NO APPARENT REASON

New Jersey Police Search For Slayer of Small Child

ELIZABETH, N.J. (UPI) — For no apparent reason, a 7-year-old girl was stabbed to death Tuesday afternoon on a street one block from her home. Shortly before, two other young girls were attacked.

Police today called in off-duty detectives in the hunt for the killer of Wendy Wolin. He was described as white, between 40 and 50 years old, 6-foot-2, and more than 200 pounds.

The round-the-clock search by police sent investigators into almost every eating place, motel, hotel, truck stop and

The 1 p.m. Hereford Breeders Sale placed 45 bulls a 6 heifers at auction.

Coronado Inn paid a dollar per pound for the Grand Champion pig, entered by Randy McCracken of Alameda. The Reserve Grand Champion pig, offered for sale by Parker Stewart of Pampa, brought a 70-cent per pound sale price. Canadian Valley Production Association bought the runner-up pig.

The Junior Livestock Sale began this morning at 9:30 a.m. at the Show Barn in Recreation Park. Calves drew first attention from Auctioneer Col. Walter Britten and about two hundred bidders and spectators.

This afternoon's Stock Show activities include the Hereford Breeders Sale at 1 p.m. concluding the four-day show.

Los Angeles Mayor To Run For Governor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Samuel W. Yorty was expected to announce today that he will oppose Gov. Edmund G. Brown's third bid for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by seeking the governorship himself.

Elected last year to his second four-year term, Yorty has been increasingly critical of Brown and what he calls the "Brown machine" in Democratic party politics.

FCC Takes Formal Control of All Cable TV Systems

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission Tuesday issued formal regulations governing the nation's 1,600 community antenna television (CATV) systems.

The new rules, most of them effective April 18, back up the FCC's controversial order of Feb. 15 placing virtually all of the booming CATV industry under federal regulation.

The House Commerce Committee plans full hearings into the entire issue and what role the FCC should play.

Commenting today on the FCC regulations, Dale Greenhouse, co-partner with Calvin Fraser in a proposed cable TV system in Pampa, said:

"We are trying to fit the pieces together to see what is left. Our main concern right now is whether we can bring in distant stations for Pampa viewing and whether we can set up local channels for weather and news."

Greenhouse said plans on the Pampa $500,000 system have progressed through the engineering stage.

"We have gone as far as we can go on paper," he stated, "and we hope to have everything firmed up within 30 days."

Greenhouse said that within 60 days it is possible hanging of cable can be started and from that point most areas of the city can be covered within another 120 days.

"If there are no further obstacles," Greenhouse said, "it is possible we can be serving Pampa homes with cable TV by the end of summer."

CATV picks up television signals from the air and relays them by cable into homes, where viewers pay an average $5 a month for the privilege of getting a generally clearer signal and greater variety of programs.

One FCC regulation issued Tuesday would affect burgeoning CATV operations in big population areas already served by one or more network stations.

It imposed a temporary freeze on CATV expansion into the 100 biggest television markets in the country, where the industry believes 90 percent of its potential revenues is

INTENSE FIGHTING REPORTED

Reds Attack US Special Forces Unit Near Laos

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops swarmed out of heavily jungled mountains today and attacked a U.S. Special Forces outpost near the Laotian border. Intense fighting was under way, an American military spokesman said.

The fighting broke out at the A Shau special forces camp. It is situated in the Rao Lao Rivery Valley three miles east of the Laotian border and 375 miles northeast of Saigon. The area is about 11 miles due west of the Da Nang airbase.

Radio contact with the camp was lost but a U.S. spokesman said this did not necessarily indicate it had been overrun.

News of the Communist attack came after it was disclosed that American planes using super-sensitive radar to pick out targets through thick clouds dropped hundreds of bombs and high explosive rockets on North Viet Nam.

Six of the targets were close to Hanoi. Others included the Son La petroleum storage dump 125 miles west of the Communist capital. Son La was bombed for the first time Monday.

In air action in South Viet Nam, U.S. B52 bombers from Guam chewed up acres of dense jungle 35 miles north-northwest of Saigon, dropping 710 and 1,000-pound bombs on suspected Viet Cong concentrations.

At least three Communist regiments have been spotted in the region since Jan. 1.

In the A Shau fighting, the Viet Cong shot down one of the U.S. Force's C47 "Puff the Magic Dragon" planes. The aircraft gets its name from its armament—30 caliber machine guns which spit out rounds at the rate of 6,000 per minute.

Four crewmen aboard the plane were killed but three others were rescued by U.S. helicopters.

It was believed that one "A" team of the Special Forces—13 men—was in the camp along with 300 to 300 Vietnamese militiamen. The latter was called "strikers" and are employed and trained by the elite Green Beret troops to fight the Communists.

Spring-Like Weather To Continue

By United Press International
Light showers fell across South Texas today with prospects for a gradual warm-up throughout the state.

The rain and drizzle was expected to spread to most sections of the southern half of the state by Thursday morning.

Spring began to gather its forces with a continued warming trend for the Pampa area. Temperatures were due to hit the low 70's today. Forecasters predict the warming trend to continue through Friday with temperatures in the middle 70-degree range Thursday. Tonight's low will drop only to the middle 40's. Winds are southerly at 15 to 25 m.p.h.

Judge Gets Private 'Style' Show From Accused Waitress

DENVER (UPI) — Denver County Judge George Manerbin got soft lights and a style show in his court chambers Tuesday from a sleek cocktail waitress dressed in a pink "baby doll" nightie.

The request for the special showing came from the attorney for Elizabeth Madrid, 23, a waitress from Albuquerque, N.M., charged with being indecently clad while working in a Denver lounge.

Miss Madrid modeled for the judge the transparent "baby doll" pj's. She usually wears during the lunch hour.

Judge Manerbin reserved ruling on the case after heated arguments from both attorneys. He said he would rule within a week.

Nuclear Secret Betrayer Freed From Prison

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (UPI) — George John Gessner, imprisoned five years on charges of passing nuclear secrets to Soviet agents, was a free man today in the eyes of the U.S. government.

But Gessner himself is not so sure justice has been served by the dismissal of charges.

The 29-year-old former U.S. Army nuclear weapons specialist, though denying he is bitter, spoke bitterly of the system by which he was jailed for one-sixth of his life. He had been sentenced to life imprisonment.

A U.S. attorney announced on Tuesday that the government had dropped its case against Gessner, the first American convicted under the Atomic Energy Act of passing military secrets to the Russians.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last fall that the confession on which Gessner was convicted was obtained illegally.

Accompanied by U.S. marshals, Gessner spoke to newsmen as he was leaving the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

"What am I going to do? I don't know yet," he said. "How can a man have plans after having been locked up five years?"

$2,900,000 Election Okayed for General City Improvements

By TEX DEWEESSE
All five propositions were approved by city voters Tuesday in Pampa's $2,900,000 bond election.

The total vote was 2,758 with 2,198 ballots out of that total cast in Wards 1 and 2 in the north part of the city. The two south Wards, 3 and 4, polled 660 votes.

Although all five propositions carried in the city-wide totals, three of them were rejected in Ward 3 and one of them in Ward 4.

Ward 3 voted against Propositions 3, 4 and 5 which included the improvement of S. Cuyler and S. Barnes Sts., the city-wide street and thoroughfare plan and the water filtration plant.

Ward 4 turned down only Proposition 5 on the filtration plant.

Wards 1 and 2 gave all five propositions a comfortable margin, although the closest vote in these two wards was on the city streets and thoroughfares plan and filtration plant propositions, rejected by Wards 3 and 4 voters.

Ward 1 okayed the S. Cuyler and S. Barnes improvement 602 to 502 and the filtration plant, 641 to 410.

Ward 2 approved them 578 to 480 and 657 to 401, respectively.

The total city-wide vote on the five propositions:

No. 1—Improvements ($236,000) to Aleock Street: For 1,752, Against 965.

No. 2—Improvements ($595,000) to Wilks, Brown and Frederic Streets: For 1,695, Against 990.

No. 3—Improvements ($369,000) to S. Cuyler and S. Barnes Streets: For 1,445, Against 1,237.

No. 4—Improving ($950,000) city streets and thoroughfares: For 1,604, Against 1,071.

No. 5—Construction of a $750,000 water filtration plant: For 1,496, Against 1,089.

Election officials said yesterday's vote was heavier than in previous bond elections.

Because of confusion over status of the poll tax in Texas, judges in the local election decided to accept any ballots cast by persons without a poll tax receipt.

A separate box was placed in each voting place for non-poll tax votes to avoid confusion in the balloting.

But, only five persons voted without a poll tax receipt. Three of the votes were tallied in Ward 1 and two in Ward 2. All voters in Wards 3 and 4 had poll tax receipts.

Proponents of the five propositions were busy for several weeks pushing their campaign for approval of the bond issues and had a speakers bureau in action before city civic clubs and women's organizations.

The entire package had the endorsement of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the City Commission plus the recommendations of citizens' advisory committees which first came up with the proposals.

There was little doubt all along about voter approval.

There was no organized opposition against any of the five propositions. Only opposition expressed at all came from ex-city commissioner L. P. Fort who waged an almost single-handed battle against Proposition No. 5, the $750,000 filtration plant for water to be piped in from the Canadian River Dam.

