Blizzard Sweeps Panhandle Area

Some Pampa Firms Close Due to Weather

The word for Panhandle drivers today was: DON'T. The U.S. Weather Bureau and the Texas Department today joined a warning to motorists asking that they avoid all but essential travel in the Panhandle, Northwest and North Central Texas.

Traffic accidents in the area were surprisingly few. Pampa police reported investigating only three minor collisions over night. In one, Cory Vernon Lee, 1013 S. Banks received slight injuries when his car collided with one driven by Stephen Ray Oler, 733 Bradley Drive.

The weatherman sees little relief in the blizzard until sometime tonight. Continued snow had reached nearly seven inches on the level, this morning, while 20 mph winds built up drifts of two to three feet.

The thermometer did an about face this morning dropping from a 19-degree reading at 6 o'clock to five degrees shortly before noon. The high recorded Thursday was 27 degrees.

The weatherman said that it will be very cold tonight with zero readings not unlikely. It is predicted to be cloudy but slightly warmer tomorrow.

One driver arriving in Pampa early today from Borger reported that it took him three hours to make the 27-mile trip. Early this morning an ambulance brought an unconscious boy to Highland General Hospital through blowing and drifting snow. Visibility was no more than 250 yards on the route. A

A water main under 18th near its intersection with Duncan broke early today because of the severe weather conditions. City water department personnel were working to repair the damage, but traffic on both streets was blocked due to the work and the water flowing across the pavement. There was no estimate as to when the damage would be repaired.

THE MAIL MUST GO THROUGH—Pampa's blizzard didn't keep Postman Marion Brown from his appointed rounds today. Unshoveled, unsanded and unsalted sidewalks didn't make his task any easier as he plowed through drifts to make sure that the mail got through.

City Bond Issues To Be Explained to Voters

Pampa voters will have an opportunity to be fully informed on facts about the $2,900,000 bond issue decision that will be up for their decision at the polls on Tuesday, March 8.

Plans for a community-wide education campaign on the five separate bond issue proposals for city improvements were outlined by Mayor Jim Nation at a luncheon meeting yesterday in Coronado Inn.

Attending the meeting were members of the city commission, the city manager, chairman of the four advisory committees which recommended the projects, chamber of commerce officials and news media representatives.

Legislation calling the elections on the five separate bond issues now is being drawn and an ordinance setting up the election will have its first reading at next Tuesday's city commission meeting.

The five bond issues will call for the following expenditures for highway, street and water department improvements: I. $236,000 for the city's share of widening and paving SH 152 (Alcock St.) from Faulkner west to Price Rd.

II. $595,000 for the city's share of widening and paving U.S. Hwy 60 (Wilks, Brown and Frederic Sts.) to east city limits.

III. $369,000 for the city's share of widening and paving SH 273 (S. Cuyler and S. Barnes Sts.) south from Brown St. to city limits.

IV. $750,000 for construction of a filtration plant for Canadian River water.

V. $950,000 for the city's share of a long-range program to pave some 200 city blocks of unimproved streets.

The $2,900,000 bonded indebtedness total would be issued in tax obligation bonds over a maximum period of 30 years.

Mayor Nation told those present at yesterday's meeting that it was the aim of city officials to present as much information as possible to voters.

"We are not trying to sell anybody anything," the mayor said. "The city commission has accepted the recommendations of citizens' advisory committees which have spent many hours of study on the projects."

"In each instance these committees felt that their recommendations were for city improvements that have been long overdue."

"All of us at City Hall are ready to supply information of any kind to clear up any questions."

The mayor also stated arrangements are being made to furnish speakers at meetings of clubs or organizations which would like to have their message (See VOTERS, Page 3)

India to Withdraw Army Troops From Disputed Border

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Newly elected Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi met with cabinet officials and military advisers today to discuss the withdrawal of Indian troops from the disputed Indo-Pakistani border.

The withdrawal was one of several peace agreements worked out with Pakistan last week by her predecessor, the late Lal Bahadur Shastri, at a Soviet-sponsored conference in Tashkent, U.S.S.R.

Mrs. Gandhi met with Indian army Chief-of-Staff J. N. Chaudhuri and other officials at the meeting of the cabinet emergency committee, which had been called by acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda, who was appointed as government caretaker after Shastri's death.

The Tashkent agreement specified that the two nations pull back troops by Feb. 25 to positions held before the three-week Indo-Pakistani war over Kashmir last September.

The Pakistan High Commission in New Delhi announced today that Indian air force members captured during the airmen fighting will be returned to New Delhi Saturday.

The committee meeting took place amid reports from informed sources that Mrs. Gandhi was planning to form a new cabinet with "a new look" to bring younger faces into the Indian government.

Thousands of Indians continued to flock to Mrs. Gandhi's residence to pay respects to the widowed mother of two who was chosen overwhelmingly as India's first woman prime minister. An estimated 5,000 persons had visited her home by midday today.

"Instead of decreasing," an aide said, "the crowds are (See INDIA, Page 3)

FOR WAR MONEY Mac Talks To Congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara provided Congress today with more details of President Johnson's $12.3 billion request for a "massive application of firepower" for the war in Viet Nam.

The Senate's top military expert said he thought Congress would approve "practically all of it."

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee and military appropriations subcommittee made the prediction. McNamara appeared before the two groups for his second day of testimony on the supplementary money bill.

Although he said he intended no such implication, McNamara's testimony Thursday left some senators with the idea some war running out in the pause in U.S. bombing attacks on North Viet Nam. The pause is now in its fifth week.

Some committee members did not draw the inference, but Russell made it clear that, in the absence of a reply to President Johnson's peace offensive, he felt the raids on North Viet Nam should be resumed when the Lunar New Year truce ends Sunday.

The senator said there would then be no alternative to pressing the war to a successful conclusion—a course he said might require forces comparable to the 400,000 to 500,000 men deployed during the Korean War.

There are now about 190,000 U.S. servicemen on duty in South Viet Nam with the total rising to 225,000 when sailors of the 7th Fleet offshore are included.

McNamara told the senators the requests for money to create a fourth Marine division, provide other manpower increases and to buy new aircraft and ammunition were necessary if the United States was to be ready to meet a possible stepup by the Communists in South Viet Nam.

Turbulent' March Set by Negroes

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Negroes planned one more "turbulent" march today despite an announcement by the Justice Department that federal voter registrars were on their way to Jefferson County.

Meanwhile, U.S. district court here will consider preliminary testimony today on charges filed against the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) last week at the height of its protest demonstrations.

The SCLC currently is under two federal restraining orders prohibiting it from recruiting students for its marches.

HoSEA Williams, SCLC coordinator for voting, announced at a mass meeting Thursday night that demonstrations would continue until he had been "officially notified" of the federal registrars.

"We're not going to pay attention to anybody until they (registrars) go into the neighborhoods," Williams told about 300 persons. "We're not going to be jived."

Williams also announced that SCLC president Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. would arrive next Monday to lead a "victory" march.

For the first time since the demonstrations began Jan. 4, no marches were held Thursday.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas deB. Katzenbach ordered the registrars into Jefferson County next Monday to begin registration.

Courtroom Visit From Son Brings Tears to Candace

MIAMI (UPI)—An 11-year-old visitor brought the first display of emotion from Candace Mossler Thursday in the trial of the blonde widow and her nephew on charges of murdering her millionaire husband.

The former model, who inherits most of Jacques Mossler's $28 million estate, was visited by the youngest of her four adopted children during a recess from the laborious selection of a jury which continues today.

The boy, Eddie, was accompanied by Candace's daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Rita Wilder. Candy went back to the doorway of the courtroom to chat with the two for a minute.

She bent and kissed Eddie before he departed. She wiped at an eye as she walked back to her seat at the opposite end of the defense table from co-defendant Melvin Lane Powers.

Powers, a handsome, dark-haired man whom the state accuses of carrying on such a torrid affair with Candace that they wanted Mossler out of the way, seemed restless at times. He paced the courtroom during recesses, but never approached Candace.

The trial was to recess for the weekend after today's session and the outlook was for a second week of screening before a jury is seated.

Defense attorney Percy Foreman at the start of the day had used only three of the 10 challenges he is allowed for dismissing jurymen. After Foreman, who represents Powers, finds the jury acceptable, Clyde Woody, attorney for Candace, has his chance at questioning jurymen—and also has 10 peremptory challenges.

