Rusk Indicates No Pause In Bombing

MANILA (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk indicated today the United States planned no new pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam.

"If stopping of the bombing is step one, what is step two?" Rusk asked rhetorically. He spoke with newsmen on his arrival here for the Manila summit conference.

"There was no bombing for a period of five years...there was a shorter pause for five days...and a pause of 37 days. After the last pause Hanoi's reply was to tell the Allies to 'accept Hanoi's four conditions and get out of Viet Nam'."

Rusk said.

It had been suggested in some quarters the United States should again halt the air attacks as a gesture of good will during the conference.

Rusk noted the conference, which opens Monday, will bring together the heads of state of the seven nations that "are carrying the brunt of the battle" in Viet Nam.

He was asked about the possibility of a new peace proposal emerging from the conference.

"There has never been any lack of proposals," he said with a wry smile. "The trouble is there has never been anyone to talk to."

Shortly before Rusk's arrival, 200 university students demonstrated outside Manila's presidential palace demanding the conference discuss the withdrawal of all foreign troops from South Viet Nam.

Increase In Cong Prisoners May Indicate Morale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon experts said today the rising number of Communist prisoners taken in Viet Nam was an encouraging sign of deteriorating morale in Red ranks.

Spokesman cautioned against drawing any long range conclusions from the high and rising rate at which prisoners are being taken, but said it could be significant if it continued.

The sharp increase in October prisoners of war totals a record 748 for last week alone — was attributed to the greater efficiency of U.S. combat operations.

The prisoner count was only one of the signs being watched. Experts said the high losses and U.S. military victories in the past 14 months were also hurting Red morale.

Pentagon figures showed that the present rate at which Allied forces were taking prisoners would double that of 1965 if it continued.

Most impressive to the Pentagon was the record capture of 1,444 prisoners in the first two weeks of October. (See PRISONERS, Page 3)

Grocery Boycott Draws Followers

By United Press International

Housewives in Albuquerque have decided to join the trend and boycott grocery chain stores, but in Carlsbad the pickets manned by housewives found themselves the target of counter-picketing.

The southern New Mexico women picketed three stores Thursday urging a boycott until prices drop, but were picketed by retail clerk union members, who have been laid off.

At one of the stores in Carlsbad, a AFL-CIO union member carried a sign saying "this picket cost me my job. Why? I am a true union member."

The business manager of the Carlsbad local confirmed that at least two grocery clerks had been laid off "as a direct result" of the housewives' picketing.

But in Albuquerque, the boycott group, led by Mrs. Julie Naro, has decided to hold a mass rally Sunday to plan a huge boycott. Mrs. Naro Thursday charged that some district managers of chain groceries have been "giving us the run-around."

Mrs. Naro said men were getting into the act in Albuquerque. "We've had many men calling offering their support," she said. "They are just as enthusiastic as the women are."

In Hobbs Thursday, a statement was issued by Safeway Stores Inc. division manager R. L. Jaynes of El Paso.

"While some food prices are up," Jaynes said, "food still is a bargain. Relative to wages and salaries, food costs over the years have declined despite a higher quality diet, greater variety and greater convenience."

The apparent strategy of most protesting groups in New Mexico is to put economic pressure on the retailers in the hope they will pass the pressure along the line to processors and the processors to the producers.

Organizers in Las Cruces said that more than 2,000 housewives have signed a petition protesting high food prices. Mrs. James Boyer said motorcades to take housewives to Juarez, Mexico on daily shopping trips are being discussed.

Paint Douses Agents Riding LBJ Limousine

Australia's Overall Greeting Is Friendly

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Two anti-war demonstrators splattered plastic bags of red and green paint over President Johnson's bubbletop limousine and on Secret Service agents today to mark a rip-roaring welcome from 700,000 cheering Aussies.

No one was injured, though paint got in the eyes of some agents. One of the two young demonstrators either slipped or tried to throw himself beneath the limousine's wheels but quick-thinking agents pulled him away in time.

Another Victim Of Cincinnati's Strangler Found

CINCINNATI (UPI) — An elderly woman who was almost blind was found raped and strangled in her apartment Thursday night—the fifth victim of the Cincinnati strangler.

Police said Miss Rose Wintzel, 81, had been strangled with a heating lamp cord. She had been dead for at least 18 hours before her body was discovered, police said.

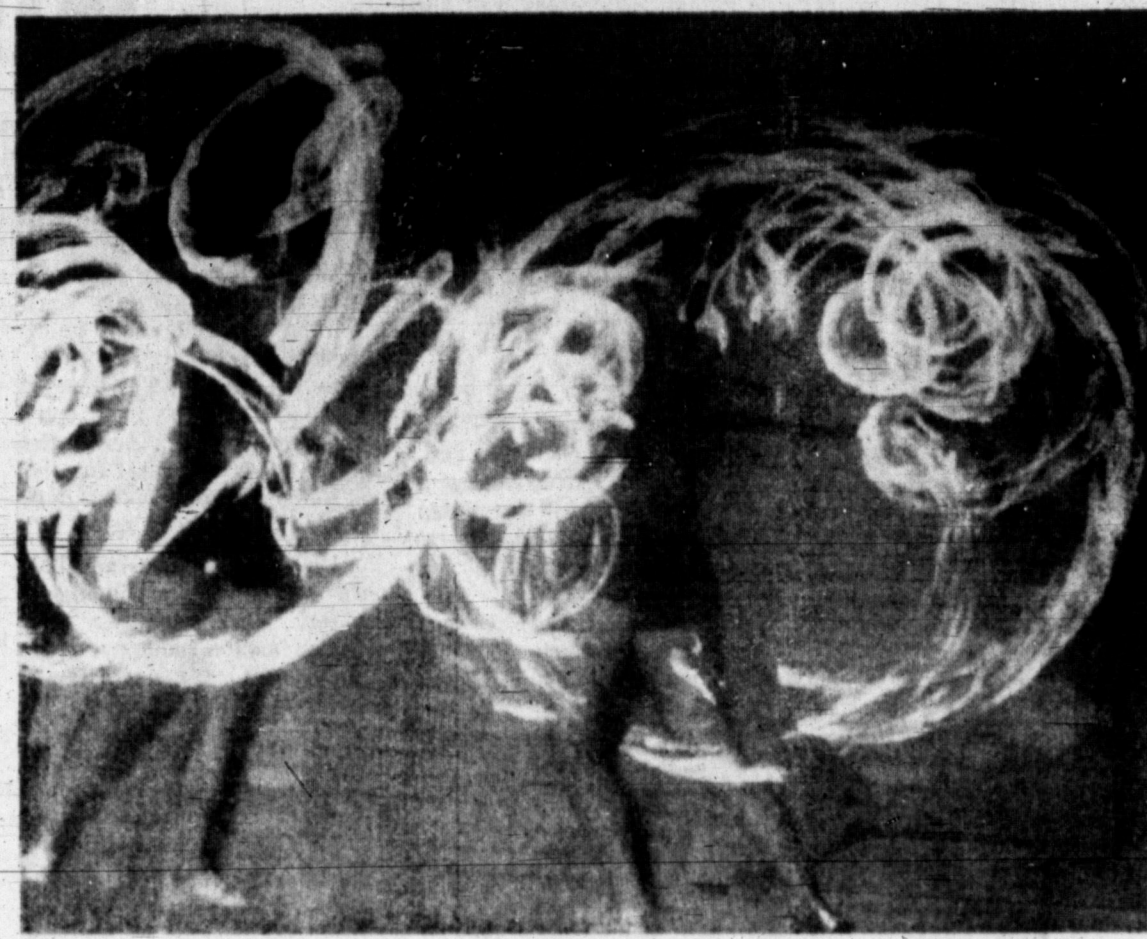

A 23-year-old Negro man was brought in for questioning a short time after the slaying was discovered and held overnight for investigation. Police said the suspect had been seen near the murder scene last Tuesday. It marked the first time in the intense search for the strangler that a suspect had been held.

Robert Wintzel, the victim's nephew, found the body at 7:45 p.m. CST when he went to the two-story house. He became concerned when his aunt did not answer the telephone. A chain lock on the door of her first-floor apartment had been torn off.

Police said she was nude from the waist down, with blankets covering the upper part of her body. The body was on the floor of a rear bedroom near the bed. She had been strangled on the jaw.

"This is an exact copy of the previous four rape-strangulations," said Col. Jacob Schott, chief of detectives.

Police said Miss Wintzel had lived alone in the predominant Negro district since her brother's death several years ago.

Wales Coal Pit Avalanche Buries School and Homes

MERTHYR TYDFIL, Wales (UPI) — A rain-triggered avalanche of tons of coal pit waste buried a school and crushed at least eight homes near here today.

Reports from the scene said 19 persons were dead. Three teachers and 113 children aged 7 to 11 were feared dead.

About 90 children and teachers were rescued alive from the ruins of Pantglas Infants School by frenzied rescuers tearing at the jagged debris with their bare hands.

Two hundred children were safely evacuated from an adjacent senior school which was unscathed.

A family of five died in one of the demolished houses and a canteen worker was killed, them. Some children, bloodied and caked with grime, were pulled out alive.

Authorities declared a full-scale emergency and a coal board spokesman called the situation "very grave."

"The coal pit waste slid onto the school and collapsed it," one civil defense worker said. "The waste was stacked outside a mine in Aberfan Village, four miles from the center of Merthyr Tydfil, a community of 6,100 about 20 miles northwest of Cardiff in southeast Wales. "Everything is being done as quickly as possible to save these poor little children," a rescue worker said.

A roll call was held outside the school to try to pin down the number of children missing. This mining area is used to roll calls — they follow every pit disaster.

This time the names that tumbled down upon the school and the homes from a air were those of miners' mountainlike mound behind children.

