U.S. Heads off Another UN Financial Crisis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States this week moved quickly and firmly to head off a new and potentially destructive financial crisis in the United Nations.

The root of the problem is implanted in the U.N. peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East and the refusal of France and the Soviet Union to pay their respective assessments for the action.

This refusal plunged the United Nations into almost ruinous financial difficulties that persist to this day and constantly underscores U.S. concern over its own financial obligation to the world organization.

The United Nations had floated a $200 million bond issue to help pay off its debts incurred by the Congo and Middle East excursions. The United States purchased $76 million worth of bonds with the understanding, in accordance with a General Assembly resolution that repayment would be made by assessments in the regular U.N. budget.

France and the Soviet Union, however, have yet to meet their financial obligations in this regard and in 1964 the United States sought to bring the situation to a head by threatening to invoke Article 19 of the U.N. Charter.

Article 19 states that "a member of the United Nations which is in arrears in the payment of its financial contributions to the organization shall have no vote in the General Assembly if the amount of its arrears equals or exceeds the amount of the contributions due from it from the preceding two full years."

In short, the United States was determined to prevent Russia and France from voting in the General Assembly unless they paid their debts. It was a matter of "put up or shut up."

No Votes Taken

The U.S. action led directly to the "do nothing" 19th session of the General Assembly when not one vote was taken in the forum as member states strove to prevent a direct U.S.-Soviet clash with untold consequences for the organization.

The situation was partially resolved by the creation of an 14-member ad hoc committee of financial experts to reexamine the entire financial structure of the United Nations with an eye to cutting expenses and getting a dollars worth for a dollar spent.

The committee's recommendations now are before the United Nations and its proposals virtually have been universally hailed and the United Nations appears heading toward possible solvent ground.

However, the situation changed dramatically this week when Argentina, Brazil, India and Nigeria introduced a resolution in the budgetary committee to change the method of repayment of the U.N. bonds.

The heart of the resolution would have the United Nations remove the financing of the bonds from the regular budget and establish a special account or some other unspecified (See UN, Page 7)

Astronaut Aldrin Sets Space Record

Tower Wins In All But 2 Counties

DALLAS (UPI) — U. S. Sen. John Tower, Republican who gained his seat for another term in a landslide victory over Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, won all but two of the state's urban counties, the Texas Election Bureau said Saturday.

The final TEB tabulation of Tuesday's votes, with 10 election boxes still out in six different counties, showed Tower 639,131 and Carr 640,488. Constitutional party member James Holland had 6,446.

Tower led in 141 counties, including all the urban counties but McLennan, the TEB said. McLennan gave Carr a 233-vote lead.

Tower's vote was 56.5 percent of the total, which was 1,466,055 votes in the Senate race. Because of the interest, that race outpolled the others. The governor's race, won for re-election by Gov. John Connally, had 1,415,015 votes, of which Connally had 1,024,929. T. E. Kennerly of the GOP had 566,929. Tommie Gillespie of the Constitutional party had 14,514 and Bard Logan of the Conservative party 8,643.

Fifteen of the 16 proposed constitutional amendments on the ballots passed.

The rejected amendment would have extended the terms of office of conservation and reclamation district officials. Voters turned it down 517,800-494,960.

Connally polled more votes than any other candidate in state races. Byron Tunnell, railroad Commissioner, had 964,746.

In congressional races, incumbent Joe Pool won by the slender margin of the 10 seats in contested races.

Picture Taking Of Eclipse is Success

HOUSTON (UPI) — Astronaut Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin, the scholarly rookie of Gemini 12, stood up in the open hatch Saturday for two hours—29 minutes—longer than any other man has been exposed to space at one stretch.

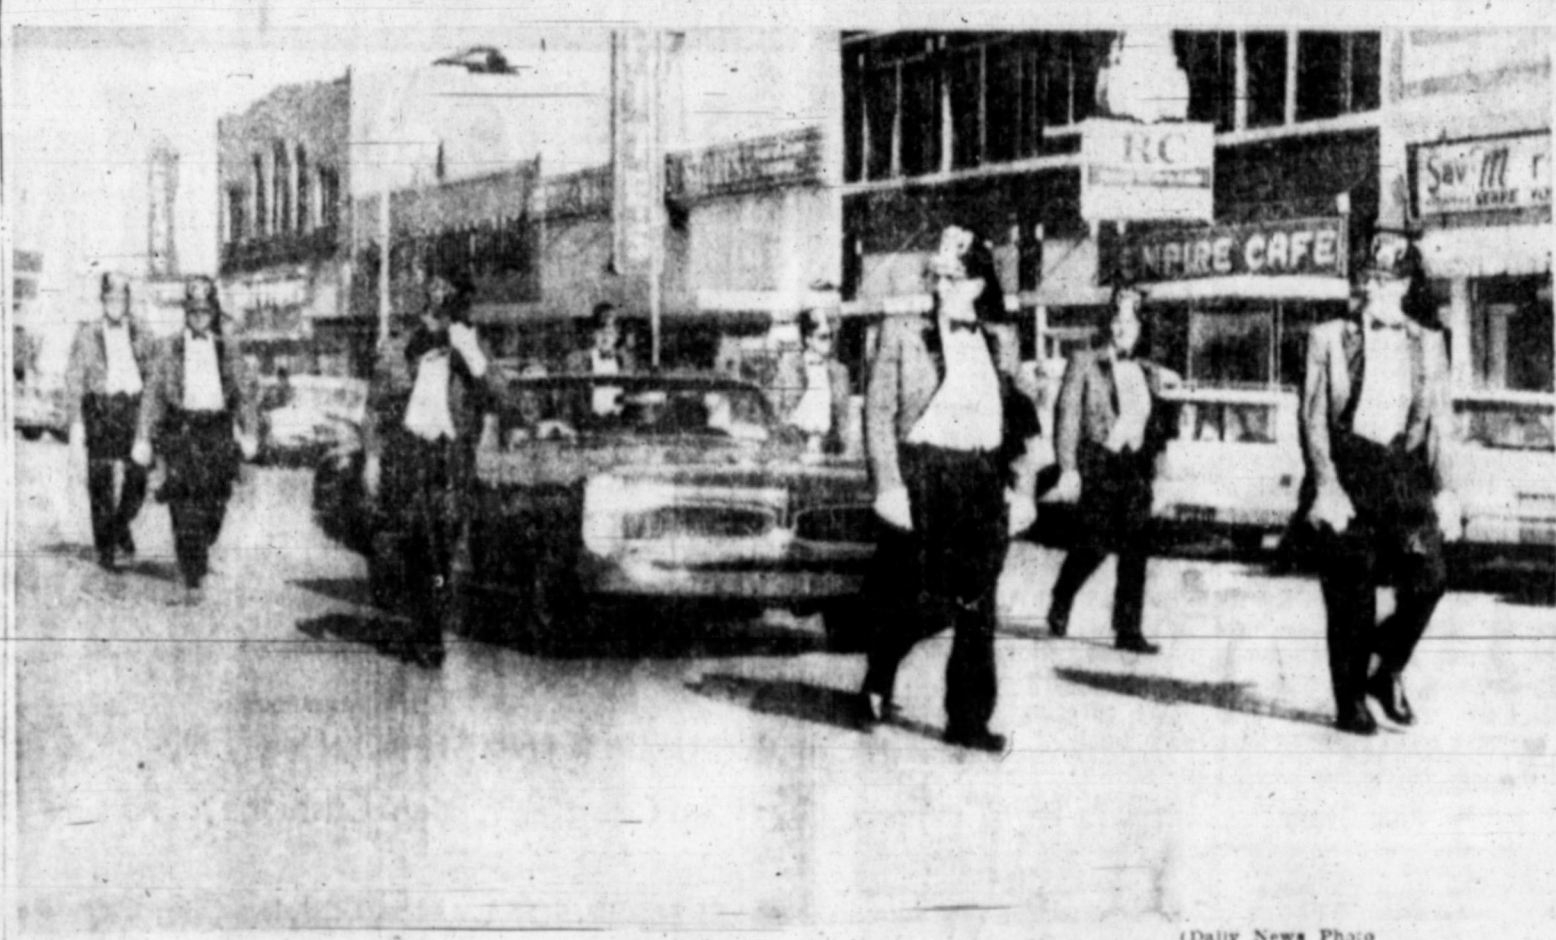

The spaceman, who is entitled to call himself "doctor" by virtue of a doctorate from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, stood halfway out of the Gemini capsule to take pictures of the stars and earth.

No man had ever been in space that long for a single period. Gemini 11 astronaut Richard Gordon spent a total of two hours and 56 minutes outside the capsule, but these were on two separate occasions—two hours and 11 minutes in a space stand and 45 minutes in a separate spacewalk.

"This is the longest," a Space Center spokesman said.

Aldrin's achievement was a warmup for his own space walk—an hour and 53 minute spectacular scheduled for Sunday.

If all goes well, Aldrin will have another record before splashdown Tuesday. His spacewalk time, plus a 40-minute space stand scheduled for Monday, will add up to five hours and—two minutes more

Jury Told Of Coroner's Threat

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A doctor testified Saturday that coroner Samuel R. Gerber told him one month before Marilyn Sheppard was murdered in bed that he was "gonna get" the Sheppard family someday.

Dr. Horace M. Don of Okmulgee, Okla., testifying as the 14th defense witness in the murder retrial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard whom he once was associated at a hospital operated by the Sheppard family, said the coroner made the alleged statement in June, 1954, at the Cleveland police station. Don had gone to the station in his job as a police physician in connection with another murder case.

The alleged statement was new in the Sheppard case. It had not been brought up in the first trial.

Don also testified that he was at the Sheppard home several hours after Marilyn was found bludgeoned to death and that he saw Gerber talking to persons he presumed were Cleveland policemen.

"Dr. Gerber told me it was evident the doctor (Sam Sheppard) had done it and that they should know—and get a confession from him," Don said.

In its decision last June in which it threw out Sheppard's 1954 conviction of second degree murder, the U.S. Supreme Court noted the statement never had been stated.

The alleged Gerber statement was not in the testimony given by Don in the first trial.

Sheppard served 10 years of a life imprisonment sentence before the Supreme Court ruled for retrial.

U.S. Troops Swarmed by Reds in Viet

SAIGON (UPI) — An estimated 1,000 troops Saturday night attacked American infantrymen in the Central Highlands near the Cambodian border but the U.S. ground troops, artillery and planes put the Red force to flight.

They struck 235 miles north of Saigon in an area where they earlier shot down three U.S. Army helicopters with "heavy casualties" to the crews. The attack came shortly after the United States announced its second worst day of air losses in the Viet Nam war.

Military spokesmen said five planes were lost over North Viet Nam Friday—the worst day since "black Sunday" Aug. 7 when seven U.S. planes were downed.

Six crewmen of the planes were missing in action and the seventh was rescued.

In the Central Highlands, two battalions of Communist troops hit American forces in an attack that was preceded by a Red mortar barrage.

American troops who had moved into the Cambodian border area, battled the Communists for an hour and 10 minutes. Then, at 7:30 p.m. the Communists broke off the battle and fled into the jungle, a U.S. spokesman said.

U.S. spokesmen said American losses were light, both in the battle and in the mortar barrage.

Briefing Due Price in Capital

Congressman-elect Bob Price of Pampa will leave Amarillo Air Terminal at 9:30 a.m. Monday for three days of briefings in Washington, D.C.

The winner of last week's 18th Congressional District race will confer with leaders of the Republican Congressional Committee around staff and office arrangements prior to the Jan. 3 opening of Congress.

Price will be in Washington through Nov. 17. He will then spend a few days on a fishing trip with a group of Pampa and Amarillo friends. The new congressman-elect, his wife Marty, and their three children will spend the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives.

Beginning Nov. 28 and until his departure for the opening of the new session of Congress late in December, Price will meet with residents of the district to get their views on legislation which may come before the 90th Congress.

Shriners End All-Day Celebration in Pampa

Pampa and Borger Shrine Associations initiated 12 novices here Saturday in their Fall Ceremonial. Nobles representing seven Shrine Temples were present for the degree work.

More than 350 nobles registered at the Coronado Inn Saturday morning.

Ceremonies started with an 11 a.m. parade on Cuyler street. Members of various Shrine Temples, novices, and their ladies were guests of the Pampa Shrine Club at a barbecue held at the Sportsman Club.

Khiva Potentate Richard Roberts presented C. P. Buckler of Pampa and Arthur Furgason of Borger with jeweled fezzes and cited their years of service to the Order. The initiation for novices was held in their honor.

The two sections of the Ceremonial were held Saturday afternoon in the bull barn at the Rodeo Grounds. Three side degrees, Camel Header, Yellow Dog and Knights of Buckingham, were conferred on the 12 novices Saturday morning at the Coronado Inn.

While the novices were going through the afternoon initiation, their wives were guests at a bridge party in the Coronado Inn.

Since its creation in 1892, the Shrine organization has become the world's largest fraternal philanthropic body in the world.

At the present time, the Shriners operate 19 orthopedic hospitals and one burn hospital for children. Two more burn hospitals are now being built.

According to Khiva Potentate Richard Roberts, of Amarillo, no child or his parents have

Student Executes Five in Arizona

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — A high school student calmly executed five persons including a mother and 3-year-old daughter Saturday in a bloody climax to a three-month plan of wanton murder, police said.

Each of the victims were shot twice in the back of the head as the killer methodically reloaded his six-shot 22-caliber revolver, investigators said. Two other victims were wounded by the slayer.

The suspect was identified as Robert Benjamin Smith, 18.

Arresting officers said Smith showed "no remorse" when he was picked up at the scene of the mass slayings—a beauty school. A witness at a nearby shop said Smith was "laughing" when police led him from the school.

