Johnson Orders Troops Increase

By WILLIAM J. EATON

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson has decided to send more American troops to fight in South Viet Nam to counter a build-up in Communist guerrilla and regular forces.

Johnson authorized the Pentagon to provide all the men that U.S. military commanders request to bolster the 160,000 Americans already in the war zone.

He also disclosed he will ask Congress in January to provide more money immediately to pay for increased defense costs.

U.S. Losses Are 'Light' in Latest Fray

SAIGON (UPI)—A reinforced battalion of 1,000 American infantrymen battled Communist guerrillas along a highway 35 miles north of Saigon today and at least 100 Viet Cong were reported killed in heavy fighting.

The battle started when a battalion of guerrillas attacked the American troops before dawn. A U.S. military spokesman said the fighting was still raging in the afternoon and that the Communists were putting up bitter resistance.

Several American armored vehicles were hit by Viet Cong mortar and recoilless cannon fire but the spokesman said over all U.S. losses were "light."

The reinforced battalion from the 2nd Brigade of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was deployed along the road early today when the Viet Cong boiled out of rubber plantations on either side of the highway.

American artillerymen blasted away at the guerrillas at close range and U.S. Navy and Air Force planes joined Vietnamese fighter-bombers in flying 24 air strikes into the rubber plantations before noon.

The guerrillas attacked the Americans as they spread out on National Highway 13 to secure the road about 10 miles north of the town of Ben Ofapuk.

The battleground was on the eastern fringe of the Communist stronghold known as the "Iron Triangle."

A separate area of the "Iron Triangle," 45 miles northwest of Saigon, was the target of another raid today by U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from the Strategic Air Command base on Guam.

Air Force officials said the big eight-jet bombers hit two suspected Viet Cong bases early this morning in Binh Long Province.

The President acted late Thursday after a conference at his Texas ranch home with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other top advisers.

Johnson also branded the Rhodesian government of Premier Ian Smith a "rebel regime" for declaring independence without Britain's consent. He told Rusk to keep in close touch with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who is considering economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

Plans for the coming visit of West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard Dec. 6-8 and efforts to strengthen inter-American ties at the Rio De Janeiro conference starting Saturday also were reviewed.

McNamara said afterward there were no plans at this time to mobilize National Guard or reserve units, extend terms of duty or raise draft calls beyond the December ceiling of 42,000.

He declined to say how many more troops would be added in Viet Nam on grounds that it would tip off the enemy. But his remarks to newsmen Thursday night before flying back to Washington indicate that a sizeable increase is being planned.

"The President instructed me to meet the requests from our military commanders for additional personnel as they are received," McNamara said.

McNamara said the President would ask Congress to provide more money for defense to be spent before next July. The additional funds will be needed despite $1.7 billion allocated earlier for military spending, he said.

The Pentagon chief also said "surplus and obsolete" bases in the United States and overseas would be partially closed or shut down to save about $500 million a year. Announcements of specific locations will be made within the next few weeks, he said.

Viet Cong losses have doubled this year compared to last year, McNamara said, while (See MORE TROOPS, Page 3)

Jetliner Crash Kills 40

By JAMES C. BAPIS
SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)

— A United Air Lines 727 jetliner slammed into a runway at Salt Lake City airport Thursday night and burst into flames. At least forty passengers were killed.

Fifty persons, including the six-member crew, survived the crash, which was the third involving the Boeing-built 727s in three months. All of the ill-fated flights originated in New York.

Twelve hours after the crash, United set the death figure at 40. However, Sgt. Stanley Carter of the Utah Air National Guard, who headed the detail that removed the bodies from the burned hulk said he counted and tagged 41 badly burned and mutilated bodies.

Thirty-six survivors of the New York to San Francisco flight were hospitalized, while the other 14 either were uninjured or were treated and released from hospitals.

United Air Lines today said two Texans were among those (See CRASH, Page 3)

WRECKAGE — This is only a part of a pickup that belonged to Walter M. Voyles, 1001 S. Hobart, that was struck by an 18-car Santa Fe passenger train at a crossing in Kingsmill this morning. Voyles was killed instantly and parts of the pickup were scattered over a 100-yard square area.

Witness Says Pickup Just Disintegrated

A 74-year-old Pampan, Walter M. Voyles, 1001 S. Hobart, was killed in Kingsmill this morning when the pickup he was driving was struck by a fast moving Santa Fe passenger train.

Voyles, retired superintendent of Tulsa Rig and Reel Co., was apparently killed instantly when the train struck his pickup at a crossing in Kingsmill.

A witness, Roger Shields, visiting in Kingsmill from Colorado, said he saw the pickup disintegrate, at the impact.

"The pickup rolled under the train on impact and the body was thrown out and rolled down an embankment," Shields said. Highway Patrolman Vernon Cawthon said bits of Voyles' body and the pickup were scattered over an area of about 100 square yards.

Shields said he heard the train whistle "several times," but "it seemed to be going awfully fast."

Earl Watson, Amarillo, the train conductor, said the 18-car passenger-train was enroute from Chicago to San Francisco.

The pickup was so scattered by the collision that one part could not be told from another. Voyles had lived in Pampa since 1927 and was retired from the oil business.

Survivors include his wife, Maude, at home; three brothers, Cliff, and Carl, both of Florida and Claude of Wisconsin; one sister, Mrs. Ora Atchinson, Lubbock.

Services are pending at Carmichael-Whalley Funeral Home.

BRRRR!

Overcoat Time Due In Pampa

Overcoat time is supposed to hit Pampa and the Panhandle tonight and continue through Saturday.

The Amarillo Weather Bureau said freeze warnings were out for the Panhandle area tonight with temperatures to range near 30 by morning. Highs Saturday are expected to be in the mid-50s.

Thursday the high in Pampa reached 72 and the overnight low dipped to 39. Pampa received .05 of an inch of moisture Thursday morning.

The cold front, sharpest so far this fall, was composed of dry air; however, and was expected to set off little rain. Temperatures were expected to drop even more by nightfall across the northwest third of the state. The cold front had the effect of clearing the skies of West Texas.

Steady showers fell on vast areas of South Texas Thursday and moved all the way to the Red River. Palacios got an inch and a half and Victoria had 1.05 inches. Galveston recorded .81 and Corpus Christi .21.

Moderate showers fell at Alpine and Childress.

Temperatures ranged from 81 at Presidio, Corpus Christi and Brownsville to Austin's high of 63.

Louisiana Holds Robbery Suspects

SLIDELL, La. (UPI)—Three men were held in St. Tammany Parish jail today as suspects in the Nov. 1 holdup of a Raleigh, N. C. jewelry store.

Dante Ferrari, 31, of Irvington, N. J.; Bernard J. Lepard, 20, of Chicago and Philip Reese, 21, of Aberdeen, Miss. were arrested in Slidell Wednesday.

Police Chief Ed Schilleci said the men were wanted in the $5,600 robbery of Weatherman's jewelry store in Raleigh.

Federal Power Probers Examine Various Blackout Cause Theories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal power investigators attempting to diagnose the power paralysis which seized the northeast examined various theories today, including one that was caused by a "nervous breakdown" of an electronic brain.

The team of experts named by President Johnson to search out the cause of Tuesday's big blackout discounted the possibility that a mechanical breakdown of equipment triggered the chain reaction power failure.

Instead of a physical breakdown — such as a broken generator or a fallen transmission line — some sources suggested the entire northeastern power complex may have had a failure on its automated electronic system.

The investigators, headed by Federal Power Commission (FPC) Chairman Joseph C. Swidler, continued their inquiry today. They held a long session Thursday, working late into the night. The federal power and legal experts were gathering their information for testing theories through questioning of top officials from 23 private and public power supplies from the Eastern United States and Canada.

The investigation was shrouded in secrecy. Swidler supplied only the barest details of the closed door sessions. He was expected to file a preliminary report to Johnson on the blackout, possibly this weekend.

"There's no easy answer to this," Swidler said. "We're just plowing ahead."

Utility industry sources said the investigators were trying to nail down why power suddenly surged toward Canada seconds before the massive breakdown started at 5:16 p.m. EST Tuesday.

'SMALL TOWN' STUFF OUT

City Workers Given Briefing on Manual

Pampa's approximately 200 city employees got a briefing today on the new Personnel Manual that sets forth policies and regulations for workers in all municipal departments.

Four separate sessions were held, starting with a meeting of department heads at 9 a.m. in the Palm Room of City Hall.

At that meeting, attended by 15 heads of city departments, City Manager Jim White explained various sections of the book of regulations and answered questions.

The city manager stressed it will be up to department heads to administer policies and see that regulations are carried out. "It will be your responsibility to let employees in your department know what is expected of them," White said.

The city manager said there were some practices carried on in the past that must be stopped. "We have outgrown a lot of this small town stuff," White stated. "This might sound like we are getting tough, but the rules set down are simply for the city's own protection."

The city manager pinpointed regulations on several things including political activity, use of

Minister Gets Jail Instead Of Service

FORT WORTH (UPI) — A young minister, whose religious beliefs and the memory of his father's stand for the same beliefs kept him out of the Army, will have to go to prison instead.

U. S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster offered David Alan Myers, 26, the choice of a non-combat job or jail. Myers chose jail.

Brewster sentenced Myers to two years in prison for draft dodging.

Myers had registered as a conscientious objector with his draft board. He said his religious beliefs as a Jehovah's Witness keep him from taking up arms. The Army offered to have him work instead in a hospital for two years' duty.

Soviets Launch Unmanned Space Station Toward Planet Venus

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched an unmanned space station on a voyage toward Venus, a trip which America's Mariner 2 pioneered three years ago.

The Russian probe, named Venus 2, is at least the second Soviet attempt to gather information about the distant planet. Venus 1, launched in February, 1961, was a failure.

There were believed to have been two other Soviet attempts to send payloads to Venus in 1961, but they also failed to get beyond an orbit around Earth.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Venus 2 would pass the mysterious planet at the end of February next year. It reported the interplanetary space station was functioning normally.

Mariner 2 blazed the trail to the vicinity of Venus when it came within 22,000 miles of the planet on Dec. 14, 1962, and made three complete scans of the surface. Valuable information was received from Mariner by American space scientists. Other Mariner shots since then have obtained closeup photographs of the Moon and Mars.

Tass' first report on Venus 2 said it was more than 34,000 miles from Earth. "In accordance with the Soviet space and planetary research program, a space rocket was launched in the Soviet Union on Nov. 12, 1965, to set an automatic interplanetary station on its way in the direction of the planet Venus," Tass said.

Tass said the Venus probe was launched from a "parking orbit" around the earth. The 2,118-pound Venus 2 probe will take about 3½ months to reach Venus, Tass said. En route, it will carry out an extensive space research program using its scientific instruments.

The distance from earth to Venus varies from a maximum of 161 million miles to a minimum of 25 million miles. At noon Moscow time (4 a.m. EST), Tass said the probe was over the earth at a longitude of 104 degrees 19 minutes and a latitude of 26 degrees 37 minutes. "All the equipment of the station is functioning normally," Tass reported.

The probe was hurtling toward Venus on a trajectory close to the one planned by Soviet Space scientists, Tass said.