Fort had opposed the water plant proposal from the start on the grounds it was a much more expensive plan than Pampa's underground water well system which he claimed could

Johnson Proposes All-Out War On Nation's Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson today asked Congress to support an all-out national war on crime through steps ranging from control of gun sales to comprehensive attacks on conditions that breed lawlessness.

In a special message to the House and Senate, Johnson set forth a "three-stage national strategy against crime." It would include immediate efforts to improve crime prevention, detection, and prosecution; a comprehensive long-range follow-through program, and an attack on "crime at the roots."

Most of Johnson's proposals called for action on already-pending legislation, such as a measure for federal regulation and control of mail order sales of guns.

The President also renewed urgings for action to speed administration of justice in the courts, reform the bail system so that it will not be unfair to the poor, and treat drug addicts as sick people rather than criminals while throwing the book at narcotics peddlers.

Asserting that the fact and fear of crime "marks the life of every American," Johnson said, "its unrelenting pace" includes: "A forceable rape every 26 minutes, a robbery every 25 minutes, an aggravated assault every three minutes, a car theft every minute, a burglary every 28 seconds, causing injury, suffering and anguish" for thousands of Americans.

Behind a machinegun and sandbag barricade, former Dominican President Juan Bosch lives in fear he will be assassinated before the June 1 elections by which he hopes to return to power.

Giving some point to these fears, in Santo Domingo last weekend a Bosch bodyguard died from a bullet fired into the back of his head from a passing automobile only 50 yards from Bosch's home.

The fact that eyewitnesses identified his assailant as a man wearing a police major's uniform further intensified the atmosphere of fear and hate which is the story of the Dominican Republic.

Officially, the campaign for the June elections opened on March 1. And it was coincidental that at the moment the Bosch bodyguard died, supporters of another former president, Joaquin Balaguer, were holding a rally in his behalf nearby.

Paratroops Stop Battle
As the outraged fellows of the slain bodyguard fanned out to seek his slayer, they clashed with police assigned to the Balaguer rally.

U.S. paratroops ended the fighting by pulling their vehicles between the warring factions.

Bosch, 56, and Balaguer, 58, are regarded as the two principal candidates for the June elections. Bosch has made no secret of his resentment against U.S. intervention. Balaguer says he will seek U.S. cooperation and aid.

FORTY WINKS: And well-earned. These two soldiers, on patrol in Binh Dinh Province in South Viet Nam, are relieved long enough to get some sleep in the early evening. It is a time when, if not so weary he falls right to sleep, a GI has time to think.

It's Propaganda, Kid'

By TOM TIEDE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CENTRAL HIGHLANDS, Viet Nam (NEA) — It was shortly before dark in the jungle. Sweating GIs grunted over shovels which cut shallow foxholes in the dirt. Others strung shelter halves from the twisted branches of rainforest trees.

"Hey, Sarge!" a young soldier called out.

"Yeah, what?"
"Looka this thing, will ya?"
The kid had scooped up a piece of blue paper, printed on one side with a drawing of a house and hearth and on the other with bold English typeface.

"What's it say, Sarge, huh?"
"Says you ought to give up the war, kid."
"You kidding?"
"No. Says you should go home today."

LBJ Urges Eligible Residents to Sign Up for Medicare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson has urged every eligible senior citizen in the United States to sign up for the medicare program's voluntary coverage for doctor bills.

Before flying back to Washington from his Texas ranch Sunday night, the President issued a proclamation naming March national medicare enrollment month and calling for a speedup in registrations.

Johnson was described as concerned about a lag in the number of signups for the voluntary program as the March 31 deadline drew closer.

Acting Press Secretary Robert H. Fleming said the registration rate "has been somewhat slower than hoped."

Persons who are 65 must register by March 31 to be eligible for the voluntary section of the medicare program. The basic medicare benefits for hospital care require no registration.

Fleming said that as of March 1, 76 per cent of the 19.1 million persons eligible for the voluntary coverage had signed up.

The President spent the weekend at his ranch. He arrived back in the capital early today.

"Aw. What the hell is it, anyway?"
"Propaganda, kid. A propaganda leaflet."
The men flocked around to look. They had heard of such in other wars — the hostilities of their fathers and older brothers. But here, in this one, leaflets were as rare as comfortable combat boots.

"Read it, Sarge," a guy hollered.
"Loud, read it loud, so we can all hear."
"Well," the noncom began, "it's titled 'Death and Hope.'"

"Gawd almighty," someone whistled.
"Can it, will ya!"
"Yeah, shut up."
"Go ahead, Sarge."
"Death and Hope. . . . Dear Soldier: You are killing many people in Viet Nam and surely a number of you are being killed also. . . ."

"That's for damned sure."
"Will you shut up?"
"Many of you have experienced troubles here," the sergeant continued. "You are leading a life of privation. . . ."

"What's privation?"
"Privation means going without. Now, shut the hell up."
". . . You are also sleeping on the ground and you are exposed to constant dangers in the jungle, in mud and the swamps. Many of you have been painfully wounded and all of you have death as a constant companion. Why? . . ."

"Yeah, hey, that's what I want to know."
"For Pete's sake, let him finish."
". . . Why? There is but one answer why — you are being forced into this dirty war by those warmongers, Johnson & McNamara. . . ."

"Who are they?"
"I've heard of Johnson & Johnson, but . . . QUIET!"
". . . Hundreds of your fellow Americans are for you," the sergeant read on. "People in every state are meeting at rallies and demonstrations for an end to this war. Others have burned themselves to death to protest American aggression. . . ."

". . . Would you like to live in peace? Would you like to go home to your families alive and well? There is a simple way. Join the American youth who protest. Demand withdrawal of American troops. And refuse to obey all orders from your Wall Street superiors. . . ."

The gathering broke up as darkness fell. The shoveling had stopped. Grimy men stretched out on the earth and watched the stars between the tree-tops. Breathing stilled. Eyes began to close.

"Hey, Sarge," the kid whispered.
"Muff ff, wset?"
"What'll I do with this leaflet?"
"Chew it and swallow hard."

AFTER SET
MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Those people who see flying saucers are now seeing flying cups and flying saucers.

Several housewives reported spotting the unidentified flying objects Monday. "It looked sort of like a starfish and at other times it looked like a saucer with a cup sitting on it," said one of them.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON

United Press International

Suspicion is warranted at this time that the American people are being conditioned for a long war in Southeast Asia with tens of thousands of casualties.

Careful reading of war news reveals repeated references to administration plans for a war of three to seven years duration. These references sometimes are accompanied by estimates of likely casualties.

These are unofficial estimates, of course. These faces, perhaps irresponsible sources of vital news have suggested that losses would be in the area of 400-500 killed each month and 15,000 wounded. Projected over three years — 36 months — this would add up to more than 14,000 killed and nearly 550,000 wounded.

A seven-year projection — 84 months — puts the totals at 33,600 killed and 1,260,000 wounded.

President Johnson and other administration spokesmen have been warning of a long war. At a Feb. 26 news conference in Washington, Johnson said:

"We will have a long hard road. It's not going to be easy and it's not going to be short and it is going to be difficult and it is going to require sacrifices. We want everyone to know that."

At about the same time, officials in Saigon were being much more specific. The New York Times' Seymour Topping reported from there under a Feb. 25 date how senior U.S. and South Vietnamese officials were viewing the war.

These officials told Topping that they had a go-ahead, presumably from Washington, for a war program. They were planning for a three to seven years war. They estimated American casualties would average 400-500 dead each month and 15,000 wounded.

Topping wrote that officials were more concerned about the American public's reaction to a bloody, costly, prolonged war than they were concerned about any of the problems confronting them in South Viet Nam.

If the American officials in Saigon had a go-ahead to plan for a three-to-seven years war with tens of thousands of American casualties, it must be assumed the President had approved of these plans before his Feb. 26 news conference. LBJ's choice evidently is to shock the nation with a bold statement of what must be expected. White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers is an advocate and skilled practitioner of the news leak technique. It is reasonable to suspect the officials in Saigon were ordered to leak the long war news. They would not have dared to blab the truth without some encouragement from Washington.

Since the Feb. 25 Times dispatch from Saigon, the three-to-seven years war plan has floated in and out of the news, unchallenged as to source and accuracy. A dispatch of last weekend to the Miami (Fla.) Herald attributed the plan and casualty estimates to the Pentagon. That isn't good enough, either.

The unfinished business on this subject at this moment is to question some responsible person in the administration on the cost in terms of time and blood of the Southeast Asia war as it now is being planned.

President Johnson should have the answer to that. So should Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

How long, Mr. President and how many? 33,600 dead? 1,260,000 wounded?

Walter Rogers Reports: Flint Quarries Stand As Enterprise Symbol

Texas' first National Monument — the Alibates Flint Quarries and Texas Panhandle Pueblo Culture National Monument near the south rim of Lake Meredith — could be called as much a monument to the free enterprise system as to Panhandle prehistory. For 12,000 years, Indians quarried flint at Alibates and traded it far and wide for goods they needed.

This year's budget contains a requested appropriation of funds to begin development of the Alibates National Monument. The bill I had introduced to establish the monument — the first ever approved by Congress for the State of Texas — was signed into law several months ago, and the National Park Service is working on final development plans. These include a small visitors' center, roads, parking areas, pathways, sanitary facilities, water supply, and facilities to interpret to visitors the meaning of the flint quarries and pueblo ruins.

