Two More U.S. Planes Downed In Viet Nam

Administration Is Quiet Over DeGaulle's Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States will not set a date for withdrawal of U.S. forces from South Viet Nam as proposed by French President Charles de Gaulle — unless a date is also set for removal of North-Vietnamese troops.

This was the reaction within the Johnson administration today to De Gaulle's speech in Cambodia. In that speech, the French leader said peace talks could only be held if the United States first committed itself to withdraw its troops within a fixed time.

The U.S. response has not been put into a public statement. So far the administration has chosen to reply to De Gaulle with diplomatically correct and exceedingly cool silence. It may be that no public statement on his speech will be issued.

De Gaulle, the administration noted, said nothing about what Communist North Viet Nam should do to bring peace. There was no mention of withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops from the South.

The question has been asked in Washington: Could this be because De Gaulle had been told by Hanoi that it was not prepared for peace moves? His speech was made after a meeting with Hanoi's representative in Cambodia.

The administration noted that De Gaulle himself expressed doubt that the time was "ripe" for the settlements he proposed and that he also said France was not mediating. Was he, it was asked, protecting himself against a rebuff from Hanoi?

The French leader spoke of the 1954 Geneva Accords as the only system "that could spare Indochina from becoming a field of confrontation for rival dominions and ideologies and an open invitation to American intervention."

THEY JUST WALKED AWAY

Two Prisoners 'Fly the Coop'

Pampa police still were searching this noon for two prisoners who "walked off" in two unrelated escape incidents at mid-forenoon today.

One disappeared from the second floor of Gray County courthouse, while waiting arraignment in County Court.

The other took French leave as a city patrolman was preparing to escort several prisoners from city jail in City Hall for arraignment in Corporation Court.

Eddie Lee Wells, 21, of 818 E. Murphy, was picked up earlier this morning by Patrolman G. L. Wallace and was in the police station for questioning on carrying a homemade blackjack.

Chief of Police Jim Conner escorted Wells to County Court, about 10:30 a.m. today where he was to be arraigned on a charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon. Wells, left in the outer office of the county attorney's office while Chief Conner conferred with County Attorney Don Cain told the office secretary he was going to the rest room and would be back.

Search of offices and rest rooms in the courthouse were made without finding the escapee.

Chief Conner said Wells has a prison record, but felt sure that he would return of his own volition.

The handmade blackjack carried by Wells, when he was picked up, was fashioned from cast-iron braided together with the handle wrapped in plastic cord.

The other escapee, William O. Gurley, 28, of Perryton, cited for intoxication following a two-car accident last night in the 800-block of W. Brown, escaped from custody about 9:15 a.m. today.

Gurley was with another group of prisoners, who were being taken to Corporation Court by Patrolman John L. Thomas. While waiting in the area outside of the cell for the patrolman to bring out other prisoners, police said they thought Gurley just walked out of the police station.

Officers from the Gray County Sheriff's office and Highway Patrol were assisting city police in the search. Officers said they expected the men, well-known to local law officials, would be apprehended soon.

Small Chance For Showers

Widely scattered thunder showers are again for cast for Pampa and vicinity and other parts of the state, but the probability of showers for the locality is only 20 per cent tonight.

Skies are to be partly cloudy with no important temperature changes in sight through Saturday. High is expected to reach the mid-60s, with an overnight low in the low 60s. Winds are to be southerly 10 to 15 m.p.h., shifting to northerly.

High Thursday was 86, with an overnight low of 63.

A thunderstorm lashed the Midland-Odessa area Thursday night with 60-mile-an-hour winds and 4 1/2 inches of rain in less than three hours. Homes and highways were flooded and hundreds of motorists stranded.

A unit of the Texas State Guard was called out to help the stranded motorists.

More thunderstorms were expected through Saturday, with Northwest and extreme East Texas the areas most likely to get them.

WEATHER

PAMPA AND VICINITY—Partly cloudy and warm through Saturday. Widely scattered late afternoon and nighttime thunder showers High in mid-80s. Low in low 60s. Southerly winds 10 to 15 m.p.h., shifting northerly. Probability of showers: 20 per cent tonight.

PACT WOULD END 'FOREIGN INTERVENTION'

De Gaulle Calls for Agreement

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (UPI) — French President Charles de Gaulle of France and Cambodian Chief of State Prince Norodom Sihanouk called today for international agreements to guarantee the neutrality of Viet Nam and for an end to foreign intervention there.

In a joint communique issued at the end of De Gaulle's three-day visit the two leaders said only foreign intervention — meaning the United States — had transformed a civil war in Viet Nam into an international conflict.

De Gaulle in a speech Thursday called for withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Viet Nam and said there must be a commitment to do so before there can even be peace negotiations. The communique skirted that issue today.

De Gaulle and Sihanouk said the international agreements neutralizing Viet Nam should be extended to all of Indochina, including Laos and Cambodia which became separate states with end of the French Indochina war in 1954.

Worry About Catastrophe — The communique said the time is not yet ripe but that both men favor a conference to guarantee Cambodia's borders. Such a conference presumably could be used to try to end the war in Viet Nam before it develops into the major catastrophe De Gaulle has predicted. "Under reserve of agreement of all the Vietnamese, a statute of guaranteed and controlled neutrality should be offered to Viet Nam by international agreement," the communique said.

"This agreement should be applied to the whole of the

Indochinese peninsula by virtue of clauses designed to confirm and strengthen the neutrality which resulted for Cambodia from its law of Nov. 4, 1955, (See DE GAULLE, Page 3)

THE HIGH POINT of French President de Gaulle's world tour came with his arrival in Cambodia for talks with the premier, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, right. The visit was reported likely to include a meeting with a representative of Communist North Viet Nam as well as efforts to bolster neutralist Cambodia's position and further French proposals for neutralizing Southeast Asia.

12 Bus Passengers Killed By V.C. Mine

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force pilots flying through thunderstorms and clouds, which hid Communist missile sites, once again cut North Viet Nam's railroad supply lines to Red China, an Air Force spokesman reported today. Two planes and their pilots were lost.

In the South, an ever-increasing campaign of Viet Cong terror, to disrupt the Sept. 11 elections, took a growing toll of dead and injured despite increased government precautions and stepped up American vigilance against threatened murder attacks.

A Viet Cong mine exploded under a bus 24 miles north of Saigon today killing 12 persons — eight civilians and four soldiers — and wounding 10 persons. It was the deadliest Viet Cong strike since a bomb took a toll of 30 or more lives at Hue last month.

Another Viet Cong terrorist squad posing as prospective voters blew up a polling place 27 miles north of Saigon today, injuring at least five Vietnamese. The raiders entered the office at Lai Thieu on the pretext of seeking voting instructions and placed a mine which exploded later.

Intelligence sources in Da Nang reported huge Communist troop buildups in four northern provinces of South Viet Nam and warned of possible major attacks — during the actual elections. The sources said terror squads killed five village chiefs near Hue earlier this week and were planning wholesale assassinations to disrupt the elections.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, paying a surprise visit to the Bien Hoa airbase 30 miles northeast of Saigon, repeated his pledge to step down as South Viet Nam's chief as soon as a civilian government could be established after the Sept. 11 elections.

And in an apparent reference to French President Charles de Gaulle's statements in neighboring Cambodia, Ky vowed he would "never negotiate" with the Viet Cong.

"There are people who talk about negotiations," he said in a 25-minute speech. "But those who have the idea of negotiating with the Viet Cong are wrong — completely wrong. They understand nothing at all (See VIET NAM, Page 3)

United Nations Wants U. Thant Back In Post

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — A concerted move to persuade a reluctant U Thant to continue in office as secretary general took shape today but was not expected to snowball until the General Assembly meets Sept. 20.

The United States officially opened the drive Thursday within a few hours of Thant's statement that he would not be available when his five-year term expires Nov. 3. Among his reasons — frustration over the U.N.'s inability to act as peacemaker, particularly in Viet Nam — was his basic belief that no man should serve more than one term in the top U.N. executive post.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said he did not agree with that premise. He told a news conference the United States "persists in the hope that the secretary general will accede to the desire of the (U.N.) membership that he consented to the extension of his term of office."

Elaborating on the statement, Goldberg said he hoped this would be another full five-year term "or something short of a full term," but "we urge him to stay for as long as he wants." The other big powers in the Security Council — the top organ of the United Nations — withheld comment for the time being. Britain, France and the Soviet Union — the latter acting as council president this month — pointed out privately their past support of Thant was well known.

In the Hague, The Netherlands government issued a statement, in effect joining the U.S. drive. It said the Dutch government "does not abandon the hope that it will as yet be possible to persuade Mr. Thant to make himself available once again." Ethiopia said it has "not lost hope even at this late hour and will join with other missions in making yet another appeal to U Thant to stay on."

There was no indication what Thant's response to a draft move would be. He was in seclusion with friends outside of New York and would not be back at his desk before next Tuesday. But a U.N. spokesman said his statement Thursday "is the only one that has been issued or will be issued on this question."

While this implied finality, U.N. member nations hoped this was not the case.

