Whether Russians Or Germans On Offensive Not Made Clear

By The Associated Press A heavy battle of tanks and men, with the combat tempo "rising with every hour that passes," was reported raging on the Leningrad front today, and the Russians declared 25,000 German troops had been killed and huge war supplies captured in 13 days of fighting around the old czarist capital and at neighboring Staraya Russa.

It was not immediately clear whether the Russians were making a major attempt to break out of the long-besieged northern metropolis, or whether the Germans were on the offensive, hoping to knock out that long and stubbornly defended barrier.

The Leningrad radio, however, reported that red army troops had captured a fortified settlement which served as the center for several German-held villages. Soviet dispatches said 15,000 nazis had been slain in the Leningrad fighting and 10,000 at Staraya Russa, where the German 18th army had been trapped for weeks.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters reported a "noticeable lessening" of the great Russian winter drive and for the third successive day stressed German offensive operations, asserting that nazis troops had captured "a fairly large number of villages."

The German high command claimed its navy had sunk 38 warships, including a British cruiser and eight destroyers, during February and March. "Another 37 warships, including 10 cruisers, 11 destroyers and five submarines were damaged in offensive operations by German naval forces and in air attacks by the Luftwaffe," the nazi communique said.

London underwriters announced sharp increases in war-risk insurance for shipping. The Berlin radio boasted that U-boats for Atlantic operations were housed "like cars in a garage" in new concrete-roofed dry-docks built along the west coast of Europe.

In aerial warfare, RAF night bombers returned to the assault on German war factories in the suburb of Paris, attacking the Matford truck works for the second straight night, while nazis raiders pounded "hell's corner" on the southeast English coast.

The Germans said Dover and Portland were the chief targets.

Bill Offered To Protect Labor Rights

WASHINGTON, April 3. (AP)—With the assertion that labor needed to be assured that the war emergency would not be used to deprive it of its rights, Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis.) introduced a bill today fixing criminal penalties for "oppressive labor practices."

LaFollette, chairman of a labor subcommittee that made a four year investigation of anti-union activities, took cognizance of other pending labor legislation, including proposals to suspend the 40-hour week, when he said:

"If the nation has time for consideration of any labor legislation, then, by all means, this proposed act should be carefully weighed."

The measure, an amplified version of an oppressive-labor-practices act which passed the senate in 1940 only to die in the house labor committee, sets maximum penalties of a $10,000 fine or six months imprisonment for the use of strike-breakers, private armed guards, the possession or use of firearms or tear gas during labor disputes, and interference with peaceful picketing.

In addition, the principle of the wage and hour act is applied so as to make it criminal for an employer who engages in oppressive labor practices to ship his goods in interstate commerce.

LaFollette declared his committee had unearthed "sordid violations of the rights of labor" in virtually every state.

"Many of the spokesmen for labor in the last few months have expressed the fear," he said, "that the present emergency or the post-war period will be used by anti-labor groups to deprive labor of its rights."

City Prepares For $100,000 Bond Election

Commission Makes Ready For Army Base Establishment

City commissioners, in special session Friday morning, took steps toward fulfilling their obligations in establishing an Army flying school to cost in excess of five million dollars.

Announcement of the school's location here was made Thursday morning.

After viewing many problems which might arise out of the development, commissioners acted to meet most urgent responsibilities by instructing City Attorney T. J. Coffey to draw up resolutions and ordinance for a $100,000 bond issue.

In all probability the material will be ready Saturday afternoon, City Manager E. J. McDaniel predicted, and in that event the commission will meet to call the election.

To what extent the $100,000 would be needed was not definitely known. McDaniel said that commissioners were of the opinion that most of it would be needed for land purchases and water and sewer extensions, but that such part as was not needed would not be spent.

It is the city's responsibility to furnish 550 additional acres of land to the government for the school site and landing area. Moreover, the municipality is to run a 12-inch water main for a distance of a mile and a quarter and a 12-inch sewer main for around three miles. The school will require 750,000 to 1,000,000 gallons of water a day, to be paid by the army at regular city rates.

As news of the designation spread around, the United States Employment Service office was swamped with inquiries and renewals. Otto Rodden, local manager, said that the deluge started right after the announcement and was continuing strongly Friday. Most were for clerical and skilled labor classifications, although there were renewals of cards for almost all types of work. Inquiries came from many points, as far away as New Mexico.

H. E. Rutherford, secretary of the local carpenter's union, which doubtless will feel the effects of the construction boom through transfer of cards, said that he had received several long distance calls from people wanting to know when work would start. In recent weeks the local had increased membership by 20 or 25.

On the business front there was a better spirit as trade loosened upon the strength of the announcement, although there actually was no effect to be felt directly from the project as yet.

Acquisition of more land for the job will necessitate alteration of the REA lines going south on an extension, and new easements were being signed up west of the port area by the Caprock Electric Cooperative Friday.

The chamber of commerce received numerous calls, all of them on the same question which could not be answered—"When will work start?"

Meanwhile, at the airport, engineering crews for the contracting engineering firm of Houston kept busy with staking. There was no official word from the railroad, but it was anticipated that the extension of a spur to the site would be launched shortly.

British Blast At Nazi Channel Bases

LONDON, April 3. (AP)—The RAF, in a daylight continuation of the most extensive two-sided aerial operations in many months, sent squadrons of fighters and bombers roaring across the English channel late today in blasting attacks on nazi bases at Boulogne and Calais and other enemy-occupied areas further north.

Reverberations from their assault rocketed back across Dover Strait for some time, and the entire area shook from the distant impact of the British bombs.

One Squadron Shoots 39 Jap Planes

U. S. ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Australia, April 3. (AP)—A single U. S. Army pursuit squadron christened "The Hell-Benters," destroyed 39 Japanese planes for certain and 28 other "probables" in fighting over Java, it was disclosed today in the squadron's official diary.

