how far police protection can be expanded before it becomes a liability.

The question will be one of the major issues to come before the panel in a 17-month study beginning next month, particularly because most experts feel that present police strength is inadequate in the light of recent crime increases.

The experts have been reluctant to say how much police strength should be increased. They contend it is dependent upon local conditions, the duties assigned police and the degree to which citizens are willing to have the police exercise control over their community.

Picketing Protests Keep Racial Tensions High

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—Picketing in Court Square near city hall and a cross burning kept tensions high today while this New England community awaited a promised follow-up to the largest civil rights demonstration in its history.

More than 850 demonstrators marched Sunday in protest to alleged police brutality. They paraded for a mile along a route lined by 1,000 National Guardsmen and 300 state troopers.

A handful of pickets walked the streets encircling Court Square early today. The pickets, some of whom had participated in the Sunday parade, carried signs urging a boycott of local merchants.

The city was put on notice more demonstrations were to come.

"This march is not the climax to our campaign," the demonstrators were told by Oscar Bright, chairman of the Springfield chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

"I don't think the city officials are going to like it," Bright said, "but maybe now they will realize that we're not just a few radical people. We are solidified in our aims. This is what we wanted to show and I think we did a pretty good job of showing it."

Each Gets 10 Hours Of Sleep

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force jets damaged a bridge in North Viet Nam only 30 miles from the border of Communist China today, an Air Force spokesman reported.

The planes dropped 18 tons of bombs and also cratered the approaches to the bridge, he said.

Other Air Force planes returned to bomb the Ban Thch hydroelectric complex, 80 miles southwest of Hanoi. The complex of power houses, river locks and dam was hit twice Saturday and twice again on Sunday.

It is the first such important industrial complex to come under American bombing in the Viet Nam war.

Moon Landing Eyed by Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — A top-ranking Soviet space official today said Russian scientists have begun preparations for a soft landing on the moon.

He did not elaborate and set no target date for the attempt to land a satellite on the lunar surface without destroying the vehicle.

At the same time, Mstislav Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, hailed U.S. space feats and told a news conference that Soviet scientists were "following with interest" the current flight of Gemini 5.

Newsmen asked Keldysh about the charge made by the official Soviet news agency Tass that the United States had launched Gemini 5 merely to beat the Russians and without sufficient preparations.

OUR MAN IN VIET NAM

Rugged Mountains Defeat U.S. Marines

EDITOR'S NOTE: Freedom Newspapers Staff Writer Sam Stinson covers a two-day ordeal with the Marines of Chu Lai, Viet Nam, and learns that the American fighting man here faces three enemies: the Viet Cong, the temperature and terrain, and his own battle to keep up his morale. This is the second of a three-part series on these enemies.

By SAM STINSON
Staff Writer
CHU LAI, Viet Nam — The Viet Cong is not the only enemy here.

The 3rd Battalion, Third Marine Regiment, found this out the other day in a hunt for Viet Cong southwest of here. I had tagged along to cover the operation.

What I saw was a mountain defeat a company of Marines in bloody, savage battle in which not a single shot was fired.

I really don't know how to start describing this mountain. It is too unbelievable. But I'll try.

Each Gets 10 Hours Of Sleep

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad fired maneuvering rockets today and began a complex rendezvous maneuver with an imaginary rocket in space.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Pete Conrad soared into their third day in space today with a go-ahead for another full day toward their eight-day goal.

They complained that their heavy work load was cluttering up the cabin with gear but happily undertook a new mission designed to speed the day when an American lands on the moon.

With the decision made to keep going into the 47th orbit Tuesday, the astronauts began setting up a four-part maneuver to chase a make-believe "phantom" rocket in a 2 1/2 hour experiment.

However, other experiments were eased off. They were coming too fast for the space twins. "Bang, bang, bang, right together," Cooper reported.

"We've got every piece of gear in the spacecraft floating around trying to keep up."

But the astronauts were refreshed by sleep. Each got 10 hours in the last 24 hours. And they were eager to go on.

At 9:22 a.m. CST they entered the 32nd orbit at 300 miles a minute, over the southeast corner of the United States.

The pressure in the oxygen feed to the fuel cells supplying electric power was rising. It was up to 100 pounds per square inch, compared with a dangerously low 60 pounds when the flight almost had to be ended on the first day.

At the end of the second full day in the space, Cooper and Conrad had traveled 770,000 miles of their eight-day goal: 3,140,000 miles, which would be the equivalent of a trip to the moon and back with a bit of time to explore its surface.

At 9:18 a.m. CST, Gemini control gave the official word that the flight would go on for another day, through 46 orbits.

A splashdown, if ordered, would come at the start of the 47th orbit and bring the spaceship down in the western Atlantic primary recovery area off the Florida coast.

"We are giving him (command pilot Cooper) a go each day for the next day," a spokesman said. "At the moment I can see no reason why they can't go eight days."

At the low point of the 32nd orbit over Mexico (10:50 a.m. CST) they were to begin using maneuver rockets to wing them into a path toward rendezvous with an imaginary rocket.

This would be a rehearsal of the vital "linkup" maneuver astronauts must master before the United States can put a man on the moon.

Dear Abby.... Marriage Is Wrong Solution to Problem

DEAR ABBY: We are having a heartbreaking problem at our house. Our 17-year-old son is being blamed for getting a 17-year-old girl pregnant. We know the girl's parents well and they have had a lot of heartache from this girl as she has been boy-crazy since the age of 13. The girl claims our son is responsible for her condition. Our son says he isn't sure as there are others in the picture too. But rather than name a lot of his friends and make a scandal, he will marry the girl. We are able to help our son financially and are willing to do so if he marries her, but he doesn't love her and with this kind of start their chances for a lasting marriage are slim.

Abby, we are desperate for a decision. We realize our son is not blameless. But how much responsibility should a 17-year-old boy assume in a case like this? If any of your readers have ever had to face this problem, I hope they'll help us.

NIGHTMARE IN AUSTIN
DEAR NIGHTMARE: It's no joke of your son to offer to marry the girl rather than implicate "a lot of his friends." But under the circumstances, marriage is not the solution to this problem. Marriage is forever, not a temporary escape. And it's not for children, especially where there is neither love nor respect. Your best source of advice and counsel is a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: How does one go about meeting a gray-haired, middle-aged bachelor? He attends church alone and so do I. I am dying to meet him. But how?

BRUNETTE
DEAR BRUNETTE: Keep your eyes and ears open. Eventually, he will speak to someone you know. And when he does, let that person know (subtly) that you would like to meet him. But don't let him know you are "dying" to meet him — or you will be a dead duck.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about a friend of mine. He insists on washing his hair every single day. I am afraid if he doesn't quit washing his hair so much he will go bald before he is 20. (He is 17.) He has a very nice head of hair, but he is worrying me sick. Could you please advise this boy through your column. He never misses it.

A FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: If your friend has a normal, healthy head of hair, washing it daily will do it no harm. Contrary to your fears, those who keep their hair cleanest, keep it longest.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from the new widow and admired her courage. However, I do not agree that a widow's place is with other lonely people. Just because a woman has lost her husband does not mean she has lost all interest in her former friends. When I was widowed some years ago, my real friends continued to include me in their circle even though I was without a man. Then there were others who said, "We must have lunch together sometime."

Now that I have remarried I always include unattached women in my parties with men and women. I know many more single women than men who are available, but not all parties must be matched-up affairs. I bring friends together for the pleasure of their company, not for match-making purposes.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — I have a greatly enlarged thyroid. Is there any way of reducing its size without surgery? If not, what would be the effect of just letting it go?

A — There are different types of goiter. If you have a toxic or exophthalmic goiter your thyroid is overactive. Antithyroid drugs such as propylthiouracil are effective in persons who are under 25 and in controlling hyperthyroidism during pregnancy. If you are over 25 surgical removal of the goiter is the treatment of choice. Radioactive iodine has been used but is losing favor as undesirable long term results are being observed. This is a serious disease and if untreated leads to nervous exhaustion and heart failure.

Simple or colloid goiter is caused by an inadequate intake of iodine. Early in the course of the disease iodine will check the growth of the goiter but, when it has become well established, this treatment is not effective. The victim may, however, respond to thyroid extract. If untreated this type of goiter continues to grow and surgical removal becomes necessary because of its size.