Tass said power for instruments was supplied by chemical and solar batteries. It said the telemetric measuring and scientific equipment in the station was switched on automatically in accordance with the flight program, and also on radio commands from earth.

Senate Newcomers Graded By Demo Leader Mansfield

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, who once graded freshmen as a college professor, gives a passing mark to all of the newcomers in the U.S. Senate's class of 1965.

"It's an extremely capable group," says Mansfield, who is particularly pleased with the seven young Democrats in the class. "I'm glad to see them stepping out expressing themselves and assuming positions of responsibility."

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, with only two from his party among the nine first-year senators, is satisfied with their pace of participation.

"What ever happened to the 'be-seen-and-not-heard' rule for freshmen senators? Who are these latest neophytes and how did they show up in this whirlwind first session of the 89th Congress?

The nine are Democratic Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, N.Y.; Ross Bass, Tenn.; Fred R. Harris, Okla.; Walter F. Mondale, Minn.; Joseph M. Montoya, N.M.; Donald S. Russell, S.C.; and Joseph D. Tydings, Md., and Republican Sens. Paul J. Fannin, Ariz., and George Murphy, Calif.

Their average age is 47, but the average age of the Democrats is only 43-plus. Four of the Democrats — Kennedy, Harris, Mondale and Tydings — are under 40. These men are among the Senate's new breed of activist first-termers.

Kennedy, 39, is the best known of the Democrats. But for both personal and political reasons, he has not been the most active in a legislative sense.

A brother of the late president and of the junior senator from Massachusetts, Bobby Kennedy, also is a former attorney general and a one-time Senate investigating counsel. He has impressed his colleagues as one who is shrewd and, at long last, secure in his own right. But he has taken his time in the Senate.

Much of his 1965 interest has been claimed by problems of New York State. One of his first legislative accomplishments was getting 13 New York counties covered by the Appalachia aid bill—if they chose to take advantage of it. Another was his work in amending the voting rights bill so Puerto Ricans in New York could escape an English literacy test requirement. His support of education legislation was regarded as important.

INQUIRY OPENS — Joseph C. Swidler, right, Federal Power Commission chairman, opens the inquiry ordered by President Johnson to determine causes and cures in the northeast power failure. Others at first session in Washington included Harry Trainor, left, FPC executive director, and David S. Black, vice chairman, as well as representatives of the nation's power industry.

Television in Review

By RICK DUBROW
 United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — As clarifying as the new math, the latest national television ratings are supposed to be the definitive ones of the fledgling season. Here are some of their allegations:

—“Bonanza” is still far and away the No. 1 show in popularity.

—“The Beverly Hillbillies,” which once was No. 1 but then fell well off the pace, bounced back sharply and is the No. 2 show.

—“Bewitched,” which deals with a suburban housewife and was right up close to “Bonanza” last season, has been knocked down to 15th place by the new Thursday Night Movies, which finished 11th.

—“Get Smart,” a series about a totally incompetent secret agent, is the only new show to wind up in the top 10—placing seventh.

—“A Man Called Shenandoah,” a new potboiler Western with Robert Horton which finished spectacularly high in the early ratings, has been plummeting ever since the first sampling and is now No. 54.

—“Hogan’s Heroes,” a thoroughly tasteless situation comedy about a Nazi prisoner-of-war camp, dropped out of the top 10, though it is still high up in the ratings.

—Another new series that had been very high up, “Green Acres,” about a city couple that move to the country, dropped to No. 21.

—“F Troop,” which also had finished among the topmost successes after its debut as a satirical Western, came in No. 22. And the Smothers Brothers comedy series fell off to the No. 55 position.

—“Hullabaloo,” following the downward-path of the rock ‘n’ roll show it imitated, “Shindig,” wound up No. 83.

—The pleasant new Dean Martin Variety Hour, which started quite strongly, has now come in 69th. But since the great Danny Kaye came in only four places higher and is still around for the simple reason that he is worth having around, there seems no imminent danger.

—The “Hallmark Hall of Fame” drama about Napoleon, “Eagle in a Cage,” with Tervor Howard, finished 92nd.

MORE MORE MORE

—The heralded documentary, “The Making of the President: 1964,” came in 98th. Only four programs finished lower.

—For the first time, all top 10 shows were in color.

Here are some results of the various ratings thus far at ABC-TV:

—“O. K. Crackerby,” with Burl Ives as a rich fellow who hires a tutor to give polish to give polish to his children is canceled after Jan. 6.

—“The King Family” musical is canceled after Jan. 8. But ABC says it liked the half-hour show more when it was an hour, and that it is being considered as a summer replacement in its original form.

A new half-hour comedy series, “The Double Life of Henry Phye,” with Red Buttons as a mild-mannered accountant who suddenly finds himself working as a secret agent, debuts Jan. 13.

—A new half-hour suspense series, “Blue Light,” with Robert Goulet as an American secret agent deep in Nazi-held Europe, bows in Jan. 12. Goulet portrays “a foreign correspondent who renounced his American citizenship just before World War II and became, seemingly, a traitorous tool of the German High Command.”

—Donna Reed moves from Thursdays to Saturdays Jan. 15, and “Gidget” switches from Wednesdays to Thursday Jan. 13.

Sisters Change Habit

BETHESDA, Md. (UPI) — More than 7,500 Sisters of Mercy of the Union will change habit to new, more modern, blue uniforms, the order announced today.

The Sisters in the Union are part of a world-wide Roman Catholic order that also serves 90 hospitals in the United States as well as 10 colleges. The change in order only effects this group but other groups in the order can change.

if they wish, a spokesman said. The change had been planned for two years and finally approved by Rome. The new habits are tailored for each nun instead of coming in general sizes. They change in the summer to different materials but the cut remains the same. The order is dedicated to teaching, nursing and social service.

IRISH STRIFE
 BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The government Wednesday night ordered police protection for the homes of northern Ireland's premier and other ministers because of terrorist threats. The danger was apparently posed by Republican extremists who want to end the partition of Ireland.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst
 Notes From The Foreign News Cables:

New Soviet Moves? — Diplomats in London expect the Soviet Union to launch a new major diplomatic offensive early in 1966. The Kremlin currently is re-appraising policy after a diplomatic "freeze" which has been in effect ever since the firing of Nikita Khrushchev a year ago. Word from Moscow, however, is that the Russians still are not ready to force a showdown with Red China despite Red Chinese reverses in Viet Nam, Indonesia and Africa. There may be more bilateral conferences between the Russians and other Communist parties during the next few months but no universal forum for international Communism before the 23rd Soviet Party Congress in March. At that time most of the world's 90 odd parties will send delegations to Moscow. Berlin pressures — Western officials in Berlin expect the Communists to warm up the propaganda claim that West Berlin is a third German state without legal ties to West Germany. The campaign was foreshadowed by news conference remarks of the Soviet ambassador to East Germany who said that Russia considers West Berlin no part of West Germany. Communists already have condemned the forthcoming official visit on Nov. 12-22 of West German President Heinrich Lübke as "provocative."

French boycott — French President Charles De Gaulle also is believed readying some new moves after his expected re-election next month. Included could be a new government with the Soviet Union and a further weakening of French ties with NATO. The French are expected either to boycott or take only a token part in the meeting of NATO defense ministers on Nov. 26-27. The meeting is to discuss U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's plan for a five-member select committee on NATO nuclear strategy. The French oppose the plan and say that, anyway, there was no reason for calling a special meeting only three weeks before the Paris NATO council session in December.

In 1806, the first magazine published by college undergraduates appeared in New Haven, Conn., called the Yale "Literary Cabinet."

Royal Couple Visit Friends in Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Princess Margaret settled in this desert oasis for a lazy four day stay which contrast sharply with her week-long visit to California.

The princess and husband Lord Snowdon arrived Wednesday at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base after a flight from Los Angeles. They were greeted by Gov. Sam Goddard and Mayor Louis Davis.

The royal couple are guests at the ranch-style home of Lewis Douglas, wealthy Arizona and former ambassador to the court of St. James's.

Douglas' daughter, Sharmar, a long time friend of Princess Margaret, is the official hostess for the pair and is accompanying them on their three-week United States visit.

A spokesman for the princess — still suffering from laryngitis — and her husband said they planned to sleep late today and possibly visit Kett Peak National Observatory and the 300-year-old San Xavier del Bac mission in the afternoon.

During their three evenings in southern California the royal couple stayed up until the early hours in a round of parties attended principally by motion picture personalities.

Douglas left no doubt that their sojourn here would be a private one.

Heart Affair Moves Well For Couple
 CHICAGO (UPI) — After 37 years, the "togetherness" of a good marriage became second nature to Mr. J. Alvin Dru'yor, 62, and his wife, Inez, 60. It carried them into a Chicago operating room Wednesday in an affair of the heart. Both suffered from identical heart conditions and both underwent identical operations.

Dr Maurice Mazel said today the couple was in "very good" condition. They were expected to be up and around today and should be able to leave the hospital in "from seven to 10 days," Mazel said.

Contrary to usual folk custom, it was gentlemen first in the tandem operations; Dru'yor went first because his was the greatest risk.

Dr Mazel said "approximately 87 per cent have survived" the operations. "This is the 106th consecutive operation without a single death."

The Prairie Du Chien Wis. couple underwent cardiopexy surgery to correct blood supply defects in their hearts.

Large Odessa Church Burns

ODESSA (UPI) — Fire spread through the largest Methodist church in Odessa today, the First Methodist and the fire department summoned off-duty men to fight the four-alarm blaze.

The first alarm was sounded around 4 a.m. Firemen who got to the scene (at 415 N. Lee S.) said flames appeared to have started in the basement of the church's three-story education building and were out of control.

More alarms were turned in and the fire dispatcher called all available firemen, perhaps 50 in all. Winds shifted after the fire got a start, and spread the flames to the sanctuary and into the center of the main church. The structures occupy a half-block in downtown Odessa.

Judge Metes Out Terms on Check Charge

John R. Markual, 18, of Cleveland, Ohio was given a two year sentence in the state penitentiary on each of three separate charges of forgery yesterday. Markual was sentenced by District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich during court proceedings yesterday in Canadian.

According to District Attorney Bill Waters, Markual had given three forged $100 checks in Canadian.

In another case Evan L. Crites had his probation revoked and was remanded to three years in the state penitentiary.

Waters said Crites was placed on probation last June for theft and violated it by being intoxicated.

of regulations reads: "Classified personnel shall not leave their duties to transport other employees, members of their families or friends, except in an emergency or illness, and then only with the permission of their department head."

"Our insurance only covers city cars when they are being used in governmental functions," the city manager said.

He also called attention to possible violations of sick leave provisions.

"We do not expect an employee to take a sick leave unless he is sick," White said. "The practice of using sick leave just to get a day off to go fishing or engage in some other activity will be considered just cause for dismissal."

The city manager also warned against political activity of city employees by using their influence publicly for or against any candidate for elective office in the city.

"The jobs of city employees are not political," White said.

Following the one hour and 15 minutes session with department heads, other meetings were held throughout the day.

At 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., employees of Lovett Memorial Library, City Hall and the police and fire departments met in the Palm Room.

The final meeting of the day was scheduled at 4 p.m. at the City Warehouse with employees in attendance from street, sanitation, park, shop, warehouse, maintenance, water and sewer, and public works departments.

