July Fourth Death Toll Sets New Holiday Record

Motorcides Surpass All Previous Totals

By United Press International
The nation's motorists smashed all previous records for summer holiday traffic deaths during the weekend. With late reports still coming in, the death count passed the total of 575 lives taken during the Labor Day weekend in 1965, the previous worst summer holiday toll on record.

The breakdown:

Traffic	576
Drownings	266
Planes	25
Miscellaneous	81
Total	948

California led the nation with 46 traffic deaths followed by Texas with 41, Ohio with 31 and New York with 29. Only Hawaii and Delaware recorded no traffic fatalities.

Texas Second In Holiday Deaths

By United Press International
Drownings and multiple-fatal highway smashups increased sharply to send Texas' Fourth of July weekend violent death toll zooming tragically. Only California had more traffic deaths.

A United Press International survey for the period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday showed at least 67 violent deaths, including 42 highway fatalities.

A small boat overturned in Bardwell Lake near Ennis Monday, drowning three children. Eight other persons in the boat survived.

The worst accident Monday killed four persons near Sterling City.

The dead were Ricardo Medell, 25, and his wife, Nora, and Jose D. Medell and his wife, Martha, 67, all of Lubbock.

Dean Smith, 23, of Rosebud drowned Monday while swimming in the Brazos River 18 miles northeast of Cameron.

Clarence Swaim, 55, of Breckenridge was shot to death Monday by a robber who cleaned out the cash register of Swaim's service station then kidnaped the victim.

The worst highway accident of the holiday period took five lives near El Campo Saturday night.

Viet Bombings Spark Anti-US Demonstrations

By United Press International
Anti-American demonstrations sparked by the bombings of the Hanoi-Haiphong areas erupted like a string of firecrackers around the world Monday, marring official and unofficial celebrations of the Fourth of July.

In Paris, a girl from New York burned an American flag outside the U.S. Embassy. Police in London stopped two youths from setting a U.S. flag afire outside the embassy there. A gate-crashing pacifist interrupted a post reception at the American Embassy and proposed a toast to "the dead and dying in Viet Nam."

Anti-American demonstrators clashed in Stockholm where a U.S. professor was one of the main speakers at a rally protesting American policy in Viet Nam. Demonstrations for and against the United States were held in the Norwegian capital of Oslo.

Danish Prime Minister Jens Otto, addressing more than 30,000 Danish Americans at traditional July 4th observances, deplored the bombing raids and said he was in full agreement with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson "when he dissociates himself from the bombings of major centers in North Viet Nam." But he added that "it still is Hanoi regime which rejects all peace proposals."

In Moscow, all high Soviet officials boycotted the U.S. Embassy's reception. The official Soviet government newspaper said that the U.S. policy in Viet Nam has caused the Statue of Liberty "to flush red with shame."

Probers Can't Find Much Wrong With Present System of Drafting

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Johnson's creation of a 20-member citizens' commission to study the Selective Service System has focused attention again on the Pentagon's own proposals for improving the draft. In this dispatch, UPI correspondent George J. Marder analyzes those proposals.

By GEORGE J. MARDER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — If the Pentagon's new draft proposals were put into effect today, few of the nation's young men would notice the difference — the system would work pretty much as it does now.

Therein lies the key to the massive study of the draft the Defense Department undertook two years ago. The department labored mightily under an assignment expected to bring forth a mountain of suggestions. Instead, the Pentagon proposals have more of the appearance of a mouse.

The fact is that with all its faults — and the study acknowledges that most of the complaints against the system are correct — the Defense Department likes the draft better than any alternative.

It just couldn't come up with any better way to keep the military supply, either during peacetime or during war emergencies. The military insisted the draft was important either to tab young men directly or to encourage them

Bogus Doctor Signs 640 Prescriptions

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (UPI) — An auto mechanic was remanded in custody for a week Monday for allegedly posing as a doctor in a hospital for three months. The prosecution charged that John Wright, 25, issued 640 prescriptions and signed numerous death certificates during his bogus tenure.

Sukarno Stripped Of All Remaining Power

JAKARTA (UPI) — Indonesia's highest legislative body today stripped President Sukarno of his "president for life" title and gave more power to anti-Communist Lt. Gen. Suharto. The military strongman immediately surrounded Jakarta with loyal troops to prevent disorders.

The teachings of Marx, Lenin and all other Communists were banned. General elections were ordered within two years.

The 65-year-old Sukarno remained as president though the action by the Peoples Provisional Consultative Congress (MPRS) made him liable to ouster at any time. Suharto was named "acting president" to serve whenever Sukarno is incapacitated or out of the country.

The congress outlawed a number of the Sukarno doctrines that brought Indonesia to the brink of the Communist bloc and recommended that the country rejoin the United Nations and the International Monetary Fund which Sukarno spurned.

The MPRS directed Sukarno and Suharto to form a new cabinet by Aug. 17.

The 46-year-old Suharto, an easy going pipe smoker with a tough attitude appeared to be emerging as more of a strongman since he led the military upheaval that crushed a Communist plot nine months ago and took over most of Sukarno's executive powers.

The action of the MPRS appeared to mark the beginning of the end for the man who led Indonesia for more than 25 years and took them from the dark days of Japanese occupation through post-war Dutch colonial rule to a shaky self-government and staunch ally of Communist China.

It announced that a special committee of the MPRS would supervise economic restoration programs to put the country back on its feet in cooperation with the cabinet and ordered another special committee to review all the "teachings" of Sukarno.

The decisions came after 10 days of intensive study by several committees to the congress, a body which had been Sukarno's rubber stamp until last October when an army purge eliminated most of Sukarno's leftist supporters.

SECRET U.S. ANALYSIS

Red China Shies From Attack in Viet Nam

BY RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Secret government studies here indicate Mao Tse-tung's Red China won't invade Viet Nam openly with armies or sizable plane attacks at this time regardless of what military targets the United States bombs in North Viet Nam.

These studies were completed and digested before the U.S. bombed oil storage facilities on the outskirts of Hanoi and Haiphong.

One reason Red China is believed unlikely to seek adventure now is that there is a serious split within the Communist Chinese army.

One group of high officers insists that if the Red army is to be expected to stand up to major Western armies, it must modernize with considerable amounts of modern missile and nuclear equipment. They say it would take more than guerrilla tactics to stand off the United States. This defied Mao's precepts.

Top men have already been purged over this problem — but it hasn't died.

Because of Red China's serious economic problems, party leaders know funds can't be diverted for drastic army modernization. These party leaders insist Communist spirit is the answer to modern enemy weapons. They say if the army's spirit is strengthened, it can stand up against any enemy.

So long as this army struggle continues, it's believed, Peking will not be prepared to test Red China's armies in a gamble that might involve the United States.

The army is not Mao Tse-tung's only problem.

The current political turmoil inside Red China is serious. It involves more than the intellectuals being attacked. There is widespread dissatisfaction among farmers. Many local party officials are out of hand. There is student unrest.

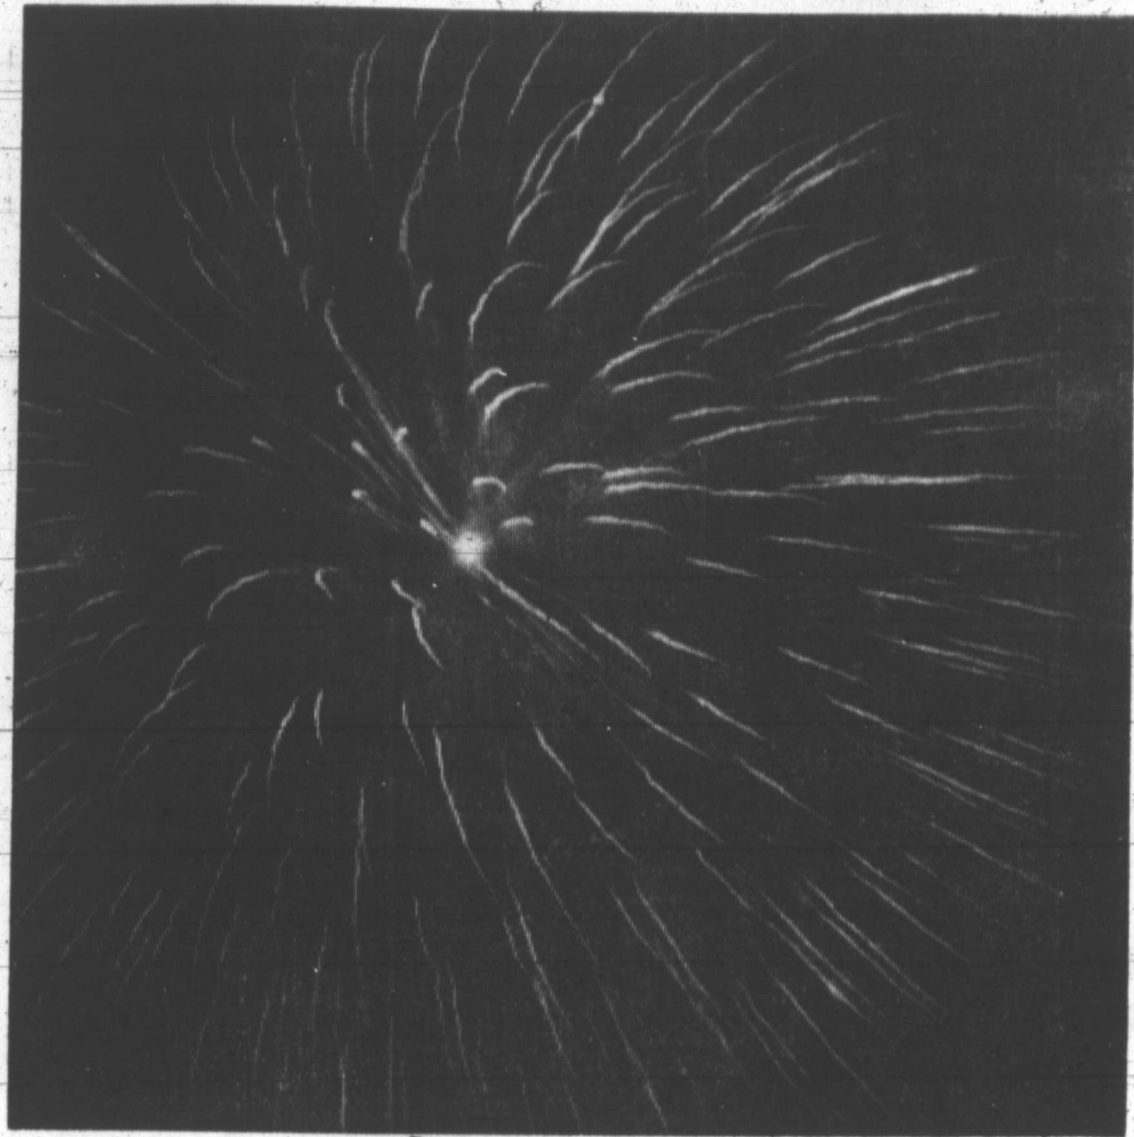

Some totalitarian countries react to internal trouble by becoming more reckless. They turn to foreign wars to divert their people from internal miseries.

At home and abroad, Red China was active but very cautious for a while after the breakdown of the communes, the failure of the Great Leap Forward and during the period

The U.S. studies, however, show that Mao's tactic is different. He likes a firm base. When he runs into serious domestic problems, his domestic and foreign policies become more cautious.

Mao's aides may make extremely belligerent speeches, but his moves are carefully planned. The military attacks on India and the Korean adventure came at times of firm political "crisis" within Communist China.

"BOMBS BURSTING IN AIR" — While watching fireworks exploding in the air with bursts of color Monday night persons were reminded of the sight that inspired Francis Scott Key to write the "Star-Spangled Banner," our national anthem. Now "bombs" are used to celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. An estimated crowd of 10,000 persons viewed fireworks at the annual Independence Day program, sponsored by Pampa Chamber of Commerce, last night at Recreation Park, after a short patriotic program to honor the Fourth of July.

59 Arrested in New Omaha Race Incident

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Violence early today in a strife-torn section of Omaha's near North Side. At least 59 persons were arrested, police said.

