

Ambassador Says War Could Drag On for 20-Years

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said Saturday that unless the South Vietnamese government has a solid political program, the war with the Viet Cong could drag on for 20 years.

Lodge, in an interview with United Press International conducted earlier and released Saturday, emphasized that more must be done to bring a more stable, better life to the "little man" in South Viet Nam. This, he said, was one of the purposes of the recent Honolulu talks conducted by President Johnson with Vietnamese leaders.

"For years now in Southeast Asia, the only people who have been doing anything for the little man at the grassroots—to lift him up—have been the Communists," said the ambassador.

"This is a political war with violent military and criminal overtones. . . . You can have military success and you can have success against the criminal element and if you're not ready with a program which is going to make the man adhere to the government and believe in the government, you haven't accomplished anything durable, you see.

"You can go on here winning military victories for 20 years and not accomplish anything unless you have a political program and we've known that."

Lodge said the United States emphasized this at the recent conference in Honolulu. He continued:

"President Johnson, very rightly, I think, wished to direct attention to the fact that this is a political as well as a military war and that we were going to do a great deal to help the Vietnamese create a good life."

Lodge said the South Vietnamese government, with its newly formed ministry of revolutionary development, (See WAR, Page 3)

UN Admits Failure In Viet Peace Attempt

... AND COME OUT FIGHTING? — With New York's Mayor John Lindsay taking something of a referee's stance, it was all smiles as Sen. Robert F. Kennedy greeted President Johnson upon the President's arrival in New York to accept the 1966 National Freedom Award with a speech restating the administration Viet Nam position.

One Million to Take Draft Deferment Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The taking are May 14, May 21 and June 3. Those eligible are 1,300,000 men will take the three-hour draft-deferment college qualification tests to be given throughout the nation next May and June.

More than double that number will be eligible but the tests are optional. For a variety of reasons, possibly half of those entitled to take the tests may choose not to.

Under a contract with Selective Service the general aptitude tests are to be given by Science Research Associates of Chicago, Ill. in public and educational buildings at 1,200 locations in the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone. Dates of the test:

Withdraws From Any Future Negotiations

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Security Council President Akira Matsui said Saturday the United Nations has failed to agree on ways of negotiating an end to the Viet Nam war.

U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Arthur J. Goldberg appeared underbitten by the announcement and said the United States "will never rest and will leave no path unexplored until it has succeeded in its endeavor to move the conflict from the battlefield to the conference table."

Matsui, the Japanese ambassador who heads the Security Council this month, began three weeks of private talks with other member nations after the United States put the Viet Nam issue before the Security Council last month with a draft resolution calling for preliminary talks possibly leading to a resumption of the Geneva Conference on Indo-China.

Matsui said he found general agreement during his consultations that further debate in the Security Council would serve no useful purpose.

In a statement issued following Matsui's announcement, Goldberg said the consultations "had demonstrated once again a legitimate and essential U.N. concern with the maintenance of international peace and security."

"We are confident this will help to inspire Security Council members and others to continue and to intensify their efforts for a peaceful settlement."

Both Matsui and Goldberg, who participated together in

Supreme Court To Decide Fate Of Dr. Shepherd

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard said Saturday chances were "good" he and his second wife, Ariadne, would drive to Washington where the U.S. Supreme Court will hear arguments Monday on an appeal from his 1964 murder conviction.

Sheppard, seemingly fully recovered after a bout with the flu, indicated his preference to drive rather than fly in order to keep publicity at a minimum. The time of departure was not set.

"We feel that too much notoriety is not in keeping with the dignity of the court and its justices," he said.

The Sheppards originally planned to be in Washington last Thursday to hear the case which had been slated for that day. The trip had to be cancelled when Sheppard developed a fever of 104 degrees.

As it was, the court was not able to get to the Sheppard case because of its overloaded docket and the case was delayed to Monday.

Sheppard said he, Mrs. Sheppard and his son, Sam Jr., would remain in seclusion in a Washington suburb prior to the hearing but he planned to hold a news conference after presentation of his appeal.

The 11-year-old struggle to clear his name made little headway until July, 1964, when Sheppard was freed from the Ohio Penitentiary. After serving nearly nine years for the July 4, 1954, slaying of his first wife, Marilyn, he was freed by U.S. District Judge Carl Weinman of Dayton, Ohio, on the ground he did not get a fair trial.

This decision was overruled by the 6th District Circuit Court of Appeals, but Sheppard was permitted to remain free on bond pending appeal to the Supreme Court.

He has been given special permission to leave Ohio to attend the hearing.

Carubbi Files Suit To Place Name On Ballot

Action Seeks to Force Democrats To List Carubbi As Judge Candidate

By BOB CORTNER
Daily News Reporter

Pampa Attorney A. J. Carubbi Jr. has filed suit in District Court against the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee to have his name on the upcoming primary ballot in the county judge election.

The committee recently ruled Carubbi's name could not be included on the ballot because he failed to pay the balance of his filing fee by the prescribed deadline. Carubbi is a candidate for Gray County Judge. Carubbi is basing his suit primarily on the fact that (according to Carubbi) he was not notified of the final deadline for paying the balance of the filing fee.

Jimmy Thompson, chairman of the Gray County Democratic Committee, said a letter was posted to each potential candidate by the committee's secretary, telling of the filing fee deadline. Carubbi maintains he did not receive any letter of this nature.

The Pampa attorney was out of town when the letter was supposed to have arrived at his local office. His office staff says that no letter was received from the committee and Carubbi said that he has not received a notification letter at this date.

In his petition to the 31st District Court Carubbi says in part: "(I) did not receive said letter notifying (me) of the additional assessment and the date and time for payment as required by the V.A.T.S. Election Code, Article 13.06 and 'that to this date (I) have not received said letter from the Chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee.'"

The Democratic Executive Committee bases its opinion in the matter on the same article of the Texas Election Code. Thompson said there was no attempt being made to "persecute" Carubbi. "He simply failed to pay his filing fee," Thompson said.

Carubbi, after the deadline, mailed the committee a cashier's check for the balance of the fee, but it was returned.

Article 13.08 of the Texas election code reads in part: "and no person's name shall be placed on the ballot unless he pays the assessment within the prescribed time."

"The law is very clear, Executive Secretary Bob Baker said. 'And it becomes a serious matter.'"

In his petition to District Court, Carubbi maintains: "that to place (my) name on the ballot will not guarantee (my) election, but will only afford the voters of Gray County an opportunity to determine for themselves who is best qualified to hold the office of County Judge of Gray County, Texas."

District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich has tentatively set a hearing on the petition for 2 p.m. Tuesday.

There are four other Democratic candidates for Gray County. (See CARUBBI, Page 3)

Apollo Completes Flawless Maiden Lunar Test Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's three-seater Apollo spaceship that will be carrying men to the moon by 1969 streaked flawlessly through a maiden 5,300 mile suborbital flight Saturday, despite one false start.

The 23-ton spacecraft, manned only by electronic brains for its initial trip into the heavens, was blasted into sunny Florida skies by a mighty, 1.6-million-pound thrust Saturn 1B super rocket at 11:12 a.m. EST and splashed down in (See APOLLO, Page 3)

Quintuplets Born To African Couple

EAST LONDON, South Africa (UPI) — The middle-aged wife of a $11.50 a week African coal shoveler gave birth to premature quintuplets Saturday. Doctors said the mother and the babies were "doing fine."

The three boys and two girls, weighing a total of 25 pounds, were placed in incubators immediately after their birth at a small hospital.

Their mother, Mrs. Nogesi Gquzulu, who lives with her husband and their four-year-old son in a single rented room, was reported "tired and resting."

Doctors said the babies were born naturally in an 80 minute delivery.

If all the children live they will be the sixth recorded case of quintuplet survival. Twins born to Mrs. Gquzulu in 1958 died a year later.

Science Fair Judges Name Top Exhibits

Pampa High School senior Kent Clark won his division of the Pampa High School Science Fair for the second straight year Friday with an exhibit on Density of Electromagnetism.

Kent was also included in seven winners selected for entry at the Regional Science Fair in Amarillo. Kent's exhibit, similar to this year's improved version, won the Amarillo competition last year and gave him a chance to attend the National Science Fair.

In addition to Kent, other winners to try at the Amarillo Science Fair are Sara Hahn, Billy Quarles, Marieke Lang, William Schumacher, Larry Franklin and Robert Karr.

The Science Fair closed Saturday at 4 p.m. after showing to onlookers since Friday. More than 260 entries were judged by 20 judges from Pampa and over the Panhandle before Friday's winners were announced. Exhibitions included projects in chemistry, biochemistry, zoology, botany, medicine and health, earth and space, math, physics and computers.

POLL TAX NEEDED FOR LOCAL ELECTIONS

Federal Judges Stay Voting Decision

HOUSTON (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel in Houston Saturday granted a 30-day stay to its earlier decision that the poll tax as a requirement to voting was unconstitutional.

The decision will now make a valid poll tax receipt necessary for voting in the upcoming March 8 bond issue for Pampa.

At the same time, the court ruled the voter registration act passed by the recent special session of the Texas Legislature was constitutional.

That meant that the registration period from March 3-18 as set up by the bill will go on as scheduled. It also means that persons voting in the numerous city elections and local option elections around the state this month will have to have a poll tax.

The three-judge panel, made up of Adrian Spears, Homer Thornberry, and John R. Brown, ruled Feb. 9 that the poll tax in Texas was unconstitutional.

That caused Gov. John Connally to call a special session of the legislature, at which the new voter registration bill was passed.

But in order to have time to implement the bill, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr asked the court to grant a 30-day stay of its order.

The U. S. government, however, surprised Carr Friday night by filing a motion with the court in an attempt to have the voter registration bill declared unconstitutional because it allowed only 15 days for voters to register and that the last day of registration was as much as eight months away from a key election.

The court turned down this motion, but said that following the 15-day registration period, if the Justice Department still felt that not enough persons were able to register during that period of time, government attorneys could ask for an extension of the registration period.

The court expresses hope that everyone will have a chance to register during that 15-day period," said Judge Brown.

Carr told the court Saturday he had asked for the stay to prevent fraudulence in voting.

If the stay had not been granted, election officials would have had to keep two sets of records—one for those with a poll tax and one for those who would take an oath at the polling place that they met voting requirements.

"It is not our purpose to keep people from voting," said Carr. "We are trying to keep our ballot boxes pure and ask the assistance of the court. We are caught between your decree on one hand and all the municipal elections on the other."

The court agreed with Carr, and granted the stay, but said they would not grant any more stays. Attorneys for the Travis County Republican executive committee had asked that the stay be granted for all of this year.

Former Pampa Pastor Releases New Publication

A new book, "Famous Texas Landmarks", by Rev. W. L. (Bill) Hopper, has been released by the Arrow Press of Dallas and Mesquite. The author is a former resident and pastor of Pampa.

The purpose of the book is to collect, in one volume, all information needed for a study of the great historical monuments in the state. It takes each landmark all the way from inception to the present, giving tourist information where possible, and telling the present condition of the site.

There is a complete chapter on Palo Duro Canyon, with its resplendent history and present tourist attractions; a chapter on old Tascosa, Cowboy Capital of Texas from 1877 to 1888; the story of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, with a full page picture furnished by Boys Ranch; a chapter on the battle of Adobe Walls, with the events leading up to the battle; and a story of old Mobeetie in its hey-days, and old Fort Elliot.

The book was written in 1963, while the author was minister of the Church of God in Pampa. The Reverend Hopper has since moved to Dallas, and is pastoring the Elam Road Church of God there. His articles appeared in the Pampa News many times while he resided here.

BREAKING BAD NEWS
WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Defense Department has ordered the Army and Air Force to send officers to notify the next of kin of servicemen killed or missing in action in South Viet Nam whenever possible.

In a memorandum to the services Friday, Deputy Defense Secretary Cyrus Vance noted that next of kin now "are being notified by telegram delivered by mail, messenger or taxicab." He said "such impersonal procedures" were not in keeping with the government's interest in the welfare of servicemen's families.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson was scheduled to meet with reporters for a formal news conference today. The White House announced that the session, to be the President's 56th such meeting with newsmen since he took office, would be held in Johnson's office at noon EST. The major topic of discussion at the news conference was once again expected to be the war in Viet Nam. Johnson's last news conference was held Feb. 11.

The Olympic games were first celebrated in 776 B.C. At first the program was confined to one day and a single event, a race the length of the stadium. Later, the discus throw, the javelin throw, the broad jump, boxing, wrestling, the pentathlon, chariot racing and other events were added. The duration, including the religious ceremonies, was increased to seven days.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Friday confirmed President Johnson's nomination of Hack Hood Vaughan to be director of the Peace Corps over the objection of Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who called Vaughan "grossly incompetent."

Vaughan, former assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, came under criticism from Morse for his role in Johnson's intervention in the Dominican Republic rebellion last April. He succeeds R. Sargent Shriver as head of the Peace Corps.