Prosecutor Richard Gerstein has 20, and had used four at the end of the Thursday session.

Highway Patrol car broke a path along the highway for the ambulance.

The boy, Larry Horn, 10, struck his head in a home accident and was being examined to determine the extent of his injuries.

In Pampa, a number of businesses did not open while many others worked with skeleton crews since employees were unable to make it into town to work.

Farmers struggled through the snow to get feed to cattle. Pampa public schools were fortunately closed because of the end of semester exams, but St. Vincent's Catholic school closed because of the weather.

Borger and Skellytown schools also closed, while in Lefors classes were held, but no buses running.

A Gray County patient was scheduled for transfer Friday to the State Hospital at Wichita Falls, but the transfer was postponed due to the blizzard.

Also postponed were a number of meetings planned for this evening among them the installation of officers of the Pampa Shrine Club and a retirement party for three Pampa Post Office employees.

Snow was forecast for all parts of the state, except for the southeast and south central portions.

The snow was close to blizzard conditions along the Texas — Oklahoma border, except (See SNOW, Page 3)

Diefenbaker Charges TV In Canada Defaming U.S.

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's government-operated television network is brainwashing the public against U.S. policy in Viet Nam, former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker charged Thursday.

Diefenbaker urged Parliament to question Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) officials about programming which portrays the United States as "one of the great enemies of mankind."

"What the people at the (CBC) top are doing is actually brainwashing, or endeavoring to brainwash, the Canadian people," Diefenbaker said.

"Propaganda is spread in every part of this nation about how 'terribly' the Americans are acting," he said. "I am one who on occasion has been strongly critical of the United States, but the CBC programs picture the most diabolical cruelties being perpetrated by the Americans."

The former Conservative prime minister said he was amazed at the degree to which they have assiduously inculcated in the minds of the Canadian people that the U.S. citizens who are dying (in Viet Nam) for you and for me—for that is what they are doing—belong to a group which would imperially grasp for power and want war."

Diefenbaker told Parliament in a speech that he would press as strongly as it is possible for me to do" to have CBC officials appear before lawmakers to explain their programming content.

South Koreans were reinforced almost immediately and that the opposing sides engaged in hand-to-hand combat for two hours.

When the fighting was over, the South Koreans counted the bodies of 46 Viet Cong on the battlefield, the spokesman said.

There was no report on how the civilians fared. The spokesman said South Koreans advanced on an outpost manned by a platoon of Marines. The South Koreans withheld their fire until the Communist troops were within 100 feet.

Then a bitter battle erupted with the use of small arms and hand grenades by both sides, the spokesman said.

An American spokesman said U.S. forces suffered "light" casualties in several skirmishes throughout South Viet Nam, but he declined to give details because the patrols were connected with military operations under way when the temporary cease-fire went into effect.

At least four violations involving Communist and South Vietnamese troops also were reported.

The cease fire announced by the Communists started at midnight Wednesday to last four days.

Cong Up To Old Tricks of Using Human Shields

SAIGON (UPI)—An estimated 400 Viet Cong guerrillas today used civilians as shields to attack a force of South Korean Marines in a flagrant violation of the Lunar New Year truce, it was reported here.

A military spokesman announcing the violation, said the South Koreans killed 46 Communists in a bitter, two-hour hand-to-hand battle about two miles west of Thu Hoa.

The spokesman said the Koreans had been conducting a military operation in the area but had suspended it for the duration of the truce and had pulled into a defensive perimeter.

He said a large Communist force, herding villagers from the vicinity in front of them, advanced on an outpost manned by a platoon of Marines. The South Koreans withheld their fire until the Communist troops were within 100 feet.

INTER-AMA BILL
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House today considered a controversial measure, finally approved by the Senate, that would authorize a $9.5 million federal contribution to Inter-ama, a proposed Inter-American trade and cultural center near Miami, Fla.

The bill, voted in similar form by the House last year, cleared the Senate Wednesday by a 56-18 vote after it had languished for months in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Convict Innocent? But Not Afraid of Dying

By MICHAEL J. DONNELLY
 COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — "I'm innocent," the condemned man said, looking around the room and then staring directly into my eyes, "but I'm not afraid to die."

Cleo Vernon Keaton of Dayton, a resident of the Ohio Penitentiary's death row since Nov. 9, told me about his philosophical outlook on his date with the electric chair in an interview inside the prison's stark gray walls.

He appeared calm. I was nervous. Walking into a grim, fortress-like penitentiary is an unforgettable experience—even when you know you are free to leave at will.

Keaton was sentenced to go to the chair April 22 for a slaying during a robbery. But his case is being appealed and the execution date is indefinite.

"I've become adjusted to life here and time slowly moves on. There really aren't any days here," he said. "I don't believe in writing notes to prison officials and asking for favors. I mind my own business and keep away from the others."

 Keaton is 28, shorter than average with a medium build and a thick crop of carefully parted black wavy hair. He left home when he was 15 and has been married twice, the first time when he was 16. He had two children with each wife. His second wife, Harriet, and their children live with his parents now.

Keaton was calm and quiet-spoken during our two-hour talk. At first he was reticent but slowly he began to talk more freely about his trial and his life on death-row. He smoked three cigarettes.

"I've accepted the fact I may die and am willing to do just as the others have done before me," he said.

Keaton was convicted in Pickaway County Court of Common Pleas Nov. 5 of first degree murder in the shooting of Maurice L. Francis, 27, of Williamsport during a robbery last March 23 in a rural area near Williamsport.

Dayton police also charged Keaton, a one-time inmate of the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield, with slaying Karl Barteel, 42, of New Carlisle and Ruth Sherman, 43, a Dayton waitress, during a holdup at a bar March 15.

Keaton insists he is innocent of the Francis murder. His attorney, Emmanuel Nadlin, has taken his appeal to the Fourth District Court of Pickaway County.

But Keaton says he is not bitter.

"I have nothing against the Ohio penal system," he told me. And, he said, the prison officials watching over him "are just doing their job."

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
 United Press International
 HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV's "second season" premieres came to an end Thursday night, thank heaven, with the debut of "The Baron," another James Bond facsimile. I have nothing personal against the series; in fact, it's not too awful. But I think that if I see another show about an undercover agent who shoots people with his cigarette lighter and wisecracks in the face of death, I will kick in my television set.

Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls, and all the ships at sea, I have had it. I am fed up, totally and positively fed up (doctor, bring me another cold towel), with James Bond imitations, clean-cut Anglo-Saxon heroes, greasy-looking Iron Curtain villains and all those beautiful girls who should be looking for fellows like me instead of those retarded gungshoes who have nothing to offer but wine, song and travel.

"The Baron," in fact, hasn't much to offer that hasn't been offered by almost any television secret agent that you can name. As played by Steve Forrest, he isn't nearly as debonair as CBS-TV's "Secret Agent." Patrick McGeehan, who is by far the best of the lot, because that particular show is played more for stylized character appeal than for gimmicks.

Furthermore, at times Forrest sounds and looks so much like Gene Barry, who starred in "Amos Burke, Secret Agent," which "The Baron" replaced, that it is astonishing. No, make that depressing.

Was All Wet
 The last time I saw Forrest, he was wrapped in a towel in a steam room in a health club in Beverly Hills, and if you want to know the truth, the rest of us in our towels and sandals looked every bit as impressive as he did, so maybe I am prejudiced.

Once you've seen a secret agent wrapped in a towel in a steam room, even if he happens to be Dana Andrews' brother, which Forrest is, you are never again quite as impressed by that ultra-cool look in a tailored suit.

Now that ABC-TV's "second season" has finished bowing in, it might be good to look at it in sum for a moment. Its main theme seems to be that extremism in the defense of virtue ain't bad. The theme started off in the new "Batman" series, which you must admit is a form of extremism.

Then there was Robert Goulet as an anti-Nazi agent behind German lines in a show called "Blue Light." Then there was Red Buttons in "The Double Life of Henry Phye" as an accountant who is pressed into secret agent duty against his will because he resembles a dead foreign agent, and you have to admit that's pretty extreme.