Two companies of guardsmen, in full riot gear, broke up groups in a two-block sweep up 24th street to a supermarket parking area, focus of fighting and bottle throwing during the weekend.

The guardsmen were called out shortly after midnight and remained on duty for about five hours before being trucked back to their armory.

A spokesman said there were no injuries during the guardsmen's sweep, and at dawn the area appeared about normal.

The decision to call out the guardsmen, who had been poised for action at a nearby armory, was made after a conference between Nebraska and guard officials.

Meanwhile, helmet-clad police succeeded in breaking up a group of 1,000 persons massed near the supermarket, which is set in the North Side section of generally well kept small homes.

Glass and rubble littered the street. Folding steel riot doors protecting several store fronts were bent. Most of the debris, however, stemmed from earlier weekend disturbances.

One Negro, wearing an army special forces Green Beret, said "this looks worse than Viet Nam." Many in the crowd were teen-agers and many laughed and joked with police and newsmen.

Outbreaks of violence Saturday and Sunday nights caused authorities Monday to call out Omaha units of the National Guard.

CORE Resolutions Call for End to Military Draft in US

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) pushed far beyond the issue of civil rights Monday with resolutions calling for an end to the military draft and U.S. withdrawal from Viet Nam. It coupled this with endorsement of "black power" as a means of achieving equality.

As expected, the 250 delegates concluded CORE's four-day national convention with a unanimous vote to abandon its traditional commitment to non-violence in the civil rights movement.

Stressing the need for greater militancy, CORE vowed to fight fire with fire in its drive to achieve full racial equality by pursuing "black power," particularly in politics and economics.

An explanation of the new and more aggressive approach to civil rights was given by Floyd McKissick, national director of CORE.

Record Numbers View Fireworks, Visit Area Lakes

With the Fourth of July over, many Pampans returned to their jobs after a weekend of varied activities at lakes, on picnics or at home.

An estimated crowd of 10,000 people, according to E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of Pampa Chamber of Commerce, attended the fireworks display last night at Recreation Park.

Many watched the display from inside the grandstand, while crowds of observers enjoyed the fireworks from their cars parked around the area.

B. O. Turner won the $25 cash door prize last night in the drawing, a new feature of the Independence Day program. R. E. Smith won $15, and Jimmy Dunham, $10.

The fireworks were produced by Burnett Fireworks Company of Enid, Okla., after music was provided by the Catalinas and a brief address delivered by Travis Lively, Norman Henry, Chamber of Commerce president.

Colors were presented by a color guard from Boy Scout Troop 14, with Don Lusher as scout master. Rev. M. B. Smith delivered the invocation.

Also near record crowds visited Lake McClellan and Lake Meredith to ward off the near 100-degree weather that accompanied the holiday. Enthusiasts went boating, skiing, fishing, swimming and picnicing to enjoy their holiday.

Hot Weather Due To Remain

Pampans can expect the continuation of the hot weather that prevailed over the Fourth of July holiday weekend, as it is due to remain hot through Thursday.

Skies are forecast clear to partly cloudy, with no prospect of showers in sight. High is expected to be near 100, with a low near 70. Southerly winds of 12 to 18 miles an hour may provide a slight cooling breeze. Little change is expected for Thursday.

High yesterday reached 97, with a low this morning of 70.

In other parts of the state, a few showers fell along the Texas Gulf Coast and light rain is reported in parts of the lower

Korean Turncoat Happy To Be Back Home In America

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Korean War turncoat Clarence Adams, "happy and excited to be back home," stepped off an ocean liner today into the midst of his first Independence Day celebration in 12 years.

Adams, who has spent the past 12 years in Communist China, looked relaxed as he stood with his Chinese wife and two young children on the deck of the luxury liner President Cleveland.

"Naturally I anticipate problems," he said. "But I think I'll be able to handle them because there are people who will understand what I did."

Great To Be Home

"Anyway, it's great to be back home and right now I want to see my mom."

Adams, a slightly built man who wears a trim mustache, first reached the United States at Honolulu last Wednesday.

"A lot has changed since I left," he said then. "I'm a little nervous. I've been gone such a long time, I don't really know what to expect."

Adams, who voluntarily went behind the Bamboo Curtain in August, 1954, along with 20 other American soldiers, is from Memphis, Tenn. His arrival in the United States reduces the number of former American soldiers in Red China to two. They are James G. Veneris of Hawthorne, Calif., and Howard C. Adams of Corsicana, Texas.

Pampa Seaman Undergoes Basic Naval Training

SAN DIEGO, Calif., (SpI)—Kenneth E. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon L. Hall of 2234 Dunegan, is undergoing seven weeks of basic training at the Naval Training Center here.

Under the supervision of veteran Navy petty officers, he is receiving instructions in naval history and organization, customs and courtesies, ordnance and gunnery, seamanship, damage control, first aid, swimming and survival, shipboard drills and wentry duty.

Military drills are emphasized during recruit training, and with various inspections and a planned physical fitness program, keep the recruits mentally and physically alert.

Upon completion of recruit training, Hall will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires and the needs of the Navy.

Bond Set In City Shooting

Bond of $500 was set in Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford's court Tuesday morning for James Lee Harris, 21, of 515 Ash. Harris was charged with unlawfully carrying a firearm. The charge was filed after an early Sunday morning shooting at the Peppermint Lounge in which E. J. O'Neal, 26, of 434 Elm, was taken to Highland General Hospital with a bullet wound in his right shoulder. He was treated and released. Pampa police said O'Neal would not name the man who shot him or press charges. Police said they arrested Harris after a witness at the scene identified him as the man who shot O'Neal.

Their departure was in sharp contrast to their arrival here Sunday. Then, they were given a rip-roaring welcome by thousands of fans and protection by a strong security force. Monday they failed to show up for a lunch date with Mrs. Ferdinand Marcos, wife of the president. The Philippine first lady had invited about 200 youngsters to the presidential palace to greet the singers. After waiting for about an hour, she walked out, saying she had "no more time" to receive them, and confiding that her own children preferred the Rolling Stones, a rival beat group. Pecayo, when asked whether the tax case had anything to do with Monday's incident, replied: "Certainly not. All foreign entertainers who come here and make money are required to declare their income and to secure a tax clearance."

The Beatles gave two shows Monday night before a combined crowd of about 70,000 screaming, squealing and weeping teenagers. Beatle Paul McCartney, speaking on behalf of his companions, made a public apology in a radio interview, saying they knew nothing about the invitation from Mrs. Marcos.

Omaha

(Continued from Page 1) Guard, alert other guard units and the state highway patrol, and place the Omaha police on 12-hour-on, 12-hour-off duty. Acting Gov. Philip C. Sorenson and Omaha Mayor A. V. Sorenson, no relation, took command of the third-night vigil from a fire station located in the predominantly Negro neighborhood. An aide to Gov. Frank Morrison said the Sorensons talked by long-distance telephone with Morrison. All three officials agreed that all possible steps had been taken to prevent further violence. Morrison, in Los Angeles attending the National Governors' Conference, was quoted as saying the cause of the trouble was "an environment that is unfit for human habitation in many areas" of the near north side. From their command post, the mayor and lieutenant governor controlled the possible movements of city and state forces. Leaders of the 13th Infantry Regiment were not commenting, but it was estimated that more than 50 guardsmen were ready for immediate anti-riot duties. Shortly before midnight, thousands of Negroes massed in the same area where early Monday and early Sunday the trouble flared. Most of the 60 persons arrested during those nights were teen-agers.

Pampa Guard Unit Represents 36th Division

A 140-man outfit from Pampa's Company B, 2nd Battalion of the Texas National Guard, represented the troops of the division at ceremonies at the 36th Division headquarters at Fort Hood. Co. B, under the direction of Captain Donald B. Booth, company commander, is attending the annual training session, with new recruits taking basic training. Forty-eight men from this area are receiving their basic training, along with 125 others from various companies across the state attached to Co. B. More than 50 recruits of the National Guard's 36th Division Monday signed up to take six months of training at Fort Bliss. Sheldon Simpson of Amarillo, commanding general of the 6th, that there were openings for basic trainees at Ft. Bliss. Simpson spoke to the recruits Monday night and told them of the openings. More than 50 signed up for six months active duty. Simpson said he felt that more would have taken the six months active duty option if they had been given more time to report to Ft. Bliss. He explained to the recruits that two weeks of training a year at Ft. Hood will not replace active duty, which all will get some day. The 36th Division in a Fourth of July observance fired a 50 gun salute to the nation.

Four Criminal Cases Scheduled In Wheeler Court

WHEELER—Only four criminal cases are on the docket of 31st Judicial Court in Wheeler for the week of July 11, but all four are connected. On trial for burglary will be Donnie Mack McCullar, Charles Riley, Mack McCafferty and Bill Helms, all of Lubbock. All are charged with burglarizing four business places in Wheeler County in February of 1966. Another Lubbock man, Ted Jerry Ballentine, was sentenced to eight years in the state Penitentiary at Austin last week for his part in the crime. Burglary were a Lumber Co., grocery store, Production Credit Association of Wheeler and a drug store.

Drafting

(Continued from Page 1) military service at age 19 or 20 rather than later. But the overriding reason was that the military commanders want the men younger in the service and a few years makes a tremendous amount of difference. The draft is getting them young now, with the median draft age for the entire country now 20 years, 9 months and coming down. So there'd be no point in installing the new system now. But after the Viet Nam buildup, when the situation has stabilized, the Pentagon setup would work this way: The draft would start taking 19 and 20-year-olds first. Those who reached that age could still get deferments by going to college. When the college student finished schooling, his name would then go into the top priority pool for induction. That pool would be made up of two groups—the available 19 and 20-year-olds, and older men up to age 35 when their student or other temporary deferments in effect now, would be run out. The 26-year-old cut-off, eliminated. But that does not mean that college grads or older men would be called. The emphasis would still be on calling up the 19 and 20-year-olds. Those in the priority pool for induction would remain there for only a year. If not called, they would go to the bottom of the draft list the following year with very little chance of being called except during war emergencies. The fact is, the Pentagon expects that a steady decreasing proportion of even the young will be drafted in future years, mostly because there will be so many of them. In 1955, there were slightly more than 1 million reaching the age of 18 annually. In 1970, the figure will be almost 2 million. By 1974 only one out of every three persons 18 through 25 will be needed to keep the military ranks filled.

Has French Withdrawal Really Effected NATO

EDITORS NOTE: How stands the NATO alliance now that France has actually begun her long-threatened pullout? In the following dispatch, UPI diplomatic correspondent Stewart Hensley, who recently covered the NATO council meeting at Brussels, assesses the situation. By STEWART HENSLY WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's uphill struggle to revitalize the crippled NATO alliance is running into some complications—some of her own making and some caused by French President Charles de Gaulle. President Johnson's decision to open the Viet Nam war, another notch by bombing the old installations in the Hanoi-Haiphong area has resulted in strained relations with some of NATO's staunchest European adherents, notably Britain. The new French-Soviet agreement to seek a solution of European problems with a minimum of U.S. influence caused concern over the possible effect on the Western alliance. The effect of the Viet Nam action on NATO cooperation is likely to be temporary, in the view of officials in Washington. Britain is too dependent on the United States for political and economic support in other areas to permit her dismay over Johnson's tactics to affect basic cooperation on European issues. The other Western allies, with the exception of France, still feel that American power provides their only real security. Long Range Perils President de Gaulle's efforts to achieve a closer working relationship with Moscow poses long-range perils for the cohesion of the alliance. If his program results in any progress with Russia in easing tensions over problems of German reunification and European security, the other Western Europeans will begin to place more faith in his assertion that NATO has been "outmoded" by changed conditions and is not so vital. The task of the United States in holding NATO together must take into account the strange new role which De Gaulle has chosen to play in and out of the alliance. France is retaining her political membership in NATO, along with her seat on the Supreme Council. But she has now pulled all her forces out of NATO. And the United States has begun to withdraw all its forces and bases from France to meet De Gaulle's demand that they be out of the country by next April. The United States and the other 13 NATO nations still participating in the integrated military structure decided at their recent Brussels meeting to move NATO's military headquarters from France to the Belgian capital as soon as possible. They also are expected to vote this fall to move the political headquarters, the NATO council, from Paris to Brussels. Meantime, they're trying to find a formula under which the 72,000 French troops and airmen in West Germany can remain there with some "tie" to NATO, despite French withdrawal from the integrated structure. The United States succeeded

Many took to the highways to visit relatives or friends or to travel to resort areas. The holiday death toll seems to be heading to a new high, the National Safety Council reported. Most stores were closed yesterday, causing a desolate appearance during the afternoon as crowds flocked to the lakes, swimming pools and other places. All city, county, state and federal offices were closed yesterday, except for the police and fire departments.

