SNOW CRIPPLES EASTERN U.S.

Light Snow Forecast For Pampa

The eastern half of the nation, from the Canadian border to the Deep South, was chilled today by a mass of record-producing cold air parked over the upper Midwest. International Falls, Minn., suffered through the seventh straight day of below zero temperatures. It was 20 degrees below zero today at Grand Forks, N.D., but the bitter cold appeared to be easing although still maintaining a grip on 13 states from Maine to Montana.

The cold brought new fears to Mississippi River communities threatened by floods caused by an eight-mile-long ice jam and triggered snow in the Ozarks, the eastern Great Lakes region and upstate New York.

Nipped by snow flurries this morning, Pampa residents can look forward to more of the same Tuesday. After today's day of a chilling 20 degrees, Tuesday's temperatures are predicted to climb into the thirties. (See SNOW Page 3)

Kleptomaniac Dog Caught Red-Handed!

MORZINE, France (UPI)—Town police said today they have arrested a kleptomaniac dog.

The dog, a German shepherd, is believed to have stolen dozens of articles ranging from clothing to ski-poles. He was caught red-handed trotting through the snow at an Alpine resort town in eastern France carrying a jacket containing a large sum of money.

Police said he simply picked it up from a ski slope where its owner had dropped it for a moment.

The problem now is what to do with the dog.

"We can hardly take him to court," one town official said.

Johnny Marsh Still Barely Clings to Life

Fifteen-year-old Johnny Marsh of Pampa, with a bullet lodged in the back of his head, still was clinging to life early this afternoon at North-west Hospital in Amarillo.

A decision was expected to be made within the next few hours whether to attempt brain surgery.

Young Marsh, 15, the son of Pampa High School principal and Mrs. Cameron Marsh, 2200 Evergreen, was accidentally shot while handling a 22-caliber Ruger target pistol Saturday night in the home of his classmate and friend, Gary Dudley, 15, of 700 N. Somerville. Dudley is the son of Ray Dudley, a former Pampa police chief and owner of the Dudley Motor Co.

The Marsh boy reportedly had bought the gun from another high school youth last Friday. Police late this forenoon were checking out this angle to determine the original source of the gun sale.

Hospital authorities said today the bullet victim had shown some slight improvement over the weekend and his progress during the next several hours would determine whether surgeons would try to remove the bullet and repair brain damage.

The slug from the pistol entered just over the right eye, passed through the brain and severed the spinal chord, lodging in the back of the youth's head.

Young Marsh and Dudley both are members of the sophomore class at Pampa High School. Marsh is president of his home room.

According to the story related to police, the two youths had been out practicing with the pistol Saturday afternoon and had gone to the Dudley residence about 7 o'clock to clean up preparatory to spending the night with friends.

The accidental shooting happened about 7:35 p.m. in the bathroom of the Dudley residence. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley were visiting in Amarillo at the time.

DeGaulle Tells Of Plan to Pull Out of NATO

PARIS (UPI)—French President Charles de Gaulle announced today he will pull France out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) "progressively" by April, 1968.

But he told a news conference this would not mean abandoning the Atlantic alliance too.

"Without going back on her membership of the Atlantic pact," he said, "France between now and April 4, 1968 will continue to modify the dispositions now in practice, in so far as they concern her."

"France will do so progressively," he said. "That also will go for allied cooperation in Germany. This is not a break but a necessary adaptation."

Earlier, he charged that Moroccan Interior Minister Gen. Mohamed Oufkir engineered the kidnaping and presumed murder in France last October of Moroccan opposition leader Mehdi Ben Barka.

He charged that Oufkir was personally responsible. He said relations between the two countries were bound to suffer because Morocco refuses to disown Oufkir.

De Gaulle also said his regime plans to continue same economic policies it has pursued since 1958 based on the principle "prosperity must benefit all Frenchmen while preserving our independence."

It was De Gaulle's first news conference since he was reelected for a second seven-year term last Dec. 18.

Apollo Lunar Landing Readies for First Test

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The long countdown for the first test flight in America's Apollo manned lunar landing program got underway early today and aimed at a Wednesday launch for the 23-ton moonship.

For the initial flight, the Apollo will be unmanned and will soar 310 miles high before landing in the South Atlantic Ocean.

A success will be a major step in the $21 billion effort to use the same type craft to send three men to the moon by 1969.

If the 52½-hour string of final checks and preparations proceeds without a hitch, the Saturn IB rocket's eight first stage engines will burst into life at 6:45 a.m. CST Wednesday before a national television audience.

The federal space agency said the weather outlook for launch day at both the Cape and recovery areas was "reasonably good" with broken clouds expected over the launch site and scattered clouds over the landing zone 5,500 miles away.

The shot will kick off a busy week in the U.S. space program. The world's largest solid fueled rocket motor will be test fired Wednesday night south of Miami; the first Saturn 5 moon rocket will be tested at Huntsville, Ala., Friday and a Tiros weather satellite will be launched here Friday.

Defense Will Try To Cast Doubt On Cross' Sanity

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The defense called in psychiatrists today to tell of "childhood traumas" in an effort to cast doubt on the sanity of James C. Cross, accused of strangling two coeds and raping one of them.

Perry L. Jones, chief defense counsel, said Dr. Robert B. Holgren of Fort Worth "treated Jim for traumatic childhood experiences when he was in the fifth grade."

Cross, 23, is on trial for his life, charged with trying Susan Rigby and Shirley Ann Stark in his apartment near the University of Texas last July 18.

Jones said he would also try to prove to the jury that Cross acted under a "compulsion." He said he would call at least two other psychiatrists but did not identify them.

Dr. David Wade, a psychiatrist who was the state's final witness before the prosecution rested, testified Saturday that Cross is sane and never has been psychotic.

Substitute Due For Voter Tax

AUSTIN (UPI)—Both houses of the Texas Legislature were expected today to pass a different version of a bill providing a voting registration system to replace the poll tax.

The differences were to be resolved later in a conference committee named from the House and Senate.

The big difference as the bill went to floor debate today was a provision written into the House bill in subcommittee. The provision would end voter registration by mail, except by persons temporarily out of their county of residence or handicapped persons.

The Senate bill as approved by committee last week had no such restriction — it kept the present law's permit for people to mail in their application to register without restriction.

The Senate sponsor, Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, said he would oppose any attempt to get the Senate bill changed to conform with the mail restrictions in the House bill.

Other senators said they also opposed the limits.

Another point causing a legislative squabble was the House bill's restriction of the "roving deputy." In the past, deputies have registered voters by wandering about to various offices and signing up voters. Under the House bill, they would have to be in one place and the voter would come to them. The Senate bill had no such restriction.

The special session began last Monday and Gov. John Connally asked legislators to write legislation for an annual registration system. Bills reflecting his views were introduced quickly in both houses, as were bills for a permanent system of registration.