Under the new City Hall set-up, Aubrey Jones will be supervisor of personnel records, although department heads will be held responsible to the city manager for the supervision of employees in their respective departments.

missing and presumed dead in the crash of a UAL 727 jetliner at Salt Lake City.

The Texans were: Mrs. Powell M. Combs (1019 Sunset) Amarillo, and Mrs. E. Olson of Robstown.

The tragedy occurred when the main landing gear collapsed during landing—the airlines spokesman said. But he added it was too early to tell whether the collapse was the cause of the crash or an effect of it.

Salt Lake City police early today administered blood-alcohol tests to the pilot and copilot of the United Air Lines plane that crashed and burned here Thursday night.

The airlines' medical director, Dr. George Kidera, said there was "absolutely no foundation to a rumor that alcoholic beverages were involved."

Knife and Fork Ticket Deadline Is 5:00 Saturday

The Knife and Fork Club will present noted Colorado jurist Philip B. Gilliam at a Monday dinner meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Coronado Inn.

Club President Bill Waters reminds area members that ticket deadline is Saturday, November 13 at 5 p.m. He pointed out that the Saturday deadline was necessary because the dinner tickets are on sale at Malone's Pharmacy which is closed Sunday.

It was also noted that the last meeting was a sellout so patrons are urged to purchase the tickets early.

Judge Gilliam, the featured speaker, became the youngest judge in Denver's history when he accepted the appointment to that city's municipal court.

He held that position only four years. He was elected to the judgeship of Denver's juvenile court to follow in the footsteps of nationally known Ben Lindsey.

Now Judge Gilliam is finishing his twenty-second year on the Juvenile Court. During this time he has heard more than 100,000 cases involving both juveniles and adults, and his disposition of the cases and his establishment of Juvenile Hall has brought a national recognition that has attracted people from all over the world to study this institution.

In spite of his long tenure on two benches, Gilliam still is a comparatively young man. He was born in 1907 in Denver, studied in that city's public schools, went to College and was admitted to the Colorado bar in 1932.

In addition to his duties as Judge, Gilliam serves as an instructor of Sociology for the University of Denver and as an instructor of Law for Denver University's College of Law. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club, the Masons, Shrine, Denver and Colorado Bar Associations, National Peace Officers Association, and many other organizations including the nationally known Nugget Boosters Club of Denver.

He was one of the originators and sponsors of Denver's famous Junior Police Band Association, founder of the Larimer Street Vocational School, a nd

Directors Named By Rodeo Group

Eleven new directors were elected to serve on the board of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association when the group met last night.

Re-elected were Elmer Fisher, Rufe Jordan, Jake Osborne; W. D. Price Jr.; Wiley Reynolds; Bill Tidwell and Clyde Organ.

Four additional directors were named for the first time. They were J. C. Roberts, Lou Troja, Jerry Sims and Mack Hiatt.

Nov. 16 was set as the election date for new officers.

In 1851, Herman Melville's novel, "Moby Dick," was published.

His office is an elective one, and on each occasion he has carried more votes than presidents Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy.

VFW Schedules Two-Day District Meet in Borger

Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliaries will meet in Borger Saturday and Sunday for a Ninth District convention.

Borger VFW Post 1789 will host the two-day sessions.

Principal speakers at the 1 p.m. luncheon scheduled for Sunday will be J. P. Keelan, senior vice commander of the Department of Texas, and Mrs. Priscilla E. Webb of Monahans, Department of Texas auxiliary president.

Registration will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday and a dance is scheduled Saturday night.

There will be registration again from 8:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. Sunday. Business meetings of both the VFW and Auxiliary are set for 10 a.m. Sunday.

Cecil Rhoades of Amarillo is commander of the Ninth District and Irene Krapp of Borger is president of the Auxiliary.

A delegation of Pampa VFW and Auxiliary members will attend the convention.

THE NIGHT THE LIGHTS WENT OUT

Characters in the Drama Drawn from 30-Million

By MYRON FEINSILBER
By United Press International
Jay Hounsell, 11 years of age, got that terrible feeling in the pit of his stomach. He thought he made the lights go out all over Conway, New Hampshire.

Jay was walking home to supper. He picked up a stick and began hitting it against fences and telephone poles. At 5:28 p.m. EST Tuesday, he hit a light pole and the lights went out all over Conway. Jay felt terrible, and his mother had a time convincing him that he was not guilty.

Helpless Expert
Edward Nellis, 62 years of age, 41 years in the electric business, got that terrible feeling in the pit of his stomach. He saw the lights go out all over the northeast while he tried to save New York.

Nellis walked to work. He noticed a nippiness in the air. People would be turning up the heat, he thought, and they would need more electric power than usual.

He rode the elevator to his office in a block-long windowless building on the west side of Manhattan, not far from the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. It is the "Energy Control Center" of the Consolidated Edison Co.

In his office, a room 90 feet by 200 feet, he sat down in front of a huge, horseshoe-shaped control panel. From this desk, all the steam, gas and electricity New York City consumes is dispatched.

One set of dials shows how much power is being generated by eight Con Ed plants in the city. A second shows how much power is being used by the city. A third panel shows how much electricity is entering the city from a vast interconnecting network of power companies throughout the northeast. They are linked through "grids," each system can borrow power when it needs it, lend power if it is needed elsewhere.

Grid Network
The federal government has proposed that the entire nation be tied together through such grids to prevent any area from suffering "power starvation." Utility companies have opposed the proposal. The experts have given assurances that a nationwide power blackout could not occur if all supplies were linked. Those assurances have come in for re-evaluation since 5:28 p.m. EST Tuesday.

At his desk, Nellis watched the dials. One showed that 4.5 million kilowatts were on the line — 300,000 flowing into the city from the north.

Suddenly, a needle on a graph began a wild swing, back and forth. An indication of an interruption.

Nellis studied for an instant the diagrams of the power routes, showing how the power travels from plant to plant and from plants to distribution centers. Before him were controls through which he could bypass systems in the city, or reroute electricity — or cut the city off completely from the network.

He reached for an interphone to talk to electricity producers in northern New York State. Something was wrong, he was told — he knew this already — but exactly what was wrong was uncertain. The lights began to blink.

Nellis leaped. He began throwing switches. Too late. The city's electricity was already flowing out of the city, northward toward the break in the supply. This is supposed to happen, but never is there supposed to be so extreme a demand for power. Why there was remains as much a mystery today as it was at 5:28 Tuesday.

Power Drained
The outward surge of electricity drained the city of power. In a substation near a cemetery in Brooklyn, an automatic circuit breaker slammed shut. Staten Island, across New York Harbor, and a part of Brooklyn were saved.

The clocks stopped at 5:28. Eight hundred thousand people were in the subways. Jay Hounsell was hitting a light pole with a stick. In a New York apartment, not very far from where Nellis was throwing switches, a young bachelor had just unscrewed a 40-watt light bulb and was screwing a 75-watt bulb into the socket.

"Now," said his girlfriend, "look what you've done." The blackout entangled everybody. Some people spent 11 hours in an elevator. Some wore half a haircut. Some paid $50 for a taxi ride to Port Washington, out on Long Island.

The statistics in New York City alone: 30,000 automatic switches that control 70,000 street lights to be reset. Fifty million pieces of mail delayed. Business losses of $100 million (some of it television commercials that were not seen and sold no dog food). Two hundred eighty-two fires, four times the normal amount. Ice cream worth $200,000 lost by the Schrafft's Restaurant chain, all of it melted.

Candle Power
The Hilton Hotel used 30,000 candles. Some 500 airplanes were diverted to other airports — one of them in Bermuda. One hundred thousand stranded air and railroad passengers. And 30,000 people left holding tickets to 22 Broadway shows.

It was not as bad elsewhere. In upstate New York, power was restored by 10:15 p.m. Boston was out for only a few hours. But for varying periods during the blackout, an area occupied by 30 million people — a sixth of the nation — was darkened.

Among the 800,000 stranded on the New York subways were some diabetics. They need sugar in their bloodstreams; their lives depend upon it. Other passengers came forth with rolls of mints from their pockets. Another problem solved.

Mr. and Mrs. David Trager and their two children were at the dining room table when the chandelier flickered, then went out.

"I just got a couple of scented candles out of the closet," said Mrs. Trager, "and we went back to the roast."

Moscow scoffed. Tads, the Soviet news agency, said that only the Pentagon was in panic during the blackout. But Izvestia, the Russian government's evening newspaper, disagreed. It reported widespread "panic and unreasonable hysteria."

A spokesman for the Hague Municipal Power Company said the experience "reveals the Achilles heel of the American giant." A West German power expert said: "It can't happen here... we think... we hope."

Defenses Sound
Whatever happened did prove, to the pleasure of the Pentagon, that the communications network which could serve America's defense in the event of an attack could stand the test. None of the facilities of the military communications network failed, thanks to auxiliary power, usually generated by diesel engines which go on automatically when the power fails. A signal light tells when the switchover has been made.

Included in the military "Com Net" is the "Underground Pentagon" in the mountains of western Maryland, where the nation's military leaders — and possibly the president — would set up a command post in the event of a nuclear attack.

But, said Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, "the security, welfare and safety of the people have been placed in jeopardy. We must be certain it does not occur again anywhere."

Other congressmen asked questions. If this could happen by accident, they asked, what damage could a few saboteurs do? What would happen to the U.S. power supply in a nuclear attack?

Some thought, indeed, that it was a nuclear attack. Scores of people telephoned the Pentagon to find out.

Resume
In brief, this is what happened: In an 11 minute "breakdown period" from 5:17 to 5:28 p.m., power failed in all or parts of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and to James Bay, at the southern tip of Canada's Hudson Bay.

The area covered 800,000 square miles. The return of power came sporadically by a system of patching transmission lines. The original breakdown point was never isolated. George A. Orrok, vice president of the Boston Edison Co., said the entire nation could have been plunged into darkness had it been linked together by a heavy duty "grid" of

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International

It is a rule of the hunt that a wounded animal shall be pursued at whatever cost and inconvenience until it is again sighted and killed. Put out of die in the forest a buck deer with a broken hip or leg.

So it probably will be with the presidential aspirations, if any, of Mayor-Elect John V. Lindsay of New York. Conservative citizens wounded but failed to kill those presidential aspirations in last week's mayoral election. The wound was severe but not fatal.

Conservative citizens will continue to stalk Lindsay until his nomination for president by the Republican party in 1968 or 1972 is acknowledged by all concerned to be impossible. The predictable events in Lindsay's service as mayor should speed Lindsay's eclipse as a possible Republican presidential nominee.

Going for Lindsay is the bright fact that he is a winner. In 1964 he was re-elected to the House of Representatives by a fat margin in a New York City congressional district despite the Johnson landslide. Last week Lindsay won the mayoral election against a pedestrian Democratic candidate who had the support of Democratic bosses from the White House down to the most remote precinct.

Also opposing Lindsay was William F. Buckley Jr., nominee of the Conservative party, who polled 339,000 votes, or nearly 16 per cent of the Republican-Democratic-Liberal total. Buckley's vote probably was drawn largely from among those who otherwise might have voted for Lindsay or not voted at all. It was a protest vote expressing distaste for Lindsay's left-wing Republicanism and his alliance with New York's Liberal party. Lindsay had the Liberal nomination in addition to that of the Republicans. The Liberal party is committed to big spending, big deficit, centralized government welfareism.