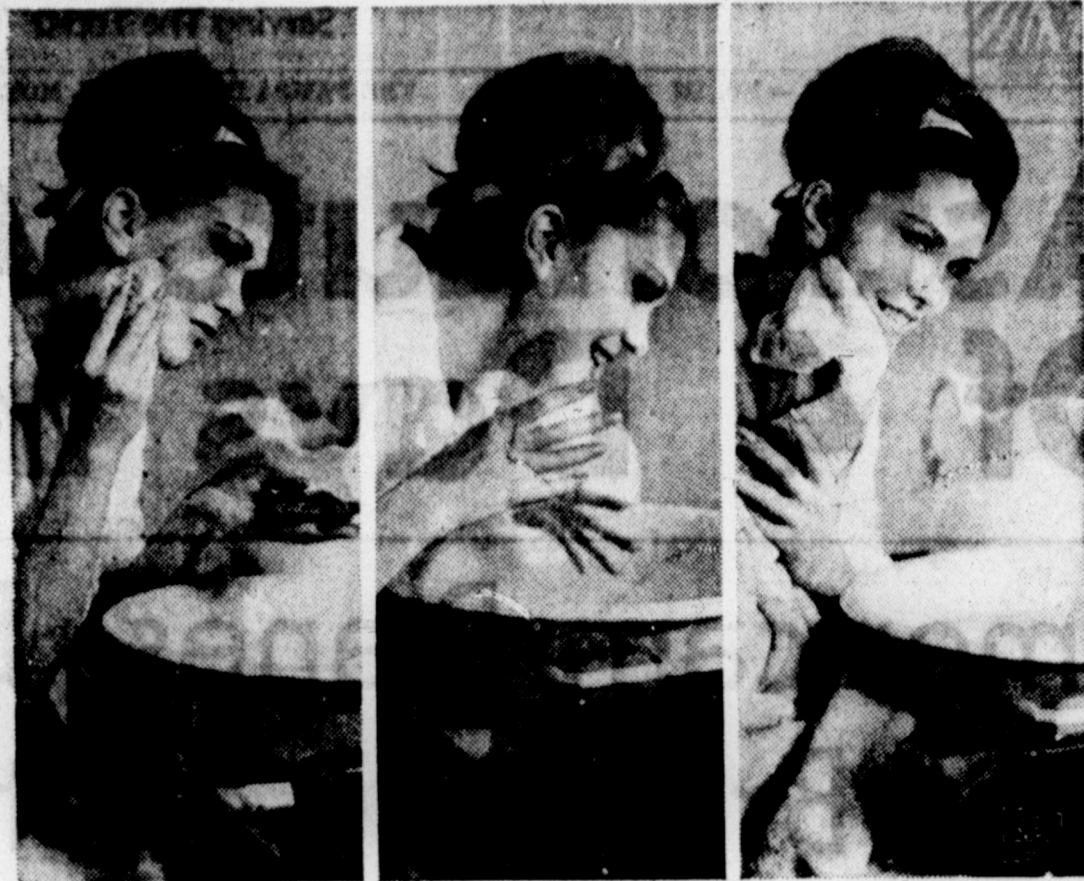

Nodular goiter may be benign or malignant. Here it is important to determine which type you are. Immediate and complete removal of the malignant type is a must.

Q — What kind of reaction would a person get from taking too much thyroid? Could it do any serious damage if taken over a period of years? How accurate are the PBI and BMR tests?

A — Prolonged overdosage of thyroid extract and related drugs such as thyroxin may produce all the symptoms of a toxic goiter — tremor, nervous irritability, sweating, emotional instability, protruding eyeballs, palpitation of the heart and loss of weight. This could wear out the victim's endurance and his heart.

Any laboratory procedure is only as accurate as the technician who performs the test. The protein-bound iodine (PBI) test

Skin Care Is Part of Campus Routine for Cautious Coeds

PROPER SKIN CARE — Prepare for skin beauty treatment by pulling hair back from face and securing it with an elastic hair band. Select a clean washcloth or sponge and deep pile terry cloth towel. Splash face and throat with warm water and work up a rich lather from a bar of hypo-allergenic soap with a moisturizer. Massage lather upward and out from the throat and around the hairline. Splash rinse with warm and cool water and pat dry. Make a special point of massaging throat.

By ALICIA HART

The young man who said "I like to see a woman's skin glow" was a spokesman without portfolio for his less articulate buddies. However, how many young women will take a cue from his comment? Will you?

Clean skin does have a charm all its own. And clean skin also means a greater possibility of clear skin. City grime or country dust mixed with heavy make-up that isn't properly removed each day block the oil glands. When this happens, there is bound to be trouble. Blackheads, for example, or other irritations. Research by dermatologists continues to reveal proper care, if not a cure of such skin aggravations as acne. Women off to college will want their complexions in sparkling shape. Before classes begin this fall, start a complexion routine, one you can follow despite your busy campus schedule. You'll find it rewarding to see soft, supple and clear skin peering back from your mirror each morning. In addition to daily skin care, try to avoid the helter-skelter campus diet. This is made up of two parts skipped meals and one part goey midnight snacks. For your complexion care select one of the hypo-allergenic soaps that also contain a moisturizer. Beauty specialists (working with Savon Clair) point out, though, that washing your face and throat properly is also half the battle. They suggest:

Splash your face and throat with warm water. Don't shock your skin with water that is too hot or too cold.

Gently apply rich lather with a clean sponge or wash cloth and massage entire face area with upward and outward rotating motions.

Massage at the base of your throat with upward sweeping motions. This massage, most overlooked in home facials, helps keep your throat firm, smooth and youthful looking.

Rinse with warm water and gradually change from warm to cool.

Can the Business Girl Stay Out of Uniform?

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some of our girls come to work in tellers' cages in cocktail dresses. We've had complaints about our more flamboyant types.

That's how the president of a savings and loan company in California explained why he had decided to put all of his 65 women employees into uniform — a decision that didn't set too well with some of the employees.

Things have come to a pretty pass when young women who are old enough and have brains enough to hold down jobs in the business world know so little about dressing appropriately that management thinks the only solution is to put them in uniform.

That's one solution — the easy one — but it would be a lot more helpful to working girls if the companies they work for gave them a little on-the-job training about the proper way to dress for the business world and insisted that they do so.

It could be done by fashion shows emphasizing the right and wrong way to dress, including suitable and unsuitable hair styles for daytime.

Any employee who didn't take the hint and continued to come to work in the wrong kind of clothes could find in her pay envelope a printed form on which was checked the one or more ways in which she was failing to be appropriately turned out: "hair style too elaborate for daytime wear," "too much eye make-up," "dress too tight or too low cut" or "more suitable for a cocktail party than for the office."

The offending employees might not like such personal criticism but if they didn't learn anything at home or at school about proper dress, they need to get it sometime. The alternative may well be forced into uniforms, simply because some of them have never been taught how to dress appropriately. That's a kind of a grim picture, isn't it?

Pants suits are high on the collegian's popularity poll. Guaranteed to keep a coed warm in the dorm: quilted cotton duo by Country Calicos. A cutaway jacket goes over the slim pants. Another pants suit features snug fitting trousers and a loosely fitting midgy top.

"Delayed cure" is a new textile finishing process which gives new materials an exceptional ability to retain their shape during wear and after laundering. It also permits setting durable creases and pleats to last the life of the garment, even after repeated washings.

Chocolate Rationing Plan for Children

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn
DEAR POLLY — When there are several children in the house, instant chocolate flavoring for milk disappears like mad. Often each youngster feels he did not get his fair share and that the others have had more. Now I buy a two-pound can of this into four glass jars, one for each child, so each one knows he has just as much as the others. They can use it when they please and as they please, usually in milk but sometimes on ice cream or in eggnog. The youngest usually uses all his in a week but he knows he will have no more for a month. The eldest always has some left over on the last day of the month. They realize this is fair, so the squabbling is over.

MRS. J.P.T.
DEAR POLLY — An easy and handy way to locate the city ZIP codes and street maps in the telephone directory is to "tab" these pages with colored plastic tape. Place tape at the top of each page.

HARRIET

DEAR POLLY — For years I have been annoyed with the slipshod manner in which we stored replacement electric light bulbs. Any empty nook was used for tucking away these extras. Then we never knew where to find them. Some months ago, as I was preparing to dispose of an empty soft drink carton, I became aware that dividers provided the perfect solution. I taped all four ends, set it upright on the top shelf of the pantry and in each bottle space I inserted a light bulb. They are easily visible and when we are out of a certain size it's possible to check and buy them before they are actually needed.

MRS. M.K.

DEAR POLLY — I wanted an attractive wastebasket to blend with the window and shower curtains in my bathroom. I bought a clear plastic wastebasket, cut the motif from the curtain material and pasted it on the sides, inside the basket. When dry, I shellacked over the designs. I have received many compliments on this attractive basket.

MRS. G.S.R.
GIRLS—This same idea could be used on the outside of the basket if yours is not transparent. A metal wastebasket could be painted the same color of the background of the fabric before the cutouts were applied and the effect would be very much like that of the fabric. When enough fabric is available, the entire basket should be covered, either permanently or with a close-fitting slip cover.

POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To make a holder for men's and boy's ties that will hold more than the conventional type, I fasten an old curtain rod to the closet door or wall and wrap it with bias tape or velvet ribbon the

Administrator To Be Honored

Bill Robertson, 2117 N. Russell, administrator at Highland General Hospital for the past three years, will be admitted formally to the American College of Hospital Administrators on Sunday in San Francisco. The announcement was made by ACHA President Ronald D. Yaw, Director of the Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids, Mich., who will preside at the ceremony. The ACHA is a professional society of men and women whose life's work is in the field of hospital administration. The membership comprises 6,400 administrators, assistant administrators and administrative assistants of hospitals in the United States and Canada. The honor will be accorded at the College's 31st annual Convocation Ceremony to be held in the Masonic Memorial Temple. The Convocation precedes the annual meeting of the college, held in conjunction with the convention of the American Hospital Association.

250 Expected To Attend Fete

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the annual Hereford Breeders Banquet scheduled tomorrow night in the Coronado Inn. Reservations for the affair may be made until noon tomorrow by calling the Chamber of Commerce. Bob Murphy, humorist from Nacogdoches, will be the main speaker for the event. The public is invited to attend.

next month. Work has been delayed by the rainy weather, he stated. Chamber directors also heard a report from Jack Vaughn indicating that the Inland Motor Lines of Wichita, Kan., is planning on starting Wichita-to-Pampa bus service by Oct. 1. The line would serve towns between Wichita and the Pampa terminal including Enid, Fairview, Vici and Arnett, Okla., Higgins, Canadian and Miami in Texas, making connection with Continental Bus Lines in Pampa. Directors stood for a minute of silent tribute to the three Pampa businessmen killed in a recent plane crash in Wyoming. A resolution of sympathy to their families and commemorating their service to the chamber and Pampa will be sent to the families of Damaris Holt Clayton Husted and B. M. Behrman. The directors approved the selection of Charles Cook to succeed the late Mr. Behrman who was a member of the board. A list of 14 names was submitted by the nominating committee and approved by the board as candidates for directors to succeed members whose terms expire this year. Ballots with the 14 names will be sent out to the membership. The 14 nominated, from which seven will be elected, include: Lou Troja, Joe Tooley, B. F. Kuhn, Ray Duncan, Arthur Teed, Leslie Hart, D. W. Bond, Verl Hagaman, Roy Sparkman, Joe Fischer, Harold Barrett, Wayland Merriman, Tom Greenwood and Dr. Ed. Williams.

Accident Victim Services Set

Funeral services have been set for 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in the First Assembly of God Church for Mrs. Aubrey Drennan, 43, of 1702 McCullough. Mrs. Drennan was electrocuted early Saturday while installing a television antenna at her home. Also injured in the accident was Mr. Drennan and her 24-year-old son, Robert. Both received burns about the hands and feet. Hospital attendants said Mr. Drennan was released from the hospital and Robert was listed in good condition. The accident occurred about 8:30 a.m. at the Drennan home. The three were attempting to raise an antenna atop the roof of their house when it fell across power lines. Mrs. Drennan was holding the antenna mast and Mr. Drennan and Robert were holding to guy-wires. She was apparently killed instantly. Officiating at the services will be Rev. W. F. Blakley, pastor of the Bethel Assembly of God Church. Burial will be in Memory Gardens, under Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors.

Obituaries

Mrs. Rosetta O. Yake Funeral arrangements are incomplete with Lamb Funeral Home, McLean, for Mrs. Rosetta O. Yake, 67, of Alanreed, mother of Mrs. Jane Lowe, 117 E. Francis. Mrs. Yake died Sunday in McBride Clinic in Oklahoma City, Okla. She was born at Palo Pinto and moved to Alanreed from Dumas in 1939. Mrs. Yake was a member of the Alanreed Baptist Church. Survivors include her husband, Albert Yake, of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Jane Lowe of Pampa and Mrs. Margaret Ruthard of Ordway, Colo.; three sons, Albert Yake Jr. of Alanreed, Johnny Conaster of Hedley and Albert Lee Conaster of Borger; a sister, Mrs. Emma Purefoy of Mineral Wells, 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Astronauts

(Continued From Page 1) imaginary Agena rocket was orbiting. They were to try to rendezvous with it — a substitute for rendezvousing with a "little rascal" radar satellite, which had to be cancelled when the electric power faltered. "The command pilot (Cooper) is taking his two-hour nap period now," pilot Conrad reported during the 45th hour of the flight. The pilot slept about 4 hours, 45 minutes of his six-hour period, very soundly," he said, putting himself in the third person. Hoarseness noticed in his voice Sunday night was diminished. "I don't see anything to stop us from going eight days," said Flight Director Christopher Columbus Kraft. Still ahead for Cooper, the drawing Oklahoman who became the first man to make two trips into orbit, and co-pilot Conrad were six solid days of scientific work, including an attempt to close in on a "phantom" satellite in the sky at some unspecified time. Conrad became hoarse in the "dry as a bone" atmosphere of the cabin and both were several hours short on sleep. But, as Gemini 5 soared into its 25th trip around the globe early today, they were reported in "excellent condition." By the time they finished their second full day in space at 8 a.m. CST today, Cooper and Conrad would have logged more than 770,000 miles in space.

Rain Won't Benefit Milo Farmers

The recent deluge of rain won't be of much benefit for the milo farmers of Gray County. Foster Whaley, Gray County agricultural agent, said most of the rain was in Pampa proper, and outside the city limits there wasn't much moisture. Whaley did say, however, that he looked for some of the best yields of milo in recent years during harvest this year, especially from irrigated acreage. Gray County has about 20,000 acres of milo planted out of a 44,000 acre allotment.

Marines

(Continued From Page 1) until they could go no more. They collapsed and fell into the undergrowth so thick that their bodies didn't even reach the ground. They fell and remained propped up in a semi-erect position. Even though I was only following them and not engaging in the "bulldozing" as they called it — I got pretty messed up. I had both pockets ripped off a brand new set of dungarees. I lost my notebook, I broke my binoculars, I lost both fountain pens, I broke the lens in my binoculars, I broke the strap on my camera, I lost the lens covering on the camera. And I ceased to care. I became alarmed because I realized how dangerous heat exhaustion can be. It is much more dangerous than most people know. If you get it and do not get medical attention or water soon — then your temperature climbs, internally, until your brain actually fries. You are never sane again. These men were at that point, and I was not far behind them myself. Two of the kids were completely out and looked more dead than alive. The third one was talking but he was talking irrationally. I listened to him a few minutes and, at first, I thought my own thinking processes were not working. I could not comprehend what he was saying. Then I realized that he was delirious and didn't know what he was saying, either. At this point I lay down and tried to think out the best thing to do. Actually, I didn't lie down — I just let myself collapse. I had a huge bush stob jabbing into my back but I didn't have the strength to get up or move. After awhile I came to. I must have either fainted or dozed off. I realized something had to be done. I felt better now that my pulse had quit pounding, so I fought my way back down until I came to a large rock outcropping. I climbed to the top of this and could see the rest of "I" Company spread out snake-like down the mountain near the bottom where the undergrowth was not so thick. I yelled for a medical corpsman. He arrived with two lieutenants — one of the First Platoon, the other from Weapons Platoon. I told them the condition of the three scouts and he said the rest of the company was in the same condition. A pre-scheduled water resupply by helicopters had not materialized as planned in the operation. The whole damn outfit was down. The men were told to find shade, if possible, and not move. Helicopters did find us — but not to bring in water. They were busy hauling out heat exhaustion cases. Thirty-two Marines from one company were hauled out on stretchers — 12 from one platoon. And still no water. The Marines nearest the stagnant reservoir pool filled their canteens with the stuff, then diluted it with water purification tablets (tetracycline hydroperoxide) which they all carry. That stuff is good but it is not that good. These kids knew they would get very sick from it because rice paddy water is polluted with animal and human fertilizer, and has been for thousands of years in the Orient. They drank anyway because it was better than suffocating from parched throats. Most of them immediately began retching and vomiting. They hurt. I was not near the reservoir. Had I been, I would have drunk too. Back 23 years ago at Guadalcanal, when my company got cut off from water for four days and our only source was a green stagnant pool with two dead Marines and three dead Japanese in it, I swore I would die before I would drink from it. But in the end, I drank from it, too. I filled my canteen about three-fourths full and then emptied two whole bottles of iodine into it. When it hit my throat it felt like fire and, naturally, I kept throwing up. But little by little I got enough down to keep me alive. So, I understand how these kids felt. About five o'clock the heat had let up a little and the men were more rested, even though they were still out of water and were in bad shape.

Dear Abby.... Marriage Is Wrong Solution to Problem

DEAR ABBY: We are having a heartbreaking problem at our house. Our 17-year-old son is being blamed for getting a 17-year-old girl pregnant. We know the girl's parents well and they have had a lot of heartache from this girl as she has been boy-crazy since the age of 13. The girl claims our son is responsible for her condition. Our son says he isn't sure as there are others in the picture, too. But rather than name a lot of his friends and make a scandal, he will marry the girl. We are able to help our son financially and are willing to do so if he marries her, but he doesn't love her and with this kind of start their chances for a lasting marriage are slim.