The idea that Social Security benefits can be increased without raising taxes has the interested attention now of Great Society thinkers. They like the idea.
This idea is a prescription for a political painkiller. More precisely, it is a device to escape the discipline whereby Congress has voted always to accompany increased Social Security benefits with increased pay roll taxes. Politicians are galled by discipline, especially by any discipline that requires Congress to tax the voters for funds with which to pay for the federal goodies provided for them. The left wing sodality called Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) is promoting a fly-now-crash-later plan whereby benefits would be much increased without a matching increase in taxes.
ADA is well represented in the Johnson administration. It has done much of the Great Society thinking and planning. An ADA proposal would supplement the payroll tax with funds from the general revenue.
Something For Nothing
That means to draw upon the general fund of the U.S. Treasury for benefits. The general fund receives general tax revenue and also the proceeds of Treasury borrowing. If benefits could be siphoned out of the general fund into the pockets of the pensioners, the level of benefits could be raised without the levy of additional taxes. Thus would come true the politician's dream of keeping the voters happy—and remaining in office by giving the voters something for nothing.
A jack rabbit can make 20-foot-long leaps.

Rogers to Take Part in Review Of Stockpile

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Sp1) — Congressman Walter Rogers will take part this week in a sweeping review of Government policies affecting the minerals and metals stockpile program and the impact of stockpile sales upon the domestic mining industry.

Congressman Rogers, a member of the Subcommittee on Mines and Mining of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs said the public hearings will constitute "one of the important studies to be undertaken in this Session by any Committee of Congress. The Nation's security and the well-being of our domestic mining and minerals industry are highly dependent of the sound administration of policies affecting the $8.1 billion stockpile."

Hearings will be held Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, Congressman Rogers said. Materials valued at $4 billion are now considered by the Office of emergency Planning to be in excess of presently determined needs. The way in which this excess is disposed of is of primary importance to the domestic mining industry. Rogers said. He pointed out that the stockpile of such minerals as aluminum, copper, lead, zinc and mercury was created for use in a national emergency. "The stockpile is not maintained to be used as a source of cheap minerals for the advantage of anyone or to the detriment of the mining industry, and it was not intended to be used as a means of indirect price control."

On Monday, Rogers will preside as another subcommittee of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee receives testimony on the saline water program proposed for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Rogers is subcommittee chairman. Meanwhile, the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, on which Congressman Rogers serves as ranking majority member, has scheduled two days of hearings on a bill introduced by Congressman Rogers to free railroads and other common carriers from punitive taxation policies.

Among measures scheduled to come before the full House of Representatives this week is the defense authorization bill providing supplemental funds with which to conduct the war in Viet Nam.

SO LONG AND WELCOME! — Roscoe Wyckoff, left, bids a dual greeting to Aubrey Sprawls. Wyckoff says welcome to Sprawls, from Shattuck, Okla., to replace him as the Pampa Santa Fe ticket agent. He also bids him a "so long" and starts his retirement. Wyckoff, an employee of Santa Fe Railroads since 1914, was honored with a retirement coffee Saturday afternoon at the Pampa Santa Fe office.

Forecast Calls For Slight Chance of Rain

Fog and mist moved into Pampa early this morning and forecasters called for mostly cloudy skies and a slight chance for precipitation today. Today's high temperature will be in the middle 50's with a cooling trend tonight and Monday. Winds are southerly from 15 to 25 m.p.h. Rare winter thundershowers raked the rice - growing area around Palacios on the Gulf Coast Saturday and steady rain drummed most of the state from the Red River to the Gulf. It was cloudy and mild across most of Texas.

The rainy weather was expected to continue through Sunday with some clearing expected on the west.

Rainfall amounts were light in most areas. A strong flow of moist air was pushing northward across Texas from the Gulf, accounting for the rain.

Apollo

The Atlantic at about 11:46 a.m. EST. Had astronauts been aboard, they apparently would have survived the flight in good shape.

The craft landed only 38 miles from the prime recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Boxer — marking a stunning climax to a day that earlier appeared destined to end in disappointment.

Once the countdown reached within an instant of blastoff, only to have an automatic sensing device shut down the engines because it detected trouble in a fuel valve pressurization system. The trouble was quickly remedied, and the countdown resumed. But again difficulty cropped up in the pressurization system. This time officials cancelled the shot, but reversed their decision minutes later and said the problem was not sufficiently serious.

Once the countdown was again resumed, it proceeded without hitch through the spectacular ignition that bathed the launch pad in a sea of flames.

In what seemed an agonizingly slow ascent, the 214-foot space machine climbed steadily until it was above its 31-story umbilical tower, and then picked up speed as it roared away on its up-and-down roller coaster flight that took it to an altitude of 310 miles. The major objects of the flight were to determine how the Saturn 1B would perform and whether Apollo could survive its fiery return to earth at speeds even greater than the two-man Gemini capsules have experienced.

Success of the flight sharply boosted U.S. hopes of sending astronauts to the moon in three years, and cleared the way for a second unmanned suborbital flight early this summer. Another success could lead to the first three-man orbital flight late this year.

Apollo's own 21,900 thrust rocket engine fired for the first time 20 minutes after launch to give the spaceship — roomier than any in which U.S. astronauts have yet flown — a downward thrust that slammed the craft into the atmosphere at 18,600 miles per hour, generating searing, 4,200 degree heat.

Wyckoff Retires After 53 Years With Santa Fe

Roscoe A. Wyckoff, agent for the Santa Fe Railroad at Pampa, has announced his retirement Feb. 28 after 53 years of service.

Wyckoff and his wife reside at 909 E. Francis and are the parents of two children. Wyckoff was presented with a cash gift by co-workers and employees of the Plains Division on Saturday, his last day on the job.

PROPER SLEEP IS ALWAYS IMPORTANT

With few exceptions, it is not true that the older one gets the less sleep is needed. Older people usually need more sleep to help limit tension, fatigue, dizziness and headaches which senior citizens often get because they may sleep less than seven hours each night.

Once in a while a mild home remedy for sleeping can be helpful. But, if getting to sleep is a constantly recurring problem, you should consult your physician. We have many prescription medicines he may prescribe to better solve your problem.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Red Cross News

by LIBBY SHOTWELL
Executive Secretary

Saturday afternoon the executive board for the Youth Group for the Panhandle of Texas met in the Red Cross office with six members present. The president, Lynn Sumpter from Berger presided while the group discussed plans for the Youth Conference to be held in April—hopefully at the AAFB. The program was outlined and certain chapters were assigned to certain parts of the conference work. Those present were Mary Ford, Secretary from Berger, Mrs. Eunice Hicks Beach from Amarillo, Susan De Siera, Amarillo; Kenneth Cowan, vice president Pampa and Libby Shotwell Pampa. The next meeting will be in Amarillo at the Chapter house 1890 S. Harrison March 5th at 10 a.m.

The Red Cross Board will meet the March 8. Mark this date on your calendar so you will not miss it.

Wes Langham and Rev. J. W. Dicks met with the UF Committee this past week and discussed plans for participation in next year's Fund Drive. We are hearing grumblings about the number of fund drives we are having and if we do not have the UF next year, we will all really be grumbling. If you are interested in the UF won't you plan to give accordingly and call the UF President, Ralph McKinney and tell him that you will work to make it go over the next year.

Frank Stallings our veteran First Aid instructor will begin a Standard First Aid Class March 1 in the City Club Room at 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. The class is open to the public and anyone who wishes to take the Standard First Aid Course is invited to attend. The First Aid Textbooks are 60 cents and there is no fee for the instruction. Stallings taught First Aid during WWII at the Pampa Air Force Base and has been teaching ever since. He has taught classes in Junior, Standard and Advanced First Aid and he also carries a Mobile Unit in his car.

Ray Fisher, first aid instructor and a member of the Fire Department in Pampa, is teaching a Boy Scout Troop in Jr. and Standard First Aid. Several of the Boy Scout Leaders are taking the course also.

Foy Barrett, First Aid Instructor and a member of the Church of Christ is teaching a group of young people and adults a Standard First Aid Course after the evening services each Sunday. Barrett works for Northern Natural Gas Co. at Skellytown and has been an Instructor in First Aid 15 years.

It was with deep concern and regret that Red Cross watched our UF fail to make its goal this past fall. With the amount of funds allowed our organization from the UF, we will not be able to carry on the program we have had in the past without additional funds. There is only one alternative this year, to have a "Balance of Need Fund Drive" in March. This is the first time since Red Cross went into the UF that we have had funds enough to carry on our work. This year with the Vietnam situation getting worse, our Red Cross is obligated to meet the needs of our servicemen and their families. Hurricane Betsy and other major disasters almost depleted our Disaster fund and there is a great need to put funds back into the Disaster Fund for we do not know where the need will be next. Our board voted to have a house to house canvas for memberships of $1.00 March 15 and to place a Red Cross sticker in every window. With your dollars, we can put Red Cross over the top this year and programs will not have to be stopped or cut. Let us continue our Water Safety program with trained personnel, let us continue our First Aid program, Gray Lady and Nursing programs. Won't you offer your services to Red Cross and help us go over the top in this necessary project? Call MO 4-7121!

Anyone who holds an Advanced First Aid card may attend the FA Instructor's class in Perryton beginning February 28 through March 4 at the Courthouse on 501 S Main St. at 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Mrs. Margaret Riley, executive secretary from Perryton invites anyone to come to this important meeting. Toots Gilliam will be the instructor trainer and there is no charge for the course.

Miss Marion Neslage who is attending college at Loretto Heights, Colorado has completed her Water Safety Instructor Course and will assist our chapter in our Swim program during the summer months. Marian is the 4th Neslage who is trained in Water Safety and has become an Instructor.

LOOK INTO FUTURE — The role of young men in the development of West Texas and the Panhandle was discussed here Thursday by two Texans who have much in common in the future of these areas. On the left in the photo is John Ben Shepperd of Odessa, a vice president of West Texas Chamber of Commerce and past president of both the Texas and U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, as he talked with A. J. Carubbi of Pampa, current president of the Texas Jaycees. It was Shepperd who nominated Carubbi for West Texan of the Month, an honor recently bestowed upon the Pampa attorney.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE—This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—What's the difference between a short-term and a long-term capital gain or loss?

A—A capital gain or loss results from the sale or exchange of a capital asset (stock, personal residence, etc.). If you held the asset six months or less, its sale or exchange results in a short-term gain or loss. If the transaction occurs after you have held the asset for more than six months, a long-term gain or loss is realized. Long-term capital gains are granted preferential tax treatment. A complete discussion of this subject may be found in IRS Document No. 5048, "Sales and Exchange of Assets," free and available by your writing to the District Director.

Q—What about political contributions. Are they deductible?

A—No. The law does not permit deductions for contributions to political parties.

Q—The pump at the station where I buy gas shows how much of the cost is for taxes. Can I use this figure when I itemize my deductions?

A—No. Part of this total tax figure is for Federal excise taxes, which are not deductible. Only state and local taxes are deductible. Look on page 9 of the 1040 instructions for the amount you may deduct for gas taxes in this state.

Q—If you use a diaper service on the advice of a doctor can this cost be included with your medical expenses?

A—No. Even though diaper services may have some relationship to medical care, they are not considered deductible medical expenses.

Q—My wife's salary came to only a few hundred dollars last year. Does she have to file a return on this income?

A—Community property law in Texas requires each spouse to file on 1/2 of the entire community income. In this case, your wife could either file a joint return with you (including all income) or file a separate return. If she files a separate

The Wednesday night dinner meeting will be held at Coronado Inn in Amarillo beginning at 7 p. m.

The giant Texas Restaurant Association has 21 chapters in every part of the state, with over 3,200 members.

Clark, the state president, will speak on "The Right Direction. Take Advantage of Tomorrow's Opportunities," which is the theme for his term of office. Assistant Executive Vice-President Price will speak on "Change With It. . . Or It Passes You By!"

Clark has had a varied career. After attending college at Baylor University and The University of Texas, he became a salesman, working first for the Hull Printing Company in Austin, and then for Libby, McNeil and Libby in Chicago, New Orleans, several Texas cities and

The now famed Hickory Stick was opened by Clark in February of 1954, and since that time he has served in various capacities in the Texas Restaurant Association. Harder you work, the luckier you are, if you do it in the right direction.

A graduate of the National Restaurant Association's "Executive Development Program," he has been a major speaker at food service industry conventions in Alabama, New Mexico, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, as well as many civic and industrial meetings a and at the University of Houston; served in the U. S. Army for two years, attaining the rank of sergeant, and was food instructor for the Fourth Army Food Service School at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio before going overseas for 18 months combat service in Korea.

A graduate of the National Restaurant Association's "Executive Development Program," he has been a major speaker at food service industry conventions in Alabama, New Mexico, Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida, as well as many civic and industrial meetings a seminars, and for the past three years has been Show Manager of the Texas Restaurant Association's annual conventions, held alternately in Dallas and Houston, with 10,000 delegates attending each show. TRA's 1966 fabulous show will be held June 28, 29, 30, in the Texas capital city at Austin's Municipal Auditorium and Convention Center, which is less than a day's driving distance of any section of Texas.

