Dear Abby.... Where Does Duty End And Conscience Begin?

DEAR ABBY: We took our daughter and her boy friend to our minister's and asked him to marry them right away. Our daughter is 16 and this kid is 17. It was a "have-to" case, but that's beside the point. The minister talked to the kids separately and then he came out and told us that he wouldn't marry them. Now this man calls himself an Episcopalian minister! His excuse was that he didn't think such a marriage would last! Well, we got another minister to marry those kids, but I want to know if it isn't the duty of a clergyman to perform a marriage ceremony when he's asked to? Since when is his opinion on how long the marriage will last important?

MOTHER OF THE GIRL: DEAR MOTHER: I don't know where "duty" ends and conscience begins in a case of this kind. But if a clergyman feels that the marriage is doomed to failure, or both parties are not equally willing, I should think it is his privilege to refuse the blessings of the church to such a union.

DEAR ABBY: Was I wrong to tell my mother-in-law that she shouldn't wear so many charm bracelets all at once? She has six charm bracelets loaded with huge charms, and she wears them constantly. They make so much noise, it is very embarrassing. Even though the charms are beautiful, individually, they look so showy and overdone when they are all worn together. She became very angry with me when I mentioned this to her. Was I wrong? I assure you I did it with the best of intentions in a very respectful way.

IN THE DOGHOUSE: DEAR IN: I happen to agree with you. Moderation is essential to good taste in everything. But there is no "respectful" way to volunteer criticism of this kind. (Restraint also has its charm.)

DEAR ABBY: On my boss' birthday, a few months ago, the two other girls from our office and I were invited to his home for lunch. It was a lovely party and his wife was a charming hostess. As we left, the two other girls kissed the boss "happy birthday" on his cheek. When he stepped forward for my kiss, I did not kiss him. I shook his hand. He got very red in the face. Later my friends told me that I had insulted him. Since that day his attitude has changed toward me. He no longer compliments me on my work, nor does he offer me a lift home on rainy days. Do you think I behaved foolishly? What can I do to make it up to him? My job is no longer the pleasure it used to be. I am 23 and my boss is about 50.

SHY IN ROME: DEAR SHY: Yes, you behaved foolishly. But if your boss continues to sulk, he is even more foolish than you. Perhaps time will dim the memory of the "insult." Give him until his next birthday. And if he's still sulking, kiss the job goodbye, and let some other girl kiss him "happy birthday."

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELLEN AT THE BANK: If all your dreams don't come true, take comfort in the fact that neither do your nightmares.

Needle Club Has Meeting in Groom

GROOM (Sp) - Friendship Needle Club met in the home of Mrs. Lilla Hess recently for an afternoon of visiting and needlework.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. M. W. Reynolds, guest, and members, Mrs. C. A. Morrow, Roy Ritter, Jimmy McCasland, Crim Goodlett, C. L. Ledwig, E. S. Craig, Allan Knorrp, Blanche Harris, Van Earl Steed and the hostess.

Carelessness Can Damage Eyes: Air pollution plays havoc with eyes. If you get something in your eye, do not rub it. This could scratch the cornea and do permanent damage. Try to remove the object by lifting the upper lid over the lower lid. Let tears wash your eyes clean. Then apply a soothing eye lotion to further bathe the eye clean.

Toys, Games Spawn From Hits

FAMILIAR LOOK - Licensing of television show names and gimmicks identified with characters or plots to toy manufacturers proves lucrative. Nearly 1,000 games, toys, mementos for children and adults trace their beginning to television hits. Sampling here includes archery set, pants, games and books.

By JOAN CROSBY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) - So you want to buy your son a replica of Fort Courage for Christmas because he thinks F Troop is television's finest hour. And you want a Honey West doll for your daughter.

Well, both things will be possible, but not until Christmas 1966. Television, which alone has games to keep Santa's Workshop on a round-the-clock alert, is a quixotic medium. In all fields but one they work months and sometimes years ahead. But in the matter of marketing merchandise that spins off from a hit television series, the timing is all off.

One reason is that show premiere in September. A network likes to be reasonably sure it has a hit on its hands before either manufacturing or licensing a manufacturer to put out toys based on the series. Another is that the annual Toy Fair in New York takes place in March. The timing does not jibe with television.

However, if your youngsters are big television fans, do not despair. Among the three networks there are nearly 1,000 items, ranging in price from $1 to $30, available for Christmas giving.

