STRIKE IN SIXTH DAY

New York Mayor Warns Against Any Optimism Of Quick Settlement

By MYRON FEINSLBER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay today reported "some movement" toward ending the six-day-old bus and subway strike but warned weary New Yorkers against over optimism about a quick settlement.

Lindsay said he would return to the talks "at some time today."

Lindsay, looking drawn and pale, emerged from the bargaining session to make one report at 1:47 a.m. EST. He went on radio and live television again at the height of the inbound commuter crush.

Lindsay, in a television and radio report, disclosed that both sides in the dispute had "made an additional offer" during marathon negotiations Wednesday. He would not elaborate.

Bank Deposits Show Increase

"However," he said, "the gap remains wide between the parties."

The new Republican mayor told the city it would "have to sweat it out" — be very tough about it and very brave about it.

An increase of more than $728,000 dollars in deposits and $373,393 in loans reflected a progressive economic position for Pampa's two banks as of the Dec. 31 bank call issued by federal and state regulating agencies.

A steady rain pelted the city during the morning rush hour, causing a monumental traffic jam that far surpassed previous crashes.

The largest Pampa-based financial institution, Security Federal Savings and Loan Association, while not subject to the same call as banks, also issued a year-end statement reflecting substantial increases in deposits and loans.

Citizens Bank and Trust Company showed an increase of deposits of $708,421 in 1965. The figure as of December 31, 1965 was $13,955,270 compared to $13,246,849 at the end of 1964.

Economic losses soared into the millions.

At the First National Bank of Pampa, President Floyd Watson said the bank had, as of Dec. 31 total deposits of $20,376,543. This was an increase of $20,435 over the December 31, 1964 figure.

Citizens Bank also showed an increase in loans. There was an increase of $165,545 from the 1964 closing figure of $5,521,938 to the December 31, 1965, total of $5,687,483.

Lindsay said he had not contacted President Johnson directly about intervening in the strike although he had talked with Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz about the situation. Again he refused to elaborate, saying "that must remain confidential in the public interest."

The Texas senior senator said he had talked with President Johnson since the adjournment of Congress, but they did not discuss the governor's race.

Yarborough said he expected Connally to have opposition in the Democratic primary, but promised he would not take active part in any Texas campaign this year, including convention fights.

Shortly before 8 a.m. EST, Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes said the rain was posing problems, although "the situation is not critical."

Security Federal's deposits rose from $52,210,632 at the close of business in 1964 to $57,742,716 this past Dec. 31, an increase of $5,532,084. Outstanding loans increased $4,490,829 in the same period from $51,157,945 at the end of 1964 to $55,648,774.

Yarborough said he expected Connally to have opposition in the Democratic primary, but promised he would not take active part in any Texas campaign this year, including convention fights.

Goldberg Takes Viet Nam Peace Hopes to UN

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) The United States today asked all members of the United Nations to give "more earnest thought" to the search for a formula to end the war in Viet Nam.

The request was made by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg in a written report handed to Jose Rols-Bennett, U.N. Under-Secretary General.

Condensed Recital
The Goldberg report was a highly condensed recital of current U.S. peace efforts. It told in general terms of how President Johnson had sent messages and personal representatives to a number of foreign states in an effort to reaffirm the American desire for a prompt, peaceful settlement of the war. Goldberg pointed out that the United States was doing all in its power to move the conflict from the battlefield to the conference table. In this connection, "our bombing of North Viet Nam has not been resumed since the Christmas truce," he noted.

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS THURSDAY, JANUARY 6, 1964 58TH YEAR

New Soups Available

Nothing sparks a menu like a new idea or a new dish. And nothing makes a party more special than an unusual serving idea. Now here's an opportunity to do both.

Two new soups are available on the grocer's shelf... and what a boon to menu-weary hostesses. Both are assets to parties and family meals alike. Canned condensed bisque of tomato... a brand new tomato-cream soup... is filled with pieces of summer tomatoes in a smooth, tasty blend of tomato, cream, and butter. What better way to launch a special supper party than steaming mugs of this tempting new soup... served in the living room. And, if the personal touch is your preference, a bit of diced celery, sliced water chestnuts, and garlic will make it truly party-perfect.

CHINESE TOMATO BISQUE
 1/2 cup diagonally sliced celery
 1 small clove garlic, minced
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 can (11 ounces) condensed bisque of tomato soup
 1 soup-can-water
 2 tablespoons sliced water chestnuts

In saucepan, cook celery with garlic in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients. Heat; stir now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

The other newcomer is a sprightly soup... canned condensed chicken & stars soup. Loads of tiny macaroni stars and pieces of chicken are mixed with a rich chicken broth. This soup, too, goes perfectly into mugs as well as bowls. Surprise your school-goers with gay cups of this soup for lunch.

Slant the cutting edge of an electric knife blade in toward food for very thin slices.

Advice About Shrimp

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Q—My family likes shrimp very much. But I am confused about what color they should be when I buy them frozen or fresh. Will you please advise me?

A—Frozen and fresh shrimp come in different colors: Gray (the most common), called "white"; brownish-pink, called "Brazilian" or "grooved"; pink, often called "pink gold"; and deep red, called "royal reds." The latter are not available widely because they swim in such depths that shrimp trawlers are not equipped to catch them. However, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries exploratory veined; breaded, uncooked; quantities.

Q—What is the best way to buy shrimp?

A—Frozen shrimp may be purchased in a variety of forms: Raw, in the shell; raw, in the shell but deveined; raw, shelled and deveined; raw, shelled and deveined, individually glazed; cooked, shelled and deveined; breaded, uncooked; breaded, cooked; as well as in prepared dishes such as television dinners, Creoles, curries, in cocktail sauces, stuffed and baked; freeze-dried.

Appetizer Salad Livens Meals

SCANDINAVIAN APPETIZER salad has taste brightness.

By GAYNOR MADDOX Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Here's a new dish you will like. It is served as a first course — as an appetizer salad, the way Californians begin their meals. As you know, California cooks are rated high in the United States.

One of the main ingredients is canned Blue Lake green beans. We think this variety of beans, grown on the West Coast, is one of the finest available for canning. Look for them in your supermarket under various brand names. Just be sure the beans in the can are the Blue Lake variety.

SCANDINAVIAN APPETIZER-SALAD (Serves 10 to 12)
 1 or 2 cans (1-lb. each) cut Blue Lake green beans
 1 1/2 cups well drained, coarsely chopped pickled beets
 3/4 cup dairy sour cream
 1 1/2 cups chopped tart apple
 1-3 cup chopped onion
 1 tablespoon cider vinegar (optional)
 1 tablespoon capers
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1 can (2-oz.) rolled anchovy fillets

Drain beans well; refrigerate beans and beets separately. Combine all remaining ingredients except anchovies in bowl; cover and chill. Just before serving, arrange beans side-by-side around edges of square or round serving platter. Heap beets in rows inside beans; pour sour cream dressing into center. Arrange anchovies around edge of dressing.

Taking the Straw Out of Strawberries Produces a Bigger and Better Fruit

By GAYNOR MADDOX Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Q—I've heard somewhere that there's a new kind of strawberry. Is there any truth to it?

Agricultural Experiment Station makes this report:

A—They've taken the fuzz off peaches, calories out of peanuts and seeds out of grapefruit and oranges. Now scientists are removing the straw from strawberries. Florida growers (who produce for a year-round market) are using plastic mulch instead of straw to keep down the weeds and stimulate plant growth.

"Use of the plastic mulch (laid between the rows of strawberries) is accompanied by several other new methods of strawberry culture. Growers now fumigate the soil for minute organisms that destroy the roots of the plants. They also carry on regular insect and disease control programs."

The result is bigger and better strawberries. And lots more—400 per cent more—per acre. Life may soon become just a bowl of strawberries.

Q—I have kept some canned vegetables in a cool, dry place for over a year. Are they still safe to eat?

A—They are safe to eat, yes. But they have probably deteriorated in taste. Canned vegetables usually lose their best quality if not used within a year.

Stop, Look, Think, When Shopping In Supermarkets

Here are some shopping tips from the National Consumers Association to help you make the most of the good things in the supermarket. If sometimes you're confused by the abundance (there are over 1,200 different brands of canned goods) here's a way to manage abundant canned foods (alone) dantly well.

First — stop! Supermarket speeding leads to monotonous meals and budget imbalance. You're likely to miss out on new foods and specials. Stop your shopping cart and take a look around. Those canned sweet potatoes on the shelf below, for instance — perhaps they'd be a pleasant change — and the price is right, too.

Take a tour of the canned fruit and vegetable juice section. Park your cart and see what's there. A new mixed vegetable juice — the children might like that... Canned pear nectar — special treat for a Sunday breakfast... And so on to more discoveries.

Once you've learned to stop and look — look again. This means label-reading. Labels are designed for your benefit. The information on the canned food label is the "window" of the can. It tells you what is inside, the style of pack, the weight or fluid measure, the name of the packer plus much other helpful information.

Economy Meals

By GAYNOR MADDOX Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Poultry items, particularly broiler-fryers and turkeys, are best choices right now for satisfying economy meals. They are plentiful, reasonably priced and good quality.