The Alibates National Monument will be a big part of the Lake Meredith attraction. Visitors inspecting the quarries and pueblo ruins will become familiar with a very interesting chapter in America's story. Quarrying flint and shaping it into weapons and tools was the first industry on our continent. Flints from Alibates have been found as far north as Minnesota and Wisconsin, as far west as the Pacific Coast and as far south as the Gulf of Mexico. Archeologists regard the quarries as one of the outstanding sites showing the prehistoric cultures of North America. Toward the end of the period during which the quarries were worked the Canadian River valley became the home of sedentary Indian tribes which built large pueblo structures for their homes. Constructed of limestone slabs and adobe, the structures housed as many as 60 to 100 families. Archeologists say the pueblos are a blend of the types of structures used by the Indians of the Great Plains and those of the arid Southwest. It is believed that about 1400 A.D., possibly because of a change in the climate, the pueblos were abandoned. But nomadic Indians continued to use the flint quarries until approximately 100 years ago when they began to acquire manufactured tools and weapons.

Meanwhile, the National Park Service is reviewing bids submitted by private investors interested in obtaining the concession to develop hotel, restaurant, marina, golf course and other facilities at the Frith Fortress recreation site on the south side of the lake. It is hoped that the facilities to be provided under this contract can be completed within three years, with the work beginning this summer. Construction of a marina by the concessioner will permit Panhandle boating enthusiasts to leave their boats in the lake, at moorings, through the season. The boat ramps already built and being built will continue to serve boaters who bring their craft to the lake by trailer.

Development of recreation facilities at the lake will be advanced but not completed by the expenditure proposed in this year's National Park Service budget requests to Congress. I am convinced that the heavy volume of visitors which may be expected at the lake will require a continuing, long-term program of facilities development in order that the public may be properly served.

Now that spring is coming and many roads, boat ramps, picnic areas and other facilities are completed at Lake Meredith, the number of visitors, especially on weekends, will increase. People visiting the lake these days are seeing the beginnings of what is surely destined to become one of the most important and heavily patronized recreation areas in the West.

The National Park Service is enthusiastic about the possibilities of making a very enjoyable National Monument at the Alibates site. And the Park Service is similarly enthusiastic about the great potential of Lake Meredith as a water recreation area, as are all of us in the Texas Panhandle.

Recent visitors included Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Edwards of Panhandle.

FDA Bans Most Non-Prescription Throat Lozenges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Food & Drug Administration today banned scores of widely-sold antibiotic lozenges from the market on grounds they're no good for sore throats.

Affected by the sweeping order are all antibiotic lozenges which are sold "over the counter"—that is, without a physician's prescription — for treatment of sore throats and other pains associated with colds.

The FDA said that although the preparations have been widely used for the past 15 years, "there is no medical evidence of their effectiveness."

Dr. James L. Goddard, new FDA commissioner, said the agency also is conducting a large-scale review of antibiotic ointments, sprays, deodorants and other preparations to determine if they really do what the manufacturers claim.

"Unless substantial evidence of efficacy is found," he said, "these products also will have to be withdrawn from the market."

The FDA acted under the powers granted it by the so-called "Kefauver amendments" to the pure food and drug laws, pushed through Congress in 1962 by the late Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn.

FDA officials said today's order will affect 70 drug manufacturers. Some have only one antibiotic lozenge on the market, while others have as many as 10 different brands on sale.

The order is effective immediately except for one special class of lozenges—10 products sold over the counter containing the antibiotic bacitracin.

Manufacturers of these products have 30 days in which to file objections and ask for a hearing.

THIEF CLOUDS PLAY
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Broadway drama, "The Royal Hunt of the Sun," must do without its sun. Paul Libin, general manager, said someone broke into the theater and stole a 150-pound wooden disk covered with gold and silver metal that symbolizes the sun.

Libin said the disk isn't vital to the play. He suggested that the thief might have "needed it for a coffee table."

Crawford Martin To Run for State Attorney General

AUSTIN (UPI)—Secretary of State Crawford Martin resigned Tuesday to run for attorney general.

Martin notified Gov. John Connally that his resignation would be effective midnight March 11.

Connally said he accepted the resignation "with deep regret." "In the three years you have served as secretary of state in my administration, I deeply value the contributions you have made to that administration and to the state," the governor said.

"I know of no one in whom I have more confidence and whose judgment I trust more. I can only express the hope that your service to the state will not be terminated for long," Connally said.

Martin, of Hillsboro, was a state senator for 14 years before becoming secretary of state.

Connally was expected to name a new secretary of state before the end of the week. Most observers predict he will appoint Houston attorney John Hill to the post.

Hill was Connally's campaign manager in the 1964 elections.

Hospital authorities said she died of shock and hemorrhage. Shortly before Wendy was attacked, police reported 10-year-old Patricia Lovelace was wounded in the buttocks by a man wielding a stick. Elizabeth General Hospital authorities said she had been stabbed by a sharp instrument.

Forty-five minutes before this attack, police said Diana De Nicola, 12, was punched in the face by a man while standing in front of a department store on a busy thoroughfare.

She was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of a bruised right cheek and eyelid.

"There is no definite tie in the attacks," police said later, but they did not rule out the possibility that one man was responsible.

Electoral College Draws Senators' Ire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., charged recently that the nation's metropolitan areas have virtual control over presidential elections under the present electoral college system.

Mundt spoke in a radio and television broadcast against the "winner take all" formula which gives the winning candidate in a state all of its electoral votes. This can make it possible for a president to be elected even if he does not get a majority of the popular vote across the country.

The senator said a constitutional amendment proposed by President Johnson to reform presidential elections does not come to grips with this fault.

He is backing one of his own which would call for each voter to vote for two electors from the state at large and one from his own local district. Mundt said a truly "popular" decision would come from this.

Other congressional news: Loans: Chairman Wright Patman of the House Banking and Currency Committee praised the Defense Department for action "to help protect American servicemen from loan-sharks and sharp-practice finance companies." ### Crime Increases In State in 1965

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Crime in all classifications was up in Texas in 1965, preliminary figures showed Monday.

Major crime was down in some Texas cities in certain classifications. Amarillo, for example, had 11 less rapes — 5 less for the year than in 1964.

Other cities showing a decrease in rapes were Houston, down to 121 from 226; Beaumont down to 8 from 15; and Wichita Falls from 3 to 2; and Austin from 38 to 27. Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Lubbock, San Antonio and Waco showed increases.

Murders increased at Austin, Beaumont, El Paso and Houston, which led the state with 139. They decreased at Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Dallas, Lubbock and San Antonio. They remained the same at Waco and Wichita Falls.

Robberies were down in Amarillo, Beaumont, Dallas, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio and Wichita Falls.

AIME Hear Talk On Salt Pollution

James Smith, Abilene, 7-B district director of the Texas Railroad Commission, addressed the Pampa-Borger Section of AIME last night in Coronado Inn.

Smith's subject was "Application of Engineering Techniques to Salt Pollution," illustrating the use of engineering principles to arrive at logical conclusions as to the source of contamination and offered recommendations toward ending the problem.

The speaker said, "progress is being made and the problem is not insurmountable in an atmosphere of reason and cooperation."

Outlook Fades For Change in Catholic Birth Control Ban

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The outlook for any major changes in the Roman Catholic Church's ban on artificial contraception faded with the appointment of Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani to head the special commission on birth control.

But feeling today on the question is so high there is little chance the controversy will die—at least unofficially. In a speech to the Ecumenical Council which concluded last December, Patriarch Maximos Cardinal Saigh of Antioch, Syria, summed up the basic problem:

"It is a question of a lack of alignment between the official doctrine of the church and the contrary practice of the immense majority of Christian couples."

Various studies have borne this out. A recent survey indicated 4 out of 10 Roman Catholic couples in Britain regularly use birth control methods outlawed by the church.

Leo Josef Cardinal Suenens, archbishop of Malines and Brussels, Belgium, warned the council to "take care to avoid a new Galileo case."

He was referring to the 16th Century scientist who was forced to recant the truth—that the earth revolves around the sun—because his teaching was contrary to church doctrine.

"One such case in the history of the church is quite enough," said Suenens, also a member of the newly announced committee appointed by Pope Paul VI.

But Ottaviani, 75-year-old head of the powerful congregation for the doctrine of the faith who was named to head the commission Monday has said in the past:

"To try to change the situation simply because the population is increasing or because there are economic problems cannot be a valid reason in front of the great doctrinal principles based in great part on natural law."

Ottaviani also has called family planning a doctrine "unheard of in the church."

Issues

(Continued From Page 1) adequately supply Pampa's water needs for many years to come and at lower cost to taxpayers.

Fort's plea received acceptance in his own home ward, No. 4 which he formerly represented on city council, and adjacent Ward 3 where voters turned down the water filtration plant proposal by a total Ward 3 and 4 vote of 301 to 203. But the favorable vote in heavily-populated Wards 1 and 2 soon overcame the negative vote in the two south wards.

In yesterday's voting the Alcock St. improvement, Proposition 1, carried by the biggest margin of any of the five proposals, 1,752 to 905. Proposition 2, the Hwy. 60 improvement across Wilks, Brown and Frederic streets, was second in popularity, winning 1,695 to 990. Third was Proposition 4 for the $950,000 street and thoroughfare program. It carried 1,604 to 1,071.

The water filtration plant came in fourth with a 1,496 to 1,089 favorable tally.