The most expensive item at $30, is CBS' electric model railroad replica of the Hooterville Cannonball, the train in Petticoat Junction. Two of ABC's most popular items are a Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea submarine explorer set and The Thing Bank, based on The Adams Family. When money is inserted in the bank's slot, the whole thing shudders, a lid pops open and a green hand slithers out to grab the money and disappear.

Over at NBC, Daniel Boone is the strong man with items like 'Fess Parker Trail Blazer Play Tents from the Daniel Boone TV Show," hats, pennants, Daniel Boone sunglasses (just like Dan'l never wore), sneakers (ditto), games, canteens, knives, hats, a fort, key rings, charm bracelets, lunch boxes, ring binders, wallets, pencil cases and knapsacks.

Games are perhaps the easiest item to develop from a television show. The Milton

DEAR POLLY - We saved the prettiest bows from our wedding gifts and used them to decorate our first Christmas tree, which was by far the most sentimental and prettiest tree we have had in our six years of marriage. This certainly saved our first year budget that would not stretch as far as the luxury of tree decorations.

MRS. D.W.W. DEAR POLLY - "Don't let the yolk be on you." To avoid breaking eggs that are stuck in a papier-mache egg carton, wet the box and eggs are easily removed.

DEAR POLLY - I used to make all my own clothes but my interest in sewing has waned. To keep within my clothes budget, and still be smartly dressed, I have found that good, simple, well-made dresses can be bought on sale or in the less expensive shops. Often, good basic lines are lost by the addition to showy buttons, pins or superfluous trimming. After these have been removed many dresses will have an almost-custom look. I once bought a beautiful black sheath with large polka-dotted sleeves and, after removing the sleeves, it was easy to finish off the armholes to have a smart, basic sleeveless sheath. In other cases, additions such as monograms will turn the trick. I find this challenging, rewarding and not too tiring or time-consuming.

DEAR POLLY - I keep a bag in my bedroom that contains a sweater for each of the children. Now when we hop in the car for an unexpected drive or trip somewhere I do not have to check up and down the line to make sure each child HAS A SWEATER. This is really a time saver when there are several children in a family.

DEAR POLLY - My husband works in a garage and so that ALL his underwear does not be-

Pampa High School Campus News

By VIRGINIA DEWITT

It's too early for Christmas and too late for Thanksgiving as far as the decor of the walls of Pampa High is concerned.

Even though Student Council is sponsoring a Christmas door decorating contest, most homerooms have not yet started the project. Thus, the halls are void of Santa Claus, reindeer or wreaths. But, the homemaking department has provided an interesting display for a display case in center hall.

Many of the girls in homemaking are not only good cooks but adept seamstresses as well. Some of the outfits the girls have made are on display in the case now. One of the articles on display is a charming ensemble created by Parilou Chandler. A feminine white frock on display was made by Ina Mae Reames.

National Honor Society has adopted a project to help make the halls more attractive. Already the hall on the first floor bears the fruits of this project.

Under the watchful eye of Steve Spidell, who has charge of the project, pictures have been hung down the corridor. The pictures and the frames belong to talented art students.

Aubra Noncaster, NHS sponsor, explained that the club wishes to hang more but must wait until art students can produce more.

Thirty publication delegates are convention bound this weekend. Members of the annual staff and the newspaper staff left yesterday to attend the three day convention of the Texas High School Press Association in Denton.

Martha McMullan, exchange editor of the school newspaper, is running for secretary of the association. Fred Tinsley, sports editor, is her campaign manager.

Mrs. Edith King, publication director at San Antonio College, will deliver the keynote address on "Your Job in Communications - Today and Tomorrow." Mrs. Gretchen A. Kemp will note the dos and don'ts in annuals to yearbook delegates. Mrs. Kemp, a specialist in her field, is director of Indiana High School Journalism Institute at the University of Indiana.

Tomorrow night Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America will hold their coronation ball at the Pammel Hall.

Leslie Watkins, who was elected earlier this year, will be crowned FFA Sweetheart. Her attendants are Doretha Kotara, Dorothy Davis, Linda Vickery

GROOM (Sp) - Groom Country Neighbors Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Harry Britten with Mrs. Harris Barnett as co-hostess.

Mrs. J. W. Thomas of Pampa, handle gave a program on "Crafts." Mrs. Charley Hermesmeier served as chairman. A report was given on the "Woman of the Year", luncheon held in Panhandle recently. Mrs. Charles Warminski of White Deer was named "Woman of the Year" with Mrs. George Latta of Groom as runner-up.

