GOP Cannot Substantiate Grain Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—Four House Republicans said last night they have "not been able to prove" that any of the grain speculators under fire last winter made use of "inside" information.

The Republicans, led by Chairman August H. Andresen (Minn.), said the nearly 1,200,000,000 (B) bushels of grain shipped overseas during the two years ended last June 30 "was the controlling factor which caused scarcity and higher prices for grains and feed for livestock."

DC-3 Airliner Is Reported Down At Sea

Plane Found For Puerto Rico With 21 Aboard

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 4. (AP)—A missing charter airliner with 21 persons on board has been sighted on a lonely Bahamas island with several injured persons nearby.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 4. (AP)—A twin-engine charter airliner with 21 persons aboard was "presumed down at sea" today after it sounded distress calls somewhere between Charleston, S. C., and Nassau, Bahamas.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration official listed the plane as owned by the New England Air Express Co. of Teterboro, N. J., and said "an accident is presumed to have occurred."

The plane's gasoline supply was exhausted at 4:45 a. m. (EST). It was last heard from, calling the international distress signal "Mayday" at 1:44 a. m.

"We can only presume the plane is down somewhere between Charleston and the Bahamas," the CAA said. "Its gasoline is gone and we haven't heard from it for several hours."

The charter airliner, a DC-3, was en route from Teterboro to San Juan, Puerto Rico. It departed Teterboro at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

The CAA said the plane carried 17 passengers and four crewmen. Only one person identified was the pilot, Richard Roy Oliver, of Port Chester, N. Y., president and general manager of the airline.

Other aboard are a co-pilot, stewardess, extra pilot and 17 passengers. More than a dozen aircraft already were on the search.

China Government Reports Success

PEIPING, Oct. 4. (AP)—The Red threat to Kweisui was pronounced over today in pro-government dispatches from the inner Mongolian state capital of Suiyuan.

Another favorable turn for hard pressed government forces in North China came as national troops recaptured the last two Communist held points on the Peiping-Paoing railway. Paoing is the capital of Hoel Province.

Highway communications between the two cities was restored for the first time in three months, reports said.

In Manchuria the battle for Chinsin continued. Last reports said Suichung, south of Chinsin, was threatened and the government port of Huatao had been neutralized. (The Communist radio said Suichung had been captured).

U. N. Told It Has No Authority In Berlin

Vishinsky Leads In Council Fight

PARIS, Oct. 4. (AP)—Russia told the United Nations security council today it has no right to consider western charges that the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a menace to world peace.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei V. Vishinsky led off his fight to keep the Berlin issue out of the council's hands. He declared the western demand for U. N. consideration of the dispute was "devoid of any ground, as it does not fall within the scope of the security council."

The issue, he said, should be sent to the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers, as a formal note from Moscow proposed earlier today.

Vishinsky declared the UN charter forbids the council to discuss anything concerning Germany until the four occupying powers have written a peace treaty for the beaten countries.

Taking the argument to the foreign ministers' council, he said, offers the only legal way to settle the problems of Germany, including Berlin which has been under a Soviet land blockade since last June 23.

He said the Berlin problem is closely linked to the whole German problem. He charged that the currency reform in Western Germany last June was an "act of aggression" against the Russian occupation authorities and had forced the Russians to take "defensive measures."

Vishinsky declared an American assertion that the Russians are threatening international peace with their Berlin blockade amounts to nothing but a means of pressure. . . means to carry out the aggressive aims of that government."

Vishinsky denied there was a Soviet blockade of Berlin. A number of the delegates smiled.

The Russian said western charges against Soviet military authorities in Berlin were of "a ludicrous character."

The council finally got to the question of whether to put the western charges on the agenda after an hour of wrangling over whether to have simultaneous or consecutive translation. To the amusement of the crowded public gallery, the delegates finally decided to have both.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin stepped down from the council presidency immediately after opening the session in favor of Argentina Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramughlia.

Austin said the United States, as a party to the Berlin so-called blockade, does not intend to discuss the Berlin question.

Vishinsky said the four-power campaign ministers council had been specifically formed to deal with German problems.

"The whole question of Germany, including the Berlin question," he said, is subject to decision of the great powers in direct negotiations. Speaking in a more restrained manner than normally, the Soviet delegate said his government did not consider it "legal or acceptable" to transfer the German dispute to the Security Council.

Austin Hits Back At Red Atom Plans

PARIS, Oct. 4. (AP)—Warren R. Austin of the United States challenged Russia today to say if she is ready to agree to effective international control of atomic energy.

He opened, in the political committee of the United Nations Assembly the Western Powers' drive to answer Russia's latest switch in tactics in the atomic energy debate.

Austin said he hoped the time for throwing "old tomato cans and dead cats" is over. He added he hoped the delegates could get down to real work.

His answer to violent attacks by Russia's Andrei Vishinsky and Dmitri Z. Manulsky of the Soviet Union was that he would try to do nothing to make the committee's job harder.

Vishinsky, Russia's deputy foreign minister, started the committee Saturday with a resolution calling for the UN Atomic Energy Commission to continue work.

He proposed that the Assembly call for a treaty banning atomic weapons and a second treaty establishing effective controls, both to take effect at the same time. He hinted Russia might have the atomic bomb.

News cameraman Brady Bynum said the incident occurred Saturday at the Auburn-Louisiana Tech game when he photographed the governor with a paper cup in his hand.

Bynum related the governor asked him to destroy the negative and that when he refused, Folsom turned to a man later identified as Nick Littlefield, one of his special investigators, and said:

"Nick, if you had been on the ball he wouldn't have got that I don't want that picture to go out of here."

Then, Bynum added, Littlefield and two or three other men showed him against a motor car, seized his equipment bag, and destroyed nine film holders valued at $5.25 each.

Revised figures for the first three-quarters of the year show a total of $6,654,495, which means that $1,011,845 in cost figures have been listed excluding the hospital. The current aggregate easily exceeds the 1947 record when the three-quarter mark total amounted to $2,835,945. Total for the entire year of 1947 amounted to $1,178,785. The previous all-time record of $1,220,121 was established in 1946. If the average of the first nine months of the current year holds through the last quarter, that record will be exceeded by the end of November.

Figures by months, with number of permits issued in parenthesis as follows: January, (99) $95,365; February, (85) $102,325; March, (102) $5,713,355; April, (104) $120,685; May (53) $215,880; June, (63) $76,960; July (42), $39,190; August, (73), $116,630; September, (63) $178,005.

At the same time, the local authorized its executive board to withdraw a $5,000 cash bond which was put up for Christoffel when he was tried for perjury at Washington last March. The board is expected to act on the matter tonight.