They quoted him as saying he "wanted to get known... just

IN NEW YORK CITY

Carnegie Hall Appearance Due Pampa

Two Texans, one from Pampa, will be presented in recital in New York City's Carnegie Hall at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 29.

The Texans are also husband and wife, Janita, clarinetist and James Byars, oboist.

They will be assisted by William Read, harpsichordist and pianist; Josef Alexander, in his Sonata for Clarinet and Piano.

Byars is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Byars, 641 N. Faulkner. Mrs. Byars' mother is Mrs. Jessie Ashby of Dalhart, whose late husband was a judge. The Byars and Mrs. Ashby plan to attend the Carnegie Hall recital and are leaving for New York City on Nov. 25.

Byars, a graduate of Pampa High School in 1959, was active in band here and played with the Amarillo Symphony Orchestra, where he was awarded a scholarship to continue his career at West Texas State College.

He received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from the Juilliard School of Music in New York City, where he played solo oboe in the Juilliard Orchestra under Jean Morel.

He has played solo oboe with the Bolshoi Ballet, Berkshire Music Center Orchestra at Tanglewood and the Ballet of Madrid.

He is now a member of the New York City Ballet Orchestra and was a participant in the inaugural season of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

Other positions include the Long Island Philharmonic, Musica Aeterna, Festival Orchestras, the faculties of Riverdale School of Music and Horace Mann School and the International Arts Wind Quintet.

Mr. and Mrs. Byars met while they were students at West Texas State University, Canyon.

Mrs. Byars received her Bachelor's degree, with honors, from Indiana University, where she was awarded the Performer's Certificate. She is now in her fourth season with the American Symphony Orchestra, Leopold Stokowski, Music Director, and has been heard as solo clarinet with the orchestra in concert and on recordings.

She recently received her Master's Degree from the Manhattan School of Music, and has performed with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra, the West Side Symphony, the International Arts and American Symphony Wind Quintets.

Regal Named Head Of Volunteer Service For District Meet

Appointment of a local minister to head one of 21 different departments was made known today by the Watchtower convention administrative staff for Texas Circuit No. 10 who are preparing for an assembly Nov. 18-20 in Perryton.

Charles Regal has been named as head of the department of Volunteer Service as Jehovah's Witnesses make plans for a gathering expected to attract 700 delegates.

Some 100 of the delegates will volunteer services to staff the convention organization which functions like a larger district convention in order to provide for the delegates during their stay in Perryton.

A common odors, food, checkroom, cleaning and first aid are a few of the items that need attention, according to Regal. "In 13 conventions held this summer in the U.S. and Canada there were over 500,000 who had to be cared for. We learn from experience of the international, national and district gatherings and then apply it in our circuit meetings."

Program assignments have also indicated Richard Fetter and J. D. Helms will appear. Some 15 hours of Bible training will be presented during the sessions. Special highlights will also include the showing of two films produced by the Watchtower Society, one of which will be narrated by the main speaker, A. A. Catanzaro, district minister from New York.

The first film will be presented on the opening night of the convention at 8 p.m. entitled "Heritage." Spokesmen for the Watchtower Society, producer of the film, indicate that it takes a sympathetic view of the teenage problem existing everywhere today. "It fills the need in every home, in the life of every member of the household, according to officials," the spokesman said.

In describing the reaction of previous presentations of the 16mm. sound-on-film, Regal commented that television stations report having received excellent response from viewers as to appreciation of the part adults can play in securing or providing a heritage that brings peace of mind and self-respect for their teenagers.

"Heritage" is a film designed to convince the viewer that young people today have a problem that concerns us all, one they cannot cope with unaided," Regal said. "These young-

Johnson Expects 'Tough Sledding'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson says he expects tougher sledding but "no great trouble" for his Great Society program, despite Republican resurgence in the next Congress.

Philosophically accepting the pendulum swing to the Republicans in the off-year election, he said he still has a "reasonable working majority." The 90th Congress will have a ratio favoring the Democrats, 248 to 187 in the House and 64 to 36 in the Senate.

The Chief Executive said Thursday his seven-man medical team still has to pick hospital and set the date for his throat and abdominal surgery. He expects it to be performed next week.

The President said muscles in his right arm and shoulder hurt. He has a pulling sensation on his right side where the incision was made for his gallbladder operation and hushiness from a growth (polyp) in his throat. Otherwise he feels "fine."

Ruddy, relaxed in ranch clothes and happy to be away from his White House desk, Johnson planned to remain at his Texas Ranch through Sunday—perhaps longer.

He will be spending most of the next several weeks, until January, at his ranch on the Pedernales with time out for surgery either at the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md., or at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio.

Reviewing the election results, Johnson compared himself to past presidents and found himself in good shape. "I think it will be more difficult for any new legislation we might propose," he said. "There is no question," he added, "but what the other party strengthened its position."

"I don't anticipate that we are going to have any great trouble." He said his House majority and two-to-one standing in the Senate that gave him a "pretty good working majority."

County Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL Executive Secretary

We heard this week that the Viet Cong were very much afraid of the ace of spades and the jokers of our playing cards. It is said that they will walk miles around a spot where these cards are placed. A call has gone out through the Council of Clubs for these playing cards and they will be sent to the Field Directors of the servicemen so that they may be scattered in the path of the enemy. Isn't that a small thing for us to do for our servicemen. Who knows it might save the life of one we love so dearly. Look in your desk for old cards and bring the ones needed to our Red Cross office and we will send them on to our Red Cross overseas.

A standard first aid class will begin Monday morning in the City Club room in the City Hall with Ted Gikas as first aid instructor of the class. The class is free to anyone who is interested in taking standard first aid and it will be a 10 hour class with 5-2 hour sessions. Time is 9:00 to 11 a.m.

Miss Bonnie Grantham, physical education teacher at the Robert E. Lee Junior High School will begin a class Friday at 4 p.m. in the First Methodist Church Parlor in the education building. The girls of Girl Scout Troop 125 with Mrs. Robert Karr as their leader will take the 10 hour course. We are always glad that the Red Cross can work with other organizations to promote safety.

Word has been received that the Combined Service Territory meeting will be in Amarillo Nov. 15 at 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Chapter chairman, chairman of volunteers and chairman of services to the military are especially invited to attend this meeting. Miss Bonnie McAfee from St. Louis will be the principal speaker for this meeting. Any other person is invited to attend this important meeting.

The Chapter board met for their regular meeting Nov. 8 with 12 members present. The program was on JRC and High School Red Cross work in the schools. Miss Barbara Holt, president of High School Red Cross, told of the work in the secondary schools last year and projects and programs that were planned this year. It was announced that enrollment week was the second week in November and that JRC News was purchased for each room in the elementary schools and the Red Cross Journal was purchased for the secondary schools. The board voted not to meet during the month of December and to resume meetings the second Tuesday of January, 1967.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thomson-McKinnon says that the Dow Jones industrial average probably has enough upside momentum to test the September intra-day high of 822.93. If this proves to be true, the analyst says, there presumably would be a further advance in the average before reaction and cross-currents put in their customary year-end appearance.

Panhandle Water Conservation News

By FELIX W. RYALS

I attended the National Waterways Conference in Little Rock on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas and Senator Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky were the principal speakers for the annual event. Mills is chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee. Morton is the ranking member of both the Senate and Finance Committees. Both men in their speeches took very strong stands on the need to continue inland water way improvements.

We are in a time of growing concern regarding the adequacy of future water supply, water resource development permitting fuller and more efficient utilization of available sites and reducing the burden of public costs for flood control, water conservation, water supply and recreation. With the rise of local, state and national responsibility for full employment and policy has served as a stimulus to industrial expansion.

The National Waterways Association was founded to encourage a better public understanding of the importance of low cost water transportation and its relation to water resource development, industrial growth, economic expansion, community welfare, and the national interest.

The Corps of Engineers provided exhibits showing the progress made to date in building the series of locks and dams on the Arkansas River that will permit shipping by tow boats to reach Tulsa by 1970. In addition to permitting boat transportation, the dams are forming enormous lakes that will provide water for municipal use, prevent floods and provide recreation.

Figures released by the National Waterways show that Corps of Engineers waterway and harbors system carries about one-sixth of the nation's commercial freight amounting to one and a quarter billion tons and 250 billion ton-miles annually. This traffic includes heavy, slow moving bulk items basic to the national economy, including about 3 billion barrels of petroleum products, 54 million tons of grain, 194 million tons of coal, 124 million tons of ore and iron and steel, and 97 million tons of sand and gravel.

Chicago To Host State's Finest Youth at Congress

Sixteen hundred of the nation's finest youth will open the 45th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago on Sunday, November 27. They will represent the 50 states and Puerto Rico. A group of Canadian 4-Hers will be special guests. About 700 adults associated with 4-H Club work also are expected to attend.

The Congress will open with an impressive program based on the 1966 theme: Pursuit of Excellence.

The keynote speaker will be a woman who has pioneered a long list of "firsts" for women, and who will add yet another "first" to her record. She will be the first woman ever to keynote the opening assembly of the National 4-H Club Congress, now in its 45th year.

She is Mary G. Roebling, chairman of the board of Trenton Trust Company, Trenton, N. J. She is first board chairman of a major commercial bank and the first woman governor of the American Stock Exchange.

Mrs. Roebling is one of the nation's outstanding women in finance, public service, social and educational activities. A widow, she has a married son and daughter and five grandchildren, so she seems to be well qualified as a parent to speak to a teen-age audience.

It is traditional that the 4-H Congress be held during the same week as the International Live Stock Exposition, although none of the delegates show animals there. Some may have in previous years, but it is a Congress rule, the delegates cannot be exhibitors.

However, they do visit the Exposition on Wednesday afternoon and evening as guests of the International management. They will travel by chartered bus from the Conrad Hilton Hotel, International Amphitheatre, Congress headquarters, to the International Amphitheatre where an impressive evening program will take place.

SOMETHING MISSING—namely, kernels—seems to be the problem with this cornob at first glance. Actually, it's the other way around. The kernels, the result of wayward pollen blown from a nearby field, are unwanted on this new hybrid corn bred by Car-gill, Inc., of Minneapolis for cattle feed. The goal is sugar-rich stalks and leaves instead of starchy kernels.

A REPRIEVE from the chopping block was temporarily granted this white hen turkey, which established some important connections with Mrs. Shirley Wiseman of Shelbina, Mo. White turkeys are gaining ground on the traditional bronze types in popularity at the Thanksgiving table in some parts of the country. This sociable hen played it safe either way by making friends with Mrs. Wiseman, an employee at the Missouri Farmers Assn. poultry processing plant at Shelbina.

Orange Crop Looks Large For This Year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department Thursday predicted that the 1966-67 orange crop in Texas will total 2.4 million boxes, including one million boxes of valencias.

Texas grapefruit, the USDA's crop reporting board said, will total 5.4 million boxes.

The national orange crop, the board said, will total 162.3 million boxes, up 32 per cent from last year. The total estimate excluded California valencias, which will be estimated in the December crop report.

The total includes 93.7 million boxes of early, mid-season and navel oranges, up 29 per cent from last season.

The total production of valencia oranges in Florida, Texas and Arizona was forecast at 68.6 million boxes, up 35 per cent from last year.

Citrus production forecasts for other states, based on Nov. 1 conditions, also included:

Oranges — California, navel and miscellaneous, no valencias, 93.7 million boxes; Florida, all oranges, 142.4 million boxes, including 66 million boxes of valencias; Arizona, all oranges, 2.5 million boxes, including 1.6 million boxes of valencias.

A seep type pond was staked for Mrs. Vera Dial Dickey on her ranch southeast of Lefors. Seep-type ponds are excellent source of water for livestock. They are usually constructed where water is within 4 feet of the surface. They have to be constructed with a dragline.

Raymond Barrett has completed an underground irrigation pipeline on the farm he operates just southwest of Pampa. Dean Burger has also completed an irrigation pipeline on his farm south of Kingsmill.

Burning of crop residue can be harmful to the soil. Burning residues causes the soil structure to gradually deteriorate as the soil organic matter is reduced. The water intake rate, aeration, and porosity are lessened. Erosion becomes a greater hazard due to exposure of the soil to wind and rainfall.

As the organic matter is reduced, our soil becomes more compacted. This compaction restricts the movement of the roots and reduces aeration; also causes a reduction in yield.

Changes In Wheat Allotments

The national wheat allotment for 1967 has been increased to 68.2 million acres. For 1966, it was 51.6 million acres. The increase has been made possible by the reduction in surplus due to successful cooperation by farmers in the wheat program and continuing heavy demand for wheat, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Stabilization and Conservation Service.

It enables farmers who believe increased production will be profitable to plant more land to wheat and still obtain full program benefits.

The increased allotment brings a major change to the program. . . there will be no diversion required for participation in 1967 and there will be no payment for additional diversion as there has been in recent years.

The 1967 program, otherwise, will be similar to the program in 1966. It will include price-support loans, marketing certificates and substitution between wheat and feed grains.

Small allotment wheat farmers who have been diverting their entire allotments for payment under the program will no longer be able to do so. If they wish to receive income from allotments under the program, they should sign up in the wheat program, plant wheat or use the substitution provisions.

In order to protect acreage history, they should be sure to plant at least 75 per cent of their allotments to wheat in a least one year out of three.

Corn or grain sorghum substituted for wheat will be considered wheat acreage for this purpose. Wheat history on land signed in CAP, CCP, CR and Great Plains programs is also protected.

Options

The 1967 program offers several options. These are:

1. You can sign up and plant wheat on all your wheat allotment acres.

2. You can sign up to over-plant your allotment by up to 50 percent, store the excess production, and be eligible for price support certificates and price support loan on the wheat not stored.