Abby, we are desperate for a decision. We realize our son is not blameless. But how much responsibility should a 17-year-old boy assume in a case like this? If any of your readers have ever had to face this problem, I hope they'll help us.

NIGHTMARE IN AUSTIN
DEAR NIGHTMARE: It's noble of you to offer to marry the girl rather than implicate "a lot of his friends." But under the circumstances, marriage is not the solution to this problem. Marriage is forever, not a temporary escape. And it's not for children, especially where there is neither love nor respect. Your best source of advice and counsel is a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: How does one go about meeting a gray-haired, middle-aged bachelor? He attends church alone and so do I. I am dying to meet him. But how?

BRUNETTE
DEAR BRUNETTE: Keep your eyes and ears open. Eventually, he will speak to someone you know. And when he does, let that person know (subtly) that you would like to meet him. But don't let him know you are "dying" to meet him — or you will be a dead duck.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about a friend of mine. He insists on washing his hair every single day. I am afraid if he doesn't quit washing his hair so much he will go bald before he is 20. (He is 17.) He has a very nice head of hair, but he

PROPER SKIN CARE — Prepare for skin beauty treatment by pulling hair back from face and securing it with an elastic hair band. Select a clean washcloth or sponge and deep pile terry cloth towel. Splash face and throat with warm water and work up a rich lather from a bar of hypo-allergenic soap with a moisturizer. Massage lather upward and out from the throat and around the hairline. Splash rinse with warm and cool water and pat dry. Make a special point of massaging throat.

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
The young man who said "I like to see a woman's skin glow" was a spokesman without portfolio for his less articulate buddies. However, how many young women will take a cue from his comment? Will you?

Clean skin does have a charm all its own. And clean skin also means a greater possibility of clear skin. City grime or country dust mixed with heavy make-up that isn't properly removed each day block the oil glands. When this happens, there is bound to be trouble. Blackheads, for example, or other irritations. Research by dermatologists continues to reveal proper care.

If not a cure of such skin aggravations as acne. Women off to college will want their complexions in sparkling shape. Before classes begin this fall, start a complexion routine, one you can follow despite your busy campus schedule. You'll find it rewarding to see soft, supple and clear skin peering back from your mirror each morning. In addition to daily skin care, try to avoid the helter-skelter campus diet. This is made up of two parts skipped meals and one part goody midnight snacks. For your complexion care select one of the hypo-allergenic soaps that also contain a moisturizer. Beauty specialists (working with Savon Clair) point out, though, that washing your face and throat properly is also half the battle. They suggest: Splash your face and throat with warm water. Don't shock your skin with water that is too hot or too cold. Gently apply rich lather with a clean sponge or wash cloth and massage entire face area with upward and outward rotating motions. Massage at the base of your throat with upward sweeping motions. This massage, most overlooked in home facials, helps keep your throat firm, smooth and youthful looking. Rinse with warm water and gradually change from warm to cool.

Ruth Millett Can the Business Girl Stay Out of Uniform?

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Work of our girls come to "sore in tellers' cages in cocktail dresses. We've had complaints about our more flamboyant types."

That's how the president of a savings and loan company in California explained why he had decided to put all of his 65 women employees into uniform—a decision that didn't set too well with some of the employees.

Things have come to a pretty pass when young women who are old enough and have brains enough to hold down jobs in the business world know so little about dressing appropriately that management thinks the only solution is to put them in uniform.

That's one solution — the easy one — but it would be a lot more helpful to working girls if the companies they work for gave them a little on-the-job training about the proper way to dress for the business world and insisted that they do so.

It could be done by fashion shows emphasizing the right and wrong way to dress, including suitable and unsuitable hair styles for daytime.

Any employee who didn't take the hint and continued to come to work in the wrong kind of clothes could find in her pay envelope a printed form on which was checked the one or more ways in which she was failing to be appropriately turned out: "hair style too elaborate for daytime wear," "too much eye make-up," "dress too tight or too low cut" or "more suitable for a cocktail party than for an office."

The offending employees might not like such personal criticism but if they didn't learn anything at home or at school about proper dress, they need to get it sometime. The alternative may well be a business world in which more and more women will be forced into uniforms, simply because some of them have never been taught how to dress appropriately. That's a kind of a grim picture, isn't it?

Pants suits are high on the collegian's popularity poll. Guaranteed to keep a coed warm in the dorm: quilted cotton duo by Country Calicos. A cutaway jacket goes over the slim pants. Another pants suit features snug fitting trousers and a loosely fitting middy top.

"Delayed cure" is a new textile finishing process which gives new materials an exceptional ability to retain their shape during wear and after laundering. It also permits setting durable creases and pleats to last the life of the garment, even after repeated washings.

Chocolate Rationing Plan for Children

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn
DEAR POLLY — When there are several children in the house, instant chocolate flavoring for milk disappears like mad. Often each youngster feels he did not get his fair share and that the others have had more. Now I buy a two-pound can of the first of each month and divide this into four glass jars, one for each child, so each one knows he has just as much as the others. They can use it when they please and as they please, usually in milk but sometimes on ice cream or in eggnog. The youngest usually uses all his in a week but he knows he will have no more for a month. The eldest always has some left over on the last day of the month. They realize this is fair, so the squabbling is over.

A metal wastebasket could be painted the same color of the background of the fabric before the cutouts were applied and the effect would be very much like that of the fabric. When enough fabric is available, the entire basket should be covered, either permanently or with a close-fitting slip cover.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Smart women from Paris to San Francisco have just about decided that it may be chic for the young to be touching shoulders with straight hair, but that fashion needs a frame, not a mane.

Helene Curtis Industries report that since Paris hairdresser Alexandre declared that curls were back over six months ago, the cutting room floors in salons everywhere have been lined with the remains of the fad that began with the "beat" and picked up steam with "ye-ye" and "mod."

KENTUCKY FRIED CHICKEN

DEAR POLLY — For years I have been annoyed with the slipshod manner in which we stored replacement electric light bulbs. Any empty nook was used for tucking away these extras. Then we never knew where to find them. Some months ago, as I was preparing to dispose of an empty soft drink carton, I became aware that dividers provided the perfect solution. I taped all four ends, set it upright on the top shelf of the pantry and in each bottle space I inserted a light bulb. They are easily visible and when we are out of a certain size it's possible to check and buy them before they are actually needed.

DEAR POLLY — I wanted an attractive wastebasket to blend with the window and shower curtains in my bathroom. I bought a clear plastic wastebasket, cut the motif from the curtain material and pasted it on the sides, inside the basket. When dry, I shellacked over the

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR TUESDAY, AUG. 24.
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Think over early today just how far you have progressed in the day just in back of you and what you need to do in order to have a greater success in the days ahead. You find you can see with clarity just what is necessary to do in order to round out your life but it has higher and finer outlet.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Now you have a clear idea how to use creativity so that you make big advancement in the near future. Take time to do something nice for others. Show understanding for the afflicted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Close the need some tangible proof of your loyalty and devotion, cooperation — so give it to them. Recreational outlets open for you. Don't procrastinate. Have fun!

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Talking out any problems you have with associates brings about greater efficiency for mutual undertakings. Analyze financial position accurately. Then plan for right results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 23) — Any assets you may have can be added to now by careful study and investment. Know what your position is with others. Make any improvements that are necessary to increase assets, good will.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) — Do whatever is in your power to assist others to advance and you then get favors you need as well. Gossiping about socially can be very helpful. Be sure in state aims to proper individuals.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Learn what it is that has been holding you back lately and rid yourself of it quickly. Be sure to get advice from some expert as well. Start a new beginning upward.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Calling on others or telephoning will convince them of your willingness to go along with their fine ideas. Make new contacts, too. They may be your most powerful associates later on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — Sitting on the sidelines and watching things happen could easily give you an opening that brings benefits far into the future. Be more interested in carrying thru with your plans, G.W.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — Many a powerful individual now appreciates your ability and can open new doors of opportunity for you, if you are discreet. Confide in them. Seize chance to advance gratefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23) — Some fancy angling in order to establish greater harmony with others is just up your alley, so be at it early today. Be consistent. Then you know the right thing to do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 24 to Feb. 23) — Getting in touch with key people is very important now, but listen more than talk to understand ideas perfectly. You like people, anyway. Be social but not possessive.

PISCES (Feb. 24 to Mar. 23) — If you do your work well, others will be highly impressed, otherwise most annoyed. Be prudent and think of the future. Get health improved intelligently tonight.