Red Chinese Belt US, Soviet Policy

HONG KONG (UPI) — Young Communist Chinese zealots, calling themselves "grave-diggers of the old world," vowed today to undergo combat training for a fight to the end against Americans in Viet Nam and "traitorous Soviet leaders."

The pledge from China's Red Guard youths came as Peking assured the North Vietnamese Thursday it has "made every preparation" to join them in struggle against the United States "until final victory is achieved."

In an article published in the People's Daily, the official organ of the Chinese Communist party, the Red Guards said they were ready to extend their anti-Western campaign in China "into the international arena" for a two-pronged attack against America and Russia.

But they stopped short of actually saying they would take up arms against U.S. troops in Viet Nam.

The leaders of the Soviet Union and the United States "have committed monstrous, unpardonable crimes and should be punished and executed by the revolutionary people of the whole world," the Red Guard article said.

The teen-agers who have terrorized China for two weeks in their bid to wipe out all foreign influences "expressed their determination to learn from the liberation (Chinese) army for training themselves to become combat troops like the army itself."

The Red Guards also announced that they had decided to "strengthen their organization for putting it on a combat basis . . . they are unafraid of sacrifices and unafraid of death."

The Chinese government message of support for Hanoi came in a cable sent to President Ho Chi Minh on the 21st anniversary of North Viet Nam's existence as a nation. It was signed by party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and other Chinese leaders.

It said China's 700-million (See POLICY, Page 3)

Pilot's Tapes May Tell Why Plane Crashed

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Tapes of pilot-controller conversations and the recollections of 22 survivors, including a stewardess, today may tell why 95 Britons died Thursday enroute to the "happiest holiday" of their lives.

Yugoslav officials had reported the copilot of the downed airliner among the survivors and said investigators had recovered a "black box" that recorded the plane's mechanical operations from the wreckage. But Britannia Airways officials in London claimed the copilot was dead and no "black box" was aboard.

The chartered Britannia Airways turboprop airliner carrying 110 Britons and a crew of seven from London to an all-inclusive vacation on Yugoslavia's sun-baked Adriatic coast slammed to earth in flames Thursday and fell apart like a smashed egg just two miles from the runway at Brnki Airport.

This much was clear: The four-engine "whispering giant" was coming in too low and slightly off course as it droned toward landing. It was (See PILOT, Page 3)

Local Pastor Representative To International Conference

The Rev. Monroe Woods Jr., pastor of Pampa's St. Mark CME Church, was elected to represent the Northwest Texas Annual Conference Board of Christian Education at the International Council of Churches in Christ divisional meeting to be held in Dallas on Feb. 10, 1967.

The appointment was made yesterday during the Northwest Texas Annual Conference now in session at St. Mark Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, 408 Elm.

The five-day conference will draw to a close on Sunday, which has been designated Commission Day, at which time Bishop Norris S. Curry of Dallas will read next year's appointments of ministers.

During business sessions yesterday, the Rev. Rayfield Medcalf of Midland and E. B. Johnson of Amarillo were elected delegates to the meeting of National Council of Churches in Christ to be held in Miami, Fla. in December.

Carter Curtis Jr. of Wichita Falls is an alternate. Nine trustees were named yesterday to serve the Northwest Texas Annual Conference until the next conference in 1967.

Trustees are Rev. W. E. Patterson, presiding elder of the Wichita - Amarillo District; The Rev. E. J. Lott, presiding elder of the Abilene District; the Rev. W. A. Schultz of Amarillo, pastor of the Carter Chapel CME; the Rev. G. R. Patterson of Wichita, pastor of Gilbert Memorial CME; the Rev. Monroe Woods Jr., pastor of St.

Mark CME; H. McDow of Quanah; Dr. W. C. Stewart of Odessa; Mrs. E. M. King of Albany and Professor L. W. Wiley of Vernon.

G.O.P. Leader Dislikes Bill To Cut Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Democratic leadership's proposal for a "substantial reduction" in U.S. forces in Europe hit serious trouble yesterday. Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he does not agree with it.

More important, the Illinois senator — who has backed President Johnson frequently on vital foreign policy issues — is expected to urge fellow Republicans to shy away from the Democrats' proposed "sense of the Senate" resolution.

Dirksen apparently shares administration concern that a broad endorsement of a troop cutback now would "play into the hands" of French President Charles de Gaulle, shake the Wilson government in Britain, and send a new shiver through NATO. How it might be interpreted by the Soviet Union, in the absence of any call for a parallel Russian cutback, adds to the problem.

"I don't agree with it," was all Dirksen would say about the resolution offered by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield for his party's 13-member policy committee.

Casting Contract Given Local Firm

The Pampa Foundry has been awarded a $126,000 contract by the Fischback and Moore International Corp., through its Dallas office, H. O. Darby, foundry owner, announced today.

Production will start immediately and should be completed by the end of the year. The contract provides work for 10 additional employees with four additional specialists to be added at a later date.

The work consists of producing 1,500,000 pounds of castings of various sizes and weights. The castings will move by rail from Pampa in one shipment to the shipping docks in Houston, where it will be loaded on a ship for overseas shipment to the Philippine Islands for a project known as "Operation Bamboo."

Foundry officials stated that with other new work already obtained, the above contract will strain present facilities. For the past two weeks, the foundry has been operating at full capacity after a period of slow production.

At this time, Darby said, negotiations are underway on work to more than replace the Fischback and Moore contract, when it is completed.

Speck's Defender Desires Change

CHICAGO (UPI) — Public defender Gerald M. Getty says accused mass-killer Richard Speck could not get a fair trial in Chicago at this time. He hinted he may seek a change of venue.

Getty made the comments after Thursday's court hearing, when Circuit Court Judge Herbert C. Paschen granted a string of defense motions—but failed to rule on what may be the most important.

That was Getty's request that the defense and prosecution join in selecting an eight man panel of mental experts to examine Speck before the trial.

Dear Abby... Dry Those Tears... Be a Good Sport

DEAR ABBY: Even though I'm only 13, I know I am in love. Don't tell me I don't know what love is because for the last week all I have done is cried over him. Loving him is no problem, but him loving me is the problem. Not long ago I thought I had a chance, but now there is no hope because of an eleven-year-old girl who is throwing herself at him. Please tell me how to get him back, Abby? I will do anything.

BROKEN-HEARTED IN FLORENCE, S.C.
DEAR B. H.: It is difficult to compete with a "younger woman." But dry your tears, honey, and pretend you don't care. It may not win him back but at least you will show courage and good sportsmanship.

And if you're still crying by your 14th birthday, write again and we'll try something else.

DEAR ABBY: I have a story to tell and if you print it and it makes just one kid realize what can happen because of his own selfishness, it might make up for the harm I did to two families. I am a 20-year-old college sophomore who has carried a fake I.D. card for two years. I don't drink much, but I used it to get into places where you have to be 21. Well, I went to this tavern and ordered a gin and tonic. The waitress asked to see my I.D. and I showed it to her. She served me. I had only one drink and left.

As I was getting into my car, a police officer stopped me and asked to see my I.D. He knew right away it was fake, so he took me down to the station and here is what happened: The two brothers who owned that tavern lost their liquor license. I found out later they were both World War II veterans with families. They worked and saved for 15 years, and then borrowed in order to buy that little tavern. They were doing just great until this happened. They lost their business and will probably lose their homes. And it's all my fault because I had to have a drink before I reached the legal age to buy one.

ASHAMED AND SORRY
DEAR ABBY: If this didn't happen to me I would never have believed it. My mother called me long distance last night around midnight. (I am 29, self-supporting and live out of the state.) Mother said she had been receiving strong "vibrations" all evening about me, and she just had to call to see if everything was all right.

Well, an hour before mother called, the man with whom I had been keeping steady company for four years proposed to me! We were sitting there debating whether to call Mother and tell her the news. Now, how do you account for that?

"MYSTIFIED" IN ALLENTOWN
DEAR MYSTIFIED: If you are asking me whether your mother's "vibrations" could have been attributed to extra sensory perception — yes, they could. (And also to her woman's intuition, and possibly a mother's wishful thinking.)

DEAR ABBY: Why doesn't somebody tell Benchmark's Mother to read the rules book? Little League rules state that each player must play a minimum of two innings per game. One play constitutes an inning, which may not be much,

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) — Along with the three Rs, the three Ss are fast becoming a basic part of the school curriculum. For the sweater, shirt and skirt look has emerged as the reading, writing and arithmetic of fashion this fall.

And it won't take a hickory stick to convince dapper damsels that co-ordinated sweaters, shirts and skirts are part of the "top" look on campus. Ribbed sweaters will be important, particularly in turtle-neck pullovers. You'll see a lot of patterned sweaters with matching motifs at the neck, hip and cuffs. The primary colors are the heathers—loden, rust and champagne.

One manufacturer (Lady Van Heusen) is using button-front motifs in sweater designs. Cables, tight knits and novelties are styled as fashion cardigans or knit jackets.

There's plenty to view in the new shirts, too. A tailored look that's at once classic and subtly detailed is stellar this semester. Finely striped placket fronts and trim cuffs, button-down and lapel collars, yoke backs and generous back box pleats are touches that shirt purists will relish.

