POISE AND CONFIDENCE is recommended by Leroy Bunton as necessary attributes in carving up a holiday bird. . . also recommended are a sharp knife and know-how.

Man Of House Becomes Great 'Cutup' Today

By DORIS E. WILSON
News Staff Writer

For those who will be approaching a holiday bird with knife in hand for the first time . . . and for those whose memory has grown hazy since last Thanksgiving, as a public service to our dear friends and gentle readers, we are today publishing a few of the technicalities involved in "How To Carve a Turkey Masterfully."

This is the luckless task that faces the head-of-the-house annually. No matter how fearlessly and intrepidly he confronts his business adversaries during the rest of the year, on Thanksgiving Day, that poor, deceased bird laying helplessly on a platter will reduce even the strongest-hearted to a shivering shadow of his former self.

As you approach the bird with a sharp knife in one hand and an anchoring fork or tong in the other, the most important thing to remember is to be calm, poised and confident. This will impress the waiting guests that you are master of the situation. It might be well to hum a little tune under your breath or strike up an animated conversation with someone across from you. This will convince even the most skeptical that here is a person who knows exactly what he is doing.

The next important step, Leroy Bunton, head chef at the Coronado Inn will tell you, is to be sure the carving knife is sharp. Suggest to the Queen of the Kitchen that she remove the neck skin and fat before bringing the bird to the table. It would add an attractive touch to fill in this cavity with an apple or a bouquet of posies.

The first slice should come off the side of the breast with a slanting cut. White meat, especially warm white meat, has a tendency to crumble. The slanting motion prevents crumbling and helps gauge the desired thickness of slices. After the incision has been made, remove the fork or tongs from the anchoring position behind the knife and spear it into the sliced portion in front of the knife for easy removal from bird to platter. Always slice away from you.

The next area to attack . . . oops, we mean slice, is the side of the upper thigh. Just remove two or three layers from this area before slicing down between the carcass and thigh . . . slice down to joint then break both thigh and leg away from body.

Remove leg tendons and proceed to slice leg and thigh meat horizontally.

Always finish slicing one side of turkey, both breast and thigh, before flopping . . . er, turning turkey over on other side for the same slicing procedure.

Come to think of it, there's a much simpler way of serving turkey and it comes highly recommended by Bob Collins and Ben Canteras, chefs and co-owners of the Candle Lite Room.

It's too late to try, this year, but the suggestion, which is a revolutionary one to us, might be filed away for use next year.

Why not buy your turkey already cut up . . . as you buy chicken? This would remove all the bird-fright, muss and fuss . . . and it has quite a lot of merit.

US Cost of Living Hits High for Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose four-tenths of one per cent in October, producing the highest 12-month increase in prices in nearly a decade.

Food on grocery store shelves was the only major commodity that dropped in price, but the decrease was not appreciable. It was more than offset by higher housing, clothing and medical care costs.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the cost of living index in October was 114.5 compared to 114.1 in September. This means that it cost $11.45 last month to buy the same goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period of the index.

Arthur M. Ross, bureau commissioner, would not comment whether the latest increase indicated how the administration was faring in its attempt to curb inflation. All Ross would say was: "Obviously it's more than we like to see."

He held to his earlier prediction that the price increase for the 1966 calendar year would be 3.5 per cent, but he said he could be proved wrong.

Not since 1956-57, just before the last serious recession, had the 12-month rise in the consumer price index been as big as the 3.7 per cent boost

LBJ, Rusk Discuss Foreign Problems

JOHNSON CITY (UPI) — President Johnson and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara agreed Wednesday to sharply slash draft and military manpower requirements for the Viet Nam war from the current annual rate of 900,000 men to 600,000 in 1967.

The surprise announcement came at the LBJ Ranch where Johnson is recuperating from two operations performed just a week ago. He had stitches removed earlier Wednesday from his abdominal operation to repair an incisional hernia and he talked in subdued tones as a result of his throat surgery to remove a small polyp.

In addition to McNamara, Johnson talked with Secretary of State Dean Rusk for a top-level conference on international problems. Rusk told newsmen that he held out hope that current Soviet-British talks in Moscow will lead to a "peaceful settlement" of the Viet Nam war.

requirements for all services, those to be brought into the service through the draft as well as those who will volunteer, will be about one-third less than the manpower required in calendar 1966.

Of the 900,000 men required for this year, the defense chief said, about 38,000 were draftees.

Johnson said his voice was still sore from last week's throat operation. But he delivered his first speech since coming here Saturday to rest up from surgery.

He spoke for four minutes after pinning Exceptional Service Medals on astronauts James A. Lovell and Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin — who spent four days in space last week to wrap up the last Gemini series of space flights.

McNamara explained to newsmen on the lawn of the sprawling Johnson ranch home that the January draft call — first estimated at 27,000 men earlier this month will reflect the lowered manpower requirements. He expected a draft of 16,000 men for January.

McNamara said that "we are reaching a leveling off point" in military requirements and "defense production as well." By the end of 1967, he said, he anticipated that there would be a total force of 3.3 million men in all branches of the service.

McNamara said that by the end of this year some 385,000 U.S. fighting men should be in Viet Nam compared to 185,000 GI's at the start of this year.

"We don't anticipate it will be necessary, barring unforeseen contingencies, to add that many men to South Vietnamese forces in 1967," McNamara said. "That is one of the factors that influences the level of the draft calls."

Difficult to Predict
McNamara agreed that it was difficult to predict total manpower requirements a year in advance. "But I anticipate," he said, about 380,000 were

Connally Sure Warren Report Was Wrong Once

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Although he is "convinced beyond any doubt" that the Warren Commission was wrong on one point, Texas Gov. John Connally said Wednesday another investigation of President Kennedy's assassination would be "neither warranted, justified nor desirable."

Connally called critics of the commission "journalistic scavengers" and said instead of calling for another investigation of the assassination, "we should evaluate the credentials of these self-appointed experts."

He said he is sure he was not hit by the first of the assassin's bullets, as the Warren Commission contended.

Connally was riding in the same car with President Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963 and was wounded in the back, wrist and leg.

The Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald's first shot hit Kennedy in the back, exited through his throat, then entered Connally's shoulder, passed through his body, struck his wrist and then lodged in his left leg.

Connally said he clearly recalls hearing a rifle shot before he was hit. He said he did not hear the shot that hit him, but after he was struck, he heard the third shot that killed Kennedy.

Despite his disagreement with the commission over the sequence of bullets, Connally said he accepts the commission's conclusion that there was only one assassin "because of all the other testimony and because I have complete trust in the members of the commission."

"I'm not going to set myself up in the position that I'm infallible," he said. "It may be that we're both wrong."

Connally, 49, disclosed he has a small stomach ulcer, but said he suffered no lasting ill effects from the bullets.

Connally charged that attacks on the Warren report were "politically motivated," but refused to expand on that assertion. The only one of the critics he mentioned by name was Mark Lane, author of one of the many books on the assassination.

Johnson Honors Lovell, Aldrin

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Gemini 12 astronauts James Lovell and Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin reported Wednesday a strange phenomenon they spotted in space and told how they licked frequent problems to complete the last of the two-man Gemini spaceflights.

Lovell and Aldrin illustrated their news conference with color movies taken during their flight, including a series of wide angle views showing the entire United States.

The astronauts flew to President Johnson's Texas ranch to receive exceptional service awards—a National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) honor traditionally given to each astronaut who completes a mission.

The unusual event the astronauts told about occurred during Aldrin's first space stand, when he rode with his head and shoulders sticking out the spacecraft hatch.

Aldrin performed two such stands.

Aldrin said whenever he rubbed his fingers together, he saw a strange glow between his rubber-gloved fingertips. He said he did not know what caused this.

"None of the problems kept the flight from being successful, though trouble with the main Agena target rocket engine kept the astronauts from boosting themselves to an altitude of 460 miles.

Huge Communist Drive Thwarted On Every Turn

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists are trying to launch a huge offensive that would sweep through every part of South Viet Nam but have been thwarted at almost every turn by U.S. troops, a high military source said Wednesday.

The source said the Communist strategy is aimed at a coordinated drive that would undertake major campaigns along the demilitarized zone, in the central highlands, northwest of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta.

The Communists had mounted a buildup for their drive during the southwest monsoon season which ended in October, and had hoped to have the offensive in full swing during the current northeast monsoon season which began last month, the source said.

But the Communist master plan has been "disrupted" by U.S. countering in all areas except the delta, where it has had considerable success, he added.

The source outlined the Communist plan as military officials said the U.S. has prepared to send either Army troops or Marines into the delta, the only area where Yankee troops are not regularly committed.

British Foreign Secretary Urges Kremlin Efforts to End Viet War

MOSCOW (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown Wednesday urged the Kremlin to join moves to end the Viet Nam war, before it escalates into a larger conflict, sources said.

But there were no hopes for "dramatic results" from Brown's talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, the sources added.

The sources said British officials felt the importance of Brown's talk lay in the necessity of maintaining a steady dialogue on Viet Nam. There were reports before Brown's arrival here Wednesday that he would sound out the Russians for reaction to a possible Christmas pause in American bombing of North Viet Nam.

But sources said the subject did not arise in a preliminary session.

The sources denied reports Brown would repeat his recent proposal for reconvening the Geneva Conference on Viet Nam, of which Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen.

They said Gromyko rejected the proposal last September so there was no point in raising it again.

In Wednesday's discussion of Viet Nam, the sources said, Brown expressed Britain's concern "to find some way to end this tragic war quickly, on humanitarian grounds and because of the danger of escalation of the war into a broader conflict."

There was no word on Gromyko's response, but the sources said the exchange was cordial, frank and occasionally bantering.

Brown and Gromyko found themselves in agreement that an international treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, was an "urgent and important" requirement, the sources added. But differences remain to be worked out, they said.

Guerrillas Strike Shipping Outpost

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist guerrillas blew up shipping and attacked government outposts in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon Wednesday as U.S. troops were reported preparing to enter the delta rice bowl area for the first time in force.

In the northern provinces of South Viet Nam U.S. Marines aided by planes, tanks and warships clashed with Communist troops in a series of actions that left at least 36 Viet Cong dead.

North of the border Communist ground fire shot down one U.S. Air Force Phantom jet fighter plane, and its two-man crew was listed as missing, as clearing weather permitted American planes to strike to within five miles of Haiphong.

In Saigon, a high military source said Wednesday the Communists are trying to launch a huge offensive that would sweep through every part of South Viet Nam but that it had been thwarted at almost every turn by U.S. troops.

South Vietnamese spokesman reported that Viet Cong guerrillas mined and sank two of their vehicles and personnel carrying landing craft while they were sailing on a food relief mission 80 miles south of Saigon before dawn Wednesday.

Delta Buildup
At about the same time in the delta, the Viet Cong sprung a mortar attack against the camp of a company of government militia, attacked the post of another company nearby and hit a third station held by half a platoon.

The action underlined a statement by a U.S. military official Wednesday that the United States is ready to send Army troops or Marines into the southern-sector delta to stem the tide of Communist guerrilla warfare in that area.

The Mekong Delta area, long a stronghold of Viet Cong guerrillas, is the only sector of the country where American combat troops are not stationed in operational force.

U.S. military officials said American troops would be expected to carry the brunt of an offensive in the area, a

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

THEY BLAME YOUTH FOR MOST ANYTHING:

"College boys sock Sox" is the wail of the sock industry — because the fat of walking sock-free in loafers is big, too, on college campuses. Actually, this trend started several years ago among all ages and sexes. . . seemed easier and more natural when wearing slip-on shoes. But it really jumped into fashion this summer when the international jet set shed socks with all types of sport costumes — after legs got a good tan.

No one yet wanders sockless in shoes with laces. . . in ski boots. . . or wearing a tuxedo. Signs are current fad will probably not go much further. . . because sock manufacturers are valiantly fighting back. New combination striped ve-

MOST DANGEROUS COLLEGE SPORT—TOUCH FOOTBALL: A report just whisked out by the University of Iowa proclaims that touch football, as far as getting hurt goes, is a tougher game than varsity football. Among games played around the campus, touch football tops all others in admissions for injuries. Others high up on the injury-prone list in sports at college are skiing, physical education and workouts on the Trampoline. The university's statistics on the rough, tough game of touch football do not clarify whether some of these are coeducational matches — mixing in lasses with the passes. . . which might affect the high incidence of injuries.

GRAB BAG OF NEW THINGS:

A slip of a girl in a slip of a dress. Newest fad of one New York model is to skip to parties, free of a dress. Instead, she wears a slip — in a print, in silver, a Paisley. . . naturally solid and not sheer. Underwear as outerwear designers swear is now hip. . . Calling all nail biters. . . The first antinailbiting pharmaceutical compound especially for young adults is now on the market. A nasty-tasting chemical you paint on, the manufacturers say it's for the millions of U.S. families four-sock, bright-colored leisure socks, and new over-the-calf length socks are being rushed out to shame bald-ankled young males into keeping toes gay and cozy with sockwear.