3. You may elect to plant less than your full allotment and be eligible for maximum domestic marketing certificates by planting 35 percent of your allotment and meeting other program requirements.

4. You can substitute wheat for feed grains (corn and grain sorghum) or feed grains for wheat if you participate in both programs. Substituting feed grains (corn or grain sorghum) for wheat will reduce or eliminate any diversion payments you might otherwise earn under the feed grain program.

5. You can substitute wheat for barley on an acre-for-acre basis and there will be no diversion requirements, but you need to request a special barley base for this purpose. Barley will not be included in the feed grain program for 1967; therefore, your feed grain base under the program will be made up of corn and grain sorghum bases only. You can lose your wheat program benefits when substituting wheat for barley under two conditions: (1) Planting corn or grain sorghum without having a base for those crops, or (2) not participating in the feed grain program if you have a corn-grain sorghum base.

6. You can substitute wheat for oats and rye on an approved oats-rye base. There will be no diversion requirements or payments for oats-rye substitution. If you substitute wheat for oats-rye, you lose eligibility for wheat program benefits under the same two conditions listed in section 5 covering substitution of wheat for barley. An adjustment in the oats-rye base will be made on a State-by-State basis to allow for the difference in feed units produced per acre.

Benefits

Farmers who sign up and qualify are eligible for these benefits:

1. Price-support loans of $1.25 per bushel national average on their entire farm wheat production (except any stored excess wheat).

CHILDREN NEED THIS HEALTH SUPERVISION

They require the very best medical and surgical care. Otherwise, their later years may be plagued by continuous poor health that might have been prevented.

Medical authorities agree that these regular physician checkups should be scheduled. First year — at least every four to six weeks. Second year — every three months. Ages two to six year — every three months. Ages 18 to least once a year. If medication is needed we can fill any prescription, even those from physicians in other cities.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

School Survey Resume

(Editor's Note: The following is a factual report given by J. A. Anderson, assistant director, Division of Administrative Services of the Texas Education Agency.)

Anderson has recently completed a survey of school facilities made at the request of the Pampa Independent School District in connection with a proposed building program. The report was presented to school trustees at a board meeting Thursday.

Anderson prefaces the report, "All statements contained herein which pertain to making changes in sites, school plant facilities, furniture and equipment, educational program, organization, etc. shall be interpreted as indicative only and are not to be considered as directive or restrictive."

School Population

An examination of the school census for the last several years indicates a rather stable population. However, the decrease in school dropouts plus the pupil increase can create a need for additional facilities. In 1963 there were 6626 scholastics and in 1966 scholastics had increased to 6675 for a net gain of 49 over the four-year period.

Fiscal Operation

The Pampa Independent School district seems to have had a sound economical operation. The 1964-65 instructional cost in Pampa was $382.65 as compared to a state-wide average cost of $351.59 per pupil among the 31 school districts in which it is classified. This differential is due to an instructional program above that provided by the minimum foundation, teachers' salaries, and adequate teaching supplies and equipment. The district has a valuation of $102,598,365 and a bonded debt of $2,488,000. The ratio of bonded debt to the valuation is approximately 2.4 per cent. Pampa is financially able to provide the kind of school program the community wants.

Evaluation of Present Buildings

Austin Elementary: Grades 1-6
This facility is located on an adequate campus of 14 acres — reflects good building maintenance and custodial care. The building is well planned and well constructed.

Baker Elementary: Grades 1-6
This is an older building located on a small campus of some five acres. It has had good custodial care and maintenance.

Carver Elementary: Grades 1-6
This unit was well planned and well constructed and is located on a small campus of about five acres. It has been well maintained and reflects good custodial care.

Houston Elementary: Grades 1-6
This site is the smallest in the district but is adjacent to a city park. The building is functional and shows both good maintenance and good custodial care.

Lamar Elementary: Grades 1-6
This unit is located on an adequate campus; the building was well planned and shows good custodial care.

Mann Elementary: Grades 1-6
This is one of the older buildings and is on a five-acre site. There is evidence of good custodial care.

Travis Elementary: Grades 1-6
This is the newest building in the system and is located on a very adequate site of 18 acres. This plant is well maintained and shows good custodial care.

Wilson Elementary: Grades 1-6
This unit is located on a campus of approximately five acres with the cafeteria being housed in a temporary frame building. There is evidence of good custodial care on this campus.

Senior High School: Grades 10-12
These facilities are located on a site of 35 acres together with the athletic stadium. The buildings are well constructed, well maintained and show good custodial care.

Lee Junior High: Grades 7-9
This facility is well planned, well constructed and the campus area is adequate for the program. The bricks in this building have deteriorated and some have been replaced. These facilities are well maintained and have had good custodial care.

Pampa Junior High: Grades 7-9
This is probably the oldest plant in the system, consisting of three units, and a campus area of some three acres. The area of some three acres. The main building is in a better state of maintenance than the shop or gymnasium. It has served its usefulness, is antiquated, very expensive to maintain; this plant has become commercial-type property because of its location and should be phased out.

Observations

1. The custodial and maintenance personnel are doing a good job.
2. This is a proud community as evidenced by its homes, schools, churches, banks, and business establishments.
3. Three requisites of a good school system are: faculty, program, and facilities.
4. It is possible that the best performance can be expected from an elementary enrollment of 500 to 700; a junior high school of 800 to 1000; and a high school from 1200 to 1800.
5. We may be approaching a longer school day and a longer school year.
6. All elementary schools need a materials center — library and music room; two need new cafeterias; two need new rest-rooms; and several need refurbishing.
7. Pampa Junior High School has served its usefulness and needs to be replaced.

Suggestions

1. Develop long-range plans (minimum of five years and promote one bond issue to implement).
2. Secure adequate sites well in advance of need and construction.
3. Develop educational specifications to assure the program and number of pupils to be housed will be in a functional and flexible building.
4. Arrange facility needs in order of priority.
5. Provide for classroom additions to several of the elementary schools (ten to Travis, six to Austin); music rooms, materials center and library combination to all; a new cafeteria at Wilson and Mann, and a third at Carver, if the latter is to be used in the future.
6. Refurbish the old sections in several of the elementary schools and provide new rest-rooms where needed.
7. Provide paved parking area; pave streets adjacent to the campus and replace the ceiling at Lamar.
8. Install a cyclone fence at Lee Junior High School along the highway adjacent to the campus.
9. Phase out Carver Elementary.

Medicare Questions and Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE—This column of questions and answers on Medicare is provided by the Pampa Social Security Office and is published by the Pampa News as a public service.

Q—I am 69 years old and I receive social security benefits based on the work my husband did. Do I have to sign up for the hospital insurance?

A—No. You are automatically enrolled for hospital insurance benefits since you are over 65 and you are receiving social security benefits. If you have not done so, you will have to make a decision as to whether or not you want coverage under the supplementary medical insurance plan. This is the plan that will assist you with the payment of doctor bills.

Q—Would there be any benefit in keeping the private insurance I now carry after our medical policies which my husband and care policies go into effect in July, 1967?

A—Possibly. Medicare will not pay all of your medical expenses. The private insurance policies you now have might help you meet the total costs. Some insurance companies are supplementing their policies to supplement Medicare payments. Your best action would be to contact your insurance agent to determine what would be best and most economical in your own individual case.

Q—I filed my application to establish my monthly benefit rate but my earnings are too high for me to get any social security checks. How will I make the $3 monthly Medicare premium payment?

A—You will be billed directly from the payment center, for $9 per quarter (a quarter cov-

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE—This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the Internal Revenue Service and is published by The Pampa News as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—Are employment agency fees deductible?

A—Yes, if you itemize deductions and you pay them for getting employment.

Q—I've heard that a check made out to cash or to yourself is not sufficient to establish a deductible expense. Is that right?

A—Generally speaking, that is correct. To substantiate a deductible expense your records must indicate, among other things, the purpose of the expense, and to whom paid, as well as the amount.

Q—I'm getting married in December. Will I be able to file a joint return for the entire year?

A—Yes. Marital status is determined as of the last day of the tax year. If you are married by that date then you are considered married for the entire year.

Q—How long do you have to own stock or some other asset to qualify for a long term capital gain?

A—More than six months.

Q—We have just sold our house at a profit. Is that taxable when we put the money into a larger home?

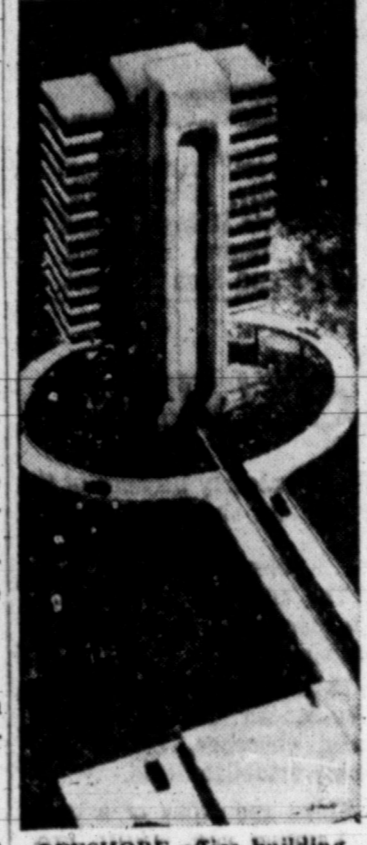

A—Generally, if you purchase and occupy another home within a year at a price equal to or above what you received for your old home then you will not be currently taxed on the profit made on the sale. If, within the appropriate time period, you buy a new home at a lower price than you sold the old one for, all or part of the gain is taxed currently.

Q—How about the cost of a hunting license. Is that deductible?

A—No it is not.

Q—I'm divorced and my wife has custody of the children. Since I still support them can I claim them as exemptions on my withholding?

A—Yes, you can if they qualify as your dependents. Generally, this means that you provide more than one-half their total support for the year.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON

The citizens have voted themselves some political entertainment to be played on the congressional stage during the two years in which the new 90th congress serves its term in Washington.

Reinforced congressional Republican will be in better position to heckle President Johnson. Quite apart from surgery, the President already is less well prepared than he should be to deal with the hecklers. A presidential campaign is boiling up. The political stakes from now until November, 1968, are as high as they ever can be.

Any junior member of the American Cardiac Club, Inc., could detect the weakness in LBJ's defenses against political hecklers. He is over-tired and tends to lose his temper. This columnist is a senior member of the Cardiac Club, having racked up so far three fast rounds against a balky heart. The President is overweight; he is compelled too often to stray from his diet, he works too hard, too long and he is beginning to foul up simple political tricks in ways unbecoming to a professional.

This foul-up was most apparent and most astonishing on LBJ's return from Asia. Almost in the hour of arrival, the President offended a pair of prime political rules of conduct. One of these rules is never unnecessarily to make an enemy. No matter what may be the measure of your contempt, hold in check any expression of contempt lest friends actual or potential become enemies.

Calvin Coolidge learned that the hard way after riding into the White House in 1923 on the caboose of Warren G. Harding's funeral train. Cal's rigorous upbringing in rural Vermont had not provided much time for recreation, if any. So it was that when reporters in a White House news conference sought information Coolidge's vacation plans, one of the reporters suggested that, perhaps, the President might head for some plush bass or trout fishing. "Fishing is for children," snapped Cal, thereby offending every fly-fier, coast to coast. More sensitive Republican politicians moved to repair the damage by persuading Cal to visit a vacation trout stream and be photographed casting his line upon the waters.

Heavens to Betsy, friends! Cal fished and was photographed but had been heard by the reporters loudly to demand on taking his rod in hand: "Where are the worms?" thereby offending such of those fishermen as may have missed his first crack about a children's sport.

LBJ's homecoming offenses including a copper riveting job on his bad relations with the press. Not too gently, Johnson accused them all of lying in their reports to the public that he had planned a fast political swing before the election and had been compelled to cancel the plans.

LBJ and the reporters know who was telling the truth about campaign plans. No one gives a hoot whether LBJ likes the reporters and vice versa. But LBJ offends the press at his peril. The reporters can't bruise him now, but if he ever is down, they'll play rough and the public will cheer.

ELECTION BETS are traditional in New England as they are in Las Vegas and it isn't too difficult to spot the losers. This scene took place in Camden, Maine, where William Brawn, left, bet Leroy Morong, center, that Gov. John Reed would be re-elected. Reed wasn't and Brawn paid off. That's Henry Fisher, right, helping to beat out a dirge.

Pampans Named To Who's Who At West Texas

C. E. Cantrell and Mrs. Jean Gray, Pampa High School graduates, were among 35 juniors and seniors named to represent West Texas State University in the 1966-67 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

A junior marketing major, Cantrell is a member of the Student Senate, Phi Delta Theta, national social fraternity, the American Marketing Association, and Iota Epsilon, a business fraternity.

Mrs. Gray, senior music major, sang the lead role in "Kismet" WSTU musical and won best actress award. She has held an applied music scholarship and the Kathryn Hines scholarship.

This Week In Business

NEW YORK (UPI)—The elections left political analysts with a mixed bag to examine, but business and financial observers saw unmistakable signs of a pocketbook backlash whipping out of the polling booths Tuesday.

It was most apparent when voters turned thumbs down on almost half the bond proposals on the ballots many states and local communities. Bond issues that managed to squeak through totaled only about $1.2 billion, rather low for a general election year.

Wall Street registered its approval of the election results and stocks and bonds moved higher on the exchanges. Financial observers said pocketbook-conscious voters took about as much wind from Democrats sails as any white backlash.

Accompanying governor Morrow will be his wife, Virginia, and secretary - treasurer Willis Mitchell and his wife, Catherine.

