BEING COUNTED — It takes a lot of Smiths to make our government work and the Smith family is doing its part. Irl Smith, his wife, Irene and son, Dwayne, were among the early Gray County voters to cast their ballots this morning. J. B. Austin and W. A. Watson are recording the voters at Precinct 10's courthouse location. As of noon, election judges in Gray County were reporting a heavy turnout.

Vessels' Appeal Motion Delivered To District Clerk

A written motion for a new trial for T. R. Vessels, convicted rapist, was delivered to the office of District Clerk Helen Sprinkle this morning by the step-father of Vessels, W. P. Freeman of Fort Worth.

The motion lists 11 causes for a new trial ranging from insufficient evidence introduced in the trial to alleged prejudicial statements made to the jury by the district attorney.

The defendant charges in the motion he was given an unfair trial for the reason that he was not allowed to testify in his own behalf.

The motion also states that new testimony material has been discovered since the trial and that the defendant's rights had been violated under the Texas constitution.

The handwritten motions entered by Vessels yesterday in an appearance in the District Clerk's office were merely for the record that he had asked for a new trial and appointment of counsel.

Vessels was given a penalty (See VESSELS, Page 3)

BALLOT COUNT SLOW

County Voters Flock to Polls

Mid-day indications at polling places throughout Gray County indicated a heavier than usual year vote would be cast in today's election.

The feverish interest in the Bob Price-Dee Miller 18th District congressional race was given by some election observers as one of the reasons for the stepped up balloting. The Tower-Carr senate race added to the local interest.

Gray County also had interesting races for county judge and one justice of the peace contest that called for additional local voter participation.

Apparently, ballot counting will be slow. This was said to be due to the 16 constitutional amendment proposals.

In one Pampa precinct early this morning it required eight minutes to count three ballots. This, however, was expected to be speeded up when election clerks became more adept at the routine.

At Pampa's Pct. 10 in the Gray County Courthouse, the heaviest voting precinct among the county's total of 14 polling places, the voters were going through at the rate of 100 an hour around 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Clyde Batson, election judge in Pct. 7 at Horace Mann School, said many were losing their vote for governor due to a failure to strike out all of the three opponents. There are four candidates for governor. Slightly more than 200 votes had been cast in Pct. 7 at 11 a.m. and this was considered a good early turnout for the precinct, Mrs. Batson stated.

Pct. 3 at Stephen F. Austin School in Pampa, another of the county's largest precincts, had voted 150 persons at 11:05 a.m. Election Judge Joe Miller said it was "heavy" for that hour. Miller added that the counting was going slowly due to the large ballot.

Pct. 9 in Woodrow Wilson school reported 250 votes at 11:15 a.m. Election Judge E. O. Pulliam said this was a heavy turnout for the precinct. Pulliam also stated he had put on an extra counting crew and at that hour they were keeping pace on the ballot count.

Pct. 12 at Lamar School in Pampa reported 126 voters at 11:30 a.m., also a heavier than usual turnout, according to Mrs. Georgia Mack, election judge.

Baker School Pct. 2 reported 132 votes at 12 o'clock, reportedly a "very good" turnout for that time of day.

Voting was going about the same or better in most of the precincts. (See COUNTY, Page 3)

Success Depends On Gains, Not Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Voters throughout the nation balloted today in state congressional elections, putting the Republican recovery effort to its first major test since the Goldwater debacle of 1964.

The GOP will measure the success of its effort in terms of gains rather than over-all victory. The party is starting from too far behind to break the Democratic grip on Congress or a majority of the nation's state houses.

Oracles in both parties foresaw at least modest Republican gains—25 to 40 seats in the House and two to five governorships. The Senate looked as if it would result in close to an even break, with either party gaining no more than one or two seats.

On the basis of past turnouts, the vote today was expected to be near 54 million, a record for an off-year election without a contest for the White House. Favorable weather was forecast for most of the country, but scattered snow or rain was expected in the Rocky Mountains and the Northern Plains to the Great Lakes.

House Main Battleground — Sixty-five of the 100 senators and 15 of the 50 governors are not facing the voters because their terms do not expire this year. The major prizes are these:

—All 435 House seats, now split between 294 Democrats and 139 Republicans (with one vacancy for each party).

—Thirty-five Senate seats, 20 now held by Democrats and 15 by Republicans.

—Thirty-five governorships, 20 now held by Democrats and 15 by Republicans.

The House is the real battlefield this year because a Republican pickup of 20 to 30 seats would encourage establishment of the old conservative coalition which dominated the chamber for so many years after World War II. But there are more exciting races for governorships and Senate seats—notably the "four R's" among Republican gubernatorial candidates.

In New York, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is rated somewhere between a toss-up and a slight favorite in his third-term attempt against Frank D. O'Connor, Democratic president of the New York City Council. For eight years, Rockefeller has been the most persistent voice of liberal Republicanism.

McNamara Is Heckled By Student Mob — CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara visited Harvard Monday and was heckled by a mob of students who oppose U.S. involvement in Viet Nam. About 25 lay down in the path of his automobile, and when the secretary got out to speak to the crowd, the protesters shouted him down.

A flying wedge of university and city policemen finally forced a path for McNamara. The secretary was spirited from the scene through steam tunnels as fist fights broke out between his supporters and his detractors. The incident occurred in front of Quincy House, a dormitory where he had addressed a small gathering of students.

About 300 students were in the group, which was nearly evenly divided between supporters and critics. Many of those against United States involvement in Viet Nam carried placards and identified themselves as members of the Society for a Democratic Society (SDS).

Shouted down whenever he tried to speak, McNamara finally called upon the antiwar students: "Stand up and answer the questions...you seem to have all the answers."

Much at Stake — WASHINGTON (UPI) — The elections at a glance:

At stake — 35 governorships, 35 Senate seats in 33 states, all 435 House seats.

Present line-ups — governors, 33 Democrats, 17 Republicans; Senate, 67 Democrats, 33 Republicans; House, 294 Democrats, 139 Republicans, 2 vacancies.

Voting — First state's (Kentucky's) polls close at 5 p.m. EST. Last state's (Alaska's) polls close at 2 a.m. EST Wednesday.

Turnout — Voting age population is estimated at 116.4 million. If 46.5 per cent turns out as in 1962, total vote will reach 54 million.

Large Turnout Is Expected In Perfect Weather

By United Press International — Texans went to the polls in mild, windy weather today to elect state officers and congressmen. Voting was heavy where local interest in certain races ran high.

President Johnson and his wife cast the first two ballots at their Johnson City polling place.

Jerry Rosen, an election worker at George B. Dealey School in Dallas (6501 Royal Lane), said, "We had a crowd this morning. There are around 75 in line and when we opened the polls, 15 or 20 were waiting at 7 a.m. It is taking a little more time this time to vote. There are so many constitutional amendments."

If weather allows a heavy turnout throughout the state, that was believed by observers to be a hopeful sign for the Democrats to assert their overwhelming numerical majority.

President and Mrs. Johnson arose early and voted at the Pedernales Electric Cooperative building at Johnson City. Theirs were ballots Nos. 1 and 2. They voted 35 minutes before the polls were to open, but in smaller towns election officials can open at 7 a.m. or 8 a.m.

Dallas, where an airport amendment and congressional races were catching voters' interest, had lines awaiting at many polling places.

Some places had only light turnout in Dallas. Fire Dept. 31 had only three persons waiting when the polls opened.

Houston's vote was light to average, a check showed. Heavier voting was in the southwestern part of the city.

Laredo's Buenos Aires school, normally the heaviest voting place in the city, had a light turnout.

But Laredo had a party squabble over the turnout. Mink Hauser, Republican chairman in Webb County, requested that ballot boxes be impounded, contending some Laredo voters have been afraid to vote their conviction in the past.

Austin's Highland Park school had 50 persons vote in approximately 15 minutes. A long line was waiting at Gullett Elementary School.

Statewide, voting was expected to be far below the eligible total.

Some 1.7 million persons were expected to cast ballots. Nearly three million persons were eligible to vote.

Both Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and Sen. John G. Tower, wound up their long, strenuous campaigns with television appearances Monday. Tower went to vote in his hometown of Wichita Falls.

Carr planned to be home in Lubbock for election day. Tower made his final appeal in Dallas. Carr appeared in San Antonio with Gov. John Connally and other state officials.

The final Texas poll, conducted by Joe Heiden, showed 51 per cent for Carr, 48.4 per cent for Tower and 6 per cent for James Holland, the Constitution Party candidate.

Lovell, Aldrin In Final Day of Review, Briefings

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Gemini 12 astronauts James Lovell and Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin, cleared for a Wednesday blast off, today coasted in a final day of review and briefings for Project Gemini's closing mission.

They were expected to spend most of the morning reviewing the action-packed flight plan for their four days in space and later faced a final briefing with project officials.

Activity was picking up today at launch pad 19 where Gemini 12's spacecraft-rocket combination has been going through one of the most trouble-free checkouts in the Gemini series.

The last major series of pre-launch tests was set to be completed late today to clear the way for the start of the booster's fueling early Wednesday.

Lovell, the veteran of the 14-day voyage of Gemini 7, and Aldrin, holder of a doctor of science degree in astronautics, are aiming for a 1:55 p.m. CST blastoff. Their Atlas-Agena target rocket is scheduled to go first, at 12:16 p.m. CST.

Project officials reported Monday that everything was set for the flight and no difficulties were anticipated. The weather reports were good.

The astronauts will first attempt to rendezvous with their Agena target rocket during Gemini's third swing around the globe. Then they will dock with the Agena four times to get valuable practice for later flights to the moon which will require similar hookups in space.