GUITARS CONTINUE TO BE GO-GO:

Some 10 million people finger guitars in this country. . . the great majority of them are you. Girls strum mostly the straight models, teen boys buy the lion's share of the electrics. You play them alone. . . you play them with ukuleles, banjos and other instruments. . . you feature them (straight or electric) for the combos you organize. You play everything from folk to classical to pop music on their strings. School music clubs are "in" — now more than ever — with the guitar-smitten. Round up five or 10 guys and gals who can play melodies, then latch on to a qualified leader. Music buffs testify the guitar is "a social musical instrument". To buy a guitar that'll churn out the kind of music you want, first give it a test. . . check the string action both for tautness and ease of fingering. . . and see there's no warping of neck or fingerboard, no spits in the wood. Good "used" guitars, like good used cars, are fine to own. . . good new ones have a high trade-in value. How much should you pay? Varies — for a good straight folk, classic or arched-top (best for rock 'n' roll) minimum is $40, maximum $500. . . for an electric with amplifier (that out-rolls and out-rolls the arched-top)

It baffled the British viewers who get excited about cricket, a game that's played with a flat bat and wickets and can last all day. Typical was with a flat bat and wickets and one puzzled Londoner's query — "Why does the catcher in U.S. baseball wear a fencer's mask?" The Fig Leaf is the name of a new shop opened at Antioch College by the Community Government — with such little coverage, everyone's wondering what they have to sell.

The facility, where first and second stages of the Saturn V launch vehicle are to be tested, was designed so that supercold rocket propellants could be hauled to the test stands on barges via a canal system rather than by truck or railroad tank cars. The barges have a capacity of 100,000 gallons each.

Farmers, Ranchers To Be Honored At Chamber Luncheon

Farmers and ranchers in the Top o' Texas area will be honored at the November membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. The importance of agribusiness to this area will be the program presented by the chamber's agriculture committee, according to Rex H. McAnelly, chairman. The agribusiness luncheon will be held at 12 noon, Nov. 28 in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. Members are invited to bring a farmer or a rancher as a guest. Reservations may be made at chamber office in the Hughes Building.

Cambodia Gets Final Warning

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government threatened today to send pursuing troops into Cambodia if the neighboring nation continued to commit alleged border violations. Foreign Minister Tran Van Do issued an ultimatum which said if Cambodia failed to heed its "last warning," South Vietnamese soldiers may be allowed to chase Cambodian raiders and Communist troops who are using the country as a sanctuary. Do said there have been

Noon Lions To Sponsor Essay Contest

Judges for local entries in Lions International's Peace Essay Contest have been named by the Noon Lions Club president, Tom Snow.

Named to serve as judges are Wynn Veale, manager of Retail Merchants' Association; D. V. Biggers, Stephen F. Austin School principal and John Horn, Cabot engineer.

The contest is open to all young people in Pampa, who are 14 years of age and under 22 as of Jan. 15, 1967.

The contest was inflated to generate an awareness and understanding of peace among tomorrow's leaders, according to Snow.

He said the contest would release ideas of a cross section of the world's youth on the most pressing challenge facing the world today.

"Anyone who wants rules and further details of the contest should contact any member of the Pampa Noon Lions Club or me," Snow said.

Deadline for submission of essay entrants is Dec. 10, 1966.

The contest offers a grand prize of $25,000 in the form of an educational or career assistance grant to the world winner.

A grand total of $50,000 in awards will be made. In addition to first prize, eight world division semi-finalist prizes of $1,000 each will be given and these eight semi-finalists will also get travel expense to Chicago, Ill., in July, 1967. At that time, the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight.

The Pampa Noon Lions Club's winner will begin advancing up the ladder to that prize.

Birth Control Is Freedom Of Choice

DALLAS (UPI) — Birth control is freedom of choice, the U.S. Public Health Service's Bureau of Medical Services director said Monday.

Dr. Carruth J. Wagner spoke at a family planning conference.

"We reassert the inviolability of the freedom of choice of all individuals, including those who have been deprived of it," he said.

"We recognize that to deny access to scientific information and services is, in itself, a deprivation. We meet at this time when modern health and scientific methods are available and applies.

"Family planning can no longer remain the quiet privilege of those who can afford it," he said.

Wagner said the government is committed "to programs to help provide the means to all Americans who wish to exercise wisely their freedom of choice in determining the spacing and size of their families."

First VA School Checks Are Out

Most veterans attending school under the new GI Bill have received their first checks, "but if you're one who did not and fail to receive your check due this week, it's possible you failed to do your homework," the VA told veteran students today.

Waco VA Regional Office Manager, Jack Coker, urged students who fail to receive checks due this week to:

1. Make sure that the notice of enrollment, which must be filled out and mailed by the school, has been sent to the VA by the school.

2. Make sure the certificate of attendance, which the veteran must fill out and send to the VA, has been mailed.

3. If there is any question about payment, contact the nearest VA Office. The VA pointed out that it was not necessary for the veteran student attending college to send in his certificate of attendance for the first month since VA accepted the college's notice of enrollment as basis for paying the first check.

However, the VA emphasized, all subsequent checks will be withheld until the student's own certificate of attendance is received. VA officials, recalling past experience with the GI educational programs of World War II and the Korean Conflict, pointed out that a "shakedown period" was necessary before the payment machinery was functioning smoothly.

Red Master Plan

At the same time a high military source said the Communist grand strategy in South Viet Nam is aimed at a coordinated drive that would include major offensives along the Demilitarized Zone, in the Central Highlands, in War Zone C northwest of Saigon and in the Mekong Delta.

However, the source said, the Communist master plan has been "disrupted" by U.S. troops in all areas except the Mekong Delta, where the Red move has had considerable success.

Price Nears Completion Of Briefing

Congressman-elect Bob Price will complete an Air Training Command briefing Monday that began several weeks ago with a briefing on the mission of Amarillo Air Force Base.

At the invitation of Secretary of the Air Force Harold Brown and Amarillo Air Force Base commander, Gen. Loren McCollom, Price will complete his briefing from the seat of a Reese Air Force Base T-38 jet trainer at 9 a.m. Monday.

The new 18th District representative will be making his first jet fighter flight since his discharge from Air Force active duty in 1955. Price flew 27 combat missions during the Korean Conflict in an F-56 Sabre Jet and was later a jet gunnery instructor.

Other engagements scheduled by the new official during the coming week include a speech before the Childress Rotary Club Wednesday, Nov. 30, and attendance at the City of Amarillo legislative briefing Thursday, Dec. 1.

Other upcoming activities for Price include attendance at the Air Force Association meetings on Dec. 3 and a speech before the annual meeting of the Producers Grain Corporation Dec. 5.

Man Found Guilty In Murder Case

A Negro airman stationed at Amarillo Air Force Base was found guilty of murder without malice late Wednesday evening by a petit jury in 31st Judicial District Court, Pampa.

Joseph L. Lewis Jr. of Baltimore, Md. pleaded not guilty to the April 10 shooting of Nathaniel Woodard, 17, 546 Maple, in the Peppermint Lounge.

After an hour and 15 minutes deliberation, the 12-man jury returned a verdict of guilty and a 4-year penitentiary sentence with a recommendation of probation. Judge Lewis M. Goodrich placed Lewis on four years probation.

Woodard died of a gunshot wound in the left side and was pronounced dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital in the early morning hours of Sunday, April 10. He had been shot once with a .32-caliber pistol. Sheriff Rufe Jordan said the shooting was the result of a longstanding argument over a girl.

Following the shooting, Lewis, accompanied by three other airmen, returned to Amarillo Air Force Base and later turned themselves in to Air Force security police. The airmen were returned to Gray County, where Lewis led officers to the recovery of the murder weapon, which had been tossed away near the Celanese plant. The three other airmen involved in the shooting were not indicted.

It's Turkey For Deputies, Prisoners

There was the most tantalizing aroma floating around the third floor corridor in Gray County Courthouse late Wednesday evening.

Investigation revealed the aroma to be emanating from the kitchen of the sheriff's wife, Mrs. Rufe Jordan.

She was preparing Thanksgiving Day dinner for her family, sheriff's deputies and their families as well as for prisoners in county jail.

The dinner was to be served today at noon in the basement of the courthouse.

This has been a tradition with The Jordans for the past 15 years.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
 UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the crowded floating market, in ornate new homes and in tall, glass-encased new ancient Buddhist temples, a wartime prosperity has hit office buildings overlooking Bangkok.

It is a prosperity not entirely welcomed even by the Thais, or called by their former name, the Siamese, a gentle, smiling and hospitable people bountifully supplied with the necessities of rice and fish.

In the new prosperity, older Thais fear for the future of custom and tradition and of the young people who now sometimes hold hands in public.

And beneath it also is the gnawing fear that the reasons for this prosperity—a $200 million military construction program plus the presence of 33,000 American servicemen—are there only as harbingers of the day when the war for Southeast Asia also will engulf Thailand as it first did neighboring Laos and then swept with redoubled fury into South Viet Nam.

Could Be Close

The moment may be closer than we think.

There are disturbing similarities in today's events in Thailand to those just preceding the swift escalation of the war in South Viet Nam beginning in 1962.

From Bangkok, UPI's chief correspondent there, Kim Wil- lenson, has reported that Communist guerrillas in Thailand now number some 5,000 men. He said American advisers estimated in the hundreds are working with Royal Thai troops trying to root the Reds out of the vulnerable northeast along the Laotian and Chinese borders.

Camouflaged U.S. helicopters, minus the white star standard for the Air Force, carry the troops into action.

When the United States first took over direct military aid to South Viet Nam, U.S. advisers there also were numbered in the hundreds—685 to be exact.

And, in 1962, when American advisers gradually were taking over a shooting, Communist Viet Cong were numbered at around 9,000.

As the American effort escalated, the Communist forces also built up their own manpower almost man for man so that today, not counting the South Vietnamese, the two sides are almost equal at close to 400,000 apiece.

Badly Led

As the bulk of the fighting moved from Laos into South Viet Nam there was a hope that the Vietnamese would be more strongly motivated and therefore better fighters. The Vietnamese proved willing to die but they were badly led.

The Thais sent troops to fight the Communists during the Korean War and a token force of Thailand's air and naval services in South Viet Nam. But as a people they never have been faced with disciplined and determined Communists and so their final reaction must remain in doubt.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK
 UPI Education Specialist

A teen-age party should be properly supervised. This doesn't mean interfering or joining in the party but it does mean using good judgment to avoid the development of problems.

The basic responsibility to supply proper supervision belongs to the parents in whose home the party is held. Other parents could be involved depending upon the needs and circumstances. Cooperation between parents is most important.

There is certainly no harm in a parent making a telephone call to find out what is being planned at a party to which his child has been invited. Some parents hesitate to do this because they feel it may be embarrassing. It should never be embarrassing to show an interest in a child's welfare. An offer to assist in preparations might be a diplomatic way to discuss the plans. Remember that the other parent would probably like to know the same things when the situation is reversed.

What about alcoholic beverages? Liquor does not belong nor is it needed at a teen-age party. Attendance at parties where liquor is served should be avoided.

Teen-age drinking has resulted in all kinds of undesirable behavior. Automobile accidents, vandalism, fighting, sexual promiscuity are often the result of alcohol.

Hopefully, the individual teen-ager has developed values and standards. It is unfortunate when pressures of peers and group wildness work against the teen-ager's good judgment.

Parents have an absolute responsibility to guide and protect their children from improper activities. Many surveys of teen-agers have indicated that they want and respect parents who set reasonable standards and enforce them.

Parents should be aware of their teen-ager's friends. Perhaps it would be helpful if groups of parents whose children do attend parties and associate with each other, got together and agreed upon some reasonable standards for parties and other activities.

This would certainly avoid the problem of teen-agers who tell their parents that all the parents are more lenient.

Feel free to set your own standards. Discuss them with your child and be sure he understands them. Make reasonable compromises but don't be afraid to stand your ground and enforce your rules.

Parties should be fun. However, fun does not require liquor or any other improper teen-age activity.

Salt Necessary in Balanced Diets

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I often expect I am eating too much salt for my health.

A — The truth is that salt is necessary, according to the American Medical Association, to maintain the proper balance of constituents in the blood, the tissue fluids and the cells. The normal individual eating too much salt gets rid of it through the kidneys, but this is no sign that it has injured the kidneys. Except for persons with poor circulation, edema, or other cause for which a physician may restrict the salt intake, there is not much danger of eating too much salt.

Q — My boy is doing poorly at school. My mother says I should feed him more brain foods. Will you suggest some please.

A — There are none. Fish, nutmeg and other foods have been designated by some fad-dists as brain food. There is no such thing as a brain food.

Rutabagas, Potatoes Good With Meat

COMBINE rutabagas and potatoes.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reader wants to know the difference between rutabagas and turnips. The answer is that rutabagas are different in shape and appearance, generally yellow-fleshed, whereas the turnip is white-fleshed. Rutabagas are grown in northerly latitudes, contain more vitamin A than turnips, and are well-endowed with other nutrients. They make a crisp and flavorful meat accompaniment.

SAVORY RUTABAGAS AND POTATOES

- 3 cups (1 1/2 pounds) diced fresh rutabagas
- 2 cups (1 pound) diced fresh potatoes
- 1 cup chicken or beef stock
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1/4 cup chicken or beef stock
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
- Chopped parsley (optional)

Combine rutabagas, potatoes, stock and salt in saucepan. Bring to boiling point without cover and boil 5 minutes. Cover and cook only until tender, about 20 minutes. Mix flour with

Food Buying Guide

The following guide to the nation's food shopping buys for this coming weekend was prepared by the U.S. Department of Interior and Agriculture for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Thanksgiving holiday is a farmer's dream come true. Housewives and cooks across the nation try out a variety of dishes and new recipes to treat the dinner guests.