STATE RESTS CASE

Webb of Evidence Spun Around Candy and Lover

MIAMI (UPI)—The state Corp., top company of Moss completed today the web of circumstantial evidence with which it hopes to send blonde Candy Mossler and her strapping nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, to the electric chair.

The state rested its case against the former model and her alleged incestuous lover after presenting its 70th witness, a bank cashier in Powers' hometown, who testified Powers had written a check without having a bank account there.

Candy, 46, and Powers, 29, are accused of the stab-murder of multimillionaire Jacques Mossler, Candy's husband, in the pre-dawn hours of June 30, 1964.

The state witness was a crewcut young man, Thomas A. Dole, cashier of the Webster State Bank in Webster, Tex., where Powers operated a trailer sales business. Webster is 20 miles south of Houston, seat of the Mossler acceptance.

LBJ Aids Dislike Kennedy Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's proposal that the Communist Viet Cong share power in any postwar Saigon government has drawn heavy fire from the Johnson administration.

Two of the President's key advisers, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and McGeorge Bundy, both of whom also served as top aides to the senator's late brother, John F. Kennedy, dismissed the suggestion.

And Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, presently touring Asian capitals, ridiculed Kennedy's proposal for a coalition government. He said it would be like "having a fox in the chicken coop" or an arsonist in the fire department.

But Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, urged in an interview with United Press International that the United States "recognize" the Viet Cong's political arm, the "National Liberation Front," as an essential step toward negotiating a peace.

FORGOT TO PAY FILING FEE

Carubbi May Not Be Listed on Demo Ballot

The status of Pampa Attorney A. J. Carubbi as to whether he will have his name on the May 7 Democratic primary ballot was a bit "up in the air" today.

This question has arisen, Democratic party officials stated today, because Carubbi had neglected to post the $76 balance of his filing fee by the Saturday midnight deadline.

Atty. Jimmy Thompson, chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee, said late this forenoon he had called a meeting of the committee at 3 p.m. today in his office in the Hughes Bldg. to discuss the matter.

Bob Baker, executive committee secretary, said this morning Carubbi had originally made a $50 deposit but had made no further payment ahead of the deadline.

"The law is very clear," Baker said "and it becomes a serious matter."

The filing fee, according to law, is based on 5 per cent of the total yearly salary of the office sought, divided equally among the total number of candidates for the office.

There are four other Democratic candidates for Gray County judge. They are Justice of the Peace G. L. (Nat) Lunsford, Atty. Harold Cunniff and incumbent Judge Bill Craig, all of Pampa, and John Haynes of McLean. There also is an unopposed candidate for county judge on the Republican ticket, Atty. Sherman Lenning of Pampa.

Adm. Nimitz Dies Suddenly

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—On Dec. 7, 1941, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz was listening to concert music on the radio in his Washington home when an announcer interrupted to announce the Japanese had bombed Hawaii.

Eighteen days later, Nimitz arrived in Honolulu and took command of the Pacific Fleet. Many of his ships lay at the bottom of Pearl Harbor. He went to work quietly and counseled his subordinates, "be patient."

Nimitz rebuilt the bomb-shattered fleet into the mightiest naval armada ever assembled—a force of 5,000 ships, 16,000 aircraft and 2 million men which beat the Japanese back across the Pacific. On Sept. 1, 1945, he stood with Gen. Douglas MacArthur on the deck of his flagship, the battleship Missouri, to receive Japan's unconditional surrender.

Sunday, Nimitz, the Navy's only five-star fleet admiral, died in his white frame home on the Yerba Buena Island naval reservation. He would have been 81 years old Thursday. He never retired from the Navy.

Britain to Unveil New Defense Policy

EDITOR'S NOTE: Britain's Labor government is planning to unveil a new defense policy Tuesday, one with far-reaching ramifications. In this dispatch, UPI Pentagon correspondent Charles W. Corddry analyzes the plan on the basis of information he has gathered in Washington and London.

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—An increasing reliance on nuclear weapons and a consequent scaling down or leveling off of other arms—especially naval—is the key to the new defense plan Britain plans to announce Tuesday.

By these means—and by purchasing U.S. F111 fighter-bombers instead of developing its own at greater cost—the Labor government aims to achieve by 1969 the sharply reduced defense spending goal fixed by Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Wilson directed that 1969 spending be held to the $5.6 billion level of 1964. The 1959 defense plan the Conservatives had envisaged before they left office in late 1964 called for expenditure of $6.72 billion.

After a year of anguished study—Defense Minister Denis Healey called it "a fundamental new look at the whole of British policy overseas"—the Wilson government will reveal its conclusions to Parliament in a defense White Paper Tuesday.

Debate Assured
A heating debate has been assured. The "buy-American" plans infuriate Britain's ailing aircraft industry. Navy Minister Christopher Mayhew resigned in protest at what he considered the minor role allotted the senior service, traditionally Britain's first line of defense. He charged the government was "dangerously mistaken" in its assessment.

The heavier reliance in modern weapons—particularly nuclear—rather than manpower may not be spelled out explicitly and may even be enveloped in fog in the White Paper. The Conservatives would welcome as a prime election issue any overt suggestion that the Royal Navy's traditional role was being downgraded.

But the Wilson government found—like the Tories in 1952 and 1957—that in this approach lies the chief hope of both holding down costs and meeting global peacekeeping commitments.

In recent visits to Washington, Healey has sought to assure U.S. officials that the spending cuts and the plans for reshaped forces in the 1970s involves very little reduction in military capability.

Rely on Airpower

More importantly, Britain will continue its vital role "East of Suez," but will rely more on airpower and less on naval forces in the years ahead.

Some key features of the new plan are:

—A decision to buy 30 of the U.S. F111 jets. This plane, formerly known as the TFX, flies 2½ times the speed of sound and has the very long range needed for Far East operations out of Malaysia and Singapore. Such an expensive plane—possibly $6 million each—would not be bought solely for conventional weapons. The British probably will buy 10 first for training and 40 later. This is less than half the maximum number once contemplated, mainly to save dollars.

—A possible development of a British plane, the "Buccaneer," as a backup for the F111.

—Development with France of a highly advanced warplane, so far called only the "VG," for use by the mid-1970s.

—A decision not to buy an American aircraft carrier or (See BRITAIN, Page 3)

Dear Abby...

What Ideal Conditions Guarantee No Sweat?

DEAR ABBY: I felt sorry for that poor man who couldn't keep his trousers on in the house because the heat bothered him. My son had the same problem. He is allergic to heat and high humidity. That man should see an allergist or the trousers worn in his house will be worn by his wife — to work, because her husband won't be able to wear anything on his lower extremities. And there are very few jobs to which a man can wear a sarong.

My son took his military in the National Guard. The six months in winter and fall were fine, but the two weeks in summer were intolerable. He couldn't keep his pants on. The Army doctor gave his C.O. a written statement saying he was not to assign my son to any duties that would make him perspire. Now he works in an air-conditioned office and goes home to an air-conditioned house.

