Battle of Chu Pong Mountain Continues in Bloody Slugfest

U.S. Losing Political War In Viet Nam

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—The United States is winning the Viet Nam War militarily, but not politically, veteran United Press International war correspondent Robert C. Miller said Tuesday night.

If an election were held today, North Vietnamese Leader Ho Chi Minh would win hands down because he is the "only political figure who is known to the common man in Viet Nam," he said.

Miller made the 1965 Scripps Lecture in Journalism at the University of Nevada, sponsored by E. W. Scripps II, vice president of Scripps-Howard Newspapers. Both Scripps and Miller are graduates of the university.

Miller, who covered World War II in the Pacific, the Korean War and Viet Nam for UPI, said the U.S. cannot win the war in Viet Nam as long as the people are neutral "or against us."

"We have to have the people with us or we will lose," he said.

However, he added, Americans—particularly people in the lower echelons of the U.S. aid program who go into villages and work with the Vietnamese—are making strong progress toward winning the people.

"They are doing a great deal to dispell the traditional distrust which the Vietnamese have of the white man largely because of the long French domination," said Miller, who was in Viet Nam earlier this year.

BATTLE WEARY — An exhausted U.S. soldier rests on stacks of empty ammunition and supply boxes after the three-day battle of Chu Pong mountain.

By MICHAEL T. MALLOY

SAIGON (UPI)—American cavalrymen and North Vietnamese troops slugged it out again today on the bloody battlefields of the Chu Pong mountain range. U.S. B52 bombers blasted the high ground in a new attempt to crush enemy resistance.

Other American jets attacked Communist targets in North Viet Nam and four were shot down within a 35-minute period during a strike against a highway and railroad bridge 35 miles southeast of Hanoi, the Communist capital.

Air Force briefing officers in Saigon disclosed that American planes attacked and damaged two surface-to-air missile sites near Hanoi Tuesday. One of the planes was shot down by a missile fired from another site not under attack, and the pilot was believed lost.

The missile sites, 32 miles northeast and 35 miles northwest of Hanoi, were the 14th and 15th attacked by American planes.

The new fighting in the Chu Pong mountains, 220 miles northeast of Saigon, broke out five miles north of the battleground where American troops killed an estimated 1,300 North Vietnamese regulars in three previous days of vicious fighting.

Men of the U.S. Army's 1st Air Cavalry Division were fanning out to kill survivors of the shattered 66th North Vietnamese regiment when the Communists opened up today with small arms and mortar fire.

First reports did not say how heavy the fighting was or how many communists were involved. It was not known whether the enemy forces were survivors of the defeated regiment or new regulars moved in as reinforcements.

The high-flying B52s from the Strategic Air Command base on Guam flew their second support mission of the battle, dumping tons of 1,004-pound bombs on the mountain slopes. The huge jets flew three separate runs and the explosives tore huge chunks out of the heavily jungled slopes.

Reports from the Chu Pong front today told of sniper fire from wounded Communist infantrymen who had been lashed to trees by retreating comrades and filled with life sustaining drugs.

Military authorities in Saigon said the confirmed Communist toll, by body count, was 890, but 1st Cavalry commander's confirmed reports that the Communist regiment of about 1,300 men was all but annihilated during the earlier fighting.

VISITS HIGH SCHOOL — Congressman Walter Rogers toured classrooms at Pampa High School today visiting informally with the students. The visit was culminated by the solon with an address before an assembly of the student body.

Resolution Promised To Nullify Court Act

By RAY RODGERS JR.

Congressman Walter Rogers told the White Deer Lions Club last night that upon his return to Washington he would introduce a resolution invalidating Monday's Supreme Court decision stating that the Communist Party did not have to register as an agent of the Soviet Union.

The congressman, on a report-to-the-people tour of the Panhandle this week, said that even though he has not fully read the decision handed down by the Supreme Court, he would do everything possible to get it rescinded so that Communists in this country can be made to register.

Answering a question directed at the recent massive power failure along the Eastern Seaboard, Rogers said he intended to open Congressional hearings into the matter upon his return to Washington.

Commenting on the blackout he stated, "Assuming that the failure was due to a relay break in Canada, as stated by company officials, 'it frightens me to think the entire Eastern Seaboard could be blacked out and virtually paralyzed by someone wanting to sabotage this country.' Yet, this person wouldn't even have to be in this country to do it, or wouldn't be subject to our courts for doing it."

Rogers has been appointed chairman of a special congressional subcommittee to investigate the power incident.

Speaking on foreign policy and the Viet Nam situation, the congressman said it was hard to criticize the administration for its foreign policy. He said there are so many facets to the foreign policy that are not known by the public for security reasons.

"Personally," Rogers said, "I think Johnson would bomb Hanoi in a minute if it were not for the risk of an all-out war."

He continued, "I hear persons demand we go on in and get the Reds out with what ever force necessary. But, when you do this you have forced the Reds or Communists to take retaliatory measures which means they start bombing us."

Pampa Has Fifty-Four Car Mishaps

Fifty-four traffic accidents, accounting for 15 persons injured, made up the monthly traffic report to the National Safety Council for October by the Pampa Police Department.

October of 1965 was not nearly as safe a month as October 1964 when only 36 accidents occurred on city streets with only three persons injured.

So far this year, there have been 452 accidents in Pampa with 123 persons injured as a result.

The monthly report shows that between 9 and 10 a.m. most accidents occur on city streets with drivers under 20 responsible for the majority of the wrecks.

Police Chief Jim Conner pointed out that there were 61 male drivers involved in accidents and only 35 females.

Failure to yield right of way, speeding and following too close were listed as the major contributors to these accidents in Pampa.

The 54 traffic accidents in October accounted for a total property damage of $13,531.63.

Pampa School Men Go to PESO Meet

School Superintendent Jack Edmondson and McHenry Lane, curriculum coordinator for Pampa schools, were in Canyon today attending the first general meeting of officials involved in the Panhandle Educational Services Organization (PESO).

WEATHERWISE:

Chilly Today Warm-up Due

By United Press International
Chilly Arctic air, the tailend of a snow-producing storm in the Midwest, poured into South Texas today, leaving behind sub-freezing temperatures in the Panhandle and parts of West Texas.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said temperatures would drop all across the state through tonight but that Northwest Texas would get slightly warmer Thursday.

Skies were mostly clear although clouds hung over parts of far South Texas.

The mercury fell to 30 degrees at Dalhart early today and temperatures in the high 30s were recorded throughout the Panhandle.

Milestone Marked When City Manager's Son Loses Curls

Yesterday marked a milestone in the life of James Clay White, one-year-old curly-headed son of City Manager and Mrs. Jim White.

He got his first haircut. "He's a real boy, now," the city manager said today. "He's no longer a curly-head."

It seems Mrs. White had thought the first barbershop visit should not come until Clay was one and a half years old.

The city manager had held out for the haircut at age one. "So, we compromised," the city manager smiled. "He was one year old last Friday and we both took him to the barbershop yesterday evening."

It was quite an occasion. Mrs. White took along a camera and the event was duly photographed for posterity. Clippings of the short curls were taken home for future reminiscing.

How did the haircut victim take it?

James Clay came through the ordeal like a veteran barber-shop customer.

Princess Margaret Swept Up In Washington Social Whirl

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Britain's Princess Margaret danced into the wee hours today, then launched into a busy day of sightseeing and ceremonies to be topped off by a formal dinner at the White House.

The princess and her husband, Lord Snowdon, planned in the morning to unveil a plaque at Washington's Bryce Park, which is named for James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States from 1907 to 1913.

In the afternoon, the royal couple planned to visit the National Gallery of Art, then split up with Lord Snowdon going to visit the National Zoological Park and the princess attending a tea at the Georgetown home of Mrs. Edward F. Kennedy.

The highlight of the day will be a dinner-dance which President and Mrs. Johnson will give to honor the couple, expected to be the most elegant event of the season in a town which thrives on fancy parties. The event also coincides with the Johnsons' 31st wedding anniversary.

The guest list at the dinner will emphasize "young, gay, successful people" as did the party given Tuesday night by Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Nicholas Katzenbach at their rambling home.

The princess and the earl mixed and danced with the guests for more than two hours at the Katzenbach party, which featured folk singing with a guitar accompaniment in "discotheque" style.

NEW OFFICERS — Bill Tidwell, center, was elected president of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association last night at the annual directors' meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce office. Tidwell will replace retiring president Buddy Price. Rex McAnnelly, right, was elected vice president and Lee Frazier, left, treasurer. Warren Hasse will be the new second vice president and E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary. The TOT Rodeo Association sponsors the annual Top O' Texas Rodeo each August.

Liner Skipper Off First, Then Last

MIAMI (UPI)—Capt. Byron Voutsinas, skipper of the ill-fated cruise ship Yarmouth Castle, told a news conference today he was both the first and the last man to leave his flaming vessel which plunged to the bottom of the Atlantic Saturday with the loss of 84 lives.

The Greek-born ship's master, speaking publicly for the first time about the disaster, said he left the ship in lifeboat No. 1 in an attempt to direct the saving of frightened passengers gathered on the stern of the vessel.

The sighting of the Yarmouth Castle's captain in the first lifeboat to leave the scene of the tragedy had caused speculation that Voutsinas panicked when the ship turned to a raging inferno.

Passageways blocked "All forward and aft passageways were blocked by fire," the skipper said.

The three men attempted to row the lifeboat toward the stern of the Yarmouth Castle. Instead, they sighted the rescue freighter Finnulp, went alongside, transferred the ordered passengers and requested an SOS be sent.

Then, Voutsinas declared, he and the other two Yarmouth Castle officers returned to their burning ship in the lifeboat to direct rescue operations.

"The crew behaved heroically," Voutsinas declared. "I believe the ship's doctor gave his life to assist the passengers."

He said he was awakened at 1:15 a.m. EST by the officer on watch who told him there were signs of a fire aboard ship.

Voutsinas said he ordered a general alarm sounded—intermittent blasts of the ship's whistle.

Fire in Storage Room

When he reached the bridge, the captain said, it was shrouded in heavy smoke. "The chief engineer told me he proceeded to the area from which the smoke came. When he opened the door of room 610, flames jumped out and he closed the door.

"Room 610 is near the dining room amidship. It is used for storage and to my knowledge, the only thing there was a vacuum cleaner and some mops."

The Coast Guard said earlier it was still awaiting word from Panamanian officials on a request for clearance to convene a board of inquiry to formally investigate the sea disaster.

Voutsinas conferred privately with Coast Guard officials Monday but until today had refused to make any public statement regarding the sinking.

Balloon Tries For Meteor Dust

PALESTINE, Tex. (UPI)—A four-story-high balloon equipped with a screen to collect meteor dust will be launched Thursday from the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR).

Scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) will try to collect meteor samples.

Such a close pass occurs only once every 33 years and three months, NASA said.

Heart Attack Fells Outspoken Critic, Alexander King

By United Press International NEW YORK (UPI)—Alexander King, the outspoken contemporary critic whose popular forum was Jack Paar's late night television show, died Tuesday of a heart attack. He was 66.

King was a best selling author, artist and raconteur whose caustic comments both shocked and delighted his audiences. He became ill in his Park Avenue apartment Tuesday and was hospitalized only hours after appearing on the "Today" television show to publicize his latest book, "Rich Man, Poor Man, Freud and Fruit."

A native of Vienna who came to the United States shortly before World War I, King began oil painting in his teens and later earned his living drawing corsets for mail order catalogues. In 1930 he became editor of the magazine Americana and later worked for Life and Stage magazines.

He also became a morphine addict and was eventually cured in a federal narcotics hospital.

"Drug addiction is the surest cure for the common cold," he once said.

King was married four times and insisted he took marriage seriously. "I was never married less than five years to anybody, which proves that there was nothing trivial about my love affairs," he said. His second wife, Margie, is 33 years younger than King.

A prolific writer in his later years, King's books included "Mine Enemy Grows Older," "May This House Be Safe from Tigers," "Is There a Life After Birth," "I Should Have Kissed Her More" and "Advice to Amorous Ladies."

WAGGONER CARR TELLS FARMERS

Reapportionment Means Problems

DALLAS (UPI)—Reapportionment could cause farmers their biggest problems in years, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr said Tuesday, in an address to the 32nd annual Texas Farm Bureau convention.

He said if the "one-man one-vote rule continues to apply to both houses of the legislature... it means consideration of agricultural matters will be done more and more by legislators elected by urban areas."

He said what farmers must do is to re-educate urban dwellers to the farmer's plight. Much of agriculture's problems are the result of too many federal farm programs, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said.

Tower said he supported the new four-year farm bill mainly because he felt "provisions for cotton and wool were a step in the right direction." But he said the bill continued to subject farmers to the whims of "bureaucratic control."

Ellis County, for the sixth consecutive year, received the John Gorham award Tuesday night for having the largest farm bureau membership, 1701. Yoakum County received the Plains Co-op Loving Cup for having the greatest membership increase over the last year—83 per cent.

Sherman County won the High Plains Plaque for having the largest percentage of farmers enrolled in the bureau. Pecos County won the Information and Public Relations Trophy.

Awards were given in three categories to counties having the largest membership gain. Yoakum was top county in the "under 500" class.

Van Zandt finished first in the "500 to 1,000" class with a gain of 154 members and Nueces won the "over 1,000" category with a 71-member gain.

Martin County was recognized for gaining members for 10 consecutive years. Counties honored for showing gains for five years included Briscoe, Cherokee, Ellis, Gillespie, Hale, Cochran, Scurry, Wheeler, Hays, Henderson, Lubbock, Medina, Moore, Randall and Starr.

Entries Needed For Santa Day

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, co-sponsors of the annual Christmas Parade, made a plea today for entries in the Dec. 3 event.

Eddie Polnac, club president, urged civic clubs, organizations or businesses to begin working on a float to enter in the parade, which will form this year at the Coronado Center and wind its way through downtown Pampa.

Polnac said trophies and cash awards will be made to winners in the commercial, club or church categories.

He pointed out that floats should carry the Christmas theme and no Santa Claus should be constructed on any float.

Entries should be made by contacting the Chamber of Commerce, Polnac stated.

Ray Hudson Wins Humorous Speech

Ray Hudson, Production Supervisor for Celanese, was voted top speaker in the Area 6 Humorous Speech Contest held this week at the Coronado Inn.

Runner-up was Fred Thompson, Phillips Petroleum personnel assistant from Club '21 in urday in Lubbock.

Hudson spoke on "Modern Math" and will represent Area 6 in the District 44 contest Saturday in Lubbock.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN, Tex. — A facelift of the Texas roadside scene is about to take place.
 Gov. John Connally has pledged full cooperation with the federal government in connection with the new Highway Beautification Act. A legislative council committee here now is considering the legal steps necessary in Texas to enforce provisions of the Act. This to prevent loss of U. S. funds.
 State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer is outlining an initial plan of consultation with the Federal law which proposes control of scenery — spoiling billboards and junkyards and general scenic enhancement along 37,500 miles of Texas' Federal-Aid highways alone.

Texas Highway Department. Greer reports, already is taking steps to put into effect an expanded program of landscaping and beautification at a cost of about $10,000,000. Program will cover a two-year period and will include planting projects, rest areas, irrigation systems and possible scenic easements at selected overlooks and natural-beauty spots.

Greer anticipates Texas will get about $6,000,000 a year in Federal funds for this work. He has called for a complete inventory of junkyards and large outdoor advertising signs and devices within 660 feet of highways.

Some of the junkyards Greer emphasized, will be screened by slanting, fences and other means in the near future.

Meanwhile, information from the inventories will be used in studies of needed state legislation, including zoning of industrial and commercial areas along the state highway system as called for in the beautification act.

INTEREST RATES STUDIED
 — State banking Commissioner J. M. Falkner, on the heels of a new policy announced by U. S. Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon, has asked Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr whether state banks may charge the same interest rates as loan companies.

Saxon said national banks in Texas may charge the same interest as loan companies regulated by the state. So Falkner wants to know if the State Banking Department should let state banks exceed the constitutional interest limit of 10 percent.

Texas law authorizes small loan companies to make loans with rates scaled from $1 interest on a $5 loan to about 17 percent for loans up to $1,500.

Governor Connally vetoed a bill earlier this year authorizing banks to raise their rates to 17 per cent each year on $100 loans up to $1,500 and 14 per cent per $100 on loans between $1,500 and $5,000 a year.

Question now is whether state banks may charge the same interest rates as loan companies and national banks in Texas.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES — Attorney General Carr said accounts payable to the State, Building Commission, incurred under an inter-agency contract with the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Department, can be deposited to the Building Commission. Proceeds may be deposited as professional fees and services and travel expense.