The Hell-Benters, now in Australia, destroyed 20 Japanese navy "Zero" fighters; 14 heavy bombers, four "BT" dive bombers and one fighter of the German Messerschmitt type.

Standard Oil Twice Refused Government Pleas To Stop Selling Oil To Axis Airlines

Present Studies Indicate — OPA May Freeze All Prices

WASHINGTON, April 3. (AP) An order freezing prices of all consumer goods not already under ceiling orders, was learned today, in under discussion between high officials of the office of price administration and the war production board.

Such a blanket freezing order, to be applied at both retail and wholesale levels, has been discussed for some time, responsible OPA sources said and "the meetings have been more frequent recently."

A definite decision has not been reached, it was said. The action, if forthcoming, would take the form of a permanent freezing order, cutting prices back to the levels of some chosen date, probably several months ago, it was reported.

Numerous administration officials have voiced dissatisfaction with present price control methods, holding them to be too slow to check an inflationary trend.

This feeling has been accentuated with the flood of new WPB curtailment and production stoppage orders of recent weeks, affecting radios, phonographs, vacuum cleaners, electrical appliances and many other major and minor consumer items. As each curtailment order has appeared, a buying rush has occurred and prices have moved up, resulting in such emergency action as last night's freezing of bicycle sales.

Grave Reverses Befall Allies In Burma Fight

Bataan Defenders Turn Back Another Japanese Offensive

By The Associated Press Grave new reverses marked the allied defense of Burma today as British headquarters acknowledged that the Japanese had cracked the right wing anchor at Proma, key to Burma's vital oil fields, but the news from the Philippines was more heartening.

On long-besieged Bataan peninsula, Lieut.-Gen Jonathan M. Wainwright's American and Filipino fighters were officially reported mopping up pocketed Japanese units which yesterday burst through the main line in two heavy assaults.

The war department said "a considerable number" of Japanese got through, only to be trapped as U. S. troops counter-attacked fiercely and sealed the gap.

With Japanese invasion threatening from next-door Burma, leaders of India's millions wrangled bitterly over the British proposal to grant India self-rule after the war in return for fighting support.

Chiang Kai-shek, advocate of war collaboration between China's 400,000,000 and India's 300,000,000, was said to have intervened in the negotiations, urging India to accept the British proposal.

Chiang was said to have sent a special messenger to convey his views to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, powerful former president of the all-India congress party.

In Burma, the situation was critical at both ends of the British-Chinese defense line guarding the Burmese oil fields, a major source of China's gasoline and oil supplies, and the road to Mandalay.

The British acknowledged that they had been forced to retire to the north of Proma, less than 100 miles south of the Yenanyang oil fields, falling back after night-long fighting in the jungles south of the Irrawaddy river town.

However, British headquarters denied reports of a landing by Japanese sea-borne troops at the west Burma port of Akyab, only 100 miles from the Indian frontier, which would have been an even greater setback.

A Chinese spokesman at Chungking said yesterday the Japanese had landed under cover of cruisers and destroyers, but the British declared officially they had "been in direct contact with Akyab this morning" and no landing had been attempted.

Simultaneously, a Vichy broadcast reported that Chinese forces in the east, commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, were retreating farther north from enemy-occupied Toungoo.

U-Boat Sinks Tug, Barges In Atlantic

NORFOLK, Va., April 3. (AP)—Turning from its usual preying upon tankers and freighters, an axis submarine attacked a tugboat and its three-barge tow off the Atlantic coast early Tuesday morning, sinking the tug and two of the barges with shell fire.

The tug's master and chief engineer and nine crewmen aboard the barges were rescued while 16 men aboard the tug were missing, the fifth naval district said in announcing the sinking today. Survivors said they believed it was possible that some of the 16 had been able to board a raft which had been thrown overboard.

Newsmen were not permitted to interview the survivors but barge men told Ensign James Geddes, of the fifth naval district, public relations office, that the submarine was within hearing distance and that they heard orders given for the loading and firing of the raider's deck gun. The enemy hurled a large number of shells at them as a rapid fire rate, they related.

Leslie Haynie, Reedville, Va., and H. R. Batman, the tug's master and chief engineer, respectively, were picked up by a northbound merchant ship and landed at the coast guard station at Lewes, Del. The nine bargemen were rescued by coast guardmen and brought ashore at Norfolk.

Captain Haynie said at Lewes that his tug was attacked between 2:30 and 3:00 a. m., March 31, by a submarine which fired a shell through the captain's cabin, destroying the radio room, and apparently killing the second mate in the radio room. Eight or ten shells were then fired into the barges, and the submarine headed the tug off as it attempted to escape.

Eight or ten more shells were fired at the tug before the engines were stopped, Captain Haynie said. Shells next hit the tug in the forward section and near the main mast, while a hit amidships "practically blew the tug out of the water."

Haynie and Batman made their way to a raft which had been cut loose from the tug and watched the tug burn for about two and a half hours before it keeled over and sank.

Propaganda and propaganda agents, he said, were thus enabled to reach not only all Latin-America countries but the United States as well.

La Varre submitted a list of German and Italian representatives who had traveled to and from South America on the airline, terming it "the most notorious record of enemies that ever traveled on any line."

Chairman Truman (D-Mo) said before the committee meeting that the inquiry into the Italian air line grew out of records of the oil company which Thurman Arnold, anti-trust chief, turned over to the committee last week.

Earlier this week President W. E. Farish of Standard told the committee that "no delivery was made except in conformity with the policy" of the state department and that deliveries to the airline were discussed with the state department and the American embassy at Rio de Janeiro.

He said the United States had an official record of everything that traveled on Latl from Dec. 25, 1940 to May 21, 1941, on 22 westward flights and 23 eastward.

The record showed that 2,300 kilos of propaganda books were carried westbound during the period as well as a quantity of concentrated chemical and pharmaceutical products and 800 kilos of films—horror pictures so they wouldn't go into the war.