Administrator To Be Honored

Bill Robertson, 2117 N. Russell, administrator at Highland General Hospital for the past three years, will be admitted formally to the American College of Hospital Administrators on Sunday in San Francisco. The announcement was made by ACHA President Ronald D. Yaw, Director of the Blodgett Memorial Hospital in Grand Rapids, Mich., who will preside at the ceremony. The ACHA is a professional society of men and women whose life's work is in the field of hospital administration. The membership comprises 6,400 administrators, assistant administrators and administrative assistants of hospitals in the United States and Canada. The honor will be accorded at the College's 31st annual Convocation Ceremony to be held in the Masonic Memorial Temple. The Convocation precedes the annual meeting of the college, held in conjunction with the convention of the American Hospital Association.

250 Expected To Attend Fete

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the annual Herford Breeders Banquet scheduled tomorrow night in the Coronado Inn. Reservations for the affair may be made until noon tomorrow by calling the Chamber of Commerce. Rob Murphy, humorist from Nacogdoches, will be the main speaker for the event. The public is invited to attend.

Chamber directors also heard a report from Jack Vaughn indicating that the Inland Motor Lines of Wichita, Kan., is planning on starting Wichita-to-Pampa bus service by Oct. 1. The line would serve towns between Wichita and the Pampa terminal including Enid, Fairview, Vici and Arnett, Okla., Higgins, Canadian and Miami in Texas, making connection with Continental Bus Lines in Pampa. Directors stood for a minute of silent tribute to the three Pampa businessmen killed in a recent plane crash in Wyoming. A resolution of sympathy to their families and commemorating their service to the chamber and Pampa will be sent to the families of Damaris Holt, Clayton Husted and B. M. Behrman. The directors approved the selection of Charles Cook to succeed the late Mr. Behrman who was a member of the board. A list of 14 names was submitted by the nominating committee, and approved by the board as candidates for directors to succeed members whose terms expire this year.

Ballots with the 14 names will be sent out to the members. The 14 nominated, from which seven will be elected, include: Lou Troja, Joe Tooley, B. F. Kubn, Ray Duncan, Arthur Teed, Leslie Hart, D. W. Bond, Verl Hagaman, Roy Sparkman, Joe Fischer, Harold Barrett, Wayland Merriman, Tom Greenwood and Dr. Ed. Williams. Read the News Classified Ads

Funeral services have been set for 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in the First Assembly of God Church for Mrs. Aubrey Drennan, 43, of 1702 McCullough. Mrs. Drennan was electrocuted early Saturday while installing a television antenna at her home. Also injured in the accident was Mr. Drennan and her 24-year-old son, Robert. Both received burns about the hands and feet. Hospital attendants said Mr. Drennan was released from the hospital and Robert was listed in good condition. The accident occurred about 8:30 a.m. at the Drennan home. The three were attempting to raise an antenna atop the roof of their house when it fell across power lines. Mrs. Drennan was holding the antenna mast and Mr. Drennan and Robert were holding to guy-wires. She was apparently killed instantly. Officiating at the services will be Rev. W. F. Blakley, pastor of the Bethel Assembly of God Church. Burial will be in Memory Gardens, under Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors.

Pat Homer, of 2387 Chestnut, is taking part in the National Junior Leader Instructor Training Camp at Philmont Scout Ranch. The ranch is located in the Sangre de Cristo range of the Rockies near Cimarron, New Mexico.

Rain Won't Benefit Milo Farmers

The recent deluge of rain won't be of much benefit for the milo farmers of Gray County. Foster Whaley, Gray County agricultural agent, said most of the rain was in Pampa proper, and outside the city limits there wasn't much moisture. Whaley did say, however, that he looked for some of the best yields of milo in recent years during harvest this year, especially from irrigated acreage. Gray County has about 20,000 acres of milo planted out of a 44,000 acre allotment.

Grand Jury Goes Into Session Today

The Roberts County Grand Jury went into session early this morning with several cases set to be considered. Bill Waters, of Pampa, is district attorney. The jury went into session at 10 a.m. imaginary Agena rocket was orbiting. They were to try to rendezvous with it — a substitute for rendezvousing with a "little rascal" radar satellite, which had to be cancelled when the electric power faltered. The command pilot (Cooper) is taking his two-hour nap period now." pilot Conrad reported during the 45th hour of the flight. The pilot slept about 4 hours, 45 minutes of his six-hour period, very fondly," he said, putting himself in the third person. Hoarseness noticed in his voice Sunday night was diminished. "I don't see anything to stop us from going eight days," said Flight Director Christopher Columbus Kraft.

Still ahead for Cooper, the drawing Oklahoman who became the first man to make two trips into orbit, and co-pilot Conrad were six solid days of scientific work, including an attempt to close in on a "phantom" satellite in the sky at some unspecified time. Conrad became hoarse in the "dry as a bone" atmosphere of the cabin and both were several hours short on sleep. But, as Gemini 5 soared into its 25th trip around the globe early today, they were reported in "excellent condition." By the time they finished their second full day in space at 8 a.m. CST today, Cooper and Conrad would have logged more than 770,000 miles in space.

If the return to earth next Sunday, Gemini 5 will have covered 3,141,000 miles—equal to nearly seven roundtrips to the moon. As the seconds swept by at five miles a clip, Gemini 5 soared every 90 minutes through one of the "days" and "nights" that intrigued each of the 19 American and Russian spacemen who went before. But for Cooper and Conrad, the future held the chance to see more cosmic dawns and dusks than any other man — enough to erase all existing marks for endurance in space and to put the United States ahead of the Soviet Union in orbital man-hours for the first time.

At one point, the two astronauts were in danger of becoming part of a more dismal record—pilots of the first spaceship to have to land earlier than planned. The problem was a balky electrical system. The trouble then began to evaporate with the passing hours. An elated Kraft reported the capsule's electric power was almost back to normal. Pressure in the oxygen fuel feed system that fell to 60 pounds per square inch on the first day was up to 91.3 pounds. "We feel we are now back in the position of being able to perform anything we want to... and we are doing so," he said. The first move, however, was to let the astronauts catch up on their sleep. "They're getting some catnaps, we know," said astronaut physician Charles Berry. "But certainly they are way down for what we would expect. "I don't like to see this this early in the flight."

Conrad, in good if somewhat weary humor, explained part of the reason why they were sleeping little. "We're trying to, but you guys keep giving us something to do." The "something" included worrying about the power problem in the capsule's fuel cell system. "They are a good bit tired, I'm sure," fellow astronaut Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin said today. Movement of a glacier is so slow that it is measured in inches a day rather than miles an hour.

Marines

(Continued From Page 1) until they could go no more. They collapsed and fell into the undergrowth so thick that their bodies didn't even reach the ground. They fell and remained propped up in a semi-erect position. Even though I was only following them and not engaging in the "bulldozing" as they called it — I got pretty messed up.

I had both pockets ripped off a brand new set of dungarees. I lost my notebook, I broke my sunglasses, I lost both fountain pens, I broke the lens in my binoculars, I broke the strap on my camera, I lost the lens covering on the camera. And I ceased to care. I became alarmed because I realized how dangerous heat exhaustion can be. It is much more dangerous than most people know. If you get it and do not get medical attention or water soon—then your temperature climbs, internally, until your brain actually fries. You are never sane again. These men were at that point, and I was not far behind them myself.

Two of the kids were completely out and looked more dead than alive. The third one was talking but he was talking irrationally. I listened to him a few minutes and, at first, I thought my own thinking processes were not working. I could not comprehend what he was saying. Then I realized that he was delirious and didn't know what he was saying, either. At this point I lay down and tried to think out the best thing to do. Actually, I didn't lie down — I just let myself collapse. I had a huge bush stop jabbing into my back but I didn't have the strength to get up or move. After awhile I came to. I must have either fainted or dozed off. I realized something had to be done. I felt better now that my pulse had kept pounding, so I fought my way back down until I came to a large rock outcropping. I climbed to the top of this and could see the rest of the "I" Company spread out snake-like down the mountain near the bottom where the undergrowth was not so thick. I yelled for a medical corpsman. He arrived with two lieutenants — one of the First Platoon, the other from Weapons Platoon. I told them the condition of the three scouts and he said the rest of the company was in the same condition. A pre-scheduled water resupply by helicopters had not materialized as planned in the operation. The whole damn outfit was down. The men were told to find shade, if possible, and not move. Helicopters did find us — but not to bring in water. They were busy hauling out heat exhaustion cases. Thirty-two Marines from one company were hauled out on stretchers — 12 from one platoon. And still no water. The Marines nearest the stagnant reservoir pool filled their canteens with the stuff, then diluted it with water purification tablets (tetracycline hydroperoxide) which they all carry. That stuff is good but it is not that good. These kids knew they would get very sick from it because rice paddy water is polluted with animal and human fertilizer, and has been for thousands of years in the Orient. They drank anyway because it was better than suffocating from parched throats. Most of them immediately began retching and vomiting. They hurt. I was not near the reservoir. Had I been, I would have drunk too. Back 23 years ago at Guadalcanal, when my company got cut out from water for four days and our only source was a green stagnant pool with two dead Marines and three dead Japanese in it, I swore I would die before I would drink from it. But in the end, I drank from it, too. I filled my canteen about three-fourths full and then emptied it. When it hit my throat it felt like fire and, naturally, I kept throwing up. But little by little I got enough down to keep me alive. So, I understand how these kids felt. About five o'clock the heat had let up a little and the men were more rested, even though they were still out of water and were in bad shape.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Chisox Trail Twins By 'Only' 6 1/2 Games

By United Press International
Those pale White Sox of two weeks ago suddenly are the most robust team in the American League.