Carr also ruled that: — A County Treasurer is entitled to receive compensation for additional duties of handling funds within his county.

— Counties are responsible for the hospital care and treatment of prisoners in the custody of the sheriff.
 — Interest earned on investment of bond proceeds, not needed immediately for a voted purpose, may be placed in the proper interest and sinking funds at the discretion of the Board of Trustees of the school districts.

SALT WATER DISPOSAL — Ector County oil operators have agreed to get rid of salt water disposal pits within three years. County officials had requested Texas Railroad Commission to enter no-pit order for 40 Ector fields.

COURTS SPEAK — Houston Independent School District State Supreme Court must pay its $2.89 phone bill.

Court held that the school must pay Southwestern Bell Telephone Company full business rate of $36.30 per month for service rather than residential rate of $5.90 it had tried to settle for under a 1951 city ordinance.

Court refused to hear a suit alleging malpractice against a former Littlefield physician. Woman attempting to bring suit claimed the doctor let a gauze pad in an incision during an appendectomy.

Court of Criminal Appeals for second time upheld murder conviction of a Midland man, Marvin Glewis, who received a 25-year sentence for slaying his wife.

CRIMINAL CODE REVIEW — Texas' much-maligned new code of criminal procedure was defended by State Bar official, Fred Erisman of Longview, at a three-day institute to study its provisions here.

Erisman said code brings Texas criminal statutes in line with modern-day decisions of U. S. Supreme Court. It means little to law enforcement, he maintained, too-obtain convictions, only to have Supreme Court set the defendant free because of unconstitutional procedures.

PRISON UNIT NAMED — Texas Board of Corrections honored longtime member H. H. Coffield of Rockdale by naming the new unit in Anderson County for him.

Coffield has served on the board 26 years, eight years as chairman.

Board also authorized buying a new $196,000 airplane. Director George Beto reported that the plane already owned by the prison system isn't adequate for returning parole violators from other states.

SECURITIES SALES HIT RECORD — Securities approved for sale in Texas reached an all-time high of $233,390,000 during fiscal year just ended, according to University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Total was $66,900,000 or 28 percent over fiscal 1961, despite a major market upset during 1962.

Activity, Bureau predicts, will continue to be strong so long as the economy continues to expand.

APPOINTMENTS — Clay Cotten, formerly of Palestine, is the new State Commissioner of Insurance. As such he will be administrative head of an agency regulating Texas' No. 2 industry.

Tom I. McFarling of Austin is the new liquidator and conservator for the State Board of Insurance and Robert P. Clines is legal counselor.

Governor Connally announced these appointments:

State Board of Corrections — Fred W. Shield of San Antonio and Walter M. Mische of Houston with Walter Pfleger of Eden reappointed.

Good Neighbor Commission — A. G. Ainsworth Jr. of Luling, Walter McBeck of Dallas and Mrs. Philip R. Bishop of Fort Worth with Ramiro Martinez of McAllen reappointed.

Texas Tech Board of Directors — Dr. Fladger F. Tammery of Dallas, Retha R. Martin of Lubbock and C. A. Cash of Amarillo.

Board of Texas College of Arts and Industries (Kingsville) — E. S. Joslin of Corpus Christi and Everett Braden of Edinburg with J. C. Martin Jr. of Laredo reappointed.

Speaker of House Ben Barnes named Rep. Hudson Moyer of Amarillo and John A. Traeger of Sequin to the Interim Committee on State and Local Tax Policy.

C. L. Friou, assistant director of administration of Parks and Wildlife Department, is the new president of Texas' Public Employees Association.

W. O. P. EMBARRASSED — Dr. William H. Crook, southwest region director of the War on Poverty, said the program is temporarily "embarrassed by success."

Project Head Start, a child development program, has met such tremendous national success that there isn't enough money to meet the demand.

Regional office here now has 67 Head Start applications, totaling more than $11,000,000.

LAND OFFICE ACTIVE — First oil and gas lease sale for 1966 will be held February 1 at the General Land Office.

Nominations for tracts must be in the Land Office by December 8.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler says, his department's activities added $67,000,000 to the permanent school fund this year, boosting the fund to $654,000,000.

National Window

 The two-bit dollar is sneaking up behind the working stiff who put their spare dollars in the bank to educate their kids or to improve their own retirement situation, "come age 65."

The Roosevelt administration paper dollar that bought 100 cents worth of groceries in the year 1939 buys 44 cents worth of same today. That beautiful item, the U.S. buck has been squeezed of 56 cents worth of purchasing power in the past 23 years.

This process is called currency inflation, a process in which the supply of money increases faster than the supply of goods and services to be bought. As prices rise, purchasing power shrinks.

This process puts an unbearable squeeze on the person with fixed income—a retired person, for example. The White House conference on aging reported in 1961 that:

"The extent to which inflation bears down on retired persons depends in part on the source of their income. An individual who retired in 1940 with an income of $100 a month and who was receiving the same income in 1959 would have his purchasing power reduced to less than half what it had been in 1940."

That retired person would be living on less than $50 a month in real buying power, if that is living. Starving would be more accurate. Inflation hits hardest the families and persons who least are able to bear it. Hit hardest are those in the lower income brackets to whom a 1 or 2 per cent shrinkage of purchasing power can be a calamity.

A report of the Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy (ENCMP) estimated that dollar shrinkage had cost savers more than $228 billion in 20 years, 1939-1959. ENCMP calculated that the aggregate value in 1939 of U.S. savings bonds held by the public, of time deposits in all banks, savings capital, savings and loan association accounts, life insurance in force and such was $490.1 billion.

BRITISH DISPLAY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fifth Avenue merchants are being asked to give their show windows a "Britannic flavor" when Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, visit Nov. 22.

The Fifth Avenue Association also asked the merchants to display the Union Jack alongside the Stars and Stripes.

Across Border Labor Leaders Hold Discussions

MATAMOROS, Mexico (UPI)—Labor leaders from both sides of the border discussed common problems today in a week-long meeting that is the first of a border series of such talks.

Officials of the Texas AFL-CIO and the Confederation of Mexican Workers (CTM) opened the conference yesterday with discussion of border economy and problems of commuters.

Union men hoped the sessions would bring them closer to organization of commuter laborers who live in Mexico and work in the United States.

Friday, problems of collective bargaining will be talked over. The AFL-CIO lost a three-year court battle to stop the flow of commuter workers into the United States. Leaders consider as an alternative the organization into unions of the estimated 175,000 such workers from Brownsville, Tex., to San Diego, Calif.

A second seminar is scheduled for December in Tijuana, across from San Diego, and a third for Nuevo Laredo, across from Laredo, Tex., in January.

Mildred Miller To Sing Here Monday

Members of the Pampa Community Concert Association are in for another musical treat Monday night when Mildred Miller, beautiful and gifted star of the Metropolitan, San Francisco and Vienna State Operas, appears in the second concert of the association's fall and winter season.

The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Pampa Junior High School Auditorium. As usual admission will be by membership card only and there will be no box office sale of tickets.

Miss Miller has been one of America's most attractive and sought-after artists. In Opera, in concert with orchestra, in recital and on television, she has won top critical and audience acclaim; now another honor has been bestowed upon Miss Miller. In the spring of 1965, she was awarded the Grand Prix du Disque for her recording of the Brahms' "Alto Rhapsody" and Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer," recorded with Bruno Walter shortly before his death.

The green-eyed, dark-tressed mezzo-soprano star, who will be heard in Pampa Monday night completed her first color film last winter — Otto Nicolai's opera "The Merry Wives of Windsor" in Vienna which is due for release soon. Her cinematic debut — in the role of Frau Reich — was done in bi-lingual form, first in German (which she speaks fluently) and then in English. She also performed Giuseppe Verdi's conception of the same character ("Meg") in his opera "Falstaff" at the Metropolitan Opera during the 1964-65 season.

Operatic acclaim continues unabated: In May, 1965, she sang "Carmen" in California, an event reported by the major west coast critics. Alfred Frankenstein of The San Francisco Chronicle headlined his review: "The Best Carmen Ever" and went on to declare that "so far as the interpretation of the guided the hour so as to give the viewer food for relevant, contemporary thought. He had explained before the broadcast was shown:

"Here we see raised the interesting question — what if Philip II, with his ambitions for an all-Catholic Europe and Western world, had won instead of the British? Then, one must theorize what would have happened to America if our pilgrim fathers had been Catholic.

"Or, indeed, if there would have been any need at all for a flight from persecution. But, as we know, Philip II had a totally deficient fleet; the armada empire and an even greater British empire was soon to emerge. The ultimate consequences to America are explicit."

The documentary offered spots — especially impressive in color — of the Escorial in Madrid, now a monastery but once the traditional home of Spain's absolute monarchs, including Philip II. According to NBC-TV, Vicas was the first producer to gain permission to use television cameras inside the Escorial.

As is usual with these "re-created" historical documentaries, a number of paintings were employed to carry the story forward — but, as is not always usual with these broadcasts, the artfulness of this use of the paintings was exceptional and almost unobtrusive.

In a rare attempt to go beyond the normal superficial attempts of historical documentaries, the vivid and colorful script even went into the strategy of the ships during the battle — with some detail that was fascinating, and that was abetted by video animation. The writing and narration were also aided by the participation of the European-based Vicas, who appears to be enjoying a good life in the line of duty.

The same is true of words you use in making a contract. A dictionary will define "profit" and "approximately" and "guarantee." But the law must discover what those words meant to these particular individuals when they entered into this particular contract.

Judge Learned Hand once wrote: "Words are chameleons, which reflect the color of their environment."

 NEW YORK (UPI)—The World's Fair Corp. agreed Tuesday to pay its investors 10 cents on the dollar more than it originally announced — 60 cents instead of 50 cents.

Fair President Robert Moses had some consolation for the losing investors. Moses said noteholders for the 1939 World's Fair got a return of only 40 cents on the dollar.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
 United Press International
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — into each reign a little life must fall. In the case of Philip II of Spain, it was the Spanish Armada, the failure of which led to the rise of Britain as a world power, and also to a one-hour NBC-TV documentary Sunday evening.

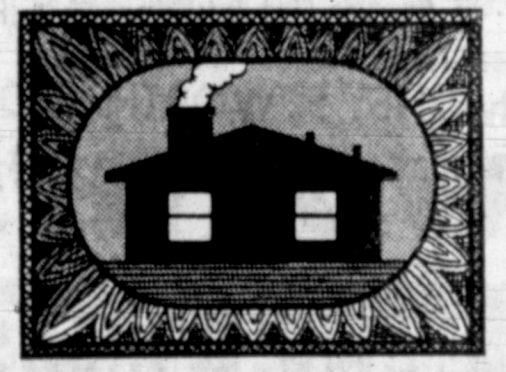

The documentary, which was entitled "The Spanish Armada," was more successful than the Iberian fleet, being a program in which history came wondrously alive with the assistance of a restrained but useful process of "re-creating" events.

These events included not merely the historic, protracted, cat-and-mouse sea battle that marked the decline of Spain as a world power, but also the many and varied circumstances — among them the ambitions of Queen Elizabeth I of England and Philip — that led to the clash.

Philip, the General Custer of his time, had even considered trying to marry Elizabeth, a Protestant, for reasons of state. There opposing goals were outlined in Sunday evening's hour with a high degree of clarity, thanks to a first-class script which, throughout, held the attention with its feel for the human touch — and also with excellent narration.

On Drinking a Cigar
 Held liable for damages, the defendant in a lawsuit angrily demanded that his lawyer seek a new trial.

"The plaintiff deliberately tampered with the jury," he charged, "by treating each juror to an expensive cigar. We have a statute forbidding that sort of thing."

"All our statute forbids," reported the plaintiff, "is treating the jury to 'food or drink.' Cigars are neither food nor drink. But the court, taking into consideration the purpose of the statute, decided that 'food or drink' did include cigars. As one judge explained, we can 'drink' the wind — so why can't we 'drink' a cigar?"

That is an extreme case, of course. But it illustrates why the law is not always content with the definitions given in the dictionaries. A dictionary would scarcely define a cigar as something to drink. Yet the court felt that, to fulfill the purpose of this particular statute, it must reach beyond a mere dictionary definition.

Oddly enough, one reason Lawyer Noah Webster wrote his dictionary was that he found Samuel Johnson's dictionary inadequate in its definitions of legal terms. Still, the law constantly finds it necessary to look further for the last word on words.

Suppose, for instance, that somebody sees you for calling him a "crook."

A dictionary will provide the general meaning of that word. But exactly what did you mean when you said it? Did you shout it, in fun, at the umpire in a baseball game? Did you growl it, in earnest, at the corporation president in a stockholders' meeting? The difference in meaning is enormous.

The same is true of words you use in making a contract. A dictionary will define "profit" and "approximately" and "guarantee." But the law must discover what those words meant to these particular individuals when they entered into this particular contract.

Judge Learned Hand once wrote: "Words are chameleons, which reflect the color of their environment."

There's Fashion Magic in Black

Women's Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) —

Black and white Op Art prints, white dresses with black stripes, white tops with black skirts and vice versa make the fall and winter designer collections look somewhat like checkerboards. And this new trend is responsible for a complete turnaround in what's considered proper these days in the way of under-pinnings.

For years we have been told that the well-dressed woman wears matching lingerie. Now it is smart to mix and match—a white panty and a black bra, half slip or girdle. It depends on what color looks better under which part of the dress.

Black by itself is also a fashion favorite this season from the slinky one-shoulder black crepe to the Mod smoked sheath and black lace stockings. And as a result lingerie firms are showing larger collections of black than they've shown in years.

One firm, in business for 65 years (Gossard-Artemus) believes the rise in popularity of black undergarments is due to the fact that young people as well as more mature women favor black dresses today.

BLACK MAGIC — Black is the magic word in lingerie and sleepwear this season, in keeping with the ultra feminine mood of current fashions. Peignoir and gown set, shown here, of nylon tricot has empire bodice of appliqued lace and velvet ribbon straps. Peignoir features a lace yoke and sleeves are outlined in scalloped appliqued lace. It is a Gossard-Artemus design.

gowns and peignoirs will top the ultra feminine fashions, black Christmas gift lists this year, spells the emergence of the fem-me fatale.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. O. A. WAGNER

An elderly lady zoomed past a highway patrolman who was driving at a nominal speed. The patrolman gave chase and when he stopped the lady, asked to see her drivers license. The woman looked at him sharply and said, "Young man, how can I be expected to show my drivers license when you people keep taking it away?"

Senior Citizens should be listening for wedding bells. A little bird says there will soon be a couple of weddings of Center members.

Dear Abby... Crudeness Doesn't Reflect on Others

DEAR ABBY: Our eldest daughter has just married a rather crude man of whom we are ashamed, but rather than hurt her we've accepted him as gracefully as possible. Our middle daughter, who is away at college, has written to tell us she'd like to bring two of her college chums home for Thanksgiving, but if her brother-in-law is going to be there she will not bring them, as she does not want her friends to get a bad impression of her entire family. We've already invited our eldest daughter and her husband for Thanksgiving dinner and hate to revoke the invitation. But isn't it unfair to deprive our middle daughter of having guests because of this awkward situation?

FOR THURSDAY, NOV. 18
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your motto could well be "leave at any price" today and tonight and by so doing you have the admission of one who has considerable influence and who is especially able to aid you to gain whatever you desire most. Show that you are willing to go along with others who are seeking some desirable expression.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): — It is your turn to lift the morale or give a helping hand to partners who have been so good to you in the past. Talk over how to be more successful in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): — Changing furniture around, doing some painting, etc. at home is OK, but don't disturb others while so doing. Show that you have balance. Then you get into details very nicely.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): — This can be a very fine day for you if you take a happy attitude toward things around you instead of being critical. Plan early to see individuals who can relieve tensions. Be brief.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): — Showing those who live with you that you are grateful for their loyalty is only right now. Be sure to complete any work you have started. Keep promises you have made.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): — Important you drive with extreme care today and re-read letters, etc. before you mail them out. You need thoughtfulness from others. But you must give it first to get it.

VERGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21): — You are underlined just which course to take in financial matters so be sure to consult your banker's advice. Get budget planned more carefully. Put it to use quickly.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21): — Find out why you have not been getting along so well with others and then be more friendly yourself with them. Socializing pays. Social affair tonight can be disappointing. Forget it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21): — Whatever requires confidential advice should be kept secret or nothing will work out as you desire. Be of greater assistance later. Show that you are a humanitarian.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): — Decide what it is you want, associates to do for you, out don't ask favors now. Keep straight in p.m. Assist one who comes to you for help, though you do it reluctantly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 31): — Take care not to voice any unpleasant thought to a higher-up or you get in Dutch quickly. Be of greater assistance instead. Know your place and keep it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19): — Concentrate upon some new system to use in the near future and schedule time when you are to start it. Accept in your mind any unpleasant message you may get. Show spirit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): — While you like to have perfect order about you and be precise, do not insist that others do likewise. They are not built that way. Show kindness to male instead of criticism.

R. L. Studebaker, horticulturist with the Tulsa Park Department, was in Pampa visiting family and friends over the weekend. He brought with him some outstanding specimens of his exceptional roses and chrysanthemums. He is always so enthusiastic about his work in Tulsa. The Park Department there is contributing very much to the beauty of that city.

Mrs. Fred Hart was kind enough to let us store a large number of geraniums in her basement through the winter with the hope that they can be used in the spring to plant park areas, etc. The O. K. Gaylors and the Bernard Johnsons donated some geraniums to this project. These plants require so little attention that they should be ideal for parks.

A stroll through Mrs. Fred (Honey) Hart's garden, 721 N. Russell, is reminiscent of a hike through a wooded hillside, but this is right in the middle of Pampa.

If this warm weather continues, all the chrysanthemums at Ward and Hobart Street Park will be in full bloom. These plants were donated by Parkers Blossom Shop and planted in the spring.

Butler's Nursery has given 10 honeysuckle bushes which will be planted in Aspen Street Park. Also Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jordan gave some evergreens which Mr. Carl Wright, Park Superintendent, and his men have planted in the park.

The new issue of the "Lone Star Gardener" has some wonderful ideas for Christmas decorations. Following are suggestions for making sculptured grapes and preparing a mixture which may be used for molding artificial fruit or other objects:

Sculptured Grapes I — Warm one pound of wax (paraffin) enough to handle and form into grape size balls. Cut wire about five inches long, wrap with floral tape. Insert wire into warm ball, let cool. Dip into melted paraffin (color added). Insert stem into styrofoam to dry. Make different sizes, small, medium and large. Assemble as grapes are grown, add leaves and a curled tendrill.

Sculptured Grapes II — Mix one cup flour, one cup salt, one cup water in a sauce pan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture leaves the side of pan. Mold into desired shape. Insert wire wrapped with floral tape. Dip into paraffin colored with wax crayon. Dip two to four times for desired color. Group together, add leaves and curled tendrill. Insert other end of wire into styrofoam so wax may cool.

"Modeling Stuff" — "Stuff" may be used to construct many things besides grapes. It can be

Van Brocklin To Return as Coach

MINEAPOLIS (UPI)—Norm Van Brocklin, who quit in despair as Minnesota Viking football coach after losing to Baltimore, was back running the club today "for as long as they'll have me."

"My characteristic always has been that of a fighter, not quitter," he said. "The worst thing I could do is be a quitter. I want to coach the Vikings to a championship. Maybe I wanted to get there too fast."

The Vikings had been rated contenders before the season began and after a slow start, they built a 5-3 record.

Van Brocklin said he thought the Vikings had a chance to win the National Football League title until the 41-21 loss to Baltimore Sunday.

Van Brocklin, blaming himself, told newsmen Monday he was resigning, wouldn't reconsider and was through with football.

"It's not the fault of the players," he said. "It's the coach."

General Manager Jim Finks and others were shocked. Finks called him "the greatest coach in the game." Finks and others urged him to reconsider. Monday night Van Brocklin called Finks, confessed he'd acted hastily and asked for his job back.

"This is the strangest thing that ever happened to me," Van Brocklin said. "Quitting is the worst thing I could have done to my friends. I want to stay on as coach of the Vikings as long as they'll have me."

"My family was very saddened and disappointed in me for resigning. I've embarrassed the players, the Viking organization and my friends. I wish I had an explanation but I don't."

Van Brocklin is the only coach the 5-year-old Vikings have ever had. After struggling through the early seasons with little material, they finally finished in a tie for second in the Western Division last year.

Bucks Tackle Gruver Friday

Awsome White Deer, with their 38.2 offensive average and stingy 3.2 defensive mark, hosts Gruver Friday night in the first round of AA state playoffs, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets are on sale at the White Deer tax office and grade school in Skellytown. Reserve tickets are $1.50 per person and general admission tickets will be the same price.

The Bucks will carry the fight to Gruver, having beaten them once, their closest game of the season, 7-3 at Gruver.

White Deer sports a perfect 10-0 record, having not been beaten in 20 straight regular season games.

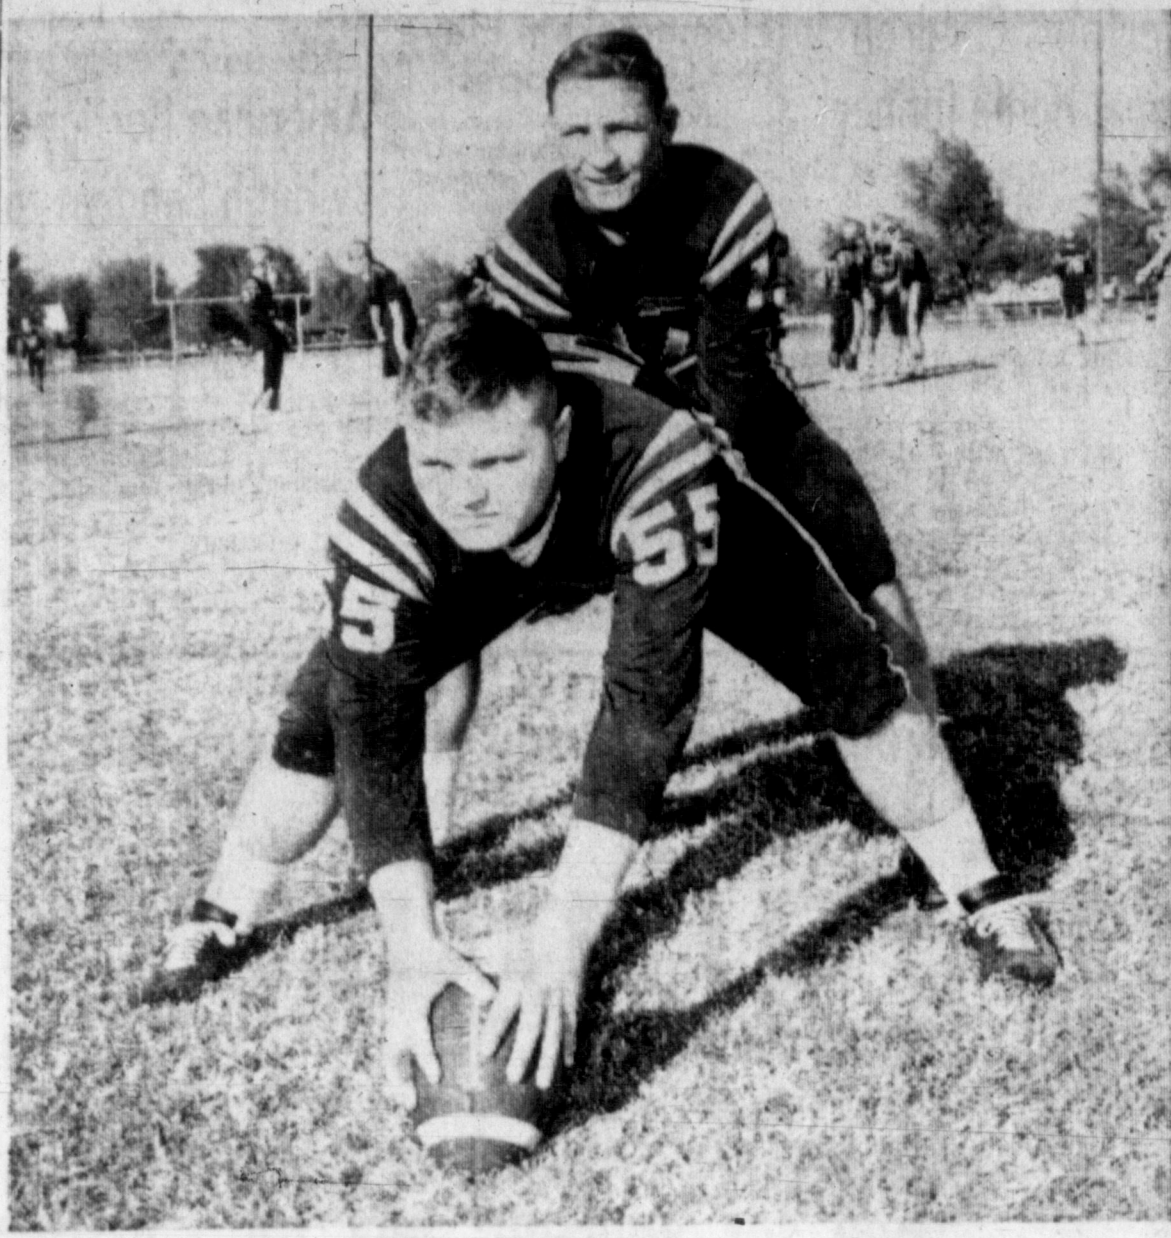

Other area battles will be fought Friday night.

Groom, the 5-B champion, will try to take the district title straight away when they travel to Darrouzett to close out the season.

The Tigers have already clinched the title, even if they lose, having beaten Wheeler earlier in the season.

The Mustangs close out their 1965 season when they journey to Lefors and Miami will close with Follett at Follett.

Groom is 8-0-1 for the season and 5-0 in league play; Wheeler is 8-1 and 4-1; Miami is 2-6 and 0-5 and Lefors is 2-7 and 2-3.

AFL Reschedules Draft; But NCAA is Still Angry

By United Press International
The American Football League resolved one problem, Tuesday by scheduling its draft of college players for Nov. 27, but still may find itself in trouble with the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League Tuesday night accused the rival AFL of holding a secret draft of college players. AFL Commissioner Joe Foss, who earlier in the day had changed the date of his league's draft from Nov. 20 to Nov. 27, denied all allegations about a clandestine meeting.

officials implies such an act, if true, is more serious to us in terms of potential breaches," Corbett said in Baton Rouge, La., where he is athletic director of Louisiana State.

Irish Favored Over M-State

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame have been made a one-point favorite to whip mighty Michigan State, the No. 1 team in the nation, this Saturday.

The oddsmakers Tuesday paid little heed to the UPI Board of Coaches which ranked the Spartans first and the Irish fourth. Michigan State already has a date in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day, but Duffy Daugherty's charges want badly to finish undefeated and the Irish are the last opponent.

Second-ranked Arkansas, currently on a 21-game victory streak, was considered a two-touchdown choice to whip Southwest Conference rival Texas Tech, ranked ninth, for the title and the accompanying visit to the Cotton Bowl.

Third-rated Nebraska is idle. Fifth-ranked Southern California was made a five-point pick over seventh-rated UCLA in a tilt to decide the Pacific Coast representative to the Rose Bowl.

Missouri, rated eighth and Sugar-Bowl bound, was tabbed a 15-point over arch-rival Kansas, also of the Big Eight. Tenth-ranked Purdue was figured to be 10 points superior to Indiana.

In the battle of the unbeaten Ivy Leaguers, Princeton's single-wing offense was picked to get one touchdown more than Dartmouth, which leans heavily on a stout defense. Other big eastern contests showed Harvard a one-point pick over Yale, the traditional prime foe; Syracuse was picked by 14 over Boston College; Brown 1 over Columbia; Penn State 7 over Pittsburgh.

South—South Carolina 2 over Clemson, Louisiana State 20 over Tulane, Florida 6 over Miami (Fla.), Florida State 5 over Houston.

Midwest—Michigan 2 over Ohio State, Minnesota 14 over Wisconsin, Illinois 6 over Northwestern, Tulsa 19 over Wichita.

West—Washington 6 over Washington State, Stanford 4 over California, Wyoming 5 over Arizona State, Colorado 2 over Air Force.

The Pros—NFL: Chicago 6 over Detroit, Baltimore 14 over Philadelphia, St. Louis 10 over New York, Minnesota 1 over Green Bay, Cleveland 4 over Dallas, San Francisco 7 over Los Angeles and Washington and Pittsburgh even.

"The AFL has breached the public trust and that of the nation's colleges with secret early drafts at least three times in the past five years, including earlier this month," Rozelle said from New York in a prepared statement when asked to comment on rumors of such an AFL draft.

Mill Woodard, assistant AFL commissioner, speaking from New York for Foss, who was between stops on a trip, said "We're (AFL) not knowledgeable of this type of thing (secret drafts). Not one player has been contacted or coerced."

James Corbett, chairman of the NCAA Pro Relations Committee, who had earlier blasted the Nov. 20 draft date as a "mockery," was "gratified" with the rescheduling but struck a discordant note concerning the alleged secret draft.

"Conflicting reports from an AFL official source that an alleged Nov. 2 informal draft meeting was held by AFL practice of babysitting.

Sports Doubleheader Is On Tap Here Saturday

By RON CROSS
News Sports Editor
(See Picture Page 9)

A big sports doubleheader is on tap for Pampa football and basketball fans Saturday when the Harvester football team entertains Berger and the Harvesters roundballers host Dumas, Saturday night.

The 2 p.m. grid battle between the two old rivals will close out the 1965 season for both clubs, in a fight to see who stays out of the 3-4 cellar, something Berger isn't used to and something that Pampa has become accustomed to.

Coach Terry Culley has been running his basketballers through two-a-day drills for the past two weeks to have them in shape for the Saturday opener.

Last year Pampa downed the Demons twice, by 10 points at Dumas and 13 at Pampa.

Dumas returns but one starter, six-foot Ronnie Stephenson, a forward.

Too, they will be small with only three starters reaching above six-foot.

Besides Stephenson, coach Jerry Hale indicated he would start Guy Kimbley, 6'2" senior at the other forward and James Curtis, 5'10" senior and Lane Boyd, 5'10" senior at guards and Randy Welch, a 6'2½" junior at the center spot.

Stephenson, Kimbley, Welch and Curtis are all returning lettermen.

Coach Culley has a problem, a good one, in trying to decide who to start among his first seven.

Culley can choose between 6'5" senior David Cain; 6'2½" forward and senior Mike Wise; 6'3" Kenneth McWilliams, a senior, guard - forward; 6'3½" David Frasher, a senior forward; 5'9" Gary Crossland, senior guard; Doug Altom, 5'10" senior guard; and Steve Williams, 6'0" junior guard.

On the football front Pampa will be trying to break a six game losing streak, that started after the Harvesters opened conference action with a victory over Palo Duro.

Since that victory, their only one of the season, Pampa has lost to Caprock, Tascosa, Plainview, Lubbock, Monterey and Amarillo.

The Harvesters haven't been able to beat the Bulldogs in seven years.

Starting in 1958 Berger has beaten Pampa, 66-13; 28-0; 40-7; 41-0; 40-8; 21-13; 21-0. Since 1944 Pampa has won five, lost 15 and tied one.

Last week the Bulldogs, 2-7 for the year and 1-6 in league play, lost to Tascosa, 9-0 after playing the Rebels off their feet for three quarters.

Also missing from the Berger lineup was halfback Pete Loftus, 165-pound senior letterman. He is the Bulldogs top rusher with 376 yards on 66 carries for a 5.5 per carry average. Loftus has also scored five times for 30 of the Bulldogs total of 47 league points.

Berger returns only two starters from last year's eleven. Loftus and end Donnie Embers, a 194 pound senior. Six lettermen sprinkle the Bulldog lineup.

Celtics Battle Storm in West

By United Press International
Philadelphia and New York breezed to victories in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night, but the Boston Celtics had to battle a storm in San Francisco.

The 76'ers, led by Wilt Chamberlain, took the St. Louis Hawks, 107-80, in the first game of a doubleheader in New York. Dick Barnett scored 40 points in the nightcap to lead New York for an easy, 120-95, win over Detroit.

But the NBA champions from Boston, who trailed San Francisco by 16 points at one time, had to rally in the closing seconds on the sharpshooting of John Havlicek to down the Warriors, 108-105.

Chamberlain had 30 points for Philadelphia and Hol Greer added 24 in a see-saw contest against St. Louis, which was decided in the final period when the 76'ers scored 24 points and held the Hawks to only 19.

Zelmo Beaty was high man for St. Louis with 20 points.

Barnett's 40-point performance was the highest scoring effort in his NBA career. He canned 22 of New York's 49 points in the first half.

The Knicks outscored the Pistons 40-25 in the final period to wrap up the win. Ray Scott had 26 points to lead the Detroit scorers.