Proposition 3, calling for the improvement of S. Cuyler and S. Barnes Sts. (Hwy. 273) had a narrow squeak, carrying by only 208 votes. Even Ward 3 voted against it, 121 to 108.

School Board To Hear Report On 66-67 Textbooks

Recommendations from Pampa's 15-member Textbook Committee on books to be used in local schools for the term beginning Sept. 1 this year, will be considered at tomorrow's regular school board meeting in Pampa Junior High School.

The committee, headed by Sup. Jack Edmondson and McHenry Lane, curriculum coordinator, is comprised of principals and classroom teachers from the high school, junior high and elementary schools.

Committee recommendations go to the school board after a thorough study of a choice of textbooks on various subjects adopted by the State Board of Education last November.

The Textbook Committee, appointed here last December, has been examining books on the state board's multiple list since that time and will submit its recommendations tomorrow.

Other business on tomorrow's agenda will include discussion of summer school classes and teachers, consideration of the 1966-67 school calendar, reports from the superintendent and business manager, setting dates for personnel consideration and payment of current bills.

Following tomorrow's regular meeting, board members plan to visit Sam Houston School for a look at the operation of the Federal Aid Reading Improvement Program recently launched here under supervision of the Panhandle Educational Services Organization (PESO).

FCC

To enter such an area, or to extend its signal if already operating there, a CATV system would have to apply for an FCC hearing. Subscribers as of Feb. 15 would not be affected.

In an elaboration of its earlier decision, the FCC ruled that a local television station must give a CATV system at least eight days' notice of a program it does not want duplicated the same day by a CATV-relayed signal from a distant area.

CATV systems are forbidden to show the same program the same day as one broadcast by a local station, unless it is a color program that the hometown station chooses to broadcast in black and white.

Another rule published Tuesday requires a CATV system on request to carry all local station signals of "grade B or better" in its area or ask the FCC to waive the rule if technical limitations prevent compliance.

Other regulations cover instructions to CATV owners for filing ownership information with the FCC, including a list of subscribers, television stations carried, and "the extent of any existing or proposed program origination."

The question of CATV-originated programs is one of several that the FCC last month asked Congress to help settle. It also suggested that Congress consider whether to deem CATV a public utility and subject to the same controls as telephone companies.

The FCC formerly regulated only those CATV systems—about 450—which used microwaves at some point to relay signals to distant areas. It extended its jurisdiction last month to all 1,600 systems, including those using only cables. They serve an estimated 6,000,000 paying viewers.

Stricter Guidelines Issued For Increased Desegregation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The federal government today issued stricter guidelines in an effort to speed desegregation of public schools and stop racial discrimination in hospitals receiving U.S. financial aid.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said in a policy statement that schools, hospitals and nursing homes must adhere to the guidelines to continue receiving federal funds under the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The Office of Education called for swifter progress toward an end to dual-school systems under freedom-of-choice plans adopted by many southern communities to comply with the law.

The new guidelines, applying to the 1966-67 school year, also require "significant progress" in desegregation of the teaching faculty and school staffs. And they call for the closing of "small, inadequate schools established for negro students or other minority groups."

The new rules apparently reflected a determination by federal officials to "get tough" with communities which have dragged their feet on desegregation.

Among other things, they require the school systems to take steps necessary to protect persons exercising their rights under desegregation plans submitted under Title VI of the Civil Rights law.

Discussing freedom-of-choice plans which allow students to pick their own school, the announcement said: "The school system must ensure that this choice is free, and that student and parents can choose in safety and without fear of reprisal."

County Senior Citizens Hear Medicare Talk

Mrs. Lillian Snow, chairman of the Gray County Governor's Committee on Aging, and Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Gray County home demonstration agent, attended meetings Thursday in McLean and Alameda where senior citizens of the towns heard Medicare discussed.

Virgil Holloway of the Pampa Social Security office explained Medicare to some 60 senior citizens at McLean Thursday afternoon in the high school cafeteria. Mayor Boyd Meador of McLean arranged the meeting with the assistance of the McLean Boy Scouts, various women's organizations and the McLean News.

Some 25 senior citizens of Alameda heard Holloway discuss the subject Thursday evening in Alameda High School. The Alameda Community Improvement Association made the arrangement for this meeting.

'Jewels' of Federated Clubs Are Honored At Coffee

Eleven ladies, representing the six Federated Clubs in Pampa, were honored as 'Jewels' at the Diamond Jubilee Coffee held Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Kermit Lawson, 2223 Beech.

A large "diamond in the rough," carrying out the diamond theme for the 75th anniversary of General Federation of Women's Clubs, was nestled in the arrangement of red and white gladioli which centered the serving table.

Honorees at the coffee, selected for their outstanding contributions to Federated Clubs, were Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Mrs. W. R. Campbell and Mrs. Jack Foster, 'Jewels' of Twentieth Century Club; Mrs. George Walstad and Mrs. D. V. Burton, El Progresso Study Club; Mrs. Roy Bourland, Twentieth Century Forum; Mrs. Lee Harrah and Mrs. Sherman White, Varietas Study Club, and Mrs. Katie Vincent, Mrs. Irwin Cole and Mrs. Emmett Osborne, Civic Culture Club.

Each honored 'Jewel' was presented a rose corsage fashioned from a pastel linen handkerchief, embellished with a rhinestone dew drop, representing a diamond in keeping with the Diamond Jubilee of General Federation.

The Pampa 'Jewels' will also be honored at the Top of Texas District Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to be held March 24-25 in Hereford.

Dear Abby... The Only Path For You Is Divorce

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago I married a man who left a good wife and two children in Pittsburgh to marry me, and he's been punishing me for it ever since. I was a new widow with a little insurance money, some income property and a good job when we met. He had already separated from his wife, so I had no part in that, thank heavens. When he married me he had nothing.

I kept working while he just "looked for work" — but no job was good enough for him. I foolishly shared what I had with him. I gave him money for alimony, child support, and expensive presents for his children. His main concern was trying to buy their affection and make up to his ex-wife for the miserable husband and father he had been.

I can't have children because of an operation I had years ago. My clergyman says he sees no reason for me to stay with him. I hate the thought of divorce, but he's not happy and neither am I. I just feel sorry for him. What should I do?

DEAR UNHAPPY: Unless you derive some sort of pleasure from supporting a whining, bitter little boy who refuses to be a man and make your marriage work, I vote with your clergyman.

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion about a shower neighborhood friends gave for me when we moved into our new home. First of all, one "hostess" brought the guest list to me and asked me to address and mail them for her. I did as she asked, and also supplied the stamps.

Another "hostess" used one of her tablecloths, and when she left she told me I could launder it and drop it off at her house. They even told me to take back the empty ginger ale bottles and get the refund.

When the shower was over, they all walked out like guests, leaving the cleaning up to me. Dishes and all. I bought a gift of dusting powder and cologne for each hostess, and carried it to her personally. One lady gave hers to her 5-year-old daughter.

The child got all her dolls and used my gift generously on all of them. (The mother could have at least waited until I left if that's all she thought of my gift.) Is this the way it's done now? If so, the obligation of being a hostess isn't so bad, is it?

DEAR HONORED: Apparently, that's the way it's done in your neighborhood. But since you are understandably irked, you are free to seek other friends. You could hardly do worse.

DEAR ABBY: I learned early in my marriage that one woman was not enough for my husband, but he made up for this one weakness in many other ways, so I cried alone and kept quiet. I managed to keep it from our children who are now married and have families of their own.

They adored and respected their father, and I am sure they never suspected that he was anything but true blue. Recently our eldest daughter told me that she had caught her husband stepping out on her.

She was crushed and heartsick and all set to leave him, but I persuaded her to give him another chance. (They have three children.) In my efforts to comfort her, I came very close to telling her about her own father. Would that have been wrong?

KEPT MY SECRET

DEAR KEPT: Yes, it would have been wrong.

What's he earning?

Money, of course! Sometimes the money a boy earns as a Junior Independent Messenger makes quite a difference in the kind of clothing, toys, trips, and education he gets.

But, just as often his parents are doctors, lawyers, school administrators, and successful business executives. Money is not as important to them. And while every boy gets satisfaction from being able to buy things for himself and others without going to his parents, money is not the primary reason these parents encourage their sons to become newspaperboys.

Much More than Money! The development of poise, while many of his classmates are still "all thumbs"; the ability to get along with all kinds of people; the capacity for taking responsibility; and the knowledge that he is a salesman. These will pay far greater dividends in the years to come.

And this is why successful men, many of whom were newspaperboys a generation ago, so strongly recommend to their sons that they get the greatly improved "basic training" provided for today's newspaperboys.

If you think your son might profit by newspaperboy route experience, our Circulation Department would like to discuss the matter with you.

After Stengelese, Casey is Proud

By MILTON RICHMAN
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Casey Stengel was too proud to admit it, openly, anyway, but he also liked the idea that they didn't wait until it might have been too late.

Officially, the garrulous, comical 75-year-old man who has to use a cane now to get around, joined the 103 other immortals in baseball's Hall of Fame Tuesday.

But if you drowned out all the Stengelese and listened closely, you heard him confess that he's only a mere mortal after all and that he doesn't expect to live forever.

That particular reference came moments after they sprung the big surprise on him, or thought they did, anyway, by announcing his premature election to the Hall before an assemblage of baseball notables, the press radio and television men at Huggins-Stengel Field.