Manager Al Lopez was racking his brain to come up with something to keep the sliding Sox out of the second division 14 days ago. They were buried in fifth place 1 1/2 games behind the pace-setting Minnesota Twins.

Chicago's schedule provided part of the cure and a much-improved pitching staff supplied another tonic that bounced the White Sox out of the sick bed and into a 10-game winning streak.

The White Sox crept within six and a half games of the Twins Sunday by whipping Kansas City twice, 8-3 and 2-1, threatening to give AL fans a pennant chase after all.

In other games, Los Angeles upset Minnesota 4-1, Cleveland clipped Washington 8-5 in 10 innings and Detroit trounced Boston 2-1 in a five-inning contest halted by rain. The New York at Baltimore doubleheader was rained out.

The White Sox streak has come at the expense of the last three teams in the standings—Washington, Boston and Kansas City. Nevertheless, Chicago's much ballyhooed pitching staff has begun to flash the superior form it advertised last spring.

Johnny Buzhardt won his second game in the skin with a four-hit performance in the nightcap, and retiring the last 13 batters in order. Joe Horlen wasn't as effective in the opener, lasting only five innings, but he managed to win his 11th game with fine relief support from Bob Locker and Eddie Fisher.

Floyd Robinson drove in four runs in the first contest with a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly and Danny Cater also connected for the Sox. Don Buford's sacrifice fly in the second inning of the second game accounted for the decisive tally against loser John O'Donoghue (6-17).

Dean Chance, who started the game hitting .078, singled home two runs and pitched a six-hit no run win his fourth game in his last five decisions and 10th of the season against nine losses. Jimmy Piersall clubbed a two-run homer for the Angels off loser Jim Kaat (12-10) of the Twins. Tony Oliva of Minnesota was struck on the back of the head on a pickoff attempt at second base.

Why Union Bosses Are Against the Law That Gives Men the Right to Work

One reason the labor union officials want repeal of Section 14b of the Taft-Hartley Act is that immediately there will be thousands of workers who will be compelled to join the union. The Wall Street Journal discloses that there are many non-union workers in the 19 states which ban compulsory unionism who will be forced at once to become dues-paying members. They are employed by companies which have signed union-shop contracts already, but they remain outside the union because they are in the "right-to-work" states. They will have to join immediately if Congress repeals Section 14b which authorizes states to have right-to-work laws.

Money Changers in the Temple

Time was when "sandwich money" meant the nickels, dimes and occasional quarter which we carried to school when mother was too busy to pack lunch. But now it means small change, itself, and still true is that fine old expression "What good is money? You can't eat it!"

THE AMERICAN WAY

Let's Call a Spade a Spade!

Cannel At Bay By Ward Cannel

Nobody Wants To Be Mayor Not Even John V. Lindsay NEW YORK (NEA) — FOR SOME TIME now, hard readers may recall, we have been quite dazzled by Congressman John V. Lindsay and his campaign to be mayor of New York. Particularly since so many Republicans see in him their next presidential nominee.

We would not have thought the New York City Hall a gateway to the White House. But then, political philosophy is not our cup of hemlock. And so, we have always felt that somewhere there was a perfectly reasonable explanation for Mr. Lindsay's strategy.

(It has also been our belief that if we could uncover that explanation, we would be able to retire from real life once and for all and write a Washington column.)

In that regard, we have made considerable progress with understanding Mr. Lindsay's political tactics. And having done so, we must admit that it is a brilliant plan. If it works as scheduled, we would not be surprised to see LBJ lose to JVL in 1968.

Now, to understand Mr. Lindsay's blueprint as we see it, three basic questions must be asked and answered. They are:

- 1. Can a Republican be elected mayor of New York? 2. What happens to mayors of New York afterward? 3. Why would anybody want to have the job?

Actually, the last question must be answered first. We do not exactly know what a mayor is supposed to do. But whatever it is, New York is not a city to do it in.

As far as we can tell, it will take more than a drought to solve the city's basic problems such as: graft in high places and bribery in low; traffic in narcotics; profit making in slums; mortal danger on the streets; fearful pollution in the air; transit strangulation; the disappearance of the middle class; the deterioration of the public school system; and all the other brutal odds and ends that can be lumped under the heading of inhumanity.

The answer to the question is—Nobody wants to be mayor of New York. Not if he expects to point with pride to his record at some later date.

The remaining two questions can be answered more rapidly. There is no precedent for the Republican party to expect a victory at the polls if Mr. Lindsay wins, it will be a personal triumph—and a slightly tarnished Democratic help.

Moreover, there is no precedent for a New York mayor of any persuasion to expect the slightest measure of success in national politics.

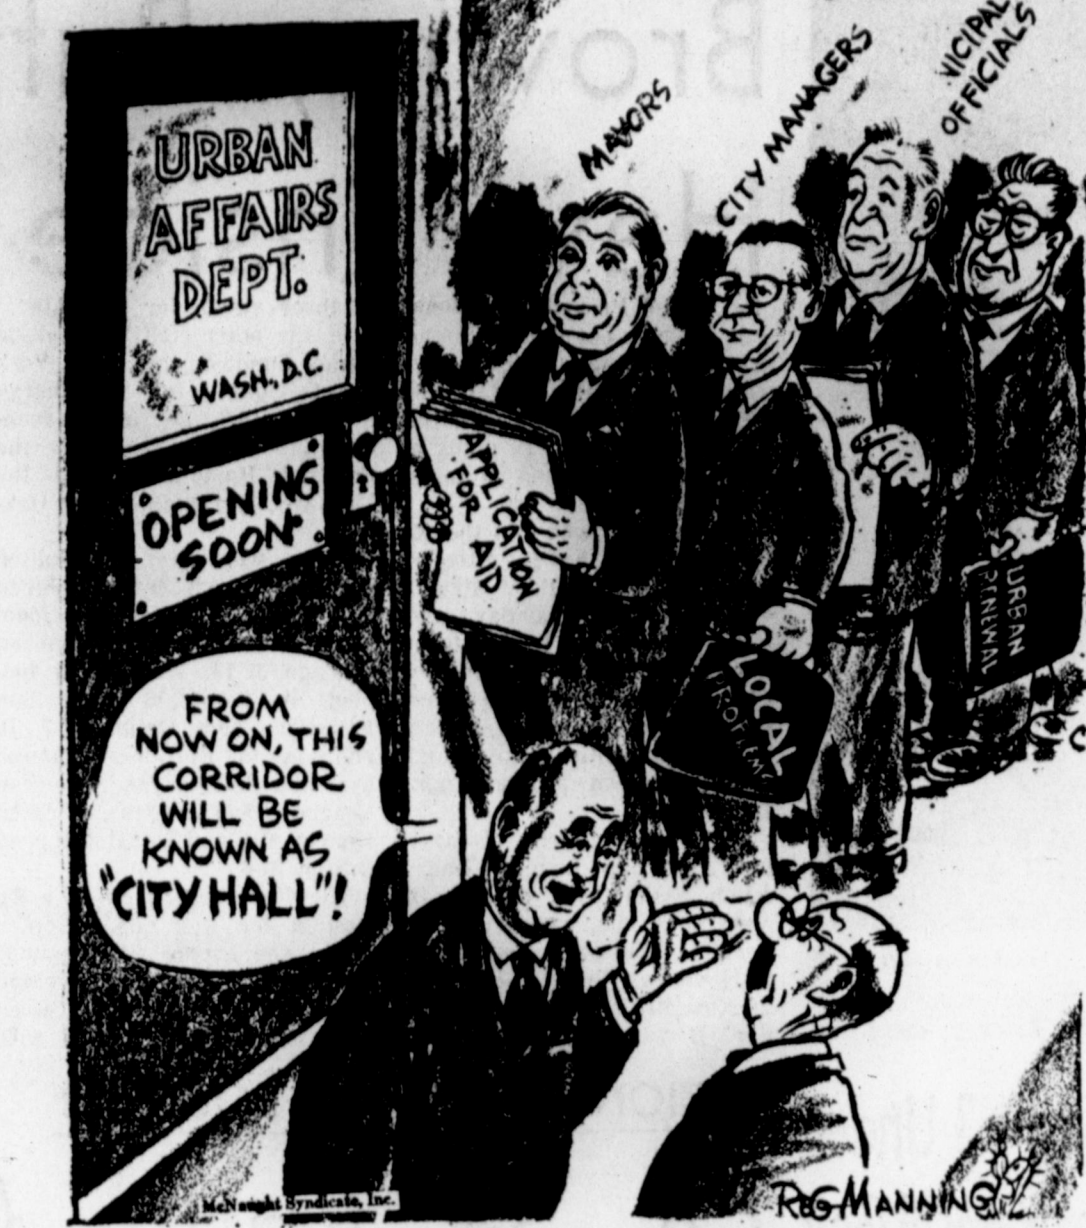

Being overwhelmed with the superiority of that logic, we have been forced to conclude that Mr. Lindsay's strategy is quite simply to lose the election—by as close a margin as possible.

