Reds in Desperate Bid To Stop U.S. Air Raids

MORE PLANES AND MEN

Secretary Sees No Early End To Viet Fighting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says the Viet Nam war will require more American men and planes, and despite U.S. military gains, there will be no early end to the fighting.

Soviets Announce Stepped Up Aid To Viet Commies

MOSCOW (UPI) — All Soviet government agencies were under orders today to be ready to step up military and economic aid to the Vietnamese Communists.

The alert went out Monday as part of a concerted Kremlin campaign to disprove Communist Chinese charges the Russians are secretly backing the United States in Viet Nam, particularly the bombing of oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong.

In developments Monday: —All "competent government agencies" were ordered to "render economic and military aid to repel American aggression, with due account of the requirements caused by the new phase of the war in Viet Nam."

The permanent Soviet representative to the United Nations Security Council charged that the Hanoi-Haiphong region attacks violated the Geneva Convention and called for evacuation of U.S. forces from Viet Nam.

Russian athletes withdrew from the Soviet-American track meet scheduled for July 23-24 in Los Angeles and from basketball games scheduled for Moscow and other Russian cities beginning July 25.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda charged that the United States liked in announcing the raids against oil depots were "limited" in scope.

The Soviet Union last week joined with other members of the Warsaw Pact, Communist equivalent of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), to pledge its willingness to send "volunteers" to Viet Nam if the North Vietnamese asked for such help.

The wording of Monday's "the new phase of the war in Viet Nam" appeared to indicate there would be further strengthening of aircraft defenses for the Hanoi regime and (See SOVIETS, Page 3)

Government Spends $5,600 to Dig Up Answer to Question

LONDON (UPI) — The government, in response to a Parliamentary question, announced Monday that the British Treasury spent $5,600 to dig up the answer to another Parliamentary question last fall on how much government departments spent answering questions raised in Parliament.

SAM Missiles Hurlled At Attacking Planes

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist North Viet Nam sent missile-firing MIG21 jets aloft and launched at least seven surface-to-air SAM rockets from the ground in a desperate bid to stop a 101-mission U.S. air raid, American military spokesman said today.

All of the missiles were wide of their targets as U.S. Navy and Air Force planes pounded supply and communications lines in the North Monday. The number of missions—one or more strikes by a single plane—approached the record 113 missions flown by U.S. planes last Wednesday.

Spokesmen in Saigon said one Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down by conventional groundfire. The pilot parachuted to earth and was presumed captured.

In air action today, a U.S. Navy F8 Crusader jet was downed in flames 40 miles east of the vital port of Haiphong, but a rescue helicopter plucked the pilot to safety from a mountain summit. The U.S. military command issued no other information on today's bombings.

In the first time such a figure was released, spokesmen today reported that 176 American helicopters have been lost in combat in South Viet Nam from Jan. 1, 1961, through July 7 of this year. Four U.S. helicopters were lost in the South on Monday alone.

The continued failure of the Soviet-supplied SAM missiles supported Air Force reports that the U.S. has devised a system to nullify the missiles, known to pilots as "flying telephone poles."

An Air Force spokesman said the system was a combination of "technique, tactics and electronics" which, apparently jam the radar which guides the SAMs.

Air Force pilots flew 63 missions Monday while Navy fliers flew 38. The planes smashed bridges, warehouses, railway lines, boxcars, trucks, 20 barges and cut highways in 25 places.

Majority of Pampans Favor Oil Bombings

By LARRY HOLLIS Daily News Reporter

According to a survey of 64 persons, most Pampans seem to support the recent bombings of Haiphong and Hanoi in North Viet Nam by the United States.

Thirty-nine persons, or 53.1 per cent, stated that they agreed with President Lyndon Johnson's decision to bomb oil depots near the two cities.

Some, though, felt that it should have been done earlier in the conflict, but they still supported the recent attacks.

On the other hand, 17 said that they did not agree with the increased bombing. This was 26.6 per cent of those interviewed.

Most of these seemed to fear that the bombings would bring reprisal from Communist China or Russia. Others felt that the attacks would harm our image with our allies and with various neutral countries. A couple stated that we should not be involved in the Viet Nam conflict.

In regard to the bombings, 13, or 20.3 per cent, said that they could not make any decision or would not answer.

The margins decreased when the question was asked if they thought the conflict should be escalated by the United States.

Twenty-five persons, or 39.1 per cent, said they thought the war should be escalated, but their reasons varied. Some said the number of bombings should be increased, while others felt that all phases of the conflict should be escalated.

But 23 persons, or 35.9 per cent, did not feel that the war should be intensified in any way. Again the reasons varied, from the point that the U. S. is doing enough to the point that we should get out of the conflict.

Sixteen of the persons interviewed said they could not make a decision in regard to escalation of the war.

Overall, it seems that a majority of Pampans support Johnson's Viet Nam policy, though with some reservations or disagreements.

The civil rights and racial issue will come in for much discussion and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., a Baptist minister, is scheduled to make a special address on the race issue next weekend.

World Churchmen Open Christian Forum

GENEVA (UPI) — Churchmen from 90 nations began far-reaching discussions on Christian solutions to the ills of modern society today in the first major forum on world social problems in 30 years.

About 400 delegates, including representatives from the Vatican and the Soviet Union, were on hand for the 12-day conference considered a new high in interfaith collaboration. The Vatican's participation was considered especially significant in view of the ecumenical discussions now under way between Roman Catholic and Protestant church groups. Not only did a Roman Catholic group attend, but it also took a direct part in preparations for the conference.

The World Council of Churches, sponsor of the session, hopes to hammer out ideas for a new social gospel of Christian commitment to deal with a host of problems raised by technology and social revolution since World War II—emerging nations, civil rights, automation, poverty and population explosions.

The war in Viet Nam is expected to be discussed. The WCC leadership spoke out earlier this month against the new U.S. bombings in North Viet Nam and some participants are expected to follow suit.

The conference will hear position papers before closing July 26, but the final report will not be issued until October. It will then be submitted to the World Council of Church's fourth general assembly at Uppsala, Sweden, in 1968.

E. Harvester Paving, Assessments Okayed

Legislation for paving E. Harvester Ave. from Duncan to Le. was approved on first reading by the city commission today, and property assessments for the project were established.

The paving will be 48-feet wide from back to back of the curb lines. The street will be paved with a caliche base and asphalt surface with concrete curb and gutters.

The ordinance authorizing the improvement was passed after a public hearing at 8:30 a.m. today in City Hall.

The city has entered into right of way contracts with all seven of the affected property owners.

The property owners' share of the total cost will be $9,843.50 with assessments ranging from $3.40 to $5 per front foot depending on side or front street footage. The city's share will approximate $63,400.

Bids were opened this morning from four contractors seeking contracts for the paving of both E. Harvester Ave. and N. Somerville St.

Although contracts will not be awarded until a special called meeting of the commission at 8:30 a.m. next Wednesday, Ray Boswell of Pampa apparently was low bidder. Boswell's total bid for the two streets was $147,639.40. Next lowest bidder was Gilvin and Terrell of Amarillo with $148,996. Bids from the E. D. Baker Corp. of Borger and E. M. Bailey of Abilene were in excess of $150,000.

Boswell's bid was $72,190.50 for N. Somerville and $75,648.90 for E. Harvester.

The E. Harvester and N. Somerville projects each calls for construction of a bridge. N. Somerville will be improved from Cook St. north to a connecting link with N. Hobart St. at Coronado Dr.

The other business today: The commission set Aug. 9 for a public hearing on the rezoning from residential to semi-commercial on a S. Hobart St. area including lots 13 through 24, Block 9, of the Finley-Banks Addition, east 125 1/2 feet of Suburb 155 from Crawford St. (See BIDDER, Page 3)

Mrs. Gandhi Due In Russia For Viet Peace Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — Indian Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Gandhi arrives in Moscow today to personally request that Soviet officials join in calling a Viet Nam peace conference.