O'Connor urged all food-service men and women in the Panhandle area, whether TRA members or not, to attend the March 2 meeting.

The new sound of music is you at the Hammond

Half the Hammond Organs we sell are bought by people who can't play a note

Unlike a bunch of people you could pick to sell organs to. Yet they own and love and play thousands upon thousands of Hammond Organs. And this year, an astonishing number of them will trade in their Hammond Organs on our larger models . . . because they've learned to play well enough to want a larger challenge. (COULDN'T PLAY A NOTE?) This may help to convince you that the excuse you've been using all this time isn't as final as you thought. All you need do is put your enthusiasm where your talent ought to be . . . and within thirty days you'll be playing a Hammond Organ with unsuspected authority. Thousands of people know it's true because they've done it . . . and now it's your turn.

This is the low-priced Hammond Spinnet Organ. It has Harmonic Drawbars, 16 tabs, Reverberation, Permanent Pitch, Touch-Response Percussion. In French Provincial styling, light cherry.

Advisory Group Chairman Speaks for Bond Passage

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series of four Sunday articles on Pampa's $2,900,000 bond issue election to be submitted to voters on March 8. The articles are written by the chairmen of the Citizen Advisory Committees which recommended the improvements. Today's article is by Clinton Evans, chairman of the Streets and Thoroughfares Committee, and is being published by the Pampa Daily News as a public service.

By CLINTON EVANS
Our need for streets is simple — to get us where we want to go as easily and as safely as possible. All of us know there are many streets in Pampa that fail to meet these needs. Some streets are dirt. Some crooked. Some narrow. Some cut-off by railroads and creeks.

The Streets and Thoroughfares Committee tried to make recommendations to correct part of these failings. The answer on the unpaved streets is obvious. The thoroughfares that should move large volumes of traffic easily and quickly, there are many problems. Changes in the older, built-up sections of town are expensive. Our recommendations were limited to corrections that we thought would give the most good for the least cost over the next five years.

The following projects were included in the street and thoroughfare bond issue:

PAVING PROGRAM — No one has to be sold on the advantages of paved streets. The main drawback in the past has been the money problem, both for individuals and the city. This bond issue sets up funds for the city's share of a large paving program. It is possible the city can arrange with a responsible finance agency for an installment payment plan for individual property owners. This method has been used very effectively in many cities to arrange extensive paving projects.

HARVESTER STREET — From Pampa High School to east city limits, this is the heaviest traveled dirt street in town. It is a vital link between the east side of Pampa, the high school, Coronado Center, and the area north of the high school. City dump trucks use it constantly as a short cut to the dump grounds. As a thoroughfare street, the potential traffic is tremendous.

DUNCAN STREET — Here is a prime example of a bottleneck. The traffic load is so bad on this narrow street, many people in northeast Pampa circle over to Hobart Street to go downtown. Duncan is a direct link between south Pampa, downtown, the high school, and north Pampa. A widened Duncan Street would help Hobart Street, provide easier access to high school, furnish a direct route into town and take traffic off residential streets.

BRIDGE AND STREET FROM N. END OF SOMERVILLE ST. TO HOBART ST. — There are two major reasons for this extension. One, it will provide a direct link between downtown and Coronado Center. Two, it will help relieve a major traffic jam at the intersection of Hobart, Gwendolyn, West and Cook by carrying part of the load. Our committee made other recommendations to the City Commission on work that should be started to solve other traffic problems within our city. We believe the projects included in the present bond issue will be a major forward step in making Pampa a better city — truly, the Top O' Texas.

The Family Lawyer

TOO SICK TO WORK?

As he result of a stroke, Mary suffered permanent disability in one hand. This made it impossible for her to carry on her usual job in a textile mill. So she put in a claim for disability benefits under the federal Social Security Act.

However, her claim was turned down. Reason: she was still able to perform other jobs in the mill which were open to her.

Generally speaking, the Social Security Act does provide monthly cash payments to an eligible workman with a long term disability. The purpose is to "bridge the gap" until he is old enough to collect retirement benefits.

But when is a person sufficiently disabled to qualify for aid? The law seeks to help those truly in need, yet not those who in all fairness could still earn their own living.

Thus, you ordinarily cannot collect benefits if your handicap is one that could be remedied with a reasonable exercise of will power.

In one case a man was suffering from back pains, too severe to allow him to work. However, it appeared that his condition could be greatly improved if he would diet off some excess poundage.

Under these circumstances, a court held he was not disabled in the sense that the law meant — and therefore he did not qualify for disability payments.

Another rule, illustrated by Mary's case above, is that you are not disabled merely because you can no longer do exactly the same job you have done in the past. The law expects you to take an alternative job, if you are fitted for it.

On the other hand, the law does not expect you to seek work beyond your capacities. For example:

A workman, forced by injuries to give up manual labor, was still physically able to do clerical work at a desk. But he had neither the education nor the experience for it. Therefore, a court held him sufficiently disabled to qualify for benefits.

Nor must you seek a kind of work which you could do only at the cost of grievous pain and effort. As one judge put it, the law should not be applied so sternly that it would aid only the "totally helpless and bedridden" and "those at death's door."

PLANNED FOR TOWN AND COUNTRY — Planned originally as a farm house, this one-floor dwelling designed by the Agricultural Department's Research Service also can be adapted to the needs of growing families in many urban and suburban areas. It contains many features usually found only in much more expensive homes. Working drawings for the house, designated Plan No. 7169, can be obtained from county agents, extension agricultural engineers at state agricultural colleges, or the U.S. Agricultural Engineering Research Division, Beltsville, Md.

APPROVE PEACE

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The Indian parliament Monday approved the Tashkent peace agreement between India and Pakistan.

The agreement calls for withdrawing of troops from disputed areas of Kashmir and the gradual restoration of normal relations along the border. The troops are to be pulled back to positions both sides held before hostilities broke out last fall.

PARIS (UPI) — Parisians were warned over the radio Thursday to alert police but not to touch or open three packages with radioactive isotopes which dropped from a truck while being taken to a hospital.

Celanese President Talks of Potential

Chemical engineers and the American chemical industry can influence the peace and stability of the world by assuming greater responsibility for the orderly development of the Free World's under-developed countries, according to H. K. Busch, president of Celanese Chemical Co., who visited the Pampa Celanese plant Thursday afternoon.

Busch was accompanied here by R. L. Mitchell, vice president in charge of company technical and manufacturing divisions.

Busch said the chemical industry has become the great innovator in developed countries, creating the technological changes that spur growth and bring new opportunities. Now, he said, "the chemical industry and the chemical engineers are obligated to extend these contributions on a world-wide basis."

Fewer than 20 per cent of the world's peoples live in the 24 countries designated by the United Nations as industrially developed, he stated. However, he pointed out, they hold more than 90 per cent of the gold used as monetary reserves, more than 90 per cent of the world's autos, more than 82 per cent of the telephones and television sets, their facilities manufacture more than 80 per cent of the world's total products.

"One of the greatest international problems we face is the continued failure of under-developed areas to share in industrial advances," Busch said. "Held back by lack of skill and beset by continuing population pressures, these areas can look forward to little improvement."

If present conditions continue, Busch said, the gap between the industrially developed world and the under-developed areas is actually expected to widen.

"In a world where half the people are rich and the other half are starving, who can possibly conceive of permanent stability and peace?" he asked. The best practical solution, Busch said, is for the "have" nations to help under-developed areas improve their technical and organizational skills and build their own local markets. The chemical industry, he continued, is better equipped than any other industry to make these crucial contributions to the future of under-developed areas.

"More than any other profession, any other industry, chemical engineers and the chemical industry have the orientation and the skills to aid under-developed areas," Busch said. "As our research people develop what the people want and can buy, and as we chemical engineers figure out the most economic ways to make it, we are providing the greatest possible stimulus to the development of mass markets in all areas of the world."

Busch said that he is convinced that American industry, particularly the American chemical industry, can contribute more to the development of poverty-stricken areas than all the foreign aid, economic formulae and systems put together. He said if chemical engineers are to accept their proper place in world society, they "must accept the challenge and responsibility for us in this changing world."

PROPOSES NIMITZ HONOR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., proposed today that the Navy's next nuclear aircraft carrier be named for the late fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz — "the man who made the aircraft carrier a potent and formidable element in sea warfare."

In introducing his resolution, Wilson praised Nimitz for his "vision, daring and uncommon sense of strategy and planning. No one can adequately measure the gratitude that our nation has for the courageous and skillful leadership Adm. Nimitz gave our Pacific Fleet when the chips were down."

SIGN FOOD AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Algeria have signed a $12.5 million "food for peace" agreement for shipment of 7.3 million bushels of wheat to the North African nation.

The agreement for long-term dollar credit sales, part of an aid program replacing one which expired last June, was signed Wednesday in Algiers, according to the State Department.

Pampa Ties For Eighth in Track

Pampa thrived, running in the best weather they've seen this year finished in a tie with Berger for eighth in the Fort Stockton Relays Saturday.

Gary Crossland finished second in the broad jump to garner the Harvesters highest award in the meet.

Cooper of Abeline won the meet with 111 points and Periman of Odessa was second with 94. Pampa and Berger had 16 points each.

Crossland jumped 21-4 on his first try and was off stride in his other two jumps. The winning jump was 23-3 by an Odessa Periman trackster.

Gary McCarroll finished fifth in the 440 with a time of 51.2 and first place was won in the time of 49.3.

Ted Bird was fourth in the low hurdles with a time of 21.0 with the winning time, 19.9.

Doc Cornutt finished fifth in the shot with a heave of 50-10 and the winning toss was 57 feet.

The Harvesters liked one-tenth of a second qualifying for the 440 relay, according to coach Jeep Webb.

Webb said the Harvesters did a lot better than he expected due to the number of days they had to work out.

Two new meet records were set with Abilene Cooper breaking the old standard in the mile relay with a time of 3:19.5 and a new high jump mark was set at 6'.

BACK IN TIME — Harvester baseballer Ron Sanders will make it back to first base in time to be called safe before first baseman Lawrence Jones can get the ball. The Harvesters worked out in an intra-squad game Saturday in preparation for their March 14 opener.

Dave's No Horseman But He Can Sure Pitch

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

MIAMI (UPI) — You figure a guy from Montana would be at least a bit bow-legged, wear Western boots roll his own cigarettes, possibly play the guitar and certainly be at home on a horse.

Well if you figure that about Dave McNally, you figure a wrong even though he was born and raised in Billings, Mont.

McNally's legs are as straight as a pair of foul poles; he wears conventional type dress shoes; smokes filter tip cigarettes; doesn't play any musical instrument and holds on for dear life anytime someone manages to coax him atop a horse.

What Dave McNally does do is pitch. And there are many who claim the quiet, unobtrusive 23-year-old southpaw is the finest pitcher on the Baltimore Orioles' staff which, if you remember, was the finest in the American League last year.

"I guess not many major league ball players ever came from Montana at that," conceded McNally. "The only others I know of were Herbie Plovers and Curt Barclay. But the Mets have a good looking young pitcher coming up from Montana. His name is Les Rohr. I'd keep an eye on him."

It wouldn't be amiss to keep an eye peeled on McNally, either, for many reasons.

He had an 11-6 record for the Orioles last year, struck out 116 in 199 innings and turned in a flashy 2.85 earned run average.

Need Strong Arm
Now that Milt Pappas is gone, the Orioles need a good strong arm to go along with Steve Barber's and McNally looks as if he's elected. Two heads always are better than one and so are two great arms. Sandy Koufax is one thing, but Koufax along with Don Drysdale are over powering.

"If I can pick up where I left off last year," says McNally, "I think I can help the club."

Manager Hank Bauer says essentially the same thing. Only he doesn't use the word help. He uses the word "MAKE."

And the way he uses it makes you know he's spelling it in capital letters.

As a kid in Montana, McNally never cared much about becoming a cowboy.

"I never did any cow punching and I never was much for riding horses," he says, "I remember getting on a horse when I was playing ball in the Arizona Instructional League a few years ago and all the ball players from the East and South rode much better than I did."

Early Start
All McNally ever thought about was playing ball and he started rather early. At the age of eight, he already was pitching and playing the outfield for a local little league team.

Nine years later, he was signed by Oriole scouts Jim Russo and Jim Wilson. Dave was 17 then and he already knew about high finance.

The Orioles paid him an $80,000 bonus and Dave immediately put the money in a trust fund, with half that sum going to his mother and the other half to him. His father wasn't around to see the signing.

Dave's dad, a former Navy Lieutenant, was killed at Okinawa when his son was only three.

"I don't remember my father," says McNally. "He was in the Navy a year and a half when he was killed. I know he was a football player and a boxer. He made his way through college by boxing."

Baltimore players tell you that McNally has the equipment to become one of the topnotchers in the circuit. Dave isn't the kind to blow his own horn, though. He'd rather talk about the ones who give him trouble.