Obituaries

Sallie Mae Miller — Funeral services for Mrs. Sallie Mae Miller, 8, will be held at 2:30 p.m. today in the First Methodist Church conducted by the Rev. Harold Purdue.

Mrs. Miller, a Wheeler resident since 1914, died Saturday morning in Shamrock General Hospital. She had been in ill health for several years.

She was born in Comanche on June 12, 1876 and was married to W. O. Miller in 1897 in Baird. He died in 1963.

She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors are six daughters, Mrs. J. Conner, Mrs. M. V. Callan, both of Wheeler, Mrs. Bill Hayhurst of Conway, Ark., Mrs. J. L. Parker of New Mexico, Mrs. Ted Clay, Mrs. Dor-man Landrop, both of Carmichael, Calif.; two sons, Henry of Borger, N. L. of Las Lunas, N. M.; 23 grand-children, 32 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Her husband, one son and one daughter preceded her in death.

Burial will be in Wheeler Cemetery under the direction of Wright-Denson Funeral Home.

H. N. Patterson — Funeral services for Harvey Nile Patterson, 67, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the First Baptist Church conducted by the Rev. Dale Cain.

Mr. Patterson suffered a heart attack while hunting Saturday morning and was pronounced dead on arrival at Parkview Hospital.

Historic Medallion Ceremonies Stated At Conway Church

GROOM—Ceremonies for dedicating a Historic Medallion for Conway Church will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20, with County Judge Clarence C. Williams as master of ceremonies.

The regular church service will be held at the morning hour followed by a basket dinner at 12:30.

A number of former pastors and other former residents are expected to attend.

All interested persons are invited to join the day of fellowship at the Conway Church.

In 1871, newspaperman Henry Stanley found explorer David Livingstone in a small settlement in Africa.

voluntary method to repay the bonds.

Goldberg Intervened
U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, in an explosive intervention in the Budgetary Committee, said that any change in the method of repayment "would constitute a major breach of faith and raise serious questions about the reliability of the United Nations."

He warned that if the four-power resolution "were to be pressed the result would be to plunge the United Nations into the most serious financial difficulties."

Western diplomats said later Goldberg's remarks were regarded by the committee as having a "no nonsense" approach to the problem and for all practical purposes killed the resolution on the spot.

But despite Goldberg's swift intervention that buried the bond issue, the unalterable fact was that the United Nations would remain on shaky financial footing until France and the Soviet Union opened their purse strings.

AIRMAN Philip S. Klaerner, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Klaerner of 418 N. Hill, will be training at San Antonio. The airman, a 1965 graduate of Pampa High School, will be trained on the job as an air policeman with the Strategic Air Command.

Groom to Ballot On School Issues

GROOM—Three propositions will be included in the Groom Independent School District bond election called for Dec. 3.

Voters will ballot on an authorization of a $1.50 per hundred dollar valuation tax rate; $213,000 to build new classrooms and $37,000 to build a swimming pool.

TRAIN WRECK

TOKYO (UPI)—A speeding express train smashed into the rear of another train stopped at a station in the southern city of Osaka today, killing an engineer and injuring 130 passengers.

Authorities said the seven-car southbound express slammed into the rear of a semi-express train at Kokubu Station in Osaka, 350 miles south of Tokyo.

Commissioners To Canvass Ballots

Gray County Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Monday in the courthouse.

In addition to a routine business meeting to give approval of monthly bills, commissioners and Gray County Judge Bill Craig will canvass votes in the Nov. 8 general election.

This procedure is necessary to make the election results official before they become a permanent part of the Gray County record.

O'Keefe Takes Office As Commissioner

WHITE DEER—John B. O'Keefe took office as Carson County Commissioner Friday in the commissioner's court in Panhandle.

The newly-elected O'Keefe would not ordinarily have taken office until January 1, but the recent death of Commissioner J. C. Jackson made it necessary for him to assume office earlier than planned.

Carson County Judge Clarence Williams presided as County Clerk Fannie Williams administered oath of office.

Bears-49ers Game Could Belong to Anybody

By United Press International
Phil Wrigley is happy that Wrigley Field doesn't have a dome, otherwise the Bears and 49ers could blow it off Sunday.

Chicago (3-4-1) hosts the 49ers (4-3-1), and looking at their last two meetings, anything could happen.

But the Bears, although their record is not as impressive as San Francisco's, are a six-point favorite to beat the 49ers.

In other National Football League action, Baltimore (6-2) is at Atlanta (0-8), Washington (5-4) hosts Dallas (5-2-1), Philadelphia (5-4) plays at Cleveland (5-3), Los Angeles entertains New York (1-6-1), Detroit (2-4-1) is at Minnesota (3-4-1), and St. Louis (7-1-1) plays at Pittsburgh (2-5-1). Green Bay is idle.

Sayers rushed for 124 yards last week and scored Chicago's lone touchdown in a 10-10 tie with Detroit.

But the 49ers are on the upsurge. They have won four of their last five games and rolled up 358 yards in a victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

John Brodie, the 49ers' quarterback, passed for 277 yards and one TD, and rushed for a pair of other scores while receiver Kay McFarland caught in for injured Dave Parks.

In their last two meetings, the Bears and 49ers have chalked up 157 points, and Chicago leads the all-time series at 17-14, but don't count San Francisco out.

With Charley Johnson out of the lineup, the St. Louis Cardinals will have their hands full at Pittsburgh.

Terry Nofsinger, one of the least-played six-year veterans in the league, will take over the quarterbacking chores for St. Louis. The Cardinals, without Johnson's artistry, will have to count heavily on their defensive squads.

Wilson For Cards
Larry Wilson, the mainstay of the Cards' potent defensive backfield, leads the league in interceptions with nine. But the Steelers also have been showing some defensive punch. In their 16-6 win over Cleveland last week, the Steelers threw the opposing quarterback for five losses and picked off five passes.

The Colts have won their last four games, and the Baltimore Colts have Randy Johnson. With the experience of a game in their first year in the league, it will be a tough one for Atlanta.

Dallas leads the league in total offense, total defense, passing offense and rushing defense, but is only a seven-point pick-over-surprising Washington.

The Philadelphia Eagles, after coming off a surprising 24-23 win over the Cowboys last week, are 10-point underdogs to Cleveland, which lost 16-6 to Pittsburgh. Leroy Kelly continues his fine running, and leads the league with 670 yards.

Green Bay is idle.

Sayers, Best Bet
It doesn't take an expert to know that the 49ers will keep their on Chicago's Gale Sayers. The last time the Bears played San Francisco Sayers tied an NFL single game scoring record with six touchdowns, totaled 336 yards rushing, receiving and returning kicks as the Bears drummed San Francisco 61-20.

That game took away the sting of the 1965 opener, in which the 49ers throttled Chicago 24-20.

Now the Bears are still trying to find another offensive threat besides Sayers, who is third in NFL rushing with 630 yards.

Stiffest Test Facing NY Jets

By United Press International
The New York Jets shuffle off to Buffalo to meet the Bills Sunday and will be trying to break a horrendous slump against one of the American Football League's brightest defensive alignments.

New York has not won in five games and has lost four in a row. This is an abrupt about-face after the high-flying Jets appeared at season's start to be capable of winning them all.

Buffalo, on the other hand, started slowly and looked anything but a team able to win three straight AFL championships. But the Bills now have won two games in a row and are once again atop the Eastern Division race. Oddsmakers are tabbing Buffalo a six-point favorite to continue the Jets' misery by repeating its success of two weeks ago.

The Bills put the bum's rush on Jet quarterback Joe Namath in their earlier meeting, intercepted him five times and doused New York 33-23. Then, last week while the Jets took the day off—Buffalo bombed Miami 29-0, chalking up the Bills' first shutout in nearly three years and holding the docile Dolphins to a mere 48 yards rushing.

Buffalo coach Joel Collier is justly proud of his agile, alert defense and predicts it will lead the Bills to another division title—and perhaps another AFL crown. Buffalo is now 5-3-1—compared to 4-3-1 for New York and the Boston Patriots, who were upset last week by Denver.

Boston is favored to down the invading Houston Oilers in another key Eastern Division game Sunday.

Over in the Western Division, the red-hot Kansas City Chiefs, boasting the AFL's most potent offense, are overwhelming choices over Miami. San Diego, who dropped back when beaten last Sunday by Kansas City, is a slim choice over the Oakland Raiders, a team the Chargers beat earlier in the season 29-20.

The Jets and Raiders can take heart, however, because this has not been a good season for rematches. There have been 31 "second meetings" in the AFL this year, and on only three occasions has the winner of the first game won the second time around.

Legs Story For 'Cats Title Bout

HOUSTON (UPI)—The punch of Cleveland (Big Cat) Williams is said to be more powerful than Sonny Liston's or Joe Louis' or anybody else since the great Jack Dempsey. Williams' manager, Hugh Benbow, compares it to the wallop of a Missouri mule.

Williams' supporters have a multitude of facts and circumstantial evidence to back up their claims. It's true that Williams is the only person to know out Ernie Terrell, the World Boxing Association's heavyweight champion.

It's also true that Williams has more first-round knockouts than any champion in boxing history except Dempsey. Williams has 15.

Louis and Primo Carnera had 14. Rocky Marciano and Max Schmeling had 11. Gene Tunney and Liston had only 7 and Cassius Clay, who will defend his title against Williams in the Astrodom Monday night, has only 1.

Williams' handlers also give him credit for:

—Breaking the back of cute Curley Lee with a blow to the midsection after Lee had outboxed him for nine rounds. Lee, knocked out in the 10th never fought again.

—Ending the career of Tommy Fields with a terrific beating April 3, 1964. Henry

Armstrong said Fields was one of the best defensive fighters he had ever seen.

—Handing Sonny Banks such a merciless beating July 21, 1964, that might have been responsible for Banks' death in his next fight. Bill Davee, who was in Williams' corner, said Williams gave Banks a murderous beating for five rounds, but did not finish him. Davee said he told Williams after the fifth to finish Banks for his (Banks) own good. Williams knocked him out in the sixth.

—Punishing Billy Daniels so much in a 10-round decision that Daniels has never been the same fighter since.

—Hitting young Jack Johnson so hard that he ruptured a blood vessel in Johnson's forehead.

Tod Herring, the last of Williams' 51 knockouts, also quit fighting after their June 28 bout, but Herring said the beating from Williams was not the reason.

Williams' fists are as big as Jim Jeffries', his chest as big as Liston's and his wrist as big as John L. Sullivan's.

But just as telling, his ankles, 11 and 1-2 inches around, are the same size as the slow-footed Primo Carnera. So, despite the punch, it may be the legs who have the final say for the 33-year-old challenger against the speedy, 24-year-old champion.

TEEN HOLIDAY DANCES PLANNED — The Center has planned something very special for the teenagers on Thanksgiving and Christmas Holidays. On Thanksgiving night the Tiaras from Amarillo will play for a dance from 8-11 p.m. The Tiaras are rated among the top bands in our area. Then on December 30 from 8-11 p.m. we will stage a real production by having Patti Seymour and the 21st Century's here for a show and dance. Patti is the girl who sang the theme song in the movie "The Silencers." She is a top draw everywhere she goes. This is the first time a female vocalist has been to Pampa so plan to be here.

Other dances will be December 27 an after-the-game dance with The Cords playing sponsored by the TruTeens Service Club; Dec. 1 an after-the-game dance with the Essex playing; Dec. 2 an after-the-game dance with the 2 Squared band playing and Nov. 18 with the Essex.

FURR'S WINS MEN'S VOLLEYBALL — The men's volleyball league came to a close Thursday night with Furr's remaining undefeated coping the title with a 9-0 record. Followed closely behind Furr's was Skelly Oilers winning the second place trophy with a 6-3 record. The men will stage a season ending Thursday night beginning at 7 p.m.

In the women's division the final showdown comes Monday night with Cock O Walk 9-0 playing La Bonita Beauty Salon 8-1 at 8:15 p.m. The only loss sustained by La Bonita was their defeat by Cock O Walk. Results this past week found Cock O Walk over Hopkins 15-0 and 15-0; La Bonita over 1st National Bank 15-1 and 15-0 while Cree's Ins. bumped Malcolm Hinkle 15-9 and 15-4.

SWIM LESSONS OFFERED — The final swim session for 1966 will unreal Monday so parents should get those children enrolled. This class will be from Nov. 14-Dec. 2. This class will not meet Nov. 24 or 15 Thanksgiving week. Classes offered are at 4 p.m. Beginners and at 5 p.m. Swimmers. Classes meet on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday and Fridays. Enrollment is free to Center members and $3 to non-members.

DOLPHINS PREPARE FOR SWIM MEET — The Center's Swim Team, the Dolphins, are preparing daily for the upcoming Invitational meet at the Maverick Clubs new swimming pool in Amarillo. The meet will be held on Nov. 26-27. The Dolphins swim weekdays from 6-7 p.m. and on Saturday from 10-12 a.m. Persons interested in competitive swimming may join the Club by coming by and enrolling. You may contact Scott George, swim coach, or George Smith, Director.

MEMBERSHIPS AVAILABLE — Parents are reminded that the Center participation is based on memberships and they are available always for the whole family. Dear Abby...

A Sympathetic Ear Provides Therapy

DEAR ABBY: My problem is people who tell me their troubles and ask for advice. Every one I know has confided some sort of mess to me — money troubles, neighbor troubles, children troubles, husband, sex, household, and every other kind of trouble, until I've had it to the teeth. These people are my friends and relatives, so I can't very well avoid them or they'd be hurt. I am glad if I can help, but it's gotten to the point where my husband comes home, takes one look at me and says, "Well, what happened now—and to whom?"