Standard Oil of New Jersey (AP)—Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state, testified before the senate defense investigating committee today that Standard Oil company (New Jersey) refused to stop selling aviation gasoline to German and Italian airlines in South America until its Brazilian subsidiary was placed on the "black list."

Berle said "in fairness to Standard Oil" that the company had cooperated wholeheartedly with the state department since then.

Senator Reed (D-NY) declared it was "regrettable" that the department "had to use so much force" to bring about cooperation. He said Berle's testimony did not bear out the sentiment expressed by Standard Oil officials who have appeared before the committee.

The "black list" is a listing of business firms prepared by the state department with which trading by United States firms is forbidden on grounds they blacklisted have had dealings with enemy powers.

Earlier a commerce department official testified that the oil company had provided the fuel supply for a German-Italian airline which served as a means of delivering axis propaganda and spies to this hemisphere and returning valuable commodities to axis countries.

The lines which had been supplied by Standard's Brazilian subsidiary, Berle said, were the transatlantic service, Latl, built by the Germans and operated by Italians, and the German-controlled Conder Line, operating in Brazil.

The black listing was applied to Standard's Brazilian subsidiary last October, Berle said.

The state department requested the company twice to stop supplying the lines before resorting to the black list, Berle said. The company, through an attorney named Palmer, he said, contended that it would be liable to a damage suit if it breached its contract.

William La Varre, chief of the American republics office for the department of commerce, told the senate defense investigating committee that the airline, which he referred to as "Latl," was established under German auspices in the fall of 1939 to operate between Rome, Africa, Brazil and Argentina.

It was established, he said, because of German dissatisfaction with axis propaganda progress in Latin America and was to furnish a means for sending both men and materials through the British blockade.

Propaganda and propaganda agents, he said, were thus enabled to reach not only all Latin-America countries but the United States as well.

Warning to Mothers: WORMS CAN CAUSE TROUBLE

Learn the truth! Anybody, anywhere, who has read books, and who can cause great distress to their child without even knowing what it is.

Many 100,000,000,000 children have been wormed. Other innocent-looking young signs are yellow stomach, belching, noisy stool, uneasiness.

Don't take chances with roundworms! Get Jarrow's Vermifuge today! It is America's best known, proprietary worm medicine—used by millions, for over a century. Jarrow's worm medicine roundworms, pin worms, etc. It kills them, works just as a mild laxative. Insist on Jarrow's Vermifuge.

Red Cross Reports Japanese Treating Prisoners Fairly

Americans In Camps Want Mail From US

WASHINGTON, April 2 (UP)—The 306 United States prisoners of war, who were captured on Gilbert, Wake and Guam islands by the Japanese and interned at Zentsu, island of Skikoku, are being well treated, the International Red Cross reported in a cablegram made public today by Rep. White (D-Idaho).

However, the men want more entertainment, fancier food and mail from the folks back home. This was the most detailed account received through neutral sources to date on the welfare of men who fell into enemy hands.

Rep. White was chosen to release the report, presumably because many of the soldiers and civilians captured in the American outposts were residents of Idaho, Oregon and Washington. Civilians from these and other western states were engaged in military construction work on the captured islands.

The cablegram from an agent of the International Red Cross was transmitted to the navy department here and then turned over to White. He made it public as follows:

"Have visited camp for prisoners of war at Zentsu March 12, accompanied by aid from the information bureau and the Japanese Red Cross. Camp on large island of Skikoku in the north near inland sea on fertile plain between hills covered with pines; good climate; no endemic diseases; good water; 25,000 inhabitants nearby. Camp covers acres surrounded by barbed wire and a wooden fence. Two army barracks, two stories high, well ventilated, 12,000 cubic meters in all. Capacity 500; present number 374. One Englishman from Shanghai, two Dutchmen, five Australians and rest Americans of whom eight are from Gilbert Island, twenty from Wake and the rest from Guam. Forty-five officers, 10 doctors, two druggists, one dentist.

Barracks recently divided into rooms of from one to fourteen camp beds, each having five blankets, a pillow and mattress for officers. Heating by modern stoves.

"Daily rations 300 grams of bread, 300 rice, 160 wheat plus potatoes, sweet potatoes, green vegetables, fish, eggs, etc. Total 1,200 calories. Meat, sugared food and in this season, fruits, are rather rare. Young and active prisoners are losing weight; old and idle prisoners gain weight.

"Cooks chosen from prisoners work in separate kitchens which are large and clean.

"Tobacco ration is 18 cigarettes per one to three days according to rank.

"Clothing sufficient for the moment but 120 pair of shoes requested as soon as possible. Daily laundering; good hygiene; large hot Japanese bath daily for workers and weekly for others. Latrines clean and isolated.

"Infantry in barracks; military hospital nearby. Visits from Japanese doctors three times a week. Monthly inspection. Fifteen wounded in infirmary of whom several wounded by bombs and one had leg amputated above the knee. All getting along well. No dead. American dentist wants to practice. We will procure instruments for him.

"Prisoners wish books, equipment for sports and games, piano, typewriters. Protecting power will take charge of that.

"Religious services conducted by a minister who is also a prisoner. Two hundred work voluntarily to clear nearby hill for potatoes, sweet potatoes, wheat. Necessary work in camp paid to 35 yen a day, x x x Preparing to organize paid work in the town. Officers receive same pay as that of corresponding ranks in the Japanese army. x x x

"Principal need is that of corresponding with families. Letters not sent in view of lack of communications. At beginning of March officers authorized to send personal messages to their families in America by radio but remain without any answer.

"Prisoners wish to receive financial assistance by cable from their families through the intermediary of the U. S. navy department or the Red Cross. Have already asked by radio for packages of preserves, meat, fruits, sweets, American tobacco.

"No complaint on subject of treatment; discipline and cooperation are excellent. Commanding officers competent and friendly. Prisoners sensible. General impression very good."