The shooting of guard Paul Neumann and the rebounding of center Pete Thurmond kept San Francisco ahead of Boston through most of their game, but two jump shots by Havlicek and a pair of free throws by K. C. Jones in the closing seconds sparked the Celtics to victory.

In the battle of big centers, Thurmond pulled down 27 rebounds to 22 by Bill Russell. Jones paced all scorers with 22 points, while Neumann and Guy Rodgers each had 21 for the Warriors.

The defeat knocked San Francisco out of a first place tie with Los Angeles in the Western Division. The Lakers will get their test against Boston today, while Philadelphia plays at Cincinnati.

8 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1965 58TH YEAR

Zimmer Got Extra Chance With Sens

NEW YORK (UPI)—Little Don Zimmer had every right to think this was going to be one of the banner days of his life.

He went out in the morning and turned in an exceptionally fine round over a golf course not far from his St. Petersburg, Fla., home, then cracked out six hits in a neighborhood softball game later that same afternoon.

Upon his return home Monday evening, Zimmer was informed by his wife there had been a long distance telephone call for him while he was out.

The caller was Zimmer's boss, Washington Manager Gil Hodges, and he had asked that Don return his call as soon as he got back home.

Zimmer didn't exactly burn up the American League this year with his .199 average for Washington in 95 ball games.

He contributed greatly to the Senators bench, however, did everything Hodges ever asked of him and filled in capably enough at second base and third base as well as behind the plate.

"It doesn't matter whom he goes up against, Don never believes he's over-matched," commented Hodges, who first learned to admire his never-quit aggressiveness when both were with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Gee, that's too bad, Gil," he said over the phone. "I'm having a good year. I got six hits in a softball game today."

AFL Facing "Off Sides" Charge By Rival NFL

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Football League (AFL) today faced an "off sides" charge leveled by its older rival, the National Football League (NFL).

The NFL accused the AFL of holding a secret player draft here Nov. 2.

AFL Commissioner Joe Foss branded the report false and accused the NFL of conducting a smear campaign.

Gerald Phipps, co-owner of the Denver Broncos, admitted, however, that AFL executives met Nov. 2 and that the official draft would follow the lines of the Nov. 2 meeting.

"We were just trying to avoid wasting a lot of time," Phipps said.

The "off sides" was called Tuesday after both the Pittsburgh Press and the Dallas Times Herald reported the AFL had held a secret draft.

The Press' Roy McHugh ticked off the results. Among other choices, McHugh reported the Broncos had picked Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis.

Phipps admitted the Broncos line coach, Ray Malavasi, contacted Nobis last Saturday but called it strictly a salesmanship trip.

"Sure we'd like to have Nobis," he said. "But if we can't have him we'd like to have him sign with another AFL club rather than an NFL team."

Phipps accused the news media of making a "mountain out of a molehill."

"I'm sorry it came out," he said. "It makes a big deal out of something that shouldn't be."

ANDERSON IN BROYLES DREAMS

Donnie Only Threat Tech Has

By United Press International
Wilson's passing is getting even better.

Texas A&M Coach Gene Stallings was glad for a rest for his team, The Aggies meet Texas Thanksgiving, getting this weekend off.

"Our kids need a lot of rest," he said.

Texas had bad news and worse movies, Ronnie Ehrig, defensive halfback, turned up with a fractured hand suffered in the Baylor game. The Longhorns watched movies of their 25-10 loss to Texas Christian, then worked out 45 minutes without pads.

Defensive end Billy Sullivan and tailback Robert Leach are out for the season with injuries.

Rice ran against TCU plays Tuesday to get familiar with them. Coach Jess Neely might be able to count on quarterback David Ferguson to recover from a leg injury, but Burt Barron and Tony Labay are doubtful and linebacker Craig Christopher has little chance to Southern Methodist, angling to be healed in time.

Texas Christian had a tough workout Tuesday and coach Abe Martin promised slower going today.

The Horned Frogs will meet Rice Saturday in a homecoming game. Martin said Joe Ball, strong end, has back and chest ailments from the Texas game and may not play Saturday. Joe Sherrill, a sophomore, was being prepared as a replacement.

If Frank Broyles has nightmares, they must be peopled with Donny Anderson.

Anderson is many threats to the Arkansas Razorback coach. The swift Texas Tech halfback leads Southwest Conference in individual statistics for scoring, pass receiving and kickoff returns.

And Broyles and his Razorbacks must contend with Anderson and his Red Raiders Saturday in the big game of the year in the conference. Arkansas can win it and have another undefeated season. Tech can win it and go to the Cotton Bowl, sharing the conference crown.

"I hate to think he's much better than he was two years ago when he ran up and down the field. He doesn't run or much as he used to. He just catches more passes," Broyles moaned Tuesday.

Broyles had Arkansas work on Texas Tech plays Tuesday, and polish punt returns, agility and timing, with little contact.

Tech Coach J. T. King was enthused over his Raiders, workout, calling it the best Tuesday practice of the season. He said he worries most about Arkansas' speed, although "no phase of their game...is less than superb."

DICK AND JANE Spartans Due Stay Simple

By PETE WALDMEIR
Special Correspondent
EAST LANSING, Mich. (NEA)

If they ever make a movie based on Michigan State's football play book the lead characters will have to be named Dick and Jane.

For the Spartans keep it simple. . . simply powerful, to be exact. . . and that is the reason why they rested comfortably atop the Big Ten and on the top of the national rankings after six straight victories.

"We just do things simple and direct," explains senior quarterback Steve Juday, a home-grown product from Northville, Mich., outside Detroit.

"That's what we did against Purdue. Our game plan was to run outside because of our speed, but Purdue stopped us around the ends. So we merely adjusted. There isn't anything spectacular.

"We go to dives, traps and the old belly series. Easy stuff with simple blocking principles. That's what works best."

Michigan State's 14-10 victory over Purdue, fourth in a row in the Big Ten conference, put the Spartans on the inside track to a Rose Bowl date at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Actually, Juday oversimplified the feat in many respects. For one thing, the Spartans spotted Purdue a 10-point lead for three quarters, then came storming back for two touchdowns less than five minutes apart in the final period to extract the victory.

Juday has been a starter since the first game of his sophomore season and last year set Michigan State records for passes attempted (148) and completed (79). But he gets lots of help along the ground from Bob Apisa, a 220-pound sophomore fullback from Hawaii and junior halfback Clinton Jones of Cleveland.

But it's the Michigan State defense, ranked fourth in the country against rushing and really No. 1 among the bigtime schools, which comes in for special merit. The massive defensive line, averaging 226 pounds on the hoof, held Michigan and Ohio State to minus yardage on the ground. In the case of the Buckeyes, it was the first such degradation in their football history.

Against Purdue, it forced Bob Griese, Purdue's All-American quarterback, to throw knucklers most of the second half after he'd led the Boilermakers to their early lead. He completed only two passes for 14 yards after connecting on 13 in the first two quarters.

And all the work isn't done up front. Bob Hadrick, a legitimate All-American candidate at end for Purdue, caught eight of those first half sorties, but didn't pick off another after intermission.

At halftime, the 6-4 receiver was approached by cornerback Don Japinga, who had been assigned to cover Hadrick man-for-man. Japinga stands 5 feet 6 inches.

"You aren't going to lick me this half," Japinga promised. And he kept his word.

For Michigan State in the Big Ten, it looked all downhill as they prepared to take on the lower echelon of the conference — Northwestern, Iowa and Indiana. There is a little matter of Notre Dame at the tag end of the season, but that's strictly extra-curricular — maybe for such nonsense as national champion.

Michigan State has never won a Big Ten championship outright, although the Spartans have been to the Rose Bowl twice and come away winners. They shared the title with Illinois in 1953 and finished second to Ohio State in 1955, each time meeting and beating UCLA in the post-season game at Pasadena as the Big Ten representative.

"We'll go all the way now," remarked halfback Jones, "if we just keep our heads and do not get foolish; if we get blocking and supreme effort — from everybody."

And keep it simple.

Enemy Will Not Give at Table Anything They Can Hold Fighting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is an old axiom in diplomacy that you're not likely to gain at the conference table anything the enemy doesn't believe you can win on the battlefield.

This, according to authoritative administration sources, sums up the reasons for the American rejection about a year ago of two Communist Viet Nam offers to meet for peace talks at Rangoon, Burma.

President Johnson's top advisers, particularly Secretary of State Dean Rusk, felt that the perilous U.S. military position in late 1964 plus the shakiness of the Saigon government then made the American negotiating position impossibly weak.

Rusk argued that the Communists, knowing this, must be willing to meet only in the hope of getting a settlement which would amount to surrendering South Viet Nam to the Reds. The President agreed.

In confirming reports early this week that the United States had rejected two offers to talk which came through United Nations Secretary General Thant, the State Department said only that it did so because there was no evidence of "serious intent on the other side." There was no elaboration.

But other administration officials, speaking privately, provided these additional details: When the first offer from Hanoi came in September, 1964, Rusk opposed accepting it on these grounds: —The presidential election campaign was just getting started and it was a poor time to explore dubious peace feelers.

—The United States would be negotiating from a position of weakness in the light of recent military reverses suffered by South Vietnamese and American forces, then less than one-eighth the size they are now.

—Word of the proposed Rangoon talks inevitably would reach Saigon and cause the collapse of the tottering regime at a time when the United States could least afford this.

In early February, the United States began bombing North Viet Nam. It already had begun aerial attacks on Communist supply lines through neighboring Laos, although Washington still will not acknowledge these officially.

At the same time, a buildup in American military strength was starting. On April 7, President Johnson, under pressure from allied and neutral nations as well as some Americans, announced his willingness to enter "unconditional discussions" with the Reds.

Meantime, U.S. troop strength mounted. There now are more than 165,000 American servicemen in Viet Nam plus a powerful segment of the Navy's Seventh Fleet offshore providing some of the attacking planes.

By the end of 1965 U.S. strength will be near the 200,000 mark. Although victory is nowhere near in sight, the Communists are taking increasingly heavy punishment — both in North Viet Nam and in the jungles of the South.

The United States now would be negotiating from a vastly stronger position than a year ago. Yet Rusk's "extremely sensitive" diplomatic antenna has not picked up any new offers to talk.

This confirms the administration view that the Reds a year ago were willing to talk peace only because they believed the United States ready to give up.

Ballet Artist Hurt in Fall

HOUSTON (UPI) — Hospital technicians planned X rays today to find out the extent of injury to a young girl who fell 25 feet during an aerial ballet at the Shrine Circus.

She is Beckie Loder, 13, of Hugo, Okla. Doctors said she broke her back in the fall Monday night.

The girl was on a high wire going through her act when she tumbled toward the floor. A Moroccan acrobat, Al-Lal, 22, tried to catch her and succeeded in breaking her fall. He was not injured.

She said later she thought a metal loop holding her foot had broken, but circus officials said her foot slipped out of the loop. She was in fair condition in Memorial Baptist Hospital.

Historical Markers To Be Dedicated Monday in Panhandle

PANHANDLE (Sp) — Ben Barnes of DeLeon, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, will be the principal speaker at two meetings here Monday, Nov. 22.

At noon, Barnes will be the principal speaker at a regional meeting of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee in the War Memorial Building and that night he will be the main speaker at the annual Panhandle Chamber of Commerce Installation of Officers Banquet in the school cafeteria.

The regional meeting of the TSHSC composes 14 counties which includes Carson, Dallam, Gray, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Potter, Roberts, Sherman and Wheeler counties.

Dedication of nine official Texas Historical Markers in Carson County is the highlight of the regional meeting.

"Other business at the meeting will include giving county historical survey committees the opportunity to tell of their work to preserve Texas history in their particular locale," Charles R. Woodburn of Amarillo, a member of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee stated.

Following the meeting of the historical group, Barnes will dedicate the historical marker delineating the history of Carson County. He will be introduced by J. M. (Red) Simpson of Amarillo, state representative.

The marker is located on the lawn in front of the Carson County Courthouse here. State Senator Grady Hazelwood of Amarillo will dedicate the official marker erected for the First National Bank building. Other state officials who will be present and will participate in the county-wide dedicatory ceremony include State Representatives Ralph Wayne of Plainview who will dedicate the Purvine's Ranch House marker and Fritz Thompson of Borger who is on the program to dedicate the 6666 Ranch historical marker.

Representative Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler will speak at the ceremony dedicating the J. C. Jackson General Store (White Deer) Medallion with interpretive plate.

State Representative Bill Clayton of Springlake is scheduled to dedicate the historical marker memorializing the old N-Bar-N Ranch so named for the two German Niedringhaus brothers of St. Louis who came to Carson County in 1862 and built a cattle empire.

Representative W. S. (Bill) Healy of Paducah will unveil and dedicate the Official Texas Marker recording the historical significance of the City of Panhandle in the development of the county and area.

Dr. James P. Corneille, president of West Texas State University of Canyon, will speak at the dedicatory ceremony commemorating the founding of the Panhandle Herald in 1887, oldest newspaper in the Texas Panhandle and second oldest business in the area. He will dedicate the plaque memorializing David M. Warren, longtime publisher.

Hudson Moyer, State Representative of Amarillo, will accept a plaque from the Men's Garden Club of America on behalf of Carson County.

The portrait of Samuel P. Carson, Republic of Texas Secretary of State, for whom Carson County was named when it was created in 1876, will be unveiled by Representative Walter Kapp of Amarillo, Woodburn stated.

Participating in the dedication ceremonies will be Truett Latimer, former State Representative from Abilene, now executive director of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, Woodburn announced.

Woodburn pointed out that each Carson County official marker will be published in the Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers and in other tourist guides.

That evening the new offices of the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce will be installed at a banquet at which the various officials attending the historical society meeting will be guests.

Barnes will be introduced by J. C. McCollough at the evening event. Other highlights at the evening banquet will include the presentation of a plaque to the outstanding citizen. The presentation will be made by Ralph E. Randal on behalf of the chamber.

First Alleged Gang Rapist Faces Trial

EL RENO, Okla. (UPI)—One of six Oklahoma City area youths accused in the alleged gang rape of a 15-year-old San Antonio, Tex. girl was scheduled to go on trial in district court today.

The first defendant will be picked today.

Separate trials for five youths were granted late Monday after Oklahoma City lawyer James W. (Bill) Berry filed a motion with Dist. Judge Boston Smith in behalf of John William Shapard, 16; James D. Fellers Jr., Larry Wyatt Smith and twins Michael and Richard Stanley, 17.

The five youths won transfer of their trials to Canadian County on grounds they could not get an impartial jury in Oklahoma County.

The sixth youth, Paul Hampton Brogan, did not ask for a change of venue and will be tried in Oklahoma City later.

The six are accused of taking the girl from Oklahoma City to a farm near Edmond July 7. The victim said the youths raped her repeatedly and all but Brogan forced her into unnatural acts.

CATTLE DRIVE SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—thirty-five fugitive head of cattle led motorized policemen on a wild chase through the streets and freeways of Spokane Tuesday.

After nine hours, the cattle were finally rounded up and loaded on Armour Co. trucks for the trip back to the packing plant.

Trio Held in Girl's Death

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Two young men and 19-year-old girl were held without bail today on charges of bludgeoning to death a pretty high school girl who balked at membership in a "sex club."

Officers linked the homicide with the murder of two teen-agers sisters.

Arraigned Tuesday for the 1964 slaying of Aleen Rowe, 15, were Mary Rae French, 19, John R. Saunders, 19, and Charles Schmid, 23.

Schmid, a former high school gymnastics champion, also was charged with the murder of Gretchen Fritz, 17, and her sister, Wendy, 15, whose bodies were found in shallow desert graves last week. They were daughters of a prominent Tucson physician, Dr. James Fritz.

Police theorized the Fritz sisters, who disappeared last

August, might have been slain because they knew about the death of Miss Rowe, missing for 18 months. Gretchen Fritz had dated Schmid, police said. Schmid has denied any involvement in the three slayings.

Pima County Atty. Norman Green said Miss French and Saunders told police about Miss Rowe's murder and her burial in the desert. A widespread desert search has failed to turn up the victim's body.

Mrs. Norma Rowe, the slain girl's mother, claimed she knew 18 months ago that her daughter was killed "by thrill-seeking teen-agers." She said she gave authorities the name of one of the suspects, but claimed police ignored her information.

Mrs. Rowe also claimed her daughter was killed by members of a "sex club" and said she had either refused to join or was trying to leave it.

Green and Executive Police Officer John Breglia denied any laxity regarding the arrest of the three suspects. Breglia said detectives talked over the Rowe girl's disappearance "many, many times. We had plenty of allegations, but no proof."