HIS MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I would like to know what kind of duty a guy can draw in the service that would guarantee him no sweat.

DEAR ABBY: This friend of mine has been going around with a married man for the past two years, off and on. The only time it was really "off" was when his wife and her parents found out about it. Now that things have cooled off, she has started to see him again. My problem is that she tells her parents that she is with ME when she is really with HIM. I have asked her not to involve me in this because I do not approve of this sort of thing, but it doesn't do any good. Should I tell her parents or the man's wife?

DEAR JUNIPER: Say to parents and the wife, but DO tell your friend that you won't cover for her any more. So she had better either straighten up and fly right or find herself another patsy.

DEAR ABBY: "NERVOUS AND AFRAID" letter brought back memories of those terrible days when I, too, was nervous and afraid. Nervous about every new situation, and afraid to face people. I had doubts about my sanity, but wouldn't admit that I needed psychiatric help because I thought I might bring "susto" on my family. Finally I had to be committed to a psychiatric hospital. It was only for a short time, but during my stay there every shameful act, every reason for guilt feelings that haunted me was brought out into the open and I was cleansed and re-born again. This I did with the help of a psychiatrist. Later I received help from my clergyman (a rabbi) and a social worker.

Let no one try to tell one who suffers from deep depressions that "it is all in her head." It is very real. There is nothing imaginary about a mental illness. Denying it only prolongs the agony and delays the cure which comes from psychiatric treatment. So tell "Nervous and Afraid" that she must get help. She owes it to herself, her husband and her children.

Sincerely,
"BEEN THERE"