Bread Weight Law Upheld

AUSTIN, April 3 (UP)—The state's bread weight law is valid and enforceable in the opinion of Attorney General Gerald C. Mann. Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald, whose department administers the statute, submitted the question of constitutionality on the law which sets the standard weight for bread at one pound, a pound and a half and multiples of one ounce.

On receipt of the ruling yesterday, McDonald, who said the statute also required wrapped loaves to be marked with the weight, ordered his weights and measures inspectors to file charges against violators.

Kiwanis Hears Farm Program

The program at the Kiwanis club Thursday was in charge of George White, chairman of the agricultural committee. White introduced the speaker, O. P. Griffin, county agent, who spoke on the recent calf show and on the farmer's part in the war program. He stressed the fact that the calf show had as its objective to encourage feeding and not simply to show off a certain breed. He urged that all people encourage the farmer to stay on his main job of raising food and suggested the need of exempting farm boys from the draft so that the food supply would not be impaired.

The program on Thursday, will be in charge of R. L. Tolett. Shows Wife Golf Is A Cinch

THE WAR TODAY: Russian Fleet May Help In Sea War

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst
With the swelling of the bloody battle along the great Russo-German front, and intensification of Hitler's preparations for offensive operations which may cut in several directions, we are told by reliable sources in Washington to expect the all-out Nazi U-boat drive which this column forecast many weeks ago.

It's estimated that the Nazis will let loose in the Atlantic a submarine pack of anything up to 400—maybe more. The purpose of this assault is to prevent the United States from transporting to Europe, and especially to Russia, the equipment which is sorely needed to meet Hitler's land and air operations.

The unwelcome fact is that we now are piling up equipment which we cannot move because of the immediate lack of ships. Hitler is sinking them.

Already the depredations of the fisher's sea-wolves have been heavy. Official details naturally are meager because of the necessity of keeping vital information from the enemy. Washington announcements generally employ the blunt, succinct language which was used yesterday when it was stated merely that a medium-sized Norwegian merchant vessel had been torpedoed off the Atlantic coast.

These little statements remind one of those we used to get in London during the last war: "A man was shot in the Tower of London this morning." Just that and nothing more to confirm one's belief that another spy had paid the price.

From the time of Pearl Harbor to March 28, the officially announced sinkings on this side of the Atlantic were: off the U. S. coast, 49; off Canada, 21; in the Caribbean, 23; off South America, 1; total 94.

That's a lot of good ships gone to the bottom. And the anxious work of a host of good men—tanks, airplanes and what not—presumably has been lost, not overlooking the precious oil tankers and their cargoes which are the lifeblood of war. Still, we can get some satisfaction from the fact that, as was remarked Wednesday by Rear Admiral Simons, commandant of the fifth naval district, the axis has "paid a terrible price in both submarines and men."

With the allied necessity of rushing war material to the Soviet for the spring fighting, the route to the Allies. This Arctic rail-head is the hopper through which supplies are fed into the great red mill which has been grinding out victory. Upon this route the Nazis are concentrating heavy attacks.

Greater naval protection is being furnished the convoys for Russia—placing a further strain on the already overworked American navies—and red warships are jumping into the breach. Soviet fighting ships joined with the British in the recent victory over the Nazis who attacked a convoy on the Murmansk route. That battle probably was the prelude to a hot fight over this all-important sea-passage.

This clash provided a welcome reminder that, while the Muscovite navy rather hides its light under a bushel in the matter of publicity, it is very much of the job in numerous waters. Exact figures for the red navy are known only to the Russians. However, as long ago as November, 1930, Moscow said Russia had the biggest submarine fleet in existence.

The bolshevik navy is widely distributed, for it has many seas to protect. For instance, London last October estimated that the Russians had in the Black Sea one battleship, 13 destroyers, fifty submarines and fifty motor torpedo boats. This fleet has played an important part in the defense of the Crimea, and forms a mighty barrier against the further efforts of Hitler to break into the Caucasus, or yet to drive across the Dardanelles into Turkey.

Berlin has credited the Russians with having in the Baltic two battleships, six cruisers, thirty destroyers, 100 submarines and many other ships of various categories. The Reds also have a fleet at Vladivostok in the Far East, including maybe 100 submarines.

The size of the Arctic fleet isn't known, but the Russians have shown in several operations that they have considerable strength there. That will be invaluable to the Allies in the battle of the sea.

By the Associated Press

The University of Texas Longhorns and the Texas Aggies today are tied for the Southwest conference baseball lead, both teams having won yesterday.

At Fort Worth, the Aggies scored four runs in the first inning, added two in each of the third, sixth, eighth and ninth and vanquished the TCU Horned Frogs 12 to 4.

Plane Crash At Angelo Probed

SAN ANGELO, April 3 (AP)—Goodfellow Field authorities are investigating the crash of a training plane in which Second Lieut. Phillip Williams Larsen, 22, of Westago, La., and Aviation Cadet Burdette Howard (Buddy) Hetsler, 22, of Houston were killed yesterday.

Hetsler tried unsuccessfully to parachute from the plane at a low altitude. Larsen remained with the ship, which was completely wrecked.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Larsen of Westago, La., parents of the instructor, and Howard Harold Hetsler of Houston, father of the cadet, were notified.

Larsen attended Loyola university of the South at New Orleans from 1937 to 1940. He was a member of the football and track teams.

Women's Golf Sensation Credits Violin For Success

WIDE World Features

MIAMI, Fla.—The concentration and nerve control that pretty Georgia Tainter learned during long hours of violin practice may bring the state of North Dakota its first national golf championship.

The 19-year-old brunette sensation of the Florida winter circuit—winner of four straight tournaments and 17 of 19 matches—started playing the violin when she was eight. She practiced constantly, learned the importance of sound fundamental technique. She performed in public and that gave her poise and the ability to concentrate before crowds.