The club voted that each member would bring either sugar or powdered milk at the next meeting for the Children's Home in Panhandle. The hostess gift was won by Mrs. Robert Kuehler.

SENATOR IN FA REAST — Texas Senator John Tower, right, who is in the Far East on an inspection trip for the Senate Armed Services Committee, is shown at Clark Air Force Base, Manila, with Maj. James Wilson, commander of the Pacific Air Forces. Senator Tower made a practice bomb run flight in one of the two-place, twin-jet B-57 bombers being used extensively in Vietnam. The Senator ate Thanksgiving dinner with enlisted airmen at the Philippine base and now is with U.S. troops in Vietnam.

Labor Department Taking New Tack on Attack on Unemployment

EDITOR'S NOTE: Despite a soaring economy and a record number of people holding jobs, the unemployment rate still remains a matter of concern to the government. In the following dispatch, UPI's William J. Eaton reports on a new approach the Labor Department is taking to the problem.

By WILLIAM J. EATON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department is taking a new tack in its attack on unemployment, is putting more emphasis on building the supply of available workers, less on increasing the demand for their services.

Government manpower experts took another look at the jobless to see why they have not been able to find work even though business is booming and employment is at a record peak.

They discovered what Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz calls "the rule of two and three." Briefly, this means that unemployment among Negroes is twice as high as it is among whites and teen-age joblessness is triple the national average.

On the other hand, the jobless rate for married men has dipped to 2.1 per cent for the first time since the Korean war era a dozen years ago.

This is virtually a labor shortage level and there have been scattered reports of companies searching for workers — especially in engineering, construction and other skilled occupations.

Wirtz believes that emphasis on the over-all unemployment rate — figures at 1.3 per cent of the labor force in October — is sure to distort the real picture. He said this figure includes an "irreducible minimum" of 2.5 per cent — that occurs when newcomers enter the labor force and others shift jobs. Another five-tenths of one per cent, Wirtz said, simply "lacks what it takes" to be hired.

Full employment will be a reality when the jobless rate goes down to 2.5 to 3 per cent, he said. The battle is half over because the figure has dropped from around 7 per cent in 1960-61 to the present 4.3 per cent.

Different Methods
"Another net gain of about a million jobs — over and above the increase in the work force — will bring us over the target," he declares.

The question: How to get those million jobs. The answer from liberal economists would be to put a little more steam into the economy to soak up 1 million more unemployed. Conservatives might reply that only additional training and education should be provided to help these jobless find a niche they do not qualify for now.

Wirtz's approach borrows a bit from each camp. There is no question, he says, that the principal full employment policy is to have a strong economy to produce the maximum number of jobs.

"But more jobs — important as they are — won't be enough," he adds. "Meeting the unemployment problems which exist today is going to require labor supply as well as labor demand measures."

Economic expansion, Wirtz predicts bluntly, is not likely to cut into the jobless ranks in any substantial way. Left unsaid is the administration's fear that too much expansion would lead to inflation.

Selective Measures
"The necessary improvement will have to come from measures aimed directly at these areas of concentrated unemployment," he said in referring to jobless Negroes and youths.

Specifically, Wirtz has in mind the antipoverty program run by the Labor Department — the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Congress earmarked $254 million during the current fiscal year to set up projects for helping needy youngsters find parttime jobs so they can finish school. Since it was started earlier this year, federal funds totaling $245 million have been allocated for 1,229 such projects. They have provided 434,102 jobs — principally in welfare agencies, hospitals or local government agencies.

He also is referring to the Manpower Development Program which has $441 million to spend this year on training projects. This provides funds for schooling of jobless workers and on-the-job training under federal auspices.

Cage Coach Rotary Speaker

Pampa High School's head basketball coach Terry Culley previewed the Harvesters upcoming season at the Pampa Rotary Club's regular luncheon meeting Wednesday in the Coronado Inn.

The coach said that Pampa would have a young, inexperienced ball club with only one returning starter from last year's team. However, he stressed that the Harvesters are an intelligent group and they have a great deal of hustle and desire.

Without going out on a limb himself, Culley said that the consensus of opinion was that the Amarillo Sandies was the team to beat in district play. Monterey is picked as a strong second with Lubbock and Pampa, fighting it out for third, followed by Tascosa, Borger, Plainview, Palo Duro and Caprock.

In other business, Mike Wise was introduced to the club as the Junior Rotarian for the month of December. Mike is president of the senior class at Pampa High School and is a member of the Harvester basketball team.