El Paso and Wichita Falls both reported 102 Monday and it was 100 at Wink. Independence Day was hot across the whole state, except for a few areas where there were showers. Clear to partly cloudy skies with a few afternoon and evening showers in the east and south portions of the state were expected through Wednesday. Temperatures were expected to be normal that is to say, hot.

Saturn Rocket In Successful Shot

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—America's mighty Saturn 1 rocket today orbited the world's heaviest satellite. Its 29-ton second-stage, and used it as a living fuel laboratory to prove the vehicle can double as a moonship launcher. The 92-foot rocket-satellite, launched at 8:53 a.m. CST, after nearly a two-hour delay, was whirling around earth about 115 miles high in an engineering test critical to the Apollo moonshot program. The successful launch marked another step toward using an identical Saturn 1 to orbit Apollo astronauts Virgil Grissom, Edward Whit, and Roger Chaffee in November. The object of the mission was to see if the 92-foot long rocket-satellite can control its tricky liquid hydrogen fuel in the weightlessness of space and keep it ready for an engine restart—a feat that must be performed for an Apollo moon shot. To see what happens with the high energy fuel in the absence of gravity in orbit, two television cameras were rigged to peer inside the second stage's fuel tanks and flash "live" pictures back to earth.

Romania To Push for Red Independence

BUCHAREST (UPI)—Independent-minded Romania was expected to push for more freedom from Soviet economic control and withdrawal of troops from foreign soil at the Warsaw Pact meeting opening here today. East European Communist leaders decided at a preliminary session Monday night to devote most of their six-day meeting to problems within the alliance. The war in Viet Nam no doubt will come up for discussion and there possibly will be some effort made to coordinate and increase Communist bloc assistance to North Viet Nam. But the agenda outlined Monday night indicated a preoccupation with internal problems. The Communist alliance is plagued with dissension in many of the same ways as NATO, its Western counterpart. The Communist leaders decided to devote two days to military and social problems within the alliance, three days to economic matters and a sixth day for hammering out disagreements, sources said today. They were expected to have little difficulty agreeing to a communique denouncing U.S. participation in the war. Romanian Communist chief Nicolae Ceausescu is the leader of the dissidents advocating freer trade with the West and less economic restrictions by the Russians.

Police Searching For Murderer Of Station Employee

BRECKENRIDGE, Tex. (UPI)—The bandit who robbed a gas station of $270, kidnaped and killed the attendant with nine shots from the victim's pistol was "someone the slain man knew," Sheriff Chase Booth theorized today.

Clarence Swaim, 51, was killed by a man who either had two pistols or had to stop and reload, Booth said. He said 11 bullet holes were found in Swaim's body.

Swaim was found in a pool of blood beside Farm Road 207 seven miles southeast of Breckenridge.

Swaim wore an automatic pistol in a shoulder holster while working nights at the station. The pistol was missing from the holster when his body was found.

Booth said Swaim had been shot with a .380 automatic pistol.

"We have some scattered clues," Booth said. "But are not sure which way to go."

"We feel it was someone he knew," Booth said, "someone who was afraid Mr. Swaim would turn him in and he had to get rid of him."

Glenn Mitchell, operator of the service station, reported Swaim missing.

The motorist who found nobody to wait on him reported the situation to Mitchell, who lives next door to the station. The body was found six hours later.

Five airplanes took part in the resulting search for Swaim's assailant.

Sheriff's deputies said they presumed the killer was driving southeast on Farm Road 207.

"But we don't know anything for sure," said Constable Sid Rhodes.

"We don't know if they're on horseback, car or afoot. It's a little early yet. We'll just have to be patient."

PLANE CRASH

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (UPI)—A four-engine Navy plane, en route from New York to Chicago, crashed and exploded Monday, killing four men aboard and spewing wreckage over a two-mile-wide area.

Names of the crewmen were not disclosed.

Dennis Spalsbury, 14, who lives in the sparsely populated area where the plane went down, said he saw the plane heel over and go down "in a 45-degree angle, on its side."

Spalsbury said the plane crashed about a half-mile from his house in a rural district five miles northeast of Battle Creek.

Closed Sundays So Our Employees May Attend The Church of Their Choice

Recent events have taken the military focal point away from South Viet Nam and moved it to Communist North Viet Nam. Air strikes, coming to a climax in the raid on Hanoi and Haiphong, have steadily chipped away at the oil distribution system which stretches across the border to support the North Vietnamese fighting units in South Viet Nam. Since the beginning of June, oil storage areas have been the target for air raids on Thanh Hoa, Vinh, Mu Gia Pass and Dong Hoi among other locations.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Last July, Yugoslavia launched the most ambitious of all the economic reform plans currently sweeping the East European Communist bloc. The idea was to create an economy based on competition and profits, and eventually to establish a hard currency convertible in the West.

The United States, which is Yugoslavia's leading trading partner and does what it can to encourage the Eastern bloc's independence of Moscow, saw this as a progressive step and agreed to help.

It postponed payment on debts of $17 million and arranged credits worth $40 million for Yugoslav purchases of equipment and machinery for transport and agriculture.

But within less than six months, it was apparent that someone was dragging his feet. In January, Yelko Vlahovic, a leading Yugoslav ideologist, took to the air to warn that "many" conservative members of the party were hindering the reforms and to hint at a party purge.

In February, President Tito himself took up the cudgels. Addressing the party Central Committee, he declared there were those Communists who favored the reform only and actually "worked in a way that was contrary to the implementation of the reform."

He said such anti-reform elements existed even in the "leading bodies" of the party.

On July 1, it was disclosed just how high the opposition went.

In the sub-tropical atmosphere of Brioni Island, a favorite Adriatic vacation spot to which all members of the Central Committee had been summoned, Tito disclosed the ouster from all party posts of the man who had been rated second only to himself and his possible successor.

Fallen from the pinnacle was Vice President Aleksandar Rankovic, whose earlier resignation from the vice presidency also was disclosed. Down with him also went his own right-hand man, Svetislav Stefanovic, until last year head of Yugoslav secret police.

Control of the secret police puts a man in any Communist state in a position about as powerful as he can hold. By use of wire taps and other modern spy devices, the implication was that the two had not hesitated at blackmail to achieve their ends.

Their efforts ranged from blocking legislation to permit joint enterprises with foreign companies down to interference with factory management.

American economists observing these efforts at reform have warned that any foot-dragging along the line, either by those opposing it as a departure from Marxist-Leninism or out of fear of personal loss of influence, could throw the whole complicated mechanism out of balance.

The result could be economic crisis and widespread unemployment.

And in Yugoslavia there already has been widespread dislocation caused by rising prices and loss of jobs among unskilled labor.

For Tito, the action meant that only one remains of the original three "Titoes" (little Titos) closest to him. Milovan Djilas, a former deputy premier, is in the ninth of a 13-year prison sentence for criticizing the regime. Remaining is Edvard Kardelj, president of parliament.

Cycling is America's leading participating sport, with nearly 60 million taking part each year, says the Athletic Institute in Chicago.

Charges Filed On Pair for Hurling Bricks at Queen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—A man and a woman today faced charges in connection with the hurling of a cement block and a beer bottle at Queen Elizabeth as she rode in a bubble-top limousine through cheering crowds.

The beer bottle missed but the heavy cement block, weighing between 10 and 20 pounds, Monday dented the hood of the royal Rolls Royce only a few feet from where the Queen and her husband sat.

Neither the Queen nor Prince Philip appeared upset over the incidents which occurred within two minutes of each other in this city of bitter conflict between Irish Protestants and Catholics.

Police said the two attacks were not connected and did not stem from political organizations which have triggered religious tensions in northern Ireland.

Heavy security precautions had been taken for the two-day royal visit. More than 1,000 armed police and security agents were spotted along the route of the royal couple's motorcade and armored cars stood by in reserve.

The limousine was moving slowly through Donegal Square outside the International Hotel when a full bottle of beer sailed over the heads of the crowd and shattered on the road.

Police nabbed a gray-haired woman who said she was from Salford, England.

Two minutes later, in Great Victoria Street, the cement brick, measuring about 12 inches by four inches, came hurtling down from the fourth floor of a building under construction. It banged onto the hood just behind the radiator and then fell to the road.

The chauffeur did not stop.

In 1917, the first troops of the American expeditionary forces reached France for action in World War I.

The cheering crowds gasped in horror.

About two dozen policemen quickly surrounded the building and seized a man dressed in jeans who said he came from Belfast.

Policemen held back the angry crowd when the man was led out.

Town Terrorized By Child Attacker

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The rape slaying of an 8-year-old girl and the beating of two teenage girls and a woman terrorized this small community today.

Authorities believe there is a link between the slaying of Delois Ann Russell and the beating of two older girls in their home three blocks away. No arrests have been made.

Despite the use of different weapons, police said, the ages of the victims, the hour and scene of the crimes point to a possible connection. Police questioned several suspects.

Delois Ann, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ricks, was found dead in her bed Sunday morning. Deputy Coroner William Kennedy said she had been raped and stabbed in the throat, heart, lungs and chest, probably with a butcher knife.

In a house three blocks away, Mrs. Nancy Barlow, 25, said early Sunday she was awakened by the screams of her two younger sisters, Shirley Price, 14, and Mary Jane Price, 12.

Mrs. Barlow said she rushed into their room and was struck on the head by a man who then fled outside the house.

Shirley was in critical condition with a skull fracture at

Hoffa Prepared For Teamsters, AFL-CIO Reunion

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—James R. Hoffa has declared his teamsters union "ready to return to the AFL-CIO," but he said it would not happen until "honorable terms" are offered and jurisdictional problems worked out.

Hoffa made the statement in his "state of the union" report, which was being formally presented today to the 19th international convention of the Teamsters.

Sen Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., also was speaking today. The convention began Monday with union leaders calling Hoffa the modern day "hero" of the labor movement.

"As the world's largest union, we stand ready to return to the AFL-CIO if and when honorable terms for reentry are offered," Hoffa said in his opening address.

The Teamsters were expelled from the AFL-CIO in 1957 following a report on the union by a congressional committee.

Before a return can be made, Hoffa said, "serious problems of jurisdiction must be worked out."

In 1964, 14 persons were killed in an avalanche in the French Alps.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capital

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN (Sp) — Everyone in the State, from Gov. John Connally down to each rookie patrolman, did his best to hold down July 4th holiday deaths and accidents.

Now, with the long, tensioned weekend behind, the State is taking a look at what's ahead for the 1967 Legislative session. Among other things, Governor Connally wants a new, tough code. He wants money for more what like the uniform traffic code. He wants money from more highway patrolmen, the present force of 725 being about one-third the number needed.

He also wants stringent penalties for convictions of driving while intoxicated, speeding and reckless driving — and a one-year license suspension "without opportunity for redemption" on second offense.

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr says the 1967 Legislature may want to take another look at the 1965 law change in college building appropriations.

As it now stands, seven state colleges will receive less revenue from the new 10-cent per $100 ad valorem tax allocation for college construction than they did under the old five-cent rate.

Pampa Directors To Attend WTCC District Forum

F. William Power and Gordon Lyons of Pampa will attend an Action Forum for directors of District I of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Heritage Room of the First National Bank in Panhandle.

Lyons and Power are two of 26 business and community leaders who will evaluate plans for development of the Growth Potentials of West Texas. The plans were developed by experts in many fields during a recent series of nine brainstorming sessions which covered agriculture, ranching, water resources, tourist and industrial development, education, petroleum and chemicals and public affairs.

Cliff Milner of Amarillo, district vice president, will preside. West Texas Chamber of Commerce President John Ben Sheppard of Odessa will outline West Texas Growth Potentials.

A discussion of methods to attain the goals through local community action and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be led by Dr. Joe T. Nelson of Weatherford, vice president of the organization.

