Senators Resume Look at US Policy Toward Red China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee resumes its wide-ranging examination of U.S. policy toward China today amid reports that Peking, too, has been holding some kind of top-level foreign policy review.

The witness before the Senate committee today was Dr. John K. Fairbank, director of Harvard's East Asian Research Center and an expert on China.

The report on Peking's policy review came from U.S. officials, who said Wednesday that about 25 Communist Chinese ambassadors from around the world were called back home recently for consultations.

While some of the diplomats presumably went back for routine reassignment, the presumption here was that most were called in for talks on foreign policy. They began filtering back to their posts this month so the talks apparently are over.

It was likely that the Senate committee would hear a qualified endorsement of President Johnson's present Viet Nam policy today from Professor Fairbank.

In recent writings, he has said that the United States attempt to frustrate the Mao Tse-Tung model aggression by the Reds in South Viet Nam is necessary, but should be only a stop-gap measure.

It is Fairbank's view that the United States should add to or, if possible, substitute for its present policy a more sophisticated program to undermine China's militancy by getting her more involved in formal international contacts of all kinds on every level.

More Spring Weather Due

Light rain fell over scattered sections of South Texas today with more showers expected by nightfall.

Most of the northern half of Texas had clear skies.

Pampa's sun broke clear this morning on a springlike day with high expected in the mid-70 degree range. The partly cloudy and warming trend is expected to continue through Friday with temperatures climbing slightly higher in the mid-70 range.

Wednesday was another mild day with a high of 85 degrees at Presidio Junction recorded a high of 60.

Showers dampened parts of the southern half of the state Wednesday. Brownsville got 40 of an inch but everywhere else, it was very light.

US Pilot Completes Daring Rescue to Save Buddy's Life

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A daredevil U.S. Air Force fighter pilot from Idaho landed on an airstrip outside the A Shau Special Forces camp in a hail of Communist fire today and carried out the heroic rescue of a fellow airman.

The pilot was Maj. Bernard Fisher of Kuna, Idaho, and the man he plucked from death was his wingman, Maj. Stafford W. Myers of Newport, Wash., who had crash-landed on the field minutes before.

"This is the most daring rescue I have heard of since World War II," said a veteran Air Force officer at Da Nang. "I can't think of anything we did in Korea to match it."

After crashing, Myers leaped from his flaming cockpit and glanced around as he ran for a ditch.

"I could see Communist troops all over the place," he said.

Myers jumped into a nearby ditch as another plane roared down to strafe the advancing North Vietnamese troops. He

Russian Canines Pave Way for New High Space Flight

MOSCOW (UPI) — Blackie and Breeze, Russia's orbiting canines, have paved the way for a new space spectacular this month that will take Russian cosmonauts three times higher than man has ever flown, informed sources said today.

The two dogs, now in their 19th day in orbit around the earth, have proved it is safe for Soviet spacemen to soar into the Van Allen belts of heavy radiation more than 500 miles above the earth, the sources said.

The sources added that Blackie and Breeze will be returned to earth soon and are to be followed into orbit within the next 20 days by two or more men in the record-breaking space flight.

The planned space shot—the first Russian manned flight in a year—will be intended to break all orbital altitude records and may go for the two-week endurance record held by the United States, they said.

Special Forces Camp Surrendered to Reds

Americans 'Give Up' After Two-Day Siege

SAIGON (UPI) — A U.S. Special Forces camp on the Laotian border was surrendered to the Communists today after a two-day siege. Some of the Americans and Montagnard tribesmen who heroically held out against the onslaught were safely evacuated by helicopter.

"We closed Camp A Shau at 17:45 5:45 this afternoon," Col. William McKean, commanding officer of the Fifth Special Forces in Viet Nam, said in a tense statement.

The decision to surrender the camp was made after the weather, which had cleared earlier in the day, closed back in and prevented effective air support for the "Green Beret" troops and their Vietnamese allies.

It was disclosed at the same time that the troops attacking the camp were North Vietnamese regulars who had massed on the other side of the Laotian border 375 miles northeast of Saigon. McKean said there were between 2,000 and 2,500 men in the Communist force.

The end was seen as inevitable when a pilot reported earlier today that "we have orders to hit anything that moves in the camp now."

The outpost's radio operator had called down air strikes on his own position and an American pilot landed on its airstrip in a hail of Communist fire to rescue a fellow airman whose plane had crash-landed.

Casualties were reported heavy among the camp's 12 or 13 U.S. Special Forces advisers and the several hundred mountain militiamen. As nightfall approached, the air ceiling at the battleground was below 30 feet, pilots reported.

Bad weather over Communist North Viet Nam prevented U.S. pilots from carrying out more than 22 bombing missions Wednesday, a U.S. spokesman said today.

The Air Force and Navy planes struck military and communications targets in the panhandle region along the southeast coast in the Binh and Thanh Hoa areas.

U.S. B52 bombers from Guam struck a Viet Cong base area 35 miles north of Saigon for the third straight day. U.S. military spokesmen declined to give further details of the raid.

The radio operator at A Shau reported before it fell that he had "12 wounded that we have to get out." It was not known how many were Americans.

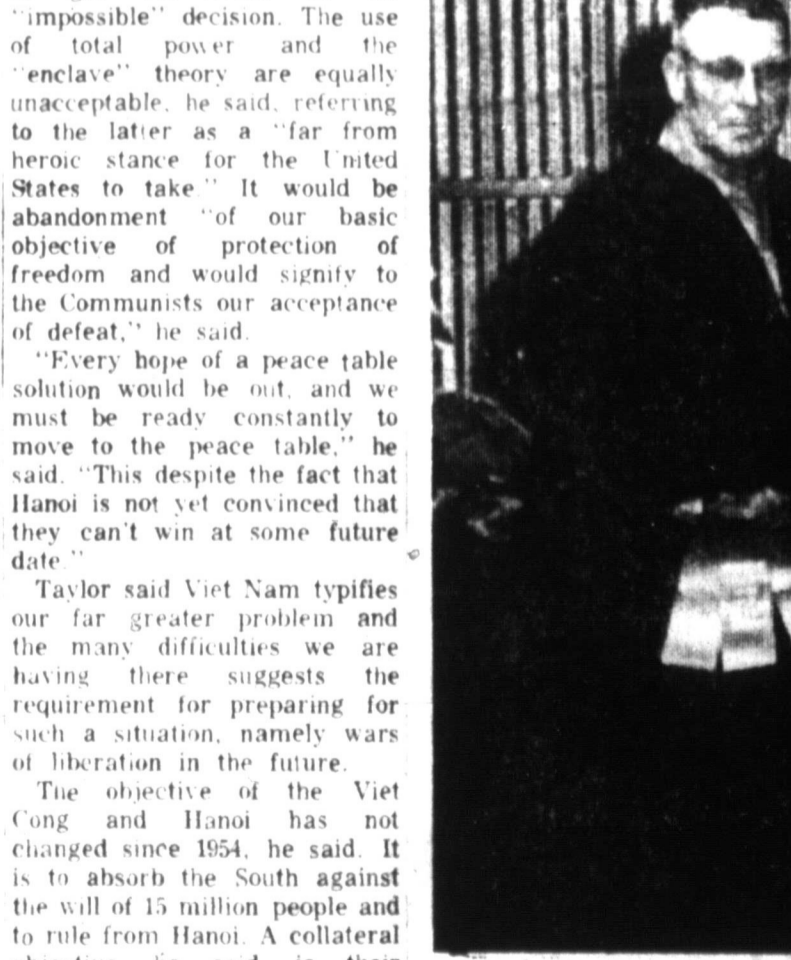

Wave after wave of Air Force, Marine Corps and Vietnamese planes hammered the Communists with bombs, rockets and napalm. At times the defenders engaged in bitter hand-to-hand combat with the North Vietnamese troops.

Champagne Results In $114,975 Suit

SHERMAN (UPI) — An Air Force captain sued a fellow officer Wednesday for $114,975 because the cork from a champagne bottle struck him in the eye.

Capt. Robert Dash sued Lt. Thomas W. Hogan claiming the injury was caused at a Perrin Air Force Base Party, May 15, 1964.

In the suit, Dash asked for $24,000 he says he would have received in future flight pay, $40,000 he would have received as a commercial pilot after getting out of the air force; and $45,975 for miscellaneous reasons, including medical expenses.

Dash is stationed at Sewart AFB, Tenn. and Hogan is at Chase Field in Beeville, Tex.

Dash did not lose his sight but claims his peripheral vision was damaged.

LBJ's Battered Tax Bill Limp To Committees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's badly battered Viet Nam tax package limped to a House-Senate conference today for what the administration hoped would be some restorative surgery—about $1 billion worth.

The Senate passed the measure on a 79-9 vote Wednesday, but not before rebellious Democrats, ignoring the pleas of their leaders, voted to lop off about $1 billion of the potential $6 billion in revenue the President had planned for.

But administration forces were confident of restoring most of the cuts. "We'll be able to clean it up considerably and put it in pretty good shape," said Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., who was expected to be one of the Senate conferees.

Johnson's original request was designed to raise $6 billion in revenue by repealing the Jan. 1 excise tax reductions on telephone calls and automobiles, changing the payroll tax withholding schedule, and speeding up collection of corporate income taxes. That is the way the House passed the bill last month.

But in two days of often confusing action in the Senate, the measure's potential revenue was reduced or offset by two major amendments.

The first of these came Tuesday when Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., succeeded in tacking on a "rider" extending Social Security coverage to an estimated 1.8 million Americans 70 and over. This offset the tax bill's expected revenue to the tune of $760 million.

Then on Wednesday, administration leaders lost control of the bill again and, on a narrow 46-42 vote, the Senate approved an amendment which would prevent the restoration of 11 per cent excise taxes on local—but not long distance—telephone calls.

This cut another potential $315 million out of the bill.

Guidelines Proposed For Tire Buyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) Wednesday proposed guidelines to help the consumer get what he pays for in automobile tires.

The proposals call for an overhaul in tire prices, advertising and the system used for grading tires. The FTC asked the industry to submit objections and suggestions before the guidelines are put in final form.

Lynda Bird Plans European Tour

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lynda Bird Johnson, barred from visiting Europe last summer by her father's "see the U.S.A." program, is hoping to make the grand tour of the continent this summer.

The President's daughter has "mentioned thoughts" of traveling abroad after she is graduated from the University of Texas in June, the White House said Tuesday.