The Consumer and Marketing Service suggests this one day's menu using plentiful foods for good eating at economy prices:

BREAKFAST
 Vegetable Juice
 Scrambled Eggs
 Margarine
 Bacon Strips
 Toast
 Milk for Children
 Coffee for Adults

LUNCH
 Grilled-Tuna Sandwich
 Carrot Sticks
 Graham Crackers
 Chocolate Milk

DINNER
 Stewed Chicken-Wings and Rice
 Cole Slaw
 Dutch Apple Cake
 Bread
 Margarine
 Milk
 Coffee or Tea

DUTCH APPLE CAKE
 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1-3 cup sugar
 2 tps. baking powder
 3 medium-sized apples
 1/4 tsp. salt
 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
 1-3 cup butter or margarine
 1 egg, beaten
 1/4 tsp. cinnamon
 2 tbsps. mild syrup
TO PREPARE: Sift together the flour, 3 tablespoons of sugar, the baking powder and salt. Cut in the 1-3 cup butter or margarine until mixture is crumbly. Combine egg and milk and add to dry ingredients. Mix to a soft dough, do not over-mix. Spread dough in greased 8x8-inch shallow baking pan. Pare, core and slice the apples, placing apple wedges on dough in overlapping rows. Mix remaining sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter or margarine. Bake in 375-degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from oven and drizzle the 2 tablespoons syrup over the apples.

And last but by no means least — think. Stopping, looking and reading are the ways to begin. Continue by thinking about your menu plan for the week: breakfast, lunch and dinner. This is much easier with a basic shopping list. If you scorn shopping lists, take a little time to think on your feet. Let the other shopping carts whiz by. You'll overtake them where it counts — at the family table. You'll also pass through the check-out counter with flying colors.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Oil-Gas Industry Sets New Production High

For the seventh straight year, the United States in 1965 set new records for the value of its mineral production. Continuing advances may be expected next year. It is encouraging to note that growth rates in the values of all three major groups of minerals—fuels, metals and nonmetals—closely paralleled those of 1964, with fuels showing a value gain of 3 per cent, metals a gain of 10 per cent, and nonmetals a gain of nearly 4 per cent.

The strength of segments of the minerals industry, including the very important oil and natural gas industry, is a key factor in the country's general economic well-being. Of special interest to residents of the Texas Panhandle are 1965 figures related to oil, natural gas, and helium production. Some of the key points are as follows:

—The production of crude petroleum in the United States this year totaled 2,846 million barrels, valued at $8.2 billion. The total demand for petroleum products averaged 11.5 million barrels daily, up 4.1 per cent from 1964.

—The marketed production of natural gas in 1965 was 16,432 billion cubic feet with an average wellhead value of 15.5 cents per thousand cubic feet, representing a 5.7 per cent gain in production and a .1 cent increase in average wellhead value.

—Helium consumption in the United States increased by more than 30 million cubic feet (a gain of approximately 4 per cent) to an estimated 743 million cubic feet during 1965. The price from Bureau of Mines plants and the single commercial producer remained at $35 per thousand cubic feet.

Since most of the Free World's supply is concentrated in the Panhandle area, helium is of special interest to us. In addition to the helium sold, more than 2.5 billion cubic feet of "crude" helium was supplied during 1965 by five privately owned plants for purchase by the Bureau of Mines under the helium conservation program. This program was set up under legislation I had introduced in order to conserve helium that would otherwise be wasted when burned as fuel. After being removed from natural gas being piped to market, the helium is piped to the Cliffside gasfield northwest of Amarillo and stored for use later, as needed. Helium is vital to projects involved in our national security; about 75 per cent of helium consumed this year was purchased by the Department of Defense, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission, and other Federal agencies. Helium is becoming increasingly important as technological and scientific progress advances the frontiers of weaponry and peaceful space exploration. It is expected that the helium stored at Cliffside will one day be essential to continued progress.

Other minerals are winding up the year as follows: Bituminous coal and lignite production was up 4 per cent; anthracite continued a decline, down 10 per cent below the 1964 figure; sulfur and fertilizer minerals

RECORD GNP
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's gross national product (GNP)—its total output of goods and services—soared to over $675 billion last year, a whopping 5.5 per cent jump over 1964, even after making allowances for inflation.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday that the figure, described as preliminary, was substantially higher than previous estimates and represented a gain of about $46 billion during 1965. This compared to a rise of just under $40 billion in 1964.

HOWE SWORN IN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Harold Howe II was sworn in Wednesday as U.S. education commissioner, succeeding Francis Keppel, who has been named assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. In his new post, Howe, a New Englander with wide experience as a teacher and administrator, will be responsible for administering the federal government's vast array of education programs.

showed gains, with recovery of elemental sulfur from natural gas and crude oil exceeding 1 million tons for the first time; clays, refractories, and other industrial minerals showed moderate gains; aluminum production was up sharply, rising 8 per cent to a new high of approximately 2.74 million short tons; the industrial demand for lead and zinc exceeded the new supply; copper faced continuing mounting demands and was in short supply despite increased production; gold production was the highest since 1960 and silver output was the largest since 1956; iron and steel were produced at record rates, with one production rising two per cent.

Good economic news—and a good start for the New Year.

The Lighter Side

By DICE WEST

United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—At this time there is always a lot of talk about "starting the year off right."

It is based on the ridiculous notion that if the year begins on a constructive note, the pattern will continue. Actually, as we all know from experience, it rarely works out that way.

Various charts and graphs show that the average life span of a new year's resolution is approximately 14 days, give or take Saturday night.

The result is that we concentrate within one two-week period a full 12 month's supply of high purpose and fortitude. This tends to make the year lopsided and unbalanced.

The country would be better off if we staggered our resolutions in an orderly fashion, releasing a uniform amount at fixed intervals over the entire calendar.

There being 26 letters in the alphabet, or exactly half the number of weeks in a year, I propose that the following system be adopted:

People whose last names begin with "A" would abide by their resolutions during the first two weeks of January, as usual. Those whose surname initial is "B" would take the next two weeks. And so on down the line.

Thus, during any given period, a sizable percentage of the population would be living up to their good intentions. You can easily see what an improvement that would be over previous conditions.

I'm not too sharp at mathematics, but I figure my time would come during the fortnight of Oct. 30-Nov. 12.

In the interest of practicing what I preach, I have started the New Year in my normal dissolute manner, but I have already drafted a set of resolutions that I intend to adhere to next fall.

Viet Cong Gun Down Mammoth US Craft

By MICHAEL T. MALLOY United Press International SAIGON (UPI)—Communist Viet Cong today shot down a mammoth U.S. Army "flying crane" helicopter while it was ferrying ammunition to a Vietnamese Central Highlands. The helicopter was shot down in the same area captured and burned a Communist base camp. A U.S. spokesman said the $6.25 million twin turbine aircraft called a "skycrane" was burning before it crashed and that it apparently was the victim of Communist ground fire. It was one of only six in existence. Ammunition aboard exploded for hours afterward, preventing any rescue efforts. In the ground war itself a U.S. 1st Air Cavalry battalion of about 800 men swooped down on a Viet Cong base within a mile of the Cambodian border and burned the camp the communists had obviously used as a rest area. A spokesman said the Americans jumped from their helicopters about 4,000 yards from the border, then pushed on toward the border on foot. They met light sniper fire as their helicopters landed but there was almost no opposition once they pushed out on the ground. The battle area was about 35 miles west of Pleiku in the Central Highlands and about 240 miles north of Saigon in the Ia Drang valley section where U.S. troops fought their costliest battle of the war late in 1965. The cavalrymen suffered negligible casualties as they swept through the area where powerful forces of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Communists are believed to move back and forth at will across the Cambodian border. The helicopter crash occurred a few miles to the east while the aircraft was ferrying ammunition between two cavalry bases in the Pleiku area.

Perry Takes Over Today As Nation's First Negro Bishop

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Harold Robert Perry, son of a southern Louisiana rice mill worker, formally takes his place today as the nation's first native-born Negro bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in this century. Bishop Perry was to be consecrated in solemn ceremonies at historic St. Louis Basilica in the French quarter, where he was to receive the crozier (staff) and ring symbolic of his office. Pope Paul VI appointed Perry an auxiliary bishop of New Orleans last Oct. 2. The appointment was a few days before the Pope had named Archbishop Philip M. Hannan to succeed Archbishop John P. Cody as spiritual leader of southeast Louisiana's 600,000 Roman Catholics. The 49-year-old Perry is the first Negro from the South ever to become a bishop. Although an outspoken opponent to racial segregation, Bishop Perry has made it clear he does not intend to become a civil rights leader.

Girl Killed When Rifle Shoots Into Upstairs Apartment

CARROLLTON, Tex. (UPI)—A deer rifle held by a young boy in the lower unit of an apartment house discharged late Tuesday, firing a bullet which coursed through the ceiling, the floor upstairs and a bed, killing a 14-year-old girl. The victim was Sherry Lynn Williamson, 14. Police said the boy, 7, had taken a bath and his mother, who is separated from his father, was in a nearby room. She thought her son had gone directly to bed, police said. Instead, the youngster went into a closet and found a Winchester 30-30 rifle. He held it in various ways and was playing with the loading mechanism when it discharged. The bullet struck Miss Williamson in the stomach as she lay face down on the bed of the apartment directly above. The girl died before she could be given medical attention. She was dead on arrival at Parkland Hospital. The boy, police said, "did not realize what had happened until later, then he was a very frightened little boy."

Wall Street Chatter

By United Press International NEW YORK (UPI)—Bergman, Cummings & Co. says it expects 1966 to be a year of exceptional strain and confusion, emotionally as well as fundamentally and almost all of it from the opening bell in January. The firm says that the problems which existed and were recognized a year ago have not vanished, they have merely been postponed. The firm says that while it is still confident of the long-term growth and prosperity of the country, it is deeply worried that we may now be unable to avoid a severe recessionary reaction during the next year or two. Goodbody & Co. says traders may remain on the sidelines during the next few days on the possibility that better buying opportunities may yet develop before the settlement of the latest steel dispute. The International Statistical Bureau says that any decline that occurs will not be very marked or prorated. When captured or kept out of water, porpoises do not thrash or struggle.