And I will sleep on the living room sofa." Abby, I have always gotten along well with his mother, but I didn't marry my husband to sleep with his mother. Besides, she has other children with more room than we have. My husband says he doesn't know how much longer he will have his mother, and as long as she is living she comes first.

I have my problems, too, but I don't burden anyone else with them. Well, I guess it's gone full-circle and now I'm telling you my troubles. What is your advice?

Then he threw the Good Book at me, quoting the commandment about honoring thy mother and father. His mother is 64 and in good health. In fact, she's in better health than I am. What is your advice?

DEAR ABBY: I told this lady that I wasn't the marrying kind on our first date, but she said she didn't have anything going for her at the moment and was only out for a good time, so I could hardly run her off.

Nothing makes me angrier than to pay good money for a sitter to care for our children, so that my husband and I may go out without them, only to find that we are pestered for a whole evening by the children of parents who are too tight to hire a sitter. Thank you.

Well, one thing led to another and now I can't get rid of her. She hangs around where I work, bringing me hot lunches every day. And when the quitting-time whistle blows, there she is out in front with her car all shined up, waiting to give me a lift home.

OFF MY CHEST How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

But she doesn't take me to her home, she takes me to hers, where she has supper all cooked and waiting. Then she lets me relax while she just plays the guitar and sings love songs in my ear. Should I weaken?

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

DEAR ABBY: After 22 years of marriage my husband has announced that he is taking in his mother to live with us. We have a three-bedroom home and four sons — two boys in each bedroom and my husband and I in the third. I asked my husband where his mother would sleep and he said, "With you."

Two tablespoons of finely chopped pimiento and 1 tablespoon of anchovy paste stirred into a cup of dairy sour cream makes a delicious dip for hot or cold artichokes.

BATTLE OF HASTINGS inspired this headgear by London milliner Simone Mirman. Golden mesh underlines a cap of coin sequins to shape the helmetlike hat.

Perk Up Laundry for Family Fun

By AILEEN SNODDY
NewsPaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)— A family project to turn a drab laundry area into an eye-pleasing, useful family room is in tune with today's demands.

Active and growing young families need all the space they can get. This is why it is essential to double up a room, making the most of wall and floor space.

Many often cancel out the day-to-day use of the laundry room because they feel uncomfortable with the units staring at them. This easily is solved. By using shuttered bi-fold doors the hard-working units are closed off and an attractive wall appears. Or, folding screens made of colored pegboard may be set up. These can be decorated with posters or hung with baseball mitts, model cars or records to add a lived-in feeling to even the smallest space left to play in.

The problem, though, is where to start when redesigning the home laundry center. Home designers for Maytag offer suggestions on how to approach the redecorating and put a minimum strain on the family budget.

GROWING FAMILY DESERVES a chance to spread out. Well-designed, colorful laundry area allows use of room space when washer-dryer are not in use.

Before any do-it-yourself carpentry is started, turn to professional help for the plumbing, electrical wiring, installation of washer-dryer and venting of the dryer if the units are to be moved or set in for the first time. An automatic dryer can be vented from an inside room but experts agree it is easier and more efficient to vent it when the laundry is located next to the outside wall.

For the laundry center, include a sink where clothes can be treated before laundering, stains removed and starching done. As part of the family room, the sink does double duty as a place to wash drink glasses or rinse out water color brushes of the Sunday painter.

As a space-saver locate the sink in a cabinet equipped with a three-section, tilt-out bin. Each section holds a washload of soiled, sorted laundry. This saves the bother of sorting before laundering.

For additional storage space attach shelves to a perforated board above the cabinet sink and appliances. These hold laundry supplies and stain removal kit out of reach of small children. The shelves also may be used to store folded clean clothes and linen until the housewife is ready to transfer them to the linen closet and dresser drawers.

If space permits, a simple shelf system can hold the television and possibly a phonograph. To co-ordinate the room, pick up a color from the floor tile, for example and repeat it on the cabinet and doors.

Granny Coed Makes The Egghead Grade

By MIKE GREMAUD
United Press International
ST. LOUIS, Mo.— Mrs. Ida McHaney is a 57-year-old granny coed who's glad she didn't go to college when she was younger.

"You know," she says, "a lot of middle-aged people tend to forget just how wild they were in their younger days."

"It's better that I went to college when I did rather than going right after high school. Then, I had too many distractions and was interested in only having a good time."

She may have a point. Mrs. McHaney, mother of three and grandmother of one, is being graduated magna cum laude from Fontbonne College, a Roman Catholic school.

Mrs. McHaney, widow of an insurance executive, is also president of a sorority chapter, Phi Sigma Mu, and a member of three other national honor societies. During her four years as a member of the class of '66, she has compiled a grade average of 2.7 out of a possible 3.0.

"Times haven't changed, just memories," Mrs. McHaney said. "Life is a little different on the campus, though, for a coed who has LIVED."

"The girls ask me things like 'do I think a woman should work after having children?' and 'what do I think about birth control?' and 'I'm interested in English, so what field should I go into?'" she said.

"Of course, right now birth control — its pro's and con's — is on everybody's mind. But I tell them that until the Church says that it is all right, I'm going to stick with the Church," Mrs. McHaney said.

Sometimes school becomes a bit hard for Mrs. McHaney. There is always house cleaning and then there are times when she wants to get out for an evening with her own age friends "but there's a paper that has to be written or some research to do," she said.

With a degree in behavioral sciences, Mrs. McHaney plans to work for the state of Missouri in the personnel department of the employment agency.

"When I first started the hardest thing was to be at a certain place at a pre-designated time," she said.

"That's hard for a person with years of independence to do. Mrs. McHaney said she seldom gets a chance to socialize with her classmates.

"I go to sorority teas and dinners and things like that. Last night one of the sororities had a little party and I went to that," she said.

She feels that more and more older people are going to find time for a college education.

"I think that it's better to wait, because like me, I have a vast realm of experience to draw upon, when trying to relate or apply a theory or principle," she said.

RUTH MILLETT

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 When they are trying to decide whether or not to get a job or to be a full-time homemaker, many young wives today think they have only two choices.

They can stay at home and the family can have less than the families living on two pay checks, or they can go to work and help to provide more money for the family at the expense of family living.

Actually they have a third choice, though it is somewhat out of fashion and most young wives today don't even consider it.

They can stay at home and be full-time homemakers in the sense that women were several generations ago, working hard to make the home a producing unit.

Even today a full-time homemaker who is willing to work hard, without demanding every labor-saving device on the market, can raise her family's living standards without ever bringing in a pay check.

If she learns to sew well, she can dress herself and her children for a fraction of what a working wife spends on clothes for the family.

If she takes the trouble to learn how to buy as economically as possible, she, as the family's purchasing agent, can save enough money in small amounts to really amount to something in the course of a year.

If she is willing to spend more time in the kitchen than most young wives are willing to do, she can feed her family better for much less than the working wife who goes in for more expensive, convenience foods and whose family eats out — much more often.

If she learns such skills as refinishing furniture, making curtain and slip covers, and decorating her home with things she has created, she can keep her home looking attractive for much less than the woman whose job doesn't leave her the time or energy for such projects.

But few young wives today with husbands whose incomes are limited choose this way of contributing to the family's income.

It's not the accepted way today for a wife to help her husband. And it takes more talent and ingenuity and plain hard work than most of the jobs wives who work outside the home hold down.

But it is still a possible choice for a wife and often the best choice so far as husband and children are concerned.

United Church Women Observe Community Day

World Community Day was observed by the Pampa Council of United Church Women on Nov. 4 in First Presbyterian Church.

Forty-five persons from different denominations attended the event which was preceded by a coffee and fellowship hour.

"Loyal, Rights, Resources and Responsibilities" was the devotional theme presented by Rev. Donald S. Hauck, emphasizing the task of laymen in the ecumenical movement. Special music was given by Mrs. George Budd and Mrs. Fidelity Yoder. Others participating on the program included Mmes. R. A. Newton, Warren J. Beale, Charity Ann O'Neal, Wayne Jones, R. J. Tritton and Malcolm McClelland. Rev. Monroe Wood gave the benediction.

A brief business session followed the program at which appreciation was expressed for projects completed to aid women overseas.

Mix cream cheese with black bean soup (straight from the can) and a pinch of onion powder as a spread for crackers.

Pampan Honored By Nurses Assn.

As nurses in District 23, Texas Nurses Association, observing the week of Nov. 6-12, a Pampa nurse was named the honoree for this celebration.

Mrs. Maude Voyles, charter member of the district, was presented an inscribed gold charm. This charm represents a small token of appreciation to Mrs. Voyles for dedicated service as a nurse. Mrs. Voyles has been engaged in private duty nursing for many years in Pampa, and to her many friends is known as "Brownie."

Mrs. W. D. Owen of Borger, president of the District, made the presentation.

CLE and Mrs. C. G. Miller presenting the prayer calendar. Mrs. Wayne Cobb opened the meeting with prayer. The circle welcomed Mrs. J. B. Fife as a new member. Mrs. Cobb led in the program with Mmes. Norman Burgess, Edgar, W. G. Gooding and Miller taking parts. Mrs. Davis closed the meeting with prayer. Nine members were present.

Amarillo Travel Consultant Is Speaker At Twentieth Century Guest Day Tea

TC GUEST DAY TEA — Mrs. Ruth McNeil, right, Amarillo travel consultant, was guest speaker at Twentieth Century Club's Guest Day Tea Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Lorene Locke, left, vice president of the club and program chairman, is serving the guest speaker, while Mrs. Bob Andis, center, club president, looks on.

Mrs. Ruth McNeil of Amarillo, manager of the World Wide Travel Department of the Panhandle Plains Auto Club which has been affiliated with the American Automobile Association for the past five years, was the guest speaker at Twentieth Century Club's 38th Annual Guest Day Tea Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Bob Andis, club president, welcomed the guests who were introduced by each member in answer to roll call at the event held in Lovett Memorial Library.

Mrs. Lorene Locke, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker.

Mrs. McNeil has traveled extensively in Europe, the Orient, and Hawaii. She has conducted a number of tours, the latest of which was a tour of Scandinavia. She has participated as a panelist at several World Wide Travel Seminars, and has been guest speaker at many social and civic club affairs.

Mrs. McNeil's personal commentary, demonstrated with colored slides, presented a most interesting and descriptive "Travelogue of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark."

Mrs. Locke served the guests from the tea table which was decorated with a large bouquet of spider chrysanthemums. Mrs. Jack Foster presided at the guest registry.

Mrs. Sam Bell of Amarillo accompanied Mrs. McNeil to Pampa for the afternoon.

Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Paul Harbaugh, V. J. Jamieson, Bill Roots and Robert Lyle.

Guests attending were Mes. Albert Knox of Perryton, Sam Bell, Jerry Bond, Guy Andis, Charlie Thut, Fred Thompson, J. B. Massa, Helen Chenoweth, Morris Wilson, Earl Clayton, David Tucker, Raymond Stanford, B. Baldrige, E. C. Sidwell, Clarence Lutes, Lynn Boyd, A. Dunn, L. B. Penick, Coyle Ford, H. H. Boynton, J. E. MISS DEB

... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q. Sometimes I think I have the longest nose in the world! Next to mine, I bet Pinocchio's nose would look short. Is there anything I can do to make it look smaller?

A. Create an illusion! Let your hair and make-up help be-your regular shade. Wear your hair away from your face. Try large fluffy curls to draw attention away from your nose. Experiment with different styles to find the one that's best for you. And to complete the happy illusion — smile!

Q. My sweaters get crushed in the drawer when I fold them. But they stretch when I hang them on hangers and there's no room in the drawer to lay them flat. How do you keep sweaters smooth?

A. To keep those bulkies fluffy as cotton candy instead of flat as wrinkled pancakes, try this! Stuff the sleeves with loosely crumpled paper towels before you fold them. Stuff more towels in the folds to guard against wrinkles in the body of the sweater. If drawer space is really a problem, put your sweaters in plastic bags or boxes and keep them on a closet shelf. Just a little between wearings care will keep your sweaters perky and fluffy!

Q. My hair is so dull. It's absolutely lifeless! I try all kinds of things to take care of it, but nothing works. What should I do?

A. Brush it! Then brush it some more! Bend from the waist and brush your hair forward. One hundred strokes by don't take very long. Shampoo it at least once a week — oftener if your hair is a bit oily. Massage shampoo into your hair and scalp with your fingertips. It feels great! Rinse, shampoo, rinse a second time, and pat with a fluffy towel to remove excess moisture before you comb and set it. Plenty of rest and a balanced diet will also help keep your locks shining.

From South of the Border Color, Si-Drabness No

THIS WILDLY PRINTED MEXICAN-INFLUENCED SHIRT is a good preview of the men's fashion picture for spring. Shirt is by Puriton and will sell for $6. Bikini belongs to the girl. Photo was taken on the rocks near Acapulco's El Presidente Hotel.

By BOB COCHINAR, Newspaper Enterprise Assn. ACAPULCO, Mexico — (NA) — The last time Americans really got excited about Mexico was when Black Jack Pershing crossed the border in 1918 to chase Pancho Villa. Well, the border has been crossed again, this time by menswear manufacturers who have decided that the word for spring is Mexico.

Although the cynical observer might suspect that a group of fashion bigwigs arbitrarily decide what they'll push on consumers each season, the chosen industry-wide Mexican motif does make sense.

Manufacturers have finally realized that men, as well as women, are interested in bright colors for sports and casual wear. And what's one of the most colorful countries in the world? Mexico, match. Says T. Thomas Gurtner, fashion director of the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear:

"Mexico is a pretty logical fashion theme. Bright colors are due and Mexico, particularly Acapulco, is where the social action is. Spring will bloom brighter than ever before."