More than 1,000 rescue workers, including the mayor of Merthyr Tydfil, clawed with their bare hands and with tools at the thick chunks of rock that tumbled down upon the school and the homes from a mountainlike mound behind children.

Weather Outlook Remains Fair, Mild for Pampa Area

By United Press International

Temperatures warmed slightly around much of Texas early today, but another cold front was bearing down on the state and the Weather Bureau said the mercury would begin to dip over the Panhandle tonight.

High clouds and moderate winds held temperatures in the mid 50s over the northern half of the state before dawn today, but clear skies and light winds permitted the mercury to fall to the lower 40s in the interior portion of South Texas.

The clouds moved into the northern sections of the state in advance of the front, which was nowhere near as powerful as the latest blast of cold air which sent the mercury tumbling into the 20s early this week over Northwest Texas.

The clouds ranged as far south as Childress, and one pocket of clouds moved in off the gulf coast near Galveston.

Congress' 89th Session Labeled As 'Great Fulfillment,' 'Glaring Failure'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rights Act, minimum wage bill, House leaders of both parties looked back on the record of the 89th Congress today and not unexpectedly this close aim at the major problems elections—the scene was viewed with pride by Speaker John W. McCormack and with alarm by Republican Gerald R. Ford.

In separate appraisals prepared for UPI, McCormack stamped the 89th Congress as one of "fulfillment" of "great accomplishments," while Ford saw it as most memorable for a "glaring failure... to come to grips with inflation."

McCormack ticked off passage of these measures as milestones of progress: Medicare, the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, the Higher Education Act, the Housing Act and rent supplement program, the Voting and the cold war GI bill. "This Congress took dead aim at the major problems plaguing this nation—and it did not miss the mark," he said. "And it gives me a special sense of pride to be able to tell you that in the achievements of the 89th Congress, the Democratic party has again found political and social immortality."

Ford, while conceding the session "has not been without its accomplishments," scored the Democrat-controlled Congress for "failure... to come to grips with inflation and thus strike a blow for the little people and the aged."

Heart Pump Patient Dies

HOUSTON (UPI) — Doctors at Methodist Hospital said Thursday night a combination of heart failure and weakened kidneys caused the death of a young farmer who received a revolutionary heart pump in an attempt to save his life.

Benjamin Flores, 26, was the fourth person to receive the pump, designed and implanted by famed heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey. He lived more than 24 hours after the operation but died Thursday night.

Dear Abby.... Chef's Recipe Can Be a Costly Treat

DEAR ABBY: A friend and I who will soon be 80 is of English descent. He has always liked strong perfumes and after shaving lotions, and he uses them by the gallon. He dresses well and keeps himself clean, but he never goes out without drenching himself with these perfumed lotions.

He pours it on his head and has ruined all his good dress shirts. There are spots all over with the color out. The neighbors make fun of him and the children say, "Here comes old Stinky Sam." He has all but suffocated us who live with him. Please send your advice soon.

STINKY SAM'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Find a perfume powder or sachet that appeals to Sam. A little goes a long way and it will save his shirts. And if he's pushing 80 you had better hurry.

DEAR ABBY: I recently went to the home of a friend for a tea. I knew it was her birthday, so I took along a little gift. She thanked me for it and nothing more was said. She did not open it. None of the other guests took her a gift.

The next morning she telephoned me and thanked me for it, but I was hurt. Don't you think she should have opened my gift when I gave it to her, and thanked me then?

THOUGHTFUL
DEAR THOUGHTFUL: No. She probably did not want to embarrass the guests who did not know it was her birthday. I think she used good judgment.

John Mach, who with partner Dix Elliott, designs the beautiful, wearable Court Jester sportswear, said their biggest orders are for sizes 10 and 12, with size 8 a close runner-up.

"Only 10 per cent of the orders are for size 14," he said. "But it's strange that the biggest orders are in 12s and the buyer when reordering will often ask, 'Do you have just a few 14s?'"

Notice, not a 16 mentioned.

So now we've whittled the problem down to where we're supposed to blame to buyers for the dowdy look of all size 16s. But it still, to me, smacks of the chicken and the egg.

If the designers can't think in terms of 16s because the manufacturer won't cut 16s because the buyers won't buy 16s, the one buyer who may have a heart of gold and wants to have well-dressed customers regardless of size is stuck with her good intentions.

But money talks and YOU spend the money. If you are a size 16 and are mad (as you should be) because you can't get good design, write to the store you buy from. There's no reason why you should have to shrink to bite-size before you can dress like an attractive morsel.

Where, Oh Where, Is a Size 16?

RECOGNIZE the problem? They should have brought along their little sisters. Since the youth kick and the little girl look, anyone over size 14 had better learn to sew. There's not a chic dress in a rackload for the once-stylish size 16.

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Take a long look back to the days when a woman bragged about being a "perfect 16, no alterations."

Today even a size 8 is thought a trifle full-blown and can't touch size 6 for chic. And if the gal who needs a formal for the town's biggest "do" wears over size 14 I hope she can sew.

Today, when vitamins and balanced meals are producing a stronger, more solidly built race, the fashion industry refuses to recognize the existence (and certainly the right to be chic) of anyone bigger than a button.

A few years ago at the New York Historical Society there was an exhibit of clothes worn in the late 18th and early 19th centuries. These were displayed on life-size figures. But life-size in those days before O. J. (orange juice) was so tiny that a real fashion show with live models couldn't be held. No dress could fit into the tiny dresses.

Yet here we are in 1966 with

OES Gavel Club Has Dinner Meeting

Following a brief business session a covered-dish dinner and an evening of games was enjoyed by members of OES Past Matrons Gavel Club recently.

Mrs. Hazel Parker was hostess to the meeting in her home at 1521 Williston.

The Halloween motif was carried out in table decorations. Assisting Mrs. Parker as hostesses were Mmes. Stella Wagner, J. H. Warner and Clem Davis. Mrs. Mildred Pierce gave the invocation.

Members of Art Club Make Bazaar Plans

Plans to enter the Bazaar, being sponsored by Pampa Fine Arts Assn., Nov. 3, 4 and 5 in Coronado Center, were made by members of Pampa Art Club.

A workshop and luncheon was enjoyed by the group recently in the home of Mrs. Vernon L. Hall, 234 Duncan.

Plans discussed also included the Christmas party to be held Dec. 6 in the home of Mrs. C. P. Pursley.

Mrs. W. L. Waggoner was welcomed as a guest.

School and You

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LIGHT — It was heartening to read a letter like the one from "Alarmed Principal." When a large percentage of high school students see nothing wrong with cheating to secure passing grades, when their acknowledged aims are material and economic status, there must be faulty emphasis, someplace.

The purpose of education, I'm convinced, is to teach children how to live real and meaningful lives, not personal aggrandizement.

Children should be made more aware of the great gifts we have in the very tools given us as a result of the devotion and work of many, many others — that reading itself is the door by means of which we can open doors to the minds of all times, places or ages — that the number symbols didn't just happen but are mighty handy tools.

If a sense of responsibility and personal worth were emphasized, if grades would be either a "Satisfactory" or an "Unsatisfactory," depending on the degree of performance in proportion to ability, I don't see how there could be a motivation for dishonesty.

Whether a person is highly endowed or not so highly endowed should not affect his evaluation by society. He should be judged by how that endowment is used. Perhaps it would be the part of those more talented to help find a meaningful place for those not so blessed. When every person is made to feel of real value, there might be some hope for mankind.

I know there are some mighty fine thinkers and educators whose aims are for real values. I only hope their voices will be heeded so that children of future generations may hope for something better than is now a reality.

—IDEALIST
ANSWER — In theory a nd thought, I'm with you. But, to pluck just one point from your letter, what good would it do a student to be aware of the wonders of reading if he couldn't master the mechanics? So much of teaching is necessarily concerned with basic skills there isn't enough time to develop all the qualities and attitudes that will save mankind. The home and church must help.

Be that as it may, your letter gives us all food for thought.

Please send your school problems to Susan Light in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Not only your hair should be spanking clean. The tools you use should be thoroughly scrubbed, too. That means rollers, clips, hairnets and scarves, as well as combs and brushes. Every time your head goes underwater so should your hairmates.

The rights of children "as interested and affected parties" in divorce action gradually are being identified, protected and fulfilled in Wisconsin, according to Robert W. Hansen, Circuit Judge of the Family Court of Milwaukee. He made that point in a report in "Journal of Family Law."

Southeast Asia Airpower Buildup Is Leveling Off

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The airpower buildup in Southeast Asia has begun to level off with a staggering total of 45,000 tons of bombs and rockets being hurled at enemy targets monthly.

At this rate, the squadrons now based on land and aboard aircraft carriers could approach, in a year's operations, the total tonnage dropped in the Korean War of 1950-53.

U.S. officials, who revealed the leveling off both in numbers of aircraft deployed and in combat missions flown, indicated that further expansion would add little to the effectiveness of the air effort in Viet Nam.

Sorties Increased

It was learned that combat sorties, or individual flights, mounted over North and South Viet Nam and the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos have been exceeding 26,000 a month since June.

The Air Force has more than 40 squadrons based in South Viet Nam and Thailand with additional units of B52 bombers on Guam.

The Marines have a wing of about 150 planes in South Viet Nam and the Navy keeps three carriers deployed off North Viet Nam.

More than 1,100 aircraft are involved in all, exclusive of the cargo planes hauling vital supplies for ground and air forces.

But if the air buildup is near an end, no such tapering off is yet in sight for the ground forces.

May Slow Rate

Depending on current Pentagon studies and decisions Hanoi must make as to how big a force it can maintain, it may be possible to slow the rate of ground force shipments to Viet Nam sometime next year.

But the course for the next several months is firmly set. By the start of 1967 the total U.S. force from all the services will be 375,000 to 400,000 men, compared with 331,000 now.

Increases are expected to include an infantry division and an independent brigade along with the array of support units these require.