Dedication of New Masonic Home Set for January 17

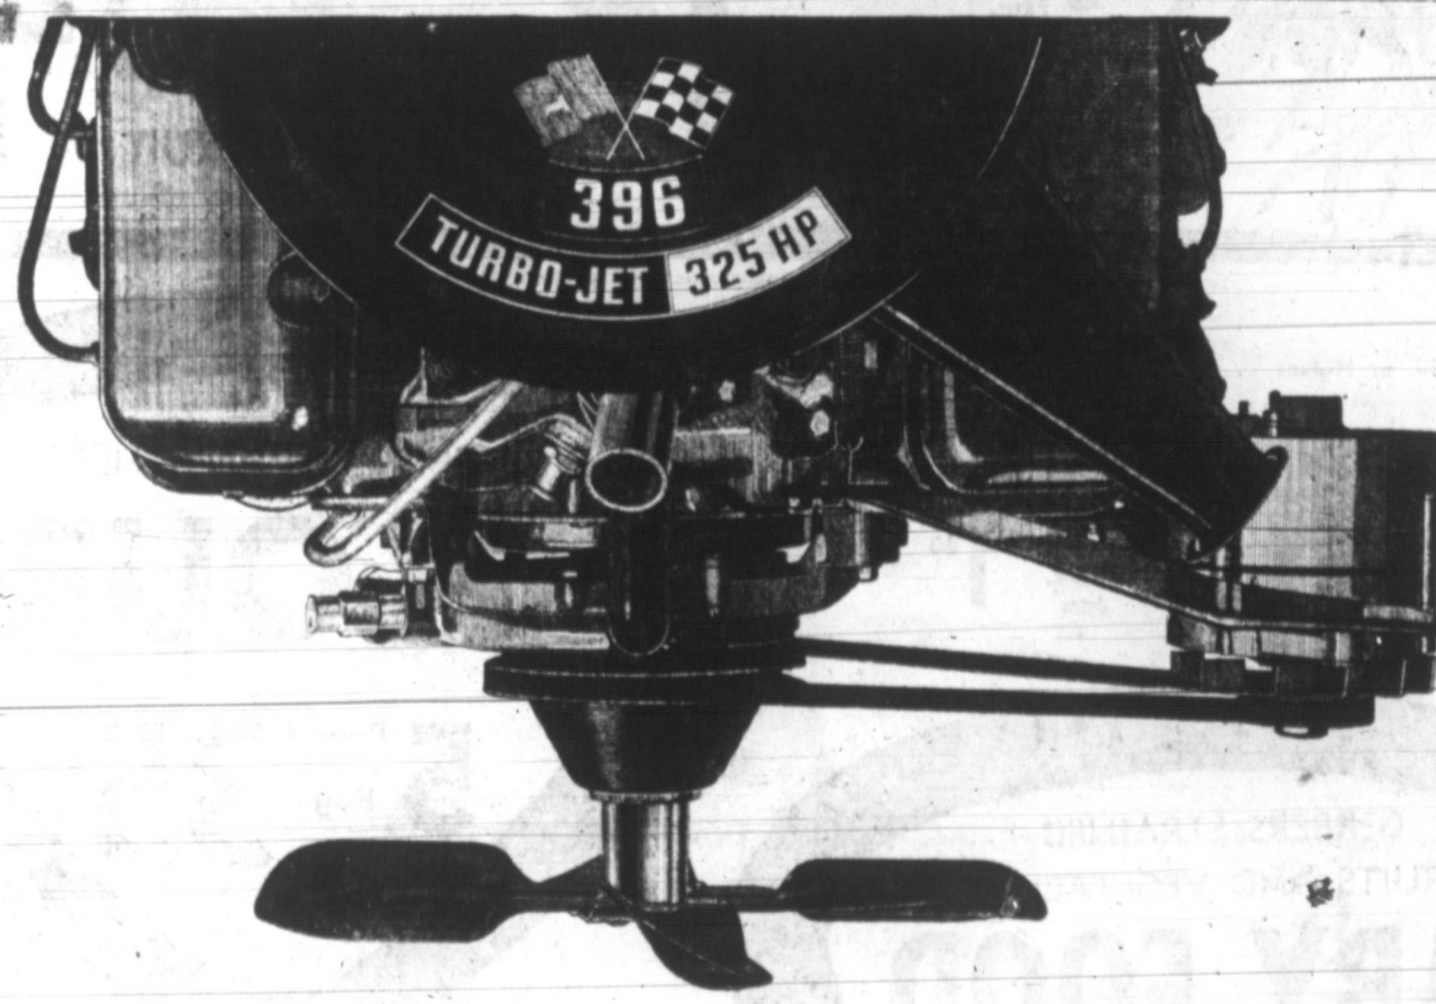

On its eighth anniversary, Jan. 17, Pampa Masonic Lodge 1381 will dedicate its new home on W. Kentucky near the Coronado Shopping Center. According to D. L. Hale, program director for the opening ceremonies, Grand Master H. W. Fullingim, Odessa, will lead a representation from the Grand Lodge of Texas which will conduct the corner stone leveling ceremonies at 4 p.m. Dinner will be at 6 p.m., followed at 7:30 by dedication ceremonies inside the lodge hall. Sixty different Masonic lodges in the Panhandle area have been invited to send representatives to the opening, Hale said. In addition, he said the public and all Master Masons are invited to the cornerstone ceremony. Groundbreaking for the 6,000 square foot building was last Oct. 1, with construction starting around Nov. 1, Hale said. Much of the work on the concrete block structure was done by volunteer labor of lodge members while other portions were subcontracted. Hale estimated the cost of the building at $40,000. "It would have been higher, if the members had not volunteered time and skill to the project." The one-story building includes the lodge hall, kitchen, dining room, offices, instruction offices, lobby and restrooms. It is equipped with modern heating and air conditioning. Masonic Lodge 1381, the second in Pampa, was chartered January 17, 1958. The lodge now has about 250 members. An estimated 2,392,000 persons were added to the nation's resident population in the 12 months before Aug. 1, 1966, reports the Census Bureau. Buffalo skins, which now would probably sell for more than $500, cost $12 to $25 when the bison roamed the prairie. Grover Cleveland was a bachelor when inaugurated President but married in the White House.

Business Highlights

By United Press International WASHINGTON—Eyes in Washington are on big steel today. If U.S. Steel Corp. should follow the example of Bethlehem, Inland and Colorado Fuel & Iron in raising prices of structural steel, the federal government has hinted it will proclaim formal price controls on steel. The government already has ordered the Defense Department to switch orders for structural steel away from the companies that have raised prices. NEW YORK—Foreign copper producers have raised the price for refined copper to 42 cents a pound from 38 cents. With the U.S. domestic price still at 36 cents, this poses the threat of another price struggle between the U.S. government and the producers. When the Danes conquered England in the 7th century, they forbade the English to drink except when in the company of Danish people.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES: 4

Claim Legitimate Business Expense

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

In many occupations employees use their personal funds in the regular conduct of their business. This is particularly true of salesmen.

Their annual income tax return gives them the opportunity to recover these funds if they have not been reimbursed through a company expense account.

The tax form provides two sections where such expenses may be claimed. The first op-er's place of business. An outside salesman may make periodic visits to his employer's office for consultation, turn in orders or make reports. But if he is required to sell at his employer's place of business as a regular part of his employment he does not qualify.

To understand the distinction, consider the expenses of two men each earning $10,000 annually. Only one of them qualifies as an outside salesman. Their identical expenses consist of:

allowance of 10 cents for the first 15,000 miles and seven cents per mile thereafter.

How does the other salesman fare?

His employe business expense deduction will be limited to:
Car expense $1,710
Meals and lodging $25

$2,535
He will recover the missing $290 in business expense only if he itemizes his regular deductions on his return.

For most employes the amounts to be claimed here are limited to transportation expense (use of personal automobile, taxi hire, fares on public transportation), travel expense (bus, plane, railroad, steamship fare) and meals and lodging while away from home at least overnight.

All other work-connected expense, such as dues paid to a professional society or labor organization, nonreimbursed entertainment expense, gifts to customers, cost of subscriptions to professional or technical publications required in the performance of your work, are claimed in the itemized deductions section of your return.

So-called "outside salesmen" are the exception to this general rule. They may deduct ALL their ordinary and necessary business expense in the "Adjustments" section. This gives them a distinct advantage.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

During the past year, education has been recognized as the backbone of our nation. Every area of our society whether it be business, government, health, space science or even education itself, needs personnel who are trained to do the job properly as well as to create new dimensions for progress.

The federal government is pouring money into many areas of education. Many programs have already been started but many more are yet to come. They are not all aimed at fighting poverty as some people seem to think. Projects are being developed to improve local school systems as well as state education departments.

There is unprecedented activity in educational circles. Extensive plans are being developed by individual school systems and by groups of systems working together on larger projects. The Trenton, New Jersey, public schools have appointed an individual to coordinate and help them obtain all of the federal aid to which they are entitled. The Jericho, New York, public schools have been named the agent to obtain a cooperative grant involving fifty-six Long Island school systems. State departments of education have appointed individuals and in some cases entire departments to assist local school systems and to coordinate federal projects throughout the state.

Where is all this money and activity leading to? President Johnson is obviously convinced that the best way to eliminate slums and poverty is through education. The individual who can obtain a well paying job is no longer forced to live on welfare payments. He is better able to contribute his share to the "great Society."

Local school systems which have had limited services may now find it possible to expand their programs.

Dear Abby...