State Water Pollution Control Board approved a committee of the Cattle Feeders Division, Texas and Southwest Cattle Raisers Association, which plans to ask the 1967 Legislature for a feed lot licensing law, tying in with water pollution control.

Committee members are Grady Shepard, Hale Center; James W. Witherspoon, Hereford; Alvin Negley, San Antonio; Fred Wulff, Brady; and Jack Currueths, Friona.

Hereford Feed Yards, Inc., with which Witherspoon is associated, just received the first Water Pollution Control Board permit for disposal of wastes from cattle feed lot. It provides that the company retain waste runoff waters from all rainfalls of two inches or less in a day, and lots must provide for dewatering retention facilities between rainfalls by spray irrigation.

OTHER POLLUTION PLANS — Pollutiva Multiple Use Legislative Study Committee, headed by Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo, will hold public hearings in early fall to check into salt water disposal problems in oil and gas fields — and pollution problems resulting from feed lot operations, plus septic tank problems that could lead to water pollution.

LIVESTOCK WORLD HIGHLIGHTS — Animal health in Texas comes to the front ranks in agricultural livestock concern nowadays.

Screwworm eradication workers at the sterile fly plant in Mission stepped up eradication efforts in the Brooks-Goliad-Beeville area where six cases were reported last week and in the stretch from Culberson County to Eddy, N.M., where 12 cases were confirmed.

Dr. B. B. Vait Jr. told the Animal Health Commission that they need more reports from ranchers.

Dr. S. B. Walker of the Commission and Dr. S. C. Gartman of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal Health Division asked livestock producers also to report promptly any signs of sore mouth condition or blister-like sores, on udders or above hooves of animals to combat a recent outbreak of vesicular stomatitis.

In similar farm reports, State Agriculture Comm. John C. White announced an emergency quarantine on movement of some fruits and vegetables from Cameron County — to prevent spread of Mediterranean Fruit Fly.

Dr. Walker recommended a more flexible program for accepting petitions for Type II control testing for brucellosis — now done only from counties next to test counties after a break from the "contiguous county" requirement has been tested. He said it worked hardships on area veterinarians.

STUDENT BONDS TOP RATED — Learning that two top national investor services rate Texas College Student Loan Bonds, authorized by voters last fall, as "triple A" investments (highest rating possible), the Coordinating Board for Texas College and University System decided to sell $10,000,000 of the $85,000,000 authorized bonds at its July 18 meeting.

OEO has contracted with the Texas Education Foundation, private corporation administering Camp Gary Job Corps Center for men, for $3,200,000 to develop and operate a Job Corps center for women at McKinney. First 100 women students are scheduled to enroll at McKinney in March, 1967.

SHORT SNORTS — Weldon Watson has resigned as executive director of the Parks and Wildlife Department. Texas Industrial Commission reports record 327 new plants were located in the state last year and prospects for '67 look even better.

Texas Highway Department officials say it costs the State 3.4 cents of every dollar spent on highway maintenance to clean up after vandals and litterbugs last year (some $1,526,532). Wm. L. Ferguson of Henderson is new Texas Liquor Control Board Assistant Administrator. Texas Aeronautics Commission will hold hearings July 14 on proposed community air service between Houston and Larédo via Alice precincts of Cooke County, since by a new firm called Houston State Constitutional Amendment Commuter Airlines.

State following wet precincts in dry Land County. Jerry Sadler said counties was passed in 1935 sealed bids for oil and gas leases on state-owned property will be accepted by School Land Board on August 2. Attorney Texas this year for half the cost of state and local recreation beer sales are illegal in four proposals.

Institutional agreements now are being prepared by the Board so loans will be available to students in September.

HEAD START WATCH — Regional OEO Director Bill Crook of Austin cautioned Head Start administrators that they will be under "continuous review" by his Austin offices, "to remedy any program deficiencies that might be identified by on-site evaluations."

Crook said so far not one single bad audit, case of misappropriation or mishandling of funds has been produced by Texas program. He says he is very interested in keeping that good record.

Family Celebrates Second Christmas

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Christmases I missed as a child," the 65-year-old Story said.

The temperature read 97 degrees but the sounds of "White Christmas" filled the air and sure enough there was Santa Claus passing out candy canes.

To most of the children it had always been this way. But for A. Harold Story it started a short 16 years ago.

At that time Story decided to celebrate Christmas twice a year—once on Dec. 25 and the next time on the first Sunday in July.

WELFARE DIRECTOR—Mrs. Geraldine C. Shultz, director of the county welfare office, studies a list of people for whom welfare office provides temporary assistance until they can help themselves. The welfare office may provide funds for medical and hospital care, and food and drugs.

County Welfare Fills Short Emergencies

By LARRY HOLLIS
Daily News Reporter

The County Welfare Office gives temporary assistance to county residents with an emergency need.

"We help them until we can get them on permanent assistance," said Mrs. Geraldine C. Shultz, office director. "We try to help them to help themselves."

Most of the program is directed to provide medical and hospital care, and food and drugs. Persons suffering from long, drawn-out illnesses may be sent to state hospitals if they need assistance.

"Medical and hospital care is provided in state hospitals," Mrs. Shultz stated. "with transportation to and from, if necessary."

Welfare funds are disbursed by the state, with some funds coming from county taxes. Sometimes, though, additional assistance is required.

"A lot of the time I do have to supplement assistance," Mrs. Shultz said, "if more is needed. There is a limit to state aid."

Some persons receive a small grant each month from the county if they have no other means. If they cannot find work, the county welfare office may try to help them to find a job.

If they refuse the job or make no attempt to find and keep a job, they are automatically cut off from further aid, Mrs. Shultz stated.

"If we just hand aid out," she continued, "they will never learn to do things for themselves. We try to keep them from becoming dependent on welfare."

Assistance will vary from one individual to another, as all cases are checked according to their needs.

"We don't have a set pattern," said Mrs. Shultz, "because each case is different."

Man Charged In Shooting Death

HEDLEY, Tex. (UPI) — An Oklahoma man, who came to Hedley for a dance that wasn't held, was fatally shot early yesterday about five miles east of Hedley.

He was identified as Marshall Harrison Nichols, 41, of Hollis, Okla.

Lee Forest Sidney Cole, 43, of Hollis was charged with murder and is being held in the Donley County jail in Clarendon. Bond was set at $5,000.

Police said the two men and their wives had come to Texas for a Sunday night dance. But the dance had been rescheduled for a later date.

On the way back to Oklahoma, Marshall was shot with a .22 caliber rifle. Cole flagged down a passing car and turned himself in to the Memphis police.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Marty Ingels, one of television's genuine comedy talents, is back for his second crack at Hollywood, with a refreshingly frank and mature appraisal of the person who stopped him the first time around: Himself.

His frankness and clear-eyed self-analysis, in fact, are so disarming that he has won the allegiance of a very valuable young personal manager, Roy Silver, whose other clients include Bill Cosby of NBC-TV's "I Spy" series.

Silver, a tough, knowledgeable, engaging fellow who handles his clients in the old-fashioned intimate style, was one of the many admirers of Ingels in the "I'm Dickens" series, in which John Astin also scored heavily.

It is the wide belief here that if ABC-TV had only had the sense to stand by "I'm Dickens... He's Fenster," which was canceled after one season despite its building popularity, it probably would have had a long and profitable run. Astin went on to ABC-TV's "The Addams Family."

Ingels, however, despite his precision as a gentle farceur—which earned him comparison to the early Red Skelton—ran into a career block because of what he now acknowledges was a series of personal blunders, primarily being too pushy in his ambition.

He knew he was digging himself a hole, and his attempts to extricate himself were unskillful, to say the least. One Christmas he bought $6,000 worth of gifts to try to make up with some persons he was working with. "When I started handing out the presents, I realized it was like mail call—that's all—and everything went out of me." But he feels his worst blunder was going on a local charity telethon here with other stars, and staying on for four hours, through other acts.

Well, all right: When a fellow is man enough to acknowledge his goof, you can't help but give him a few points. And now it is years later, and the fact of the matter is that Ingels, even conceding his admitted past unskillfulness, was really no more pushy or blundering than a number of other stars in this town. The truth is that he was naive in his old-fashioned approach of the "top banana" school. "I was uncool," he says. "You have to be cool," says Silver, "and he was uncool!"

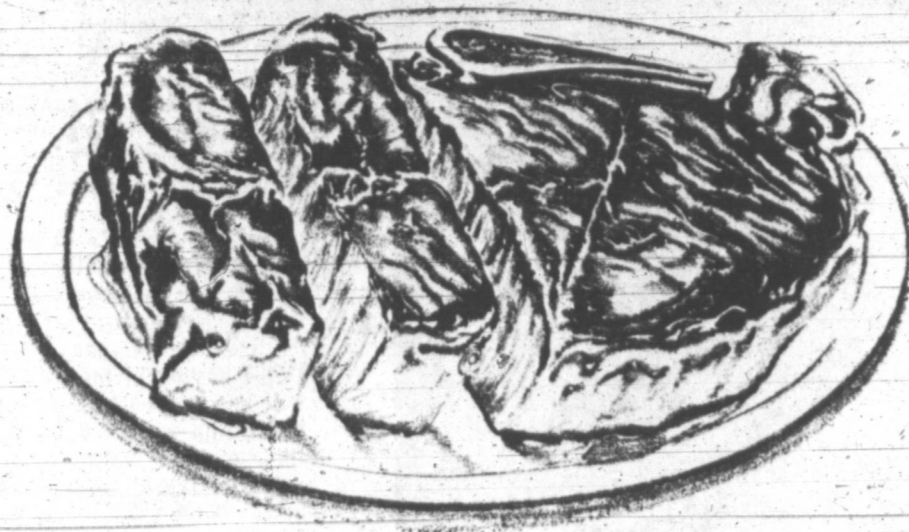

So Silver brought him out here again because "this is where you go for broke. You make it here and you can go anywhere." One of the first things Silver did was make the rounds of persons who had worked with Ingels. Some of them, he found, had legitimate reasons for recalling what the comedian admitted were his mistakes. But Silver also learned that Hollywood is in many ways like a village, and that others merely accepted the reputation on hearsay. He is convinced that his leg work has paid off and that the tide has turned.

"They used to say: 'He's very talented—but.' Now they just say: 'He's talented,'" Silver says. "And a lot of people are going out of their way to come through."

As a result, Silver reports that Ingels has a guest spot coming up on ABC-TV's "Hollywood Palace," and that back in New York Merv Griffin has offered the comedian a multiple-show deal for his syndicated video series "Working at his trade." Ingels, according to Silver, also will appear in a theater production of "Pajama Game" in several weeks at the Carousel, a well-attended entertainment emporium near here, playing the Eddie Foy part. But the chief thing Ingels and Silver are looking for is a new television series for the comedian.

The importance of video prominence to a comic is phenomenal, according to Silver. He maintains that while a successful series may provide an annuity eventually, the standup comedian gains most immediately from what the exposure allows him to make financially in personal appearances. Silver maintains that "I Spy" provides Cosby with "gas money" and that the series amounts to about 10 per cent of his income. "It's the exposure," he emphasizes.

Dear Abby... 'Indifference' May Be Misunderstood

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for 30 years, and I have never been the least bit jealous, but lately have been "burned" about the attitude of my husband toward his secretary. On Mother's Day he invited her to share the day with us, and it was quite plain that she was the guest of honor.

She was seated carefully at the table and helped down the stairs, while I got along the best I could. On Father's Day she gave him an antique jar which he put in the den. He said it would make a nice conversation piece. Well, it certainly has. What do I do after I accidentally (?) break the jar?

DEAR ANTIQUE: Married thirty years and this your first attack of jealousy. Don't break the jar—just let the old man with the news. (He'll be flattered by pieces.

DEAR ABBY: My father had an operation and had part of his stomach removed, so he has to eat several times a day, which is okay with the rest of us. But it seems he is always eating something crunchy like carrots, celery, or potato chips, and the sounds he has a hollow head.

DEAR ELEVEN: If your father says he can't help it, he can't help it. My advice to "eleven-year-old" is learn young to tolerate that which can't be helped. (And I don't recommend bringing it up again. You are apt to learn that neither your father's head nor his hand is hollow.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which has confronted me every place I have worked. I am a single, rather attractive girl, who always ends up being asked out by a young man from the office. The young man in question is very nice, but I just do not wish to go out with him again.