Art Specialist
 "The Baron" is a bit more polished. In this one-hour series, Forrest plays "a wealthy American-born owner of antique shops in London and other cities around the world who is often pressed into service by British diplomatic intelligence when the case involves his specialty, priceless art objects."

I am indebted to ABC-TV for that summary because it saves me a lot of involved explaining. In the debut, Forrest was pressed into service for the reason described above, and there again were all those heroic Anglo-Saxons, greasy-looking Iron Curtain villains and deadly cigarette lighter-type gimmicks.

Frankly, I don't even want to talk any more about ABC-TV's "second season" because I have more important things on my mind. A lady in Enid, Okla., Mrs. Roqua Wassam,

He may leave the L-block once a day, for exercise in the prison courtyard, but he doesn't. "I don't care to leave my cell much," he said. "I've been to the courtyard only three times."

Twice a week he is allowed to shower and a prison barber shaves him with a safety razor on Wednesdays and Fridays, leaving him with a heavy black stubble most of the time.

We're White Shirt
 He wears the special uniform of death row, red stripes down the legs of his blue dungarees and on the lapels of his blue denim jacket and a white shirt instead of the usual prison work shirts.

As a condemned man, Keaton does have some privileges. He may have coffee whenever he wants it and is given 24-hour access to a radio.

"I have a set of earphones in my cell and I like to listen at night to the radio," he said.

has written to me that she is my "number one fan." But then she adds, "I'm the number one fan to another favorite, but he's a newscaster, Paul Harvey."

I have been thinking this over and, Mrs. Wassam, you just can't have it both ways. You will have to choose. Harvey's all right, but can he offer you Hollywood, wine, song and travel?

to the chair April 22 for a slaying during a robbery. But his case is being appealed and the execution date is indefinite.

"Time goes by slowly in death row," Keaton told me. We talked in the interview room of a prison office. It was the first time he has spoken to a newsman since his arrest.

Keaton lives under the constant watch of security guards in a 7-by-7 cell equipped with a bunk, basin and toilet. He is one of 12 prisoners awaiting execution but, aside from an occasional game of chess or cards, he has little to do with the others.

Name Plates Going Strong

While the 1966 Texas license plates will be lettered in white on black, those who purchase special plates will receive tags resplendent with green lettering on a reflectorized aluminum gray background.

While some of the special plates, purchased for an extra $10 fee, bear the owner's name, others indicate occupation.

For example Rev. J. W. Doke, minister of the First Christian Church, has tags reading "PREACH." Sam Allen, minister of music at First Baptist Church, advertises his trade with "SINGER" tags.

George W. Thompson leaves little doubt as to his profession with "ENGINEER" tags.

As for names, Robert E. Imel, Fred Haiduk and John W. Bell, have purchased "IMEL," "HAIDUK" and "A BELL" respectively.

U.S. Authorities Step Up Search For Lost Bomb

PALOMARES, Spain (UPI) — American authorities today stepped up Operation "Broken Arrow" — the search for an atomic weapon missing in the crash of a U.S. nuclear bomber.

"Broken Arrow" is the code name for a special technique used by the U.S. Strategic Air Command (SAC) to deal with accidents involving nuclear arms.

U.S. Air Force authorities have given assurances that there is no danger of a nuclear blast or radiation contamination as a result of the crash.

But the massive search in this rocky, arid region went into its fourth day and appeared to be intensified.

Official Air Force spokesmen admitted Thursday the B52 SAC bomber which crashed Monday after colliding with a tanker plane was carrying nuclear arms.

They refused to confirm or deny that a nuclear device was missing in the wake of the crash, but it was reported here the B52 had been carrying several nuclear bombs and that all but one had been recovered.

The plane was on a training mission when the crash occurred.

A joint statement issued by the U.S. Embassy at Madrid and the U.S. Air Force base at Torrejon said:

"The SAC bomber which was engaged in a refueling operation off the coast of Spain and suffered an accident with KC135 was carrying unarmed nuclear armament.

"Radiological surveys have established that there is no danger to public health or safety as a result of this accident."

The crash killed seven airmen. But four flyers aboard the B52 managed to parachute from the damaged aircraft and were pulled out of the Mediterranean near here by fishing boats.

Snow

tended far into Southwest Texas and fell intermittently all the way to parts of Central Texas.

The snow and the fog that preceded it closed down airports and airbases throughout the Panhandle, South Plains and Southwest Texas.

The Amarillo air terminal had no planes in or out since 11 a.m. Thursday. Later the fog and heavy clouds shut down the Lubbock airport, along with Reese Air Force base and the Midland - Odessa air terminal.

Roads were already not only treacherous in the Panhandle but hard to traverse.

Big trucks were lined up on highways in parts of the Panhandle, unable to negotiate icy grades.

Borger had three inches of snow on top of the three inches that fell the previous two days. Dalhart had three inches and Dumas more than three inches.

Guymon, Okla. near the Texas line had more than six inches of snow on the ground. Winds of 20-25 miles an hour whipped the snow and caused drifting.

Big Spring reported two inches of snow with visibility of a quarter-mile.

The snow piled up three inches deep at Midland and Odessa and at Goldsmith, northwest of Odessa.

The southern edge of the snow appears to be the San Angelo area, where two inches covered the ground.

Most of South Texas got another day of drizzle. Freezing rain again plagued vast areas of South Texas.

Sleet mixed with snow fell across a band stretching from Mineral Wells to near Waco.

The snow extended along the New Mexico border and blanketed Wink, Carlsbad, Hobbs and Andrews.

Tulia Editor To Speak to County Demos

African Group Backs Bond Stand on Viet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Fourteen African countries invited unseated state Representative-elect Julian Bond of Georgia to lunch here today to "show their solidarity" with his criticism of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

The lunch was organized by Ambassador Achkar Marof of Guinea.

Ambassador John W. S. Malecela of Tanzania—the political union of the former Zanzibar and Tanganyika—was scheduled as the main speaker at the luncheon in one of the private rooms adjoining the delegates' dining room.

REFUGEE LOANS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Office of Education will make available more than $1.2 million for loans to help 3,200 Cuban refugees attend college in the coming semester.

Loans will be made through 248 colleges and universities as part of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's Cuban Refugee Program, the office announced Thursday.

Household Rests on Efficiency

PAY OFF IN EFFICIENCY—Odd jobs around the kitchen that pay off in easier cleaning and more efficiency include tiling the spatter area (left) back of the sink. Metal tiles are attached to the wall with double-edged adhesive tabs; tiles can be trimmed with tin shears. Range hood filters (right) clogged with grease are inefficient but a hot water, detergent cleaning restores them to usefulness.

Newspaper-Enterprise Assn.

Some homemakers are paragons of planning; others totter from emergency to emergency. We know a paragon or two: In her smooth-running household, home needs are anticipated and repairs made promptly. Crises are rare. We also know the homemaker who needs a catastrophe to galvanize her into action.

Most of us fall somewhere in-between. I can count cycles in my homemaking where things run in orderly fashion and then I get too busy or too lazy or too forgetful and emergencies pile up.

I am now in the fore-sighted-planning cycle. Let's see now... a pesky place in the kitchen is a potential site for real trouble. The wall in back of the range is painted and constantly in need of cleaning. A friend of mine in a similar situation had a serious grease fire that smoked up the wall. The elegant new wallpaper was ruined but the replacement is a handsome tile, fire-resisting and easily cleaned.

Mindful of her experience, I am tiling the area near the range and if my conscientious cycle lasts long enough I might do the splatter area and dry.

The area to be tiled is marked off in pencil with the aid of a carpenter's level or a T square. Tile sizes are 42x4 inches and, when pressed into position, each should butt tightly against another tile. These tiles have a brushed design which shows up clearly.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGTER

FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 22
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A Saturday when you would be wise to look about you and get everything clean and well-oiled. Eliminate whatever confusion is possible so that the future will have less problems for you to contend with. Make sure you understand clearly what others have to say or get yourself in a big mess now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Being very certain to take timely care of monetary affairs is very important now, even if you have to neglect going out with pals. But evening is fine for socializing. Show that you are a good sport.

TARUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — If you make that critical comment you can easily upset the fine harmony now extant with associates of note. Keep your mind on monetary affairs. Then out socially in p.m. with worthwhile individuals.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — It is up to you to take the initiative with new friends if they are to be of help to you and vice versa. Excellent ideas can be exchanged that will be mutually beneficial. Good for expansion.