At 14 she started playing golf at the behest of her father, an affable Fargo physician who is an ardent if not too skillful linkman. She took lessons almost every day for a year from professional Ralph Kingrud, but didn't play alone at all.

Consistent Scorer
"I think that helped a lot," she mused between rounds on the Miami Biltmore course, where she practiced for the spring campaign.

"I didn't have a chance to form many bad golf habits, as I might have done if I had been playing in those early days without a pro to watch me."

Her aim is consistency — "I'd rather shoot four 78's than a couple of 73's and two 81's."

Georgia doesn't care whether the play is match or medal and it doesn't bother her when her opponent is playing unusually well.

Developed Concentration
"The violin playing helped my golf in a lot of ways," she said with a smile. "But the biggest thing of all was that it taught me to concentrate on what I'm doing without worrying about something else at the same time."

Her two previous bids in the nationals were unsuccessful, but veteran followers of the winter tour will tell you that no golfer ever has dominated the circuit like she does win it, it'll be in a foam of records.

Facing the Hawaiian in this feature sprint will be Otto Jarrett, the great champion from the Pasadena A. C.; John Patten, Michigan's national collegiate winner and Captain Howie Johnson of Yale's mighty squad, prohibitive favorite to capture the team title for the first time.

Powerful Yip garnered four points and the Dallas A. C. two yesterday, but the Blue should pull far away from the field of some 25 leading colleges and clubs by sunset.

NEWARK, N. J., April 3 (AP)—A patient holdup man who waited his turn at the box office of the Branford theater in the heart of downtown Newark last night was felled by a girl cashier who just wouldn't grasp what he wanted.

Frieda Statman was sitting in her booth when a youth walked up, pointed a pistol, partly exposed under a handkerchief, and muttered:

"This is a stickup, don't move or I'll fill you full of lead."

Miss Statman replied:

"I beg your pardon, what did you say?"

"Don't act dumb, hand it over," ordered the youth.

A couple approached the booth and the bandit politely stepped aside while they purchased tickets.

Miss Statman still had difficulty understanding what the holdup man wanted and finally, as two men came up to the booth, the befuddled bandit turned away and became lost in the Market street crowds.

Hawaiian May Repeat As Top AAU Swimmer

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3 (AP) Off in a flurry of records, the big question today, as the National A. A. U. swimming championships splashed toward a climax, was whether short swim Kiyoshi Nakama of Hawaii could do it again.

The dark-haired Ohio State freshman stole the spotlight yesterday, when the three-day classic began, by paddling a spectacular 1800 meters in 19:25.4, leaving a trio of broken standards.

Nakama, a human fish, makes his next bid for fame this afternoon in the 200-yard freestyle test, a highlight of the five event program, and experts predict that if he does win it, it'll be in a foam of records.

Everything Hunky-Dory For Players And Spectators At Asheville Open

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 3 (AP) The Asheville open demonstrated today the incredible fact that a golf tournament can be a pleasant event—even for the literally downtrodden spectators.

Here in a jewel of a setting, galleries picked out their favorites and followed them complacently, nobody getting in each other's way or hair, nobody getting on each other's feet and nerves.

The greens, set in sheltered coves, are surrounded by natural amphitheaters—and veritable paradises for the paying customers who customarily lays down his couple of bucks to get an elbow pushed in his eye.

Then, too, it was a pleasant event for the money players—because it belonged to all of them. It was anybody's tournament, as the boys say, when four men tied for the lead at 69, four more at 70, and six at even par 71, as they moved into today's second 18-hole round.

The leaders were Lord Byron Nelson, former open and PGA king; Lawson Little, another former U. S. open champion; Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, L. I., former Ryder cupper, and Herman Baron of White Plains, N. Y., winner of the Phoenix, Ariz., tournament earlier this year.

The 70 slot included Ky Luffoon of Miami, Okla., hoping for a comeback to the form that made him a threat a few years ago, and three lesser lights: young Bill Nary, redhead from Rancho Santa Fe, Calif.; Willie Goggin of White Plains, and Tony Penna of Dayton, Ohio.

For the pros the 71 bracket introduced the first note of uneasiness, for there was little man Ben Hogan, just waiting for the stretch drive. Hogan, second

Man About Manhattan—

Stage Door Canteen Has What Soldiers Want Free

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—She, resolute Bette Davis came to the Stage Door Canteen in West 44th street to entertain the soldiers. She stood in front of the microphone twisting a pale blue lace handkerchief in her hands. The place was full of men in uniform, sailors, soldiers, marines. . . . Just before her a comedienne had been telling fast-cracking gags. Before this a Broadway torch singer had wailed a melancholy lament.

"I can't sing or tell stories," Miss Davis said, "but I'll be glad to dance with anyone who cares to dance with me."

The man across the aisle advanced on Miss Davis. For the next half hour she was torn from the arms of man after man in the fighting forces of Uncle Sam. Privates from Pennsylvania, gobs from the Great Lakes, Marines from Maryland waltzed with Miss Davis while the fiddlers fiddled and the onlookers clapped hands.

This Stage Door Canteen has become one of the bright havens for men in uniform on leave. It is a contribution of the acting fraternity, Eddie Sobel, the producer and theatrical manager, is its director. A man in uniform can't spend a nickel in the canteen. Sandwiches, coffee, salads, all is free. The orchestras come in by assignment, and donate their services. The actors and actresses from the New York theatre and the Hollywood studios come in and donate their services. Five hundred New York show girls have weekly assignments to come in and play hostesses to the soldiers. They dance when the soldiers want to dance. They talk when they want to talk.

When the canteen was opened a couple of months ago there was a sort of preview put on by the entertainment committee. Everyone donated food. There were cans of coffee, baskets of fruit, cakes, hams, a roast turkey, and strangest of all, some very expensive Russian caviar.

"It's a strange thing," Eddie Sobel said last night, "that caviar is priceless, you can't get it any more because you can't import it from Russia. But it's still here. The soldiers won't touch it. They like solid food. . . . There's not more than two or three spoons of the caviar gone, and I think I ate that."