Holding a royal blue Mets baseball cap in his hand and trembling ever so slightly with emotion once or twice, Casey's first words were: "Thank you—I guess I should say a thousand thank yous."

Tip-Off

He then made what for him was a brief speech, immediately after which came the tip-off on how he knew they had hurried to usher him into the Hall.

"I'm not gonna make a big speech," he said, with his wife, Edna at his side. "I'm gonna save my speech for Cooperstown . . . if I'm present."

No one needed an interpreter to explain exactly what Casey meant by those last three words.

He knew they had made an exception in his case by waiving the mandatory five-year wait. He appreciated what had been done and he was human enough to wish to have enjoyed this honor while he was still around.

"I've been so fortunate to be alive," he began another one of his sentences and then typically finished it with an unaccompanied reference to some of the great Yankee players he had managed.

"To get in is an amazing thing," he said of his sudden election. "I never realized it was such a great thing until I talked with some of the other old timers who didn't make it. Like Rube Marquard. Now there was an amazing pitcher. He won so many games. We were talking about the Hall of Fame once and he said to me, 'Cheez, I'd like to be in that thing.'"

Stengel made his brief speech only a few yards away from the entrance to the Mets' clubhouse where he had held sway as manager only a year ago and now they wanted him to move toward the first base bleachers to acknowledge the cheers of the fans.

"Go say hello to the people," Casey, advised one of the Mets' aides.

"Better Tell 'em" "Do they know about it yet?" Stengel inquired. "Better tell 'em. They're liable to throw things at me."

In his excitement, Casey had dropped his cane. He never even missed it. He simply hobbled toward the bleachers with Edna right behind him and then evoked an immediate laugh from the fans by announcing:

"I want all you people to realize this is Mrs. Stengel, so don't make any remarks you shouldn't."

Then he walked over toward the third base bleachers, made another short speech and was joined by Yogi Berra, his ex-catcher with the Yankees and now a Met coach.

"This is one thing you didn't know about," Yogi teased, putting his arm around the old man.

"I got wise this morning," Casey countered. "I said something was wrong when they told me to come on out here for something or other and I gave Edna the dickens . . . I had an idea."

Casey, the old fox, fooled them all when all along they thought they were fooling him.

Clay-Terrell Bout Seems Set

TORONTO (UPI) — After almost two days of investigation, Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree arrived at the conclusion he had no alternative but to sanction the March 29 title fight between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell for Maple Leaf Gardens.

Rowntree, who was handed this hot potato by Ontario Athletics Commissioner Merv McKenzie, told the legislature the fight application met all the requirements of the Athletics Control Act.

Local promoter Frank Tunney and the Maple Leaf Gardens will promote the bout, which failed to find a home in four other cities, New York, Chicago, Montreal and the Montreal suburb, Verdun.

Clay's "unpatriotic" remarks about the war in Viet Nam and the suspected underworld associations of Terrell's former adviser, Bernie Glickman, had given the fight a strong enough aroma to force it out of the United States.

"I want to emphasize that this decision in no way condones or supports previous actions, affiliations or public statements made by either of the major participants in this fight," Rowntree stressed.

The minister later admitted he would probably be in attendance at the bout himself "to see how it comes out."

76ers Widen League Lead

By United Press International
Now that Philadelphia has finally grabbed the top spot of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division it isn't about to let go.

The 76ers edged into first Sunday with a win over Boston and Tuesday pushed a half-game ahead with a 112-106 win over St. Louis in the opener of a Madison Square Garden twin bill.

Philadelphia has six games left on its schedule and Boston, winner of seven straight league titles, has five.

Los Angeles meanwhile missed clinching first spot in the Western Division when New York pulled out a 133-132 overtime win in the Madison Square Garden nightcap. Second place Baltimore flattened San Francisco, 130-109 in a game at Eugene, Ore.

Rookie Billy Cunningham gave Philadelphia the spark against St. Louis when he pumped in 15 points during the second period as the 76ers moved ahead to stay.

In the nightcap, little Howie Komives scored seven points in the overtime to upend the Lakers, who just can't seem to win in New York.

But Laker fans could console themselves that Elgin Baylor is ready for the playoffs. He scored 46 points, while Jerry West added 28. New York got big outbursts from Walt Bellamy, who had 40, and rookie Dave Stallworth, who tossed in 31.

Baltimore trailed San Francisco by nine points in the second quarter but blew the game open with a 37-22 margin in the third stanza. Johnny Green hit 12 of 15 shots to get 25 points

Defending Champ Plays in NAIA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Defending champion and top-seeded Central (Ohio) State met Lakeland (Wis.) today in the opening second round game of the 29th annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) basketball tournament.

The Marauders, one of 12 seeded teams surviving first round competition, belted St. Thomas (Minn.) 92-69 in their game Monday night.

Lakeland upset Linfield (Ore.), 95-81, in its first round game Tuesday. Linfield, one of three seeded teams which fell Tuesday, was No. 16.

The biggest surprise was Pittsburg (Kan.) State.

The eighth-seeded Gorillas saw a 45-42 halftime lead vanish early in the second stanza in losing to Athens (Ala.) 88-79. The other seeded team to fall in Tuesday's first round action was 14th-rated Bethune-Cookman (Fla.), a 91-88 loser to Carroll (Mont.).

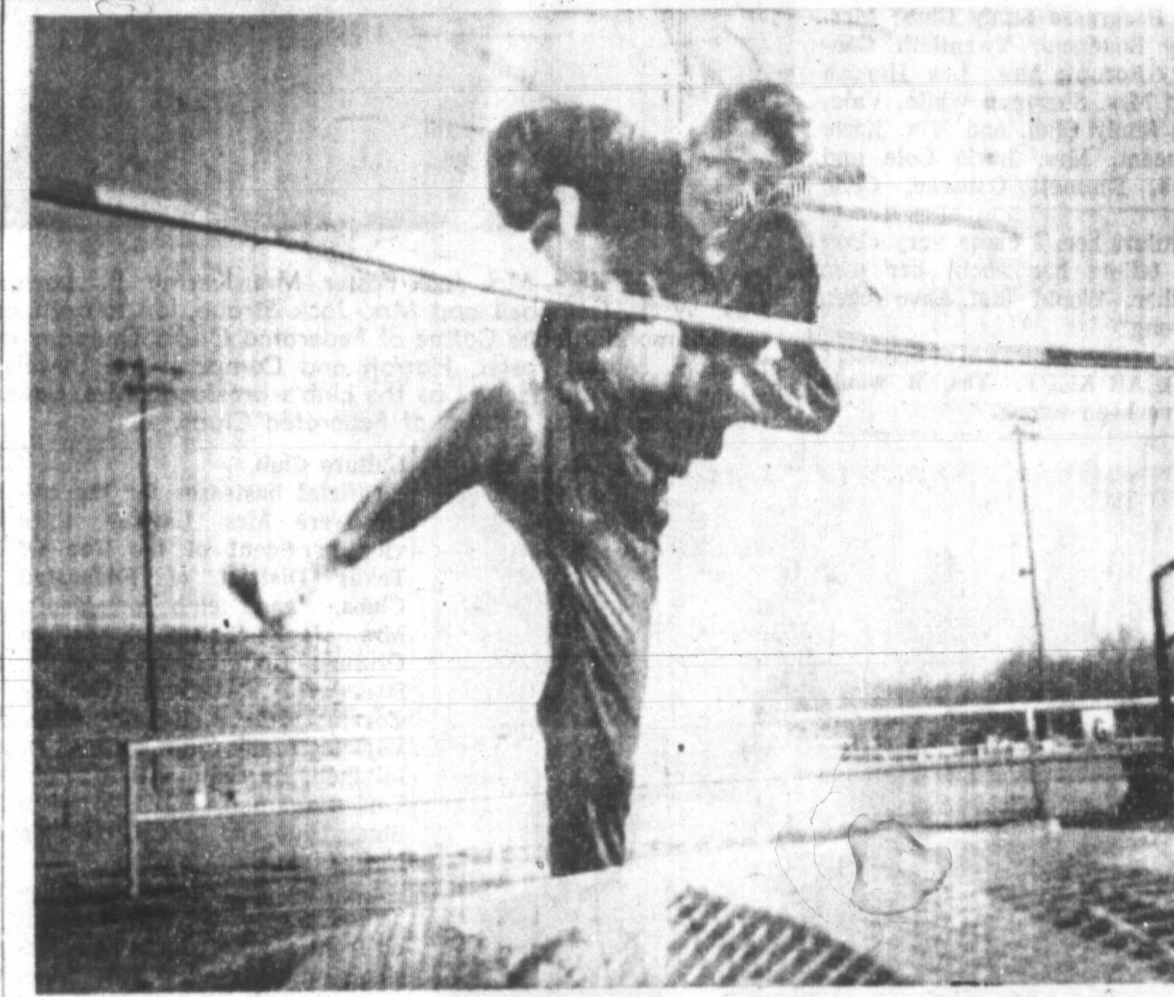

In other first round action Tuesday, second-seeded Carson Newman (Tenn.) and Grambling (La.), No. 3, barely survived.

Carson-Newman was forced to come from behind in the closing minutes to edge Indiana Central, 68-67.

Grambling needed an overtime period to oust scrappy Central Washington State, 70-65.

