Three Pampanans Die From Asphyxiation

Nation Prepares For Resumption Of Viet Air War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today was laying the basis for renewed bombing of North Viet Nam should President Johnson decide this must be done to bring Hanoi to the conference table.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to provide confidential details to back up the gloomy assessment of the peace offensive given over the weekend.

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was preparing for his third day of testimony before the Senate Armed Services Committee to explain the nation's need for more men and guns in Southeast Asia.

With the bombing lull entering its second month and no sign of a peace feeler from Hanoi, some observers here felt that a resumption of air attacks on the North was imminent.

Others, however, had gained the impression that the first U.S. step in any new "hard steps" might be a major intensification of military action in the South.

The administration kept its own counsel on any next steps and declined to reveal what intermediate steps might be taken before full scale resumption of air attacks was undertaken.

It was believed that the bombing might be suspended a week or two after any intensification of U.S. action in Viet Nam to satisfy those at home and abroad who contend the Communists may need a bit more time.

Budget Beefs Up US Military Superiority

By United Press International
President Johnson today sent Congress a $58.3 billion defense budget to cover rising Viet Nam war costs and make sure this country has "superiority over the forces of any potential aggressor."

He also officially unveiled two important new programs: a second nuclear-powered aircraft carrier and initial purchases of an intercontinental missile with a "greatly improved warhead."

Johnson's total military spending estimates for the new 1967 fiscal year which starts July 1 were $41 billion above this year. The jump would have been even greater except for certain defense economies which partially offset an increase in special Viet Nam war spending from $4.6 billion to $10.3 billion.

The new intercontinental missile — Minuteman III — will have the same propulsion system as the present Minuteman II, combined with a greatly improved and more effective re-entry vehicle warhead.

They refused to elaborate. But it was known studies have been made of warheads that would be capable of evasive action, could release clusters of explosives or decoys to frustrate interceptor missiles or

CIVIL SABOTAGE

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Policemen Pete Downing and Larry Enger told fellow officers Sunday that they lost their patrol car while telling a group of partying teen-agers to make less noise.

Police suspect that one or more of the teen-agers slipped out of the house when the officers went in and drove off in the parked squad car. The vehicle eventually was found parked on a lonely road several miles from the city.

Youth, Grandparents Found Dead Sunday In Oklahoma Home

CRAWFORD, Okla. (Spl) — A 9-year-old Pampan, his grandparents and a great uncle, were found dead of asphyxiation Sunday in a farm home one-half mile south of here.

Dead were Gregory Kim White, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack White, 120 W. 24th, Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Edgington, the grandparents, who lived at 1011½ Christine, Pampa; and Lloyd Korabaugh, brother-in-law of Mr. Edgington who lived on a farm near the one where the four died.

Edgington was a welder who worked under contract at the Celanese Corp. in Pampa. The Edgingtons commuted weekends to their farm home here.

Jack White, the boy's father and Edgington's son-in-law, is an eng. near at Celanese Corp.

According to Roger Mills County Sheriff Leon Gilliland, the deaths probably occurred Friday night when snowdrifts covered an improvised tunnel which was located only about six inches above ground.

The bodies were found Sunday afternoon by a neighbor, Leon Malson, who was contacted by a relative of Edgington's after the relative was unable to get an answer to a phone call to the house.

Malson said that the house was terribly hot when he entered. The two-story building was still filled with carbon monoxide fumes.

The bodies of the boy and his grandmother were found in downstairs bedrooms. The two men were found dead in upstairs bedrooms.

The sheriff said a medical examiner ruled the deaths were due to asphyxiation. The examiner also set the time of death as shortly after Mrs. Edgington made a telephone call Friday evening before retiring.

It is believed that Korabaugh, who owned a farm nearby, was staying with the Edgingtons for the weekend while his wife, a nurse was working at the Newman Clinic in Shattuck, Okla.

Funeral services for young White and Mr. and Mrs. Edgington will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Crawford, Okla. School Auditorium with Rev. E. Douglas Carver of Pampa officiating, assisted by Rev. Lloyd Martin, pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church of Crawford. Burial will be in Crawford Cemetery.

Gregory Kim White was born June 15, 1957, in Shattuck, Okla. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and of Pack 4 Cub Scout Den 2.

Other than the parents, survivors include a sister, Betty Katherine White, and a brother, Paul Mark White, both of the home.

Ray William Edgington was contacted by a relative of Edgington's after the relative was unable to get an answer to a phone call to the house.

Cable Television For City Hits FCC Snag

By TEX DEWEENE
Pampa's cable television project hit a temporary snag today that could throw a monkey wrench into installation plans and even delay construction of the local system indefinitely.

Calvin Frazer and Dale Greenhouse, holders of the Pampa CATV franchise, met with City Manager Jim White this forenoon and advised him of their problems.

Pampa Selected Site of Jaycee Area Convention

Pampa was chosen as the site of the Area 1 Junior Chamber of Commerce summer convention June 10-12 at the winter convention which closed Sunday in Lubbock.

The summer convention will coincide with the State Teenage Road-ee Competition, a Jaycee sponsored event also scheduled in Pampa in June.

The combined events are expected to bring 500 or more persons to Pampa. The convention is to be held at the Coronado Inn and the Teenage Road-ee at the Pampa High School parking area.

Jake Webb is chairman of the Jaycee committee working on the area convention and Larry Wingert heads the Road-ee committee.

Delegates from the Pampa Jaycees plan to attend the area conventions of the state's other five Jaycee areas to encourage delegates to attend the June meeting in Pampa.

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, expressed the Chamber's gratitude at the Area 1 winter convention's choice of Pampa for the June meeting. The senior chamber has recently launched a campaign to attract conventions to Pampa during the next year.

Also at the winter Jaycee convention, Don Litchfield of Canadian, Dr. George Gleason of Muleshoe, Ken Foreman of Plainview, Bob Honts of Lubbock and Dr. Eugene Waide of Perryton were chosen as new state directors by the 437 delegates.

Monroe (Doc) Bates of Skellytown received the state award for being the outstanding physical fitness leader in Texas. He was nominated for the award by the Pampa Jaycees.

PAMPA AND VICINITY — Considerable cloudiness tonight becoming partly cloudy Tuesday. Light snow flurries today and tonight. Low tonight, mid-teens; high Tuesday low 20s. Northerly winds 10 m.p.h. Possibility of measurable precipitation today less than 10 per cent. Outlook for Wednesday: Partly cloudy and a little warmer.

Snow Flurries Forecast For Pampa Area

It may "warm up" to the freezing point Tuesday after another night of mid-teens temperatures, the weatherman said this morning.

He looked for light snow to continue into this evening, but said that the chance of measurable precipitation was less than 10 per cent.

After an overnight low of 16 degrees in Pampa, the mercury rose just above the 20 mark at noon.

There is a chance of a light thaw on Wednesday, the weatherman said, as a slight warming trend sets in.