Lynda, who celebrates her 22nd birthday March 19, had hoped to go to Europe last summer. But her father's much-publicized efforts to encourage would-be tourists to see America first led her, instead, to decide on a camping and canoe trip out West.

The pressure is still on to keep travelers U.S.A.-minded, but apparently not as much—at least around the White House. Lynda, an all-A student, is expected to return in the fall for more government and history studies in graduate school.

Farmer Tax Clinic Set at Tech Friday

A Tax Clinic of special interest to Pampa area farmers will get underway Friday at Texas Tech College in Lubbock.

John Harley, president of the Board of Directors of the Panhandle Water District, will head up a group of area farmers attending the meeting.

The Tax Institute will discuss the problems of water depletion reported for Federal Income Tax purposes.

Individuals attending the conference will be shown the materials and taught the method to use in reporting water depletion to the Internal Revenue Service.

Felix Ryals, district manager of the Panhandle Water Conservation District, said today the meeting is of special interest to tax accountants, attorneys, businessmen and housewives in addition to farmers.

The board granted a blanket increase of a flat salary raise for all summer school teachers from $700 to $800 for the seven-week summer school period.

Courses to be offered in summer school will include English, American History, World History, Texas History, government, Algebra, plane geometry, Related Math, Personal Typing, Homemaking, Health and Driver Education.

The time of summer school class periods will be extended from one hour and 40 minutes to one hour and 50 minutes each.

Tuition will be $12 per unit and $25 for driver education with the maximum load any student may carry set at 1 1/2 units or three subjects. Classes will begin at 7 a.m. and run through 12:35 p.m.

Figures submitted to the board by the school superintendent show that enrollment in Pampa public schools was 6,160 on Oct. 15, 1965 against a school census in the city of 6,674 in January of 1965. The census figure includes all school age children in public, parochial and private schools. January 1966 school census shows 6,662. Pampa's 1960 school census totaled 6,587 and Oct. 15 enrollment that year in the public schools was 6,037. There were approximately 130 more children enrolled last year than in 1960.

The board approved payment of bills totaling $118,122.41 and accepted the resignation of Roy Lee Dunn, assistant football coach.

A meeting of the board was set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 17, to consider school personnel for the coming school year.

H. Creel Grady presided today on his last regular meeting day as president of the board. Grady thanked news media representatives for coverage of the meetings and school officials and personnel for their cooperation.

The board adjourned and members went to Sam Houston School to observe one of the reading improvement classes now being conducted in Pampa schools under the federal government's aid program.

Police Investigate Minor Accidents

Pampa police filed no charges after investigating two minor accidents Wednesday.

A car driven by Redjet Cleo Brown Jr., Rt. 2, collided with a pickup operated by Buford E. Robertson, Rt. 2, E. Fredrick, about 7:15 p.m. at the intersection of Somerville and Francis. Police reported no injuries and only moderate damage resulted from the accident.

A parked auto owned by G. P. Andrews, 1142 S. Christy, was struck by a car driven by Thomas Harvey Hollis, 1905 Coffee, in the 1900 block of N. Hobart. The accident occurred about 4:53 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said no injuries resulted from either of the two Wednesday accidents.

Mid-Continent Opens Pampa Branch Store

Mid-Continent Supply Co. has opened a Pampa branch store on the Borger Highway in the former Dick Evans, Inc. building.

Supervisor of stores G. F. Stewart, of Oklahoma City, said that Mid-Continent does a world wide oil field supply business.

Wayne Darrow, former store manager in Perryton, will be in charge of the local operation. T. R. Wilson will continue as divisional sales representative.

Division manager for the operation is Jack Weems, of Tulsa.

The local store will employ four persons.

Home office for the firm is Ft. Worth.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Clay Funeral Home in Shamrock. Arrangements here are under direction of Carmichael-Whately Funeral Directors.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Clara Smith of Pampa and Mrs. Evelyn Helleston of Arlington, Calif.; one son, Alton Hicks of Dallas; one sister, Mrs. Ola Webb of Waco; a half brother, I. B. Osteen of Valley Mills, 11 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Rotarians Hear Education Talk

Sam Houston school cafeteria was the site of the Pampa Rotary Club's regular weekly luncheon meeting yesterday in observance of "Texas Public Schools Week."

The group was welcomed by school principal L. C. Davis, who also introduced the speaker, Claude Zevely.

Zevely, who is in charge of special reading instruction in the Pampa schools, said he believed that this is the "age of uncertainty" and that people should stress truth and certainty in their communications with one another.

David Frasher is the junior Rotarian for the month of March. A senior at Pampa High, he is a member of the National Honor society and was a member of the Harvester basketball team.

Angels' overhead cut him down with a burst of gunfire from treetop level.

Myers dove into the cockpit and Fisher taxied the plane down the runway. Fisher gunned his engine and they sped down the field and were airborne, headed for Da Nang and safety.

Air Force Captains Dennis B. Hague, 28, Kellogg, Idaho, and John Lucas, 28, Steubenville, Ohio, provided cover for the daring rescue and eliminated the one Communist who got too close to Myers.

Louisiana Plan Nears Approval

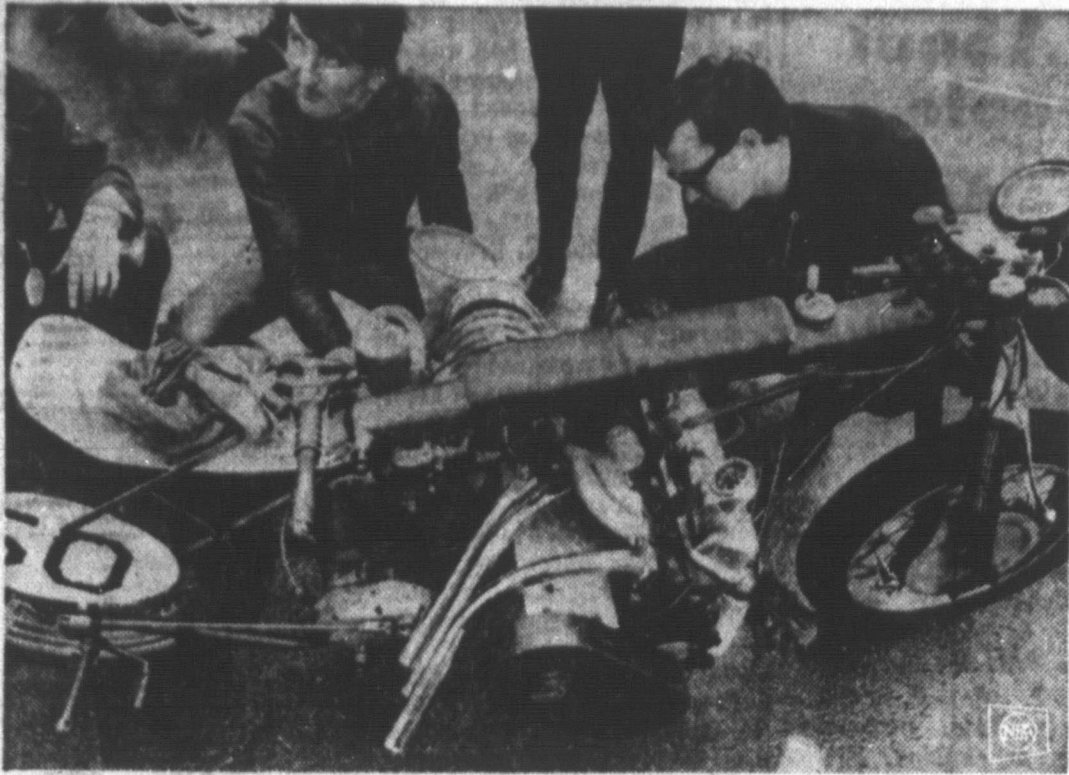

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—A redistricting plan for the Louisiana legislature should be on Gov. John J. McKeithen's desk for approval in the next two weeks.

It will probably include a recommendation for a 130-member House instead of the present 105-member body with each parish and ward of New Orleans retaining at least one representative.

These were probable conclusions reached Tuesday by Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock and House Speaker Vail Delony after another session on court-ordered reapportionment.

A federal court told Louisiana to reapportion its legislature on a population basis or face the possibility of having its law makers run at large.

McKeithen named Aycock and Delony to come up with a plan for his approval.

HYBRID—Motorcycles have gotten into the drag racing picture. The creation above, entered in the London, England, class for motorcycles is powered by an auto engine, mounted transversely.

URGES EXPANSION

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—The president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union urged President Johnson Tuesday to expand his program for safer automobiles to include provisions for safe and sober drivers.

"There can be little improvement in highway safety until the nation and its Congress come to grips with drinkers and drunkenness at the wheel," Mrs. Fred J. Tooz said.

Connally Clarifies Voter Registration

AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. John Connally today issued a proclamation certifying those persons who register during the 15-day emergency registration period are qualified to vote in all elections this year.

The act was a technicality required by the emergency registration bill passed by a special session of the 59th Legislature last month to replace the poll tax, which was declared unconstitutional by federal court.

The new law opened up voter registration again for a special period from March 1 through March 17 to all qualified voters who failed to pay the poll tax before the Jan. 31 deadline.

Those now registering under the emergency provision will be qualified to vote in all elections in Texas after midnight March 25 and to the end of the present election year, which runs through Jan. 31, 1967.

The only thing that could prevent these "conditional" registrants from voting would be for the U.S. Supreme Court to overturn the lower court ruling and uphold the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting.

FDA Launches Probe of DMSO

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new chief of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said today the agency was investigating possible criminal violations in the testing of a widely hailed drug known as "DMSO."

FDA Commissioner James L. Goddard also told a House subcommittee on drug safety he would place a closer check on the testing of new drugs on humans.

He said the testing of dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO) — used in treating arthritis — violated the regulations and led to eye damage on many patients. Goddard conceded that FDA failed to insist on full compliance with its rules.

But he said the firm that first proposed testing the substance, a byproduct of paper making was allowed only to apply DMSO to the skin of patients.

Yet the testing went far beyond this limitation and DMSO was administered by injection, taken by mouth, and applied directly to the eyes, Goddard said.

Testing of DMSO was halted last Nov. 11 when evidence indicated it caused damage to the eyes of animals.