Boston butts head the pro's list, followed by hams, roast cuts and, in many areas, bacon. Turkeys have been in excellent supply, and they compete, in most areas, as a good buy with broiler-fryers.

Vegetables in season are: Cabbage, carrots, celery, lettuce, onions, potatoes, sweet potatoes and tomatoes.

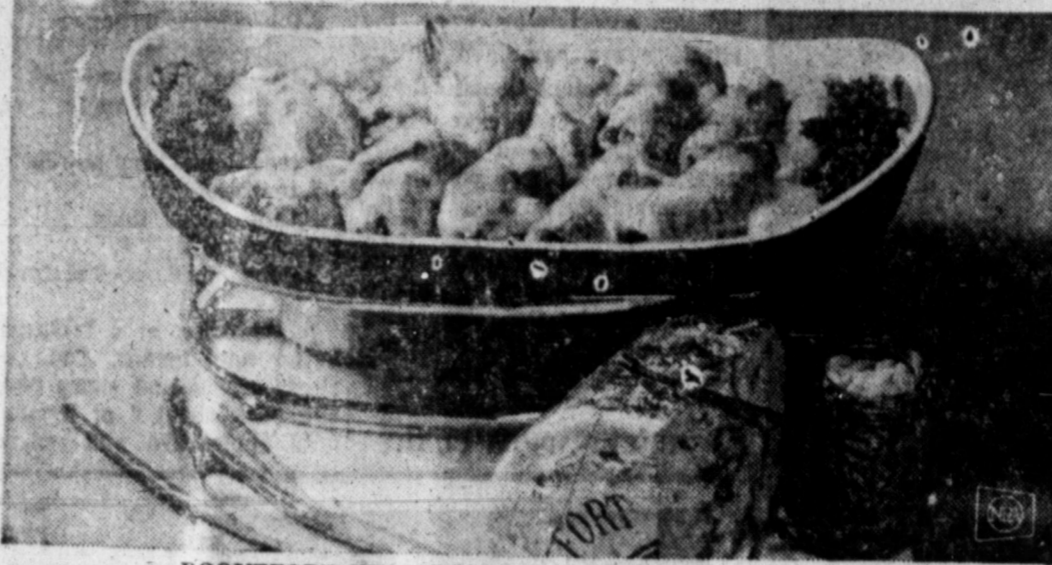

Plentiful fruits are: Apples, bananas, grapefruit, grapes, orange, tangerines, and cranberries.

Canned salmon is a good fish buy nationally.

the 1/4-cup chicken or beef stock and mix until smooth. Add to rutabagas and cook until slightly thick. Add butter or margarine and black pepper. Serve hot garnished with fresh parsley, if desired. Six servings.

Mix cream cheese with black bean soup straight from the can) and a pinch of onion powder as a spread for rye crackers.

State Badly Needs Rain, Officials Say

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)— Texas cotton harvest benefitted from the dry weather of the past week but most of the state badly needs moisture, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said Monday.

The cotton harvest reached the two-thirds completion mark, well ahead of the 46 per cent mark at this time a year ago. Harvesting of soybeans, sugar beets, peanuts and castorbeans also continued at a fast pace.

Farmers over the state were busy with such activities as shredding stalks, feeding cattle, watering wheat, along with fall fertilizing and land preparation.

The weekly crop-weather report noted that practically the entire state is short of moisture and urgently needs rain to hold present condition.

The report also noted that the first full week of the deer hunting season also saw "popular activity" in rural areas during the past week.

Harvesting of sorghum, peanuts and soybeans were about over, running some two weeks ahead of a year ago in most instances. Oats planting is 95 per cent completed and 93 per cent of wheat seeding is over.

Carrots remain in good supply and late potatoes still were being dug in the High Plains. Seeding of onions was about over in the Fort Stockton and Pecos areas.

Transplanting of onions is underway at Laredo. Carrots, broccoli and cauliflower are being harvested in the San Antonio area. Crops of bell peppers, cabbage, carrots and tomatoes are being gathered in the Winter Garden region.

Bell peppers moved in fair volume in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Cucumbers still are available and harvest of snap beans started. Some cabbage, sweet corn and mixed greens, were available in the Valley.

The chilling word as we now hear it is that today's 13-year-olds can expect to be drafted in 1971 for the war in Southeast Asia which might be won in five years, maybe or could continue for 20.

Today's youngest teen-agers will be 18 and draft bait in five years.

Twenty years! That would be 1986. Male children still unborn could be marked for that war and perhaps for death in the Asian jungle.

This is in contrast to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's campaign cheerer-upper spoken just before this month's congressional election. McNamara said he planned a reduced Viet Nam build-up in 1967; that draft calls would be cut back during the next four months if present trends continue. If McNamara is right and a favorable trend rapidly expands, the chilling word is wrong and that would be a blessing to all.

Some of the cheerer-upper shine came off the secretary's optimism after the votes were counted about two weeks ago. The Pentagon was engaged on Nov. 9 in a customary ploy. It was explaining McNamara's optimistic pre-election statement pledging a slowdown in the rate of troop deployment.

About 200,000 men were shipped into South Viet Nam in 1966. As of McNamara's slowdown statement, U.S. troop strength there was about 380,000. The Pentagon explanation was that McNamara's slowdown did not rule out a troop strength of as many as 500,000 for end of 1967—an increase of about 120,000.

Memory threw a shadow of further doubt around optimism based on the secretary's statement. Memory recalled that Gen. William C. Westmoreland had told President Johnson in South Viet Nam some weeks ago that he needed more troops, and that LBJ said they would be sent.

Good memory caused Charles Cordry, national defense expert of UPI, Washington, D.C., to paw through his files for an article by Seymour J. Dietchman, newly designated director of Pentagon guerrilla war research. Before taking that assignment, Dietchman wrote last May in the Washington Post that for the United States to win the war in South Viet Nam in as few as five years would require troop strength of "anything from a half-million to two-million" U.S. men.

Dietchman is a staff member of Institute for Defense Analysis (IDA).

On that scale he estimated that Americans killed in action would equal the toll in Korea, which was 33,629 service dead. He wrote that the war could last for 20 years with casualties still on the Korean scale if the war continued to be fought at the levels prevailing when he wrote the article last spring.

About 260,000 U.S. troops were in South Viet Nam last spring. Casualty figures had begun to rise, establishing records from week to week.

In the third week of May 1966, there were 966 U.S. casualties of whom 146 were killed, 820 wounded. Of course, Dietchman was writing last spring about five years of war or 20 years, of Korean-scale casualties and such. But since then he has become the Pentagon's research director in Viet Nam war technique.

Cordry asked Dietchman this week about the article of last May, and the author said he had no reason now to alter his conclusions.

Richard M. Nixon said on Nov. 5: "I believe current Johnson policies resign us to a war that could last five years and produce more casualties than Korea." Many persons read this statement as mere campaign oratory. So did many regard McNamara's optimistic Nov. 6 cheerer-upper.

Guerrilla expert Dietchman is not in politics. There is a grim detachment about his chilling judgment. What optimism is warranted if the United States may be compelled for from 5 to 20 years to pour more men, material and blood into Southeast Asia to win this nasty little war and to relieve an unborn generation of the threat of an early grave in an Asian jungle?

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column is provided by the State Bar of Texas and written by Will Bernard. It is published by the News as a public service.

Vincent, crippled in an auto accident, sued the other motorist for damages. In court, Vincent's doctor prepared to describe the injury by use of a skeleton.

But the defense attorney raised an objection:

"A skeleton is too gruesome and too melodramatic to be allowed in the courtroom. It is bound to inflame the emotions of the jury."

Nevertheless, the court allowed the doctor to proceed, since this happened to be an effective way of enlightening the jurors. The judge commented:

"People learn better with the eyes than with the ears."

In recent years there has been a sharp increase in the use of "demonstrative evidence" — that is, evidence used not to prove something (like a blood-stained knife) but to explain something (like the skeleton). Diagrams, scale models, and samples are common tools in today's courtroom.

And, for the most part, the law has approved this trend. For whatever helps to clarify facts also helps to do justice.

On the other hand, the very power of demonstrative evidence is a reason for caution. Too freely used, it might turn a trial into a show and have a lopsided influence on the jury.

In another personal injury case, the doctor not only used a skeleton but also demonstrated — by wielding a scalpel — the surgery he had performed on the victim.

An appellate court decided this was going too far, needlessly emphasizing the plaintiff's ordeal.

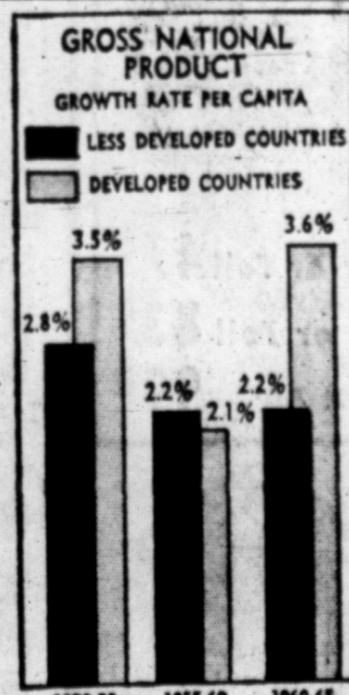

Nor is demonstrative evidence allowed if it is misleading. In an assault case, a woman accused her neighbor of striking her with a stick two feet long. But a "replica" of the stick, offered as evidence, was a full three feet long.

The court rejected this evidence, since it would mislead more than it would enlighten.

In proper circumstances, almost anything may serve as demonstrative evidence. Once a horseback rider sued a zoo, charging that his horse had been panicked by the "unsightly and unusual appearance" of the zoo's elephant.

At the trial, the defense brought in its demonstrative evidence: the elephant in person. A mere baby, he proceeded to charm everyone in the courtroom with his impeccable manners and friendly demeanor.

With no further ado, the plaintiff dropped the case.

The free world's less-developed countries are falling further behind the advanced countries in economic growth, a study by the Committee for Economic Development shows. Greater Gross National Product growth rates in the advanced countries since 1950, except for the period 1955-60, have widened the gap between rich and poor nations.

THE RESCUE

DALLAS (UPI) — The 44-year-old man tried again and again to rush into the basement of the burning apartment where he lived. Police restrained him each time. Finally they arrested him. Then added more charges when they found what he was trying to save: ten gallons of illegal homemade beer.

The mallard duck is the most abundant wild duck in the world.

Baten Fights Viet Cong from Helicopter

AN KHE, Viet Nam — Sp4 Arnold E. Baten is a member of one of the most unique units of the U.S. Army — the 2nd Battalion, 20th Artillery, the first and only aerial rocket artillery battalion in the world.

The 23-year-old soldier is a crew chief on the rocket-armed helicopters of the 1st Cavalry Division and it is his job to keep the helicopter flying. When the helicopter is in flight, he doubles as a door gunner.

Baten joined the 1st Cavalry Division in mid-July and since then has flown more than 50 combat missions and has been decorated with the Air Medal and seven Oak Leaf Clusters. He has been shot at 4 or 5 times but has never been hit because, as he puts it: "The Viet Cong are pretty bad shots."

Baten spends 75 per cent of his time away from the Cavalry Division's base camp near An Khe in the central highlands of Viet Nam. He has participated in Operations Thayer and Irving.

Baten's helicopter is always on the alert. In addition to Baten, there is a door gunner, a pilot and co-pilot. The helicopter is armed with 48 rockets, automatic rifles and machine guns. His helicopter and three others took the communists under fire and killed them all.

Baten was trained as a helicopter crew chief and mechanic at Fort Eustis, Va. He worked on helicopters at Fort Hood, Texas, for four months before going to Viet Nam.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Baten of 940 East Francis St.

Johnson May Delay Asking for Tax Increase

A balanced budget is possible in this fiscal year. That's the view of a private organization with a reputation for making accurate evaluations of budget problems of the Federal Government — the Council of State Chambers of Commerce. The Council notes that spending is likely to be $116 billion in the current fiscal year, compared to $112.8 billion President Johnson estimated when he submitted the FY '67 budget in January. But the Council also notes that Federal revenues will total about $5 billion higher than the $111 billion the President had forecast. If so, the budget would be balanced at $116 billion.

Obviously, if prospects increase for a balanced budget, much of the pressure will be alleviated for a tax increase next year. One argument advanced for a tax increase is that deficit spending by the Federal Government intensifies inflationary pressures. If there is no appreciable deficit, that argument loses its point.

As I have said many times before, I am opposed to a tax increase. And I believe Federal spending can be held in check so that the powerful energies of our booming economy can bring Federal revenues into balance with expenditures without higher taxes being necessary.

President Johnson is about to begin his annual review of appropriations bills approved by the 89th Congress. He said recently, "We are going to withhold as many of those appropriations as we feel we can in the national interest" and that he would soon have further things to say on the subject. It seems obvious that the President means to attempt to achieve the objective his economic advisors and, now, the non-governmental and conservative-oriented Council of State Chambers of Commerce says is possible — a balanced budget in this fiscal year.