Some of the colors that have been adopted by various manufacturers may seem a bit much but their names are at least imaginative. From Van Heusen there's chile, salt, nutmeg, curry, vanilla, oregano and "racy interpretations" of rust, blue, orange, mustard, beige and green.

DuPont's customers will be using hot tamale red, guacacmore green, fiesta yellow, tropical orange, lemon and lime, Mexicali rose, tequila clear, kahlua brown, tacos yellow and iguana gray — are bound to pop up somewhere.

And watch for wild primitive prints based on old Aztec and peasant designs. Swimwear, shirts, slacks and sweaters will be created from such material. One of the more interesting novelties is a brightly striped sweater based on the peasant poncho.

"This isn't to say," adds Gurtner, "that everybody will be walking around decked out like a Mexican peasant. But the

La Cultura Club Program Presented By John Ellis on 'Family Insurance'

Mrs. William Nichol was hostess to an open meeting of La Cultura Club in her home, 2237 Chestnut, Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Richard L. Bray, club advisor from El Progreso Club, Mrs. Weldon Knight and Mrs. Robert Setzler were guests at the meeting.

Following a group reading of the Federated Club Collect, Mrs. Arnold Wesely, president, presided at the business meeting. It was decided by the group south-of-the-border influence will certainly be present next spring."

Ren Butler, True magazine's fashion editor, who plans a big Mexican fashion spread in an upcoming issue, organized a photographic expedition to Acapulco recently and came back with a good indication of the Mexican look.

"I have a hunch that men will take to this look style in almost the same way they took to mod," says Butler. "But there's no middle ground here. Men will take it or leave it."

The Van Heusen people are pushing a co-ordinated look from top to toe. So the monochromatic-oriented male, can get his slacks, sweaters and shirts in, say, oregano. "Or," says Linda de Reffer, Van Heusen's PR gal, "for the male who contends variety is the spice of life, any of the shades in the 'Mexican Spice' collection wear will together."

Thanks to the big promotional push recently undertaken by the Mexican government, many Americans probably will take to the south to see what all the ballyhoo is about. They won't be disappointed.

The smart men's boutiques are, admittedly, a bit expensive but sandals, straw hats, silver jewelry, real serapes (which make neat rugs and wall hangings) and wood carvings are available at bargain prices.

So, this spring think Mexican. And remember, you saw it here first.

to send individual, personal gifts to the patients at the state hospital at Wichita Falls as a Christmas project.

The meeting was then turned over to John Ellis, local representative for Sentry Insurance. "Insurance is a privilege not a right," stated Mr. Ellis as he began his discussion of homeowner's insurance. As he explained the various features of the standard homeowner's insurance policy, he answered the many questions of the club members.

State control of the insurance industry and the effects that dividends paid by insurance companies have on the cost of insurance to the individual homeowner were also discussed by the Sentry agent.

"Don't take your coverages for granted. Review your coverages at least annually and pay strict attention to keeping your liability limits high to protect against the ever mounting judgments being rendered in today's courts," stated Mr. Ellis as he concluded his most informative program.

Members attending the meeting were Mmes. William Chafin, John Ellis, Paul Hartin, Jimmy Hayes, Coy Don Mitchell, William Nichols, Arnold Wesely and Freddy Cooper.

A Speedy Interest Keeps Her Moving

ORINDA, Calif. (UPI)—Pretty Judy Kondratieff is a whiz at baking pecan pies and driving her sports car in competition.

And she knows the ingredients and recipe of racing as well as pecan pies.

"I can take an engine down, put in brakes and change the differential," says the 27-year-old mother of two.

"But it takes me two or three days to get the grease off my hands."

Mrs. Kondratieff and her husband, Serguey, an advertising executive, own and race sports cars, snow and water ski and bring up their daughter,

Erin, and son, Eric.

Mrs. Kondratieff used to be an excited spectator until her husband urged her to try racing.

"I'm scared only when I'm not racing and think of the things that could happen," she said. "But on the track it is exhilarating and you think only of catching the person in front of you."

She is qualified to drive her red, orange and gold-flecked Sprite car in any Sports Car Club of America competition.

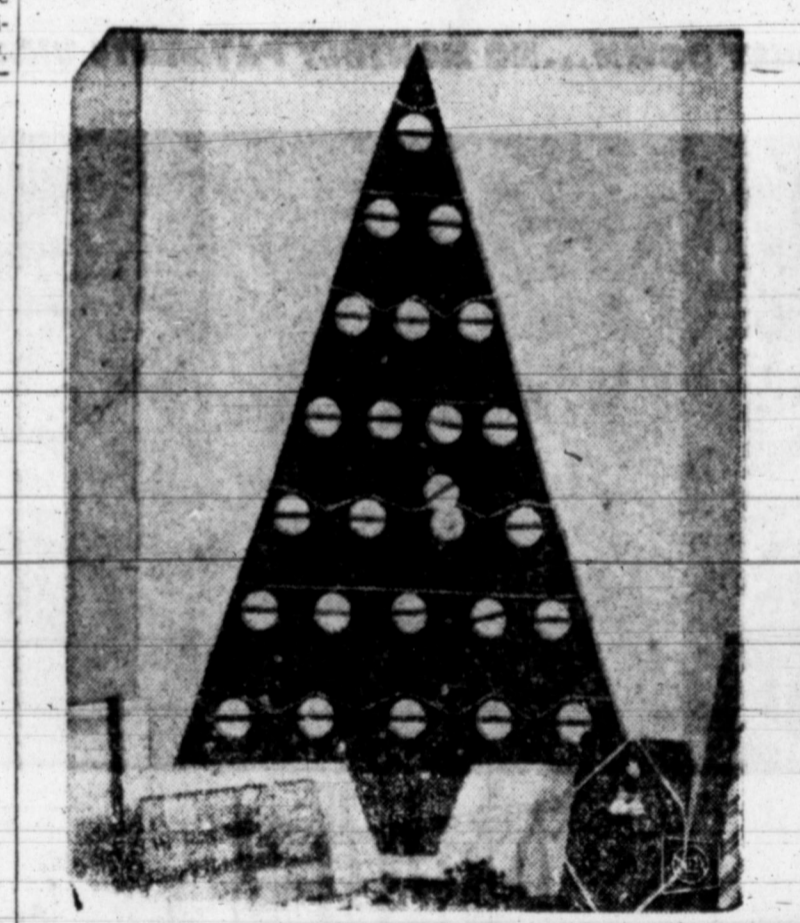

Her husband drives a Formula Junior which Mrs. Kondratieff describes as "an open wheeler that looks like a big cigar."

The Kondratieffs usually race once a month and spend much of their time taking the car engines apart in the garage of their home in Orinda, about 14 miles east of San Francisco.

Mrs. Kondratieff has had only one accident, a minor one in a Las Vegas race. She suffered only bruises.

"I got out and kicked the car," she recalled.

A Calender Tree for Advent

HERE'S A NEW APPROACH to Christmas decorations—a decorative wall-hanging with ornaments that move to reveal Christmas pictures cut from Christmas cards. It's a life-size Advent Calendar, easy to sew and a wonderful gift for any house with youngsters.

By JOANNE SCHREIBER, Newspaper Enterprise Assn. The Advent Calendar for many children is a part of the Christmas season as beloved as the stocking on the mantle. The 24 tiny peep-holes, opened one by one each morning from the first of December to Christmas Eve, help youngsters count the days to Christmas. The calendar itself contributes to the wonderful expectancy of the season.

Here's a suggestion for a permanent Advent Calendar. Make it of felt, to be hung as a year-after-year family tradition, with ornaments that move aside to reveal pictures cut from last-year's Christmas cards. Move one ornament a day, till the most beautiful picture of all is revealed at the top of the tree.

To make the calendar tree, you'll need one yard each of white and green felt (72 inches wide) and 1/4-yard red felt. For trimming, you'll need 3 yards each of Emerald Green, Almond Green and Atom Red rickrack, plus 7 1/2 yards of gold metallic rickrack. Add 5 yards of red soutache braid, red and green thread, 24 large snaps red circle. Glue in place (if you want to sew red circles in place, this should be done before the tree is stitched to the background piece.) Cut out 24 Christmas scenes to fit in red circles. Tape in place.

To make white ornaments, trim white circles with interlocking strips of rickrack in red and green. Cut 24 pieces of red soutache braid 3 inches long, overlap to form loop and stitch a loop on the back of each white circle. Stitch snaps in place over soutache loops. Snap white circles in place over red circles. White ornaments will move to reveal picture.

Complete trim with swags of gold rickrack threaded through soutache loops and pinned at sides.

The Advent Tree Calendar is an ideal project for groups such as Sunday School classes, Girl Scouts or clubs and could be a star attraction at a Christmas bazaar.

When the Christmas season is over, remove the paper pictures and roll the hanging for storage. Put the year's harvest of Christmas cards with it, and select your Christmas scenes to hide under the ornaments for next year.

The Mature Parent

Agreement Mistakenly Linked With Love

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Should a husband side with a child against his wife? My husband thinks it's all right for our 15-year-old girl to take a neighbor's little girl to the park every morning instead of staying at home and doing her own chores. I think it's wrong as charity begins at home. If my husband were not siding with her about keeping this job, she would be at home mornings minding her own business. She has laundry and cleaning to do.

ANSWER: Why should husbands have to side with wives if they don't agree with the wives? What a question to ask! You're doing this child's chores for her, aren't you? Why? Nobody asked you to. You have told yourself you're obliged to take on her chores for her and saddle yourself with extra work. Why don't you stop doing them?

Know what? I bet you can't stop doing them. I say this because the kind of person who must overservice other people is also the kind of person who must control them. We must have our husband's, our child's agreement with our view of her job at any cost.

Of course, we can't frankly say such a thing. The command for control of their opinions would be too starkly exposed in such a statement for us to be able to face. So what we have to do is to try to justify our right to their agreement by overworking ourselves. We take on the child's chores and saddle ourselves with this extra work in order to reproach her and her father for their presumption in disagreeing with us.

I wish you could stop doing this youngster's laundry and cleaning for her. Because the longer you do it, the madder you're going to get at your self-imposed obligation to do it. And the madder you get at this extra work, the less likely you are to know what you're really mad at — their refusal to allow you to control their opinions.

I'm not scolding. If we're a person who must have other people's agreement with us, we can't help it. Agreement and love were made the same thing for us by our parents. We learned only too early that agreement with them produced warmth, approval — and what they told us was "love". So we now have to see any denial of agreement with us as denial of love. And as this denial both frightens and hurts us, we desperately need that agreement that represents the restoration of love.

The trouble is, agreement is not love. People can love us very much and still disagree with us.

Birthday Event

Honors W. V. Hix

W. V. Hix of Lefors was honored last Sunday afternoon, commemorating his 80th birthday anniversary.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings were served at the fair held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harnly, east of the city.

Those attending to help mark the occasion included Mrs. W. Hix, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harnly, Mrs. Chestine Dunn and family, Ralph Hix and family, Mrs. J. M. McPherson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Walker, Sonny Dunn, Jim Maughan and Mrs. Faye McCurley.

Miss Johnson is also credited with making the undershirt chic. Her "Betsey Basic" is a clingy, high-seamed jersey dress buttoned at the bodice like a pair of long Johns and breaking away into a flared mini skirt. Her latest plan calls for clothes that zip apart into sections.

"You have a left arm and a right arm," said this tiny dynamo. "Who says they have to match?"

Miss J doesn't believe in concentrating on accessories, either. "Since my clothes can be mixed and matched, what's the point?" she asked. "Besides, I don't see why women should set up competition with themselves."

I never thought of a nice matching pair of shoes as competition myself. But then my apartment door is sans tin cans, too. This world, it seems, is divided into the stuffies and the free spirits.

England's Julie Christie is credited with putting Connecticut-born Betsey Johnson on the designing map. When the star of Darling refused to be photographed in anything other than her Betsey dress, a high-cut skimmer with white wing collar, even the elegants took notice.

But Betsey's quick rise to fame among the young boutique crowd can't be attributed sim-

Learn How to Use Laundry Equipment

The continued use of the coin-operated laundry reflects a growing pattern in homemaking in the United States. It also has uncovered the startling fact that the majority of junior and senior high school girls know little if nothing about operating home laundry equipment.

Frank Spangler, who has three daughters, says this discovery made him stop and think. An executive with Westinghouse and especially involved in the development of coin-operated laundry and drycleaning equipment, Spangler admitted he was upset to learn how little parents teach today's children about handling today's automatic washers.

One reason for his concern is that a growing number of coin-op clients are youngsters and newlyweds who use money they saved by not buying laundry equipment for boats, color TV or stereo.

Another is that a high school and laundry additives. "Many women don't know their washing," he says. "They come into the stores with a basket looking like an apothecary shop and put something of everything in the machine. Often these work against each other. Few women know how to use chlorine bleach properly. They put them in too soon."

Coin-operated laundries also offer special dry-cleaning and pressing equipment. This has proved economical for customers. Cook any thawed fruit left over. Cooking helps the fruit to retain color and prevents spoiling.

Now It's Mini Pants for Spring Wear

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — It was bound to happen. First, it was the mini skirt which swept the fashion world. Now, look for mini pants.

Several ready-to-wear manufacturers featured the abbreviated trousers in their spring collections, opened last week for the nation's store buyers. Shows for the buyers will continue through the next two weeks.

The once conservative coat firm of Originala, now branched out into suits and dresses, featured two types of mini pants. One tailored version showed narrow legged trousers under hip length jackets. Example: A "shorts suit" as the firm called it, in white wool with the pants chopped off at Bermuda shorts length and with brass buttons for jacket and trimming the pants legs.

Originala also showed culotte suits, with wider legs, but still cropped Bermuda lengths. Other firms including versions of mini pants were Matty Talmack, Robert Sloan and Oscar de La Renta.