"We are investigating possible criminal violation," Goddard said.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., called Goddard to question him on his first seven weeks as commissioner and his strict enforcement policy that led to a ban Tuesday on antibiotic throat tablets which the FDA found ineffective.

It said these products, sold over drug counters and not by prescription, were not effective in treating sore throats as their manufacturers claimed.

Federal law has required since 1962 that these drugs must be effective as well as safe to use.

ADENAUER TO VISIT

BONN (UPI)—Former West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will visit Israel the beginning of May at the invitation of the Israeli government, it was announced Monday.

Adenauer, 90, leaves for Paris Tuesday for a previously announced visit with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Silverless Half-Dollars And Dimes Ready for Use

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New dime is made of copper-nickel faces bonded to a core of pure copper. The copper hue of the core shows on the edge of each coin.

The Treasury said Tuesday that the new coins, minted to ease the drain on the nation's dwindling silver stockpile, will join the silverless quarter, in circulation since November.

Some banks may not get the new dimes and half-dollars right away because Federal Reserve banks will follow their usual practice of delivering coins only to banks that need them, the treasury said.

Like the new quarter, the Attainment of a place on this roll is indicative of high scholastic achievement, since an undergraduate student, to become eligible, must earn a semester grade-point average of 3.00 or above.

Virginia is the daughter of George E. Brown of 2223 Duncan, Pampa.

matter of fact

Think of gala Russian parties and immediately caviar comes to mind, but the word "caviar" does not even exist in Russian. It is a word common to most European languages and is supposed to be of Turk or Tartar origin. In the language of the caviar connoisseurs, the Russians, those black fish eggs are known as "Ikra."

76-Year-Old Grandmother Rides Motorcycle

DALLAS (UPI) — Mrs. Emma Mayme Severson of Irving, Tex., is probably one of the few 76-year-old grandmothers who has a motorcycle.

Now all she has to do is learn how to ride it. Mrs. Severson won the cycle in a contest.

She and her husband went to pick it up Tuesday. "I used to ride horseback quite a bit," Mrs. Severson allowed as she expertly swung a leg over the seat and mounted the machine.

She did not drive it however. She left that to her husband, Arnold, 68.

He gunned the engine to life and rode circles around the store parking lot.

"That's a humdinger. She really jumped. Got plenty of pickup," he told his wife happily.

Severson said back in 1915 he raced motorcycles and used to thrill the crowds by standing "no hands-style" in the saddle as he rode.

"It's so pretty," Mrs. Severson sighed, watching her husband roar around the lot, his hands firmly clasping the handles.

EXPECTS MORE SPENDING WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department expects businessmen to spend $60.2 billion on new plant and equipment this year, nearly 16 per cent more than was spent in 1965. The department's report Wednesday put spending at level below what private surveys have indicated but above that forecast by President Johnson's economic advisers. The advisers had forecast a 12 per cent increase and had planned their anti-inflation moves accordingly. The higher increase could mean additional moves, such as higher taxes. UPSTAGES PROS WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four-year-old Alan Nagao this year's Easter Seal child, upstaged a couple of pros Wednesday with a chorus of "Old MacDonald" and a tweak to the nose of Jimmy Durante. The Honolulu youngster, his right leg and hand crippled from birth, gave the President the season's first page of Easter Seals as Durante held the boy in his arms. Unawed by the White House, he upstaged the two with his singing and, at one point turned and gave the famous Durante nose a squeeze. WAR ON CRIME WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson's national war on crime includes a $1.2 million project to strengthen police operations in the nation's capital. The capital plan was included in the President's crime message delivered Wednesday. Included in the plan for Washington are installation of police radios in the officers' private cars, painting police cars bright colors and putting some policemen on scooters. In 1938, several prominent Communist leaders were found guilty of treason during one of the great "purges" in the Soviet Union.

The following guide to the nation's food shopping buys for this weekend was prepared by the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Southwestern spring vegetables are arriving at the nation's markets, the meat supply is adequate, and fruits are ample, according to the Consumer and Marketing Service.

Beef buys include roasts and steaks. Best pork buys, are bacon, boston butts, chops, and ham. Broiler-fryers and turkey continue to remain on the list of economical meat buys.

Cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, and endive start the plentiful vegetable list for this weekend. Collard greens, lettuce, onions, peppers, potatoes, radishes, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes are the remaining items on the roll of buys for this coming weekend.

In the fruit bin, apples, avocados, bananas, and grapefruit are the headliners for weekend features. Lemons and oranges are other suggested "buys."

76-Year-Old Grandmother Rides Motorcycle

DALLAS (UPI) — Mrs. Emma Mayme Severson of Irving, Tex., is probably one of the few 76-year-old grandmothers who has a motorcycle. Now all she has to do is learn how to ride it. Mrs. Severson won the cycle in a contest. She and her husband went to pick it up Tuesday. "I used to ride horseback quite a bit," Mrs. Severson allowed as she expertly swung a leg over the seat and mounted the machine. She did not drive it however. She left that to her husband, Arnold, 68. He gunned the engine to life and rode circles around the store parking lot. "That's a humdinger. She really jumped. Got plenty of pickup," he told his wife happily. Severson said back in 1915 he raced motorcycles and used to thrill the crowds by standing "no hands-style" in the saddle as he rode. "It's so pretty," Mrs. Severson sighed, watching her husband roar around the lot, his hands firmly clasping the handles.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capital

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — Texas' first big free voter sign-up is under way. But top state officials still are "fighting mad" because F.B.I. agents were assigned to keep an eye on registration procedures in selected counties.

"It's an insult to every public official and every citizen of Texas," wrote Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr in a letter to U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach about the F.B.I. check. Gov. John Connally agreed and further charged the U. S. Department of Justice with intentionally "instigating trouble" among stormy state political factions.

A three-judge federal court granted Carr's request for a 30-day stay of its order abolishing the poll tax as a voting requirement. Stay was granted in order to allow time to put the new registration law into effect. Therefore, the old poll tax requirement will apply through most local elections this month. All indications are the initial 15-day free registration (March 3-17) is going smoothly. Interest varies from county to county. Intensive registration drives are under way in the major counties, with all factions trying to sign up more voters who reflect their own views.

Connally and Carr have called on local tax assessor-collectors, who are voting registrars, to provide as many sub-stations and deputies as necessary and to authorize all the overtime needed to assure the widest possible opportunities for voter qualifications.

This is in keeping with instructions of the federal court which conceivably could lengthen the 15-day period if it feels all voters who wanted to register were not given sufficient opportunity.

Carr, meanwhile, has appealed the poll tax invalidation order to the U. S. Supreme Court. However, few feel it will be reversed.

Reversing earlier instructions, the attorney general said Texans over 60 years of age in cities of 10,000 or more who failed to get exemption certificates before Jan. 31 still can sign up free.

Reliable estimates of the number of new voters who will qualify by Mar. 17 have been raised to around 500,000.

CIGARETTE IMPORTS TIGHTENED — State and federal inspectors are clamping down on imported sales that resulted when the state per-pack tax jumped to 11 cents.

Travelers are being warned that they can bring back no more than two packs of untaxed cigarettes from across the border.

State comptroller's agents, liquor control board inspectors and customs officers are making close checks in an effort to enforce the limit.

Comptroller's figures show the total cigarette tax collected for February as $8,500,000. This is nearly a $2,000,000 increase from February, 1965. Actually, however, last month's stamp sales meant 77,776,963 packages of smokes were purchased. This compares with 83,431,387 at the old rate in Feb., 1965.

Before the last three-cent-a-pack increase, sales sometimes went to more than 100,000,000 a month.

"We're looking at every avenuce we can to protect the revenue of the state," commented Albert Brown, head of the excise and store tax division of the comptroller's office.

TEXAS JOINS COMPACT — Texas will be one of the first states to participate in the interstate Compact for Education, Governor Connally has announced.

Compact aims to strengthen the voice of states in formulation of alternative nationwide educational policies.

Connally has indicated he is making a bid for location of the compact's central office in Texas.

An interstate commission composed of seven representatives from each member state will develop alternatives in educational policies, gather data on enrollments, conduct research, exchange information with other groups and recommend proposals for financing education.

TWO SELECTED — Amarillo and Beaumont were selected as the sites for two $450,000 pilot Mental Retardation centers sought by 20 Texas communities. State Board for Mental Health and Mental Retardation said the cost will be shared by state and federal appropriations.

Other cities considered for the centers were Abilene, Austin, Brownwood, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Edinburg, Longview, Midland, Odessa, San Antonio, San Angelo, Tyler, Texarkana, Temple, Victoria, Wichita Falls and Waco.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SPEAKS — A Childress County constable who accepted a $1-a-day job as a deputy tax assessor-collector for a single day during the poll tax drive put on by the Junior Chamber of Commerce did not vacate his office, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held in an official opinion.

In other opinions Carr concluded:

—A driver's license is automatically lost on felony conviction for driving while intoxicated, but is not so forfeited when a person is convicted of misdemeanor DWI and placed on probation (unless probation is revoked).

—Driver of a pickup, panel truck, carry-all or station wagon of 2,000 pounds or less capacity does not have to have a commercial operator's license even if vehicle is operated in combination with one or more trailers.

—Texas Water Rights Commission is governed by article setting $1,500 maximum for water use permits (and $200 top for additional use under same permit). Request originated with Sulphur River Municipal Water District and City of Irving applications to take water from Cooper Reservoir.

—Workmen's Compensation law does not have permissive application to county-line independent school district (Goose Creek Consolidated ISD) under jurisdiction of a county having population of 1,200,000 or more unless it is wholly located or situated in the county.

—A warrant on Texas Water Rights Commission's appropriation to pay for paper used in printing special engineering reports necessary to state water plan is a legal expenditure.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT PLANNED — State Highway Commission initiated plans to make U.S. Highway 271 a multi-lane facility from Paris northward to the Red River and the Oklahoma border.

Facility will connect with a multi-lane highway planned by the State of Oklahoma to extend southward from McAlester to the river. Among other projects ordered by the commission was completion of a highway loop around the city of Lufkin.

COURTS DECIDE — State Supreme Court held for the typographical union in action requiring the Houston Chronicle and Houston Post to reset in the composing rooms advertisements placed by a local firm through a local advertising agency. Arbitration board held that "national" advertising does not have to be reproduced by the newspapers, but "local" advertising does.

POLICY CHANGER — Writing of general liability and automobile insurance policies will be changed by July 1. But the "average driver" won't be affected.