Christoffel was convicted of perjury in connection with statements before a congressional committee in which he denied Communist associations. He now is free on bond pending an appeal of conviction.

The expelled former officers said they would appeal to the union's international executive board. Five others were cleared of charges of mishandling funds.

Allied Ministers Discuss Red Note

PARIS, Oct. 4. (AP)—United States, British and French foreign ministers met today to discuss Russia's call for resumption of Big Four talks on Berlin and Germany. They met while the United Nations Security Council was opening debate on the Berlin crisis.

U. S. Secretary of State Marshall, Britain's Ernest Bevin and their top advisers on German affairs met with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman in Schuman's office, a French spokesman reported.

They had before them fully translated texts of a Russian note, received in the early hours of this morning, which replied to their notice to the Kremlin last week that they considered direct East-West negotiations for a Berlin settlement a failure.

American and British officials said before the three ministers met that the Russian note had not changed the essential circumstances of the East-West dispute over Berlin.

They stressed that Russia's call for a foreign ministers' meeting to discuss Berlin and other German problems "ducked the issue" because it ignored the basic Western demand that the Russians lift their Berlin blockade.

The foreign ministers are expected to decide whether they intend to reply to the Russian note.

Seventeen Plead Guilty To Drunkenness

Twenty-three cases, 17 of them for the same offense, resulted in fines totalling $420 this morning in corporation court.

Upon acceptance of pleas of guilty, 17 persons were assessed a total of $365 on charges of drunkenness. Assessments in five traffic cases accounted for the remainder of the morning's total.

In addition, four persons were transferred to the county.

Former Union Heads Ousted

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 4. (AP)—Harold Christoffel was stripped last night of membership in Local 248 UAW-CIO.

The local membership voted to expel Christoffel and eight other former officers who led it through an unsuccessful strike against the Allis Chalmers Mig. Co. two years ago.

Building Really Booms Here

Although official recording of the $5,642,650 Veterans hospital project clinched a new mark for Big Spring construction as early as March, prospects indicate that old standards will fall long before the end of the year without including the Veterans Administration activity.

Revised figures for the first three-quarters of the year show a total of $6,654,495, which means that $1,011,845 in cost figures have been listed excluding the hospital. The current aggregate easily exceeds the 1947 record when the three-quarter mark total amounted to $2,835,945. Total for the entire year of 1947 amounted to $1,178,785. Missionaries Are Feared In Danger

SHANGHAI, Oct. 4. (AP)—Concern for the safety of eight American missionaries in Communist captured Teinan was expressed today by officials of the Presbyterian mission.

They said "some sort of an answer" would be sent to Lt. Gen. M. I. Dratvin, Soviet deputy military governor, who made the protest. In this newest of a long series of allegations since the air lift began more than three months ago, Dratvin claimed 656 violations by the RAF and 86 by American planes in the air corridors leading to Berlin in the period from August 20 to Oct. 1.

Sweden Willing To Establish Atom Controls

PARIS, Oct. 4. (AP)—Sweden, now working on an atomic energy project of its own, said today it is willing to limit its national sovereignty to make atomic control possible.

Richard Sandler, former Swedish foreign minister, told the United Nations Political Committee the majority report of the UN Atomic Energy Commission should be used as a working basis for atom control. The majority plan is based on the United States proposal of 1946.

Sandler described the plan as "thoroughly and well motivated" and said the minority plan submitted by the Russians was not acceptable because it did not provide the necessary security.

"The idea of first adopting a convention on prohibition (of the atomic bomb) and then to try to reach an agreement on control cannot be accepted," Sandler said.

"Terminating atomic energy 'Problem No. 1 of our time,'" the Swedish delegate said it is "obvious that the authority of the international control organ will be very extensive and will involve a reduction of the sphere of national sovereignty. This is inevitable."

Five Suspended Correspondents File Dispatches

Buenos Aires, Oct. 4. (AP)—Five foreign correspondents whose credentials were suspended Saturday were able to file dispatches today under provisional permission from the Argentine government.

Some sources said the 12-hour suspensions were lifted provisionally Saturday night with a final decision by a higher authority to be expected today.

Neither the suspension nor the interim restoration of filing rights to four United States and one Uruguayan correspondent for the British Reuters News Agency was explained by the government.

The entire corps of about a dozen U. S. correspondents has been attacked by President Juan Peron. He has called them "spies" and newspapers supporting the government have said the swarms are all agents of Wall Street.

BOY KILLS BROTHER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 4. (AP)—A six-year-old boy fatally wounded his 16-year-old brother in an argument over a comic book, Lawrence County Coroner Charles Allen reported.

Allen said the older boy, George Lee Nail, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nail of suburban Clifton Flats, died in New Castle Hospital yesterday, a few hours after he was shot in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun.

Fight Over Comic Book Causes Death

The shooting occurred, Allen said, in the bedroom the boys shared and happened after the boys' father, a steelworker, had ordered George to bed to end the argument.

The coroner quoted the father as saying he kept the shotgun unloaded in his own bedroom and the shells hidden in a vase.

Dist. Atty. Leroy K. Donaldson said Samuel was too hysterical to be questioned. The case, Donaldson said, will be turned over to the juvenile court. No charge will be filed, he said, because the commonwealth of Pennsylvania believes a child of less than seven years is incapable of committing a crime.

Physically Handicapped Are Frequently Best Employes

Special emphasis is being placed this week on stimulating public consciousness to the importance of giving the physically handicapped employment.

Almost everyone would do all possible to pay tribute to those who came back from the wars without whole bodies by giving them chances at jobs, not as a measure of sympathy but in appreciation. In addition to these men, who are due the opportunity to make good, there are thousands upon thousands of others who, because of infirmities, never had a chance to offer themselves in the fields of battle. They, too, are due consideration.

No one need think he is doing the physically handicapped one half the favor he is doing himself, for statistics bear out the suspicion that these individuals are better than average employes.

There are reasons for this. In the first place most positions are based upon mental capacities. Absence of an arm or leg or fingers have nothing to do with how well and fast a person can think.

Because most physically handicapped persons are not distracted by the side activities that clamor for the attention of most of us, they are free to concentrate more effectively. Out of their misfortunes, too, they have learned the important lesson of patience.

Having been denied full physical expression, those with handicaps express vicariously their creative ingenuity through their work. To millions life is many things, but to those who are hobbled by a thorn in the flesh, it is often the feeling of being useful. That's why you can't go wrong in giving an individual with a physical handicap a chance to make you a devoted and capable employe.

National Newspaper Week And Your Paper's Goals

Newspapers have a national week, too, and this is it. It's a bit of poetic justice, if nothing else, for if it weren't for newspapers most of the other weeks wouldn't get far in the public eye.

