Beer Missing

Entry to the building was gained by tearing off a screen and breaking out a window. Nothing other than the beer was reported missing.

Seal

Publicity was needed, the plucky Miss Bissell decided, so she caught the next train to Philadelphia to seek the aid of the City's largest newspaper.

When she arrived there she found newsmen polite but unenthusiastic. Who wanted to talk about TB at Christmas?

Discouraged, Miss Bissell started to leave the newspaper. On her way out though, she stopped by the desk of reporter Leigh Mitchell Hodges. Pulling the bright red seals from her purse, she began to tell her story.

The drama of it lit Hodges' imagination. Half-snatching the sheet of seals from the downhearted woman, he barged into the office of the editor-in-chief.

The editor said, after listening to Hodges, "Tell Miss Bissell this paper is hers for the holidays and to bring 50,000 seals to this office tomorrow."

Then Hodges and the newspaper went into action. The paper went into a special edition every page and daily stories about it. People learned some of the facts about TB for the first time.

They didn't raise $300 - they raised $3,000.

TB Christmas Seals are now an American tradition. They have fought TB through the years and now have added all respiratory diseases to the battle.

"We have made great advances against TB, but the struggle is far from over," Mrs. Keith Davis, president of the Gray County Tuberculosis Association, said today as she renewed the plea of Gray County drive chairman Bob Clements for area residents to send in their Christmas Seal contributions as soon as possible.

Three thousand letters containing Christmas Seals were mailed to Gray County residents this year, according to Bert Nuckols, association treasurer.

City VFW Post Supports US Policy in Viet Nam

Veterans of Foreign Wars posts in 11 Panhandle cities, including Pampa, have adopted a resolution in support of U.S. policy in Viet Nam, according to Jerry Coley, Pampa VFW commander.

The resolution, ratified at the recent VFW District 9 conference in Borger, also calls for FBI investigation of draft card burning demonstrations and urges immediate steps be taken to draft demonstrators into military service.

VFW members in Pampa, Borger, Spearman, Stinnett, Canadian, Perryton, Texline, Dumas, Amarillo, Panhandle and Dalhart all have approved the resolution which reads in part as follows:

"BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, District 9, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Department of Texas, go on record:

"FIRST, to unite behind our Commander-in-Chief and support the decisions he must make and action he must order to fulfill our nation's commitments to other nations in all zones of danger of communist aggression, and,

"SECOND, that we condemn the irresponsible tactics of the extreme left wing groups such as Students of a Democratic Society, Committee to End War in Viet Nam, and other such organized efforts influenced by Communists in sponsoring and staging demonstrations against this nation's policy in Viet Nam, and,

"THIRD, that we urge the Federal Bureau of Investigation to probe draft card burnings and draft - evasion seminars conducted in conjunction with the demonstrations, which were in violation of the law, and charges he brought against the guilty parties in these outrages and prison terms be levied as specified by law, and,

"FOURTH, that the Secretary of Defense direct Selective Service Boards to reconsider the classifications of known registrants in such demonstrations advocating appeasement and a no-win policy and which are undermining the morale of America's fighting men in Viet Nam, and action be taken immediately to draft such young men into military service for non-combat duty in and around military bases, and punishment for treason levied against those not fit for military service for aiding and comforting our known enemies during a time of crisis, and

"Be it further resolved that we realize the vast majority of Americans have indicated strong support of U. S. policy in Viet Nam and that the protestors are only a small fraction of our people but, nevertheless, such demonstrations add fuel to the Communist movement and work to the detriment of a united America.

"Be it further resolved that our National Commander tell the world that the Veterans of Foreign Wars is firmly opposed to such demonstrations and other subversive activities, and will do all in its power to prevent this disgrace to our country.

"Be it further resolved that copies of this resolution, properly certified, be sent to the President of the United States, all command levels of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Senator Ralph Yarborough, Senator John Tower and Congressman Walter Rogers."

Shop Early, Mail Early And Use 'Zip,' Postmaster Urges

It really wasn't too many on end.

But things have changed. In today's age of the machine, the megalopolis and the annual "moving day," communication over the miles has become common, constant and of colossal proportions.

This year, the Post Office Department, for instance, will deliver over 72 billion pieces of mail. The volume is increasing by two or three billion each year.

Pampa Postmaster Lynn Boyd says about ten per cent of the mail enters the postal system the month before Christmas. In Pampa that means approximately 1,557,500 pieces of mail is handled between Dec. 1 and Christmas. It also means that 60 postal employees serving Pampa right now are working at peak to handle the jump in mail volume.

With this in mind, Postmaster Boyd passes along the annual suggestion that Pampans do their Christmas shopping a bit earlier this year, mail earlier and use the five little numbers called ZIP Codes.

Everybody may not completely understand the significance of the codes, but Postmaster Boyd says the ZIP Code concept is so successful that hundreds of postal officials from other countries have been in the U.S. studying ways to adapt the system to their postal operations.

Boyd says it makes a pretty good argument for using ZIP Codes, especially at Christmas when communication problems are most acute.

Agencies that are aided by the United Fund are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Milk Fund, Pampa Welfare Fund, Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, Red Cross, Texas Assn. for Mental Health, United Service Organization, Salvation Army, Medical Research Foundation of Texas, National Travelers Aid and United Community Fund.

United Fund Drive Still Short of Goal

Pampa - Lefors United Fund campaign is still some $20,000 short of its goal as the latest report released this morning showed a total of only $56,820 collected.

United Fund leaders have stressed that $77,000 will be needed to properly support 12 participating agencies.

Drive spokesmen say there are a large number of prospect cards that have not been worked or turned in to the United Fund office. Volunteer workers who have not completed their calls are asked to do so at once.

Special clean-up crews are also being organized to accelerate the completion of the drive.

Prospective donors who have not been contacted are again asked to make their pledge or donation by mailing a check to Pampa - Lefors United Fund, P.O. Box 2076, Pampa or phone MO 9-9522 and a worker will pick up the money.

Dear Abby....

Mistletoe Can Be The Kiss of Death

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can print this before Christmas. It might save a child's life. Last year I brought a package of fresh mistletoe to decorate my house for the holidays. My two-year-old daughter got into the package, which was sitting on my kitchen table. The mistletoe berries looked as though they would be good to eat, so she ate some (No one saw her eat them, and even if I had seen her eat them I probably wouldn't have been alarmed because I didn't know mistletoe berries were poisonous.) Later that evening she became violently ill. We called a doctor, and fortunately she hadn't eaten enough to kill her, but she was very, very ill. Please warn other mothers, Abby.