At current deployment rates, the U.S. force in Viet Nam would go over 500,000 within a year. Plans are being made for that total, but actual troop movements are not approved that far in advance.

● Rusk

Philippines and Thanat Khoman of Thailand.

Ramos scheduled meetings with each of the visiting foreign ministers and informed sources said Rusk would do the same. Previous proposals that all seven meet together were vetoed in favor of private talks.

LBJ Due Sunday

President Johnson is to arrive Sunday afternoon as will the other heads of state. By that time Rusk and Ramos hope to have resolved any major conflicts so the chiefs of state will have smooth sailing.

Two key issues up for discussion were the matter of including the Viet Cong National Liberation Front in possible negotiations with North Viet Nam and the naming of a go-between to try to arrange peace talks. Japan was considered the most likely to be named; Indonesia and Cambodia have been mentioned.

The question of including the Viet Cong may not be so easily resolved. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky might relent, it was reported, but if he did it would constitute a major foreign policy change for Saigon. South Korea also has resolutely opposed Viet Cong participation.

Another Bag Hit

Another bag hit near the rear of the car and covered it with blood-red paint.

The driver halted the car in an area virtually clear of spectators. Two police vans formed walls of protection on either side of the Johnsons as agents appraised the situation.

Through mid-October, 7,488 members of Communist forces were taken, as compared with 6,230 in 1965 and 4,150 in 1964. If the October rate holds, the experts said prisoner of war totals could reach 2,500 to 3,000 a month, as compared with an average rate in past months of less than 1,000.

The experts also expressed gratification that last week's total included the first Communist fighting unit to surrender as a group.

A force of 60 men, presumably the remnants of a company, was taken by U.S. forces in "Operation Irving" in central South Viet Nam.

The only other unit surrender so far in the Vietnamese was a group of 40 "political cadres," taken early this year.

The cadres, totaling about 40,000 men, are armed to terrorize villagers and enforce tax collections for the Communists. They are not considered fighting units.

country is worsening," he said. "The cost of living is continuing its sharp and steady climb. Yet this Democratic Congress refused to help hold down prices by cutting several billions in unnecessary federal spending."

Ford charged that the Congress and President Johnson formed the "spendiest" team in history.

"Together this combination spells Johnson-Democrat inflation, and that is the story of the second session, 89th Congress," he said.

The Michigan Republican also charged that "Johnson and Democrats in Congress ignored Republican pleas" for a Social Security increase now to help benefits keep up with the inflation-fed decline in the dollar's value.

Summing up the Democratic view, McCormack said that "through the work of this Congress, the Democratic party has built a lasting foundation for a Great Society, and through the work of this Congress our party has reeducated itself to being the party of progress, the party of vision, the party of principles and the party of the people."

Ford, turning to positive Republican accomplishments, said "you might call the tiny band of Republican congressmen in the 89th the mighty minority." He claimed credit for these achievements:

Helping to bar foreign aid to nations trading with North Viet Nam or Cuba; helping cut the mass transit bill by $25 million to the $150 million Johnson asked; changing the investment tax credit suspension bill so air and water pollution control investments were protected.

Also, exerting pressure which brought a $7,500 ceiling on the training expense of a Job Corps enrollee; winning approval of one-third participation by the poor in antipoverty local community action programs, and leading the fight to ban subsidized U.S. food sales to nations trading with North Viet Nam.

These, said Ford, were among the "improvements promoted by the mighty minority."

job during the incident, wiping paint from his face and continuing with the President. Johnson and his party made the 50-minute flight back to Canberra tonight and several hundred persons were at the airport to greet him despite biting cold.

However, the presidential motorcade did not pause.

One bag hit the center of the windshield of the limousine in which the President, his wife and Dame Mabel Brooke were riding. The driver sped from the spot, but had to slow down because the glass was thoroughly smeared with paint.

Another bag hit near the rear of the car and covered it with blood-red paint.

The driver halted the car in an area virtually clear of spectators. Two police vans formed walls of protection on either side of the Johnsons as agents appraised the situation.

Minor Fires Keep Trucks On the Run

South Fire Station recorded two runs to minor fires today. A bad gas connection was fixed for a fire shortly before 8:30 a.m. at the residence of Bob Scheller, 601 Plains, where a wall-heater caused fire to a wall behind the stove.

There was light fire and smoke damage to the wall. Thirty minutes later, South Station made a run to the residence of Laverne Smith, 420 Harlem, where a television wire shorted out. Damage was contained to the television set, firemen said.

OTIS SHAW

Double Dropout 'Sees the Light'

Otis Shaw, 18, of Pampa, considers himself a "two-time loser who finally saw the light."

He not only dropped out of high school after the ninth grade, but dropped out of Job Corps as well.

The youth entered the Job Corps program at Tongue Point, Astoria, Ore., in June, 1965, but thought his training was moving too slowly, became disenchanted and left a few months later.

He worked at a variety of jobs, got married and then suddenly realized that "I'd need a trade so I wouldn't be jumping from job to job the rest of my life. I was on my way to nowhere, so I decided to come back (to Job Corps)."

It took a considerable amount of work on Shaw's part to convince authorities that he was really going to stay in Job Corps this time. He also had to save enough money for the return ticket to Astoria (returnees have to pay their own way) while supporting his wife, June, as an old field laborer. The job paid $1.95 an hour.

This spring he returned to Tongue Point Job Corps Center. He took advantage of the voca-

Cable Television Service Expected Late in November

First cable television service is expected to be turned on in the northwest part of Pampa by late November, Dale Greenhouse of Pampa Cable TV, Inc., said today.

The first service, Greenhouse stated, will be in the area west of Kentucky and north of Hobart. Installation to the east and south then would proceed rapidly, he added.

Greenhouse also announced that Al Williams, of Globe, Ariz., where he has been a CATV manager, is due to arrive in Pampa Nov. 1 as manager of the local outlet.

Rates for the Pampa cable television service have been fixed at $5.50 per month, Greenhouse said.

Total installation charge and deposit will not exceed twice the regular monthly billing, Greenhouse stated.

He also said a home or business place can have as many cable television outlets as desired.

Additional training program in welding, and four months later not only had a certification of completion, but a job at Boeing in Seattle where he starts at $2.45 an hour or more depending upon his welding skill.

His wife plans to join him in Seattle when he gets settled. His mother, Mrs. Bernice Hoertsch, lives at 1052 Neel Rd., in Pampa.

Doubt And Faith Are Counteragents

REV. JOHN BARRY
Hi-Land Church
Plans Revival

The Hi-Land Christian Church, 1615 N. Banks, announces that evangelist John Barry of Moore, Okla., will conduct a week's revival meeting beginning Monday, Oct. 24th and closing Sunday, Oct. 30.

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
In dictionaries, doubt is the antonym, or direct opposite, of faith.

In life, however, it's not quite that simple. Doubt and faith are continually interacting. They are so closely related that the late Paul Tillich felt they could be regarded as different aspects of the same state of "ultimate concern."

the soul" in which all certainty vanishes.
St. Augustine recorded in his "confessions" the desperate feeling of aloneness which occurs when God suddenly ceases to be a felt presence and becomes merely a doubtful hypothesis.

"To Thee, O Lord, I should have lifted up my mind for three to give it relief," St. Augustine wrote. "But I had neither the will nor the power to do so. And the difficulty was greater because, when I thought of Thee, nothing real and substantial presented itself to my mind."

Robert H. Hamill, dean of the chapel at Boston University, in an article published in the October issue of the Methodist family magazine Together.

"A kind of nightmare haunts me time and time again," confesses the noted Methodist preacher. "I look out upon this living, busy world, and I see no reflection of its Creator. It is as though I am looking into a mirror but cannot see my own face. Something has gone blank. God seems silent, absent or dead."

that it need not ruin my life. Even the denial of God need not cut me off from God, for neither my virtue nor my orthodoxy earns me God's favor. God does care for me regardless of what I believe about God. The main thing is not my hold on God, but His hold on me."

Dr. Hamill has also learned from experience that doubt can never be successfully resolved by reason alone, nor can it be conquered by a mighty effort of the human will.

"For if you have faith to doubt, God will find you—and you will find God at least."

Final Sermon Stated In Doctrine Series

The final sermon in a Christian Doctrine Series is planned for The First Presbyterian Church this Sunday morning at both the 8:30 and 11 morning worship hours. Rev. Ronald Hauk will use the 110th Psalm and the 1st Chapter of the Ephesians Letter as the basis for a sermon, "And Then There's a Church." Ruling Elder David Tucker will assist with the worship at both hours.

The Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Tommy Nager, will be in the choir loft at 11 a.m. All those persons planning to sing with the newly-organized group are asked to meet in the choir room at 10:45.

Time for Angry Men To Speak for Truth

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.,
Newspaper Editor
An ancient Egyptian tomb is reported to have the inscription: "And no one is angry enough to speak out."

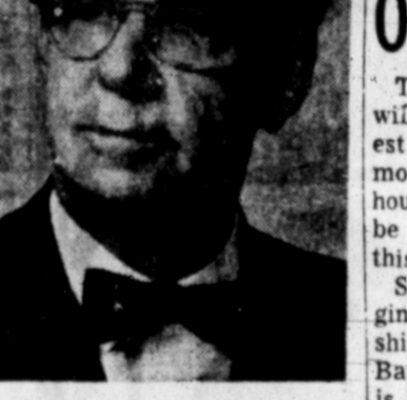

When a man declares that he is not able to sense the presence of God, says Dr. Hamill, "this says a great deal about the speaker, but really says nothing about God."

"If you doubt for the sake of truth—if you disbelieve in God for God's sake—you are justified, because through doubt God is able to renew your authentic life."

Can Christianity Be Communicated Effectively?