"Bill Skowron and Don Lick are real rough," he says, "but Tom Fresh kills me consistently."

Don't believe it. No one kills Montana's Dave McNally.

Even if he isn't the fastest gun in the West.

WILL IT OR WON'T IT?

Clay - Terrell Bout Up In Air

By ED SAINSBURY
CHICAGO (UPI) — The scheduled Cassius Clay-Ernest Terrell heavyweight championship fight was in complete confusion Saturday.

The Illinois Athletic Commission, Chairman Joe Triner, and Commissioners Lou Radzienda and Joe Robichaux, were keeping their own counsel until their official meeting Monday, when they are expected to make a decision on the status of the bout.

Promoter Ben Bentley said there was no chance for the bout to be moved to another state so far as he and co-promoter Irving Schoenwald are concerned, but he pointed out that Main Bout Inc., which is handling the closer circuit television arrangements for the scrap, could become desperate and try to arrange for the fight elsewhere.

"I've got the fight until Monday at least," Bentley said, "and we're not even thinking about moving it, but these other guys can't sit around."

Whether the commissioners can decide then was questionable. They had been expected to approve the match after Clay's appearance Friday supposedly to apologize for "unpatriotic" remarks.

Instead, they retreated in confusion when Clay did not apologize to them or the public and State Atty. Gen. William G. Clark issued an opinion that the promoters could not legally hold an Illinois license. Clark also questioned the validity of the licenses of the fighters.

The commission has the power to resolve all of the problems surrounding the promotion of the bout scheduled for March 29.

Schoenwald has a state promoter's license. The commission could transfer the license for the fight to Schoenwald as an individual, or it could grant a new license for the fight to him.

Baseball to Begin Fight For Life in Court Monday

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Major league baseball, which survived scandal, war and a great depression to become America's No. 1 professional sport, begins what could be a fight for life Monday.

Not since the Black Sox scandal of the 1920s has the sport been embroiled in as bitter a court battle. And there are those who say that not since that time has the game been so seriously threatened.

The future of the sport — and that of Milwaukee as a major league city — could be decided by the antitrust suit against the Braves, the National League and its nine other member clubs. Circuit Judge Elmer Roller has ordered trial to begin at 9 a.m., CST, Monday.

Basically, the suit charges baseball with conspiring to boycott Milwaukee. It asks that the Braves either be ordered back here from Atlanta or the city be given another major league team in return.

Legal observers close to the scene, however, feel it is too late to get the Braves back and also too late for baseball to award Milwaukee an expansion franchise for 1966. Instead, most are looking to 1967 as a target date for the court-forced expansion of baseball.

The suit is the first test of the sport's immunity under state antitrust laws and is paired with one of the few real, serious challenges to baseball's immunity from federal antitrust laws. It was filed last

SMU Regains Tie In SWC With Aggies

AUSTIN (UPI) — Southern Methodist held off a frantic second rally by the University of Texas Saturday to whip the Longhorns 71-69 and move back into a tie with Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference basketball chase.

SMU led by 15 points early in the second half but saw the lead dwindle quickly. Texas took over with eight minutes left in the contest and as late as three minutes left, led the Mustangs by four points.

But SMU fought back to tie it up with 1:30 left and the Mustangs stalled until Denny Holman hit a driving lay-up with a mere 15 seconds left in the contest.

A final shot by Billy Arnold at the gun went wide for Texas.

SMU and Texas A&M are even with 9 - 3 conference records. Each has two games left. The Aggies take on Baylor at College Station and Arkansas at Fayetteville, while SMU faces TCU at Fort Worth and Texas Tech at Dallas.

Texas' inability to hit both from the field and from the free throw line proved the difference. The Longhorns hit only 38.9 per cent of their shots from the field and only 13 of 26 from the free throw line.

SMU took fewer shots from the line than did Texas but hit more, cashing in on 15 of 19.

Charles Beasley led SMU with 20 points, followed by Carroll Hooser with 18. But Noel Stout of Texas led all scorers with 21.

Giles Favores Braves in South

ATLANTA (UPI) — National League President Warren Giles has made it pretty clear that as far as he is concerned it will be a while before Milwaukee and major league baseball join forces again.

Giles was in Atlanta Thursday to testify for a deposition to be used in Milwaukee County Circuit Court for an anti-trust suit starting Monday against the Atlanta Braves and the National League.

From Giles' statements, it appears Milwaukee will have quite a wait before the league considers moving in there again.

"Milwaukee was a good baseball town," said Giles, who has been a baseball executive for 46 years.

"But, I have grave doubts about its willingness to properly support a National League club. The general atmosphere built up there by legal gymnastics has created an anti-baseball attitude."

He said this attitude was created by "an antagonistic press" and by Milwaukee County Commission Chairman Eugene Grobschmidt.

However, Giles did leave a ray of hope for Milwaukee.

"I think future expansion is inevitable although I couldn't pinpoint a time," Giles said. "Expansion is a very complex thing. I do not think Milwaukee is foreclosed for the future to National League baseball."

Kreis Paces TCU, 106-88

FORT WORTH (UPI) — A pressing defense and a run-and-shoot offense brought Texas Christian an easy 106-88 victory Saturday over the Baylor Bears.

The win evened both clubs conference records at 5-7 and left them tied for fifth place with only two games left.

Wayne Kreis hit for 27 points and Jess Evans contributed 20 for the Frogs, but the main story was Texas Christian's ability to move down court, get away a quick shot and hit it.

The Frogs had a 49.5 per cent average from the field and took 17 more shots than did the Bears.

Darrell Hardy paced the Bear attack with 28 points, and kept Baylor in the contest during the opening minutes. But TCU raced away during the latter stages of the first half and owned a 49-39 halftime lead.

At one time in the second period, TCU built up a 28 point lead, and both coaches emptied their benches with five minutes left to play.

Bo, Fisher Still Holdouts

By United Press International

The players who aren't in spring training make bigger headlines at this time of the year than those "working" under the hot tropical sun.

While their teammates sweated under the lashed of 20 unbeaten managers, such as Jim Maloney, Jack Fisher and Bo Belinsky were engaging in a more interesting sport, fencing with the management.

Maloney, who pitched two no-hitters and won 20 games last season, said in Fresno, Calif., that the Cincinnati Reds' latest offer is unacceptable. Maloney is striving to leap into the $50,000 class, an acrobatic feat club President Bill DeWitt says is impossible.

Sal Magile Returning To Baseball

SAL MAGILE
...back in uniform

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (NEA) — Sal Magile, a journeyman pitcher on one of baseball's nondescript teams, leaned over to lift the ringing phone from its cradle in his Miami hotel room.

The call interrupted a nap on a March evening in 1946, nearly 20 years ago.

It also changed Magile's career, his life and the history of baseball.

Would Sal, in the midst of spring training, be interested in pitching down in Mexico? No. Then how about the other guys? The Pasquel brothers, patrons of the Latin league, were interested in obtaining infielders and pitchers.

The caller was Danny Gardella, Sal's teammate on the '45 Giants, the first name baseball player to jump his contract for a Mexican League pay check.

Magile passed on Gardella's proposition to pitcher Adrian Zabala, shortstop Buddy Kerr, second baseman George Hausmann and first baseman Roy Zimmermann. Zabala, Hausmann and Zimmermann were interested. Kerr was tempted. In the eyes of Giants' owner Horace Stoneham that made Sal the "instigator of the whole Mexican League affair."

Stoneham met with Hausmann, Zabala, Zimmermann and Magile in manager Mel Ott's room. He banished them from the Giants' training camp.

Little more than 24 hours later they were in Mexico.

Sal Magile, 45 years old, a base ball legend now, leaned back and searched his mental scrapbook to put things into focus.

"She'll be 20 years old soon. It doesn't seem possible."

Magile was assigned to Puebla, a city of about 40,000 two hours outside of Mexico City. He was the only American on the team.

"Dolph Luque was my manager, a mean man," says Magile. "I found out that you have to be hard if you expect your pitchers to learn from you. I've been out of major league baseball for three years, but I'm going back to handling the Red Sox pitchers this spring. I'll teach them what Luque taught me."

"I used to throw a roundhouse," remembers Magile. "Luque made me break it off sharper. I threw it like a slider. He told me to get the hitters out with my fast ball and just show them my curve. When I got back with the Giants it was the other way around — they saw my fast ball and went out on my curve."

The Mexican League played 96 games in 1946. Puebla's best pitcher, Magile, appeared 46 times, winning 20 and losing 12. The next year, in a 126-game schedule, he won 20, lost 13. He was Mexico's first 20-game winner.

name players like Max Lanier and Mickey Owens," recalled Magile. "They wanted to cut me to about $1,000 a month in 1948, so I went up to the independent Provincial League in Quebec."

One Sunday in June, 1958, Commissioner Happy Chandler lifted his three-year ban on the Mexican Leaguers.

The reporters called Lanier and Owens and Fred Martin, ignoring the little-known Magile. They didn't realize Magile was to become the best-known veteran of a Mexican campaign since Gen. Pershing.

QUAKERS WIN IVY

Aggies Tumble Helpless Rice

By United Press International

All dressed up with no place to go.

That's how the Pennsylvania basketball team feels after clinching at least a tie for the Ivy League championship and ostensibly a berth in the NCAA tournament with a 83-68 triumph over Columbia Friday night.

Any other year Penn would be heading toward post-season play but earlier Friday the NCAA declared Penn and five other schools ineligible for its tournament for failure to comply with NCAA legislation concerning academic requirements for athletes.

Jeff Neuman's 28 points and steady ball handling late in the game paced the Quaker win. Stan Pawlak, the team's high scorer with a 23-point average, added 20 to offset a sensational 32-point performance by seven-foot Dave Newmark of Columbia, who received little help from his mates.

The Neuman and Pawlak controlled the ball so completely during the latter stages of the second half that the Quakers did not score a field goal from 9:17 to 3:41 and then waited until the final minute to add their last pair of two pointers.

representative to the NCAA tournament will be determined tonight when top-seeded Davidson meets defending champion West Virginia in the finals of the 13th annual elimination tourney. Davidson advanced with an 84-65 semifinal win over Richmond while West Virginia moved ahead with a 64-50 victory over William & Mary.

William & Mary tried to hold the ball against the favored Mountaineers but Carl Hadspear headed a second-half drive that iced the game, scoring all of his 14 points after intermission. John Cavacini managed game honors with 16 points for the winners, one more than Ben Pomeroy and Tim Walter of A&M.

Texas A&M grabbed a half game lead in the Southwest Conference with a 93-65 drubbing of Rice, but Southern Methodist tied the race today by beating Texas. John Beasley canned 33 points for the victorious Aggies.

In other games, Norman Reuther's 37 points boosted Texas Tech to a 79-74 win over Arkansas; Boston College whipped Seton Hall 112-77; Maryland clipped South Carolina 56-42; on the West Coast, UCLA stopped California 95-79.

Rambling With Red
RON CROSS

Death is a sad thing. It's even sadder when it takes someone you know, someone you like and someone you have respect for.

That's why last Wednesday we were shocked and saddened when we learned of the death of John Marsh.

He was a young man, John was, only 15. He had a long, good life ahead of him.

A good portion of it was in the athletic world. He was good in sports, almost a natural athlete.

He was a fighter. He proved this from late Saturday night until early Wednesday morning. When he was taken to Amarillo with a gunshot wound in his head doctors gave him less than 12 hours to live.

He lived for three days.

John, a sophomore, was a basketball player on the Pampa Shockers cage team. He was almost a sure starter next season.

Good Athlete

He was an exceptionally good baseball player but had decided to concentrate solely on basketball.

I don't think he would have stuck with it. He probably would have been in his baseball shoes this week.

I remember talking to his dad, high school principal Cameron Marsh, last week, and having him tell me that, "I'd like to see him go out for baseball but that's a decision he'll have to make. I can't make it for him."

Like all parents the Marshes were proud of their son, a good scholar, a good athlete, one of those good all-around young men you so seldom read about anymore.

As deeply shocked as anyone was Shocker coach Gary Griffin, who had worked with John for over a year on his basketball hopes.

"I just couldn't believe it," Gary said, "He was a fine boy, smart as a whip. He would have been a fine player."

Before the baseball season started coach Bobby Stephens and I were talking about John.

"I sure hope he comes out," Bobby said, "He should be able to help us a great deal. He's a good boy."

Coach Terry Culley called John's death, "Tragic. I've never seen a boy any more willing to learn."

His Shocker teammates paid their last tribute to young John Thursday by serving as pallbearers and honorary pallbearers.

BRISCO, LONGHORNS TO PLAY

Bi-District Clash Scheduled

Two girls basketball teams, just about as evenly matched as you get, collide in Pampa Fieldhouse at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The bi-district clash pits Darrouzett's Longhorns against Briscoe's Broncos in a game to determine who will advance to regional competition next weekend.

Briscoe is 26-4 and Darrouzett, 20-8. The Broncos have taken two of three games from the Longhorns and just might have a bit of revenge working for them.