SAN BRUNO MOM
DEAR MOM: Thank you for your informative letter. I thought mistletoe was to inspire kissing. I didn't know it was the kiss of death.

DEAR ABBY: I broke up with a fellow about a month ago and now he wants to go back with me but I don't want to date him any more. My mother is on HIS side and is doing everything she can think of to help him. (She coaches him on how to get a date with me. If I tell him I'm busy she tells him to ask me for the next night, or the next, until I have a free evening.) I think the only reason she likes him is because he has a car, and if he takes me some place, like to a game or a dance, SHE won't have to. I am only 15. He is 18. How can I get my Mom to let me make up my own mind about the guys I want to date?

OLD ENOUGH
DEAR OLD ENOUGH: Since you are on to his strategy, it shouldn't be difficult to beat him at his own game. But why the minute? Tell the fellow you do so want to date him. And tell your Mom that giving aid and comfort to "the enemy" is treason.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a husband who is close to 50 and has not yet learned to say NO to anyone?

If someone calls and invites us some place we would rather not go, he says, "Thank you for the invitation, I'll ask Jane." (me) then he tells me when they call I should tell them we can't make it.

If someone asks him for a favor he is not in a position to grant, I am the one who has to turn them down and give the reason. If someone has owed him for a long time I have to coax him to remind them because he could never bring himself to ask. I realize that kindness is a fine trait but I wonder if that is what it is? I am tired of constantly being the "bad-u." Why can't my husband do the job?

"THE BAD-Y"
DEAR BAD-Y: Because he has a wife who not only can do the job, but WILL. You may

Public schools in the District of Columbia have gone the full circle from racial segregation through integration and back again to racially segregated schools. Not much can be done to change this situation.

White families have fled the capital city in large numbers. The influx of Negroes has continued. Currently statistics fix the Negro population of the district at 61 per cent.

About 89.5 per cent of the public school children are Negro and of the school teachers about 76 per cent are Negro.

Washington, D.C. is the only major U.S. city in which the Negro population exceeds the white population. This situation is substantially beyond the powers of the U.S. government to correct. District of Columbia whites voted with their feet, moving in droves to the suburbs in Virginia and Maryland.

The close-in suburbs are in two Maryland counties, (Prince Georges and Montgomery, and in one Virginia county (Arlington). In these counties there is a reservoir of white public school children upon which federal authorities might draw to lighten the complexion of D.C. public school classes.
Boston, New York and Chicago are Northern cities where pressure is great for an artificial racial mix in the public schools. In New York, where neighborhoods are predominantly Negro, it is argued that white children should be bussed around the city to attend Negro schools outside of their neighborhoods to obtain a racial mix satisfactory to Negro parents.

READY FOR CHRISTMAS—Built on one of the holiest sites in Christian history, where the Archangel Gabriel announced to Mary the birth of Jesus, the new Basilica of the Annunciation, upper right, at Nazareth, Israel, receives its first worshippers for Midnight Mass on Christmas Eve, 1965. Begun five years ago, the Franciscan Order church is the fifth religious structure, dating back to 350 A.D., to stand on the site.

Cassels Analyzes What Ecumenical Council Did

EDITORS NOTE: The Vatican Ecumenical Council, which began on Oct. 11, 1962, will come to a close Wednesday, Dec. 8. In the following dispatch, UPI Religion Editor Louis Cassels analyzes the achievements of this historic meeting and its impact on the world of religion.

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Editor

The Vatican Ecumenical Council was the most significant religious event of this century.

It laid the groundwork for changes in the Roman Catholic Church as far-reaching as any time of the Protestant Reformation by Martin Luther at the nation.

As a result of this historic four year summit conference of bishops from every nation, the world's largest religious body will:

- Conduct its worship services in new ways.
- Decentralize its form of government.
- Radically revise its attitude toward other religions.
- Give greater prominence to the bible as a sourcebook of doctrine.
- Accord new dignity and importance to the laity.
- Overhaul its seminaries to insure better selection and preparation of priests.
- Put nuns into modern dress.

Vast Scope

That's not all the Council did, but it's enough to indicate the breathtaking scope of its achievements.

Not all the changes it wrought will be visibly immediately to the church's 500 million members. It will take many years, in some cases, to implement the broad charters of reform which were laid down by the Council fathers.

But the die has now been cast, and the life of the catholic church for centuries to come will be shaped by the decisions made in St. Peter's Basilica since the late Pope John XXIII called the Council to order on Oct. 11, 1962.

These actions, when fully implemented, will mean greater local autonomy, and will give non-Italian Catholics a bigger voice in the church's affairs than they've had in the past.

A radical revision of Catholic relations with other religions was decreed in three different documents of major importance. The first commits Catholics to establish warm new ties of cooperation, friendship and dialogue with their "separated brethren" of other Christian churches.

The second recognizes the spiritual values inherent in non-Christian religions, and particularly the "common patrimony" which Christians share with Jews. It also repudiates any notion that Jews are under a divine curse because of the crucifixion of Jesus, and decries all forms of anti-Semitism.

Religious Liberty Affirmed

The third document, in many ways the most revolutionary action taken by the Council, puts the Catholic Church on record for the first time as believing that religious liberty is a God-ordained human right which is not to be contravened by any government or institution.

Protestant observers, who attended all sessions of the Council, were delighted with the religious liberty declaration.

WASHINGTON — Although President Johnson expressed his regret at the Federal Reserve Board's decision to raise the discount rate to 4 1/2 per cent from 4 per cent, there is no indication that the administration will try to roll interest prices back. The Fed also raised from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent the maximum rate commercial banks may pay on time deposits.

PITTSBURGH — Steel orders

GOOD CUSTOMER WASHINGTON (UPI) — France remained the biggest buyer of U.S. gold during the third quarter of 1965, purchasing $117.2 million worth during the July-September period.

The Treasury reported Monday that gold sales to France and other countries were partly offset by a $132.3 million purchase from Britain, probably reflecting in part sales of Soviet gold in London to pay for Russian wheat purchases.

For February delivery are running ahead of orders in November for January delivery, mills said. However, some mills said the new orders are not quite so good as they had anticipated.

Temporary Disillusionment

Their maneuvers succeeded on many occasions in postponing action on important documents. This led to premature gloom-mongering by disappointed liberals and, particularly at the close of the 1964 session, gave rise to a widespread public impression that the Council was foundering on the rocks of conservative intransigence.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The key fact about the Council, from the day it opened until the day it closed, was the overwhelming size of the majority committed to Pope John's program of renewal and reform. On the crucial votes, the majority for "aggiornamento" (an Italian word meaning "updating") was usually in the neighborhood of 80 to 90 per cent.