Perhaps it is pride of association and authorship, but we believe that newspaper week is in order for another reason and that because it affords an opportunity to clarify its functions and account for its stewardship.

The duty of a newspaper is to gather and present the news clearly, accurately and fairly. The ramifications of this at once give the newspaper a peculiar status—that of a semi-public trust under private ownership.

While the paper is free to pursue whatever course it pleases without compulsion from any outside force, it nevertheless is conscious of a higher duty which makes it more flexible to the public will than the ordinary private enterprise. Obviously the paper worth its salt cannot present only the news it likes; nor can it long color news to its whims and still earn the public's support. Newspapers must have subscribers before it can sell its advertising space; thus it is more logical and necessary to please the people than it is to coddle advertisers.

The Herald is the first to acknowledge its shortcomings in complete coverage. It hopes that its staff members are zealous in their attempts at accuracy and are improving in conciseness and clarity of style. While it may take one side or another of an issue, the Herald tries not to be guilty of editorializing outside of the editorial columns. It is the ambition of this newspaper to learn, and to grow, and to become better for tomorrow because its readers expect it to be better.

Day Of Aggressions Is Commemorated Saturday

SATURDAY WAS THE SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY of a memorable day which inaugurated developments that contributed greatly to the downfall of the League of Nations and inspired aggressions culminating in World War II.

In was on October, 2, 1932, that the League of Nations Commission, headed by Britain's Lord Lytton, presented its explosive report on Japanese aggression in Manchuria. Failure to act promptly and adequately on that report sent history off on an unhappy tangent. The way of it was this:

The Japs on Sept. 18, 1931, had begun military action in Southern Manchuria, claiming that a state of chaos existed and that it was necessary for them to restore peace owing to Chinese inability. China appealed to the League of Nations and negotiations resulted in an agreement on Dec. 16 that hostilities should cease forthwith and that Japan should withdraw from Manchuria as soon as possible. The Lytton Commission was set up to investigate and report on circumstances.

how the League would handle the situation. Would sanctions be applied in this first flagrant case of aggression?

There was much talk in Geneva but no clear-cut answer. Japan stuck to her guns—literally—and finally withdrew formally from the League. She did it with indignation on her tongue but with guile in her heart, for she was bent on still further aggression to make herself ruler of a greater East Asia.

PARALYSIS BEGAN TO SETTLE ON the League of Nations. An ambitious Mussolini noted the trend. If Japan could get away with aggression, so could he.

Accordingly the dictator selected little Ethiopia as his first victim. He invaded it in 1935 without declaring war, and started his slaughter with modern weapons and gas. Emperor Haile Selassie resisted as well as he could with his primitive forces and outmoded equipment, but naturally was forced to quit. He himself left for Europe to appeal to the League of Nations.

So that was that! Then Il Duce, having waited a while to let things cool off, stuck out that bulldozer jaw of his and seized tiny Albania. Same result.

Meanwhile Hitler soaked up all this and came to the conclusion that the League of Nations was impotent, and that aggression was safe so long as you picked your victims with discretion. If Japan and Mussolini could get away with it, why not mighty Germany? So the Nazi dictator pursued his hunch until it finally resulted in a world war.

The League of Nations' failure to cope with the Japanese aggression was in no small degree responsible for its death. Now we have a new peace organization—and we shall see what we shall see.

Allies Must Follow Their U. N. Charter Obligations

The crucial question is whether, and how long, this dangerous stalemate will be maintained. It cannot be maintained indefinitely. But in the interval while the stalemate lasts a solution by diplomacy is still possible. This is reflected in the decision of the Western powers to bring the dispute before the United Nations, rather than to deliver an ultimatum.

An examination of our obligations under the Charter and a cool and considered estimate of our vital interests will lead, I think, to the same conclusion: that our soundest and strongest policy is to carry out in full measure the letter and the spirit of the Charter.

We are carrying the Berlin dispute to the Security Council. Article 37 says that "should the parties to a dispute of the nature referred to in Article 33 fail to settle it by the means indicated in that article, they shall refer it to the Security Council." What are "the means indicated" in Article 33? They are that "the parties to any dispute, the continuance of which is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security shall, first of all, seek a solution by negotiation, enquiry, mediation, conciliation, arbitration, judicial settlement, resort to regional agencies or arrangements, or other peaceful means of their own choice."

Today the matter comes up in Federal court when the U. S. government will demand that the Wallenbergs of Sweden, start witnesses in the case, be required to come to the United States and testify.

The Dulles law firm has opposed this, and government attorneys charge that Dulles is fighting a delaying action so the case will not be heard until after January when a new Republican administration will control final disposition of the American Bosh plant.

Note—Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, has vigorously urged Dewey not to appoint Dulles as secretary of state, warning that he might not be confirmed by the Senate.

Dulles Involved In Scheme To Aid Nazis In Cloaking Interests In U. S.

WASHINGTON—Perhaps because it is buried in a mass of legal documents, or because it contains political dynamite, newspapers have left unnoticed a case in the U. S. District of Columbia court which comes up before Judge Matt McGuire today.

It involves the man who may be Dewey's secretary of state, John Foster Dulles.

It also shows how the Nazis ordered through the payroll department. His secretary, Edgar A. Drake, is paid $5,000 and works at the job.

But what Cleverger's constituents don't know is that Drake's wife, Grace, also has been put on the payroll as a full-time employe—salary, $4,500 a year. However, what she does—if anything—around the office is a mystery.

As one source close to Cleverger puts it:

"I've known Mr. Cleverger for a number of years and in all that time I've never laid eyes on Mrs. Drake in his office."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

In charge of the House Un-

American Activities committee's search for spies who stole atomic secrets, Congressman John McDowell of Pennsylvania would also like to find out who stole his underwear. Fifteen bucks worth of brand new undies were swiped from him before he had a chance to try them on... George Allen, ex-White House jester, has contributed only $200 to his friend Harry Truman's campaign fund. (Maybe George thinks he did enough when he took Eisenhower out of the race.)

Washington's blue-blood Metropolitan club has decided to snub Pan American Airways, well-greased lobby. It has just black-balled Pan Am's lobbyist, popular Bill McAvoy, sometimes called "The Senator" because of his adroit manner on Capitol Hill. Bill had the backing of the U. S. Treasurer William A. Julian, but it wasn't enough to put him across... European Relief Administrator Paul Hoffman has passed down word that his organization will keep its books wide open to the public. As a result several companies, which had hoped to do business with the Marshall plan countries in private, are screaming in protest.