The Soviet Union and Britain are co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference which ended the Indochina war. British Prime Minister Harold Wilson will be in the Soviet capital later this week.

Mrs. Gandhi flew from Yugoslavia after meetings with resident Tito. She issued a statement Monday expressing "deep concern over the continued pursuit of a policy of force, interference and armed intervention in some parts of the world."

The Indian leader previously met with United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser in a peace mission that began July in Cairo.

In addition to the Viet Nam War, Mrs. Gandhi planned to discuss Soviet aid to India while in Moscow. Indian envoys in the Russian capital voted Monday that of all the world's developing countries, India traded most the U.S.S.R.

Trade Nam was not mentioned specifically in the Belgrade communique at the conclusion of Mrs. Gandhi's meeting with Tito.

It said only that the "interference and armed intervention" elsewhere "constitute a direct threat and a danger of further escalation, and could plunge the whole world into a major conflict."

Mrs. Gandhi said in a Yugoslav radio and television interview Monday night that "peace is not only an ideal, but a necessity for all of us."

As leaders of the nonaligned nations, Nasser, Tito, and Mrs. Gandhi will meet Oct. 21-25 in New Delhi.

Formal Appeal To Election Ruling Slated for Filing

The formal appeal of A. J. Carubbi Jr. contesting the June 4 Democratic runoff primary for county judge was scheduled to be filed today in 7th District Court of Civil Appeals at Amarillo.

Carubbi said this noon the brief had been completed and his attorney, Frank Baughman of Amarillo, would file it sometime this afternoon.

The appeal case grew out of the runoff race for the Democratic nomination for county judge between incumbent Bill Craig and Carubbi, in which Craig was declared the winner by 8 votes, 1,785 to 1,777.

Carubbi filed a petition in 31st District Court here, contesting the election on the grounds 71 Republicans who had voted in the May 8 GOP primary election also voted in the June 4 Democratic primary. This, the plaintiff charged, was a violation of Texas election laws. The petition asked that the 71 votes be thrown out and asked a recount of the remaining ballots.

When heard in District Court here on June 15, Judge Lewis M. Goodrich ruled against Carubbi, assessed the plaintiff with courts costs and dismissed the case.

Craig's attorneys, Harold Comer and John Studer of Pampa, will have 30 days in which to file an answer. The case can then be set for hearing, which should be early in August.

Secret Service To Tag Along On Luci's Honeymoon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For Luci Baines Johnson, it will be a honeymoon for three. A Secret Service agent will be tagging along.

The law says the "Secret Service is to protect the President and his 'immediate family'" and the way the agency sees it, Luci's marriage to Patrick J. Nugent on Aug. 6 "doesn't change that status."

Luci's personal preference would be for more privacy, according to a White House aide, but she will not have a say in the matter.

The President's younger daughter said she plans to live in a small apartment somewhere in Washington when she returns from honeymooning at a still undisclosed location. She said she will definitely not live in the White House. Wherever she and Nugent reside, big brothers from the Secret Service will be watching.

Luci came under Secret Service care on the afternoon of Nov. 22, 1963, immediately after President Kennedy was slain. Agents came to the National Cathedral School for Girls, where Luci was a student, to take up their guard.

Though she has had nearly three years to get used to it, the 19-year-old Luci still has her moments of wanting to escape.

Now and then she has shaken a defiant finger at one or another of her protectors, although most of the time she treats them like big brothers.

The agents assigned to young Luci are assigned to young Luci. (See HONEYMOON Page 3)

Defense Attorney Charges Trial Moved to Bible-Belt

HOUSTON (UPI) — Stanley Fleishman of Los Angeles, defense attorney for seven persons and four companies charged with shipping allegedly obscene books to Houston, said Monday the justice department decided to try the case in Houston because a Bible-belt jury "was most likely to convict."

Fleishman said the government could have prosecuted the case in almost any area "but shopped around" and selected Houston.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham took exception to Fleishman's charge, however. "We have people in this district who are religious and irreligious and a lot in between," said Ingraham. "We have acquitted a lot of real stinkers because we try them on evidence."

Jury selection in the case began Monday. The jury will be asked to decide whether the books in question are obscene in terms of the national standards. The books are titled "Sin Summer," "Temple of Shame," "Swamp Sect," "Passion Carousel," "Virgins, Inc.," "Orgy Club" and "Shame Hunger."

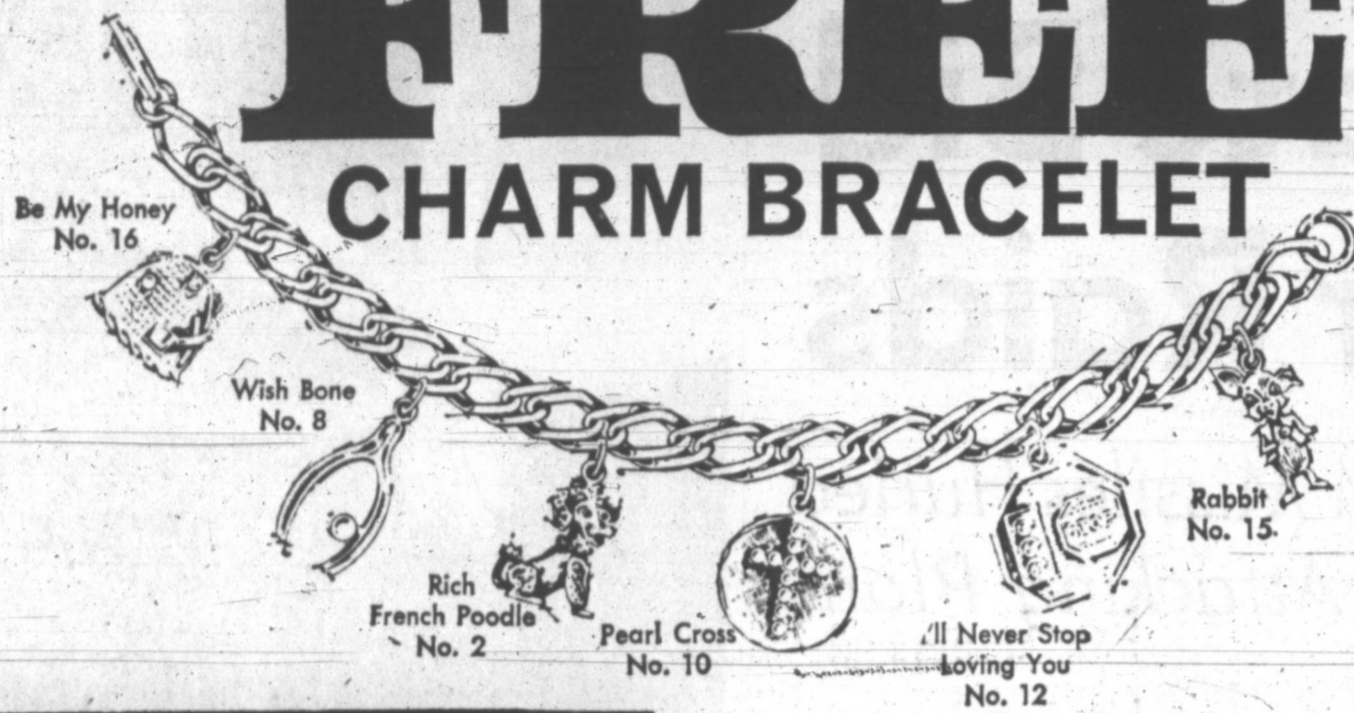

The individual defendants are William L. Hamling of Palm Springs, Calif., Richard A. Yerxa and Stephen Keegan of San Diego, Donald M. Patrick of El Cajon, Calif., Mrs. Shirley R. Wright of La Mesa, Calif., Walter H. Lonsdale of Gardena, Calif., and Howard E. Stephens of Sandusky, Ohio.