Much of the mission spotlight will be on Aldrin. The scholarly astronaut is set to perform a two-hour spacewalk and two open hatch "space stands" totaling about three hours.

Rome Flood Death Toll Nears 300

ROME (UPI) — Italy's recovery from the most staggering floods in Italian history was hastened today by receding waters of its largest and most deadly river, the Po.

But the death count in the nation's worst "calamity in living memory" climbed unabated and it was feared it might reach 300 or more.

The Po River Authority said the mighty waterway in northern Italy "is now receding and the crest is dying out in the direction of the river mouth (the Adriatic Sea)."

A full third of Italy stood inundated by floods that gave Tuscany and Renaissance cradle Florence their severest lashings in seven centuries before rampaging north to Venice and the Italian Alps.

Unofficial tabulations showed at least 180 dead. Interior Minister Paolo Emilio Taviani told Parliament Monday "initial calculations" revealed 72 dead and 35 missing. Damage was in the "hundreds of millions."

The disaster toll was expected to mount steeply as 120,000 rescue workers struggled through washed out roads, torrential streams and farm-land-turned-lakes in the flood region Taviani said. Some passed 40,000 square miles.

WEATHER — PAMPA AND VICINITY — Partly cloudy this afternoon. Considerable cloudiness tonight and tomorrow. Cooler tonight and colder tomorrow. Low tonight upper 30s. High tomorrow upper 40s. Winds changing to north at 25-30 mph.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

Police Praised For Handling of Traffic

Pampa police and the city's corporation court were commended today for their activities in traffic accident prevention and the handling of traffic cases.

The praise came from Sgt. Fred D. Marshall of the Texas Department of Public Safety as he presented the National Safety Council's analysis of Pampa's 1965 Traffic Inventory.

Marshall said appreciable improvement was noted in the city's police traffic operations and that it was accomplished with a police force only half the size of what the National Safety Council recommends for a city of Pampa's size.

"It reflects to the credit of such men as were available," Marshall said. The report presented by Sgt. Marshall stated that Pampa's analysis was incomplete because there were no reports filed from Justice of the Peace or Gray County courts.

It was recommended that justice of the peace court and corporation court be made courts of record and that a change of status should be requested of the appropriate authority.

The report also urged improvement of traffic safety education in the schools and that civic and professional leaders be encouraged to take a greater interest in traffic accident prevention.

In other business today the commission: Approved plans and specifications for the city's overall paving program.

Established a four-way stop of traffic at Cook and N. Somerville streets on a temporary basis. When N. Somerville is opened for through traffic, the four-way regulation will be lifted—with Somerville being a through street and Cook a stop street at the intersection.

Approved payment of $40,364.30 in city bills and $328.51 in library bills; authorized transfer of $5,183 from the general fund to the library fund; authorized purchase of $100,000 in U.S. Treasury bills.

Election Much Like Numbers Game; Pay Your Money, Take Your Choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a non-presidential election such as today's, you pay your money and you take your choice when it comes to deciding which party "won."

Sometime around 11 a.m. CST Wednesday — barring the extremely unlikely possibility of hitherto unseen massive shift either way — the national chairmen of the two major parties, each will issue a "victory" statement.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey can be expected to see the off-year election as a ringing reaffirmation of President Johnson and the Great Society. GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss probably will call it a ringing repudiation of the President and his programs and policies.

The magic number in each case will be the number of House seats the party out of power — in this case the GOP — has picked up over the "average" number of losses in an off-year election. The catch in this formula is that everyone doesn't agree on what the "average" off-year loss is.

President Johnson talks about 41 as the average loss. This is based on the average off-year losses since 1890. What makes the take-off point attractive to Johnson is the very-high figure.

Others use different take-off points, citing the fact that the 1890s were post-Reconstruction years with big shifts in the House — the Democrats lost 115 in 1894 — that affords no real comparison with modern politics.

The 1912 elections were the first for the House at its present size of 435 members. The average off-year loss since then has been 36 seats. Since this is the same average since the founding of the Republican party in 1854, many use this figure.

As for the Senate, it is not really a battleground this year since the Democrats have too big a majority. Most pundits agree the average off-year loss is four seats.

Youth Admits Taking Items

A 14-year-old Pampa boy was released to the custody of his mother Monday after being caught shoplifting at Gibson's Discount Store by Bob Crippen, store manager. Crippen called police and told them he had a youth in his office whom he had caught stealing. The youth admitted to police he had taken a camera and then admitted taking several other items from the store over a three-month period. The youth was made by officers in the 400 block of N. Frost.

Girl Is Injured In Auto Collision

A Pampa girl, Andalyne Mary White, 17, of 912 Terry Rd., suffered a broken foot Monday from a two-car collision. According to a Pampa police report, the White girl was driving a car traveling south in the 1700 block of N. Hobart that collided with the rear of a vehicle driven by Susan N. Richardson, 15, of 2214 Beech. Police said Miss Richardson was headed south and had stopped while attempting to make a left turn onto a drive-way. Damage to the White car was estimated at $200 and to the Richardson car at $75. Miss White was cited for failure to control speed.

Chamber Directors Okay Budget, Committee Leaders

An activities' budget of $37,600 was approved and new committee chairmen were appointed at a meeting of Pampa Chamber of Commerce board of directors yesterday. New committee chairmen, approved by the board, are Rex McAnelly, agriculture and livestock; Wynn Zeale, aviation; E. L. Green Jr., civic improvements; Jim O'Connor, conventions; James Hart, fire prevention; Fred Thompson, highways and transportation; Aubrey Steele, industrial development and E. L. Henderson, public education. Also, R. D. Wilkerson, legislative and national affairs; Top O' Texans Club, public relations; Lewis Hackley, military affairs; Fred Neslage, oil and gas; Tex DeWeese, publicity and information; Dennis Smith, co-chairman and president of Downtown Business Ass'n., retail trade; Newt Secrest, sports and recreation and Harold Barrett, tourist development. It was announced that the next membership luncheon of the chamber of commerce will be held Monday, Nov. 28, in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn, with the Agriculture Committee presenting the program on agri-business in the Top o' Texas area. Farmers and ranchers of this area are being invited to attend the luncheon as guests of local business firms. It was also announced that the annual Christmas parade is scheduled for Friday afternoon, Dec. 2, at 4 p.m., and all clubs and organizations within the city are urged to place entries in the parade. Chamber manager E. O. Wedgworth discussed program of work details with the board, urging all directors to offer suggestions for the 1967 work program. The meeting was well attended, with 24 out of 26 directors present.

Pampa Firm Given Anchor Contract

Boyce Pierson with the J. Ray McDermott International of New Orleans, one of the world's largest off-shore drilling companies, was in Pampa today conferring with H. O. Darby of Pampa Foundry Co. on a shipment of anchors. The Pampa firm has been contracted by the McDermott company to supply 20,000-pound anchors for off-shore drilling operations in Nigeria. The first shipment of 12 is scheduled to leave Pampa Nov. 15.

Largest Audience Packs Auditorium for Mantovani

Mantovani and his famous orchestra played last night to the largest concert audience ever to pack the Pampa Junior High School auditorium. So large was the crowd that attractively dressed ladies were forced to bivouac in the aisles. Had the hall been equipped with chandeliers, who can reasonably doubt that there would have been people on them? This, together with the orchestra's 30-minute late appearance could have spelled fiasco. Instead the bizarre situation simply added to the general enjoyment and, even when an occasional seat became available, the ladies refused to budge. Italian Mantovani emceed the program in an impeccable Oxford accent. His restrained but witty commentaries were as delightful as the unique sounds of his orchestra which are so familiar to everyone. The program was typical Mantovani fare such as "Misty", "The Sound of Music", "Chim Chim Cheree." Once or twice during the evening the group performed something a little weightier such as the medley of selections from "Carmen". Very novel and humorous performances of the "Mexican Hat Dance", the "Spanish Flea" and something called the "Cat and the Mouse", proved to be excellent show pieces and real crowd pleasers. All in all it was a banner night for Pampa music lovers.

Accident Kills Lefors Man

Charles Lisenbee, 55, of Lefors, was crushed this morning when a pumping unit fell on him on the J. E. Williams Lease, two miles south of Lefors. Lisenbee was dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital at 11:30 a.m., where he was taken by Lefors ambulance. A roustabout for Texaco, Inc., where he had been employed the past 22 years, Lisenbee moved to Lefors from Childress in 1927. He was born Oct. 26, 1911. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Geneva Lisenbee of the home, and three daughters, Miss Jaquita Burcher of Amarillo and Mrs. Koala Hefner of Annonist, Ala. Funeral arrangements were incomplete at Duenkel Funeral Home.

Organist Concert Set in Amarillo

AMARILLO — The Amarillo Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will present Wesley Selby, professor of organ at New Mexico State University and choirmaster-organist of St. John's Episcopal Cathedral, Albuquerque, in an organ concert at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 11, in Amarillo's First Christian Church Sanctuary, Wolfen Village, west. Selby has long been active in affairs of the American Guild of Organists, as past-dean of the Albuquerque, and Denver, Colorado chapters, and now as State Chairman for New Mexico. He has played concerts at Guild regional Conventions, and is well-known as a recitalist in the Rocky Mountain region.

Since the trial ended, Vessels has been in Gray County Court house awaiting pronouncement of the date for the penalty to be carried out. As of this morning, a new attorney had not been appointed to handle the court procedure connected with a motion for a new trial for Vessels. The family of Vessels is reportedly seeking counsel for him in Fort Worth. The motion this morning was just under the deadline for formal filing of a plea for a new trial, which insures Vessels a court of criminal appeals review of the case, as stipulated in the provisions of the new criminal code.