Snow and sleet peppered the piney woods of East Texas today and light snow sifted down on the Texas Panhandle atop last week's "million dollar" crop-windfall.

The frozen precipitation began pelted Henderson in East Texas at 8 a.m. The temperature was 33 degrees. Most of it melted not long after it hit the ground.

Four inches of snow still covered the ground at Amarillo and Wichita Falls. Lubbock had two inches and Dalhart one inch. The mercury dipped to 7 degrees at Dalhart early today and Amarillo reported 17 degrees.

Fog blanketed much of the snow-bedecked Panhandle. Readings ranged from 15-20 degrees warmer over the state today than Sunday morning. Brownsville in the lower Rio Grande Valley reported a maximum of 49 degrees.

Light rain and drizzle spread over much of south central and southeast Texas. It was expected to push northward today.

Mother's March Tonight Postponed

The annual Mothers' March for the March of Dimes, which was scheduled between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. today, has been postponed until next Monday.

The announcement was made by Mrs. R. A. Mack, chairman for the event, who said that the heavy snow covering would make it difficult for the mothers to make their door-to-door solicitations.

Some 600 mothers participate in the March each year in the fight against birth defects.

Krebiozen Drug Case Due To Go Before Jury Tomorrow

CHICAGO (UPI) — The nine-month trial of four men charged with fraud and conspiracy in connection with the "cancer drug" Krebiozen finally is expected to reach the jury Tuesday or Wednesday.

Chief Prosecutor D. Arthur Connelly should finish today the government's closing arguments against Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, former vice president of the University of Illinois and chief medical endorser of Krebiozen, and his three associates.

A bank of defense attorneys took most of the week's session in U.S. District Court to present their closing arguments. The trial has climaxed a stormy history of Krebiozen, Chicago.

Airliner Crashes With 118 Aboard

BERN, Switzerland (UPI) — An Air India Boeing 707 jetliner carrying 118 persons was feared to have crashed today on Mont Blanc, Europe's highest mountain. Wreckage was believed sighted on the north face of the peak.

The Swiss Federal Air Office said orange and metal-colored objects were sighted by a pilot surveying the region in a two-engine plane.

The pilot said the 15,781-foot mountain was shrouded in clouds.

The air office said the plane, on a flight from Beirut to Geneva, disappeared from two radar screens at Geneva Airport early this morning as it was circling Mont Blanc for a landing.

It was two miles southeast of the peak's summit when it disappeared, the air office said.

"It is feared the plane is down," a spokesman said.

A massive search and rescue operation was launched from France and Italy, the two countries bordering on Mont Blanc.

Dear Abby... Some Need To Tell Of Gifts, Others Don't

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas I received a Christmas card from a friend. On it was printed the following:

"This Christmas wish represents a gift to the Presbyterian Intercommunity Hospital in Whittier, California."

It gave me the feeling that they sent me a greeting so they could claim me as a tax deduction. I, too, make donations to worthy causes, but I also send Christmas gifts. And I certainly don't use my Christmas cards to tell my friends about the charities I support. I think this is in the worst possible taste. Please comment.

FROM WHITTIER
DEAR FROM: I think one of the more civilized practices of recent years is donating to charity instead of giving extravagant gifts to people who already have more than they need. Knowing that some less fortunate person in a war-torn country had received a CARE package in my name, for example, would be gift enough for me.

DEAR ABBY: A man who works with my husband comes to our home occasionally. He has never brought his wife, and the first few times he spoke of her, he referred to her as "My Old Lady." At first I thought he meant his elderly mother, so I asked him if he meant his mother, and he said, "No, My Old Lady is the woman I'm married to!"

Abby, don't you think this is terribly disrespectful? These people are not old. They are in their middle forties. Wouldn't you think a wife who reared nine children for a man deserves to be referred to as his "wife"?

OFFENDED
DEAR OFFENDED: I would-but some husbands get brave when they're away from home. I'll bet he doesn't call her "The Old Lady" to her face. And you don't know what she calls him behind his back, either.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my best girl friend broke up with Ron, the kid she had been going steady with for three months. She gave him his pin back and now she's wearing another boy's. Another girl told me that Ron likes me, and I felt real good about it because I like Ron, too. My best girl friend and I were talking, and she said she heard something about Ron liking me, and then she said, "But hands off until I am sure I don't want him any more."

I didn't say anything but, Abby, do you think she is being fair? She gave Ron his pin back and took somebody else's. Shouldn't I have the right to like Ron and try to make him like me?

FAIR LADY
DEAR FAIR: You don't need your girl friend's permission to "like" Ron. As I see it, it's open season, so happy hunting. But if you bag him, be prepared to lose a girl friend. That's usually the way those things work out.

DEAR ABBY: We professional photographers thank you for publishing the sad tale of a bride who did not have one picture of her wedding because she

A Telephone Hint for Out-of-Town Numbers

Did you know that you can dial "Information" in most cities, free of charge? Simply dial "1," the DDD access code, followed by the Area Code for the city you're calling and "555-1212." And here's another telephone hint. Have a pencil handy and add the number to your personal telephone number booklet. Next time you want the number, it's in your fingertips.

Menage a Trois in Sartorial Manner

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise
Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Six-foot-four Alexander Shields calls himself a "civilian engineer." He has a degree in civil engineering, but has turned his talents instead to the building of clothes that make every man look tall, easy and well-fitted when he wears them.

He designs just about everything a man wears except socks. He has shops in department stores across the country as well as his own shop on New York's Park Avenue. And they are not like any other men's shops — all the fitters and sales staff are personable, gracious women.

"Fashion should be a feast for two," Shields said. "A wife thinks her husband is a clod if he isn't impressed by such names as Norell and Dior. Yet she doesn't bother to learn whether trouser cuffs are in or out."

"I have found that men react so favorably to a woman's interest in what they wear that I only employ women to sell and to measure my customers."

How do the men feel about a lady fitter?

"Well," said pretty Barbara Gersin of the Park Avenue shop. "When they ask, 'Where is your tailor?' and I tell them 'That's me,' they sometimes look alarmed. But they get over it."

There is no fitting room at Alexander Shields. Clothes are measured and pinned at the far end of the inner salon.

The wives' reaction to a feminine staff is surprising. According to Shields they are so glad to find other women who are well-schooled in men's fashions with whom they can confer about their husbands' clothes that the shop becomes a sartorial menage a trois. He claims that over 50 per cent of his customers were actually sent in by their wives.

His customer list reads like "Who's Who." Here are just a few names: Peter Ustinov, James Mason, Douglas Fairbanks, William Levitt of Levittown fame and Prince Rainier (who was brought in by Princess Grace).

The Alexander Shields look is not way out or kooky. But it is definitely for men who prefer distinctive fashion to just another good blue suit. He uses color fearlessly, but to please, not shock.