It is difficult to assay precisely Lindsay's political principles. He is committed to both the Liberal and Republican party principles and these principles will no more mix than will oil and water. The political problems likely to arise from Lindsay's election are those of the fact that he did not carry to victory with him his ticket mates who were nominated for city controller and president of the city council. Democrats were elected to both of those offices.

The city of New York will have, in effect, a divided administration. So New York City may continue to be the worst governed big city in the United States. That dreary distinction would not help Lindsay toward a presidential nomination.

Another obstacle to expansion of Lindsay's career into national politics is the opposition of conservative Republicans. The Conservative party in New York is only three years old. In its first start in 1962 it fielded little known businessman for governor in opposition to Nelson A. Rockefeller. That year the Conservatives polled about 140,000 votes, state-wide. Last week they piled up more than 339,000 votes in New York City. The Conservative party is building up to a position of veto power against the nomination and election to office of Republicans such as John V. Lindsay.

New York Conservatives believe they can check the Republican party's leftward drift in their own state and perhaps nationally.

The only thing that prevented such a blackout, he said, was "weak spots" in the existing grid system. Boston Edison President Charles F. Avila said it would be an "almost impossible task" to develop a system that would make sure another power failure would not be repeated. And the FPC said there is no "guarantee it could not happen again."

REDUCED RATE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Allegheny Airlines announced Wednesday it has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) for permission to fly clergymen at half-fare.

Under the new rate, the clergy would be able to travel at a 50 per cent discount from first class fares. Allegheny currently gives ministers a 25 per cent discount.

In 1964, Gen. William T. Sherman and his Union Army of about 6,000 men started their "march to the sea" across Georgia.

The new reduced rate, however, would be on a stand-by space-available basis.

SUBVERSIVE FBI
MOSCOW (UPI)—Tass, the official Soviet news agency, Wednesday night accused the FBI of espionage and subversive activity against the American Communist party.

Tass criticized the alleged use of paid informers at the current trial of the party in a Washington court.

CONVENIENT
NEW YORK (UPI)—Persons with electric clocks on the east side of midtown Manhattan did not have to reset them because of the power blackout. The power went off at 5:28 p.m. Tuesday and returned at 5:28 a.m. Wednesday.

Dear Abby....

The Ashes He Leaves Could Be His Own

DEAR ABBY: My father makes his home with us. He is 82 and getting senile. He can remember what happened 75 years ago, but he forgets what you told him five minutes ago. He has always been a habitual cigarette smoker, and since that is his only pleasure in life we are not going to ask him to give it up. But here's the problem:

He has burnt about a dozen holes in the carpet beside his bed. He has also burnt about 40 holes in the night stand table. He has set the mattress on fire twice and there are cigarette holes in all his pajamas and his bathrobe, too. He will be the death of me yet. What can I do? I can't stand and watch him all day.

DEAR ABBY: I am the friend of a girl who baby-sits for a family that is quite large. When she gets there she puts the kids to bed and then she does the dishes and straightens up the house. I say she's getting paid to baby-sit, not to do housework, and if she cleans the house she should get paid extra. She says she cleans the house because she likes to, nobody asks her to. She says she is trying to take a load off the mother's back. Now, she's a sweet kid for wanting to help, but don't you think that mother should feel like a big slob for leaving a messy house for a sitter to clean?

HATS TO CLEAN

DEAR HATES: I don't know the condition of the mother's house, her health or her conscience. But if your friend cleans the house because she wants to take a load off the mother's back, she IS a sweet kid. Now, what's your problem?

DEAR ABBY: For 12 years we have had a fine, loyal girl working for us. There are six in our family. All the children are in school. I work six days a week and this girl is indispensable to our household. She started working here as a teen, is an excellent worker, has a sunny disposition and never complains. But she steals!

At first we couldn't believe it, but now it is obvious. What she takes is usually not of much value. (Half the time if she'd ask me for it, I'd give it to her.) The older children have repeatedly discovered the pilfered items before she gets them out of the house, and they have recovered them. I thought of going to our pastor, but this girl is a sincere and valuable church worker and I don't want the pastor to think less of her. Another thing — domestic help is almost impossible to get here. If you have any ideas or suggestions, please let me know.

DEAR DISTRESSED: Tell her privately, but candidly, that you are aware of her pilfering. Offer to forgive the girl if she promises to shape up. If she keeps her word, keep her. If not, let her go.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GOLDLOCKS": Your mistake was in giving too much. There's an old saying, "When baiting a mousetrap with cheese, always leave a little room for the mouse." Reflect on it.

WRAP UP IN PLAID—Plaid is big for indoors and out this season. Red plaid jacket (left) by Mad Jax is fringed at hem. Attached hood ties into a fringed scarf. College lounge shirt (right) by At-Home is an old-time bright blanket plaid. Creslan is the fiber used in these plaids to provide light weight and washability.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR SATURDAY, NOV. 13

General tendencies — An excellent day and evening go directly to whatever officials of higher-ups you know to get them to release to you some favors that they've been giving during the busy week days. Good also for getting your health on a more radiant and vital basis as well as working out any emotional perplexities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Entertaining at home, being with family friends is best way to spend this free day from work. "Thank you" into a more affluent life. Study new outlets that are practical.

TARDES (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Show your finest qualities to friends and partners you are today. Be sure to complete any responsibilities that have been hanging for some time. Evening is good for theater, etc.

GENIUS (May 21 to June 21) — You need more income and this is a good day to find out just how to get it, ably and in some satisfying new job, contract. Consult with understanding expert. Follow advice.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — First be sure that you know what your most cherished desires are and then go after them in a positive fashion. Look at that emotional matter in the right light. Be generous.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 22) — Personal aims should be gone after today. Confidence in good friends and let them give you their fine suggestions. Others come to you for assistance. Give it with alacrity.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Plan how to get going with good comrades to some charming place of amusement or cultural pursuit. Social meetings are most worthwhile now. Become more prominent.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You can handle anything of a civic nature very sensibly now by using your finest talents. Know what your best course is. Then follow it and be very dynamic, courteous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — You can begin anew now if you study into some matter that is profitable and suits your temperament better. You can find the key to your success in some letter from a distance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — Analyze what is the best course to follow and then get an expert to go along with you. A new beginning is possible for you in emotional life, also. Be happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) — Those associates who have been difficult to deal with earlier are now in a good mood. Come to line agreement. Give vent to your ideas, also where pleasure is concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — If you plan now how to carry through with duties in the new week, you will be far ahead of the game. Regular partners, co-workers will go along with your views. Keep busy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — You are filled with inspiration now and realize your goals quite easily. Be with persons you like. Perfecting hobbies that are vital to your well being is good way to spend your time now.

Pampa High School Campus News

By VIRGINIA DEWITT

Who says teenagers of today refuse to follow the propensities of their parents? On Nov. 2 Texans went to the polls to vote on ten proposed constitutional amendments. Five were passed and five were defeated.

While people all over the state were polling their opinions, students in Miss Madge Rusk's American History classes marked their ballots. Strangely enough, they voted as the majority of the citizens of Gray County and Texas voted. Students passed and defeated the same bills in the mock election.

This evidence may never be entered in any scientific, sociological report on the ideas of tomorrow's adults; but it does seem to indicate that students of Pampa High are aware of their parents' attitudes toward government and, what's more, agree with their parents.

The inside entrance to the school auditorium has just about the wildest decorations that announce the drama department's production of "Dinny and the Witches."

Dinny (Dale Sprinkle) is a trumpet player who is given the power to govern the world by the three witches (Patsy Holloway, Cheryl and Sharland Reeves). While trying to straighten out the foibles of mankind, Dinny finds that most of his attempts result in a situation worse than when he started.

Supporting roles are played by Dorothy Davis as Amy, Jeanie Bell as Bubbles, Carol Gates as Dawn, and Linda Hayes as Chloe.

Any successful production is impossible without advisers and instructors. In this production drama teachers, Mrs. Don Myers and Mr. David Heath, have filled the position.

"From the title one might get the impression that this is a children's play, but it definitely is not. It's not quite satire, but it's very close to it," said Mr. Heath.

Tickets for the Nov. 18 and 19 performances can be purchased from drama students. Prices are $.50 for students and $.75 for adults.

Jeanie Prock, junior, will serve as vice-president of District IX at the Future Teachers of America convention in Canyon. Jeanie competed against five other girls for the title.

Jeanie's duties include serving on the District IX executive board and delegate activities to the state convention.

Dorothy Davis and Doug Altom, seniors, were crowned King and Queen at the All-School Carnival Saturday night. Dorothy is head cheerleader, and Doug is vice-president of

Garden Club Told Hints on Pruning

"This is the season when trees and shrubs need pruning," E. N. Pierce told Pampa Garden Club members when the group met recently in the home of Mrs. Myron Dorman Jr.

The speaker gave four reasons for pruning; to shape the trees, to remove dead wood, to cut out and thin growth and to remove damaged limbs.

"A tree is much prettier and healthier if pruned. In this climate trees need to be watered and to do this satisfactorily one must dig out around the tree making a moat completely around and allow the water to trickle all night. In pruning one finds trees like people. Some trees bleed more than others and in this event sutures may need to be used to help heal the wound. A good antiseptic for cuts is pine tar or treating paint. Any limb as large as a finger or larger should be treated when pruned." Mr. Pierce told those present.

Runners-up were Linda Watson escorted by Kenneth McWilliams and Leslie Watkins escorted by Larry Stephens.

Future Nurses Club booth, "The Ladder," won first prize of five dollars. Winning three dollars for second place booth was the traditional Red Garter Saloon sponsored by the Senior Class. Red Cross Youth won third place for their booth, "Tea-house of the Harvest Moon."

Booth judges were Mrs. Evelyn Pritchard, Miss La Ruth Kendrick, and Mrs. Warren Hallbauer.

Byrd Makes Way For Younger Man

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—U.S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., who earned a reputation as the watchdog of the nation's purse-strings, has resigned to make way for a younger man — possibly his son.

Byrd, 78, powerful chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, quit his post one week after state elections and thus assured his successor who will be appointed by Virginia's Democratic governor at least one year in the office before a special election next November. He listed pains of arthritis as a main reason for his decision and said he found himself tiring during lengthy committee meetings. Byrd, in a fashion as conservative as his renowned views on taxes and spending, announced his resignation in a letter to Gov. Albertis Harrison.

The resignation became effective upon receipt of the letter Wednesday night, and Harrison read it to a news conference today.

Leg-Time Rumors
For months there have been rumors in Virginia and Washington that Byrd would step down from office at the appropriate time and that Harrison would appoint Harry F. Byrd Jr. to the post.

The younger Byrd is a state senator and is president and editor of the family newspaper at Winchester, Va., and president and publisher of the other family newspaper at Harrisonburg, Va.

Byrd was elected to another six-year term last year. At that time, Republicans in the state charged he would resign if reelected so his son could be named to the Senate.

Byrd also was a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and in one short paragraph in the congressional directory he listed himself as a "newspaper publisher, farmer and applegrower."

"I have concluded that the time has come for someone younger to bear these burdens and shoulder these responsibilities," Byrd said in his letter of resignation.