Wanger Must Sell $9 Million In Ducats

HOLLYWOOD (R)—Walter Wanger has to sell $9,000,000 worth of tickets to a single movie—"Joan Of Arc."

This chore doesn't seem to worry the producer. In fact, he seemed more concerned about one of his actors who sprained his ankle at tennis before the last day of filming on a current Wanger picture. About his high-cost films, he said blandly:

"If it makes as much as 'Joan Of Arc' or 'Best Years,' we'll show a profit. That shouldn't be too hard. Look at the success of 'King of Kings,' 'The Ten Commandments,' 'Song of Bernadette,' 'Sign of the Cross.'"

Like the last-named films, Wanger's is a story of faith. Ingrid Bergman, who did "Joan" on the stage two seasons back, plays the title role.

The shooting ran up a bill of around $4,000,000—maybe a little more and perhaps a little less—which is a whopping sum in these shaky days.

Advertising and the cost of prints will swell the total by another million. What with distribution costs, the cut for the theaters, etc., "Joan" will have to pull nine mill (that's the way Hollywood expresses it) at the box-office before it shows a profit.

Wanger, who has long hewn the independent production path, likes to point out that it took an independent to make such a large scale (and chancy) film.

"We have the largest bank loan ever made for a picture—$3,500,000 from Banker's Trust." (Interest alone is $26,000 monthly. Another reason the film has to show a profit—and soon.)

"I feel the industry has to make pictures of this scale to get people back in the theaters."

About 1,200 gross of pencils can be made from the average tree.

Approaches To Bridges Provide Harrowing Ordeal

You've doubtlessly seen those drawings of optical illusions, where in one object is made to appear longer, fatter or taller than another through the adroit use of a background, when in reality they are identical in size and shape?

Highway bridges affect me the same way with telescoping approach but that it is the approach to the structure that makes it appear smaller than it is.

Architecture has always fascinated me. The genius who can dictate that one story of a building be mounted on another and insure its safety, who can design an overpass that will accommodate hundreds of tons of traffic without signs of strain, performs miracle on miracle that remains a mystery to this individual.

However, he would create a bridge with telescoping approach and make the entrance seem tinner than it is, merits no applause from this corner.

Traveling about our nation's principal traffic arteries is nerve-racking enough without having to pick your way through one of those chummy bridge approaches every now and then.

There are times when we feel the urge to arm ourselves with a tape-measure and, upon running face to face with one of the overpasses, anchor the machine and compare the dimensions of the opening with the width of our vehicle.

Oh, that on such a challenge the car could develop feet and legs as they often do in the movie cartoons, lift its skirts and tip-toe to the other side.

We can sympathize with the Oklahoma Indian in the story who, after becoming rich and venturing forth upon a thoroughfare for the first time in a new automobile, was found in a ditch a short time later, his carrier wrecked. When asked what had happened, he said he saw a bridge bearing down upon him and, ultimately deciding it would not yield, elected instead to go onto siding and let it pass.

Two-way traffic doesn't help, either. Invariably, we find ourselves sharing the bridge with some one headed our way, a party who seems forever to be crowding the bisecting line.

But to get back to the approach, the designers could help a lot by altering the entrances to the point where it appeared you have ample room to maneuver through. That shouldn't be so difficult for a people who design a 90-mile-an-hour car to motor on a 80-mile-an-hour roadway.—TOMMY HART.

Berlin Symbolizes Power That Controls Germany

WASHINGTON, (R)—BERLIN MEANS to Germans what New York and Washington, if rolled into one, would mean to Americans. It's Germany's biggest city and its old capital.

So it's a prize in the naked struggle over Germany between Russia on one side and, on the other, the United States, Britain and France.

As part of that struggle the Russians now are doing all they can, short of war, to grab Berlin all for themselves.

They don't have it to themselves now. That's because of a deal made in 1945 when Germany fell and Russia and the three western democracies were still friendly wartime allies.

They then agreed:

To split all Germany into four zones. Each ally would occupy one zone and run it. And—Berlin would be split into four sectors with each ally occupying one and running it.

The four military commanders in the four zones and the four sectors were supposed to work together in planning for Germany and Berlin as a whole. As time went on, this broke down.

THE FOUR-POWER CONTROL OF THE old German capital was to be a symbol of the four-power control of all Germany. But—

Berlin is deep in the Russian zone. By being in Berlin, the western powers have a foothold deep in the heart of the Russian-controlled part of Germany.

Further, of the 3,500,000 or so Germans in Berlin, about 2,500,000 live in the sectors of the western powers.

From what follows you can see what a big stumbling block that is to Russia's desires for complete control of her zone:

In 1946 the four powers let the Berliners in all four sectors elect their own city council so they could have some self-government.

The Socialist Unity Party, controlled by the German Communists and pampered by the Russians, got only about 20 per cent of the vote.

So the number of Communists and Communist-sympathizers elected to the council were far outnumbered by the non-Communists.

This showed that there in Berlin—deep in the Russian zone—was a huge pool of Germans not following the Russian line.

It's not surprising then that this summer Russian military authorities "encouraged"—that's the American State Department word for it—a Communist-led German mob to try to destroy the council.

THE COUNCIL WAS MEETING IN THE Berlin city hall in the Russian sector of the city when the mob burst in. All the council members, except the Communists and their sympathizers, fled to the western sectors.

The council is trying to do business there now, but it's a cripple.

Stalin on August 2 frankly said the Western Powers no longer have any right in Berlin, although he said the Russians are not trying to force them out.

The three Western Powers, through their ambassadors, told him Russia is trying to force them out but they will not leave.

For months now the Russians have refused to let the Western Powers send any supplies—by boat, train or truck—from their zones of Germany into their sectors from the western zones to the western Berlin.

(They can do that because any supplies from the western zones to the western sectors of Berlin have to move through the Russian zone.)

So for months the Western Powers have been sending supplies by plane into their sectors of Berlin for their troops and the Germans living there.

They may not be able to send in enough supplies by plane when the bad winter months set in.

If they quit Berlin, leaving 2,800,000 Germans to the Russians, it doesn't mean they'll have to quit all Germany. They can stay in their own zones of Germany, outside the Russian zone, where the Russians cannot blockade them.

Little White Hen Weds Little Red Cranberry

CARVER, MASS., (R)—SATURDAY WAS the wedding day of the little white hen and the little red cranberry.

It is a marriage of convenience which the stern and rockbound business world here hopes will echo down the corridors of time as profitably as did the merry courtship of Priscilla and John Alden.

And before you start asking me how in Massachusetts a hen can say "I do" to a cranberry—and I'm not bogging the question—let me begin by saying there are several similarities between these two romances, separated by more than 300 years.