It took Jacques Tiffeau to take the trousers kick one step further. This youthful French-born designer, part owner of Tiffeau & Busch, showed brightly colored jersey dresses with short, box-pleated skirts that swung wide to reveal lace drawers yep, beneath. Tiffeau mounted the lacy jobs on separate waistbands but insisted they be sold with the tunic-like dresses as a package deal. Example: An orange jersey top day. A woman's skill in skating and skiing was limited by ankle-length skirts and fitted jackets. Gradually the trend was reversed and sports began to influence fashion. Knicker and riding breeches with matching jackets became respectable fashions for skiing in the early 1900s, and the ski costume later came into its own with long, full slacks and jackets. In the mid-1950s ski slacks were streamlined for action, and color brightened the winter sports scene in richly patterned, bulky-knit sweaters.

Mrs. Lane Describes Wisconsin Chapel For TC Forum Study Club Members

Mrs. McHenry Lane discussed a replica of a 15th Century Norwegian chapel located in Door County, Wisconsin, that she had visited to Twentieth Century Forum Study Club members at a recent meeting.

"Mrs. Harold Barrett" was hostess to the group Tuesday afternoon in the Barrett home.

The chapel described is built on the estate of Mrs. Winfred C. Boynton who saw a small, weathered chapel on a trip to Norway of which she took a picture. Returning home, Mrs. Boynton and her husband built the chapel in 1939 of fieldstone and timber found on the estate, conceiving the chapel as a place of peace, set in a majestic forest.

After the chapel was built the Boyntons, then in their fifties, carved the crafts necessary to decorate the chapel in authentic 15th Century Norwegian style for the next nine years. Measuring 30 feet long and 22 feet wide with a capacity to seat 52 people, the chapel is decorated with wood carvings and paintings in every possible space. Outside, there are 32 dragon heads terminating the supporting beams. Inside, there are 41 murals, each depicting a different facet of the chapel's theme of peace. The altar, pulpit, pews, baptismal font and archways are carved with intricate wood carvings.

"At times the work on the chapel went slow," Ms. Lane stated. "Much research, study, travel, and finally trial and error was necessary to complete the work, but the Boyntons' desire to create something beautiful led them through the obstacles. The result is a lovely place of worship that gives the visitor the sense of peace Mrs. Boynton was striving for," the speaker concluded.

Members present included Mrs. Mmes. Holt Barber, Harold Barrett, Hugh Barton, Joe Franklin, Robert Harrison, Donald Hauck, J. R. Holoway, Homer Johnson, McHenry Lane M. McDaniel, Aubrey Steele, Frank Stolfa, John Stoeney and Aruhur Teed.

Deft Needle's Quilt Has a Lot of Faces
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Clara Schmitt's quilt has a lot of faces.

Miss Schmitt, a seamstress at St. Mary's Hospital made a quilt with portraits of almost 50 major league baseball players sewn into it.

The quilt is seven-by-seven feet, and each player portrait is about eight by 10-inches with the player's autograph embroidered. Miss Schmitt found former St. Louis Cardinal player Marty Marion's name the toughest to embroider. The reason, Marion uses "loops-and-whorls" in his penmanship.

Another tough one was Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst, who she said "writes all that name in such a little space."

Physician Advises Expectant Fathers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — She's going to have the baby but you, Mister, are about to become the father.

And to prepare husbands for the big event, especially first-timers, the California Medical Association offered these suggestions:

— Accompany your wife on her first visit to the doctor's office and get instructions and explanations first hand. Know what to expect in matters such as weight gain, diet, hygiene, travel, exercise.

— Be a little more considerate while your wife is pregnant. Take her to dinner more often, for a walk in the fresh air and don't belittle symptoms such as morning sickness.

— Help a bit in the final months with housework, back-rubs and encouragement.

Then the big day arrives. Many doctors suggest the new father bring a transistor radio, books, puzzles or office work. Other suggest the husband go home or back to the job.

Good Manners for Small Fry

THREE TYKES find etiquette is fun. They make thank you notes and gifts, special presents for friends and relatives with stencils, ribbon and crayons.

By AILEEN SNOODY

NEW YORK (NEA) — Simple etiquette, taught as part of the child's play, makes his life easier later.

Youngsters take naturally to projects that are short and purposeful. Begin their etiquette training with do-it-yourself thank-you notes to relatives and neighbors.

Crayons, colored paper paste, water colors, scissors and other inexpensive aids that most children normally have are a start. The next step is encouragement to cut out pictures of roller skates, bikes, trains and others without spending lots of money is June Behling, who develops projects for the small fry as part of her job as art director of Whitman Publishing Co. of Racine, Wis.

She suggests mother start the lesson by writing on sketch paper, "Billy loved the truck," and have Billy draw a free-wheeling picture of the gift from an aunt and uncle. Little girls often enjoy pasting fabric or colored paper for a doll's dress, hair of yarn and a face and arms and legs to decorate their notes.

Children also can be encouraged to cut out pictures of "Luv for the book," was important to the women.

such from magazines to convey their messages, even though they may not be able to sign their own names.

An older child soon learns to send bread-and-butter notes such as a thank-you for an overnight stay with a school chum. For a thanks to relatives for a special holiday dinner or short stay, a youngster may want to draw a favorite scene and sign it with a special message.

One little girl, for example, drew a picture of a woman who brought her a coloring book and took her to dinner. Her simple "Luv for the book," was important to the women.

This just doesn't happen anymore at our house

Allowance Day Used To Be Everyday

Frankly, I was worried because Junior had no appreciation for the value of money. He thought it grew on trees. He always came to me for "just a little extra". One day it was for school activities. The next day it was a movie. And so it went.

This constant doling out was giving him wrong ideas. And, it was also denying him the thrill of earning his own money—and buying things on his own.

That's why I encouraged him to get a newspaper route. That's about the only job left these days that gives a boy well-rounded experience in operating a business—buying at wholesale, selling at retail, making collections and building up profits by good sales and service.

Now Junior's A Newspaperboy...

What a change! He now appreciates the value of money because he works for it.

He doesn't spend his own money foolishly. Before he buys anything now, he takes time to think about the cost. (And the allowance which he used to spend so freely is going into his College Fund.)

Junior is also learning how to meet and get along with all kinds of people and how to put into practice what he's learning at school.

I've got a son to be proud of. A son who already has experience in free enterprise and the American Way of Life. I'm confident that he'll be ready to meet the everyday challenges of his first full-time job.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least count I had read 5,280 statements interpreting the results of last week's election. Who will make it 5,281? Why none other than Jim Atkins, a local gag writer who registered with Congress as a humor lobbyist.

Atkins has just issued a statement analyzing the returns from the standpoint of how they will effect the nation's comedians. The way he sees it, the election was pretty funny.

"I predict that as a result of the election there will be a lot of new material for comedy chuckling to himself over the writers," Atkins declared, chuckling to himself over the droitness of it all.

"Many of the winning candidates, while not necessarily jokes themselves, have created situations that are ready-made for injecting a bit of levity into politics."

Cites Wallace Victory
 Atkins cited the victory of Mrs. Lurleen Wallace as an example of the rich potential for witticisms.

"It's another first for George Wallace," he cackled. "When Mrs. Wallace is inaugurated next year, George Wallace will become the first man in history to kiss a governor of Alabama in public."

After I had picked myself up off the floor and wiped the tears from my eyes, I begged Atkins to point out other sources of mirth.

"The election of the Rockefeller brothers as governors of Arkansas and New York should provide a spate of jocularity," he said. "Brother acts have always captured the people's imagination."

"In fact there will be a lot of material for family jokes. The Kennedy brothers will still be in the Senate, and Senator Dirksen's son-in-law has been elected senator in Tennessee. These family jokes are always good."

Ragan Setting Trend
 The humor lobbyist saw the election of Ronald Reagan, following the victory of George Murphy, as a definite trend that may lead to politicians going into show business when defeated.

He said the election also showed:

- President Johnson has not provided adequate leadership in the field of humor. He should have the National Bureau of Standards test jokes.
- Politicians who campaign on television run the risk of having the voters cancel their show.
- Election coverage can be very funny, particularly when the computers are electing the wrong men.

New Books on Shelves At Public Library

"The Bird Watcher" — Joe Morris: violence and intrigue at the international level in this novel about men who are consumed by the passion to be first in space.

"Open The Door" — Hildgarde Dolson; set in Greenwich Village, this novel tells the story of a young woman, who, when life and love come knocking at her door, is able to meet them halfway, and two precocious children are her lively allies.

"Johnny Lost" Philip Jones; a three-year-old boy wanders away from home and is lost in the mountains at the same time a half-crazed psychopath—a murderer—seeks an escape route in the same vicinity.

"The Time of The Angels" — Iris Murdoch; concerns a macabre assortment of people, trapped in a fo'bound rectory where an egomaniac theologian struggles for possession of their disordered souls.

"When Eight Bells Toll" — Alistair MacLean; in this action-filled yarn, Peter Calvert of the British Secret Service makes his debut against a gang of ship hijackers off the Western Scots Highlands.

"Margie" — E. V. Cunningham; the author's newest girl is 23 (blue eyes, dark hair, a model, a perfect size 6) and a charmingly whacky innocent who attracts trouble like a magnet.

"In God We Trust, All Others Pay Cash" — Jean Shepherd; a story about a guy named Ralph who goes back to the Indiana steel mill town of his childhood, runs into an old hum, and remembers Growing Up...

"A Mortal Flower" — Han Suyin; this fascinating autobiography, gives a valuable view of the way in which China at last freed herself from the influence of old confusions and humiliations.

TALENTS MULTIPLY
CHAR, England (UPI) — In a reversal of the usual custom, the Rev. Eric Cook gave each of his 260 parishioners half crown pieces a month ago. He told the congregation to use the money to raise funds for the church.

A half crown is worth 35 cents so the total investment was $126.

When the members of the congregation returned Monday, they reported they had raised $910.

Some pooled their half crowns and bought chances on raffles. One man bought handkerchiefs and then sold them for a profit.

But the parishioners who topped them all sold chances on how much money Cook would get back.

In 1806 Zetlon Pike sighted the mountain which later became known as Pike's Peak.

SUNDAY MORNING GRIST

From the Editorial Mill

ELECTION postmortems always are distasteful. So, there will be no lengthy discussion here today on the topic of "What Happened to the County Judge?" . . . Or, "Who Put the Plague on Craig?" . . . Let's just end the inquest by saying it is difficult to go along with the judge's own evaluation, gained from his post-election public statement, that he was caught up in the sweep of Republicans into office. . . . After all, the other Gray county Democratic nominees were elected. . . . The thing that happened to the county judge could go back a little farther than Tuesday's GOP trend. . . . Maybe a year or so farther back. . . . One more dissent with the judge's public statement. . . . We still believe there is a dirtier game than politics, etc., etc.

THERE IS talk that one of the things the new county judge should put on his agenda for consideration is reactivation of that dormant justice of the peace office in Pampa. . . . They say there is enough business for two JPs here and that it would lighten the burdensome load now carried by the single JP office. . . . Under the new law on criminal procedure in Texas the current JP is on call 24 hours a day. . . . And that can get a little rough. . . . Rejuvenation of the second JP office in Pampa, proponents say, would add to the efficiency of administering justice and handling the many duties that come within JP jurisdiction. . . . At least the proposal, said to be frowned on by the present county administration, should be considered for what it is worth.

PAMPA attorney A. J. Carubbi Jr., now with the attorney general's office in Austin, was due back in town today for a visit with his parents. . . . Wonder what thoughts run through his mind as he looks in retrospect on that nip and tuck battle he went through last summer for the Democratic nomination for Gray county judge, only to be nosed out by a few votes. . . . On second thought, perhaps he has no concern at all about it and would rather forget the whole thing. . . . Reports from Austin have indicated Carubbi's pleasure over the appointment he received there as an assistant attorney general. . . . One suspects Carubbi got one of his biggest breaks when he was counted out of the ballot struggle here. . . . Sometimes you can be that lucky.

THE CITY Hall cat wants to know why we didn't report that the scheduled appearance of a union representative at last Tuesday's city commission meeting failed to materialize. . . . Well, Tuesday was a busy day—with the election and everything—so, newswise, there was no use wasting space on negative stuff. . . . Under questioning, the cat revealed one probable reason why the union representative failed to show Tuesday as originally planned. . . . (The Teamsters union has been working among City Hall workers—especially the street, parks and water departments—to get them on the dues-paying line for bargaining with city officials). . . . The cat says a meeting of around 61 city employees and the union representative a week ago Friday night didn't pan out as well as expected by the union (dues paying and all that, you know) and this could have had some effect on the failure of the union's attorney to show up Tuesday. . . . When the city workers mull over what happened to union efforts last Wednesday in the Cabot Shops election their hesitation to feed the union kitty may become even greater. . . . The union lost out in its third attempt in six years to represent Cabot Machinery Division employees at the bargaining table. . . . Just why city workers would want to shell out dues to the union every month is a mystery. . . . Even if they elected to have the union represent them, nothing could happen. . . . Texas law prohibits city officials from bargaining with unions.

THE GUEST PEN:

Poverty Problem Solution?

By D. R. SEGAL
Brownsville (Texas) Herald
It seems to me we're going after this anti-poverty thing with the wrong weapon. As they say in Texas, it's like huntin' bear with a switch.

The Great Society dialectic, as I understand it, holds that education and affluence are being offered free for the asking, through such things as Head Start, the Neighborhood Youth Program, federal aid to just about everything and even Medicare. All you have to do is sit down for a few minutes, during the commercials, and figure out which Great Society program fits your convenience and put in your application. You do not even have to be present to win.