"Wives who are interested in their husbands' good looks want them to buy my things," he said. "The one who doesn't care if her man's ego is as hungry as her own won't like what I have to sell."

Cranberry juice makes a flavorful way to color frostings pink.

Pre-suds heavily soiled areas of garments such as collars, cuffs and apron fronts before laundering. A good rubbing with thick suds will loosen deep soil, preparing it for the laundering process.

CLASSIC — Alexander Shields wears his classic suit coat that makes all men appear taller. Shields' designs are for men who prefer distinctive fashion but are not way out or kooky.

Double-Breasted Coming Back Quick

Double-breasted suits are making a double-quick return to fashion.

According to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear the double-breasted model has never been away from the popular style scene for so long a time. You will note that the AIMBW says "popular style suits always return to the fashion scene." As a matter of fact, leaders of industry and government have never relinquished their favored double-breasted.

The country's finest tailors have been cutting them for those rugged individualists, making subtle changes in silhouette and detailing over the years to keep them in step with the prevailing look.

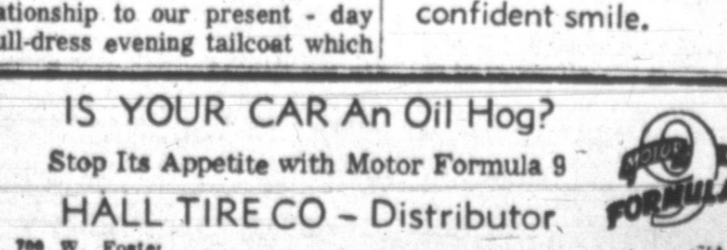

After the long hiatus, American men are now at the threshold of a new major, double-breasted fashion revival. Among the top fashion items in all categories, double-breasted models are strongly represented. In rainwear there are trench coats in both military and modified versions; in topcoats and overcoats there are the popular Short Warm double-breasted blazers are very popular and are still on the upswing.

Casual outerwear garments stress double-breasted models in everything from corduroys to shearlings. Even in sweaters, there is a lively revival of double-breasted styles in both cardigans and vest-tyes.

The exact origins of the double-breasted model are lost in the fog of antiquity but fashion researchers can trace it back to the mid-17th century when it was equally popular as a civilian and military garment.

Frequently worn open to display elegant waistcoats, it eventually gave way to a frock-coat-like garment that, while retaining the double row of buttons, was actually single-breasted. The wide reverse (lapels) were often buttoned back.

During the late 18th century the double-breasted frock coat evolved into the "claw hammer" model with a distinct relationship to our present-day full-dress evening tailcoat which

Scouting Scoop

By MRS. G. J. BOYD

It seems the weather in the Panhandle has canceled many plans made by Girl Scout troops. Among these were the "Court of Awards" ceremony and slumber party planned by Junior Troop 1. The girls had planned the menus and purchasing supplies for this event. A reminder from their leader that buns and pickles were necessary items for preparing hamburgers... otherwise all well. Until it had to be postponed because of the weather. Brrrr... or imagine the girls thought grrrr.

Also postponed were the plans of Troop 219 and Troop 92. An outing at Camp Mel Davis had been scheduled and the girls must have been disappointed for this is a favorite with all the troops.

All leaders wishing to enroll in the first aid course should contact Mrs. Jim Terrell, district field advisor, at the Girl Scout office. More information concerning time and place may be obtained from her. It is necessary for her to know in advance the number planning to take this course. It is required that one adult accompanying troops on outings have this training. So it is important that either leader or assistant have completed this course and although the six inches of snow may postpone outing now... Spring is just around the corner. Don't disappoint your troop by not being able to fulfill this requirement.

Bill Alling, regional finance consultant from Dallas, met last week with sustaining membership chairman, John McCausland, and other members of this committee. Kay Fancher reported results of completed plans. A suggestion was made to form teams to compete for a plaque to be presented to the winning team for outstanding performance. Kay Fancher, Jack Miller, George Scott and Jack Skelly are heading teams selected.

Mrs. John Sweeney, Mrs. Myron Dorman Jr. and Mrs. Thelma Bray served as judges for a program on "Making and Judging Arrangements," presented at Tuesday mornings meeting of Pampa Garden Club.

Mrs. Bob Miller, assisted by Mrs. Floyd Watson, was hostess for the group in her home at 2223 Aspen.

Arrangements were made for the program by Mrs. Bob Miller, Mrs. Floyd Watson and Mrs. Carlos Grissom.

Mrs. Ira Carlton opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Miller gave the "Garden Tips for January."

At the business session, conducted by the president, Mrs. Carlton, the secretary and treasurer's reports were given and announcement was made of the flower show school to be conducted in Amarillo in April.

The club's Annual Guest Day Tea will comprise its next meeting at 2 p.m., Feb. 7, in Lovett Memorial Library.

to work with membership contacts. Other committee members present were Joe Dickey, Jerry Sims, Jerry Perry and Mrs. N. G. Kadingo.

"Kick-off" for this committee has tentatively been set for Feb. 1. A captains meeting of orientation will be held on Monday of next week to distribute literature, fact sheets, etc.

The professional staff from Girl Scout offices throughout this region of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico will meet in Arlington on Feb. 6, 7 and 8. This is an annual training session for all professional workers in Girl Scouting.

Troop 14 has been practicing the presentation of colors ceremony for the banquet to be held tomorrow night.

A finance meeting has been at the Berger Girl Scout Little House.

Several troop meetings were canceled last week because of weather conditions. Such a welcome relief to have winter provide us with "winter weather" that it was almost worth it.

And such pretty snow gave the girls the opportunity to make snow ice cream and to build snow men. Last year Troop 69 cut out snow flakes from white paper... I still have the reading of "Snow" explaining the "why, where and when" of snow and would be happy to share it with other leaders. The girls enjoyed their own "individual" snowflakes and troop dues were saved for another project since there isn't much expense for this activity. It also ties in with weather conditions making it impossible for the girls to be outside.

Mrs. Simon Is P-TA Speaker

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Skellytown P-TA met Tuesday evening in the school cafeteria with the president, Mrs. Leroy Snodgrass, in charge, who also led the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

During the meeting congratulations were made both to John Banks and Weldon "Doc" Bates. Banks has accepted the position of principal, replacing E. A. McCreary who moved to Tulsa. Bates has been awarded the "Outstanding Physical Fitness Award in the State of Texas."

Mrs. Margaret Simmons of White Deer, guest speaker, spoke on "Civic Responsibility to the Community."

Approximately 25 adults attended the program. The children enjoyed the films shown by Forest Lilley.

Mossler Trial Bogs Down With Selection of Jury

MIAMI (UPI) — The trial of Candace Mossler and her nephew Melvin Lane Powers, charged with murdering the former model's millionaire husband, entered its second week today bogged down in the selection of a jury.

At the end of the first week, the state had accepted 12 jurors but they were still subject to defense challenges.