THE SCENE OF BOTH IS A FAIR vale in the hill swamps not far from the gray rock of Plymouth, where the founding fathers stepped ashore in 1620 and were helped onto by Squanto, the first of New England's long line of distinguished educators.

And in both cases the love tales arise from a strange triangle.

Every schoolchild remembers that the triangle in the 18th century's Puritan heart epic consisted of Captain Miles Standish, his friend, John Alden, and saucy Priscilla Mullins. Standish was standoffish about telling Priscilla she was the prettiest thing he's seen since he became a widower.

So he sent honest John to ask her if she wouldn't like to wed a soldier tried and true. But Priscilla proved that all girls don't swoon at a uniform. She decided she wanted a man who mowed down the front lawn instead of tramping around the back yard of America mowing down Indians. She melted Alden with a coy, "Oh, Johnny, oh, Johnny, speak for thyself." And she and John were married and had eleven fine, big children—all presumably harlequin-chested since Alden was a cooper.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF PROSPERITY is hoped for the wedding Saturday of the little white hen and the little red cranberry. The marriage is just a symbol of a desire by farmers here, where half the nation's cranberries are grown, to wake up the public to the fact that cranberries taste just as good with chicken as they do with turkey.

So they rewrote the complications behind the classic John-Miles-Priscilla marital melange to cover the new problem. They changed an angle in the old familiar Puritan triangle.

The new triangle is made up of a pretty white hen, a poor but honest cranberry, and the cranberry's father—a stuffy old turkey.

The turkey (Miles Standish?) for years has dominated his ruddy-checked boy (John Alden?). But the cranberry wants to get out from under his father's wing. He believes he could get ahead faster if he could win a place for life at the side of the little white hen (Priscilla Mullins?).

Well, true love wins out again. The red cranberry and the little white hen were united in a mock wedding ceremony Saturday afternoon featuring a cranberry festival. And the farmers hope everybody will get the idea that chicken and cranberries do go together.

TEC Has Problem With Distribution Of Cotton Pickers

AUSTIN, Oct. 4 (AP)—Texas Employment Commission field crews today faced a problem of distributing available cotton field workers to spots where they are most needed.

The TEC said there was plenty of help on hand for West Texas, but its problem was one of distribution in that area. There was still a shortage of workers in North and North Central Texas, but the TEC expected to fill it over the week end.

The TEC reported many pickers moving into Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, where there are good cotton crops and high wages. "Maximum use of Texas farm labor must be made, and this requires that all farmers let TEC farm labor representatives know immediately when pickers are finished with each field," said Henry LeBlanc, chief of the TEC's farm placement section.

"By doing this, a more rapid shifting of crews to other areas of need can be accomplished."

Power Laden Boston Red Sox Favored To Humble Indians

S'west Circuit Teams To Meet Tough Opponents

By WILBUR MARTIN
Associated Press Staff

Five Southwest Conference teams tackle tough intercollegiate football this week, but the top attraction may be that which could change the color of two darkhorse entries.

Arkansas and Baylor match speed and trickery at Fayetteville, Ark., in a tilt that could mean a lot in the final standings.

The five intercollegiate games include the annual Texas-Oklahoma classic at Dallas; Texas A&M-Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge, La.; Rice-Southern California at Los Angeles; Southern Methodist-Missouri at Columbia, Mo., and Texas Christian-Indiana at Bloomington, Ind.

Arkansas' Razorbacks took a game advantage in the conference race last week by routing Texas Christian under, 27-14.

Baylor was impressive in drawing with Mississippi State, 7-7. Should Arkansas win it would be in a strategic position in the title chase. With two victories, the Porkers could point for the toughest—and let matters attend to themselves against Rice and Texas A&M.

A win for Baylor would send the Bears' stock soaring as a menace. Southern Methodist ran its victory string to fourteen straight with a fast finish that buried Texas Tech, 41-0, Saturday.

Texas gave its reserves a good workout in smothering little New Mexico, 47-0.

Louisiana State sprang a 26-13 upset at Rice while Oklahoma beat Texas A&M easily, 41-14.

Clyde Scott of Arkansas and Doak Walker of SMU paced individual performances.

Scott scored three of the Razorbacks' touchdowns, completed two touchdowns and gained 140 yards on the ground.

Walker scored one touchdown, passed for another and averaged eight and three-fourths yards on six carries. He also had a two-of-three passing average for 33 yards and took over scoring leadership with 23 points in two games.

This week's schedule is expected to be a critical test for conference teams.

Missouri should be a good measuring rod for the strength of Southern Methodist. Oklahoma could be a stumbling block in Texas' comeback plans, and Southern California and Indiana should ease Rice and Texas Christian's rebound formulas.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Ed McKeever, who started out as a $50-a-month assistant coach under Pete Cawthon at Texas Tech, may wind up much the same way unless he unbends a little and takes some of the iron out of his system.

Reports from up north insist McKeever, now the head coach of the Chicago Rockets of the All-America (professional) Conference, at $25,000 per annum, is feuding with his players and may talk himself out of a job.

If that be the case, then the Texan, who wanted to play with Notre Dame but instead wound up at Tech, hasn't learned much the past year. The odor he left behind him at San Francisco university and around the Bay Area last year wasn't good. He is reported to have issued a 'white paper' on his players, suggesting that not more than half of them were eligible. Furthermore, he allegedly added, the athletes were paid like any ordinary professional. The latter insinuation didn't lift too many eyebrows.

PLAYERS FINED FOR MISTAKES, EVEN IN PRACTICE
Morale is supposed to be about as low as the Chicago team this season as it has been for the 1946-47 campaigns and it was rock-bottom then.

McKeever is said to be heavily fining members of the team for the most trivial things. Each member of the squad allegedly lost $50 each in fines for their failure to buff Buffalo a white back.

Even in practice, the story goes that McKeever orders a deduction in pay for the boys who fumble, jump offside or fail to block.

MASON WOULD HAVE INDIVIDUAL BOTTLES FOR BOYS

C. W. Mason, sanitarian of the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit, doesn't appreciate the way members of athletic teams drink from the same bottle and use the same towels.

He points out that one boy who drinks from the community bottle may be in the early stages of a sore throat or some other communicable disease and may in that way give it to the other boys. He adds using the same towel to wipe the perspiration from the body is bad in that it picks up germs from the places where most disease producing organisms are discharged.

He would provide individual bottles and towels for each member of the team.

FORMER RESIDENT SHINES FOR TEXAS STEERS

George Gentry, Jr., drew special praise for his defensive work for Texas against New Mexico's football Lobos last weekend.

George grew up here but played his high school ball at Temple. His father, of course, was high school principal for a long while here and now is situated at Goose Creek where he's still in school work.