Big change will be introduction of a "jacket" plan which will be common to several types of insurance.

Under the "jacket" plan, the agent will insert standard insurance parts, such as fire protection, auto-protection, etc.

Basically, the change is designed for business enterprises rather than for individuals. Family policies will not be under the "jacket" plan.

Under the new method, "an insured now will be covered by liability for injuries to others arising out of his use as a passenger of a land public conveyance, such as a taxicab or bus."

A second area for increased protection is for "the insured's liability arising out of watercraft powered by outboard motors in excess of 24 horsepower."

Most significant change in the general liability plan as it relates to automobiles and other vehicles is that the policies will be written on a "per occurrence" basis with no additional charge.

SULPHUR LEASE SALE SET — An April lease sale for development of sulphur deposits on West Texas lands owned by the University of Texas was ordered by UT regents.

Regents will notify oil companies doing business on the lands, requesting a list of tracts for sulphur mining. Lease sale will be handed directly by regents.

"Prospects look very good," commented Chairman W. W. Heath.

SHORT SNORTS — Parks and Wildlife Commission in an unpublicized meeting added nearly 400 acres to 245 previously designated as Lyndon B. Johnson State Park near famed LBJ Ranch.

State Securities Commissioner William M. King has taken action to prohibit the sale of securities issued by Atlas-American Oil Corporation, Dallas.

Texas Department of Public Safety is now tied in with a multi-state high speed police teletype network to carry information on crime and traffic.

More than 1,000 are expected to attend the Governor's Conference on mental retardation here March 17-18.

W. Astor Kirk of Austin and Cristobal P. Aldrete of Del Rio were named deputy director and manager of community action programs, respectively, for the southwest regional headquarters of Office of Economic Opportunity.

Texas Education Agency accreditation team probably will re-visit the troubled Eagle Pass school system in April. School was warned its accreditation will be discontinued in July unless "substantial progress" is made.

AGING COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss announced today the formation of a task force on problems of the aging.

John B. Martin, GOP national committeeman from Michigan, was named chairman of the 22 member group. Garson Meyer of Rochester, N.Y., was appointed vice chairman.

Pioneer amphitheater complex in Palo Duro Canyon State Park will be expanded, according to Parks and Wildlife Commission Chairman Will Odom.

Lawyers of a five-state area will assemble at the University of Texas Law School on March 24-25 for the first Regional Conference on Legal Services to the Poor. More than 350 representatives are expected to attend.

Romulus and Remus were the legendary founders of Rome.

Johnson's Neighbors Fighting for Farm

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (UPI)—A couple with a 70-acre farm and peach orchard adjacent to the LBJ Ranch ran advertisements in two weekly newspapers today asking county officials not to condemn their land for the proposed Lyndon B. Johnson state park.

The park is to be built on the land of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Sweeney, who live directly across Ranch Road 1 from the President's LBJ Ranch.

The Sweeneys brought in a 700-word, typewritten message to The Standard and The Record Post, Fredericksburg's two weeklies. Both papers publish Wednesday afternoons.

Space Reserved

Art Kowert, managing editor of The Standard, said the couple called him Monday to reserve the quarter-page space, they brought the advertisement in Tuesday. They paid for one insertion only.

The Sweeneys said they bought the land about three and one-half years ago and that they have been offered up to $4,000 an acre for some of it. The state is willing to pay only $450 an acre, the advertisement said.

Sweeney is 71, and his wife is 56.

Although he said the state has been talking of the property as ordinary farm land, Sweeney claims that with Johnson right across the road, "it is not ordinary farm land."

He Makes Appeal

Sweeney said the Gillespie County judge and county commissioners should "refuse to use their power of condemnation to hand over to the state valuable land for which the state is not willing to offer a fair price."

The Sweeney property is part of 245 acres in the area originally set aside by the State Parks and Wildlife Department for the proposed LBJ state park. However, the state agency recently held a closed-door meeting and proposed an additional 400 acres for the park.

One member of the three-man parks and wildlife board is A.W. Moursund of Johnson city, a close friend of the President and trustee of his business interests.

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—A 16-year-old supermarket clerk has pleaded guilty to two charges of stealing groceries. Her crime: undercharging customers who she felt sorry for.

CLASS FAVORITES — Steve Molberg, Pampa freshman, and Vickie Casey, Midland freshman, were named Freshman Class Favorites at the annual Plains Personality Pageant at West Texas State University. The two were chosen by class ballots.

NEWTON ON RISE

NEWTON, Ga. (UPI)—More than two dozen families were left homeless today by the rampaging waters of the flooding Flint River.

The muddy river continued to rise Tuesday pushing toward a 36-foot crest, 12 feet above flood level.

HIGH PLANE CLAIM

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist North Viet Nam today claimed the United States has lost about 1,400 planes in the Viet Nam war.

The official Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan, quoted by the North Vietnamese news agency, said the United States had lost one-seventh of its entire fighter aircraft strength.

The North Vietnamese Reds said 904 American planes, had been shot down over the North and nearly 100 downed or destroyed in South Viet Nam.

SHOT CHANGES MIND

PLEBLO, Colo. (UPI)—All it took to make Bill Wright change jobs was a shot in the arm. The deputy sheriff went "to check out" a car the other night and the driver stuck a pistol out the window and shot him in the elbow.

Wright resigned Tuesday and went job hunting.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The really surprising smash hit among the new mid-season television series is not "Batman," but rather "Daktari," a weekly one-hour show set in an animal compound in Africa.

"Batman," a 30-minute entry that appears Wednesdays and Thursdays on ABC-TV, was almost predestined to be a popular success, at least temporarily, because of the brilliant promotion job on it.

However, CBS-TV's "Daktari," which is aimed straight at the family trade and is done on a shrewdly simple level, had relatively minor promotion if one compares it with "Batman."

Yet in the latest national ratings, the Thursday episode of "Batman" finished 10th among all shows, while "Daktari," which airs Tuesdays, came in 11th, only four-tenths of a percentage point behind the canal zero.

Strangely, the Wednesday episode of "Batman" fell off to 26th, still a strong entry—but, for the first time since the series weighed in rousingly, giving an indication that there might be sudden truth in predictions that interest in the way-out tone may drop quickly.

It seems clear, in fact, that only continued brilliant promotion will keep "Batman" on top, for, as someone has said, the show is so bad that it is bad. There is nothing to "Batman" except the word of mouth generated by the promotion, and the frantic desire by the excessively bourgeois segment of the audience to be part of the "in" crowd—which, by rapid calculation, amounts to an exclusive society of some 40 million viewers.

Since "Batman" stories are two-parters, starting on Wednesdays and ending on Thursdays, it is a curiosity that the ratings reveal the conclusions are watched much more than the beginnings.

It is possible that the psychology here is similar to that employed by readers of every mystery and detective novels: They know all the material is done poorly but want to see how it comes out anyway, so they skip most of the early stuff and start with the last chapter.

Anyway, the ratings also reveal that the astoundingly popular Red Skelton finished second among all shows, behind only "Bonanza."

The recent Carol Channing special, meanwhile, came in fifth, while Gene Kelly's one-hour musical tribute to New York landed in the 74th position among 106 entries.

The Wednesday "Batman" episode—20th—was tied in the ratings by "The Fugitive," which is showing its strength over the long haul.

And "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." is more solid than ever, rising to seventh.

Ironically, the S. M. Mothers Brothers comedy series on CBS-TV came in a strong 28th, although it is reported due for cancellation by the network.

There has, however, been some talk around that the competing ABC-TV organization might be interested in picking up the series.

The new Sammy Davis Jr. series, due at present for a quick axing, once again finished 97th, making clearer than ever that only the presence of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton on the premiere garnered the high opening ratings for the show.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amidst the vast outpouring of flapdoodle at congressional hearings there occasionally appears a genuine pearl of wisdom.

I credit Elizabeth Thorpe of the Laboratory Animal Breeders Association with having mothered such a pearl this very week.

Testifying before a House agriculture subcommittee on legislation to regulate the handling of animals used in medical research, she unleashed a rare bit of Aristotelian logic.

"One cannot easily tattoo a mouse," she said.

If you let that statement soak in for awhile, I think you will recognize the dawning of a great truth.

A Possible Answer

It was injected into a discussion of possible ways to curb the wave of dog rustling that has broken out recently.

Dog rustlers, operating mainly in urban and suburban neighborhoods, have been rounding up stray canines, including some dearly beloved pets, and selling them to laboratories.

One proposed remedy is similar to, but not as picturesque as, anti-rustling measures taken by cattle ranchers in the days of the Old West.

Instead of a branding iron, dog owners would use a tattooing needle to mark their pets for identification. They also would use a different type of marking.

A dog would be engraved with his owner's Social Security number. Thus would rustling enter the computer age.

Several witnesses urged that any corrective legislation be restricted to larger animals. The difficulty of tattooing mice was cited in support of this argument.

Difficult Job

It turned out that tattooing dogs isn't necessarily easy either. Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., volunteered his poodle "Jammy" for a demonstration, but the dog had other ideas.

Resnick had so much trouble holding the squirming pooch he halted the experiment before the marking could be completed.

I don't blame a dog for not wanting his hide etched with a number. It lacks class.

Cattle owners created their own brands—"Lazy W," "Flying U," "Circle Bar X" and so forth. Dog owners should do the same. They could use brands like the "Lazy Dachshund," the "Flying Poodle," and the "Running Boxer."

Or they could use something sentimental, like a heart with the word "Mother" inscribed across it.

Librarian Speaks to Council of Clubs

Pampa Council of Clubs met in the City Club Rooms recently for a regular meeting. The president, Mrs. James Quarry opened the meeting with prayer. During the business session it was announced that Betty Crocker Coupons are still needed to buy hollow handled knives for the kitchen. Mrs. Frank Shotwell and Mrs. Quarry had cleaned the kitchen and re-arranged the cabinets so that the clubs could better find the dishes and utensils in the kitchen. It was voted that beginning in the fall, clubs would be appointed to continue the cleaning of the kitchen once a year. Clubs would be appointed by the president.

It was announced that a film on "Breast Examination" would be shown at the Capri Theater April 18 and that a Doctor would be present at the showing to group.

The program was given by Mayor Jim Nation and City Manager Jim White.