This is known as an incentive program—offering folks something in return for their time and attention. Well, it does appear that the thing is colossal-ly fouled-up at the moment with some programs going begging and others just sort of petering out for lack of any clear reason for being in existence. Now, this is not going to cure poverty at all. No sir.

There is only one way to make any appreciable headway against poverty and that is to make it illegal. Might be a Constitutional Amendment—saying that it is against public policy to be poor—would be the proper starting point. Once it's clearly established that poverty is a criminal activity, constituting a clear and present danger and giving aid and comfort to the enemy, we could erect a vast network of statutes and laws implementing the principle.

None of this stuff about incentives. Just tell 'em that it's their problem how they're going to get rich—all the government cares about is that they don't get caught poor. You might have a statute for habitual poor folks. Three-time losers would get life. We could have a House Anti-Poverty Committee to ferret out professional paupers who artfully pose as rich folks, subverting the affluent majority. Maybe in Georgia they would like to spy everyone with total assets in the low two-figure bracket. There are lots of ways to get rid of poverty if we face it realistically and get cracking.

It was my intention to send this idea along to a fellow Texan, presently living in Washington, but he seemed so busy with Charlie DeGaulle and Asian trips and keeping Hubert on the move and out of harm's way it didn't seem fair to burden him with it.

Besides, he's always wanting us to sit down and reason together, and if there's one thing that won't cure poverty, it's reason. For that kind of job what you need is sheer force and awkwardness.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

One of the things we never think about in connection with the Vietnam war is the military consumption of petroleum products. Storage and movement of the 42 million gallons needed every month is a major problem. The armed services use collapsible synthetic rubber storage tanks in sizes from 500 to 50,000 gallons. When emptied, the tanks are folded and returned for refills. The famed First Cavalry Division shows how increased mechanization requires petroleum, with its 425 helicopters and other equipment using three times as much gasoline as it took to keep a typical division moving in World War II or Korea.

Today's smile: A college student had been saving his pennies to take his best girl to the big football game of the season. It rained that day and at the half his date said: "Maybe you think this is a foolish question, but why don't we leave and go home?"

Although composers have been writing music for centuries, none used the piano as a workbench before 1709. That year an Italian named Cristofori, a Florentine maker of harpsichords, was credited with inventing the stringed instrument. However, a German named Schroeter, also claimed to have invented the piano about the same time. Today it is the outstanding solo instrument and the workbench for all composers, including the Tin Pan Alley kind.

Thoughts while shaving: Louis XV of France must have been a cold one. When his mistress, Mme. Pompadour, died, he couldn't find the time to attend her funeral, but watched the procession as it passed Versailles on a cold, rainy day and remarked: "She will have a very disagreeable day for her journey. . . . Encountering a graduate student at McGill University during a recent trip to Quebec, we discovered she was having difficulty in selecting a subject for her Ph.D. thesis. We suggested she study the life and time (both good and bad) of Oliver Goldsmith because he is the only triple-threat man in English literature. He scored in poetry with "The Deserted Village," in pros with "The Vicar of Wakefield" and in drama with "Sue Stoops to Conquer." All three are considered classic and are read today with profit. Yet, we have never come across a biography of this genius. . . . British engineers have developed a new method of stopping oscillation of tall chimneys in high winds. They simply wind three metal strips, called strakes, around the top third of the chimney. It does the trick. . . . An architect told us recently that eight-sided supermarkets will be common in the future. They provide greater space and the octagonal structure attracts more attention than the conventional four-sided building. . . . We never knew until now that "yearling" is the racing world is a thoroughbred of either sex, between the first and second birthday. . . . The Lowell (Mass.) SUN headlined a story: "Russia, Red China in New Battle Of Words." Just one of those family quarrels.

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's impending surgery is causing his key lieutenants to carefully study a highly classified National Security Council policy paper. . . . Known as the "Presidential Control" paper, the NSC document contains the names and titles of officials whom the President has designated to initiate the use of nuclear weapons in case he becomes incapacitated.

It provides that Vice President Humphrey, Secretary of State Rusk and Defense Secretary McNamara must give their approval before nuclear weapons of any type or size can be used during the time the President is unable to make such a fateful decision.

These three officials, who recently met in the White House to discuss contingency plans for implementing this policy should that become necessary constitute what is termed the "permissive link" command.

Under the President's designation of authority, the trio must agree before any command can be given to the Army, Navy or Air Force for use of nuclear weapons.

Transmission of this command would be handled through officials, each of whom would have to formally authenticate the order.

Principal author of the "Presidential Control" paper is Dr. Walt Rostow, foreign policy adviser in the White House. He participated in the unannounced Humphrey-Rusk-McNamara planning meeting.

The document was drafted by Rostow when he was chairman of the State Department Policy Planning Council. It was assigned the task of developing methods of tightening control over the use of nuclear weapons in a national emergency.

Originally, the "control" paper was part of a much larger paper dealing with the overall foreign policy which was formulated during President Kennedy's regime. After President Johnson took office, the "control" section was revised and made a separate National Security Council document.

THE CONTROL MAN — Prior to the President's gall bladder operation in October 1965, he designated White House assistant Bill Moyers as the person to notify Vice President Humphrey and Secretaries Rusk and McNamara in the event he became unable to function as chief executive.

Moyers, who confirmed this arrangement to this column, also stated he will be in the operating room throughout the President's surgery.

During the President's hospitalization, Moyers will act as "operating executive." He will relay all presidential decisions and messages to the Cabinet and White House staff.

The above disclosures are only a small part of this extremely important matter. For security and other reasons more cannot be revealed. Only time and events will unfold the full story.

WASHINGTON FLASHES — During the Dominican Republic crisis, White House assistant Bill Moyers supported Dr. Rostow in opposing the views of administration officials who wanted to install a pro-U.S. military regime there. During the 1964 riots in Panama and the use of National Guardsmen in the 1965 racial disturbances in Selma, Ala., Moyers functioned as President Johnson's liaison with other officials and agencies. . . . An official of the National Council of Churches is saying that Moyers recently telephoned him and urged tempering a statement criticizing the administration's policy in Viet Nam. . . . Dr. W. James Gould, New York throat specialist who will perform one of the operations on the President, was recommended by Senator Robert Kennedy. D-N.Y. Kennedy did that during the 1964 presidential campaign, when Johnson developed a sore throat. After several doctors failed to give relief, Kennedy, who was campaigning with the President, suggested Dr. Gould. After being treated, the President was able to quickly resume electioneering. Since then, Dr. Gould has acted as the President's throat and ear specialist.

Thanksgiving Feasts Now Tempered With Caution

About 243 years elapsed between the first Thanksgiving celebrated by our Pilgrim fathers and the first proclamation of Thanksgiving as a national holiday by President Lincoln in 1863. During the interim, Thanksgiving was a hit-or-miss affair that depended on local governments with no uniform rule for determining the date.

The country has undergone vast changes since the days of the Pilgrims, none more noteworthy than the changes in our diet. Foods once considered strictly seasonal can now be bought either frozen or canned all year around and many foods are available to us that the Pilgrims never dreamed of. As a result, instead of being thankful that we have enough food to keep body and soul together, it is becoming increasingly necessary for us to be watchful that we don't stuff ourselves to the point of obesity.

We should be thankful, however, for greater scientific knowledge about healthful nutrition and for our awareness of vitamins— which the Pilgrims consumed without ever having heard of them. We should be thankful, too, that we are able to share our surpluses with countries where food shortages still exist. And finally we should be thankful for the Pilgrims themselves. They showed us that with courage, hard work and hope, even the most insurmountable problems can be met and overcome.

Q—After having a breast removed my doctor says there is still a node. He recommends X-ray treatments and removal of my ovaries. Is this treatment of any value?

A—Although a cure cannot be promised, definite benefits have resulted in many patients from these forms of treatment. Removal of the adrenals and the pituitary are also recommended in some patients when it can be shown that the original tumor was dependent for its growth on the hormones supplied by these glands.

Q—What are the early symptoms of Paget's disease of the breast?

A—This cancer of the nipple starts with a scaling, oozing, crusting ulcer that does not heal. If the diagnosis is definite, prompt removal should give a permanent cure because this cancer involves only the skin and superficial breast tissues.

Ho's Aim: Turn Viet Nam Into Red vs. U.S. Struggle

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent SAIGON (EA)—By U.S. military standards, what Ho Chi Minh is now doing makes no sense.

He's throwing major units of his professional mainline armies against better-armed Americans heavily supported ones. He's losing a great many men.

It's unlikely, Ho hopes for a major psychological—military victory of the type Gen. Giap won against the French at Dien Bien Phyu.

To understand what Ho is up to, it is necessary to go back to Mao Tse-tung's strategic theories would talk about strategic techniques at length, even to foreigners.

If these theories apply today, Ho's mainline expeditionary forces have three immediate aims:

First — They're out to kill as many U.S. troops as they can. Never mind that the North Vietnamese losses are dreadfully heavy. The aim is to kill Americans; not win battles.
Mao's theory is that to cut one unit to pieces, even if you lose the battle, is more impressive psychologically than to win victories over 10 units.

To accomplish this, Ho is willing to accept heavy losses.

Second — Ho's men are out to capture major pieces of U.S. equipment. These will be paraded in hamlets to show that Ho's men can "conquer" the "invincible" U.S. weapons which have impressed so many Asians.

Time after time in the past 25 years both Mao and Ho have willingly sacrificed large numbers of men when necessary to acquire one tank, one armored weapons carrier, a certain type of artillery or some other particularly deadly type of French or American equipment — for show.

Third — Ho's armies are attempting to turn this into a war between the Communist and the American armies, bypassing the Vietnamese army where possible.

This, too, is psychological. Ho now wants the South Vietnamese to say: "Ho is fighting the Americans, not us. It's an American war, not our war. This war is between the Americans and the Communists. What is it to us?"

Fourth — Ho's men want to impress the people of South Viet Nam that whether the Red armies win or lose, they are able to "take on" the Americans. This thought should, the Mao-Ho theory goes, cause South Vietnamese government troops to be wary about fighting the northern mainline troops "who even fight Americans head on."

It should, according to this Red theory, cause people to remember that sometime the Americans will go home and then "we will have to make our peace with these strong northern armies."

It is too early to tell how effective these Mao-Ho tactics will be.

High-place Vietnamese army officers with whom this reporter has talked are working on the problem. They don't yet have a solution.

The Nation's Press

(Industrial News Review)
Individual liberty, under representative government, carries responsibilities as well as privileges. This truth has been stressed by philosophers and statesmen since the founding of the United States. Self-reliance is the main characteristic of responsible citizenship. As the basis of liberty, it cannot be delegated to a paternalistic welfare state.

Leaders in business and public life recognize the necessity of private citizens assuming a dominant role in solving social and economic problems. An excellent illustration of co-operative, private initiative can be seen in the medical assistance program of the American Medical Association and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. The program is designed to help communities without a doctor— attract one by building a modern medical center.

A short time ago, the small community of Coeburn, Virginia, with a population of some 2,500 people, welcomed its new doctor and opened a $40,000 medical center. Coeburn, an Appalachian Mountain community, once supported a 30-bed hospital and three doctors. But, two of the doctors had died, the third was able to work only a few hours a day, and the hospital had been closed. A survey by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation disclosed that residents traveled collectively 625,525 miles for medical attention last year. As a result, the Foundation furnished plans for the new medical center and assisted in raising the necessary funds to build it. The Sears-Roebuck Foundation and the AMA then helped find a qualified doctor.

Since the community medical assistance program began in 1958, it has made medical care available to more than 367,000 people in 38 states. Here is the best possible answer to those who would abdicate the responsibilities of citizenship to the government.

The Only Road to the Conference Table
After listening to Secretary Rusk's defense of U. S. policy in Vietnam, Senator Fulbright, Chairman of the Senate-Foreign Relations Committee, declared, "There must be something wrong with U. S. diplomacy if it cannot get the Communists to talk about a compromise."

This is a good example of the uninformed thinking of the so-called liberals. Senator Fulbright should know that the Communists are not interested in any compromise or in any solution of the problem—other than the defeat of the Western nations, especially the United States, and the extensions of Communist control over Vietnam and other nations. There is no possible basis of formulating a foreign policy until our country realizes that the long-time purpose of the Communists is to destroy our country. They will not compromise as long as they believe there is "hope of making progress toward that end." The only way to bring them to the conference table is to defeat them so completely that they will sue for peace. At that point they would compromise, but not before.

The fact of the matter is that the fight between free government and Communists is not susceptible to compromise and peaceable coexistence. As the Communists have said many times, there is not room in the world for both types of government. They intend to destroy the United States of America or to be destroyed themselves in the effort to do so. Senator Fulbright has shown himself completely unaware of this basic fact.

It would seem that the campaign in the Soviet press against the abusive treatment of religious citizens by ignorant workers in the atheistic cause is beginning to show results. The Supreme Soviet Presidium of the Russian sector of the Soviet Union has decreed that believers must not be harassed, refused admission to an educational establishment, or dismissed from work, or in any way deprived of their legal and normal privileges as a consequence of their religious beliefs. This is a very encouraging development.

A recent number of the Communist youth journal KOMSOMOL PRAVDA complains of the ignorance and lack of culture and education of those who are trying to combat religion in the USSR. By contrast the believers are better educated, more cultured, and have more dignity. Plain cursing and abuse, says the article, do not contribute effectively to the campaign against religious ideology.

Wit and Whimsy

At a banquet the speaker proved a bore. On the dais alongside him one of the guests went to sleep. The speaker, noticing this, went into a rage. He took a mallet and hit the sleeping guest over his head. The man awoke from the sting, looked at the speaker and said, "Hit me harder — I can still hear you!"