Senate Is Surprised
Byrd's resignation caught his colleagues in the U.S. Senate by surprise and their response was praise for the lawmaker's long service.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., said the news "came unexpectedly" and said he heard of it with "the deepest personal regret."

ITALIAN BEAUTY—Maria Buccella is proof again of the Italian flair for natural beauty. The rising young actress is featured in "After the Fox," a comedy starring Britain's Peter Sellers filming in Rome.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Our government, you know, works on a system of checks and balances. We had just had a clear demonstration of this in the case of Dale Trautman's beard.

One branch of government (military) objected to the beard. But another branch (legislative) defended it. Then a third branch (executive) upheld it.

Unless a fourth branch (judiciary) interposes, it appears that Trautman will be permitted to keep his beard and his job at the Clear Air Force Station in Alaska.

Sen. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, representing the legislative branch, laid the issue before the Senate last month. But for those who came in late, I will review the background briefly.

Refuses To Shave
Trautman, a civilian employee, was fired by the Air Force in September for refusing to shave off a beard he had grown during the "golden days" celebration in Alaska last summer.

The Air Force contended, among other things, that beards were conducive to frostbite. It explained that beards frost over outdoors and then melt indoors, thus causing "a loss of insulation."

The "no beard" policy sorely offended Bartlett, who insisted the frostbite theory was scientifically unsound. Besides that, the senator said, "the military has no right to tell a citizen he cannot grow a beard."

The senator's office here has now received word that his position has been upheld by a Civil Service Commission examiner.

After a hearing on the case, the examiner declared that "from the standpoint of social intercourse we cannot agree that bearded employee is any less desirable to associate with than a clean shaven individual."

Discrimination
"To refrain from doing business with a bearded man would, in the absence of any other cause, be unreasonable in our view," he said.

As for frostbite, he noted that Trautman "is employed indoors and will ordinarily be exposed to the elements only in going to and from his place of employment."

Unless the Air Force appeals the decision, Trautman will be restored to his job, beard and all.

Although unwhiskered himself, Bartlett was overjoyed. He called it "a landmark ruling for all persons who favor reason and tolerance over dictatorial authority."

Wall Street In Review

By United Press International
NEW YORK — Newton D. Zinder of E. F. Hutton & Co. Inc. says despite the almost steady string of new highs in the Dow-Jones industrial average, the overall market still seems to be in the process of consolidating its September-October advance.

Zinder says that while the divergence between the advance-decline and the Dow-Jones industrial average is a cause of the recent caution and a reason for the maintenance of some buying reserves.

Sylvan Epstein of Thomson & McKinnon says it is difficult to envision any important correction materializing at this time and he believes rails once again are illuminating the near-term direction of the market.

Bache & Co. says it remains favorably disposed to the market on an intermediate term basis.

First Baptist Topic Given

Dr. Douglas Carver, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, will be in the pulpit for the 11 a.m. worship and will preach from the topic "Getting Ready for the Bridegroom" with a text taken from Revelation 19:7. Sam Allen, Minister of Music, will direct the Church Choir in singing the anthem "O Lamb of God" arranged by Scott and will present Mrs. Lonnie Richardson who will sing a soprano solo. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, has chosen "Thanks Be to Thee" by Handel for the offertory.

"Blessedness and Righteousness" is the sermon subject Rev. J. R. Manning, Assistant Pastor, has chosen for the 6 p.m. worship. He has taken his text from Matthew 6:6. Allen will direct the Chapel Choir in singing "Rise Up, O Men of God" an anthem, by Wilson, and will present Miss Gail Cradlock, soprano soloist. "In His Peace Abiding" will be the selection for the organ offertory.

The Church is now in the midst of their annual stewardship program and stewardship lessons will be taught throughout the Sunday School Sunday. Goals have been set for each department and plans have been made to subscribe the budget in one day, Victory Day, Nov. 21.

Harrah Methodist To Start Teaching

The Harrah Methodist Church has started a series of Christian Teaching, Christian teaching in the Methodist Church is the responsibility of a whole host of people, ministerial and lay, professional and volunteer. The Methodist Church through General Conference action long ago established the General Board of Education for the purpose of helping all the churches in their Christian Teaching.

The purpose of the present report is to give persons engaged in Christian education in Methodist churches an opportunity to become more informed and intelligent about the fundamentals of their task and to restudy their goals and approaches.

The next teaching will be Wednesday, Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. Mrs. Peggy Patrick is General Chairman of the Committee on Education. Rev. R. H. Meixner is doing the teaching.

FINDING THE WAY Liabilities in Tow

I've always marveled at the driver who maneuvers an enormous trailer into a seemingly impossible area. He tows a huge load of freight and yet is able to back it into a cramped alleyway or ease it up to a loading ramp.

My admiration for him is heightened by the fact that so many others are pulling such enormous loads, unable to maneuver them. Think of the number of people who tow along their unredeemed sense of guilt, their unredeemed sense of guilt, their unredeemed sense of guilt, and allow these towed loads to keep them from making any progress in the present trip.

The drama of forgiveness is one of the most critical areas in our practical living. Forgiveness is not forgetfulness. To forgive is to renew. To forgive is to restore. Forgiveness requires grace. That person who knows the lure of forgiveness instead of the prejudice-ridden, hate-remembering spirit is the one who is living as a new person. It is difficult to forgive others perhaps it is because it is so hard to forgive one's self.

It is the dominion experience of those who have lost a member of the family in death to now confront a kind of guilt. "I should have done more," they say and so a past is unredeemed and towed into the future.

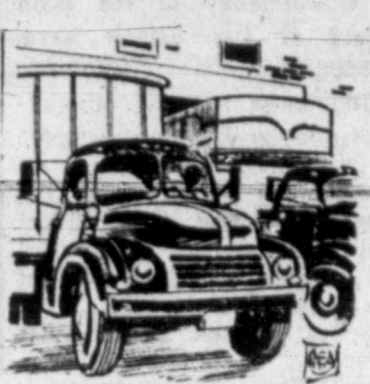

Similarly there are those many persons who come to midstream in life and find it "stale, flat and unprofitable." They remember the missed opportunities and the old joys. The tragedy of so many unhappy homes, drab marriages and "putting in the hours" jobs is tied into an inability to forgive the wastage of another time. There is no place to handle the freight.

Guilt is not buried and forgotten. They aren't shoved under the recesses of the mind as though you were shoving the garbage through a trapdoor of the dining room. You can keep it out of the room but after a while the stench drives you out of the house.

You can hush those unresolved hatreds and guilts into a hidden corner but after a while there is the evil-smelling past to interrupt the normalcy of life.

When Jesus forgave his enemies he lifted them out of a sodden past and showed them the possibility of a new life. When he worked with hurt and stumbling people around him, he showed them how they could find forgiveness for themselves. In a very real sense he showed men how to handle the freightage of the past in order that we might "travel light."

We're not worthy, but we're accepted. We're not innocent, but we're forgiven. It's the grace required just when we've discovered how hard it is to forgive one's self!

United Press International For thousands of Protestant churches, this coming Sunday (Nov. 4) is one of the most important days of the year.

It goes by a variety of names—"pledge Sunday," "covenant Sunday," "Stewardship Sunday," "loyalty Sunday."

By whatever name, it's the day when members are asked to indicate, on confidential pledge cards, how much they plan to contribute to the church during the coming year. The church needs this information in order to draw up its budget.

Pastors differ in their views on how best to prepare a congregation for pledge Sunday.

Some favor a soft sell which emphasizes that giving is a way of showing gratitude to God for abundant material blessings.

"Parishioners' Complaints" Others bear down hard on the duty of every parishioner to help bear the financial burden of the church's program.

It is plain from national giving statistics—and plain still to anyone who has ever helped conduct a parish canvass—that vast numbers of church members do not take seriously the Biblical rule of tithing, which holds that the first tenth of a man's income properly belongs to God and must be returned to him in the form of gifts to church and charity.

A report issued by the National Council of Churches earlier this month showed that the average American Protestant contributed $71.80 to his church last year. That's not quite 20 cents a day—less than the price of a pack of cigarettes.

Serve God and Man This fall, one parish tried a new tactic. Instead of rebuking non-givers, it asked regular givers to say why they DO contribute to the church. Here is one layman's candid answer as it was published in the church bulletin:

"Every parish church has many shortcomings, and ours is certainly no exception. If you choose to concentrate on the church's failures and inadequacies, it is easy to convince yourself that this imperfect institution doesn't deserve much of your money.

"But for all its warts, the church is still the Body of Christ on Earth. It is the best, and in many situations the best, channel through which the healing word of God reaches men and women and young people.

"I contribute to the church despite my frequent dissatisfaction with it because I believe that you can serve God only by helping your fellow man. And the best thing you can do for another human being is to help him find faith, hope and meaning in life. There are many government and private agencies these days which administer to other human needs, but only the church can respond to a person's deepest hunger."

Not terribly eloquent, perhaps. But brief and to the point—which may not be true of every stewardship sermon that Americans will hear Sunday morning.

Clergy Seminar Set by 'Heart'

The Armstrong County Heart Association will sponsor a Seminar for Ministers in Claude on Nov. 15 in the school auditorium from 9:30 to 3:30 p.m.

W. G. Dunn, president of the association, is sending invitations to all ministers in Briscoe, Carson, Collingsworth, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hutchinson, Potter, Randall and Wheeler counties to attend the seminar.

This is the first seminar for ministers to be held in this area, and efforts are being made to make it outstanding. It is designed to better enable ministers to give counsel to families stricken by cardiovascular disease.

Paul's Letters From Rome to be Topic At First Presbyterian

The First Chapter of Paul's letter to the Philippians is his testimony of what happened to him at Rome and the basis for a question about "What Has Happened to Us?" the sermon subject at the First Presbyterian Church. Ruling Elder W. A. Morgan will assist the pastor, the Rev. Donald S. Hauck, in the leading of morning worship at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services. In addition to the anthem by the growing sanctuary choir, special music will be provided at both services by Mrs. Jack McCabe and Mrs. Fidelia Yoder as part of the dedication of the new piano, given in loving memory of two charter members of the congregation Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews.

The Youth Fellowship will meet at the regular hours on Sunday evening, and the Inquirers classes for those considering church membership will meet at 9:45 a.m. during the church school hour. All are welcome.

Scientists Tell Sermon Topic

Jacob's struggle at Peniel and the conversion of Paul will be included in the Bible Lesson at Christian Science churches this Sunday to illustrate spiritual transformation.

A verse from Paul's message to the Romans will underscore the theme. "And be not conforming to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable and perfect, will of God" (Romans 12:2).

Related passages from the Christian Science textbook will include these lines: "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual, they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite, in order that sin and mortality may be put off."

The Lesson - Sermon is on the subject of "Mortals and Immortals."

Loyalty Sunday At Zion Church

Sunday, Nov. 14 will be observed as "Loyalty Sunday" at Zion Lutheran Church. Members of Zion Lutheran will be encouraged to rededicate their time, talent and treasure for coming year. The Rev. M. G. Herring will deliver the message, "God Sent His Son". The Adult Choir, under the direction of Mrs. M. G. Herring, will present the choral selection, "In Heavenly Love".