So this revolution in what was for centuries a staid and change-resistant institution cannot be regarded as a coup engineered by a few hot-eyed reformers. It represents the considered judgment and enthusiastic will of most of the 2,300 bishops who patiently endured endless weeks of Latin debate in order to cope with a cruelly long agenda.

The first fruit of their labor was a sweeping reform in catholic liturgical practices.

The Council fathers decreed that public worship was henceforth to be conducted in the language of the people instead of Latin so members of the congregation could be active participants rather than silent spectators. Provision was made for revising the order of the mass, purifying it of medieval accretions and redundancies, and placing more emphasis on sermons, scripture reading and hymn singing, in order to make the whole service more meaningful to the laity.

Shifts in Power

Next, the Council turned its attention to the task of re-defining the power structure of the church, and correcting the one-sided emphasis on papal supremacy which resulted from the uncompleted work of the Vatican Council of 1870.

The corrective which the Council adopted was the "Doctrine of Collegiality" which asserts that all bishops, by papal suzerainty, share with the Pope in the responsibility for governing the whole church.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: — Today's activity of the full moon brings a great deal of desirable action along lines that have largely to do with your relations with others. It is a fine time to select Christmas presents of importance, and little things but those that have deep meaning. It is also good for new agreements with everyone.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): — Much activity done whatever is vital and seeing the individuals who are important brings excellent results today. Write letters to friends of long standing in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): — If your bank balance isn't what you want it to be, this is a good day to plan for greater income. Bigwigs are in fine humor — contact them. Be more practical, look for property where it is to be found.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): — A day when you can accomplish almost anything you set out to do, but putting finest talents to work is the real key. Get out in new directions where society is concerned in p.m. Be charming.

African Nations Agree On Blacklist of Rhodesia

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

If there was one thing that could unify the African nations it was their opposition to the white supremacy government of Rhodesia.

As the foreign ministers of 35 African nations met in futuristic Africa Hall in Addis Ababa they carried this seldom found unity to a point which seemed both unrealistic and irresponsible.

An ultimatum to Britain demanded the overthrow of the all-white government of Rhodesia's Premier Ian Smith by Dec. 15.

Failure would result in a break in relations with Britain by all members of the Organization for African Unity, including eight members of the British Commonwealth.

Urge Military Action
The next step would be concerted military action by the African nations to overthrow the Rhodesian government by force.

That the African nations were impatient was understandable but for Britain to overthrow the Smith government by Dec. 15 was impossible.

The economic sanctions imposed on the Rhodesians by Britain, the United States and others will take many months to show their effects.

Obvious intent of the Addis Ababa action was to force Britain to take military action now, a course equally impossible and more likely to result in the fall of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government in London than in the fall of the Smith government in Salisbury.

Zambia Cautious

Man in the middle was President Kenneth Kaunda of neighboring Zambia whose copper industry depends upon the Rhodesian railroad and upon the jointly owned Kariba hydroelectric dam across the Zambezi river.

Kaunda wants British troops to guard the Rhodesian end of the dam against what he believes is possible Rhodesian sabotage.

But, with more caution than displayed by others farther removed from the scene, he also has declared he does not want a racial war.

"This we would not like history to record against us . . ."

Nor, he says, does he wish a war which might eventually involve the great powers, including the Soviet Union "for this would mean a shooting war based on ideology."

Military Questionable
Among the African states only five, Ethiopia, the United Arab Republic, Nigeria, Ghana and Guinea, could offer more than a token military force.

Rhodesia already has indicated it believes its 10,000 man army and its 40,000 man police more than a match for any force the Africans might muster.

Kaunda has suggested he may turn to the United States for military help, or, as a last resort, to the Soviet Union.

Any kind of military intervention in Rhodesia carries with it the danger of a major conflict, a danger even greater perhaps than already exists in Viet Nam. The hope is that African home governments will have second thoughts and cooler heads than those on display at Addis Ababa.

NAZI MOMENTOS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A huge picture of Adolf Hitler, swastika armbands and various other Nazi mementoes will be sold at public auction by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

IRS agents raided the American Nazi party headquarters in nearby Arlington, Va., last Friday because of the party's failure to pay more than $5,000 in back taxes. No date has been set for the auction, but an IRS spokesman confirmed it would be held before the end of the year.

PESO on Agenda For Discussion At Board Meeting

A report from Supt. Jack Edmondson on the status of PESO will top the agenda at Thursday's monthly meeting of the Pampa school board.

PESO is a program of federal aid for educationally deprived school pupils.

Edmondson and McHenry Lane, curriculum director for Pampa schools, recently attended a meeting of the Panhandle Educational Services Organization in Canyon.

Pampa schools have joined the PESO group of schools throughout the Panhandle on a one-year trial basis.

The local school system is entitled to approximately $100,000 annual federal aid under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

Other business on the agenda at Thursday's school board meeting includes a report from the business manager and payment of bills and invoices.

SEND MEDICINE
LUXEMBOURG (UPI) — Luxembourg will send $20,000 worth of medicine and blood plasma to South Viet Nam, Prime Minister Pierre Werner said Monday. "I think the simple fact that we have decided to give symbolic aid to South Viet Nam shows we have sympathy and pity for the Population," Werner said.

'Moonlight and Blood' in Viet

(EDITORS NOTE: Machine guns still were firing when UPI correspondent Ray F. Herndon and staff photographer Dirck Halstead arrived at the battlefield near the Michelin rubber plantation north of Saigon where American infantrymen fought Viet Cong guerrillas. Their account follows.)

By RAY F. HERNDON
And DIRCK HALSTEAD
LAI KHE, Viet Nam (UPI) — He was a man of God. He was an Army chaplain. He was embarrassed by the dead around him.

"All I can remember is moonlight and blood," said Capt. Douglas Nelson of Houston, Tex. "It was like a scene from hell when I got there."

Nelson arrived Sunday night aboard one of the re-supply helicopters. He was nervous and showed it. He smiled constantly — the kind of nervous smile some people wear when they don't want others to know how upset they are.

"I had no idea," the chaplain said. He bowed his head and walked away, his shoes scuffing up the dust.

Command officers called it a "meeting engagement." The men who were in the thick of it called it an ambush.

Jungle Battle
Whatever it was, it took place on a road carved through thick jungles about 35 miles northwest of Saigon and roughly midway between the sprawling Lai Khe, the home of the U.S. Army's 1st Infantry Division.

"We got our tails kicked," said 1st Lt Donald Noble, 25, of Burlington, Vt., one of the company commanders. "Evidently the Viet Cong had planned this for a couple of days. They had freshly dug bunkers, camouflaged escape tunnels... good defensive positions."