The Darrouzett boys upset Briscoe's boys last week in bi-district action calling to a half the longest winning streak in the Panhandle, 33 straight wins. Briscoe stopped the Longhorns by two points in the finals of a tournament at Darrouzett and beat them nine points at Briscoe and lost by 15 at Miami.

Both teams have excellent offensive and defensive averages. Darrouzett is averaging 49.8 points per centest while giving up 38.1 per game. Briscoe has a 48.3 offensive mark and 40.6 defensive average.

Too, they both have outstanding forwards.

Darrouzett has three forwards in double figures in S' Carla Hanshu with a 18.2 average; S' Kathy Howie with a 17.9

average and Donita Gensman, at 5'6 a 10.6 per game scorer.

Briscoe's scoring is paced by S' Dianne Dodd with a 22 point per game average and Lou Meadows, 5'3 scoring at a 18.3 per game clip. Helen Puryear, the other Briscoe forward and part-time guard has an 8.7 average.

Starting at guards for the Longhorns will be S' Coets Alt-miller, S' Bonnie Getz and S' Mary Travis.

The starting guards for Briscoe will probably be Judy Finsterwold a 5'6 guard and Noveta Francis, 5'5 guard and either Puryear or Melody Aybach, a 4'11 freshman.

SO HE'S AIR MINDED

Glider Pilot Likes Sky Better

By ED FITE
ODESSA, Tex. (UPI)— Wallace Scott, one of the world's better glider pilots, is so air minded that his 16-year-old son had 25 hours soaring time and a solo license in motored aircraft before he got his automobile driving license.

"It's safer up there than down here," the 40-plus Scott said, "although in a glider you seem to be in a perpetual state of forced landing."

The elder Scott, who is in the theater business in this thriving West Texas oil capital, has become an international glider figure in less than five years.

He first became interested in soaring in 1961 when another Odessa soaring enthusiast, Alvin Parker, took him for a spin in a two-place glider.

The bug bit Scott so hard that he now spends about 200 hours a year in a motorless plane and drives up to 20,000 land miles a year ferrying his glider from one meet to another and packing it back to base after cross-country flights.

He covered about 5,000 miles in cross country flying in 1964—the year he set a world record by sailing from Odessa to Goodland, Kan., a distance of 505 miles, in 8 hours 52 minutes.

Last year, Scott finished sixth in the Standard Class of the World Soaring championships at South Cerney, England. He also finished second in a speed dash event in the National Soaring Championships at Adrian, Mich. when he averaged 30.25 miles per hour in a 93-mile race.

Scott is one of only 40 persons in this country and 200 in the world to hold the coveted Diamond C Badge, which means that he has covered a flight distance of at least 311 miles and sailed at an altitude gain of 16,404 feet.

World War II Pilot

Sailplaning came easy to Scott, who was a pilot in the Air Force in England, France and India in World War II and who has flown a great deal in small planes since that time.

"Soaring is a thrilling experience, especially for a former pilot," he said. "The challenge is tremendous. You use Mother Nature for your horsepower and the rest is up to you."

"The first time you kick yourself out of the nest and take off on your own, it's rather exciting. But after you get used to it there's nothing else like it in the world."

"You've got to think ahead, watch for the thermals (columns of hot air which give the gliders their climb) and always be ready for a forced landing."

Hayes Proves He Is Master Psychologist

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
DALLAS (UPI)—E. O. (Doc) Hayes doesn't have his nickname for nothing. The man's a master psychologist.

"There's nothing as important as the frame of mind of an athlete," Hayes will tell you. "I'm always reading about Arnold Palmer and others saying how important the mental approach is."

His Mustangs have the proper frame of mind now, thank you, but it wasn't always thus this season.

Beset by illness and sloppy play, SMU got off to a rousing 1-3 start in Southwest Conference play. It looked like a second division finish.

Suddenly, the Mustangs caught fire and won seven in a row, including a crucial victory over Texas A&M and a tie for the SWC lead.

Lot of Talking
"Words, counseling, talking," Hayes said. "There's not anything like adrenalin once it starts to flow."

He said the team began to feel it had a chance to win or share in the championship. Now he fears that they are too inspired, and may forget to "control their thinking."

"It's like a guy who gets drunk, he eventually has a hangover," Hayes said. "There is no question the boys will give a complete effort. We just need to maintain a level approach. Our problem is simple. We've got to think of the next game ahead, one at a time."

Tough Games Ahead
The Mustangs must play dangerous Texas and TCU on the road and host Texas Tech in their final game. The Aggies play Arkansas on the road and host Baylor and Rice at College Station.

The schedule is with the Aggies.

A&M Studies Beef With Dairy Cattle

Texas A&M University's Animal Science Department has started a pilot project to determine practical, money-making possibilities of raising beef from dairy bull and steer calves.

The trial, when completed in April, 1966, has several goals. Most important is to determine cost of beef from the calves. From this information, researchers should get some idea whether such a venture can provide dairymen with another significant source of income. If the project does prove feasible and the practice spreads, demand could be boosted for the dairyman's surplus bull calves. Feeders or dairymen, in some cases, might want to go into dairy beef as a separate enterprise.

Dr. R. E. Leighton, A&M dairy science professor, says many experiments throughout the nation have already shown that dairy and beef bulls can do as well or better than steers in producing the lean meat that diet-conscious consumers prefer nowadays. The main obstacle has been market place discrimination against both dairy beef and lower beef, a practice resulting in lower prices to producers. Research has shown that Holstein bulls or steers can have a higher rate of gain and a higher feed efficiency than beef animals. Moreover, the Holsteins have high cutting yields.

"What we need is a nationwide educational program to correct the discrimination situation. It's costing livestockmen a lot of money," Dr. Leighton said.

The A&M experiment is with Holstein and Brown Swiss bull calves and features hormone implants in the ears. Calves were bought from dairy farms at two to seven days of age.

Leighton said the animals have received no additional milk after purchase. Instead, they have been put directly on the Texas A&M milk replacer formula consisting of 55 pounds non-fat dried milk, 30 pounds dried whey, 15 pounds fat, 2 grams of Vitamin-A at 500,000 units per gram, 25 grams of Vitamin-D at 2,000 units per gram, and a half-pound of a commercial aureomycin compound that contains 10 grams of the antibiotic per pound.

"This formula differs from our regular replacer fed to heifer calves only in percentages of fat and whey. In the latter, we use 10 per cent fat and 35 per cent whey," the scientist said. Up to 90 days of age, the bull calves are also fed a pelleted calf starter composed of 33 per cent ground milo, 35

Santa Fe Report Says Moisture Is Wheat Protector

The March report of the Santa Fe Railway Agricultural Department, released today, reports that snow accompanying the late January freeze, with temperatures well below zero, protected most of the winter wheat acreage from damage by the cold.

In a few areas where snow cover was inadequate to protect the wheat plants there may be some "winterkilling"; however, extent of damage cannot be determined until warm weather revives growth.

In portions of the Texas High Plains and in adjacent counties in New Mexico and Oklahoma additional moisture is urgently needed to start new growth on wheat plants.

Generally, however, in the five states of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico the general appearance of the 1966 winter wheat crop would indicate per acre yields and total production could, with favorable moisture and growing conditions, equal that of the 1965 crop.

In its summary of range conditions, the Santa Fe report says that grazing feed conditions were above average in 13 of the 17 Western Range States but down slightly from conditions reported in early January.

Below normal temperatures and snow cover over much of the Plains during late January contributed to the greater than average decline in conditions since early January.

While higher elevation ranges remain snow covered, prospects for spring pastures are favorable. Range conditions are above average and much better than a year ago in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Last fall we made a very optimistic prediction about the outlook for cattle prices in 1966.

The main thing wrong with our prediction was the fact we were not optimistic enough. We thought it would take until the fall of '66 to see calf prices reach the 28-30 cent level. A few weeks ago we corrected this and quoted Wallace Locke, Miami, as saying that light-weight calves would be 30-32 cents by early spring. They have already surpassed this and are still headed toward the moon. Prices held steady all through November and December '65. In January they began to show strength on all classes of stocker cattle, while finished cattle stood still. About February 1 stocker-feeder cattle blasted off and by mid-February they were in orbit. It was not until two weeks ago that finished cattle began to show real strength. Even though the fat cattle market has advanced recently, it has some catching up to do with stocker-feeder prices.

In my opinion, a cattle feeder is getting on thin ice to pay the going price for replacement heifers and steers weighing in the 500-750 pound range on today's market. In other words today's finished market does not justify the going price of replacements.

One of the main things that has put cattle prices in orbit is the Future's Market. Choice steers are trading for $29 on August Future's. This is true through December Future's.

We have had quite an increased interest by local farmers and ranchers in finishing cattle in both farm feed lots and in commercial feed lots. We think this is a good trend for this area. We have many advantages over other areas in cattle feeding.

But we think it might be time to run up a few red flags of warning against too much optimism in the market. Don't forget that for each person that sells a future's contract you have one that buys the same contract. In other words half of the buyers are begging the price will be $29; the other half are betting the price will be lower than $29. Don't forget the future's market is a very new thing to be tried in the cattle business. Only time will tell if it is an effective tool for determining future price.

Another red flag to consider is the fact that beef is the luxury item in the diets of most Americans. If the price of beef continues to rise, it will tend to reduce the demand for beef, which in turn will tend to reduce the price of beef.

A&M Students To Study Cold Front Effects on Lakes

Four Texas A&M University wildlife science students are conducting an experiment to determine effects of cold fronts on oxygen and temperature patterns of a lake.

Dick Respass of Kilgore, Stephen Smith of Blanco, Danny Mitchell of Dayton, and Barry Lyons of Houston are keeping close check on a lake on the Range and Forestry Area four miles from the A&M campus.

Respass says they are checking the temperature and oxygen of the lake every 6 hours during each cold front. So far they have found the oxygen content is highest on the bottom.

Respass says cold water holds more oxygen than warm water and the wind also aids by mixing more oxygen into the water.

According to Respass the oxygen content of a pond limits the distribution of fish. The fish tend to be in that area that contains the most oxygen.

More regulations prohibiting pollution of the air and water will be forthcoming. These regulations will be coming from the federal government. At first these regulations will be laid directly upon the states. It will be up to the States to come up with a state-wide plan that will be acceptable to the federal authorities. Governor John Connally has indicated that he will appoint the members of the new Air Pollution Control Board in the near future.

Senator Edmund Muskie, Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution, has announced that his committee will begin hearings next month on the proposed plan to rework the Federal aid program for sewer plant construction. The subcommittee has proposed that an incentive be put into the law to assist the States in making grants to cities to construct sewer plants. The pressure on the States is steadily increasing. The new regulations would include direct aid to the cities in states that do not offer the proper financial assistance.

The new U. S. Water Pollution Control Administration office in Dallas has scheduled a meeting on March 11, of the Water Quality Control Group on the Sabine

Texas Livestock Up In Number, Value

COLLEGE STATION — Texas farmers and ranchers went counter to those in the nation by increasing their holdings of cattle, sheep, hogs, goats, and chickens as compared to a year ago.

Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist at Texas A&M University, said figures released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service on Feb. 14 revealed the increases.

Cattle numbers increased by 3 per cent during 1965 to 10,546,000 head on Jan. 1, 1966. The nation showed a decrease of 1 per cent in cattle numbers, he said. Improved range forage and small grain pastures coupled with a larger calf crop and larger in-shipments and smaller out-shipments account for the increase, Uvacek said. The state's total cattle population is valued at $1,213 million.

Beef cows and heifers two years and older in Texas totaled 5,094,000 head, down 1 per cent from a year ago but beef heifers 1-2 years old increased by 8 per cent; calves on hand Jan. 1 increased by 9 per cent and steers over 1 year old increased by 20 per cent.

The 466,000 head of milk cows in Texas on Jan. 1 was 7 per cent below the previous year and followed the national trend. Texas sheep numbers, all sheep and lambs, on January 1 were estimated at $1,194,000 head; goats and kids numbered 4,425,000 head; farm chickens — excluding broilers — totaled 15,610,000 birds and turkeys 602,000 head.

Uvacek said the Reporting Service placed a total value of $1,361 million on the January 1 inventories of livestock and poultry in Texas, up 28 per cent from a year earlier.

SHINE IT UP — This big trophy was given to Halliburton Co.'s Pampa employees Friday night for helping win the oil field service firm's 1965 safe driving contest. Holding the trophy is Elmer Lawrence of Wichita, Kans.; the man with the cloth is Gordon Pursley, local supervisor.

Pampa Employees Get Haliburton Award

Pampa employees of Halliburton Company were honored in Pampa recently for helping the oil field service firm's Wichita division win a nationwide safe driving contest. The local office is part of the Wichita division.

The 29 local employees and their wives, headed by Gordon Pursley, district superintendent in charge, were presented a trophy at a dinner meeting at the Pampa Armory. Hosea P. Hearn, vice president from Halliburton's Duncan, Okla., general offices, told the group:

"Finishing ahead of our ten other domestic divisions was a tough job. Your achievements are particularly noteworthy in view of the fact that they were made during all kinds of driving conditions in all kinds of weather, both day and night."