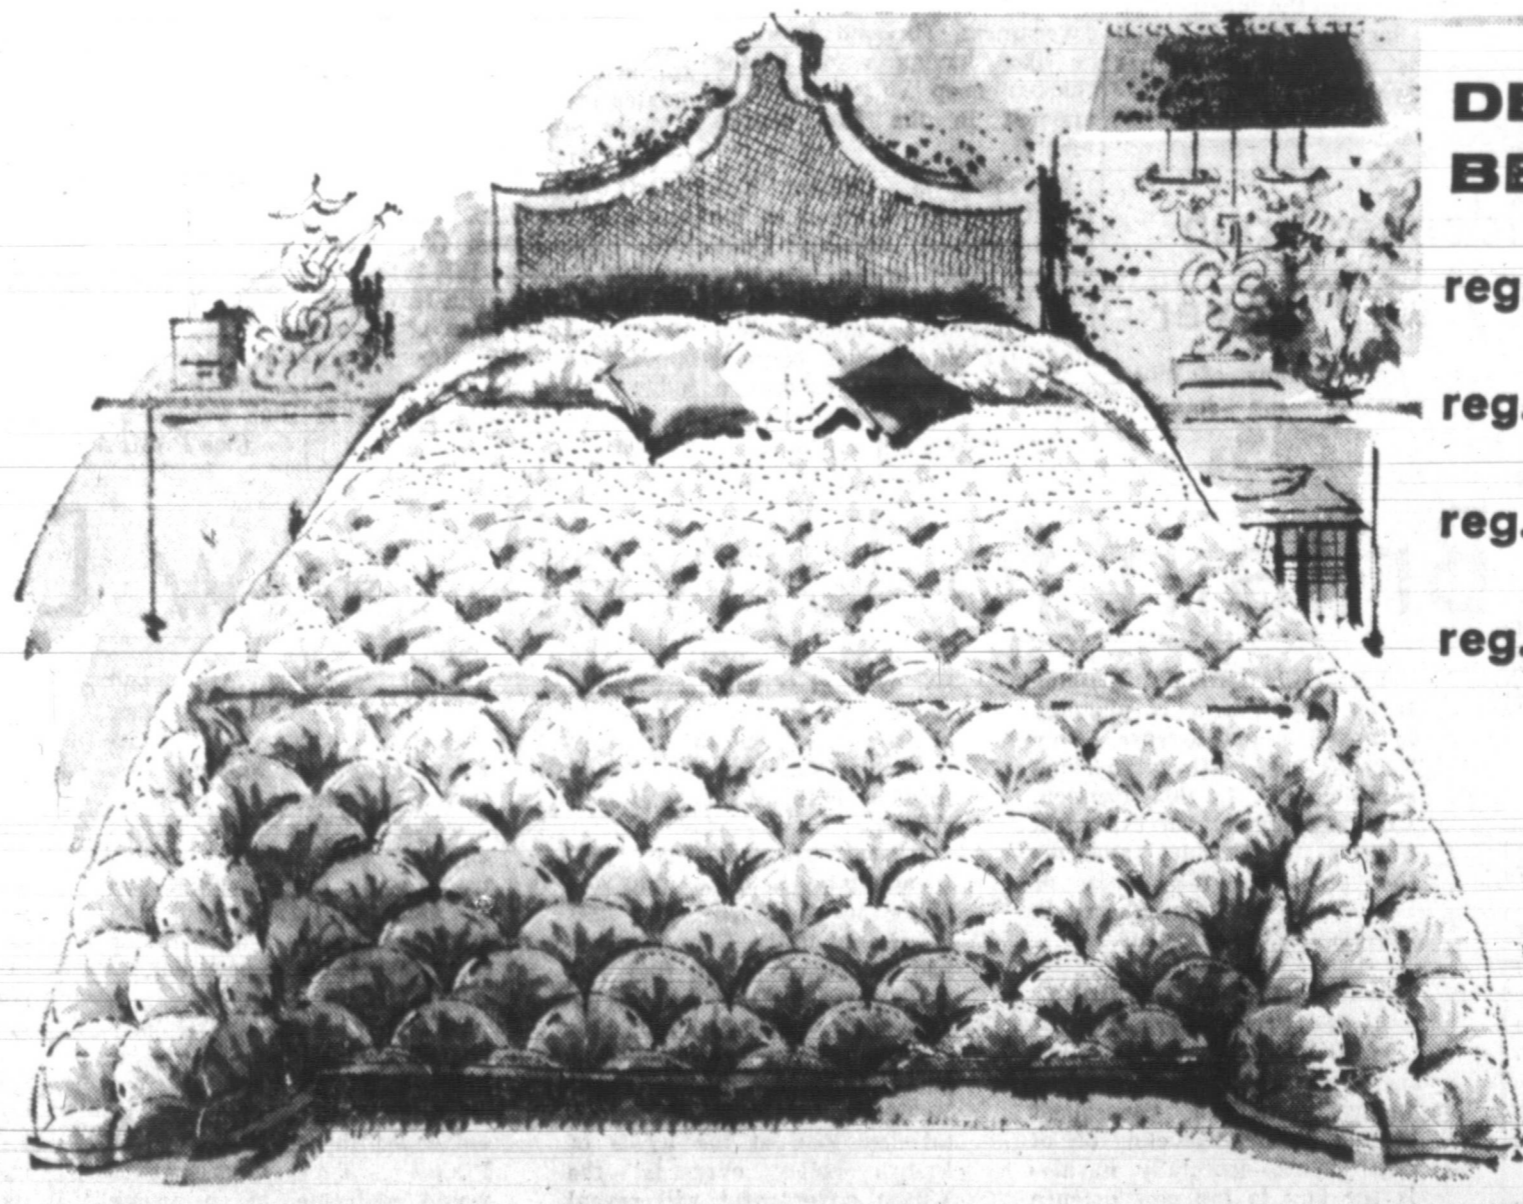

DEAR ABBY: If I had read that letter signed "Nervous and Afraid" four years ago, I might be well today. I was exactly like the person who wrote that letter. I was so afraid to face people I couldn't even go into a store! I felt so alone. I wouldn't admit to myself that I was having a nervous breakdown because I was afraid I would be "sent away." It's nothing like that. I am seeing a psychiatrist and am living at home with my family. My doctor said if I had come to him earlier it wouldn't take so long to cure me. Too bad I didn't have the luck to see a letter like that four years ago, Abby. Just knowing there was one more person in the world with a problem like mine would have helped a lot.

Texas Violent Death Toll Takes Vicious Climb

By United Press International
Steadily mounting highway collisions combined with fires and plane crashes to drive Texas' weekend violent death toll upward.

A United Press International survey for the period between 5 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday showed at least 27 violent deaths, including 15 car fatalities.

Alving F. Jarmillo, 27, died Sunday in Floresville of injuries received Saturday night when his car spun off a curve and slammed into a tree. He was thrown from the car into a fence post.

Don Proctor, 8, son of Army Sgt. and Mrs. Earl J. Proctor of Laredo drowned Sunday in Falcon Lake.

Two persons were killed and five others injured in a two-car smashup near Big Spring Sunday. Earnest W. Heckler, 31, of Midland and Elmer E. Mashburn, 60, of Stanton were killed.

Second Lt. James K. Matheny, 23, was killed in the crash of his T38 jet training plane on takeoff from Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock.

A fire that destroyed a house in Tyler Saturday night killed Carmelita Bowen, 1 year old.

A semi-trailer truck plunged off an overpass of U.S. 75 25 miles north of Dallas Sunday. Lamar B. House, 34, of Alexandria, La. was killed. House was the alternate driver. The driver survived.

● Snow

Amarillo weather bureau forecasters said today the Pampa area will not be quite so cold Tuesday but the snow flurries will continue with considerable cloud cover. Pampa's low this morning was 15 degrees in the wake of a new Arctic air mass sweeping southeastward across the state.

Six inches of snow covered the ground in the Memphis area of the Texas Panhandle today and a resurgence of winter brought sleet and snow deep into North Texas.

The Texas Highway Department reported sleet or snow or icing, or all three, in its Amarillo, Childress, Lubbock and Wichita Falls districts.

The Weather Bureau reported sleet and snow northwest of Mineral Wells and east of Sherman moving northeastward.

A lightning and rain storm hit Memphis and Clarendon about midnight. The rain quickly turned to sleet and then to snow. Childress reported a 21-degree temperature and an inch of snow.

Snow also fell in Amarillo and Lubbock. Three to four inches of snow was expected in the Wichita Falls area. Behind the front, temperatures dropped as low as the 20s.

Ahead of it, temperatures were mild but the cold front moved fast, raising the threat of dangerous roads and streets over a wide area of the state.

● Britain

begin, for now at least, construction of a new one in Britain.

The intensive study of the past year has convinced the British that, for their purposes, carrier forces are more expensive than land-based planes like the F111. They would face replacing four carriers which will be obsolete in the 1970s, forcing a decision to emphasize nuclear-powered submarines in the Royal Navy.

There will be four A-sub, armed with 16 nuclear-tipped Polaris missiles each, as well as other sub types.

But how did the Labor party, once the arch-foe of nuclear weapons, come around to this present attitude?

Several factors were involved. For one, nuclear weapons, in Britain as in America, are looked upon as insurance against a major war breaking out. And nuclear disarmament by Britain would not inspire France or Red China to a similar action.

Another key argument is that nuclear weapons afford a basis for reducing other forces. The Labor government has contended that nuclear arms make a war in Europe almost out of the question. Consequently, Labor believes that conventional forces and large piles of supplies could be reduced there.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Smith, one sister, Miss Glenda Marie Smith, and one brother, David DeWayne Smith, all of the home; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Clay Smith of Pampa and Mr. and Mrs. David C. Nottingham of Tahlequah, Okla.

Purse Stolen

Linda Campbell, 1225 E. Kingsmill, told Pampa police Sunday her purse was stolen Saturday night from a parked car near the S & J Mart.

The purse was described as tan and white and contained an Air Force identification card and a pair of prescription glasses.

Resident Slightly Hurt

Ronald Dewayne Gee, 100 S. Briscoe Tackles Darrouzett Cage Five in Bi-District

Booker (Sp) — Briscoe and Darrouzett do battle, beginning at 7:30 p.m. today in a bi-district clash to see who will join some select company in regional basketball play at Canyon Friday and Saturday.

The two old foes have met three previously this season with the Broncos triumphing all three times.

But, until last Friday, the Longhorns had given Briscoe the fight of their lives in all three games.

The Broncos won, 72-60, 72-68 and 84-73 in overtime. Last Friday Briscoe downed Wheeler, 76-65 after being behind by 15 points in the third quarter.

Briscoe will have to be favored in this contest chiefly on their fine 32-0 record. The Longhorns are sailing along at 19-4 and quite a bit smaller than the Broncos.

Briscoe coach Don Johnson, as nervous a man as there ever was, will probably start 6'3" Arnold Atherton at center, 5'8" Tom Hays at guard along with 6'0" David Zybach at the other guard spot.

Forwards are possibly 6'1" Harvey Puryear and 6'3" Larry Meadows.

Darrouzett meantor Robert Taylor will go with 6'1" Jim Perkins at post, 5'9" Phil Appleton and 6'0" Ronnie Miller at forwards and 6'1" Jim Collinsworth and 6'0" Sam Bauer at guards.

Atherton and Hays pace the Broncos in scoring with 23.4 and 18.9 scoring averages respectively and Zybach is clipping along at 12.3 with Meadows at 8.7, Puryear at 15.7 and Vic Helton just under 10 points per game at 9.3.

The Broncos are averaging 68.7 points per contest while limiting foes to 58.9 per game.

Briscoe came close to losing the apple cart Friday night in the finals of the district tournament but hit over 85 per cent from the floor in the third period to take a 57-56 margin after trailing 35-27 at halftime.