Mrs. Carolyn Spidell, librarian, spoke to the group about the 10 new rules for using the library in Pampa. She urged all

Business Women's Week Marked

Business Women's Week, for the Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club, opened with a breakfast at Coronado Inn Sunday morning with the theme, "Plan for Progress." Mrs. W. G. Crowson, chairman, is in charge of all events planned throughout the week.

Business Women's Week is observed annually by the National Federation of B&P Women's Clubs. Business Women's Week is also a time for honoring the most outstanding business woman selected by the club, who is honored at numerous social functions for this special week. This year's selection as "Business Woman of the Week" is Mrs. Charley Ford, presented by Mrs. Mack Harmon. Mrs. Ford has owned her own business in Pampa for a number of years.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Gladys Jaynes, after which the president, Mrs. Eli Ethridge, gave the welcome address.

Mrs. Malcolm McDaniel presented two vocal selections, "Forgive Me, Lord," by Hamilton and "How Beautiful Upon The Mountain," by Harker, accompanied by Jerry Stephens at the piano.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Tom Rose, recited "The Sermon on The Mount," found in the fifth, sixth and seventh chapters of Matthew.

Mrs. L. B. Robertson introduced four of the club's "Girls of the Month," Misses Virginia DeWitt, Charis Gustin, Martha Stuart and Parilou Chandler. The "Girls of the Month" are invited to attend all club meetings and socials during their respective months to serve, and will present their own program to the club at the March 22 meeting.

The serving tables were arranged with centerpiece of large pink roses, and long stemmed pink roses laid at intervals along the edge of each table.

The Club Collect was given by Mrs. H. F. McDonald Jr.

Dear Abby....

Husband Is Working
For a Merit Badge

DEAR ABBY: Get this picture. My husband and I were walking out of a supermarket. I had one large sack which I know weighed 22 pounds because I weighed it on our bathroom scale when I got home. He was carrying a 20 pound sack of flour and a 10 pound sack of sugar.

Then he saw this nice looking young woman walking out just ahead of us. She was carrying only one large sack. My husband handed me his 30 pounds, rushed up to take the sack from this stranger's hands, and then he carried it to her station wagon.

I would like for you to explain exactly what you think of his actions. My husband claims he can't see where he did anything wrong.

BOILING MAD

DEAR BOILING: Either your husband is still working for a merit badge or he is hungry for a kind word from a strange woman.

DEAR ABBY: "Love-Starved" has my sympathy. He's the man whose wife won't let him kiss her because she's afraid he might mess her hair-do or smear her make-up.

I have been married for nearly four years, and I have never seen my wife with curlers in her hair or goo all over her face. She says, "I can do all the construction work during the day time. I don't care if the mailman, milkman or delivery boys see me looking like a spook. But when my man comes home, I like to be as fresh and pretty as I can be."

LUCKY LENNY

DEAR LUCKY: Cover her up. She might get pneumonia.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something about wives who wear their husband's secretaries out with their constant phoning to remind him of something they forgot to tell him before he left the house. A busy executive relies on his secretary to take most of these messages. Mine are like this:

"Tell Mr. Jones not to forget to pay the dentist's bill."

"Tell Mr. Jones the brakes on my car need adjusting."

"Tell Mr. Jones not to get tied up next Wednesday night. It's his daughter's piano recital night."

Some wives insist on talking to their husbands. If I say, "Mr. Jones is talking on another line," she asks, "Who is he talking to?" If I say, "Mr. Jones has stepped out," she asks, "Where did he go and when do you think he'll be back?" Then she demands that I have him call her the minute he returns, as it is an emergency.

So when I try to call her back, her line is busy for an hour! A secretary has enough to do without all those interruptions and time-consuming chores. Abby, you have my permission to change this letter around any way you wish, just do us secretaries a favor and get this message across!

BUSY BUT BOTHERED
DEAR B. B. B.: You've said it so well, I wouldn't dare to change a word. When a woman's feet hurt, no one else can describe her pain with quite so much feeling.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MISS G. IN MACON:" You are under no obligation to tell him your age. Simply say, "I'm old enough to know the score, and young enough to play the game." (That ought to settle his hominy grits.)

Paris Fashions Resist Spots

PROTECTED FROM SPOTTING — Zepel fabric fluoridizer has been used for the first time this season by the Paris couturiers to protect their fabrics from spotting. Philippe Venet has used it to retain the fresh appearance of this strawberry pink, double-breasted coat (left) with narrow standaway collar and flared skirt. Madeleine de Rouch uses the process to protect the reversible pale beige and white slim-fitting coat (right). A matching short-sleeved, body-skimming sheath, completes the ensemble. Orlon and wool are combined in the fabric used for both fashions.

Gardening News

By THELMA BRAY

The newest addition to Pam-pa's parks is the foot bridge across the creek at Central Park; it adds so much to the park. Jiggs Cooke and the Park Department deserve a very special "Thank You."

The last few days of March should be most pleasant if the old saying holds true that "If March comes in like a lion, it will go out like a lamb."

An old superstition calls the first three days of March "blind days" because they are "unlucky." Some farmers are so superstitious about the three "unlucky" days that they will not plant seed on those days. No doubt, it is because the seeds will blow away.

March brings in the spring and ends the winter. A poem by Bayard Taylor expresses it perfectly:

"With rushing winds and gloomy skies
The dark and stubborn winter dies;

Far off, unseen, Spring faintly cries,
Bidding her earliest child arise;

March!
Branches of Forsythia and Pussy Willow can be brought inside to bloom now.

Mrs. Boynton suggests the following dates according to the moon signs: pruning for no bleeding, March 10, 11, 19, 20, 29, and 30. Prune roses, etc. April 6, 7. Plant onions, April 16, 17. Plant seeds April 20, 21, 25, 26, May 1, 2, 3. More good planting dates in May are 13, 13, 18, 19, 22, 23 and 24. When planting seeds, scratch the soil with rake, place seed on soil and then sprinkle with vermiculate. The vermiculate stays in place and helps to remember where seeds were planted.

Care of greenhouse-grown pot plants in the home is usually a problem for most homemakers. These plants are usually grown under conditions of high humidity and good light intensity with day temperatures of 70 to 75 degrees F. and nights around 60 degrees F. These conditions are hard to find in the average home, but the closer you come to providing them the longer your plants will last.

During the day keep plants in the best light, which would be near a window.

Humidity can be increased by placing the pot on a tray or small rocks or pea gravel and water. Gravel keeps pot out of the water and increases the evaporating surface. Keep plants away from a draft as some plants are sensitive to cold air.

Proper watering is also important. Plants should not be allowed to dry out. Neither should they be overwatered. Keep soil moist but not wet.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Panama News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Another Income Tax Refusal

Increasing talk of a "tax strike" is heard throughout the land. There are signs that individuals, not only locally, but in the various states and on the national level are increasingly dissatisfied with taxation.

One of the latest cases we've heard of on a national level is Arthur J. Porth of Wichita, Kan. Dr. F. A. Harper of Stanford Calif., brought to our attention the story of Mr. Porth, a tax consultant who once was nominated by the Conservative Party for the post of state auditor of Kansas.

Since 1961, Porth has refused to pay any income taxes and in filing his report gives no details, declaring: "I plead the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States." He says he is anxious to have his case taken through proper legal channels to the Supreme Court, but to date only various threats by the Internal Revenue Service have been used. "It would appear that tax authorities are very reluctant to have the case tried even with the present court sitting the case," commented Dr. Harper.

The Porth case in this respect is similar to that of Austin T. Flett, Chicago insurance man, who since 1959 has been sending in "under protest" his individual income tax return form, signed in blank. He has been objecting to what he considers unfair taxation of some companies and the exemption from taxes of certain cooperatives. He has not been able to get to court either. Some other objectors have sought to refuse payments because they opposed expenditure of their tax money to prosecute the countless wars, or because they objected to foreign aid. However, if they had money in the bank or property, the IRS has simply filed an attachment against the property.

However, if the movement to refuse to fill out the tax forms were to grow into a real movement, the federal bureaucrats would be in real trouble.

Dr. Harper commented: "Even those who may not hold the philosophical position that the income tax is a violation of the underlying laws and precepts of our way of life, one may suspect, would join the ranks one by one in self-defense against the increasing taxes resulting from the narrowed tax base. This could snowball, if only it began to roll, and the jails of the land would hold few rebels in this event."

"I would not assert or imply that any one person should so act, of course, because that is solely his decision for reasons known to him alone. But it cannot be denied that here is a way for our courageous soul who favors doing so on net balance of considerations to act alone and cast this form of vote with an effect that does not await majority agreement with him."

But Plumbing Won't Work

America may have a dropout problem with its students, but the Soviet Union seems to be having "fade-out" trouble with its graduates.

Although Russia is, and has been, producing four times as many engineers every year as the United States, the Soviet technical economy is far smaller than America's.

A good question is: "What can they do with all those engineers?"

The question is asked by Dr. Frederick E. Terman, scientist of Stanford University. His answer, which he obtained during a recent 26-day visit to the U.S.S.R., is that the Russians are not using their engineers efficiently.

Another part of the explanation is found in the fact that a great many students take correspondence or night courses. All diplomas are considered equal by law, but there are obvious differences, says Terman, between what a student can learn in part-time as contrasted to full-time study.

"Russia is truly a land of contrasts and contradictions," he says. "They can put men in space but their plumbing doesn't work very well."

The Russian jet he flew in was a sophisticated machine, but he found he had to wait 20 minutes for an elevator in a new high-rise building.

He describes how state planning governs higher education in Russia:

The state decides how many engineers of a particular specialty it will need in five years (the length of time to get a diploma). This number of applicants, spread among 180 poly-technic schools, is then accepted for the fall semester.

Students can enter college only in the fall. They can apply to only one school, must decide their major before entering, and if not accepted must wait another year before re-applying.

The bureaucrats even make allowances for the inevitable drop-outs. "If the state plan calls for a school to accept 100 freshmen for a certain specialty and graduate 95 of them," says Terman, "the school takes in 100 and graduates 95 in that specialty five years later."

No engineering student gets his degree upon graduating, however. He must first work for a year in a factory and earn a statement of satisfactory performance from his superiors.

Despite these flaws and others, such as poor laboratory equipment, Russian engineering students get a sound basic training, says Terman.

Another thing that surprised him, though, was the small number of students working toward our equivalent of a doctor's degree—typically about 500 out of a total university enrollment of 15,000.