The state says its evidence will show that Jacques, 69, was killed because he interfered with an incestuous love affair between his wife, 45, and her 29-year-old nephew.

In questioning the jurors last week, Powers' attorney, Percy Foreman of Houston, made a point of letting each one know he would hear accusations of "incest, adultery and fornication," but that the only charge the jurors had to decide was first degree murder.

When the Dade County Circuit Court trial resumes today Mrs. Mossler's lawyer, Clyde Woody, also of Houston, takes up where he left off Friday questioning the 12 jurors remaining in the panel. They were all that were left from 60 interrogated during the first week of the trial.

Pampans Reminded Of Ordinance On Appliance Disposal

Pampa police Monday reminded residents of the state law and city ordinance concerning disposal of refrigerators and like appliances.

The state law and the ordinance require that either the door latch or the door itself be removed to prevent children from locking themselves inside.

Police issued the warning after two different Pampa firms were found this weekend to have stored old appliances on outside lots without complying with the law.

Arson Suspected In Amarillo Fire

AMARILLO (UPI) — Fire that police said "possibly could have been" arson wiped out a quarter of a city block of businesses today in downtown Amarillo.

The fire broke out in the back of the Yucca Bar and employees of the Post Office adjacent to the rear of the bar said they saw a man fleeing a few minutes before the fire was spotted.

"The possibility of arson is being investigated," said Fire Chief Henry Schwan.

The fire destroyed the bar, the Airmen's Auto Rental, the Liberty Jewelry and Loan Co. and the Jet Arcade.

Ten automobiles and a cabin cruiser stored on the second floor of the auto rental agency were moved out.

The roof fell in on all four businesses.

Congressman Rogers said that following this meeting the FCC will come back to the Sub-Committee on Communications and Power, of which Rogers is chairman, for further discussion.

"This meeting of the sub-committee and the FCC will determine," Rogers said, "whether Congress should intervene in what has been charged as a usurpation of power by the FCC."

Rogers said, "We are going to take a good look at the FCC's proposed regulations and if there are indications that the FCC is encroaching on rights of the people, Congress will intervene and order hearings."

Rogers stated that at present FCC jurisdiction covers only broadcasting and not reception.

"It is a very complex situation," Rogers said, "and it involves wired, off-the-air and micro-wave transmission and reception."

Fraser and Greenhouse, the local cable TV franchise holders, were urging Pampans interested in receiving cable TV to wire or write Congressman Rogers and Chairman Miller of the Federal Commission so that letters and telegrams can be available for the FCC's Feb. 10 meeting.

The local cable television officials charge that if the present reported rules planned by the FCC go into effect, it may even be impossible to install the local system.

Greenhouse said it was understood no new systems will be permitted "where the FCC guesses that CATV might injure a UHF channel that might some day go on the air."

They charge that proposed FCC rules would deny viewers in TV areas the right to watch distant TV channels. They would also prohibit viewing of certain TROUBLED TIMES—Wilt Chamberlain (left) and an enraged Richie Guerin are pictures of troubled moments in the National Basketball Association. For the high-salaried Chamberlain, maybe income tax time has him down. St. Louis player-coach Guerin clearly didn't like the call and tells referee Joe Gushue so.

Sandy Wins Hickok Belt

By MILTON RICHMAN
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — They gave Sandy Koufax a belt for winning and while they were at it, they also should have given him a medal for trying.

The massive, diamond-studded belt which the Hickok people award annually to the "Professional Athlete of the Year" is valued at $10,000, give or take a few bucks.

When you're voted the winner, the belt is yours and they make sure you get it whether you take the trouble to come here or not.

The 30-year-old Dodger lefty became the only athlete ever to win it for the second time Sunday night. He wasn't here to accept the belt, but it wasn't his fault.

300 Mile Short
Koufax traveled nearly 4,000 miles and submitted to a punishing 21-hour ordeal in a back-breaking effort to be on hand and not disappoint some 1,200 persons. In the end, he wound up 300 miles short of his goal and had to turn back because a 20-inch snowfall and icy runways made it impossible for planes to land at Rochester Airport.

"I would've given anything in the world to have made it," said a bone-weary Koufax. "I'd have kept trying if there was any chance, but they told me it was no use."

Koufax was speaking by telephone from the Cleveland Airport at the time. He said it was cold and windy there, too. His voice was somewhat coarse and he sounded like a beaten fighter asking the referee what round it was. By this time, he hadn't slept in more than 24 hours.

"The first thing I'd like to do is thank all the people," he said. "The next thing I'd like to do is go to bed."

He couldn't do that too readily because he had another immediate trip in front of him, a 2,000-mile back home to Los Angeles where he would have just time enough to throw some cold water over his face and then head for another commitment at Houston, Tex.

Koufax began his frustrating odyssey early Sunday morning after withdrawing from the Bing Crosby pro-am at Pebble Beach, Calif.

"I left San Francisco at 1 a.m. and got into Chicago at 7 a.m.," he said. "I was supposed to get a plane out at 7 a.m. but it didn't go. They told me there would be another one leaving for sure at 11. That didn't go either."

So baseball's premier pitcher hung around the airport in Chicago, reading a newspaper, having a soft drink and killing time the same way all people do when they're stuck in an airport.

He also kept in touch with the committee waiting for him here. Again at 2 p.m. and at 2:30 Koufax was assured he would take off. But, guess what? He didn't. Finally, he left Chicago at 3:30 and didn't arrive in Cleveland until 5 p.m.

Got The News
That's where he got the bad news about the Rochester Airport.

But he still didn't grumble. "At least," he said over the phone, "I have the remembrance of my wonderful visit to Rochester two years ago."

Another southpaw, former Giant pitcher Johnny Antonelli, who is a local resident, accepted the belt on Koufax's behalf.

By that time, Sandy was winging his way back home somewhere over the Rockies. When he finally arrived in Los Angeles, he bought a newspaper.

Sure enough, there was a story in it about his award in Rochester.

hit from the outside and inside with equal ease.

The Aggies had kept their record unblemished earlier in the week with a 64-57 victory over Texas on the road and now won't return to conference action until Feb. 5 against Texas Christian at Fort Worth.

Tech will be getting in three other games, meanwhile, against Rice at Houston Saturday afternoon and TCU and Texas at Lubbock Feb. 1 and Feb. 5.

Tech's televised game at Rice and a TCU-SMU match at Dallas Saturday night are the only league games on this week's program, but there will be five tilts against outsiders as action begins to pick up following the examination lull.

The Houston Cougars will host three conference teams—Baylor Wednesday, TCU Thursday and the Aggies Saturday. Arkansas plays Mississippi State at neutral Little Rock Thursday and Georgia Tech at Atlanta Friday.

That boosted his season output to 201 points and ninth place in season scoring and his three-game league production to 61 points, a 20.3 average good enough for the No. 4 spot in league play.