Many successful political careers have been built in part on a narrow defeat for the sake of principle and conviction. We could, in fact, draw up a rather impressive list beginning with Robert Bruce and including Winston Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

More than one narrow defeat, of course, is the kiss of political death. But we are talking about precedents. And in that category, an underdog can certainly have his day.

Not that politics runs by precedent. Quite the contrary. As we have learned many times to our confusion, statecraft seems to stand as much on the rule as on the footnotes to it. Most especially in New York.

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS PRESSURES FROM WITHIN

I abhor the use of labels in the political arena. Labels oversimplify and narrow distinctions become lost. Moreover, the powerful Communist apparatus in the United States has so mastered the practice of labeling and has such effective communications outlets that indulgence in the practice by its opposition is foolhardy. Real issues soon become lost in the welter of labels and the Communist will get the better of it every time.

Communist skill in the application of epithets, and of nomenclature, is so consummate that they have succeeded in equating opposition to their design with "right-wing" activity, a socially odious term. This strategy is even causing the opposition to Communism to chop itself up in a mad scramble to keep the slings from personal application. Otherwise firm adherents of the democratic process denounce others who oppose Communism for immorality in the fatuous hope that by so doing they will take on the mantle of "moderation", which is the label with which the Communists reward those who conveniently take a neutral stand in the world struggle.

But often, instead of achieving the desired reputation of "moderation", countercharges against themselves are set off and the resulting inter-flagellation simply keeps alive, and indeed exaggerates, the whole concept of anti-Communism being equated with "right-wing" activity. Therefore, a writer is on dangerous ground when he undertakes a comparison between the success of "left-wing" activity as contrasted with "right-wing" activity.

But let us look at Viet Nam and Cuba, United States forces are in South Viet Nam. Soviet Forces, complete with missiles and full panoply of arms and ships, are in Cuba, 90 miles from Florida.

The United States is in Viet Nam to prevent a Soviet takeover of the country. Withdrawal by the United States would result in 13,000,000 human beings becoming enslaved and in exposing the whole of Southeast Asia to Communist conquest.

Yet a powerful campaign is being waged here in the United States to achieve that withdrawal. Communication lines crackle with reports of teach-ins, protest rallies, threats to withhold income taxes, and demonstrations of every hue. The extreme lengths to which the protesters go to make their point mocks their cries of "extremism" against the Republicans in last year's election.

The campaign to get the United States out of Viet Nam is well-financed, vast in scope, and has ready acceptance in a large sector of the nation's press. It is succeeding in putting enormous pressure on President Johnson, even though its success would seriously impair the security and prestige of the United States.

But, conversely, who is demanding that the Soviets withdraw from Cuba?

The Nation's Press

TO ALL LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS: (Oklahoma Livestock News) "Paper Problems" are considered to be necessary by products of our complex, modern-day society. However, and notwithstanding the apparent reasoning of some courts and social workers, criminality in our Nation today does not fall into the "paper problem" category. On the contrary, it is a real and absolute menace, a serious danger to the ideals and principles under which we live.

Law-abiding citizens have every right to be greatly concerned over the spiraling crime rate. Each day increases their chances of becoming victims of crime. Even if they escape the rising statistical columns of victims, they are exposed to crime "fallout" in the form of higher crime costs, inadequate police protection, fewer personal liberties, and the ever-present threat of life and property.

Consider also the plight of the law enforcement officer whose responsibility it is to prevent crime and protect lives and property. His effectiveness is being diluted by judicial gymnastics and turnstile justice which all but drop a legal curtain around hardened, unreformed criminals. In addition, law enforcement in the United States is subjected to more criticism by outside theorists and pressure groups than any other profession. I am continually amazed at the number of "enlightened" groups and "freedom-loving" individuals who are so anxious to promote justice by attacking law and order.

Experience shows that swift and impartial justice is one of the most effective deterrents to crime. Yet, swift justice, with all the technical loopholes and unwarranted delays in the law, is almost passe in several jurisdictions, and the rights of peaceful citizens are taking a terrific beating from the "impartial justice" meted out in some courts.

Crime cautions are many and varied. Few, however, are more serious than misguided leniencies, including abuses of parole, probation, and suspended sentences. A young bank robber recently blamed such leniency for his turn to serious crime. The 20-year-old youth pleaded guilty in Federal court to robbing three banks. He told the judge that if previous courts had been more severe with him on lesser violations instead of granting probation, parole, or suspended sentences, he would not have resorted to bank robbery.

Law enforcement, innocent victims, and society as a whole seek no special privilege from the courts or rehabilitation services. All that is asked is that draw from Cuba? Opposition from the so-called "right" to Communist occupation of an island right off our shore does not amount to a whisper.

The contrast is obvious. Is there any doubt as to why it is so difficult for someone dedicated to the preservation of the United States to be effective on the national scene today? The contrast shows what an enormous job President Johnson has in 1965, and how much sophistication will be necessary for the United States to survive in the years ahead.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Idea Missionaries Wanted For Foreign Aid Program

By SAM CAMPBELL Business Editor Sharing of material possessions is not the only way — and perhaps not even the most substantial way — that Americans can help their neighbors overseas. Ideas are needed, too. Below are two overseas situations that the fabled American know-how may be able to solve. If you believe you have the answer, write it down and send it to me, and I shall forward it to the proper authorities.

The Island of Weh in the Pacific is surprisingly well-developed technologically. Many of the younger residents have been trained in Japanese and American universities. Missionaries have been of assistance in raising the literacy rate to a ninth grade average.

Laced By Roads The land communications of Weh are sound and well planned. The island is laced with all-weather roads, and the motor car is not just a familiar sight, but now has become the most-used form of transportation.

The cities of Weh have a functionally sound sewerage system to the extent that an American would not feel out of place, plumbing-wise. The problem is in the country-side where plumbing is largely absent. There is a pronounced shortage of restrooms along Weh's well-traveled thoroughfares.

Desirous of increasing income from tourists, the Whites are not aware of their homeland's rural shortcoming. Even an island paradise can be a mighty uncomfortable without plumbing.

Near Revolution But the islanders are torn to the point of near revolution as to the proper way to provide rural restrooms. One faction desires to levy taxes in order to provide this essential service, the other believes that the oil companies that sell gasoline to the island's motoring population can be induced to establish rest stations in order to attract additional business. The public restroom group, however, accuses its opposition of being anti-restroom and unsanitary.

If this urgent problem is not solved, the contending parties may resort to arms and a great deal of progress will have been lost. What can you suggest?

Plenty Of Restrooms The foregoing is problem No. 1. The second problem pertains to a land area of approximately equal size — the island of Hew. The Hewites are even further advanced than the Wehites. They have not only a serviceable road system but also an adequate supply of geographically well-situated restrooms.

The problem is that the country is developing so rapidly and the technological progress is so great and the increase in motor traffic is so great that an expansion of the road system now is required. Here also the question is how to go about financing a need that all agree exists.

One faction proposes to levy a tax on gasoline in order to build additional roads. The other contends that oil companies, if left alone, will finance and build the roads in order to have more customers to sell gasoline to. In either case, the second faction argues, the roads will be paid for out of gasoline but the oil companies can construct roads at less cost and with less red tape. However, the first group accuses the second group of being anti-road and against progress.

Are you willing to do a little mental missionary work? Will you help out these distraught neighbors by lending your wisdom?

outer room with various secretaries, he sat at a desk whose sloping avalanche of papers left him no elbow space.

Later he slipped from front office view and has been pretty much out of sight ever since. Once an official White House staff directory neglected to mention him.

Nevertheless, from 1958 on, Holborn always has managed to be an extremely busy fellow, a man of many portfolios.

He helped serve during Kennedy's senatorial concern over India, liberalized trade with eastern Europe, other foreign issues. He had a hand in stirring the interest of the academic community in Kennedy, first at Harvard and MIT, later at other schools.