There's no reason for serious students of fashion to press their luck in selecting back-to-school fabrics. Permanent press fabrics which can be machine-washed, dried and emerge wrinkle-free, are available in that collegiate favorite, Oxford.

Vanopress broadcloth will be heralded by distaffers who cot-to to permanent press.

Naturally, suits, slacks and jackets are part of this co-ordinated fashion picture. Slim slacks, belted slacks, slim or swing skirts will all be campus hits. The newest jackets are short.

You don't have to be a school-girl to look like one. The co-ordinated look is for post-graduates, too.

School and You

By SUSAN LIGHT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Recently I had some eye-opening experiences in a modern city hospital. Somehow they brought the problems of education into focus.

Take the nurse's aide who weighed me.

"Try 112," I suggested.

The weighing lever banged down when she put it at 112. She moved the weight bar to the right.

"Wrong direction," I volunteered.

She paid no attention. Along about 150 pounds I began to protest.

"I may be chubby," I said, "but I don't think I'd qualify as a fat lady in the circus. I wore size 7 when I came in."

Light finally dawned. She went the other way — fast, the weighing lever banged up. So she moved the bar further to the left.

After umpteen more maneuvers — balance.

but at least it gives every player a chance to play.

TARDES (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Showing them by some thoughtful act will endear you to them for a long time to come. Be of personal assistance to them. This gains you further good will and loyalty when most needed.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — A little outing with friends picnic, etc. can be very enjoyable, but do not take any risks whatever in p.m. Take some time to work on finest hobby. Let it work efficiently.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Getting out to see that powerful person in a m. will bring excellent results and others will respect you more later. Later, go where you gain prestige. Take it very easy tonight and read some.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you realize those who think differently to get their views, you find you get many benefits. Do some research work that is vital to our best interests. A cheerful attitude is very important right now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Being sure to get a better system around you will then put you in a mood for a happy evening's entertainment. Do not be disturbed by those who are jealous. Be of a very romantic frame of mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Doing whatever will bring greater harmony between you and friends is best during the day, since tonight could bring misunderstandings, while talking. Zip—pursue—tonight, since Diplomacy is important right now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Although you want to go out for pleasure, it is best you first take care of any obligations that are of birth and movement. Getting health improved is also imperative. Evening is fine combining work with a little pleasure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You can start a round of pleasure rather easily in a m. and wind up the evening with something tight and airy. Be good with repairs. Show others that you are an affectionate and kind person.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Being sure to invite him to partake of any amusements you have in mind will make night. Improve relations. Complete work at hand before starting on that new system you have in mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Know it is you want to do and then get either working yourself officially or get others to carry through for you. Fine day for traveling around, shopping, etc. Do not retire too late.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — While gambling around, make sure you cultivate those persons who can assist you to better your financial position by right methods. Find a better way to make your home more charming and colorful, comfortable.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those geniuses who not only can formulate great plans, but has the ability to go into the minute detail that is so vital a part of such an early dream in a very persevering way to ultimate success. The pioneer... learns very large in this chart as well as the interpreter of more efficient systems. Early teach to finish whatever is once started. Send to best college.

RUTH MILLETT

"You weigh 113," she said triumphantly.

"But, honey," I pointed out, "112 was too heavy — remember? The pointer's just beyond 110. Each of those little lines represents a quarter of a pound — so it's 110 and three-fourths."

"No," she said. "Watch me count—111, 112, 113."

I gave up.

Another aide arrived to measure me. I said that the pointer showed 60 inches even. Whispered consultations followed.

"Can I help you?" I asked.

"We have to put it down in feet and inches," she explained, "and we don't know how many feet there are in 60 inches..."

Later an aide brought me a king-size dinner that would have jinxed my tests. Seems it was meant for a Mrs. Lyons — the girl had read only the initial letter.

For the competent professional staff I have only admiration — but what can one do about aides who can't read, reason, follow directions, or do simple arithmetic? Did education fail them or did they fail education?

Now I realize — with feeling — what our urban-schools are up against.

These girls didn't need subjects like history, biology and creative writing. They needed to work on basic skills—straight through high school.

For the present crop of teenagers, Head Start programs are too late. But it's encouraging to know teachers are being trained in the special problems of inner-city children. We need them badly.

Perhaps some day every student will learn enough to do simple tasks well.

The collections for fall and wintertime emphasize the simple of silhouettes for daytime dresses—collarless or small collar, sleeveless or tiny sleeves, and fabric gliding over the body, the waistline unmarked. The skimmer goes right on into the new season.

Starry-Eyed Young Women Arrive In New York With Minds on Matrimony

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) —The young women come to New York by the thousands each month. They arrive starry-eyed about careers, often naive about the cost of living in the big town, and almost always with their minds on matrimony.

For these, the girls who want to make New York home but find the only welcome mats are in the antique shops, there is such as Mrs. Douglas (Judy) Weil, who's established an unusual advisory service. She will help in finding apartments and matching roommates if a girl doesn't want to, and can't afford to, live alone.

She helps in the search for jobs, advises on shopping, and how to get into the mainstream of New York life outside the job — guiding them to the social, civic, political, professional, cultural and religious groups.

Find a husband also? "I don't arrange dates," said Mrs. Weil. "I do tell them to get involved in activities outside the office... They'll be happier. They will meet people... men."

"I do tell them there are computer dating services, tell them the various singles parties, the ski clubs, about the young adult groups at church, the Y, and such. It's up to them from there on."

She's found that mixed in with all the young women's desires to make a home in New York is the "eternal interest in meeting men. Most are looking for a husband. This is sort of a post-college course."

Mrs. Weil met her husband, who's with a commercial finance firm, the first week after she arrived in New York from her native Galesburg, Ill., with a journalism degree from the University of Illinois.

They met through mutual friends of their families, she said, and have been married nearly three years. The Weils have one child, Deborah, a 13-month-old charmer.

"I started Mamselle in Manhattan (the firm's name), because like many other women, I didn't want to quit work because I had a child, but I didn't want to be away from home all day either."

She'd worked previously for publishing firms, then with a travel agency. And before she organized Mamselle, operated from her apartment, she spent a year "pounding pavements" in spare time checking out various agencies, shops, women's residence hotels and such.

"I found very quickly that newcomers are often naive about the cost of living, especially of rents. Sharing an apartment was a necessity. Do you know there are an estimated one million single women in New York?"

Mrs. Weil offers two types of consultation — the roommate matching service, and the "package" deal, six months of advice on just about any topic which interests a girl.

Most of her clients are in their 20's and a high percentage holds college degrees. But she said one of the best routes into the business world is with secretarial training. Some secretaries have gone on to fantastic successes.

She suggested a girl arrive with enough money to cover two weeks in New York — "by that time she'll have found some sort of job, although it may be a temporary one while she looks for what she really wants." Inquiry About Thailand Hits Sensitive Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright's plan to hold hearings — open and closed — on the U.S. military buildup in Thailand is putting the Johnson administration on the spot.

The problem involved is whether in "telling all" to Congress and the American people the administration will jeopardize military operations vital to the war in Viet Nam.

Fulbright's move thus struck to the heart of a dilemma as old as the nation itself — the conflict between the people's right to know and the need, in certain circumstances, for military and diplomatic secrecy.

The senator, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, contends that Congress, as the representative of the people, has a constitutional right to "advise and consent" when it comes to foreign policy.

Fulbright noted that the presence of large numbers of U.S. troops — some reports mention 30,000 — and the construction of major air base facilities in Thailand have become more or less public knowledge.

"We ought to know what we are getting into," he said, adding that he has since regretted his failure to hold hearings two years ago after the Gulf of Tonkin incident on the major U.S. buildup in South Viet Nam.

There have been published reports that U.S. planes based in Thailand have bombed Communist North Viet Nam and the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos. But these have never been officially confirmed.

U.S. officials, while not admitting American activities in Thailand, have asked newsmen to keep them a secret. The Thai government is said to have agreed to these activities on the understanding that they would not be made public.

Shanghai, Communist China's most populous city, has a population of almost seven million.

Obituaries

Clyde M. Vanderberg
Funeral services for Clyde M. Vanderberg of 1125 Charles, who suffered a heart attack and died at 11:35 a.m. yesterday in Worley Hospital, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow in First Presbyterian Church. Rev. Donald S. Hauck will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery under direction of Carmichael-Whitely Funeral Directors.

Mr. Vanderberg was born Nov. 30, 1896, in Jacksboro. He was production foreman for Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. from 1925 until his retirement on Dec. 1, 1961. Mr. Vanderberg moved to Pampa in 1942 from Borger where he had been a resident since 1925. He was a veteran of World War I and a member of the American Legion and First Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Elma Vanderberg of the home, one daughter, Mrs. Robert E. Wright of Oklahoma City, Okla.; two brothers, R. George Vanderberg of San Francisco, Calif., and Clarence Vanderberg of Hollis, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Carl Harman and Mrs. Velma Coty, both of Fort Worth, and Mrs. John W. Sears of Sayre, Okla., two grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. at the home, 1125 Charles, with burial in the cemetery. Pallbearers will be Leo P. Casey, Don Kite, T. M. Kivelien, Gene Imel, Guy LeMond and Roy B. Hodges.