Fifth-seeded Texas Western needed Keith Swanson's layup with one second left to nip Monmouth (N.J.), 94-92, while No. 7 Albuquerque (N.M.) led all the way in beating New Haven (Conn.), 81-74. Illinois Wesleyan, No. 12, also advanced to the second round with an 86-76 victory over Dickinson (N.D.) State.

The Harvard football teams from 1886-1891 scored 3,622 points and held the opposition to 187 in 74 games.

HIGH JUMP — Teddy Bird takes a practice leap in his specialty, the high jump, as Pampa's track squad prepares for the Plainview Invitational Saturday.

Baseballers Play Borger Thursday, Dumas Next

Pampa's young Harvester baseballers open their 1966 season Thursday against a team they'll see a lot of this spring, Borger.

Athletic Director Weldon Trice said late Tuesday baseball coach Bobby Stephens wanted to play a game either Thursday or Friday and "Borger was the only team we could get."

Thursday's opener will be the first of seven games this season between the two inexperienced teams.

High school golfers and thin-clads have to wait until Saturday to strut their stuff.

The tracksters journey to Plainview to take part in the first annual Plainview Invitational.

Sunny, almost warm weather this week has had track coach Jeep Webb in smiles.

Bad weather had his track squad going through their paces in almost slow motion but that has been corrected this week.

Broad jumper Gary Crossland is rounding into shape after being slowed down by a knee injury.

Coach Weldon Trice and his golfers will be in Lubbock Saturday for first round action of district play.

League golfers will play 18 holes Saturday, then 18 the next Saturday at another district course until all league towns have been played in.

Stephens said he planned to go with sophomore Dicky Henley on the mound. Henley, a right-hander has been pitching well in practice.

The Pampa coach said he would use Roy Harper and Bud Hammons in the doubleheader with Dumas Saturday in the games originally scheduled to open the season.

In case Henley runs into trouble against the Bulldogs Stephens plans to use junior lefthander Jim Lang as backup man.

Corky Dodd will handle the catching chores with Lawrence Jones at first, Phil Moore at second, Gary Molberg at short, Alvin Achord at third, Ronnie Sanders in center and either Harper or Steve Summers in right.

The seven inning affair will begin at 4 p.m. in the Borger park.

Cleveland Was Asked To Move to Milwaukee County

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — County Executive John Doyle Tuesday denied trying to "entice" the Cleveland American League baseball team to move to Milwaukee. However, he did admit talking to Indians President Gabe Paul in an effort to arrange a meeting "to talk baseball."

Doyle, under cross-examination in the seventh day of Wisconsin's antitrust trial against baseball, said Paul told him he would be wasting time in coming to Cleveland with any idea of getting the Indians.

Doyle was one of three witnesses to appear Tuesday in connection with the suit, which charges the Braves, the National League and its nine other members with violating state antitrust laws by conspiring to boycott Milwaukee. The suit was prompted by the Braves' shift to Atlanta for the 1966 season.

County Stadium Manager William Anderson was scheduled to return to the stand today for cross-examination.

Prior to Doyle's appearance, Circuit Judge Elmer Roller, over strenuous objections of baseball attorneys, admitted as evidence a $30,000 study on the impact of major league baseball on Milwaukee.

The 102-page document, prepared by Washington, D. C., economist Robert Nathan, said removal of the Braves would cost the community "conservatively" $18 million a year—not counting money spent by Milwaukee on baseball and not including the cost of the stadium upkeep or the tax loss.

Robinson Signs Pact, Stars in Squad Contest

By United Press International
Baseball men agree that spring training games mean little, particularly intra-squad contests but Hank Bauer was overjoyed with what occurred at the Baltimore camp Tuesday.

The game-winning pinch-hit double was delivered by Frank Robinson, the former Cincinnati Red slugger, who just hours before buttoned up a Baltimore Oriole uniform for the first time.

It was an eventful day for Robby. Earlier Tuesday he signed a contract for $65,000 making him the highest paid Oriole player ever.

Back in Baltimore, Oriole catcher Dick Brown was recuperating from brain surgery which removed a benign tumor "about the size of a golf ball" from the back of his head. He was proclaimed "awake and alert" when his wife, Lissa, visited him Tuesday.

The 31-year-old entered the hospital for tests after complaining of dizziness and headaches at the opening of spring training.

Relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm of the Chicago White Sox one of baseball's worst hitting pitchers, was hit on the hand while taking batting practice and suffered a fractured ring finger on his right hand. The 42-year-old knuckleballer will have the finger in a cast for about 10 days which will not hamper his progress to any great extent.

Other injuries being treated tenderly were Al Kaline's left foot which was operated on last winter. The Detroit outfielder has not played in any intra-squad games and will be out of the lineup until Saturday.

San Francisco's Orlando Cepeda, who missed most of the '65 campaign with a bum knee, admitted, "I'm just a little afraid to put full pressure on it" at the Giant's camp. And

Bowling Breaks by Gil

Ina Hicks was just about the happiest bowler of the week, her reason? Her first 200 game and 500 series, a nice 207 and 519. Marilee Osborne also had her first league 200. I'll bet Ina Hicks has been watching all the left handed bowlers on TV lately.

Bill Oler came up with the excuse of the week for his poor bowling claiming that when the air conditioner was turned on it always blew his ball off the track. Tom Keough had to think up a different excuse, he left his glasses home. That's not very original Tom I've heard it before.

Gerald Vaughn left the 10 pin on such a beautiful pocket hit that he climbed up on the ball return to see what in the world could be holding it down.

Pat Patrick had five splits in a row and two more in the game but just couldn't beat Wylene's record of nine splits.

There were a lot of splits picked up too. John Snuggs 6-7-10, Ruth Thompson 4-7-10, Linda Grimsley 6-7, Bryce Williams a Bantam the 5-7 in the Junior Tournament, Ina Reading 6-7-10 and Wylene Patrick 4-7-10 in the Hi-Plains Travel League and probably many many more that went unnoticed.

Helen Lows 205 went unnoticed too the other morning. But I'll promise to do better in the future Helen.

Homer McNeil after bowling in the Odd Flows State Tournament at Brownwood decided that Pampa had some pretty nice lanes. Wilber Waggoner was all smiles tho seeing that he took first place in the singles event.

Barbara James, daughter of Dorothy Davis, who was one of Pampa's most ardent bowlers of a few years ago, says that Dorothy doesn't bowl at all anymore, Barb bowled for the first time in many years.

George Mitten, who also hasn't bowled for some time, said that he is getting the urge to try it again. Its always nice to see the old timers starting again.

I understand that Ketha Clifton and Dorothy Osborne are about the only Pampa girls going to the National Tournament and will be leaving about May 7th and be bowling May 13th.

Would you believe it that the computer has taken over in the bowling field too? There is a firm out of Dallas who will guarantee to raise your average by a computer system of analyzing your bowling, next thing there will be that radar directed ball we all need.

Patsy Alexander doesn't need one tho to best husband Harvey by almost 60 pins on total, surprised Harvey? Dorothy Mosley decided that an 88 game was good enough to make news and sure enough she was right.

Kelly Bowles and Linda Reid surprised themselves by both having awfully good series the same night. Betty Jo Williams had a 145-144-143 series and Rosa Warminski tried to duplicate it but had a 145-145-142 series and I was told not to mention Sherril Gradys good game it I wanted to live a little longer.

The first week of the Junior Tournament is past and the present leaders are as follows, Girls team, Jackie Clark, Sharon Riddle and Karen Riddle (Sharon had her first 200.)

Boys team Bruce Murchison, Randy Ziebarth, Terry Ward.

Bantam Boys Larry Akers, Stu Murchison, Jimmie Corley.

Jr. and Sr. Boys singles, Buddy Newton, doubles Billy Davis and Buddy Newton.

Girls singles Mary Thompson, doubles Dee Keefer and Linda Chase.

Bantam Boys singles Bryce Williams, doubles Ronnie Young and Jimmie Corley.

Some pretty good scores have been posted. Steve Fletcher 223, Max Barnhill 208 and a 528 series. Janet Morgan a 510 series, Sharon Riddle 200. That's a pretty good start. There will be more bowling in all divisions this week end so look for more good scores. You have a choice, watching the Pro's on TV or the Pro's on the lanes at either the Garden Lanes or the Harvester Bowl.

This column wouldn't be complete without mentioning the fine groups of boys in Coach Pete Irwin's P.E. classes. In the three weeks of bowling instruction we couldn't have asked for better co-operation, more enthusiasm or better behaviour.

Wills Ready For Pact Showdown

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodgers star pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale played big stakes holdout poker with General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi today, but shortstop Maury Wills was ready for a showdown.

Wills missed the Dodgers' departure to spring camp at Vero Beach, Fla., because of a theatrical engagement in Japan but on his return he said he intended calling Bavasi and indicated he expected a fairly quick agreement.

Koufax and Drysdale, however, sat pat and waited for Bavasi to make the next move on the demands for the hurlers or $1 million between them for three years.

Wills at the time of his departure for Japan had said his asking price would be the same as those of Koufax and Drysdale. He assumed at the time they would be after $1,000,000 each.

"I had no idea they were going to ask for as much as they are after," Wills said. "I don't think I'm worth that much."

Wills reportedly received around $60,000 last season and it was believed in informed circles that an offer somewhere in the vicinity of $90,000 would bring him to terms.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Geneva 'Accord' Background

We hear a great deal about "violations" of the Geneva Agreement these days. There frequently are allegations that the United States and South Viet Nam have violated the Geneva Accord. However, there is some background which hasn't been noised around very much.