So Far, Medicare Running Smoothly

BALTIMORE (UPI)—During its first week Medicare worked virtually without a hitch. So far a spot check of participating hospitals shows no overcrowding because of the program.

This was a result today by the Social Security Administration (SSA) which administers the health-care program for the elderly.

A spokesman said some 300 of the 6,400 participating hospitals were asked if Medicare had brought a flood of admissions. So far none reported any drastic increases.

He pointed out, however, the program opened July 1 during a summer month when admissions usually are low. The full impact of the program will not be felt until later this year.

In addition to the 300 spot checks, the spokesman said, a close watch is being kept on 90 so-called "trouble spots," or counties where hospitals have a recent history of functioning at 90 per cent or more of capacity and where there is a high percentage of older residents.

Reports from regional Social Security officials indicate that hospitals in three of the "trouble spots" are being hard put to find space for patients.

Two of these are the Puerto Rican cities of San Juan and Ponce. In San Juan, three hospitals were completely filled as of July 8 and all others were operating at above 90 per cent capacity.

In Ponce, one hospital out of seven was completely filled and the six others had only four or five beds available.

The other community hard-pressed for hospital beds, according to the SSA, was Akron, Ohio.

The agency said, however, that facilities in Akron were just as crowded before Medicare went into effect.

Houston Mother Acquitted In Daughter's Murder

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 21-year-old mother was acquitted Monday in her second trial on assault to murder charges in connection with the beating of her two-and-a-half-year-old daughter.

Dist. Judge Wendell A. Odum acquitted Mrs. Laura Gail Alverado on charges she beat her daughter Pamela Sue.

Mrs. Alverado was convicted in 1964 and sentenced to 25 years in prison. But the presiding judge of that trial, Judge Sam Davis, granted a new trial.

Defense lawyers waived a jury trial before Judge Odum.

day that 54 per cent of the American public support the Hanoi-Haiphong raids, sharply reversing "public dissatisfaction" with Johnson war policy.

Just before the bombing, the survey said, support for Johnson's conduct of the war was at a 17-month low of 32 per cent. The public's rating of the President rose 42 per cent in polls a week later.

McNamara's answers to questions on the production cutback reflected what he termed his "cautious optimism." He said the cut did not indicate he saw an end to the war, echoing recent administration efforts to caution against hopes the fighting would soon end.

The Harris Survey and a UPI poll of congressmen showed that most Americans want to get out of Viet Nam, but only after we win.

The Pentagon chief said "we haven't noticed any effect thus far" that the air strikes might have had in stemming the infiltration of Communist men and supplies into the South. It is too early to tell, he said.

But he declared that if infiltration expands, so will U.S. operations and, if necessary, bomb production. He noted there were 7,000 individual flights over North Viet Nam in June—70 per cent more than March—and said the missions had not approached a limit.

Flooding Creates Emergency State In Ohio Towns

SANDUSKY, Ohio (UPI)—City officials declared a state of emergency today when torrential rains sent streams as deep as five feet coursing through city streets.

There were no reports of casualties.

A troop of the Ohio National Guard was mobilized to aid in the emergency in this city on the shore of Lake Erie.

More than 9.5 inches poured down on the city between 2 a.m. and 10 a.m., according to the Weather Bureau. Homes and businesses were flooded and Erie County sheriff's deputies began evacuating persons from suburban housing developments.

Amphibious vehicles were brought in to help the evacuation.

A troop of the 107th Armored Cavalry Regiment, Ohio National Guard, was mobilized at 9:30 a.m.—about a half-hour after the brunt of the storm.

Many buildings had as much as six feet of water by the time the rain stopped. Low-lying streets and underpasses were under water. At one spot, a small bus was submerged completely.

The Ohio Highway Patrol closed U.S. Routes 6, 61 and 12 because of the high water. A two-foot-deep stream coursed down Ohio Route 250.

Oil Companies Meet With Gray County Tax Board

Federal mediators appeared helpless to do any more than assure continuation of the negotiations unless the White House made some move.

Because recommendations for a settlement from a presidential emergency board carried President Johnson's endorsement, mediators were virtually barred from making new suggestions.

The result was the White House, for the moment, appeared to have a key role in efforts to reach a settlement. However, White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers said Monday the President felt both sides should "work it out themselves."

He said Johnson was receiving "necessary reports" from the Labor Department. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz said no consideration was being given at this time to presidential intervention.

Pampa Forecast Calls For Continued 'Hot'

No showers are expected for Pampa and the vicinity as the probability is less than 10 per cent. Hot weather is forecast to continue though not as hot as the 100-degree-plus temperatures predicted for Eastern parts of the nation.

Skies will remain generally fair, with isolated nighttime thundershowers. High is expected to reach the mid-90's with a low near 70. Winds are forecast to be southerly 15 to 25 miles an hour. Little change is expected through Thursday.

High Monday was 93, with a low of 73 this morning.

The "good ole summer time" promised to bake parts of the Eastern two-thirds of the nation in 100-degree-plus temperatures for the fifth consecutive day today.

Pair Sentenced For Break-ins

Billy Jo Helms of Wheeler and Donnie Mack McCullar of Lubbock were sentenced yesterday in 31st District Court, Wheeler, on four counts each of burglary.

The pair drew a total of five years in the state penitentiary. Helms and McCullar pleaded guilty to burglarizing Cicero Smith Lumber Co., office of Production Credit Co., Hyland Pharmacy, all of Wheeler, and Strickland's Grocery in Shamrock.

A third party involved in the case, James Riley McCafferty, will appear before the court Thursday to answer similar charges.

Californian Slightly Hurt In Accident

A California resident was treated and released from Highland General Hospital last night after being slightly hurt in a car-truck accident.

Charges of following too close were filed against Frank King of Vernon following the accident around 8 p.m. yesterday in the 1300 block of North Hobart.

King driving a Mack Truck-Tractor owned by Allen Johnston of Wichita Falls hit the rear bumper of a 1961 car driven by Mrs. Joyce Pickrel Evans of Lefors.

Mrs. Della Packer of Los Angeles, Calif., a passenger in the Evans car, was slightly injured.

The Evans car had an estimated $250 damage. The truck-tractor had approximately $10 damage.

Driver Cited After Accident

A 1964 car driven by Everett T. Scott, 904 E. Frederic, and a 1951 Pickup driven by Leslie M. Morgan, 810 S. Somerville, were involved in an accident at 12:01 p.m. yesterday at the entrance to the Coronado Shopping Center.

No damage to the pickup was reported. The Scott car had $65 damage.

Morgan was charged with failure to control speed to avoid an accident.

New Employment Rate Makes Tax Increase Unlikely

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The June unemployment rate, unchanged from May's 4 per cent of the work force, has further lessened the likelihood President Johnson will ask for an anti-inflation tax increase.

Labor Department statistics released Monday showed unemployment standing at the same level as January after a sharp dip to the 7.7 per cent range in February, March and April.

Very low unemployment levels are linked with extra-high speed expansion of the economy, a condition which tends to cause prices to rise and money to lose its value.

The 4 per cent June rate was another indication some of the steam has gone out of the overheated economy and it may not be necessary to reduce consumer buying power by raising taxes. The June, 1965, rate was 4.7 per cent.

How Much Will 'Medicaid' Cost?

By TOM NOLAN
Washington Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Like any new-born baby, Medicare is causing some financial worries for its proud parents.

Chief among these is the fear that a little-known section of the program will cost far more than even the wildest original prediction. This section is Title 19, sometimes called Medicaid, and already Sen. John Williams, R-Del., is charging that the administration made a "multimillion-dollar blunder" in estimating its cost.