What they don't know is that Agatha knits all the time so she can't leave to lock people in the car or say anything. You see, she is a lady, Abby, and she is a knitter.

Wooden Career Is Carved by Woman

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — In the basement studio of Catherine Webb's cottage are jammed thousands of pieces of wood, of all sizes and shapes. A fine film of sawdust covers everything, including a sander, a table saw, a hand saw, a lathe, a drum sander and a finisher.

In her cluttered workshop Mrs. Webb creates abstract wood sculptures. "Wood responds," she said. "When you touch it, there is a communication that doesn't require words."

She calls her creations "touch sculpture," indicating they are to be held and felt as well as viewed. A favorite creation for example, is the "feelle," a smooth piece of wood shaped for the palm of the hand that is meant to be held while one thinks.

But Mrs. Webb has another talent. She carves things that sell. "For the past five or six years, I've made thousands of chignon clasps — they're my bread and butter item."

It is this talent that she hopes to transmit to poor, unskilled Negroes in Mississippi when she goes here in the next few weeks under the sponsorship of the Poor People's Corporation. The corporation was formed a year ago to provide technical and financial assistance to poor persons in the southern state, and to help develop work-oriented and operated cooperatives.

While she is in Mississippi, Mrs. Webb will be paid $20 a week and living expenses by the corporation. To add to the life of a garment, she will be paid $20 a week and living expenses by the corporation.

DEAR ABBY: I have a best friend I'll call "Agatha," who has come in for a lot of criticism behind her back because she takes her knitting every-where she goes. People say Agatha is very rude because she sits in company, knitting away with it even picking her head up or saying a word. What they don't know is that Agatha knits all the time so she can't leave to lock people in the car or say anything. You see, she is a lady, Abby, and she is a knitter.

Search the Attic, You May Find Missing Painting

ORANGETOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — The Historical Society of Rockland County (N.Y.) is trying to trace an historical painting and thinks someone in the United States probably knows where it is.

The canvas is entitled "Interview Between Andre and Arnold," was painted by Junius B. Stearns and was last exhibited in 1849.

Small in size—only 26 inches by 20—it depicts the meeting between British spy Major Andre and Revolutionary War traitor Maj. Gen. Benedict Arnold at a house in what is now West Haverstraw, N.Y.

Its historical significance, particularly to Rockland County, is tremendous," says society president John R. Zehner who is directing the search.

Inquiries through most normal art information channels already have been made without success, Zehner said.

The painting is not to be confused with another Stearns work, titled "Trial of Major Andre." This is in a private collection.

Zehner asks that anyone having any information about the "Interview" painting contact him or the society as soon as possible. It is the society's hope, he said, to acquire it either through purchase or donation.

For any sharp-eyed readers: the society's address is Kings Highway, Orangetown, N.Y. 10962.

Medic Finds Pets Vital to Children

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pets are important to a child's mental and social development, says a San Francisco child psychiatrist.

Dr. John I. Langdell believes pets help prepare a child for adulthood.

"For girls, a pet tends to foster the maternal instinct, enabling her to care for something small," Dr. Langdell said.

"Boys who have had pets often find it easier to transfer love and tenderness to a wife and children," he added.

Dr. Langdell considers pets excellent tools of learning, often providing a child with his first knowledge of sex, birth or death.

The psychiatrist said his own sons ages 13 and 10, have a cat and did have a canary. Fate of the canary? The cat got it.

Some Quick Ways To Lose a Friend

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Never tell a friend...
That you think he has made a big mistake. (If he has already made it — pointing it out to him will probably not be considered the act of a friend.)

Anything less than complimentary about him. (Even if you are indignant about the remarks — do not repeat them to the helpless victim of unkind gossip.)

What his worst faults are. (The quickest way to lose a friend is to try to reform him.)

A quick and easy solution to a problem he likes to talk about. (He won't take your easy solution. In fact, he'll probably be annoyed that you think there is such an easy solution. And you will be disgusted that he doesn't take your excellent advice.)

Your less-than-complimentary opinion of someone he greatly admires. (That's as good as saying, "I am a much better judge of people than you are.")

Astrological Forecast
By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR WEDNESDAY NOV. 8
GENERAL: The sun's influence is a bright and happy atmosphere permeates practically everything you do today. Your thoughts and actions are certainly delightfully as well as have more numerous opportunities for getting in touch with those you most want to have an alliance with in the days ahead. Peace efforts already in progress will be furthered.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Allies in the work of showing you their affection and devotion today. Do not be an hard-shell, or the opportunity may not be there for some time to come. Join with others in interesting matters. Be ambitious.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — As a dramatic sun, you are somewhat aloof and the artistic immensely. Surround yourself with those of this nature. Living something thoughtful for a coworker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Ideal day for setting up of dull bedrooms if you are alert and right on the beam with your partner. Be sure to get the most out of your day. Be of a cheerful frame of mind.

LEO (Jul. 23 to Aug. 22) — Look about you and see where to add more delightful surroundings. Strive for a more genial, kindly attitude. LEO sign "2" — Aug. 23

LIBRA (Sep. 23 to Oct. 23) — Be complimentary with them, you get the support you need for your operations. Games the date you need to bring after it. Additionally show real ambition.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sep. 23) — You are able to find some new outlet that will add to present income or, by making improvements to property, you increase its value. A more secure business moguls give you fine advice. Ideas.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — If you state to good friends just exactly what you wish to accomplish, the sun will be instrumental in seeing to it that you go about such matters properly. Get out socially in P.M. Be more better acquainted with your people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) — If you know how to get on the good side of your friends, you will get a greater prestige among the trade and public in general. Show a diplomatic, careful manner. Get problems worked out nicely.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) — If you step out socially and meet new and interesting persons, your whole life takes on an added glow, a real sparkle. Save some time for study as well. You need to add to your present knowledge your fund of it.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) — Your intuitive faculties are perhaps the best of all the signs, so use them constructively and to your final advantage. Forget small matters, annoying individuals. Your most needs more of your attention.

IF YOU'RE BORN TODAY...
If you are, you will be one of those young people who, early on, will know almost intuitively what others are thinking. This is a quality that will lead to great things in life. Encourage your propensity to be a properly "reading" person. It used to be that good friends or possible enemies and development comes easily. The field of astrology is especially good here. Send to colleges of own choice.

Despite the use of its 104th veto in the United Nations, the Soviet Union appears to be using its influence to prevent any outbreak of real war between Syria and Israel.

Naturally, the Soviet action would not be particularly to please the West nor to help Israel, which brought its case against Syria to the United Nations upon the urging of the United States and Britain.

With no love for Israel, for the Russians it would be more a question of timing.

In the United Nations, they vetoed a relatively mild resolution which would have asked Syria to take steps to prevent terrorist raids against Israel across the Syrian border.

In effect the resolution would have placed upon Syria the blame for the raids, which the Syrians have denied, charging instead that the Israelis were massing for an attack on Syria.

A U.N. investigating team found no such evidence.

Agreement Signed
But even as the Russians were stamping their veto on the U.N. resolution in New York, an agreement engineered by the Russians was being signed in Cairo.

There, Syria and the United Arab Republic signed a mutual defense agreement establishing a joint command over their armed forces. The top command is to be held by an Egyptian.

Later, the two will exchange ambassadors for the first time since Syria's withdrawal from the U.A.R. in 1961.

It was the result of efforts undertaken by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin during a Middle East visit last May. Kosygin had urged a fusion of radical forces as a "vital necessity."

In his short-lived union with Syria, 1959-61, Nasser found the Syrians indigestible and he has

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — NBC-TV's daily morning "Today" program will present the equivalent of seven consecutive two-hour "specials" starting Thursday.

On that day, the subject of the entire broadcast is the American teenager — "what youngsters in this country are reading, wearing, listening to and thinking."

On Friday, meanwhile, the full program will be devoted to writer-director Billy Wilder and his films. There will be clips from some of his more famous movies, and Wilder will also be interviewed.

Next week's five broadcasts all will originate, by tape, from England.

The Monday outing is entitled "London Entertainment" and will include "an examination of the structure, operations, strengths and weaknesses of the National Theatre in England." Guests will include Sir Laurence Olivier, Kenneth Tynan, critic and manager of the National Theatre, Anna Neagle, Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels.

The new city of Coventry will be toured, and middle-class British family life will be examined through interviews.

"Today" has done numerous two-hour specials before, and despite its merciless onslaught of advertisements it is quite a bastion of relative sanity and remarkable enthusiasm for daytime television.

The Aviation Revolution," NBC-TV's Monday night hour documentary, was a reasonably interesting look at some of the industry's problems, although considerable time was devoted to fairly obvious material. The air was overcrowded not only with planes, but also commercials.

NEW ADDITIONS
PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (UPI) — Names of America's first family are being given to newborn on this possession visited by President and Mrs. Johnson on Oct. 18.

Johnson Tagaleoo was born Oct. 21; Johnson Luilage, on Oct. 17 and Lady Bird Kaikikau, on Oct. 26.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

MONEY DOESN'T COUNT, BUT: Here's a look at lifetime earnings you can expect to reap in different kinds of careers... what the economic crystal ball shows today: Doctors, after long years of pre-med, medical school and internship, earn in the first years of private practice around $20,000 a year... in later years, or as a specialist, up to $35,000. Pharmacists net $7,000 to $10,000 annually. Nurses average around $4,300. Lawyers—push through college and stiff law school courses, then average roughly $10,600... but top lawyers pull down astronomical incomes. Engineers start at about $7,500, but with a doctorate get up to $12,500... and many top corporate executives have climbed the ladder from engineering posts. Teachers—lots of jobs available, with more than 2 million class teachers now and more needed... salaries, though, vary greatly from state to state and your particular teaching position... earn $4,500 for an elementary teacher in Kansas to $14,500 as a nationwide average for a full professor. In business (what you'll earn in business isn't sharply predictable) the floor for salesmen is $5,000 and the ceiling can soar well over $20,000... if you're good at math, accountants are specialists who do well, starting at $7,000 and, as they rise, frequently pulling in multiples of that.