Hays tallied 14 points in the final two periods for 20 for the game and Atherton was limited to 14, but 12 came in the last half. Zybach and Puryear scored 18 each.

The Briscoe girls will meet Darrouzett next Thursday night, either at Pampa or Booker.

TIME ON HIS HANDS

Paparella Will Miss Game of Baseball

PECKVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — There's a fellow in these parts who, for the first time in 23 years, doesn't quite know what to do with himself.

Ordinarily, he's packing his gear and getting ready to head South for spring training at this time.

But there will be no spring training for Joe Paparella this year nor in any of the years to come.

He officially retired as an American League umpire last fall after working more than 3,000 games in his career and doesn't have the slightest intention of ever putting on his mask or dark blue uniform again.

"I know I'll miss the game itself and some of the excitement," conceded the 56-year-old Paparella, relaxing in an easy chair at his home here.

"After all, I spent half my life on the ball field with my spikes on, so it's not that simple to just quit cold."

"Like I say, I'll miss the game and all the wonderful people in it, but I'm not going to miss the traveling."

Well Traveled

In his time, Paparella traveled more than a half million miles and he didn't always go first class, either.

He remembers, for example, when he was umpiring in the Eastern League in 1940 how he would go to spring training at his own expense primarily to soak up some experience.

"I'd get $15 or $20 for umpiring an exhibition game in those days and boy, did that money come in hand," Paparella recalled with a smile.

Naturally, he earned substantially more than that when he reached the big time in 1948 and although he never became what you would call independently wealthy from his American League pay, he's in good shape right now.

"The American League treated me wonderfully," says Paparella. "Particularly Joe Cronin and Will Harridge. And Cal Hubbard (the supervisor of A.L. umpires) helped me more than any man I know."

"I've said I'd never umpire again and I mean it sincerely."

But if I could ever help the American League in an emergency, I would. I mean in something like the college world series or the Army-Navy game. I'd be glad to do it for them. But otherwise, I've umpired my last game.

The only souvenirs Paparella kept were the first mask and indicator he ever used in professional baseball. That was back in 1938 in the Canadian-American League. The baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., has asked him for one of those mementos and Paparella will turn it over to the shrine.

All the memories, however, he'll keep himself.

Like the best ball player he ever umpired behind.

Williams Best

"Ted Williams, without a doubt," he said. "I never saw him question an umpire's decision in all the time I was in the American League."

Whitely Ford and Early Wynn were two of the best pitchers he ever worked behind and Bob Lemon the toughest.

"Ford sets a pattern at the start of a game and stays with it," Paparella explained, "and Wynn was a lot like Ford in that he didn't make too many mistakes. Lemon was a tough cookie, though. He had a natural sinker and threw everything downstairs. You had to be right on top of every one of his pitches."

The biggest kick for Paparella came any time a losing pitcher in a tough ball game would button-hole him in the runway and tell him he did a good job. Many of them did, although he laughingly recalled some of them telling him he had umpired "a lousy game," also.

The truth is Paparella was a darn good umpire and like the legendary Bill Klem, he feels he never called one wrong.

DISTRICT CHAMPS — Above are members of the Briscoe Broncos, district champs of 2-B. The Broncos meet another district champ, Darrouzett at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Booker for bi-district honors. Briscoe is unbeaten in 32 straight games.

Tech Close to SWC Lead

By United Press International
Texas A&M and Southern Methodist are running one - two just a game apart in the torrid Southwest Conference basketball race, but it just may be Texas Tech — the pre-season favorite — that will storm home in front at the wire.

The Aggies, who dropped two games in a row to blow a three-game lead, face a showdown with SMU on the Mustangs' own court Tuesday night while the Dub Malaise-led Tech Red Raiders get a break and face-in-and-out Baylor at Waco the same night.

SMU will be a slight favorite to edge the Aggies and if they do, and Tech comes through as expected against Baylor, then the Aggies and Mustangs will be tied for the lead with Tech in hot pursuit a game back.

And, with Malaise currently the hottest piece of merchandise in the conference with 133 points in his last three games Tech could go on to sweep its remaining games for a 10-4 final record. The Raiders host Arkansas Friday night at Lubbock, Rice goes to Lubbock March 1 and Tech winds up in Dallas against SMU March 3.

Meanwhile, the Aggies catch what could be a pair of breathers after the SMU game since they host Rice Friday night and Baylor March 1. But then comes the always - dangerous trip to Arkansas where only SMU has been able to win so far this campaign.

SMU faces the toughest assignment of the three contenders since they still have to play both the Aggies and Tech (although both must invade Dallas where only TCU has managed a victory) as well as meeting Texas next Saturday afternoon and TCU a week from tonight, both on the road.

The Aggies then could also wind up 10-4 and have to play Tech on a neutral court for the NCAA playoff berth, while SMU could fade to 9-5 or 8-6 without causing too much surprise.

But, should SMU whip both A&M and Tech then the Mustangs would need to win but one of the two road games to have a fair chance of sharing the title for the third time in five years.

Texas and Arkansas, by breaking even last week, again fell three games off the pace and virtually out of the running.

The Aggies fell 98-85 to Tech early last week as Malaise hit 40 points, but recuperated to stop Texas Christian 96-91 with league leader John Beasley also getting 40 points. Tech went on to stomp Texas 117-86 and Malaise contributed 50 points, a new high in conference play but still three points shy of the all-games record.

SMU pulled out a pair of close ones — 68-66 over Baylor and 67-66 over Arkansas to run its win streak to six. In other action, Texas beat TCU 85-77, Arkansas tripped Rice 73-67 and Rice exploded to an 89-70 victory over Baylor that ended a 28-game losing streak.

Despite Pitching LA Picked for No. 2 Spot

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
PITCHING—Not since the great Cleveland staffs of the early 1950s has there been anything to match Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen. Last year Koufax finished at 26-8, Drysdale 23-12 and Osteen 15-15, though his ERA was 2.79. Howie Reed (7-5), Johnny Podres (7-6) and Nick Willhite (2-2) will battle for the fourth starting role. Ron Perranoski is still the top emergency man in the bullpen along with Bob Miller. Not that the Dodgers need it badly, but extra help may come from Phil Regan, obtained in a trade with Detroit, or Joe Moeller and Bill Snyder, both up from Spokane. What more is there to say about Koufax and Drysdale? RATING—A.

INFIELD—As long as Maury Wills is running, the Dodgers seemingly have a tenth man in the batting order. The Dodger shortstop stole 94 bases last season and was the club's leading hitter (.286). The No. 2 hitter was Junior Gilliam. Or is it Senior by now? Junior wasn't even on the roster last year during training, but was a coach. He's starting the same way this year. And how long do you think it will be before he's in the lineup and hitting 280 like last year? At second base it's Jim Lefebvre, the National League's rookie of the year. He hit only .250 but was second to Ron Fairly in RBI with 63, many in game-winning situations. Steady Wes Parker is at first. RATING—B Plus.