I thought if I went out with him just once and treated him indifferently, he would catch on and give up, but it hasn't worked that way. I had to quit two jobs for that reason, and now it looks like I'll have to quit this one, too. It is so hard to say tactfully, "Please, don't bother me." Any suggestions?

DEAR HELP: Silly girl. Your first mistake was going out with a young man in whom you had no interest. He probably mistook your "indifference" for the "hard-to-get" technique, which makes you all the more attractive to him. If you don't want a friendly dog on your lap, don't scratch his neck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UNHAPPY" IN SARATOGA: You can't make anyone like you, but you can make yourself more likeable.

House Rules Help Both Sitter and Child

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Is the baby sitter obsolete during summer months? The answer is a definite "no." In fact, the business generally picks up during the warmer months because parents often have more invitations to cookouts and other early evening parties. Another big incentive for parents to step out more is the availability of good baby sitters who are not as tied down with high school or college activities.

PART OF SITTER'S DUTIES — Coping with accidents such as spilled milk or food is part of a baby sitter's life. For quick action to avoid stains on rugs and carpets, leave notes for sitter on whether fiber is wool, cotton, or a synthetic such as Herculon and how to treat spills. Many companies provide charts on file cards that are helpful.

No matter the season, though, there are certain dos and don'ts a baby sitter and a parent should observe for the comfort and safety of all involved.

A couple who hires a baby sitter under 18 to care for small children should not apologize to the youth for setting up certain rules. If they care for their children, the couple won't be pushed around by certain teen-age types who "lay down the law" and want to play the game their way. On the other hand, a couple should not take advantage of an earnest baby sitter.

Few thinking couples will subject an infant or even children up to 10 to a teen-age boy or girl who feels the night's baby-sitting job is a green light to all kinds of fun and games.

Parents, too, must follow a certain code. They should come home at the hour set and see the teen-ager safely home.

Some guides to follow in selecting a baby sitter and a house in which a baby sitter feels comfortable include:

—Inquiring about the baby sitter or the baby sitter asking about the family hiring the sitter from friends, neighbors or a special screening set up by many communities.

—Providing lists of emergency telephone numbers, special feeding instructions and other reminders to help a baby sitter hurdle incidents that come up in the average household.

—Not expecting a baby sitter to be a maid and wash dishes, vacuum and clean up the house, unless this is part of the agreement. However, it is wise to give the young person a run-down on cleaning supplies available in case a child spills something during the evening.

—Leaving a firm time schedule of bedtime, mealtime and playtime and what television shows you allow the children to watch.

—Paying the baby sitter immediately for the time spent and not haggling to save a few pennies.

Teacher: "Fred, what do you know about George Washington?" Fred: "I dunno." Teacher: "Well, was he a soldier or a sailor?" Fred: "He was a soldier." Teacher: "How do you know?" Fred: "I saw a picture of him crossing the Delaware and any sailor knows enough not to stand up in a boat."

Next Thursday's meeting of Senior Citizens Center, to begin at 1:30 p.m. in Lovett Memorial Library Auditorium, will be the regular birthday meeting. Those having birthdays in July will be honored by Altrusa Club of Pampa with a gift and have their pictures taken.

J. V. Kidwell was welcomed back at last Thursday's meeting following a stay in the hospital. Center members were also happy to have Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor and Mr. Wilson.

Altrusans present were Mmes. Lena Pearl Hobbs, Lillian Snow, Louise Sewell and Mabel Hu-kill. Gray Ladies providing transportation included Mmes. Marguerite Nash, George Benham, A. D. Hill and Jess Hatcher.

Men's Fashions for Fall Make Big Swing to High-Fashion Individualism

DALLAS — Men's fall fashions make a big swing to high-fashion individualism.

That is the report from the annual Fall and Winter Back-to-School market of the Southwest Men's and Boys' Apparel Club staged in the Apparel Mart.

The revolution underway in men's apparel continues unabated as manufacturers work to meet the growing needs of a more-than-ever fashion-conscious American male.

The new fall styles will be highlighted by a resurgence of the double-breasted look, mainly in blazers, and also in suits — in bold plaids on beeline fabrics, principally for sportswear, and in the lean look in suits of one and two buttons and in many cases wider lapels with sharper peaks. The slimness is gained by waist suppression of the suit coat and slightly narrower lines in general — particularly the trouser legs. Favorite patterns in suits will be stripes and geometrics.

Newest arrival on the fashion scene — the Mod look — will be felt strongly, mainly in teen-age and young men's wear, but its influence is of definite note throughout the industry. It is expected to help give the double-breasted look a strong boost.

Americans are still striding for that "totally coordinated" look and will have ample opportunity to fill this desire come Fall. Colors will be lighter — a carry-over from spring — with burgundies (wine), olives (bottle green) and browns (whiskey) getting major attention. The ever-popular Navy blue and black will continue strong. Suit fabrics feature three basic elements — strong color, attractive textures and weaves, and just-right surfaces. Many stripes are composed of color on color — that is, olive on blue or burgundy on brown.

Fall sports coat fabrics can be described as bold, with plaids a popular pattern choice. English chevrons and herringbone weaves are gaining in interest.

Formal suits have shorter, slimmer lapels, with the coat buttoning higher. Topcoats and overcoats — many in double-breasted — will also take on the slim look. Some will have split-shoulder sleeves and a collar, giving the slim, trim appearance. Coats are shorter, running usually no longer than 39 or 40 inches.

Durable press continues to be a major factor in men's casual and slacks wear. An all-worsted durable press fabric is available for the first time for Fall.

In the young man market, the slacks picture is new and exciting. The "hipster" pants will make the teen-ager right at home with his contemporaries, and many will feature wide tunnel loops and 2-inch wide belts with the garrison belt buckle. Pockets will be slit and in most cases not carrying flaps.

RUTH MILLETT

By RUTH MILLETT
A reader who begins her letter with "Help, please" has a real problem. After 23 years of marriage, her husband suddenly put her on a food allowance for the family that is unrealistically small. In fact, it just won't stretch far enough.

The kind of help she wants is hints on how to make her weekly food allowance go further than food dollars today can possibly go.

It seems to me she is looking for the wrong solution to her problem. What she needs to be able to do is to educate her husband — so that he, too, knows the limits to which a food dollar can be stretched.

Any husband who hasn't done any real grocery buying in the last few years has no business deciding how much a week his wife needs for groceries.

If he decides, anyway, without consulting his wife, then she ought to insist that he plan the meals and buy the groceries himself.

If he is so sure that a certain amount will feed his family, he ought to be willing to prove it. Otherwise, he ought to let the one who plans the meals and does the marketing figure out what is a reasonable food allowance.

A month of meal planning and grocery buying ought to be enough to convince even the most stubborn husband that he isn't the family expert in such matters. Certainly, a woman who has been running a household for 23 years is a better judge of food costs and food values than the man of the house.

All too often, a husband gets it into his head that his wife must be extravagant — simply because he isn't aware of how much the things she purchases for the family keep going up in price.

That's not the time for a woman to argue or to try desperately to get by on what her husband arbitrarily decides she needs.

That's the time to undertake a little educational project. To hand his money right back to him and say: "Maybe you can stretch it further than I can. And if you can, you can show me how."

Timely Beauty Hint

When you wear one of this season's sharp, brilliant prints that blaze with color, keep your face in focus with harmonious make-up shades.

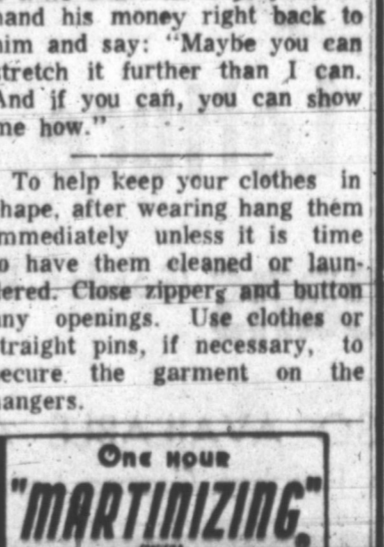

Regardless of how softly pale or neutral your lipstick may be, it should blend with the dominant warm tones in the print — the pink, orange, red and golden colors. Then, add another dimension with a once-over of ultra-lucent creme iridescent lipstick.

So your eyes will not become completely lost against the labyrinth of floral or geometric design, define them with eye liner, mascara, and eyebrow pencil. Then, pick up the blue, green, lavender, grey and brown fabric tones by applying shades of eye shadow that blend with one or more of the colors.

The piece de resistance is a clear, even-toned, natural-looking complexion created with new foundation make-up that veils the skin with the sheerest whisper of color, yet covers all-invisibly.

Don't be afraid to wear bright colors. Instead, work with them with makeup, and they will do wonders for you.

Color, Comfort Key Outdoor Items

By AILEEN SNODDY

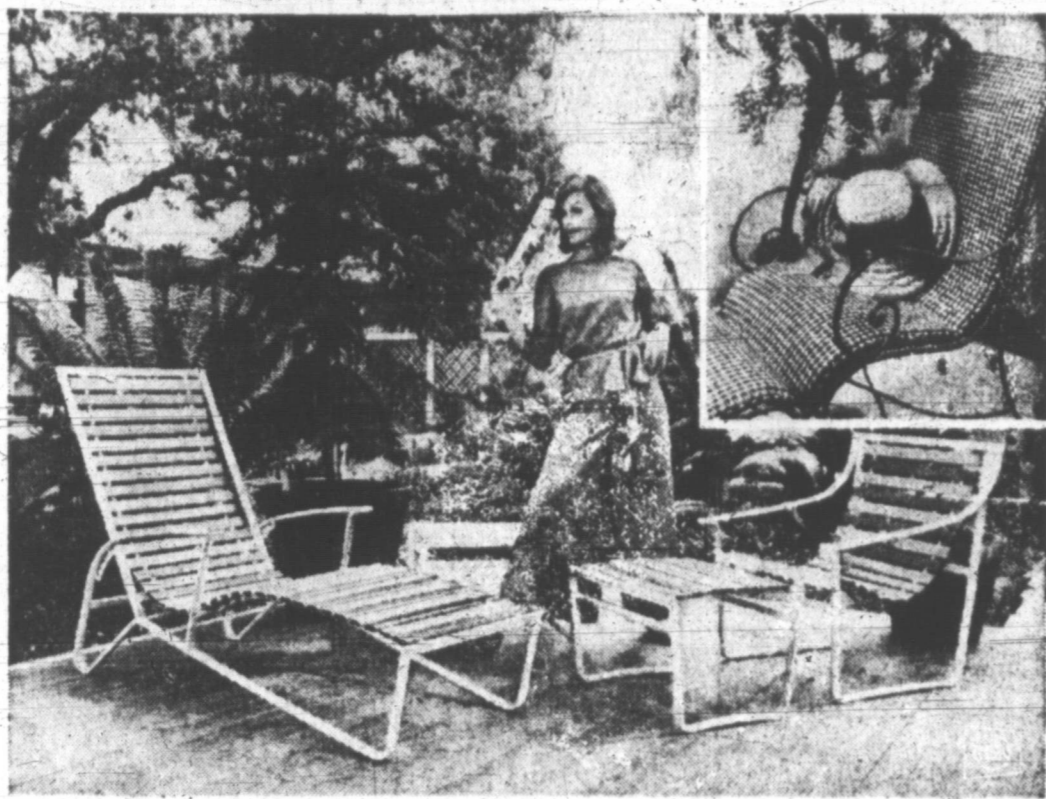

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) — Half the U.S. population may be under 28 but there are a few oldsters left with memories. With the continuing adoration of youth, though, one wonders how many of the "elderly" will admit they remember the rustic, homelike outdoor furniture that creaked under more than one generation's use.

There also were the cozy wicker chairs, touched up each summer with a coat of white paint. Nostalgic though these pieces were when seen sitting on the favorite porch or in the backyard, thank heavens, they are passing from the scene. Why? Because few designs of this like soothed the back or "sit" bones.