A field wide open for girls is retailing (total employes here: 8 million), where you can start selling at around $2 an hour, but move up as buyer to as high as $25,000 annually... Social work — it's surprising, but this is beginning to be a pretty well-paid field... earnings of trained social workers have jumped in the last 10 years from $4,000 to $8,000... are still going up. And if you're handy with machines or tools, skilled craftsmen do well... construction workers, for example, net (weather and work permitting) a healthy average of $170 weekly.

SUPREME HIRSUTE HEARINGS IN D.C.: Solemn in their black robes of justice (and clean-shaven men themselves) the potent judges of the U. S. Supreme Court will rule sometime during this session on a momentous, educational issue. At suit on their docket is this issue: "Can a college insist students shave their beards and get a haircut?"

EUROPE — THE SOUND IS "AMERICAN": In recent years, the popular music mob around the world tended more and more to listen, even to U.S. rhythms, in their own national language on recordings by their own national singing idols. Now this tide has turned — not only in England, but also in leading popular hit countries like Italy, France and Germany... where they're currently grabbing records hot off the U.S. voices. Experts close to the beat say it's because a new vigor has come into American sound in the last months, a fresh manner and style... our records beat out the beat best today.

THERE'S A DROP NOW IN DROPOUTS: Among famous dropouts are LBJ (he went back and finished through college) and actor George Hamilton (he quit Palm Beach High forever but manages to date LBJ's daughter, Lynda). But the way you're starting to stick in high school indicates there'll be fewer famous dropouts in the future. The Department of Labor has just announced that of the 10 million 16-to-20-year-olds in the labor force at the end of last year, almost 70 per cent were high school graduates... Six years ago only 60 per cent were. Why do youngsters drop out? Economic pressure is actually a minority factor (a quarter of boys gave it as their reason). But half of boy dropouts quit because of lack of interest in school. Most teen girls dropped out because of marriage (or pregnancy). One good reason not to drop out: Labor Department figures show unemployment rates surge higher for dropouts than for high school graduates — three times higher for teen men and almost 2½ times higher for teen girls last year. A last minute straw poll showing that dropping out has just blown in from Connecticut — where, this year, 88.5 per cent of teenagers asking for working papers intend to continue high school, while in 1963 only 89 per cent did.

CIGAR AT FAULT: DENVER (UPI) — Attorney Bernard Sobol said Monday a "stinking cigar butt" led to assault and battery charges being filed against him. The 41-year-old lawyer said he was accused of the misdemeanor after another attorney shook "a stinking cigar butt in away."

"In 19 years of practicing law, I have never assaulted anybody," he said.

Walter Rogers Reports: Constitution's Commerce Clause Is Being Stretched Too Far

The Marbury vs. Madison decision of 1803 is probably the most important single U.S. Supreme Court decision in American history. In the decision, Chief Justice John Marshall set forth the so-called "doctrine of judicial review," the power of the Supreme Court to declare acts of the Congress or state legislatures unconstitutional. Chief Justice Marshall summed up the doctrine in one sentence, in words that have had sweeping impact ever since: "Certainly all those who have framed written constitutions contemplate them as forming the fundamental and paramount law of the nation, and consequently, the theory of every such government must be that an act of the legislature, repugnant to the Constitution, is void."

Nowhere does the Constitution specifically assign to the judiciary the power to decide whether it is the function of the Supreme are invalid. But Marshall reasoned that the Constitution is superior to any statute and that it is the function of the Supreme Court, when confronted with a test, to determine constitutionality. "It is emphatically the province and duty of the judicial department to say what the law is," Marshall wrote.

But the catch is this: The Constitution is open to the interpretation of lawmakers and the courts. Over the years a succession of court decisions has given changing meaning to such words and phrases as "freedom of speech," "due process," and "commerce." Evolving interpretations of "commerce" provide a good example. The commerce clause of the Constitution

The Lighter Side
By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the ways that a government official can achieve immortality, of sorts, is to have his name linked with an important law, report or committee.

I doubt, for instance, that very many people remember the "Special Committee to Investigate Organized Crime in Interstate Commerce."

But nearly everyone over 35 recalls the "Kefauver Committee" whose televised investigation of the underworld created a sensation back around 1950.

The practice of using proper names as informal documentary identification may be good for the ego, but it is causing serious problems for scholars, researchers and librarians.

The trouble is that transcripts, reports and laws which are remembered by their popular names are filed away under their formal titles.

This can create a lot of confusion when someone is trying to locate a document in the archives or some other paper repository.

Take the so-called "Senate Rackets Committee," which was actually the "Select Committee on Improper Activities in the Labor or Management Field."

In years to come anyone coming across a reference to that committee probably will assume that its chairman was Sen. Frank Rackets.

Or take the recently passed "Medicare" bill. Further historians likely will leap to the conclusion that its chief sponsor was Rep. Clyde Medicare.

This problem is of such concern that the Library of Congress has just published a 32-page catalog listing 479 government reports by their popular names, followed by their official identification.

I obtained a copy of the catalog and I could immediately see how it will help the library locate documents.

If a senator calls for a copy of the "Gillette Report," the library need not waste any time looking in its file on razor blades. The catalog makes clear that the report deals with "Organization and management of missile programs."

The all-time champion at having reports as namesakes was former President Herbert Hoover. He appears in the catalog 39 times.

Second to Hoover with 15 listings was — would you believe — Meyer Kestbaum? He once headed a "Commission on Intergovernmental Relations."

There was, however, only one "Liversh Report" and only one "Zink Report." For that the library can be truly thankful.

empowers Congress "to regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes." But what constitutes "commerce?" In 1824, the Court decided commerce included navigation. Later, railroad transportation and the telegraph were included. In 1903 commerce also meant "lottery tickets." In 1910, correspondence schools. In 1914, pipelines and oil. In 1926, air transportation. In the 1930's, the Court ruled that the clause was broad enough to provide a basis for the Fair Labor Standards Act which set minimum wages and maximum hours and outlawed interstate commerce in goods produced by oppressive child labor. In 1964, the clause was interpreted so broadly that "public accommodations" were included under the scope of Federal jurisdiction in the Civil Rights Act.

I have always advocated that as strict as possible an interpretation be placed on the Constitution's provisions. In my view, the commerce clause and other provisions of the Constitution have been stretched by court interpretations beyond any point envisioned by those who framed it.

Further, while the Supreme Court can rule on the constitutionality of legislative acts — possessing thereby the power to nullify acts of Congress or state legislatures — Congress presently has no similar power in relation to the Supreme Court. I continue to urge that Congress should be empowered to overturn decisions of the Supreme Court it finds to be against the interests of the people, and an amendment I have proposed to the Constitution would permit the House and Senate, by two-thirds majorities, to nullify Supreme Court decisions. Congress does possess the power to override Presidential vetoes; it should have the same power to set aside unwise decisions of the judiciary.

Chief Justice Marshall's decision in Marbury vs. Madison was, if you will, a "power grab." It marked the first major shift in the balance of power between the three "separate but equal" branches (Executive, Legislative, and Judicial) in our Federal structure. The struggle among the branches will continue, and it is the continuing responsibility of each generation of Americans to see that a proper balance of power is maintained. In my view, the people's branch, the Congress, is due for an inning.

Medicare Questions and Answers

Q—If I have more than one short stay in the hospital with just two or three weeks in between, do I pay the $40 each time?

A—No. You do not pay it again until you start another "spell of illness." This occurs when you re-enter the hospital after being out for 60 days or more.

Q—Please give me some idea as to what is not covered by the Hospital Insurance Plan under social security. I have heard so many conflicting reports that I am thoroughly confused.

A—The Hospital Insurance Plan does give you basic protection against the high cost of illness in your later years. However, it will not pay all of your health care bills. For example, physicians' and surgeons' services, including the services of pathologists, radiologists, and anesthesiologists in the hospital, are not covered by the Hospital Insurance Plan but can be covered under the supplementary medical insurance part of Medicare.

Q—Will Medicare pay for any services received before July 1 if I have not yet paid the bill?

A—No. Only services received beginning July 1 can be covered by Medicare.

Q—I will reach age 65 in December 1966. Will I be eligible for Medicare in July of this year? If so, when do I sign up?

A—Persons who are not yet 65 have a seven month period in which to sign up for social security medical insurance. The period begins three months before the month in which you become 65. In your case, we recommend that you enroll in September, your eligibility will begin in December, the month in which you will be 65.

Weekend Toll Over State Soars High

By United Press International
A beautiful fall weekend sent masses of Texans on the road and out-of-doors and the weekend toll of violent deaths soared high.

A United Press International tabulation of violent deaths showed a total of 30-24 in traffic accidents, four by homicides and two in miscellaneous ways. William Cummings, 45, of Victoria, one of the victims of miscellaneous violence, fell out of a pecan tree and was fatally injured.

John Michael Craig, 19, of Hurst, a newlywed about to be inducted into the Army, fatally wounded himself with a shotgun while frog hunting with his father. An investigator said he appeared to have been using his shotgun as a cane to climb up the bank of a pond near Hurst.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Granville Market Letter says that current indications "increasingly are pointing" to a long bear market, one in which the Dow Jones Industrial Average probably will fall to the 1962 lows of 535. It says that "nothing is going to stand up against such a market debacle," and advises short-sellers to "wait it out" and "not panic."