Walter Rogers Reports:

Public Land Laws Go Under Review

One third of the United States is publicly owned. Although States, counties, cities, and other governmental units own a vast acreage, the largest portion by far is held by the Federal Government. There are approximately 354 million acres of public lands outside of Alaska being administered by various agencies of the Federal Government, and of that total approximately half is uncommitted by legislative authority for any specific use. In addition, the Federal Government owns approximately 365 million. So that you can see the immensity of the land area involved, contrast it with the size of our State of Texas — 169 million acres. Texas, having retained control of its public lands when the Republic of Texas agreed to annexation by the United States, has a very small proportion of federally owned land, unlike most other Western States.

What future policies should govern the use of the public lands? This is the question before the Public Land Law Review Commission, a body established by Act of Congress to make a comprehensive review of public land laws now on the books, the administration of these laws, and to suggest needed revisions. The very able chairman of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, Congressman Wayne Aspinall of Colorado, is chairman of the Public Land Law Review Commission. I am among six other House members serving on the Commission, which also includes six members of the U. S. Senate and six private citizens appointed by President Johnson. In addition, the Commission will be assisted by an Advisory Council made up of liaison officers from the Federal departments and twenty-five representatives of major citizen groups. State governors are designating representatives to work with the Commission and the Advisory Council.

Recommendations will be reported, according to the Act establishing the Commission, by December 1968. It is certainly too early to foreshadow the direction of possible recommendations, but the problem is certainly clear. For, although the United States is abundantly blessed with natural resources, it is essential that we provide for their conservation and proper use. There is just so much land. The minerals in the land must be properly used and the soil protected. In addition to the other pressures for use of available land resources, the United States is now in the midst of a boom in outdoor recreation — and plenty of open space must be properly preserved for the enjoyment of our citizens.

It will be the job of the Public Land Law Review Commission to review the existing body of law and its administration and then ask, "Where do we go from here?" Science has developed new uses for some of the public lands, and yet the existing laws may not permit these

Communications Laser Beam To Be Unveiled to Newsmen

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (UPI)—The communication laser beam, which soon may be astronauts' space age telephone line, will be unveiled to newsmen here today.

The purpose of the demonstration is to show how the infra-red light beam can be used to carry conversation from astronauts in space to technicians at White Sands Missile Range in southern New Mexico during the Gemini 7 orbit early next month.

The astronauts will speak into the shoe-box sized, six-pound transmitter. Hopefully, their words will travel over the light beam to an audio receiver at White Sands.

The White Sands test will be one of three laser tries in the Gemini 7 shot. The others will occur over Hawaii and Ascension Island.

Commission will have made a contribution merely by straightening away the confusion. But, in addition, it is hoped that the Commission can bring forth solid recommendations pointing to wise policies for America's future.

Walter Rogers
Member of Congress

Space agency spokesmen hold more hope for success over the latter two points because the astronauts will have about 80 seconds over Hawaii and Ascension Island to transmit via the laser, compared to the 60 seconds over White Sands. The laser in future orbital flights could be used for communicating among occupants of spacecraft and Earth or between fixed points in space, a space agency spokesman said.

Expansion of Firm Result of Faith in Economic Progress

The new and modern transportation center constructed by Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet, Inc. became a reality because of the firm's confidence in the continued economic growth of Pampa and the entire area.

"This area has been very good to us and now we will have the opportunity to repay our many friends and customers over the years," said Frank Culberson, president of the company. "We like this country and we know that it will continue to grow," he added.

Culberson said that they will have one of the most fully equipped sales and service establishments between Dallas and Denver.

"With our relaxed yet efficient atmosphere, tasteful decor and complete automotive facilities, it will no longer be necessary to go to a larger city for your transportation needs, Pampa has it," he continued.

Culberson is a 30-year veter-

Special Insurance Agency Available

As a convenience to Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet Inc. customers, an insurance agency is located in the same building at Hobart & Gwendolen.

The Culberson Insurance Agency is a separate company that specializes in comprehensive insurance for cars and trucks as well as liability and property damage insurance. Some forms of life insurance are also available.

Dick Stowers and Dick Kennedy manage the firm.

Insurance is available to Culberson-Stowers car buyers at this agency or through any agent of their choosing.

He first entered the business here on March 18, 1927, in a partnership with the late Tom Smalling. Their first garage was on west Kingsmill St. in the building now occupied by Thompson Parts and Supply.

The company moved to 212 N. Ballard on Feb. 1, 1930 where it remained until Nov. 1 of this year, when the firm moved into its modern new facilities. Culberson purchased Smalling's interests in 1941 and became sole owner.

Dick Stowers came into the business in 1951 and in 1957 became a dual dealer with Culberson. On Nov. 1, 1965, the name of the firm was changed from Culberson Chevrolet Inc. to Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet, Inc.

Stowers is a graduate of the University of Missouri and took post graduate work at the University of Texas. He is married and the father of three children.

He is vice president and general manager, and attorney Don Cain, another stockholder, is secretary of the company.

Culberson is married to the former Esther Moore and they are the parents of four daughters and have eighteen grandchildren.

Guard, Thief Shoot It Out

JOSHUA, Tex. (UPI)—A nightwatchman at the Texas Power and Light Co. storage yard shot and wounded a copper thief yesterday in a shootout.

Police said the guard was awakened by the thief throwing a roll of copper into a pickup truck. The watchman fired twice with a 12-gauge shotgun and the thief returned the fire.

Police said the watchman hit the bandit in the face and the man's glasses were shattered and the ground was splattered with blood. The thief made a getaway, apparently with the help of another person.

The watchman, who was spending his first night on the job, was not immediately identified.

Joshua is six miles north of Cleburne. Roadblocks were set up by police.

Ag Employers Hold Three Day Denver Meeting

DENVER (UPI)—Officials of the National Council of Agricultural Employers continued a three-day meeting in Denver today following a 2½-hour closed session with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

Stewart Boswell, executive president of the council, said the meeting with Wirtz was "purely exploratory" and dealt with a wide range of problems, including possible revision of the Mexican farm labor program.

Wirtz flew back to Washington after the session adjourned.

Boswell said the council wanted to point up to the administration the need for some supplemental workers.

Also sitting in on the meeting with Wirtz were J. B. Kirk-lin of Pecos, Tex., president of the council, and Fred Holmes, a vice president of the Great Western Sugar Co. The council represents fruit, vegetable and specialty crop growers in 36 states.

Congress last December permitted to expire an agreement under which Mexicans were allowed to enter this country as seasonal farm laborers.

Grand Opening Set for New Home of Chevrolet

Culberson-Stowers 3-Day Celebration To Begin Tomorrow

Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet, Inc. will hold a Grand Opening celebration in their modern new facilities at 805 N. Hobart, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

The public is invited to visit the site including the main building, service areas and the used car and truck departments.

Grand opening hours will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. all three days.

Some $1,500 in free prizes will be given away during the celebration through mystery gift cards. No purchase will be necessary.

The new Culberson - Stowers transportation center is of concrete, glass and steel construction covering approximately 43,000 square feet under roof.

Located on a 7.04 acre site in the 800-block on the west side of N. Hobart, the entire property is being used in the operation of various departments of the local Chevrolet dealership.

The service building faces east on Hobart St. The showroom is in modern glass and concrete, 70 x 36 feet, with special indirect lighting arrangements. It is one of the few carpeted showrooms in the entire Southwest.

Special planting areas help set off the buildings and add to the beauty of Culberson - Stowers' new home.

Office space is 70 x 40 feet and includes six private, conference rooms where customers may discuss the car or truck of their choice. Both offices and showroom are air conditioned.

The parts and accessories department covers an area of 8,000 square feet. Parts are catalogued and placed in more than 200 bins and so arranged as to assure fast service in Chevrolet parts.

The service department with an area 70 x 223 feet features the latest equipment for servicing, repairing and testing cars and trucks. Each technician has an individual hydraulic car-lift and twenty-nine cars can be worked on at the same time. Shop space consists of quick service area, front end, wheel balancing and frame areas, along with a special truck repair area and used car reconditioning area.

Culberson-Stowers body shop is housed in a separate steel building with an area of 8,400 square feet and will handle eight cars at a time. It provides the most modern equipment including a paint booth, hydraulic hoist and metal straighteners.

This area also has an office for accommodation of customers and adjusters.

Black topping covers an area of more than 120,000 square feet around the buildings, providing space for outdoor new and used car displays.

The firm's used car office is on the north side of the service building and is elevated so that the entire used car display can be seen from the office.

Industry Must Find Cheap, Fast Oil Hunt

DALLAS (UPI) — Those who look for oil will have to find cheaper and more rapid ways to do it, or the world will not realize the potential it needs for future demands, three men from Atlantic Refining Co. said Monday.

The joint paper by Joseph S. Pluta, O. C. Clifford and Joseph A. Mehan was presented Monday at the meeting of the Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

Pluta, who presented the paper, said it is hard to get the working capital needed to carry out increasingly costly exploration.

"The oil hunter then needs to sharpen his diagnostic tools so that the future reserves are found at a lower cost and with lesser delay to development than even before," Pluta said.

He suggested cooperative ventures and intense research with corporate support to get new ideas.

Voting Provisions Safe from Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Key provisions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act probably will not be endangered by a federal court ruling that one of its minor sections is unconstitutional, legal sources predicted today.

A ruling by a three-judge federal panel against a section of the law designed to give the vote to Spanish speaking Puerto Ricans in New York is expected to be limited to that section.

The panel ruled Monday is a 2-1 decision that the section, 4-E, violates the constitutional right of states to impose literacy tests on voting registrants.

Local Chevrolet Dealer First to Sponsor 'Derby'

Culberson - Stowers Chevrolet was a pioneer in Texas for local sponsorship of the International Soap Box Derby held annually on a special race course in Akron, Ohio.

The Derby is an international contest among boys between the ages of 12 and 17 years from all over the world, held under rules set up by the Chevrolet Motors Division of General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich.

Chevrolet stipulated that every local Soap Box Derby must be staged under joint sponsorship of the local Chevrolet dealership and the city's leading newspaper.

The finals of the All-American and International Soap Box Derby held in August of every year at Akron still is called "the greatest amateur racing event in the world."

It was in 1940 that Chevrolet first approached The Pampa Daily News about sponsoring a local derby. Pampa was one of the first cities in Texas to take on the event.

Tex DeWeese, editor of The News, called Frank Culberson, the local Chevrolet dealer, and learned that he, too, had been contacted about staging a derby in Pampa.

The two men agreed it would be a fine enterprise to sponsor and began laying the groundwork of plans that led into the first annual derby and an event that entertained Pampans and held the attention of hundreds of Pampa youngsters every year for more than ten years.

Each year's winner and his parents were given an all-expense paid trip to Akron, Ohio, where the Pampa champion competed with other derby winners from over the United States and from foreign countries.

The Chevrolet - Pampa News sponsorship was given three-way backing when the Pampa Lions Club became a part of the annual derby which was staged on a hill three and a half miles north of Pampa on the Perryton Hwy. Lions Club members served as official starters, timers and checkers for the race.

All boy entrants in the derby were required to build their own Soap Box Derby racers to meet requirements of the All-American finals entries in Akron. Top prizes of college scholarships were offered to winners of the speed and design divisions of the race.

Culberson said the other day the local sponsorship of the annual derby had to be released in 1951 because of the lack of a suitable place to conduct the derby which had outgrown its original race course site.

Chevrolet Offers Widest Variety in Its History

Safety and Luxury Make '66 Cars Tops

Variety, safety and luxury in a choice without precedent highlight the 1966 Chevrolets.

The full lineup of 50 passenger car models in six lines, highest in the division's 55-year history, includes 23 "sport jobs" — convertibles and hardtops — and 14 wagons in five different sizes and wheelbases.

"With model, color, optional interior and other combinations running into the billions, every buyer has an opportunity unparalleled in automotive history to have his car custom built to his own needs and tastes," said E. M. Estes, Chevrolet general manager.

Among 1966 developments expected to help in reaching new sales marks are:

- A top-of-the-line Caprice series in four models added to the top-selling regular Chevrolets; a new four-door Chevelle hardtop sedan; and a new Chevelle Sport 36 series.

Completely new styling of the Chevy II and the Chevelle plus design refinements in the other lines.

Numerous safety features included as standard equipment. These range from padded dash and padded sun visors to back-up lamps.

Expansion of the truck line by nearly forty percent with the addition of 101 models. This gives a total of 366 models to meet virtually every specialized need. Also added are six new engines, including gasoline and diesel.

New passenger car mechanical features, including a new 250-cubic inch six-cylinder engine as standard equipment

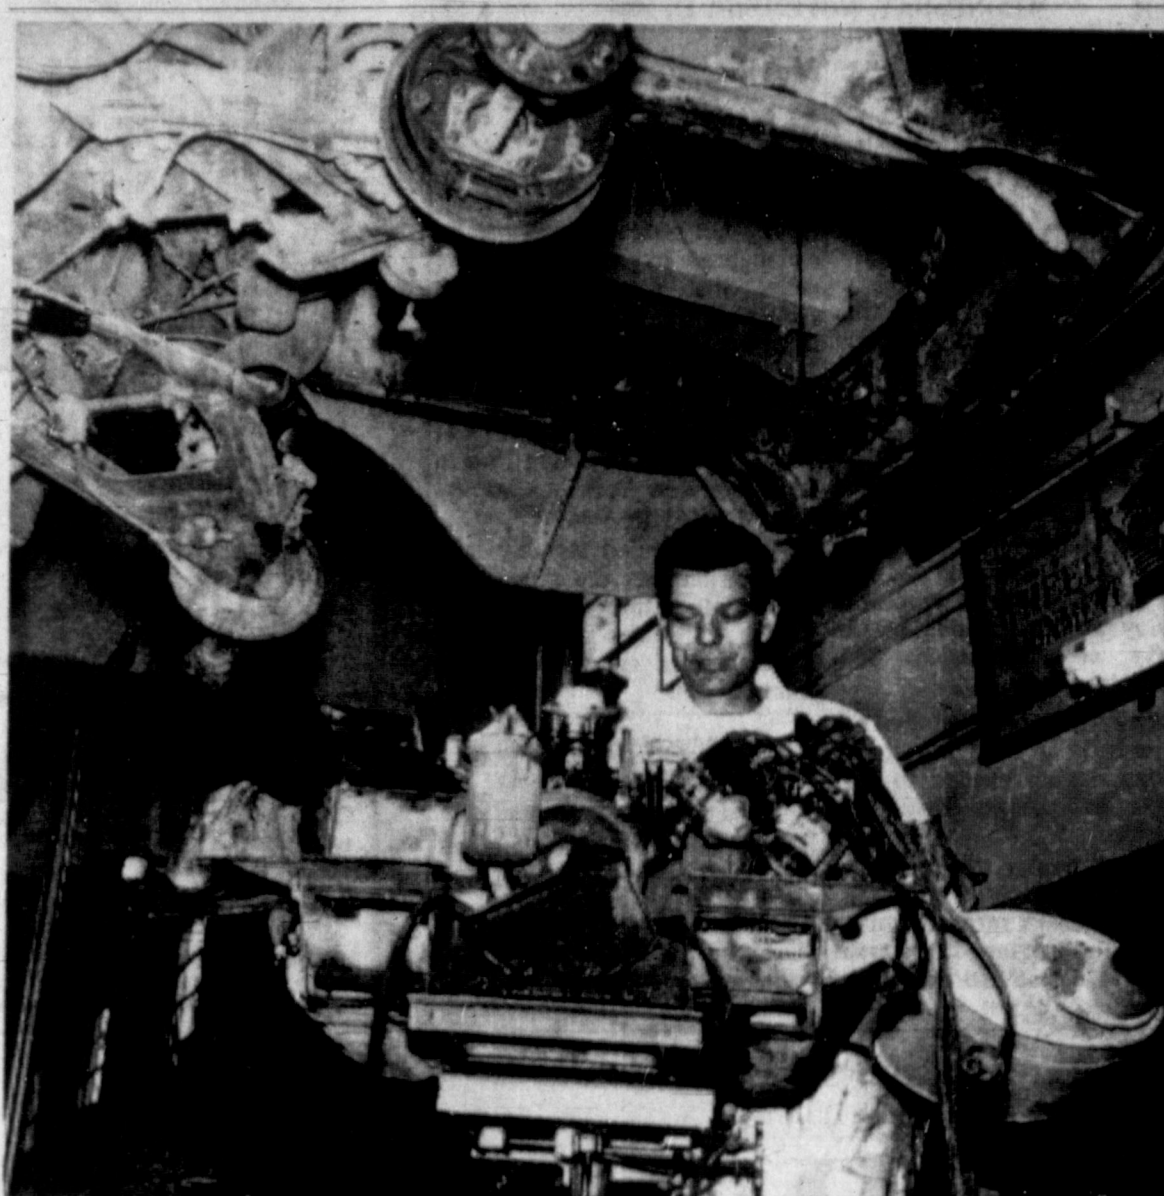

Chevrolet Offers 14 Wagon Styles

Fourteen of the 50 Chevrolet passenger car models in the 1966 line are station wagons — largest number of this body style ever offered by the division.