MON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Your intuition is not working so well right now so rely entirely upon your logic if you get into trouble. "One stone to you does not comprehend your ideas."

Explain them more slowly, precisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) — Allies may be endeavoring to pull a little wool over your eyes today, so be on the alert for such. Be very ethical in coming to any agreements with all and you will not state your aims clearly.

LIBRA (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — All that labor ahead of you should be done energetically instead of trying to get others to shoulder your burdens. Take better care of your health. More rest is needed after a hard week — better stay home tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Don't be so critical of those around you but do something that will please, entertain them and gain good will. Forget any financial problems temporarily. Be charming and think constructively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Instead of getting so upset over the inevitable get out and do what you have planned, something very constructive. Get through your daily tasks like a breeze. Be happy — nothing is worth worrying about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A good day to get in touch with fascinating persons who can help you in your projects and tell them your aims. There are fine new interests to look into as well. Keep busy and be happy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) — For get going after that bigwig who is not really interested in your welfare and carry through with your personal aims religiously. Be sure your credit is good. Be particularly sociable tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) — You don't know whether to carry through present interests or get into new ones, but if you plan your time wisely, you can combine both. Listen to what new friends have to say. They have good suggestions to make.

Dear Abby...
He's a Grasping And Materialistic Character

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law died over a year ago, and since then my husband insists on staying nights with his father—even on weekends. I know the old man isn't afraid to stay alone because I've heard him tell my husband he didn't need to stay. But my husband says we shouldn't leave the old man alone because his loneliness might lead to a second marriage, which might complicate legal settlements later. Abby, is this fair to me and the children? I have tried to be a good sport, but I find myself harboring resentments. Should I not complain, and at the same time look forward to the time when his father dies (he is 67 and in good health) so we can be a family again?

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm making a mountain out of a molehill, but after being married to Jerry for only six months, one of his habits is really driving me out of my mind. When he sits down to eat (whether we are at home, dining out, or are guests in someone's home) the first thing Jerry does is to salt everything that requires seasoning, and I mean he salts it up, but good! Abby, he doesn't even try it first, he just pours the salt on. People look at him in disbelief. At the home of friends, I'm sure they think there's something wrong with their food. Shouldn't he take a little taste first? And if he likes things saltier, add a bit more salt instead of doing it in these great broad gestures? Or am I wrong to criticize him?

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, 14, and my parents and I don't see eye to eye on my clothes. I have a long waist, and when they buy my pants, they can get my waist size, but they can't get my leg size in the same pair of pants.

When I get a new pair of pants I look like a midshipman from the War of 1812. I ask my mother to peg them for me, but my father says, "No. Boys look like girls in pegged pants!" Can you help me?

DEAR ABBY: You are helpless, but I have a few words for your mother: "Peg the kid's pants! Most boys look like girls today anyway."

DEAR WIFE: If your husband likes salt, he should be a little more subtle in applying it, especially when he's a dinner guest. And he should take a token taste first, even though he knows he's going to add more salt. His craving for salt may be embarrassing for you, but it could have more serious implications. Tell him to mention this to his physician.

WIDOW WITH A HUSBAND
DEAR WIDOW: Of all the grasping, scheming, materialistic characters that have been brought to my attention, you or husband takes the prize. Not only is he cheating you and the children, but he is cheating his father as well. If the gentleman (and he is not old at 67) has any interest in female companionship, he should be encouraged in it. Tell your husband to get on home where he belongs and to quit playing self-appointed guardian of his father's estate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, 14, and my parents and I don't see eye to eye on my clothes. I have a long waist, and when they buy my pants, they can get my waist size, but they

Pampa High School Campus News

By VIRGINIA DEWITT

Semester tests have a place in every student's heart, usually in the dark, damp corners. For many the past week will never be forgotten, but it is over. Today has been set aside for recuperation by students and grading by teachers.

With the end of the first half of this school year goes a number of other semester courses. That brings up the matter of schedule changes. Having completed such half year courses as personal typing, the student is faced with new courses on his schedule card. These changes bring with them a taste of the excitement of enrollment day.

Right now one of the most important programs of the whole year is reaching its final stage of planning. The Career Clinic is a joint effort of the students, the faculty, the administration and the community. This is the eighth year that the Altusa Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and PHS personnel have gotten together and planned a Career Day. The three civic organizations sponsoring the Clinic undergo the expenses.

Before the first Career Clinic was held, delegates of the school and of the sponsoring organizations visited local areas that held such Clinics. After investigating these programs, the representatives adapted the ideas to this particular area. After enlisting the help of major firms in Pampa, the planners set up an adequate budget. They then acquainted the students and the speakers with the program by printing an information booklet. Perhaps the most contributing factor to the success of the Career Clinic for the past seven years has been the student and consultant evaluations. After the Clinic students and consultants are asked to evaluate it. This evaluation has led to many worthwhile changes.

Each year the sophomores put on an annual production to raise funds for the Sophomore Class. Sophomores interested in drama are asked to audition. "Gay Nineties" review will be presented on Feb. 18. The presentation will be a three-act melodrama filled with sentiment and danger. The play is entitled "Dirty Work at the Crossroads," or "Tempted, Tried and True." The production will be directed by senior members of the Thespians with the assistance of Mrs. Don Myers, head of the speech department. "This melodrama is complete with a giggling heroine and a

Lutheran Choir Plans Concert In Amarillo

The A Capella Choir of Texas Lutheran College will present a special program at the Stephen F. Austin Junior High School in Amarillo at 8 p.m. next Thursday.

The concert is under the sponsorship of Beautiful Savior Lutheran Church, Amarillo. The 46-voice choir, under direction of Walter Farrier, will present 14 selections, some of which are: "Beautiful Savior," "Create in Me, O God," "Jubilate Deo," "Christ Is Risen," and "Surely, He Hath Borne Our Grievs."

To provide change of pace in the concert, the Madrigal Singers, formed of choir members, will sing several selections. Tickets, at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, will be available at the door.

Bit of the Outside Enters a Cloister

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The feminine appeal of trading stamps has reached behind the high stone walls of a cloistered convent Sisters of the Mount Grace Convent of Perpetual Adoration are collecting the stamps to obtain "useful objects" for the convent.

In a recent mailing to benefactors, the nuns reminded they would appreciate donations of the stamps. Known as the "Pink Sisters" because of the color of their habit, the nuns' only contact with the outside world is in their public chapel where, around the clock, two of them always are stationed praying before the altar.

450th Anniversary Of Reformation

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 450th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation will be observed as a year-long event in 1967 under sponsorship of an inter-Lutheran committee headed by Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen of New York, secretary of the Lutheran Church in America.

It was on Oct. 31, 1517, that Martin Luther posted his 95 theses on the door of the cathedral church at Wittenberg, Germany, objecting to certain 16th century practices of the Roman Catholic Church. However, in keeping with the ecumenical spirit of the times, Dr. Lundeen emphasized the theme of the observance will be repentance and renewal in the 20th century rather than the polemics of the past four and a half centuries.

SPEAKER — W. L. Smith, secretary of the Brotherhood Department, Baptist General Convention of Texas, will speak at the Palo Duro Baptist Brotherhood meeting Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the newly completed Stinnett Baptist Church.

UCCW to Install Officers Thursday

Installation of officers will highlight the first 1966 meeting of the United Council of Church Women to be held next Friday at 9:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall in the basement of First Christian Church.

Mrs. Jack Foster will give the installation service and install the new officers who are president, Mrs. R. A. Newton; first vice president, Mrs. R. A. Mack; second vice president; Mrs. Malcolm McClelland; secretary, Mrs. R. H. Meixner; treasurer, W. F. Mullanan; telephone chairman, Mrs. Jerome Henry.

Coffee hour will begin at 9:30 and the business meeting at 10 a.m.

Lessons Continue At Central Baptist

"God as Father" will be the subject for the Bible Study at Central Baptist Church Sunday. During the month of January, February and March the Sunday School is studying the basic beliefs of Christianity. The lesson Sunday is the second in a series of four lessons on the beliefs in God.

Pastor T. O. Upshaw, is preaching a series of messages from the gospel of John. The theme of the series of messages is "John's Witness to Jesus." At the morning worship hour, broadcast over KHHH, at 11 a.m. he will preach on "A Teacher Come From God." His message at the 7 p.m. worship service will be entitled "Great In Trials."