The President has said any tax increase will be determined by cuts made in appropriations approved by Congress, by the amount of money the President can keep from being spent from totals approved for spending by the Congress. It is within the President's authority to do so. In the appropriation process, Congress sets the limits of government spending but the President, through orders to subordinates in the Executive Branch, can hold actual spending to lower levels. He can, if he chooses, order that nothing be spent to fund a program he wishes to eliminate. From time to time, the exercise of this power has brought Presidents into bitter conflicts with Congress, whose Members commonly believe that funds voted by them to fund a program should be spent without question by the President. A good case can be made for both sides of the question but the fact is that the President does have the power to withhold spending of appropriated funds.

Twenty times the speed of sound is the flight environment in the hypervelocity wind tunnel used to test a model of an aerodynamic maneuvering re-entry vehicle, one version of the "lifting body" aircraft which one day may be flying back from space missions for landings under their own power. Testing of this delta-shaped model is under way at Lockheed-California Co., Burbank, Calif., for the Air Force's Flight Dynamics Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

den does have the power to withhold spending of appropriated funds.

With the possibility that a deficit can be avoided this year — that the United States may attain a balanced budget in this fiscal year — the President may make sharp cuts in some programs. He is further pressed to do this because he would like to avoid having to ask Congress to pass legislation increasing taxes. No Congress likes to raise taxes. It is possible that the 90th Congress might balk at a tax increase request and counter by slashing funds for programs the President thinks are essential. If the President does have to come to Congress to ask for higher taxes, you can be sure a fight will ensue.

Making predictions is a risky business because there is always someone to remind forecasters of their past errors. But I predict that President Johnson will delay asking for any tax increase. He will count on spending and budget cuts and added revenues from the rising economy to meet such added costs as are forced by the war to bring sufficient balance to make a tax increase unnecessary.

In any event, economic pointers and resultant White House decisions are going to make most interesting reading in coming weeks.

The M14 'Troublemaker' May Well Be the Gun That Won the East

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
HARTFORD, Conn. (NEA) — A century and a half ago a furrow-browed tinkerer named Sam Colt invented a weapon which shot 10 to 20 shells a minute and helped civilize the western half of the United States. Cavalrymen called it the Peacemaker.

More recently, the manufacturing concern named for Colt invented a weapon which shoots 650 to 850 shells a minute and is helping civilize the southern half of Viet Nam. Infantrymen call it the Troublemaker.

Both guns were designed to destroy the enemy, of course, but the comparison ends there. A single of the latter exceeds a dozen of the former. Colt's M-16 rifle makes a man a crowd. It is the most accurate, reliable and destructive method of individual firearms extermination the American soldier has ever possessed.

Accuracy?
Tolerance in the Troublemaker is figured more exactly than in jet aircraft engines and at 300 yards a man can group endless rounds in a foot-square bull's eye.

Reliability?
Modern engineering has nearly eliminated all stoppage possibilities except wear. Even rust is combated; the metal is of noncorrosive aluminum alloy.

Destructibility?
An M-16 will burst a steel helmet open one-fourth of a mile away and the cartridge can put a baseball-sized hole in the flesh of a targeted human being.

"I'm prejudiced," admits one Colt engineer, "but this is an incredible rifle. I venture to say that if our enemy would have had it a century ago, our soldiers would be living in teepees today."

Also, he adds grimly, if our enemy in Viet Nam had the

The M-16 is the soldier's friend. Troublemaker today, greater numbers of our soldiers would be fortunate to be living at all.

For all of this praise, however, the weapon has its critics. And if the gun has caused considerable woe among the Viet Cong in Southeast Asia, it has done some of the same among various interests here at home.

Some military people, for example, have downplayed the M-16 as a "one-theater rifle" — good for jungle combat but not necessarily for conventional warfare.

Some politicians have condemned it as excessive. One has said that it provides too much firepower for the average soldier. "One bullet at a squeeze should be enough," he maintains. "More than that is just a waste of ammunition."

Some civilians have also complained. The Troublemaker's controversial operation (it bullet sort of tumbles to target) causes massive wounds and has been unfavorably compared to the World War I "dumdum" — a regulation bullet fied down to make it spread upon impact. Use of the dumdum is outlawed by the Geneva Convention.

Still these objections do not detract from the Troublemaker's effectiveness in Viet Nam. There in the heat, humidity and harassment, it works wonderfully well.

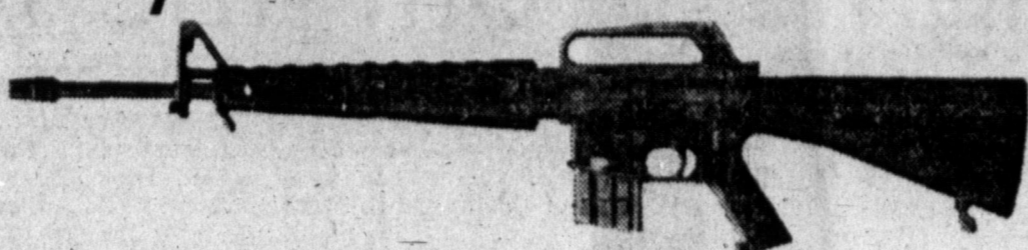

So well, in fact, that GIs who have not been issued the rifle petition the Colt firm daily with offers to buy them privately. Hundreds of requests have been made along the "I'll pay you $10 now and $10 a week" plan.

Colt sells none in this manner. The firm couldn't, even if it wanted to, since there are several laws forbidding sale of automatic weapons to individuals.

And, anyway, the company needs every rifle it manufactures (more than 1,000 a day) to satisfy a growing military appetite. A recent Army order of some 400,000 has pushed production to panic proportions and Colt is hiring 300 new people a month to meet demands.

"We're working like mad," says a company employe, "but we feel good about it. Things haven't changed so much since Sam Colt's first six-shooter. . . we still like to think we're making the same by-product." Not trouble, he adds. "Peace."

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capital

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. —Gov. John Connally has made his big decisions on state spending and taxes for the coming fiscal period.

He scheduled releases of his budget by sections starting this week. Reportedly, it calls for just under $200,000,000 in new taxes.

First section on state employment problems calls for payroll hikes of $75,000,000 from all funds and $26,000,000 from the general revenue.

Connally told Texas mayors and council members that he will not recommend the optional local-sales taxes they advocate. He indicated that he won't ask for an increase in state general sales levies.

Speculation is that the governor will include a gasoline tax increase, college tuition boost and sales tax on alcoholic beverages in his revenue program.

He definitely will recommend some financial relief for hard-pressed cities. He hinted this will be in the form of state assistance for building, maintaining and policing streets.

While Connally completed his financial recommendations which will be sent to legislators on December 15, legislative budget writers made no progress.

LL Gov. Preston Smith has not called a meeting of the Legislative Budget Board since dismissal of Director Vernon McGee on August 29. Smith promised a legislative budget would be submitted by the January 15 deadline, however.

REQUESTS ALMOST DOUBLE — Texas' state agencies have requested 93 per cent more money for the 1968-69 biennium than they are receiving during the biennium. Governor Connally said that's evidence of the increasing complexity and magnitude of state government.

Connally said general revenue appropriations for the current biennium total $635,000,000 and requests for the next two-year period amount to almost double that sum — $1,216,000,000.

"Biggest item in the budget is public and higher education," Connally said, "and it is in this critical area where the largest increase is requested." The current appropriation in this area is $347,000,000 but $683,000,000 is requested, he said.

OIL ALLOWABLE AT PEAK — Santa Clause came early for Texas oil producers, Railroad Commission set the highest production factor in seven and a half years for December.

Statewide allowable will be 36.5 per cent of potential. Factor will permit production of 3,322,712 barrels a day, compared with November's 34.5 per cent which produced allowable of 3,205,042 barrels daily.

Commented Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey in announcing the happy tidings: "The crude oil market is extremely high. Demand is extremely strong, and will remain strong for the next several months."

NEW VOTER SIGNUP SYSTEM PROPOSED — A bi-partisan election law sub-committee, headed by Sen. Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells, has agreed unanimously on a proposed new free registration system for Texas voters.

System would work like this: all voters must sign up personally with county tax officials, initially. Afterward, they can register annually by signing an official application form sent out by the tax office.

Voters must carry a registration card or certificate and identify themselves by signature at the polls.

Creighton said he hopes to submit the plan, together with an omnibus election law "clean up" bill, to the public hearing early next month.

Voters at the November 8 general election expressed preference for annual registration as opposed to permanent sign-up.

TEACHERS' BENEFITS — Texas college teachers may not get salary increases from the 60th Legislature, but they may get a new battery of fringe benefits as compensation, if the recommendations of the Interim Legislative Committee on Faculty Compensation in State-Supported Colleges and Universities are followed.

In reporting to approximately 200 college presidents and professors, the committee said it would recommend to the Legislature an optional retirement or annuity program, paid research or study leaves, state aid for group insurance plans, the waiving of tuition for faculty members and their families and lifting the legal ban against construction of parking lots that do not charge user fees.

WATER PLAN ADVISORS — Twelve West Texans have been named as an advisory group to the Texas Water Development Board to keep the board informed of West Texas attitudes toward the state's fulfilling its Texas Water Plan.

The 12, nominated by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., of Lubbock, will be kept fully informed and will be asked for advice as two major Texas engineering firms and the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation explore various ways to get water surplus from East and Northeast Texas to West Texas.

Board authorized the preparation of two contracts aimed at the West Texas water problem and accepted the bureau's offer to make a study of the possibility of pumping water back up the Colorado River to serve San Angelo, Midland, Odessa and El Paso.

Appointed to the advisory group were C. B. Ray of El Paso; K. B. Watson of Amarillo; A. V. Jones of Albany; Hank Avery of Midland; Bill Clayton of Springlake; Fred Conn of San Angelo; Jess Cooper of Dumas;

J. Lee Johnson of Fort Worth; George W. McClesky of Lubbock; S. B. Whittenburg of Amarillo; H. R. Drew of Fort Worth; and Joe B. Pate of Lubbock.

SHORT SNORTS

District Judge Marvin Blackburn and attorneys for both sides agreed on Dec. 9 as pre-trial hearing date, and Dec. 19 as the trial date, on a suit by landowners to stop condemnation of their land located within the site of the proposed Lyndon B. Johnson State Park.

State Selective Service Headquarters says 1,946 Texans will be called to service during January, compared to only 744 for December, and 2,339 for November.

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler announced that the School Land Board awarded 22 oil and gas leases, but rejected 76 others as too low, and the Veterans' Land Board awarded sales of 72 tracts of land (repossessed GI farms) amounting to 4,307 acres.

Windbreak Seedlings Can Now Be Ordered From Texas Forest Service

Tree seedlings, suitable for windbreak plantings in Central, South, and West Texas, can be ordered now from the Texas Forest Service, College Station, Mason Cloud, head, Reforestation Section of the Service said today.

"When planted properly, windbreaks reduce soil erosion by wind, protect homesteads, as well as livestock from sleet and snow and the hot, dry, summer winds; increase soil moisture by trapping snow; reduce moisture losses from evaporation; protect newly seeded crops; and protect maturing crops from blowing down," Cloud stated.

Windbreak species this year include: Black locust, catalpa, Chinese elm, cottonwood, mulberry, osage orange, redb cedar, sycamore, euonymus, buffaloberry, rose multiflora, and Austrian, loblolly, ponderosa, shortleaf, and slash pine. Stratified black walnut seed is also available.

Orders must be for 100 or more trees in multiples of 50. Cost of seedlings and seed is $1.50 per hundred plus state sales tax. All orders will be shipped prepaid between mid-January and the first week of March, 1967. Seedlings may not be resold nor used for ornamental purposes. "Orders will be accepted on a first-come-first-serve basis," Cloud said.

Applications for ordering windbreak seedlings can be obtained from the director, Texas Forest Service, College Station.

THE QUESTION is how to achieve smog control, and this may be part of the answer. It's a preformed segment of synthetic rubber hose made by Amerace Corp. for use with smoke-control devices coming in to increasing use by industrial and automotive concerns.

A guide sheet for the planting, maintenance and care of windbreaks will be sent with each order or may be requested in advance from the Service. A description sheet of available tree and shrub species may be ordered from the same office.

BUBBLING OVER with amazement at her own technique apparently, Suzanne Brown, 6, eyes the bubble bonanza that won her first place in a bubble-blowing contest for first graders at her Albuquerque, N.M., school.

SWITCHED ON KNIT — Right in step with the dating mood of the holiday season comes this "switched on" sweater knit dress. Curlicue sprigs of flowers boost the slim shift shape into the realm of "something else." It's collarless, sleeveless, pared down to the pure, essential shape. Bobbie Brooks fashions it in easy-care Acrilan and colors it in peach, aqua or white.

Give Thanks for Year's Blessings

NEW YORK (UPI) — "The year that is drawing toward its close has been filled with the blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies . . .

These were the opening words of the memorable first Thanksgiving proclamation, issued Oct. 3, 1863, by President Abraham Lincoln.

The Civil War—a war of "unequal magnitude and severity"—was still being fought, but the 16th President reminded that "peace has been preserved with all nations."