In comparison, Chevrolet offered 12 wagons in 1964 and 1965 and 10 in 1963.

The 1966 wagon lineup includes: 7 regular Chevrolets, two of them new Caprice Custom Wagons with walnut-grained exterior trim; two Chevelles; two Chevy IIs; and three Sportvans.

Thomas A. Edison took out more than 1,000 patents on electrical equipment.

MODERN EQUIPMENT — A Culberson-Stowers technician is shown removing a Corvair engine with the use of a twin-hydraulic lift and Corvair motor stand. This modern equipment speeds the completion of a job.

DESPITE BOOK

'Feminine Mystique' Is A Real Puzzler

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some time ago a lady author made herself a nice piece of change by writing a book called "The Feminine Mystique."

Even after reading the book I wasn't sure what that title meant. But now I think I know. It was cleared up for me by my friend Mary.

When I first met Mary she was a top reporter for a Texas newspaper that gave me a summer job one year when I was in college.

Most of the guys in the city room were a little bit in love with her and, although she was an "older woman" (about 30 at the time), I guess I was, too.

But family misfortunes forced her to retire and assume less pleasant duties. I give you this background to help you understand a letter that some of her friends recently received.

She Is Happy
"Guess what," she wrote, "I'm happy."

"That surprises you some, I guess. Truly, even I didn't think I'd ever be again. But it wasn't so. I've proved it. For I am a reporter again."

"I completed the cycle and started back right where I started before. And in two months I've made it. Tonight, I won my diploma."

"I did a crime story the managing editor called great. Made over the front page for it."

"It wasn't great and I was totally stymied for a lead for ever so long. But after more than 25 years I did it and they liked it and I'm 'in' again."

"It's still nothing much, money-wise, but you measure relatively and I am cursed with the proportions and the bearing of a well past middle-aged matron."

Shed Pounds
"Still, somehow, on the elevator from the first floor to the second, I shed them. And it's wonderful. The main thing is that the men in the newsroom are glad I'm there."

"There's a drawback. I've been given a beat and that damned thing is exactly one mile away, and you do it by foot. When I was an old lady, a little more than two months ago, I couldn't walk."

"But yesterday and today I walked that two miles and came home and walked our dog."

"That cute little teenage trick in the society department who keeps coming over batting her lovely long lashes at the news side boys would give her soul to have my job."

"And that, my dear, is, as I see it, success."

All it takes, apparently is a little feminine mystique.

Astronauts See Possibility for Family Christmas

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—It will be Christmas with their families for the nations four "spirit of '76" astronauts if they blast into space on schedule.

Frank Borman and James Lovell, Gemini 7 pilots, are scheduled to leave Dec. 4 for a record 14-day spaceflight.

By moving at record speed, scientists hope to launch Gemini 6 astronauts Walter M. Schirra and Thomas P. Stafford around Dec. 13 to "fly to information" with Gemini 7 at 185 miles above earth.

Borman and Lovell, under the schedule, would return to a landing Dec. 18. Schirra and Stafford will come down after about two days of travel through the cosmos.

Family Reunion
"We are reasonably sure they will be with their families on Christmas Eve and Christmas day," a spokesman of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Manned Spacecraft Center, said.

Borman and Lovell actually will be in the midst of an 11-day "debriefing" session at that time. But they will be given the Christmas holidays off and New Years day, too, if necessary.

Hundreds of others involved in the historic dual shots probably will not be as fortunate. It appeared doubtful all the recovery force personnel or those on duty at remote tracking stations around the world could make it home by Christmas day under the present schedule.

Meet Schedule
Space agency officials expressed confidence they could meet the demanding "spirit of '76" schedule.

"Everything is progressing nicely," a NASP spokesman said.
The Gemini 7 spaceship was expected to be physically connected to the top of a Titan 2 booster rocket at Cape Kennedy's Launch Pad 19 Thursday. A series of simulations and flight readiness reviews also were on the docket for this week.

OFFICE MANAGER — T. M. Kiviehen, a native of Miami, Texas, has been a resident of Pampa since August, 1954. He is a graduate of Miami High School and attended Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, N. M., for two years. Kiviehen is married and the father of four children. The family's church affiliation is Methodist.

Chevy Expands Line of Trucks

To meet highly specialized truck needs, Chevrolet has expanded its line to 366 models of haulers — with 101 new offerings in 1966.

Principal improvements in the 1966 Chevrolet trucks are six new engines, an optional three-speed automatic transmission, a new three-ton series with payload capacity of up to 34,000 pounds, a restyled more efficient heavy-duty cab design and the addition of several safety items as standard equipment.

Monterrey, third largest city in Mexico, is known as the "Pittsburg of Mexico."

Kiviehen is married and the father of four children. The family's church affiliation is Methodist.

Cubans Find Life A 'Dream'

DALLAS (UPI)—To a Cuban housewife, getting away from Communist Cuba with her husband and rejoining two daughters to live in Dallas is "like a dream."

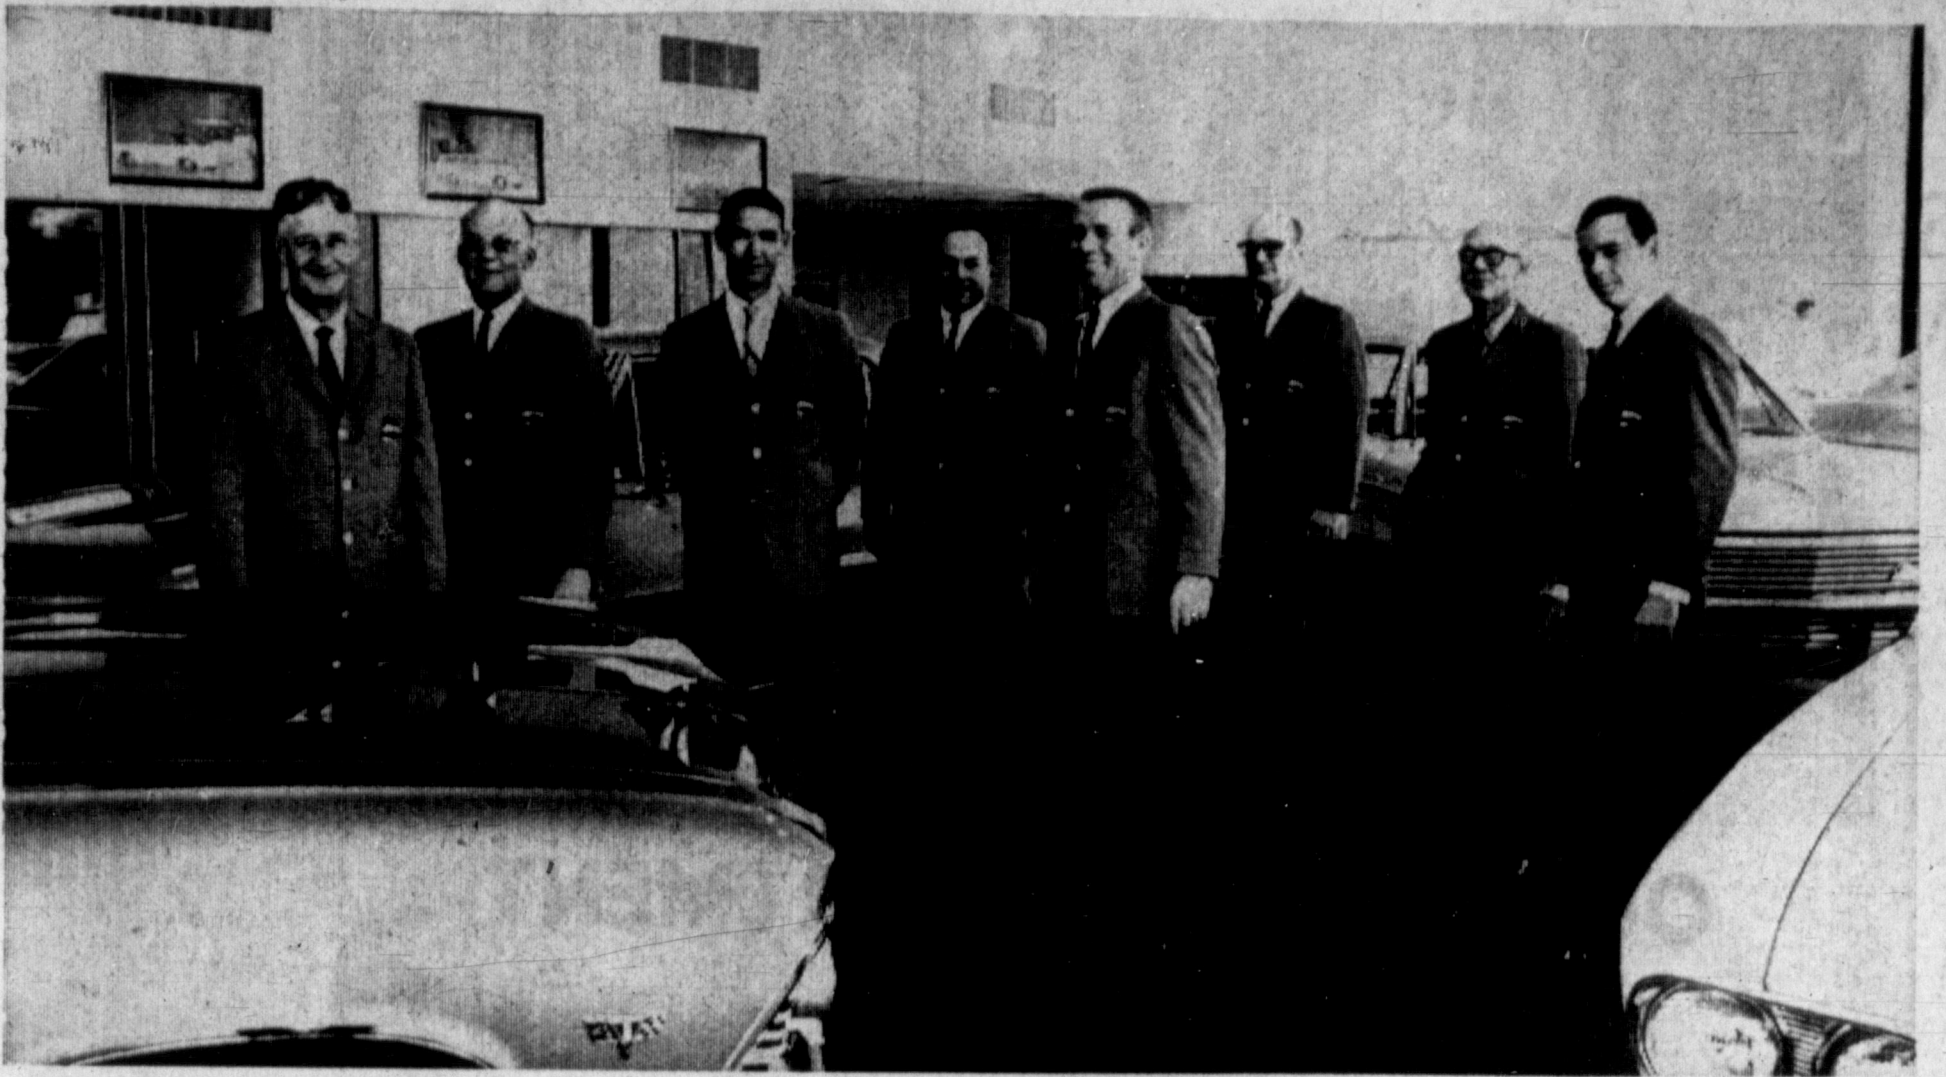

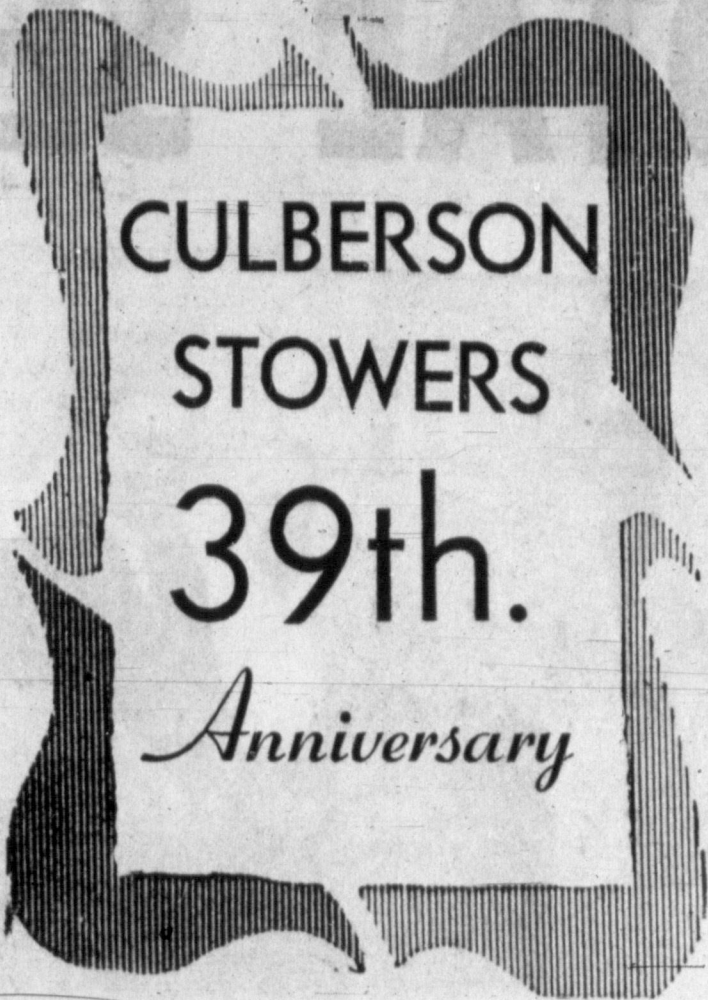

That is the way Mrs. Rafael Ferrer described their new life. Ferrer sent his daughters, Magaly and Maria del Carmen, to America four years ago. In August, he and his wife and three other children left Cuba for Miami. Monday, they arrived in Dallas.

"I feel like the happiest person in the world," Mrs. Ferrer said.

Ferrer said Cuban Communism failed because the people have no desire to improve things now. He said he thinks an invasion from Cuban ex-patriates could free the country. The Catholic Relief Service and Dallas Council of Catholic Men helped get the family to Dallas and arranged for a furnished apartment for them.

The typewriter was first put on the market in 1874.

The U.S. National Park Service was established in 1916.

Many Get Their Driver Training In a Chevrolet

Many Top of Texans learned to drive an automobile as a youth in a Chevrolet.

For about fifteen years, Culberson Chevrolet, now known as Culberson - Stowers Inc., exclusively furnished two to four cars a year free for driver education courses.

Specially equipped cars enable the instructor to maintain control or delegate it to students, while others observe this phase of teaching from the back seat.

Driver training automobiles are now selected by the schools each year on a bid basis.

NO BRIBE — MEXICO City (UPI) — Traffic officer Francisco Marban stopped a motorist Sunday for a series of alleged traffic violations and demanded a bribe under threat of hauling the driver into the station house.