Many of the problems in Title 19 may never surface since their bills. So far, eight states have had Medicaid plans approved by the Health, Education and Welfare Department. Six others, including New York's, are under HEW review.

Together, the eight approved plans estimate their needs in additional federal funds to be about $260 million for the first year. HEW originally estimated the government's share of Medicaid for the first year at $240 million.

Doing some mental arithmetic, Williams figures that if the 42 other states implement similar plans, Medicaid alone might cost taxpayers $1 billion questions in another area: government regulation. With one level of treatment available to the medically needy in some states and no program in others, Congress would face heavy pressure to rectify the imbalance.

Whatever comes of these deliberations, some form of medical assistance for those who need it but can't pay for it—regardless of age—seems to be here to stay. The health care concept and the medical profession will perhaps never be the same.

Nor, for that matter, may the U.S. Treasury.

NINETEEN MILLION AMERICANS now possess health insurance cards and millions more, not necessarily 65, will also be eligible for medical aid. And this, some say, may be terribly expensive.

House and Senate committees are currently debating whether Congress really intended to be so magnanimous with Medicaid.

What Title 19 provides essentially is matching federal money to states aiding "medical indigents" under 21 and over 75, as well as any adult in between who is blind, disabled or part of a family with dependent children.

It bears little resemblance to Medicare, since it is not tied to Social Security and, of course, is not limited to the elderly.

Title 19 leaves it up to the states to decide who is medically indigent. And that's the financial rub.

New York's state legislature had originally approved a plan which would allow a family of four to earn $6,000 a year and still be medically indigent. Some observers had estimated that more than a third of the state's 17 million people would have qualified for aid under this yardstick. The plan was recently amended, and now requires families with gross incomes of more than $2,500 to pay part of annually. Many federal sources concede that Williams may be close to the mark. "If the states decide that half of their people are 'sick poor'—and in some places perhaps they are—then Medicaid is going to cost a lot of money," says one.

Once the state legislature passes enabling legislation and the plan receives HEW approval, the program can start, financed mostly by federal money. Each state puts up a share proportionate to its per capita income; federal participation, it is said, will range from 55 to 83 percent.

Financial worries are not the only fears nagging the administration. "Nobody knows what kind of programs Title 19 is capable of producing," complains one senator. "It's more than likely some states will adopt programs which in effect will do nothing," adds an HEW official. In some states, Medicaid indeed might never be adopted.

This, of course, might lessen the government's financial burden, but it raises some prickly

First, there is Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) playing a mob scene in support of a demand that the Great Society move to eliminate poverty by 1970—in four short years.

ADA has no political responsibility. But ADA possesses great political power. It is an egghead outfit well organized along the lines of the British Fabian Society which set itself up more than 50 years ago to nudge the United Kingdom toward socialism. Socialism may not be the ADA purpose, but the organizational similarity with the Fabians is obvious.

The importance of ADA in Great Society councils is indicated by the fact that soon after publication of ADA's political program (including the abolition of poverty by 1970) the Great Society began to make parallel promises notable mostly for the absence of any binding commitment by President Johnson or any major spokesman for the administration.

Next up after ADA was Sargent Shriver, the Kennedy in law who has not been able to match in the war against poverty his success with the Peace Corps.

Although not a Kennedy by blood, Shriver is a pretty good politician. Before a Senate labor subcommittee in late June, Shriver revealed a goal to eliminate poverty in 10 years. But in the true political tradition, Shriver did not accompany this with any cost estimate. On a television show last week, however, he estimated the cost at between $30 and $40 billion.

Meantime, another bucket of voter bait was being readied in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) in the form of an election year blueprint paid for and distributed by HEW. With this publication appeared on the political stage Wilbur J. Cohen, described as No. 2 man in HEW.

His booklet covered a great range of Great Society projects. He estimated that the United States would use its increasing wealth to eliminate poverty in fewer than 20 years. Cohen was less optimistic than the others. He spread the poverty war over a long period, four times the ADA estimate and about twice Shriver's guess.

If politicians were subject to truth-in-packaging rules such as they impose on breakfast foods, drugs and woolen materials, Shriver, Cohen and company would be forbidden to come up with these half-way commitments to end poverty in America. Whatever Cohen, Shriver and others may intend, their extravagant, unsupported statements tend to mislead the voters and to win elections.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International

In this political year the question arises as to whether the Johnson administration is or is not committed to an effort to end poverty in America.

If the Johnson administration is not so committed, there is being spread before poverty-stricken citizens cruel voter bait as bright yellow kernels of corn sometimes spread in shallow water to bait ducks.

It is a federal offense so to bait hungry ducks. No law protects the hungry voter. The administration speaks of poverty in a confusion of tongues.

Foreign News
Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Although one may wonder why the word from New Delhi is that Mrs. Indira Gandhi likes her job as prime minister of India and intends to remain in it.

The wonderment springs from the fact that India's problems appear to multiply at about the same rate as her population and that Mrs. Gandhi has them in great abundance whether she looks to a stagnant economy, a hungry population, the political dangers of a coming general election or to international affairs.

The result is a tight-rope act more difficult than any ever devised by Ringling Bros. or Barnum & Bailey.

Currently wending her way toward Moscow via Cairo and Belgrade, Mrs. Gandhi seeks to reassure Presidents Nasser and Tito and the Kremlin that her increasingly close financial ties to the United States removes her neither from the lists of the non-aligned nor the socialist countries.

Caution is required because India has assured the United States that it views the U.S. position in Viet Nam with sympathy and understanding. Tito, Nasser and naturally the Kremlin have denounced the U.S. position vehemently.

Moscow has been increasingly critical of recent economic steps taken by India in response to pressures from the United States and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

These have included devaluation of the rupee and steps to permit, if not actually encourage, foreign investment in certain fields, notably fertilizer, and to liberalize other economic controls.

But, while Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin may remind Mrs. Gandhi that the Soviet Union filled with MIG fighter planes, missiles and tanks a vacuum left by suspension of U.S. military aid, Mrs. Gandhi may also reply that when it came to massive dollar aid she had no place to turn but to the United States.

These same concerns create problems for Mrs. Gandhi at home.

Vocal leftists, including the Communists and such as V.K. Krishna Menon, have accused her of selling out the socialism of her father, the late Jawaharlal Nehru, to the American dollar.

Others, among them the president of Mrs. Gandhi's own Congress Party, Kumaraswami Kamaraj, opposed devaluation of the rupee because it meant increased prices at home and corresponding hardships at a time when elections were approaching.

Kamaraj was a major factor in Mrs. Gandhi's elevation to office six months ago and he still controls the party machinery.

A 10-nation consortium, with the United States the largest contributor, made economic reforms a condition for raising $900 million in aid to India. Last week the United States took the first step in announcing agreement to provide India with $150 million to finance imports of raw materials, components and spare parts.

For her part, Mrs. Gandhi is following in the footsteps of her father. She is going to the people over the heads of her party critics.