And even as that war continued, the President reminded that "needful diversions of wealth and of strength from the fields of peaceful industry to the national defense have not arrested the plow, the shuttle or the ship . . .

"No human counsel hath devised, nor hath any mortal hand worked out these great things. They are the gracious gifts of the most high God . . ."

"It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people . . ."

And so, the lonely man from Illinois sat in the White House more than a century ago and spoke of the nation's reasons for gratitude.

no man's land was another Thanksgiving Day, to review the blessings of another year. Join me, if you will, in making your list.

Thanks for a nation strong enough to take on the struggle for freedom for smaller nations and say a prayer that long before this time next year the sticky situation in Viet Nam will have been resolved. "Peace rules the day where reason rules the mind."—William Collins, 1759.

Give thanks for the liberty, the freedom so often taken for granted until such as Viet Nam and the Berlin Wall and Cuba's Castro remind us of freedom's unmatched blessing. "He that would make his own liberty secure must guard even his enemy from oppression"—Thomas Paine, 1809.

Give thanks for good health. "There is no wealth above the wealth of health"—Ben Sira, in his "Book of Wisdom."

Thanks for love and loving. "Love is the blossom where sorrow blows everything that lives or grows"—Giles Fletcher, 1633.

stantly challenged. "Who loves kind." Charles Churchill.

Thanks for the beauties that surround us, a clear November dawn or sunset, the everlasting hills and plains, the stars above the grass beneath. "He that follows nature is never out of his way."—Thomas Fuller, 1732.

Give thanks for the inner peace that a faith can bring. "Religion is the rule of life"—Nicholas Breton, 1616.

Thanks for a sense of humor. "A good laugh is sunshine in the house"—Thackeray, 1863. Or, as Mary Poole wrote in 1938, "he who laughs, lasts."

sell all things at the price of labor"—Latin proverb.

Thanks be also to those Pilgrims who started the Thanksgiving custom at Plymouth after their first harvest in 1621. Their feast, shared with the Indians, was an ample one of wild turkey, fish, deer, fruit, corn and wine. "In harvest time, harvest folks, servants and all, should make all together good cheers in the hall." Thomas Tusser, 1573.

FOR THURSDAY'S PAPER

FOR FRIDAY NOV 25
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Fixed changes that are taking place require a "very down-to-earth and practical" approach if anything near the big potentials of material benefits are to be gained. Look into every item of expense and see where you can cut out what is no longer of use to you. Accounting time.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Monetary matters that are also connected with those of your associates need some fast untangling so get it in early in a.m. Show you have good practical sense and you get the admiration of financial experts.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Before going after certain aims, be sure you get the OK of associates who have very firm ideas and opinions. They steer you in the right direction. Impress others with that particular charm you have.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) — You have to carry through with some brilliant plan you have thought about for some time if you are to change conditions for the better around you. Attend to that health problem right now. Save yourself big bills later.

MOON CHILDREN: June 22 to July 23) — If you carry through with what you and associates expect of you, as well as make your future can be brighter and happier. Steer clear of an argument two friends are having. Be neutral, stay friends.

LEO: (July 24 to Aug. 23) — Real understanding between yourself and your associates and family can be established provided you state your aims, ideas clearly. Be charming with those who are applying some pressure. Then all eases up.

VIRGO: (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Use those fine ideas that occur to you wisely right away or you lose out on present fine aspects. Get out to new sites with associates and make his headway. Combine efforts intelligently.

LIBRA: (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Take inventory of your assets and then get together with experts and figure out a way to become more affluent. It is easy to cut down on expenses, also. Get rid of whatever is obsolete and replace with the new.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — An honest approach with all associates is best, whether these be of a personal or business nature. Be cooperative and they do what you like. Make practical arrangements if you really want to progress.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — You have practical systems now to do your work better and keep surroundings more in order, plus having more harmonious relations with all around you. Give an ear to the ideas of co-workers, partners, also.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 24 to Jan. 23) — Follow through on that idea to please one whom you admire very much. Don't waste any time. Evening can be most pleasant in the company of congenials who have a sense of humor, are cheerful.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 24 to Feb. 19) — Instead of reaching a stalemate with kin over some issue, consider their side of the matter and you reach perfect understanding. Then you can go about your business in a satisfactory manner. Don't forget to pick up some small gift of other that pleases.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Stop procrastinating with those excellent plans you have in the business world, and get them into operation wisely. Call on key people and make satisfactory arrangements. Don't neglect good friends in the evening.

We thank Thee for freedom and remember the enslaved. May these remembrances still us to service That Thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen.

Students Dialing For Information

By BILL MUIS
United Press International
TULSA, Okla. — Students at Oral Roberts University are encouraged to watch television while they study.

It's all part of the new "computerized dial access information retrieval system" at the school.

The $500,000 system is expected to simplify learning, by providing an electronic library for study stations. Each station has a television screen, earphones and control panel.

Students can tap the electronic library by dialing a number selected from an index of recorded lessons.

The dialed number is received in the system control center and a computer selects and starts the specified equipment, which includes television tape recorder, television film systems and audio tape recorders.

The switching system can also be used to distribute live programs originating in a television studio or at various other program pickup points in laboratories and classrooms.

The Mature Parent. Love and Help Needed By Bewildered Child

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I take care of an 11-year-old granddaughter who still wets herself. Her mother, my daughter, doesn't want to be bothered with her. Though she lives only 10 blocks away, she seldom visits us. The father is remarried and sees the child only about four times a year. Do I have cause to worry, Mrs. Lawrence? God bless you. And thank you for whatever help you can give me with this problem.

ANSWER: If you mean by "worry," self-reproach — no, I think you have no cause for it at all. It is not you whom this child is accusing of irresponsibility by this wetting habit, by trying to make herself in her wounded and groping way as irresponsible as her parents are. It is her parents she is accusing.

But she does need help. And as you and I are seldom able to give the kind of help needed by an enuretic child, I want to ask you if your local hospital provides a psychiatric clinic? If so, take her to it.

You see, there's immense fury stored up in an 11-year-old person who insists on making her self into an infant because she's been born, not to grownups but to infants. On the other hand, she can't stop hoping that a miracle will happen to these irresponsible people — and that mother, father and home will somehow be restored to her.

So long as this hope exists, she just doesn't dare to feel that intensity of fury at them. She can't feel it, poor lamb. For to feel it would be to risk the danger of exploding it at them and so offend them that all hope of the miracle would be destroyed. And there would be confronting her the bleak and terrible truth that there never will be mother, father and home.

She's got to face it. But you and I cannot help her do it. You have to be most skilfully prepared to face a truth like that. You need a psychiatrist to prepare you to look at it, for what you're looking at is this reality "You are on your own. You cannot count on your parents and never will be able to."

So you need a doctor whose training has taught him how to start rebuilding your crushed trust of yourself up, up, up until it has grown so strong that the knowledge that you are on your own won't destroy you.

TWEED AND TATTERSALL are favorites for winter. Flashes of white through a giant brown and black tattersall (left) call attention to the easy fit of the whittled-down sheath belted, in back and topped with its own detachable scarf. Knockabout suit (right) in peppery black and white tweed has cuffed-sleeved jacket, easy dirndl skirt and matching overblouse brightened with a white jersey insert. These are by June Frances of Claret.

Timely Beauty Hint

Two major errors many women make when applying the exciting beauty of cake makeup are not having the sponge wet enough as they smoothen the popular makeup over the skin, and applying face powder while the skin is still moist, says beauty authority, Max Factor.

If your sponge is not wet enough, you will not have perfect control of the make-up and you will be unable to spread it evenly and transparently. The correct and simple procedure is to saturate a silk sponge in water until it is wet, but does not drip water. Lightly rub the sponge across the make-up surface and apply over the entire face, using light strokes, and picking up more makeup from the cake as required. Then, thoroughly squeeze the water from the sponge, turn it to a clean side and quickly blend over the entire face. Blot with a tissue.

The thin, even application will create an exquisite, fine-textured complexion look that is wonderfully flattering. When your skin is dry, puff on a sheer application of face powder and see the lovely young results.

Parting Church Rites For Divorcees?

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
A minister in Virginia has written a divorce service for couples who want to dissolve their marriage with the comfort, concern and blessing of the church.

Says the minister: "Couples who prefer to say 'I do' in church should also have the privilege of saying 'I don't' in a religious setting."

So far the minister has had no requests for his church divorce ceremony. And that's easy to understand. For it would certainly raise a few problems.

Like what would the bride-that-was wear for the ceremony? Would the couple invite their friends to the ceremony? And would they be able to agree on which were truly friends to both?

If either was planning to remarry right away — as so often happens in such cases — would the next husband or wife be asked to the ceremony?

Should there be a reception afterward? Should there be separate trips for husband and wife to mark the beginning of their lives without each other, just as the honeymoon trip began their marriage?

And should announcements of the ceremony be sent to friends at a distance who couldn't possibly have attended the divorce ceremony—even if it were decided that friends should be invited?

And, oh yes, should the church be decorated with flowers? And if so, what would seem most appropriate — snapdragons or forget-me-nots?

Chili Supper Enjoyed By Upsilon Members

Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a chili supper Thursday evening in the Hospitality Room of the Coca Cola Co.

Hostesses for the evening consisted of the social committee, Mmes. D. L. Hinkle, chairman; Tommy Richardson, co-chairman; Jack Stafford, Clois Lyon, Johnny Costner, Ralph Tyler and Doris Reeves.

Christmas decorations made by Upsilon members for the Jaycee-Elle Bazaar were put on display by Mrs. James Schaffer, ways and means chairman.

Members present were Mmes. Don Carpenter, Richard Cooke, Weldon Carter, Jack Stafford, Bill Stephens, Charles Potter, Tommy Richardson, D. L. Hinkle, James Schaffer, Glen Gold, Fred Epperly, James Ovensby, Calvin Ditmore, Charles Swart Jr., Billy Kinkle, Robert Shelton, Kenneth Freeman, Bonnie Sharp, Shirley Sanders and Miss Nancy Nidifer.

But a church divorce really would present some problems.

'Flat Nose' Lays Claim to Being The Richest Cat

CHICAGO (UPI)—Flat Nose, a cat 19 years old, may not be the oldest cat in the city, but he probably is the richest. He is the last survivor of five cats who were named beneficiaries of the bulk of a $25,000 estate in 1961.

Flat Nose is worth $15,000, by conservative estimates. And what does such an opulent feline do with his wealth?

"Mostly he sleeps on one of the twin beds in his room during the day. When he is not sleeping, he follows me around the house," William J. Field, 77, who takes care of the cat, said Sunday.

Fields said "Flat Nose is part angora 'very little angora," he adds and the cat maintains a certain aristocratic aloofness. During his daily romp in the back yard, "he doesn't associate with other cats; just stays by himself."

Flat Nose is the last of five cats owned by the late Mrs. Margaret Montgomery, who died in 1960. He survived Mommy Kitty and Big Boy, who died at the ages of 18 and 15, in 1963, and Brother Boy and Grey Eyes, who died earlier this year at the age of 18.

Fields, who was a personal friend of Mrs. Montgomery, has cared for the cats for the past six years. He said he is "very fond" of cats. And besides, the term of the will state that he will receive the estate when the last cat, Flat Nose, passes on.

Lecturer To Explore Man's Spirituality

Man's spiritual relationship to God will be explored at a public lecture in Borger on Nov. 25 by Charles M. Carr, CSB, a touring member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

The lecture titled "How Christian Science Can Help You" sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, will begin at 8 p.m. in Stephen F. Austin Junior High School Auditorium, East By-Pass, Borger. Admission is free and open to the public. A nursery for small children will be provided.

Carr attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and withdrew from business in 1942 to devote himself to the Christian Science healing ministry. He is also a recognized teacher of the religion in New York City.

'Meet the Irish'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Irish Tourist Board reports that the "Meet the Irish Program" has been expanded to include more professions and special areas.

Before leaving for Ireland, travelers can apply at any of the Irish Tourist Boards in the United States and Canada to take part in the program, under which visitors can spend the day or dine with an Irish family, visit some of the country's industrial facilities or be introduced to people in the same profession or similar jobs.

FOR THE BIRDS is the art of Swiss sculptor Peter von Wattenwyl, holding one of the "birds" he has on display at an exhibition in Bern. He says he loves all kinds of birds, even these imaginary numbers which "inspire me to create."

High Dining
NEW YORK (UPI)—If you like to eat on a high level, Germany is the place for you. It has more tower restaurants than any country in the world, says the German Tourist Information Office.

The oldest, located in the Berlin Racho Tower, is at an elevation of 180 feet. Most unusual restaurant is atop the Henninger grain silo in Feankfurt (396 feet). The tower restaurants in the Stutzgart (482 ft.) and Durmund (450 feet) are perched in mast-like structures. Those in Frankfurt and Dortmund revolve.

More Scandinavians live in Minneapolis, Minn., than any city except Stockholm, says the National Geographic.

Reward Fund Set Up For Arrest

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Three organizations today set up a reward fund for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons who dropped a concrete block from an overpass and killed a Texas truck driver.

The reward was set up with $150 by members of Box 21 Volunteer Rescue Unit; the Dayton Motor Freight Association, and Teamsters Union Local 157. They asked for contributions.