Hornblower & Weeks Hemphill, Noyes says there may be a greater degree of agreement soon on whether the market decline should be regarded as a total bear market or a "little bear market" as has been experienced since the postwar inflationary boom. It says that if the market advances, it should meet resistance above the 820-830 level in the dow, followed by a reaction to the 760-770 level where effective buying may develop and open the way to a more vigorous recovery movement.

The Election Race to Watch Is the House of Representatives

ANNIVERSARY KIT TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1966

By STEVEN GERSTEL
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans who plan to follow the election returns on radio or television should remember that the game is played by the numbers. And it's especially important this year to know which numbers.

Normally, an off-year election is considered decided when one party wins a congressional majority — 218 seats in the House and 51 in the Senate. The Democrats go into this year's election with such a lop-sided majority, however, that Republicans have no chance to win Congress. In fact, they could even lose a Senate seat or two.

Magic Number
So the race to watch is the House of Representatives. And the magic number is 25 to 30. If Republicans can knock off that many northern Democrats, President Johnson's "Great Society" is in trouble, even though Democrats retain numerical control of the House.

That much of a GOP gain would enable Republicans and southern Democrats to revive the conservative coalition which dominated Congress during most of the post war prior to 1964.

It would threaten the thin administration margin by which many "Great Society" programs skinned through the House, including rent supplements, highway beautification, minimum wage legislation, civil rights and even Medicare.

Republican House gains in the South won't be nearly as important to Johnson. Southern Democrats, by and large, are every bit as conservative as southern Republicans and switches here won't affect administration programs much even though they would cut democratic margins.

Important races
And while the Republicans can't make much if any dent in Democratic Senate strength, there are several important races. Some have important implications for the 1968 presidential race.

One pits former Gov. G. Mennen Williams against incumbent Republican Sen. Robert P. Griffin in Michigan and is considered a severe test for Gov. George W. Romney and his presidential ambitions. Romney, who is seeking re-election, must win big enough to pull Griffin in with him.

New York also is important to Romney. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has all but said Romney is his choice for the nomination. But if he loses his own bid for re-election, Rockefeller will be deprived of his state power-base at the 1968 convention.

Irish, Spartans Still Ranked Top In Weekly UPI Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Georgia Bulldogs have proven in one sense they're not too big for their britches.

The Bulldogs, whom Coach Vince Dooley feared might be "too big" and hence too slow to compete in the tough Southeastern Conference this year, upset previously unbeaten Florida 27-10 last Saturday for their seventh victory in eight games and were rewarded Monday with a position among the top 10 in the weekly United Press International Board of Coaches ratings.

Georgia, which has had only a mediocre 28-27-5 record over the past six seasons, leaped four places to ninth in this week's balloting and replaced conference rival Tennessee in the select group. The Volunteers slipped from 10th to 12th after struggling to a 28-10 victory over Chattanooga.

The Bulldogs' victory over Florida and UCLA's unexpected loss to Washington forced a shifting around of teams in the top 10 although Notre Dame and Michigan State retained their holds on the first and second spots respectively.

The Irish soared to their seventh victory in a row by crushing Pittsburgh 40-0 and received 23 first place votes and 337 points from the 35-man UPI board. The Spartans, who will meet the Irish in a showdown game Nov. 19, walloped Iowa 56-7 and received eight first place votes and 17 points.

Alabama, a 21-0 victor over Louisiana State, moved up one place to third as it was named first on three ballots and picked up 278 points. Nebraska won its eighth straight game and jumped two notches to fourth with one first place vote and 222 points.

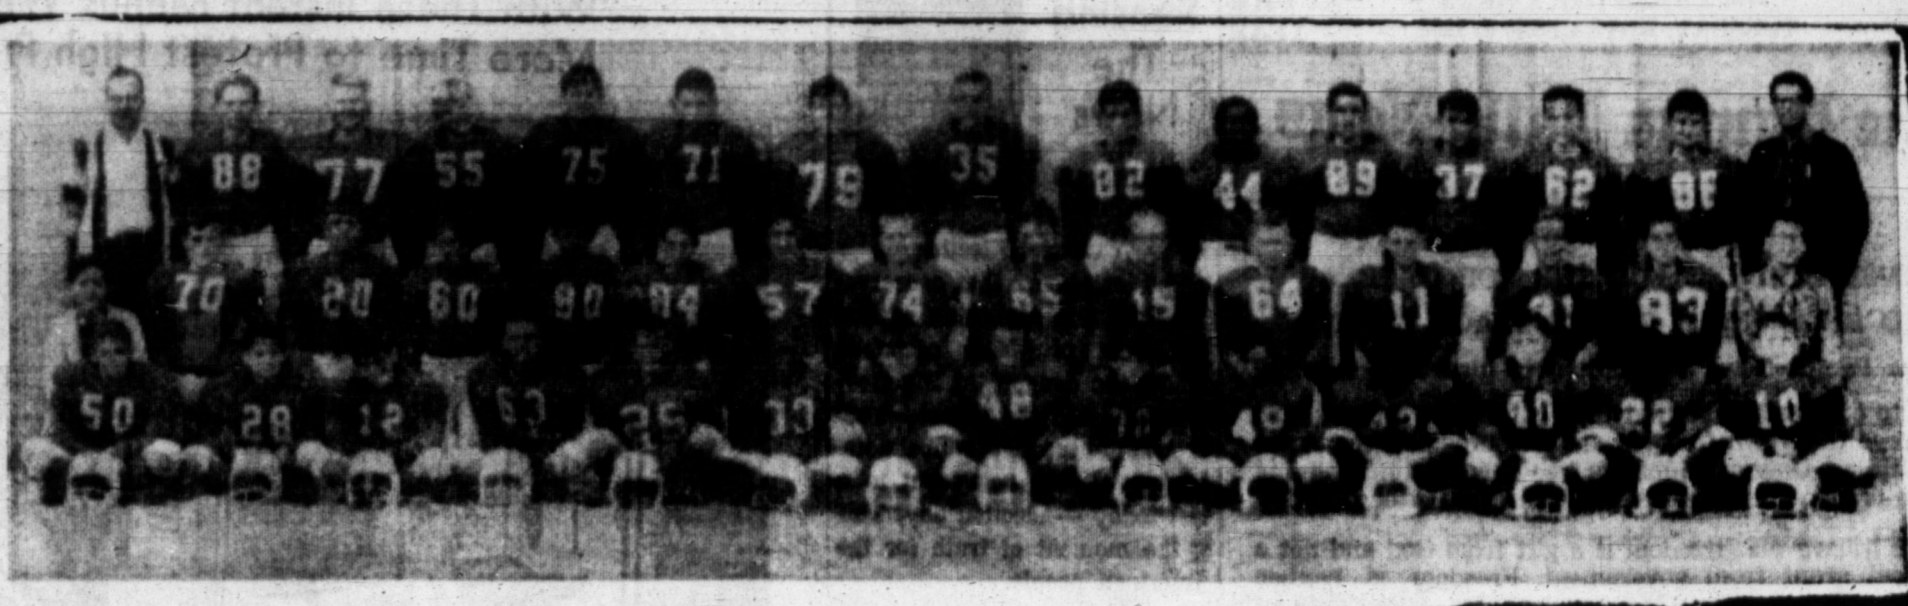

Georgia Tech retained its hold on fifth place after squeezing out a 14-13 victory over Virginia; Arkansas downed Rice 31-20 to advance two places to sixth and Southern California walloped California 35-9 and climbed to seventh.

UCLA, which had held the No. 3 position virtually all season, dropped all the way to eighth after its 16-3 loss to the Huskies while Florida managed to squeeze into the 10th position after suffering its first loss in eight games.

Purdue missed by only one point of dislodging Florida from the 10th spot as the Boiler-makers remained in 11th position for the second straight week. Southern Methodist, which was 12th a week ago, fell one notch despite a crucial victory over Texas A&M.

Houston, which trounced Tulsa 73-12, took over sole possession of 14th place as Colorado and Michigan, who were tied for 14th with the Cougars last week, fell into a tie for 15th and 17th respectively.

Mississippi, idle last Saturday, moved up from 17th to tie Colorado for 15th while the Wolverines rounded out the list in a four-way tie with Wyoming, Colorado State and Miami (Fla.).

Shockers Host Palo Duro Friday

Pampa's Shockers and Lee eighth and ninth grade and Pampa Junior High eighth and ninth grade teams all end their football seasons this week.

The Shockers will shoot for and third of the season Thursday when they host Palo Duro at 4 p.m.

Last week the Shockers upset Tascosa, 20-0 for their second victory. The Shockers stand, 2-7 for the season.

Wednesday Lee and Pampa Junior High eighth grade teams end their season with a 4 p.m. game at Harvester field.

Lee is 1-6 for the season and Pampa Junior High stands 1-3-1.

Thursday the ninth grade teams from the two schools wrap up their season at the Lee

Field at 4 p.m. Lee is 3-4 while Pampa Junior High stands 1-6.

Oakland's Daniels Top Threat In Three Major Categories in AFL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clem Daniels, who neither passes nor kicks for the Oakland Raiders, has managed to become an authentic triple threat in the American Football League.

Daniels, the Raiders' outstanding halfback, has turned in three highly impressive performances in a row and Monday was listed among the top 10 leaders in three of the league's four major offensive categories.

Always a slow starter, Daniels has come on strong in the last month to rank highly in rushing, pass receiving and scoring. He bolted for three touchdowns last weekend in Oakland's 38-23 triumph over Houston, gained 63 yards on 17 rushes and caught four passes for 97 yards.