The Stage Door Canteen opens at 5:30 in the evening and remains open until midnight. You can't get in unless you have on a uniform. Strangely enough, the men "police" the place themselves. They don't want anything to happen to a good thing. If they see anybody getting loud, one of them will tap him on the shoulder and say, "come on, pal, it's time to get out here." They do it themselves, without hints from the management.

Washington Daybook—

Homesick Boys And Girls Big Washington Problem

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Capital in wartime: Much has been written about the horde of new federal workers coming to Washington, but as paradoxical as it may seem, one of the government's major headaches comes from those hands who are constantly leaving. These are the girls and boys who are brought here from states, find the confusion, the overcrowding, the poor housing conditions, the high cost of living, and perhaps above all, the loneliness, too much for them and pack up and hit for home.

The point is that the departure nearly always occurs after a few months, just when the new employee has been effectively "broken in" and is able to perform his new job efficiently. Every employer knows the expense, confusion and loss of efficiency in his business resulting from employee turnover. In the case of the government, the expense alone runs into many thousands a month.

This is one of the reasons why the government maintains a vast recreational program, with athletic indoors and out, dances and dramatics all sponsored by the departmental recreational units. It is one reason why the government is now spending money to aid new workers in getting suitable housing accommodations. And it is one of the chief reasons why federal officials have never minimized the discomforts and difficulties of working and living in wartime Washington.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds—

Bogart Finds About Wife's 'Rosebud' Life Back Home

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Golf day on the dry but rolling waves:

The Japanese freighter (pre-war) was plowing through a gentle sound stage sea, its huge hull arched from side to side by the mechanical rocker. Aside from the freighter's crew, composed of Chinese portrayers, Japs, those on board might have stopped direct from "The Maltese Falcon": Mary Astor, Humphrey Bogart, Sydney Greenstreet and the director John Huston. The new picture was "Across the Pacific."

Bogart's golfing yarn came up between takes — a yarn of Mrs. Bogart's cunning revenge. Bogey was reminded of it by the letter he'd just received from the Portland, Ore., Chamber of Commerce — an invitation for Mrs. Bogart (Clara Method) and Bogey to assist at a ship-launching when they went north to entertain the boys at Fort Lewis, Mayo, the daughter of the sea captain John Method, was always interested in ships and shipping up there, and as a girl was known as "Portland's Rosebud" for her participation in civic functions. Through marriage, Bogey is now "Portland's Son-in-Law."

"I found out about Portland's Rosebud in an old scrapbook," said Bogey, "and on a visit there he recalled it to the reporters. Mayo didn't say anything, she just looked. But next day I was playing golf. I'm not too good any time, but that day I was terrible. It got worse and worse. Do you know what she had done? She'd just told the boys that I seldom shot out of the high 60's, so they considerably matched me with two pros and the state champ. The results were quite . . . horrible."

Golf must have been in the air. When Bogey left I went over to Mary Astor and we talked about her Oscar. She said it definitely was going on the mantle. She once belonged, she admitted, to the Oscar-for-a-doorstop school, but that was before she knew the thrill of winning one.

The honor came after 22 years in pictures. Could she pick out the exact turning point in her career — any one incident that switched her from ingenuita to characterizations, thus making Oscar possible?

"I'm playing golf with Sol Wurtzel," she said. "I dubbed a shot, and I expressed myself very fluently. Sol asked, 'How long have you been able to talk like that?' So he let me play the gun moll in 'Dressed to Kill' — and that was the turning point."

The vast and excellent actor Sydney Greenstreet (again the menace) had his golf tale too. About Abie had just returned from Scotland, and was relating his woes to his friends. Abie had golfed with a Scotsman.

"He asks me what I shoot," said Abie, "and I tell him in the 120's. He says that's about his game too, so we play for $10 a hole. So what does he do at the end, when I have my neat 75, but come in with a 75? It's outrageous!"

SHOW BOAT GIRL

Chapter 36 NO GOOD

But on the way to New York, Melissa fought for and achieved a measure of self-control that forbade any more tears. Her heart was broken; she was done with love—because she had given Randy all the love her eager young heart could hold and now that heart was completely empty.

But she was young, not yet twenty; and she was healthy; and life was long. She would have to fill her life so with activity that she would not have time to grieve for her lost love.

She had been terrified of New Orleans when, fresh from the quiet and remoteness of the Point, she had reached there. But when she stepped off the train at Pennsylvania Station and New York burst upon her, she was appalled. She had a moment of wild panic in which she wanted to turn and run back to the train and beg to be taken back to the River Queen.

A friendly voice spoke at her elbow and she turned to find Todd Beasley there, smiling, welcoming her, turning to a pleasant woman in her late thirties, smart and expensive-looking, and saying, "Well, here she is, my dear—Miss Marlowe, my wife."

Melissa said in a little warm rush of delight and gratitude, "Oh, but how kind of you to meet me! I was frightened stiff—"

Ann Beasley said frankly, "And well you might be, my lamb. This is a wicked old city for pretty little girls like you. But don't let its false face scare you! Run from it and it'll tear you to pieces; stand up and face it and dare it to do its worst and it will purr like a cream-fed kitten. It's just a big bluff."

The taxi managed to fight its way into the stream of north-bound traffic, the driver exchanging insults with a truck-driver who refused to give an extra inch of room. The noise to Melissa was incredible; she listened to it, awed, and wondered that people could go about their business, indifferent to that terrific roar made up of a thousand and one different sounds.

They left Melissa at her hotel, promising to come back for her at seven and take her to dinner. And in the room assigned to her, Melissa stood very still for a moment, drawn to her full height, and bravely faced the spectre of the future. Randy was gone forever but life was left and youth and ambition. She'd have to do the best she could with those.