OUTFIELD—Tommy Davis, out with a broken ankle last season, should be fine now. So the question is where does that leave Lou Johnson? Johnson filled in for Tommy in left field and did an excellent job. Willie Davis is in center. He never quite achieved super-star status. That was the prediction for him last spring training. He hit 238. Ron Fairly, the Dodgers' most consistent performer, is in right. RATING—B Plus.

CATCHER—John Roseboro has been around a long time and still manages to do the same good job each year. When he tires, young Jeff Torborg, an excellent prospect, replaces him. The third catcher may be Jim Campanis, son of the Dodger scout, Alex. RATING—B.

BENCH—John Kennedy is one of the best fielders in either league, but he just can't hit. A year ago, he played in 101 games and batted 105 times. He's primarily a defensive replacement at third. Bart Shirley is another spare infielder. The outfield subs will be Johnson and Al Ferrara. Johnson had many clutch hits last season. RATING—B.

SUMMARY — Last year's world champions may find that pitching and speed is not enough this season. They simply need more firepower. But everyone said the same last season. The Dodgers never listened. However, the league is stronger this year. Prediction—2nd.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Beauty and the Beast

Whenever the relative merits of a free market place versus those of a governmentally regulated economy come to mind or under discussion the story of the above title also comes to mind. And, indeed, the comparison is apropos.

"Beauty" in the story is, of course, the maid in her pristine perfection; undefiled, innocent, honest and trusting. The "Beast" in the story is depicted by the villain who by deceit, coercion and, finally, force, would deprive the maid of that which is hers by natural right and, in the process, destroy her perfection and bring her down to his own corrupted level.

In real life, "Beauty" is the market place in its perfect conception operating on mutual trust, voluntary exchange and self-regulation. Properly understood, the market place is perfection itself. Let dishonesty, coercion or force enter the picture and the resulting distortion does not depict the market place, but the degree of its corruption. In the normal course of its day-to-day dynamic operation, it tends to throw off these corrupting influences, thus re-creating itself and tending back toward its perfectly conceived purity of operation and balance.

The cheating store operator, offering shoddy goods, is discovered and shunned; the poor credit risk is likewise found out and further credit is denied; protective barriers go up against those who would resort to force. This is the free market place until the "Beast," with its legal monopoly of force, steps into the picture. The "Beast," the villain, is political government. . . and always has been. The market place cannot adjust, cannot renew itself, in the face of the government's overpowering intrusion. With its monopoly on the power to tax, to coerce, to subsidize, to bribe, to hand out juicy contracts, to bestow favors and benefits, to regulate by law and degree, the government degrades and dirties the most noble concept of the mind of man working-in-hand with Nature and Nature's God has ever conceived until, what was yesterday a thing of beauty and near perfection, is today in the process of becoming the acme of corruption. Political government and the market place are a contradiction of terms.

But more horrible still, the government in control of the economy becomes the arbiter of beauty itself. Beauty, in the regulated economy, is what politicians say it is. It cannot be otherwise.

Consider:

Of all the some three billion people inhabiting this earth, it is doubtful if even two individuals could be found who would agree on a definition of beauty in all the various and sundry things which go to make up and have effect upon their daily lives. Men's values differ but they all seek the good, the useful, the pleasing, the beautiful (in the broad sense of the term) in every choice they make. In the matter of dress, in food, housing, music, books for learning and for pleasure, in recreation, in transportation, in all the thousand and one things that go to make up the total of what man needs and wants, man's tastes differ and the market place, left free, takes note of his desires and struggles manfully to provide them in the shapes, colors, quality and variety in obedience to his demands.

But not so with political government at the helm. In the regulated economy, government decides what is good, what is useful and what should be beautiful and pleasing. Once embarked on control of the economy, government with its overlapping echelons, bureaus and agencies, is never satisfied with a little or partial control; its thrust is, and always has been, to control totally. For proof of this assertion, one has only to look to the 56 million laws, regulations and decrees that individual man, struggling to govern his own life and make his own way, has to contend with in the United States today.

So when the question arises as to the difference between a free market and a regulated economy, there should be no hesitation as to the correct answer. The difference is that between beauty, as seen through the eyes of the free individual, and the cold, gray, conforming, dictated ugliness of the bureaucratic mind.

When Jury Trial Is Not Impartial

Every man is entitled to an impartial trial and judgment by a jury of his peers. This is especially true if he is accused of a capital crime.

But what if the very existence of the death penalty, and the requirement that jurors theoretically approve of it, stacks the jury against the defendant?

In one of the first studies ever made of jurors in capital trials, a psychologist raises a fundamental question about the nature of justice in the majority of our states.

For his doctoral dissertation, Robert Crosson interviewed 72 residents of Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), Ohio, who had served on criminal court juries. Half these citizens had served in cases involving a possible death penalty; the others had been rejected from sitting on such cases because they opposed capital punishment.

Crosson describes the first group as "death qualified" and the second group as "death scrupled."

A Must for the Jet Set

There's good news for all jaded members of the Jet set tired of the old routine of flocking to St. Moritz in winter, Cannes in the spring, somewhere else in the summer and fall.

Antarctica is now the "in" spot to visit. According to 57 pioneers who took the first 16-day cruise to the frozen continent aboard the S.S. Lapataia from Argentina, "it was a fabulous experience."

For instance, all-night dancing

He found that the DQ jurors were significantly more conservative and less humane than the DS jurors, and that the DS jurors seemed to be better critical thinkers—better able to evaluate verbal arguments.

He concludes that the capital punishment qualification results in the exclusion of liberal jurors and the inclusion of authoritarian ones, and "instead of insuring impartiality, seems to undermine the defendant's right to a fair trial because of a personality selectivity which may predispose the jury to his disadvantage."

The psychologist suggests that the removal of the death qualification would be a step in the direction of fairer jury representation — "which might better serve justice instead of just the prosecutor."

To do this, of course, would be tantamount to abolishing the death penalty entirely, which is something many reformers have been urging all along.

There are two legends about the origin of doughnuts. One says they were invented by a Yankee sea captain who jammed a fried cake onto one of the steering wheel spoke handles of his ship. The other states that a Pilgrim housewife at Plymouth was kneading dough one day to make a pie crust and when she held it up an Indian shot an arrow through it. She dropped it in fright into the hot fat, and when the excitement subsided she discovered she had invented a new delicacy. At any rate, there's dough in doughnuts these days. Last year more than 18 billion were consumed during coffee breaks, which represented $300 million in sales.

There's an aerial traffic jam building up in the skies over this country and, although it doesn't yet rival the automobile congestion on the freeways, the day is not far distant when we may need aerial traffic cops. When you take the 2,100 big commercial airliners now flying 5 million hours a year and add to that the 90,000 private and corporate aircraft that log 15 million hours a year, you can see that something big is in the offing.