A new firm, Tri-State Data Processing Company, 520 Cook, opened recently in Pampa to provide all types of data processing relating to cost analysis, financial statements, including operation statements, and customer accounts receivable.
"The business is in a position," said Horace E. Watkins Jr., owner, "to handle all bookkeeping services of most companies or any phase of the customer's operations relative to bookkeeping."
Data processing information is secured from the customer through invoices, checks and other bookkeeping information, Watkins explained. Depending upon need of the customer, information is transmitted to a card by key punching.
"Key punching," explained Watkins, "is the process of punching holes in IBM cards, indicating the information desired."
After transmission of the information, the data card is then processed further by account number, customer number, product number or any other sequency notation dependent upon the desired information.
The cards are then placed in a tabulating machine along with a panel specifically wired for the job.
The cards and the panel together relay the information through the machine," Watkins continued, "and the machine prints the desired results automatically."
After processing has been accomplished, all cards are stored for future use. They are available for use at any future time if the information is needed again.
The time involved for data processing is based upon the number of cards to be processed, and the information that is key-punched in each card.
Tri-State is not an accounting firm, and it does not advertise as such.
"We are primarily a data processing service center," Watkins stated.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — In the great Hollywood tradition of sequels to major film efforts, ABC-TV now has followed up its new daytime series, "The Dating Game."
Its soulmate is entitled "The Newlywed Game," or how I learned to stop worrying and love my wife.
And, of all things, the Monday premiere of the daily, half-hour afternoon game show — which tries to reveal how much newlywed couples really know about each other — was carried off rather pleasantly.
The chief reason is that all of the four young participating couples were very amiable and attractive. One of the participants was Keely Smith, whose comments added a good deal of natural humor to the occasion.
There is no question that the most important figure in this show is the person who chooses the couples that participate, for with the wrong ones the half-hour would be as dead as say, "The Dating Game," which is simply too precious.
The host of "The Newlywed Game," Bob Eubanks, was also quite pleasant and unpretentious in his chores.
Now — as for that business about revealing how much the newlywed couples really know about each other — well, I mean, the points raised weren't exactly life-and-death matters, if you know what I mean.
At the start, however, the announcer did indeed make it seem that the show would be a deathly affair by intoning that the couples were "lovable and unpredictable."
However, things started picking up as soon as the format took shape. What happens is that for half the show the husbands are questioned about their wives, and then the women return to see if they can match the answers. For the other half of the program, the

Health Unit's Prime Function To Patrol Eating Facilities

By LARRY HOLLIS
Daily News Reporter
The City Health Department attempts to insure that all eating and drinking establishments meet the sanitary conditions set by the state, according to E. O. Devoll, department director.
"We make sanitary inspections of all eating and drinking establishments," Devoll said. The various establishments are checked according to standards set by the state. Each is graded by points, as called for by a state survey once a year. Last year Pampa received a grading of 85.7 per cent.
Among matters checked in each place are floors, ceilings and walls. All of these are supposed to be clean, smooth and in good repair, stated Devoll. In addition, doors and windows should have screens or other ways of keeping out flies and other insects.
The lighting must be effective with no unsafe darkness. All toilet and lavatory facilities, including soap and towels, must be clean and in good condition. Bacterial treatment should also be given, Devoll said.
In short, the premises must be kept clean.
This also goes for employees. All employees, particularly those who handle the food, are required to have a health certificate.
Utensils and dishes should be in good condition and be cleaned effectively. Dishes should be submerged in water at 170 degrees for at least five minutes, or otherwise treated.
"All places must have a health certificate," Devoll said. These permits run from May 1 to April 30 of each year. A permit must be had for each year or part of a year.
Violations on two consecutive inspections will cause the revoking of the permit," Devoll said. The owner has his permit suspended and is not allowed to operate the place of business until the conditions have been corrected.
Most of the time, though, the health department has little trouble with its inspections, as employees and owners are acquainted with the laws and ordinances.
"Almost everybody has been cooperative," he stated.
The health department has other duties besides inspection of restaurants and cafes. It also has to take care of weed complaints, meat and milk inspection and rabid dogs, Devoll explained.

NEW YORK (UPI) — P. W. Brooks & Co., says there still is not enough evidence that the stock list is strong enough to support a break through the 900-910 resistance level of the Dow Jones industrial average. As a result, the analyst reiterates that further consolidation is in prospect prior to a sustained price rise.
Reynolds & Co. says it expects a near term assault on the 910 resistance barrier, with success fairly well assured. It claims that the market has shown it can weather adverse news such as tighter interest rates and escalation of the Viet Nam war and expresses the belief that "the near-term path of least resistance lies in an upward direction."
A summer stock market rally is now under way, claims the Granville market letter. The analyst lists a number of factors to back up its contention, such as the current "moderate" price-earnings ratio of issues used in the Dow Jones averages, a rise in the June short interest report and expectations generally that second quarter earnings will be "quite good."

Dear Abby....

Teachers' Advice
May Be the Answer

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 13, and everyone who meets her tells us how lucky we are to have such a sweet, well-mannered, intelligent child. The truth is, she's deceitful, cruel, and a real problem. We can't even keep a pet for fear she'll torture it to death. (She's already done away with a kitten and a full-grown poodle.) She cannot be trusted and is such a clever little liar she worries us.

Outside the home she puts on a goody-goody act that could fool anybody. Her ambition is to be an actress, and she would make a good one. How can we straighten her out? She's not dumb. In fact, she's too smart for her own good. Don't suggest a psychiatrist. She could turn on the charm and have him eating out of her hand in no time.

Short Evening Dress Plus a Bushel
Of Beads Is a Big Fashion for Fall

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The short evening dress is the big evening dress for fall and winter. Add to it a bushel or so of beads and you've the picture of what's chic for formal evenings ahead.

Beaded dresses have been standard fare with some manufacturers of women's wear for any number of seasons. But now, just about everybody is drawing the bead on fashion and "firing away" as one writer put it.

"Short, tent-shaped dresses are paved with glitter. The skinny shapes are often transparent, heavily beaded all over on nude chignon. And to give you an idea of the work involved, Mollie Parnis, the designer-manufacturer, said that to bead enough fabric for just one of her best-selling short formal takes one seamstress five weeks. No wonder price tags read $800 on up to $2,000 retail.

Designers use beads in assorted pale colors, and sometimes with dramatic results in shimmering jet overall.

Beaded after beaded dress showed for members of the New York Couture Business Council, Inc., which last week staged a series of fall shows for the nation's fashion reporters. This week, another organization — the American designers group — has its day in the spotlight.

That idea of the nude underlayer of fabric often is carried out with a separate beaded "cage" over it. Or sometimes the beading is omitted and other luxury touches added.

The Grecian-born designer George Stavropoulos, now headquartered in New York, uses the master's touch in a floor-length chignon, nude in color, with the cage in red swiss, made lace. Long sleeves of the cage are roomy through the shoulders, narrowed to a tight wrist.

The short evening dress is "in" for fall, but the long formal goes on and on, anyway. Shapes range from slim columns to tent-shapes, with narrow tops, swirling skirts. Some of the more spectacular come in cut velvets hanging from jeweled neckbands and with jeweled armholes.

A survey of about 40 colleges and universities indicates there are three bicycles for every four students.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: There will be a very smart child as well as good physical body that will lend itself to whatever is of a practical nature, and especially where the child is very interested, since the power of decision here is very keen and sharp, and you should do well to give courses of study in which the idealistic is stressed so that it results in a very fine combination, which is the key to success in this chart.

INSULTED: A stranger.

DEAR ABBY: My 10-year-old son is a Little League. The position he holds is "bench-warmer." He and several other boys attend practice every night. Last night he announced that he didn't want to go to any more games, because it was boring just sitting in the dugout. But he said he wanted to continue going to practice because at least everybody got to play then.

Now I know this isn't an earth-shaking problem, but it seems to me the managers and coaches place too much emphasis on winning. I think it is only fair that each boy gets a chance to play, no matter how poor he is. It would be interesting to hear from some of the managers and coaches out there.

BENCH-WARMER'S MOM

DEAR ABBY: I chuckled when I read the letter from the "Hurt Grandmother," who had bought so many lovely little dresses for her granddaughters, but saw them only in mismatched jeans and blouses. I was reminded of a trick I once played on my mother, who also used to buy my daughters gorgeous dresses on every occasion.