George, Jr., is a sophomore and an end.

ALL-AMERICA GRID TEAMS TAKING SHAPE

The tub-thumpers are working harder than ever before to get their favorite sons on the nation's All-America football teams, most of which will appear in December.

One can also figure out a fairly representative first team at this stage.

Doak Walker of SMU is a virtual cinch for a backfield berth until he breaks a leg or slopes. He's been given more favorable publicity than any gridder in college history.

Charles Justice of North Carolina and Jackie Jensen of California are apt to be in the secondary with Walker. Clyde Scott of Arkansas may make it.

Up front, Bill Fischer of Notre Dame, perhaps his running mate, Leon Hart, Chuck Bednarik of Pennsylvania, Barley Poole of Mississippi and maybe Rod Franz of California will get the nod.

Dick Harris of Texas is undoubtedly one of the greatest linemen in the country but the UT coaching staff moved him back to center this year after a season at tackle and there he'll have to compete for the votes with Bednarik. Too, Harris missed two games because of injuries.

Parnell May Be Mound Choice

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—All odds favor the Red Sox to make it an all-Boston world series today by knocking over Cleveland in the first tie playoff game in the history of the American League.

Joe McCarthy's determined gang comes into this sudden death one-game finale at Fenway Park off a closing surge that gave them one more chance when all hope appeared lost.

Going into the final day of the regular season, they were one down with one to go. All the Indians needed was a closing victory to set up its first series date since 1920. In a few brief hours, Hal Newhouse's brilliant pitching and the Sox' 10-5 crushing of the New York Yanks reduced the Tribe from odds on favorites to long shot underdogs.

Now they come into Fenway, where the Sox make a living playing Yankee doodle on the left field wall. Although their season record is 11-11 with Cleveland, the Boston sluggers lowered the boom on the Indians in five of their last six starts in the Hub park.

Both McCarthy and Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Club are being cagey about their starting pitchers in this unexpected game at the end of a long, exhausting season. It hardly figures to be a mound classic, another fact that is going for the Sox. If it comes down to hand to hand conflict on the home lot, Ted Williams, Vern Stephens, Bobby Doerr and Co. are a tough lot.

Mel Parnell, a stylish lefthander who has been a most important factor in Boston's rise from seventh place to a pennant tie, is the logical choice for Boston.

McCarthy mentions Parnell along with Ellis Kinder as possibilities. He might also add Lefthander Mickey Harris and Veteran Denny Galehouse. Parnell probably will get the nod for his record against Cleveland.

Parnell had a 3-2 mark against the Tribe but that is most deceiving. His three victories all were complete games. One of the defeats was 2-0 and the other was suffered on relief. Last time out against Cleveland he was an 8-4 victor over Gene Bearden.

The last start for the 26-year-old southpaw was Thursday against Washington. He won that game although McCarthy hit him for Earl Johnson when he wavered in the seventh. It might well be that Merse Joe had this tie possibility in mind.

When Boudreau climbed on a train in Cleveland last night, he insisted he had not made up his mind on a pitcher. He indicated it could be one of three, or for that matter one of six. Bearden, Bob Lemon and Bobby Feller, despite his starting appearance yesterday in the 7-1 loss to Detroit, were the most logical guesses.

Lemon has had the most rest. He worked Friday for 8 1-3 innings until he hit a wild streak and was removed in a game that Jimmy Outlaw pulled out of the fire for Detroit. The speedy right-hander has a 3-2 mark against Boston and 20-14 for the year. His last appearance against the Sox was a four-hit shutout Aug. 23 that momentarily regained first place for the Tribe.

A dark horse possibility is Sam Zolcak, a lefthander who saw brief action in Detroit's 7-1 victory over Cleveland yesterday. Sam has whipped the Red Sox twice and they have yet to hit him real hard.

Feller was knocked out in the third inning of yesterday's game with Detroit, while trying for his eighth straight win and 20th of the season. If Boudreau needs him, Rapid Robert will be in there for he's still the best man around when he has his stuff.

This must be a discouraging aftermath for the Cleveland ball club which led the league most of the season, slipped behind when Boston unleashed its hot late summer drive and then rallied to pull out front in the last week. As recently as Thursday morning they had a two-game lead.

Then Detroit started to work, just as it had done earlier on both the Red Sox and Yankees. Taking two out of three from the Indians in that last series when they knew they were going nowhere except fifth place, the Tigers and their manager, Steve O'Neill, did credit to themselves and their profession by their hustle and sincere effort.

In Boston's final struggle, much credit must be given to McCarthy and his players who refused to give up when all the odds were against them.

Longhorns Play Lamesa Friday

All football eyes in District 3AA and West Texas will be on Amarillo next weekend where powerful Odessa represents the conference in a joust with the impressive Amarillo Sandies.

Neither team has been defeated this year, though Odessa experienced a 7-7 tie with Lubbock in its first game.

The champion of West Texas high school circles may emerge from the contest.

Five other 3AA teams will be in action. Big Spring goes to Lamesa, seeking its second win of the season. Midland advances on Sweetwater in another tussle. The Sweetwater contest will be a tossup but Midland will be the decided underdog in its encounter with Sweetwater.

San Angelo, idle last week, takes on Arlington Heights of Ft. Worth in a practice game. After Arlington Heights comes Lamesa and then Odessa for Angelo.

The Odessians were very impressive in their 52-0 win over Big Spring Friday night. Sweetwater trounced Amon Carter-Riverside of Fort Worth easily, 26-0.

Midland was mauled by Plainview, 27-8, after holding a half time lead. Abilene, idle this week, surprised everyone by taking Wichita Falls, a District Two power, 14-0.

Midwest Loaded With Rugged Grid 11's, Some To Stumble

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Middle West, long an incubator for stout college football machines, has hatched another bunch of toughies—but they threaten to rub each other out before one can make a bid for national honors.

They're loaded in the Midlands this year, with teams like Notre Dame, Michigan, Northwestern, Minnesota and Ohio State all acting up in early games. But strength appears evenly distributed.

This week Northwestern, the Big Nine's newest member team after that 21-0 shellacking of Purdue, plays unbeaten Minnesota. Purdue, plays earlier tossed a scare into Notre Dame, takes on Michigan.

Notre Dame and Michigan shared the unofficial national championship last year on the basis of two Associated Press polls.

Elsewhere around the country these teams stepped to the fore as the young season swung boisterously into October:

East — Army, Pennsylvania, Penn State.
South — North Carolina and Georgia Tech.
Southwest — Southern Methodist University and Arkansas.
Far West — Nevada and California.

Last Saturday's major surprise was Northwestern's triumph over Purdue. The seasoned Boiler-makers the week before had held Notre Dame to a 28-27 squeak and had been labeled as the Western Conference "team to beat."