Today's sit-at-homes relax in chairs and chaises, designed for comfort. Color, too, is taking off in this field—formerly considered frisky when webbing first was offered in blue-white or green-white. These two color companions still are big in the outdoor furniture field. But in the aluminum chair set the color-conscious homemaker can turn to pumpkin, avocado, orange and yellow and iridescents.

More color, too, has come to the frames with one manufacturer with outdoor furniture divisions (Hamilton-Scott) adding an iceblue finish in anodized aluminum and an antique finish called patina green.

Stress of better design for comfort and good looks appears

WON AWARDS FOR COMFORT — Stress on comfort won awards for this outdoor furniture design for Samsonite. Shaped to the body, it is of hollow plastic sections with resilient suspension. Importance of color also is carried through in the white frame with orange-yellow or blue-green plastic sections or olive and two-tone green. The hat in inset isn't a Bonnet but a pillow by Bloomcraft to punctuate the patio in a variety of colors.

in the middle to high price range. As with all design innovations, contouring and use of webbing with better snap-back quality will filter down eventually to many of the budget-priced pieces.

Contouring of seating to the shape of the human body plus some other features, in fact, brought several design awards this year to one outdoor furniture collection (Samsonite Sunrest). The collection, which even includes a loveseat, features hollow plastic sections on a cold-rolled steel frame. The resilient suspension system contours the sections and the effect is similar to lolling in a hammock.

Topping off the color and comfort for the outdoors are the longer-lasting, easy-to-care for baked enamel, anodized aluminum finishes and webbings of sturdier synthetics. And for the homemaker who handles the furniture, firms are making pieces that fold flat to take up less storage space.

Illinois Presbyterian Minister Writes Book to Guide Parents of Adolescents

NEW YORK — When adolescents approach their parents with small talk, wise ones will drop everything and listen—even if the dinner burns. For the parent who turns a deaf ear to the little things the child has to say never will have the opportunity of hearing the big things.

Harold Blake Walker brings out in "To Conquer Loneliness," just published by Harper & Row.

"It is in listening to the little things when our youngsters feel in the mood to chat that we create confidence that leads to larger sharing," he writes. "The wise parental mood is suggested in the sign a young physician hung on his office door, 'Small fevers gratefully accepted.' Small matters gratefully accepted lead to large matters earnestly shared."

Communicating with adolescents is a major problem, he writes. "Because adolescent years often are years of strange estrangements" from the parents.

"It is curious the way communication between teen-agers and their parents dries up," he writes. "Often we would give anything we possess to cross the barrier that seems to separate us from our sons and daughters. We know they are troubled, but we cannot get through. We know they are lonely because we are also, and yet they keep their problems and their thoughts to themselves. Only rarely do they let us invade the privacy of their thinking."

"We cannot force them to satisfy either our need or theirs for communication, however," he says. "We can simply be receptive and patient, waiting for those moments of openness and communion that, rare though they be, reveal our children and make us aware of their trust and affection."

Dr. Walker points out that lack of genuine communication between people has resulted in a crop of alcoholism, divorce, mental disorders, boredom, and loneliness.

He quotes one physician as saying "99 out of 100 individuals are lonely. The one who says he isn't probably is." Since it is the lot of mankind, he says, it should be handled with intelligence and without self-pity. "With all the lonely people in the world, all needing each other, how can we be without friends?" he writes. "We need only offer friendship and affection, and we shall have both in return. We need only to seek those who are lonely and give ourselves to them in self-forgetful kindness and we shall venture beyond loneliness ourselves."

Three cures for loneliness which he stresses are work, worthy love, and faith in God. The work may be mediocre and an anonymous place in a large corporation, he writes, yet it has some meaning in relation to the whole corporation. Even in drudgery and monotony there can be the satisfaction of work well done, he claims. "It is the means by which we make our contribution to the common

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE, Newspaper Enterprise Assn. DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE:

Our 15-year-old girl rebuffs me if I even ask her if she's had a good time on a date. I've told her how this hurts me but all she says is, her dates are her business. Mrs. Lawrence, when I was her age I used to go into my parents' bedroom after I'd been to a party or out with a new boy friend and tell them how I liked him, if he was going to call me again, if anyone had said anything about my dress. But this generation...

ANSWER: Your daughter is scared to discuss her dates with you lest you use the information to try to recover childhood control of her.

Is that why you want the information? Or do you want it because you are interested in her happiness? If you are more interested in her happiness than you are in reclaiming control over her, say so. Blow up when you say so. You are entitled to indignation. She has misjudged you.

The adolescent puts a taboo on closeness to parents because he associates tenderness and warmth with humiliating infantilism, with dependence on them. It is a recent statement made by psychiatrist Dr. Murray Bilmes.

He's right. Your 15-year-old daughter is scared of closeness to you because she thinks you'll exploit it to turn her into a baby again. So what? What has her terror of renewed control of her got to do with you? It's her terror—not yours. You and I do not have to put a taboo on closeness to a child because he puts one on closeness to us. We are not children. We are loving parents who are passionately interested in his happiness.

HERE ARE THE CONVICTIONS THAT LED TO OUR BELIEF IN A UNIVERSAL SINGLE STANDARD OF RIGHT

Open To Challenge

Before stating our belief in a universal single standard of right we want to make it clear that we invite questions on this belief. And, if we cannot answer without evasion or contradictions, we are not worthy of your confidence and will admit our error and change our belief.

Want Information

We believe that most of our political trouble comes from putting confidence in persons who continue to advocate government economic planning even though they can neither rationally answer questions about what they advocate, nor find anyone who can.

We know of no better way to learn and develop, and thus be able to be useful, than have our convictions questioned either privately or publicly.

The Pampa Daily News believes in a system of universal natural law.

It is our belief that every fact of existence—if it is a fact—is immutable, irrevocable and eternal.

That is—we believe that moral facts are no less concrete and timeless than physical facts. The law of gravity does not change with seasons; atomic behavior is not subject to the good intentions of man. For physical facts are not capable of change; else they would not be facts.

And so we believe it is with moral facts, which stem from the same source as physical laws.

Let's take two facts, one physical and one moral.

1. Water seeks its level.
2. Stealing is wrong.

It is commonly accepted that the first fact is not subject to amendment. A change in political administration, a vote of the people, a petition of the Society of Learned Mathematicians of the World cannot change it. It exists as a fact.

The second law, we believe, is no more subject to amendment than the first. The majority might wink at it, try to reconcile it with some base or unsound conviction. But that does not affect the law—only the people who must live by it. Jumping out of a five-story building to flout the law of gravity will hardly bring about a suspension of that law. Neither will disregarding moral law bring about its abolition.

Now, we have outlined our convictions in fundamental moral law, or fact.

Next, it is incumbent upon us to state a single universal law or fact as we believe it:

Persons, groups and governments ought not threaten to initiate force or use it to attain their ends. This would certainly mean, Thou shalt not steal individually or collectively. If no person or group stole, there would be no murder, no false witness, no adultery.

To express the belief positively, all individuals or groups should get what they get in a manner that would be profitable to all. Then all would respect the private property of others 100%. That would be true liberty and voluntarism.

That is our interpretation of the Declaration of Independence. This is the universal single standard of right we use as our measuring device of morality—a yardstick of ethics.

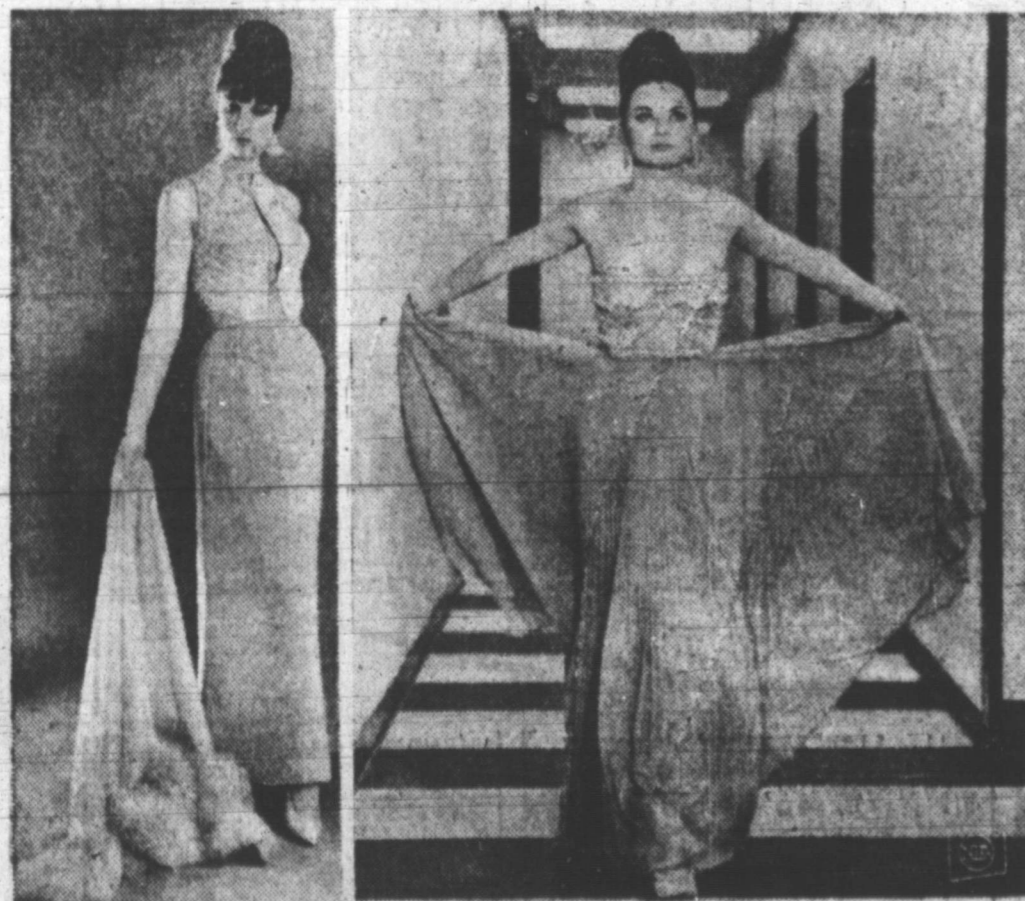

Thus we believe:

1. That every man is born with equal unalienable rights to take moral action to make more secure his property which includes first his life, then his liberty and all he produces.
2. That these rights are the endowment of the Creator and not the gift of any government.

Since we believe these facts are expressed in this guide of human conduct, we do not believe any man has the moral right to curtail the rights of his brother. That is, no man has the right to initiate force against his brother. Every man, to be sure, has the right to resist the initiation of force, but should not initiate it.

In all of recorded history, men have banded together for certain reasons—to hunt, to play, to trade, to build. In a voluntary association, such as the one that publishes this newspaper, each man exercises his rights through the group. BUT, simply because each man is the member of a group, he cannot morally assume rights he did not possess as an individual. And, neither does the group possess rights which the individuals in that group do not possess as individuals.

Yanks Peterson Misses Fame by Only Five Outs

By United Press International
Fritz Peterson had a little trouble finding home plate but his difficulty zeroing in on first base deprived the Yankee lefthander of a shot at the Hall of Fame.

The 24-year-old rookie came within five outs of baseball history Monday when he disposed of the first 22 Chicago White Sox he faced in the second half of a holiday twinnish.

Then, with 18,002 fans roaring on every putout, the Chicago-born hurler darted toward the third base line for Jerry Adair's one-out eighth-inning dribbler. In his haste to maintain perfection, he gloved the ball quickly, turned and heaved the ball wildly over first base into the stands.

The next batter, John Romano, bounced a clean single up the middle to extinguish any hope for a no-hitter and the Yankees, who led 5-0, coasted home behind a two-hitter 5-2 to gain a split after dropping the opener 5-6 to Gary Peters.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City surprised Baltimore 9-6, Minnesota bested Cleveland 5-4, California clipped Detroit 11-6 and Washington divided a pair with Boston, winning the opener 6-4 and losing the nightcap 1-0.

Dick Green drilled a three-run homer and knocked in five runs as Kansas City snapped Baltimore's seven-game win streak. Jim Hunter pitched six innings and won his eighth decision against six losses although it was reliever Jack Aker who came on to get the last two outs in the ninth when the Orioles scored three times.

