MY CHURCH

What does it do for me? What am I doing for it?

Matthew 16:18 "And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock will I build my Church."

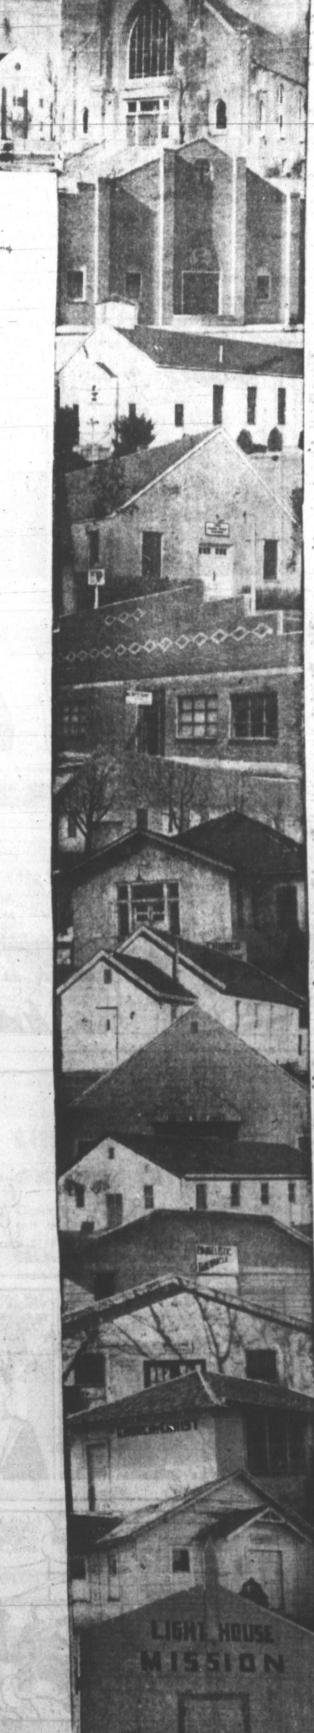

The Church is both an organism and an organization. I became a member of the Church as an organism when my life was changed and I became a Christian. I became a member of the Church as an organization when as a Christian I voluntarily sought a place of fellowship and service with others who had the same view of the Christian's responsibility.

My Church furnishes me with a place of fellowship. It challenges me to a life of service, and it offers me an outlet for the use of my time, my talents and my money.

Denominations need not be a stumbling block to anyone. If there were only one or two denominations I might find it difficult to support with my whole heart their doctrinal beliefs and ther organizational emphasis. It is almost inconceivable for a Christian person to fnd any group with which he can find fellowship. The chances are that a person using the number of denominations as as an excuse for not being a church member is only confessing that he is doing nothing at all about his spiritual life. If there were only one he stll would be on the outside finding fault.

The Church has been an agency through which the doctrines of the Bible have been handed down from generation to generation. I give all credit to the faith of my parents and the church of my generation for the fact that today I am a Christian and not an atheist. My Church has helped me to intrepret the sacred sricptures to apply to me and my generation. Had this been left to me alone without the help of other Christian people, I perhaps would have been too easy on myself.

In time of sorrow, I look to my church and it's people for comfort, for strength and for guidance. Faith in its doctrines have given me hope. Its ethical standards have been guidlines to me. My Church has a right to expect of me, my best. No investment pays greater dividends.