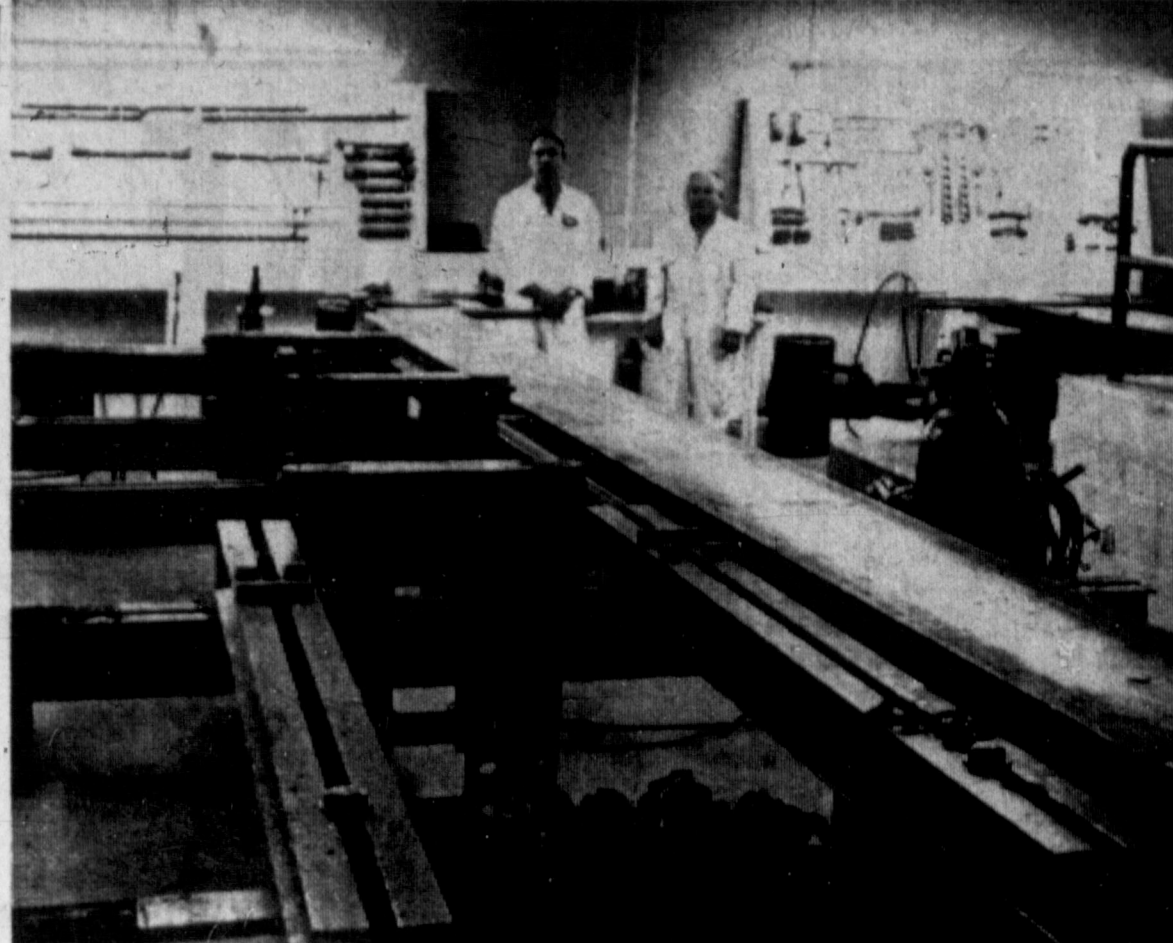

"Go ahead," the driver said. Appearing before the desk sergeant, the driver identified himself as a police inspector. Marban was arrested.

Teenagers Write 'Terror' Notes

DALLAS (UPI)—Two teenagers from South Oak Cliff High School, who said they wrote elaborate extortion notes signed "KKK" and "the Terror" as a joke, were held by juvenile authorities today.

Police said the boys left five notes at the homes of neighbors. The notes, some of them with drawings of death heads, ordered the recipients to leave money in a box on the porch of a vacant house.

The boys, 15 and 16, said they meant no harm. The notes said those who did not follow the instructions would suffer at the hands of a gang.

U.S. To Boost Viet Nam Force Past 200,000

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. military strength in Viet Nam is expected to pass the 200,000 mark within two months, but as yet there is no sign the Communist Hanoi regime wants serious peace talks, officials said today.

The Johnson administration's hope is that steadily increasing military punishment plus reported pressure from Moscow for a peaceful settlement soon will persuade Communist North Viet Nam to bid for negotiations on a basis acceptable to the United States.

If and when such a bid comes, the President undoubtedly will be under conflicting pressures here and abroad as to what course to follow.

There is strong sentiment in the United States as well as among allied and neutral nations for Washington to seize the first hint of Communist willingness to negotiate and make an all out effort on the diplomatic front.

There are, however, those in Congress as well as among the general public who believe the United States should use the military momentum it has built up to push on for a major and decisive victory before going to the conference table.

The President has been committed to "unconditional discussions" on peace with the Reds ever since his April 7 speech in Baltimore. But this carries no obligation to do more than meet with the Reds and determine if they are "serious" about a meaningful settlement, that is, one which would guarantee South Viet Nam's independence and territorial integrity.

JOB CANDIDATES — BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A two-week Peace Corps recruitment drive at the University of California's Berkeley campus brought 445 enlistments for two-year tours of duty in developing nations, the university reported Monday.

The figure was the largest reported for any campus in the United States, and above Berkeley's 1964 total of 413 recruits.

GUY CLEMENT — new & used car sales mgr.

Guy Clement With Company 15 Years

The sale of new and used cars and trucks at Culberson-Stowers Chevrolet is the prime responsibility of Guy Clement, who has been associated with the firm since 1950. He came here from Wellington.

Under Clement's supervision are eight salesmen, who are familiar with and sell all the cars and trucks which Chevrolet builds.

New cars are displayed in the beautiful carpeted showroom and used cars are located on a well-lighted hard surface lot north of the main building. New and used trucks are displayed on a lot adjacent to the service department.

Clement, who is married and has one son, has many years experience in new and used car and truck sales.

In inviting the public to inspect the cars and trucks, both new and used, he said, "We will continue to extend the kind of friendly, courteous service our customers want at all times."

To give privacy to every sale or inquiry, a number of private conference room offices are available for customer and salesman.

Dorothy Kilgallen Died of Blend of Alcohol, Drugs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Columnist and television personality Dorothy Kilgallen died last week of a combination of alcohol and barbiturates, the medical examiner's office announced yesterday.

Miss Kilgallen was found dead in bed last Monday afternoon by a hairdresser. She apparently had died during the night while reading following an evening spent as a panelist on the television show "What's My Line?" and in writing her syndicated gossip column.

A preliminary autopsy report had ruled out a heart attack as cause of the 52 year old writer's death. A death certificate ascribed her decease to "natural causes."

Monday, Asst. Medical Examiner Dr. James Luke said a new certificate will be issued stating that she died of "acute ethanol (alcohol) and barbiturate intoxication — circumstances undetermined."

Dr. Luke said that although Miss Kilgallen only had "moderate amounts of each," the effect of the combination of liquor and drugs had caused depression of the central nervous system "which in turn caused her heart to stop."

'Trivia Quiz' Is Popular Brain Game

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Probably the most popular form of intellectual exercise at the moment is the "Trivia Quiz."

In case there might be someone in the audience who has not played "Trivia," I should explain that the purpose is to test your memory about easily forgotten facts from out of the past.

Most trivia quizzes stem from old radio shows, movies and other aspects of show business. What was the street address of "Fibber McGee and Molly?" What was the first line of the "Little Orphan Annie" theme song? And like that.

For a change of pace, I thought you might enjoy a Washington trivia quiz. I got the idea from a recent Gallup Poll, which showed that 57 per cent of the American people did not know the name of their congressman.

The following questions are even more challenging than that. The answers appear at the end. No peeking, please.

1. With which hand did former President Harry S. Truman throw out the first ball for the opening of the baseball season?

2. What former member of Congress had his suits made without pockets?

3. What was the name of the Pakistani camel driver that President Johnson invited to Washington?

4. What was the late Sen. Estes Kefauver's presidential theme song?

5. What was the birthplace of Harold E. Stassen?

6. What is Lady Bird's real first name?

7. What was former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's favorite type of dog?

8. Who was the bigtime gambler whose hands were featured on television during the Senate crime hearings?

9. Which Postmaster general was responsible for the Zip Code?

10. Who was Barry Goldwater's running mate?

11. During a congressional investigation of "influence peddling," testimony centered on what gifts a government official could properly accept. One item discussed was a ham. How much did it weigh?

12. Who made the seventh seconding speech for Lyndon B. Johnson at the 1964 Democratic National Convention.

Answers: 1 — Both. He is ambidextrous. 2 — Clare Hoffman, R - Mich. 3 — Mohamad Bashir. 4 — "Tennessee Waltz." 5 — West St. Paul, Minn. 6 — Claudia. 7 — Bird Dogs. 8 — Frank Costello. 9 — J. Edward Day. 10 — William E. Miller. 11 — 12 pounds. 12 — New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner.)

Chevrolet 'Bow Tie' Came From Wallpaper

The famous Chevy "bow tie" emblem, seen on cars in the Culberson - Stowers showrooms and carried by more vehicles than any other in the world, originated from a wall paper design.

W. C. Durang, company founder, saw the original pattern on the wall of a French hotel. He liked it, tore a sample of paper from the wall and brought it back to America as a basis for the emblem.

DEMO POWER EROSION

Byrd's Resignation 'Postscript' to Era

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The retirement of Sen. Harry F. Byrd is not the end of a chapter in the history of the Senate but a postscript to a chapter already finished.

He has been one of the symbols of Southern Democratic power which has been suffering a steady erosion over these 12 years.

There were two events in 1953 from which the erosion may be traced. The first was the death of the Republican Robert A. Taft, then Senate majority leader, who had some firmly constructed alliances with southerners like Byrd.

The second was the installation by the southern bloc of Lyndon B. Johnson in the job of Democratic floor leader. Johnson himself has been a card-carrying member of the southern bloc, although he was more liberal or more flexible than its conservative members.

The new Democratic leadership always paid due respect to his southern elders but he also understood and enjoyed the use of power in his own right.

One significant break Johnson made with tradition was to weaken the seniority rule. Without serious challenge he successfully insisted that all Senate Democrats be given one choice committee assignment apiece.

Power Dispersal
This action dispersed power

once held by committee chairmen, most of them southerners. Newcomers won seats on prized committees and could look forward to subcommittee chairmanships at relatively early stages of their careers.

For years, the Senate had been the cemetery for civil rights legislation. The elevation of Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., to the Judiciary Committee chairmanship was supposed to keep it that way.

But the Senate contrived ways to run around the committee or to put it under deadlines for reporting civil rights bills.

Battle of Chu Pong Mountain Is Ordeal for Seasoned Men

By JOSEPH GALLOWAY
Chu Pong Mountain, South Viet Nam (UPI)—The soldier's eyes were red from loss of sleep, and maybe a bit from crying too, now that it was over.

A three-day growth of beard stubbled his cheeks. But was hard to see because of the dirt. He was hurt, in terrible pain, but you'd never know it. Slivers of shrapnel had ripped his chest and speared his leg.

He sat on the landing zone below the Chu Pong mountain where more Americans had died than ever before in a battle against Communists in the war over Viet Nam. He had gone through hell — three days of it — and was still a bit dazed, more from lack of sleep than his wounds, though. When I walked up to him, he spoke. But not to me in particular, nor to the other guys sitting around sipping their first hot cup of coffee they had had since the fight began.

Loses Friend
"I took care of 14 of 'em myself," he said. "They were tough little bastards. You had to shoot them to pieces before they quit coming. . . just rip I squatted on my heels waiting for him to say more. But he didn't. I was still waiting when a medic came and gently led him to a Medivac helicopter. Somebody told me he had lost half of his platoon, including a friend he had served with for more than eight years. "What is his name?" I asked.

"It's not important," the sergeant slouching nearby said. "He's just one of us and he did a damn good job."

Everyone did a damn good job. And nobody knew it better than Gen. Richard A. Knowles, task force commander and deputy commander of the 1st Air Cavalry.

"These men were just great," he told me. "They were absolutely tremendous. I've never seen a better job anywhere, anytime."

Back From Battle
Monday another American soldier walked out of the jungle into the valley of death. Bullets whizzed over his head and kicked up dirt at his feet. list add battle 1/4 1/4 1/4 "Get down, you fool!" we shouted.

The GI kept walking. He carried no weapon. He walked straight and tall.

A mortar shell exploded nearby. He didn't waver. Shrapnel chopped off branches above my head. But the American out there in the open came on until he was within a few feet of the battalion command bunker. He looked funny, dazed.

Then we knew. He was shell shocked. He paused for a moment and looked around. He recognized the aid station set up under the trees and walked toward it.

Just as the soldier reached the station, he slumped to his knees, then pitched forward on his face. That is when we saw his back for the first time.

It wasn't pretty. It had been blown open by a Communist mortar.

Medics were unable to reach the soldier because of the almost solid wall of Communist bullets and jagged steel fragments coming from the jungle. So he walked out. The bullets and mortars did not bother him anymore. He had had his.

Veterans Cried
The men of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry fought like heroes. They died the same way. Some took their wounds without a whimper. Seasoned veterans cried.

Col. Hal Moore of Bardonia, Ky., the commanding officer of the 7th Battalion, 1st Cavalry, came over to me, tears streaming down his face. His men were catching hell from the slopes of this mountain range less than five miles from the Cambodian border.

"I'm kind of emotional about this, so excuse me," Moore said to me. "But I want you to tell the American people that these men are fighters."

"Look at them," Moore pointed to a Negro soldier lying in the shade of a tree. A Communist bullet had torn a huge hole in his stomach. The soldier had his hands over the wound. You could see him bite his lip. He was in terrific pain, but he made no whimper as he waited for a medical helicopter.

"Look at them," Moore said again. "They're great and the American people ought to know it."

Chu Pong Mountain rises 2,500 feet from the valley below. From the top, you could almost lob a mortar shell into Cambodia. The mountain slopes are heavily jungled. And they hid at least two battalions of North Vietnamese Army regulars — possibly the same troops who pinned down two companies of air cavalrymen not far away about a week ago.

The cavalry was looking for them, spoiling for a fight. They found the Communists Monday and dropped by helicopter into a small landing zone about the size of a football field at the base of the mountain on the valley floor.

One platoon got about 300 yards up the mountain before the Communists opened up. They hit the platoon from behind, cut it off and fired on the main cavalry force from three sides with small arms, heavy machineguns and mortars.

Time and again, the cavalrymen tried to move in and help the platoon pull back. It was futile. The fire was too heavy. The platoon spent the night on the mountainside. Their losses were heavy, but their damage to the Communists was said to be even heavier.

"We got 70 Communist bodies stacked up in front of our positions," the platoon leader radioed back Monday.

Men Dying
It was shortly before noon Sunday when the cavalrymen swept down in the area about 12 miles west of Pleiku. Ever since the nine-day battle around the Special Forces camp at Plei Me, the cavalrymen have been sweeping the jungles and running into sporadic contact with hard-core Communist units.

Brig. Gen. Richard Knowles, deputy commander of the air cavalry division, offered me a ride in his helicopter.

We circled over the battleground. Air strikes went in below us. An American A1E Skyraider was hit on a low-level bombing run, and the pilot had no chance to bail out. The plane crashed and exploded in a cluster of trees.

Men were dying down there, but they were doing their job.

"This is good," Knowles said. "This is what we came for. We've got a U.S. battalion well-armed and well-equipped down there."

In 1874, William Mary Tweed, boss of Tammany Hall in New York City, was convicted of defrauding the city of some $6 million.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

It's All-Out for Teenage Buck

With something close to $13 billion dollars burning holes in their pockets and purses every year, American teen-agers constitute one of the fastest-growing and most-catered-to single consumer blocs in the economy. The post-World War II baby boom is now the youth boom. There are now more than 24 million active, dynamic teen-agers; their numbers will reach 27 million by 1970.

And they spend an average of $489 apiece annually, according to News Front, a magazine directed to business management.

In the area of personal grooming alone, teen-age boys and girls spend a total of $540 million, more than a quarter of the $2 billion U. S. market. Though still living and eating at home, teen-agers manage to devour $482 million worth of party and snack foods, to the alarm of nutritionists but to the pleasure of drive-in chains.

If the "youthquake" poses many problems to parents, educators and the government, it spells opportunity to an increasing number of businesses that are using every possible bait to lure the teen-age spender, from rock 'n' roll shows to teen charge accounts.

"Scrambling atop an already heaped bandwagon of worshippers," says News Front, "marketing men have created a Mount Olympus of the teen-age market and set up the teen customer as its Zeus."

Even the New York Stock Exchange is cultivating a teen market. Minor stockholders have increased 540 per cent in the past decade to number 1,280,000.

The magazine discerns signs of a possible bust in this boom, however, as the population bulge moves from the carefree years into the sober ones of adulthood.

It quotes one executive as predicting that the growth of the young will lead to a substantially lower income structure for the nation as a whole. As the number of young families soars, per capita U. S. income will drop. Currently, 70 per cent of the people under 25 have incomes under $5,000.