Yeas and Nays On Serving Hostesses

DEAR ABBY: In your column recently you said that hostess who asks if her guests want a cold drink, coffee, or a sandwich, and then sits on her bottom without making a move toward the kitchen, is just "lazy" — and she shouldn't ask, she should get up and serve it.

Well, I'm sorry, Abby, but I don't agree with you. I am on a limited budget and I can't afford to prepare refreshments to throw out. I always ask if anybody wants anything first. And I am only too glad to serve whatever I have if it is wanted, but it bugs me to watch guests toy with their food and pretend to enjoy it when they really do not.

BUGGED IN BEAUMONT

DEAR ABBY: Just because a hostess doesn't force eats on her guests doesn't mean she is lazy. Anyone who is so stupid as to re-use a cup of coffee when they really want one, deserves to go without. This business of having to beg folks to have a cookie or a sandwich is for the birds. Whatever happened to the simple "yes" or "no" when something is offered? I ask once and I mean it. And whatever answer I get is okay by me. I don't beg anybody to eat or drink anything in my house.

JUST PLAIN FOLKS

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I wish to differ with your advice to "often a guest," in which you state: "The hostess who sincerely wants to serve her guests doesn't inquire; she acts."

We know some of these so-called sincere ones who act! They figure our digestions are as indestructible as theirs. They take offense if their goodies aren't consumed, be it immediately after a banquet, or just before we hope to get some sleep.

The good hostesses we know inquire, and the act accordingly.

OVERFED IN IOWA

DEAR ABBY: Aha! I caught you. You aren't always right. I think the hostess who puts the food and drink before her guests without first asking if they wish for anything is presumptuous and inconsiderate.

It should be the privilege of the guest either to partake of refreshments or refuse. But if something is set before him, he feels compelled to "enjoy" it or offend the host. I have avoided calling on a certain relative who is a notoriously bad cook because she is the type who insists that her guests eat, no matter what time of day or night it is. Her heart may be in the right place, but my stomach can't take it.

"BICARB BERTHA"

DEAR ABBY: With regard to the letter signed "often a guest" and your reply: I disagree with you, Abby.

I am a pastor's wife, and oh, how I wish well-meaning parishioners would quit feeding my husband! His clothes are bursting at the seams. He is earnestly trying to lose weight, but with all the calls he has to make, and people shoving goodies at him constantly, it is almost impossible for him to stay on a diet.

I am not saying he doesn't enjoy eating, because he does. But it would be so much easier for him to refuse if he were asked, instead of served. Please publish this. It might help. But don't use my name or the town from which this came. Thank you.

PASTOR'S WIFE

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you. If you have something in the house for company, put it out and let them take it or leave it.

I used to ask people who dropped in if they wanted a piece of my freshly-baked, home-made bread, or a slice of my warm, just-out-of-the-oven green apple pie. And they would say, "Not right now, but it sounds so good, would you mind wrapping up a little piece so I can take it home and have it for my dessert tonight?"

Now, Abby, you know I'm not going to wrap up one piece of bread or pie for a whole family. So there used to go a whole loaf of bread and a whole pie.

OLD-FASHIONED BAKER

DEAR BAKER: Your mistake was in describing the goodies. You should have just made the offer and skipped the commercials.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Spring has come to New York's Seventh Avenue. Outside it may be bleak and blustery, but inside the showrooms the current fashion collections are as colorful and soft as the season they were designed for.

From the look of things the costume becomes more important in fashion each season. And it takes many forms. There is the shift under its own straight-line coat and the sweater coat with matching dresses. Other favorites are dresses with open jackets and short jackets with tunic dresses.

One three-piece costume shown was a solid-color dress with a plaid topper and a scarf that picked up all the colors of the dress and the plaid. And the costume suit sometimes totaled four pieces — skirt, blouse, jacket and contrasting weskit.

Print dresses are teamed with solid-color coats that pick up one of the shades in the dress print. Sometimes two or three fabrics are combined in one costume done in a single color — or two or three colors done in a single fabric.

Bold bands of contrasting colors have been used with imagination to section off hems, waist and neckline. And the color contrasts are exciting — pink banded with gray, yellow with white, navy and red, lemon and lime and lavender with pale blue.

Navy is still important for spring as are the camel and beige tones and white.

Fabrics used are chiefly hard-finished worsteds, gabardines, Shetlands and silk and worsted combinations.

In one form or another the costume will make its way into many spring wardrobes this year.

Masters-DuBois Vows Exchanged

CANADIAN (Spl) — Miss Sherry Masters and Jimmy D. DuBois were united in marriage the morning of Dec. 31 in Canadian First Christian Church.

Miss Masters is the daughter of Mrs. Roy Wilson of Canadian and W. W. Masters of Morrison, Okla. Mr. DuBois is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George DuBois of Fairfield, Calif.

Rev. Myrl Powers officiated the vows before an altar appointed with arrangements of white gladioli and red carnations, flanked by candelabra bearing white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Roy Wilson, was attired in a white ve-teen street-length gown accented by red accessories. A white satin tiera embellished with seed pearls held her veil of illusion and she carried a white Bible topped by an arrangement of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob DuBois of Almagorda, N. M., bride-groom's brother and sister-in-law, were honor attendants.

Miss Melody Scott of Amarillo and Miss Margaret Miller lit the cathedral tapers while ushers, Billy and Dewayne Russell, seated the wedding guests.

Traditional nuptial selections were presented by Mrs. Ardron Ranson, organist.

MISS DEB

... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. All of a sudden, my friends are telling me to stand up straight. I always thought I did, so I'm not sure what I'm doing wrong. Help!

A. Take a good look—at yourself in front of a full length mirror! Are your feet together pointing straight ahead? Your weight balanced evenly on heels and toes? Your legs straight but not stiff? Your seat tucked under Tummy in? Your rib cage and chest up? Your shoulders relaxed? Head up Good! Now, put a book or a full box of tissues on your head and walk. Keep trying. When you can walk without losing what's on your head, no one is likely to remind you to stand straight. They won't need to!

A. I've heard so many different things about the way you're supposed to eat certain foods. Is it really all right to eat fried chicken, French fries or cake with your fingers?

A. Take a cue from your surroundings! Most of the time, you'll probably eat all three with a fork. But at drive-ins where there are no forks, go ahead and use your fingers for fried chicken and fries. As for cake, large pieces are easier to eat with a fork, but bite-sized pieces are finger food. Of course, some foods are strictly finger foods — olives, pickles, corn-on-the-cob, potato chips, fresh fruit. When in doubt at parties or dinners, follow your hostess' lead!

Q. This may seem like a small problem, but the covers of my school books are getting awfully worn. How can I fix them to keep them usable for the rest of the year?

A. Give them a bright new look. Make jackets for them with adhesive covering in a cheerful color or pattern. They'll protect the books and identify them as yours at the same time. Cut your name and the name of the subject from a different color or pattern of adhesive covering and stick it to the jacket. Your new covers will be washable and durable, and will add color.

Sleeves Are Big in Spring Fashions

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Sleeves are becoming more and more important in fashion. And, since the sleeveless dress was a favorite for so many years, many home sewers may have difficulty in handling the new styles. Here are some tips that may help:

1. A sleeve must fit the armhole without wrinkles.
2. A sleeve must not twist on the arm.
3. A sleeve must look right and feel right.

Be sure you use the sleeve pattern that comes with the blouse or dress pattern. Many armholes are shaped differently, and you should not substitute a pattern.

First, place the sleeve in position with the notches of the sleeve and the armhole meeting exactly. Adjust the fullness across the top of the sleeve, between the notches. Place pins crosswise of the armhole.

Baste always on seam allowance. When you are sure that both sleeves are right, up as in sketch, top. With hands pointing into the sleeves, see that both sleeves hang straight down from the top, do not twist and that the lengthwise grain in the sleeve hangs straight down.

Lacking a sleeve board, roll up a magazine or large roll of newspaper. Place a cloth over it press the sleeve seam open, and toward the garment.

Use the tip of the iron, dampen and press carefully so that no wrinkles form. Pressing the top of the sleeve takes patience, but a nice, smooth, wrinkleless top will be your reward.

Notch the underarm curve so it will not appear tight. When fitting a sleeve, if the top seems a little longer, mark the line with pins. Run a basting thread across the top on this pinned line. Use short stitches and draw up the thread, then open the basted line, push the top of the sleeve in to have the seam line of the garment meet the new line. Baste. Then try it on. After stitching, of course, you will cut away any surplus on the seam at top of sleeve.

baste them in on the seam line. This latter is more important than it may seem. To have a garment fit, you must take up in basting the exact seam allowance provided for in the pattern.

When your sleeve is basted in, hold the dress or blouse

The Mature Parent

Youth Condemned For Protesting Way of Life

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In E. M. Forster's famous novel, "A Passage to India," an elderly Englishwoman ventures into a sacred cave. It's a black, suffocating grove whose acoustics are so evilly constructed that no matter what human words are spoken in it, its echoes return the same idiotic answer, "boom boom boom." With this dreadful cave all response to human cry is reduced to identical mocking sounds. So shattered is the Englishwoman by her experience of hopelessness in the unhearing cave that she dies soon afterwards.

New York City's citizens are experiencing hopelessness of ever getting anything but unhearing answers from the powers that govern their lives, says James Reston of the New York Times. They endure the filth of their streets, their paralyzed traffic, bankrupt railroads, the loss of their newspapers or taxicabs or elevators with the hopeless shrug: "What else can you expect?" Writes Reston: "They seem to be saying, 'The thing is too big and too complex, beyond reason, persuasion or control!'"