Authorities said the 40-pound concrete block was dropped from an overpass, went through the windshield of a truck cab, and killed Archie Noland, 53, Navasota, Tex., as he traveled on Interstate 70, north of here.

Expo 67 by Car
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The family automobile will be the means of transportation for between 85 and 90 per cent of visitors to Expo 67, the World's Fair in Montreal, Canada next year, it is estimated by the American Automobile Association on Nov. 8.

Noland's death was ruled a homicide by the Montgomery County coroner's office.

Of an expected total of 8.2 million visitors, AAA predicts, 17-170,000 persons will use their cars to get there. The estimate based partly on an AAA survey of visitors to the Seattle World's Fair in 1962, did not include the expected 1 million in local visitors and 700,000 from overseas, which would bring anticipated attendance at Expo 67 to 10 million.

Will Rogers Park
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—A leading tourist attraction in southern California is Will Rogers State Historic Park, near Santa Monica. The California Office of Tourism reports that more than 250,000 persons a year tour the rooms where for years "The Cowboy Philosopher" made his home on a 345-acre ranch.

Plans Studied For Palo Duro Reservoir

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Palo Duro Canyon near Canyon, Tex., has prospects for becoming a storage reservoir for irrigation water piped into the Panhandle from other states, an engineer said Tuesday.

Marvin Nichols said his Fort Worth firm was studying the cost of converting part of the Palo Duro Canyon into a lake. "We are working with the Red River Authority in developing a master plan," Nichols said. "As part of the work, we will study the possible use of this canyon as a storage reservoir."

Palo Duro Canyon is on Palo Duro Creek, which flows into Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River. Part of the canyon is a state park.

"We would bring water to the canyon and keep it there until it is needed for irrigation on the High Plains," Nichols said.

"I believe that, instead of destroying the canyon as a tourist attraction, a lake would make it more attractive. The canyon would still have its scenic beauty and the lake would provide recreation facilities."

Pampan To Make Tour With Band

ABILENE (SpI) — Miss Jo Ellen Duncan of Pampa, a McMurry College Band member, will be with that organization when they start a four-day tour Dec. 4.

Miss Duncan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Duncan, 2229 Charles. The 1966 graduate of Pampa High School was a member of the Harvester Band.

At McMurry, Miss Duncan is majoring in elementary education and is minoring in music.

The Indian Band will travel to eight West Texas towns to present concerts in high schools and complete worship services in Merkel and Lamea. The band will also play in Brownfield, Slaton, Hale Center, Ralls, Floydada and Spur before returning to Abilene, Dec. 7.

Possible 400,000 Defects Question Quality Control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The big four of the U.S. auto industry and three major foreign automakers have advised the government of possible safety defects in thousands of new cars.

It was learned today that involved are 1967 models made by General Motors, Ford, American Motors, Chrysler, Rolls Royce, Volkswagen and Renault.

More than 2,000 models were specifically listed in so-called defect recalls by the automakers.

In several instances, however, particularly in the case of Chrysler, the exact number of cars involved in the recalls was not listed. Sources said it was possible that as many as 300,000 or 400,000 cars could be involved.

The automakers have sent defect warnings to owners of the cars as required under the newly enacted Federal Traffic Safety Act. Not all of the cars are presumed to be defective but carmakers usually check all vehicles in the same suspected models.

Here is a partial list of cars involved in the recall campaign as reported to the government:

—American Motors: Possible sticky throttles involving 174,800 V8 models.

—General Motors: Possible brake defects in 1966-67 Oldsmobile-442, almost 3,000 Pontiacs with potential brakelight defects.

—Ford: Potential brake defects on 35,000 trucks; carburetor defects involving 47,300 passenger cars; seat belt bolts on 65,000 cars; about 8,500 Mustangs with "steering gear lockup."

—Chrysler: 1967 Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart may have door latch and brake defects; 1966 Plymouth Belvedere possible brake defects.

—Chrysler: Imperial Plymouth Fury, Polara and Monaco cars with 440 engines, possible carburetor defects.

—Rolls Royce: More than a dozen Silver Shadow 1967 models with possible brake defects.

—Volkswagen: Brake pedal defects in 1967 sedans, convertibles and Kharman Ghias.

—Renault: About 125 models with possible brake defects.

Curacao Hotels

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (UPI) — Curacao in the Netherlands Antilles is breaking a hotel bottleneck that has slowed down the island's "stay-over" tourist expansion.

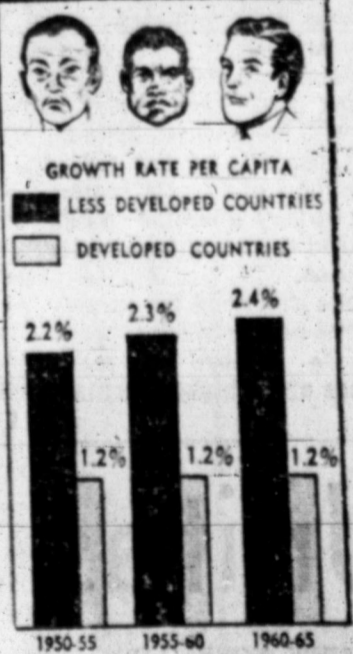

Now under construction on the island off the Venezuelan coast are four hotels, scheduled for completion within the next two years. They will add about 725 rooms to the present 275.

Yankee Eiffel Tower

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Space Needle, most spectacular landmark in Seattle, Wash., is known as the "Eiffel Tower of Puget Sound."

The structure, rising 600 feet, with a sky-high revolving restaurant, was built for the city's Century 21 Exposition in 1962. The Needle, the Pacific Science Center and the Monorail are among other permanent landmarks left over from the Exposition. They comprise the Settle Center.

POPULATION

Population growth in less-developed countries continues to outpace increases in the advanced nations. The average rate of increase in the number of mouths to feed in poorer countries has been about double that in wealthy nations and, since 1955, has exceeded economic growth rates, the Committee on Economic Development finds.

White Deer, Spur Tangle Friday in Class 'A' Playoff

By MIKE GERALD City Editor
PLAINVIEW — White Deer will attempt to make the second round of the class A state playoffs for the second straight year, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday when they tangle with Spur in Plainview field.

The Bucks, 10-0, and bi-district winners last week over McLean, will put their 'Terrible 11' defensive might against an offensive minded crew of Bulldogs from district 4-A. White Deer won district 1-A with a 4-0 mark and was unscathed in district competition and have given up just 20 points all season. Spur won 4-A with a 6-0-1 record and have only that one tie as the only blemish on an otherwise perfect 11 game schedule. But the Bulldogs were tied by Petersburg in a district game but won it on penetrations.

Groom Eyeing Chillicothe

By SKIP FARRELL Special Correspondent
SHAMROCK — Groom will shoot for their second bi-district title in two years and in turn hope to advance to the class B Region II finals when they tangle with Chillicothe at 7:30 p.m. here Friday night.

Clarendon, 20-0; McLean, 8-6 and Wheeler, 29-0, all class A clubs. But Richard Eddleman, in his first year as the Tiger coach got his gridders back on the right track and they came on strong to whip Perryton B, 22-12, Booker, 30-8, Pollett, 40-8, Tullia B, 44-0 and last week downed Letors, 36-8 for the 5-B title. Chillicothe won district 7-B by whipping Rule, 55-0, Turkey, 22-6, Matador, 22-20, Newcastle, 63-16, Locket, 14-0, Valley View, 38-0 and Rochester, 18-12.

White Deer's average weight per man in the line is 172.2 while Spur's is 176.3 and in the backfield the Bucks weigh 167 pounds per man while Spur weighs in at 152 pounds per man.

The Eagles have won nine straight since an opening game loss to Crall while Groom has taken five straight opponents to the floor and boast a 6-3-1 record.

The Eagles lost their first game of the season, to Crall, 22-8, then downed Paducah 28-14 and Tipton, Okla., 38-8 before starting conference play.

Whit Deer has whacked Boys Ranch, 49-6, Panhandle, 27-0, Sanford-Fritch, 55-0, McLean, 20-0, Sunray, 52-0, Canadian, 54-0, Wheeler, 12-6, Gruver, 35-0, Stratford, 31-0 and McLean again, 37-8.

Last year the Tigers went unbeaten in 12 games and were the Region II champions. They started off slowly this season, opening with a tie with Vega, 6-6, then bounced Claude, 30-0 before losing three straight.

The Eagles lost their first game of the season, to Crall, 22-8, then downed Paducah 28-14 and Tipton, Okla., 38-8 before starting conference play.

Bottoms crew is well for the first time this season with all his regular starters ready to go.

Knee Surgery For Robinson Said Successful

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Orioles slugger Frank Robinson today began a three-to-four week convalescence after knee surgery described as "successful" by the attending doctor.

The surgeon, the same orthopedic specialist who operated on the knee of Baltimore Colts quarterback Johnny Unitas last December, said allowing Robinson's operation that he preferred anonymity because of professional ethics.

The New Buck coach posted the following line up: Ron Anderson, 146-pound senior and Bud Thomas, 185-pound sophomore at ends; Mike Hawpe, 182-pound junior and Monte Kires, 182-pound junior at tackles, and Ken Carter, 190-pound senior at center with Burly Pipes, 156-pound senior and Gary Stewart, 175-pound senior at guards.

The 31-year-old Robinson, who paced the Orioles to the world championship after a triple crown championship season of 49 home runs, 122 runs batted in and a .316 batting average, will remain in Johns Hopkins Hospital "a week to 10 days," according to a hospital spokesman. He'll be on crutches for a few weeks after returning home to Los Angeles.

Groom will average 169.2 pounds per man in the line and Chillicothe, 160.5 and the Tigers average weight in the backfield is 157.2 pounds per man while the Eagles are 154 pounds per man.

Quarterbacking is capable John Paul Gunn, 148-pound junior, who has come into stardom in one season. The fullback is Gary Smith, 175-pound senior, playing for the first time in a long while and at halfbacks are all-state candidates Vernon Marlar, 185-pound senior and Randy Elliott, 160-pound senior.

Robinson, injured here while rounding first base during a game with the Yankees June 13, played the rest of the season despite the injury. He consented to surgery after the condition failed to heal with rest after the season.

Injuries have been a part of Groom's story this season, they have four regulars out, including both starting ends, one tackle and a halfback.

Brigham Young University and Utah, a pair of northern powers, were the top clubs last year but both the Cougars and Utes will have a lot of rebuilding to do this campaign.

Doctors described the surgery as a "45-minute routine operation" to remove a meniscus cartilage and a broken cartilage knee.

Latest casualty is Bobby Goodlett, the left end who suffered a shoulder separation against Letors last week.

Utah, a surprise winner of the WAC race last year, will miss the shooting of Jerry Chambers who led the Utes to fourth place in the NCAA finals.

Unitas Blames No One But Himself for Bad Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Unitas had the perfect opportunity to hang this man. But he didn't because... well, because Johnny Unitas isn't built that way. Bad day or bad night, Baltimore's brilliant quarterback always manages to make the right call instinctively and he came up with two big ones in the past 96 hours. The first came after his bad day last Sunday when he was benched during a game with Detroit in which the Lions intercepted five of his passes and went on to score a 20-14 upset. "I don't blame him (coach Don Shula) for benching me," declared football's premier quarterback when asked. "He's the one who has to answer when we lose and I simply wasn't having a good day." Unitas suffered through another miserable period the following evening. He came here from Detroit and sat in a darkened projection room to watch the initial screening of a film entitled "Portrait Of A Team." Now the film itself happens to be an extraordinarily good one. Written and produced by Robert Riger and narrated by Chris Schenkel, it undoubtedly will be enjoyed by all those who watch it on ABC-TV Saturday immediately after the Army-Navy game. But seeing the film up there on the screen in the private projection room had to be burdensome for Unitas because it showed quite clearly that the Colts lost a game they had "won" a year ago and the loss kept them from playing Cleveland for the league championship.

The game in question was the Western Division playoff contest against Green Bay last Dec. 26 and the play in question was Don Chandler's fourth period field goal which field judge Jim Tunney ruled good and tied the score at 10-10. While Bill Riger's excellent color shot of Chandler's kick shows the ball went wide of the goal post and that the Colts should have won the game, 10-7. But they played a sudden-death, Chandler kicked another field goal and the Packers won 13-10. Here was Unitas' chance to hang one on Tunney, but the Baltimore quarterback wouldn't do it. "Anyone can make a mistake," said Unitas, after the lights came on. "We're all human. I'd hate to see the man berated because of what this film shows. In his judgment, I'm sure he thought he made the right call." Unitas, it may be remembered, was out with a bad knee for that particular game but he watched it on crutches from the sidelines. They asked him what he thought personally now after seeing the film. "I thought it was wide," he said of Chandler's kick. "Like I did before." And that was it. No hollering, arm-waving or rabble-rousing at the expense of the field judge. Johnny Unitas isn't built that way.

CONFERENCE — White Deer coach Sherill Bottoms holds a sideline conference with fullback Bruce Locke. The Bucks take on Spur in the first round of the class A state playoffs Friday at Plainview.

IN COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Lobos Loaded This Year

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — New Mexico's power-packed Lobos missed picking up all the marbles in Rocky Mountain area basketball last year but there's every reason to believe they will go all the way this season.