As a result, Daniels now ranks fourth in rushing with 430 yards in 122 carries for a 3.52 average, 10th in pass receiving with 30 receptions for 466 yards and sixth in scoring with 48 points on six touchdowns rushing and two passing.

The only other AFL player to rank among the top 10 in rushing and pass receiving is Matt Snell of the New York Jets. No other player is listed in all three categories.

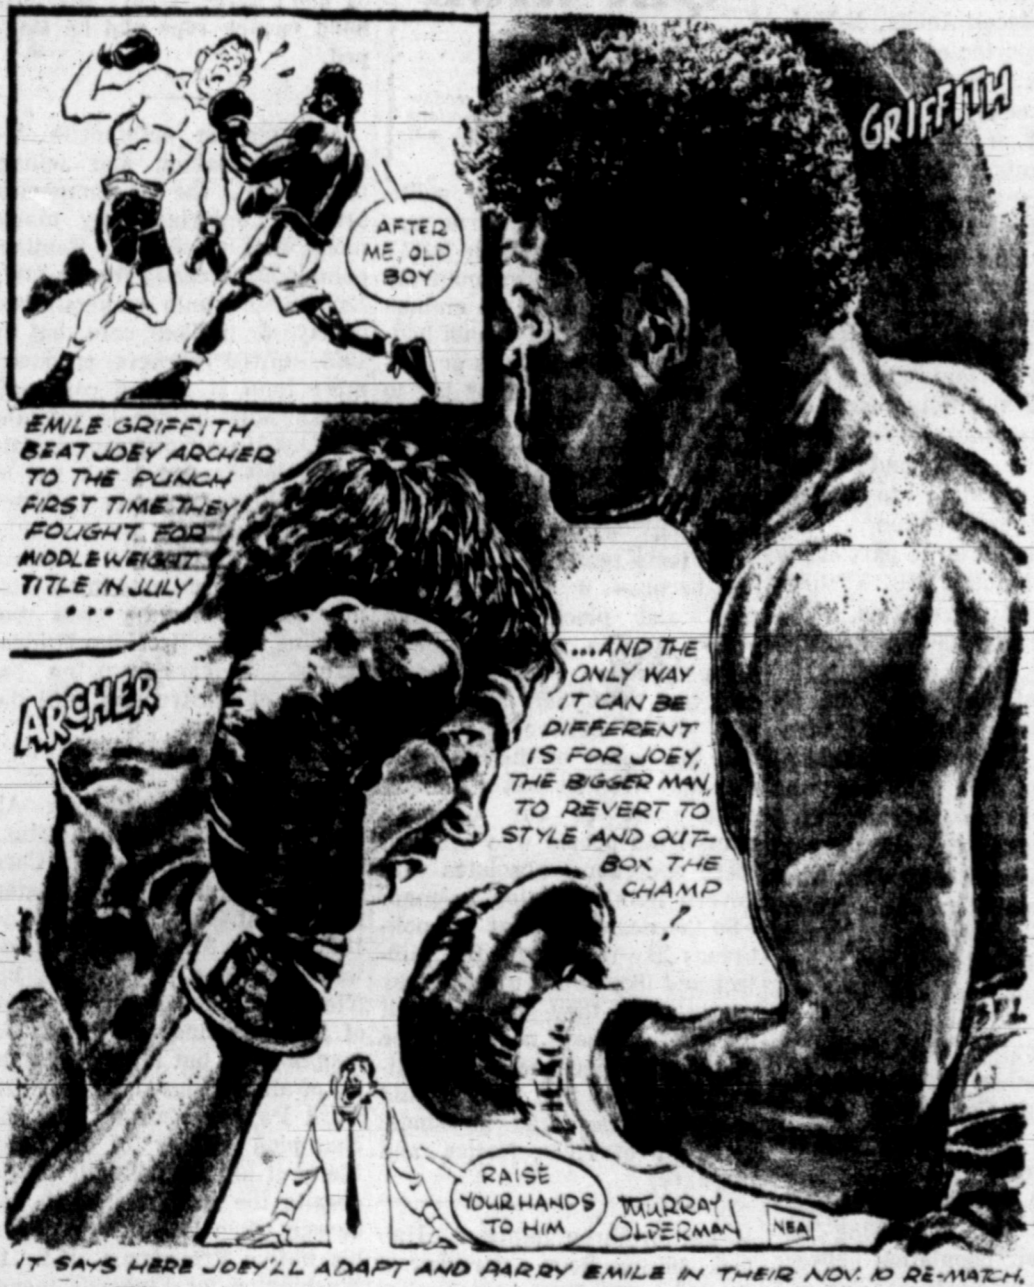

Despite the big push of Daniels, who led the league in rushing in 1963 with 1,099 yards en route to the Player of the Year award, Jim Nance of Boston continued to pace the rushers, Lance Alworth of San Diego remained atop the pass receiving list and rookie Booth Lusteg of Buffalo was No. 1 in scoring.

Nance, held to only 20 yards by a rugged Denver defense and bad weather conditions last weekend, nevertheless held a big margin over runnerup Bobby Burnett of Buffalo. Nance has gained 773 yards in 174 attempts. Burnett has amassed 513 yards in one more game while another rookie, Mike Garrett of Kansas City, was third with 458 yards.

Alworth has grabbed 48 passes for 842 yards and eight touchdowns, the best figures by any receiver. There was a three-way tie for second among Art-Powell of Oakland, George Sauer of New York and Chris Burford of Kansas City with 36 catches each.

Harvesters Eye Best Grid Season Since '53

By RON CROSS Sports Editor

Both sides will have a lot to shoot for when Berger and Pampa meet Friday night in Harvester Stadium in a north zone clash that will end the 1966 football season for Pampa.

Berger will be shooting for a share of the north zone championship while Pampa will be trying for something just as important to them, the school's first winning football season since 1953 when that Harvester team finished 6-4.

Pampa will be trying to finish with the same record and one that could have been even better with a few breaks.

The Bulldogs played the spoiler's role Saturday night, surprising Monterey, 8-7 and ending hopes of the Plainsmen to win the north zone outright.

Amarillo has a half-game lead with a 3-1 mark followed by Berger and Monterey with 2-1 records.

Amarillo has finished north zone competition and Monterey hosts Caprock Friday and must win to even share the title.

Here's what could happen: If Monterey loses and Berger wins, then Amarillo will represent the north zone in a playoff with Tascosa. If both Monterey and Berger both lose then it's still Amarillo. If Berger loses and Monterey wins then the Plainsmen will represent the north due to the fact they beat Amarillo.

Berger is 4-4-1 overall but has one of the best defenses in 3-A. In zone competition the Bulldogs have given up 44 points, an average of 12.2 per game and season-wise have allowed 175 points, an average of 19.1. It may not sound like much but take the fact the Bulldogs held Monterey, the league's best offensive team, to a mere 79 yards rushing last week and 33 more through the air.

The Plainsmen completed only three of 20 passes and had two intercepted.

Monterey scored their touchdown as the result of a Berger fumble in the first minutes of play and after this score they could go nowhere.

Besides the chance for a winning season, which should be enough, the Harvesters need to keep in mind that the Bulldogs haven't lost to Pampa since 1957.

The Bulldogs have won eight in a row and since 1944 lead the series 7-13-1. Pampa won 16-12 in '57.

DAVID MARTINDALE back at work

DAVID SMITH defense

Pampa coaches named two players — as Harvesters-of-the-Week in end David Martindale and defensive tackle David Smith.

Martindale saw fulltime duty last week after healing a leg wound and caught two passes plus doing an outstanding defensive job.

Martindale picked off a Lubbock Coronado pass, his sixth theft of the year.

Smith, a 190-pound senior, played his usual fine defensive game. He has been used especially at defense this year after playing an offensive guard position last season.

Coach Eural Ramsey said after Monday's workout that "everybody's in good shape and looking forward to Friday night."

Neely Loses Another Round

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tackle Ralph Neely has lost another round in his legal battle to remain with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

The Supreme Court, which on Oct. 10 declined to hear Neely's appeal against an unfavorable lower court decision, refused Monday to reconsider its action of last month.

The lower court had ruled that a contract Neely signed with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League in 1964 still was valid. Neely was a student at the University of Oklahoma at the time and he later returned the $25,000 bonus.

Royal Warns Of Frog Backfield

By United Press International Texas Coach Darrell Royal told his Longhorns horror tales about the Texas Christian Horned Frogs Monday, warning them particularly of two speedy Frog backs.

Royal said Norman Bulaich and Ross Montgomery were so fast, that "if they break away, we won't have anybody catching them."

He said both outran the Longhorns' Chris Gilbert at the Southwest Conference freshman track meet.

"I'm more worried about them (TCU) taking the ball and keeping it, bringing it out and moving the stakes," Royal said. Texas meets TCU Saturday in Fort Worth. The Frogs had last weekend off.

But Royal did praise Gilbert, who raced 237 yards Saturday against Baylor, breaking a 23-year Texas record. He scored twice, once on a 66-yard run from scrimmage and set up two other touchdowns in the 26-14 victory.

In Fort Worth, TCU Coach Abe Martin was almost as busy getting the Frogs concerned over Texas.

"The Longhorns have jelled into a real fine team," Martin warned. He said Gilbert "would have to be stopped to have any chance of us winning." Martin moved sophomore Fred Wright into the No. 1 center spot. He said he was encouraged over the running of Bulaich and halfback Steve London.

Southern Methodist's Mustangs listened to a scouting report on the Arkansas Razorbacks Monday then went out for a quick workout in sweatshirts.