"It's difficult to tell how badly the Viet Cong were hurt. It's the same old story. They came and got the bodies and polished up their equipment. I've heard they found a bunch of bodies, but I've seen only one."

The road is crushed gravel and fairly wide. Thick jungle flanks both sides. The spot on the road where the Communists struck also had thick hedges on both sides which were impossible to hack through. These tended to funnel the Americans moving down the sides of the road back toward the middle.

Reds Dug In
It was from this point and 400 yards on past down both sides of the road that the Communists dug in and waited—with 50-caliber machineguns, 57mm recoilless rifles, mortars and lighter automatic weapons.

Supreme Court To Review Two Lower Rulings
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court agreed to review two lower court decisions of state laws which the appellants claim violate freedom of the press guarantees in the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The court will review a $30,000 judgment against Time Inc., based on New York's right of privacy law, and the complaint of a Birmingham, Ala., editor who was prosecuted for making voting recommendations in an editorial printed on election day.

Arguments on both cases will be scheduled some time later this term, to be followed by a written opinion.

The Alabama action brings before the high court questions about the constitutionality of a state law making it a criminal offense to "do any electioneering or to solicit 'y' votes" on election day.

The Alabama Press Association and the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association filed a brief urging the Supreme Court to take the case.

The case arose in 1962 after James E. Mills, editor of the Birmingham Post-Herald, printed an editorial on Nov. 6—the day of a city election—urging a vote for a new form of city government.

Time asked the supreme court for a "federal rule" setting limits to the application of the New York right of privacy law.

The case involved a suit by James J. Hill.

Hill and his family were held captive in their Philadelphia home by three escaped convicts for 19 hours in 1952.

In reviewing a play with a plot similar to the Hill's experience Time took the cast to the former Hill home. The Life text called the play "True crime" and said it "reenacted" the Hill ordeal.

Hill who had sought to retire from public attention, sued Time on the basis of the privacy law, which requires written consent for use of the name of a living person "for advertising purposes, or for the purposes of trade."

funnel was beginning to work.

"We had elements on the left and right," said Pvt. Robert J. Sharp, 24, of Philadelphia. "We were going up this road, thick jungle on both sides of us. They pulled our company off the road to let Able and Baker companies come by us."

VC Attacked
"Just about when they were in the middle and all grouped up that's when the VC (Viet Cong) cut loose on us. For a while there, it was lead flying all over the place, mines going off, hand grenades being thrown. I was on the ground trying to keep as low as I could. And when they thought they had it slacked up they started bringing wounded and stuff up from the back. A lot of us pitched in to help carry the wounded and then they cut loose on us again. "They mostly concentrated on the wounded men on the road... throwing grenades at them, shooting them... and we couldn't do anything about it. A lot of our guys tried to go out and help the wounded, and they got it too."

Sharp got his Viet Cong as soon as he could find him. "Well, this one I got was about — directly across from me—maybe 25 meters away. He was in a tree and the only thing I know he had was an automatic weapon and was cutting down on us," Sharp said.

"I looked around and it took about 10 minutes to find him, but we finally spotted him when he threw a grenade at us, and I just put my weapon on automatic and cut loose."

"Did he stop firing?" we asked.

"Definitely," Sharp answered. "Hell, he stopped breathing."

McNAMARA'S ORDERS

149 Military Bases to Close

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced that he plans to close or reduce 149 military bases at home and abroad at an estimated annual saving of $410 million.

McNamara told a news conference that the 126 domestic bases involved, in 39 states and Washington, D. C., would be identified on Wednesday.

The 23 overseas bases, at which $93 million of the total savings will be identified after consultation with the foreign governments involved.

McNamara said that more than 53,000 military and civilian jobs would be eliminated and an additional 29,000 military and civilian personnel would be relocated as a result of the closings.

All civilians affected will be offered other government jobs. Transportation and retraining expenses will be paid where necessary.

McNamara said the closings which affect bases employing more than 250 persons—as distinguished from reductions—would be "subject to congressional review."

Under this year's military construction act, Congress must be notified 30 days prior to the close of a base with more than 250 persons. Full reports called for by the law will go to Congress Jan. 10, McNamara said. There will be no closures until 30 days later.

Congress can not prevent a closing, but McNamara declined to say whether he would shut down bases in the face of congressional opposition.

He also declined to say how many of the 126 domestic bases would be closed and how many would be reduced.

Members of Congress were notified of the new action starting at noon today. With a smile, McNamara said he hoped they would not make public the names of installations affected until Wednesday when the Pentagon's list will be announced.

The secretary said that, with the actions announced today, total savings in base closings since March, 1961, will amount to $1.5 billion a year.

He said that 2,700 square miles of land will have been released for "education, recrea-

CAT, NOT TIGER

HELSINKI (UPI) —It wasn't exactly a tiger in his tank but it sure was a mad cat under the hood, the newspaper Iltasanomat reported Thursday. The newspaper said a doctor from Helsinki opened the hood

Pope Announces First Roman Curia Reform

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI Monday announced the first in a series of reforms of the Roman Curia, the body that runs the Vatican. The major reform appeared to be simply changing its name from the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office to the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith.

The pontiff announced the changes in a motu proprio—a document issued "by his own will."

The congregation, run by ultra-conservative Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, deals with matters of faith and morals in the church.

Other reforms are expected in the coming months.

Vatican sources had said the changes would include lifting the index of banned books and taking matters dealing with mixed marriages out of the hands of the holy office.

However, the motu proprio said the congregation's power to condemn books still remained in effect, although in the future authors would have

SIT-IN
BONN (UPI) — About one hundred Social Democratic deputies protested prices in the parliamentary restaurant Tuesday by occupying a block of tables to eat sandwiches brought from home.

The Social Democrats unwrapped their sandwiches, put them on plates set on the tables in anticipation of the usual noon rush, and proceeded to eat them with knife and fork.

The restaurant manager, astounded at the "customer's strike" and all the dirty dishes, flatware and tablecloths complained "you might at least have given me warning."

chance to defend their works before the congregation.

On mixed marriages, the motu proprio were:

—The competence of the congregation includes all questions regarding the doctrine of the faith, and morals.

—It will examine new doctrines and new opinions and has the right to condemn those which are contrary to the principles of the faith.