RELIGION IN AMERICA

Baptists Face Ordeal of Conscience

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
America's largest Protestant body, the Southern Baptist Convention, is undergoing an ordeal of conscience.

Its 10 million members are caught in a bind between one of their most cherished principles and the urgent financial needs of Baptist colleges and universities.

The principle is separation of church and state. Since colonial days, Baptists have been stout defenders of religious liberty. They have contended that churches and church-related institutions will not remain free if they accept any kind of government subsidy.

Baptists are also great believers in the importance of educating young people in a Christian atmosphere. There are about 100 Baptist colleges and universities in the United States, of which 55 are supported by the Southern Baptist Convention.

Last year, Congress enacted a college aid program under which federal grants and long-term loans are available to all institutions of higher education, public, private and church-related, to expand dormitory and classroom facilities. The loans carry an interest rate of 3 per cent, which is less than the government currently is paying to borrow money. Thus they also involve a form of government subsidy, no different in principle from grants. Ever since the law was passed, there has been sharp controversy within some of the largest state Baptist Conventions over whether Baptist colleges should accept federal aid.

The trustees of Furman University at Greenville, S.C., brought the debate to a head by accepting a federal grant of $611,800 to construct a new science building.

But the South Carolina Baptist Convention at its annual meeting instructed the university to return the federal money. The convention promised to raise an equal sum for Furman through voluntary contributions from South Carolina Baptists.

The fund-raising drive is now underway, with a June deadline. To meet the goal, it will be necessary to obtain contributions averaging $5 per church member.

In neighboring Georgia, the state Baptist Convention forbade Mercer University to go through with a federal loan. Six other state conventions—in Florida, Michigan, Indiana, Virginia, New Mexico and Mississippi—adopted resolutions rejecting government aid to Baptist institutions.

In Texas, Baylor University President Abner V. McCall went before the state Baptist Convention with a fervent plea for permission to accept federal aid. He warned that church-related colleges will sink to the status of second or third rate institutions unless they obtain massive new financial support from some source.

Dr. McCall said church colleges have accepted federal money in the past, for example, under the GI bill of rights, and it has never been accompanied by attempted government control. He also noted that Texas Baptists have promised in the past to make up by voluntary contributions anything their institutions lost by turning down government aid, but have "fallen far, far short" of keeping this promise.

The Texas Convention did not even reach a formal vote on a resolution authorizing Baylor and other Baptist institutions to accept federal aid. It was withdrawn after soundings indicated it would be defeated by large majority.

The issue is certain to continue generating controversy. Some Baptist leaders believe that a way can be found to reconcile principle with practicality. Southern Baptist Convention President W. Wayne Dehoney commented recently that "absolute separation of church and state is imperative where the church alone is served, but it is not necessarily the best way of dealing with a church-related college where the public at large is the chief beneficiary."

This is substantially the same argument that Roman Catholics have made for federal aid to parochial schools—namely, that the government would not be supporting the religious function of the schools but simply compensating them for the public service which they perform in educating a large

YEAR

Missionary Meeting At Immanuel Temple

A Missionary Convention will be held at the Immanuel Temple Church, 801 E. Campbell, Sunday.

Rev. Paul Allen Pletcher, Missionary Evangelist to Mexico, will be the featured speaker in the Morning Worship service at 11 a.m. This will be followed with a fellowship dinner at 1:30 p.m. at the church. At 2:30 p.m. a Missionary Rally will be held. All the missionaries present will present a report of their ministry during the past year, and plans for the future.

The Convention will close with a Pledge and Consecration Service at 7 p.m. with Rev. Henry Pletcher, Missionary Evangelist to Mexico, speaking.

Rev. Paul Allen Pletcher, the speaker in the 11 a.m. service, has spent 9 years in Mexico and has been instrumental in seeing many thousands come to a true knowledge of Jesus Christ as Saviour and has brought the Gospel to many who had never heard of Jesus before. He has been able to assist in the building of new churches and is currently teaching in the Agricultural Bible Centre of Mexico in Puebla, Mexico.

In the interest of safety, Rev. Pletcher has many times felt he should not take his family with him into new areas. During these lonely hours, Mrs. Pletcher has composed many touching Gospel Songs. The Pletcher's four girls, Janeva, Joyce, Marilyn and Myrna will be singing many of these songs during the Convention.

Rev. Henry Pletcher, who is speaking in the 7 p.m. service, is a younger brother of Paul Allen's, and has spent over 12 years in Missionary work in Guatemala and Mexico.

Rev. Pletcher is co-director of Evangelization by Substitution, an organization that has helped build over 100 churches in Mexico and has assisted many Native workers go into new areas with the Gospel.

Rev. Pletcher has been in danger many times in recent years as he has gone among murderous natives to tell them of Jesus Christ.

Many native workers have been seriously injured and a number have been killed in their efforts to open these areas to the Gospel of the Love of God.

Rev. Earl Pruitt, pastor of Immanuel Temple extends an invitation to the public to attend these services.

'Christian Optimist' First Baptist Topic

Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will conduct the 11 a.m. worship service. The subject will be "The Christian Optimist." Sam Allen, minister of music, will direct the church choir in singing, "The Morning Trumpet" arr. Word, and will present Mrs. Barbara Crosthwait who will sing a solo, Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Andante" by Siegel for the organ offertory.

Rev. J.R. Manning, assistant pastor, will preach at the 6 p.m. worship from the topic, "The Third Sign." The chapel choir will sing, "A Men" by Hairston. "Rose of Sharon" by Clarke is the selection Miss Lane has chosen for the organ offertory.

C. A. STOERMER leads meetings

Special Meeting Schedule Set For Witnesses

After the service meeting earlier this week, C. A. Stoermer, Circuit Supervisor for Texas, Circuit Number Ten, announced plans for meetings to be held at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 944 S. Dwight.

A special meeting will be held tomorrow, beginning at 8 p.m. For thirty minutes Stoermer will speak on a chosen Bible subject and then thirty minutes will be devoted to the answering of Bible questions.

One question that will be answered is, "In what year of the world is mankind now living?" By using history as well as the Bible, Stoermer will answer this and other questions.

Stoermer will also be the speaker at the Public Talk Sunday at 3 p.m. His subject will be "What to Do to Gain Lasting Life in Happiness." From his opening statements on a word, Stoermer will stress the importance of turning to God's word, the Bible, to find the answers to such questions as how lasting life in happiness will come about, when will this happen, and what must we do to enjoy lasting life in happiness. The public is invited to all these meetings.

Stoermer will conclude his visit to the Pampa Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses with a short talk following the Watchtower Study. In this talk, beginning at 5:15 p.m., Stoermer will commend as well as counsel local ministers.

Luke 5 Is Topic For Presbyterians

The First Presbyterian Church worship service topic Sunday at 8:30 and 11 a.m., will be "When Faith Moves Out," based on Luke's gospel in the 5th Chapter. Ruling Elder Henry J. Gindorf will assist in both worship services.

An Inquirer's Class for persons considering membership in the church continues at the 9:45 a.m. Church School hour. Anyone who plans to share in the current series of study sessions should begin the class this Sunday morning.

At 5:30 p.m. the study of the new Confession of Faith continues and the Junior High Fellowship meets for their youth supper. At 6 p.m. the Senior High will meet with their sponsors, Jim and Marcia Hobbs. John and Betty Brewer are sponsors for the Junior High Fellowship.

Doke Returns From 'Minister's Week'

Rev. J. W. Doke, minister of First Christian Church, will return this weekend from "Minister's Week," held at TCU in Fort Worth. He will conduct the 9:30 a.m. worship service at Lamar Annex and 10:50 a.m. worship at First Church.

The choir, under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor and accompanied at the organ by Mrs. John Gill, will perform as the week's anthem "The Lord Is My Rock."

The regular evening services will be held with a snack supper at 5:30 p.m., Youth Groups at 6, and Evening Worship at 7.

Marine Starts Program

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Worldwide Bible Reading Program, carried out from Thanksgiving to Christmas every year under the auspices of the American Bible Society, has had the support of every U.S. President since it began during World War II when a lonely Marine asked his parents to read the same Scripture passages at a prearranged time.