In 1806, Zebulon Pike, who was exploring the west in an attempt to find the source of the Mississippi River, sighted the mountain which became known as "Pike's Peak."

First Christian Topic Given

Rev. J. W. Duke has chosen as his Sermon Topic "Is God Deaf" - Matt. 15:21-28. The choir under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor, accompanied by Mrs. John Gill, will do as their Anthem "Laudamus Te" (We Praise Thee) by Carl F. Mueller. The Church schedule will remain the same otherwise with Rev. Duke preaching at Lamar Annex, 1200 S. Sumner, at the early Worship at 9:30 a.m. and at First Church at 10:50 a.m. There will be a Snack Supper at 5:30 p.m. All Youth Groups meet at 6 p.m. All Youthning Worship at 7 p.m.

One of the CWF Groups will meet on Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. with Mrs. W. L. Parker, 1521 Williston. There will also be a general CWF meeting Wednesday November 17th here at the church.

The church has been enjoying such a large attendance at its evening youth meetings and it hopes each young person will continue to come. This week our Chi Rho Group will hear the Climbers, who are a group of girls from Robert E. Lee Jr. High. The CYF is under the direction of George Gamblin and he also has a very good program planned.

Final Preparations For Weekend Stay

Final arrangements were completed today for 48 members of the Pampa congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses to spend the weekend in Dumas listening to a series of Bible talks and discussions during three days of assembly at the Moore County Building.

The program will get underway Friday evening at 6:45 with the address of welcome to be given by the new district director, A. A. Catanzaro, traveling minister from New York.

Sessions will continue Saturday and Sunday with the main subject under discussion to be "What Does the Resurrection of the Dead Mean for You and Yours?", which will be presented by Catanzaro, Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m.

Convention officials announced that a special meeting of all the presiding ministers of each of the 16 congregations attending will be conducted during the business meeting, with Catanzaro to preside over the session.

Plans for future conventions will be discussed according to Charles Regal, presiding minister of the Pampa congregation, as well as purchases of new equipment for Texas Circuit No. 10, co-sponsors of the convention.

While in Dumas the Witnesses will set up their own cafeteria, with volunteer help to serve three meals a day to delegates who do not use the cafes there. Free meals are given to all full time ministers who do not receive any salaries for their ministerial activities. Local housewives have assisted by preparing pies and cakes to take to Dumas to be served in the cafeteria.

Representatives from 30 communities will attend with more than 600 expected.

It was also announced Tuesday night at a special meeting of the servant-body of Jehovah's Witnesses that A. A. Catanzaro, main speaker for the assembly in Dumas, will be in Pampa on Thursday, Nov. 16 to show a one hour twenty minute film "Around the World With Jehovah's Witnesses". The film is in effect a guided tour around the world showing scenes from many assemblies held in various countries in the summer of 1963. It will be shown at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 944 South Dwight Street.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist
Art is and should be a part of the total educational program. It has often been criticized as an unnecessary extra or frill. Actually it has a cultural as well as an academic value.

Art is most interesting and valuable when it combines its cultural purposes with the academic program. This approach helps individuals to understand and appreciate art as an important part of their daily activities.

The school program provides students with an opportunity to think and work creatively at their own level of ability and understanding. They can use a great variety of materials. They should be allowed to develop their own ideas by their own standards. Art is a visual language that can be read and understood by children.

Emotional Academic Value
A good art program is much more than a check list of activities to do throughout the classroom situation. It provides the children with satisfying experiences of emotional and academic value. These experiences encourage creative work and develop greater meaning in the academic areas.

Let's take look at a typical lower grade lesson. The students are using cloth scraps, yarn, assorted papers, paste, and scissors to develop a picture of winter games. This project grew out of a study of weather. The class was studying clouds, temperature, and the formation of snow. The snow was used to develop interest in the picture which was called "warm clothes for winter snows."

Variety of Subjects
A unit of this nature is an excellent example of a total program. The basic subject involved was science. Arithmetic was involved with the temperature. Language arts and reading were involved in research. The art project was used to give meaning to what had been learned. The students, in using the art materials, were developing motor skills (cutting) color sense, etc. This inclusion of many subjects is called correlation.

This type of program leads to a real appreciation of art. The children begin to realize that through art they can express themselves. They begin to recognize that art can bring feeling and interest to their regular activities.

BIBLICAL DIGS PLANNED PRINCETON N.J. (UPI) — Extensive surveys and renewed excavations during the past summer have laid the ground work for a major 1966 expedition to ancient Hebron, the famed Old Testament City where David established his first capital.

The planned expedition under the direction of Prof. Philip C. Hammond of Princeton Theological Seminary, will undertake large scale excavation to uncover artifacts from the ancient civilization.

Unitas to Miss Viking Contest

By United Press International
Baltimore's Gary Cuzzo and Minnesota's Dave Osborn, two youngsters who have yet to leave their mark in the National Football League, may become the most talked about "pain-killers" since Ben-Gay this Sunday when the Colts meet the Vikings in a crucial Western Division clash.

of star quarterback Johnny Unitas, who suffered a back injury in the Colts' victory over Chicago last weekend while Osborn, a rookie halfback from North Dakota, is set to sub for the Vikings' ailing Tommy Mason, who injured his right knee.

These two men loom as key figures in Sunday's NFL action which also finds San Francisco at Detroit, Los Angeles at Green Bay, New York at Cleveland, St. Louis at Chicago, Pittsburgh at Dallas and Washington at Philadelphia.

Cuzzo has appeared in 18 games as Unitas' backup during his three NFL campaigns, but he has never been starter. He has thrown three career TD passes including one last week against Chicago and the Colts consider him one of the league's best young quarterbacks.

Osborn filled in for Mason last week and gained 49 yards on nine carries including a 21-yard scoring run.

The Colts without Unitas, however, don't figure to be as strong as the Vikings without Mason. The reason lies with Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton who is one of the league's top signal-callers and the major reason the Vikings rank as the league's second highest scoring team.

Unitas may play Sunday, though, and if he does the Colts will rate a slim 2-point choice.

San Francisco, the league's highest scoring team, meets one of the league's top defensive units in Detroit and the Lions are still howling over their upset of Green Bay last weekend. The 49ers have the league's leading passer in John Brodie and the leading pass receiver in Dave Parks, but their defense has yielded 231 points. The Lions' superior defense rates them a 4-point pick.

WIN WOULD END IT ALL

Bills, Oakland In Title Game

By United Press International
The Buffalo Bills will invade Oakland Sunday with a chance to virtually end both the Eastern and Western Division races in the American Football League.

Oakland, with a 5-3-1 record, is the only team in the West with a chance to overtake the San Diego Chargers for the division crown but a loss Sunday coupled with a Charger victory could effectively eliminate them from contention. The Bills (7-2) hold a two and a half game margin over the Oilers and could put the championship out of reach for Houston with win Sunday.

In other AFL contests, San Diego will invade Kansas City to try to eliminate the Chiefs from contention, the Houston Oilers host the Denver Broncos and the Boston Patriots take on the New York Jets.

Top Receiver
Be Robinson, who has developed into one of the Bills' top receivers while filling in for the injured Elbert Debenion, will be facing his old teammates for the first time since he was traded to the Bills three weeks ago. He'll share the pass catching duties along with ends Charles Ferguson and Paul Costa and fullback Billy Joe Jack Kemp, the league's number two passer will be at the helm for the Bills.

The Raiders have yet to announce their starting quarterback but it looks as though Dick Wood, who pitched three touchdown passes last Sunday to lead the Raiders to a 33-21 victory over the Oilers will get the nod over Tom Flores. The Raiders may have found a running back to complement Clem Daniels in Larry Todd, Todd, who made his first start at tight back last week ripped off 149 yards on 20 carries against the Oilers.

Len Dawson will try to salvage any title hopes the Chiefs have left when he leads Kansas City against the vaunted Charger defense. Mack Lee Hill and Curtis McClinton will have to run through one of the toughest defenses in the league while Dawson will have his hands full trying to hit his prime receiver Chris Buford. San Diego will have John Hadl, Lance Alworth, Paul Lowe, Keith Lincoln, and Herb Travino ready to work their own kind of special scoring magic.

The Houston Oilers, still nurturing a slim hope of Eastern Division glory, will have to stop one of the most powerful running combinations in pro football when Cookie Gilchrist and Wendell Hayes lead the Denver Broncos into town. George Blanda, who has been passing more and enjoying it less, may find Denver's pass defense a little easier to crack than Oakland's was last week. The New York-Boston game finds Joe Namath back at quarterback for the Jets after two weeks in the bullpen. Neither team has a chance to win the crown in the East but this game might decide which will reside in the cellar. The Jets are riding a two-game winning streak and look as though they are finally beginning to jell.

Hoople Sees Ponies Riding High, Wide

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Pigskin Genius
Egad, friends, despite the rash of unexpected results which plagues the collegiate grid powers each Saturday, the Hoopie System continues to function normally.

Last week our batting average was a satisfying .722, with 26 winners of the day's top 36 contests — kaff-kaff!

Although it is not my nature to brag, I do feel a duty to my laboratory assistants to point out to the scoffers among you that the Hoopie System correctly forecast the amazing upset by the Air Force as they scored their first-ever victory over Army — har-rump! And on the same card I predicted Tennessee's startling victory over 7th rated Georgia Tech, and lightly regarded Memphis State's upending of 15th ranked Utah State!

And now for a look at this week's festivities.
— Hold on to your hats, kiddies, here we go again for a wild ride with the Southern Methodist Mustangs! Yes, dear readers, Arkansas' 20-game string is going to be broken as the Mustangs — heh-heh — outrace the Razorbacks at Dallas. I forecast a 17-13 triumph for SMU. In the Big Ten, the on-and-off Northwestern Wildcats will be "on" this week as they upset the potent Michigan Wolverines.

The mid-western juggernauts, Michigan State and Notre Dame, racing full-till on a collision course, will tune up for their Nov. 20 meeting with relatively easy victories. We foresee Michigan State thumping Indiana, 36-10, and the Irish outpointing North Carolina 33-20.

Remember, you read it first in the Hoopie selections.

Now go on with the forecast.

Texas, Tech Eye Saturday Foes

By United Press International
The Arkansas Razorbacks, who must vault a Southern Methodist Pony to keep their 20-game winning string intact, are ready, coach Frank Broyles reports.

Arkansas and SMU will have the Southwest Conference showdown Saturday at Dallas. Texas will host TCU in Austin Saturday afternoon. Rice hosts A&M in Houston. Texas Tech hosts Baylor, in the last full Saturday schedule of conference football this season.

There are three games for the following weekend, then the Thanksgiving Texas-Texas A&M game, and two final games Saturday, Nov. 27.

Players Know
Arkansas' Broyles said Thursday of his charges, "I'm satisfied they know what to do. That's the important thing." He worked the squad lightly in sweatclothes. Winback Harry Jones was still having trouble with his injured hip and may see limited action Saturday.

SMU wound up its major work for the week with some practice passing and punting. Ticket sales people say they expect 60,000 to jam the Cotton Bowl for the SMU-Arkansas game.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal had to take his men inside for more than an hour's workout in Gregory Gymnasium while rain fell outside. The Longhorns did exercises and worked out in sweat clothes and tennis shoes. Rain also canceled the regular kicking drill.