Wall Street In Review

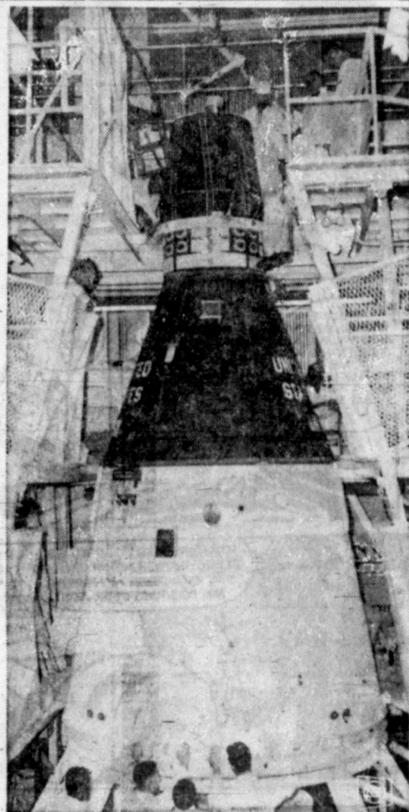

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We suspect that John Q. Public is selling a few rusty blue chips to build up his speculative kitty," says the Spear Market Letter. "In any event we can't help harboring the thought that the institutions are beginning, just beginning, to batten down the hatches while the traders are dancing outside."

According to Harris, Upham and Co., "the quality of the more popular recent favorites is the lowest in recent years. We note an air of get-rich-quick desire on the part of the public from the type of wire inquiries we have been receiving."

P. W. Brooks and Co. senses "an atmosphere creating a situation where corporate profits could turn down for the first time since 1961, accompanied by a decline in investor confidence." This could "suggest that significantly lower stock prices may be in the offing."

PAINTINGS SAFE

MADRID (UPI) — Nine crates of paintings insured for more than $1.5 million arrived safely at the Prado Museum here Monday from New York where they were on exhibit at the World's Fair. They included works by Goya, Ribera and Zurbaran.

CHICAGO — The hog market has climbed to a 12 year high and pork reached the highest wholesale prices since World War II on Friday. Retail prices haven't reflected the latest rise yet. Cutbacks in swine herds resulting from low prices in 1963 and 1964 have caused the current shortage.

Matson, Kreis Pace Aggies, TCU

By United Press International
Southwest Conference basketball teams, except for the unfortunate Rice Owls and the cold-shooting Texas Longhorns, showed up well enough to beat a variety of inter-sectional and intra-state opponents.

What was unfortunate about Rice Monday was Doug McKendrick. The senior forward set a school scoring record with 47 points, only to lose to Georgia Tech, 96-87.

McKendrick got 18 field goals in 19 attempts and sank 11 of 14 free throws for his record-breaking total. He eclipsed Kendall Rhine's 1963 record against Arkansas.

Texas Tech, largely on the shooting of Norman Reuther and Dub Malaise, got its first victory of the season with a 77-72 triumph over Arizona.

John Beasley got 32 points for the second game in a row to give Texas A & M a come-from-behind 76-66 victory over Southwest Texas.

The hustling Bobcats had led by as much as 13 points at times in the first half.

Where the Aggies really hurt the Bobcats was in rebounding. Led by Randy Matson and Beasley, A & M outrebounded Southwest Texas 55-36.

Harry Heroman hit 27 points to give Louisiana State a 76-66 victory over Texas, which could manage only 39.1 per cent of its field goals, compared to 46.5 for LSU.

LSU really came through in free throws. The Tigers sank 22 of 29, compared to Texas' 12 of 22.

Mickey White led Texas with 15 points.

Texas Christian's tight zone defense resulted in a 77-66 victory over unbeaten Loyola of New Orleans.

Wayne Kreis and Rich Sauer kept making the Wolfpack commit bobbles and TCU built a 41-37 halftime lead. Kreis and Sauder had 19 and 20 points, respectively.

UPS AND DOWNS — A National Hockey League goal tender is certainly not one to stand idly by. Here are four NHL goalies experiencing, in five instances, some of the ups and downs, ins and outs of their trade. The biggest hazard, of course, is to be caught lying down on the job.

PHEASANT HUNTING — Bill Studebaker, 1004 S. Foster, made his pheasant hunt a successful one with these three kills. Studebaker killed his west of Hereford.

UCLA Grabs No. 1 Spot

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.C.L.A. Bruins grabbed a healthy lead Tuesday in the first weekly major college basketball ratings by the United Press International board of coaches.

U.C.L.A., the National Collegiate Athletic Association champions for the last two years, drew 29 first-place votes from the 35 coaches on the UPI rating board and a 105-point margin over second-place Michigan.

Michigan and third-ranked St. Joseph's (Pa.) were the only other teams awarded first-place ballots. The Wolverines received five votes and St. Joseph's picked up the other one.

There were only minor position changes among the top 10 from the pre-season ratings as all 10 teams went through the first week of the season unbeaten. The ratings are based on games played through Saturday, Dec. 4.

St. Joseph's, fourth-ranked Duke, seventh-place Kansas and ninth-ranked Brigham Young each advanced one position. Minnesota dropped from third to fifth place, Vanderbilt held the No. 6 spot, Providence dropped a notch to eighth and Bradley also slipped one place to 10th.

San Francisco remained No. 11, Iowa jumped from 20th to 12th after stopping small college king Evansville's 35-game victory streak and vastly improved Kentucky soared from nowhere into 13th.

Louisville jumped three places to 14th, North Carolina State ranked 15th and New Mexico and Ohio State tied for 16th. Tennessee and Boston College tied for 18th and Dayton completed the top 20 in 20th place.

Heading the list of games between top 20 teams this week are three games in the South, two of them clashes between U.C.L.A. and Duke on Friday and Saturday nights. The other contest pits Vanderbilt at Tennessee Tuesday night.

Michigan takes to the road against Wichita Wednesday and San Francisco Friday while Kansas meets New Mexico State Tuesday night, Maryland Friday and St. John's (N.Y.) Saturday.

The second-ranked Michigan Wolverines are showing once more the balance that made them among the best in the nation last season.

Cazie Russell, the All-America, scored 22 points in Monday night's 107-70 shellacking of Ball State, but one expects that from Russell. What some may not have expected was the scoring by Michigan's guards, John Clawson and John Thompson.

Each of them scored 15 points, and, more important, between them they scored 16 of the Wolverines' first 28 points.

The taller Michigan rebounders seldom gave Ball State shooters a second chance at the basket and the Wolverines simply overwhelmed the smaller school. Greg Truex scored

Trio Sought For OU Post

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Doug Dickie of Tennessee, Jim Mackenzie of Arkansas and Chuck Curtis of Southern Methodist were believed today to be top prospects for the head football coaching job at the University of Oklahoma.

Former Sooner star Darrell Royal, now head coach at Texas, also was rumored interested in the post.

The rare vacancy occurred Monday when Gomer Jones, who succeeded highly successful Bud Wilkinson two years ago, resigned suddenly at the end of the school's worst season in history.