David Cain served as Junior Rotarian during November.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sometimes you wonder whether television really has any effect on people — whether they see or hear or read anything except in (preconceive) terms. I often doubt it. From some of the mail that this writer receives it seems depressingly clear that too many people see only what they want to see in a given subject.

I remember — during last year's presidential campaign — speaking to a very nice fellow who was a top aide of Barry Goldwater and getting from him some quotes to the effect that the GOP candidate might not be able to buy as much television time as he had hoped to because of the large expense.

Conflicting Notes
Several days after these quotes were printed, I received along with some courteous and pleasant letters on the subject several crackpot notes. A few branded me a right-wing extremist. I kid you not, and asked how I could print anything about "that man." A few others called me a leftwinger for not speaking to Goldwater directly. I had tried but was referred to his television expert. Mind you these were all notes on the same article and it was all very depressing to this devout middlewinger.

Then there was the time several years back when it seemed you couldn't turn on a television set without seeing a Kennedy on a program. I wrote a piece commenting very straightforwardly and with documentation on the shrewd and effective use of television by the Kennedys and the Kennedy administration.

Again there came the pleasant and courteous notes and again there came the crackpot missives — they almost always come no matter what the subject. This time several accused me of an insinuating attack on the Kennedys and several others accused me of being a Kennedy press agent. As I say the piece I wrote was dead straight as are all that do not deal directly with the television industry.

Applies Elsewhere
Over the past few years one of the most significant running stories concerned with television has been the increasing pressure of the Negro movement for representation in the video medium and the growing use of Negroes on the home screen. It is to a television columnist nothing more or less than a story to be covered for to ignore it would be bad reporting making the correspondent on the beat untrustworthy as to other happenings. Most letters from all sections of the country have been extremely courteous and favorable concerning our stories about the Negro and video — which again have been dead straight — yet a number of the notes were ironic to wit:

HELLO LONDON

LONDON (UPI)—Mary Martin scored a show-stopping success Thursday night in the British premiere of "Hello, Dolly" before a glittering audience at the Royal Theatre in Drury Lane.

Members of the audience shouted "welcome home" to Miss Martin as the red-haired star led the cast in half a dozen curtain calls. Miss Martin sang an encore the title song of the show with special lyrics that made it "Hello, London," recalling her long stay at the same theater in "South Pacific."

QUEEN BOWS

KEELE, England (UPI)—Princess Margaret, as chancellor of the new University of Keele, bestowed the honorary degree of doctor of letters Wednesday on her mother, Queen Mother Elizabeth. It was the first daughter-to-mother investiture in British royal history.

The queen mother, who had to bow deeply to her daughter, said beforehand: "I must try not to giggle."

KENNEDY'S FEET

NEW YORK (UPI)—Autograph dealer Charles Hamilton will auction a sketch of John F. Kennedy's feet which his London bootmaker made while he was still a senator. The sketch is autographed, "Senator John F. Kennedy, Hyannisport, Cape Cod, Massachusetts."

School Hamilton, who has auctioned several pieces of Kennedy memorabilia, valued the sketch his $1,500. It will be auctioned Dec. 14, along with two notes by the late president, one to a journalist and another to an admirer, and two letters written by his widow Jacqueline Kennedy.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. EARL MADDUX FELLOWSHIP BAPTIST CHURCH

THE RAPTURE

TEXT ... "After this I looked, and behold a door was opened in heaven and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter." (Rev. 4:1)

INTRODUCTION ... In the Book of Revelation, there are three definite doors that are mentioned. The first is in Revelation 3:8 when the Lord says, "... behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." This is the door of opportunity that was opened for the church as the great missionary movement began with William Carey in the middle 1800's. It is a door that only the Lord can open, and a door that only He can shut.

The second door is mentioned in Rev. 3:20, "Behold I stand at the door and knock..." This pictures the Lord as He stands outside His own church knocking, and asking entrance. This also pictures the present age of lukewarmness that the church is presently complacently resting in. It can also be applied to the Lord's desiring entrance into the hearts of the sinners, as He patiently knocks.

The third door that is mentioned is the text for this message; it is found in Rev. 4:1. At the opening of this door, the rapture of the saints will take place, indicated by His words, "come up hither." With the rapture of the church as our subject, let us consider four things about this glorious event.

I. THE DEFINITION OF THE WORD "RAPTURE"

1. Webster says:
(1) To transport with joy, act of seizing and carrying away, carry away to sublime happiness.

Yet, I am sure that man's words at their best fail in fully defining this glorious transforming event.