Can Christianity still be communicated effectively in our "breathless epoch of atom and automation, of computer control and space-racing?" In its tenth anniversary edition (October 14), the conservative Protestant fortnightly Christianity Today reviews the possibilities:

Another essayist, Dr. George Bird, agrees that "most clergymen are utterly untrained in ordinary ways of cooperating with the press. But Bird, who was head of the Graduate Division of Syracuse University's School of Journalism for nearly three decades, is more impatient with the press. Although he acknowledges problems confronting newspapers, Bird believes "perhaps as many as 1,600 daily newspapers are doing an inadequate job of reporting religious news."

Of Inspiration

REV. L. B. DAVIS
PROGRESSIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

Text: If any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on his behalf. I. Peter 4:16.

1. The Christian and Obstacles: "If any man suffer as a Christian. "We live in a world of sin and shame, and suffering. It is a world of darkness, danger, and difficulties. It is a world of war, worry, and wickedness. In such a world the Christian will be called upon to bear reproach, to suffer hardship, to endure privations, to overcome difficulties, to escape dangers, to settle disputes, to preach the gospel, to teach eternal truth, and to live like Christ. Christians have been persecuted through all the years of Christianity. They are persecuted in many ways, and places now. But all hardships that may come to a real Christian because he is a Christian can be borne in the name of his Savior Jesus Christ and for the sake of Christ and his Kingdom. Christians should make of obstacles steppingstones to the richer, stronger, and fuller life for Christ. For he can do all things through Christ who give him strength.