Jones, who asked to be retained as athletic director, said he was "tired of criticism and... untrue rumors" that he was about to be fired — rumors repeatedly denied by his superiors.

The "little round man" of Oklahoma's now demolished football dynasty of the 1950s, who tutored many an All-America lineman during his 15 years assisting Wilkinson, thought it had been understood the Sooners were in a "rebuilding" year this season.

However, the sophomore-heavy team dropped a mid-season game to rival Texas and ended its 3-7 season with a 17-16 defeat at the hands of Oklahoma State, the first time in 20 years the Cowboys had won over Oklahoma.

University President Dr. George L. Cross said he was shocked and surprised by Jones' resignation.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI)—Johnny Unitas has a reputation for being one of the most unselfish guys in sports.

It is a reputation that is richly deserved.

Far and away the finest quarterback in all football today, the unassuming 32-year-old super star of the Baltimore Colts has a habit of always doing something for someone else.

That quality showed up quite clearly again Monday when he immediately took two of his opponents off the hook for an injury that has ended the season for him and could put his professional football future in jeopardy.

Obviously still in pain, Unitas answered the telephone alongside his bed at Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore and spoke freely about what happened to him on Sunday even though he still was being given sedatives for surgery on his right knee.

Not Deliberate
"As far as I know it was not deliberate," said Unitas of the two-man tackle which tore the medial ligament in his knee and laid him low.

"I'd have to look at the pictures to be sure," he went on, "but I think they tackled me cleanly."

One thing is sure; they tackled Unitas hard.

Preparing to throw a long pass to Baltimore and John Mackey during the second period in a game with the Chicago Bears, Unitas had just released the ball when 265-pound Earl Leggett hit him high and 250-pound Stan Jones caught him low at the same instant.

Since Unitas checks in at only 190 pounds, the result was predictable enough. The next stop for the brilliant Baltimore quarterback was the hospital where surgery was ordered and done.

"They took the cartilage out and sewed the ligament up," Unitas explained. "The knee is

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Dwindling Food Surplus

There is startling news from the farm front.

U. S. stocks of surplus foodstuffs are no longer the seemingly inexhaustible mountains of yesteryear, when a prime headache for government was finding ways to dispose of them or at least to curtail further accumulation.

To the citizen long accustomed to thinking of the farm surplus as not only a fixed feature but a chronic problem in American life, the news may come with something of the shock of another sign of changing times. This was the realization not so long ago that the nation's vast gold hoard, far from being a built-in feature of the super-suspending economy, was actually dwindling away.

Now it appears we may be facing a somewhat similar situation on the food front. Stocks of many basic commodities are no longer unmanageable, but have been worked down to about what is prudent for national reserves.

In wheat, for example, there are something like 800 million bushels in storage. It may look like plenty, but in fact it would meet U. S. requirements for only some eight months in the event of a serious crop failure.

Such a crisis may appear unlikely, but another crisis is actually upon us. This is the growing food shortage in much of the rest of the world, in countries squeezed between mushrooming populations and virtually stationary food output.

Economists are warning that if a world-wide famine in the foreseeable future is to be averted, ever greater demands will have to be made upon the United States, Canada, Australia, portions of Western Europe and the other, very few, surplus food areas. These would be demands for which there is no guarantee those nations would be able to meet.

This development comes after years of American farm policies designed to reduce production. Some 50 million acres have been taken out of cultivation and we currently are reimbursing farmers for retiring crop land and cutting production to the tune of something like $2 billion annually.

One concerned observer suggests that the time may have come to reverse U. S. policy, to begin stepping up production. "I cannot believe the American people want to leave good cropland idle at public expense while hunger spreads across the world," says Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, former Food for Peace director.

It may be difficult to condition the American public to such a radical reversal. But that it may be necessary is one more indication that in a rapidly changing world nothing can be taken for granted, not even Fort Knox and ever-normal granaries.

The Amish Weep Alone

The trumpeters for "truth and freedom" sound their fury across our land.

They protest the violence of Viet Nam; they plead for justice for the oppressed Negro; they cry to comfort the "misunderstood" criminal.

But in the lonely cornfields of Iowa, the Amish weep alone. The Amish are simple folk; they know not the ways of the modern fight for "justice." There are no "fronts" to plead for them. There is no political hay to harvest from their misfortune. Their crime is that they dare to remain apart from the worldliness they consider sinful.

They tend their fields at peace with their God and with their neighbors, and their children are never in the courts nor jails, nor roaming restless along the streets.

But neither are they in the schools the state law says they must attend. For the Amish, in their deep religious conviction, must shun the worldly teachings. Their worship of God is to hew to the earth in horse and buggy tempo. They choose not to taste the heady wine of modern "life" for they view it as violent intrusion upon God's serene scheme for rural existence.

And these are evil ways, so rules the state of Iowa. And the force of Iowa's political government is now set upon the insignificant Amish to bend them to conformity, to rip out the deep-seated roots of generations and to herd their children into the enlightened age.

The screams of the Amish children racing wildly into cornfields to escape the clutches of truant officers is brutal testimony that terror has invaded their haven.

And there are few to hear their cries. For the "trumpets of justice" are echoing their hollow sound across our nation.

Tax Deductions for Beauty

Some folks may consider the federal government is generous in coming out with a ruling that tax payers who help conserve natural beauty "may" get a tax break.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen said gifts of money, land or other property to governmental agencies or "qualified" private organizations may be tax deductible. It's part of the administration's campaign to promote natural beauty, including the outlawing of billboards and automobile "graveyards" on private property along the nation's highways.

Actually, there's nothing new about the federal tax collectors allowing a deduction for gifts to "qualified" non-profit corporations or to governmental agencies. We suspect Mr. Cohen's statement was more of a reminder that the exemption is on the books.

It may be that this will encourage some individuals in the higher tax brackets to give up land or other property for the purpose. It really isn't much of a tax break for those in the lower brackets.

We would suggest that if the politicians really want to help people, they should eliminate some of the present double-taxation practices.

One instance would be to quit taxing the income of corporations, and then taxing the income of individual stockholders.

Another is the practice of taxing the income of individuals for money they never receive. For instance, the man who has a thousand dollars a year taken from his pay for income taxes, is not allowed a deduction for that amount. He also is not allowed a deduction for the money that is taken from his check for so-called social security. In California, one is not permitted a deduction from his state income taxes for federal income taxes, although he does get a federal deduction for state taxes.

Some of us radicals might even think it's wrong to increase a man's taxes on his property because he beautified it and makes it more attractive, as is done in too many parts of the nation.