Evidently, the all-knowing state planners of the new Russia want their engineers smart—but not too smart.

person worked 60 hours to buy a month's supply of food; today it takes 37 hours. And the food today is fresher, more varied, more convenient than ever before.

Farmers have been much criticized for the huge agricultural surpluses that began piling up after World War II, the costs of which helped boost the budget of the Department of Agriculture to a level exceeded only by the Department of Defense.

The problem of surpluses is coming to an end, notes Frevert. Already there is talk of "unleashing" American agricultural productivity for the job of feeding a runaway world population.

In view of his performance in the past and the challenge facing the world in the near future, the forgotten American farmer may well be called upon to be the man of the hour—in all the hours remaining in the 20th century.

Just What Constitutes Viet Victory?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — In foreign policy debate today, the word "victory" leads a curious existence. It is battered from many sides.

To the militant right, it has long since come to mean nothing but a total crushing military triumph over the nation's adversaries at the moment—whether in Viet Nam or elsewhere.

To the militant left, it has come to be surrounded with an aura of evil, as if any course of national action could not be pushed to a successful conclusion without making us into ugly oppressors.

The distortions the word "Victory" has undergone are of major consequence, for they warp the fabric of the current heated discussions over the war in Viet Nam.

From the right, the word "appeasement" is being applied to any suggestion that we should find an early road to peace negotiations.

From the left, negotiations are often made to seem almost an end in themselves, as if we had entered Viet Nam only to find a way to get out of Viet Nam through negotiations.

Victory is scorned as a concept heavily colored with inhumanity.

The word got into serious trouble in the years after World War II.

On many sides it was recognized that this country's total preoccupation with the military annihilation of our enemies left us unprepared for the grave political and diplomatic consequences of such a victory.

The Soviet Union took quick advantage of our one-sided concentration, establishing political control over wide areas of eastern Europe which should have been free. For a time, even western Europe was threatened.

The idea of victory suffered in a different way as a result of the Korean War. As our first truly limited war, this was a milestone. We settled for a good deal less than final destruction of the enemy. Outraged militants of the right thus mocked the settlement as a virtual defeat.

In the intervening years, these people have hardened in their attitude that anything less than total victory is surrender.

On the other side, by slow and subtle transformation, "victory" has come to be identified with military excess and nothing else.

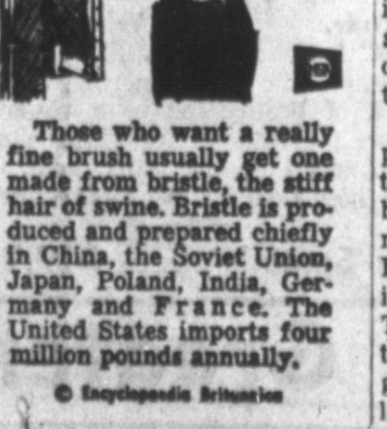

Altogether lost in the current sea of distortion is the possible quite sane idea that victory can be the achievement of stated purposes which are greater than talks at any price but short of annihilation.

Conceived in this way, the goal of victory may be large or it may be limited. Its achievement may involve a blend of military and political means, as the enemy's behavior dictates.

By such a definition, Korea was neither the defeat the rightists call nor the negotiated stalemate the leftists claim. Our initial purpose—to repel the invasion of South Korea—was achieved.

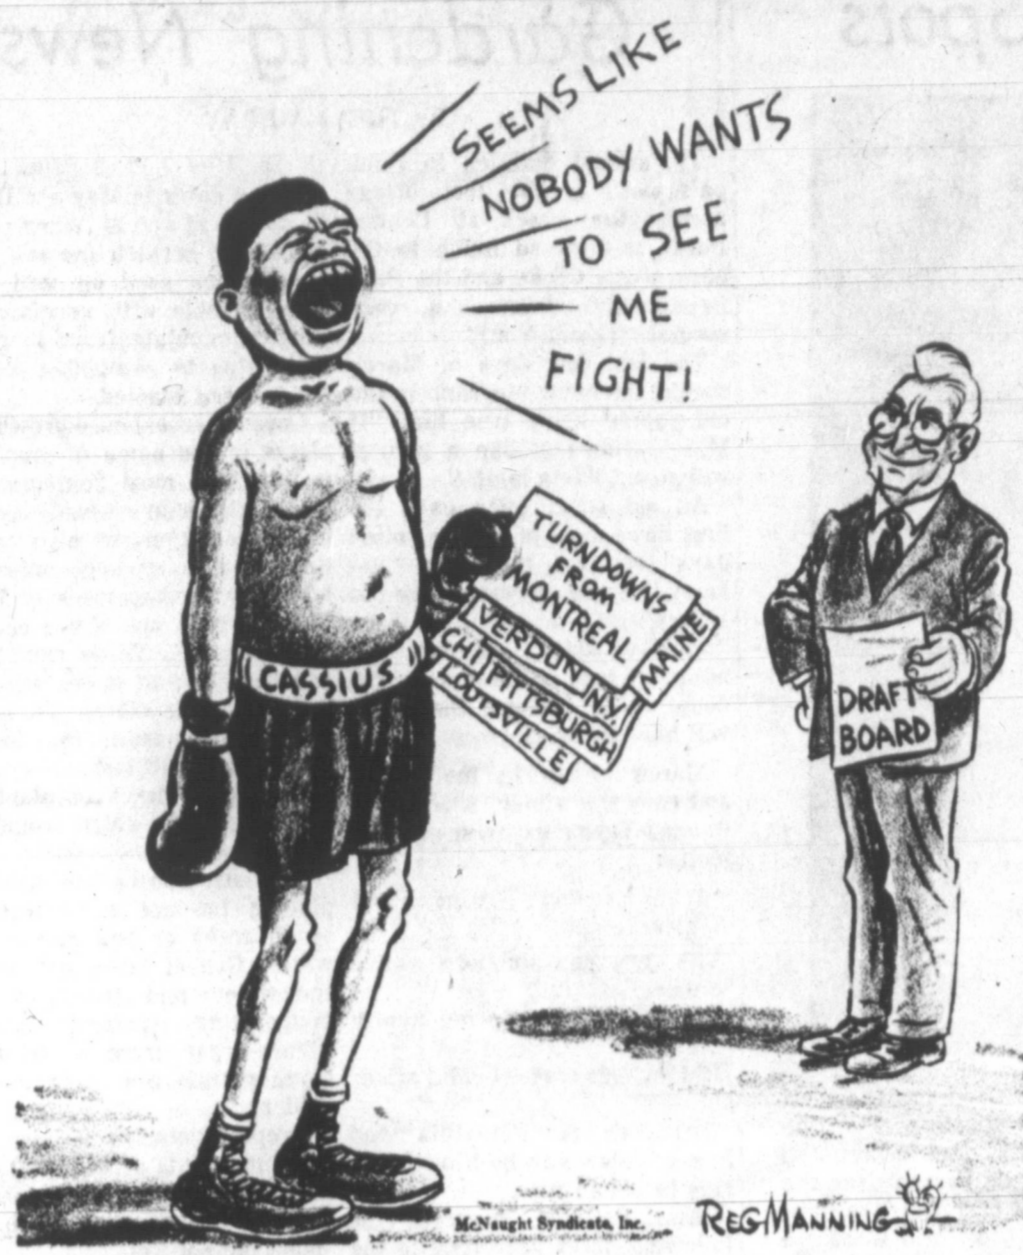

The debate over Viet Nam might be more valuable if we could set aside the emotional distortion clinging to the word "victory" and look more clearly at our true, though limited objectives and the means at hand for realizing them. The choice is not between wiping out the enemy or talking with him at any price.

Those who want a really fine brush usually get one made from bristle, the stiff hair of swine. Bristle is produced and prepared chiefly in China, the Soviet Union, Japan, Poland, India, Germany and France. The United States imports four million pounds annually.

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING

Real and False Spokesmen The action of the House of the Delegates of the American Bar Association in upholding U. S. action in South Viet Nam as completely legal, is an effective rebuke to those individuals and groups in this country who would virtually say that it is illegal for this country to defend itself against challenge in the Far East.

The ABA action is, first of all, a reply to those who like Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), say that the United States is in the wrong in resisting aggression in Viet Nam. Behind the ABA resolution is the full force of the legal profession in the United States, for which the American Bar Association can properly claim to speak. The ABA should silence those critics of national defense who would endeavor to fool the public into believing that this nation is in the wrong.

But it is not only legal justification that properly should be offered but a reply to those agencies that pretend to represent the church people of America. Unlike the ABA, which truly can speak for the lawyers, the National Council of Churches is NOT broadly representative of America's churchgoers. Though it subtly pretends to speak for 40 million Protestants, the NCC itself is in disfavor with a broad cross-section of members in the various Protestant denominations.

Certainly, the recent NCC declaration, which backed Red China for the U. N. and asked closer American ties with the communist regime in Peking, is not expressive of the will of the religious people of the United States. It is clear, on the basis of investigations made by concerned churchmen, that the actual membership of the churches do not have effective control over the pronouncements of the NCC.

If a vote were taken among the membership of the constituent churches, it is safe to say that the NCC executive would not have their radical social and political doctrines upheld.

What the NCC proposed at the meeting of its General Board at St. Louis, Mo. February 22 was a series of measures which, if translated into reality, would enormously aid the Peking regime in its continued oppression of the Chinese people themselves and its wars of aggression against free nations in Asia.

For example, the NCC, aside from recommending the seating of Red China in the U. N. (where it would have a new propaganda platform and opportunities for subversive activities inside the United States), urged sale of food to Red China, exchanges of technical information, and "cultural exchanges."

Between the Bookends

Life Without Prejudice

A new volume of essays by the late Richard Weaver has been published under the title "Life Without Prejudice" (published by Regency Co., 114 W. Illinois St., Chicago 10, Ill.; $4.50). Weaver was Professor of English at the University of Chicago, an author of three books, and a contributor to conservative magazines.

The essays, written in Weaver's low-key, soft-sell style, are thought-provoking on a wide variety of subjects. Starting with the title essay, the author pulls the fangs of emotion from the word "prejudice" and restores its rightful connotation of "prejudgment."

He concludes: "The conservative realizes that many orthodox positions, once abandoned in panic because they were thought to be indefensible, are quite defensible if only one gives a little thought to basic issues. Surely one of these positions is the right of an individual or a society to hold a belief while, though unreasoned, is uncontradicted."