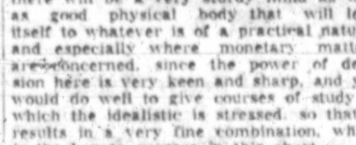

When I knew mother was coming, I quickly washed two of the lovely fancy dresses she had given my girls. As usual, mother asked if she could "do anything" while I prepared dinner. I told her she could iron the two dresses. Abby, it took her exactly one hour and five minutes to iron those two dresses! Not

Make a meal-in-one sandwich with corn bread made from a mix. Prepare and bake the corn bread as label directs. Cut the hot bread into six pieces and slice each horizontally. Place on cookie sheet, cut sides up. Spread each with deviled ham. Top with cooked turkey slices and cooked asparagus spears. Place in pre-heated 450-degree oven long enough to heat toppings and serve with sauce made by blending and heating a 10½ ounce can of condensed cream of celery soup with ¼ cup of milk. Makes 6 servings.

Snakeroot, or milkwort, was once so well known as a panacea that quacks added it to all snake oil and swamp water.

Former Pampa News' Editor To Speak at Cancer Meeting

Jim Dean, former managing editor of The Pampa News and now news editor of the Santa Ana, Calif., Register, a sister newspaper, will be one of the speakers Friday at the opening session of the third annual conference of the International Association of Cancer Victims and Friends in Los Angeles.

Dean's topic will be "A Universal Standard of Right."

San Francisco attorney Melvin Belli, who defended Jack Ruby, slayer of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, will be the principal speaker on Saturday. Belli will speak on "Cancer Laws and the medical Consumer."

Delegates to the international conference will hear talks by physicians, attorneys and others discussing cancer treatments and legal aspects of modern medicine.

Three Pampa FFA Students Depart For State Meet

Three Future Farmers of America left Pampa this morning to attend the state FFA convention Wednesday through Friday in the city auditorium at Austin.

The three youths are J. T. Rogers Jr., out-going president of the Pampa chapter; Bill Skaggs, vice-president; and Andy Cole, chaplain. Bill Skaggs, FFA sponsor and Vocational Agriculture teacher at Pampa High School, is accompanying the boys.

Rogers, 1966 graduate of Pampa High School, will receive a state award for his three years work in FFA. Larry Richardson, 1966 graduate, also will receive a similar award, but was not able to attend the convention. Richardson served as secretary of the local chapter and of the district.

James Baggerman, 1964 graduate, has been selected to receive one of the American Farmer awards, presented across the nation. The award will be accepted at the state convention, but Baggerman, who was unable to go to the state meet, will attend the national convention at Kansas City, Mo., in October to receive the honor.

About 5,000 Texas Future Farmers are expected to attend the convention. One official delegate from each of the state's 1,022 local chapters will comprise the voting body for convention business.

Howard Williams, national president, will be the featured speaker during the Lone Star Farmer Awards program Thursday. George J. Befo, director of the Texas Department of Corrections, will speak at the first general session.

At the convention sessions, awards will be presented for public speaking and various facets of Future Farmer work. Scholarships also will be presented.

Former Manager Proud of Son-in-Law McLain

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The proudest guy in the ball park, maybe even the whole world, will be the fellow with his chest way out to here, telling everyone around him, "That's my son-in-law."

Lou Boudreau will be the guy popping his buttons and he'll be talking about Denny McLain, the starting pitcher for the American League All-Stars.

Boudreau played for the Cleveland Indians and also managed them as well as the Boston Red Sox and Kansas City A's.

He broadcasts the Cubs' games now for radio station WGN in Chicago but today he'll be strictly a proud father-in-law.

This will be the first time I've ever seen Denny pitch," said Boudreau. "I'll be rooting for him and the American League. Only for the first three innings, though. Then I'm switching my allegiance to the National League and Ron Santo."

Boudreau laughed at his little joke. But neither he nor his wife, Della, laughed when their daughter, Sharyn, came home one day in 1963 and announced she was going to marry a ball player.

"Della and I, for example, have been married 30 years, all of which time I've been in baseball. Of those 30 years ago you have any idea how long she and I have spent together? Only five years, all told. Can you imagine that? But what can you do with all that traveling?"

The pert, attractive Sharyn, who had dated the late Kenny Hubbs of the Cubs before meeting McLain, listened to what her parents told her. Her mind was made up, though. She married McLain on Oct. 5, 1963.

"She simply told us she was in love with him and she was going to marry Denny no matter what," said Boudreau. "So we gave them both our blessing. The marriage has worked out wonderfully."

McLain's Record

McLain has a 13.4 record so far this season for the Tigers and you couldn't pry him away from them for love or money, but he once belonged to the Chicago White Sox. He was with the White Sox in spring training in 1963 when he and Sharyn "got serious."

"The White Sox had to make a decision on whether to keep me or Bruce Howard, another pitcher," said McLain.

"Ed Short, the White Sox general manager, got up this idea of pitching Howard against me in an intra-squad game. I lost 2-1, and the next day I was gone."

To Detroit on waivers, it turned out.

The White Sox lost themselves a top-drawer pitcher.

That doesn't bother Lou Boudreau's little girl because she feels she got a good husband.

And it sure doesn't bother her father because he figures he gained a fine hard-throwing son-in-law.

'King,' McLain To Start for 'Stars'

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Walter Alton went against baseball percentage today when he sent out Sandy Koufax, his southpaw ace, to pitch for the National League against the American in the All-Star game today.

Alton decided to go with Koufax "because he deserves a starting chance" against an AL job against us," said Mele, the pilot of the Minnesota Twins, "and there's no reason he can't do it, against them."

In his last start on Saturday, McLain, who is 13-4 for the season, held the Twins to two hits and won, 8-1. The victory gave McLain a 2-0 record against the Twins this year.

and he said he would." Alton disclosed. "That settled it."

"After all, Marichal has started before. I will say that any manager is in a pretty good spot when all he has to do is decide between Koufax and Marichal. You can't go wrong, no matter which one you pick."

For the season, there isn't much to choose between Koufax and McLain. The Los Angeles Dodgers pitching leader has won 15 games while losing four.

"The only thing I can say is that he did fine last October," observed Mele.

That's when Koufax led the Dodgers to their World Series triumph over Mele's Twins, four games to three, with Koufax winning two.

That brilliant Koufax hurling made Alton's World Series record four victories against one defeat. In All-Star games, Alton has led the National League to four victories against two defeats.

Alton had been expected to start Marichal, a 14-game winner, because such AL sluggers as the Robinsons, from Baltimore - Frank and Brooks - Al Kaline of Detroit, and rookie George Scott of Boston bat from the right side of the plate.

McLain was chosen to the All-Star team for the first time in his career.

Koufax, on the other hand, is an old-timer in the mid-summer warfare. This will be his first start, but he has appeared in three previous games and the American League has yet to score a run against the classy southpaw.

Alton, fearing he might be criticized for selecting his own pitcher over Juan Marichal of lineup that features seven righthand hitters.

Koufax and his National League teammates were 7-5 favorites to make it four in a row over the Americans and put the senior circuit farther ahead in this baseball classic.

The Nationals won last year's game, 6-5, with Koufax the winning pitcher. The triumph put them ahead in the series, 18-17, for the first time. The AL once held a 12-4 lead but the NL caught up and went ahead by winning seven of the last eight games.

Reversed Trend

Reversing Alton's trend, Manager Sam Mele of the American League went with the percentages when he chose Denny McLain, the righthanded star of the Detroit Tigers, to face Koufax.

The game is scheduled to start at 12 noon CST with Vice President Hubert Humphrey throwing out the first ball in the new $26 million Busch Memorial Stadium before a capacity throng of 20,000.

Soviets Face Threat Of Olympics Banning

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union, risking possible expulsion from the Olympic Games, has canceled its annual track and field meet against the United States in reprisal for American "atrocities in Viet Nam."