Purdue Coach Stu Holcomb said his athletes experienced a "let-down" against the Wildcats and intimated they'd bound back this week.

Ohio State and Michigan, meanwhile, added to Western Conference prestige by continuing the Indian sign over Pacific Coast rivals.

Ohio State humbled Southern California, 20-0, and Michigan toppled Oregon, a West Coast favorite, 14-0. Notre Dame breezed to a 40-0 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Minnesota showed a lot of power in topping Nebraska, 39-13.

In the East, Army continued to ride high although its second game opposition wasn't too rugged. The Cadets ran over Lafayette, 54-7.

Pennsylvania and Penn State, two of the 1947 unbeaten, made successful debuts. Penn trounced Dartmouth, 26-13. Penn State, the East's defending titlist, lashed Bucknell, 35-0.

In three upsets, Cornell stunned Navy, 13-7; Harvard defeated Col-

Port Arthur Faces Brack In Feature Prep Game

Odessa Advances On Amarilloans

Texas schoolboy football is in its biggest week of the season—a week when the No. 1 team of the state should be established beyond contention.

Five games of great importance are scheduled, the feature bringing together mighty Port Arthur of Class AA and Brackenridge (San Antonio), the ranking power of the City Conference.

These two get together at San Antonio Friday night, one of three clashes matching unbeaten, untied teams.

The other contests in which clubs with perfect records will perform send Highland Park (Dallas) to Waco and Austin (Houston) against John Reagan (Houston), the latter a City Conference title game in District 3.

Odessa ambles into Amarillo Friday night in the top battle of the West while Marshall journeys to Kilgore in the headliner of the East. Amarillo and Kilgore are unbeaten and untied. Odessa and Marshall are undefeated but have been tied.

There are other highly important games. One of them matches Bonham with Denison at Bonham. It is generally conceded to be the tilt that will determine the District Five championship.

Arlington Heights of Fort Worth, another power of Class AA will go to San Angelo in a tilt that will vie for interest in West Texas.

Only 17 teams have survived the first month of play without meeting defeat or tie. Arlington Heights, Milby (Houston), John Reagan, Austin (Houston) and Brackenridge are the City Conference teams unbeaten and untied. In Class AA they are Pampa, Amarillo, Sweetwater, Austin (El Paso), Bonham, Highland Park, Stephenville, Henderson, Kilgore, Waco, Port Arthur and Alice.

Six teams fell out of the select circle last week. They were Adamson (Dallas), which lost to Marshall, 26-6; Jeff Davis, whipped by Arlington Heights 46-6; Wichita Falls, upset by Abilene 12-0; Galveston, trimmed by McKinney 18-7; Greenville, edged by Palestine 7-0, and Orange, licked by Baytown, 23-0.

Eight teams are undefeated but have been tied. They are Lamar (Houston) Quannah, Odessa, Marshall, South Park (Beaumont), Texas City, Baytown and San Benito. Arlington Heights, Brackenridge, Odessa and Port Arthur made the greatest show of power last week. Brackenridge whammed Lanier of San Antonio, 40-0, Odessa ran over Big Spring 53-0 and Port Arthur blazed Sunset (Dallas) 61-0.

IN TAG MATCH

Canucks Wrestle Texans Tonight

The business firm of Rex Mobley and Bill (Ace) Abbott, concerned with wrestling and organized for tonight only, tackled a menacing problem at the Big Spring Athletic club this evening.

The Texans—Mobley hails from Borger and Abbott from Abilene—combine their talents for an Australian Tag match with Rod Fenton and Benny Trudell, a pair of truculent Canadians.

Fenton has been appearing here off and on for the past ten years. Trudell made his initial appearance here last week and worked over Sammy Kohen with an assortment of wristlocks, toe holds, elbow smashes and punts that easily put The Red Devil to rout.

Mobley and Abbott have their work cut out for them but there are few who think they can't do it. Both have the weight, the endurance plus the ring moxie to push any one to the limit, even a brace of villains such as they'll be facing tonight.

Only one man of a team is allowed in the ring at one time in a tag match. He can be relieved by his partner only if he can maneuver to a position where he can make contact with his mate. That is quite a job within itself. The idle party must remain anchored to an assigned post in the corner of the ring until summoned by his co-worker.

A couple of 20-minute preliminary matches will start the program about 8:30 o'clock. Billy (Tiger) McEuin will be on hand to see that everything runs like clockwork within the ropes. McEuin is one of the better referees to be found working in Texas.

Discovery Of Rich Uranium Mineral Told By Columbia

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, Oct. 4. — Discovery of a new green mineral rich in uranium, the same kind that makes power and bombs, was announced Saturday at Columbia University.

This green mineral is a relative of the yellow carnotite, from which the United States gets its domestic uranium in the Rockies. Carnotite is one of the two best sources of the atomic stuff.

Whether the green mineral is plentiful is not yet known. The green crystals, small things clinging to mine walls, were found in the Belgian Congo and sent to Columbia for analysis. Like the yellow carnotite, the green stuff is about 60 per cent uranium.

If the new mineral proves a good uranium source, the discovery is the most important of its kind since the atomic bomb. More than 100 minerals containing uranium are known, but the stuff has been too difficult of extraction.

Consequently some geologists have published doubts whether the world can have an atomic age very long if it has to rely on the two good sources of uranium known up to World War II. These are pitchblende and carnotite. The amount of uranium available from them has been variously estimated, with the low being only enough to supply the entire power of the United States for two or three years, if Uncle Sam cornered the entire world's supply of the pair.

Discovery of the green mineral seems to let Russia into the picture, since it is also closely related to a mineral named tityumite, that was first found in Russian Tuva. Beyond announcing that they were searching for new sources of uranium, the Russians have said nothing.

The new mineral was named sengierite, for Edward Sengier, managing director of the Union Miniere Du Haut Katanga, where the green stuff was discovered. J. F. Vees, mineralogist of this company, lacking apparatus to study the discovery, sent small samples to Dr. Paul F. Kerr, head of Columbia's department of geology. Kerr, with the aid of H. D. Holland and Prof. T. I. Taylor, used x-rays to find the uranium and its percentage.

"One never knows," Prof. Kerr said, "whether a newly discovered mineral will be an important source, or just go on being a rare mineral. We don't know the distribution of sengierite in the earth's crust."

The Columbia scientists compared the new mineral with 53 others which also contain uranium, before deciding that this is an entirely new one.

KASENKINA STORY
Frantic Efforts To Save Demyan From Purge Futile

(Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part is strictly prohibited.)