Is this creeping despair of any effective answers from the powers that govern our lives a New York City one or is it also beginning to be a national mood? As Americans, are we also beginning to feel that there is nothing to expect but the same old "boom boom boom" response from the powers that govern our lives, in Washington or in the equally disregarding policies of labor unions and industrialists?

I sometimes feel despair of the unhearing acoustics of our governing powers. That is why I can't join them in their condemnation of the young people of this country who are making protest-against-everything a new way of life.

Although I consider burning draft cards a most silly way of making clear one's conviction that war is an imbecilic solution to human problems, I can not hate the young men who burned theirs. Although I think student riots a crazy way to communicate the wish for adult

Checks Lead Spring Styles

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
(Pictures)

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fashion will lead a checkered life come spring.

The trend is to geometric patterns in fabrics, and one ready-to-wear manufacturer summed it up this way: "Mini-checks, large checks, window checks, giant plaids, little plaids..."

The checks and plaids, many of them in stark black and white and others in combinations of neutrals or pastels, show in daytime suits, coats and costumes, even go into evening wear in chiffons and organzas.

attention, I can't hate the rioting students. I don't think they are mad at the draft or at their college authorities. I think they're mad at what I'm mad at—the "boom boom boom" in this Malabar cave of our increasing individual helplessness to control forces that have now moved beyond the reach of reason or persuasion.

The young are not so tired, not so old, not so easily shattered as the elderly Englishwoman in the Forster novel.

Arthur Jablow, for instance, does a pink on pink suit and coat costume in giant houndstooth pattern. The designer, John Moore, who made Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's Inaugural Ball gown, did a series of checked suits which came with both tailored trousers and skirts. Colors were beige and beige and black and white. The jackets and newsboy type of hats of the same fabric were in plaid; the trousers and skirts in solid, coordinated tones.

Checks are just part of the pattern story for spring. Candy stripes abound; so do giant florals, especially for late day and evening clothes.

In surfaces, the trend is to smooth, harder textures in chevrons, cavalry twills, ribbed diagonals, and double woven jerseys.

These were among the trends for the new season as the American Designers Group of New York manufacturers Wednesday began shows of their collections to the nation's fashion press, radio and television reporters.

The group's show will end Saturday, to be followed next week by six solidly-packed days of more collections from the members of the New York Couture Group. By the time the editors are through, they'll be glazy-eyed from looking, but will have reported on what's new in dresses, coats and suits, evening clothes, millinery, evening clothes, millinery, makeup, footwear and other facets of the woman's apparel industry.

They will have written about the daring skirt lengths—higher than last spring, and in some collections two, three and four inches above the knees. They will have talked about the leading dress silhouettes—the tube, an unbelted number often also collarless and sleeveless; and the bay dress, unbelted too and young in mood. There's the influence too of the 1930's, in continuing use of bias cut, especially in the crepes.

One designer strongly influenced by the prettiness of the past fashions is John Moore, who's revived the cartwheel hat—one has a brim 28 inches wide when the ostrich feather trim is included—and made dresses with willow shapes.

Envy Is Destructive to Teens

NEW YORK — Teen agers are particularly susceptible to the monster jealousy because they are just beginning to visualize the selves they want to be.

This envy can be a destructive, dangerous force that "sours friendships, wrecks relationships, spoils family life and really poisons a personality," says Daniel Sugarman, Ph.D. in "Seventeen." However, the noted psychologist points out, jealousy, if used constructively, can foster ambition.

Common teen-age phrases such as "Oh, what I'd give for Ellen's brain" or "Why don't I have a figure like..." reveal the monster at work, Dr. Sugarman adds. Anyone who possesses anything—a girl fears she lacks can become a target for envy. But most teen-agers' jealousy is directed toward brothers or sisters, girl friends and boys friends.

A teen may feel that she does not like her sibling simply because he's not pleasant; noisy, messy or intrusive. In most cases, these feelings are a mask to cover up real feelings of rivalry that have not been honestly confronted. A girl may have resented a younger brother when he was a cute toddler and she a gawky in-between, or an older sister who was allowed certain privileges. When she reaches her teens, with these old negative feelings still smoldering, they can be flamed into a major conflagration by a minor conflict.

Envy of girl friends is almost impossible to avoid at one time or another. Some girls envy a friend's popularity or good marks; other friendships sail smoothly until the friend gets pinned or is taken on a vacation to Europe. The closer a friend is, the more a girl might resent achievements or bounties that seem to separate them.

Each person tends to envy others that which she feels she can't ever have herself.

Envy of a boy friend is most likely to mean jealousy of his attentions. While a certain amount of possessiveness is natural, when it becomes excessive it often brings on the very thing most feared: loss of the possession. "A healthy boy wants companionship, sympathy, affection and loyalty. He doesn't want—and shouldn't have—a millstone around his neck."

While there is no sure method to squeeze envy, Dr. Sugarman suggests "a few good ways to keep it under control."

1. Admit that you're jealous. Envy is a normal emotion, and once you face it, it often loses its power.

2. Enjoy yourself. The happier you are, the less jealous you're likely to be. If you like yourself you are less likely to envy others. One idea is to sit down and draw up a balance sheet. List all your good points, your aptitudes and achievements on one side, and all your weak points, or the things you feel deprived of, on the other. Then mark a star after every liability you think you can improve or correct. The result may surprise you.

3. Work for what you want. If your wardrobe isn't up to Paula's, are you willing to get a part-time job, and earn the money for better clothes? Are you ready to diet and exercise until your figure measures up to Jane's?

4. Understand that the world is not your private oyster. You can't be invited to all the parties or be good at everything. An attitude of "What can I do to make my world happier?" instead of "What did the world do for me today?" can go a long way in fending off destructive envy.

5. Look outside your little circle; jealousy thrives in small groups.

6. Take a look at the other side. The girl you envy has problems, too.

7. Learn to wait for your rewards. If you keep your sights trained on a goal, you're less likely to feel competitive with or jealous of girls who gather their rewards before you get yours.

8. Cast a warm eye. You may see, if you look as from afar, that your individual achievement of individual goals matters more than competition with others. "That your development as a fully realized, responsible person has very little to do with what other people accomplish or possess."

SOUTH'S SPIRITS RAISED

Anderson, Twilley May Start For North Squad

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Improvements in both the weather and the bruised ribs of Alabama's Steve Sloan raised the spirits somewhat of the South coaches preparing here for Saturday's North-South Senior Bowl.

Sloan worked out with the team Wednesday afternoon in light rain. It has rained since Monday, hampering practice sessions, but clear and cooler weather was due today.

The Alabama passing star was injured in the Orange Bowl, but seemed on the mend today and South coach Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets said, "If I know the boy, he'll be ready to go Saturday."

North coach Mike Holovak of the Boston Patriots announced his starting offensive and defensive teams. The lineup is dominated by high-scoring quarterback Bill Anderson and end Howard Twilley, both of Tulsa. Together, the two set national scoring records during the regular season.

Ewbank said he would announce his starting team later today, following another practice workout.

Holovak selected three other Tulsa players: Left halfback Bob Daugherty, center John Osmond, a 6-4, 246-pounder and guard Richard Tyson, also 246 pounds.

Nebraska's big 6-4 end Tony Jeter was switched from end to flanker back spot and speedy fullback Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State was named to round out the backfield.

Other starters will be Francis Peay of Missouri and Karl Singer of Purdue at the tackle positions, Butch Allison of Missouri at the other guard slot, Twilley at split end, and either Tom Mitchell of Bucknell or Milt Morin of Massachusetts for the tight end positions.

Holovak said he would alternate between Anderson and Missouri quarterback Gary Lane. He said both looked excellent in practice.

Holovak said his defensive team would consist of Gale Gillingham of Minnesota, Charles Harper of Oklahoma State, Randy Beiser of Indiana and Joe Dobson of Idaho on the forward line.

The linebackers will be Dick Leffridge of West Virginia, Randy Schultz of Iowa State and Jim Waskiewicz of Wichita State.

In the secondary will be Missouri's John Roland and New Mexico's Stan Quintana at cornerback slots with Ron Acks of Illinois and George Wilson

Jr. of Xavier at safety. There remained considerable speculation about whether Sloan, the only major unsigned player in the Senior Bowl, would agree to play pro ball for the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL or the New York Jets of Oakland Raiders of the AFL.

Sources said, however, Sloan would attract nothing like the $500,000-plus figures some top players have been granted this season by professional teams.

TW May Forfeit Sun Bowl Victory

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—Texas Western College officials, who disclosed Wednesday they had unknowingly used two ineligible players in the Miners' 13-12 Sun Bowl victory over Texas Christian, said the next move belongs to the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The matter is under investigation, TWC President Dr. Joseph M. Ray said at a press conference Wednesday. "The facts have been reported to the NCAA and no further statements will be issued from Texas Western."

The players are split end Bob Wallace and linebacker Fred Carr. Texas Western officials said a new NCAA regulation requires transfer students to have either 48 semester hours credit or a junior college degree. Both are transfer students from Phoenix, Ariz. Junior College, but neither graduated.

Ramblers Lose Perch as Best Shooting Team

By United Press International Loyola of Chicago won the skirmish but lost the shooting match.

The Ramblers whipped Marquette 87-65 Wednesday night but dropped from their lofty perch as the nation's No. 1 shooting team. Their 87 points lowered them two points below idle Syracuse, which has fired at a 101.3 per game clip.

The balanced Loyola attack, without a single player among the nation's top 25 scorers, could hit the mark on only 31 of 96 attempts from the floor but hauled down 54 rebounds. The Ramblers, who won the NCAA championship in 1963 and the scoring crown the preceding year, boasted four men in double figures against the Warriors.