Serving as honorary pallbearers will be employees of Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. of Pampa and Borger, directors of Citizens Bank and Trust Co. and O. W. Appleby, Willard C. Chapman, Floyd Imel, Lee Helbert, Howard E. Johnson, Elmo T. Howard and Roy Jewel.

The body will remain at the funeral home until service time and the casket will not be opened at the church.

Mrs. Lena May Few
Mrs. Lena May Few of 415 N. Sumner died at 5:15 a.m. today in Highland General Hospital following a lengthy illness.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete with Carmichael-Whitely Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Few was born Aug. 5, 1895, in Wewoka, Okla. A resident of Pampa since 1931, she was a member of First Baptist Church.

Surviving are her husband, Arley Few of the home, and one brother, Edwin Higgs of Odesa.

De Gaulle

The communique stressed the phrase "foreign intervention." It said:

"Despite the differences which have divided and still divide the Vietnamese, it is essentially the foreign-intervention that, by transforming a civil war into an international conflict, has given the hostilities their present dimensions."

De Gaulle wore a gray business suit rather than his customary khaki uniform for the signing of the communique in the throne room of Sihanouk's royal palace.

Visits Queen Mother
After signing, he sipped a glass of fruit juice and chatted with Sihanouk and Queen Mother Kossamak.

Shortly before the communique was issued, reliable sources reported that a member of De Gaulle's delegation conferred Wednesday in Phnom Penh with a representative of the Viet Cong.

After the final conference with Sihanouk, whose Missouriized nation is an uneasy neighbor of South Viet Nam, the French leader was to fly to Noumea in New Caledonia on the next leg of his round-the-world tour.

The highlight of the 75-year-old general's tour came in a speech Thursday in which he warned no military solution to the war was possible and appealed for a withdrawal of American troops.

Military Solution Impossible
"France believes that no military solution is possible and that to think so is to see the world rolling toward a catastrophe. Only a political accord can re-establish peace," De Gaulle told 80,000 cheering Cambodians.

De Gaulle asserted the only way negotiations could begin would be for the United States to withdraw all its troops from South Viet Nam — a pre-conference provision also demanded by the North Vietnamese.

Officials in Washington had no immediate comment on the speech, saying President Johnson would have to read the full transcript first.

Observers maintained nevertheless the address, which De Gaulle said he made "in the name of two centuries of (Franco-American) friendship," was the harshest attack on U.S. policy he has yet made. De Gaulle conceded there seemed little immediate hope the United States would heed his plea.

There was some speculation the French president's call for an American withdrawal before negotiations might bear some relationship to the meeting De Gaulle had Wednesday with a Communist North Vietnamese representative here.

The speculation was that the personal message North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh sent De Gaulle through the Communist envoy might have agreed to a peace conference if the U.S. troops were first withdrawn.

There was no official support for the speculation, however.

Rail Strike Reaches End

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's week-old national rail strike has legally ended. The big question today was when the striking railway men would return to work.

Four days of spirited debate ended late Thursday night when Parliament passed Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's controversial bill to make the strike illegal.

The law requires the 110,000 rail workers to return to their jobs immediately, although a key provision grants them an 18 per cent wage increase that will stay in effect until the unions and management iron out a new contract. The unions involved in the dispute have demanded a 30 per cent hike.

Meteors are composed chiefly of iron, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Youth Given Scholarship

Gail Marie Newlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Newlin, 413 N. Russell, is the recipient of a scholarship award from the Henry L. Doherty (Cities Service) Educational Foundation.

Her scholarship brings to 227 the number of sons and daughters of Cities Service employees who will attend college this fall with Foundation aid. The 80 new grants to upcoming college freshmen and 147 renewal grants to upperclassmen total $90,650.

Miss Newlin will enter the University of Houston where she will major in business administration.

An award renewal was granted to Francis L. Karlin, also of Pampa.

The Henry L. Doherty Educational Foundation is supported by subscriptions from Cities Service Co. employees and those of Cities Service subsidiary companies. Employee subscriptions are matched by Cities Service companies.

Awards are made to sons and daughters of Cities Service employees on the basis of outstanding scholastic record, citizenship, extracurricular activities and need. Awards are issued on a school term basis and renewable each year for a total of four years.

Viet Nam

U.S. spokesmen said an Air Force F-105 Starfighter and a prop-driven A1E Skyraider went down in the southern panhandle area of North Viet Nam in attacks against the rail line that funnels supplies from Communist China to Hanoi. Both pilots were listed as missing.

It was the second day in a row the United States had lost two planes in raids against the Communist North. Combined with the 115 planes reported down in South Viet Nam, it brought to 466 the total number of planes shot down during the Viet Nam war.

Sept. Hearing Set for Barber

AUSTIN — G. M. (Marshall) Johnson charged with running a unsanitary barber shop will go before the State Board of Barber Examiners on Sept. 12.

The original hearing was set for Aug. 8, but was delayed to allow Johnson's attorneys to prepare his case.

He is operator of the Parkway Barber Shop, 1824 Hobart, Pampa.

A hearing for a Canyon barber, Ted J. Wayne is still pending with the board. He is faced with similar charges.

Pilot

(Continued From Page 1) only 300 feet when it should have been at 650. Suddenly it banked to the right and plummeted to 65 feet. Passengers yelled as their ears popped.

The plane plowed into the tops of fir trees and dented in the forest clearing. "Flames lit up the woods," a nearby resident said.

A stewardess was among the 22 survivors. All were expected to live, hospital officials said. Investigators also have the control tower tapes of the dead pilot's conversations with the control tower at Brink, which may help in their investigations.

The 110 vacationers aboard the ill-fated plane had paid for an 11-day Adriatic tour arranged by a London travel agency which promised "the happiest holiday of your life."

Key Club To Display Flags

Pampa Key Club will display flags in front of businesses as usual on Labor Day.

In addition, flags are being offered for sale to homes and businesses for those who would want to display Old Glory on this national holiday.

Home kits will be sold at $5 each, and lawn kits are priced at $7.50. Each kit consists of flag, pole and fittings. If desired by the purchaser, Key Club members will deliver and install the flags before Labor Day, if ordered in time.

Flag rentals are offered to businesses at $18 for the first year and $10 for subsequent years. This price includes flag, pole, installation and upkeep.

Orders may be placed by calling MO 4-7461, MO 9-9572 or MO 4-7859.

Policy

REV. O. E. WRIGHT
CHURCH OF GOD

THE SIN OF ISRAEL

Isiah 63:10. But they rebelled and vexed his holy spirit: Therefore he was turned to be their enemy and he fought against them.

Israel was God's chosen people that he had picked for himself through the seed of the righteous Abraham, taking them and making of them a great nation. Delivering unto them his holy commandments and driving out their enemies before them.

The Old Testament is full of God's good blessing to this people. But Israel sinned and so great was their sin that God turned to be their enemy and fought against them.

What was their sin? They rebelled against God and vexed his holy spirit.

We read in Proverbs 14:34. That righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.

One is made to know that if God spared not these people are the angels that sinned, that all who rebel against his word and reject his spirit, will receive of the fearful wrath of God almighty.

Psalms 9:17 warns us that the wicked shall be turned into hell and all NATIONS that forget God.

In the light of this we should take warning and let this be a lesson to us. At the present rate that our great nation is going today we are fastly following the steps of Israel of old, and we too can provoke the anger of God against us.

God has smiled upon our great nation until we have become the greatest nation on earth, but he can turn our glory to shame also if we continue to rebel against his word and vex his holy spirit.

Long may we be able to sing: "Our fathers' God to thee, Author of liberty, To Thee we sing; Long may our land be bright With freedom's holy light; Protect us by Thy might, Great God, our King.

Top Amateurs In Practice Session For Opening of Tot

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor

About half the field of 206 golfers tested Pampa Country Club's sprawling 5,917 yards today in preparation for the opening of the 29th annual Top O' Texas tournament through Monday.

The golfers were given Friday as practice day before going for broke Saturday through Monday.

The course plays to a 35-36 par 71 and starts with a long 560-yard first hole and the golfers coming in on No. 18 have a 440-yard par 4 to shoot at.

Back to try to do what no other golfer has been able to do, win three times in this tournament, is Amarillo's John Farquhar.

But also back, among others, is Bobby Greenwood of Cookeville, Tex. who won the tournament in 1964, then was runner-up last year.

Farquhar won first in 1963, then finished in the No. 2 spot in '64 before winning in '65 with a 270 total.

Another top contender is Don Prigmore of Pampa and Lubbock, who won in 1958 and set the course record while doing it with a 267.

Prigmore has just recently been returned to the amateur ranks after turning professional for a while.

A host of college golfers will be on hand including golf teams from Oklahoma State, North Texas State and Texas Tech.

James Grant of Borger, James Herring of Texas University golf team, Bobby Sanders of Amarillo, Miles Childress of the same city, Jim Chew of Lions, Kan. and Steve LaCrosse, are here also.