His essays then touch on new facets of such traditional subjects as cultural freedom, education and individualism.

His final essay deals with the common ground between conservatism and libertarianism. He says that he willingly accepts the label "conservative" and defines the word as one who believes that there is a fixed nature of the universe that can not be altered by any man for it was here before him and will live on after him. "The conservative holds that man in this world cannot make his will his law without any regard to limits and to the fixed nature of things."

He notes that the libertarian is primarily interested in securing freedom from the state; and the common ground with conservatism comes in opposition to those who would use the state to attempt to change the natural order of things.

"There is a difference between trying to reform your fellow beings by the normal processes of logical demonstration, appeal, and moral suasion—there is a difference between that and passing over to the use of force or constraint. The latter is what makes the modern radical dangerous and perhaps in a sense demented."

One can spend several profitable evenings mulling over the ideas of Richard Weaver, as expressed in these essays.

were to gain an ample supply of food from the United States, its hungry armies would be in a position to receive marching orders. Thus selling food to Red China would amount to selling free Asian nations into slavery.

To provide Red China with technical information would help that nation gear up for the war it is planning against the United States. The Red Chinese are completely candid about their determination to defeat the United States. Thus to give Peking any kind of information would be cutting the throats of the American people.

As for "cultural exchanges," one can easily imagine what that would involve—a flood of books and films distorting the American role in Asia and praising the cruel regime in Peking. By this time, everyone should know that such exchanges with a totalitarian regime don't work; the free nation always comes out with the short end of the bargain. The totalitarians rigidly control where films are shown and books are deposited, whereas the communists are free to peddle their products anywhere once the gates are opened.

Hunt for Truth

By H. L. HUNT

OUR NATIONAL INDEPENDENCE

In an unusual coincidence of history, two of the most illustrious signers of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson, 83, and John Adams, 91, died the same day. It was on July 4, 1826, the 50th anniversary of a Declaration of American Independence.

A delegation came to John Adams and asked him, from his deathbed, to give them a last message for the United States of America on its most glorious holiday.

John Adams gave them two words: "Independence Forever!"

Freedom from England had long since been won. John Adams was not speaking of the American Revolution that was past. He was speaking of the future, as far ahead as he or any man could see. In all that future, he wanted the United States of America to be truly independent.

In our time we have heard much talk about ideals said to be nobler, more universal and more humanitarian than national independence. We are told there is some great virtue, never clearly defined, in allowing an international organization to place limits on our sovereignty and our freedom of action.

If this were not the hard world which in fact it is, if good usually triumphed and most men from Siberia to the Congo really believed in liberty, perhaps we could afford to take that chance. In the real world we live in, teeming with tyrants, swept by ideologies which sacrifice millions of individuals in the name of some cloudy "great good," we dare not risk it. We should not impair, not give others the power to impair, the freedom we have won.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Most Victims Recover After Desert Fever Attacks

Q—My husband, 48, and my son, 20, both have a n infection of the lungs called coccidioidomycosis or San Joaquin Valley fever. Is it contagious? Is it serious? Is there any cure for it?

A—This disease, also called desert fever, is caused by the mold, coccidioides. It is usually acquired by inhaling the fungus spores from dust or soil. About 65 per cent of those who inhale these spores become immune without showing any signs of illness. The disease is not transmitted directly from man to man. Most victims recover and have a lasting immunity to the disease thereafter.

In the early stages of this disease the temperature may reach 104 and there is usually chest pain and generalized aching. The only effective treatment is the antibiotic, amphotericin B. The dose must be carefully regulated to prevent severe side effects. Some doctors advocate early treatment of this disease and others prefer to wait and see whether, with good nursing care, the disease will not subside.

Q—What is Methadrin? Does it cause any bad side effects?

A—This drug is given to relieve edema or waterlogging of the tissues. It increases the amount of urine passed. It should be taken only under medical supervision and should not be taken by persons with liver or chronic diarrhea or by persons who are taking digitalis or drugs of the cortisone group. Side effects rarely occur but may include mild nausea, flushing and muscle cramps.

Q—I read recently that the Food and Drug Administration is clamping down on non-prescription iron preparations, including all vitamin pills that contain iron? What harmful effects could be caused by taking iron tablets daily?

A—Iron compounds should be given only for the treatment of anemias that are due to iron deficiency. They should be avoided by persons with hemolytic (blood-destroying) anemia, hemisiderosis, (overload of iron in the tissues) and hemochromatosis (bronze diabetes). Anything, no matter how vital, can be a poison if you get too much of it.

Q—Are there any harmful effects from taking the anti-histamine, Chlor-Trimefen, daily?

A—This drug is usually given for an allergy. All anti-histamines are likely to cause drowsiness or dizziness if taken in too large a dose. There should rarely be any need for taking these drugs daily over a prolonged period.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functioning of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: "Why would inflation—increasing credit faster than production of goods coming into the market—be harmful to the people of the U. S. than any other country?"

ANSWER: The reason is that the United States has had no tariffs between states and has a relatively free market. Thus we have more minutely divided labor than any other country that has been hampered by quotas, tariffs, or restrictions of any kind.

In a rural country, where the standard of living is low, the division of labor is not very much developed. Each man sticks to supporting himself, more or less. But here in the United States practically no one expects to consume what he produces. He expects to exchange it with other persons where both parties to a transaction make a profit.

Thus money that has some value in itself is absolutely necessary in order that people may freely exchange goods and services and make longtime contracts. For this reason, people in the United States should be alarmed with the way prices are going up. They are going up because the supply of money and credit is increasing faster than production.

We use the word money loosely because most people regard paper orders for money as money. We have really no money that has value in itself, we only have orders for money which it is a crime to own.

It is for the above reasons that inflation will be more harmful in the United States than any other nation.

Pull Up A Chair

Tons of ink are used every day in printing newspapers, magazines, books, business letters, pamphlets and thousands of other things that carry the printed word. We don't give much thought to it, but ink is one of the oldest substances in the world. The Chinese and Egyptians used it as far back as 2600 B. C. It was made from soot from pine trees, gum and water. Ancient inks were formed in cakes and the writer used a wet brush on papyrus or parchment. Developments in the paper industry called for more sophisticated kinds of ink, which would give an imprint on such diverse things as today's newsprint, coated paper for the slick magazines, and cellophane and other plastics. It's a curious thing that someone hasn't written a history of this common commodity. If they did, it would be a unique history of the world.

Today's smile: One college sophomore said to his pal: "It makes me mad when a girl keeps you waiting so long when she's getting ready to go to dinner with you." "I feel the same way," said the pal, "because the longer she takes the hungrier she gets."

Smog could be reduced in the big cities if automobiles converted to liquid petroleum gas, according to a Japanese scientist. He says most of Tokyo's taxis now use it. It leaves no toxic exhaust fumes, creates no carbon, and automobile engines last four times as long as when they burn regular gasoline. Besides, it's cheaper. Maybe some day we'll get around to suing it.

Thoughts while shaving: A scientist tells us today's propulsion systems are inadequate for long space flights to such places as Mars. He says chemically-fueled rockets cannot carry enough fuel to reach sufficiently high speeds or to maneuver freely on long trips. He suggests nuclear devices behind the craft. . . . The first patent issued by the U.S. Patent Office was awarded in 1790 to Samuel Hopkins, a Philadelphia inventor, who found a new way to make potash. It was the only one issued that first year. Last year the office granted 53,000 patents after reviewing 102,000 applications. Auto manufacturers are eventually going to eliminate the conventional steering wheel. A New York inventor has come up with the idea of mounting a small wheel on each side of the driver's seat. The driver moves the top of one wheel forward and the other in the opposite direction to make a turn. It's already being tested and has been found practicable. . . . The commonest given name in the English-speaking world is John. Prior to 1340 it was William, but don't ask us why. . . . And the longest place name in the world is an 85-letter New Zealand sheep station, which honors a Maori god. That tops the 53-letter name of an Anglesey village in the British Isles. . . . The Lancaster (Pa.) NEW ERA reported in a story: "Her only jewelry was a double row of pearls, matching earrings and a gold brooch pinned to a shoulder." Enough to make her the cynosure of all eyes!

Country Editor Speaking: "If you always expect red-carpet treatment, don't be surprised if someone pulls the rug from under you."

Money Is No Problem for Chicago's Murphy

By MILTON RICHMAN SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — If ever there was a poor little rich boy, he's right here in this camp, running, throwing and hustling his heart out to prove he isn't a six-figure flop. Up to now, 23-year-old Danny Murphy has been — by baseball's standards, anyway. It has been six years since the Chicago Cubs gave Murphy a $125,000 bonus. They gave it to him as an outfielder and hopefully expected he'd be a be with Indianapolis this year. For all that, there is no bitterness in Murphy nor any attempt to blame his failure so far upon all the publicity he received when he signed for that $125,000 bonus at the tender age of 17. "The publicity never bothered me," he said, softly, after finishing his baseball chores for the day. "If that's going to affect you then you're really not much of an athlete. I know they signed me essentially for my hitting and naturally I would've liked to have made it as an outfielder. But I think I can still make it as a pitcher. I wouldn't be here trying if I wasn't confident." The fact that Murphy still is trying to make it any possible way he can is to his credit because there have been other bonus kids in his same shoes who gave it a brief whirl, checked baseball and decided instead to sit on their front porch and listen to their interest growing down at the neighborhood bank. Danny Murphy isn't built that way. "I'm not really discouraged," he said, in a way that made you believe it. "I've always had a good arm and I know I can throw. I always felt I was signed as an outfielder-pitcher and not an outfielder exclusively."

One of the principal reasons Murphy had a right to feel that way was the 12-0 pitching record he compiled during his last year at St. John's Prep at Danvers. He also batted .485 during the outfield that same year. "My trouble has been hitting for average during the five years I've been in pro ball," he said. "I averaged 30 homers a year in the minors but I couldn't get my batting average over .300. That's not enough for an outfielder. So I decided to give pitching a try. I was primarily a pitcher in high school."