Thoughts while shaving: One of the nation's greatest tourist attractions is the Busch Gardens at Tampa, Florida, which attract upwards of 2 million visitors a year. This lavishly landscaped tropical paradise boasts a population of 1,400 rare and colorful birds, 150,000 trees and shrubs, and more than 100,000 flowers. In addition, there's a 230-acre wild animal compound which visitors can inspect from the overhead safety of a monorail. It's really something to see in the Sunshine State. . . The newest yearbook contains the startling information that a "pizza" means pie in Italian, so when you order a pizza pie you are really saying "pie pie." And Minestrone means a thick soup. It cost the average Michigan deer hunter $2 a pound for his venison last fall, which makes it somewhat higher than good steak. At any rate, that's the finding of some researchers at the Michigan Technological Institute. They also found hunters walked two miles a day, drove at least 12 miles and spent an average of $219 during the deer season for food, equipment and other expenses. And most of them didn't get a deer. . . A classified ad in the St. Louis (Mo.) GLOBE — DEMOCRAT sought a "Receptionist — Secretary. Nice front office job." ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The House Labor Committee's long-moribund investigation of the $1.5 billion anti-poverty program apparently is being reactivated — with Chicago the first target.

This is a sudden about-face for Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y.

Only a few weeks ago, just as abruptly, he called off the long-lagging probe and ordered the sizable staff of investigators to submit "final" reports. Powell launched the inquiry last fall with much fanfare after inducing the House to vote $230,000 for it.

Now he is telling his committee he has ordered six staff investigators to dig into Chicago's $21 million anti-poverty program — in which Mayor Richard Daley has a big and controversial voice.

It is also being hinted other cities may be scrutinized. But there is no indication which ones and when.

According to Powell, at least two weeks will be spent on the Chicago probe, with the second week devoted to public hearings. Three New York committee members were designated to conduct the inquiry — Representatives Hugh Carey, D. James Scheuer, D. and Ogden Reid, R.

member of the latter committee get a copy of these monthly reports.

But Representative Goodell, a member of both the Administration and Labor Committees, has seen none. And neither has anyone else. Powell has yet to file a single report.

When Powell launched this investigation last fall, he set up a subcommittee to conduct it. Representative Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., a junior member of the Labor Committee, was hand-picked as chairman. He claimed public hearings would get underway when Congress reconvened early in January.

But nothing happened — except Powell's sudden announcement that the inquiry was being dropped. This was as much news to Gibbons as to everyone else.

Now, again ignoring Gibbons, Powell has revived the probe and named another subcommittee to make it. It remains to be seen how far it gets — other than perhaps providing Powell the basis for trying to wangle more money.

WHAT ARE THEY DOING— If you've been wondering what U. S. allies are contributing to the grim and costly struggle against Communist aggression in Viet Nam, an official record is now available.

It was obtained by Representative H. R. Gross, member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, from the State Department after much prodding.

It's a jarring record. With the exception of South Korea, Australia and New Zealand, which are providing combat forces, none of the other 32 countries listed by the State Department as "aiding" in this fateful conflict is doing very much.

In most instances, their so-called contributions are little more than token hand-outs. Virtually all of these countries are heavy beneficiaries of U.S. aid programs. Many of them got billions in such aid, and are still getting it. Following is this illuminating record as submitted by the State Department at Representative Gross' insistent demand:

LAOS — "One million kip ($4,167) for flood relief as of February 1965."

NATIONALIST CHINA — "An 80-odd-man agricultural team; 19-man military psychological warfare team; 8-man electrical power mission; 10-man surgical team; 28 aluminum prefabricated warehouses, agricultural tools, seeds and fertilizers; 500,000 copies of mathematics textbooks and electrical power substations."

PHILIPPINES — "Eighty personnel, consisting of military and civilian medical teams and a military psychological warfare detachment."

THAILAND — "Seventeen-man military air detachment with seven C-47 pilots, one navigator, nine maintenance men. Also provided jet training for Vietnamese pilots in Thailand."

GREECE — "Has contributed medical supplies. (No indication what kind or how much)."

TURKEY — "Provided medicine and also offered to provide a substantial amount of cement."

IRAN — "Has contributed 1,000 tons of petroleum products, and dispatched a medical team consisting of 22 personnel."

INDIA — "Cloth for flood relief and has under study the construction of a factory for the preparation of tea and manufacture of sugar. Also considering providing equipment for a blood transfusion center."

(The U.S. is rushing millions of tons of surplus grain and other food to India to avert famine. In the past ten years, the U.S. has supplied India with more than $1 billion of such commodities, plus hundreds of millions in other economic and military aid.)

PAKISTAN — "Contributed financial relief for flood victims, and has donated clothing."

AUSTRIA — "Has agreed to supply medical supplies, blankets, tents, etc., through its Red Cross."

BELGIUM — "Has provided medicines."

CANADA — "Has sent a professor of orthopedics to the Saigon University; also has provided 200 schoolships both academic and technical; $150,000 worth of flour; a new science building for the medical faculty at the University of Hue; and agreed to construct an auditorium for the faculty of science at the Hue University."

(Canada sold some $400 million of grain to Red China last year, and an equal amount in previous years.)

DENMARK — "Medical supplies and has offered to train Vietnamese nurses in Denmark."

WEST GERMANY — "A director and five instructors in the German-taught vocational section at Cao Thang Technical High School in Saigon; three physicians, a professor of music and a professor of German language at the Hue University; a forestry expert for the Department of Rural Affairs in Saigon; 30 ambulances for the Ministry of Health; and has agreed to provide a 3,000-ton hospital ship for duty in Viet Nam."

IRELAND — "Contributed 1,000 Irish pounds through the Red Cross."

ITALY — "Nine-member surgical team and a number of science scholarships for the next several years."

Muddled Processes Of Our 'Democracy'

By AL BELLERUE (No. 4 of Series)

The history of the Desert Electric Cooperative in Twentynine Palms, Calif., provides an interesting study of our muddled "democratic" processes. Rural Electrification Administration Co-ops are supposedly owned and controlled by their membership who elect a board of directors to manage the affairs of the co-op. The board then appoints a manager to whom they delegate the administrative duties. The employees are responsible to the manager, the manager is responsible to the board and the board is responsible to the membership. Several years ago in the DEC, a membership study group found that these processes were somewhat reversed. The manager had full power over the board members who were little more than "rubber stamps" and the board had developed a mistaken idea that the membership was responsible to them. In a proposed by-law change, they planned to set themselves up as judge and jury, to bring charges against any DEC member who had said or done anything, "not in the best interest of the cooperative." The penalty the member would pay, if judged guilty by the board, would be loss of membership in the co-op.