The championship flight has a Pampa flavor also with Buster Carter, who has threatened several times, newcomer Richard Ellis, Max Hickey, C. F. McGinnis, winner in 1945 and Malcolm Douglass, runner-up twice.

Championship and first flight golfers play 18 holes Saturday and Sunday and end the 29th annual tournament with 36 holes Monday. Other flights play 18 holes match play Saturday and Sunday and 18 holes medal Monday.

HATS OFF TO SUTTON

Dodgers Nip Bucs, 4-3

By United Press International
Blue Berets off to Don Sutton.

Since the Los Angeles bullpen crew no longer wears hats, the 21-year-old righthander was saluted in that manner Thursday night after his 4-3 10-inning victory over Pittsburgh.

Los Angeles relief pitchers now refer to themselves as "Blue Berets, the guys in the sky-colored caps with LA on them." Copying the celebrated Green Berets, they only enter the war when the battle becomes most intense.

Although Sutton really didn't need their help, he was lifted for a pinch hitter with the score tied 1-1 in the 10th after hurling no-hit ball for 5 1-3 innings and winding up with a four-hitter. The Dodgers scored three runs in the 10th, but the Blue Berets nearly lost the war.

Phil Regan, who composed the "Ballad of the Blue Berets," yielded a two-run homer to Bob Bailey and needed Ron Perranoski to record the final out and move the Dodgers to within two games of first place.

The Pirates had the National League's top spot all to themselves before losing to Los Angeles. Pittsburgh remains deadlocked in first with San Francisco, which dropped a 2-1 decision to New York in the afternoon.

Elsewhere Philadelphia downed Houston 3-1, St. Louis topped Atlanta 7-4 and Chicago walloped Cincinnati 11-3.

Pittsburgh starter Vernon Law spoiled Sutton's no-hit bid by singling in the sixth. Sutton had issued a lead-off walk to Matty Alou in the first inning, then retired 16 straight batters.

A Good Hitter
"Everybody knows Law is a pretty good hitter," Sutton said after winning his 12th game in 23 decisions. "I couldn't make a good pitch to him all night."

"Of course I'd like to pitch a no-hitter," Sutton added. "But my real thrill would be to pitch in the World Series."

Law loaded the bases in the 10th on a single by Lou Johnson and a pair of walks. Pete Mikkelsen relieved Law and forced in the go-ahead run by walking Jim Lefebvre. Ron Fairly followed with a two-run single.

Of Los Angeles' 10 hits, Lefebvre collected four and Jim Gilliam three. Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente cracked the

Emerson, Ralston Advance in Play

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Three bright stars who say this may be their last big try open drives for U.S. tennis singles championships today.

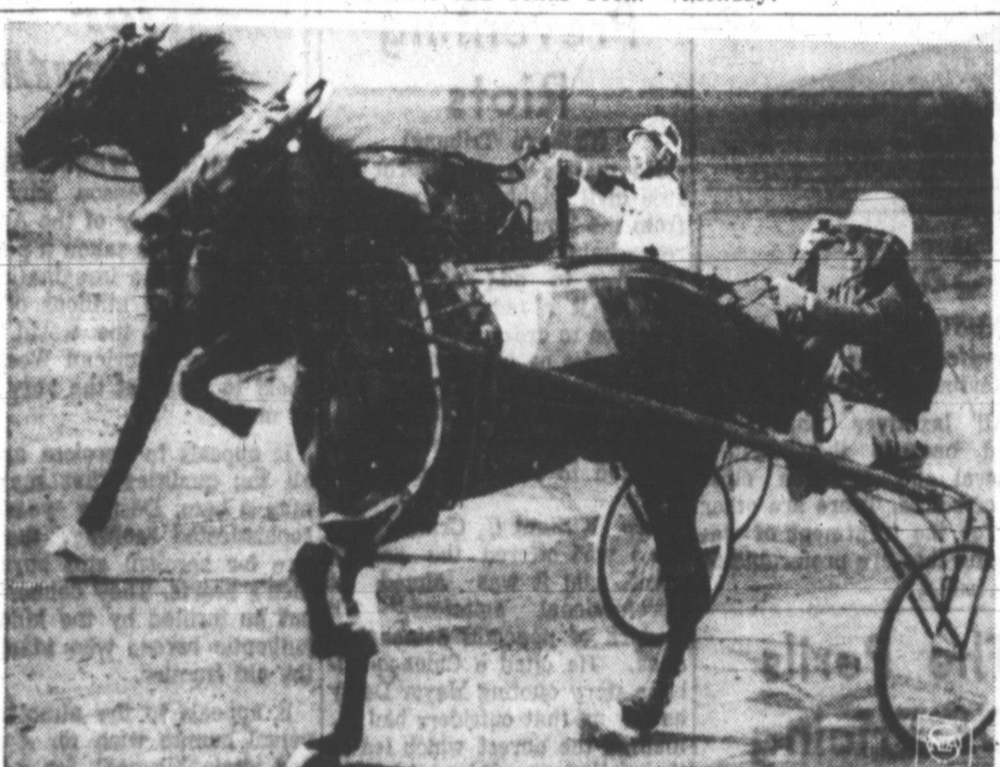

Second-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, who says he's nearly 30 and ready to taper off, takes on Ismael el Shafie of the United Arab Republic. Roy already has won the title twice.

Third-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., who threatens to look for a steady job if he doesn't hit this year, plays Jasjit Singh of India. Denny never has won it.

NO SALE FOR CASH

Cash Has Hot Bat for Tigers

By United Press International
If the Detroit Tigers ever decide to trade Norm Cash it will be before the All-Star break. After that the Cash register starts clicking and the NO SALE sign rings loud and clear.

Cash has been mentioned in trade talks for the past two winters, but longball hitting first basemen do not come cheap and the Tigers have not been able to get enough for him. Once the mid-season market approaches, the trade talks are abandoned because Cash starts to hit like Ty Cobb.

In his six previous seasons at Detroit, it's always been that way and 1966 looks to be no different. Since the All-Star break the 31-year-old slugger has hit at a .315 clip and has belted 14 home runs. Eleven of those homers have been hit since Aug. 7 with the latest coming in the 10th inning Thursday night to give the Tigers a 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Season Long Splurge
Only once in his career has Cash hit well for an entire season. That was in 1961 when he batted .361, a figure surpassed only by Ted Williams in the past 25 years. His highest average since then was .270 in 1963, but this year he has a chance to finish among the league leaders in batting.

His late surge has boosted his average to .279, good enough for 11th place on the list thus far and good enough to keep the Tigers in second place, in the American League.

In the only other AL action, Cleveland topped Baltimore 4-1 and New York beat California 5-2.

Cash's 26th homer of the season broke a 5-5 tie in the 10th and came off Jr. Budhardt, who relieved Hoyt

Wilhelm. Willie Horton followed one-out later with his 22nd homer to insure the victory for reliever Larry Sherry.

Northrup Homers
Jim Northrup had a three-run homer for the Tigers to highlight a four-run fourth inning while Tommie Agee blasted his 18th homer for the White Sox in the first inning. The victory reduced the Orioles lead in the pennant race to 11 games.

Sonny Siebert hurled a five-hitter and Max Alvis and Duke Sims blasted homers as the Indians whipped the Orioles and grabbed the season series 10 games to eight. Siebert, who won 16 games last year, notched his 15th of the year against seven losses while retiring 19 of the last 21 batters he faced.

Alvis' 13th homer of the season broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning and Sims' fifth homer with Fred Whitfield on base closed out the scoring in the sixth. Jim Palmer suffered his eighth loss against 14 wins.

SANDERS SIGNS
BOSTON (UPI) — Tom Sanders, a veteran of six National Basketball Association campaigns, has signed his contract for the coming season, Red Auerbach, Boston Celtic general manager, announced Tuesday.

The former NRU star averaged 12.6 points per game last season despite being plagued by a bad back.

JEAN TO TEACH
VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Jean Saubert, winner of a silver and bronze ski medals in the 1964 Olympics, will teach grades one to three at the Vail Country Day School.

The 24-year-old graduate of Oregon State University said it was doubtful that she would try for the U.S. team for the 1968 Olympics.

FIRST SERIES GAME
NEW YORK (UPI) — The first game of the 1966 World Series will be played Wednesday, Oct. 5, in the home of the National League pennant winner, Commissioner William D. Eckert announced Tuesday.

The Commissioner also scheduled a meeting for next Wednesday of 12 major league clubs, six from each league, to complete plans for the series.

Beman Storms Back for Lead

By United Press International
ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI) — A determined Deane Beman, fighting a baffling hand injury, had a four-stroke lead today in his bid for a third U.S. Amateur golf championship but vowed to play the remaining 36 holes "as if I'm a couple of strokes behind."

Beman, a 28-year-old insurance executive from Bethesda, Md., gained some security Thursday in his bid to recapture the title he won in 1960 and 1963 by firing a glittering 67, three under par for the par-70, 6,500-yard Merion Golf Club course, and a second round total of 138, two under par.