Harvesters Host Bulldogs In District 3-4A Contest

Pampa To Try for 17th Win

Borger will be without their leading scorer tonight and the Harvesters are favored to sail to their second consecutive 3-4A triumph.

Tip off time is 8 p.m. in Harvester Fieldhouse. The Pampa Shockers and the Borger B will get things underway at 6:15 p.m.

The Harvester's Kenneth McWilliams is due to be back in action, but the Bulldog Keith Pettigrew has left the squad to concentrate on his studies.

Pampa had no trouble stopping Borger in first half action, running to a 73-46 victory, after leading only 32-31 at halftime.

Bulldog coach George Hanna experimented with juniors against Tascosa Tuesday and Borger wound up with a 52-47 victory over the Rebels.

Dale Dawson has taken over as scoring leader for Borger. The 6'1 senior has a 15.6 scoring average in the Bulldog's 17 games.

The visitors have a 5-12 season mark, stand 1-1 in second half 3-4A play and finished first half action at 1-7.

In conference play Borger is averaging 52 points per contest but have given up 68.2 points a game. Season-wise Hanna's crew are 55.2 and 66.3, offense and defense respectively.

Dawson will be joined at the other forward spot by 6'0 Pete Loftis and junior Rick Williams. 6'4 will start at center with Ted Brewer, 5'10 and Sonny Jordan, 6'0 at guards.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI)—The old man, a cinch to make it some day himself, couldn't have been any happier than he was by the news that Ted Williams had been elected to baseball's Hall of Fame.

"They couldn't make a better choice," crackled the familiar voice of 75-year-old Casey Stengel over the phone from his home in Glendale, Calif.

"There's no question he was the best left-handed hitter in baseball," added the retired manager, mixing tenses with his usual reckless abandon.

"Sure he beat me a lotta times. So what? He beat everybody. Personally, I liked him as much off the field as on. He was amazing, specially when you consider he was playing in a field that wasn't built for him.

"He never made a mistake at home plate. That's right, I said never. He can stand up there sideways, which he does, and see balls and strikes better than the umpires. Some people used to say he didn't drive in enough runs. That's a lotta birdseed.

"You have nine men on a club, haven't you? What was wrong with them (the Red Sox) not having a man ahead of him and a man behind him so he could hit the way he really wanted and drive in more runs? It wasn't his fault they didn't have those men. Why should he chase bad balls? No sir, they can't tell me that. And what's more, as a fellow I think he's a 100 per cent."

Got 93 Percent
Told that Williams had garnered 93 percent of the vote but that 20 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America did not include the ex-Boston slugger's name on their ballots, Stengel had a quick reply.

"I wouldn't care how many left him off," he said. "If they hadda pitch against him they would'n left him off. I'll guarantee you that."

There is a move already afoot by some of the writers to have the five-year waiting period waived in Casey's case so that he can be voted into the Hall of Fame immediately instead of having to wait until he's at least 80.

"It doesn't make any difference to me," he fibbed. "But I appreciate the writers going out of their way like that. It's nice they have that opinion about me. I can't thank them enough. But that's all I wanna say about that."

Still Needs Aid
Casey still walks with the aid of a cane following last summer's surgery for a broken hip which brought about his premature retirement as manager of the New York Mets.

"I feel fairly good," he said, and he sounded it, too.

"The only trouble is that I pulled a muscle in my shoulder and it bothers me some."

Just like Mickey Mantle, eh?
"Yeah, I see where he's gonna play first base," said Casey. "You don't have to run far when you're playing there and you only have to throw 90 or 125 feet. He hurt his shoulder in a World Series against Milwaukee and few people ever knew about it. He's all right in my book."

"And so is the other guy (Williams). Now I remember him one day when we had this doubleheader with Boston..." Same old Casey. He's never gonna change.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK

MARIO ANDRETTI, THE DEFENDING NATIONAL CHAMPION (U.S.A.C.), LOOKS AHEAD TO THE START OF A RACING NEW YEAR WITH CONFIDENCE...

Palmer Trails Geiberger By Two in Second Round

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Allen Geiberger, the splendid splinter of pro golf, nursed a slim lead going into the second round of the Bing Crosby tournament today but the dangerous duo of Arnold Palmer and Tony Lema was close behind.

Geiberger, one of last year's top 10 money winners, fired a three-under-par 68 for openers in the $104,500 national pro-amateur classic but Palmer, playing a tougher course, was only two strokes back at 70 in tie with Lema and three other pros. Chris Blocker, Rex Baxter Jr. and Don Massengale.

As for the other big names in this star-studded tournament, Billy Casper, one of the co-favorites, nestled at 71 with 10 other pros. Defending Crosby Champion Bruce Crampton roosted in a 12-way tie at 72.

Big Jack Nicklaus, golf's leading money winner last year, scrambled to an opening round 73 at Cypress Point, the same course Palmer and Lema played, and admittedly was "downright upset" with himself. He capped his dismal round by missing a foot-long putt for a par on the final hole.

Sandwiched in between the front-running Geiberger and glamor boys Lema and Palmer were four relative unknowns at 69, Lee Raymond, long-hitting Paul Bondeson, Ernie Vossler and Ken Towns.

Geiberger, 6-2½ tall and so slim at 165 he eats peanut butter sandwiches while playing golf, turned in his opening round at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's shore course, considered easier than Cypress Point and a whole lot easier than the third layout involved in the Crosby.

Congress to Probe Reason for Jets Star Footballer Missing Induction

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was asked Thursday to investigate why knee-sore Joe Namath, the $400,000 all star rookie pro football player, escaped the draft.

The investigation was sought by Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., who read a letter to the House from an angry Fort Lauderdale, Fla., father whose son, a combat soldier in Viet Nam, suffered football injuries in civilian life.

The father, who was not identified, said Namath's deferment was "the most asinine action of the year."

He said his son, a five-foot, seven-inch soldier with the 1st Cavalry Division in Viet Nam, has engaged in hand-to-hand combat and other battles.

He said his son suffered cartilage and ligament injuries to his knee while playing football; broke a bone in a foot that causes him to limp when strain is placed on it; suffered a painful chip in his arm in college; broke his nose three times, and has chronic bronchial infections.

Rogers asked for a committee investigation of the defer-

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Pinpointing Bankruptcy

A man in Pittsburgh, Pa., says he is trying to get data processed by computers showing:

1. When will the United States go bust under the existing deficit spending program?
2. When will the social security fund become insolvent, or, more precisely, when did it become insolvent?
3. How long will it be before everybody is working for the government?

Gerald Q. Malloy, the seeker, says he has been unable to find computerized answers to the questions from the government or private industry and that he is now trying to get the answers elsewhere, from a college or private electronic processing company.

It would be a simple matter for the computers to provide the dates to these significant questions, but whether Malloy can get the date processed is something else again. He hints the answers would be something of a shocker.

Malloy suggests that the figures on the growing national debt for the last 35 years be fed into the computers for the date the nation will officially be declared bankrupt.

On the matter of the solvency of the Social Security, he says, "I honestly believe the computers will come up with a retroactive date." He's probably right there.

For the date when everybody is on the government payroll, Malloy suggests the computers be fed this statistical information:

In 1789, the 350 federal employees amounted to 1 for every 11,225 Americans; in 1883, 1 employe for every 400 citizens; in 1923, 1 for every 215; today 1 for every 76.

Current records show that one out of every seven Americans is working for a federal, state or local government-entity, Malloy reports.

He also said he found it puzzling that very little is said about the one plan which would get the nation on a sound financial footing, the proposed Liberty Amendment.

The Liberty Amendment calls for the abolition of the income tax and getting the federal government out of all businesses in competition with private enterprise. The resolution has been approved by seven states, and is up for consideration in the other 43.

We wish the people pushing the "Liberty Amendment" all the success in the world. But we also wonder sometimes if these good people are ever going to start thinking in a straight line and realize that the institution of political government itself is in coercive subsidized competition with private enterprise?

Reason to Stay Home

The Viet Nam policy protesters must be aware by now that their actions haven't won universal respect and admiration from their fellow Americans.

If they need further evidence perhaps they can find it in a news item from Waterford, Conn.

A Cub Scout appeared at a costume party there dressed as a beatnik and carrying a sign which read:

"I will not go to Viet Nam. My mommy won't let me cross the street."