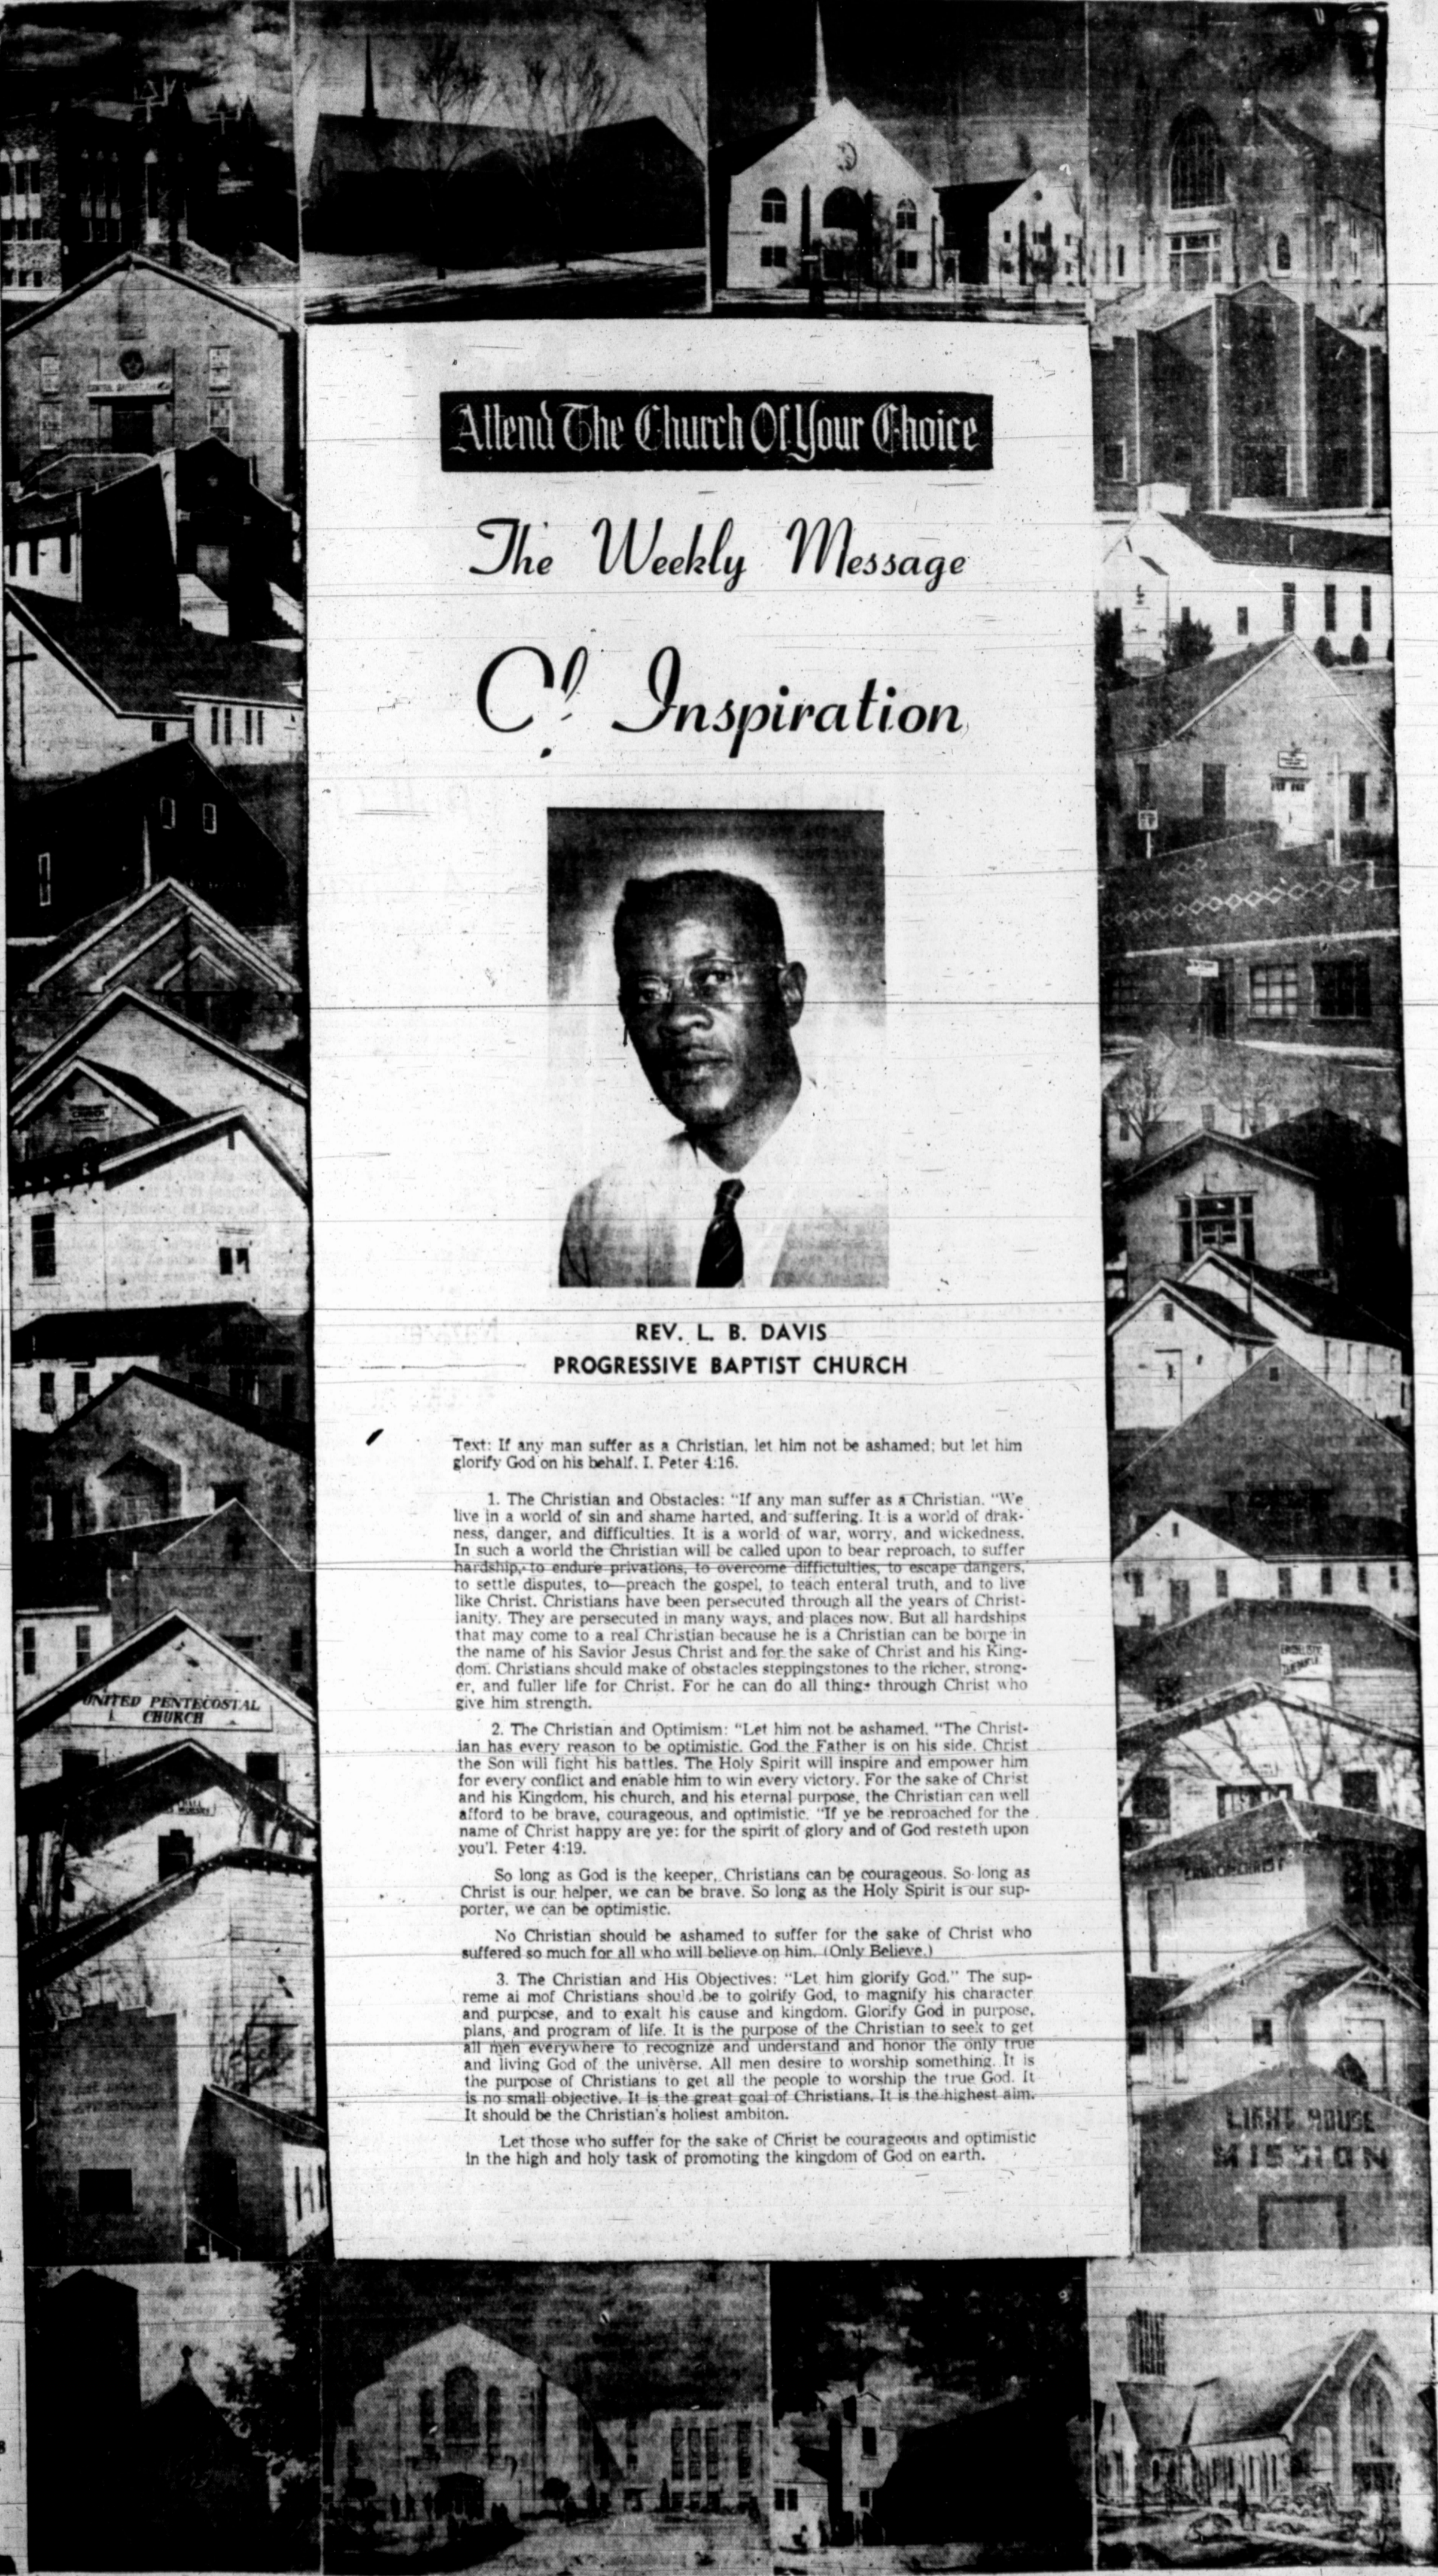

2. The Christian and Optimism: "Let him not be ashamed. "The Christian has every reason to be optimistic. God the Father is on his side. Christ the Son will fight his battles. The Holy Spirit will inspire and empower him for every conflict and enable him to win every victory. For the sake of Christ and his Kingdom, his church, and his eternal purpose, the Christian can well afford to be brave, courageous, and optimistic. "If ye be reproached for the name of Christ happy are ye: for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you." I. Peter 4:19.

So long as God is the keeper, Christians can be courageous. So long as Christ is our helper, we can be brave. So long as the Holy Spirit is our supporter, we can be optimistic.

No Christian should be ashamed to suffer for the sake of Christ who suffered so much for all who will believe on him. (Only Believe.)

3. The Christian and His Objectives: "Let him glorify God." The supreme aim of Christians should be to glorify God, to magnify his character and purpose, and to exalt his cause and kingdom. Glorify God in purpose, plans, and program of life. It is the purpose of the Christian to seek to get all men everywhere to recognize and understand and honor the only true and living God of the universe. All men desire to worship something. It is the purpose of Christians to get all the people to worship the true God. It is no small objective. It is the great goal of Christians. It is the highest aim. It should be the Christian's holiest ambition.

Let those who suffer for the sake of Christ be courageous and optimistic in the high and holy task of promoting the kingdom of God on earth.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities. We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Viet Rat Holes Now Plugged?

President Johnson referring to those who are calling for the United States to halt its bombing of North Viet Nam, said the other day that "I don't quite understand why you want me to have our Marines and airmen pause and put their hands behind their backs while the other people don't pause and continue to shoot at them."
Most Americans will share the President's inability to understand this reasoning. But something they will find even more difficult to understand is why this country has supplied, and apparently still is supplying, the enemy with much of the wherewithal he needs to continue shooting at our soldiers, Marines and airmen.
According to the House Government Operations Committee, citing testimony taken last May from the deputy director of the Agency for International Development (AID) mission to Saigon, "at least 60 per cent of the aid is diverted from the purpose for which it is intended."
In the fiscal year ending in June, a total of $728 million in economic aid, including $420 million in consumer goods, was pumped into South Viet Nam. This is exclusive of military aid and exclusive of what 300,000 GI's are spending on their own. Large amounts of AID shipments have been diverted to the Viet Cong, says the committee. Some of it has found its way to Cambodia, Thailand and Communist China.

Not quite as bad, but bad enough, is that all this aid has flooded a South Vietnamese economy too small to absorb it, contributing to graft, corruption and black marketing.
A nine-month investigation is summed up in the committee's 125-page report with a charge of "unconscionable mismanagement" and "General abdication of responsibility" on the part of the Departments of State and Defense, the General Accounting Office, the U.S. Information Agency and, particularly, AID.
The committee acknowledges that "many effective steps" have been taken, before and since the investigation, to plug the leaks and correct the abuses in the aid program.
What the taxpaying public would like to know is, have ALL the necessary steps been taken, and if not, why not? And why was such a situation allowed to develop in the first place?
It may be some comfort to know that the United States is rich enough to finance both its own troops and the enemy's, make contributions to the economies of three other nations and create black market millionaires on the side without seriously straining itself. But it is a strange way to run a war.
Maybe we should start bombing our own supply lines.

Thoughts for United States Day

Sunday is United States Day. The local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution calls attention to it with the following statement from the DAR publication, National Defender:
"United States Day will be observed by all patriotic Americans as an opportunity to express their belief in the fundamental principles underlying our Nation's greatness and to express their loyalty to our constitutional form of government and Christian ideals. It is a day when our citizens should rejoice that they are protected in their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness by a Constitution which has stood the test of time. They should pause on that day to consider the tragic end of every nation that has adopted socialism, communism or any other form of statism. They would not fail then to unite to inform themselves of the dangers confronting the Republic, to awaken their uninformed fellow citizens, and to become active in support of their heritage.

The enemies of this Nation are succeeding because the overwhelming majority of the American people are uninformed and apathetic as to the nature of our enemies, their deceitful strategy and the extent to which their policies have been and are continuing to be adopted in our Country.
"The United States of America will perish unless the American people become informed."
October 23 is United States Day and the Flag of the United States is the ONLY Flag to which we pay allegiance, either national or international. Will that be true in years to come? Remember that United States Day precedes United Nations Day!"

Shuffling Off to the Moon

RB ED Lead 2-18 Shuffling Off to the Moon
Young ladies who expect the moon when they get married may one day have their wish. Astronomer Fred Whipple predicts that in the not too distant future trips to the moon will replace the traditional journey to Niagara Falls.
Just how soon is anybody's guess. Dr. Eugene Connel of the National Aeronautics and Space Council thinks spaceships might be booking passengers around the year 2001. But he says ticket prices will probably be figured according to the traveler's weight — at about $10 a pound.

If so, that old 20th-century saying that nobody loves a fat girl will be even truer in the 21st. At least those who do will think twice before proposing a honeymoon on the moon.

Bureaucrat Collects a Quarter

We do not know the cost of passing a single non-controversial bill through the Congress. But obviously it's more than 25 cents.
However, the other day Congress passed a law which was signed by President Johnson to correct the results of a 25-cent error in the amount of a check.
It seems that the Interior Department had cancelled an oil and gas lease "for failure to pay on time" rentals on some federal land in Wyoming. The lessee, Mule Creek Oil Co., had sent in its check for rent, but the check was 25 cents short. The company figured its rent on the basis of 1.825 acres, but the Interior Department said the lease was for 1.836 acres.
So, it was up to Congress and the President to go through the cumbersome procedure of passing and signing legislation to reinstate the lease. We suspect the cost was several hundred times the 25 cents the company was short because of the error.
But some bureaucrat in the Interior Department no doubt was satisfied that he had showed that oil company it must do a little closer figuring.