Beman, who described himself as "not a conservative player," said he would play the rest of the 66th National Amateur tournament here as "though I'm not leading," despite his commanding four stroke lead over veteran amateur Roger McManus of Hartsville, Ohio and Wake Forest College sophomore student Jack Lewis Jr., who were deadlocked at 142.

McManus, the first round leader with a one-under-par 69, succumbed to "extreme nervousness" for a three-over second round of 73 despite the fact he is playing in his 12th Amateur while Lewis, making only his second appearance in the competition, fished a one-under-par 69 following his opening round 73.

Bill Campbell, Jr., 43, 1964 champion from Huntington, W.Va., matched Lewis' 69 second round to deadlock at 143 with 21-year-old Ron Schmiedemann of Manhattan, Kan., and Don Allen, another 28-year-old insurance executive from Rochester, N.Y.

Alone at 144 was Dick Siderowf, 29, Westport, Conn., while six were bunched at 145, including Ron Cerrudo, 21-year-old Californian, who had a 75 to slip from a first round second place tie.

The field of 150 was cut to 67 players for the remaining 36 holes. Those surviving the cut included Bob Murphy, 23, Nichols, Fla., the defending champion who had a 149 total and 18-year-old British Amateur champion Bobby Cole of South Africa, who slipped in with a 152, the cut-off figure.

Bulldogs See Better Things

BORGER — The Borger Bulldogs, like good wine, get better with age. The Bulldogs were the only other north zone 3-A team to receive a first place vote.

It may just have been a matter of courtesy from somebody.

Coach Rusty Talbot, in his second year, has 15 lettermen returning to try to improve upon the Bulldogs' 3-7 record of a year ago.

They return four starters, two in the backfield and two in the line.

Losing is something the Bulldogs aren't used to and pride could go a long way in deciding what kind of team they'll have this season.

Talbot returns quarterback Steve Pruitt, a do-everything 150-pounder and halfback Mike Plumlee, who at 145-pounds is probably the fastest regular the Bulldogs have.

Back also is guard Craig Edwards, a 180-pounder and tackle L. W. Walker, a giant at 235-pounds, and most of it muscle.

Talbot is counting on a new quarterback in Doug Darden, another 150-pounder, tackle Steve Elston, 180, center Randy Owen, 170.

"We are going to be pretty green at first and we are lacking speed, specially in the line," Talbot commented.

Suffer Along Until November

These days one is either a pessimist or an optimist regarding the country's economic situation. It is impossible to be neutral. A growing number of businessmen are joining the ranks of the former, if a recent sampling of the business community is an accurate gauge. Almost 75 per cent of the 146 manufacturers surveyed by the National Industrial Conference Board felt that prices will leap to "intolerable" levels in the coming year unless the government takes corrective action soon to check the economic pressures spurring inflation. What kind of corrective action? A majority — 60 per cent — of the manufacturers recommended a postponement or cutback of at least some of the Great Society programs. Other measures receiving both considerable support and substantial opposition were a tighter monetary policy, a tax increase and stronger government pressure on both management and labor to hold down price and wage hikes. "While there was disagreement over ways and means, the prevailing attitude of the respondents was neatly captured by one manufacturer. The outcome, he said, is pretty much in the hands of government."

"What, if anything, are those hands doing about the problem?" Since the survey, the Federal Reserve Board again raised the prime rate on the money it lends to banks, the second increase in two months. As a consequence, bank loan rates to private borrowers — for houses, cars, washing machines — which are already at their highest level in 40 years, will go higher. The Federal Reserve Board, however, is an appointed body. Its members do not have to stand for re-election this year as does one-third of the Senate and all of the House. Thus it is not surprising that neither Congress nor the President, upon whose record of leadership Democratic congressmen must of necessity run to great extent, has been exactly eager to face up to the issue of a tax increase. This reluctance can be expected to increase in proportion as the distance between now and November decreases — especially since the ordinary voter finds it difficult to understand how either higher interest rates or higher taxes can check inflation. Both simply add to the cost of living and inevitably contribute to the pressure for wage increases to offset them — then followed by price increases to offset the wage increases. As for holding down wages and prices, the airline settlement and the steel price boosts, not to mention the continuing climb of food costs, suggest that the President's magic touch, if he ever had one, is becoming noticeably ineffective in this area. That leaves the Great Society programs. Yet even if these were severely curtailed — an extremely unlikely possibility short of general war — the soaring cost of the seemingly endless fighting in Viet Nam could more than make up the difference. Eventually, of course, something will have to give. If the pessimists are right, it will be the nation's straining inflation floodgates. As things stand now, the pessimists seem to have most of the evidence on their side. They wish it were otherwise. It's a crying shame that the government, after gathering to itself complete control of the value of the dollar, refuses to do anything about inflation for fear it might upset the party in power's little red wagon. There would be no such problems in a free economy in which prices and wages sought their own level uncontrolled by government busybodies. But that's too much to hope for in the days of the Great Society. After November, if it's not already too late, the administration may do something. Meanwhile, tighten your seatbelts and hang on.

The Last Word in Packaging

The toughest part of the trip for America's three Apollo astronauts may not be the voyage to the moon and back, difficult and dangerous as that will be. Their real ordeal will begin after they land safely on earth. A plan currently under consideration by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration calls for wrapping the capsule in a big plastic bag as soon as it is retrieved from the ocean and flying the whole kit and kaboodle — men and machine — to the Lunar Receiving Laboratory at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston. There the astronauts would be kept in quarantine for 30 days. "Because no one knows what, if any, micro-organisms exist on the moon or how deadly they might be, NASA is working out elaborate precautions to see that none of them are let loose on earth. Scientists think the probability of there being any form of life on the moon is very low. Then again, there is no proof that there isn't any. The plastic bag would be equipped with an airtight and separate chamber to allow the astronauts to leave the capsule for comfort. Thus they will have a certain measure of freedom during the month of observation, which is considered the maximum time necessary for the incubation of possible moon bugs. Only at the end of the period, after the swarm of doctors is finished with them, will the moon voyagers be permitted to go with a clean bill of health — though hardly sandwich fresh.

Figures Don't Lie, But...

Government statistics on man-days of work lost by strikers may be good for front-page charts in the Wall Street Journal, but they are about as revealing, figurewise, as a beauty contestant in a deep-sea diving suit, comments the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Washington Report. It notes: "Only actual strikers are counted by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Yet in Washington, D.C., for example, a strike by a few hundred carpenters and then lathers idled thousands of electricians, bricklayers, cement workers, plasterers, truck driver and others much of the time for several months. "In New York a strike by transit workers virtually paralyzed the city, closing schools and in one week inflicting a $500 million loss on business firms, bankrupting many of the smaller ones. "There is probably no way to count the real number of work days lost, and other economic, social and moral harm caused by strikes, but we should try to remember the statistics for what they are."

Credit-Carditis

If the source of the story had been something less authoritative than the New England Journal of Medicine, one might be inclined to suspect some leg pulling. But there it was — an account of how a lawyer cured a shooting pain in his left buttock and leg by removing the wallet from his left hip pocket. It seems that the aforementioned lawyer had suffered an ache in his hip and leg for some years, and that various treatments had failed to give relief. But one day the patient removed the wallet, fat with credit cards and such, from his pocket and went about without it for a time. Result: relief

Civil Rights Conference 'Big Nothing'

By BRUCE BOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Responsible spokesmen in the Negro movement privately are not greeting with joy the follow-up action which President Johnson announced as he formally issued the final report of his White House Conference on Civil Rights.

The avowed purpose of that conference, held this June one whole year after the President first said he would summon it, was to find bold, imaginative and sweeping ways to enlist all influential elements of the white community — businessmen and leaders in labor, education, religion, civic groups — in an assault upon the pressing problems of the Negro.

Negro leaders were quick to note that the proposed follow-up offered absolutely nothing concrete and specific in this whole vast area of endeavor. The "big attack" simply has not materialized.

The President's statement accompanying release of the final report says only that white leaders in the private sector "have a vital role to play" and that the conference recommendations in various fields "should be studied and, wherever practicable, they should be implemented without delay."

To some Negro leaders this is an incredibly meager result, in the light of the history of the conference and the President's known sharp interest in achieving a productive outcome.

The so-called planning conference held in mid-November of 1965 was basically a stall, an attempt to find a new focus for a useful meeting after the original aim of concentrating on the problems of the Negro family had been shot out of the water by adverse Negro reaction to that notion.

In succeeding weeks the idea emerged of the "big attack" to be heavily led and supported by white leaders across the board. The premium obviously would have to be on highly inventive plans, co-ordinated community action and large-scale expenditures.

The able 29-member council chosen by the President to shape the June conference and its agenda reflected exactly the kind of cross section of leadership deemed necessary to spur a massive assault. Top business names like Ben Heineman (council chairman), Courtland Gross, James Linen and G. William Miller enlivened this roster.

Along the way, those commissioned by the council produced some tough, crackling task force reports on what is needed to provide major breakthroughs for the Negroes in jobs, housing and schooling.