At the same time, Tech's veterans—Dub Malaise, Norm Reuther and Bobby Measells, also found the range. Malaise hit for 29 points, Reuther for 24 and a dozen rebounds and Measells for 19 points as Tech game with the second-place Cincinnati Royals was postponed, thus enabling Philadelphia to get a much-needed day's rest.

Chamberlain, the league's leading scorer and rebounder, completely dominated the backboards during the first half as the 76ers moved to a 58-55 halftime advantage. St. Louis, though, moved back into the lead in the second half and the 76ers didn't take command until Wally Jones scored on a three-point play with three minutes remaining.

Zelmo Beaty led the Hawks attack with 33 points.

Kentucky, Miners Take Up Cage Play This Week

By United Press International
The only two perfect college basketball records in the nation will be on the line twice this week as the schools prepare for the second half of the season.

Second-ranked Kentucky (12-0) took a week off for mid-semester examinations and resumes play tonight against a weak Louisiana State five. The Wildcats should have a more difficult time Saturday when they host Auburn (11-3).

Eighth-rated Texas Western has been idle since Jan. 6 and goes after its 13th consecutive win Wednesday with Arizona State providing the opposition.

They'll meet West Texas State Saturday.

Only three of the leading 10 teams saw action last Saturday, all coming away winners. St. Joseph's (Pa.), No. 2, topped Pennsylvania 79-69; Kansas, No. 7, beat Kansas State 69-61; and 10th-rated Utah thrashed Hawaii 122-67.

Rest Period
Six members of the upper echelon will wait until Saturday before donning uniforms again. Seventh-ranked Kansas does not play until Feb. 5 while ninth-rated Loyola (Ill.) is busiest of all with three encounters this week.

Once-beaten Duke, the nation's most highly thought of team and the leader in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 6-1 mark meets ACC runnerup North Carolina State (4-2) in an all-important league game Saturday.

St. Joe's plays Dayton Saturday; Providence, No. 4, faces Niagara; Vanderbilt opposes LSU; Bradley meets Louisville; and Utah plays Utah State, all Saturday.

Loyola (Ill.) opens its three game series with Marshall tonight but will have tougher sledding against UCLA Friday and Kansas State the next night.

In weekend action, the Hawks of St. Joe's moved closer to the valuable, mythical city championship of Philadelphia downing Penn. Cliff Anderson poured in 23 points for the winners who bounced back after losing to St. John's.

All-American Cazzie Russell, determined to lead Michigan to the NCAA championship they've narrowly missed the past two seasons, tallied 40 points as the Wolverines topped Minnesota 97-85. Russell & Co.

Harvesters, Dons Clash In Conference Action Tuesday

Pampa will try to keep its second half 3-4A conference record intact Tuesday night when Palo Duro plays host to the Harvesters in a district battle, beginning at 8 p.m.

The Dons, 0-2 in league action thus far in the second half, were the victims of a 59-48 Pampa triumph in Harvester Fieldhouse earlier in the season.

In 18 season games the Dons have managed to break even, winning nine and losing nine. They were snuffed out of a scheduled conference game with Monterey Friday night.

Pampa, Monterey and Amarillo are tied for the second half load with 2-0 records, Pampa leading Borger Friday night, 69-47.

Pampa led Palo Duro only 21-20 at halftime in the first meeting of the two clubs and had to put on a fourth quarter rush for their victory.

Pampa did hold the Dons leading scorer Harold Mason to only six points but Bailey Thompson broke loose for 17.

David Cain led Pampa scoring with 21 points, Mike Wise added 11 and Kenneth McWilliams, 15.

Palo Duro is scoring at a 58.7 per game clip while giving up 62.3 points a game.

Texan Has First Tourney Win

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Don Massengale never had won a PGA golf tournament in almost six years of trying, but today he ruled as the Bing Crosby champion and has an $11,000 check to prove it.

Nobody gave the 28-year-old native of Jacksboro, Tex., a chance in the Crosby against a classy field that included Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Billy Casper, Tony Lema and most of the top touring pros.

But in the stretch run Sunday, Massengale outlasted charging Palmer and bids by Billy Martindale of Jacksonville, Tex., and Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., to post a closing round 70 at tough Pebble Beach and a 72-hole total of 283, four under par.

Palmer, winner of the Los Angeles Open and playing superb golf these days, made a game try for an eagle-three that would have given him a tie. He went for the pin on his third shot but it was a little strong and stopped eight feet away.

Casper finished at 292, a stroke ahead of Lema who is bothered by a sore elbow.

Massengale, who has won only $48,972.13 since going on the tour in 1960, praised Lema, his playing partner, for helping him through the pressure-packed final round.

"He was very helpful," Don said. "He was really pulling for me out there and he calmed me down."

Mother Nature, Wilt, You Can't Fight 'Em

By United Press International
Mother Nature and Wilt Chamberlain are two things that you can't fight, and the Philadelphia 76ers are thankful that both are on their side.

The 76ers, fighting for the top spot in the National Basketball Association's eastern division, got 36 points and 27 rebounds from Big Wilt Sunday as they defeated the St. Louis Hawks, 104-98, after a snowstorm postponed the scheduled game between the league-leading Boston Celtics and the San Francisco Warriors.

Oddly, a snowstorm aided the 76ers Saturday night when their game with the second-place Cincinnati Royals was postponed, thus enabling Philadelphia to get a much-needed day's rest.

Chamberlain, the league's leading scorer and rebounder, completely dominated the backboards during the first half as the 76ers moved to a 58-55 halftime advantage. St. Louis, though, moved back into the lead in the second half and the 76ers didn't take command until Wally Jones scored on a three-point play with three minutes remaining.

Zelmo Beaty led the Hawks attack with 33 points.

'Raise' You Didn't See

By now, most wage earners remain precious little in the pot on a weekly basis know that their "contributions" for Social Security are higher this year.

For the federal tax collector has decreed the increases in Social Security taxes to start with the first of the year and to pay some of the costs of last year's increases in Social Security payments to those in the collecting bracket.

But, we are reminded by a letter writer from Chicago, J. Kesner Kahn, they may not know about the "raise" they got but did not see.

For all employers are required to dig up an equivalent amount in Social Security taxes and turn them over to the federal tax collector, instead of giving it to the workers. "If our employers had not done this, our increased deductions would have been twice what they are," noted Mr. Kahn.

And with the higher and higher payments for what the politicians call Social Security, there remains precious little in the pot to provide for the oldsters who with their employers have been taxed for 10, these many years.

Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, a Missouri Republican, recently pointed out that there are $80 billion in assets in various private pension plan funds covering 15 million Americans. On the other hand, said Curtis, there are $19 billion in U. S. Government bonds in the Social Security trust funds covering about 180 million Americans.

He didn't mention that before the $19 billion can be cashed in to pay future "benefits" to Social Security recipients, it will be necessary to tax the people to pay off the bonds. Whether this tax will be a direct levy or by issuing additional fiat currency—which is inflation—and the most cruel tax of all—is not known. At any rate, any insurance company with so little in reserve, would be ordered to close down and its officers would be thrown in jail.