There are many other instances of inequities in the tax law, but, as we have pointed out many times, we don't know of any really fair tax, unless it is a chargebased on use.

It is not going to do any good to have a nation that retains its national beauty, but destroys its economic incentives.

A thought for the day: President Roosevelt said: "We, too, born to freedom and believing in freedom, are willing to fight to maintain freedom."

AID AND COMFORT FOR EVIL

No force in the modern world is more antagonistic to true religion than international communism. In Communist China today, many churchmen languish in prison. Vast numbers of Christians have been murdered by the authorities that rule in Peking.

One of the great tragedies of our time is that some churchmen refuse to face the fact of communist terrorism and hatred for Christianity. They think it possible to have a constructive "dialogue" with the communists, and use their organizations to bring pressure on the United States government toward communist regimes.

This is precisely what happened at St. Louis, Mo., last October when the 6th World Order Study Conference of the National Council of Churches convened.

Held at a time when other Americans were bravely fighting communist aggressors in South Viet Nam, one would have thought that the assembled NCC representatives would have realized their responsibility and opportunity to give moral support to those who daily put their lives on the line in the defense of freedom. But no such thing happened.

On the contrary, the NCC conference gave aid and comfort to the enemies of the Americans fighting in Viet Nam. The NCC conference called for recognition of Red China, which is masterminding the assault on free South Viet Nam. It asked that the U. S. government commence cultural exchanges and trade with the Peking regime.

Truly shocking were the statements made in a report issued by the World Order Study Conference. For example, the NCC conference report spoke of "a national awakening (in China) under communism by which this great people has been unified." The so-called "great awakening" is on a par with the madness engendered by the Nazi government in World War II.

The NCC conference report represents some of the most warped thinking of our time. For instance, it says at one point that "we must not let our fervor for anti-communism outweigh our dedication to social justice for all peoples." But it does not point out that communism is the chief enemy of social justice. Nor does the report make plain that anti-communism is the very spirit of justice for peoples that seek freedom from communist tyranny.

If there was anything in the NCC conference report that would dispense or irritate the Chinese communists, it is not apparent. Indeed the NCC conference report could not but bring great cheer to the brutal regime in Peking that wants their ambitions presented in a bright light. The NCC report is an apology for Peking and represents unfair criticism of the United States.

We see around us in the world by one force — communism. We see nations invaded and crushed under the heels of the Reds. Yet the NCC conference sees no evil, hears no evil. Its condemnation is reserved for the United States. Its presentation of the issues in Southeast Asia is entirely one-sided, and against the side of the free world.

Instead we are told the Churches must "overcome old stereotypes that are no longer valid," as though communism no longer was a menace. It makes no difference that communism has several power centers instead of one as in the 1930s. The communist evil is just as real. The communist threat to our religious values is, if anything, sharper than ever. Communist aggression is not declining but increasing all the time — in Southeast Asia, in Africa and — closer to home — in Central and South America.

It is shocking that a church conference, supposedly oriented toward the moral questions of our time, refuses to face up to the peril posed by communism and, instead, presents anti-communism as a bigger danger than the force which is presently engaging in killing Americans on the battlefield.

Those who deliberately distort the issues in this way certainly must have a bad conscience as a result of their enormously hurtful actions and statements. And the NCC as a whole should be called on to repudiate the actions of the 6th World Order Study Conference.

Aerospace Industries to Submit Feasibility Studies For Direct Broadcast Satellite by Mid-January

ROBERT ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is embarking on a new space project that could revolutionize world communication systems within a decade.

Known as the direct-broadcast satellite, the spectacular NASA project could directly affect every TV and radio set owner in the U.S. and abroad as well as domestic and foreign communication carriers.

In a memorandum to leading aerospace industries, NASA authorities are asking them to submit by mid-January "feasibility studies to advance the development" of a "direct-broadcast satellite system."

This communications satellite, according to NASA scientists, would use atomic power to relay broadcasts from a centrally located transmission station on the ground directly to individual TV and radio receivers.

Communications satellites now orbiting the earth, such as "Tel-Star" and "Early Bird," are only able to relay radio-TV signals to extremely sensitive and costly receiving stations with high-rise antennas. These satellites use power from solar cells and batteries.

The direct-broadcast satellite will weigh between 5,000 and 7,000 pounds, as compared to less than 100 pounds for the operation.

The nuclear reactor, similar to but much larger than SNAP 10-a used in several U.S. experimental satellites, would generate upward of 40 kilowatts of electricity, or many times the power now produced by solar cells and conventional-type batteries in the communications satellites.

This atomic power would produce sufficient current to transmit from a single transmitter more than a half dozen radio and TV broadcasts at the same time to home receivers.

Stationed at 22,330 miles above the Atlantic Ocean, near the equator, a single direct-broadcast satellite would have an estimated range of nearly one million square miles. It could beam signals from a New York or Miami TV-radio station into homes anywhere in the U.S., Western Europe, South America or Africa.

Only minor modifications in home receivers and inexpensive changes in antennas would be needed to receive pictures as clear as those now picked up from local stations, according to NASA scientists. Required changes on radios would be even less.

HIGH PRIORITY PROJECT — NASA officials pushing the extraordinary project contend that the launching of the first direct-broadcast satellite is as important to U.S. prestige as putting a man on the moon.

Also that the communications satellite venture will be infinitely cheaper — an estimated $1 billion, as compared to nearly $4 billion for the moon project.

GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION

The sky-rocketing prices of vegetables and fruits, due to Secretary of Labor Wirtz's policy of not allowing harvesters to come in from Mexico, is likely to be a more or less permanent condition. Some growers are already in bankruptcy, others are going out of business, and still others are moving to Mexico to continue their operations.

Some California growers have plowed under crops that could not be harvested. Melons and strawberries are said to have rotted in the fields, and late plantings were greatly curtailed.

The bright idea of mobilizing school boys to harvest crops proved utterly impractical. Many of the boys did not know ripe fruit when they saw it, and they did not have the stamina and determination to do the hard work that the job required.

Secretary Wirtz's policy therefore of excluding the Mexican workers has not resulted in more jobs for Americans, few of whom will do that kind of work, but it has meant much less fruit and vegetables for all of us at much higher prices. As is generally the case with government intervention, little good and great harm has been done.

According to the published index on the organization for economic cooperation and development, American industrial production increased only 40 points between 1953 and 1964, while the growth in West Germany during the same period was 121 points. According to the steel statistics provided by the same organization, the common market increased its production of ingots by 52 per cent between 1955 and the first quarter of 1964. During the same period, American production of ingots increased by only 1 per cent.

Again, oil consumption in the United States is lagging. In 1963 it increased 7 per cent in Canada, 9 per cent in the United Kingdom, 14 per cent in the common market, but only 3 per cent in the U.S.A.