Hot-shooting North Carolina hit 62 percent of its shots to blast Wake Forest 99-83 and boost the Tar Heels to 2-1 in Atlantic Coast Conference play.

Temple won its 11th game in 12 starts by shading Villanova 57-56 on Clarence Brookins' two free throws.

Tommy Matlocks fired in a long jumper with six seconds left to give North Carolina State a 55-54 triumph over South Carolina, the only team to have beaten top-ranked Duke this season.

Palmer Favored in LA Open

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, the man with the aura of greatness, vaulted into the favorite's role today for the start of the 72-hole $70,000 Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

Palmer, 36, who finished a comparatively poor No. 9 on the 1965 PGA official list with a mere $36,712 in winnings, took top individual honors in the pro-am prelude to the Los Angeles Open Wednesday by firing a 33-34-67—four under par 36-35-71.

He picked up a total of $825 for his first official effort in 1966. Of that amount $500 was for his individual score and $325 for his team total in the ball pro-am. Palmer's team finished in a tie second—behind

George Bayer's foursome, which had a net of 57.

Palmer was his old smiling self as he whipped through the Rancho Course. He had a birdie-four on the 508-yard ninth hole where a plaque marks the spot where he took a horrendous 12 in 1961. "I'm playing pretty well," he said with an impish smile.

This tournament, starting the annual run for the riches, drew 42 of the top 50 money-winners of 1965.

Oilers Boss Losing Faith in US Gridders

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Oiler Owner K. S. (Bud) Adams, whose big bonus offers to college football seniors have met little success recently, says he is losing faith in American youth.

Adams referred specifically to Louisiana State tackle Dave McCormick, who shook hands Saturday with the Oilers on a contract, then changed his mind and signed with the San Francisco 49ers.

Confidence in Crews

"We know the danger element always is present," he said, "but safety is a major thing with us even if it doesn't look that way to the people in the grandstand. We don't worry about a wheel falling off because we have confidence in our mechanics."

Andretti drives many different cars although he has a preference for a Brabham Ford which he handles for the Dean Van Lines, a trucking firm which sponsors him. Off the track, Mario always keeps his own private car well below the prevailing speed limit and makes sure to use his safety belt.

PRO FOOTBALL THE SPORT TO BE IN

Size Doesn't Bother U.S. Racing Champ

By MILTON RICHMAN NEW YORK (UPI) — The little fellow's eyes grew as big as saucers just looking at the item in the newspaper.

... Donny Anderson, Texas Tech football star, was given $600,000 to sign with the Green Bay Packers.

"It's absolutely fabulous," said the little fellow after he was through reading. "That's the sport to be in. The only thing is I might have a little trouble on account of my size."

In his own field, however, 25-year-old Mario Andretti doesn't have any trouble at all because of his size. Only five feet, six inches and 135 pounds, the dark-haired, good-looking Andretti still managed to earn approximately $70,000 the past year as the 1965 United States Auto Club driving champion.

many meals, either. Andretti, who was born in Indiana in northern Italy, came to this country at 15 and now lives in Nazareth, Pa. He has been racing professionally eight years and doesn't think he chose the wrong profession.

"There's nothing in the world I'd rather be doing than what I'm doing now," he said. "I'm doing what I love best. It doesn't bother me that some other fellows are making six figures a year in football or golf, just to name two other sports. I don't think I could ever do myself justice in those fields. But racing is something different."

For sheer consistency in 1965, there was no one in sports to compare with Andretti except possibly Sandy Koufax, who drives his car at a nice conservative 35 M.P.H. most of the time.

Only One Win Andretti won only one of his races but finished in the top five 12 times and in the top 10 in his three other starts. He finished third in the Indianapolis 500 although it was his first time ever in the classic and on that same track he was clocked in a record 198 M.P.H. on the straightaway while making a test for the Firestone Tire Company, which boasts he's their youngest ever leading test driver.

Andretti doesn't consider himself a daredevil on the track. "I like to think I'm extra cautious," he says. "We drivers have a saying—we'd like to race again tomorrow, not only today. At the same time you always have to keep pushing your car. If you don't, John Doe behind you will go."

Each time Andretti goes to work, his wife, Dee Ann, naturally worries.

"She worries," he said, "but she knows it's my way of living. She understood from the beginning that racing is my life. The only part I don't like is that racing keeps me away from my family. I try to have my wife and two boys with me as much as possible."

that his career, as well as his life, is in constant jeopardy every time he gets behind the wheel.

"I found it too demanding for me," he said.

New Redistricting Fight

One of the most profound issues for American politics in recent times—the apportionment of state legislatures—is expected to produce a new fight in the coming session of Congress, and it could be a fight to the death.

The battlefield will be on the floor of the Senate; the opposing leaders will be among the Senate's toughest warriors, the issue will be a proposed constitutional amendment; and the stakes will be high for everyone.

As the Jan. 10 convening of Congress approaches, however, it appears that the chances are against Senate passage of the amendment. If the Senate does pass it, the measure still faces possible defeat or fatal delay in the House. Defeat in 1966 could mean the end of the issue in Congress.

Such an assessment, however, could underestimate the ingenuity and persuasive powers of Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen (R-Ill.), the Republican leader in the Senate, who is the leading advocate of a constitutional amendment. His major opponent is fellow Illinoisan, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D).

State legislatures handle a broad variety of laws affecting the average citizen, from those on state income and sales taxes to laws on motor vehicles, working conditions, roads, schools, parks and welfare programs. The outlook of a legislature, whether "conservative" or "liberal," whether oriented toward urban or rural problems, is profoundly significant for the citizens of that state.

The Supreme Court in 1962 and subsequent years ruled that courts could hear suits challenging the makeup of state legislatures. The court objected to "malapportioned" legislatures, those in which sparsely populated districts sent as many or even more legislators to the state house as did heavily populated areas.

The court found many such instances, as some states had done little in this century to reapportion their legislatures to reflect the massive population shifts from rural or urban areas.

Despite vigorous protests against the court's decisions, Congress has taken no action to overturn, delay or bypass those decisions. In the meantime a massive political revolution has started, one in which many states have reapportioned their legislatures to reflect more clearly the population shifts of their states.

Disagreement over the Court's position has not died out, however, as some critics—such as Dirksen—contend that states may have legitimate reasons for apportioning one legislative house to give an added voice to farmers, for example, or to citizens of thinly populated outlying districts. Backers of the court's view counter this argument by saying that only if state legislatures are keyed to the population can they hope to deal effectively with modern problems, such as those of big cities.

Sen Dirksen tried unsuccessfully in 1964 to win passage of a bill to delay court reapportionment orders. He tried unsuccessfully in 1965 to win passage of a proposed constitutional amendment permitting states to apportion one legislative house—probably the state senate—in most cases—on the basis of geography and political subdivisions (such as counties) as well as population.

It is a redrafted version of this second measure, the proposed amendment, that the senator will bring before the next session of Congress, possibly in January.

"Liberal" and labor interests are prepared to line up solidly against the Dirksen amendment, while farm, some business and rural interests generally are gearing up for a campaign to pass the measure.

Dirksen's opponents, who won the 1965 Senate vote (with two more purportedly in reserve), are confident they can defeat the white-haired Republican leader again. But the senators have been home these weeks between sessions, listening to local views; and 1966 is an election year, suggesting that the 20 Democratic and 14 Republican Senators up for re-election will be tuning their political antennae with care.

On another score—apportionment standards for congressional districts—the prospects seem improved that Congress will enact a bill requiring that House districts generally be based on substantial equality of population. The Senate, which did not act on the House-passed bill in 1965, is expected to do so since the measure affects only representatives (senators are elected at large).

Feeding Hunger of the Mind

One of the few American overseas endeavors that hasn't been attacked by mobs or told in less forceful ways to "go home" is something called Franklin Book Programs, Inc.

Because of it, "Little Women," for example, is a best seller in Pakistan, where it is read in Urdu, and Egyptian university students are using a text in microbiology in their own language of Arabic.

This little publicized, private, nonprofit organization was founded in 1952 by a group of publishers and librarians with the modest aim of promoting the translation of American books abroad.

That first year, half a dozen titles were published. In 1965, the total had risen to more than 2,700 titles and 50 million copies.

Besides major languages like Arabic and Spanish, projected programs include books in such exotic tongues as Yoruba, Hausa and Igbo.

Franklin publishes no books itself, however, preaches no propaganda, sells no ideology. Local people direct its overseas offices, now in 11 nations in Asia, Africa and South America, and select the books to be translated.

Franklin also trains local people in all phases of the book industry, is sponsoring work on reference books, dictionaries and encyclopedias and, most recently, has become involved in school library projects.

This last activity is particularly appropriate, for the organization was named for Benjamin Franklin, who was not only America's first printer and publisher but the founder of its first public library.

Of the $3.5 million the organization spent in 1965, more than half was provided by the foreign governments concerned. The balance came from American foundations and other private sources and from the U. S. government, primarily in the form of local currencies.

As Franklin's operations have expanded, so have its aims. Today the immediate one is still to help feed the great hunger for learning that exists in the developing nations.

Its long-range objective is to build a thriving book industry and book-reading public as an aid to economic, educational and social development in every country that it enters—and eventually leaves.

For these are Yankees who do want to go home but only when they are no longer needed.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

Umtata, Transkei, South Africa: The town of Umtata is the largest town in the area called the Transkei, which is one of the "homelands" reserved for the black natives called Bantu. The Transkei area is larger than Switzerland (17,000 square miles), fertile and with rainfall from 20 to 80 inches annually. One and a half million Bantu live here. A few thousand whites are teaching them modern farming methods, but progress is slow. The Bantu resist changing the old tribal ways. One Bantu here spent 15 years as an assistant in the Agricultural Department helping teach the natives to plow on the contour instead of up and down the hill, thus minimizing erosion. When the Bantu teacher retired to his own farm, he immediately reverted to his old practice of plowing straight up and down his hillsides. Thus the farm problem here is not agricultural but human (and so it is in America!). If and when the Bantu can be converted into reasonably good farmers, this area can accommodate not 1.5 million, but at least 5 million people.