When the Cubs originally signed Murphy, they decided to let him get his feet wet immediately by throwing him in against National League competition. It was too much for him. "I had a lot of trouble with breaking balls and off-speed pitches," he said. "I just couldn't learn to wait on the ball. Fast ball pitching never bothered me too much. I hit guys like (Dick) Farrell all right and I remember getting a couple of hits off (Don) Drysdale in the same game, but it was a different story with curve ball pitchers." The White Sox obtained Murphy and pitcher Jim Golden from the Houston organization in exchange for veteran Nellie Fox during January of 1963. Since that time, Murphy played the outfield for such White Sox affiliates as Indianapolis and Lynchburg.

When he said he'd like to try his hand at pitching, the White Sox gave him a chance in the Florida Instructional League this past winter and Murphy turned in a creditable 2.90 earned run average. "I don't know if I'll make the Indianapolis club as a pitcher," says Murphy. "Maybe they won't want to start me out that high." Wherever the White Sox decide to send him, though, he'll go. Danny Murphy doesn't give up easily. He isn't built that way.

IT'S BEEN NICE MARV

NY Has New Idol in Stuart

By United Press International Forget marvelous Marv. Now the Mets have stupendous Stu. Never before nicknamed in so complimentary a fashion, Dick Stuart is out to make this one stick.

Acquired by Manager Wes Westrum for his booming bat (and unofficially for his gate appeal), Stuart might lift the Mets out of the National League cellar—so says the propaganda.

The 33-year-old Greenwich, Conn., resident has been with four different clubs in the last five years, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh and now the Mets.

It's Stuart's belief that by playing regularly he will hit for a respectable average and maintain his long ball barrage. Stu recorded a plus for himself Wednesday when he cracked a double and two singles for a pair of RBIs and then astounded the crowd with a sensational stab of a line drive off the bat of Lou Klimchok.

To the surprise of almost no one the extroverted Stuart responded to the plaudits of the spectators with a deep bow from the waist and a doff of the cap.

Like marvelous Marv Throneberry who delighted Met fans when he turned in routine catches and hit long foul balls, Stuart looks to be right from the mold that produces Met idols. One drawback could be that Stuart can hit.

White Sox relief pitcher Eddie Fisher spent Wednesday morning in the hospital while X-rays were taken of his kidneys and bladder. The veteran hurler has complained of discomfort around the middle of his body. Tuesday, Chicago lost knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm for at least 10 days when a wild pitch fractured the ring finger of his right hand.

Bob Friend makes his American League debut today in a starting role for the New York Yankees against Buster Narum of the Washington Senators. Friend was obtained in an off-season trade with Pittsburgh, where he had spent the previous 11 years.

Ray Washburn and Art Mahaffey, a pair of 27-year-old question mark righthanders for the St. Louis Cardinals, have satisfied Manager Red Schoendienst so far. "They're throwing well and, if they keep it up," says Red, "could be a big help."

Outfielder Al Ferrara hit the first home run of the spring for the Los Angeles Dodgers during their intrasquad play. Nate Oliver, in the running for the second base job, collected three hits to raise his average in intrasquad games to .455.

Matty Alou continued his hot hitting for the Pittsburgh Pirates with three more hits, giving him eight for 13. Vernon Law will start for the Bucs in Friday's exhibition against the Boston Red Sox, who will go with Earl Wilson.

Elsewhere, catcher Bob Rodgers, rookie Rick Reichardt and pitcher-outfielder Willie Smith batted homers for the California Angels.

CLAY UNMOVED

Terrell Pulls Out of Bout

NEW YORK (UPI) —Ernie Terrell's "haymaker" announcement that he is pulling out of his March 29 heavyweight title bout with Cassius Clay was brushed off by the champion today with the comment, "I don't know if he really will."

"I had heard that, but I can't let things like that bother me," said Clay when he learned of Terrell's statement upon his arrival from Miami Beach, Fla. "I heard he wasn't happy with the contract."

"Well, I guess I'll save me a trip," added Clay nonchalantly. "If he pulls out I won't have to go to Toronto. I don't know if he really will pull out, though. And, anyway, I'd just as soon fight George Chuvalo."

A notorious powderpuff puncher despite his 6-foot, 6-inch and 205 pounds, Terrell threw a roundhouse right at the most unwanted fight of modern times late Wednesday night. He walked into the office of an Atlantic City newspaper and dictated a statement saying flatly "the new contract that I have received from the Maple Leaf Gardens makes it impossible to go through with the fight on these terms."

"It can't be true—we've been talking to him all night," gasped Mike Malitz, executive vice president of Main Bout, Inc., owner of the television rights to the bout. "We don't know what's going on. We gotta get in touch with Terrell and find out."

Early Thursday, however, Malitz was shadow-boxing with the same skill as Clay and indicating that the challenger may just be employing a squeeze play to obtain a better contract.

"He told me what he was unhappy about," said Malitz. "I am trying to find out all the things he wants so we can rectify the situation. There are just a few minor things to iron out."

"It's news to me and it doesn't have anything to do with Maple Leaf Gardens," said Harold Ballard, vice president of Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens where the fight is scheduled to be held. "All I know is I expect them both in Toronto this afternoon."

58TH YEAR THURSDAY, MARCH 10, 1966 17

Groom's Roberts Named To All-State Second Team

Calvin Gerke, the sharp-shooting 6-5 post man who led little Snook to its second state title and a string of 78 victories, was the only unanimous choice and only repeater on the Texas Sports Writers Association's 1966 Class B all-state basketball team.

Gerke, who also made the all-state tournament team for the second year in a row, averaged 61.4 per cent from the floor and 10.8 from the foul line.

Joining him on the mythical team picked by a committee headed by George Breazeale of the Austin American-Statesman, were Randy Sherrod of state runner-up Channing, Dick Davis of Deweyville, George Johnson of Harleton and Leon Jenkins of Trinidad.

Sherrod, a second team all-state a year ago, also is 6-5 and averaged 31.5 points per game and boasts a three-year total of around 3,000 points.

Davis, the team's smallest player at 5-7, also moved up from the 1965 second team and boasts a 22.7-point average; Johnson, at 6-10, is the tallest player and boasted a 33-point scoring average and 25 rebounds per game, while the 6-8 Jenkins is the only junior on the team and compiled a 35-point average.

Sherrod and Johnson lacked only one vote of being unanimous, while Davis and Jenkins polled 24 of a possible 30 points.

Oil Companies May Redrill Slanted Wells Vertically

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Supreme Court today upheld a right of an oil company to redrill slanted oil wells vertically. The court, in affirming a Court of Criminal Appeals ruling upholding a Railroad Commission order, said the lower court made no reversible error. Amerada Petroleum Co. brought the appeal on the case that originated as a result of the East Texas oil field investigation of 1962. The L&G Oil Co. had five oil wells on a 74-acre tract in Gregg County. After a Railroad Commission survey showed the wells were slanted, L&G made application Sept. 24, 1962, for reinstatement of the wells. Amerada and L&G then both asked for a recess and by Dec. 13, 1961, reached a settlement, with L&G then withdrawing the application for approval and seeking permission to plug the deviated well bores. After the Supreme Court ruled in January 1964 in favor of an oil well operator seeking to redrill his wells, L&G filed an application to redrill and straighten its five wells. The Railroad Commission, working from the court ruling, approved the application and Amerada protested, claiming L&G broke the terms of their settlement with Amerada by filing the new application. 1. Your Child And School

By DAVID NYDICK UPI Educational Specialist There is tremendous activity in American education. Many factors have greatly affected traditions which had been unquestioningly accepted in the past. Parents should be aware of these major movements which are affecting the educational scene and ultimately their children as well as themselves. Perhaps these would make excellent topics for PTAs or other educational meetings. Probably the most publicized and widest known change is the substantial financial investment of the federal government. Very likely this will have the greatest single impact during the coming years. Millions of dollars are going into many different areas and all levels of the educational program. Another major movement is the unionization of teachers. A number of major cities and suburban areas have found their teachers joining unions. Until recent years, the professional educators have concentrated their membership in the National Education Association and its affiliated organizations. Recent development have found an increasingly large number of educators joining the unions. Without, at this time, discussing the merits of this movement, obviously, it will have definite implications for the educational scene. The civil rights movement has already and will continue to affect education for many years to come. Integration has brought a variety of changes in schools. Curriculum, books, organization, personnel and facilities are affected. Within the school program can be found a number of major activities. The vast accumulation of knowledge in such areas as space exploration, medicine, social studies, and mathematics has directly affected the curriculum. Parents are familiar with the new math, increased science education, and other curriculum improvements. Perhaps one of the less publicized but extremely important changes is the new breed of educator being trained in the colleges and universities. There has been a growing attitude of research and experimentation. Traditional practices are being questioned. Some are excellent while others should be changed. All of these movements have advantages and disadvantages. Many decisions must be made in the coming months and many more will be faced in future years. Parents are

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst Along the long bar of the plush Union Club of Santiago, Chile, the wealthy membership has much to complain about. Foremost among these complaints are painful new taxes which are a reality and a land reform program which would strip them of much of their landed wealth, still in the future. In the countryside, the peasants also complain, finding violent expression for it in attacks with hoes, rakes and pitchforks against any one of the 2,800 huge landholdings which occupy 75 per cent of the total area of the country. The land reform program is part of the "profound revolution within liberty and law" promised by President Eduardo Frei Montalva when he took office in November, 1964, but still to get off the ground. U.S. Industries Threatened Another still to get off the ground is his program to "Chileanize" the U.S.-owned copper industry which provides 75 per cent of the country's foreign exchange. For more than two months the Braden Company (Kennecott) El Teniente Mine, accounting for one-third of the country's production, has been tied up by a Socialist-Communist strike. Threatened by sympathy strikes are other big properties operated by Anaconda. Although agreement has been reached between the copper companies and the government on greater government participation in the industry, an unlikely combination of conservatives and far-left politicians has stalled it in congress. It was with uncommon interest that results were awaited from a special congressional election in Chile's populous Valparaiso Province. Neither President Frei's Christian Democrats nor his Marxist opponents could take much comfort from it. The Christian Democrat won as expected, but by a smaller percentage than the party had shown in 1965. The Communist-Socialist bloc showed a strong percentage gain, which to the government forces at least could be a warning. A great sign of relief went up in Washington with Frei's election in 1964. Probably not since Italian Christian Democrats defeated the Communists in the voting in 1948 had an election been watched so closely. Frei's victory over his Communist-backed opponent was regarded as a clear Latin American swing away from violent revolution as advocated by Cuba's Fidel Castro to the orderly evolution sought by the U.S.-sponsored Alliance For Progress.