The Chicago Tribune recently clarified the issue, which various governments seem to be seeking to renew. The Tribune said:

Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of the 1954 conference which ended the war in Indo-China between France and Ho Chi Minh's communist rebels, divided Viet Nam into separate states, and produced the Geneva agreement, or declaration, or accord—the document so often invoked as if it were the secret touchstone for peace in south-east Asia.

Even President Johnson has termed the 1954 Geneva agreement an acceptable basis for peace talks today, although the United States refused to join in the original declaration. Yet, since the day it was promulgated, July 21, 1954, it was existed in a curious state of limbo, much like the celebrated Atlantic Charter negotiated by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill Aug. 12, 1941.

Each document—Atlantic charter and the final declaration at Geneva—pronounced pious hopes for peace in a time of war. Each was a political instrument executed at the highest level.

Yet neither agreement was ever inscribed on parchment, signed, sealed, and taped. Neither President Roosevelt nor Prime Minister Churchill signed the Atlantic charter they created. And no foreign minister, or any other official, signed the Geneva accord. Like the charter, it was just mimeographed and released.

Concocted by Churchill and Roosevelt aboard a warship in the Atlantic Ocean off Newfoundland, the Atlantic charter came to be regarded as an expression of American war aims, although the United States at the time was technically a neutral—four months before the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor.

Once the "Nazi tyranny" was defeated, the charter promised all nations a world free from want, hunger, and fear and the opportunity to elect governments of their own choice. It also envisioned a United Nations.

Had Roosevelt signed this document, it might have been regarded as a treaty, requiring submission to the Senate for approval. This was the last thing Roosevelt wanted, for it would have exposed his interventionist policy to debate. So he didn't sign it, nor did Churchill. The British, according to Robert Sherwood, a Roosevelt biographer, regarded the charter merely as a publicity handout, not a state paper.

At Geneva, the British were no more eager to sign the final declaration on Indo-China in 1954 which "took note" of the military cease-fire and the separation of Viet Nam into two separate groupings and called for general elections throughout Viet Nam in 1956.

Along with the foreign ministers of France, the Soviet Union, Red China, Communist North Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia, the British voiced approval of the accord, but signed nothing. Nor did the United States or South Viet Nam. In separate papers, Washington and Saigon disclaimed the final declaration but agreed to respect the terms of the cease-fire. This agreement was the real reason for the conference.

The cease-fire bears the signatures of a French general and a general of Ho's Viet Minh force which had just defeated the French at Dien Bien Phu. The final declaration of Geneva, the political document dealing with Viet Nam's future, remained an orphan, its paternity unacknowledged by any signatory. It is this orphan that the peacemakers seek to revive.

Freedom's Seed Shows a Sprout

For two decades, half of Europe has been more or less securely inside the Soviet orbit. For three-quarters of that period, Radio Free Europe has, with growing success, penetrated the Iron Curtain with the truth, not only about events in the West but in the satellites themselves, and helped keep alive in the hearts of millions the hope of eventual freedom from both foreign subjection and domestic tyranny.

In the second of the two decades, beginning with the de-thronement of Stalinism, the eastern European nations have steadily moved toward this goal.

Considering the pace of change during these years, says a noted authority on Communist and international affairs, "It is neither illusory nor wishful thinking to postulate that East Europe may now be entering the last decade of its unnatural divorce from the rest of Europe."

High IQ, Likes Cheese

That nasty question—"Are you a man or a mouse?"—may not have too much point any more. It begins to appear that mice are a lot like people. Or is it vice-versa?

Anyway, studies at the University of California reveal that, when given a choice between running a round in different kinds of wheels, mice chose the one offering the most challenge.

Specifically, they preferred a round wheel that had hurdles spaced inside it. Next to that, they liked a square wheel which required that they jump skillfully across the corners as it spun around.

Apparently the mice used the wheels for something more than just exercise. The researchers also detected a streak of obstinacy in the ani-

This hopeful note is struck by Prof. Zbigniew Brzezinski of Columbia University, writing in "The Job Ahead," the annual report of Free Europe, Inc.

According to John Richardson Jr., president of the organization, its Radio Free Europe division now has 22 million listeners in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria—half the adult population of those countries.

RFE received more than 13,000 fan letters from behind the Curtain in 1965, despite continuing censorship. Most welcome and encouraging were those from young people who have spent their entire lives under Communist rule, such as one who wrote:

"From Radio Free Europe we gain faith in the future." No better testimonial could be asked for.

When a wheel was rigged with levers which the mice could depress to stop or start the wheel, it was found that mice are a lot like people. Or is it vice-versa?

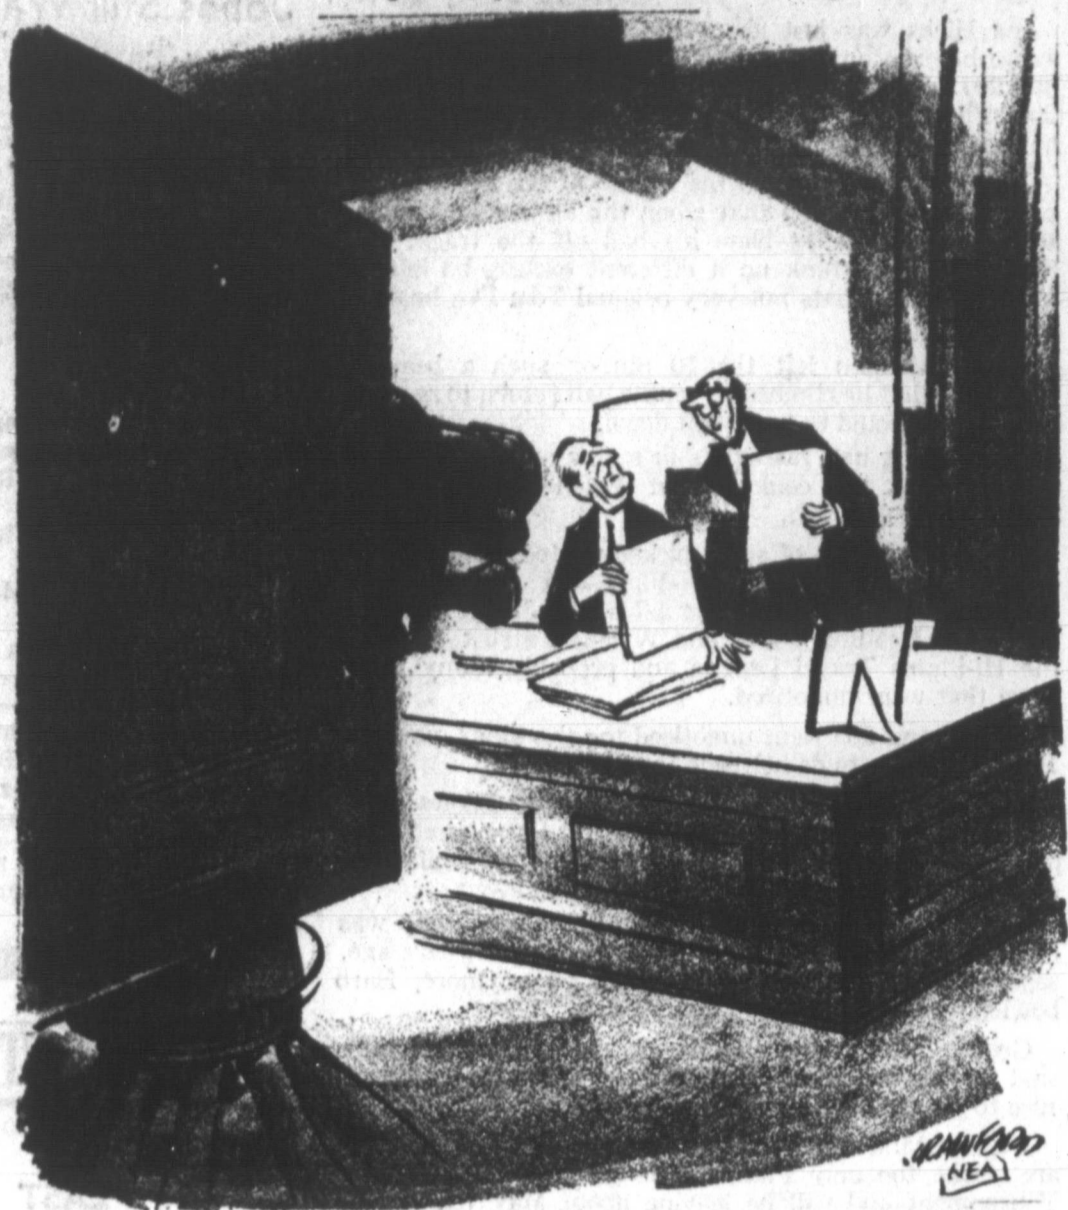

But when a mouse had started the wheel itself and a human stopped it, the mouse would immediately stop it.

But when a mouse had started the wheel itself and a human stopped it, the mouse would promptly start it back up again. Evidently, mice are not as "mousy" as some people are.

A thought for the day—Leo Tolstoy:

"The more is given, the less the people will work for themselves. And the less the work, the more their poverty will increase."

Joint Chiefs Challenge McNamara on Danger From Russia—After Removal of 'Gag'

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON (Sp) — A new attempt by Defense Secretary McNamara to muzzle his military advisers is backfiring.