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, declared Monday that Russian athletes resolved unanimously to forego the scheduled dual meet at Los Angeles July 23-24. The team was due to leave for the United States today.

Also canceled was the scheduled visit of a U.S. basketball team here later this month.

A U.S. swimming team was due to arrive here today following a meet in Warsaw to take part in a 10-nation competition this weekend, but it was not yet known whether the Americans would show. It was expected, however, they would cancel out in retaliation for the Soviet moves.

Also in doubt was a scheduled dual track and field meet between the United States and Poland at Berkeley, Calif., this weekend. Polish officials apparently were caught by surprise at the Russian withdrawal and reserved a decision on their intentions until this afternoon.

According to Tass, the Russian track team met Monday and passed a unanimous resolution condemning American "aggression" in Viet Nam.

The resolution read: "Our hatred for the American military who are perpetrating atrocities in Viet Nam and our solidarity with the people of Viet Nam who are fighting for their freedom and independence does not permit us to take part in a match with sportsmen of a country from where this aggression comes."

The International Olympic Committee may take a dim view of the Soviet Union's withdrawal from its scheduled track and field meet with the United States here July 23-24, according to sponsors of the canceled meet.

Former West Point football star Glenn Davis, meet director for the sponsoring Los Angeles Times, said Monday he was told by Col. Don Hull, executive director of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union, that Russia's breach of a formal contract "would jeopardize their standing with the International Amateur Athletic Federation."

"Hull said such action could mean that the Soviets would be banned from all international competition including the Olympic Games," Davis explained.

Davis still had not heard from official sources in Moscow about the cancellation of the meet. He said he had been unable to contact Russian sports officials and was awaiting further word from Hull, who was in Frankfurt, Germany, with a U.S. basketball team scheduled to tour the U.S.S.R.

Davis said he was trying to set up an alternate meet, possibly with England or West Germany. He said he did not know if Poland, scheduled to send a track and field squad against the United States this weekend, in Berkeley, Calif., also would withdraw.

Griffith May Be Underdog in Crown Defense

NEW YORK (UPI)—Emile Griffith may go into the ring the underdog Wednesday night when he makes the first defense of his world middleweight championship against Joey Archer.

On the eve of the title fight set at Madison Square Garden, the odds dropped to even money on the fight. If Griffith, a natural welterweight, comes in around 150 pounds at Wednesday's weigh-in, the late odds may shift to Archer as the favorite.

A natural middleweight, Archer weighed 161 pounds Sunday when he finished training for the bout and he will have to lose a pound to come in at the 160-pound weight limit.

But Griffith's manager, Gil Clancy, was unworried about the shift in the betting for the bout.

"Griffith is a middleweight from the waist up. In fact, he's the best fighter in the world today. I'll make a prediction for Emile—he'll knock out Archer in an early round," Clancy said.

Griffith won the title on April 25 when he took a 15-round decision from Dick Tiger even though most ringside observers gave the edge to Tiger.

Archer seems certain the title is going to change hands again in this fight.

"I have weight, speed and desire going for me, I've been denied this chance for three years and now that I have it I'm going to win," Archer said.

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Fighting Words

The Textile Workers Union of America recently asked that President Johnson issue an executive order banning the award of government contracts to an important supplier of vitally needed defense materials. The reason? A long-standing controversy between the union and the company.

Happily, the Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee in Washington, Democrat L. Mendel Rivers, is both a patriot and a fighter. The Congressional Record for June 20 carries some fighting words by the Congressman which jump off the page to remind us how precariously intertwined are battles being fought here at home and in Vietnam.

"I would like," said Rep. Rivers, "to bring to the attention of the Congress what I consider the real story behind the current controversy between the National Labor Relations Board, the AFL-CIO and J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc., one of the country's largest textile firms."

"By way of review let me say briefly that this controversy began in 1963 with a massive effort on the part of a group of unions . . . to organize the plants of Stevens.

"It is not my purpose to argue here today the merits of this controversy. Let me just say that in elections held in eight Stevens plants, employees have voted against the union in each and every one of these elections. In one of these plants . . . the NLRB ordered a rerun election . . . the employees went to the polls and voted the union down by a margin twice as large as before.

"This case has been argued in two U.S. district courts and the U. S. court of appeals as the union and the NLRB sought an injunction against the company. Each one of these courts refused to issue such an injunction.

"I say to you unequivocally, any individual or group that asks the Federal Government to withhold contracts for vitally needed war materials from a company, simply because it has been found by the NLRB to be in violation of the Federal labor law is acting irresponsibly and without any thought for the welfare of our Armed Forces.

"This is merely a desperate attempt by the AFL-CIO Council to gain, by fiat from our Government, bargaining authority which it has not been able to win in secret ballot elections."

Critical supplies and equipment for Vietnam are involved in this home-front fight. Congressman Rivers thinks that our soldiers take priority over labor bosses. We agree.

On Raising $200 Million

How do you raise $200,000,000.00?

That is a large order for anyone, whether it's a politician trying to buy a slice of utopia for his constituents, a highway department anxious to build a six-lane highway, or a global-minded diplomat trying to share our wealth with an emerging nation.

However, the $200 million we have in mind is for Presidential electioneering costs. That is what the tab came to in 1964, and in 1968 you may be sure it will be even higher. Getting that kind of money every four years isn't easy, and it isn't giving any secrets away to point out that political fund raising has often involved legal blackmail and extortion of a scandalous nature.

We all know that one of our booming industries is the political dinner, where swarms of vulnerable people give command performances gnawing at rubbery chicken or tough roast beef priced at $100 a plate or more. Everyone knows how businessmen dealing with government officials are called upon to buy worthless advertising at fantastic rates in trashy political publications. And we keep hearing about even more

"WIN" POLICY ESSENTIAL
U. S. aerial attacks against communist oil depots near Hanoi and Haiphong, North Viet Nam, were a long overdue response to increasing communist aggression against South Viet Nam.

It is fortunate for the U. S. that President Johnson disregarded the fear and smear campaign waged by Democratic Senators J. W. Fulbright and Wayne Morse, who have endeavored to present the American Republic as a warmonger. The bombing raids on the communist heartland were necessary to prevent a further acceleration of American and allied casualties. Had the air raids been conducted months ago, the lives of many Americans would have been saved. Fuel from North Viet Nam has enabled communists to truck great quantities of war material and reinforcements to South Viet Nam.

While the President is to be congratulated on making the right decision in the interest of U. S. security, the public should not forget that it was the conservative wings of both political parties that have urged stepped-up warfare against communist aggressors in Asia. The conservatives initially advanced the idea of the air raids, and the conservatives prepared the public for stern action.

Indeed leading conservatives in both parties have worked night and day for years to convince the American people and government that a "win" policy is essential if the communist threat to U. S. security ever is to be ended. It has been a terrific struggle to counter the defeatism and appeasement of the "no win" theorists. The struggle is not yet over.

Mr. Johnson rightly declared in a speech at Omaha, Neb., that American fighting men won't fail this nation; the danger is that the people at home will fail to support an essential struggle.

His latest utterance was to imply that the United States was conducting "one of the most barbarous wars in history" in Viet Nam. He had nothing to say about the fact that there would be no war there if the Communists hadn't set out to overthrow the government of South Viet Nam.

He advises us to stop bombing North Viet Nam and to scale down the ground action, then to negotiate with all those participating in the struggle—that is, with the communist Viet Cong and communist North Viet Nam. This is a formula for American surrender.

That is off shortly for Moscow at Russia's invitation. He will run through his plans with the Communists there to bring about the cessation of American resistance to communist aggression in Asia. He has always had a friendly word for the Soviet Union. A few years ago, when Nikita Khrushchev was still in the driver's seat, Thant paid tribute to him as being "in a different category of leaders" from Stalin and his clique.