(In today's installment of her moving story, Mrs. Kasenkina continues her account of the seizure of her husband, Demyan, by the secret police and tells of her frantic but futile attempts to free him. She describes the scene outside the prison, tells of a message in blood from behind the walls, and of Demyan's sentence and her fears.)

INSTALLMENT 8
By Oksana S. Kasenkina
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

My boy Oleg woke up while the NKVD officers were conducting their search, turning everything in our rooms topsy-turvy. They dug up our nest-egg, 1200 rubles, (roughly $600) the accumulation of our years of teaching in and out of regular hours and seasons. "Why so much money?" the chief asked. I told him that it represented our savings of a lifetime spent in educating the children of the people. "Do you know whom you are taking away?" my boy burst out. "My papa is an honest teacher and never did any wrong!"

"Shut up, you milkop!" the NKVD leader bellowed, "or we'll go after you, too."

"It's all a misunderstanding," Demyan said as he was bidding us goodbye. "I'm sure it will be cleared up and I will return soon."

They led him away. There was no sleep the rest of the night. At dawn, at six o'clock that morning, I was already at the headquarters of the NKVD. How shocked I was to find a whole column of women outside the building, some of them weeping, all there to inquire for a husband or father or brother or son who had been seized in the night.

No one was admitted. "There's no use waiting," the guard kept repeating to the anxious line. "There'll be no information today. Go home."

After a while the women dispersed. I remained and stuck to my place.

"I won't leave here until I see the head man himself," I boldly declared over and over again, defying arrest.

"Who are you and what do you want?" I was finally asked by the guard.

"I won't tell you—I want to see the head man." One of the commanding officers of the NKVD eventually became aware of my argument with the guard, and I heard him say: "A brave woman. Who is she?" I gave the guard my name.

"Kasenkina, eh?" he greeted me as I was upheld into the presence of the head man. "You want to know about your husband? A cultured man. He has no trouble at all. He already signed a paper confessing to everything."

"Allow me to say to you that you are lying," I retorted quickly. "Demyan never confessed to anything, because he is not a criminal, and I don't believe that he ever signed such a paper. And if he is a criminal, why don't you put him on trial, why don't you let me see the charges against him? What is it all about, this hounding of an honest teacher?"

"Forget your husband," the NKVD man advised with a mocking smile. "He's an enemy of the people. And you're a good teacher. Your father is a railroad man. Stop seeking interviews, and forget your husband. He's already been shipped to Artemovsk. And you've still got your looks. Go and marry another man."

Artemovsk, formerly known as Bakhmut, was some 50 miles away from our town. I first had to find out something about the procedure there in handling the prisoners who were being garnered as if by a conveyor system. We knew that all the jails were packed like barrels full of herring. I found a woman whose husband had been arrested earlier and who had been to Artemovsk. Then I had to feign sickness in my school so that the authorities would not know of the real reason for my absence. I was determined to get to Demyan and to fight his case through.

In the course of the next three weeks I made three separate trips to the Artemovsk prison. I learned that after filing an application there one had to wait for one's turn in alphabetical order. Our initial "K" would not be reached for quite a while. I was told, so enormous was the NKVD catch.

I found myself in line, however, with the wife of the director of another school. She was informed that her husband was in the hospital, and the guard delivered to her a bundle of linen to take home. It was soaked in sweat and blood. She picked up her husband's shirt and on the neckband, lettered in blood, was this message:

"Pray, save us. I swear I'm innocent. I beg anyone in authority to save me."

I saw this message with my own eyes. The tormented woman took the shirt and traveled to Moscow with it, seeking justice. She thought she would get to Vishinsky himself, the chief prosecutor. In a week she came back empty-handed.

My second trip to Artemovsk, in an effort to visit Demyan or to learn something about his fate, was also futile. I discovered that it would take 4 days before all the sentences of those with the initial "K" were announced. On my third visit I brought a bundle of linen for Demyan, but the jailers refused to accept it.

"Away with you. It won't be needed!" a guard shouted at me. My heart sank. There was bedlam in the prison waiting room, mostly filled with screaming and wailing women. Then there would be a hush when the announcer came in to read out: "So-and-so, dead. So-and-so in the Narym Camps. So-and-so in the hospital. So and so to an isolation camp."

After an interminable period, I heard him say:

"Demyan Nikitich Kasenkina — to the Far Eastern Camps."

I was sure it was a subterfuge, and that my husband had been executed.

Navy Will Ferry Short-Range Planes Over Long Distance

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 4. (AP)—The Navy on Tuesday plans to fly 12 short-range combat planes from California to Hawaii, using two aircraft carriers as refueling bases at 800-mile intervals.

The operation from Moffett Field, near San Francisco, to Barbers Point, on Oahu, will be the first long-range overwater ferrying flight of its sort.

The Navy announcement called it "a fast and practical" method which "will demonstrate that needed aircraft can be ferried over vast ocean reaches, using the shortest geographical point-to-point route."

CIO Factions Head For A Showdown

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. (AP)—The CIO is heading toward an almost certain showdown between its warring left and right wing factions after the presidential elections.

Set by internal friction over charges that some of its union leaders have Communist leanings, the CIO will meet in convention in Portland, Ore., Nov. 22.

The potential start of a breach is scheduled for Oct. 14, when a three-man CIO committee opens an inquiry here into the conduct of the leadership of the greater New York City CIO council.

YMCA Gym Class Will Be Resumed

After a six-week lay-off, the "Tired Businessmen's" gym class is to be resumed Wednesday at the school gym as a YMCA activity.

Lee Milling, executive secretary for the Y, said that the school had allotted an hour and a half on Wednesdays for men who want to take mild exercises and play volleyball, etc.

At the time that the gym floor was reconditioned, interest had increased in the sport so that some red hot volleyball games were being played. Milling urged any man interested in relaxation to be at the high school gym at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday. The only requirement is to have shoes (tennis) which will not mark the floor.

Several other YMCA activities are swinging into action again or are maintaining their pace after the summer season.

The Hi-Y club meets each Thursday evening. There was a good attendance Thursday evening when a bicycle safety film was shown. At the meeting this Thursday some further discussion is due on the possibility of participating in the "youth in government" Hi-Y program which sends representatives to Austin to see the legislature and other state agencies function.

The Square Dance club, an organization which stemmed from the YMCA, is getting back into full swing and although no definite announcement has been made, it may be that regular weekly rehearsals will be held at the Y.

Ordinarily a junior social evening is held at the Y under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Burnam. The youngsters are planning a junior style show soon.

Teen age socials are held each Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. and attendance is increasing. Milling reported, Saturday from 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon there is a period of recreation and entertainment, including pictures, for boys only of the grade schools.