Elmer Lawrence, division manager from Wichita, pointed out that this record is many times better than John Q. Public's record behind the wheel of his car and is three times better than the oil industry average.

Several other Halliburton executives, including Joe W. Maly of Tulsa, regional manager, J. I. Jordan of Duncan, manager, and O. E. Shurtleff, regional, assistant division manager, and O. E. Shurtleff, regional safety supervisor, both from Wichita, were on hand for the meeting.

MARRIAGE COUNSELORS

TOKYO (UPI) — Japanese military authorities in the remote northern island of Hokkaido set up a marriage counseling service today at Higashi-Chitose base to act as go-between for bachelor servicemen and prospective brides. The service is aimed at discouraging 1,500 unmarried men in the unit from leaving the service in favor of civilian life, where girl friends are presumably more plentiful.

In 1942, the battle of the Java Sea began. It was ultimately won by the Japanese, who sank 13 warships compared to a loss of two in their navy.

Annual Lions Club Minstrel Show Will Benefit Many

The Pampa Daily News

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1966

THE 29TH ANNUAL Lions Minstrel Show will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings, March 11 and 12, at 8 o'clock in Pampa Junior High School Auditorium.

PROCEEDS will go toward the club's support of the Texas Camp for Crippled Children and the Rehabilitation Center for the Blind at Kerrville and the organization's other project, support of the Hi-Plains Eye Bank in Amarillo. The Lions also have sponsored Boy Scout Troop 16 since 1929 and built the Scout House in Lions Club Park.

IN THE COURSE of the 39 years since its founding in Pampa, members of the club have served those less fortunate by providing dental, medical, surgical and hospital care; by furnishing eye-glasses, clothing and food, and by bringing joy and happiness to countless underprivileged children.

THE MINSTREL became a traveling show last year for the first time, appearing in Miami in combined forces with the Miami Lions Club. The show will be presented in Miami next Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

TOP CENTER — Mrs. John Hatcher will serve as piano accompanist for all show acts. Mrs. Hatcher is also a veteran minstrel performer, this being her seventh year as accompanist.

Couple United in Candlelight Ceremony

Mrs. Sterling Thomas Seitz
... nee Miss Linda Gail Brown

First Methodist Church Chapel was the scene last evening for a formal wedding ceremony uniting Miss Linda Gail Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Brown of 700 Deane Drive, and Sterling Thomas Seitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Seitz of Miami.

Rev. R. E. Sloan, pastor of Berger Pentecostal Holiness Church solemnized the double-ring ceremony at 7:30 o'clock before an altar appointed with basket arrangements of gladioli flanked by candelabra bearing white tapers. Jade palms filled the background.

Mrs. Brad Hinkle presented a program of appropriate nuptial selections and accompanied Mrs. Hubert Carson as she sang "Because."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in formal gown fashioned of imported French lace with princess styling. The gown featured a batteau neckline enhanced by a scalloped panel of the chosen lace and long tapering sleeves terminating in petal points. The chapel-length train, which fell from the back, was bordered with white satin. The bride's shoulder-length three-tiered butterfly veil fell gracefully from a French lace petal coil. She carried an arrangement of white roses centered with white orchids, which cascaded across the front of her gown.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Micky Miller, matron of honor, and Miss Linda Zmotony, Miss Linda Andrick and Miss Cathy Hinkle, bridesmaids. Attired identically in floor-length gowns fashioned of dark peau de soie with light blue trim, each carried a bouquet of light blue carnations.

Serving his brother as best man was James David Seitz, while groomsmen were Steve Rousser and Rick Rousser, both of Sunray, and Loyd Seitz of Miami.

Miss Patricia Hinkle attended as flower girl and Steve Nichols was ringbearer.

Guests were greeted in First

Methodist Church Parlor at the reception held following the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a blue net cloth over blue linen, was appointed on one end with an arrangement of white gladioli while a large silver candelabra bearing white tapers stood at the other end. Mrs. E. A. McLennan served the four-tiered wedding cake that was decorated with blue roses. Mrs. Wayne Nichols presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Larry Ingram attended the guest register.

Prior to departing on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the new Mrs. Seitz changed into a blue knit suit and lifted the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return the newlyweds will make their home at 1918 Wisdom, Apt. 1, Amarillo.

Mrs. Seitz, a graduate of Pampa High School, attended East Texas State University, Commerce, where she was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority.

Mr. Seitz, a graduate of Miami High School, is a senior at West Texas State University, Canyon, where he is a member of Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He is employed by General Office Supply in Amarillo.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mrs. Mary Martin and Mrs. Frank Neely of Wichita, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Hinkle, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. James D. Seitz, all of Amarillo.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored at a bridal shower given by Mmes. Mickey Miller, Kenneth Meyers, E. A. McLennan and Miss Linda Zmotony. Mr. and Mrs. Claud Seitz, parents of the bridegroom, entertained members of the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner the evening preceding the wedding rites. The event was held in Lewis Cafeteria.

The couple will be married at the First Baptist Church in Pampa.

Miss Tripplehorn is a graduate of Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., and the Executive Secretarial School of Dallas. Her fiancé holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from San Diego State College and is now employed as director of public relations in the Topanga Plaza Shopping Center in Canoga Park, Calif.

Former Resident Of Lefors Weds In California

Miss Linda Arlene Harris of Hollywood, Calif. and Herbert Gerald Wall of Dallas pledged double-ring wedding vows at 7 o'clock the evening of Feb. 10. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arless Harris of Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wall of Lefors are the parents of the bridegroom.

Charles E. Stancil, Church of Christ minister from Ingewood, Calif., solemnized the rites in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Roberta Van Cleve, in Playa Del Rey, Calif.

For her wedding the bride chose a white knit suit with navy accessories. She carried a nosegay of red carnations with white satin and silver bells.

Mrs. Geraldine Van Cleve attended as matron of honor, dressed in orange and wearing a white carnation corsage.

The bridegroom's best man was Larry Lowrie of Dallas.

Mrs. W. H. Wall, the bridegroom's mother, wore a winter white suit with emerald green accessories and a white carnation corsage. The bride's parents were unable to attend.

Mrs. Barton Relates How Architecture Antedates the Written History of Man

Mrs. R. W. Waddell was a hostess for the recent meeting of Twentieth Century Forum Club with Mrs. J. R. Lockett acting as co-hostess. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. John Sweeney. Mrs. Aubrey Steele presented a thought for the day. Mrs. Sweeney welcomed Mrs. Walter Rogers to the meeting.

Mrs. Steele extended an invitation to club members to attend a tea honoring the Diamond Jubilee of the Woman's Federated Clubs. Following the business session, Mrs. Hugh Barton presented the program. "The history of architecture antedates the written history of man. The buildings of each particular period reflect the social conditions that existed at that particular time. As the history of man determines the ability and artistic achievements possible through architecture. The history of the Spanish people greatly explains their contributions to architecture," Mrs. Barton began.

"Spain did not emerge as a nation under one sovereign until about the 1500's. At this time she was declared 'the mistress of the world and queen of the sea.' She had emerged from an 800 year rule by the Moors from Africa.

"The Moors left behind a great influence of Moslem architecture with traces of Oriental atmosphere. The horseshoe arch and domed vaults were evidenced in the giant mosques constructed. The simple, bare exteriors were in deep contrast to the elaborately ornate interiors. The use of color had never been so brilliant or in such good taste.

The Moslem architecture was further refined by the Renais-

Mrs. Burton and Mrs. Rogers received guests. Registering guests in a book designed in red, white a blue motif, made by Mrs. George Crossman Jr., were Mmes. Simpson, Guidry and Wilkinson.

Reynolds, Carter Sr. and Carter Jr. A silver epergne, holding a miniature cherry tree surrounded by a mound of red carnations, centered the table while a silver tea service added to its setting. The honoree was presented a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Dear Abby... Fan Gives Up Reading 'Dear Abby' for Lent

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you with a problem and I probably never will because I take all my problems to the Lord. I just wanted you to know that I wouldn't miss reading your column for the world. In fact, I enjoy reading Dear Abby so much, I gave it up for Lent.

Sincerely yours,
LAURA C. SVENDSEN

DEAR ABBY: So many lonely women write to you, asking how to get a man to marry them. They say that men do not have marriage in mind. Well, I was a bachelor for 44 years. I invited many women out to dinner, movies, concerts and sports events, and they were always tickled to go. They would say goodnight at the door, and that was all right with me as I never was the kind of man who expected anything more than the pleasure of a lady's company. I took one little widow to a movie, and afterwards she invited me into her small apartment. She went into her tiny kitchenette and came out with some home-made apple strudel and a cup of hot cocoa. It was delicious! You have my word for it, when I saw that little woman in an apron, I knew then and there that I wanted her in my kitchen for the rest of my life.

JESS
DEAR JESS: Please ask the lady to send me her recipe for apple strudel. Many of my readers would find it valuable.

DEAR ABBY: Just when I am telling my 14-year-old daughter she may not have boys in the house when I am not home, you tell "Working Mother" she should let her 16-year-old daughter use her own judgment and expect the best of her. I expect the best of my daughter, too, but I feel it's unfair to make a girl decide what is good and bad behavior in her own living room. My neighbors are not gossipy, but they would have every right to talk if they saw my daughter entertaining boys in my absence. As for the one hour limit you set, I assure you that many a girl has gotten into trouble in less time. I also feel that the age of the girl does not matter in this case.

KENTUCKY MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I believe that if we are to teach teenagers responsible behavior, we must let them use their own judgments occasionally, so we can evaluate their maturity. Parents who have given their children sound moral values by example and teaching, need not worry. And I disagree with you. Age does matter. Would you set the same rules for a 13-year-old as you would for a 19-year-old?

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 years old and single. I travel alone

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was gowned in a chapel-length gown fashioned of white alencon lace over bridal satin, featuring a fitted bodice with scalloped neckline, long tapering sleeves terminating in petal points, and a waistline that dipped to a V. Four tiers of the chosen lace formed the bouffant skirt which swept to a chapel train. Her waist-length veil of illusion fell from a seed pearl and crystal tiara. She carried a cascading arrangement of white carnations centered with a white orchid and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

CLE met with Mrs. Bobby Stout, 1805 N. Dwight. The prayer calendar was read by Mrs. Don Turner and Mrs. Clinton Forbes presented the mission book. Other members attending were Mmes. W. G. Gooding, J. P. Adams and Virgil Holloway.

Mrs. Mark Russell of Borger, attired in a blue sheath gown with matching accessories and carrying a white carnation corsage tied with blue streamers, attended the bride as matron of honor. Mark Russell served as best man to the bridegroom.

For traveling to Hugo, Okla., on a wedding trip the new Mrs. Cross donned a white knit suit with matching accessories. She lifted the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The newlyweds are now at home at 212 1/2 N. Starkweather.

The bride, a 1964 graduate of Pampa High School, is employed by the Pampa Daily News. Mr. Cross, a 1963 graduate of Pampa High School, is employed by Skelly Oil Company at the Schafer Gasoline Plant.

Proceeding the pledging of vows, the bridal couple entertained out-of-town guests at a dinner at Black Gold Restaurant.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Mark Russell of Borger, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Smith of Guyton, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cross of Letors. The bride's mother was unable to attend.

History of Panhandle Pen Women Is Told To Members of Twentieth Century Club

Twentieth Century Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. H. R. Thompson, 2235 Charles.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Jack Stroup. Mrs. David McGahey, program leader, led the club in the pledge of allegiance to both the American and Texas flags, and the club collected. Mrs. Bob Andis was named delegate and Mrs. Lorene Locke alternate to the Top O' Texas District Convention to be held in Hereford, March 24-25.

Mrs. McGahey introduced Mrs. Lorene Locke, past-president and member of Panhandle Pen Women for 22 years, who discussed the organization.

"No other group in our part of Texas has made such a contribution to our Texas heritage in the art of the written word and the preservation of our history, as has PPW," she said. "It is, perhaps, the oldest writers' group in continuous existence in Texas. Organized in Amarillo May 2, 1920, it was a dream come true for Laura V. Hamner, its first president.

"Miss Hamner, now 94 years old and confined to a hospital in Alabama, is still its guiding spirit and leading lady. Beginning with her arrival in the 'Wild West' in 1891 she dreamed she would write stories of the Panhandle and its people and preserve them for historians of the future. For many years heavy obstacles stood in the way of her ambition but she walked over them. Laurels fell upon her thick and fast in her ripened years."

Mrs. Locke then gave a resume of her life and her accomplishments in published books, articles, stories and poetry, as well as radio.

The speaker then told of the writing production and honors won by others of the members, notably, Loula Grace Erdman, Laurene Chinn and Wanda Campbell. She described a regular meeting of PPW, when each of the 64 members reports her sales for the quarter, tells what she is working on and listens to some outstanding speaker on trends, markets, or needs in the writing field.