Question-Box
(We invite questions on economic and proper functions of government, which will not injure anyone.)
QUESTION: Is the cause of good government based on freedom, good morals, justice and self-responsibility?
ANSWER: It is hard to conceive how a government made up of men can be a just government and a beneficial government if it is not based on good morals, justice, self-responsibility and freedom.
It follows that bad government is based on immorality, injustice and irresponsibility, and lack of respect of private property.
When government begins to believe it has a right to do things that no individual has a

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Beer Guzzling Suspect In New Heart Ailment
In August, 1965, the first case of a new type of heart ailment was reported in Quebec. Of the 48 victims observed in that city since then, 20 have died. The one thing all of the victims had in common was that they had consumed three to six quarts of beer daily for at least five years.
As mysteriously as it started, the epidemic ended in May of this year. Meanwhile, the same disease has been reported in Omaha and Minneapolis. Doctors in other cities are now on the lookout for evidences of this disease.
The trouble starts with shortness of breath, rapid pulse, waterlogging of the tissues and the bluish cast characteristic of a lack of oxygen in the blood. Within three or four weeks at-

No doubt some of the big pollsters have accurate means of measuring public opinion in elections, but we're old enough to remember the Literary Digest poll was never wrong until 1936. It predicted Landon would win the Presidential election over Franklin D. Roosevelt. Unfortunately, it based its data on a sampling of telephone subscribers across the country. At that time they were among the upper strata of society. They were wrong in their guess and so was the poll.
Today's smile: A former salesman, now on the police force, was asked by a friend how he liked his new job. The new cop answered: "Well, the pay is okay, the hours are great, and best of all the customer is never right."

TRUTH IN LEGISLATIVE LABELING NEEDED
(Industrial News Review)
Fooling the people may be part of the game of politics, but sometimes the pranksters are caught in their own web of deception. There are growing indications that this may be the case with "truth in packaging" legislation now pending in Congress. The proposed truth in packaging law is a falsely-labeled package in itself. The measure, as proposed, would discourage putting new products on the market. It would hamper special sales which are an economy to the consumer. It would restrict the consumer's freedom of choice in the marketplace under the guise of protecting him. It would permit government regulators to set the rules as to what is "deceptive" and would make it difficult for manufacturers to prove that their packaging and labeling are not deceptive.
The proposed "truth in packaging" law implies that there is no truth in packaging at present. Such an implication is patently dishonest and deceptive. In the free market, a general practice of untruthful labeling would be promptly condemned by consumers. The manufacturer indulging in such a practice would soon be out of business, as consumers took their patronage elsewhere. The truth is that if existing laws were enforced, there would be no opportunity for the political exploitation of the truth in packaging question. moral right to do, then the only result can be disaster in the long run. If the government for years, to a degree, has been respecting private property and gradually begins to take away individual responsibility, it likely will take some time before people realize what is taking place. Just as evil cannot produce good, so good cannot produce evil.
Would that more people understood that the decline of morality is the beginning of decay in government and foresight and production.
All governments have gone to pieces by using initiated force on individuals to make them pay for something they did not want to use, and even believed was harmful.

Hunt for Truth

BY M. L. HUNT
SICK HUMOR
One recent hit movie is a comedy called "The Russians Are Coming." It is masterfully done, has a musical score in keeping with the theme, and makes a big joke of our country being invaded by Russia's armed forces. It's an unfunny joke.
Communists are serious-minded comrades, as nearly anybody who may have thought they were great-kidders would testify except that dead men can't talk. The Communists are not "bunglers" or "good guys" as many of the millions existing under communist tyranny would like to tell the rest of the world, but slaves can say only what their masters will permit. And what Communist tyrant would be so foolish as to want the truth to get around when he has such good word going for him as "The Russians Are Coming."
In Lithuania, one of many countries where the Russians really did come, kidding with Communism would not be recommended as a national pastime. When the Russians came, all Lithuanians who might resist were liquidated, including home-owners, land-owners, the clergy, teachers and members of other professions. Many were

Sensing The News

A Nation With Courage
On November 11 of this year the people of Rhodesia will celebrate their first year of independence. They have truly made history. Though subjected to cruel economic pressure, including an oil embargo such as the Western nations never dared apply against Communist Cuba, the Rhodesians have carried on in the great tradition of Anglo-Saxon peoples struggling against tyranny.
Though the Johnson administration has chosen to support the position taken by Britain's socialist government for reasons not worthy of a great nation, many Americans are mindful of the parallel between Rhodesia's declaration of independence and the American declaration of independence of July 4, 1776. Ironically, the U.S. Department of State voicing the political view taken by the Johnson administration, asserts that "Southern Rhodesia remains a British colony." The irony is in the fact that it was in precisely these terms that Lord North's government described independent America in 1776.
The Johnson administration is guilty of poor historical understanding. Since 1932, Rhodesians have been self-governing. They paid all their bills for more than 40 years, without financial assistance from the mother country.
In World War II Rhodesians—including Prime Minister Ian Smith—fought bravely against the Nazis. They have had a poor reward from the socialist government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson.
Rhodesia has won sympathy among the American people, if not the Johnson administration, because they have refused to be stampeded into a surrender of their country.
The "no win" thinkers in Washington, London and elsewhere mistook the temper of the Rhodesians. They thought they could be intimidated or bought off. But the Rhodesians refused to let their country take the road to primitivism and one-party dictatorship simply because liberal pundits and politicians declared that "winds of change" were blowing in Africa. They held on. They have stuck it out, and thereby provided a living example of the Dunkirk spirit that animated English-speaking people a generation ago.
To be sure, no one can tell what fresh pressures may be applied against the Rhodesians. The ideologues who are determined to drive civilized men from Africa are as loud and busy as Rhodesia. They want the U.N., which is incapable of bringing peace to any land, to launch a war against the Rhodesians.
If tragedy overwhelms the Rhodesians, it also will strike the free countries of the West. For the people of the West have a big stake in the survival of an independent Rhodesia. Since the end of World War II, Westerners have been retreating around the world. The forces of primitivism and communism have come to power in country after country. Lands once progressing smoothly under intelligent Western leadership have reverted to tribalism and brutality.
The Western world cannot

Tale of 2 Schools, 2 Wells Accents Viet Way of Life

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
CAN THO, Viet Nam (NEA)—By the side of a road on the outskirts of this city there's a small primary school with two new wings.
Stand and watch and you hear children reciting in the wing on the right. It's in full use on a two-shift session since there's a sharp shortage of space because of the many children who want to go to school.
Many students drop out because they know they haven't a chance to continue past the fifth grade anyway. Because there isn't enough space and not enough teachers, the competition for getting into the sixth grade is fierce.
The other wing of the school is bare and only partly finished. No work is going on despite the need for classrooms.
Both wings were started at the same time, months back.
The wing on the right—the wing that is already finished—was a self-help project. Parents took the initiative, made the plans, raised money, volunteered work, U.S. assistance provided hard-to-get materials.
The other wing was let out on government contract. It was paid for with U.S. assistance funds. The contractor stopped work. He says inflation has driven costs up so sharply he can't afford to continue work. Because it was a "government" project, it will wait until the government appropriates more money — after investigation and study. This may take some time.
A half-mile away is another school being built under government contract. It has been standing half-completed and unused for more than a year. A major building has no roof. Weeds are growing high in the classrooms.
In another hamlet, a number of miles away, there is a well that is not being used. The pump is not working because the washers are worn out. If you ask the people why they don't repair it, a man will tell you: "It is the government's well. We are waiting for the government to come and fix it." The government built the well by contract. It was given to the people.
Yet in another hamlet nearby, there is another well in careful repair. In this hamlet, the government did not build the well, though it helped.
The people met and voted for the well. They contributed time and donated money to help build it. They mixed the cement with voluntary labor. The government, with U.S. assistance, sent in machinery to help dig the well and materials to equip it. But it was the people's well.
"We built it," says one villager. "When it breaks down, who is there to fix it if we don't?"
If you go to this hamlet and that, the story is the same. There are government schools and people's schools, government wells and people's wells.
But there is more to the story than this. The reports these villagers give you is that some time and another Viet Cong destroy schools and wells. If the reports are correct, stay permanently in retreat. Primitivism cannot be allowed to advance indefinitely. The United States, as the leading nation in the world, needs to end its infatuation with backward lands and use its great influence for good in supporting governments that are led by men of experience and civilized standards. This is the kind of government independent Rhodesia has today.
Unfortunately, the tides of misdirected emotionalism are still very strong. This kind of emotionalism accounts for the fall of the Chinese mainland to the communists and the coming to power of Fidel Castro. The same elements that hailed Chinese "agrarian reformers" and praised the Castro revolution today are urging a U.N. military campaign against Rhodesia's civilized government.
It would be shocking if the U.S. used its power to topple the Smith government in Rhodesia, for an independent Rhodesia is a strongpoint for the West. If Rhodesia is secure against the kind of tyranny that prevails in the black African states, then the advance of communism in Africa will be arrested. It is madness for the Johnson administration to send 300,000 men to fight communism in South Viet Nam and then to pressure independent Rhodesia. If Rhodesia is stripped of its independence, one can be sure that communism in time will triumph in this key African territory.

The Backward Bug

(Washington Evening Star)
The latest refinement in Presidential motoring is the backward bug, the innovation, naturally, of Lyndon B. Johnson. On the current White House limousine, it has just been learned, there are tiny microphones mounted. But they run backwards, from the outside in. The idea isn't to spread the words of wisdom from within, but to let the leader listen to the tumult and the shouting from without.
The idea is to reassure President Johnson about the kind of reception he'll get before he risks stopping the car and pressing the flesh with the folks along the curb. If they're negative, he keeps going. If they're whooping it up, he gives them the friendly five.
For a President as apparently dependent on public adulation as ours, the next step seems logical, technically feasible and inevitable. It is to install a tape between the outside mikes and the inside speakers, so that no matter if the crowds are muttering or maintaining silence along the curb, in the tonneau they will always be clapping and yelling and only with difficulty restraining their wild enthusiasm.
The device, come to think of it, could be duplicated in the White House itself and gradually fill the gap left by Jack Valenti.

Sandies Host Pampa in North Zone Battle Tonight

By RON CROSS Sports Editor

AMARILLO — Amarillo (3-3) hosts Pampa in a District 3-4A north zone battle in Dick Rivers Stadium, beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

For the Harvesters it will be a case of being back in the thick of things in the zone race or being virtually eliminated from even a share of the title. Last week Pampa fell to Monterey, 7-6, on a questionable call and now stands 3-3 for the season with two straight losses.