For a time he got involved in legislation affecting Massachusetts, which only western Democrats think of as foreign soil. "Everybody did a little of everything in those days," says Holborn.

The 1960 campaign drew him into research, handling correspondence, turning out brochures. In the hectic post-election period he had a heavy office management role while Kennedy was shaping his administration.

His White House duties under Kennedy and now President Johnson have been all over the lot. In the beginning he monitored the handling of paper work, the flow of correspondence and similar matters. He helped prepare presidential proclamations, did some quiet liaison work with State and other key departments, shined up contracts with the foreign press, dipped into foreign questions.

In 1963 he was a chief advance man in this country on Kennedy's visit to Germany. He knew the German ambassador, and his father, Prof. Hajo Holborn of Yale, teaches German history.

His most precise new duty under Johnson has been as White House liaison man with second-echelon officials in the various departments and agencies. As always, however, he has been performing widely assorted chores.

Whatever he gets into in the years ahead, Holborn's friends expect him to keep his utility folder's glove stuffed in a handy back pocket.

MINORITIES AND THE STATE

The finest quality of limited government in a Constitutional republic is that it provides not only for majority rule, but also for minority rights.

As the founders of our republic were well aware, arbitrary and unfair rule does not change in nature whether it comes from a single tyrant, an "elite" ruling class or masses and mobs. All these are equally enemies of liberty and equal threats to the individual and his rights.

It is tragic that in our time this truth has been so far forgotten for some leading spokesmen for our minority groups are calling for the removal of all restraints on government, for setting up a unitary and supremely powerful state. Apparently they hope to either enlist a supreme and unlimited government on their side in their struggle to improve their lot or to become a minority, which with its leaders, attain "a place in the sun" and "rule the roost."

A careful study of history would soon show them that by enlisting unlimited government as an ally they have taken a viper into their bosom. For unlimited government is the most ancient and most terrible of all the instruments of oppression. The sufferings of our minority groups in the past would be as nothing compared to the sufferings they would endure as tools and slaves of an omnipotent government.

Surely no one has a higher stake than the members of our minority groups in preserving a form of government which protects minority rights. The more powerful the minority the more certain its demise in a dictatorship. In this they should be able to find common cause with all thoughtful Americans, of whatever race or creed, who seek to preserve freedom.

New Ladies Apparel Shop To Open in Coronado Center

Moniques, a ladies apparel shop carrying medium-priced merchandise, will open in the Coronado Center about September 7, it was announced today by the Center manager, Quig Nielsen.

Operating Pampa's newest store and the Coronado Center's latest addition to its growing list of tenants will be Geroge Beckham, a native Pampian. Beckham has been associated with various businesses here in Pampa. He was most recently assistant manager of the C. R. Anthony store in the Coronado Center.

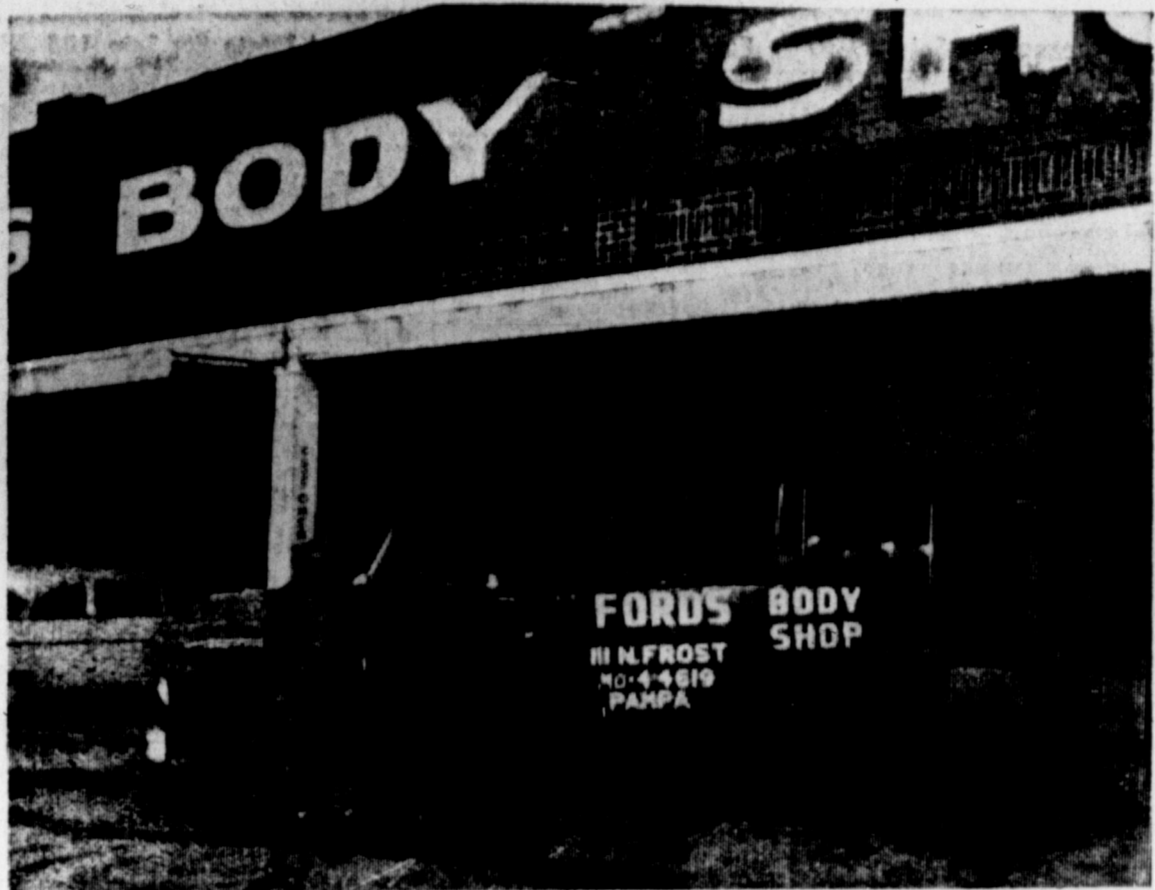

The new store will feature not only ladies apparel but several lines of ladies sports-wear. Associations have been made with the ladies suppliers in Dallas and New York in an effort to bring to Pampa the very latest in styles, colors and fabrics.

Also associated with Beckham in the new enterprise is Jerry Daniels, well known in this area who has had experience in the apparel business having worked for the J. C. Penney Company in Medford, Ore.

The new store will occupy the space just west of C. R. Anthony's on the mall side.

FAMILY PLANNING
NEW YORK (UPI) — The World Division of the Methodist Board of Missions has taken a practical step to encourage Methodist and Methodist-related medical units overseas to increase their services and facilities in the area of family planning.

The Division is joining other Protestant denominations and a unit of the National Council of Churches in an accelerated program of disseminating birth control information and equipment among medical mission institutions and personnel overseas.

Ford Body Shop Has Top Service

Have you ever had a wreck? Was it a major repair job? Or maybe it was just a dent and a few scratches.

Or maybe just the small dents and scratches made by rocks, hail, etc. that tend to mar the beautiful lines of late model cars. No matter what the job, big or small, Ford's has the room and equipment to do a first class job on any job.

Many Pampans have come to depend on Ford's Body Shop to keep their cars looking the best in town through expert workmanship and the best in machinery. The people at Ford's believe that the best advertisement they can get is the work they produce.

The many happy customers of Ford's are testimony of the A-1 service found at Ford's. Why don't you go look at your car right now. Is your grill and front end chipped from the everyday highway driving you did this summer? Or maybe you were bumped this summer and have never taken the time to get it fixed.

Be sure to call Ford's for any need you may have in the upkeep of your car. For 24 hour wrecker service call MO 5-2494 during the day and MO 5-2494 for speedy nighttime service.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kenneth Ward of Hayden Stone Inc. says although the over-all market picture has brightened considerably with further selective strength anticipated, it should be emphasized that not all stocks will participate simultaneously or in exactly the same way.

Ward says this is still a two-way market in which individual issues should continue to outperform the averages and where the power to pick and purchase such issues at timely price levels will continue to produce profits for patient people.

Edward A. Viner & Co. Inc. says that when the averages approach the May peak the price action will show whether or not new highs will be seen prior to a period of consolidation or correction.

Standard & Poor's says that although international monetary problems remain a threat, selective buying is warranted to take advantage of the new investment environment.

Bache & Co. says it believes most factors point to an attempt at new highs in the months ahead.

SBA REPORT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Small Business Administration (SBA) said it made $418.1 million worth of long-term loans to 13,420 small firms during the fiscal year that ended June 30.

This was more than twice the number of firms that took out $312.2 million in SBA loans the previous fiscal year.

In announcing the report, SBA administration Eugene Cooley said the high level of SBA lending "is a direct reflection of the present booming business activity and an indication of the confidence the business community has in the future."