Coach Hayden Fry announced the Mustang Stallion award went to Billy Bob Stewart, who led the team with 18 tackles last Saturday.

The remaining 550 tickets for the Arkansas game in Fayetteville went on sale Monday. They were gone by noon. More than four times the number of students will be in Fayetteville Saturday than any time in the last 10 years.

Baylor's crippled Bears learned Monday they have lost defensive star David Anderson for the Saturday game with Texas Tech.

Anderson hurt an ankle last week in Baylor's loss to Texas. Coach John Bridgers said he hoped halfback Richard Defee might be back in the lineup for the game. He missed the Texas game.

Bridgers also said there was slight hope Raul Ortiz, held out of the Texas game, might return against Tech as line backer.

District Titles Go On Line Friday Night

By A Staff Writer

A couple of district titles will be on the line Friday night in Stratford and Clarendon and Wheeler and White Deer will be right in the middle of things.

Another title, this one in district 5-B will have to wait a week before it's settled with Groom and Lefors meeting Nov. 18 in Lefors instead of Friday night.

Lefors had Miami previously scheduled and Groom hosts Tulsa B Thursday night.

Coach J. T. Hill's Wheeler Mustangs are in for another rough week, but this is nothing new and will probably rise to the occasion.

The Mustangs, who beat McLean 16-14 last week and lost to White Deer, 12-6 the week before, face Clarendon for the district 2-A title.

A Wheeler win will pit the Mustangs into the playoffs against White Deer if the Bucks down Stratford Friday night.

Should Wheeler lose then the race will end in a three-way tie with Wheeler, McLean and Clarendon all facing a coin toss to decide the championship.

Wheeler is 3-0, McLean, 3-1 and Clarendon, 2-1 in league action. McLean has finished league play.

The Mustangs stand, 7-2 for the season while Clarendon is 7-2 also.

White Deer, the No. 2 rated class A team in the state will take its unscored defense and exploding offense to Stratford.

The Bucks are 8-0 for the season and stand 3-0 in league play, while Stratford is 5-4 and 2-1 in district 1-A.

The Bucks have just yielded 12 points this season, both on pass interceptions and are scoring at a .38 point per game clip.

In other area action Canadian (4-4-1) will attempt to break a four game losing streak at Sunday and wind up the season on a winning note while McLean (7-2) will try to bounce back from the Wheeler loss when Gruber visits Tiger town.

Wheeler coach Hill pronounced his boys fit and ready for the Clarendon clash but cautioned that the Mustangs are expecting a very tough ball game.

"I'd say Clarendon is as tough as any team we've played with the exception of White Deer. They have some good strong backs."

Brazil Netters In Upset Over America

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil became the first South American country to win the Davis Cup inter-zone tennis semi-finals Monday with an upset victory over the United States, knocking the Yanks out of the challenge round for the fifth time in seven years.

The Brazilian team was paced by Edson Mandarino's upset win over top-ranked American Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Thomas Koch's surprising win over Cliff Richey of Dallas in Monday's singles matches.

Trailing 2-1 going into Monday's final matches, Brazil came back fighting to set off the biggest celebration this little cow capital has seen in years. First Koch routed Richey, 6-1, 7-5, 6-1, and then Mandarino beat Ralston 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

The Five-foot, nine-inch Mandarino, the series hero, after winning both his singles contests, was carried around the court by delirious Brazilians following his conquest of Ralston.

Mandarino played precisely and accurately in beating Ralston on the baseline as much as possible. When Ralston did charge the net, Mandarino sent backhand topspin lobs over Ralston's head, forcing the U.S. ace to run more than he had planned.

Koch played consistent tennis in beating Richey as the Texas schoolboy had difficulty in getting even the simple shots across the net. Koch, a left-handed player, smashed cross-court forehands and kept Richey on the baseline for most of the match.

Brazil will meet the winner of next week's India-Germany match in the American Zone finals. The survivor of that series will take on Australia in the challenge round next month.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rick Barry is literally running away with the National Basketball Association scoring race.

The talented San Francisco sophomore has pumped in 412 points, excluding Sunday night's meeting with Baltimore, to build a huge margin over runners-up Guy Rodgers of Chicago (286) and Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson (274).

The league rookie of the year last season, Barry had hit on 142 field goals and 128 free throws to average 37.5 points per game through Saturday's action.

Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain took the lead in field goal percentage, hitting on 68 of 120 for a .567 average while New York's Walt Bellamy (.557) rated a close second. Willis Reed, also of New York, was third with .541.

Adrian Smith of Cincinnati and New York's Howard Komives continued their not free throw race with Smith moving ahead with 56 of 63 for a .889 mark and Komives dropping to second with 48 of 55 for .873. Barry was third with 67.

San Francisco's Nate Thurmond-maintained his rebounding leadership, hauling in 208 to remain in front of Chamberlain (192) and Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas (171).

Rodgers led the circuit in assists with 161, with Robertson (105) and Komives (76) a distant second and third.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less.

Back to Schooling

All across the country, there is now appearing a new type of private school reminiscent of early efforts to provide "book-larnin" for youngsters in frontier communities.

approximate age in one room has often resulted in too many youngsters for a teacher in the same room — the parents of three youngsters of different grade levels in such a school in Michigan happily proclaim that their children are much closer together, more interested in their school work and in helping each other.

Why should parents go to all that trouble and expense, especially when their own taxes have helped pay for a bigger and more modern public school in the community? Before writing them off as crackpots, it may be a good idea to weigh in balance some of the "advantages" of the modern, big school against the presumed disadvantages of the famous "little red schoolhouse."

But the main reason parents give for participating in these little private schools is the desire to provide their youngsters with a better education foundation than they feel is obtainable in public schools in their communities.

That advantage in the bigger schools of having only youngsters of one grade and the same

There is good reason for such concern. The U. S. Commissioner of Education, Harold Howe, said recently: "If I have my way, schools will be built for the primary purpose of social and economic integration."

Liberty To Know

"Give me liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to my conscience, above all other liberties." — John Milton. "The newspaper is parent, school, college, pupil, theatre, example, counselor, all in one." — Wendell Phillips.

Escaping the Oratory

One of the more satisfying pleasures of this fall's political campaign was to escape the oratory for a few minutes to sample an advance review copy of Kay Halle's delightful new book Irrepressible Churchill, a collection of Winston Churchill's wit.

Seven years later, in 1959, the "irrepressible Churchill" wound up a twenty-seven minute campaign speech to his constituents with this gem: "Among our Socialist opponents, there is great confusion. Some of them regard private enterprise as if it were a predatory tiger to be shot. Others look upon it as a cow that they can milk. (Here he went through the motions of milking.) Only a handful see it for what it really is—the strong and willing horse that pulls the whole cart along."

Appropriate to this season of rhetorical madness in our own country are two barbed quotes from Churchill's own political campaigns. The first dates to October, 1952: "We have a deep respect for public opinion but we do not let our course be influenced from day to day by Gallup Polls, favourable though they may be. It is not a good thing always to be feeling your pulse and taking your temperature; although one has to do it sometimes, you do not want to make a habit of it. I have heard it said that a Government should keep its ear to the ground but they should also remember that this is not a very dignified attitude."

Today, the electorate had an opportunity to admit its mistakes of 1964 and to make amends. Many staunch conservatives are seeking election to Congress. They are eager to restore to the states and local communities those rights that have been taken away and return the nation to the wisely decentralized pattern that the Founding Fathers knew to be the best guarantee of individual liberty. It is not a matter of turning back the clock, but of properly setting the clock. No conservative is trying to re-create an 18th century America. What conservatives want is a 20th century America that successfully avoids the totalitarian rule that has become characteristic of so many ill-fated socialist nations in the world today.

That, it seems to us, is about the best kick in the "undignified attitude" that we've seen anybody deliver to the "consensus" politicians.

Space remains for one additional Churchillism gleaned by Miss Halle, which seems particularly pertinent today. It was prompted by an especially unpleasant bit of news about a man who was making a nuisance of himself as long ago as 1941. General Charles de Gaulle, "What," barked Sir Winston, when the news dispatch was handed to him, "is the opposite of Vive la France?"

THE AMERICAN WAY

Fair Play?

Sensing The News

By THURMAN SENSING

A Crucial Election The long hours that conservatives put into preaching against the evils of waste of public funds, the dangers of Big Government, and the threat of anarchism in the streets of the nation — all are being put to a test today — election day. This is the moment of truth for the American people.

It is fine that patriotic organizations flourish, that study groups are formed to deepen knowledge of the U.S. Constitution, that books and magazines are written, published and read (all to the end that there be a better understanding of the American system of government and way of life). But all this comes to naught if the voters do not go to the polls to register a strong dissent against the radicalism that has done so much harm to the Republic.

The Congress is the greatest instrument of the people. The Senate has the right and duty to advise and consent — or refuse to consent — on the appointment of a wide range of Executive Branch officials. A vigorous Senate, mindful of its obligation to maintain constitutional government, could do much to restrain the excesses of even the most ruthless Chief Executive.

House of Representatives has an equal power. All money bills arise in the House. Love of money, it is said, is the root of all evil. Certainly, it is the root of political power. The tragedy of our times is that the nation is being bribed, through domestic giveaway programs, to discard state and local rights. This bribery is being achieved by government officials using the people's own money.

No program has been more wasteful and less productive of good than the Johnson administration's War on Poverty. It has become a synonym for waste. Political machines are being built in the cities with tax revenues derived from the public. Yet the War on Poverty could never have come into existence by the Executive will alone. The House of Representatives had to approve appropriation bills that furnished funds for the anti-poverty political warriors.