What had been a worrisome defense came on strong last week, while fumbles and interception bogged down the offense. Pampa coach Eural Ramsey said the Harvester defense would have to be every bit as good against the Sandies, a 28-8 winner over Borger last week, as it was against Monterey.

has a broken finger is still on the doubtful list. Should the 190-pound Rowden be idled then 160 pound Sherman Mitchell would be his replacement. In the Sandie camp all players are healthy and ready to play. Amarillo leads the north zone in about all offensive and defensive statistics and have two of the best backs in the league in running back Harmon Hollar and quarterback Freddy Johnson. Hollar is a 145-pound junior who tallied twice against Pampa last year and Johnson is a 160-pounder who can throw and run. Johnson's favorite targets are Hollar and end Malcolm Laing, a 180-pound senior.

dy Phillips, who weighs in at 210 pounds and Bill Cornelius who tips the scales at 205 lbs. The Sandie line will be slightly smaller than Pampa's, averaging 182 pounds per man while Pampa weighs in at about 185 per front line player. In the backfield the Sandies are considerably lighter with a weight average per man of 162 pounds and Pampa is 181 per man.

using 23 yards to Ron Sumner on the touchdown. The try after points failed and Pampa led 7-0 with 2:14 left in the opening period. The Shocks marched 56 yards the first time they had possession in the second period with halfback Gary Parrish tossing six yards to Jay Johnson for the score. This time the kick try for the conversion was wide.

Lee eighth met disaster for the fifth straight time, losing to Dumas, 30-14. Barry Kihnerman passed 40 yards to Mike Poole for the first Pampa score in the second quarter and Kihnerman ran 2 yards for the last tally in the fourth period. Doug Thompson passed to Poole for the two-point conversion.

Pampa Junior High eighth, got rid of fumbleitis and fought Borger Houston to an 8-8 tie. The PJH eight, who fumbled 10 times last week, found on the scoring range when Mike Jordan ran six yards in the third period and then ran the conversion to tie the game. Pampa seventh met Perryton on the home field today and Lee seventh played host to Borger Houston.

United Press International
MONTREAL (UPI) — Back home in Washington, D.C., a fellow called me up and said, "How would like to go to Canada for a couple of days?" "Canada," I said. "Where is that?" "It's a big, beautiful country that lies north of Mineral Center, Minn." "If it's a big, beautiful country, how come nobody lives there?" I said. "They do. Montreal, Canada, is the fifth largest city in North America." "In that case," I said, "how come we never hear anything about them in the United States?" "That's because Canadians are both friendly and self-supporting," he explained. "We are neither fighting them nor giving them foreign aid." "You're putting me on." "Well, I'll swear to it on a stack of old Nelson Eddy records."

I caught the first plane that flies north of Mineral Center and sure enough, Virginia, there really is a Canada. It is big, beautiful, populated, friendly and prosperous, just like the man said.

Furthermore the Canadians are the bravest people I have ever met.

They are getting ready to open a world's fair here next year. Considering what happened in New York in 1964-65, that takes courage indeed.

They may be currently self-supporting, but unless their fair brings in more paying customers than the one in New York, solvency may become retrospective.

Being superstitious, the Canadians aren't calling their world's fair a world's fair. They are calling it a "universal and international exhibition," which takes in a lot of territory.

From time to time, newspapermen from other nations and parts of the universe are invited here to inspect the site, preview the pavilions and verify the existence of Canada. I am on such a tour now as a journalist from the planet earth.

It's true that a world's fair by any other name can go just as bankrupt, but I think this one will succeed.

Making it universal as well as international will attract both the jet set and the flying saucer squad. And everyone knows that Martians are the last of the big spenders.

So many summit and near-summit meetings are going on around the world that one almost wonders who is at home minding the store.

In Moscow, party leader Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin have been tied up with the leaders of East European Communist nations plus Mongolia and Cuba.

President Johnson is on his way to Manila for a conference with Asian nations linked with the United States in the war in Viet Nam.

And in New Delhi, three people named Nasser, Tito and Nehru also are meeting.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the U.A.R. and President Josip Tito of Yugoslavia are old hands at these meetings which they invariably label as "non-aligned" but which usually wind up in the final communique by taking a healthy cut at someone, normally, the United States.

The freshman at this meeting, bearing a name also noted among the non-aligned, is Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India.

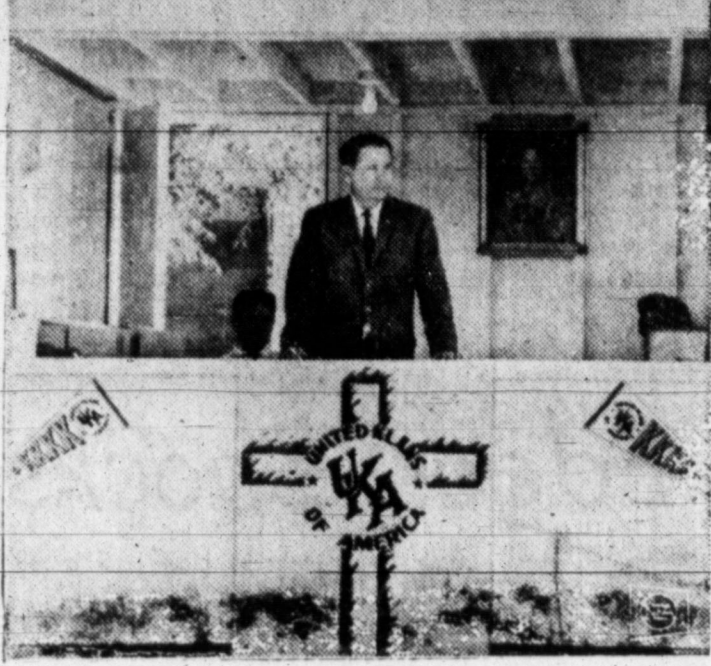

She is the daughter of the late Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, a truly great man who finally became lost in the maze of his own socialist philosophy and never really did live up to his promises.

Mention of this meeting is worthwhile, if only on the grounds it probably never will be mentioned again, or if it is, only on the back pages close to the obituaries.

Safety Study Pinpoints Principal Causes of All Traffic Accidents

CAMBRIDGE Mass. — Results of the most comprehensive study of traffic safety information ever attempted were released today — pinpointing some of the principal factors contributing to traffic accidents and pointing up an urgent need for heightened safety research.

The critical review of technical information available today on many aspects of highway safety is the result of six months of study by the research firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc., under sponsorship of the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

General James M. Gavin, board chairman of Arthur D. Little, Inc., said the review was conducted to determine to what extent it is possible to identify the ultimate causes of vehicular accidents and their resulting loss. He also pointed out that traffic accidents are most meaningfully viewed as failures of the system rather than as a failure of any single component, such as the driver, the vehicle or the environment.

Dr. Bruce S. Old, ADL project supervisor, pointed out that "the systems nature of the highway safety problem must be appreciated both for proper investigation of its components and for the development and evaluation of remedies."

The reviewers found that most of the information currently available on traffic safety can be categorized within three basic classes:

"1. There are many gross summaries of accident and related statistics presenting a broad picture of some of the problem areas, but in insufficient detail to suggest meaningful remedies.

"2. There are many isolated observations and a few limited case studies that are suggestive of specific problems and remedies, but that are inadequate in scope for assessing the problem magnitude or for predicting remedy effectiveness.

"3. There are scattered examples of good research providing a useful assessment of specific hazards or remedies." Dr. Richard C. Norris, project director, stated that "There is no single factor identified in the literature which can be labeled a principal 'cause' of highway hazard and which could be easily remedied to reduce traffic accident losses markedly."

The report noted that the magnitude of traffic accident loss, the complexity of the problem, the increased expenditures for remedial programs anticipated, and the incompleteness of present information demand and require an expanded traffic safety research effort. In addition, a stronger focus is needed on the objective analysis and evaluation of the costs imposed and benefits obtained by existing and proposed remedies.

The report also stated that Belgrade. The then-Premier Nikita Khrushchev blew the ground from under them with a resumption of Soviet nuclear tests, depriving them of publicity and of a friendly image.

They tried it again in Cairo in October, 1964, only to find themselves outmaneuvered by the first Red Chinese nuclear test and a U.S. political campaign. Once more their publicity suffered.

National Window

(Opinion)

By LYLE WILSON

United Press International
President Johnson had good cause to warn Americans not to expect great things from the Manila conference seeking peace in Southeast Asia. Expect neither magic nor miracles, LBJ told the voters.

He might have gone further and suggested that the citizens cross their fingers against calamity. That is no reflection on the President, who is going to Manila in a good cause and in high hopes.

It simply reflects the record of personal presidential diplomacy unhappily begun by President Woodrow Wilson at the World War I Versailles peace conference and continued by most of his successors. Personal diplomacy of the Wilson variety usually has been a colossal bust, a failure, frequently a calamity.

Franklin E. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill made their personal consultations a vital part of strategy to win World War II. The West began to lose the peace when Josef Stalin joined the Yalta Conference. Harry S. Truman continued FDR's losing trend when he met with Stalin and the British at Potsdam after defeat of Germany.

Dwight D. Eisenhower's unhappy experiences with personal presidential diplomacy will best be remembered for the May, 1960, Paris summit which collapsed at its opening session. Premier Nikita Khrushchev abused and vilified Ike in angry protest against flights of the American U-2 spy plane over the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev was more restrained but he was brutally frank in his Vienna meeting with President John F. Kennedy. For the young America President, Vienna was a shattering experience. The record from Wilson through Kennedy is plain and disturbing. When great matters have been in the balance, American presidents have been mismatched in the arena of personal diplomacy.