The aim of the whites is to help the natives become self-supporting and independent, in their own country. Eventually the "homelands" areas can become separate states, either completely independent of the whites or part of a South African federation of nations with a common defense effort and a preferential trading system, similar to the "Common Market" in Europe. The "apartheid" program, which has been grossly mis-represented and misunderstood throughout the world, is to help these natives to own their own country, their own homes, farms, and businesses; to be proud of their own, instead of copying whites.

The whites have established industries here—furniture manufacturing, weaving, meat-processing—employing all-native workers, except for a handful of white directors and technicians. The bottleneck in industry is not finding markets or workers, but technicians, skilled people to train more Bantus.

Whites can own nothing in the Transkei area, except for a limited length of time. Eventually, all hand owned by whites will have to be sold to Bantu.

The natives I have seen here have a far better life than the Russian farmers I saw in the Ukraine of Russia ("the workers' paradise") a few years ago. The Bantu have far more freedom than the Russian peasant. We in the United States have helped the Kremlin criminals to tighten the chains of slavery; and we have helped them modernize their agriculture by giving them machinery, seed, animals, fertilizers.

For South Africa our government and the world offer nothing but condemnation. South African athletes were even excluded from the Olympic games—but not Russian athletes. It would appear that the supreme crime today is not murder, even by the millions, but racialism.

South Africa's greatest need is time. Time to develop the Bantu. Time to prove that separate development, separate ownership, separate cultures are not only right but workable.

Parents and coaches must make sure that their high-flying charges understand this and never use too light a pole.

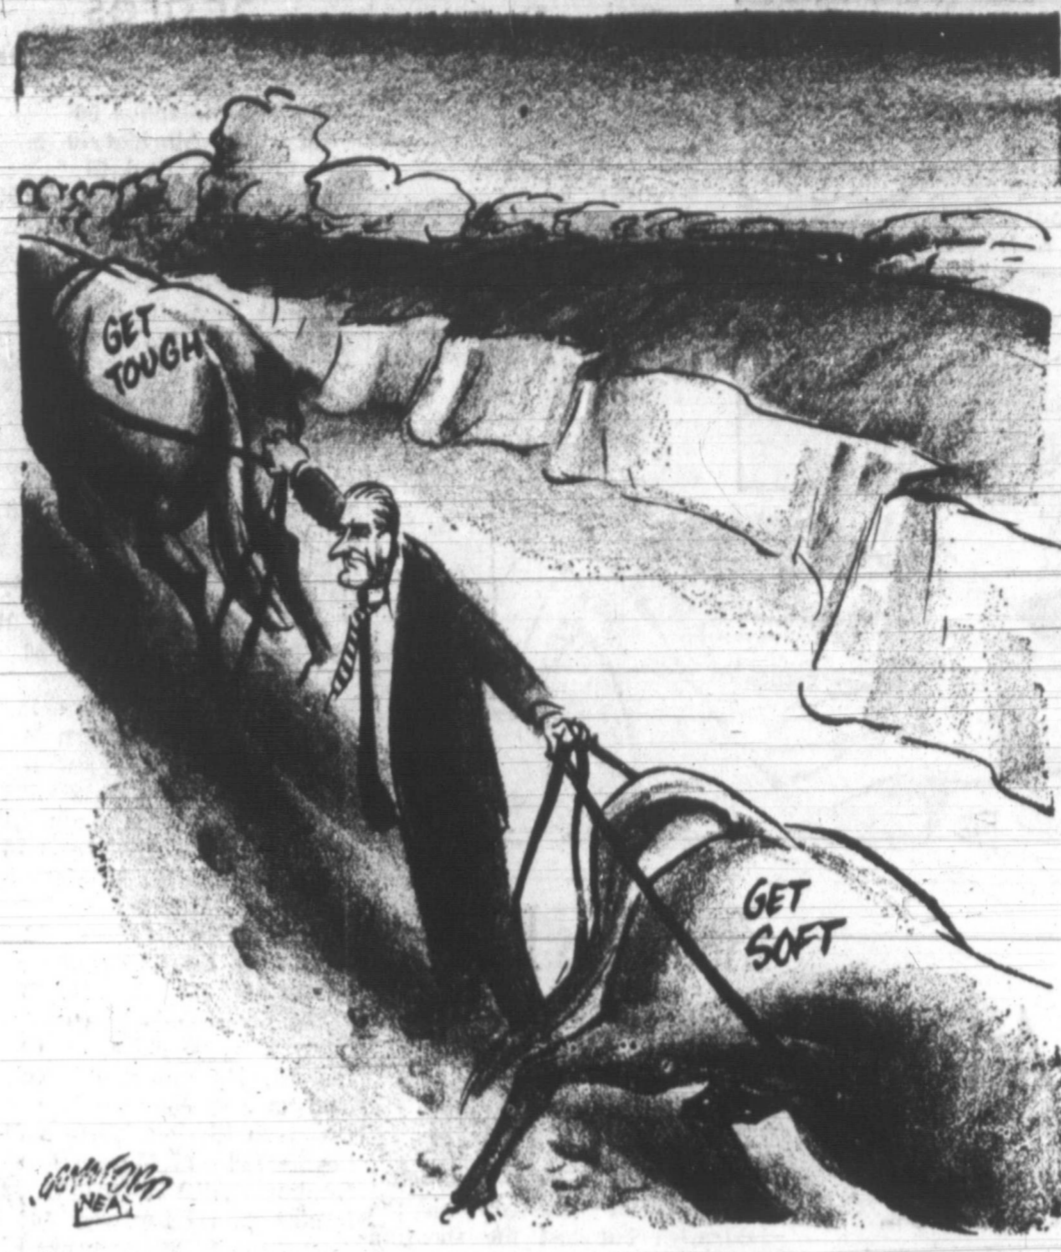

Q—My daughter, 2, has been walking almost a year. She is terribly pigeon-toed. Would it to spend, is also the nation's biggest single customer.

The federal government as customer is the primary support for many American businesses and, in turn, for whole communities in which such a business is the dominant economic factor and chief employer. When government is the customer on this scale, a new factor is added to the complex maze of government controls in which we all live. A new and worse maze engulfs those who must tailor their production to the bureaucratic whims and bewildering "channels" of procedure so characteristic of government in action.

Always multiplying, this strangling web of confusion and red tape chokes off true enterprise and initiative in the private companies which find the federal government to be their chief customer. Thus the cost is paid not only by the taxpayer, but by the entrepreneur who seems most favored by federal spending.

Question Box

QUESTION: "Who's religious freedom has been violated? I read where a young girl claims hers was violated by the school singing the wonderful song 'America.' If her objection to singing the song causes the school to discontinue, then whose religious freedom has been violated?" W. C. G.

ANSWER: The religious freedoms of every individual who wanted to sing the last stanza were violated by a school official saying it would not be permitted.

However, it should be pointed out the removal of any reference to God in tax-supported government schools is only to be expected. When the movement toward development of state schools was beginning to displace formerly voluntary and church-financed schools, there were important warnings.

One of the strongest came from Dr. A. A. Hodge, a Princeton theologian, just after the Civil War. He said:

"I am as sure as I am of the fact of Christ's reign that a comprehensive and centralized system of national education, separated from religion, as is now commonly proposed, will prove the most appalling engine for the propagation of anti-Christian and atheistic unbelief, and of anti-social, nihilistic ethics, individual social, and political, which this sin-rit world has ever seen."

"It is capable of exact demonstration that if every party in the State has the right of excluding from the public schools whatever he does not believe to be true, then he that believes most must give way to him that believes least, and then he that believes least must give way to him that believes absolutely nothing, no matter in how small a minority the atheists or the agnostics may be. It is self-evident that on this scheme, if it is consistently and persistently carried out in all parts of the country, the United States' system of national popular education will be the most efficient and wide instrument for the propagation of atheism which the world has ever seen."

help if she wore her shoes on the opposite feet?

A—Pigeon-toe is usually associated with a high-arched foot. Although a mild degree of pigeon-toe may be advantageous, a severe degree is a handicap and should be treated. Don't reverse her shoes. Instead have a leather wedge inserted in the outer (lateral) aspect of her shoes. This should be at least 1/4-inch thick at the outer edge. When this treatment is started early the results are usually good.

Q—Would giving a 1-year-old baby small amounts of wine or beer cause brain damage?

A—Although giving small amounts of alcohol to toddlers is a common practice in some European countries, it is discouraged by American doctors. Alcohol is an acquired taste and is no hurry about establishing a liking for it. If a child is thirsty he should drink milk, orange juice or water. Anything that replaces the first two of these robes the child of much needed nourishment.

Whatever the disadvantages, however, brain damage would not be one of them unless large amounts were given daily over a long time.

Q—My daughter, 6, has mononucleosis. Could this lead to leukemia? Is there a cure for mononucleosis?

A—Infectious mononucleosis is not related to leukemia. Your doctor may help clear it up without treatment after two or three months. Cortisone or a related-drug may shorten this period.

Castro Hits Migrants Low Blow

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA)—A contact in Cuba writes "those who are leaving...not only are their bank accounts frozen (if they have one), but they must refund any amounts withdrawn during the last six months. If you cannot return the money, you cannot leave!"