Some of that tough language turned up in the conference's draft report, and remains in the final edition. For example, there is still some stress on the quite revolutionary idea of restructuring job requirements to provide opportunities for large number of unskilled or semiskilled Negroes — even though the whole trend of the times is toward emphasis on up-training for skilled work in an automated age. The report itself calls, too, for co-ordinated community activity on the job front as well as others.

Yet the crucial sense of urgency found in the original task force reports somehow was dissipated in the sifting and refining which followed. The June conference, for its part, further blunted momentum rather than speeding it. Conference energies spilled all over the place, and focus on key aims was lost. A final report then was promised in two weeks. Had it come early, had it been matched by impressive follow-up action (for instance, a call for conferences among white leaders in 50 or more major cities to plan specific action with dollar signs attached), the entire enterprise might have been widely hailed in the Negro community. Riot fever might have been cooled in some places.

Instead, nearly three months delay ensued. And the specific action now proposed consists wholly of efforts to be made behind the bureaucratic screen by senior officials in seven federal departments and agencies whose work is affected by conference recommendations. Their studies and reviews and reports, even where they may suggest new legislation, are to Negro leaders no substitute at all for the promised big attack. Their disappointment has to be colossal.

"I'll Be Right Down!"

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

Everyone has heard of Medicare, but it's doubtful if as many have heard about another facet of the Great Society called Judicare. It's a part of the war on poverty that has already started as a pilot program in Wisconsin to see if free legal assistance can be given on a practical basis to all needy citizens. Although legal aid programs, financed with private funds, have been in operation in most parts of the nation for years, this is the first one to be financed by Uncle Sam and another innovation permits the client to select his own lawyer, so, from now on, if anyone wants a divorce, if they want to sue anyone, or if they simply want some legal advice for any purpose, all they'll have to do is call Uncle Sam, or write their Congressman. The taxpayers will foot the bill for their day in court. What next?

Today's smile: A small boy said to his father: "Dad, the barometer has fallen." His father asked: "Very much?" The youngster replied: "Only about five feet."

Back in the days when the New York MORNING TELEGRAPH was something more like a newspaper than a horse racing form sheet, one of its top sports writers was William Barclay Masterson. Earlier in his career he was known as Bat Masterson in such colorful places of the wild and woolly West as Dodge City, Kansas; Deadwood, South Dakota, and Tombstone, Arizona. In those days he was a quick-draw law officer who had no qualms about ending the careers of cattle rustlers and other desperadoes. Despite his exciting career, he died peacefully in New York in 1921.

Thoughts while shaving: A recent survey by a business research firm revealed that the average business letter costs a firm about $1.50. It further ascertained that at least 40 per cent of all letters would not have had to be written if the first one had been clear and explicit. In other words, if the business executive had been brief and concise. . . Did you know you can deduct the cost of a safe deposit box from your income tax if it is used for storing stocks and bonds? But you are just out of luck if it is used to store your valuables and other tax-exempt securities. . . The depository there holds more than $11 billion in gold in the standard form of mint bars, each about the size of a building brick and each being worth about $14,000. . . According to latest figures, U. S. motorists pay about $20 million a day in gasoline taxes. And since the first gas tax was imposed back in 1919, it's estimated they have paid state and federal governments upwards of $100 billion. . . The largest pyramid in

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Alphabetical Disorder Discovered in London
Dr. Trevor Weston in London has called attention to a syndrome which he calls the alphabetical disorder. He stumbled onto this condition when he discovered that people whose surnames begin with the last 8 letters of the alphabet (the S to Z crowd) have a life expectancy of only 64 years in contrast to 76 years for the total population. They also have a higher susceptibility to peptic ulcer, heart disease and mental illness.

Dr. Weston believes that these strange facts are due in large part to a life that is a series of minor frustrations. As children in school the victims lined up alphabetically for their turn at games, presents and even party snacks. By the time their names came up the game may have bored the A-R group, the presents may have been pretty much picked over or the snacks may have completely disappeared. Even when there was a frantic call for fresh snacks, a gnawing irritation had already started sending too much adrenalin through the unhappy child's system.

When it comes to seating arrangements in school the S-Z lads are placed in the back of the room. Although the teacher may keep a sharper eye on them to detect mischief, there is never any doubt that willfully the front rows are singled out for the greater part of the personal instruction and come off with the better grades. Over the decades the hours of waiting and always being last act as a time bomb and the cumulative frustrations take their toll. Whether Dr. Weston's conclusions are right or not his statistics make one stop and think. Perhaps in the future we should arrange our classes and our society by means of a system of random selection or by drawing numbers from a hat.

Q—Is it possible to have too much salt in one's blood?
A—Yes, especially if you get too much salt and too little water in your diet. The immediate result is an increased thirst. Your body combats this condition by increasing the concentration of salt in your urine and decreasing the quantity of your perspiration. Since most persons respond to the increased thirst by drinking water, the condition usually corrects itself.

Q—Is Epsom salts harmful? A friend says it helps her, re-
The net result is that many manufacturers have restricted all price reductions lest they fall afoul of the law. "Businessmen," Mr. Elman reasons, "shouldn't be forced to make price decisions at their peril." Unfortunately, in the present politico-economic climate, they are often forced to do just that.

The act's co-author, Rep. Wright Patman, sees the Elman proposal as "detrimental to the best interests of the country," but that may be pardoned as the reaction of a proud parent to aspersions, however well meant, cast at his child. Common sense strongly argues for questioning the act's effectiveness in today's atmosphere. It is, indeed, significant that the Country Editor speaking: "Just about this time of year you discover a garden is a thing of beauty and a job forever."

Question Box

QUESTION: "1. Do you believe that self-interest is a primary concern of all individual human beings? 2. Are human actions performed by individuals with personal intent, as they see it, to improve their personal condition, as they desire it? 3. Can you give one example of an individual human being whose action results in his own best self-interest, when such action results in harm to another human being?" John L. Kidd, Garden Grove.

ANSWER: 1. Yes. 2. Yes. 3. We believe this would depend on whether the individual taking the action recognized the equal rights of every other individual to his life and its products, including his ideas, and his honestly acquired physical property.

We believe all individuals act in what they believe is their own self-best interest. Even those who are engaged in charitable projects do so because of the satisfaction they get out of helping others in need. Even those who use aggressive force against others probably think they are acting for their own betterment, though they are mistaken.

An individual who decides that others are not intelligent enough to make proper judgment for their own future may combine with others to compel persons to do what the majority decides is right or proper action. He believes it is to his own best interests to compel the others to do good. But, he fails to see that he is infringing the right of others to make their own decisions, to profit if the decisions are right or to fail if the decisions are wrong. Where he is mistaken is not realizing that once the pattern is set to allow the majority to decide what is right or proper action, it is wide open for those who are coerced to become a part of the majority and then enforce their ideas of what is right and proper on the original coerced.

Preventing Riots

(Chicago Tribune)

No matter in what form the 1966 civil rights bill emerges from the House, one of the most remarkable acts of that chamber was to add a provision making it a federal crime for a person to cross a state line to lead a riot or take part in one. The amendment no doubt was added because the congressmen are worried about voter reaction to recent racial violence.

Rep. William C. Cramer (R., Fla.) who offered the amendment, said it was aimed at "professional agitators," not leaders of peaceful demonstrations. He cited a Chicago-Tribune story quoting Mayor Daley as saying that outsiders had fomented the unrest which led to the rioting on Chicago's west side.

Rep. Cramer was asked if the amendment would apply to the Rev. Martin Luther King of Atlanta, who launched a "freedom movement" here last January and has directed many demonstrations, Cramer replied:

"If Dr. King goes to Chicago, as he did, for peaceful demonstrations, and he is obviously not guilty of crime, the language of this amendment is not intended to get at anyone who goes to lend a hand to a peaceful demonstration."

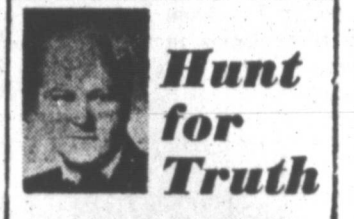

Rep. Cramer then was asked how the law could distinguish between the peaceful intentions of some civil rights leaders and the violent intentions of others. He replied that law enforcement officials would have to determine the intent of the agitators — "what they had in mind."

The purpose of Rep. Cramer's amendment is commendable, but it is doubtful that it is enforceable or that it strikes at the root of the problem. Many "peaceful" demonstrations have led to violence, and there is evidence that some were held with the deliberate intention to provoke violence. For that reason, the amendment may be just window dressing to enable the congressmen to "make a record" for the benefit of the voters.

When the civil rights bill reaches the Senate there is at least one member who understands the real nature of "non-violent" incitation. Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D., O.) in a recent speech in Chicago charged that the disorders and looting in many cities are part of a national conspiracy directed by experts. He asked:

"What is the difference between stimulating the masses to a fever pitch of violence under the guise of nonviolence and stirring up the emotions of people with lawlessness as your objective?"