If this doesn't bug the demonstrators and draft card tear-uppers, the case seems hopeless.

Besides, can you think of a better reason for not going?

King Speaks for Whom?

"I have made it very clear that as a minister of the gospel I consider war an evil. I must cry out when I see war escalated at any point," said Martin Luther King.

Not long ago Mr. King was all for taking over U.S. foreign policy — presumably living up to the Nobel symbol of peace — and personally settling with the Communists in Viet Nam. But somebody at State told him that it was against the law for a private citizen to negotiate in behalf of the United States, and, anyway, not all the states would go along with whatever deal the Reverend King made, allegedly in their behalf.

But back to the statement quoted above. By itself it is what a minister might be expected to say. No doubt hundreds of them have made similar statements out of love for their fellowman.

When such a statement is made for political purposes, however, it is a different matter, and given King's past performance, the Worker, official organ of the Communist Party, U.S.A., recognized the political value of quoting the above statement, and it did.

Now, however, for those who tend to think of Mr. King as the leader supreme of U.S. Negroes, we have a quote from the National Baptist Convention, representing 5½ million Negro church members. Draft card burners, said delegates to the convention in Chicago, "stab in the back every American now serving on the battlefield."

The Baptist resolution backing American policy in Southeast Asia hit a variety of targets, including: Rev. King, John Lewis and James Farmer, all militant civil rights leaders who have criticized the U.S. move to halt the spread of communism.

The National Baptist Convention is the world's largest Negro organization.

It is proof again that those who think of Negroes collectively instead of individually fool only themselves.

Reds Not Eager for Peace Meet

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Even if Hanoi and Peking recognize the elements of stalemate which now exist in the Viet Nam military situation, it may be much harder to get the Reds to the conference table than was the case in Korea in 1951.

First off, the battlefield circumstances in Korea did not exactly add up to stalemate. American-U.N. forces were well across the 38th parallel into North Korea, punching hard in the "Iron Triangle" and slowly chewing up ground.

With the North Korean army largely shattered by earlier U.S. drives, the Chinese Red armies were bearing the brunt of the fighting.

It was our government's conviction, as former President Truman's memoirs make clear, that the initiative for the Red offensive in Korea had come originally from Moscow. When Russia's U.N. delegate, Jacob Malik, passed the signal for peace talks on June 23, 1951, that was it. China, then only two years old as a Red nation, could not go on without Soviet support.

But the point which may have important bearing on current efforts to get the Reds to the table is that several other factors made a truce easily digestible in Moscow and Peking.

Face could be saved because the Chinese armies still held most of North Korea. Though the invasion of South Korea had finally been beaten, the Communists could trumpet that they had "repelled" U. N. forces, since our ill-starred drive to the Manchurian border had indeed been thrown back in late 1950.

The mere youth of China's government as a Red regime made giving way easier. The world did not expect too much of a struggling Peking. With its weak economy, Peking hardly could argue with Moscow. As for powerful Moscow, it could shrug off the Korean matter as an overreaching effort that did not pay off.

Obviously, the power and prestige positions of the contending parties are vastly different in the Vietnamese war.

Unlike the North Korean forces 15 years ago, the Viet Cong guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars today constitute an army somewhat battered but very much in being. No one needs to be reminded how much of South Viet Nam's soil they hold, nor of the damage they still inflict upon their adversaries.

If our large forces in South Viet Nam create a practical stalemate, since they are unlikely to be ousted, neither Hanoi or Peking may yet be ready to accept the idea that the impasses will be enduring. Many signs indicate they doubt the durability of our resolves.

Beyond this, a militant and powerful Red China is today the principal back-up nation. Not only its considerable prestige but its main concepts of the world struggle are deeply bound up in the Vietnamese outcome.

Russia, meantime, seems to distant outsiders to sway between competing with Peking as a helper to Hanoi, and trying to lay a restraining hand upon the Red belligerents.

For the Reds now to accept any kind of truce which could fairly be read by the world as a check upon Communist advance may seem, at least to Hanoi and Peking, intolerable as a general proposition. It would be a second rebuff, much more difficult to cloak than the one in Korea.

Any real check, moreover, could send down the drain the notion of the "war of liberation," the Reds' most ingenious postwar device for sugar-coating aggression. To mount serious similar effort in Thailand or elsewhere would thereafter be extremely difficult. New cloaking devices might be hard to come by.

With so much at stake, with such evident confidence in key Red capitals that the United States will not indefinitely maintain its stubborn resistance, Hanoi and Peking can hardly be eager yet to rush to the truce table.

Shortest Cut in History

Around the World

By ROBERT MORRIS

One day back in 1951 while I was counsel to the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, I had occasion to linger in the office of the late Senator Pat McCarran. As people tend to do while waiting, I began to read the scrolls and inscriptions on the walls.

I encountered one in particular that I found lyrical and asked the secretary if the Senator had written it. For it bore no sign of authorship. She did not know, but promised to give me a copy of it. A day or so later I received a well-typed duplicate of the thrilling rendition entitled "Youth," and proceeded to put it on my own office wall.

Since then I have received scores of comments on "Youth," and this year we decided to use it as the greeting card not only for ourselves but for the youthful University of Plano, as well. I think it is worthy of being passed on to the readers of this column.

"Youth is not a time of life; it is a state of mind. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips, and supple knees; it is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions. It is the freshness of the deep spring of life.

"Youth means a temperament of predominance of courage over timidity, of the appetite for adventure over the love of ease. This often exists in a man of fifty more than in a boy of twenty.

"Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years. People grow old by deserting their ideals.

"Years wrinkle the skin; but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul.

"Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair — these are the long, long years that bow the heart and turn the greening spirit back to dust.

"Whether sixty or sixteen, there is in every human being's heart the lure of wonder, the sweet amazement of the stars and the starlike things and thoughts, the undaunted challenge of events, the unflinching childlike appetite for what is next, and the joy of the game of living. You are as young as your faith, as old as your doubt; as young as your self-confidence, as old as your fear; as young as your hope, as old as your despair.

"In the central place of your heart is an evergreen tree; its name is love. So long as it flourishes you are young. When it dies you are old.

"In the central place of your heart there is a wireless station. So long as it receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, grandeur, courage, and power from the earth, from men and the infinite, so long are you young. When the wires are down and all the central places of your heart are covered with the snows of cynicism and the ice of pessimism, then you are grown old, even at twenty, and may God have mercy on your soul!"

Question Box

QUESTION: "Are we to infer from your editorials that if we MYOB, we will not be attacked?"

ANSWER: "MYOB" means "Mind Your Own Business" and is a prescription for the ills of this old world.

Certainly, if we as a nation of individuals, had religiously attended to our individual business, if we had not, instead, been obsessed with yanking political levers in attempts to control the lives of our fellowmen and asking the political government for benefits which it could only bestow by robbing those same fellowmen, that government could not have grown to the awesome monster it is today.

And if that government had not grown, on our demands, to its present proportions, then, just as certainly, it would not have found the bravado to begin taxing and drafting free men to the extent required to intervene in world affairs. And certainly, if that government had not intervened in other people's squabbles, there would have been no World War I or World War II. By our entry into those two affairs, they were extended into world-wide struggles.

And certainly, if we had not bailed Soviet Russia out of trouble time-and-time-again, she would not today be in a position to threaten us, if she is?

So it would seem, after all, that "MYOB" even now, is the proper medicine. All that is needed is for individuals to be genuine in their own business.

No we did not mean to imply that we will not be attacked. With various governments of the world, our own included, posturing and preening and threatening, juggling atomic weapons and missiles like kids playing marbles, the possibility of attack certainly exists. But, make no mistake, if that attack should come, it will be an attack by one government upon another government with the people killed and maimed in the conflict being the victims of a power struggle between the political entities so engaged.

One thing is almost certain. If we continue our present course of economic insanity, sticking our nose into other peoples' business and making enemies all over the world, and all-out war does come, it will find us bankrupt and alone with a world-hating us and unified in common cause against us.

While, as we have stated, the possibility of attack under present conditions does exist it would seem that if we started minding our own business, even at this late date, that possibility would be greatly reduced. If our own government were to cease stealing from American businesses and the American people in order to subsidize foreign governments which in turn are enabled to spend that much more for armaments of war, the prevalence of strife in the world would, of necessity, be lessened and, consequently, the likelihood of an attack upon the United States much reduced.