(2) It will be the complete removal of God's children from this sin-cursed earth bodily, and spiritually of both the living and the dead. A time when we shall be caught up together to meet the Lord in the air. (I Thess. 4:17)

(3) A stealing away, "... the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night." (I Thess. 5:2)

(4) It is the blessed hope of the believer. "Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ."

II. THE TIME OF THE RAPTURE

1. The seven messages to the seven churches describe the history of the church. We have beyond all doubt, passed through six stages of his history and are now living in the period of time described as the Laodicean period when the church is neither hot nor cold, and the Lord is on the outside of a dead and complacent, satisfied church. The next event that follows is the opening of a door in heaven and a voice bidding us "come up hither."

2. The time is coming at an unexpected hour. (Matt. 24:44)

III. ITS PURPOSE

1. To gather to Himself the saints of God.
2. To protect us from the time of tribulation. (Rev. 3:10)

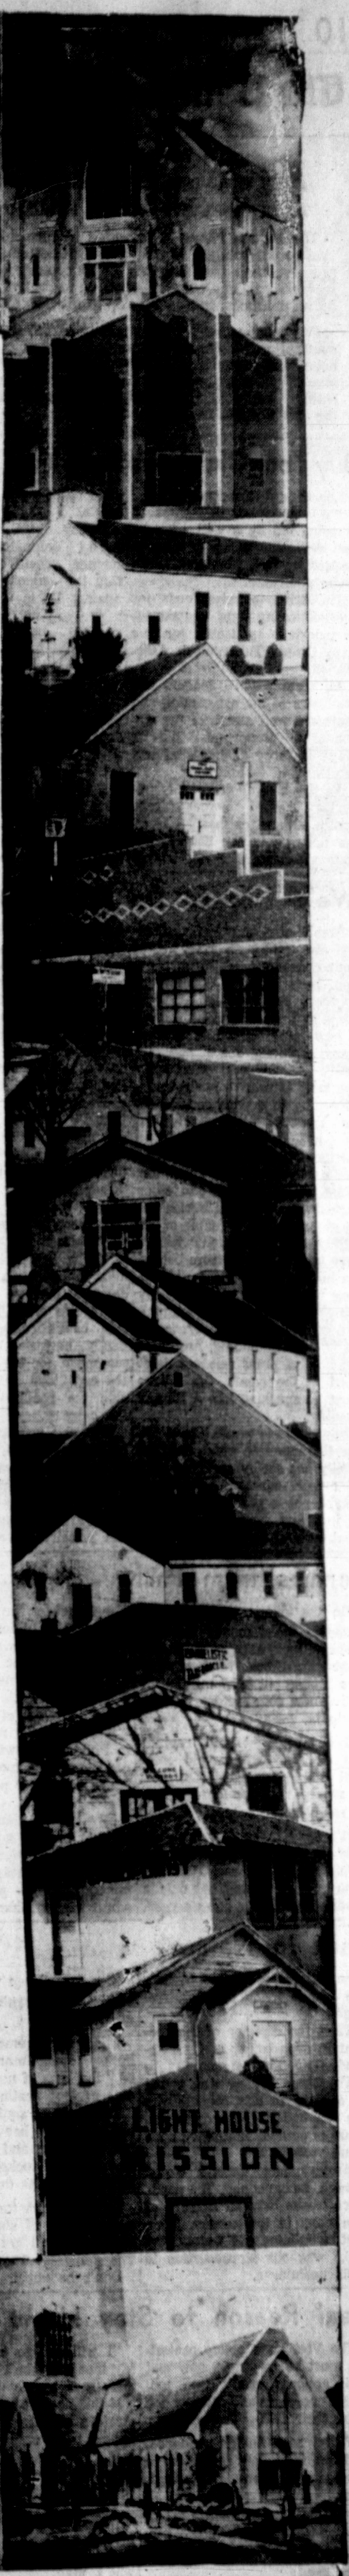

IV. ITS CONSEQUENCES

1. For believers, it will be the fulfillment of God's promises. (John 14:2-3, Acts 1:10-11)

2. For the unbeliever —
(1) End of period of grace. (Not end of world.)
(2) Satan loosed, Anti-Christ introduced. (I Thess. 2:3-8)
(3) Dead unbelievers left in their graves, while dead in Christ will be resurrected. (I Thess. 4:16, Rev. 20:5)

(4) Living unbelievers left on earth to go through the tribulation.

CONCLUSION... The rapture is full of comfort for the believer, but to them that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, it is full of terror. His coming may even be today; won't you accept Him now?