The difference is imperceptible. Time and again, the effects here and in other cities have been to arouse false hopes among the Negroes and animosities between the white and Negro people. This is clearly understood by the civil rights leaders. Even as they talk about their peaceful aims, they know that false hopes and animosities will lead to violence. request for review comes from within the FTC itself. What is questionable is whether, as Mr. Elman proposes, the FTC should be in charge of a review of an act if it is engaged in enforcing. It is hardly likely the objectivity such a review requires would be advanced by inviting the prosecution to sit as the judge. The job belongs to Congress, the author of it all.

WAGONS WESTWARD

There is a reason why the magnificent story of the American frontier has taken a permanent hold on the imagination of our people and millions of others throughout the world. The epic of the American West appeals to much of the very best in men.

It appeals to heroism and to all the qualities that make a man a hero. Despite years of sophisticated scoffing, the desire for heroism still burns in men's hearts. They cannot help but be thrilled by the kind of authentic heroes who mastered the old frontier.

It appeals to the almost universal human wish for a clear and attainable goal, for a journey that has a triumphant ending. It appeals to all who would prefer to win their victories and attain their goals in conflict with nature rather than other men.

Perhaps this need for a goal and a vision of the way to it, however hazardous, explains the special popularity of the story of the wagon trains, winding their way across pathless prairies and formidable mountains to a distant lush haven on the Pacific coast. Here were men who sought and found, and in the finding built this nation.

For many years we have been taught that individual men or small community groups cannot attain important goals on their own, that government must select the goals and bring them to it. This still goes deeply against the grain. By reliving the epic of the wagon trains, they can transport themselves to a time when the individual could and did attain his goals. That time could come again, if only enough of us realized it.

Republicans See New Strength In Organization

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican leaders believe they are making visible progress in strengthening their organizational muscle but they still fear the Democrats are doing a better job of registering voters.

Seventeen months ago today, Ohio's Ray C. Bliss took over as GOP national chairman, acclaimed as a master craftsman whose prime concern was electing Republicans not defining issues. His installation in the job was part of the backlash from the Goldwater disaster of 1964.

Although Bliss felt from the beginning that he was undertaking a long-range project — rebuilding a party that had become flabby over the years — his stewardship will surely be judged by the outcome of the state and congressional elections, now barely two months away.

Once the money was in sight, Bliss began holding an almost continuous series of conferences and "workshops" for state chairmen, big city chairmen, suburban county chairmen, campaign managers, research directors and public relations directors. From these national and regional meetings have come comparable state, congressional district and local conferences.

Despite their belief that they are gaining strength in an organization that is supposed to turn out the vote, the Republicans have evidence that the Democrats and their allies have registered more new voters.

Safety Operation Is A Holiday Lifesaver

AUSTIN — Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety reported today that DPS estimates indicate that 41 persons will die in traffic accidents during the three-day Labor Day weekend.

The current traffic trend indicates that Texas is headed for its third straight record high in terms of fatal accidents," Garrison said. "At the present time we are approximately 15 per cent ahead of the same time in 1965. . . and we are still faced with the four months of the year which generally produce the most deaths."

"More people are killed in Texas each year in traffic than are killed—in all the United States by murder and homicide," Garrison continued, "and the deaths are just as senseless, as needless and as tragic, but not nearly as well publicized."

"Psychologists say that one reason the general public fails to take positive action in matters of traffic safety is due to a lack of personal identification with the problem. It might behoove each driver in our state to stop and consider that he has less than a 50-50 chance to go through his driving career without being involved in a traffic mishap, or without incurring injury to himself or one of his family. The 41 persons expected to die in traffic during the Labor Day holiday have no idea that they will be involved in an accident, either."

In an attempt to offset dangers caused by the increased traffic on the highways during the holiday period, the Department of Public Safety will conduct "Operation Motorcade." Approximately 150 uniformed officers from other DPS services will be on the road to supplement the Highway Patrol enforcement action. Also, to call public attention to highway dangers, each traffic death will be tabulated and the totals will be announced three times daily from DPS headquarters in Austin. Several other state agencies and organizations interested in traffic safety are cooperating with the DPS in calling attention to safe driving practices during the Labor Day weekend: The Texas Highway Department is advising the public on proper freeway driving habits and the need for caution in and around construction areas. The Texas Safety Association is carrying on a program stressing the need for courtesy and caution on the highway and is coordinating the efforts of the Texas Jaycees in sponsoring rest stops with free coffee for fatigued drivers.

And the Texas Council of Safety Supervisors and the Texas Motor Transportation Association is sponsoring a "Holiday Road Patrol" to assist stranded motorists, thereby relieving highway patrolmen for enforcement work.

"This fine attitude of cooperation among these people indicates that Texans do realize the need for adequate safety on our highways," Garrison stated. "If it could carry over into the thinking and action of every driver, the death toll would drop considerably under that expected for the weekend."

"In the final analysis, traffic safety must rest on the shoulders of every person who gets behind the steering wheel of a car. With the proper attitude of alertness and with the acceptance of responsibility we can see positive results in our attempts to halt the increases in the number of traffic mishaps."

Subjects to be reviewed during the institute on eminent domain are: effect of zoning on market value; relocation; the quest for uniformity, effective use of a real estate appraiser; effective trial tactics; compensable and non-compensable items in condemnation; the appraiser is an advocate for his report; current trends and new decisions in eminent domain; and jury selection and argument in condemnation cases.

Subjects selected for the institute on oil and gas accounting are: long-range planning in the oil industry; managing funds for short-term investment; top management views of the accounting function; shareholder reporting of foreign oil operations; use of gas producer costs in Federal power commission rate proceedings; and a report on the AICPA survey of accounting practices in the extractive industries.

Also, accounting for exploration costs; accounting for oil and gas joint ventures; and a look at accounting through a natural gas company pipeline.

Subjects for the institute on government contracts are: an appraisal of trends, recent developments in contract appeals boards decisions; recent developments in procurement at NASA; contract management systems and controls; contract pricing conflict between defense audit objectives and ASPR provisions.

Also, the uniform commercial code and formation of contracts; inspections and warranties under the uniform commercial code relating to prime contracts and sub-contracts; team bidding on major contracts; and the air force-industry relationship.

SLF to Conduct Course on Law

A short course on antitrust law, and institutes on eminent domain, oil and gas accounting and government contracts will be conducted by the Southwestern Legal Foundation, Southern Methodist University Campus in Dallas, in September, according to Boyd Taylor, Pampa attorney.

Taylor, resident representative for the Foundation, announced that the short course on antitrust law is scheduled for Sept. 12-17, the institute on eminent domain, Sept. 15-16, the institute on oil and gas accounting, Sept. 22-23, and the institute on government contracts, Sept. 29-30.

The short course on antitrust law is a noncredit course designed to provide an understanding of the Sherman, Clayton, Robinson-Patman, and Federal Trade Commission Acts, and to furnish guidelines for counseling on antitrust problems of corporate compliance, avoidance of costly antitrust litigation, and current problems in relationships with competitors, suppliers, dealers and customers.

Subjects to be reviewed during the institute on eminent domain are: effect of zoning on market value; relocation; the quest for uniformity, effective use of a real estate appraiser; effective trial tactics; compensable and non-compensable items in condemnation; the appraiser is an advocate for his report; current trends and new decisions in eminent domain; and jury selection and argument in condemnation cases.

Texas Coed Will Toss Rolling Pins

PITTSBURG, Tex. (UPI) — Mary Stone, 19, goes to Pittsburgh, Pa. Friday to represent the West at the first national rolling pin throwing contest.

Miss Stone, a sophomore at Stephen F. Austin State College, Nacogdoches, has tossed the pin 133 feet, 6 inches.

The six foot tall, 170 pound coed will toss her pins Labor Day at the Allegheny County Fair.

THREE BODIES FOUND — WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bodies of three airmen who died in an airplane crash 14 years ago have been found on a glacier in Iceland.

The wreckage of the SA16 Albatross and the body of one of the five men aboard were found on a mountain at a height of 5,200 feet on May 20, 1952, four days after the crash.

The Air Force said Thursday that three more bodies were found by an Icelandic survey team on Aug. 20 and removed by a U.S. helicopter the next day. The fifth man aboard the plane is still listed as missing.

Boaters Need Caution Rules

"Don't stand up and rock the boat" might well be the launching cry of the safety minded Labor Day sailor, according to F. P. Mims, Dallas representative of an insurance company's safety crusade.

"Many small craft have capsized simply because someone didn't stay seated," he said.

With Labor Day just around the corner, Mims recommends that people who plan outings on the water should heed the following safety precautions:

Be it canoe, outboard or dinghy, always board the boat from the side while it is firmly moored to the dock.

Limit your passenger load to one person per seat. (Motor boats, of course, may accommodate more people.) Make it a practice to wear a life jacket, unless you are an expert swimmer.

Should your craft capsize, stay with it since most boats won't sink. Heed all channel markings and "rules of the road" — Know which boats have the right of way and when, how to pass properly, etc.

Don't frolic through areas where people are swimming. When a storm threatens, head for port.

"If boating enthusiasts will follow these simple rules of safety, they can help make this a safe and sane Labor Day on the water," Mims said.