Utah, a surprise winner of the WAC race last year, will miss the shooting of Jerry Chambers who led the Utes to fourth place in the NCAA finals.

Coach Jack Gardner has the nucleus for a good squad with forward Lyndon MacKay, guard Mervyn Jackson and center Jeff Ockel back in the fold. Colorado State will be bolstered by the return of 6-7 Sonny Bustion who didn't compete last year. The Rams also have 6-8 Bob Rule but must find a suitable backcourt combination.

Aggies to Try And End Nine Year Drought Today

AUSTIN (UPI) — It all started 72 years ago, and during the ensuing years it has become one of the nation's hardest-fought football games. "It," of course, is the University of Texas vs. Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day game today which will wind up the season for both teams.

For the Aggies from the land of the Brazos, it has been a long drought. The last nine years—ever since Coach Darrell Royal came to Texas—all have seen the Longhorns come out in the winning column.

Both teams are close in statistics. Texas has 2,460 yards offensively and the Aggies have 2,362. The Longhorns have the most ground yardage, while A&M has gained the most in the air. Aggie sophomore Ed Hargett has thrown for a total of 1,742 yards, while Texas sophomore Chris Gilbert has gained 943 yards on 180 carries through nine games.

19 OU Players End Careers

Nineteen seniors will be playing their final home game for Oklahoma when the Sooners meet Nebraska at Norman today.

Colorado State College is expected to repeat as champion in the Rocky Mountain conference.

Both teams are close in statistics. Texas has 2,460 yards offensively and the Aggies have 2,362. The Longhorns have the most ground yardage, while A&M has gained the most in the air.

PHS on Road For 2 Games

By RON CROSS Sports Editor
Pampa's inexperienced but hustling Harvesters will try to make it two straight in the young cage season Friday night when they visit Wichita Falls and if successful will shoot for No. 3 in a row against Quannah Saturday night.

der their belts, did not have an inexperienced squad to start with but coach T. J. Bailey, who returned to coaching this year after a five years absence seems to have found some good ball players. Bailey starts three juniors and two seniors, none of whom started in 1965-66, but has eight lettermen back.

The Shockers will open the activities both nights at 6 p.m. with the varsity games following at 8 p.m. Pampa was to play Quannah Friday and the Coyotes Saturday but Wichita Falls High is playing a AAAA football playoff game Saturday against Tascosa at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo and the days were switched.

Six-four center Garry Williams is the tallest and is the leading scorer with 30 points in two games. Bailey lines Monty Ford, a 5'9 1/2 junior and John Pamore more vich, a 5'11 senior at guards and Jack Shrader, a 6'1 senior and Bill Ghoeson, a 6'1 junior at forwards. Ghoeson is the team's second leading scorer with 29 points in the two games the Indians have played.

The Coyotes sport a senior ball club and were successful in their debut against Sherman Tuesday night, coming out with a 71-59 decision. The Coyotes have just one starter back but returned nine lettermen, all just normal size for basketball players and are without a tall center. Ken Cummins, a 6'2 senior, the only returning starter plays post for Wichita Falls and he and Morton Smith, a 6'2 forward are the tallest players the Coyotes have.

Melvin Morris, a 6'5 1/2 junior, Kirby Carpenter, 6'2 senior and Kenneth Tidmore, 5'10 1/2 senior are also expected to see a lot of action. Morris plays the post, Carpenter a forward spot and Tidmore is a substitute guard. Culley will probably start Carl Lang Jr., 6'4 1/2 junior at post; Steve Williams, 6'1 senior and Johnny Carlos, 6'1 junior at guards with Rick Foster, 6'2 senior and George Bailey, 6'2 1/2 junior at forward spots. John Braly, 5'8 1/2 senior and Jimmy Cornutt, 6'1 junior will spell Carlos at the guard position.

SWISS VICTORY

BASIL, Switzerland (UPI) — Switzerland defeated France and West Germany in a triangular speed skating meet Sunday. The Swiss scored 571,799 points, to 578,734 for France and 603,200 for the German squad.

Longhorns Are Favored to Take Texas A&M

By United Press International — Texas' Longhorns got good news Tuesday: the return of tackle Diron Talbert just in time for the Thanksgiving clash with Texas A&M.

Talbert, a senior captain, had missed practice since the Texas Christian game because of a blood clot in the groin.

Coach Darrell Royal ran the Steers through an hour drill, with concentration on kicking. They planned to taper off Wednesday with a 20-minute workout in sweat clothes.

The A&M - Texas game in Memorial Stadium was expected to be nearly a sellout.

In College Station, the Aggies wound up home field preparations for the Turkey Day game with a short, enthusiastic session then went to an annual bonfire rally Tuesday night.

Coach Gene Stallings and his squad will move into Austin to Wednesday for a workout in Memorial Stadium.

Stallings said he thought Texas had a fine football team and would have had a tremendous year except for the injuries to key personnel.

Baylor Bears reviewed their passing game and gave special attention to goal line and short yardage defenses Tuesday.

The Bears meet Rice Saturday in the finale for both teams.

Most of the Bears were expected to be ready for the Owls, but Baylor coaches decided that end Raymond Deutrich and offensive halfback John Westbrook would have to miss the last game.

The Bears planned another stiff workout today, then a morning session Thursday before eating Thanksgiving dinner.

Senior Quarterback Larry Doolen, who finished Rice's game against TCU after Robby Shelton and Robert Halley left the game with injuries, went to bed Tuesday with a virus infection.

Army's Cahill In For Shock During Army-Navy Affair

By BUD WILKINSON — Army coach Bill Elias is certain that Army coach Tom Cahill is in for a shock when the two teams meet in their annual classic Saturday in Philadelphia. This has nothing to do with the outcome of the game, although Elias hopes to win. The shock, he says, comes from just being in charge there for the first time.

Cahill was Army's plebe coach for seven years before being elevated this season. But this will be the first time for him on the sidelines at an Army-Navy game.

"There's just nothing like it," Elias says. "You may think you have been in a comparable situation, but there is nothing comparable. The tradition, the pressure and everything else — they just tend to overwhelm you."

Cahill is not naive about the game. He knows what he's facing.

"We know — what the game means to both academies," he says. "And we know that form and season's records mean very little when this one is played."

"In this one, those attributes sought most in military personnel — desire to win and ability to overcome obstacles — often determine who wins."

Like most Americans who have no direct link to either academy, my loyalties are divided between the two. Bob Ward, defensive coach at Army, was on our staff at Oklahoma. Another Army coach, Lt. Leon "old rugged" Cross, was an All-American at Oklahoma in 1962. On the other hand, I served in the Navy, so I'll be wishing the best to both teams in this nationally televised game.

Our morale is great." Cahill says, "and it seems we've gotten a little tougher and quicker with each game. Thankfully, we've had no key injuries. We're probably the underdog against Navy, but that doesn't mean much. We feel we're ready to play a good game."

Needless to say, Morale is high at navy, too, and the Middies will be equally ready. That's what makes this game the giant it is.

ITS TURKEY DAY SPORTS Huskers, Dallas are Favored

Thanksgiving means many things to many people but to sports enthusiasts it will be a day of watching teams perform on the gridiron or on television. Television watchers can tune in as early as 11 a.m. and watch the Detroit Lions and San Francisco 49ers battle in a National Football League contest at Detroit. The Lions have won two straight and last week woke up the Baltimore Colts by dismantling them and star quarterback Johnny Unitas.

The 49ers, meanwhile, were faking their lumps from the weak Philadelphia Eagles, who outscored them 14-0 in the final period and took a 35-34 decision. Also on the "tube" will be one of the better college games: pitting a couple of Big Eight foes, Oklahoma and Nebraska against each other at Norman.

The Sooners will be spoiling for an upset over the Huskers who have already won the Big Eight title and are bound for the Cotton Bowl in a rematch against Alabama.

There are two other pro games, the Dallas Cowboys tangle with the Cleveland Browns who'll be trying to take the Cowboys measure in a National Football League game.

The Cowboys can jump into first place in the Eastern division with a victory while Cleveland will be trying to keep pace with Dallas and St. Louis, now tied for the lead.

The other pro contest is in the American Football League where the Buffalo Bills, tied for first place tackle the Oakland Raiders in California.

The Raiders have won three straight, same as Buffalo and are shooting for a first place tie.

Buckpasser Named Horse of Year Over Four Others

NEW YORK (UPI)—Buckpasser was named Horse of the Year Wednesday in the 31st annual pool conducted by the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form as well as 3-year-old and handicap champion.

The brilliant son of Tom Fool, who was second in his first start of the year and then clicked off 12 straight victories, was a unanimous selection by 39 staff members of the racing publications for top honors and the divisional championship and collected 161 points out of a possible 195 as the best of the handicap runners.

Buckpasser was one of four thoroughbreds owned or bred by the Phipps' Family to gain divisional honors. Mrs. H.C. Phipps' Successor was hailed the best 2-year-old colt and best 2-year-old; Impressive, who beat Buckpasser in an exhibition race at Hialeah Park in February when he was owned by Ogden Phipps, as is the divisional champion and best sprinter; and Mako, owned by Mrs. Ogden Phipps, was voted steeplechase champion.

Patrice Jacobs' Regal Gleam was chosen the best 2-year-old filly; Lady Pitt elected champion 3-year-old filly; and Donald P. Ross's Open Fire was voted best in the distaff handicap division.

Charles Englehart's Assagai completed the roster of champions as a unanimous selection as the best grass horse.

WESTERN OPEN — The 1968 Western Open golf championship will be played at the Olympia Fields Country Club in the Chicago suburb of Flossmoor, it was announced Tuesday.

First Thanksgiving Proclamation

"By the President of the United States of America.
"A proclamation.
"Whereas it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the Providence of Almighty God, to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits, and humbly to implore His protection and favor; and
"Whereas both Houses of Congress have by their joint committee requested me to recommend to the people of the United States a day of public Thanksgiving and prayers, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness:
"Now, therefore, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the 26th day of November next, to be devoted by the people of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be, that we may then all unite in rendering unto Him our sincere and humble thanks for His kind care and protection of the people of this country previous to their becoming a nation; for the signal and manifold mercies and favorable interpositions of His Providence, which we experienced in the course and confusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquility, union and plenty, which we have since enjoyed; for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted; for the civil and religious liberty which we are blessed and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge; and in general for all the great and various favors which He hath been pleased to confer upon us.

"And, also that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the Great Lord and Ruler of Nations, and beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions, to enable us all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually, to render our National Government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a government of wise, just and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed, to protect and guide all sovereigns and nations (especially such as have shown kindness to us) and to bless them with good government, peace and concord. To promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us, and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best.
"Given under my hand at the City of New York the third day of October in the year of Our Lord 1789.
"G. Washington"

A Day for Thanksgiving

Philosophers have often commented upon the fact that gratitude for life, and the good things of life, provides an open doorway into examination of the great verities.
Whether this is always true, we are in that period of the year, set apart from all other periods, in which gratitude becomes not only a virtue but virtually a way of life. And this is good.
The bounty made possible by our remarkable free enterprise system has provided us with a most astonishing array of worldly goods and worldly opportunities. These opportunities have been curtailed, and tragically, to a completely unconscionable degree by the intrusion of the state.
However, now is not the time to comment on this fact, but to recognize and be grateful for the good things that we have.
We are a most fortunate people. And like most who have earned much and produced much and have much, there is a tendency for us to become spoiled with the quick flow of resources and to forget to be grateful and humble in the face of the opulence that abounds.
This is Thanksgiving Day, a day of putting down our all-too-pleasuriferous pride; a day in which we can pause to marvel at the magnitude of our good fortune, even if there may appear to be clouds on the horizon.
Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly American. Scholars will tell you that other similar holidays have been celebrated from time immemorial by other peoples. And in a sense this is true. Harvest festivals have been common since the earliest days of history; and Thanksgiving is an American version of a harvest festival. But to us, who are Americans, it will always have special significance.
For in this country, Thanksgiving Day, first celebrated at Plymouth Colony in December 1623, not only gave thanks to a Divine Providence for the bounty of the harvest, but additionally gave thanks for the fact that, at long last, communism had been put aside in favor of a new system predicated upon the private ownership and private management of the land.
This is the peculiar and unique significance of the American Thanksgiving, and although this fact is glossed over and often unknown, it remains a factor in our heritage and

By Golly, There IS a Lot to Be Thankful For

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE
Any schoolboy can tell you that the Thanksgiving celebration is derived from the first Pilgrim feast of thanks.
Forgotten, however, are the reasons why the feast was held, why the Pilgrims first starved and then prospered.
According to Governor Bradford's own log, the first thing they did upon arriving at Plymouth Rock was "to erect ye first house for common use to receive them and their goods."
The "common house" kept all the food and production. All property belonged to the people "in common". In other words, the Pilgrims were practicing the communist idea: "From each according to his ability, to each according to his need."
But within three months, half of the Pilgrims had already perished. And after two years of starvation and misery, the Pilgrim leaders decided to adopt the seemingly heartless policy of making each man fend for himself.
Henceforth, each family would own its own parcel of land — and no one would be responsible for anyone else. Private property had arrived at Plymouth Rock.
Bradford states: "This had very good success; for it made all hands very industrious, so as much more corn was planted than otherwise would have been... The women now went willingly to ye field, and took their little ones with them to set corn, which before would alledge weakness and inability."
Now no one had to resent working for others. Each produced to the limit of his ability — because what he produced was his!
This is perhaps history's most dramatic contrast between private property and communism. The Pilgrims found that it was not the adversities of nature that caused their misery. Their problems stemmed from taking away from a man what he had produced. The Pilgrims had thought that survival was too critical a matter to leave to the free market — and felt it must be controlled in common. As a result, very few survived.
When the Pilgrims discovered the secret of private property, it's no wonder they held a Thanksgiving feast to celebrate the rewards of their discovery.
It's too bad we don't understand the principle as well as they eventually did. Before they realized the source of their problem, they blamed the climate, the adversities of nature. They should have blamed their faulty system.
Today, when a water shortage hits New York City, blame is placed on a slight fall-off in rain — rather than recognizing the problem to be the city-owned Water Department. In other words, today's pilgrims set up common ownership and then wonder why it doesn't work.
The coin shortage is blamed on "hoarders", coin collectors, vending machines and parking meters — instead of recognizing that, again, we have mistakenly delegated power to the state to hold "in common."
Such matters as our money, our water, our education and protection are too critical to be given to politicians to play with.