It did not occur to Thant that Khrushchev had made his way to the top as Stalin's faithful errand boy, commissioned, among other tasks, to carry out mass liquidation of dissidents in the Ukraine. Khrushchev was credited by Thant with having "a coherent philosophy of the world based on the thesis not of the inevitability of war, but the imperative of competitive co-existence."

Thant embroidered this account with a subsequent attack on the American press and broadcasters for cultivating a hostility to communism "bordering on obsession." He represented communism as a friendly and innocent system, content to live and let live, but subject to unjust suspicions "fed daily by mass media." He had nothing to say about the stream of virulent propaganda fed out by the controlled communications of Russia and Red China.

A further disservice to the United States was Thant's officious meddling after the confrontation with Russia over missile installations in Cuba. Khrushchev pledged on-site inspection after promising to remove the soviet rockets, but Thant, after conferring with Fidel Castro, scuttled the deal as an affront to Cuban "sovereignty."

The secretary-general has bucked American policy unwittingly in an attempt to permit Red China to shoot its way into the United Nations. In fact, it is impossible to recall a single issue on which he was ever sympathetic to this country, but, with its usual facility for

The vacillating "guest" who lingers on the doorstep for a series of indecisive leave-takings brings to mind U. Thant, who can't quite make up his mind whether to give up his job as secretary-general of the United Nations or to bid for another five-year term. Our advice to him is to take his hat and head back to Burma.

Thant has used his post at the U. S. to direct a constant rain of criticism on the United States. He has never found this country right in anything, but he always manages to find redeeming features in communism.

rewarding those who kick it, the Johnson administration has gratuitously announced that it wants him to stay on the job. Our reaction is that he should stop blocking the door and get traveling. If no one else will be any better in a useless job, certainly no one could be any worse for American interests.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Blood Pressure Range May Vary Widely
Q—I am 57 years old and have high blood pressure. What should my pressure be? Would a cocktail before dinner be harmful? Would a large amount of salt on my food effect my blood pressure? Several years ago I read about a rice diet used at Duke University to control high blood pressure. What do you think of this diet?

A—The blood pressure varies widely. The upper (systolic) reading should be about 100 plus half your age but readings that are much higher may be observed and have no significance. The reading to watch is the lower (diastolic) level which should never be over 100.

Inasmuch as a cocktail may help you to relax it may lower your blood pressure slightly. Sodium as table salt or in any other form tends to increase your pressure.

Hunt for Truth
BY H. L. HUNT
TARGET: SENATOR DODD
In view of the high moral tone often taken by destructive critics of America and scoffers at patriotism, there is a kind of ugly fascination in observing the ruthless consistency with which they hold to a double standard of right and wrong.

It is criminal, they say, for us to defend Viet Nam; but it is noble and righteous to crush Khatanga and obliterate Rhodesia. It is perfectly right to lobby for a bill authorizing great expenditure of tax-payers' money, but let a private organization speak out against such a bill and the status of that organization is condemned.

For over a year a member of Congress, Adam Clayton Powell of New York, could not go to his own district because he was in contempt of court there; but the "anti-extremist" press took little notice. Now that charges of misconduct, still unproved, have been made against Senator Dodd of Connecticut, the pack is in full cry.

It is no coincidence that Congressman Powell, who almost always votes with the far-left, was unscathed while Senator Dodd has been a forthright voice in support of a strong pro-American foreign policy. The enemies he has made by this stand are now gathering for the kill.

It is too early to judge Senator Dodd's case. He may or he may not have made certain mistakes. But we can be sure that another Senator who had made the same mistakes of which Senator Dodd is accused, but was not known as an anti-communist, would have suffered less censure.

Chanting Is Dynamite Cap In College Marches, Sit-ins

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) —

There's a common pattern in the emotional violence of the American student protest marches and sit-ins — whether against Viet Nam, the draft or university rules.

The violent pitch usually follows prolonged chanting or singing.

There is evidence the students are systematically worked up by experts.

This same pattern was noted by an American reporter in the 1960 Tokyo riots against President Eisenhower. The reporter moved without hurt among the demonstrators for five hours on the day of major violence, at the climax of which a howling army of students stormed the Japanese parliament. He wrote:

"They were too well-organized to be called a 'mob.' Individually, the demonstrators were just nice college kids out for a lark, amiable and polite. Occasionally, a few would stop and gather around me to express a liking for America, democracy and individual Americans like me.

"But toward evening, the agitators lined them up 20 abreast in a phalanx of locked arms. At each end, leaders with whistles blew a rhythmic one-two-three-four beat. They all jogged in unison to it, chanting . . . to the beat . . . The earth literally shook under their dog trot. As night came on, in the glare of the Japanese lanterns, the whole effect was hypnotic. Soon they had the glazed eyes of creatures frenzied beyond human reason."

A Communist Party USA general directive for the organization of demonstrations says: "Demonstrations must under no circumstances proceed in silence. Party members are responsible for seeing to it that the masses sing revolutionary songs and that appropriate slogans are chanted (in chorus)."

A Communist Party USA front organization article declares: "Singing stirs emotion, and emotion makes people act."

A Communist front group leader in Los Angeles explained: "I have sung to guys who wouldn't listen if you talked literally to them, but they damn near tore down the house with enthusiasm when you sing it to them. Of course, you must select your material so that it is a gradual education, otherwise you might find yourself rapidly getting nowhere."

Another front organization article noted: "It is surprising how much of the meaning of a song is absorbed by a child while singing it. The message of some of the contemporary folk songs carries greater weight in songs than in plain language." Politically oriented folk songs "make a deeper and more lasting impression than 20 lectures on the same subject."

A MEDICAL RESEARCHER into the subject says: "Electrical recordings of the human brain show . . . certain rates of rhythm can build up recordable abnormalities of brain function and explosive states of tension."

Other research indicates chants can compel whole crowds to accept political beliefs. The hypnotizing ritual gradually breaks the will.

The technique is comparable to Hitler's torchlight parades and chanting marches.

Such rhythm-induced hypnotic

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: "I am curious about the nature of questions that the Question Box excludes under the invitation to submit questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone. If it were a question regarding an unfounded rumor about a particular public personage, correcting the error hurts no one and least of all the target of the rumor. On the other hand, if a person or a group of people operates immorally and thrives on misplaced public confidence and ignorance, such facts revealed could be injurious to the perpetrator just as the concealment of the facts could be injurious to the victims. Please explain what type of question you have in mind, as my unimaginative mind cannot think of a 'for instance.' Thank you."

ANSWER: It's pretty hard to answer that question specifically because it would be hard to determine whether a rumor was unfounded or founded or had facts back of it.

For one thing, it is difficult to get people to understand what immorality is and what stealing or thievery is. They seem to think if stealing is done by an individual it is immoral but it's moral if the agents of the majority do it.

We do not believe that revealing facts of immorality is injurious to the perpetrator. The perpetrator is injuring himself, and making it known might have a tendency to make him reform. Public opinion is an awful influence on politicians and robbers.

It's hard to conceive how anybody could accuse us of not exposing the great wastes of government. The United States government is the biggest robber the world has ever known. The reason is that there's more to rob. Other governments have been robbers, but they didn't have as much to rob.

Again, a rumor that a man murdered a man cannot be disproved unless the rumor monger names the person who is supposed to have been murdered and the accused man is able to produce the so-called victim alive, then by proving the positive you can prove a negative. That's the only way you can prove a negative to be wrong, by proving a positive.

The reason we limit questions to those things that will improve the well being of mankind on this earth is that we do not want to get into the next world because we wouldn't be able to answer questions and we do not know anybody else who could. There are plenty of questions that pertain to man's relation to man on this earth. That's what we're particularly interested in.

As Henry D. Thoreau said, "One world at a time."