Try to Remember...

This is the time of year when a child's best friend is not a dog or a bike but a sled and the domain of all adventure centers on one thing—a hill, snow-covered, of course.

It need not even be a hill, really. Any slope will do, just so it has enough slippery stuff on it to sustain a face-tugging slide runner or ski or perhaps that new invention, the child-sized saucer of plastic or tin.

In the old days, before the automobile became omnipresent, it might have been one of the steeper city streets, barricaded with wooden horses and blacked at the bottom with ashes that raised sparks when a sled swooshed into them.

Now, in this day of supervised and commercialized recreation, it is more likely to be a public or private park, except in the country where the hills still belong to the kids.

But wherever or however, the experience is the same for each new generation, to whom even the most fitful snowfall is a thrilling promise—and cause for impatient anticipation. (Time enough for them in later years to think of it only as a threat of treacherous driving, sagging gutters and high heating bills.)

True, adults go in for winter sports and catering to them is a growing business. But it isn't the same.

Snow is really meant for the young, and those of them so unfortunate as to live in warmer climates can only dream of what they're missing.

A kid and a sled and a hill. What else is winter for?

New Heights in Government

Besides the rising price in Viet Nam now costing the U. S. about 16.5 millions a day—a rate of 6 billions a year—with the trend sharply upward," according to A. S. News and World Report magazine.

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara last month announced reduction of the U. S. bomber force, then two days later said he would replace some of the "phased out" B-52s with 210 FB-111s at a cost of $1.75 billion.

Then higher: up is the battle to conquer the moon in which Dr. George E. Mueller, the man in charge, claims costs are being "held down" to a present figure of $20.18 billion.

And looming just ahead is the answer to how all those billions are to be obtained. In a few weeks will come Tax Day, April 15, with whopping amounts of added income tax to pay. Very likely to be upped before next year rolls around will be increase of withholding from 14 per cent to 20 per cent, which will replace the flat 14 per cent rate.

We have heard the rumbles about "peace keeping methods." "Peak keeping methods" would be more accurate.

Shameful Page of History

"If you believe," says the Bucyrus (Ohio) Telegraph-Forum, "that we can spend our way to a sound economy by deficit financing, then you will probably agree with the President that the accomplishments of this past session of Congress will 'shine' in history. But if you believe it's morally wrong to mortgage the earnings of our children for generations to come, you will agree with us in the conclusion that the 89th Congress compiled a sorry and shameful record for the history book."

COLONIALISM: HELP OR HINDRANCE

We have frequently made the statement that the colonies of the western powers received much more from the mother countries than these countries took from them, and prospered much more as a result of the liaison with the mother country. Let us look into the subject a little deeper.

At the turn of the century Nigeria had exports and imports amounting to about 2 million each. Nigeria was a so-called British colony until 1960, and its population is 99.5 per cent African. Six years ago when she was granted her independence, imports and exports had risen to nearly 200 million each—a gain of about 10 thousand per cent during 60 years of colonial rule.

The record of Ghana, formerly the Gold Coast, until recently a British colony, shows an increase of exports and imports from about 1 million 60 years ago to 100 million at present. In both countries, there has been a spectacular increase in both consumer and capital goods.