Snaps Losing Streak
Bob Allison pinch hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning to end Minnesota's seven game losing string and give Jim Kaat his 10th win in 16 decisions.

Harmon Killebrew's 15th homer highlighted a three-run Twin first and Ered Whitfield's roundtripper with two on in the Cleveland fourth tied the count. Lee Stange's three-hit second game pitching gave the Red Sox their split. The only run came in the opening frame when Jose Tartabull singled, stole second and rode home on George Scott's single. Ken McMullen's two-run homer triggered a six-run Washington rally in the second inning of the opener. Don Blasingame and Jim King also picked up two RBIs as Dick Bosman won his second major league game against four losses.

Home runs by Joe Adeock, Jackie Warner, Jose Cardenal and Jim Fregosi boosted California past Detroit. The Angels tallied four in the seventh and five in the eighth to hand Larry Sherry his first setback after five wins.

Ron Santo captured the hearts of 23,164 fans and turned the stomachs of 24 teammates. Santo, the National League's All-Star third baseman, returned to the Chicago Cubs' lineup Monday, eight days after his cheekbone was fractured by a pitched ball, and delivered the most dramatic hit of his career to extend his hitting streak to a record-tying 27 games.

The Pirates remained 2½ games behind San Francisco, which split a pair with St. Louis, winning the nightcap 3-2 after losing the opener 6-2. Los Angeles clipped Cincinnati 2-1, Atlanta edged Houston 3-2 and

Roberts Gets Release

HOUSTON (UPI) — Robin Roberts has come back twice in the past when his league clubs have given up on him.

But now the question is whether the winning active pitcher in the major leagues can do it again at the age of 39. Roberts, just 16 victories shy of becoming the 15th 300-game winner in major league history, was placed on waivers for the Houston Astros Monday for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. Roberts was angry when he was informed of the club's decision by Manager Grady Hatton after he arrived at a park Monday. Roberts stormed out of the Houston clubhouse, refusing to make any comments to reporters.

A spokesman for the Astros said they hoped that Roberts would hold a press conference on Tuesday.

But while Roberts refused to make a statement, it's obvious that he still thinks he can win the big leagues. In the past five years he has been labeled as "washed up" by the Philadelphia Phillies, New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles. He came back to become a major league winner each time, however. The Yankees gave up on him before he even threw a ball for the club.

If Roberts is not claimed by any club on waivers, he will be free to deal with any team as a free agent if he can, also convince somebody he still can be a winner in the majors.

Hatton said the team decided to release Roberts to make room on the roster for Don Arlich, a 23-year-old lefthander who has been purchased from Houston's Oklahoma City farm club.

"Robin is definitely one of the greatest pitchers of all time and one of baseball's real fine personalities but we felt the acquisition of a lefthander reliever was necessary to keep our club in the fight for the National League pennant," Hatton said.

Nicklaus Warms Up For British Open With Fine 67

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus is determined that the British Open will not become the jinx for him that the U.S. Open has always been for Sam Snead.

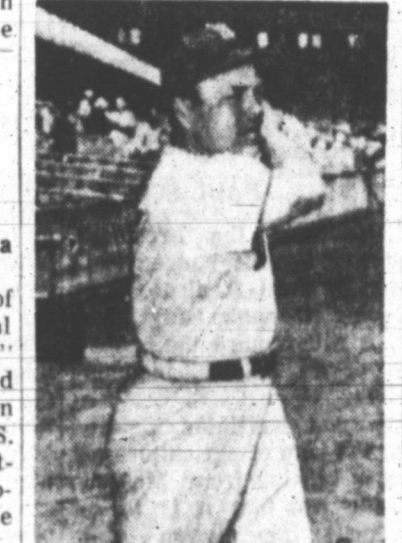

Nicklaus, who has won every major tournament at least once except the British Open, warmed up for this year's classic by shooting a four-under-par 67 practice round Monday at the Muirfield golf course.

The 7-2 choice of the bookmakers to win the tournament which opens Wednesday, Nicklaus shot a 35 on the front nine and came back with a 32 on the back nine. Nicklaus was touring the course with last year's U.S. Open champion, Gary Player, who matched Nicklaus' 32 on the back nine but refused to reveal his score on the front nine, labeling it a "nightmare."

Nicklaus, whose dream of accomplishing the "professional grand slam of the Masters," U.S. Open, British Open and PGA this year was ruined when he finished third in the U.S. Open, after winning the Masters, called the Muirfield "probably the most American course Britain has."

He added, "You can see pretty much what you're driving at, it's a target type course."

New York swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 9-6 and 8-1.

A three-run homer by Willie Stargell and a two-run blast by Gene Alley led the Pirates to victory in the first game. Winning pitcher Vern Law had three consecutive hits but yielded home runs to Adolfo Phillips and Randy Hundley as well as Santo before departing in the eighth inning.

Gaylord Perry ran his record to 12-1 by setting down the Cards on seven hits. In addition to driving in a run himself with a fourth-inning single, Perry struck out nine. His triumph left him with a winning percentage of .923—tops in the majors—and only one short of teammate Juan Marichal's 13 victories. The Dominican right-hander lost his fourth game in the opener as he was cuffed for homers by Phil Gagliano, Lou Brock and Mike Shannon.

Reds Extend Streak
John Roseboro's sixth-inning single scored Ron Fairly with the winning run as the Dodgers ran Cincinnati's losing streak to six games. Rookie Don Sutton pitched a five-hitter and struck out 10 in posting his eighth victory and first complete game in two months.

Joe Torre, who had driven in Atlanta's second run with a first-inning double, tripled leading off the seventh and scored the winning run on Frank Bolling's infielder out. Ken Jonson allowed the Astros only four hits in notching his seventh win in 13 decisions.

Coaching Next for Mickey?

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees already have retired million nos. 3, 4 and 5 and the next logical one would be no. 7 except that the wearer still may be using it a year from now—as a coach.

"Mickey Mantle can be a coach for me, if he wants as long as I have anything to do with this club," declares manager Ralph Houk, who has the solid backing in this regard from club president Dan Topping, Sr.

"Where could you possibly find a better coach than Mickey?" Houk asks. "He knows everything there is to know about this game and there isn't any player you could name who is better liked."

Yankees runs through 1969 so there is no rush for any decision on Mantle's part.

Right now, he isn't sure what he'll do next year.

Until a week ago, it seemed his decision was an obvious one. He was striking out a lot, his batting average was lagging at .249 and his legs certainly weren't getting any stronger.

It was a cinch he'd call it a career at the end of the season and that his no. 7 uniform would be retired officially along with Babe Ruth's no. 3, Lou Gehrig's no. 4 and Joe DiMaggio's no. 5. Suddenly, Mickey got hot, though. He hammered eight homers in six games with Boston and Washington, boosted his batting average to .284 and practically over-night began looking like the Mantle of old. Even those anti-Yankee fans started cheering for him and everyone wanted to know what was the reason for the dramatic change.

As best as he can figure out, Mantle points to Wally Moses, the Yankees' batting coach, as the man chiefly responsible for his recent surge.

Mickey admits he has never liked to take too much advice about hitting, but he did listen to Moses.

"He told me I was crouching too much at the plate and suggested I straighten up more," says Mantle. "I tried doing what he said and it worked. I feel real good at the plate now."

He should the way he was maintaining all those pitchers in Boston and Washington. Heartened as he was by his recent success, Mantle is fully aware that his one week showing, brilliant as it was, does not wipe out or make up for an entire season.

The odds are he still will quit at the end of this year although his performance from now until October could influence his decision. If he can keep his average respectable, say somewhere around .270, he might decide to give it one last try next year.

But should he drop below .260 and should his legs give him any more trouble than they already have, Mickey is likely to wind it all up at 35, which he will be before the start of next season.

Still another possibility, particularly in view of Houk's declaration, is Mantle's acceptance of a player-coach position. That would be something to think over.

The Yankees would like to have Mickey around in nearly any capacity.

And although he never talks about it much, Mantle is inordinately proud of his association with the Yankees and would like to endure.

No matter what he eventually decides to do, it always will

That goes whether he wears that no. 7 uniform next year or, as is more likely, the Yankees hang it in their trophy case.

Foreign Aid Spending

Proponents of spending taxpayer funds for foreign aid are constantly repeating the claim that the bulk of the funds are spent in the United States, and that therefore the aid program is benefiting the U.S. economy. Aside from the fact that the U.S. government is spending depreciated dollars here and sending valuable U.S. products abroad, the statement of major expenditures in America have been disproved many times.

The Citizens' Foreign Aid Committee again attempts to set the record straight in the following release: "In transmitting his Annual Report to the Congress on foreign assistance the President wrote, in part: "Foreign assistance has become a smaller factor in our balance of payments. In fiscal year 1965, more than 80 cents of every AID dollar was spent for the purchase of American goods and services."

"In fiscal '65, AID spent a total of $1,294 billion for commodities. Ninety-two per cent of all commodities purchased was supplied by U.S. firms. However, the amount of AID dollars spent for commodities was only a fraction of the total AID expenditure; the total U.S. AID in loans and grants was $6,208 billion. This fiscal '65 figure is in line with AID costs which since 1946 have averaged $6.1 billion annually.

"In fiscal '65, U.S. exports in goods and services, financed by U.S. government grants and loans, totaled $2,800 billion. This figure, of course, includes the commodities purchased in the U.S. Therefore, for fiscal '65 it appears that the total spent by AID in foreign lands is the difference between total AID—$6,208 billion—and the U.S. export of goods and services financed by government grants and loans—$2,800 billion—or $3,408 billion. Thus, 45 per cent of AID dollars is spent in U.S.A. AID expenditures overseas include grants, loans, offshore procurement, salaries, travel, freight and administrative overhead.

"The above facts disclose inaccuracy in the President's statement: 'In the fiscal year 1965, more than 80 cents of every AID dollar was spent for the purchase of American goods and services.' "Moreover, since the fiscal '65 AID placed more than $3 billion in grants and loans in foreign lands, the U.S. balance of payments deficit rises with the resultant weakening of the dollar.

"In view of our $320 billion Federal debt, of a major war in Viet Nam, of our diminishing gold reserve and the imminent threat of inflation, tax payers must make their will known now to their Congressman. Foreign aid, now being considered by the Congress, should be limited to Food for Peace and to support essential for prompt victory in Viet Nam."

Birth Control Not Government Job

A news dispatch from Washington says the Congress is about to "do something" about birth control information. We are further advised that Roman Catholic opposition will be more a matter of getting the church's position into the record rather than an all-out assault.

It occurs to us that birth control is about the only human function into which the government has not, at this point, seriously intruded or what should be exclusively an individual concern. It was unrealistic to suppose that this oversight would obtain for long.

We cannot assess the government's vested interest in, or its attitude toward, birth control; but from what we have read it is the contention of government that there is some public concern and interest in the matter because of the "population explosion."

We have been hearing about this explosion for as long as we can recall; but we have never found much reason and logic brought to bear on it. The theory, as we get it, is that pretty soon there will be too many people on earth—that there won't be enough to feed or clothe them. Indeed, it is obviously true that these conditions already can be found in some parts of the globe.

But, how does a reduction in the population of the United States relieve hunger in India? If there is a shortage of food, why are we paying farmers not to raise food? And why are we buying the produce of farms and burying it in the ground, dyeing it to make it inedible, or putting it in bins to rot?

How will a reduction in our population cure these insane conditions? Agriculture people say—the United States has the capability of raising all the food the world can consume. How will a reduction in the population bring that food to the people who need it?

Truly, production methods are so vastly improved—and improvable—we could raise almost unimaginable supplies of food. Medical discoveries have increased our life-span and decreased infant mortality. Perhaps the best way to decrease the population would be to outlaw the further use of antibiotics and limit the food supply to a certain level.

There are many of us who have no objection to birth control as a matter of individual choice and decision. This is quite obvious. We have no objection to the dissemination of information on birth control by private agencies. But we object most decidedly to making it an act of government to further (or oppose, for that matter) the distribution of information on birth control. Like prayer, birth control should be a matter of private, individual choice and conscience, and government should have no place in it.