One of the greatest disasters of the 1964 elections was the election of a large bloc of representatives and senators who were ready and willing to use the people's money to increase the Executive's domination over the country. It is the liberal bloc vote in the House and Senate that has made possible the enactment of so much hurtful legislation under the name and label of the Great Society.

Today, the electorate had an opportunity to admit its mistakes of 1964 and to make amends. Many staunch conservatives are seeking election to Congress. They are eager to restore to the states and local communities those rights that have been taken away and return the nation to the wisely decentralized pattern that the Founding Fathers knew to be the best guarantee of individual liberty. It is not a matter of turning back the clock, but of properly setting the clock. No conservative is trying to re-create an 18th century America. What conservatives want is a 20th century America that successfully avoids the totalitarian rule that has become characteristic of so many ill-fated socialist nations in the world today.

It is clear that the planners of the Great Society don't believe that individual freedom is possible or desirable. They believe that government must prepare blueprints for every individual, every school district and every town and city.

It is hard to believe that the American people want such a pattern for their lives. Yet that is what they have been getting in recent years. They undoubtedly will get more of it unless they acted effectively today. The congressional elections offered an opportunity — perhaps the last opportunity available — to apply the brakes to domestic totalitarianism before it is completely out of hand and beyond the capacity of the voters to control. A strong, conservative Congress could reinstitute government by the people, of the people and for the people in these United States.

A thought for the day—American jurist Oliver Wendell Holmes said: "Life is worth an end in itself, and the only question as to whether it is worth living, is whether you have enough of it."

No New Civil Rights Bills Due To Pass Congress For 'Years' - But Curbs on Riots Virtually Certain

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Regardless of the political complexion of the 90th Congress that convenes in January, it is a cinch that no new civil rights legislation will be enacted.

Ramsey Clark persecute the foreign-born Carmichael for opposing the draft and inciting others to do so. Although a supporter of civil rights legislation, Sweeney scathingly denounced the Cleveland rioting and favors forceful measures to prevent such outbreaks.

Even in the House, which passed the Johnson Administration's "open housing" bill in the recent session, the prospects for a new measure are dim. In the Senate, they are non-existent. A last-ditch filibuster, such as scuttled the House-approved bill, would be certain.

For the first time, these champions of civil rights are speaking out in fort-rigid condemnation of Negro violence and mob lawlessness. They are making it clear that civil disobedience cannot be tolerated and must be stopped.

It is the much-discussed backlash in influential congressional levels.

Graphicly illustrative are the comments of Representative Chet Holifield, D-Calif., chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee and former head of the liberal House Study Group. In a special statement for this column, Holifield said:

"As a dedicated supporter of all civil rights legislation during my 24 years in Congress, I have become increasingly concerned with the deterioration of the civil rights movement during the past year. The triumphs in passing civil rights legislation have rested on a coalition of racial groups moving together to correct the evils of discrimination in our society."

"The recent seizure of power by irresponsible extremists in the Negro community has in my opinion caused the stalemate that led to the defeat of the civil rights bill in the Senate. More importantly, the violation of civil law in many of our cities has engendered fear and hostility among the general population and a decline in interest — and participation throughout the stable elements that made our progress in civil rights legislation possible in the past."

Similar views were voiced by Senator George McGovern, D-S.D., Food for Peace administrator in the Kennedy Administration:

"As one long committed to the establishment of civil justice, I deplore the recent trend toward emotionalism and violence which certain extremist civil rights leaders have encouraged. The progress toward full citizenship for the Negro has been achieved in considerable part through appeals to the national conscience by reasonable, non-violent leaders, white and Negro. That accomplishment can be reversed if the ill-tempered, reckless, and narrow appeals to racial

HUNT FOR TRUTH

By H. L. HUNT

TACTICS OF WAR A few tactics of war may be listed as follows: posting snipers at strategic points to kill; attacking in masses the force held to be in opposition; bombing and destroying the person and property of another; using small mobile elements to harass the opposition on a hit-and-run basis, and otherwise using guerrilla methods.

versive persons who turn our streets into battlefields. Respect for authority is absolutely essential to maintenance of individual freedom and freedom in government.

These are among the tactics being used by the Viet Cong against our forces in South Viet Nam. They are also among the tactics being used on the city streets and public highways of the United States.

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

If those who use these tactics cannot be reached by the voice of reason, if they will not accept the structure of law and order, we face chaos and anarchy. We face the danger of civil war in the name of civil rights.

Despite the fact they may tell you that playing a good game is the real purpose of intercollegiate football, any coach will secretly admit that winning is not only the important thing, but it is everything. When his team starts losing, he loses his job. Sammy Kaye, who's been swinging and swayin' in the band business for 30 years, says rock 'n' roll music is not popular despite the fact you get it on almost any radio station you may turn on. He finds, playing dance dates around the country, that a small percentage of the attendance get up to dance when he plays that kind of music and nearly everyone steps out with a partner when he switches to the old standards.

Those are words of wisdom. No American has the unlimited right to "protest" at any time or place, by any means and in any numbers. No American has the right to decide for himself just what laws he will obey. And this applies equally to bank robbers and to misguided or sub-

Today's smile: Two women were gossiping and one said to the other: "I say that if you give a man enough rope, he'll hang himself." The other said: "I don't agree. I gave my husband enough rope and he skipped."

Question Box

We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.

QUESTION: Why do politicians so often use the term "extreme right" or "extreme left"? ANSWER: It is undoubtedly because they are in an embarrassing position and cannot logically answer questions or define their terms, so they try to change the subject by calling their opponents who are standing for individual responsibility, self-reliance and voluntary cooperation "extreme rightists."

Although the automobile industry is making and selling more cars, the big companies are not employing very many more workers. Walter Reuther pointed out recently that in 1947, 1965, 6626,000 auto workers turned nearly 5 million cars, but in 1965, 67,000 workers produced more than 11 million cars and trucks. Must it be to automation... If your offspring is naturally left-handed, don't try to change him. Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo were south-paws, too. One of the longest public works projects in the history of this country was the building of the Brooklyn Bridge. It took 13 years from the beginning of construction until the formal opening.

The term really has no meaning because it changes with time and place. A hundred years ago the man who was against slavery was an extremist and 2,000 years ago a man who didn't believe the earth was the center of the universe was an extremist and a radical.

Thoughts while shaving: Although a lot of other cola drinks are now on the market, Coca Cola has the distinction of being the oldest. It was invented in 1886 by an Atlanta doctor and was so named by one of his friends. You generally think of jade as being a delicate and fragile gem, but it is the toughest of all precious stones. Edward Payson Weston was the champion walker of all time. Many of his records still stand despite the fact he started his career when he walked from his native Providence, R.I. to Washington for Lincoln's inaugural.

But most of our progress came from people who believed there are moral absolutes that govern man's relation to man. So the answer is that the politicians like to change the subject and like to use meaningless words which they do most all the time. They never define their terms because if they attempted to do that they would show that they had no single standard of right, justice and morality.

And Senator Gale McGee, D-Wyo., member of the potent Appropriations Committee and a consistent civil rights supporter, declared: "I have become increasingly concerned with the rising tensions in our population between white and black. Increasing militancy on one side breeds militancy on the other, and gives rise to what is commonly called the backlash. I do not ask that American Negroes give up their demands for equality in our country."

Heard the Brethren minister. Hallock, 66, has been a member of the House 32 years and this has been one of the hardest campaigns of his career. Headed for defeat is Philip Sorensen, 32-year-old brother of Ted Sorensen, close assistant of President Kennedy, running as the Democratic candidate for governor in Nebraska. Young Sorensen was elected Lieutenant governor in the 1964 anti-Goldwater landslide, but this year will be licks by Norbert Tiemann, 41-year-old Republican.

"But I think it is imperative that the more militant spokesmen and leaders of the movement realize the necessity of proceeding in orderly fashion, and that they eschew lawless activity endangering lives and property and pay heed to advice that they de-escalate the confrontation which, it appears is increasingly building up. The alternative to reason could well be disaster for both black and white."

... Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge will resign his arduous Saigon post by the end of this year. The one-time Massachusetts senator and 1960 GOP vice presidential candidate, is tired and ailing. His year and a half in Viet Nam has taken a lot out of Lodge.

Representative Charles Weller, D-Ga., who made history voting for the civil rights bill and by quitting Congress in protest at the gubernatorial-nominal nomination of Lester Maddox, unsparingly assailed "black power."

Military retirees will get a 3.7 per cent cost-of-living pay increase as of December 1. This boost will total around $65 million, and retirees will get it in their January 1 pension checks. Dr. Franklin Johnson, head of the trouble-plagued Job Corps, will shortly depart. The former president of California State College in Los Angeles has been Job Corps director since last October. The U.S. will sharply war Greece that economic and military aid will be cut off unless effective measures are taken to bar Greek ships from trading with Communist-ruled Cuba. At U.S. insistence the Greek government, banned such trading, but has done little to enforce this edict. Several Greek ship owners have continued to trade with Cuba despite the prohibition. Now the State Department is threatening to get tough.

WE PREDICT — New York Mayor John Lindsay's new civilian-controlled Police Review Board will be defeated in the referendum next Tuesday despite the backing of Senators Jacob Javits R. and Robert Kennedy, D. Playing a key role in this impending decisive re-lection to backlash at Negro militance. Representative Charles Halleck, Inc., former Mayor Republican Leader, will be re-elected despite tough opposition from a young Church

HERALD headlined a story: "Altrusa To Hear Talk On Peace Corps." What another new federal agency? Wonder what it's supposed to do? Coutry Editor speaking: "The guests at any cocktail party don't care what is served as long as it's not food."