The membership group mailed each member a copy of their findings and at the next membership meeting of the co-op, the by-law change was defeated and a recall was started against the incumbent directors. This culminated in election of a new board, whose platform was "the best interests of the members." The philosophy behind "best interest of the members" can best be expressed as primary understanding and respect for the individual rights of man; only each person can judge for himself what is in his best interest. On the other hand, the best example that can be given for the philosophy underlying "best interests of the co-op" is that attitude practiced in a beehive or by an ant colony which may be fine for ants or bees but can only lead to degradation for human beings.

At the last two elections, directors were elected whose platform was that the interests of the members could best be served if the co-op was sold to an investor-owned utility. 2000 of the 2500 members gave their approval to this action through the use of consent form. The principle involved was that "just powers were derived from the consent of the governed." The sale price of the DEC had first been approved by the members and then approved by the board. A contract of sale was signed with Southern California Edison Co. which provided an average of 50 per cent lower rates for the entire membership, assumption of the quarter-million dollar deficit, and repayment of the $2 1/2 million REA taxpayer subsidized loan.

But, a minority opposition group had come into existence, through the encouragement of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, an organized union of REA co-ops supported by taxpayers' monies. The REA had also placed a resident-representative in Twentynine Palms who met with local groups, encouraging opposition to the proposed sale. A law suit was filed by one member of DEC charging the directors with fraudulently obtaining consents and requesting that the sale be set aside by the court. After five weeks of trial and several months of silence, the judge finally issued a "minute order" stating that he planned to make a decision denying the charges of fraud if the Edison Co. would pay an additional sum in the amount of $325,000 for the DEC. If Edison did not comply, he would set aside the sale and grant the plaintiff's prayer.

Attorneys for Edison and DEC felt confident that an appeal court would reverse this proposed decision. They advised the judgment should be based upon whether plaintiff had proven fraudulent action. Either the defendants were guilty or not-guilty and no sum of money could change this fact. However, appeal could take all of another year and the DEC membership was now paying monthly rates totaling more than $12,000 in excess of rates offered by Edison. In addition, the DEC quarter-million-dollar deficit was now rising at the rate of $5,000 each month. What would the defendants do?

The answer was reached when the REA took action to halt distribution of further loan funds to DEC. Without these funds, the co-op would within 90 days be defunct. This REA action, coupled with that of the judge, forced the Edison Co. into settlement.

On Dec. 3, 1965, the judge approved settlement of the action filed against DEC under terms of a settlement agreement, approved by all parties to the suit.

SELF-RELIANCE

Self-reliance is not selfishness, although some people would have us think so.

The self-reliant person does, of course, undertake to take care of himself, his own welfare, and his own future. But it is a great error to think of self-reliance as affecting only the self—the individual who can and does look out for his own needs.

Self-reliance is, in fact, the foundation for a healthy society because it means that individuals will be able in times of crisis to make decisions without waiting for higher authority. They can act on their own.

This fundamental kind of self-reliance has been the foundation for all the American victories in the wars we have fought. Sheer selfishness would impel a soldier in battle to run away. True self-reliance not only keeps him in the front lines but also makes it possible for him to work effectively with his fellow soldiers to maintain themselves and strive for victory.

Without self-reliance there can be no meaningful personal responsibility. Without the habit of taking such responsibility as a matter of course, especially in an emergency, most people will refuse, as they say, to "get involved."

Men cannot and will not help others of their own volition unless they are first taught to help themselves. If they are taught always to depend on the initiative of someone else, they become helpless spectators in a real emergency. No man can live a full and useful life without "getting involved." The self-reliant man is always involved.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

Also wake-up pills, pep-up pills, feel-better-fast pills, tranquilizing pills and assorted other capsules whipped up by your friendly neighborhood apothecary.

"How come you switched from poodles to pills?" I asked Miss Susann, who also is a television actress when she is not out walking the dog.

Miss Susann said that practically everybody in show business gulps pills, sometimes taking so many they fade right out of the picture.

"Pills are the addiction of the over privileged," she said. "People who appear to have everything—money, beauty, success—live on pills or in some cases, die of an overdose. But people otherwise less fortunate get along very well without them."

"In the book, I try to explain this paradox. Although I use a fiction format, everything I write about is something I have seen."

If Miss Susann was able to explain why some people like poodles, she probably found it easy to explain why a lot of people take pills.

However, here are three types of pills that Miss Susann failed to mention:

The vice presidential pill, take one and it makes you disappear for four years.

The Harold Stassen pill, take one and it makes you run forever.

She took the perfect title for a book on the amorous adventures of Napoleon Bonaparte and applied it to a full-length biography of her poodle.

Now, two years later, Miss Susann has again hove into view with another deceptive title. She calls her new book "Valley of the Dolls."

Sounds like a trip to toyland.

Well, it's a bedtime story, that's for sure, but not the kind you take into the nursery. The "Dolls" in this book are sleeping pills.

Foreign Commentary

The Foreign News Outlook
Red Chinese in Laos:
Reports received in Hong Kong indicate more Communist Chinese military personnel have been moved into parts of northern Laos, mainly in Nua Province. Some highway construction units and accompanying security forces have been in northern Laos (Phongsaly Province) for the past few years, as well as advisor-type personnel, mostly for anti-aircraft operations. Little information is available on the apparent increase, but reports indicate the number is limited and probably does not include combat units.

Wilson visit to USSR:
Soviet sources are openly doubtful about the possible usefulness of British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's visit to Moscow this week. They refer to his latest utterance on Viet Nam which according to one qualified source "was a restatement of the American position down to the last comma." There is no agenda for the prime minister's talks with Soviet leaders and the press has shown little enthusiasm for the event. Wilson will get the cold shoulder if he asks for a new Soviet initiative on Viet Nam. The Kremlin's position remains adamant—full support of Ho Chi Minh's demands that Americans cease bombing North Viet Nam and withdraw from South Viet Nam.

British election:
Regardless of how Wilson makes out in Moscow, British bookmakers are giving two-to-one odds that Wilson soon will call for a British general election, with March 31 the favored date. The feeling is the Labor Party is riding the crest of a wave of public popularity just now, and polls show them with a 13 per cent ledge over the Conservatives. So this would be the time to strike. Wilson only has a majority of three in Parliament at the moment and the guessing is he could get perhaps 100 or more in a new election.

Trouble in Burma:
Kangoon sources say new trouble is brewing between the Burmese government and the Communists and tribal rebels, after a year and a half of relative peace. Part of it may stem from the inefficiency of the socialist-minded "revolutionary" government's attempts to reorganize agriculture and the food distribution industries. A new outbreak of violence has left dozens of dead on both the government and rebel sides in a three-month rebel offensive that began after the monsoons. If the economy isn't patched up soon, real trouble may be in the wind for Gen. Ne Win and his council of leftist colonels.

Outer space:
France plans to put another satellite into orbit before the end of the year and possibly one or two more in 1967. After that she will hand the whole Hamaguir launching base in the Sahara over to the Algerians.