Women have invaded the last stronghold of manhood—pipe smoking. They have turned pipe cleaners into a household word, finding countless uses for the wire-centered, fuzz-covered cleaners which were first introduced in 1921 at local tobacco stores. Now, because of feminine innovations, they can be bought in most novelty and gift stores in many sizes and colors. They are used for freezer bag ties, for holding drapes or curtains in place, for cleaning hard-to-get-at spots in percolators, as a support for young plants, and a dozen other uses. One midwestern lady found them ideal for smoothing out her face powder. Another housewife wrapped cleaners around the middle rung of wire hangers to prevent pants or slacks from falling. Dad may have to give up his pipe cleaners, but we doubt if he'll give up his favorite pipe.

Freeman Flying to India to Avert Famine in Fall And Explosive Food Riots; U.S. Grain Reserves Dipping

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Agriculture Secretary Freeman is flying to India shortly on an emergency food mission.

This unannounced White House assignment is to determine whether U.S. wheat is arriving and being distributed fast enough to avert a major famine this fall.

President Johnson wants an up-to-the-minute, first-hand estimate of India's grain requirements through 1967 in order to gauge whether dwindling U.S. wheat reserves will be sufficient to meet India's growing food needs.

Freeman will also be under instructions to discuss with Indian authorities the probability of a joint U.S.-Soviet agriculture program to increase India's long-range food production.

While monsoon rains are beginning to ease India's record drought and improve prospects for a good November harvest, the food pinch is expected in September and October when supplies will reach their lowest levels in 10 years.

In a warning to the White House, Ambassador Chester Bowles forecast turbulent Communist-inspired food riots in the large cities, particularly Calcutta with 6 million residents, unless U.S. wheat deliveries are speeded up and distribution bottlenecks in India quickly overcome.

Bowles' report, which triggered Freeman's mission, asserts that the very existence of India as a democracy is at stake. He expresses the belief that unless this desperate situation is alleviated promptly, widespread disturbances could lead to catastrophic upheavals.

So far, food riots have occurred only in Kerala, a small southern state with a large Communist party. But Bowles reports that Red agitators are moving into Calcutta to create turmoil in the fall.

TINDER BOX—Riots in Calcutta, a hotbed of political unrest, would be comparable to a violent racial explosion in New York City. The impact would be felt around the world, and could easily ignite disturbances in other large population centers in India.

To defuse this menacing situation, Bowles holds the U.S. will have to deliver by mid-September at least one half of the 9.5 million tons of wheat President Johnson promised Prime Minister Gandhi during her March visit.

This is the stark picture the President outlined to Democratic congressional leaders in explaining why he is sending Freeman to India. Freeman will confer with Mrs. Gandhi and Food Minister Chidambaram Subramanian, following his return from a trip to Russia.

If the Indian government wishes, the President indicated, the U.S. would be willing to work with the Soviet to solve India's food needs. "This is the kind of international cooperation which I favor," declared the President. "The war against hunger can't be won by the U.S. alone. If we are going to make any headway, it will require the cooperation of all nations, including Russia."

When one legislator inquired about the kind of agriculture aid India is seeking from Moscow, the reply was that it is to set up large mechanized state farms similar to those established with Soviet assistance at Suratgron in Rajasthan.

TAKING INVENTORY—In addition to U.S. aid President Johnson reported Canada is being prodded to increase its commitment to India from one to three million tons of wheat this year, and to provide the same amount next year.

If this arrangement can't be worked out, the President said, it will become necessary to ask India to substitute surplus corn and sorghum because of the sharp drop in U.S. wheat supplies.

This month U.S. wheat reserves dipped to 555 million bushels, and Agriculture Department officials say the carryover next year may fall to around 250 million bushels. This would be less than half the minimum reserve deemed essential for the national security.

President Johnson told congressional leaders he hoped Congress will approve a provision in the Food for Peace bill that foreign currency acquired through Public Law 490 grain sales could be used by recipient countries to finance birth control programs.

Even if only a minuscule portion of the $1.3 billion of these funds is allocated to India to establish birth control clinics, the President contended, it would be a far-reaching step in slowing down that country's soaring population.

The House-passed measure is now before the Senate Agriculture Committee. The birth control amendment puts Congress on record for the first time in favor of such government-financed programs for undeveloped nations.

The Senate Democratic leaders assured the President the amendment would remain in the legislation unless some unforeseen opposition developed on the Senate floor. They also reported the Senate will approve another birth-control amendment sponsored by Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, designed particularly to help India.

Incorporated in the foreign aid authorization bill, Fulbright's amendment would permit technical assistance funds to be used to assist non-industrialized countries with population problems if they ask for such help.

WAR CLOUDS—Looming darkly over India is an ominous intelligence report indicating Red China may be preparing new aggression. Refugees from Tibet claim the Chinese are building up arms and men on India's northwest border areas for attacks in October.

If these reports are accurate, October could be as explosive as that month was in 1962 when Chinese troops invaded India—and Russia planted missiles in Cuba.

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

Miltie, Symbol of New TV Era? NEW YORK (NEA)—It came as quite a shock to learn that Milton Berle will be returning to regular duty on television in the autumn.

True enough, we have said many times that television could not possibly get any worse. But bringing back Uncle Miltie seems a rather shabby way to prove us wrong.

Nevertheless, we have been proved wrong and must in all honesty take a new look at the entire matter of television—beginning with Milton Berle.

It was not so long ago that Mr. Berle was known as Mr. Television. You had only to turn on your set at any time of day or night, and it seemed that either he was there or was expected momentarily to interrupt whoever was there.

That was barely 15 years ago—known even then as the early days of television—when everybody talked about the exciting promise of the medium and what it could do to improve understanding, education, information and entertainment.

Well, a lot of shows have come and gone since then. Carloads of personalities have flashed across the screen. There has been a drama on every emotion, a comedy on every foible, a documentary on everything in the universe from Venice to Venus.

And after all has been said and done, here is Uncle Miltie back again—the Model A recalled to service on the highway.

A person who didn't know better might conclude that television had not fulfilled its exciting promise.

A hasty critic might charge the medium with coming out of its infancy completely bankrupt of new ideas.

For our part, we would have said that somewhere in its growth the television industry had got off on the wrong track and was simply going back to start over again from the beginning.

But on second thought (and third and fourth), we have decided that such is not the case at all.

After years of knocking television, we have been forced to conclude that nothing has gone wrong. The ideas are as good as they always were. The medium has come of age nicely and shows signs of a long and lucrative future.

Negroes Make Big Strides (Not in March) in Ol' Miss

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The Mississippi civil rights marchers plodded through has changed significantly on the racial front. But the marchers had very little to do with it.

Veteran observers in the state say the march produced only a negligible advance in Negro voting registration. They even suggest that, left to themselves, Mississippi Negro leaders like Charles Evers of the NAACP might well produce better gains.

Since the Voting Rights Act of 1965 took effect, some 30,000 additional Negroes have registered in Mississippi—lifting the total to 132,000. By one estimate, the figure may rise to 175,000 by the next statewide election in 1967.

THERE ARE OTHER CHANGES, some measurable in figures, some not. All but a score of Mississippi's 149 school districts have indicated compliance with federal guidelines on school desegregation. According to one observer:

"The situation can be described as good, healthy tokenism. . . . Mississippians have undertaken desegregation in some places where people said it would never happen."

Fourteen Negroes attended the University of Mississippi (Ol' Miss) in the 1965-66 year, and 30 are enrolled in summer sessions. It was here, of course, that James Meredith, initiator of the present march, broke the color barrier in 1962.

This autumn, the first significant introduction of Negroes to public school teaching rosters will occur in desegregated schools. It will be a tough hurdle for many white parents to get over.

On the job line, many changes have taken place. In the year

Minimum wage levels tend to price these workers out of jobs and hit hardest at Negroes in need of opportunities for training and better opportunities.

Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors under President Eisenhower, has estimated that a 35-cent-hourly boost in minimum wages would send unemployment for teenage non-Whites from the 25 per cent level of 1965 to 35 per cent.

The South has much at stake in this because economic authorities maintain increased minimums encourage employers to buy machinery, or automate, paying workers in those industries what otherwise would be paid in wages on a local level.

For example, $2.40 hourly minimum for union elevator operators was established in Chicago. For a two-shift operation, that meant $10,000 yearly cost for each elevator. However, $1.25 minimums for such unskilled help meant a $5,500 expenditure. But elevators can be automated for $8,000, making it economical to do this. And most elevators in downtown Chicago buildings have been automated—with a loss of jobs—because greatest names in entertainment and sports, or hear the greatest words in literature, they are available at the flick of a switch in your living room.

If you want to see pathos, bathos or trampolines, you have only to consult the television listings.

If you want to hear expert opinion on Hanoi, Moscow, life death, marriage or Washington, just tune in same time, same channel tomorrow.

To our way of thinking, television has more than fulfilled its exciting promise. By constant attention and perseverance over the past 15 years, television has polished its few wares until they sparkle like diamonds.

And so, if the industry wants to put the whole thing on reruns for the next 15 years who can blame them. All we can hope is that if Milton Berle returns, there will also be a spot made for Kuk's Fran and Ollie, the Roller Derby, and especially Your Hit Parade.

It's been a long time since we've seen Spooky Lanson. And nobody has ever really taken his place in the nation's heart.

since the nondiscriminatory hiring provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act took effect, most manufacturers have employed more Negro help and upgraded what they already had. Business leaders and organizations labored hard to make the changes acceptable.

Industrial plant facilities like restaurants are desegregated. Only occasionally has there been trouble.

Similar hiring changes are noted in retail stores and other establishments. Buses are integrated. So are many public restaurants and hotel facilities. Recently a Negro medical fraternity held a ball in Jackson's best-known hotel. Banquets are common.

YET CHANGES OF THIS SORT are being seriously resisted, too.

Though the figures may have changed some in the final days before Medicare took effect July 1, only 17 of Mississippi's 132 hospitals had signed up for participation in the program.

On the school front, dissatisfied whites are turning more and more to private schools to avoid desegregation. The White Citizens' Councils, badly thinned down after failing to halt the change in public schools, are lending themselves to this move as part of a revival effort.

While Negro registration is up, only 35,000 of 132,000 voted in recent primaries. Democratic party leaders are hearing that Negroes next year may win state legislative seats—as many as four counties, but they are not publicly acknowledging the changing prospect.

SYMBOLIC OF RESISTANCE at the political level is the fact that today former Gov. Ross Barnett, stout segregationist, is the overwhelming bet for the 1967 governorship nomination. His candidacy got a whopping boost from the Alabama primary victory of Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, wife of Gov. George Wallace. Barnett talks Wallace for president in 1968.

Business leaders bent on promoting a changing Mississippi image are united in searching desperately for an alternative to Barnett. Right now they have none. But even if he is elected, again, the educated guessing is that Mississippi will go on changing.

Hunt for Truth BY M. L. HUNT

A TIME OF TESTING Schick Razor Company is presenting a TV musical spectacular, "UP WITH PEOPLE," with one of show business' finer personalities, Pat Boone, as emcee. Unexpectedly to patriots, this highly commendable show has been carried on stations over which any show of patriotism is surprising.

It presents the true image of the youth of our country, dispelling the myth that they are a marching, bearded, beatnik group unwilling to serve their country. This wholesome show presents young citizens unshamed of flagwaving, proud to be citizens of a young and great republic, unapologetic for its strength and vigor, with full knowledge that these things are the result of a free, unfettered, hardworking, productive people.

These young citizens are descendants of English, Poles, Czechs, Jews, Germans and other nationalities whose forebears came to these shores in search of freedom of choice, to pursue whatever vocation they desired, embrace whatever religion they wished, live wherever in this great land they chose, and whose personal initiative and productivity made their chosen country the strongest and freest in the history of civilization. Why shouldn't their descendants be proud of the country they built!

In contrast, a weekly magazine of large circulation bitterly attacks patriotic broadcasts. Though anti-freedom forces sanctimoniously deplore guilt by association, if groups patriots to show them as narrow-minded bigots. There are practically no quotes from the LIFE LINE transcripts they had, but LIFE LINE is pictured in default of common sense and good intent. The article, using Group Research, Inc. to condemn, is an unusually interesting study in smear technique.

A testing time has come. In love of country to be discredited or to be acclaimed? The public's patronage of entities will answer the question and teenagers will help decide. HLH