Young families, faced with stretching their budgets, "are not exactly the advertiser's golden dream," unless he happens to produce baby clothes or baby foods.

Even before this stage, scrimping on the part of their parents may occur when teenage children reach college age. Eighty per cent of high school students plan on going to college, four years of which at a private school now costs $9,870. That figure will balloon to $11,290 in 1970—a sizable chunk out of dad's disposable income that might otherwise go into consumer goods.

But all this is only distant rumbling, scarcely heard today amid the clashing of overworked cash registers.

Protest Put in Focus

The inconsistency of the Viet Nam protesters was never more sharply put into focus than when Norman Morrison held his infant son in his arms, doused himself with inflammable liquid and bid the world goodbye in a puff of smoke and flame.

Mr. Morrison, we were led to believe, was distressed over the United States action in Viet Nam. His "love" for humanity cried out to his inner self to make a dramatic protest.

But Mr. Morrison apparently was willing to take his offspring (obviously without the 18-month-old child's consent) along with him in the journey to oblivion. And Mr. Morrison left behind a widow and two other children who must somehow exist without the wages a father is expected to bring into the family treasury.

No doubt Mr. Morrison was sincere in his objection to military action which daily snuffs out lives in Viet Nam. But Mr. Morrison created a burden for his own society by his "protest." And it is even more inexcusable that he was willing to murder his own child. The baby escaped either at the urging of bystanders that Morrison "drop the baby" or else by reaction when the pain of the fire reached his nerves.

So it is with the rest of the so-called "peace" movement in this nation. Those engaged in the protests are inconsistent in their professed "love" for humanity. They have no reservations against disrupting the lives of their neighbors and aggression against their fellow Americans.

They have disrupted the normal traffic of daily existence in our cities, halted and delayed rail traffic and created situations which have required increased expenditures of tax money for efforts of police to "protect" citizens.

Inconsistency is further evidenced in the fact that organizations opposing U. S. action in Viet Nam quite freely advocate U. S. "invasion" of southern States where injustices are visited upon the Negro race by local governments.

This is reason enough to doubt the sincerity of the protesters. Certainly, a great portion of the unrest is from idle and confused young people who do not have to work for a living. And certainly, too, a hard core of communist direction is deeply involved in the "movement."

The purpose of the communists, of course, is to fan the conflict in the long range plan to overthrow what is left of America's free enterprise society.

Their greatest asset is the idle youth, coddled, protected, indoctrinated with foolish paternalist philosophy of our political government and so-called "educators" and set at large in society with nothing to occupy their minds and bodies but a search for identity and a cause.

It is little wonder that we have come to this waste of human life and energy.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

Air of Self-Delusion
NEW YORK (NEA) — The electorate and other amateurs being safely out of the way, professional politics now begins in earnest. From what we have seen of elections, the campaign really starts on the morning after all the returns are in.

That is because political parties are not actually defeated at the polls. More usually, they defeat themselves while in office. So really, there is no such thing as a decisive political victory.

But for some reason we have failed to grasp, that principle does not seem to apply to New York's Conservative party which, with William F. Buckley for mayor, polled 13 per cent of the vote.

If we understand Mr. Buckley correctly, his party has scored an outright victory with that fraction and is now a major force in city, state, and even national politics.

We may have got that wrong as one of Mr. Buckley's followers kept poking us the while and saying:

"Got that? Boy, what a wit! What a brain! That Bill Buckley's a real brain!"

Well, we cannot make any similar claim for our intelligence or acuity. But it does seem to us that 13 per cent is not a particularly high score in public affairs.

For example, a detergent that gets clothes only 13 per cent whiter will generally be sold with the added inducement of a free dishrag with every bottle. And from what we have seen in politics, that detergent law is even more binding.

A fellow such as Abraham Beame, the Democratic candidate for mayor who lost the election with 42 per cent of the New York vote, is probably all washed-up as his party's standard-bearer.

But, as we said, none of this seems to pertain to Mr. Buckley and the Conservative party. And we are at a complete loss as to why it is so.

In fact, we are at a loss to explain what the Conservative party is. Or even if it is a party. And if so, what it wants to conserve.

Having spent a good part of the mayoralty campaign following this organization fairly closely, all we have to show for it is a broad outline of the things, people and ideas that they hate.

Whether that is enough to turn 13 per cent of the vote into a major factor in local, state and national politics — well, on a loose screw is enough to stop an engine.

But whether it is a political party with the equipment necessary for reintroducing what Mr. Buckley calls "the two-party system in New York" — that is a different matter completely.

To hear Mr. Buckley tell it, the Conservatives are a going concern, having polled a vote "vastly in excess of anything thought possible," and consequently ready with both a philosophy and a popular mandate to seize the reins of power.

And having said so, Mr. Buckley has announced his retirement from politics in order to go back to editing his National Review magazine.

Well, it may be exactly as Mr. Buckley says. However, we are inclined to disagree.

To our eyes, the Conservative party at work does not look at all like Thrush headquarters.

On the contrary, it seems to us much more like a gallery of admirers, clapping and cheering at Mr. Buckley's jests, and screaming with delight each time he impales an opponent with his cavalier wit.

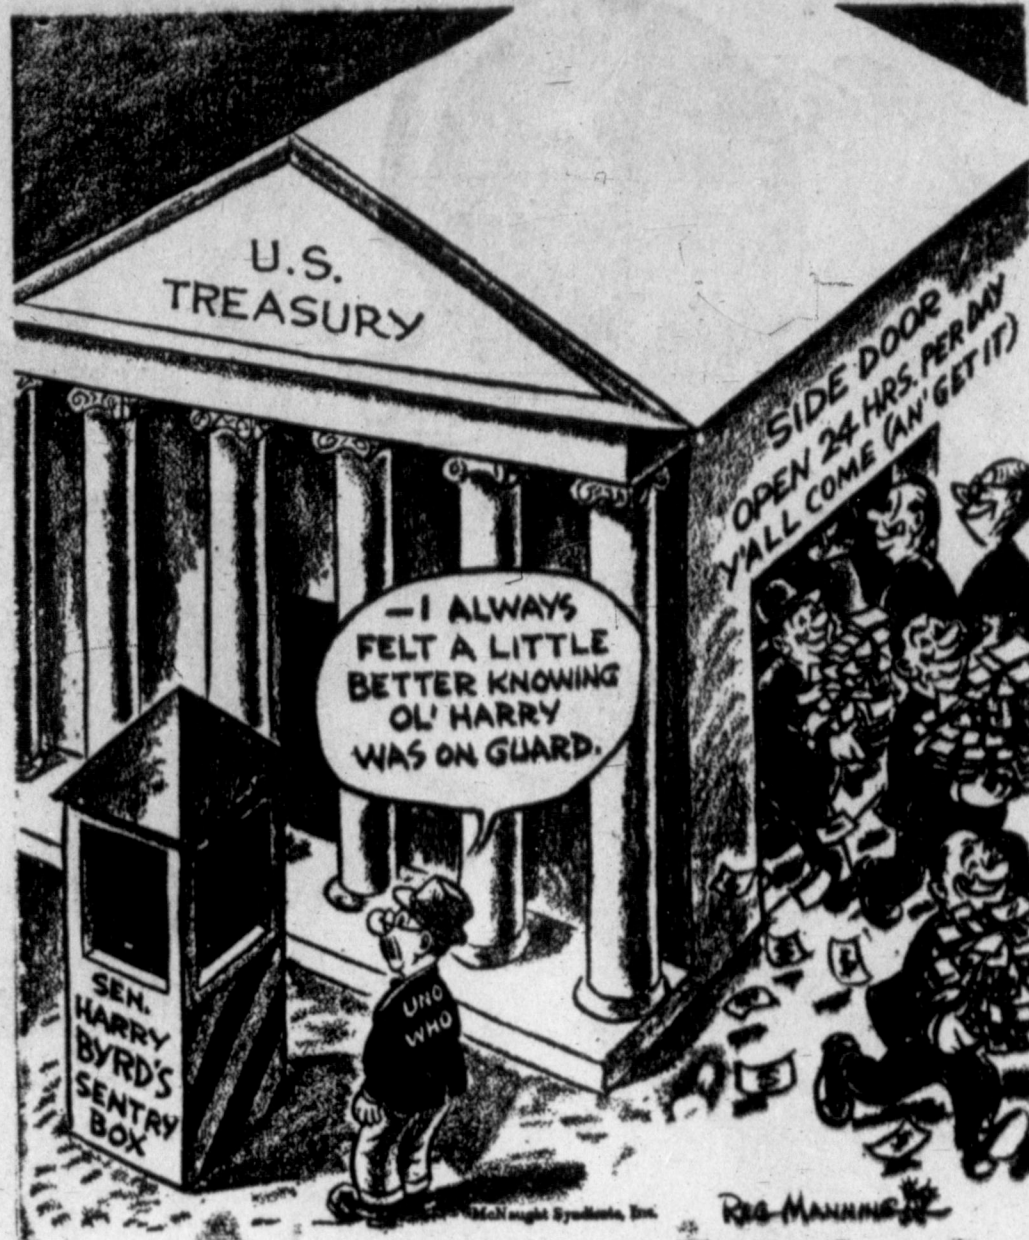

If there is a Conservative party at all, we doubt that it comes anywhere close to 13 per cent of the vote.

What has emerged from this election with the power of the Conservatives is William Buckley himself.

And we suspect that it is going to be very hard to go back to editing a magazine for fewer than 100,000 faceless readers when he knows that nearly 340,000 real, live, screaming voters have actually checked his name on their ballots.

That sort of thing is not easily put aside, nor dismissed with a rapier quip. It is the kind of seduction that can cuckold the most dashing cavalier, and dull the sharpest rapier. There is nothing worse for your resolve than taking yourself seriously.

'Our Side' Not Ready For Peace

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Messages arriving here from contacts in South Viet Nam make clear that if Ho Chi Minh should respond today to President Johnson's peace bids, he'd catch Viet Nam in an awkward, vulnerable position.

These messages indicate the simple bare truth is that, at present, our side is ill-prepared for peace.

The non-Communist groups in South Viet Nam are so divided and at such cross-purposes that if the contest between the Red Viet Cong and the non-Viet Cong became wholly political (and not military), the loyalists would likely be in serious difficulty despite the extremely small number of Communists.

The Buddhists, the Catholics, the Cao Dai, the Hoa Hao and other groups still aren't able to get together. A fistful of military rivals still have strong personal ambitions. They're waiting impatiently on the sidelines to fulfill these desires.

The fighting may be leveling out. But the political infighting on our side is as bad as ever. To repeat, politically our side in South Viet Nam is in sorry shape.

The small Communist minority is vigorous and well-organized. Politically, these messages from Saigon predict, the Red minority could probably run rings around the disorganized majority.

So if Red Ho Chi Minh openly stopped all his military operations in South Viet Nam tomorrow, sent the Viet Cong underground, then ordered them to devote their efforts solely to political (and terrorist) operations, the Saigon government probably could not long survive.

The various non Viet Cong factions in South Viet Nam agree the war must be won, but that's about all they agree upon.

Even now, the Viet Cong shows signs of moving back underground in some local areas of South Viet Nam. Where this has happened, it has been impossible to find them or handle them militarily. If the Viet Cong should, throughout the country, fade back into the anonymity of local hamlets, they will become exceedingly difficult to root out.

Because the Communists, though few in number, are well-organized and tough, and because the non-Communists, while great in number, are disorganized and divided, there's a growing feeling among some Vietnamese and American experts that the government of South Viet Nam should hold off on national elections for a long time.

Without real grass-roots-based (hamlet - based) national political parties, these specialists believe, national elections would provide only a diffused, disorganized, anarchistic parliament.

Such a parliament might stumble to a fall. Even if it held 000 limit imposed by President Johnson. Currently there are 185,000 troops in Viet Nam.

Question Box

QUESTION: "If voting is a privilege and not a natural right, what would be a good standard to determine who should have the privilege of voting?"

ANSWER: That is a very germane question because it has been puzzling mankind since the beginning of governments. Nearly every method has been tried. In this country people, in certain states, had to own property or had to belong to a church or be a certain age. Only since 1921 have women been permitted to vote.

Certainly there should be some moral test by which to determine who should have the privilege to vote if we are to keep the government from encroaching on the God-given natural rights of the individual. We would like to see tried limiting those who have the privilege of voting to those who believe in a universal single standard of right. That is, that no man had a right to do anything that every other man didn't have an equal moral right to do, and that no group had a right to do anything that every individual didn't have a moral right to do. It is hard to conceive how the state can be a servant instead of a master if it is permitted to do things that no individual has a moral right to do.

Of course, if this method was adopted, there would be very few people who would have the privilege of voting because most people unwittingly believe that the state has a right to do things that no individual has a moral right to do.

But if the state didn't interfere with the freedom and property of an individual, and we had a government that was limited to doing only what each and every individual had a moral right to do, there would be very few people who would even care to vote. Probably with these qualifications for awhile there wouldn't be over 5 or 10 percent of the people who would qualify for the privilege of voting. But this qualification would cause them to learn to respect the property of others. Then they could vote.

It seems to the degree that the privilege of franchise is limited, to that degree do we have a good government. According to John W. Burgess's "RECONCILING LIBERTY WITH GOVERNMENT," the United States more nearly approached reconciling liberty with government after we had freed the slaves and up until we had passed the Sherman Anti-Trust Law than any other nation in the world.

Since that time voting has been a grab to get the property of other people.

Harding said when he was president, "no pure democracy ever lasted long." A limited franchise is certainly essential to secure a desirable, non-political government. If anyone has a suggestion as to how the privilege should be granted, we would be glad to publish it.

The Almanac

Today is Wednesday, Nov. 17, the 321st day of 1965 and 44 to follow.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

In 1800, Congress convened in Washington for the first time.

In 1869, the Suez Canal in Egypt was formally opened.

In 1881, Samuel Gompers organized the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions of the United States and Canada.

In 1948, the British House of Commons voted to nationalize the steel industry in England, ending private ownership of mills and distribution outlets.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain said: "Soap and education are not as sudden as a massacre, but they are more deadly in the long run."

Wit and Whimsy

The enterprising editor of a small newspaper in a southwestern state cares little for national or international news, but is de-velved by an intense desire to "scoop" the other papers in the region on local and sectional news.

One day he accomplished the minor triumph of being the first and only editor to report a certain disaster in a nearby town. The following week he scored another feat with the announcement:

"We were the first to announce the news of the destruction of Jenkins' paint store last week. We are now the first to announce that the report was absolutely without foundation."

Such a parliament could not provide the leadership South Viet Nam requires. Worse yet, it might quickly be taken over by a hard-knit minority of Communist members.

The answer is not to bring our hands. On the contrary, the United States must now urgently put more emphasis on preparing South Viet Nam in practical democratic politics.

Putting in arms and troops is vital. It isn't enough.

Some hard-bitten thinking on the practical details of how to help a politically inexperienced country develop a strong, responsible government is worthy of our best brains.

fact

The guillotine was used in England, Scotland and various other parts of Europe before it was introduced into France at the time of the revolution. It was in use in Edinburgh as early as 1561. The French version of this form of capital punishment was introduced by Joseph Ignace Guillotin, a French physician, who suggested its use as a means of making execution as painless as possible.

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. MANT

FABIANS AND FANATICS
Before the turn of the century, British Fabian socialism began to permeate the United States, proceeding primarily through Harvard. American Fabians established the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, which later became the League for Industrial Democracy and spawned the Americans for Democratic Action.

Such ISS members as Walter Lippman, Felix Frankfurter, Roger Baldwin, Harry F. Ward and Stuart Chase achieved public prominence.

John Kenneth Galbraith was a leader in establishing the theories of Fabian Socialist John Maynard Keynes as the standard for economic thought in American education.

In all their endeavors, the Fabians have worked toward the same objective sought by the Marxian socialists of the Communist Party: a socialist America. And they have worked alongside the Marxists in many instances.

How well the Fabian strategy for undermining American society has worked is evident in the current disorders plaguing our university campuses. The part played by professors in misguiding the rioting students attests to the success of the Fabian penetration of faculties. And the most radical groups involved in the fomenting of the riots, the DuBois Clubs, are named for one of the pioneers of Fabianism in America, W.E.B. DuBois (Harvard, 1890), who was also a member of the Communist and Socialist Parties and the ISS.

A New York Legislative Inquiry in 1920 found that Lippman and Frankfurter, who managed to become special assistants in the War Department in 1917, used their influence to aid left-wing conscientious objectors during World War I. The "objectors" were radicals who refused to support "any war under the capitalist system." It appears that the same sort of influence continues to aid leftist "objectors" today.