Work-Out

On the fourth morning after her arrival in New York, Melissa appeared at the studio, guided by Ann, for her first rehearsal. Her program was to consist of thirty minutes twice a week; she was to work with a celebrated radio orchestra, with an occasional guest-singer.

To Melissa, there was nothing unusual about it, because she was too ignorant of radio to realize that new coast-to-coast hook-ups are not usually chosen from small town singers with a little experience as she had had. Nor could she understand the tense little group of thirty or more people in the small studio when she appeared for her first rehearsal.

She was not nervous. She was apathetic. Somehow she couldn't make herself feel that all this was terribly important. She had a queer, sick, lifeless sort of feeling, as though all the brightness and eagerness had gone out of her.

Ann said swiftly, just as the orchestra leader signalled his readiness. "Don't be scared, kiddie—don't be nervous. It's only a 'mike'."

"I'm not nervous," answered Melissa so quietly that Ann stared at her sharply, obviously unpleasantly startled by her quiet.

There wasn't time for more. Melissa stepped before the microphone and Ann, looking frightened and uneasy, sat down beside her husband, who was frankly very nervous indeed.

The orchestra played the opening bars of the selected song, and then Melissa tipped her head back a little and began to sing. There was a tense quiet throughout the studio, and when she had finished the number, everybody very carefully avoided his neighbor's eyes, and the orchestra leader mopped his brow a little and looked sharply at Todd Beasley, who nodded.

Another song, Melissa sang again. And when she had finished, Todd said quietly, "That's enough for now, Melissa."

Todd and the orchestra leader had their heads together in a close conference. It was plain the orchestra leader was arguing hotly and vehemently, but Todd only went on shaking his head and looking a little grimmer every minute.

He came over to Ann and Melissa after a moment and, avoiding Ann's anxious eyes, said briskly, "Jerry has made an excellent suggestion. He feels that Melissa should have some work with Allan Barton—"

Ann gave a little excited gasp of intense relief.

An appointment was made and she was taken by Todd uptown to the huge, skylighted, cluttered

City Faces Trying Test Of Patriotism

Location of a U. S. Army flying school in Big Spring leaves only one certainty to face our people—that we will be up against the most extraordinary test as a community and as patriotic citizens that has ever been our lot.

While there must be a full measure of pride in the opportunity to participate more closely in the nation's gigantic war effort, our exultation should at once be tempered with sober thinking and sensible action.

We know that the project is to be for more than $5,000,000. How much more is the Army's business. None of us, we doubt, have any conception of what a five million dollar project can mean to an area even under normal circumstances, let alone its intensive administration in the space of a few months. The city a few years ago plainly felt the effect of a $300,000 state hospital building program that consumed nearly a year and a half. What then will be the effect of constructing a $5,000,000-plus project in the space of four months from right now?

Certainly our municipal government will be faced with weighty financial responsibilities. The matter of purchasing 500 acres of land promised the Army for the effective utilization of the school is an item of no little consequence. The city has promised to extend big water mains and big sewer lines to the school site. The Army will require three-quarters of a million gallons of water daily, and this will mean increased production costs, both at the source and at the filtration plant.

Under the normal functions of city government will come need for more police protection, possibly more fire fighting personnel and equipment, possibly some urgently needed new or paved streets, large numbers of new water connections, and many more things we cannot now foresee.

Our schools cannot escape the probability of increased administration costs, the certainty of sharply advancing instructional costs, and perhaps the necessity of more building. No matter how schedules may be staggered to meet enrollment problems, great and perhaps expensive adjustments may have to be made.

100,000 Get War Training In Texas

AUSTIN, April 3. (AP)—Approximately 100,000 Texas youths and adults are being trained for the nation's all-out war effort in public schools and night classes, James R. D. Eddy, director of the national defense training program, disclosed today.

Eddy estimated that metalwork, mechanics and woodwork courses will have turned out 120,000 trained men by July 1 as compared with 78,000 during the last fiscal year.

Public schools, he asserted, were responding wholeheartedly to suggestions that they inaugurate courses of all types to train workers to war needs.

To date, 26,980 trainees have been enrolled in supplementary defense classes, 30,461 have taken pre-employment courses, 24,414 have attended out-of-school youth program courses, approximately 2,000 N. Y. A. youths have engaged in training courses and currently there are 22,856 workers enrolled in regular national defense classes.

The director reported that public night schools over the state were accommodating increased enrollments.

Some training centers, he continued, had not enrollments of nearly 2,000 workers in February and figures from other schools indicated monthly enrollments were nearing the 1,000 mark.

Reports from Texas cities showed that the number of enrollees in municipalities varied from 15 to nearly 8,000 while the number of defense classes offered ranged from one to 300.

In February, the San Antonio public school system reported 2,781 defense course trainees, Houston public schools had 1,758, Corpus Christi schools were training 1,475 workers for war industries and the Dallas school system enrolled 1,386.

Other school systems training large numbers were Fort Worth with 685, Arlington with 248, Beaumont with 234 and El Paso with 151.

The trainees were selected by the United States Employment Service on qualifications determined by war industry employers who place men at jobs immediately on completion of the courses.

Nolan Baptists To Open New Building Sunday

Special services, including the ordination of J. D. Holt as a minister and the first use of a new recreational building will feature services at the North Nolan Baptist mission Sunday.

The ordination sermon will be preached by the Rev. W. C. Harrison, Odessa, district missionary. The Rev. Dick O'Brien, First Baptist pastor, will present the Bible to the candidate, and the Rev. Fred McPherson, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church in Midland will give the charge to Holt and then Rev. R. L. Dunham, East Fourth Baptist pastor, will charge the congregation.

At the same service, A. L. New, Ed Stringfellow and Walter Grice will be ordained as deacons in the East Fourth Baptist church. All Baptist ministers and deacons in this area were urged to participate in the service, starting at 8:30 p. m.