In world trade, our imports little more than doubled between 1950 and 1963, while those of all Europe tripled during the same period. Europe's imports have increased about 40 per cent more than ours in these years.

These facts lead to the conclusion that the American economy is faltering. It does not measure up to the dynamic of certain other economies which have traditionally fallen behind.

Air Force, nuclear weapons can now be accurately delivered at any height, from tree-top level to 55,000 feet, by the new British bombers. Targets beyond Moscow can be attacked by the bombers flying from bases in Britain. Their increased speed and new electronic counter-measure equipment greatly increases the offensive capability of these bombers, particularly against anti-aircraft defense bombers.

FALLOUT FROM SPACE — France is preparing to launch rockets for the exploration of the upper atmosphere from Adelia Land, in the Antarctic, in 1967. Intelligence reports that an expedition has left Paris to prepare the launching platforms. French Dragon and Centaure rockets will be used in the tests.

Britain's strategic nuclear bombing force has been re-equipped with new Mark II Vulcan and Victor planes with double the engine power of the older models. According to the U.S.

The Basis of Morality

By MILDRED PROGAR
"Actions speak louder than words" is an often-heard expression — and one containing so much truth. For actions are the expression of one's true morality. A standard of morality is an individual matter dependent upon one's awareness and understanding of his own self-interest, which is the valid basis for morality.

Since ultimately all conduct is volitional, the rightness or wrongness of anything is determined by the individual. He seeks to gain from every action taken and will always act in what he believes to be his own constructive self-interest, from survival to any expansion of his living conditions. He may be inefficient in his understanding and his decisions but at that point in his development he believes that he will gain from his actions.

There is one requirement for establishment of true morality: the individual must be free to choose his actions in any specific instance. It is not a matter of how he thinks he might act or should act, but how he does act where a choice of action exists that will establish his personal morality. He will do what he believes will enhance his own well-being.

Through the process of natural growth, concepts will evolve into identifiable principles by which to seek this happiness more efficiently. The precepts of morality, or the process of idealizing principles becomes the personal guideline by which an individual lives.

Thus is formed a personal code of ethics by which the individual believes he can accomplish his goals. His code of ethics is what he aspires to, his morality is what he does.

From primitive cultures to our complex societies today, many codes have existed. They have been accepted, modified, rejected and refined by the persons involved.

A code of ethics or a standard of morality accepted by one individual is not necessarily right for another. This is not to say that there are no absolutes.

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 7th, the 31st day of 1965 with 24 to back when Bebanled a 74-yard, follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning star is Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Saturn and Jupiter.

In 1808, James Madison won the U.S. presidential election defeating Charles Pickney.

A thought for the day: President Franklin Roosevelt said: "Never before have we had so little time in which to do so much."

A thought for the day: U.S. Naval officer Chester Nimitz said: "A ship is always 'referred to as a she' because it costs so much to keep one in the globe."

Wit and Whimsy
A school teacher had found her class of boys reluctant in their writing of English compositions. At last she conceived an idea to stimulate their interest; she would have them write an account of a baseball game.

With one exception the boys threw themselves into the task and evolved youthful masterpieces. The backward one chewed his pencil reflectively. When struck by a brilliant idea. When the teacher opened his paper, she read: "Rain-no game."

us. If we continue to order more inflation, pile up more debt and impose more and more restrictions on prices and wages, and other impediments to business operation, our once great economy will go down in a tragic sunset for Western civilization. The tremendous growth dynamic of West Germany following the Second World War has provided a great object lesson of the vitality of free enterprise. The population of France is about equal to that of West Germany today, but due to the strong emphasis on government control and inflation, the French economy is chugging along on only about half the strength of the West German economy today. Only a courageous conservatism can reverse the trends which are in process in our society, and once again make of the U.S.A. the tremendous growth area that it should be.

It is to properly identify an absolute, that each person born is an independent agent regarding his life, his liberty, and his pursuit of happiness as he defines it. He is sovereign of himself. That some persons do not recognize this natural imperative does not change the truth, nor alter the consequences.

Consciously or unconsciously individuals are constantly making choices that attest to the natural imperative that may be defined as a moral imperative... that of freedom to pursue constructive self-interest.

Due to the differences in background understanding and levels of individual growth, there are many problems involved in a civilization where individuals are seeking their own accomplishments. It has always been so. Codes of ethics have evolved to minimize the problems. Whether the code is pre-established by others or individually evolved, liberty of choice is essential to moral responsibility.

Any code of ethics requires the first choice of the individual to be that of obedience to the code. Voluntary acceptance and self-discipline produce the desired moral character. Individual morality is the disciplined practice of the science of principles accepted as the expression of the desired ideal. Individual action directed toward that goal identifies individual morality. In the words of the sage: "What you are speaks so loudly that I cannot hear a word you say."

Editor:
I wonder why those nosy news hounds keep needing our honest, honorable and hard working (duely elected by about 11 1/4 per cent of the able and apt qualified voters) county officials?

I believe anyone that accepts squatters' rights to any trusted office and does not know that the taxpayers should be informed when and why their money is being wasted, should not be criticized — or voted for, either.

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. HUNT

TWO-PARTY SYSTEM
Speaking at Akron University Oct. 21, 1964, President Johnson said: "The responsible leaders of both parties, and I believe in the two-party system, think first of the good of the country." The president later firmly stated the necessity of a staunch opposition party to achieve good government.

Republicans have been slow in perfecting a workable recovery from the debacle of the 1964 election. Their Senate leader, a man I have long admired and one of the most able men in the U. S. Senate, Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), has until recently acted as spokesman in the Senate for the President Congressman Gerald Ford (R-Mich.) acted like a green hand.

Republicans must start acting like statesmen. Senators Hruska (R-Neb.), Tower (R-Tex.), and Thurmond (R-S.C.), should begin expounding a recognizable policy. In the House, Laird (R-Wisc.) and Gross (R-Iowa), are among the many constructive members. Robert Taft Jr., whose loss of the Senate seat in Ohio can be regarded as a fluke, should expound Bob Taft's ideals. Bud Wilkinson (R-Okl.), if he continues in public life, is destined for greatness.

Communist and fascist dictatorships, with their ever-present "mandate from the people," are one-party systems, and suffrage is a meaningless formality.

In the U. S., some states have tried "one-party" government. New England, as a region of "one-party" states, fared poorly while losing important industries. The Old South, with largely "one-party" government, has been ignored in the big political panoramas, although it enjoyed a near monopoly in senatorial and congressional committee appointments.

Along with the President, I believe in the two-party system.