They should be turned over to the free market. Then, if one firm falls down on the job, another competitor will be right there to do a better job and gain our patronage.
The Pilgrims found out that common ownership does not work. We're still learning, however.
This Thanksgiving Day, give an extra prayer of thanks that your turkey was not raised "in common" by benevolent bureaucrats.
The author writes: "I personally consider 'immoral' any act in which others are directly damaged. In my opinion, no act is immoral by the performance of which a person hurts no one but himself and in many cases, as we know, such presumed hurt is purely imaginary."
He also lashes out at the present penal system — pointing out that more criminals are created than cured in prison. Where debts are owed or property has been destroyed, he advocates having the responsible person work off the debt, rather than spend his time unproductively in a normal prison environment.
Although he appears to go through the system of law with a meat cleaver, he is really not advocating doing away with the law. In fact, it is only the author's contention that the laws are presently convicting the wrong people.
In particular, he does not like to see crimes against property severely punished, and he believes that demagogues who incite people to racism should be severely dealt with.
The reader may not agree with these conclusions. But a reading of "The Disinherited and the Law" will certainly bring home some important truths concerning the "sanctity of the law" that is so often trumpeted in our ears.

Between the Bookends

JUSTICE AND THE LAW
"We have been accustomed by tradition and education to consider the law a symbol of justice. Nothing could be further from the truth. The law neither serves justice nor respects it."
With this simple statement, Dagobert D. Runes launches his presentation of the injustices of so-called "law and order" in his book "The Disinherited and the Law." The author's purpose is to demonstrate that blind-reverence for law is misguided.
Rather than being some kind of high principle, "... the law is mere fashion, cut not according to principles, but custom-fitted to the purpose of the ruler."
The author cites a great quantity of examples to demonstrate the hypocrisy in existing laws. He then points to the many invasions of privacy in existing American laws. "I personally consider 'immoral' any act in which others are directly damaged. In my opinion, no act is immoral by the performance of which a person hurts no one but himself and in many cases, as we know, such presumed hurt is purely imaginary."
He also lashes out at the present penal system — pointing out that more criminals are created than cured in prison. Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY
Tired businessmen, trying to get away from office problems, are being offered an ingenious toy that the manufacturer says affords momentary escape from responsibilities. It's a miniature model train that fits into any office desk drawer. According to psychologists, a few minutes spent "high-balling" a model engine around the track restores the most harried executive and prepares him for the next problem he has to solve. The tiny track layout includes a two-inch powerful locomotive that can pull 100 cars, although the set only contains 36. This has proven such a big seller the manufacturer is planning an even smaller set that will fit into a dispatch case. So, if you come upon your boss playing with toy trains, don't think he's flipped his lid. He has simply found a new way to relax his tired brain, just as the isometric exercises he does at his desk keep him healthy. What next?
Today's smile: A teacher said to one of her pupils: "If your mother made a cake and divided it equally among your family, which consists of your mother, father, sister, brother and yourself, how much would you get percentagewise?"
The youngster answered "A quarter of it, or 25 per cent."
"Wrong," said the teacher, "but I'd like to know how you figure it that way." "Very simple," said the youngster, "my mother don't like cake."
If you really want to please your wife, buy her a dress made of Shahtoosh cloth. It's a brown-gray wool from the throats of Indian goats. We understand Nieman-Marcus in Dallas, Texas sells simple day dresses of this fabric for about $1,500... Everyone should have a hobby, but there's a fellow in Copenhagen, Denmark, who has a unique one. He owns the world's greatest collection of cigarette packages. He has spent a lifetime collecting 30,000 of them from all over the world.

Price 'Discrimination' Is Misnomer, Not A Menace

By OSCAR W. COOLEY
Assoc. Prof. of Economics
Ohio Northern Univ.
Every shopper is familiar with such offers as three 10-cent cans of soup for 25 cents, two 3-dollar shirts for $5, and a 3-year subscription to a magazine for about twice the price of one year. Many things come "cheaper by the dozen."
This is a form of "price discrimination," so-called. Price discrimination is when a seller charges one customer more than another for the same article. When I pay $3 for a shirt and you pay $5 for two of the same shirts, I am certainly paying more per shirt than you. The shirt seller is discriminating between us, pricing the shirt higher to me than to you.
He thinks he has good reason to favor you. Aren't you buying in quantity, that is, two shirts at a time, or 100 percent more than I? However, if a manufacturer sells a large quantity to a store-chain for 50 cents per case less than he sells case lots to small stores, he had better be prepared to prove that it costs him 50 cents less to serve the chain, or the Federal Trade Commission will get him. We have laws, you see, against price discrimination.
This dreadful practice is, nevertheless, widespread. Doctors sometimes remove the appendix of a poor man for a smaller fee than they charge a wealthy man for the same operation. Lawyers and other professionals make similar differentials. My electric power company charges me 5 cents per kilowatt-hours used in a month, but only 4 cents for the next 40 kilowatt-hours, scaling down to one cent for all over 3,000 kilowatt-hours.
Your telephone company charges you so much per month, no matter how much or how little you use the telephone. Thus, folks who visit frequently and long by phone pay less per call — and still less per word — than the laconic ones.
Dairy farmers get a higher price for milk sold in liquid form, and a lower price for milk sold in cans.

made into butter, cheese, ice-cream, or milk powder.
Sometimes, American-made machines sell in foreign countries at lower prices, even with transportation cost added, than the same machines sell at home.
Even the government, which tries to legislate uniform prices, carries my letter to Los Angeles for the same price as it carries yours across the street. This is similar to the phone company's practice of charging a flat monthly rate regardless of number of calls; the post-office delivers each letter at the same rate regardless of distance carried.
In all of these cases, sound reasons for the price discrimination can be given. Poor people are able to afford more medical care because the MD's charge the rich higher fees. Or, to put it another way, we have more and better doctors because they collect larger fees from well-to-do people, the result being higher incomes for doctors, which attracts more youth to study medicine.
Graduated electric rates encourage liberal use of electricity, which enables power companies to function more efficiently. The same can be said of the milk prices, graduated according to the milk's use. Telephone companies cannot afford to keep account of every call made and charge so much per call, nor would it be feasible for the post-office to charge so much per letter per mile carried.
Machines sold more cheaply abroad than at home might not be sold at all if it were not for the price difference. Such sales may not be profitable in themselves but may help to meet the fixed costs.
All of these types of price discrimination, and many more, have sprung up as practical, efficient ways of doing business. And consumers do not object to them; on the contrary, they take advantage of them as fully as possible.
Why, then, have laws against price discrimination been enacted?

Some abhor price discrimination as contrary to the principle that all people should be treated equally. However, when a seller charges Buyer A one price and Buyer B a different price, it is because they are buying under different conditions. For example, one buys more than the other; one buys for a different purpose than the other; one is located differently. So, being in different circumstances, one values the good differently than the other. If given a chance to bid on the goods, one would bid a different price than the other. When the rich man pays $500 for his appendectomy, he feels that he gets good value for his money; so does the poor man who paid but $100. They are not being treated unequally.
Each buyer, learning what price he must pay, decides whether or not it is a good buy. What Buyer A may have paid does not tell Buyer B what he can afford to pay. In fact, what Buyer A paid is none of Buyer B's business, and vice versa. If they pay different prices but both have acted freely, doing what he thought best for himself, there has been no "discrimination." Thus, price "discrimination" is really a misnomer; multiple pricing is a better term.
The fact that different persons attach different values to homogeneous units of the same good is well shown at an auction where several units of a good — say, glasses of Mrs. Cook's strawberry jam are sold. Only by chance would all of the glasses sell at the same price. There is no good reason for a law which makes it illegal to sell to one buyer for a different price than to another. Such laws penalize efficiency, hurting both seller and buyer. Supply and Demand police price; no fairer policemen can be found.

Straight Talk

Hate of the Month Club
The Abnormal Left and the self-styled "moderates" like to describe us — "Rightists" as "hate-mongers," frustrated fanatics in dire need of a mental health program. Incidentally, I understand there is now a new club for hypochondriacs called "The Disease of the Month Club." Reminds me of the hypochondriac who had this inscription put on his tombstone: "See? I told you I was sick!"
Almost without exception, the crusading conservatives are neither sick nor power-hungry. They are merely trying to save and restore the Constitution of the United States. They don't want to rule; they just want to be left alone by government. The collectivists, on the other hand, are people who want to rule the masses. They seek power.
Power-hungry people are essentially haters. They despise the people they are obsessed with controlling. Or, as Disraeli said: "To govern men, you must either excel them in their accomplishments, or despise them." Franklin D. Roosevelt was a great hater. He constantly berated "the money-changers," the "selfish few" who were grinding under their heels the "ill-fed, ill-housed, ill-clothed" third of the nation. While ruthlessly attacking our "malefactor of great wealth," he purred: "Some of my best friends are Communists."
Rex Tugwell, one of Roosevelt's New Deal braintrusts, urged his fellow-travelers to re-charge themselves with "an energizing hatred." Roosevelt, the economic royalist who never made a living except from inheritance, marriage and government, founded widespread clan warfare in this country with his vitriolic attacks on the "economic royalist."
He told us again and again: "We merely have to come to understand the Russians to like them." I believe I do understand the Russians and Franklin D. Roosevelt, and my contempt for both is colossal. And the Russians now understand us — and hate us. And I must add that among the people I dislike the most are those I know and understand best.
Communists and communist sympathizers thrive on envy and hatred. The driving force in the whole life of Karl Marx was hatred. Lenin and Stalin spewed hatred.
The late Ben Hecht, television celebrity and darling of the "liberals," wrote in his book, A Jew in Love, page 120: "One of the finest things ever done by the mob was the Crucifixion of Christ. Intellectually it was a splendid gesture. But trust the mob to bungle. If I had been in charge of executing Christ, I'd have handled it differently. You see, what I'd have done was had him shipped to Rome and fed to the lions. They never could have made a Savious out of mince-meat."
If the television network, the mass media, the Anti-Defamation League, the American Civil Liberties Union or even the National Council of Churches ever objected to hater Hecht or called him an extremist or a hater, it has all escaped my attention. Is it all right to hate Christ but a mortal misdeed to hate Bobby Kennedy?

Hunt for Truth
By H. L. HUNT
FIRST SOCIALIST SETTLEMENT IN AMERICA
With the coming of the Pilgrims to the New England coast in 1620, Plymouth Colony was established as the first Socialist settlement in America.
What is generally ignored, overlooked and unknown about this communal experiment is that it failed miserably within three years. For their very survival, the Pilgrims had to turn to what we call the personal enterprise system, or capitalism.
Before landing, the Pilgrims entered into the Plymouth Compact which set up the community on a share-the-wealth basis. Nobody owned anything. Whatever was produced belonged to the community as a whole. They called the system "the common course and condition," and lived under it until the hungry spring of 1623. Then they changed to capitalism.
The shift was explained by William Bradford, one of the leading original Pilgrims and second governor of the Colony, who wrote that the socialist experiment bred confusion and retarded employment. He explained that the young men who were most able and fit for labor did little work, complaining about spending their time and strength working for other men's wives and children, without recompense.
Instead of a Thanksgiving feast in the fall of 1622, there was literal starvation. Thereafter, Bradford gave a parcel of land to each family and instructed every man to plant his own corn. This experiment in personal enterprise proved highly successful. All hands were busy, the people content, and there was much food.
In the fall of 1623 the Pilgrims held a great Thanksgiving feast and offered thanks for deliverance from Socialism. Are we today wiser than our Pilgrim fathers who rejected Socialism?
(then Chief Justice) has made his decision; now let him enforce it."
The High Point (N. C.) ENTERPRISE reported in a story: "She followed her talk with several anti-dotes." By that time her audience probably needed them.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Virginia once stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean and even included the Bermuda Islands, says The World Almanac. These sea-loose boundaries were fixed by three royal charters granted by the King of England in 1606, 1609, and 1611-12. Virginia thus claimed an area of more than one million square miles. This vast territory was reduced by the charters of Maryland in 1632 and Pennsylvania in 1681.