Johnson's risks at Manila are not so great as were the risks involved in previous presidential experiments in personal diplomacy. There is not much to be gained or lost at Manila. LBJ will meet with South Viet Nam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and the representatives of five other states all more or less committed to help suppress armed Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

The Manila conference should produce more precise agreement than now exists on war aims. Included are such questions as terms to be offered to or accepted from North Viet Nam and shall the Viet Cong be welcomed at peace negotiations? Shall the tempo of the war be raised or lowered? Shall peace be sought by means of expansion or contraction of the air war against North Viet Nam.

In short, where do we go from here?

President Johnson will be the big man at Manila. His Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines are fighting the war. Others contribute more or less but none in proportion to the United States. The U.S. commitment is enormous. This little war has become big.

From 16,500 men on Dec. 31, 1963, American armed forces in Viet Nam had increased by last Oct. 1 to 316,000 — with more to come. U.S. land, sea and air resources are stretched.

This would appear to tie into global Communist strategy which is to bleed the United States until Western defenses of freedom sag toward impotence. Manila is a way station in the search for an honorable way out of the most unpopular war in which the United States ever engaged.

The choice is narrowing to: Win the war or get out of it soon.

enemy troops were captured the week ending Oct. 15, up from the previous record high of 696. The enemy lost 993 soldiers killed during the week, a kill ratio of nearly 3 to 1.

The figures resulted primarily from Operations Irving, (U.S.) Meang Ho six (Korean) and Dai Bang 800 (Vietnamese) running jointly near Qui Nhon.

The spokesman put U.S. strength in Viet Nam at 331,000 and other free world forces at 50,000. He estimated enemy strength at 284,000 men.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Although the United States floods other nations with television shows, very few foreign video series have been allowed regular weekly berths by the networks of this country.

British-produced series such as "Secret Agent," "The Avengers" and "The Saint" have gained considerable popularity here in America, but they represent only a handful of imports. And this disparity in percentage between what we give and what we get does not always sit well with some of our overseas critics.

In a recent dispatch from London, for instance, "Variety," the show business newspaper, tell of the argument for a tighter quota on American television programs by a columnist for the Evening Standard, Milton Shulman.

One of Shulman's contentions is that such a move would mean only the better U.S. series would be seen in his country, instead of being lumped with much of the junk we now export.

In his writing, Shulman is, to say the least, hardly impressed on the home tube.

According to our programs, he says, this way of life "means fear of the boss, reconciliation to violence, awe of authority, eagerness to be accepted, terror of loneliness, obsessive omnisciousness to religion, the omnipotence of law and order, fawning adulation of the family image, compulsive patriotism, reverence for good taste and an omnibus creed that the welfare and conscience of the individual must be subservient to the welfare and conscience of the community or state."

Assassin Judged 'Disordered'; Gets Prison Sentence

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — The presiding justice of the Cape Town supreme court Thursday ruled Demitrio Tsafendas was mentally disordered when he assassinated Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd on the floor of parliament. He ordered him committed to prison.

The trial of the 48-year-old parliamentary messenger thus ended abruptly without a charge being read. Tsafendas' attorneys had argued for three days that he was a "hopeless schizophrenic" who thought he was bewitched by a giant tape work inside him.

The state's attempt to secure the death penalty collapsed today when two state psychiatrists, called as prosecution witnesses, admitted under cross-examination that they considered Tsafendas schizophrenic and said he should be certified insane.

Attorney General Willem Van Den Berg then asked chief justice Andries Beyers to commit Tsafendas to prison or a mental institution under the terms of South Africa's mental disorders act.

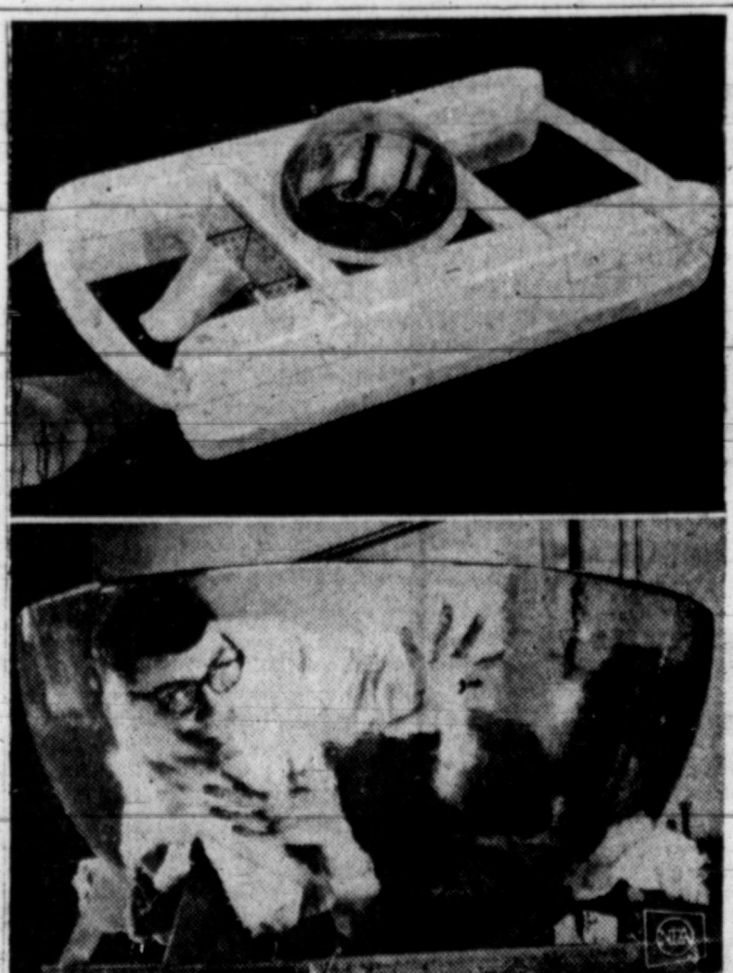

Van Den Berg asked that the order be for prison rather than an asylum.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

There are too many people who reject progress.

There are on the educational scene many new ideas, a great deal of research, new and improved materials, and the most extensive financial assistance ever available. Granted, all are not fully desirable but surely all are not fully undesirable.

Yet, we have educators, school boards, communists, and other groups who are just sitting back in some cases fighting against any changes in their programs. They are maintaining programs which were introduced 20 years ago. Their ideas, although not always directly detrimental to students, are often harmful in that students could progress far more efficiently under some of the newer ideas and programs.

It should be understood that some of the new ideas are unproved, but many of these are important improvements. They should be examined and tried on at least a temporary basis to determine their effectiveness in particular situations.

Not Extreme Changes

What kinds of progress are we discussing? It would not be fair to expect full acceptance of extreme changes such as programmed instruction, team teaching, or educational television. These have potential and need further development.

What we do know is that many children are far more advanced intellectually and experience-wise than they were before television. Also, parents today are exposing their children to a wider range of experiences than ever before, and it must be noted that the parents themselves generally have a higher level of education than their own parents.

This means that the traditional programs in some classrooms are weak when related to the needs of students. A kindergarten program which denies that some students are already reading and others are ready to read is not serving the individual's needs. A junior or senior high school which does not have a guidance program is denying a valuable service to its students. A foreign language program based on grammar alone is denying the value of the conversational approach.

Library Valuable

Does your elementary school have a library? Too many don't, even though it is generally accepted that a library is extremely valuable to the school program.

Is your school looking at the many possible programs which can be financed through the use of federal funds? Has your high school considered advanced placement courses?

Does the teaching staff make use of the many new audio visual aides? Has your school board provided these materials for the staff? Have you as a taxpayer provided the funds needed for such improvements? There is a need in many communities to improve the educational offering. Children are entitled to an educational program which is geared to their own as well as societies future needs.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) —Bache & Co. says that the stability of the current advance seems to be attracting idle funds into the bullish camp. It also feels that the sharp recovery of the utility average of the Dow Jones stock indicator may indicate the monetary pressures have reached their peak.

Thomson & McKinnon says current earnings have been quite satisfactory and some surprisingly strong. The company feels, however, that the future of the economy remains cloudy and until some clarification arrives, it advises selectivity in commitments.

THE HEAD OF A MONSTER ROBOT may be what first comes to mind, but it's actually a massive oil well rigging hook at the Borg-Warner plant in Houston, Tex. The giant hook is used to lower and lift strings of pipe weighing up to 500 tons.

Vicksburg, Miss., is nicknamed "Ledererdy." The city surrendered the "Gibraltar of the Confederacy" after a 47-day siege.

Skellytown Flier Completes 603 Missions in Viet

Sp-5 Raymond L. Moore Jr. of the 334th Armed Helicopter Co., has been awarded the 21st Oak Leaf Cluster to his Basic Air Medal, having flown more than 550 combat hours and 603 combat missions.

Sp-5 Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Moore Sr. of Skellytown, is due to depart for home tomorrow, having completed his 12 month tour of duty.

The officers and men of the 334th Armed Helicopter Company commended Moore for his outstanding performance of duty while serving with the United States Army in Viet Nam.

Moore, a graduate of White Deer High School, entered the Army in January, 1962.

Price quoted Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska: "The com-

NO SMALL POTATOES

SEMINOLE, Tex. (UPI) —It's pea harvest time in the south plains and last week D.L. Pemberton drove from his home in Brownfield, Tex., to near Seminole where he had 500 acres of peas ready to pick. But he was too late. He discovered that some peapicking thieves had picked all of his peas, a loss of about $30,000.

CHECK STATE FARM'S FAMILY LIFE POLICY!
Here's the ideal life insurance plan for the growing family. It insures the entire family, yet the cost for many families averages only $10 to $15 a month. It provides $5,000 life insurance for Dad plus basic life protection for Mom and all the children. And it even includes future children at no extra cost! So ask me about it today!