Light Work
Texas Tech also worked lightly, in sweat clothes, but showed spirit and goodpassingpolish Coach J. T. King said.

King hoped to find out today whether split end Jeff White will be able to play against Baylor. Tech fans stirred spirit for the game with a proclamation that Saturday is to be "All I See Is Red".

David Ferguson, Rice quarterback who tore some tendons in his ankle last week against Arkansas, will see some play Saturday against Texas A&M. Coach Jess Neely said sophomore Robert Hailey will back him up. The Owls worked in the gym Thursday because of a rain, concentrating on recognition of A&M patterns.

Baylor worked without pads and coach John Bridgers shifted some names in his lineup. Mike Marshall for quarterback, Jack Eisenhart switched to defense. Rushing leader Richard Defee will see limited play.

LASKY FINED
NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Lasky, 265-pound tackle whose 15 yard penalty violation led to the New York Giants' 23-7 loss to the Washington Redskins last Sunday, was fined an unannounced sum today by coach Allie Sherman. A spokesman said the fine was more than the automatic $50 assessed by National Football League headquarters.

Victory Ends Year On Successful Note

By RON CROSS
News Sports Editor

Pampa's Shockers wound up the 1965 football season Thursday in a most convincing fashion, downing Palo Duro, 15-0, behind lost fumbles, intercepted passes and the running of L. D. Rowden and Ted Heiskell.

The Shockers fumbled four times, three by Heiskell, lost the ball all four times, had two passes intercepted but intercepted four themselves and completely dominated the game.

The victory gives the Pampa B team a 7-3 season record and allowed them to close out the year with three straight wins.

Pampa scored the second time they got their hands on the ball, having two other drives stopped inside the 15 yard-line. The Shockers had to drive only 34 yards and did so in five plays, fumbling once and recovering it.

L. D. Rowden ran in from 10 yards out to cap the drive. Mike Brown caught a pass from Dwight Rogers for the conversion and with 3:03 left in the first period the Shockers were out front, 8-0.

The Shockers put the finishing touches on the Dons in the fourth period, taking over on their own 30 and driving the 30 yards in 14 plays with quarterback Gary Hyatt plunging in from the one.

Herschell Moiser kicked the point after and with 6:15 left to play the Shockers had it wrapped up at 15-0.

Six times the Harvesters dented the Dons 25-yard line but were unable to score, losing the pigskin on a pass interception or a fumble.

In the first period Pampa moved to the Don 12-yard line where Hyatt fumbled and the Dons recovered.

Again in the opening quarter Pampa chugged it down to the Palo Duro 23 where another fumble cost them again. A drive to the Don 15 was halted by a fumble by Heiskell and the Shockers were further frustrated.

The Shockers took the opening kickoff in the final half and moved to the Don 22 where a pass interception halted a possible touchdown.

Again in the third period the Shockers threatened, this time moving to the eight where another pass interception gave the Dons possession.

White Deer has already beaten Wellington, the second place club in their district, and a win over Memphis would give the Bucks a 10-0 season record and 5-0 conference reading.

In other 2-A games Canadian and McLean end the football season at McLean. Canadian is 0-9 for the year and the Tigers are 3-6. Canadian is 0-4 in conference play and McLean is 1-3.

In district 5-B Groom shoots for at least a tie for the championship when the Tigers host Follett. Wheeler, the second place club is idle this week.

In other 5-B action Lefors plays at Miami and Booker goes to Darrouzett.

ROADBLOCKS AHEAD

SMU's toughest foe to date. The Razorbacks have a talented quarterback in Jon Brittenum and a hard running back in Bobby Burnett who has tallied 12 touchdowns. The team also boasts a good kicker in Ronny South and the defensive unit is ranked third nationally against rushing.

While Arkansas may not be looking past this Saturday's game, many of the other top 10 rated teams will be since this week's opponents offer little competition.

Michigan State (8-0), ranked no. 1, meets Big 10 rival Indiana (2-6). The Spartans, who have clinched a Rose Bowl berth, are looking ahead to their Nov. 20 meeting with Notre Dame which may decide the nation's top-ranked team. They should have little trouble with their Hoosier opponents and are tabbed a whopping 25-point favorite.

Second-ranked Nebraska (8-0) needs only victories over Oklahoma State and Oklahoma for its first undefeated season in 50 years. The Cornhuskers are 20-point favorites to upend the Cowboys Saturday but it's the Sooners they're really looking forward to meeting on Nov. 20.

Oklahoma was the only team to defeat Nebraska last season. Fourth-ranked Notre Dame, fifth-ranked Southern California and sixth-ranked Alabama also figure to have an easy time of it this weekend. The Irish (6-1) are 27-point favorites over North Carolina, the Trojans (5-1-1) rate a 20-point choice over Pittsburgh and the Crimson Tide (6-1-1) are favored by 19 over South Carolina.

Seventh-ranked UCLA (5-1-1), which meets Sothern Cal for the other Rose Bowl berth a week from Saturday, has a tough opponent this weekend in Sanford. The Indians (5-2-1) have victories over Air Force, Oregon and Army to their credit and the Bruins are only listed as a 3-point choice.

Eight-ranked Missouri (5-2-1), still hoping for a Bowl bid, is a 14-point choice over Oklahoma, ninth-ranked Tennessee (4-0-2) a 2-point favorite over Mississippi and 10th ranked Kentucky a 10-point pick over Houston. Dartmouth (7-0) and Princeton (7-0), who will battle it out for the Ivy League title on Nov. 20, are also favored over conference opponents. The Indians, who rank fifth in the nation in total defense, are 12-

TVA Makes Another Grab

The TVA (which is short for Tennessee Valley Authority) may be the biggest federal corporation in competition with private enterprise, and it is about to get even bigger.

The TVA is in business to produce a great deal more than hydroelectric power.

The TVA also buys coal to produce steam plant power, which the TVA planners said in the beginning would never be done, because obviously that would put the government in direct competition with private business.

The TVA produces fertilizer. The TVA can do just about anything it wants to so long as Congress provides the money collected from the people.

And so the TVA now has plans for land speculation and development.

The latest TVA undertaking got under the skin of Robert F. Gerholz, as perhaps nothing has since he took over the first of the year as president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He was particularly riled about the TVA getting into the land speculation business, because he knows personally how ruinous the government's activities in the field could be. Mr. Gerholz is president of Gerholz Community Homes, Inc. of Flint, Mich.

Mr. Gerholz expressed himself on the subject at a recent meeting of the Mankato, Minn. Chamber of Commerce.

"The idea of a federal community is taking form—a community laid out and developed by federal blueprint, with local industries handpicked by federal planners, and free enterprises excluded from the community if they don't fit into the plan," Mr. Gerholz declared.

The TVA is about to add a new dam, the Tellico, to its vast chain, and "on the surface things seem to be about the same as they have been on all other TVA projects over the years," said Mr. Gerholz.

But this time there is a difference.

"As always," he said, "when government buys up land for one of these projects, it takes more land than actually will be used. The extra space is needed during the construction phase for temporary facilities—access roads and the like. The practice always has been that when the job is completed the surplus land is auctioned off publicly to the highest bidder."

But that ain't the way it's gonna be this time.

"This time," according to Mr. Gerholz, "instead of selling the surplus land at public auction, the government intends to hold it for direct sale to industries of its own selection."

"In short," said the disturbed chamber of commerce president, "the government will decide who can do business in this new community and who cannot. The land will be sold only to people who agree to do what the government tells them to do."

As further proof of the speculative nature of the undertaking, Mr. Gerholz pointed out that "instead of acquiring the surplus land in the first place as needed—specifically for the construction job, the government will buy the excess land selectively with a view to its resale value when the project is finished."

TVA spokesmen readily acknowledge that the planned community is what they have in mind, claiming that in previous projects, the land that was resold to private ownership was "wasted" and "private citizens who bought the surplus acreage from these dam sites did not always develop their property to its highest and best use."

"In other words," said Mr. Gerholz, "they (the private owners) didn't manage their affairs the way the government wanted them to, so the government must take charge."

One TVA spokesman explained that "we want to make sure the investment achieves the regional objectives and also that it will really boost the basic economy of that area and produce more jobs."

"The explanation would be quite satisfactory," rejoined Mr. Gerholz, "but only if one were willing to write off our free market economic system."

An Encouraging Note

Ordinarily, we believe that all legitimate bills should be paid as promptly as possible. But, we've found an exception in the case of the rent subsidy bill which the 89th Congress added to our substantial outstanding account. We are pleased that some of the more considerate of our "purchasing agents" in Congress managed to hold up payment on it by deleting the funds to pay for it from the Appropriations Bill.

If we had to choose one bill from among all the many money-wasting boondoggles that were pushed through the 89th Congress that qualified as the worst, that rent subsidy scheme certainly would make it into the final elimination round. It is just about as well suited as any law can be as a combination vote-getter and profit-maker for any office holder who has learned the first lesson in the art of political patronage.

We're under no illusion that used. The extra space is needed during the construction phase for temporary facilities—access roads and the like. The practice always has been that when the job is completed the surplus land is auctioned off publicly to the highest bidder."

But that ain't the way it's gonna be this time.

"This time," according to Mr. Gerholz, "instead of selling the surplus land at public auction, the government intends to hold it for direct sale to industries of its own selection."

"In short," said the disturbed chamber of commerce president, "the government will decide who can do business in this new community and who cannot. The land will be sold only to people who agree to do what the government tells them to do."

As further proof of the speculative nature of the undertaking, Mr. Gerholz pointed out that "instead of acquiring the surplus land in the first place as needed—specifically for the construction job, the government will buy the excess land selectively with a view to its resale value when the project is finished."

Halloween, the time of witches and goblins, is the second best season for the candy makers. They sell $285 million of the sweet stuff then to keep the "trick or treat" young fry happy. Christmas is the best season, when an estimated $350 million worth of chocolates and ribbon candy are gobbled up. Curiously, the Easter Bunny ranks third with a mere $190 million in candy rabbits, eggs and other delicacies.

And here's what 2.6 quadrillion looks like: 2,600,000,000,000,000.

House Members Doubt Purposes of Anti-Poverty Program Probe As Powell Wangles $230,000 Fund, Keeps Control of All Moves

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A highly pertinent question is being raised regarding the House Labor Committee's impending wide-ranging investigation of the controversial anti-poverty program — exactly what is its purpose and why?

From backstage indications, it would appear the real intent is political manipulation and minority-bloc pressuring rather than uncovering the facts.

Reasons for this growing suspicion among House members of both parties are:

— Representative Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., stormy Labor Committee chairman who initiated the probe, is keeping a tight rein on everything relating to it — from the spending of its considerable funds, to who and what will be investigated.

— Although he set up an "ad hoc" subcommittee (8 Democrats, 4 Republicans) to conduct the inquiry and designated Representative Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a junior member of the full committee as chairman, Powell is firmly and forcefully bossing everything.

— $230,000 to finance the investigation until March 1 was deftly wangled by Powell. Unnoticed and without opposition, he got a big chunk of this money in the last few days of the recent Congress. Representative William Ayres, O., senior Republican on the committee, was totally unaware of that until after the House had voted it.