Moreover, if we here in the United States once again start acting like free men, if we can take up the idea of freedom where the Declaration of Independence left off, the idea and force of freedom will again sweep the world, and foreign rulers will be so busy trying to keep their own heads that they will not have the time, means or inclination to launch an attack against this country.

We cannot think of two acts more calculated to cause foreign peoples to begin questioning the acts of their own governments than the elimination of the military draft and the withdrawal of all "foreign aid."

In the meantime, we are not suggesting the dismantling of our armed forces tomorrow morning and, certainly, we are not suggesting reliance on any super government such as the United Nations. We are suggesting that we begin a movement away from our belligerent and warlike stance.

Pull Up A Chair

A supermarket manager told us recently that if the average woman shopper would spend an extra 15 minutes of comparative food shopping, she could save as much as five per cent, or $1 on every $20 spent. He said that many items are marked down each week, and if they are bought in quantities of two or more the shopper will effect a great saving. He said the extra 15 minutes spent comparing prices and quality equals a rate of $4 an hour, which is more than the average housewife's wage earner makes.

Today's smile: A housewife asked her new cook: "If my husband brings some friends home for dinner, are you prepared?" The cook answered: "Yes, indeed. My bag is already packed."

Reading a bit of U.S. history we discovered they didn't like the decisions of the Supreme Court in the good old days, either. When Andrew Jackson was President he once snarled: "John Marshall (then Chief Justice) has made his decision. Now let him enforce it." Of course, in time the decision was enforced and today we would have to do some research to learn what irritated Old Hickory.

Thoughts while shaving: the brewers don't miss a chance to plug their product. The latest is a handbook for waiters offering such tips as, "Don't serve water unless asked," and "Always suggest beer instead of coffee or tea." A Texas reader asks us to name the only player ever to win the U.S. Women's Golf Championship twice consecutively. Mickey Wright won that honor in 1958 and again in 1959.

There's no doubt a man is big-hearted. The average weight of a man's heart is 10.6 ounces, as compared with 8.8 ounces as the average weight of a woman's. A survey by a barber's magazine estimates there are 200,000 bearded lads in the

WASHINGTON

Reds Map Hard Sell On Atheism

BY RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A four-day conference on atheism held at Dushanbe, in Tadzhikistan, has passed by almost unnoticed here.

Yet it was attended by some 140 key Soviet Central Asian Communist party leaders and ideologists.

Information seeping out of that conference shows that Russian Communist officials are seriously worried because religion persists strongly in the wide sweeps of Soviet Central Asia despite the best efforts of the government's atheist cadres.

The seminar was held to develop new combat strategy. The conference delegates complained that some of their atheist propagandists aren't really working at the job.

Others are willing to talk on atheism at the drop of a hat but don't know what they're talking about.

"The low level of scientific work in the field of atheism," the conferees said, is a major handicap to winning over the religious to nonbelief.

The delegates were very unhappy, too, about the poor atheistic training of writers, newspapermen and motion picture actors.

They did see a few bright spots though.

As an example of how things should be done, the delegates mentioned Yangiyul, in Uzbekistan, where 33 atheist cells work actively in schools, stores, shops and at special "agitation centers." These energetic atheists recruited squads of educated engineers, doctors and teachers to work on the more sophisticated of the religious citizens.

The conferees commended the Atheism Houses, "methodology centers of scientific-atheistic propaganda," set up in a number of cities. They recommended more of these.

They commended the work of the young atheists' club at the Madana Collective, which publishes the "Young Atheist" newspaper and which admits women as full members. The young atheists of this school, it was reported, have an "active influence" on their parents.

Delegates sadly saw need, however, for a lot more to be done.

They recommended expansion of atheistic material in textbooks.

They said "special attention must be given to staffing day nurseries and kindergartens with . . . workers who are free of religious prejudices."

They decided "it is necessary to . . . create antireligious museums."

The conference proposed that "historians, archeologists, architects and propagandists (unite) to assure that historical and architectural monuments become centers . . . for the propagation of atheism."

The delegates said it was essential to improve the anti-religious training of teachers, medical workers and preschool pioneer leaders.

Things aren't going well for the Soviet atheists in Central Asia.

U.S. today. We think they should start counting again . . .

In the past 10 years the greatest growth in the cosmetic field has been the phenomenal sales of hair preparations. Guess everyone's afraid of dandruff . . . A friend, visiting here from Germany, tells us: "Americans have more time-saving devices and less time than any other race on earth." . . . During the holiday season just past, a distilling company threw a cocktail party and luncheon at a posh New York hotel to introduce a new brand of Scotch, but the only drinks served before the meal were Manhattans and Martinis. No one tasted the Scotch until afterward . . . We hear a lot about Vietnam these days, but that's not the only place our boys in uniform are serving. At last count we had troops in 101 foreign nations . . . Women are gradually taking over men's jobs in every field. In New Jersey, where the fair sex are being hired as gas station attendants, they are known as "bumper bunnies." . . . The Boston (Mass.) TRAVELER headlined a story: "THE LADY Will Get Help To Get Home." We hope so.

Country Editor speaking: "Maybe we didn't have much money in the good old days, but the five-and-dime stores didn't have layaway plans, either."

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE

Much has been written and said about the "power of positive thinking" — which, simplified, means that one must expect the best in order to get it. While it is certainly true that one's mental outlook will color his method of expression, it is also true that most declarations of the doctrine of "positive thinking" far overstep the bounds of reality.

The overstepping takes place in forgetting that each individual controls only himself. If I "think positively" when I arise in the morning, I may very well express a cheerfulness and optimism that will make people enjoy being around me during the day.

But if my "positive thinking" intrudes into the realm of believing that I will sell John Jones a certain item today, or that my business associates will have more confidence in me today, or that the stock market will go up today — in each of these cases I am trying to think positively about something over which I have no control.

For John Jones has his own life — just as fully as I do. He has his own plans and aspirations — just as intensely sought after as I do. He will buy my products today only if what I sell fits into his plans, and if I'm capable of communicating that applicability to him. To expect that my thoughts will change his plans and ambitions is to live in a dream world. Actually it is a dream world of total chaos where nothing is firm — where everyone's thoughts and actions are subject to the whims of other individuals' positive or negative thoughts.

And, in the same way, my business associates have their own lives. They will react favorably to me only as I offer them something of myself that will enhance their own plans and ambitions. And it goes without saying that the action of the stock market will be the result of the mental attitudes of literally millions of individuals today — rather than my positive or negative attitude.

So does it matter what one's mental outlook is? Of course. As mentioned before, one's method of expression, his personality, his desirability as a companion or associate will be colored by his mental attitude. People, in general, do not like to be around other people who are gloomy, hostile, or uncooperative.

So the proper attitude has its positive results — but not because "thinking makes it so" but because of the actions one takes as a result of his attitude.

But there is a limit to this. For, once again, we must recognize that you only control yourself. If your attitude is positive, your manner direct and courteous, your mood cooperative — but still the other individual does not respond — that is his business. You can't make him want what you have to offer. And even if it seems that he should want — for his own good — what you're offering, if he fails to see it, that's his problem.

Each of us has one life to live — all his own. He does not control the actions or thoughts of any other individual. The only area for improvement is self-improvement, for the only person one controls is himself. Therefore, your mental attitude will have an effect upon your actions. But the worst mistake an individual can make is to believe he is responsible for the actions of others.

The Almanac

Today is Friday, Jan. 21, the 21st day of 1966 with 344 to follow.

The moon is new. (No morning star) The evening stars are Jupiter, Venus, Saturn and Mars.

Those born today are under the sign of Aquarius. French fashion designer Christian Dior was born on this day in 1905.

On this day in history: In 1861, Jefferson Davis resigned from the U.S. Senate, 12 days before Mississippi seceded from the Union.

In 1918, the Soviet Council ruled all debts incurred by the former Russian Czarist government null and void.

In 1954, the first atomic powered submarine, Nautilus, was launched at Groton, Conn.

In 1965, Indonesia formally resigned from the United Nations.

A thought for the day—Harry Truman: "The responsibility of the great states is to serve and not dominate the world."