"The Cubans who are leaving are leaving behind all their earthly possessions... The Communists confiscate everything they... have..."

This man is speaking of the unhappy people Castro promised publicly he would permit to leave Cuba if the United States would take them in. The United States said "yes."

Government workers are being required to sign documents promising they'll stay in Cuba five years. If they don't sign, they're fired, with no assurance they'll be allowed to leave anyway.

Men who apply to leave are being publicly denounced as traitors. Some have lost their houses. If their applications do not go through they may end up broke, out of work and blacklisted. (If Castro's government needs their services they'll end up working for it but still be listed prominently in the militia's black books.)

Castro has now barred doctors, technicians, young people from 15 to 26 from leaving. Most others also are finding it difficult to get their applications O.K.'d.

What's the reason for these hefty roadblocks?

Contacts in Cuba report that Castro's men have been startled by the numbers of Cubans they had thought "reliable" who want to leave Fidel and emigrate to the United States.

When Castro made his flamboyant public offer to let those Cubans who wanted to emigrate to the United States, he and his aides expected to get rid of a lot of the old, permanently ailing, the pensioners, the openly dissatisfied ones.

But contacts write that what has happened is that applications to leave are now being made by large numbers from those groups Castro counts on as his political base—government workers, laborers, peasants, Negroes.

A man writes from Havana: "Another thing that is curious, is the reaction of the Cuban colored people. You see them everywhere, in the queues waiting to obtain birth certificates or any of the other necessary documents to leave the island. The Negroes don't hide any more to talk about the horrors of this regime. Several days ago, a Negro woman sitting on the curb, accompanied by three small children and another 'on the way' was yelling at the top of her voice, 'Yeah, I'm taking them to the United States! I prefer to see the KI-KI-KI I got them than to have them starved to death!'"

The political problem is not Castro's only worry.

Even though he refuses to let technicians leave, his economy could be hurt by a heavy exodus of minor skilled employees.

So Castro's men are now re-listing a good many ordinary skilled workers as "technicians" and barring their exit.

What then will all this mean to Castro's regime? It's too early to tell, of course, but an unhappy man who thinks he has been offered freedom becomes twice as bitter if he finds that door to freedom then slammed in his face.

But Johnson evidently is not

CAPITOL EYE

LBJ Clips Tail of Dem Group

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA)—The Democratic National Committee has fallen to its lowest estate in many years.

The human traffic in and around the committee's offices has declined so sharply in recent months that, if carpets could grow like grass, the worn spots would now be thick enough for moving.

Morale at the committee had plummeted long before the recently publicized economy drive indicated that some 35 employees are due to be lopped off the payroll by Feb. 1.

The committee staff has lost its patronage function, its important registration function, much of its basic organizing function.

Just about its only useful work today is its preparation and distribution of recorded and taped materials for the use of Democratic candidates for Congress, particularly the 71 freshmen President Johnson would like to have hang onto their seats next November.

The President has dealt with the committee largely by ignoring it, by treating it as kind of a harmless political service station.

It is axiomatic that when a party has its man in the White House, major political decisions emanate from there. But some interested Democrats are wondering whether Johnson is perhaps allowing the national committee to deteriorate too seriously.

In the view of some, it could become a positive handicap if this happens. Man in the White House or not, the major U. S. parties need the organizational focus they get from a strong central staff. As the Democratic body stands today, it is perhaps more of a drag than a help to state organizations across the country.

The President's massive victory in 1964, backed up by similar large triumphs in the congressional races, tended to cloak growing organizational weakness among Democrats in many places. Troubles are now chronic in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, California, to name only a few states.

It is common these days to belittle the value of the organizer in today's election process. But many politicians still insist organization is the crucial difference in close races. There could be many such races in 1966 if the Viet Nam war becomes a campaign factor.

The Democratic committee just is not geared for organizing effort. The sharp curtailment in personnel, reportedly ordered by the President to help have a $1.7 million party deficit, only deepens the problem. The expected ballooning of the committee staff in mid-year for the fall campaign will come too late.

Symptomatic of the president's evident scorn for committee operations is his putting off of the matter of Committee Chairman John M. Bailey. The chairman is under rising pressure from both private and political sources in his home state of Connecticut to get back there.

Friends say he looks and acts despondent. They indicate he would probably try to resign if the President would so much as see him.

But Johnson evidently is not eager to undertake the ticklish problem of finding a suitable successor. He works through his personal agent at the committee, Clifton Carter, now acting treasurer, and lets it go at that.

The President's real political advisers, of course, are Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien and White House appointments secretary Marvin Watson. O'Brien is top strategist, and his contacts with the White House are probably more numerous than those of any administration officers except Secretaries Rusk and McNamara of State and Defense.

Reliable as are O'Brien and Watson, the feeling nevertheless exists among some Democrats that national party effort may yet suffer if the national committee slides much farther downhill.

A thought for the day: American poet Carl Sandburg said: "Time is a sandpile we run our fingers in."

The Nation's Press

VINDICTIVE VANCE

(Goshen, Ind., News)

U.S. Sen. Vance Hartke, long known as a yes man in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, has kicked up a fuss over the goings on in the job corps operation at Camp Atterbury, being particularly dismayed at the personnel turnover at the camp.

He has even gone so far as to make public a letter to E. Sargent Shriver, director of the office of economic opportunity, asking for a complete administrative review of the Camp Atterbury situation.

The situation has caused him great concern, his letter said. "It has, as you know, reflected upon the entire program of the office of economic opportunity," the senator wrote.

Hoosiers can rest assured there's plenty wrong at Atterbury if Mr. Hartke sees fit to find fault with what's going on. Heretofore the senior senator from Indiana has never found fault with anything any Democratic administration ever did. It apparently had never occurred to him, until now, that his party's leaders could possibly do anything wrong.

Mr. Hartke not only asks Mr. Shriver to give him a report on Atterbury but he has told the job corps director that any report coming to him (the senator) would be made public.

This doesn't sound at all like our Sen. Hartke. All at once he sounds like a senator instead of a politician.

However, there is a chance that Mr. Hartke is playing in the party politics. There is the possibility that he is being used as a tool by the Johnson administration which may be getting ready to dump Mr. Shriver, an appointee of his brother-in-law, the late President John F. Kennedy. It's possible, too, that Mr. Shriver smells a rat. He was in Indianapolis as early as yesterday, presumably to take a look at Atterbury. Hartke is reported to have said he doesn't want a Shriver whitewash of Camp Atterbury.

The job center at Camp Atterbury has been in a state of turmoil since its inception. Corpsmen have been charged with homosexual attacks, public drinking and drunkenness, fighting and wholesale absenteeism. And to add to the confusion, a total of nine supervisors were asked to resign or be fired.

All's not well at Atterbury and we're glad Mr. Hartke is finally aware of it, whatever his reason.

Weary Californians Brace for More

EUREKA, Calif. (UPI) —Desney said weary residents of north California and southern Oregon braced for further heavy rain today as flood-swollen rivers and streams carried an angry torrent of storm water seaward. Some 180 persons, evacuated from Starvation Flat, Calif., and 65 families from the Fernbridge area and others successfully helped 1,000 persons from Orick and Hydesville were escape the path of the floodwaters, were handed a Humboldt County fairgrounds brief respite as skies temporarily cleared and rivers crested. The heaviest hit section of Oregon was the Roseburg and Myrtle Creek area where an estimated 200 families were expected to dump heavy rain water and high water from the section, could bring disaster of major proportions. The bagpipe is a very ancient instrument, being mentioned in the Old Testament.

Foreign Commentary

Foreign News Commentary By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

As economic realities have forced the East European communist nations into reforms with more than a tinge of capitalism, the most far reaching have been undertaken by Yugoslavia, traditional maverick of communism.

The many-pronged objectives of the Yugoslav program are to make Yugoslav products competitive on a free world market, to establish the dinar on an equal footing with western currencies, including the dollar, to reduce subsidies to state enterprises at home and to place the economy on the basis of supply and demand.

In the western world, these are recognized procedures and the steps being undertaken by Yugoslavia parallel almost exactly those followed by France when President Charles de Gaulle overhauled its economy in December, 1958. But in communist lands it is rank revisionism.

Devalued Franc. In France, De Gaulle first devalued the Franc, reduced subsidies to state-owned industries, including the railroads, and then reduced the astronomical figures appearing on French paper currency by moving the decimal over a couple of points. Thus, a 1,000-franc note became a 10 franc note with the same value as its predecessor.

The same has happened to the dinar in Yugoslavia. Giving strong support to Yugoslavia's attempt to liberalize its economy has been the United States.

In December it was disclosed the United States had granted the country credits and debt postponements amounting to $57 million.

In November the United States had granted a long-term $46 million credit for Yugoslav wheat purchases.

Results of the reforms, which began last July, already have been impressive.

Prices of many products have been allowed to find their own level on the free market. Despite early confusion, some factories are increasing their output.

The trade deficit of about $200 million has been cut in half. Exports are showing a healthy gain and imports have

Bridge, Poker Most Popular Card Games

The average American played cards 6½ hours a week under 1965, according to a Chicago-based card manufacturer.

College students topped the list in time spent at the card table, the Arco Playing Card Co. survey revealed devoting an average of 12 hours a week to the favorite campus game — bridge.

The average bridge player played twice a week in 1965, for a total of six hours, and women were behind men in the time spent at the game — 6.7 to 5 hours.

The average women's poker game in 1965 was once a week, and lasted for approximately four hours. Men played poker a bit more than the women — once a week for 4½ hours a sitting.

The most popular game in 1965 continued to be bridge with poker running a close second, followed by gin rummy and pinocle.