An unpublicized McNamara directive designed to compel military witnesses before congressional committees to testify in line with administration policy is producing the opposite results.

At a hearing of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Chairman Richard Russell, D-Ga., not only forced McNamara to withdraw this gag but made him agree to permit the Joint Chiefs of Staff to freely voice their views on Russian military capabilities and plans.

Under assurances by Russell that the committee would not permit any reprisals, the Joint Chiefs then made statements flatly challenging McNamara's contention that the U.S. and USSR are headed for an understanding and that the greatest threat comes from Red China.

General John McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, summed up the military opinion when he told the committee, "Russia is still the No. 1 enemy of the U.S., and not Communist China."

He charged that Russia is producing more advance weaponry than McNamara is conceding, saying:

"The Soviets may soon make a technological breakthrough which could wipe out the lead the U.S. now has in strategic weapons. Money which should be spent in this field is being shifted to help pay the cost of the Viet Nam war."

In McNamara's statement at this closed-door committee meeting he characterized U.S.-Soviet relations as increasingly cordial and accommodating.

"The focus of the U.S. defense problem has shifted perceptibly toward the Far East," McNamara contended. "Soviet leaders appear to share with us a desire to avoid wars which might lead to a direct U.S.-USSR military confrontation and to curtail the spread of Chinese Communist influence."

In sharp contrast to this view, the Joint Chiefs pointed out that Russia is supplying North Viet Nam with late-model Mig-21 jet fighters, modern anti-aircraft missiles, arms, machinery and petroleum products.

"This assistance, combined with the continued heavy emphasis of the Soviet on strategic weapon research," the Joint Chiefs declared, "is not a course toward an accommodation with the U.S."

INACCURATE FORECASTING — McNamara's five-year projection of military budgeting through 1971 was assailed by the Joint Chiefs as lacking a decision to start full-scale development of new important weapons systems, such as the Nike-X anti-ballistic missile, advanced strategic and interceptor aircraft.

Admiral David McDonald, Chief of Naval Operations, took direct issue with McNamara's playing down Russia's development of large and modern naval forces.

McDonald warned that Soviet concentration on anti-submarine warfare could lead to a breakthrough which would greatly decrease the effectiveness of this country's Polaris submarine fleet.

General McConnell, who is directly in charge of strategic planning, criticized McNamara's decision not to proceed with the development of advance strategic aircraft. McConnell contended that a new strategic bomber is needed to maintain this country's steadily diminishing lead in this field.

After hearing this outspoken testimony Senator Russell asked the Joint Chiefs to submit recommendations in writing on how the new defense budget should be revised.

"Your testimony has convinced me," concluded Russell, "that unless numerous changes are made in this budget, we will not be able to meet our commitments throughout the world and keep our strategic weapons lead over the Soviet Union."

WHITE HOUSE COMMENT — President Johnson is letting members of Congress know he isn't happy about some of their statements concerning members of his cabinet.

During Vice President Hubert Humphrey's White House briefing on Viet Nam for legislators, the President singled out Senator Stephen Young, D-O., with a rebuke for a barb at Secretary Rusk. Young had said he didn't sleep well knowing that Rusk was at the helm of the State Department.

Johnson told a story about the First Lady urging him to hurry to a reception in the Capitol. When she asked what was delaying him, he quipped that he had to stop at a drugstore "to get some sleeping pills for Steve Young."

Johnson told the legislators they should understand that the President, not Congress, selects Cabinet members. The sooner some members of Congress learn that, he added tartly, the better the White House and Congress will get along.

Young, who was present, said nothing.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS — Samuel Pryor, long-time executive of Pan American World Airways, is working on a secret assignment for President Johnson dealing with Communist China. Pryor is probing the smuggling of heroin from China into the U.S. These drug shipments have doubled in the past year. . . . A letter Arthur Schlesinger wrote while he was in the White House has turned up in Washington newsman following President Kennedy's assassination. Schlesinger stated, "So far as we have discovered, President Kennedy does not seem to have left notes, diaries or other material intended for publication in that form. He did, of course, intend in due course to do a book on his administration."

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSIADT
Candy and Goody Desserts Give Decay a Toothhold

Many experts believe that completely eliminating sweets from diets simply creates a greater craving for them. But that doesn't mean you can't cut down on or eliminate sweet goody desserts. Doing so would be an excellent start in your personal or family war on dental decay.

Goody sweets cling to teeth and gums and are difficult to rinse or brush off. Make an early start in getting your young ones accustomed to finishing meals with cleansing type foods, i.e., apples, oranges, grapefruit, melons, etc.

Between-meal sweets should be discouraged, too. I recently visited a family whose precocious 2-year-old was running around with a carrot in her mouth. This is better for children's teeth than sweets because it doesn't give the teeth a bath in sugar and also seems to satisfy some children's needs for chomping on something hard.

If your child must have candy, avoid hard candies such as lollipops or sticky stuff like caramels. These take a long time to dissolve and therefore constantly bathe the teeth in sugar. Decay activity seems to be directly related to what dentists call "oral clearance time"—the time it takes for carbohydrates to be cleared from the mouth. It seems that the sooner sugar is cleared from the mouth, the less decay.

How much candy does your child eat? Do you want to be surprised? Make a list of the food and beverages he consumes in a given day and you may be shocked at the large amount of candy he eats. And don't blame it on the fact that he's still finishing his Christmas candy. You may also be embarrassed at the lack of balance in his diet.

Soft rubber pacifiers seem to be less disturbing to normal eruption and positioning of teeth and normal development of jaws than thumb or finger sucking. Mouth habits of this latter kind are usually accompanied by hand pressures that cause the soft bone of children's jaws to become misshapen and pushes teeth out of proper alignment.

Have you noticed that finger suckers are apt to sit or lie quietly while they suck? Not so children using pacifiers. While they chew and suck they're usually quite active. They have two hands free. And they make the most of it.

Thumb-sucking can be a problem. It should be discouraged but not by an emotional struggle or by mechanical devices that are down-right mean and frustrating to your child. I'm thinking of devices like the thumb crib, or even worse, pinning down the arms at night. This kind of treatment may stop thumb-sucking but may in turn cause serious emotional disturbances.

Do what you can, within reason, to stop these pressure habits that cause tooth straightening problems; it'll save you lots of money. Consult your dentist

Communism in the Peace Corps
High ranking Peace Corps official, Frank Mankiewicz, has undertaken a drive to get more veterans of the recent University of California riots interested in serving in the Peace Corps. Two leaders of this disgraceful spectacle, Carl Oglesby and Paul Booth, have recently been brought to Washington to advise Mankiewicz regarding recruiting activities among the rioters.

Robert Satin of the Peace Corps made a trip to the University of California at Berkeley to sign up "activists" in the riot. He says he wants to get the leaders who organized the demonstration.

These riotous with their anti-U. S. policy certainly ought not be on the federal payroll, in the Peace Corps, or in any other capacity. Such disgraceful activity on the part of Peace Corps officials leads one to question the value of this organization.

A recent edition of the Peace Corps News distributed to college campuses contains the following comment: "There's no business like revolution to stir young blood. . . you're on your own, free to ferment, ferment and to organize communist spirit . . . and topple imperialists."

Has the Peace Corps become an adjunct to the Communist Party in its effort to "topple" imperialists?

A recent number of Human Events tells us that one George Johnson, a Peace Corps volunteer, manned a table in the State Department cafeteria last March where he distributed material asking for the administration to put "end to hostility" toward Communists in Vietnam.

A WORTHY COALITION

For a long time the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition was depended upon to defeat the worst of the proposed legislation even though they were often unsuccessful. Our present plight proves that the constructive forces could have done much better by trying to get together to capture control of either the Republican or Democratic Party. The constructive could battle under one label, forcing the opposition into the other party.

Apparently the ADA rating of members of Congress decides the degree of their national loyalty and their support of the President's present Vietnam policy. The members of Congress who were instrumental in founding Americans for Democratic Action must consider that the nearer the top rating of 100 the better. The opposing school of thought with the much decried title of Americans for Constitutional Action evidently feel that ADA zero or as near as possible indicates the most constructive of members of Congress.

In the 13 Southern states the average of the 96 Democratic members is 23; the average of the 20 Republican members is 1. In the 37 states outside the South 192 Democrat members average 77; the average of 120 Republicans is 13. The average of all Democratic members in the House is 59; of all Republican members 11.

These are dry statistics, but they could be helpful to the President, Defense Department officials, Chairmen of House Committees and Senate Committees. U. S. servicemen in South Vietnam and everyone else interested in winning the war in South Vietnam. Those who are demonstrating and rioting in the streets against our opposing communist aggression may be much better informed regarding the attitudes of members of Congress than those of the general public who have not studied ADA ratings.

For advice in correcting the particular problem your child has.

Western entertainment at the Sheriff's Posse rodeo arena will include contests in headin' and heelin', calf roping and girls barrel racing.

Twenty-two beautiful colleens are competing for the title of Miss Irish Rose. The fairest of them all will be crowned in an impressive coronation at the Armory in the afternoon.

The celebration will end Thursday night with two dances. Willie Lo-Max and his Orchestra of Amarillo will furnish music for the regular St. Patrick's Day Dance at the Armory. Playing for a dance at Shamrock Skating Rink will be the Velasquez Bros. Orchestra of Wheeler.