Prior to this the mission will observe regular hours with Sunday school and church, followed by dinner in the new recreational building, and Easter egg roll for the children.

Here 'n There

Heavy buyer at the sale of club bay calves here Wednesday was T. J. A. Robinson of Robinson & Sons, no doubt about it. He picked off seven choice calves, including the show's reserve champion, the same being the county champion. Robinson put $596 into his bids, which was $80 more than Swift & Co. made repurchases by Mr. Pittman, its buyer.

Jim Cauble who furnished two winning calves to the Coates boys, sold a 200 pound calf to W. D. Coates Wednesday afternoon for $75. Young Coates wanted the bull as a prospective feeder or possibly for hard service.

Champe Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shine Phillips, will be one of the Texas State College for Women representatives in the annual Southwestern Journalism Congress in Dallas April 9-11. Champe is a sophomore at TSCW.

Jerry Metcalfe, Red Burns, Bally Barton and Lonnie Cojer left Thursday morning for the west coast where they will seek to gain employment in the aircraft industry. Each has finished the aircraft course here.

Bond, Stamp Sales Drop

Howard county fell far short of its bond and stamp obligations during March due to a collapse of buying during the last half of the month, figures compiled by J. B. Collins, county chairman, revealed Friday.

Total for the last half of the month was a mere $24,200 in bonds and an appallingly low $822.10 in stamps. This cut the March total to $111,812.50.

For the year bond and stamp totals here stand at $277,982.70 and considerably below the $375,000 that should have been sold by now if the county is to attain its quota in the nation-wide war-effort saving program this year.

Sales of the stamps and bonds since they went on sale in May of 1941 stands at $663,946.85 for the county.

ABC Club Sees Movie Films

Films of the Navy bombing of Marshall Island and winter sports at Sun Valley, Idaho, provided a varied program for the American Business club at luncheon Friday noon at the Settles hotel. The films were shown by D. R. Alexander and Bob Holman, Union Pacific railroad representatives, both of Dallas.

Lt. M. Carnahan, former member, was a guest and spoke briefly about Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, where he has been stationed.

Guests of the club included Bob Ward, Riley Power of Midland, Bob Brown, Loy House, La. Carnahan, Holman and Alexander.

Directed Fire Sergeant Alfred G. Slyke of the U. S. Marines, although buried under debris of a fallen building in World War I, directed his gun crew until relieved.

Three Die In White Versus Negro Gun Battle At Fort Dix

PORT DIX, N. J., April 3 (AP)—White and negro soldiers fought a bloody 15-minute battle on a darkened plain of Fort Dix last night in which three men were shot to death and five others fell in a furious exchange of bullets.

The sudden, bitter outbreak ended when negro anti-white officers appeared on the scene and ordered the embattled white military police and negro enlisted men to cease firing.

A score of military police had been hastened to lay siege to barracks housing negro troops from which, Major Page Woldike said, a fusillade of shots had answered a bullet "fired over the head" of a fleeing negro soldier.

The battle, termed by Major Woldike, post public relations officer, the "first manifestation of any ill-feeling among different races at the post," flared from a dispute in a nearby amusement center over a "next" on a telephone.

Negro and white soldiers had gathered as before in the Waldron Sports Palace, in the community of Pointville on the edge of the post. Major Woldike recounted, when a scuffle occurred among soldiers waiting in line to use the phone. The place contains a bar, a lunch counter, amusement and bowling alleys.

Major Woldike described the ensuing events:

An M. P. stationed at the place attempted to halt the argument and had words with a negro soldier who lunged for the M. P.'s pistol, ripping the holster, but failing to grasp the weapon. The negro ran outside and the M. P. fired a shot after ordering him to halt.

This brought forth a fusillade from the barracks across the roadway from the amusement center.

The negro troops had been on the firing range in the afternoon and, although regulations require all troops to be searched upon leaving some must have salvaged ammunition and taken it with them, Major Woldike said.

The summoned military police deployed on the open spaces fronting the barracks. More than 50 bullets were fired before the shooting ended.

Stock Auction Prices Steady

Market at the Big Spring Livestock Commission Co. sale Wednesday was strong to steady with volume in dollars and head both reaching the largest peak in weeks. Approximately 700 head were knocked down on the block in a volume that accounted for $30,000, not counting $3,000 more for club calves.

In addition, there were a large number of other unusually sound stockers going through. Fat cows brought $4.00 to $5.00, bulls 7.50-9.00; fat butchers 10.00 to 13.00; common yearlings 7.50 to 9.00. Stocker steers went briskly at 11.00 to 12.50 and stocker heifers were up to 11.50.

Prodigal Son Topic For Revival Sermon

The parable of the prodigal son was the subject of a sermon by the Rev. Buford Battin in Thursday evening's revival service at the Church of the Nazarene.

The speaker pictured the prodigal as the counterpart of the present day sinner or basketballer who has gone from his Father's home into a life of sin.

The Rev. Ernest E. Orton, pastor, reports increasing crowds at every service in the meeting.

There are more than 5,000 miles of streets in New York city.

Baby Saves First Step For Camera In Photo Contest

Anything can happen in the studio where infants for the Personality Child contest gather to have their photographs made. Yesterday something did happen... an eight and a half month old baby took her first step.

Geraldine McMurray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McMurray, became so excited when she saw the other children in the studio that she slid from her mother's lap and took two steps.

After that, it was a question as to who was the most excited, the baby, the mother or the studio officials.

Others who Thursday entered the contest being sponsored jointly by the Kelsey studio and The Herald were H. W. Coats, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Coats, eight months old blond and blue-eyed infant.

June Ann Johnson, blond seven month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Johnson; Harold Wayne Phillips, seven month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Phillips; Jimmy Marvin Parkhill, eleven month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Parkhill, and Shirley Marie Coats, three and a half month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Coats.

Entries in the first age group will close Saturday evening for the contest. Monday the studio will begin taking pictures for the second age group from one to three years of age.