— In a list of comprehensive instructions Powell issued to the 12 staff investigators, he explicitly directed that special attention be focused on the treatment of Negroes in both the anti-poverty organization and its numerous local projects.

— This racial emphasis was further underlined by Powell in talks to the staff members. He is credited as admonishing them:

"Negroes must reject the white community's carefully selected ceremonial Negro leaders and insist that the white community deal with the black leaders chosen by the black community to run their anti-poverty programs. Black communities throughout the country must neither tolerate nor accept outside leadership. Each community must provide its own leadership. That is political power, and that is what the black communities must have and must exercise."

One investigator has quit, and several others are restive. LAYING DOWN THE LAW—Not only did the "ad hoc" subcommittee conducting the inquiry have no hand in formulating the extraordinary orders to the staff investigators, but some committee members are still unaware of them.

The detailed guidelines were issued over Powell's signature "in strictest confidence" to the staff members.

Under this directive, they were instructed to report on the following:

— "Racial integration in anti-po-

erty program staffs; number and percentage of Negroes on boards of directors and staffs in relation to the number and percentage in the local population; number and percentage of Negroes in poverty populations.

"Salaries of program officials; percentage of federal grants allocated for salaries; comparison of anti-poverty salaries with comparable welfare salaries; comparison of Negro salaries with those of white staff members.

"Political appointments or political interference with anti-poverty programs; percentage of political appointments to professional appointments.

"Funding of anti-poverty programs; ratio of funds to total number of poor in city populations.

"Involvement of the poor in local anti-poverty programs; number involved; how selected and how appointed; total number of poor in city.

"Community-wide umbrella anti-poverty program vis-a-vis independent or private programs; number of independent programs in city; number of applications for federal grants by independent groups; comparison of the involvement of the poor in community-wide programs and independent programs.

Powell pointedly concluded these orders with the terse injunction, "If there are any questions as to full compliance with these instructions, contact my special assistant, Chuck Stone, immediately."

POSSIBLE TARGETS — Anti-poverty projects and operations in 21 cities across the country have been secretly scrutinized by the staff investigators.

Their findings will be the basis of public hearings that will be held in eight or ten of them. Powell will do the selecting. He is slated to do that this week—after which he will notify Representative Gibbons, chairman of the "ad hoc" investigating committee.

Deemed virtually certain to be on Powell's list are New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Los Angeles.

The 21 cities that have undergone preliminary probing are Bridgeport, Conn.; New Haven, Conn.; Providence, R. I.; Boston; Newark, N. J.; Rochester, N. Y.; New York City; Baltimore; Washington; Philadelphia; Pittsburgh; Cleveland; Cincinnati; Detroit; Chicago; Gary, Ind.; Louisville; Baton Rouge; Houston; Los Angeles, and San Francisco.

Powell got the $230,000 for the investigation in three different "takes."

In late August, despite the strenuous objections of Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, militant economy champion, the House voted $100,000 to finance the probe until January 1. Then on October 19, shortly before Congress quit, Powell slipped another $100,000 grant through the House to carry the investigation to March 1.

Wit and Whimsy

Visitor — How many successful jumps must a paratrooper make before he graduates?
Cadet — All of them.

According to Lulu, "Neighbors are the main cause of overcrowdedness."

We like a man that comes right out and says what he thinks, when he agrees with us.

Nothing is a greater impediment to being on good terms with others than being ill at ease with yourself.

Childish game — One at which your wife beats you.

In addition to this $200,000, he had $30,346 remaining from funds voted early in the year to get the "ad hoc" subcommittee underway.

The Republican minority on the Labor Committee (21 Democrats, 10 GOP) is supposed to have control of 30 per cent of the investigating funds. But Powell has blandly and completely ignored them. He has hired the four investigators allotted to them, but that's as far as he has gone.

Everything else, from spending the money to minutely controlling the probe, he has kept securely in his own hands.

UNDERWORLD POW-WOW — On October 19, New York City police raided Lombardi's restaurant on Spring Street and arrested seven men — four of them top leaders in the Vito Genovese family of the notorious Cosa Nostra. All were charged with conspiring.

It can be authoritatively reported that the purpose of the unusual meeting, called by Thomas Ebeling, alias Tommy Ryan, acting boss of the Genovese family, was to select a successor to one of the leading policy-bolita-lottery "bankers" on the East Coast. Earlier this year, this hoodlum underwent surgery for what the doctors determined was terminal cancer.

When the gangster chiefs got the word, they designated a successor. But shortly thereafter, he died of a heart attack—whether from elation or fear is not known.

The October 29 gathering was to pick still another replacement.

Significantly, among the seven present was Phillip ("Little Farvel") Kovolick, notorious New York and Florida gambling mogul and close associate of Meyer Lansky, reputed head of another mob.

The Genovese Cosa Nostra and the Lansky mob have long been associated in various enterprises, both lawless and legitimate, according to the testimony of Joseph Valachi, one-time "soldier" in the Genovese pack who broke the underworld's oath of silence three years ago and disclosed a wealth of information about organized crime to the FBI.

Testifying in 1963 before the Senate investigating committee, Valachi stated, "Anywhere Meyer Lansky is, Vito Genovese is." However, this no longer holds true.

Genovese is now in a federal penitentiary serving a 15-year sentence on a narcotics conviction.

Hunt for Truth

BY H. L. HUNT

A SOVIET INVENTION
Yevsey G. Liberman, an economist at Kharkov University, is being hailed throughout the Soviet Union for a great economic discovery. His "Discovery" is the law of supply and demand. Thus Liberman takes his place in the annals of Russian scientific achievement, alongside those Russians who invented the electric lightbulb, airplane, and everything of importance, including the atom bomb.

Despite the Kremlin's rash claims for Soviet science, however Liberman's "invention" may be of great significance to all the world. He has discovered that, because of bureaucratic red tape, the Russians aren't able to get the things they want and need. More important, he places the blame on unrealistic theory which cuts production by smothering initiative.

A few years ago, such heresy would have placed its exponent against a wall, blindfolded. But the Kremlin, dragging far behind in the Cold War's battle of production, apparently was ready for any kind of suggestion when "Libermanism" reached its ears.

Some 400 Russian factories producing consumer items are starting test programs to evaluate this unheard-of, or at least heretofore unmentionable, "law of supply and demand."

It is ironic that the Kremlin holds such high hopes for Liberman's economic "innovation," for the relative economic freedom he has advocated is in direct conflict with Marxist dogma.

It is far more ironic and it is tragic, that our own government seems intent on repealing the law of supply and demand, just as the Soviets have finally discovered that it is the only workable rule for production. And we appear to be moving toward adoption of the discredited socialist dogma that has brought a half-century of failure to Russia.

Apollo Test Fire Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—U. S. scientists today delayed until Saturday the first test firing of the new Apollo spaceship, but took another step toward the Gemini 7 launch Dec. 4 by wiring the two-man capsule to its booster. The Apollo rocket unit being readied for a 15-second ground firing is similar to one that is to return three moon explorers to earth after the first lunar exploration in about three years. The static test had been set for Friday, but lagging preparations put it off a day.

They are John Bost Jr., 19, of Brownfield, David Bowen, 19, of Fort Worth, and Raymond Gokeje, 17, of Houston, freshman football players at West Texas.

They have been expelled from the school. Randall County Judge Lloyd King sentenced the three to a year's probation. He fined them $200 each, but suspended $100 of it and ordered them to pay for the damages and cleanup of the post office.

The boys said they put a firecracker in a sock filled with manure and planted it in one of the post office mail boxes Monday. They could have been tried on federal charges of destroying U. S. property, but the postal inspector took the case to county court saying a crowded federal docket would prevent a quick trial and "they should be punished now."

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)—Former Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion will visit the United States next February to attend a conference on the Israel Bible Research Society in Chicago, it was reported today.

Luci, Boyfriend Postpone Plans For Engagement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has talked his daughter Luci Baines and her boyfriend Pat Nugent into postponing their engagement plans.

White House friends said the President's 18-year-old daughter Luci and Nugent of Waukegan, Ill. were given some paternal advice during a first family conference at the LBJ ranch two weekends ago.

Nugent plans to go into the service on Nov. 28. If he goes into the Air Reserves, it would be only a six-month stint.

The President's powers of persuasion apparently prevailed, although the young couple were far from happy with the lack of parental consent for a nuptial announcement.

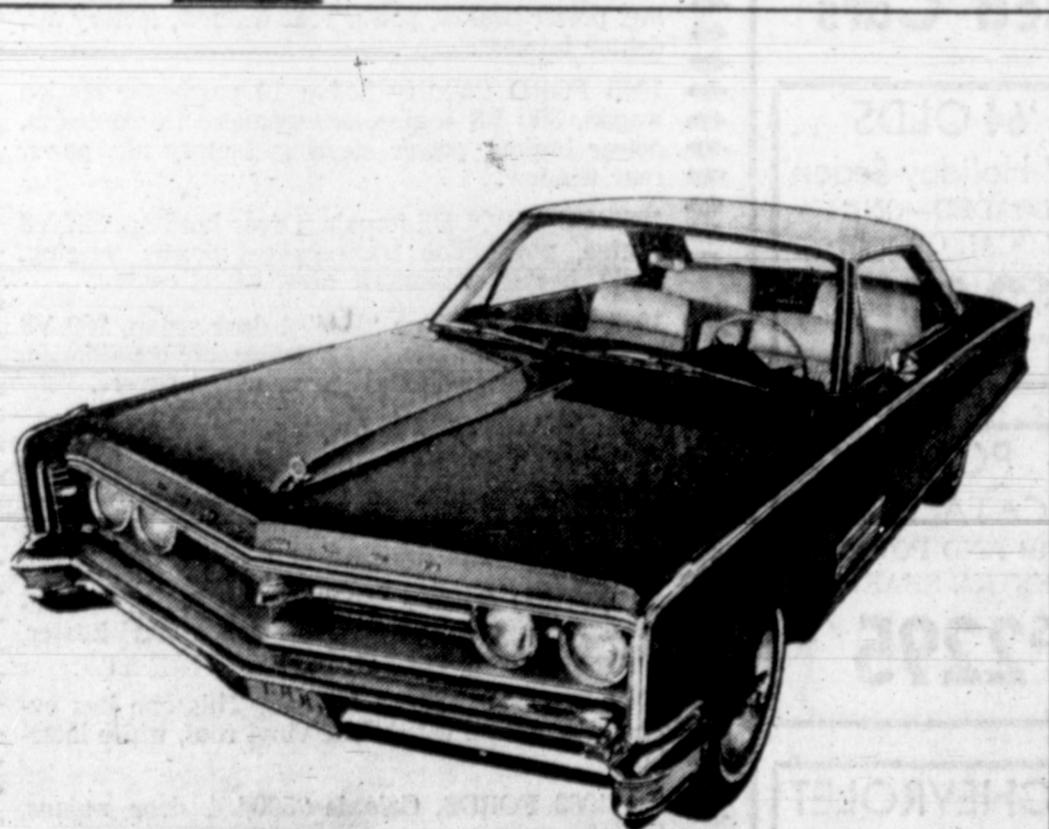

Johnson is said to feel Luci is still too young. He also wants her to get her degree at Georgetown University's school of nursing. Luci herself holds in high esteem her parent's approval and strong-willed as she is she respects their wishes.