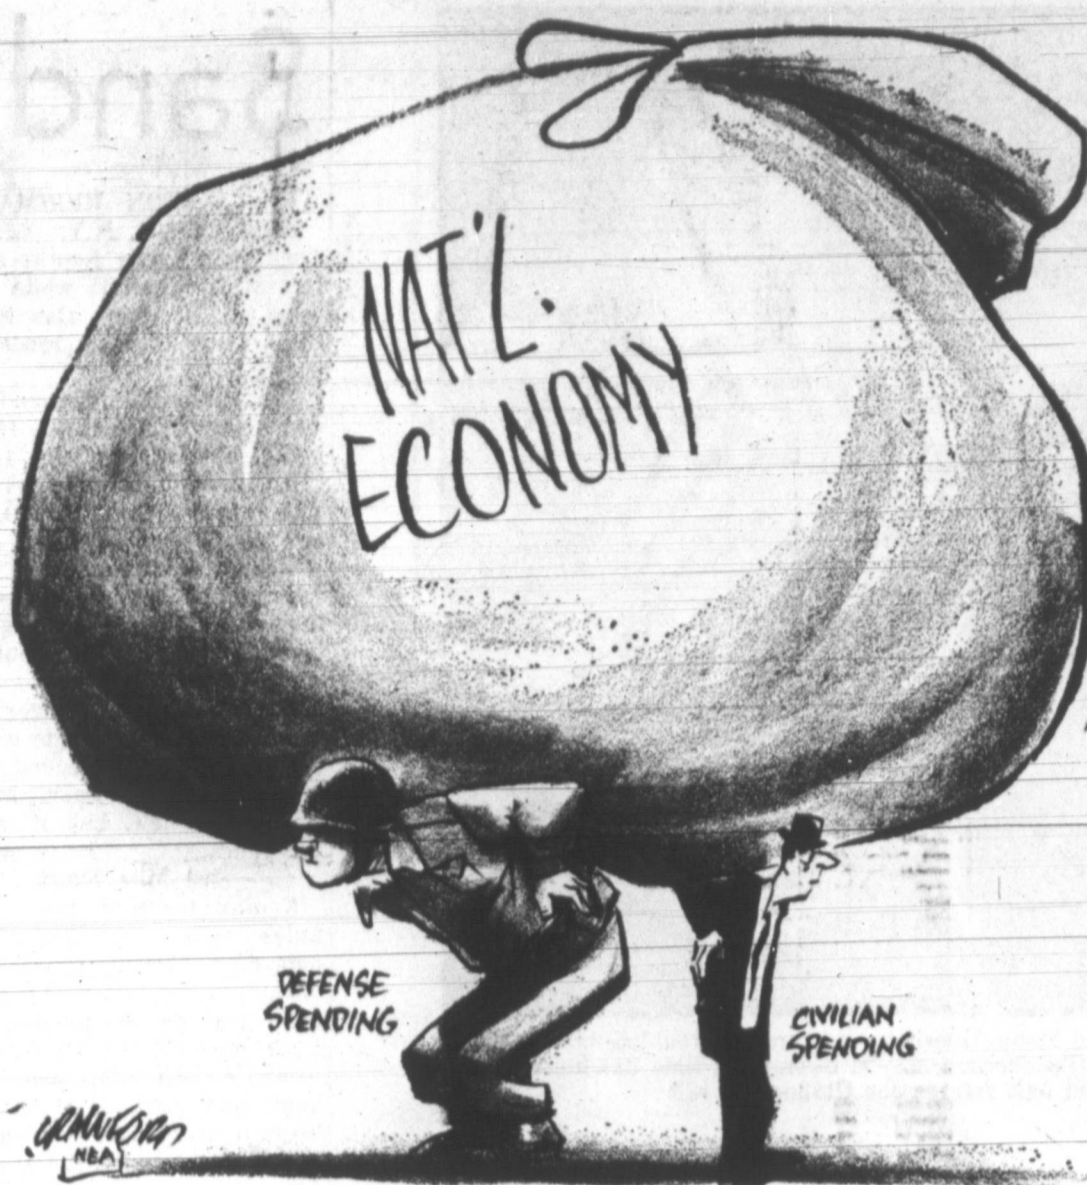

By contrast, Liberia, independent since 1847, and Ethiopia, independent longer than most if not all of the developed countries, with much lower standards of living and more primitive conditions than exist in the so-called deprived and under-privileged countries of Africa that have long had colonial status. We are not pleading for a return to that status, but merely pointing out what we have long contended, that the former colonial peoples derive much benefit from their association with the mother countries, and are much farther advanced economically than they would have been had that association not taken place.

And so, we find Liberia, independent since 1847, and Ethiopia, independent longer than most if not all of the developed countries, with much lower standards of living and more primitive conditions than exist in the so-called deprived and under-privileged countries of Africa that have long had colonial status. We are not pleading for a return to that status, but merely pointing out what we have long contended, that the former colonial peoples derive much benefit from their association with the mother countries, and are much farther advanced economically than they would have been had that association not taken place.

Federal Reserve Vacancy Jan. 31 to Offer President Chance to Gain one Vote Majority

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — In less than two weeks President Johnson will be in a position to gain control of the powerful Federal Reserve Board.

On January 31 the term of C. Canby Balderston expires, and the Philadelphia Republican and Eisenhower appointee already knows he will not be named to a second 14-year term.

Balderston's elimination opens the way for the President to gain a one-vote majority on this key banking agency.

Long-time Chairman William McChesney Martin has exercised sway over the board by a 4 to 3 lineup. That was the count on the recent widely controversial discount rate increase vigorously advocated by Martin.

To congressional inquirers, the President has indicated he intends to make the most of this vacancy. While giving no hint whom he is considering the inside word is the selection will be "friendly and reliable."

One congressional leader is quoting a White House source as saying, "You can be sure this board member will be on our side."

Senator Russell Long, D-La., new chairman of the Finance Committee, has lost no time in pressing a candidate—a state Senator J. W. Adcock, banker and businessman from Monroe, La. Long cosponsors Adcock's prospects are conjectural.

One big obstacle to Adcock's chances is the practice of filling a vacancy from the same Reserve district. That would exclude Adcock.

Under the law Balderston can retain office until his successor is named and confirmed by the Senate—which could take some time. For example: The President still hasn't appointed a successor to Federal Power Chairman Joseph P. Swidler, whose term expired last June.

After staying on at the President's request until the end of the year, Swidler cleaned out his desk and departed.

CASTRO HELPERS — Britain and Canada are Communist-ruled Cuba's free world "life line". These two U. S. allies are shipping more goods to Cuba than any country outside the Communist bloc.

In the first seven months of 1965 Canada's exports totaled $30.3 million; Britain's $25.3 million. And that isn't all.

British ships transported the bulk of free world trade with Cuba.

Incomplete figures compiled by the Federal Maritime Administration disclose that British vessels made 119 trips to Cuba—a more than double those of any other free world country.

"This is an inexcusable state of affairs," declares Representative Paul Rogers, D-Fla., who as a member of both the Commerce Committee and Merchant Marine Committee maintains a careful scrutiny of Cuban developments. "We should have clamped down hard on Britain when she sought our help in the Rhodesian situation."

"We should have made it perfectly clear we would help boycott the white minority government in Rhodesia only when British merchants and shippers stopped trading with Cuba."

Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, was equally caustic.

"For at least four years we have appealed to our so-called free world friends and allies, notably the British," he said, "to help us with at least a partial boycott of Communist Cuba. The answer has been a resounding 'no' in every language. And the same Lyndon Johnson, who leaped at the opportunity to boycott the Rhodesians, has never even asked the British or anyone else to stop delivering supplies to Communist North Viet Nam."

THE OFFICIAL ALIBI — There is evidence the State Department thinks it's not even worth trying to stop this free world trade with Castro.

That is indicated in a letter Assistant Secretary Douglas MacArthur II sent the House Merchant Marine Committee. It wanted to know what was being done about this, and got the following answer:

"A pertinent and important consideration is the fact that the Soviet Union has demonstrated its ability and readiness to replace free world vessels withdrawn from the Cuba trade with vessels of its own and of other Soviet bloc countries. We estimate that even the total replacement of free world ships by Soviet and Soviet bloc vessels would create only limited difficulties for the Soviet."

Notwithstanding this, factor, MacArthur assured the committee that U. S. policy is "to pursue bilaterally, unilaterally, and multilaterally, courses of action designed to increase the isolation of the present Cuban regime."

The State Department spokesman also contended that "major British shipping companies have removed themselves from the Cuba trade, leaving only small operators who are not interested in U. S. trade (carrying foreign-aid cargoes) in any case."

Carefully not mentioned in MacArthur's dissertation is the irrefutable fact that these "small operators" made 119 calls at Cuban ports in 1965. Following is the record compiled by the Maritime Administration:

WHAT THEY SAID (Industrial News Review)

Those senators who—against the predictions—prevented repeal of section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, which authorizes the states to enact Right-to-Work laws if they so choose, were not against the unions. They were against coercion.

Sen. Dirksen said: "... Is there a more fundamental right than the right to make a living for one's self and for one's family without being compelled to join a labor organization?"

Sen. McClellan said: "If I were a wage earner, I might well be inclined to join a union. But I would want to have the choice of joining a union. I would not want to be compelled to join. Have we lost all sense of reason—have we forgotten the dedication to fundamental rights?"

Sen. Smathers said: "I am for organized labor. I like organized labor. But the right of each and every wage earner to make a free choice concerning union membership must be paramount over the desire of any single private group."

Sen. Eastland said: "One of the most incredible elements in the whole movement to repeal 14 (b) is the fact that the very liberals who talk the loudest and longest about civil rights are now bent on destroying the freedom of an individual to choose what organization or association he shall or shall not join."

So it went. The battle is not over—compulsory unionism will again become an issue when the second session of this Congress convenes in January. And, once more, that issue will be whether man can be forced against his will and his beliefs to join a private organization in order to hold a job.

An Example Worth Following

(Industrial News Review)

Representative Teague of California has something to say about the federal farm program: "It does not make sense to me to put cheese, boll weevils, rice crispies, chewing tobacco, corn flakes, shredded wheat biscuits, boiled peanuts, golf courses, fishponds, bed sheets, and birth control pills all in the same (farm) subsidy bill costing taxpayers $4 million a year."