"Panhandle Pen Women are busy, busy writers," the speaker concluded, "each contributing in her own way to preserving the cultural and historical mores of our times and area."

Attending were Mrs. A. W. Brown, guest, and Mmes. W. R. Campbell, F. M. Culbertson, Jack Foster, J. W. Gordon, Raymond Harrah, V. J. Jamieson, Lorene Locke, David McGahey, Fred Neslage, Wayne Pitner, Bill Roots, Tom Rose, R. H. Sanford, R. W. Stowers, Jack Stroup and H. R. Thompson.

Lives of Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore Discussed for TC Culture Members

The Twentieth Century Culture Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. J. Zachary with Mrs. Hugh Sanders as co-hostess.

Mrs. Doyle Osborne, president, led the members in the club collect. During the business meeting, Mrs. E. L. Henderson announced that the sale of tickets for next year's Community Concert series would begin March 21. Mrs. N. D. Steele stated that the Lions Club's Minstrel would be March 11-12. Rules concerning the use of the library auditorium were read to the club by Mrs. Ross Buzzard, secretary.

Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer introduced Mrs. E. L. Henderson who spoke on the lives of Zachary and Margaret Taylor, and Mrs. Jack R. Hood who spoke on the lives of Millard and Abigail Fillmore.

"Zachary Taylor was an authentic war hero with 40 years of military service," Mrs. Henderson stated. "He was a man of strong prejudices, and prejudices were every bit as good as principles. Taylor was a professional peacetime soldier — had risked his life in devotion to the country. This gave him a peculiar appeal to the people of America as they looked for a president. Out of the first 12 presidents, four were generals." "Because of his wide travels to the army posts in America, Taylor knew people. He was at home in casual discussion with any class — farmers, lawyers, tradespeople, as well as soldiers. Old Rough and Ready was remembered as a loveable man, good to children and fond of jokes. Few presidents have had less idea of what was expected of them. He found, however, that he had to build the Whig party by means of patronage and settle the territorial questions of California and New Mexico. He had no experience with political situations and had little patience with their complexity. He was ready to act in any fashion to get done what he felt had to be done for the good of the nation."

"Margaret Taylor's father had been a Major in the Revolutionary War. There is no known picture of her. For over a quarter of a century her home was a tent, her home the battlefield. She nursed the sick and wounded soldiers and often wrote letters for them. When she got ready to move to Washington she found little to interest her in the position of President's Lady. Her health was poor and she lived the life of a semi-invalid. The social duties were left to her daughter, blond, blue-eyed Betty who was gay and vivacious."

Continuing the program Mrs. Jack R. Hood stated that Millard Fillmore was vice president under Zachary Taylor. When in July, 1850, President Taylor died, Fillmore found himself being inaugurated President unexpectedly.

"Fillmore, working with great political efficiency, skillfully gained individual support of legislators, and with his pressure and Stephen Douglas'

Genealogical and Historical Society Observes American Heritage Month

American Heritage Month was observed at the Monday night meeting of the Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society when the history of Gray County's early schools, teachers and pupils was reviewed by Mrs. Russell Holloway, guest speaker.

Using historical data which she gathered in 1938-1939 for her M. A. thesis in history from the University of Texas, Mrs. Holloway traced the development of the following schools:

District I—Davis (Highwindy) the county's first, established in 1888; the building was moved from the eastern part of the county into Pampa, and is now used as the fellowship hall of Zion Lutheran Church on Duncan St. District II—Lefors (N. Fork) est. 1896; District III—McLean est. 1896; District IV—Laketon, est. 1901; District V—Southeast est. 1902; District VI—Pampa, est. 1903; District VII—Alanreed, est. 1903; District VIII—Sand Creek, est. 1904; District IX—Back, est. 1904; District IX—Back, est. 1904; District XI—Bell (or County Line School), est. 1893; District XII—Huntsman, est. 1905; District XIII—Eldridge, est. 1890-1895; District XIV—Cottonwood, est. 1903, and XV—the Kaplinger School, est. 1909. Other schools included Farrington, Grandview, McClellan, Steed and Hopkins.

Another school Fairview, was not included by Mrs. Holloway at the time of the compiling of her book due to the fact that it did not become an independent school district and not recorded in official school records. It, however, was a thriving center for a community located between Pampa and the Carson County line along the present Gasoline plant. Established about 1906 or 1907, Fairview school had classes until about 1920 when the school buses from Pampa began running and the school closed.

Fairview was the community center for the Lamar Colony in northwest Gray County, so called because the largest number of residents had moved to the area from Lamar County, Texas near Deport. This migration began in 1894 and included the following families: the McConnells, the Archers, the Carys, the Biards, the Cobbs, the Stalls, Murrays, Rings, Shorts, Castleberys, Harts, and living nearby were the Harrabs, Richardsons, Noels, Gorenfols, Arnolds, Newmans, Georges, Corbins and others. Miss Laura Sanders was the first teacher at Fairview.

Adding to the interest of the program were the comments of John Hessey, who for many years was Gray County superintendent of schools, and an early day resident of the Alanreed community. Hessey pointed out that at one time Alanreed was the largest town in Gray County and tried unsuccessfully three times to win the county seat.

The following new officers were elected for a term of two years: Tracy D. Cary, re-elected president; J. S. Silcott, first vice president; Joe Shelton, second vice president; Mrs. Vera Plunk, recording secretary; Mrs. J. C. Pattillo, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Willie B. Gull, treasurer; Mrs. L. J. Barker, historian; Mrs. Mona Blanton, librarian; Mrs. Carmie Hefflin, archivist. Elected directors were Bob McCoy, T. Jeff Earp and Mrs. T. Jeff Earp.

Additions to the Society's Pioneer Book Collection at Lovett Memorial Library were twelve Civil War newspapers presented by Mrs. Vera Plunk; "The Missouri Historical Quarterly" and "Genealogical Helper", presented by Mrs. Cliff Drake; "The Story of Father Jailliet" (Corpus Christi pioneer) presented by Mrs. Bert Robinson; and the 1949 Centennial edition of the Ft. Worth Star Telegram given by Mrs. J. R. Holloway.

Refreshments were served to the members and guests from a lace covered table, featuring a large Uncle Sam's Hat in patriotic colors flanked by red tapers in white hobbail holders. Presiding at the silver service was Mrs. J. C. Pattillo, assisted by hostesses, Mrs. L. J. Barker, Mrs. Mary Field Cary, and Mrs. Carmie Hefflin.

Garments with a durable press finish need to be bought with care. Because the stitching line will always show if seams or hems have to be let out, they should be bought in the correct size.

Wrap fruitcake in waxed paper, then in foil. The waxed paper prevents the acid of the fruit from coming in contact with the foil.

Keahey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Altus Keahey of White Deer, is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Campbell of Alva, Okla., grandparents of the bride-elect. YOUR PHARMACIST SPEAKS

By Joe Tooley and Tom Beard

It was Shakespeare who in reference to the human body spoke in part of "too, too solid flesh."

Actually, a good part of our earthly body is made up of nothing more solid than water. In fact, the organism of an adult being consists of 70 per cent water, and a loss of say 15 per cent of this vital fluid would be fatal.

Water is not a simple chemical compound due to a wide range of hydrogen and oxygen atoms. Ordinary water, for example, is a mixture of 18 different kinds of water, ranging from the lightest known to the heavier waters which may prove in time to have noteworthy effect on the rate of aging or mankind's scourge... cancer.

Sullivan's Wife Victim of Hubby's Practical Jokes

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Ed Sullivan laughed as she recalled the day that clad in a robe she opened the front door of the Sullivans' Delmonico Hotel apartment and there stood Ezio Pinza. "Some Enchanted Evening . . ." boomed the Metropolitan Opera's baritone. His song to Mrs. Sullivan was one that gave him a whole new musical career when he paired with Mary Martin in the Broadway hit, "South Pacific."

RUTH MILLETT

By RUTH MILLETT Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Married men are becoming quieter, meeker and less demanding. At least that's the word from a Cornell University researcher who has been studying the marriages of 800 couples. Come to think of it, it has been a long time since I've heard a wife make any of the following remarks, which once were considered little-womanly: "Of course, I don't know anything about politics myself, but George says . . ." "I was going to do such and such, but George simply put his foot down." "I hate to break up the bridge game, but George wants his dinner at exactly six o'clock." "I loved the dress, but George didn't and wouldn't let me keep it."

Hollywood Report

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—David Janssen can't catch up with the one-armed man in the "The Fugitive" television show, but I found his quarry in the Brown Derby dispatching a pot roast sandwich.

His name is Bill Raisch and he really does have only one arm.

Bill has appeared in five segments of the show as the murderer of Janssen's wife. The cops are always breathing down Janssen's neck while he, in turn, fruitlessly pursues Raisch.

The series is in its third year now and Raisch is seen in the opening roll-out behind the credits. He is paid every 13 weeks for his brief bit of film as long as the format remains the same.

"But I don't have a contract with them," said Bill. "If they want me to work on a show and I'm outta town, that's their tough luck."

Neither have the producers filmed the final segment of the show which may run another year or two. It is expected that Janssen will catch up with Raisch in the last episode and assure that justice triumphs.

Former Broadway Actor
If Raisch is unavailable he'll have to think up a new ending.

Before World War II the 61-year-old Raisch was a Broadway actor. But after losing his arm as a member of the Merchant Marine, he returned to civilian life looking for any kind of work he could find.

"How many parts are there for a one-arm actor? He asked without bitterness.

"With one flipper I'm lucky to have a stand-in job. I've been Bert Lancaster's stand-in for 14 years. But now I'm also a celebrity. I have an artificial arm I wear sometimes, and still people stop me and ask me to turn myself into the police."

"Everybody wants to feel my sleeve to see if it's really empty. Doesn't bother me at all."

"Funny thing is, most of the fans think I'm innocent and are pulling for me to escape. Some of them want the detective in the show to take the rap for the murder, but not me. They feel sorry for me because I've got one wing."

Police Curious
Policemen, the same as others who watch the show, do a double take when they spot Raisch. One cop in Gallup, N.M., stopped him for questioning and ended up with an autograph.

Last Jan. 11 Bill's identity in the series was established when he appeared throughout the episode. He was even given a name—Fred Johnson.

He and Janssen came in contact with one another briefly, and for a split second it appeared as if the hero would finally grab the villain. But Raisch escaped once more and the chase resumed with Bill in the lead, followed closely by Janssen who in turn was a nose ahead of the fuzzi.

"Before the show I was just another guy looking for a job," Raisch grinned. "Now everybody knows me and they think I make a fortune. Well, I don't. And I may never get another acting job in my life. But I'm sure enjoying the fame for now."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It would not be too surprising if the unsophisticated foreign visitor to America, after watching our television commercials, concluded we were a very soft, scared and security-minded people—and misjudged us badly.

I personally would not like to think that the Red Chinese or their sympathizers believe that our national backbone and foreign policy are based on the same sort of nervousness and fears over trivial matters that some video commercials try to exploit.

Advertising makes great claims that it has contributed mightily to the health of this country, and this is probably so in a financial sense. Yet the constant exploitation of personal fears, magnified by television's vast reach, may well be helping to undermine the independence of character that this nation is proud of.

Consider. You turn on the set, and out comes fear:
Do you have life insurance?
How much? Enough for your children to be educated 18 years from now? Enough for your wife and her next husband to be comfortable with.

Do you have fire insurance?
Which agent for which company will get there fastest if your house burns down?
How's your auto insurance?
And your disability insurance?
And your personal property insurance?
And your mortgage insurance? (which is just decreasing term insurance with a fancy name!)

Do you have safety belts in your car?
Do you smell bad? Because of mouth odor? Underarm odor?
Will your husband be drawn away from you because you make a bad cup of coffee?
Will your hair lotion fall and splatter all over the bathroom unless you get a tube instead of a bottle?

How come your pretty neighbor's wash is white, while you—you poor homely thing—may be resigning yourself to the background because your wash isn't gleaming?

Should your wife be driving without puncture-proof tires on a dark road in a strange place late at night? And what is she doing there anyway?
Have you been checked up for all the illnesses lately? How many cavities do you have? How many headaches? Are you overeating?

And so on.
Do you wonder that the yearning for James Bond is so great?

The Channel Swim: Among the weekly video series not expected to return in the coming season are "Ozzie and Harriet," "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," "Hullabaloo," "The Munsters" and "The Smothers Brothers Show." CBS-TV, which once could have presented "The Music Man" as an original television special with Ray Bolger—but thought the $100,000 price tag was too high for an untried show—now has paid $1 million for two airings of the movie version.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohn & Stetson Inc. says the current blue chip weakness reflects mostly tardy recognition by institutions and others that these stocks are overpriced and provide little or no protection against inflationary forces rapidly building up in the economy but, to the holder of cyclical issues, this could hardly matter less.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

SUNDAY MORNING GRIST From the Editorial Mill

THOSE FIVE bond issues coming up for voter decision on March 8 make up a $2,900,000 package that calls for a lot of individual analysis before the ballot is marked. All that we are asking you to do this time is think and think hard about each of those five propositions. The last time a package like this was voted on, we took a favorable view on three-fifths of it and got kicked in the teeth by opposition which has done a complete switcheroo and now is all out for it. So this time we are not putting our cotton-pickin' fingers in the fire. . . . Not being fond of bond issues—period—all that's to be said here is: give each of the five propositions plenty of study and thought and then let sound judgment be your guide when you start scratching the ballot. . . . Incidentally, we know a fellow who paid $1.75 for himself and $1.75 for his wife to get poll tax receipts so they could vote in the local bond election. . . . Now, he is upset because a friend of his who paid no poll tax will go to the polls with his wife and vote "for free" on March 8. "It has cost me $3.50 for the privilege of doing what they will be privileged to do for nothing," the man complains. . . . And, he may have something there.