This single sentence dramatizes a fact—that the farm program is a hodge-podge and an economic monstrosity. It has been responsible for surpluses on an almost unimaginable scale and waste whose cost can only be guessed at.

There is but one solution—the gradual reduction and withdrawal of subsidies, on an orderly step-by-step scale. And no one can say that free enterprise in farming, in supply and demand markets, is an unachievable goal. One of the most important segments of agriculture operates that way, and it always has. It is livestock. The cattle producers, for instance, in good times and bad, have been overwhelmingly opposed to government aids and the controls that are an inevitable part of them. The whole meat industry—from the ranches to the packers to the retailers—is an example of competitive free enterprise at its best. The result has been a boundless supply of top quality meat, always sufficient to meet a steadily increasing demand, at prices within the reach of the great majority of families.

The long-run solution to agriculture problems lies in following that example.

Now Who Are The War Mongers?

(Chicago Tribune)

The Afro-Asian attitude toward Rhodesia caused us to wonder how much longer the United Nations can seriously pretend to be a "peace-keeping" agency.

Prime Minister Wilson has been doing his level best to avoid a racial war in Africa; yet his speech at the U.N. was boycotted and denounced by the same Africans and Asians who once talked most loudly about peace. They denounced him for resisting their clamor for a punitive war against Ian Smith's government of Rhodesia, even though this would be a war to which they could contribute almost nothing except noise from the side lines. Even the threat of 36 African states to sever relations with Britain fizzled out in the cold, gray light of dawn. Only a few have proved willing to make the economic sacrifices which this would entail. They are displaying a "gunboat mentality," in Mr. Wilson's words, without the gunboats to back it up.

The African countries are unable to help and for the most part unwilling even to make economic sacrifices to further their cause; yet they don't hesitate to threaten an "invasion" of their own in the hope that this threat will create panic in the west and will spur Britain and the United States to action.

So Britain has imposed the expected oil embargo against Rhodesia.

The Afro-Asian bloc now represents a majority of the membership of the United Nations. As time goes on, under the existing charter, which gives an equal voice to every member regardless of size or maturity or influence, Afro-Asian policies will tend to become U.N. policies. When that happens, the U.N. will become a tool of vengeance dedicated to just such crusades as those now urged against Rhodesia and South Africa under the farcical pretense that they are "threats to world peace."

desia and our state department has lined us up behind this punitive measure against a government which as done nothing to hurt us. This, in turn, means that oil must be air-lifted into neighboring Zambia. And here again, we were told, our help was needed because the only planes capable of doing the job properly were American Air Force planes. We now find that the United States government is looking for civilian planes to do the job under contract. If civilian planes can do it, why couldn't Britain have made its own arrangements? Why was it necessary for the United States to embroil itself any more deeply in a conflict that shouldn't have involved us at all?

While the "peace-loving" spokesmen for Africa and Asia demand total economic sanctions against Rhodesia, as well as an invasion, they haven't even suggested sanctions against North Viet Nam. And what is much more astonishing, neither has the United States. We boycott Ian Smith and we agree to support further sanctions if imposed by Britain. But our allies go on trading as usual with North Viet Nam, and we don't say a word.

REVOLUTIONARY—This is an example of the versatility at The Duenkel Funeral Home in the flooring of tomorrow. The floor and four and a half feet of the wall are done in seamless-resilient Torginol Duresque.

Towles Tile Company Offers New Flooring

Throughout the years man has strived to produce a better and more comfortable floor for his dwelling. About 20 years ago a German scientist discovered the revolutionary new flooring substance called Torginol Duresque. One of the revolutionary aspects of Torginol is that it is poured from a can so there are no seams or cracks. It can be covered up a wall or over the edge of a step. Torginol is completely seamless. There are no cracks to catch dust and it never needs waxing. Another of the amazing things about Torginol is the fact that staphylococcus germs, one of the hardest germs to kill, will completely die out within fifty hours. Torginol is a most versatile flooring medium. It can be used for interior or exterior coverings on the floor, wall, cabinet tops, or any other surface. This flooring has been used in hospital lobbies and sterilizing rooms, and any other place where there is considerable traffic or infectious germs. Torginol has been used in unique places such as the deck of the former presidential yacht, swimming pool decks, baseball parks, cocktail lounges, dance floors, automobile showrooms, garages, driveways, patios, and even in a zoo. Torginol has an unlimited number of colors and patterns. It can be made to look like flag stone or have the owners initials in it or most any other design one may desire. For samples of this wonderful flooring, and free estimates, call Jack Towles at the Towles Tile Co., Mo 5-5075.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—NBC-TV Sunday night got on the bandwagon of audience-involvement testing programs inaugurated by CBS-TV, and came up with a somewhat different approach, examining opinions and ethics rather than facts. Whereas CBS-TV, in its three testing broadcasts on driving, citizenship and health, has stuck essentially to specifics and hard core data, NBC-TV, in Sunday night's "Testing: Is Anybody Honest?" veered toward a looser format.

Whereas CBS-TV, in its broadcasts, stuck pretty much to one basic subject on each outing, NBC-TV, in its first venture into the testing field, encompassed a wide range of topics, relating them to the theme of honesty-examination by a series of visual enactments of case examples. CBS-TV, by the way, has the second half of its "National Health Test" scheduled for Tuesday night at 10 p.m., EST.

Straight Facts Better While NBC-TV's "Testing: Is Anybody Honest?" had its stimulating moments on sensitive subjects, CBS-TV's hard fact approach seems, at this point anyway, distinctly preferable to a format that relies mainly on such hard-to-pin-down areas as opinion and ethics. An opinion may—as it did Sunday night—titillate the observer on occasion, but it doesn't carry any particular weight to the reasonably intelligent viewer who is up on a reasonable number of subjects in a reasonable sort of way, and is probably well aware of such opinions. There is nothing very immediate or magnetic about something that is fairly obvious. A fact, however, is indisputable, and whether it is mundane or a thing of infinite worth, whether it contains beauty or terror, it commands interest when presented in bulk form because even the reasonably intelligent viewer can't presume to know everything, and might even learn a bit.

ASHLAND, Wis. (UPI)—A $250,000 fire destroyed the printing plant of the Ashland Press Sunday and the paper's owners are making arrangements today to have it published at Superior, 60 miles away, and shipped back to its 5,000 readers. The Press, which was planning to move into a new building next month, will be printed at the plant of its parent company, the Superior Evening Telegram, until facilities are set up to have it published again in this northern Wisconsin community.

A Telephone Hint for Out-of-Town Numbers

Did you know that you can dial "Information" in most cities, free of charge? Simply dial "1," the DDD access code, followed by the Area Code for the city you're calling and "555-1212." When "Information" answers, give her the name of the distant city followed by the name and address under which the phone is listed. And here's another telephone hint. Have a pencil handy and add the number to your personal telephone number booklet. Next time you want the number, it's at your fingertips.