THE JOINT study committee into whose lap the airport problem has been tossed has a real decision-making job to tackle. . . . These questions arise: should the City of Pampa take over supervision and maintenance of Perry Lefors field which now is under control by the Gray County Commissioners Court? . . . Should it be handled solely by the city or solely by the county? . . . Or, should it be a joint cooperative effort by both city and county to modernize the airport facilities? . . . These questions pose problems

THE GUEST PEN:

The Road to "Success"

By ROSALIE M. GORDON Editor, America's Future Real economists — not the ones floating on the airy clouds of the "new economics"—declare that we cannot have both guns and butter, as the administration claims, without seriously threatening our free system. Such a policy can end only in runaway inflation or confiscatory taxes. What's more, they say we do not need the kind of government butler that oozes over the integrity and self-reliance of our people. Perhaps an illustration of what they mean is found in a "success story" — but not in the old-fashioned American sense of success.

Sargent Shriver, head of the government's "war on poverty," recently named a lady in Chicago to represent the poor on the anti-poverty program's National Advisory Council. The lady is quite civic and social-minded — a member of an urban progress center, a board member of a community conference, a volunteer for two other organizations, to which she has now added her new duties on Mr. Shriver's anti-poverty Council.

All this may seem quite exemplary; in fact it becomes absolutely astounding when we realize the lady is also the mother of 11 children. Her youngest are five, four and two years old, though the lady says she has not seen her husband in nine years. Since 1958, the taxpayers have been supporting the lady and her 11 children. She gets her support in ADC-Aid to Dependent Children — public welfare funds. She manages all those social-minded activities of hers with the aid of baby sitters who, presumably, are paid out of the ADC handouts she gets.

that well could lead to a lot of controversy centered mainly around the further question of who should foot the bill — all the taxpayers of the county or just the taxpayers inside the Pampa city limits? . . . There seems to be little question that improved facilities are needed for the growing number of company and charter planes that use the airport. . . . Perhaps something could be worked out along the line of a county-city cooperative airport project.

PAMPANS WHO attended that Chamber of Commerce meeting in Amarillo the other day and heard outlined a chart for a "total community development program," came back feeling a bit proud of their home town which already has launched almost the identical program that was suggested. . . . The proposals explained at the session bear a striking resemblance to Pampa's Advisory Committee Project initiated here by Mayor Jim Nation and City Manager Jim White last summer. . . . The national chamber of Commerce has been testing the program in a number of key cities, all larger than Pampa. . . . The national chamber plan calls for formation of committees whose "members should be successful, well-known, highly respected and professional leaders whose experience and judgment specially qualify them to evaluate the broad spectrum of proposed community development projects." . . . Pampa has 11 of these advisory and evaluation groups that have been organized for six months and a half-dozen of them have been extremely active in seeking solutions to major municipal problems. . . . This could probably be summarized as "a jump ahead of the pack," as one local official put it.

Incidentally, yesteryear's methods required manual turning of the spit, but it's done today by an electric motor. . . . Old actors never die, they just go on playing roles. That thought occurred to us when we saw 80-year young Edward Everett Horton as the Starmaker in the revival of Rodgers & Hammerstein's "Carousel." . . . Another veteran still going strong is Francis X. Bushman, now commencing his 70th year in show business by appearing in teen-age films. And you're really getting along if you can remember when he co-starred in the silent movies with Beverly Bayne. . . . The Pittsburgh (Pa.) POST-GAZETTE reported in a story: "He is a stickler for proper grammar." Particularly when he's pickled!

Pull Up A Chair

Frank Markey

All new cars today come from the manufacturer equipped with permanent type anti-freeze and coolant that will remain effective for two years. An automotive engineer advises that if your car is more than two years old and still has its original factory coolant it should be drained completely, flushed clean of rust and corrosion particles, and then completely refilled with more permanent anti-freeze and coolant. One year later do the same thing. He says after two years of new car use the metals are no longer new and clean in engine cooling systems and protection against further rust and corrosion is necessary for top performance. Good advice.

Today's smile: A newly-arrived Army colonel in Vietnam, inspecting the water supply at a camp, asked the sergeant in charge about contamination. "We boil it first, Sir," said the sergeant, "then we filter it, and if anyone's thirsty he drinks beer."

If you didn't get a deer during the hunting season you can blame yourself because there were plenty of them around. It's estimated the deer population in New York state alone is about 375,000. Pennsylvania estimates there are 350,000 living in rural areas and in Maine there are an estimated 200,000. Yet, back in 1890 the entire deer population of North America was reported to be about 500,000.

Thoughts while shaving: Our own Egg-On-Your Face Club is happy to report that within the past few weeks it took several days for a letter from the Post Office Department in Washington to travel a couple of blocks on Pennsylvania Avenue to the Justice Department. Maybe the P.O. boys didn't use their zip code, but they expect everyone else to do so. . . . Some lawyers in Cosica, Napoleon Bonaparte's native heath, went on strike because the courtrooms were cold. What happened to the hot air lawyers spout in the courtrooms? . . . It was probably the Flemish geographer Gerardus Mercator who first used the word "atlas" to describe a collection of maps. It refers to a figure in Greek mythology who supported the world on his shoulders. . . . The expression "done to a turn" refers to the old way of roasting on a turn spit before an open fire. Since old methods are still used you see chicken roasting today on turning spits in any barbecue. Incidentally, yesteryear's methods required manual turning of the spit, but it's done today by an electric motor. . . . Old actors never die, they just go on playing roles. That thought occurred to us when we saw 80-year young Edward Everett Horton as the Starmaker in the revival of Rodgers & Hammerstein's "Carousel." . . . Another veteran still going strong is Francis X. Bushman, now commencing his 70th year in show business by appearing in teen-age films. And you're really getting along if you can remember when he co-starred in the silent movies with Beverly Bayne. . . . The Pittsburgh (Pa.) POST-GAZETTE reported in a story: "He is a stickler for proper grammar." Particularly when he's pickled!

Country Editor speaking: "A businessman is judged by the company he keeps solvent these days."

This amazing success story caused a number of editorial writers to ask why she doesn't give up some of her volunteer services and get a job, thus relieving the taxpayers of some or all of the support of her 11 children. But that, too, may be an old-fashioned question. After all, the lady has achieved national-wide prominence. She even got on a TV panel with one of those welfare organizations of whom she does volunteer work. And now after spending eight years feeding at the public trough and adding to the population explosion without the help of a husband, she winds up as a member of Mr. Shriver's National Anti-Poverty Council. As such, she will help advise the Office of Economic Opportunity (official name of the anti-poverty program) on how to spend some two billion dollars of the taxpayers' money. That two billion, say fiscal experts, is one of the many examples of government "butter" we could well dispense with in the interest of really curbing inflation and forestalling a possible tax hike.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and political matters which will not injure anyone.)
QUESTION: "In view of possible political incompetency, would you say that war is now too scientific, technical and tactical to entrust to a civilian (political) control?"
ANSWER: We do not think war is "too scientific, technical and tactical" for the individual to decide for himself. We suspect there were similar cries when the long bow was first used, and when guns were introduced.

We are not in favor of giving civilians control of the mechanical aspects of warfare. Under the American system, the policy-making decisions should be by the civilians, with the military having the decisions on the tactical matters. However, one question is there should be any wars other than defensive. We contend that

Why Don't We Recognize The Vietcong?

Recently, I had an opportunity to take a good national assessment of the progress being made in the extension of the work of Dr. Glenn Doman and Dr. Carl H. Delacato in the field of human development. It was their pioneer work that set in motion the creation, all over the nation, of almost a score of centers that applied the developmental techniques that are organizing the neurological structure of thousands of young people all over the nation and indeed the world.

These same techniques set in motion a prime department of our University of Plano where we are experiencing great success with their application to reading problems and learning problems. It continues to amaze us how extensive is the lack of development of young people in all levels of education. The exciting thing about this discovery is that a relatively simple program of organization can usually relieve a fusion problem and bring significant academic improvement. Theo ther extensive condition causing academic inadequacy — called the Delacato Syndrome — is being of mixed dominance, usually in the channel of vision. Thus a student is right handed and left eyed. This is more difficult to remedy but again, great success is being achieved. A few years ago this was a revolutionary credo and Glenn Doman and Carl Delacato were the objects of great vilification for their simple, empirical successes. But now I find tremendous headway being made, sometimes in whole school districts. Some die-hard opposition still exists but it is being inundated by popular successes. Recently in one of our courses given by Drs. Doman and Delacato we had about 30 post-graduate students. One was a school principal; many others were educators. The principal and the others have now gone back to apply the principles they have learned. The time honored phenomenon of a series of ripples distending into a great wave is inexorably at work and I am sure that in a few years our surer will be saying, "How was it that educators had so long overlooked such a basic and elemental shortcoming that had decimated the ranks of high academic achievers?"

Backstage Washington

President Deciding Whether To: Raise Draft Quotas, Activate National Guard, Reserve Units and Boost Taxes
WASHINGTON — President Johnson is nearing decision on three major Viet Nam war problems that will directly affect every man, woman and child on the home front. To meet General William Westmoreland's request for 50,000 additional troops by mid-May, the President is pondering the following: — Further increase of the monthly draft quota. — Activation of certain National Guard and reserve units with specialized skills — Particularly in communications. — Another tax boost. The unannounced decision to send 50,000 more troops to Viet Nam by mid-May was made at the recent Hawaii conference. General Westmoreland held they were necessary to execute his approved overall battle strategy of "progressively opening up the land lines of communication, the roads and ultimately the railroads throughout South Viet Nam." Two pressing factors are behind the strong likelihood of higher monthly draft quotas: — Need for replacements for troops being rotated from Viet Nam; and restoring the combat effectiveness of strategic units in the U. S. and abroad that have been stripped of forces for Viet Nam. Both problems are increasingly urgent. Already the President has tentatively approved an April draft of around 40,000. Subsequent drafts of 50,000 are likely. However, continuance of the increased number of Marine Corps volunteers may hold down the monthly quota. The March draft is 32,900 — 27,900 for the Army; 5,000 for the Marines. Defense Secretary McNamara is advising the President to delay activation of selected National Guard and reserve units until June — when his plan for a partial merger of the two forces goes into effect. INSIDE TIP-OFF — A significant hint on the President's likely decision on the three major Viet Nam problems — higher monthly draft quotas, activation of certain National Guard and reserve units, and another tax hike — is contained in an unpublished report to members of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee by Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman. Administration insiders credit Stennis as best-informed senator on president Johnson's thinking on Viet Nam.

In Stennis' report, he stresses the strong likelihood of the need for more troops and taxes. Publishable highlights of this revealing backstage summary are as follows: "With the increase in military forces needed in Viet Nam, there will come a further and added increase in draft calls. . . . a partial call-up of National Guardsmen and Reservists, and increased taxes. . . . President Johnson may ultimately be forced to a choice between guns and butter. This will entail economic controls and rationing of goods and materials, with at least a partial disruption of normal business."

It's Your Tax Money

(ANDERSON, Ind., Herald) Well, here we go again. The Camp Atterbury Job Corps has posted bonds of $1,000 each for two corporals charged with possession of marijuana. Officials then said the pair would be placed on "administrative leave." This, a security investigator pointed out is the terminology used in "getting rid of undesirable elements" in the corps. The two corporals are from New York and Chicago and one is 19 years old while the other is 17. They were arrested on federal warrants last week after officials found two envelopes of marijuana in the jacket pocket of one and a foil-wrapped package of the dope in the toe of the shoe of the other. The security officer said the Job Corps paid for the defendants bonds and "we will put them on leave and notify them when they're to appear in court; all we can do is hope they show up." Now take a parallel case concerning the military. The boys in Viet Nam are not there to be helped or necessarily because they want to be. They are there fighting for our freedom and for the freedom of the dope addicts in the Job Corps. If one or two soldiers were found to be using marijuana, they would immediately be arrested, tried, sentenced and given a dishonorable discharge from the service. No one would dip into the tax fill and pay their bond. Now the Job Corps has used our tax money is post the bond of two youths that were supposed to be receiving help at our expense and abused the privilege. Then the Job Corps turns them loose to go back to their homes and "hopes they show up" when their trials are scheduled. Speaking of stupidity, this borders on the ridiculous.
